Beautiful Cynthia; Victory After Many Defeats.

CHAPTER XX.

"THE COCKNEY'S PARADISE."

As a rule, when the Countess of Westlake travelled on the Continent she was accompanied by a courier, who directed and managed the journey and all its troublesome details; but on this occasion she had started so suddenly that there had been no time to engage a courier, and she had perforce to content herself with her own maid and Parsons.

They reached Lucerne at last and went to the principal hotel. The weather happened to be fine, and the Griffin was condescending enough to take a fancy to the place; it seemed to her just the kind of one, quiet, beautiful, and yet not dull, which would suit a young girl moping over an unfortunate love affair.

After all, Cynthia was a healthy young person, and her spirit, now trailing in the dust of disappointed love, would soon pick itself up, and by the time Lord Northam appeared on the scene would be as bright and charming as ever.

But her ladyship did not like the hotel, though it would have been difficult for any reasonable person to have complained of that beautifully situated and admirably managed establishment, at which she received the marked attention and awed respect which she considered due to a personage of her exalted rank.

"I rather like this place, Cynthia," she said, as, on the third morning, she hobbled along the balcony to where Cynthia was leaning, gazing at the brilliantly blue lake below them. She started slightly and turned her face, which was pale and looked curiously nipped, as if she had suddenly grown thinner, and her dark-gray eyes wore an absent and absolutely indifferent expression. "It's pretty, and I should think it was healthy," continued the Griffin condescendingly, as if one of the most glorious views in Europe were being offered her "on approval." "I'm sick of London, and we may as well stay here for a time. I hate travelling, and I detest rushing about from one place to another, like a shop

Reduced in Flesh Sleepless Nights

Kidney Disease and Gravel Caused Keenest Suffering—Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. W. Smith.

That disease of the kidneys cause the greatest suffering is well known, and when stone or gravel is formed in the bladder the torture is almost beyond human endurance. The disease should never be allowed to reach this dangerous stage. Pains in the small of the back, pain in smarting when passing water, frequent urination, loss of flesh and weight tell of the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate and invigorate the kidneys and restore these organs to health. Mr. W. Smith, Fort Dalhousie, Ont., writes:—"For some years I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often a stoppage of water, accompanied by the most dreadful agony. As the disease wore on me I became reduced in flesh and passed sleepless nights. No doctor was able to do much for me, and I used many medicines without obtaining more than temporary relief. My attention was directed to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and by using this treatment the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep well, and feel better than I have for twenty years." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

girl on a cheap holiday. Yes, we'll remain here. I suppose you have no objection?"

"None whatever," said Cynthia dully. It mattered nothing to her where she went.

"That's all right, then," remarked her ladyship, in a matter-of-fact way. "But I can't stand this hotel. Too much noise. And the whole place smells of tobacco, bad tobacco. I'm old-fashioned, I dare say, and I can't stand living in herds and flocks, especially such herds and flocks as these," she added, nodding her old head contemptuously at some respectable people in the garden below. "I noticed some quite nice houses—chalets, as they call them, I suppose—on our drive yesterday; some were to let furnished, and I shall take one and send for some of the servants. We may as well be comfortable while we are here."

When the Griffin wanted anything she wanted it at once, and generally got it. For money is a magic wand and in less than a week they were settled in the largest and best-appointed of the chalets, which was sufficiently removed from the haunts of objectionable tourists, and where, surrounded by her servants, her ladyship found it possible to live in her accustomed way. Cynthia had a charming room with a large window opening onto the balcony, which ran along the front of the house, and afforded a view of the lake and Pilatus frowning above it. Next to Cynthia's rooms was a smaller one fitted up as a sitting room; it was furnished with a writing desk, of the roll-top kind, at which Lady Westlake wrote her letters, and in which she kept the dispatch box which always accompanied her wherever she went.

Beyond this small room were her ladyship's bed and dressing rooms; on the other side of Cynthia's, round the corner, so to speak, was Parsons', with a door between the two rooms, so that Parsons could come to her young mistress whenever Cynthia wanted her. Through that door Parsons often heard her mistress pacing up and down in the still watches of the night, causing the devoted maid much grief, for Parsons was one of those girls who suffer, and rejoice, with those they love, and she loved Cynthia very devotedly.

The days passed uneventfully; Cynthia spent most of her time in her room or on the balcony; she accompanied her aunt in her daily drives and appeared at every meal, and she did not flaunt the willow, but the salubrity of Lucerne, on which the Griffin had descended with reason, did not appear to effect any improvement on Cynthia's health or spirits. She was not lugubrious, she did not sigh frequently, and she certainly did not weep; but she was curiously still and quiet.

To tell the truth, she was in a kind of coma; not even yet had she fully realized her great loss. Sometimes she went out for a walk by herself, wandered by the side of the lake or explored the quaint, old-world town; but she moved like a person engrossed, absorbed in some dominant emotion, and it is to be feared that Lucerne spread its varied beauties before her in vain.

One morning she was starting on one of these walks, and, as usual, went in search of Lady Westlake; she was seated at the desk with the dispatch box open at her elbow and something that looked like a legal document before her.

She held a copy of the Times in her hand, and was reading it, and, as Cynthia entered, the Griffin made a curious movement as if to conceal both the document on the desk and the newspaper.

The latter contained an account of Anson Frayne's death, and a hint more than a hint, of the lamentable state of his affairs.

She looked up as Cynthia entered and stood in the doorway, and a flush struggled to show itself through the layers of paint and powder, as she crushed the newspaper in her hand and thrust it into an empty pigeon-hole of the desk.

"I'm going for a walk, Aunt Gwen," said Cynthia, in the almost expressionless monotone which had now become habitual to her.

"Very well, my dear," said the Griffin. "If you are going into the town you might get me some ribbon or my hat." Since her arrival at Lucerne her ladyship had worn a huge hat of the mushroom description, which had excited the amazement of the inhabitants. "I'll give you the pattern."

She rose and took a step or two, but came back and locked up the document in her dispatch box, and, taking up the Times, carried it away with her.

