CHAPTER V.

"Agreed with her. You ought to know me better than that, Margery." The grave tones went to her heart. "Oh, forgive me!" she cried. "It was wrong; but—she is so beautiful, and I—"

"You are—"

"Only a village girl beside her."

"I wonder if you know how different you are from her?" Stuart said quietly.

Margery's face flushed.

"I never felt I was—common till today," she answered.

"Margery!"

She looked up quickly. Mr. Crosbie checked his words and laughed a little constrainedly.

"You must not grow vain," he said.

"Am I vain? I will remember another time," she responded, gravely.

"And remember this, too," Stuart added—"that, whatever any one may say, my opinion of you does not change—never will."

She smiled with delight.

"Thank you, Mr. Stuart," she said simply. "And now please give me my basket; you must not come any further."

"I shall carry it home for you," he answered. "We shall not be long, and this is tons too heavy for your little hands. Tell me of your lesson. What have you done to-day, and what is that book?"

Margery immediately broke into a long account of her studies, and, with her happy serenity restored, she walked on beside him, heedless of the dust or the sun—content that their friendship was unaffected.

Stuart Crosbie listened with pleasure to the ripple of her voice, his eyes never tired of wandering to her sweet face, lovely in its innocence, but when he had parted from her and strode home along the lanes, his brow was clouded and a puzzled expression rested upon his face.

CHAPTER VI.

Wednesday morning broke clear and cloudless. Margery rose at an early hour, and sat looking out of her little window at the sun gilding the fields and trees with its glory. Stuart Crosbie, too, rose earlier than was his wont; and he occupied the time till the breakfast-gong sounded in walking up and down his room, apparently in deep thought. As the muffled summons reached his ear, he uttered an impatient "Pshaw!" and made his way slowly down the stairs. His mother was seated at the table when he entered the room; and he had scarcely exchanged greetings with her when Vane Charteris made her appearance. It was not Miss Charteris' usual custom to honor the breakfast table with her presence; but since her stay at Crosbie the mood had seized her, and she descended regularly to the early meal.

"Good-morning, my dear," said Mrs. Crosbie, smiling her sweetest. "You look as fresh as a rose; doesn't she, Stuart?"

"Words always fail me to describe Cousin Vane's beauty," was his gallant reply.

Vane smiled languidly; but she was not quite happy. There was something strange about this cousin of hers; he was attentive, but his attentions seemed to be the outcome of habit rather than inclination. Was her power to fascinate her here, too?

"What is the programme for today?" she asked, as she drew her chair to the table.

"We must devise something," observed Mrs. Crosbie. "Ah, Vane, my dear, I fear you find this place very dull!"

"Dull!" repeated Miss Charteris. "I cannot tell you, my dear aunt, how happy I am in your lovely home."

Mrs. Crosbie felt her heart swell; more and more she saw the advisability of a marriage between Stuart and his cousin, more and more she determined it should take place.

"Well, Stuart, what are we to do to amuse Vane?" she inquired, turning to her son, with the pleasure called up by her niece's speech still lingering on her face.

"I am afraid, mother, I shall not be able to offer my services to-day. I am bound for Chesterham this morning," Stuart answered, vigorously attacking a pie on a side table.

"Chesterham!" ejaculated his mother. "Why, what takes you there, Stuart?"

"An appointment with Derwent. He has written and asked me to meet him at the junction on his way to town; he wants to see me."

"Why could not Captain Derwent come here for a few days?" inquired Mrs. Crosbie, coldly. She was annoyed that anything should interrupt the acquaintance that was progressing so satisfactorily.

"He can't; he is due in London."

"But must you go?" began his mother, when Vane interrupted with:

"Oh, please don't stop him, auntie, dear, or he will vote me such a nuisance! Indeed, we can spare Stuart for one day, and I will enjoy myself with you if you will let me. We have not driven to any places yet; shall we not go somewhere to-day?"

"I shall be pleased," Mrs. Crosbie replied, though she looked vexed; and all other remarks on the subject were stopped, to Stuart's great relief, by his father's appearance—Lady Charteris never left her room till noon.

The squire came in with his curious halting gait; he carried a bundle of letters and papers in his hand (and his haggard features wore a look of surprise.

