FOR SALE.

Valuable Freehold Timber and Farm Land.

At the office of the undersigned, on Thursday next, 24th inst., at 12 o'clock noon, that large piece of land situated at Maher's Sliding, on the Reid Newfoundland Railway, and being only 3 miles from Brigus Junction, belonging to the Estate of the late Sir W. V. Whitway.

This splendid tract of land comprises 8 square miles—4 of which being on each side of the track—and as the railway runs through the centre, is easy of access, and has some splendid stretches of birches and spruce thereon—the birches on one side, and the spruce and fir on the other.

It is also an ideal spot for farming, and there would be no trouble experienced in loading produce, as there is a siding where cars can be loaded at ease.

Another desirable feature in connection with the property is that the party buying same would be the SOLE owner of all water on the land, thereby excluding all fishing and shooting over same without license. There is good fishing in the ponds and gullies which abound on same.

Above property will be sold in two lots if so desired.

CHAPTER XXXII
THE WATCHER.

The week passed, and the storm seemed to have blown over; but an untoward incident brought it up again darker and fiercer than ever.

As we have said, the men were supplied with all their weapons by the settler. That is to say, each man was started with the usual amount of firearms—gun and revolver and a long bowie knife—upon arrival at the station. Ammunition was given out as was needed. Sometimes when a gun or revolver was stolen or lost Mr. Stewart would replace it, often without a murmur. Lately, however, the men had acquired an unhappy knack of losing their arms, and the settler, having a not altogether unfounded suspicion that they were disposed of at the Bay for French brandy, and in an underhand way, had declared his intention of stopping the supply, and gave the men to understand that he who lost would have to pay.

This notice was not very well received by any of them—very badly, indeed, by Tim, who had driven a rather flourishing trade at the Bay with his master's "long uns" and "barkers."

He did not fancy having his pretty little trade stopped; and, as French brandy had become almost necessary to his valuable existence, devised a plan whereby he might still obtain it. The plan was to take what would no longer be given. The armory was well stocked—the key was often turned. Nothing was easier than to steal upstairs, percolate a revolver from

Applied After Shaving

Keeps the Skin Soft and Smooth.

MANY men suffer from irritation of the skin as a result of shaving. With some it assumes a form of eczema and becomes most annoying and unsightly.

strike the dauntless youth to the ground.

But before he could deliver the blow, which would undoubtedly have laid poor Cecil low, something or some one sprang between them, and with a terrible blow, which crashed upon the ruffin's face, felled him like an ox.

Cecil looked up and saw Laurence's form towering above him, his eyes aflame, his hair blown from his forehead and his broad breast heaving with rage and passion.

Cecil uttered a low cry of mingled gratitude and alarm, and when Tim rose to his feet, wiping the blood from his face, clung to Laurence's arm, imploring him not to strike him again, for the iron-like muscles were strained to their fullest tension and the expression on Laurence's face was ominous and threatening.

The whole affair had taken but a minute in its transaction, but before the next had expired a crowd of runners, negroes, and children were pressing round them.

Tim glared for a minute in speechless rage, then ripped out an oath.

"So you're at it again, are you?" he snarled. "You can't keep your hands off, can you? What do you want to interfere for?" and he made a threatening gesture.

"Keep out of my reach, you hound," he breathed, "or I won't answer for myself! You cowardly beast to strike a child! By the heavens above us I shall kill you if you don't get from my sight!"

It was evident to all that it was only by a severe effort the speaker restrained himself from putting his threat into execution, and one or two of the runners broke through the ring and pulled Tim away.

Then Mr. Stewart ran up breathless and excited.

"What—what's all this about, my boys?" he asked, staring first at Laurence and Cecil and then at the crowd round them.

A score of negro voices were raised to tell him, but with a click of the whip he silenced them and turned to Laurence.

"What's it all about, Laurence?" Laurence, his face still darkened

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

This is a Short Letter, But It Proves the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bothwell, Ont.—"I was weak and run down, had no appetite and was nervous. The nurse who took care of me told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I am getting strong. I recommend your medicine to my friends, and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. W. J. Brady, R. R. 2, Bothwell, Ont.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, curative influence, and as it contains no narcotics or harmful drugs it is a safe medicine for women.

If you want special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by women only.

with a heavy, threatening frown, turned sternly.

"I know not," he said. "I came up in time to prevent that hound striking the lad." And he laid his hand upon the white-faced Cecil's shoulder.

Mr. Stewart whipped out his revolver and an oath at the same time.

"By Heaven, I'll shoot him!" he exclaimed.

One of the runners, a close friend and ally of Tim's, stepped in front of him and forced the revolver down.

"Wait a bit, sav'nor," he growled. "Let's hear the rights and lefts of this business. Now, then, youngster, what's it all about?"

But Cecil was trembling too much for explanation, and Mr. Stewart would have none.

"Get out of my way, Sam," he said, impatiently, "unless you want this bullet for yourself. You can have it, you know, by heavenly Cecil, get you indoors. You, too, Laurence. I'll put an end to all this blamed foolery. There's been too much of it to please Stewart. Come, clear out, you two!"

—to Cecil and Laurence—"and now let's see who's going to lord it over the Corner white Bob Stewart's alive!" and as Laurence, still holding Cecil by the shoulder, walked toward the house, he strode over to the group of runners who were clustered round Tim and evidently prepared to side with him.

Laurence led Cecil into the house and made him sit down.

"Don't cry, lad," he said. "He didn't touch you and never shall, so help me Heaven!"

Cecil dried his eyes and swallowed the remaining sobs bravely.

"Oh, Laury, Laury!" he cried; "it isn't that I'm so hurt about it; it's because you have got into danger again through me. Why didn't you keep away? I'd rather be killed than you should be hurt!"

Laurence's face softened.

"Lad," he said, in a broken voice, "don't talk like that. Who can hurt me? I am able to take care of myself; but you—little wee morsel—nobody but a fiend incarnate would think of harming you, and while I am by not a hair of your head shall be touched."

Cecil seized his hand and pressed it to his trembling lips.

"Oh, brave, good, dear Laury! How kind are you to me! You saved me from the panther, and—"

"This dog is worse than a panther—oh, lad!" interrupted Laurence, with a fierce smile, and adding: "There, Cecil, rest easy; we'll cut his fangs for him."

At that moment Stewart came in. His face was dark and troubled.

Looking round to see that no one was within hearing, he drew Laurence aside.

"Laury," he said, "we shall have some trouble with the boys. They're riled—regularly riled."

Laurence paused.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"Look here," replied the settler, and taking his arm he drew him to the side of the window.