With the pattern in her glove, Cynthia went down to the town. She spoke French fluently, was able to get the ribbon, and then strolled along the walk which runs beside the Reuss, the river which runs out of the lake, and dully wondering why her former should always be green whatever the color of the latter may be, when she saw a young man approaching her.

"There was something familiar about its figure which struck her, and, as she came nearer, she saw that it was Percy Standish.

It could not be said that she was glad to see him, for there was no one in earth, excepting her father, whose presence could bring gladness to her; but she remembered Percy's kindness to her and Darrel, how he had endeavored to help them, and she moved toward him with a shadow of a smile.

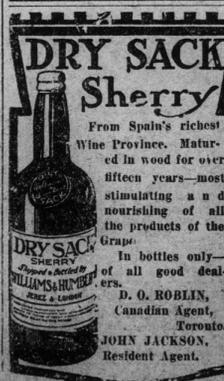

Percy approached her with a responsive smile and an expression of surprise.

"Why, Cynthia!" he exclaimed, in well-modulated accents. "This is a surprise! I knew you were in Switzerland with Aunt Gwen, but I had no idea you were here! I hope you are well?" he added, rather gravely and with a touch of anxiety, for the color had faded from Cynthia's face by this time, and it looked worn and drawn.

"I am quite well, Percy," she said. "What brings you here?"

"The bestliest train I have ever travelled by," he replied, with a semi-humorous smile. "I had a month's holiday—I've been in for the Bar, you know—and I thought I would like to do Switzerland. So, you behold me. How is Aunt Gwen? Are you staying here?"

"We have taken a chalet on the hill," said Cynthia. "Did you not know that?"

"How should I?" he responded innocently. "You must come up at once," said Cynthia. "Aunt Gwen will be glad to see you."

"I will go into the hotel," said Percy hesitatingly.

"Oh, but you must not," said Cynthia. "We have a spare room, too, at the chalet. I am sure there will be room for you."

They went to the chalet. The Griffin was seated on a bench on the lawn, and she opened her black, keen eyes as she saw Cynthia's companion. "Oh, it's you, Percy, is it?" she said, not ungraciously, for Percy, whom she read as easily as she would a book, amused her—for a time. "I thought you wouldn't be long before you found us out. Well, you may as well stay, as you are here," she remarked, as Percy explained how he had come to Lucerne by chance. "You can keep Cynthia company and amuse her. We are living here almost innocently. What is the news from London?"

Percy retailed the latest news of the class to which they belonged, which, all important to itself, was really of little consequence to the world at large.

"And how is Lord Northam?" inquired the Griffin. "Have you seen him lately?"

"I met him at a dinner party two nights before I started," replied Percy. "He is quite well; just as usual. Lady Alicia was with him, and was most charming. Lord Northam is very busy. They are making some alterations at the camp. And he sticks to Aldershot."

The Griffin grunted. "Ridiculous!" she said.

"What on earth is Lord Northam doing in a marching regiment? I should think he would find it much more amusing to—travel and see things. If anything happened to his father he would have to leave the army. And the duke is an old man. Yes, you can stay here—if Cynthia can put up with you," she added gruffly.

Percy murmured his thanks, and became a guest at the chalet. He was a charming guest; it seemed as if he knew by instinct when to present and when to efface himself. He accompanied the Griffin on her drives; he sometimes went with Cynthia on her walks; not always, for frequently Cynthia liked to be alone.

There were times when she longed for solitude, to be free to think of Darrel, to dwell upon her misery which no time, no change of scene, could alleviate. Percy seemed to understand, and he never intruded upon her.

Report of P.M.G.

The P. M. G.'s report to hand shows a falling off of $8,445 in the Postal Revenue, and an increase of over $17,000 in expenditure for the year ending June 30th last. The telegraph revenue increased some $11,000 and the expenditure over $17,000. The excess of Postal Expenditure over Revenue was $22,242, and the excess in the case of the Telegraphs $28,672.

Steam subsidies amounted to $311,917, nearly $20,000 over those of the previous year. Commenting on this item of expenditure, the P. M. G. says:—

"Our greatest item of Expenditure is that of Steam Subsidies, which although charged to Postal Account, is equally if not more, for the benefit of freight and passenger service and strictly speaking should be charged to a General Account. In return for these Subsidies, Newfoundland is supplied with facilities for reaching the smallest settlements quickly and to more than the sum required to pay the interest on the cost of small buildings provided by the Government. Not only is this a thing to be desired from the standpoint of the service, but it is equally so from that of the public many of whom object to having to transact their postal business in a dwelling."

with comfort undreamed of a few years ago."

The Money Order branch shows an increase of $32,083 in the value of the Orders issued and of $2,561 in the value paid. On this service the P.M.G. comments thus:—

"It is unfortunate that every Post Office in the island does not embrace the Money Order Business which should be regarded as an essential part of its work. In some of the smaller offices the lack of education and business training renders it impossible for the Postmaster to undertake this Branch of the work and in other cases he is unwilling to accept additional work without a corresponding increase of salary."

Commenting on the safer way of sending money by mail, the P.M.G. advises the use of the Money Order, and says:—

"If this were borne in mind by our people not one cent of the money now and then lost by robbery, or fire, or flood, or transit, would fall to reach its destination. He points out that Registration is but a defective system of sending money. Under the International Postal Union the liability for the loss of registered matter is limited to $10, and when the loss is occasioned by circumstances over which the Post Office has no control there is no liability whatever."

The Parcel Post Branch shows that 119,320 parcels were sent to local destinations, 6,207 to foreign countries, and 22,514 parcels were received from abroad. These numbers show a marked increase over the traffic of last year.

As to Outport Post Offices, the P.M.G. reports:—

"In the larger settlements or wherever a public building has been provided for the purposes of a Post Office, the work is performed systematically and according to rule, and consequently with greater satisfaction to the public than can possibly be the case when the office is located in a private dwelling. In fact the evolution of the post office in this country lies just here and the time has come when every outport of any importance should have a Post Office built and owned by the Government."