"Good-morning, my dear," he said to Vane. "Constance—to his wife—"

"I have received a most extraordinary surprise. Read that"—holding out a letter.

With ill-concealed impatience Mrs. Crosbie took the letter he held toward her.

"What sort of a surprise, dad?" asked Stuart, putting his hand for an instant into his father's.

"Your mother will tell you," answered the squire.

"From Douglas Gerant?" exclaimed Mrs. Crosbie, gazing at the end of the letter. "This is a surprise indeed! Why, Sholto, he is in England—has been for the last month—and wants to come to us for a visit!"

"By Jove!" was Stuart's only utterance.

"It seemed like a letter from the dead," said the squire, dreamily, "What years since one has heard or seen anything of Douglas Gerant! It must be fifteen, at least, since he left England."

Mrs. Crosbie folded up the letter. "He is not changed," she observed—"at least, his letter is as strange and erratic as of old. Vane, you have heard your mother speak of Douglas Gerant, have you not?"

Miss Charteris puckered her brow. "I don't remember his name," she replied. "Who is he?"

"Your mother's cousin—surely she must have spoken of him!"

"I have heard of Eustace Gerant," Miss Charteris answered, "but he is dead."

"This is his brother. He, too, might have been dead for all that we have seen or heard of him. He was a ne'er-do-well, an utter scamp."

"But with great good in him," added the squire, warmly "I know you did not think so, Constance, but Douglas always had a fine, generous nature."

"It was well hidden, then," his wife retorted coldly. "I never had much sympathy with him, and I have lost to the world, as he has been, and I have a magnificent inheritance wasting and neglected when there are others who would prize it."

"Is this the long-lost cousin who owns Beecham Park?" asked Vane, with sudden interest. "Oh, then I have heard of him, of course!"

"He came into the property ten years ago," Stuart explained, "and he has not come home till now. I must confess I always had a strong sympathy for this unknown cousin. What a strange life he has been! I am tempted to envy him the wonders he must have seen."

"I am surprised you should speak like that, Stuart," said his mother, coldly. "I cannot understand any man of principle putting aside his duties for his inclinations."

Miss Charteris looked bored.

"Is he married?" she asked, languidly.

"No, no, my dear," answered Mrs. Crosbie, quickly; "by some marvelous chance he has escaped matrimony. I always expected to hear of a low-born wife; but he appears to have a little of the Gerant pride within him, and has spared us that humiliation."

"Then he has no heir?" Vane observed.

Mrs. Crosbie did not reply immediately, but Miss Charteris saw her handsome eyes wander to Stuart's face and rest there.

"He has the power of willing Beecham Park," Mrs. Crosbie remarked; and the squire broke in with his quiet, monotonous voice:

THE HERO.
I like a hero in a story, a man of character and a brain, who winds up in a blaze of glory, while villains plot his fall in vain, who wades through tragic scenes and glory, to wed the girl, Eliza Jane. The last few books I have been reading are full of cheap, unpleasant knives; conventions of the past unheeding, they jog along to fire-sale graves; and none of them shows any breeding, and none like Ivanhoe behave. Their souls are bared for our inspection, but they are thimble souls at best; they fill with sorrow and dejection the gentle reader's troubled breast. These modern authors need correction," he sighs, "they leave my heart depressed. They've borrowed from the Russian writers the trick of painting squalid woe; with desolate and godless blighters through all the slums and stews they go; they spring no blithe heroic fighters as Scott and Dumas used to show. There's nothing healthy in their pages, there's naught to stimulate or charm; there is no hero who engages the villain with his strong sword arm, who in the end draws virtue's wages, and takes Eliza to the farm. Where all are base and cheap and vicious, an old time hero, brave and true, if smuggled in, would seem delicious, the contrast would improve the view; I wish these writing men would dish us a stainless Bayard knight or two."

To use mutton fat in cooking combine two parts of it with one part of any soft cooking fat.
In a recipe for cocoonant macaroons substitute toasted bread crumbs for the grated cocconut.
Many people prefer codliver when it is steamed and served with melted butter or a cream sauce.

COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS
Pains and Headaches Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Dublin, Ontario.—"I was weak and irregular, with pains and headaches, and could not sleep nights. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by reading the letters in the newspapers and tried it because I wanted to get better. I have got good results from it as I feel a lot stronger and am not troubled with such bad headaches as I used to be and am more regular. I am gaining in weight all the time and I tell my friends what kind of medicine I am taking. You may use my letter as a help to others."—Mrs. JAMES RACHO, Box 12, Dublin, Ontario.

Halifax Nurse Recommends
Halifax, N. S.—"I am a maternity nurse and have recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to many women who were childless, also to women who used a good tonic. I am English and my husband is American, and he told me of Lydia E. Pinkham while in England. I would appreciate a copy or two of your little books on women's ailments. I have one which I keep to hand. I will willingly answer letters from any woman asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. S. M. COLEMAN, 24 Unisack St., Halifax, Nova Scotia.

All communications should be addressed to The Evening Telegram, Ltd., and not to individuals.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Saturday, January 24, 1925.

A LIGHT TO SHINE OUT OF DARKNESS.

The fire which laid the Methodist College in ruins on Monday last has been referred to as a disaster, and a disaster it was without a doubt to the Methodist body in particular and to the community in general.

The fire which brought destruction in its wake kindled at the same time a train of thought in the minds of many, which, if by God's grace it may lead to practical results, will turn the disaster into the greatest blessing that could befall this country.

We refer to it as a grave issue, not because of the difficulties that have to be overcome, but because of the responsibility which will be ours of perpetuating a faulty system by failing to avail of the opportunity when it was within our power to discard it.

Few will deny that the educational system as it applies to the whole country leaves much to be desired, but even our most outspoken critics will readily admit that the failure of the system has not been due to lack of effort on the part of the different denominations or even to parsimony, and in these days at least, the wretched educational facilities cannot be said to reflect indifference on the part of the community to the value of education.

Glance for a space back over the most momentous event which occurred in our own lifetime, the Great War. Year after year Britain and her gallant allies hurled themselves without counting the cost against a foe which presented a solid front.

The position in St. John's to-day is practically analogous to that which existed on the western front, and if the various educational bodies will take the lead in uniting forces now, it will not be long before the same system is applied throughout the Island and we shall have triumphed over our greatest weakness.

Methodist College is a heap of ruins and must be replaced at all costs by a larger and more modern building. Bishop Feild College has outlived its usefulness as a building, and in a short time a new school must be built to meet the needs of the present day.

Chief among the considerations bearing on this issue is the question of elementary education. There are centrally situated Colleges in the city, but the East and West Ends are under a great disadvantage in the way of educational facilities.

There are too many aspects of this important question to enable one in a separate article to deal with them fully, but we trust that what has been said here and elsewhere will sufficiently intensify the keen interest which is being taken to move to definite action those who have the matter of education closely at heart. The time for action is now, if ever, and it behooves us to seize the golden opportunity which is unlikely to come again in our time.

Science Musters Forces Along Path of Sun's Eclipse.

ANNETTE RICHARDS FOLLOWS Columbia University.

The morning of Saturday, January 24, will be a total eclipse of the sun visible in the eastern United States and Canada along a path which passes through Long Island, New York, and extends to the westward through the Rocky Mountains.

Visible At Nine. The hands of the clocks along St. Catherine Street, Montreal, will point to a little after 9 a.m. as the total darkness commences, a partial obscuring of the sun having started an hour earlier.

Food and tents into remote corners of the earth for a scant two minutes, it might be of solar observation. Gibraltar, Siam, Japan and West Africa have seen some of these excursions during the past fifty years.

It is astonishing that when such a free for all drama is staged for the benefit of one of the most populous regions of earth, scientists should ask for a cessation of work for the few precious moments during which it will last?