Laurence looked out and saw that the runners had gathered together under the tree and were talking hurriedly and, if savage glances at the house and continued patting of revolvers and bowie knives went for anything, threateningly.

"You see?" asked Mr. Stewart, significantly.

"I see," said Laurence, sternly.

"They mean mischief," said Mr. Stewart, decisively.

Laurence nodded.

"The cuss, to side with such a hound! 'Tis well that one man is a match for a dozen dogs."

Mr. Stewart shook his head gravely. "I don't know that," he replied, still in the low voice, and looking at Cecil. "If Long Will and his lot were here now!"

"Where are they?" asked Laurence.

"On the Deer Point run. They started two days ago."

"And will not return for another three," said Laurence.

"No such long odds," he muttered. (To be Continued.)

Orgy of Rioting in Londonderry

Nationalists and Unionists Clashed With Many Fatalities -- City Terror Stricken and Pandemonium Reigned -- Turks Murdering Refugees Sheltering in American School -- Supreme Council Meets at Boulogne To-day.

SERIOUS RIOTING IN IRELAND.

LONDONDERRY, June 20.

Five persons were killed, ten others seriously wounded, several of them probably mortally, and about one hundred others were less seriously injured during a period of desperate rioting in this city Saturday night. The fighting was accompanied by several attempts at incendiarism, one of which resulted in the burning of a large drapery store. The rioting was a continuation of the disorders of Friday night when Nationalists and Unionists were engaged in clashes for several hours and the military had to be called out. The military remained in what were considered dangerous places, but notwithstanding its presence disorderly elements held sway for some time. In many instances, persons who were suffering from minor wounds went home without receiving treatment. The authorities have no record of the number of such cases. Among the wounded are several shipyard workers with hand gunshot wounds. The men killed were Edwin Price, Jas. MacVeigh, Thomas McLaughlin, Thomas Farran and James Moriarty. The authorities had taken elaborate precautions in view of the expected renewal of disorders. The military fully equipped took position at the head and foot of Bridge Street, which is a Nationalist quarter, and on Mountain Street, Unionist quarters. An armoured car was drawn up at Curlew Road, between these localities, to keep the rival factions apart. Hopes that these precautions would lead to the preservation of peace, however, were not fulfilled and another night of terror resulted. These latest scenes of rioting, which left the city absolutely terror-stricken, were said to have originated in what at first appeared to be a minor quarrel between Unionists and Nationalists at the junction of Long Power Street, in the Nationalist quarter, and upper Fountain St., Unionist district, these two streets being separated only by Bishop Street, the scene of bloodshed for many years during periods of rioting. Men armed with rifles and revolvers afterwards came into conflict, and before the military could intervene several had been killed. From shortly after nine until eleven o'clock pandemonium reigned.

Despatch, reports that the American school near Isaid was entered by Nationalists troops of Mustapha Kemal Pasha. Civilian refugees there were murdered, the message adds.

THE POLES' RETREAT.

COPENHAGEN, June 20.

The Moscow correspondent of Berlingske Tidende reports that the Poles, continuing their retreat have been forced over the Ibel River. The Bolsheviks, the correspondent adds, have crossed the Bug River and are approaching Bratslaw, 33 miles south-east of Vinnitsa.

GERMANY'S DISARMAMENT.

PARIS, June 20.

The Council of Ambassadors at a meeting to-day under the Chairmanship of Jules Cambon, reached decisions concerning the disarmament of Germany, which are in conformity with those found by the Inter-Allied Military Committee. The conclusion of the Council will be communicated to the heads of the Governments now assembling at Boulogne. One decision reached by the Council was that the German Army must be reduced to a maximum of one hundred thousand men by July tenth as provided for in the Treaty of Versailles.

A HISTORIC MEETING PLACE.

BOULOGNE, June 20.

To-morrow's meeting of the Supreme Council here will be held in the Chateau De La Bella on the site of the ancient Chateau De Trie, where French and British plenipotentiaries signed the treaty which gave Boulogne back to France. This fact adds to the sentimental interest which Boulogne takes in the Conference.

ITALIAN RAILWAY STRIKE.

BERNE, June 20.

The railway strike in northern Italy is extending and now includes secondary and branch lines. Switzerland is completely cut off from railway communication with Italy.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED.

EAST HAMPTON, June 20.

A reward of ten thousand dollars with no questions asked was offered to-day for the recovery of the half million dollars worth of jewels recently stolen from the Boudoir of Mrs. Enrico Caruso here. A proportionate reward will be paid for any piece returned, the announcement states.

RETURNING ANOTHER WAY.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 20.

The Prince of Wales in a letter to the editor of the British Columbian Veterans' Weekly states that he will return from Australia by way of Panama Canal and will therefore be unable to open the plant of the Cordage Co., the first sod of which His Royal Highness turned when he was here last year.

House of Assembly.

Saturday, June 19th.

The House met at 3.15 p.m. Mr. Sullivan continued his discussion of the estimates, and pointed out that no sane business man, in view of the present conditions of the country, would bring down such estimates and expect them to be passed without debate. Whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad, and it is evident from the conduct of the Government that they will soon be destroyed. The increases in salaries are not equitable at all and are practically all given as a reward for political services, without any consideration of the ability of the official or importance of his work. He approved of appointments to the Civil Service being made through examinations. The Estimates he considered disgraceful, the small salaries men getting nothing, while the highly priced officials were receiving over and above a reasonable stipend. The first votes we are asked to pass are: Prime Minister's Office, an increase of 116 per cent.; Colonial Secretary's Office, 23 per cent.; Department of Justice, 70 per cent.; Department of Finance, 116 per cent.; Agriculture and Mines, 70 per cent.; Fisheries Department, 60 per cent.; and Board of Works Office, an increase of 42 per cent. The sum cut out in the estimates under the heading of Public Charities is $211,829 and the idea conveyed is that this sum is to be devoted to the widows and orphans. This, however, is only another bluff, as an example, it is found that they are to get only about a fifteenth part of it or $14,294, the bulk of it going in salaries throughout the country. Mr. Sullivan touched on many other features of the estimates and promised to deal more fully with the various votes as they came up later.

On the motion for adjournment Mr. MacDonnell arose and in one of the most cutting speeches ever heard in the House dealt with the scurrilous attack on Sir M. P. Cashin, as published in the Star in connection with that gentleman's criticism of the estimates the previous day. Holding a copy of the Star in his hand, Mr. MacDonnell pointed out that the writer of the infamous and unwarranted attack on Sir M. P. Cashin who was described as cutting loose, was then sitting on the reporters' bench. This person who had been given the cold shoulder in St. George's and was beaten to a frazzle in his native district, Mr. Main, in the recent election, had been attempting to break into the House for years but would never get any further than his present position outside the bar. Mr. MacDonnell promised to deal further with the scribbler who wrote the article in question and others of the same kind to-day when the House adjourned. Many members of the Government expressed their agreement with the castigation by Mr. MacDonnell which was rightly deserved.