"It is unreasonable to expect any man with a salary ranging from ten to one hundred dollars to provide an office with light and fuel for the benefit of the public, in addition to his duties as Postmaster. The consequence is that we are being met on every hand with demands for rent, which, if acceded to, would amount Carnival of Destruction.

A few days ago we referred to the fact that several electric lamps in the city had been destroyed by stones thrown by mischievous boys, and since we learn that no less than 12 arc lamps valued at $70 had been broken. This destruction has not been confined to one particular locality but applies to several streets of the city extending from Alexander Street to Carpasian Road and down to Temperance Street in Hoyles town. Sergt. Byrne is actively engaged in trying to discover the perpetrators of these series of outrages with unfortunately not as much success as he would like as the lights are situated in places where the names of such boys, many of whom are strangers to the localities where the lights are situated. These boys commit this species of damage out of a spirit of pure wantonness, and so far has it gone that even windows of private residences whose blinds have been temporarily removed while spring cleaning is on have been smashed, the boys believing they had been vacated by their owners. Houses which have been left for a while tenantless have been partially wrecked. In one instance they broke every window in a house left vacant in the East End and tore up the interior of a store nearby. In the country cottages have had similar attention, and at the country residence of Mr. Michael Power, on Blackmarsh Rd., they ruined a number of fine ornamental trees which had beautified the place for 30 years. These boys seem to take a peculiar delight in thus damaging property, both public and private, and if the police in their force set to work it would be impossible to discover all who are engaged at this nefarious work. People who have suffered in this way and who teachers in the schools would do good service to the community if they would impress upon their pupils the necessity of their exists for conservation of public and private property. A considerable proportion of these mischievous youths are school boys, unfortunately, it is known in city schools, and an occasional lecture on the enormity of such wilful destruction would be timely and well placed.

Bringing Live Deer.

Vet. Surgeon J. F. Donnelly arrived here from Grand Falls this morning by the express and is bringing a lot of horses here. He also brings two live deer—two which were captured the past winter and which are quite tame and docile. Dr. Donnelly has a set of double harness for them and drove them the past winter miles inland over frozen lakes and marshes. It is likely these interesting animals will be placed in the new Bowring Park.

Hurt by Fall.

As Edward Kavanagh, son of Freeman Con. Kavanagh, of the Western Station, was playing about there yesterday afternoon, he slipped and fell and his left leg turning under him was dislocated at the ankle while some of the smaller bones are fractured. Dr. O'Connell attended him and he will be sent to Hospital. Only Saturday the boy went to serve his apprenticeship with a plumber.

NORTH SYDNEY, To-Day.
The estimated total loss approximates $350,000, and the insurance is about half that amount. The destruction of property will affect the civic revenue, as up to the present the annual assessment has not been finally adjusted. Thus about $200,000 really has been lost as taxable property. Premier Murray is a loser by the fire in North Sydney, part of his library being destroyed. D. D. McKenzie, M.P., also is a loser, his office being among those burned. Among other losses were the C. P. R. telegraph office, Dominion Express Co's. office, Y. M. C. A. bathhouse. So far as can be learned neither Salters, Kirk and Whitman, nor J. W. Ingraham will rebuild. McKenzie and McCallum and Vooghts will immediately replace destroyed properties. Several vessels in the dock were at times in serious danger of being caught from flames which had caught the crib work of the wharves, one schooner having her sails completely destroyed.

The Mack had just been pulled off from the shore at White Fish Point by the tug Sohonic, and at four o'clock in the afternoon resumed her trip down river. The Turret Crown was beached after accident to prevent her sinking. She was temporarily repaired, brought to Soo where repairs will be made. Several plates on her starboard side opposite the boiler heads were damaged. She is leaking, the Mack also sustained damage to several plates aft, but is not leaking. In the cargo hold she has a load of wheat from Fort William to Fairport.

Sydney Swept by Fire

Special to Evening Telegram.
NORTH SYDNEY, Last Night.—A destructive fire broke out at 2.45 this morning in Biggar's fruit store, at the corner of Archibald Avenue and Commercial Street, opposite the Belmont Hotel. The loss is estimated at $250,000, and fairly well covered by insurance. The flames spread rapidly in a northerly direction licking up D. F. Nolan's clothing store, and then shot across the street catching Rudderham's drug store and the Vendome Hotel. The veering wind somewhat demoralized the fire fighters, and a call for help was sent to Sydney and Sydney mines. There was an immediate response, but it required considerable time before either brigade could reach the burning section of the town. Everything in the path of the blaze was licked up almost simultaneously. With the destruction of the Vendome fell the jewelry store of J. C. Robertson; then followed Bent and Cohen's hardware store, owned by Dr. Garron; J. W. Ingram's large general store, ice houses and warehouses, and at the same time Vooght's immense warehouse on Dominion wharf, which was piled to the roof with $25,000 worth of stock, feeds, flour, furniture, etc. By this time both sides of Commercial Street was a seething mass of flames. McCallum's drug store, with $10,000 worth of stock, was next to go. Right along swept the fire, carrying in its wake Epps' boot and shoe store, the brick store of Kirk & Whitman, Ltd., as well as the warehouses at the rear of Collins' block; Rahey & Lovett's bookstore, Maloney's boot and shoe store, Ross's jewelry store and Pilkington's jewelry store. When the fire reached here the brigade from Sydney arrived, and by heroic effort stayed the progress of the fire, after doing damage to Thompson & Sutherland, Ltd. Had the blaze got beyond this structure, the western part of the town would also have been destroyed. The fire burned quickly down the south side of the street and destroyed the Moore block, recently purchased by P. W. Moffatt. Several other structures were also wiped out before the fire was under control. Frazer's restaurant was also burned to the ground, and only by Herculean efforts was the marine railway saved. The saddest feature of the conflagration was the death of Percy Sayce, a young Englishman, who came to this country several years ago. He boarded at the Vendome. When the building was burning the other inmates warned him of the danger, and he answered saying he was alright, but when the roll was called he was missing. His charred remains were found among the debris. The Belmont Hotel is damaged to the amount of $500. Among the destroyed buildings are the offices of McKenzie & McMillan, C. & W. Hackett, D. A. Smith, R. F. Phalen, James' Photo store, O. B. Lewis, Dr. Hunt, and several tenement blocks. Many will not rebuild.

