The cause of all this commotion was the presence of a noted Vegetarian. The Potatoes never took their eyes off him.

never took their eyes off him. A Paris journal tells the story of a beggar who presented himself regularly which should be carefully preserved, beggar who presented himself regularly at a certain coffee-house with a clarionet under his arm. 'Will you allow me, gentlemen,' said he in a humble tone of voice, 'to play a tune? I am only and the control of the co voice, 'to play a tune? I am only an amateur, and if you prefer giving me a few coppers, I will spare you the annoy-ance of listening to me.' Every one felt agents for Cannage agents for Cannage and of istening to me.' Every one felt at once for a few stray coppers, and the musician departed with a profound obeisance.—This he repeated several evenings in succession. At last, one of the company of the evening, a young man who had never failed to contribute to the wants of the itinerant musician asked him in a friend ly manner to give them a tune: let it be good or bad, he wanted to hear him. 'But I am afraid, sir, I shall disappoint you.' 'Never mind that: give us a tune.' But I am a very poor player, and I have a very poor instrument. 'No matter for that; I want to hear you' 'Well, sir, since you insist upon it,' said the poor man, 'I will tell you that I don't play at all. I carry this clarionet merely for the purpose of threatening people with my nerformance.'