Mr. Walsh asked that the report of Mr. Herbert Knight on the Post Office enquiry a few years ago, and in which Mr. J. T. Meaney's name is prominent, be tabled to-day.

Mr. Moore called attention to the disgraceful conduct of the Soldiers' Hospital, Grenfell Institute, where many disabled men are undergoing treatment. They have been without heat for a month and also complained of the food provided, and he threatened if something was not done by the Government at once to remedy this state of affairs he would report

Sir John C. Crosbie

Endorses Puddester and Recommends That Bay de Verde Defeat W. H. Cave.

On Saturday the following message was received from Sir John Crosbie.

LONDON, June 19th.

ELECTORS BAY de VERDE:

Strongly advise you to return Puddester. By so doing you will help to restore confidence in Fish Business circles on this side of the Atlantic, which is now gravely shaken by reckless methods of the Government. Fishery outlook serious. Salt equally so. Cave's election would be regarded as disaster by everybody interested in Newfoundland trade

J. C. CROSBIE.

Bubbles." Ever since his boys began training he has been blowing bubbles, only to have them burst when he fondly imagined everything was going along swimmingly. He started out assured in his own mind that he would have one of the steadiest infields in the League, but that bubble burst when Cocky Munn torpedoed him amidsthips by stealing Coke, Cahill and Robertson. Then Joe Murphy got switched for relief in one of the outport branches. Because of his brains in playing the keystone sack, his absence will be sorely felt. And his going has demoralized the outfit as there is no one to take his place. True it is, that DeMers can hold down with ease, but Claude wanted Cris to backstop where he is some bird. He played in this position with the All-Canada team at Paris against the Yanks. If the Murphy bubble had been the only one to break on Manager Hall he would not feel so badly about it, but Canning—the peerless all around man and custodian of the third sack, won't be in the game for a few weeks yet. This was certainly the worst break that could have befallen the team. Doc Power has been persuaded to fill the gap, but he is shy on practice, and in any case does not wield the willow as skillfully as Canning. And now there are reports of some petty dissension in the Cubs' outfield, which, even if satisfactorily settled to all concerned, will not conduce to the esprit-de-corps necessary for a pennant-winning club, or strengthen their morale. However, Claude says he is not beaten yet and has often been in a tight corner before.

We could write a whole lot about the Lions—but what is there to say except present bouquets. They promise to offer for the edification of the fans the most perfect baseball machine ever seen here, and Hills, Callahan & Company feel confident of successfully defending their title. Their new battery—Coke, Cahill and Robertson—is class, and then that winning pill-tosser—Walter Callahan—is reckoned to be even better than last year.

Someone was unkind enough to say that you can change managers on the B.I.S. when they're not looking, but they know they're the Irish and lose just the same. This may or may not be true, but the newly elected J. Cuthbert Channing looks very optimistically on the future of his youngsters and they may give someone a jolt before the season is well under way.

The Wanderers up to the present are without a pilot, though it is likely the veteran Fred Britt will control their destinies. They have a nicely balanced team and have been practicing assiduously. The fans will be sorry to hear that their old live wire—Tim Hartnett—will not be in uniform this year.

The C.E.I. under the distinguished direction of Manager A. Harvey Thomas are . . . ? . . . ? (Remarks censored by the editor of the Telegram until Wednesday's result is known.)

They tell us the Irish will win this year's race. They've told us that story before. They add that the Wanderers will end in last place; and they've told us that story before. They tell us that the Lions are due for a flop; that Claude Hall's crew will sur land at the top; and that Callahan's arm must be ready to drop. Oh, they've warbled this stuff all before.

We hear that Cy Jenkins has left the game flat. We've heard of that rumour before. They tell us that Cooney is too aged to bat. The pitchers have heard that before. And this year Harv Thomas is betting his tin and making predictions the C.E.I.'s win. They tell us the Red Legs will simply walk in. But he never pulled that one before.

DIAMOND DUST

Nothing But the Truth—Without Fear or Favour.

Brendan L. Sinnott is going to twirl for the Wanderers, Wednesday, against the C.E.I. Bill has been hitting the straight and narrow path for many moons and is in fine fettle, though this fact may not be very noticeable at first glance. All of which causes us to warble:

There's a rumble in the bleachers; there's a roar up in the stands. The upper tier fanatics howl and madly clap their hands. They're shrieking out in centrefield and howling back of first, and 'round at third they're screaming, till you'd think their lungs would burst. The thirty thousand pop-eyed fans are drinking from the cup of perfect bliss for Willie's out there warming up. Aye, Sinnott the Mighty, prince of pitchers in his day, the master of the huriling mound, whose famous fadeaway and nerve and speed and head and heart made fans call him Great, is out there warning up to shoot the ball across the plate. His speed may be a trifle less, his years a trifle more, but batsmen still respect him as they did in days of yore. That great control the old guard knew is working for him still. He has the same old windup when he throws that little pill. And budding batters breaking in, who think that he's a cinch, soon find the Master's there with bells when pitching in a pinch. Ah! hear the tumult of the crowd, where old men, stern and staid, match voices with the youngsters, where the matron and the maid, the butcher, cop, and banker and the broker join the din; and give a great ovation to our Sinnott, going in.

The records of the Official Score—Mr. Cyril G. Merner—of last year prove most interesting. The teams' batting averages were: Red Lions, .263; Cubs, .251; B.I.S., .234, and the Wanderers, .141.

The fielding averages show the Cubs led with .906, and the Lions second with .860. The Irishmen had a shade over the Wanderers of .821 to .812.

The leading ten batters of the League were:

Name	Clubs	Average
Brazie	B.I.S.	.440
French	B.I.S.	.428
Cooney	Lions	.417
Kielly	Lions	.417
Hills	Lions	.408
Ellis	Lions	.382
Murphy	Cubs	.351
Canning	Cubs	.351
O'Donnell	B.I.S.	.344
Munn	Lions	.338

Not one of the Wanderers' sluggers reached the first division, but Burton is 16th on the list—being credited with an average of .235 for 17 times at bat. Of the infielders, Hills, of the Lions, leads in the fielding averages with .991, followed by Murphy, of the Cubs, with .941 and Brazie, of the Irish, with .927. Four outfielders had perfect averages of 1,000 each, viz., Fred Phalen and Josh O'Driscoll, of the Cubs, Connolly, of the B.I.S. and Fred Gushue, of the Lions.