Mr. Harry Ingram, who is fast becoming a great favorite will also be heard in a fine song, then Mrs. Rossley has decided to once more let us see that beautiful Butterfly Dance with the six tiny tots. She has greatly improved it, made additions to the already elaborate costumes and the gorgeous electrical effects. The second show will commence about 8.30 to give the store employees a chance of seeing the entire show, which will certainly be a good one.

Redemptorist Mission

AT ST. GEORGE'S.

Special to Evening Telegram.
ST. GEORGE'S, To-day. Blessed by ideal weather and attended by all the parish, the Redemptorist Mission to the men of St. George's closed yesterday amidst a scene of fervour worthy of the ages of faith. Time cannot measure the good work done. The Fathers were delighted with the docile and faithful Catholic flock than which they never met a better. The whole parish at the close signed the total abstinence pledge and brought back the memory of Father Mathew's wonderful influence. At night at a public meeting of the people gave the Fathers an enthusiastic acclamation for their work for God in the place. President O'Reilly in a brief but touching speech tendered the gratitude of the faithful people to the Fathers and the Bishop. They all replied. The Women's Mission began in the afternoon and was largely attended. A cross 80 feet high will be erected, next Sunday to proclaim to the world the Christianity of St. George's. The whole parish will take part and open air Mass will be celebrated.

New York's Question and London's Reply.

"New York City has just begun to build a subway for which it will pay out more than £10,000,000 of the people's money. In the course of the work some abutting property, owned by individuals, will be damaged. In these cases the city must compensate the owners. Some other abutting property will be enormously increased in value. In those cases will the individual owners recompense the city?" asks Collier's Weekly. "No," it replies. "The added value to individual property along the route, if the city could get it, would pay the entire cost of the subway."

London's Kingsway improvement supplies an answer to New York. Facts just published show that twenty-seven properties abutting on the new thoroughfare have been raised in value by £97,000, and the Council proposes to levy an annual charge of 1½ per cent. on this amount.

S. S. "Glance Bay" Ashore at Mistaken Point.

CREW ARRIVES BY S.S. BALEINE.
The s.s. Baleine, which was ordered to the scene of the wreck in Trospassey Bay, arrived back to port at 5.30 this morning, bringing the crew of the mammoth ore carrier "Glance Bay," which met her fate at Mistaken Point, a well known "graveyard" for vessels, on Friday last, during a dense fog. The crew, numbering forty-four all told, including thirty-four Chinamen, tell a story of the wreck as follows: The s.s. "Glance Bay" Captain Plumb, in ballast, left Sydney, C.B., on Monday morning of last week, bound for Wabina to deliver on conditions, were moderate at the outset and good progress was made. On Tuesday it became very hazy and the following day dense fog set in. The speed of the ship, which was going full, was reduced to half, as there was no sign of the fog lifting. On Thursday the fog was even thicker and remained so until a good while after the ship struck. On Friday morning, Capt. Plumb, who had not got any sleep for more than twenty-four hours, was relieved by chief officer Gibson, who was accompanied on the bridge by an apprentice named Bolton. At 4.30 on Friday afternoon, May 2nd, the ship struck the land at Mistaken Point. At this time the ship was going at less than half speed when the impact was so great that it was impossible to see the bow of the ship from the captain's bridge. No one on board seemed to realize their position or what had occurred until they heard a crash when the vessel struck the land and when they saw a huge perpendicular cliff looming before them, the impact was so great that a number of the crew, who were asleep, were removed from their bunks. The forward part of the ship was ripped open and water began to make quick headway into her. In fact inside of a couple of hours there were four fathoms of water in the hold and the ship was sinking. Soon the engines were "swimming," as the main steam pipe and other parts had come off the "bed" of the engine and were afloat. As there was nothing else left to do but to save the lives of those on board, for it was a hopeless matter to stand by the ship, which was dashing on the rocks with the heavy sea running, the life boats were lowered, three in number. At this juncture the Chinese people on board created a deal of commotion as they wanted to get in the boats first. It was rather amusing to see the chinks with luggage in hands, such as umbrellas and the like, running about the decks in a hurry. On reaching the shore the men made fires and warmed themselves. The next day they returned to the ship, got their belongings and rowed to Portuval Cove, a distance of seven miles, and where they boarded the s.s. Baleine and were brought to St. John's. The ship is now fast on the rocks with her back broken. The "Glance Bay" is only seven months old, was built in Sunderland and is owned by Brown & Jenkinson, of London. She is 11,000 tons net, 470 feet long, and 55 feet beam. The "Glance Bay" made one trip to Bell Island for ore in December last. The crew are now staying at the Kings George the Fifth Hotel and will leave for home on the steamer "Mongolian," which is due here on Thursday from Philadelphia.

Churchill is Confident.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-Day.
"The more I know about the British navy the more I have confidence in it," said Churchill, the First Lord of the Admiralty, at the annual banquet of the Royal Academy on Saturday night. The First Lord said the navy was great, not merely in respect of numbers, but especially with regard to quality of ships and men. He declared the maintenance of an adequate military establishment was essential to an effective naval defense. Viscount Morley of Blackburn described the international situation as the most tangled coil that ever confronted European diplomacy of this generation. The spirit of persistency and the firm active policy of the British Government, however, was the most perfect instrument they could have devised for the attainment of common ends. He understood there was every reason to believe that on Monday they would be in sight of a solution which might be unanimously agreed to.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Another contingent of our young men and women left yesterday's train for Sydney, Montreal and Boston, where they will work during the summer, many of them returning in the fall. May good luck follow them one and all.

The White Rose Amusement Club of this town will hold a dancing assembly in the British Hall on Tuesday night next, 6th inst.

A new race boat is being built for the fire brigade. The work is being done by Mr. Augustus Pynn, whose name is a guarantee that the work will be well done. We congratulate the firemen on having the services of such a skilful builder.