Obituary
JOHN H. DOYLE.
A highly respected resident of St. John's West, in the person of Mr. John H. Doyle, passed away at his residence, Brien St., last evening after a brief illness. The deceased, a native of Dublin, Ireland, who had reached the advanced age of 80 years, was active up to a short while ago, and enjoyed excellent health during his long career. A devout Catholic, he was always prominently identified with St. Patrick's Parish and took an active interest in all matters connected with the church. For some years he was Superintendent of the Catholic Classes and President of the Christian Doctrine Society, of which he was later made Honorary President when advancing age prevented his further active service. The late Mr. Doyle came out from Ireland to enter the employ of the Newfoundland Boot & Shoe Company shortly after it was established and remained there until a few years ago when he entered the Customs service. Later, until a year ago, he was transshipping clerk at Harvey & Company's premises. A man of splendid character he was respected by all and his many friends will learn of his passing with deep regret. He leaves to mourn one son, John, Deputy Registrar General, and four daughters, Mrs. P. J. Casey, Rev. Mother Agnes, Superioress of the Convent, St. George's, and Misses Mary and Monica at home. The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30.

O'NEILL—McGRATH.
St. Patrick's Church, on Wednesday, Jan. 21st, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Annie, daughter of the late Andrew O'Neill (Cabbman) and Thomas F. McGrath, (Trader), of Patrick's Cove, P.B., were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Fr. Sheahan. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Bride O'Neill, and the groom by M. A. Shea. After the marriage service was performed, the party proceeded to the home of the bride's mother, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of, after which dancing was indulged in until an early hour next morning. The newly married couple were the recipients of very many and valuable presents. They will leave on Monday's train for Placentia Bay, where the honeymoon will be spent. We wish Mr. and Mrs. McGrath many years of wedded happiness.

Notes on Votes

Suffragists of the present day have demands as urgent and as important for the community as the American suffragists of 1840 on their anti-slavery campaign.

In striving for the emancipation of the negro the early suffragists found how vital it was that they themselves should be emancipated; and to-day the aftermath of war has awakened women all over the world to the fact that they are powerless to fulfill their responsibilities without the aid of the vote.

Communism—emanating from Russia—is the most insidious evil, perhaps, that the world has ever known. Its emissaries find their way into all industrial and professional centres and unions, stirring up discord, causing strikes and inciting to revolution. It is rife in schools and colleges, and consists of teaching even little children all that is vile, all that is criminal, and all that is blasphemous.

During the recent elections in Great Britain it was found that Communism had undue influence on the Labour Party, and it is this that caused the women's vote to swing against Labour, some newspapers plainly stating that "the women saved the country."

Women all over the world must have the vote if Communism is to be crushed. Not so much are women asking for their own liberation as for the right to help; and their demands are for the home, the children, the health of the community and its welfare, moral and physical. Their demands are put forward because the whole community—men as well as women and children—suffer, while the old injustices continue.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT.

Newfoundland Contingent,
47 Victoria Street,
London, S.W.1,
13th November, 1924.

DEAR COMRADE SECRETARY AND COMRADES:

The time has now come for our General Meeting and Annual Report. I am sorry I am unable to be with you on the occasion, but you must take the will for the deed.

The past year has been a big one for the ex-service men of Newfoundland. The monster Meeting held in the Star Theatre showed to the people of St. John's the material of which the Association is made. It also made the ex-service men realize the power they are capable of exerting on public questions concerning the welfare of our Colony.

During the past year was also held the first Dominion Conference of Ex-service Men. This is a step upwards in organization and is capable of development. The many matters arising from this Conference have been somewhat overshadowed by the Memorial and by Veterans' Week, but when the resolutions then passed will have been put through, veterans will regard this Conference second only to the formation of the Association.

Then came the raising of funds to cover the expenses of Veterans' Week. This was a long and arduous task which took a lot of time from Association matters, but which at the same time was necessary for the proper reception of our distinguished guests.

In April a visit was paid to our "Cent per Cent Branch" at Grand Falls, which is an example to other centres through the Island.

Dear Lake was also visited with the intention of forming a branch there, but owing to delays and uncertainties in Spring communication, we had to return to St. John's without doing so.

A visit was also paid to Bell Island, our "Number One Branch," which had fallen from its once flourishing state into chaotic conditions. This branch was reformed and I think with the present officers and the enthusiasm displayed that they will give Grand Falls a fight for the honour of premier branch.

Then came the erection of our National War Memorial and the other improvements on the King's Beach. This involved daily attention and supervision of work from the time the first blast was fired until the last stone was placed in position. In the successful completion of this task the Association has fulfilled one of the aims for which it was founded, and when all other activities of the Association have ceased, and the last Veteran has been laid to rest, your Memorial will stand to future generations as a reminder of the greatest period in our history, and the men who made that period famous. I hope the City Council will complete the grading, etc., and put the hill in good condition as promised. The Dedication Tablet is now in course of preparation.