The young man hailed the editor and said "I want a job; I can produce that sort of stuff that makes a reader sob, or I can write that funny junk that makes a reader laugh; and I'd like for you to sign me on as a member of your staff. I specialize on baseball yarns, I like to write of sport; I know lawn tennis, poker, golf, yes, games of every sort."

"But do you," asked the editor, "use language that is plain? Do you use the common metaphors and synonym diadema? For instance, how do you describe a ball game played in rain?"

The young scribe lamped the editor with cold appraisive eye; "Then use that common word," he said, "I would much rather die, I never speak of rain at all, the thought is quite absurd; the fans would never understand so commonplace a word. I always say: 'I. Pluvius uncorked the H-2-0; and when it shines I say: Old Sol beamed on the folks below.'"

"Young man," remarked the editor, "it's very plain to see that you possess a brilliant mind and much ability. Will you for fifty bones a week write baseball stuff for me?"

REASONS FOR NOT GIVING.

A neighbor of mine, when asked to give some money in a very fine cause, refused. Not because he was stingy. He didn't want me to think that. Nor because he didn't think the object was a good one. The reason he didn't want to give, was because he felt that in that particular philanthropy too much money was spent for the running expenses.

I know that must have been the reason because he told me so himself when, as part of a committee appointed to cover our neighborhood, I asked him to contribute.

It sounded like a reasonable objection. But when I told his reason to another member of the committee, she laughed.

He Always Has a Reason.

"Is that his latest?" she said. "Well, that's a good one. My dear, no one has ever been able to get more than 50 cents or a dollar out of him, and you know how well off he is. He never admits he doesn't want to give, but he always has some reason."

If you ever tried to collect for any cause whatever, I imagine you recognize that type of man.

And don't you hold him a little lower than the people who won't give simply because they don't want to? For they, at least, are honest in their self-interest, whereas he adds hypocrisy to selfishness.

The Government Ought to Do It.

Another man I know of, is always objecting to any efforts at private philanthropy—whether it be giving school lunches to the underfed children in some poverty submerged section of the city, or starting a library in a country town, or maintaining a district nurse—on the ground that the Government ought to do that. He may be right, but if the government isn't doing it, how does that help the people who are suffering?

The only person who has a right to claim exemption from helping on that score is the man who is trying to make the Government do the thing, and even he might well help support the private venture at the same time. Often when such a private venture is started, the Government can be made to see its value and carry it on.

Incidentally, this man is one of those who complain most bitterly of taxes.

Mrs. Stowe's Opinion.

It is almost always possible to find an objection to any philanthropy if one wants to.

Did you ever hear the story of Harriet Beecher Stowe's appeal to a public man she knew for help in the case of some individual who had been bitterly wronged? The public man replied to the effect that he was so much absorbed in trying to do good to the masses that he had no time for individual cases. Mrs. Stowe laid his answer aside with this annotation, "When last heard from, our Maker had not reached that attitude."

ALL IN VAIN.

I was weighing, on the quiet, more than any gent should weigh; so I tried a rigid diet, and I ate but once a day. All the things I like were banished, so my system might grow thin; all the pies and doughnuts vanished from the larder and the bin. I was thinner, I was broader, than a mortal man should be; so I fed on bran and raddler and fresh pumpkins from the tree. Oh, I lived on slaw and gherkins, till my form grew thin and spare, till I lost some seven firkins of the lard I used to wear. But I'm once again devouring grub that pleases every sense, and the horse's feed is sousing, with the garbage, by the fence. For I'll sleep beneath a hummock in the boneyard's solemn hush, ere I'll torture my old stomach with the fat-reducing mush. So I beckon to the water and I tell him he may bring ribs of beef and brown potatoes and cake and everything. For the life we live is worthless if we're eating shredded straw, and the days are dark and mirthless, and there ought to be a law. You may feel yourself grow fatter as you face the groaning board; what the dickens does it matter? Eat the best you can afford. Through the vicissitudes take a header, eat while you are drawing breath; for there is no dead man dearer than the one who starved to death.

Use whole spices, tied in a bag, to flavor your catsup.

Chicken fat goes further than butter and less is used.

Never remove lard from kettle while cooking dumplings.

Mrs. Bartlett, wife of the keeper of Cabot Tower, has been missing since Friday night or early Saturday morning. According to Mr. Bartlett's story, Mrs. Bartlett retired to bed at 10.30 Friday night. When at four o'clock the following morning, Mr. Bartlett awoke, he found that his wife was missing. Search, although immediately made, failed to locate her, and up to dark last evening no clue had been found.

$8 Salt, $5 Fish; and Provisions--

With Polling Day in Bay-Verde set down for Thursday next, the voters in that important district will do well—on casting their ballots—to reflect upon the condition of local affairs since the Squires Government took office last November. Not eight months have passed under Liberal-Reform rule, but the Dominion has been brought to such a state as was never before known in its history. The prosperity of previous years has been literally swept away and people are facing a future which contains neither promise nor prospect, excepting it may be a descent to harder times than are being experienced at the moment. The shadow of an incompetent Government has cast itself over everything, and the outlook is far from being bright. On every hand there is evidence of stagnation and blight and nothing whatever is being done by the powers that rule to improve the situation. They appear to be perfectly content to allow matters to drift along, and ask nothing more than to be permitted to raise the salaries of themselves and friends at the expense of the fishermen, for whom their leaders were so solicitous last fall. To-day that solicitude has evaporated. Having taken possession of the fashions, the Squires aggregation have hastened to reward themselves liberally after their two-thirds of a year service to their country. It is nothing to them that Newfoundland will groan under the burden of increased expenditure and taxation for years to come. So long as they share the spoils of office the people who trusted them can go hang for all that they care.

Posing as the friends of the fishermen in their pre-election promises, the Squires following deluded the voters into returning them as a Government. And the reward for so doing—what is it? Fish started to go down, and prices of necessities to go up, almost simultaneously with the assumption of the present Prime Minister and party to office, and this has continued until to-day an unprecedented situation is being faced. A muddle has been created by men absolutely incapable of carrying on the business of the country—and such a muddle. In their attempt to control and govern commercial transactions, the Government has produced a state of chaos in all departments of trade. They began with Fish, they continued with Salt they have tinkered with Sugar. And the nett result of their operations in all three has been a slump in the price of the former: a scanty supply of the second at a greatly enhanced price and a huge advance in the selling price of the latter, with controlled stocks that no dealer desires to handle. And yet the fishermen of Bay-Verde are being importuned by Government spell-binders to vote for Mr. W. H. Cave, Minister of Shipping, who fell down on the primary duties of his office—that of furnishing an ample supply of salt to the trade, and from the trade to the fishermen. The record of the Minister of Shipping has not been one of unqualified success. He has to take his orders from "higher up," and no matter whether these are for the public good or ill, they have to be implicitly obeyed. Salt is coming into St. John's now, but at what a figure. Weeks behind the time of sailing for the fishery schooner masters have been forced to wait for supplies of salt because of the inactivity and inaction of the Government.