The K. E. Brigade held their first parade for the season on Tuesday night. On Sunday morning the Brigade will attend Divine service at St. Paul's Church and will be accompanied by their fine band.

Mrs. E. E. Parsons is in St. John's on a visit to her friends there.

Mr. O. V. Travers met with an accident in his office on Tuesday, he accidentally falling and breaking a couple of small bones near his instep. We hope soon to be able to report favorably of him.

The residents of LeMarchant Street were surprised at 2 a.m. to-day to hear loud and angry talking on that street. Doors and windows were quickly opened and a free concert was enjoyed for about 45 minutes. It was ever usually managed to get along without much of anything else. If we had to take our choice between a man who is well dressed and proud of it and one who is so humble in spirit that he revots against a collar and necktie, we would take our chances on the former.

Mistress (to Norah, who had come home unexpectedly from the dance): "Why Norah, you are home much earlier than you intended, aren't you?"
Norah: "Yes'm; the young man who took me down to supper insulted me, and I came home."
Mistress: "Insulted you! What did he do to insult you?"
Norah: "He asked me if my programme was full, and I hadn't only two sandwiches eaten."

The S. S. Bruce, Capt. W. Parsons, arrived here at 10.15 last night from Port aux Basques after a run of 28 hours. She left at 6 p.m. Saturday and Saturday and Saturday night and yesterday it blew a N.E. gale with one sea. She brought a full cargo of Hay from Port aux Basques, and goes on dock to-morrow for an overhaul. Capt. Taylor has transferred to the Invincible, which takes the Bruce's route per tem.

Vanity.

BY H. L. BANN.
Vanity is a mild but incurable ailment which is diagnosed with a hand mirror and kept alive with flattery. It is usually chronic, but cannot be wholly eradicated without a first removing the breath of the patient.

As a rule, women have more vanity than men, because they have more to feed it on. Very few men derive any satisfaction from standing up in front of a cheval glass and revolving slowly on one foot, as they seldom see anything that a beauty doctor would care to look at twice. The average man never needs a mirror for any purpose except to capture a wandering eyewinker or keep a safety razor from trespassing upon the lobe of his left ear.

Vanity sometimes attacks men in early youth and begins to crop out along about the age of fourteen with a yearning for long pants, brightly tinted neckties and flashlight stickpins. From then on until forty the disease makes rapid progress and finally finds refuge in the adhesive wig, the mustache dye and $4 rubber plate with a five-year guarantee. When a man gets well past forty his vanity begins to goze away around the edges and permits him to go around in what is left of the hair he started out with.

Penitence vanity has to do mostly with hats, which are changed with great rapidity about nine times a week. This is a harmless pursuit, however, and does not cost anybody anything but the subdued and chastened husband. Women sometimes become a little vain over the ready-made complexion also. The best kind of feminine vanity is that which is expended upon the lightness of a baking powder biscuit and the flavor of a green apple pie.

People who have no vanity whatever usually manage to get along without much of anything else. If we had to take our choice between a man who is well dressed and proud of it and one who is so humble in spirit that he revots against a collar and necktie, we would take our chances on the former.

Kept Body in Showcase Until Buried in Cellar.

Middle-Aged Daughter of Dead Woman Alleges Prejudice Against Cemetery.
St. Louis, April 22.—The bodies of Mrs. Ernestine Kommitchau, 79 years old, and her daughter, Thelma Kommitchau, 50 years old, were found under a concrete slab in the basement of the Kommitchau home to-day. A younger daughter, Marie Kommitchau, 49 years old, was arrested at the city hospital in connection with the finding of the bodies, told the police her mother and sister had died of natural causes, and that she had buried them in the basement because they had a prejudice against burial in a cemetery.

Marie charged her mother had died in May, 1912, and her sister in February, 1913. According to her story, her mother's body had been kept in the house throughout the warm weather last summer, in a show case, the cracks of which had been filled with plaster of paris. The bodies when found, were disintegrated to such an extent that identification was difficult. The graves were decorated with two small cedar trees, a wire cross and a mussel shell.

Marie Kommitchau was taken to a hospital with a broken leg two weeks ago. In her absence, Mrs. A. L. Stuh, who owned the house, called and discovered a peculiar odor in the basement. She notified the police, who broke off a piece of a peculiar looking concrete slab and uncovered the bodies. Under them was a layer of quick lime.

The suspicions of neighbors had been aroused previously by conflicting stories told by Marie regarding the disappearance of her mother and sister. To some she told that her mother had died and her sister had taken the body back to Illinois, and to others she said that her sister had died and her mother had accompanied the body to Illinois.

A Telephone In The Clouds.

A telephone-exchange three miles in the air! This station, said to be the highest in the world, is in the meteorological observatory on the top of Mount Rosa, in the Pennine Alps, 15,450 feet above sea-level. At this elevation snow is always found, and advantage is taken of the high insulation given by dry snow, the wires in the last section, on the snow-covered ground. To prevent breakage by glacier movements the line is carried through rings on the telephone poles. The poles are short and are taken down at the end of every summer season and replaced at the beginning of the following summer.

ANOTHER CHILD BITTEN.—While a little girl aged 4 years, named Rodgers, was passing along Harvey Road, last evening, in company with another little tot, she was attacked by a large dog there and was severely bitten about the arm and shoulder, the blood flowing copiously from the wound. One of the kids of the C.C.C. conveyed the child home where she was looked after and her injuries attended to by a doctor. This dog should be shot instantly.

"One Is Not"

I fondly look the circle over,
As with me at the table sit,
My Bonnie boys and winsome girls,
With laughing eyes and flowing curls,
But on my joys there is a blot—
For one is not.

I miss a round and happy face,
With cheeks of red and eyes of brown,
A baby's voice so sweetly low—
Its precious tones still haunt me so.
That voice did once my bosom thrill—
Now it is still.

The vacant place is with me yett,
Though many years have passed away,
And other faces bless my sight,
And all my home is filled with light
And small feet patter on the floor,
One is no more.

No more with me, but this I know
My treasure is not lost to love,
And in the father's mansion fair
There shall not be one vacant chair,
There shall not be through his dear
grace,
One missing face.