There is just one other matter in connection with our National War Memorial I hope to be in a position to have a tablet placed in the floor of the plateau commemorating Sir Humphrey Gilbert and the planting of the first British Flag Overseas.

The Unveiling of the Memorial by Field Marshal Earl Haig was a "red letter day" for Newfoundland War Veterans, as a matter of fact it was a "red letter week" and will be remembered for many years to come. All the arrangements went according to plan without a hitch. The outstanding feature of the week was the magnificent parade which gave St. John's an idea of the strength and unity of our Association.

The Financial Statement of Veterans' Week has been published, which shows that we accomplished, much to the astonishment of many, the work we set ourselves early in the year of paying our own way and showing Newfoundland a good example. The balance of $450.91 paid into G.W.V.A. Current Account does not represent all our profits as we paid three hundred dollars on account of "Veteran" Magazine, and about another three hundred was paid on office and building improvements, furniture, etc.

making a total of about one thousand dollars profit to the Association.

But although much has been accomplished during the year much remains to be done.

We have to drive home our resolutions dealing with the purification of public life.

We must see that our pensioners get the benefit of pension amendments.

We must see that our disabled get proper hospital treatment.

We must keep fighting to have the promises of every Government since 1914, that ex-service men shall be given first call on Civil Service Jobs, fulfilled. Had I remained in Newfoundland I should have given my whole attention to this matter because I believe that with proper organization and backing the G.W.V.A. can absolutely force those responsible for the filling of Civil Service Jobs to give ex-service men the preference.

But the task which I am most sorry to leave undone is the organization of an Island-wide Women's Auxiliary. Ever since the Boys came home there has been a small band of zealous workers who on all occasions gave to the Association their very best. With these women at the head of an association of mothers, sisters, wives, daughters and sympathizers of ex-service men, the Association will double its strength and our disabled and crippled and hospital patients will get the proper care that is their due.

The Association has had many events to be congratulated upon during the year, but it has also had a tragedy in which we had the sympathy of all—the frightful accident which befell our faithful Secretary, Capt. Gerald Whitty, and a member of our Association, Lieut. William King. Both were War Veterans of the true type. Men who gave their time and service, even at the expense of personal comfort, to the cause. But Capt. Whitty, as Secretary of the Association, will be particularly missed as the experience he had gained during his years of office, coupled with his untiring energy and versatile ability, made him a valuable asset to the Association and to ex-service men.

In retiring from the office you were generous enough to honour me with, I wish to thank each and every member of the Association, particularly the members of the Dominion Executive and the Delegates to the Dominion Conference, for their loyal help and co-operation during the past year, and I assure each and every one that it at any time I am in a position to do the Association or any individual member of it a good turn, I am at your service.

With best wishes and fraternal greetings to one and all, I remain, Yours sincerely,
T. NANGLE.

MEMBERSHIP.

The closing year shows an encouraging increase in membership, and while this is indeed gratifying there are yet many ex-Service men whose support is needed to give additional strength to the Association.

The G.W.V.A. is a recognized factor which makes for the welfare of ex-Service men and it is a duty owed by every ex-Soldier and Sailor of the country to give his unstinted support to the cause, for only by continuous endeavour and close co-operation can success be attained. It is hoped that those who are not members will join up and help to keep the Association in the proud and distinctive position which it has won.

G.W.V.A. RELIEF FUND.

The G.W.V.A. Relief Fund has been instrumental in alleviating a considerable amount of distress existing among ex-Service men during the past year, a total of 457 grocery orders and 247 coal orders were issued and in some cases rent paid when eviction was threatened.

While it is unfortunate that any ex-Service man should be reduced to needy conditions, yet we are faced with occasions when the families of men who have fought their country's battles become destitute and the Poppy Day Fund organized for that purpose has rendered excellent service, quietly and effectively.

The response of the public to this Fund is exceptional and the Committee which handles the Fund is deserving of great praise for the splendid self-sacrifice evinced in the gratuitous work performed by them.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY-TREASURER, 1924.