While the war was in progress everybody was quite willing to put up with inconveniences without murmuring. Long prices and short tonnage were expected and accepted. But the longest price of commodities in war time does not come near present rates. And yet Government supporters and press are busily engaged on their familiar job of deceiving the electorate. The latter publishes flaring black type headlines containing the assurance that prices of provisions are coming down. The best answer to that is the rate being asked for goods of all qualities to-day. No man knows better than the fisherman when prices are right. He knows also that with eight dollar salt and sky-high provisions, and the price of fish FIVE DOLLARS per quintal, his chance of making a comfortable living is being reduced to the vanishing point. He knows, as well, that increased expenditure as outlined in the official estimates mean increased taxation, and that upon him the burden of payment will fall eventually. With fish at FIVE DOLLARS per quintal, and few dealers buying at that figure, the producer is beginning to realise that he is between the devil and the deep sea: between the devil of low prices for his fish and the deep sea of the ever-increasing high cost of living. His prospects for the future are therefore none too hopeful, and he has the knowledge that this state of affairs has been none of his seeking, but has developed from the shortsightedness of those men to whom the political business of the country was entrusted. That they mixed their politics with commerce and made a mess of both does not give the fisherman any satisfaction. Rather does it imbue him with a determination to use every means in his power to right the wrong done Newfoundland on November 3, 1919. And the voters of Bay-Verde intend to make the initial move on Thursday next, and show their disapproval of the methods of the Squires Government.

The Longest Day.

Though there is but slight difference in the length of the interval between sunrise and sunset on the days about June 21, there is, in general, one of these days which is a few seconds longer than any other. This is the day on which the Summer Solstice falls, and at the end of a century is June 20 or 21, whilst at the beginning it is a day later, and June 21 or 22 is the longest day. The reason for this difference in date may be briefly stated. Because the Tropical year is not an integral number of days, the Solstice falls later in the Calendar year, for six hours, nearly. It is not permitted to be very late, because the intercalation of the extra day in leap year brings it back one whole day. This whole day is too much, because the Solstice is later yearly by not quite 6 hours, and hence, on the whole, it falls earlier in the calendar as the century progresses, and the dates of the longest day at the beginning and end are as stated. In this year—being Leap Year—the date is relatively early, and is June 21. This acceleration of the date during the century is corrected by the omission of the intercalary day in the centennial year, which puts the date a day forward. This, however, does more than is necessary, and further compensation is made by making the fourth centennial year a leap year.—Whittaker's Almanac.

"AT HOME"—Mrs. F. S. Butler will be "At Home" to her friends, at LeMarchant Road, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon of this week.—June 21

To-Night's Opera.

"Iolanthe," Or the Peer and the Peri.
Opera lovers are promised a treat to-night, when Professor Moncrieff Mawer, assisted by a talented group of artists presents, Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "Iolanthe." The cast of characters and the orchestration have already been published, and the names of these artists are sufficient guarantee of the merit with which this production will be rendered. In presenting a brief synopsis of the argument, we may say that the first act is typical of an Arcadian landscape, where the fairies are lamenting the loss of Iolanthe, who is undergoing a banishment sentence, but who at the summons of the Queen of the Fairies, the mother of Strephon is recalled and assumes her rightful position at court. Strephon, who is determined to marry Phyllis, an Arcadian shepherdess and a ward in Chancery, without the consent of the Lord Chancellor, now appears on the scene. A meeting of the House of Lords is called by the Lord Chancellor and a husband is chosen for Phyllis, who, however, upsets the arrangements by refusing to accept the choice made. Other complications enter into the scope of the act, which closes with the command of the Fairy Queen that Strephon is to enter Parliament and pass every bill that he approves.
The second act opens in the Palace Yard at Westminster. Strephon has been elected to Parliament and is carrying out instructions. Phyllis is unhappy and two noble lords endeavour to console her—both seeking her hand in marriage. But it would mar the effect to give away the plot any further, and detract from the interest of those who have booked seats. All music lovers will have an opportunity of revelling in the delights offered by this opera, and as all the indications point to crowded houses during the run, anticipations will not fall to be realised.

Science has at last solved the problem of getting rid of superfluous hair in giving us an antiseptic cream lotion, known commercially as Meel, which will positively and easily remove superfluous hair from any part of the body without in any way injuring or even irritating the skin. Meel is quite distinct and different from the ordinary "deplatory" which is often crude and always ill smelling. It is more certain in operation, easier to use, and more thorough in its results than any other preparation yet discovered. Two sizes: 75c. and $1.50 a bl.

AUSTRIAN PEACE TREATY.
PARIS, June 20.
The Council of Ambassadors to-day went on record in favor of putting the Treaty of St. Germain. (Peace Treaty with Austria), into effect as soon as possible. This is held to be necessary because the uncertainty of the present situation is working hardships upon those affected, it was explained. The Council approved a note to be sent to Germany, protesting against her making commercial discriminations in dealing with other nations.

SEIZED OFFICIAL LETTERS.
CORK, Ireland, June 21.
Armed masked men held up the mail train from Dublin early yesterday morning, at Buttevant station, midway between Cork and Limerick. All official letters for the police and military authorities were seized.

RAIDERS BEATEN OFF.
BRISHA, East Kerry, Ireland, June 21.—A large party of raiders attacked the police barracks here with rifle fire and grenades, but were beaten off after a two hour siege.

IMPOSSIBLE POSITION.
LONDON, June 21.
The situation in Ireland is so tense that there is something more than the possibility of serious outbreaks and disorders, says the London Times Dublin correspondent, in a despatch dated Sunday. The position from the executive point of view, he adds, has become almost impossible and the outlook is very grave.

BOLSHEVIKS REPORT SUCCESSFUL.
LONDON, June 21.
The Bolsheviks, in a communication issued Sunday, claim to have felled the Poles across the Dnieper River, to the east of Roshita, and to be driving them back towards Kerosten and Ovrutch, and in the direction of Proskurov, southeast of Lemberg. Along the left bank of the Dnieper the Bolsheviks say they have broken the enemy's resistance, and are advancing toward Kamentia Podolsky, west of Mahiley.

HOW TWO MET DEATH.
LONDON, June 20.
During the rioting Saturday night, in which five persons were killed and ten injured, seriously, McVeigh, a laborer, was on his way to a butcher's shop and when reaching the end of Long Tower Street, a bullet struck him in the throat. He struggled, in a dying condition, toward a public house nearby, where he fell. Owing to the fierce fusillade it was impos-

Where Women Rule.