Bryan Refuses To Serve Wine.

At Dinner Given to Diplomats at Washington.
Washington, D.C., April 21.—Comment upon the substitution of unfermented grape juice for the wine usually served on such occasions at a dinner given to diplomats Monday night by Secretary and Mrs. Bryan, in honor of Ambassador Bryce, caused the secretary to issue a statement explaining the incident. In it Mr. Bryan made public for the first time the fact that the question of how the "Tactical" customs of his home would be received in official society was discussed with President Wilson before he accepted the portfolio of state.

The statement follows:—
"We did not intend to magnify by mentioning it, the importance of the non-use of wine at the dinner given to Ambassador Bryce Monday night, but as the papers have made some inaccurate references to the matter, the facts might as well be known."

"This was the first dinner which we have given to members of the diplomatic corps, and, therefore, the first time when we came into conflict with the social custom of serving wine at dinner. The seven other ambassadors then in the city and their ladies were invited to meet Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce and as all the gentlemen guests present were from foreign countries, I thought it proper to explain to them the reason for our failure to conform to what seems to have been customary in this matter. Believing that the issue would be met frankly in the beginning I told them when we sat down to the table, that Mrs. Bryan and I had been teetotalers from our youth, as were our parents before us, and had never served liquor in our lives, and that when the President was kind enough to tender me the portfolio of state I asked him whether our failure to serve the wine would be any embarrassment to the administration, and that he generously left the matter to our discretion. It suggested that I thought it unfair to use us harshly or be unwilling to tolerate the maintenance of a traditional custom, and expressed the hope that our friendship would overlook our weakness in us, if they regarded it as a weakness. My remarks were applauded by a more enjoyable evening. "That is all there is to the matter, and we can consider the incident closed and the custom established, so far as we are concerned."

Barely Saved Vessel.

Last week the Telegram referred to the fact that a banker had gone ashore in Placentia Bay. This was the fine new banking schooner, Nina M. Conrad, owned and commanded by Capt. Thos. Hollett, of Burin. She was going into Little Placentia looking for bait when she struck the rocks and though she quickly floated off was badly damaged and made water at an alarming rate. When diver W. Squires arrived at the scene from St. John's, 20 men were all but exhausted from working the pumps in their efforts to keep her afloat, and had not been arrived when he did, they must have desisted, in which case the vessel would have filled and sunk. Mr. Squires was under the vessel from 4 a.m. till 7 a.m. Monday, effecting repairs. He found the keel split, stern post smashed, the deal wood badly damaged and he fixed her temporarily after which she sailed to St. Pierre for permanent repairs, which will cost $1,000.

Received Painful Injury

While at work a couple of days ago at Bowring's Southside premises, laying out a cable to the s.s. Ranger, Mr. Jno. Brien, of Stephen Street, received a painful injury and narrowly escaped death. The heavy cable was held to the stern of the lighter on board which Mr. Brien and other men worked and when he cut the rope which held it the weight of the cable taking a plank hurled it full at Mr. Brien who was hit in the chest and thrown unconscious into the lighter. All the breath was knocked out of him and it was fully thirty minutes before he recovered sufficiently to be able to go home. His chest was badly cut and bruised. He is laid up from work and has since been under the care of a doctor.

C.C.C. Parade.

Yesterday, the C.C.C. held a Church parade, the first for the season. The battalion, under command of Lt.-Col. Conroy, and headed by their brass band, paraded to the R. C. Cathedral and attended last Mass, which was celebrated by Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan. After mass the corps marched to Government House, where the lads were inspected by Governor and Mrs. Davidson. His Excellency made a brief but effective address. He was glad to see that the boys were soldiers of God as well as soldiers of the King. After a general salute and cheers for His Excellency, the corps returned to their armoury by way of Military and Harvey Roads.

New Store.

Mr. George Neal's new building, situate off Water Street, and which has been under construction all the winter, is fast nearing completion. All the outside work is done and the finishing touches are being made to the interior. The building is a fine substantial concrete structure, well suited for general storage purposes, and testifies to the energy and enterprise on the part of the owner in order to meet the growing demands of his trade as well as beautifying the waterfront generally.

Annoying Speed Limit.

A man nearly 80 years old, walked ten miles from his home to an adjoining town. When he reached his destination he was greeted with some astonishment by an acquaintance. "You walked all the way," the latter exclaimed. "How did you get along?" "Oh, first rate," the old man replied, genially. "That is, I did till I came to that sign out there. 'Slow down to 15 miles an hour.' That kept me back some."—From the Youth's Companion.

GIRL REPORTED MISSING.—A girl, a resident of Battery Road, named Elizabeth Cook, aged 16, left her home Friday night last, and up to yesterday as far as the police knew, had not returned home. Enquiries were made but no tidings of her could be had. The belief is, however, that she has taken up her abode temporarily with some friends.

Was Ashore in Cuckold's Cove.

The schooner Three Bells, owned by Mr. John Reid, of Heart's Delight, while proceeding to this port late Saturday night narrowly escaped leaving her bones in Cuckold's Cove. It was very foggy and a sharp blast from the E. caused a good bit of a tumble, when as the skipper thought he must be in the neighbourhood of St. John's, the fog lifted and a light resembling one of the leading lights of this port was seen dead ahead. The vessel was coming along "wing and wing" and was hauled in for what was thought to be the Narrows when suddenly she was seen to be right up under a cliff; when the fog once more raised and before anything could be done to get her clear she had struck shoal ground twice. Fortunately she did not hang on the shoal long or pound heavily and she was got off with little damage. The rudder was badly damaged and the wheel torn away and to get her along to St. John's the rudder had to be traped up and a tiller improvised to replace the wheel. One of the crew had his hand caught in the running gear and lost the tops of two of his fingers. The schooner which is about 50 tons burthen had a cargo of herring, etc., on board, and had the weather being a little rougher must have gone to destruction. She towed a new trap skiff after her and the crew were just considering the advisability of getting into this when the vessel swung clear of the rocks. Mr. Reid, the owner of the vessel, was also in charge of her.