THE GYNECOCRACY OF TIBURON ISLAND.

Down on the little island of Tiburon, in the Gulf of California, when a dark-skinned youth of the Seri tribe is captivated by the charms of a dusky maiden, and she reciprocates, she does not timidly suggest that he "ask father," says the San Francisco Chronicle. Father has nothing to say about the matter. Mother is the all-important member of the family, and it is to mother that the candidate for her daughter's hand presents his claim.

Tiburon, otherwise known as Shark Island, is a real Amazon Kingdom, or perhaps queenland. The women are the heads of the family, and rule the men with a hand of iron, graciously permitting them to attend to the work of gathering food, wood and water, while their wives, mothers and daughters take care of the serious business of governing the country.

Although all the men on Tiburon are under the rule of their women-folk, the newly-married husband is the most abject of slaves.

Slave of Family.
After mother has approved of the suitor who seeks her daughter in marriage—the favored youth is at once made a slave of the family of his future bride, and for a year must be at their beck and call. He must be the hewer of wood and drawer of water for his dusky Rachel, and, because the sharks that infest the waters about Tiburon are considered an especial dainty, he must plunge into the sea and slay choice specimens for the dinner table of his prospective family-in-law.

Deer, wild fowl, turtles, oysters and fish must be captured and contributed by son-in-law-to-be, and in return he is put on probation as a candidate for the job of husband.

The hard-working young man is not even given the privilege of association with his adored one. The mesquite bush under which his charmer and her family dwell is forbidden ground for him. He must keep at a respectful distance under his own mesquite shelter, and cook and eat his lonely meals entirely apart from the family of which he seeks to become a member.

Meek Man.
At the end of a year, if the young man has proved himself to be properly humble, energetic, respectful toward his feminine relatives-to-be, and a good provider, he is accepted as a member of the family, and without further ceremony he and his bride set up housekeeping under a mesquite bush built for two, with the reins of government firmly in the wife's hands.

When a young girl of Tiburon reaches marriageable age her face is smeared with white paint as a sign to all the world that she is in the market for a husband and slave. The men of Tiburon are universally recognized by a certain meekness of expression and a subdued demeanour, the outgrowth of generations of submission to the will of their wives.

Lowest Type of Human.
The Indians on Tiburon present an interesting study to the scientist, not alone because of their woman-ruled condition, but because they represent the lowest type of human kind in that they have no permanent homes of any kind, not even caves or tepees. They are nomadic, wandering from place to place as the whim seizes them, and camping under the mesquite bushes.

Occasionally an enterprising group will go so far as to make a rude thatch of mesquite branches, tying them with strips of palm fibre. However, their life in the open is no great hardship, since the climate is of the mildest and rain seldom falls.

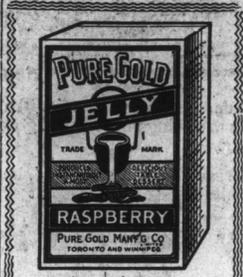

Although the Seri Indians are reserved and mild by nature, they are good fighters when their country is invaded, and explorers and gold hunters who have neglected to pave the way for their coming by taking guides known to the Seris have paid for their daring with their lives.

Bonfire Signal.
The proper method of getting into the Seri country is to find some outsider who has previously won the confidence of the Indians. Under the direction of the guide, the stranger goes to the beach on the mainland, about four miles distant from the island, and there makes a bonfire. By covering the fire with a blanket four volumes of smoke are sent up at brief intervals.

If a return signal is given, all is well. In a short time a delegation of Seris arrive in a canoe, and a ceremony of welcome is performed, accompanied by the usual gifts of tobacco and canned goods, for which the Indians have a particular fondness. Then the Indians and their visitors return to the island, and during their stay the strangers will not only be safe, but will be treated with the utmost courtesy.

Occasionally at the present time small parties of Indians come to Hermosillo, the nearest city, where they are objects of much curiosity. Their island is in the pearl oyster district, and they bring many pearls with them, which they trade for a fraction of their value. Many pearls are taken from beds of "dead" shells and are without value, but occasionally they bring a "live" pearl, which the Hermosillo traders pick up for a small sum in trade.

We have received a shipment of PURE GOLD JELLY—Raspberry, Strawberry, Assorted, and while it lasts can supply same promptly to the trade from stock. We cannot supply less than five gross, and if you do not require as much as that please order through your jobber.

Freeman's English Foods

A complete supply for your larder.

Custard Like Cream. A Popular Blanc Mange.

Freeman's Custard, made according to directions, provides a creamy dish that softens the tartness of fruits. It is ideal for trifles, and as a hot sauce with puddings it is delicious.

Freeman's Blanc Mange Powder is distinctly flavoured with fruit essence, and is agreeably smooth to the palate. A packet in the house ensures a delightful "emergency" dish, easily made.

Making Better Cakes. A Clear, Light Jelly.

There is nothing better for making cakes than Freeman's Egg Powder. It is an improvement upon eggs rather than a substitute for them; making cakes lighter and more digestible, and never "dry".

The delightful clearness and colour of Freeman's Jellies is the next best thing to their taste. There is absolutely no heavy sediment in a jelly made with Freeman's Jelly Crystals, and the flavours are true to the fruit.

A Comforting Drink.

There is no more comforting drink on a cold day than Freeman's Glass Lemon and hot water—as hot as you can drink it. Freeman's Glass Lemon is sweetened sufficiently for the average taste; it is made with real lemons by an entirely new process—a great advance on the old lemon crystal.

If a cold drink is required it is only necessary to add Freeman's Glass Lemon to cold water, it dissolves immediately—no need to wait while the drink cools.

First Mate King Is Out With Facts About Trouble

"I Wouldn't Take a Cargo of Fish for the Relief Tanlac Has Given Me," He States.

"I wouldn't take a cargo of fish for the wonderful relief that Tanlac has brought me," said Louis King, of Little Catalina, Trinity Bay, Newfoundland, when in St. John's the other day. Mr. King was first mate on the schooner "Minnie," which was recently wrecked on her way to Sydney, and for the last ten years has sailed to and from most of the principal European and Atlantic ports.

"I simply can't describe what I've suffered during the last five years," continued Mr. King. "Why I've hardly known what it is to be free of a headache for more than a few minutes, during all that time. It just seemed as though my head was bound round with an iron band and the pain used to almost drive me frantic. I used to run-down that I could hardly get around, and never felt equal to my work. If ever I stooped over to pick up anything off the deck I was seized with such a dizzy feeling that I had to catch hold of something to keep myself from falling. I got so little sleep at night that I was always tired out and not very nervous and irritable. I was in such desperate straits that I used to buy medicine in nearly every port we called at, but I never could find anything to give me any real relief.

"When I returned home last winter, everybody seemed to be talking about Tanlac, and as I had suffered worse than ever on the last trip, I decided to at least give it a trial. Well, it helped me right from the start, and I want to say that after taking several bottles I am just like a new man. Why, I don't know what it is to have a headache now, nor those awful dizzy spells. It just seems as though I had been relieved of a terrible burden. Tanlac has given me such an appetite that the hard tack, dried fish and salt pork taste good all the time. I now sleep well at night and feel all I never put to sea without a good supply of Tanlac, for it sure is the finest kind of medicine and I want to recommend it to all who may be suffering as I did."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle.—adv.

Produce and Provisions.

(Saturday's Trade Review.)

CODFISH.—A very large proportion of the dried codfish that is coming into St. John's since May is badly cured. Making sales is difficult enough under all the circumstances, but this makes it more difficult still. The cull is strict and after the damp, heavy damp and West India are thrown out the average price for what passes the culling board is $3.00 a qt. $2.00 are taken off for damp. As high as $10.00 and as low as $3.00 have been paid. Shipments this week from St. John's were: 2,138 qts. by A. Goodridge & Sons, to Barbados, and 4,514 by A. E. Hickman Co., Ltd., to Bahia. From the outports, 2,268 qts. from Lake & Lake to Oporto, making altogether a total of 8,970 qts.

COD OIL.—The market remains unchanged. The Oil Reporter of New York states that several thousand barrels of Norway Oil was exported. This in all probability will supply the market. The present price for Common Cod Oil is out of all proportion with other kinds of fish oils, and it is not likely to continue long at present values.

CODLIVER OIL.—It is very difficult to sell Codliver Oil here now even at $1.50 per gallon. The product of last year's fishery is pretty well cleaned up and exported. The biggest lot we hear of is 400 barrels held by one of the large dealers. This will be exported the next steamer to New York and the market will then be practically empty.

LOBSTERS.—The fishery is hampered owing to the scarcity of cans.

Pots are filled with Lobsters in several places on the West and South Coasts and there are no cans. Packers are anticipating a higher price for their lobsters the coming season than they are likely to get, as there is a luxury embargo on some of the countries where our lobsters formerly sold well at high prices. We imagine that if they can get $30.00 a case they will do well.

HERRING.—Very little doing in the herring market these days, except the shipment of odd parcels of splits to New York for West Indies. These are down to $4 a barrel here. Nobody handling Scotch Pack. Inspector Coyell, who returned here last Monday from Notre Dame Bay, reports that there are 11,000 barrels of S. P. there, 8,000 of which are number one, also 4,000 splits. Six men at Little Bay, he says, were fined in May by the Magistrate for putting up bad pack.

FLOUR.—The crop reports from the States and Canada are somewhat improved this week, and indicate a likelihood of a weakening in prices sooner than was portended the early part of June, up to which time the weather conditions were very depressing to farmers. The St. John's prices will remain unchanged all the Summer for stocks in hand. The shipments of flour on the S. S. "Canadian Miner" from Montreal this week, amounted to 2025 barrels. The prices in St. John's are $17 to $17.25 wholesale.

PORK.—Pork prices, owing to high rate of exchange, advanced this week about $1.25 per barrel in the U. S. Market. The local quotations are as follows:—

Fat Back	$46.00
S. C. Clear	46.00
Ham Butt	57.00
Family	55.50
Short Mess	57.00

There is ample stock in the St. John's market for the fishery supplies.

BEEF.—The market keeps on weakening, and Beef is selling at bargain prices both at home and abroad. We quote the following wholesale rates this week for the local market:—

Regular Plate	$27 to $27.50
Boneless	29 to 32.50
Packet	32 to 32.50
Family	34 to 35.00
B. Flank	35 to 36.00

There is a heavy drain on stocks this month, but there will be sufficient to supply all needs.

SUGAR.—The S.S. "Edmund Donah" arrived in the early part of this week with 20,120 sacks of White American Granulated Sugar. The Food Control Board has taken charge of this sugar as well as all that is in stock here, and has fixed the price at 28 1/2 cents wholesale and 30 cents retail. A meeting was held Wednesday by Sugar Dealers at the Board of Trade Rooms to discuss the proposal of retailers to ask the Board to make the retail price 32 cents, as they say it will not pay them to sell for less. It was decided to send a delegation to interview the Control Board, and report at a future meeting. The trouble arises over the fact that some importers have bought heavy stocks that cost them 34 to 35 cents a pound.

MOLASSES.—The importation of molasses is certain to be very short. Prices are getting stronger in Barbados, and the latest quotation puts Fancy molasses up to a figure that is equivalent to $2.00 a gallon wholesale in St. John's. Sales here continue to be made at $1.90 for Choice, with an additional three cents for Hercules and five cents for barrels. The importation up to the present time is less than half of our yearly requirements. There are four or five vessels from Barbados this month, and which if they succeed, will bring the imports up to about 6000 puncheons.

POTATOES.—By the steamer from Montreal and P. E. Isld. this week,

Council's Petition Re Housing Problem.

(Copy of petition presented at the House of Assembly Friday afternoon.)
To The Honourable The Speaker and Members of The House of Assembly.

This Petition Humbly Sheweth,
WHEREAS the conditions of many of the houses in the city of St. John's and the overcrowding which has been occasioned by the lack of suitable houses have occupied the serious attention of the late Municipal Board and the present Council for the past six years;

AND WHEREAS the Charter was formed largely with the view of remedying the evil, but the failure of the Legislature to deal with that Bill postponed for four years the measures which had been devised;

AND WHEREAS the problem of State aid to housing has exercised the minds of Governments in all parts of the world, but up to the present time all schemes have proved to be more or less failures, and no substitute has yet been found to replace the individual effort and the inexorable laws of supply and demand, which have kept the human race housed since the dawn of civilization. Any action which tends to abate the natural instinct of a man to provide a home for himself and his family, or which prevents the operation of economic laws in this respect, is certain to do more harm than good;

AND WHEREAS the end to be desired in the Colony of Newfoundland is that each family should live in a detached house on freehold land of as large an extent as is possible, it being a well known fact that higher ideals of citizenship are developed when people live in houses which they own themselves. In St. John's the desire for the individual to own the house he lives in is very strongly in evidence and should be encouraged in every possible way. During the war very few dwelling houses were built; last year, however, one hundred permits for Dwelling Houses were issued, and this year there have been already forty-nine;

AND WHEREAS the Council learns that Resolutions have been laid before your Honourable House for the purpose of assisting the Dominion Co-Operative Building Association in its very laudable endeavor to provide houses for the working classes.