The opening choruses and prayer coming to a conclusion the chairman then addressed the gathering after which there were several recitations by Mack Morgan, Gladys Forward, Principal Dewar, G. Before the meeting closed the following Resolutions were adopted:—

"WHEREAS, the liquor traffic being a menace to the morals and well-being of our city, a blight upon virtue and health, as also upon every good quality that makes toward the betterment of humanity.

Erik Home From Ice.

The s.s. Erik, Capt. Job Kean, arrived at 4 p.m. Saturday, having for 5,000 seals young and old. She is the last of the northern fleet to arrive. The Erik was unfortunate in the early part of the spring, and missed the young harps, but was picking up scattered bedlamers. When the Erik put up steam to go hunting old seals some of the crew refused to continue the voyage. Capt. Kean put his ship into Bonavista harbor and landed 56 men. The Erik resumed her search for old seals which were numerous, but good work was prevented owing to bad ice. The Erik is discharging at Job's.

Bitten by a Dog.

As Miss Clara Armstrong, daughter of Mr. T. F. Armstrong, of the Sub-Station, was proceeding over Garrison Hill Saturday afternoon, she was attacked by a large and vicious dog, which fastened its teeth in her back near the shoulders. She was severely bitten, and but that her clothing was thick she might have been dangerously hurt. Daily incidents are occurring of ferocious dogs, which are allowed to roam the city, attacking and biting people. It is nothing short of an outrage for such brutes to be permitted to go at large unsumamed, and the owners should be held accountable.

"West End Grocer"

Replies to The Herald.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—Some sore head who was "struck hard" by my letter on overcharging on oil, biscuits and oleo, comes out in the Herald on Saturday night and throws off his coat and says in effect:—"You strike Sir Edward Morris you strike me." Wonderful man this. But he should keep cool when starting in to write letters to the press and not occupy valuable space,
only to make himself appear ridiculous and injure the political chief whom he starts out to champion.
Let us try to follow Mr. West End Voter. He says if we want the price of butter reduced we must get the milkmen to reduce the price of milk, and he asks the Telegram to fight the farmers and bring around this change, stating that as Morris got the sugar reduced the Telegram should try and get the price of milk cut down. The farmers and milkmen ought to ask the Herald when is Morris going to give them a special meeting to discuss the matter, and he asks the Telegram to be able to comply with the demand of the Herald, that they should cut down their prices.
But we know that the price of milk counts very little in the manufacture of the oleo that is turned out in this country, and that oleo oil plays a bigger part in its composition than farmers' pure milk. Let me ask, how is it that we can get an oleo (equal to the so-called creamery that is made here)
from Holland, pay three and a half cents duty on it and be able to buy it from the wholesale man for eighteen cents a pound, whereas we have to pay twenty-two cents for the local stuff. Every grocer in the country knows this to be true; and I am handling an oleo now that was manufactured in Holland and I claim it is equal to the 22c. local article. We are waking up around here, and if the Government are going to charge 3 1/2 cents duty on oleo coming in here in order to protect the big bug, they should see that they sell it at a fair margin of profit and not let people be fleece. A few years ago they sold this same oleo for 17 1/2 cents, and now they have it up to 22 cents, and goodness knows but they may take a notion and clap on a few more cents tomorrow and no one puts up a finger to stop it.
The Herald ought to think twice before demanding that the farmers cut down the price of milk, and as the Herald is the mouthpiece of Morris they are not likely to forget it next elections. But the Herald man ought to find out what percentage of milk goes in our local oleo compared with the per cent of oleo oil, before he starts out shingling out about the high price of milk. This little game of trying to put the blame on the farmer for the high price of butter is too thin for us all know that the blame rests with the manufacturers who can raise their prices just when they please and this is the reason why I ask the Government to watch out for the interests of the people.
These manufacturers are protected by a duty of 3 1/2 cents per pound on margarine, or butter, coming into the country, and to merit this protection they should be bound to give the people a square show. The Herald also says that the people are not worrying over sweet biscuits. Is that the reason why they should be fleeced? Is that the reason why grocers should not look for cheaper biscuits when the cost of ingredients go down? This is very poor argument on the part of the Herald and won't wash with the consumers, for there must be thousands of dollars spent on fancy biscuits. The Herald's policy of late would have any thinking man to come to the conclusion that the interests of the people were only a secondary consideration, but thank goodness we have your paper, Mr. Editor, still the people's paper in which we can expose wrong doing no matter by whom it is done.
Yours,
WEST END GROCER.

Cod Liver Oil.
CIRCULAR LETTER.
Dear Sir.—The prospects look favorable for refining Cod Liver Oil in Newfoundland this year, and I will be very pleased to have enquiries from all those intending to prosecute this business.
I am at your service to assist you with the best information of how to manufacture the choicest quality of medicinal oil. With proper care and attention, I am confident that you can refine oil from the livers of the Newfoundland codfish that will surpass any oil made elsewhere, even except the very choicest oil that you can get the best prices. When you supply a choice article you can depend on a steady trade.
It is impossible for me to give you any prices, but the indications are that they will be much higher than last year. The Norway supply this season is considerably below an average, and were it not that some old oil is left over from the big catch of last season, you would be sure to see very high prices this year.
Yours very truly,
M. B. SIMONSEN,
Cod Liver Oil Instructor,
Marine and Fisheries Office, St.
John's, Nfld., April 25th, 1913.

Priest Braved Flames TO SAVE SICK STUDENT.

L'Assomption, Que., April 18.— Carrying in his arms the limp body of a sick pupil, Rev. Father Lucien Pin-ault went through the flames that were eating their way through the halls and room of the college last night and succeeded in making good his escape, although he suffered terribly from the shock, and was in danger of losing his own life.
The fire was discovered in the music room of the college De L'As-sumption. Three hundred and sixty-five pupils were asleep in the dormitories of the institution.
The alarm was at once given, and so admirably conducted was the exit that everybody reached the ground
none the worse for a little scare.
Rev. Father Pinault heard that a young man named Masse, whose family lives in Hochelaga, Montreal, was alone in the infirmary and unable to leave his bed. Father Pinault reached the sick boy's bed and carried him to safety.