This assistance takes two forms: First that a dividend of five per centum on the capital invested shall be guaranteed, in other words, that the Government of the Colony shall make up not only any deficit which may accrue in renting the houses built, but also a dividend of five per cent. Second that all construction and building materials and machinery imported by the Company, which are not manufactured in the Colony shall be duty free.

"The Council begs to submit: That every possible assistance which can reasonably be given to this company should be given, but that to give such assistance to this company alone, to the exclusion of the poor man who is struggling to build his own house, or to the Council, which is assisting people to secure houses, would not only be manifestly unfair, but would actually tend to prevent that increase in the supply of houses which is so greatly desired.

"To the man contemplating building his own house, it will at once be obvious that it would be cheaper for him to rent one of the houses to be built by the company than to build for himself, and he immediately will abandon his design. The Council will also be influenced by the same thought, and will see that it must cease to build houses for sale when it will be unable to do so as cheaply as the favoured company with its cheaper money and duty free materials.

"The Council therefore most strongly urges the Legislature to make the operation of the Bill general, and to afford to all builders of workmen's houses, whether for themselves or for others the same advantage of cheap money and duty free materials as is proposed to be granted to the Dominion Co-Operative Building Association."

And your Petitioners will ever pray, etc.

For and on behalf of the St. John's Municipal Council.

W. G. GOSLING, Mayor.

The First St. John's Troop.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In both your columns and those of the Star on Saturday I read an item in connection with the Boy Scout Movement. The fact that the wording of these items is identical, proves that in this case, the correspondent is the same. Your correspondent, Sir, seems to imagine that the Gower St. Troop is the only troop that ever existed here. He says that the movement was in abeyance before Mr. Forbes came here. How about that splendid troop that existed under Mr. Jas. Murdock at the Methodist College? How about that veteran troop of St. Bon's, which has existed under three S.M.'s and one Asst. S.M., for over six years? Because they did not go in for self advertisement, they were in abeyance.

Another thing that your contributor does not mention, is that boys from the 1st St. John's Troop were also at Mt. Pearl last year. He did not state that when the draft that arrived, when Sergt. Ricketts came home, the same boys spent four hours in the slush and snow without food in order to help regulate the traffic. They did not wait until the public parade of the next day to turn up. Those same boys rendered valuable assistance at the time of the Empire Barracks fire. But they did not send an item to the press stating what they did. No, Sir, those boys are Scouts. They are full of enterprise too, as is evinced by their paper "The Fleur de Lis" which has been appointed the official organ of Boy Scouts in Newfoundland. I feel that though they may not want publicity they should get it now.

Thanking you for space, Sir,
Yours sincerely,
DEFENDER.

Rev. Dr. Pedley's Addresses to Meth. Conference.

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Pedley, Pastor Emeritus of Emmanuel Congregational Church, Montreal, now on a visit to this city, has been invited by the Methodist Conference to give a series of noonday addresses to its members during its sessions in Wesley Church. Dr. Pedley, son of the first historian of Newfoundland, has been long one of the very foremost leaders of Canadian church life, and is a preacher of exceptional power and popularity. The addresses, which are of general interest, and at which every one who desires to be present, will be welcome, will be as follows:
Thursday, June 24th, at noon—Church Government: Trinity in Unity.
Friday, June 25, at noon—The Paradoxes of a Minister's Life.
Saturday, June 26, at noon—The Smallness and the Greatness of the Preacher's Opportunities.
Monday, June 28, at noon—Some Recollections of Henry Ward Beecher.

Inter-Parochial Football

To-night, at the Tannery field, will see the first of a series of football matches between the parishes of St. Thomas's and the Cathedral. It is the intention of the Clubs to play their return matches at the Garden Party and the various picnics, if possible. As the contesting teams are composed of adherents of the various big League teams, who have been assiduously practising with their respective favourites till now, and are therefore in fine fettle, a keenly contested game is expected. The following is the line-up of the St. Thomas's eleven:—goal, W. Legge; backs, J. Piercey, J. Raines; halves, A. Lloyd, W. Newhook, H. Raines; forwards, A. Curnew, J. Newhook, H. Goodland, S. McNeil, E. Snow. Mr. Geo. Hunt will referee the game, which starts at 7.30, sharp.

Personal.

At the Pupils' Recital, Halifax Conservatory of Music, Miss Alison Rennie, daughter of Mr. W. H. Rennie, was down on the programme for a piano performance, her selection being Liszt's "Polonaise in E Major." The many friends of drummer Neddy Peters, the popular hurdie and relay runner of the C.C.C., will be glad to hear that he is now recovered from his recent serious illness, and is back to work.

At the Halifax Ladies' College, the prize for general excellence in senior class drawing, painting and design, was awarded Miss Eleanor Maunder, daughter of Mr. John Maunder, Merchant Tailor, Duckworth St., this city. Congratulations.

Smashing Bargain In Summer Straws

$3 Men's Boaters for $1.50.

You need a straw for Summer—who doesn't? And even if you only thought you needed one, you'd be tempted to buy when we offer such a wonderful price inducement.

These came too late for last season—they were made to sell for $3—bought to sell for $3, and are equal to any straw on the street selling for much more.

Were we to buy them to-day we couldn't sell them for less than $4. And you know this is "Honest Injun" truth, because you can read in this paper what others are charging.

When we get a surplus of straws we don't believe in keeping them—no matter what the cost—so the reduction.

Fine weaved straws, medium brims, black band; or we can sell you a real silk band in colours to your taste.

TEN DOZEN ONLY, $1.50.

Disapproves of Commissions.

(Harbour Grace Standard.)
The Premier stated in the House on Friday last that the matter of Prohibition would be referred to a commission for report. Petitions signed by some thirteen thousand electors had been presented to the Premier, asking for an alteration in the present law with a view to having the sale of intoxicating liquor less exacting than it is under the existing regulations. The Premier shoves the whole question for this session of the legislature, a course that was not expected by the petitioners. It is a question if, under the local option law, two hundred bottles of liquor were consumed in this town, but there is no doubt whatever that that quantity is used here every month. Evidently prohibition does not prohibit. This dealing with public matters by commission is not sound in principle, nor is it expedient, fair or just to the masses. The late Government used this means of shying troublesome questions, so much so that the powers that are supposed to be wielded by the representatives of the people were delegated to men over whom the people had no control. The Legislature is the proper authority to deal with all matters affecting the public, and to have men who are not answerable to the people direct or control public measures is nothing but an encroachment upon the prerogatives of the People's House.