Dominion Staff Ball.

SECOND ANNUAL BALL OF DOMINION OFFICIALS.

The second annual ball of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co.'s, Wabana Staff, took place in Wabana Hall, Bell Island, on Wednesday, April 30th 1913, and proved what was anticipated—a brilliant social event and the event of the season on the island. The hall was most artistically decorated for the occasion by Mr. F. F. Jardine and aides, and presented a magnificent scene. Vari-colored electric lights, draperies, shubberies, etc., being installed for the event. Myron's orchestra furnished the music for the occasion, which consisted of about twenty dances opening with the Grand March. Seven guests from St. John's attended, and the gathering numbered about 70 couple. The various dances were thoroughly enjoyed by all, and it was 3.30 a.m. before the last was concluded. The chaperones were Madams Bown, Petrie and McDougall. Mr. Blackwood acted as promoter, while the floor directors were Messrs. J. M. Greene, J. B. Murphy and F. F. Jardine. The Dominion staff are certainly to be warmly congratulated on the success of this their second annual ball and their trouble and pains were no doubt well repaid by the successful manner in which it was conducted, and by the spirit of enjoyment that prevailed throughout the night. The committee of the staff who worked so assiduously to make it such a unique success are: Messrs. A. McDonald (Chairman), L. C. Murphy (Secretary), J. M. Greene, F. F. Jardine, R. Burnham, J. B. Petrie, D. Steele, F. Hynes and T. Neary.—Com.

Valuable Presentation.

The many friends of our genial townsman, Alex. Rodger, will be pleased to learn that the local buyers and passengers on his last trip across the herring pond, presented him with a valuable piece of plate. The presentation was made in a very neat and appropriate speech, by Hon. John Anderson. We presume it is Mr. Rodger's innate modesty that prevented him from making any reference to the event on his return home.

"Rooms to Let" at the Casino.

An exceedingly funny farce comedy entitled "Rooms to Let" will excite the ability of the audience at the Casino, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This comedy is considered to be one of the funniest ever written. A young spendthrift whose uncle and aunt are taking a vacation, decides to rent the rooms to replenish his exchequer. A poverty stricken acquaintance acts as bell boy, for his services he insists on having half of the money made. A deaf man is the first guest, and they make it very hot for him, creating a scene of laughter, as the misfortunes of others always provokes. Then follows a gay old gentleman and his wife and daughter. The daughter falls in love with the proprietor and the father with a music hall artist who is a roamer. Their love scenes are ridiculously funny. The old gentleman's wife strenuously objects, creating all manner of screaming situations. This comedy is a tabloid of Gillette's famous play "All the comforts of Home." Our citizens should certainly appreciate the quality as well as the diversity of plays presented by Mr. Barr and his talented company.

Prospero Back.

Bowring's coastal ship Prospero returned yesterday morning from North Sydney where she had her bunkers filled with coal. The ship is now ready to begin the Northern Service and is in splendid condition, having been thoroughly renovated during the six weeks she was off the route. The Prospero will sail for the Northwest on Wednesday next at 10 a.m., and is now accepting freight and passengers.

Old Seals Numerous.

Members of the crews of the sealing steamers Erik and Diana report that they never saw or heard of old seals being as plentiful as they were the present spring at the icefields, particularly at the last stage of the voyage. During the latter part of April in the vicinity of where these two ships lay the ocean was dotted with seals, but little success was met with in the way of killing, except what was shot, as the ice was bad, continually rattling, consequently the work of getting them was difficult. Frequently men got duckings while seal chasing. Had the ice conditions been favourable both ships, it is said, would have secured better trips than they did.

Sealer Injured.

Narrow Escape From Drowning. A sealer named Jones, of the S. S. Diana, met with an accident at the icefields that nearly cost him his life. He was returning to the ship with a tow of seals when he got caught between pans of rattling ice and was badly crushed. The victim, who was injured seriously about the abdomen and upper limbs, lay in the water prone and would have succumbed quickly but for the promptness of two sealers who slipped a rope around Jones and hoisted him aboard the vessel safely. For the remainder of the voyage the injured sealer was confined to his bed, attended by Dr. Parsons.

Answer: MICHELIN

As a Time and Money-Saving Proposition, 77 per cent. say MICHELIN. As an Experimental Proposition, 23 per cent. are undecided, still experimenting with various makes, with the consequent loss of time and money.
 Fancy pattern covers are no doubt attractive, they are intended to be; they are also a good advertisement.
 To the shrewd buyer the very fact of such a great variety of Fancy Pattern Tyres proves conclusively that none of the patterns are correct.
 Either one is best and should be universally adopted, or all are unnecessary.
MICHELIN are not fancy pattern covers: Quality is their watchword, and in their merits they stand or fall.
A. H. MURRAY.

MR. CAR OWNER,
 As a Business Proposition,
 Which would You Buy?

The DUNLOP TIRE that is moulded as a UNIT, whereby the thick, tough rubber Traction tread, the rubber side strips, the layers of rubber impregnated fabric and of pure rubber are blended in one live integral product?
 Or the other kind which vulcanizes its tread strip-on to the body to make a finish.
 Your Business Acumen says, DUNLOP.
 The DUNLOP TRACTION was put on the market in 1911. After one season's experience it proved so successful that last year it was used by 75 per cent. of all cars in Canada.
 Will you buy a proven Tire like the Dunlop, or will you buy a Tire which was proven to be fourth-rate by the tire test recently held in England.
 Your Business Acumen says, DUNLOP.

DEAR SIR.—Photography is now being recognized as a method in Education too valuable to overlook.
 More and more are we turning to Nature, because we recognize for the first time in the history of the world that we are a part of Nature. We are Nature. And the more we love Nature, the more we understand her, the stronger, the healthier, the happier, the saner we are.
 The Camera brings us very close to Nature.
 It makes us feel our kinship with the Infinite.
 The Camera habit isn't a passing fad. More and more it is becoming fixed in the heart of the race.