MR. VICE-PRESIDENT AND COMRADES:

In presenting this my first report as Secretary-Treasurer, I am reminded in a thorough way of the importance attached to the office with which you have honoured me, and I take this opportunity of thanking you and assuring that my utmost will be given in the work of this Association during my tenure of office.

The magnitude of the work accomplished by the late Secretary, Capt. G. J. Whitty, whose worth to this Association was invaluable, will always be remembered, and his name will go down through the years which are to come as one who had been a true comrade and "real friend" of ex-service men in the deepest sense.

The period under review has been marked with increased progress and has witnessed important events centering around "Haig Week," which have done much to draw the G.W.V.A. into the foreground of publicity, both locally and throughout the Empire.

The large increase in membership shows that enthusiasm is on the upward trend and the ground which we have gained must be held at all costs, for although much has been done, yet there is much in the future to be accomplished, and the Great War Veterans' Association can be a productive of immense good in the interests of ex-service men and to the country generally.

VETERAN MAGAZINE.

The "Veteran," official organ of the G.W.V.A., has been acknowledged as the Premier Magazine of Newfoundland and has reached a position in literary circles which every ex-Service man should feel proud of.

It deserves the hearty support of all Veterans and the special rate of 50c. to members should prove an inducement and result in every member becoming a subscriber.

The Magazine contains many excellent cuts and much reading matter reminiscent of past days which must be of interest to ex-service men.

ORGANIZATION.

The first Dominion Conference held in May, 1924, was extremely successful, bringing together representatives from many parts of the country to discuss in common matters pertaining to the welfare of the Association, and the results have been far-reaching and beneficial in consequence.

The various Branches have been active throughout and several requests have been received at Headquarters relative to the organizing of new Branches, which is very encouraging.

The matter of increasing the number of members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, of which Miss May Furlong is President, has been favourably discussed, and it is hoped that the near future will see the activities of this important body extended throughout the country.

CIVIL SERVICE APPOINTMENTS.

Much dissatisfaction still exists over the matter of Civil Service appointments as affecting ex-Service men, and the Conference vigorously took up the question with a view to securing the attitude of the Government on this particular point. The Spring Elections and the resultant Bye-Election rendered matters somewhat unsettled, and coupled with the immensity of the work surrounding the "Haig Week" celebrations, occasioned unavoidable delay.

However, a Committee is now actively engaged on the matter, and the case will be presented to the Executive Government in the near future, asking for favourable recognition for ex-Service men applying for positions in the Civil Service, all things being equal.

REMEMBRANCE DAY.

Splendid success was realized during the Remembrance Day campaign of 1924 which results closely compared with those of 1923.

The Flanders Poppies have become interwoven into the lives of our people whose generous response to this appeal is highly commendable.

To all the ladies and gentlemen in every part of the Dominion whose efforts contributed to the success of the campaign the grateful appreciation of the Association is extended on behalf of the recipients of its Relief Fund. Particularly Mrs. W. B. Fraser, City Organizer, and her band of lady helpers, whose untiring efforts in connection with Poppy Day merits highest praise.

November 11th, was fittingly observed.

The Dominion Executive together with a large number of ex-Service men met at the National War Memorial where H. E. the Governor made the following appropriate speech:

"Comrades, attention! We have assembled here to-day to pay a tribute to those our Gallant Comrades, whom this Memorial commemorates. We renew afresh our pledge to continue unceasingly the struggle of Right against Might and to protect the fatherless children, widows and aged parents of the men who gave their all for God, King and Country. May we as Veterans and citizens be fully charged with the sense of our duties and responsibilities and ever strive to lift high the torch lit by our Comrades who, in a true spirit of self-sacrifice, passed out of this life through the gateway of duty, and are calling to us to keep faith with them. May each one of us carry forth from this Memorial a solemn realization of what Remembrance Day means and may our lives be devoted to the cause which so many died to uphold. I call upon you all to stand with bowed head for the space of two minutes out of love and respect of those who have answered the Roll Call."

The usual two minutes silence was then observed.

His Excellency then laid a wreath on the monument, after which other wreaths were placed there by the Veterans, Ladies' Auxiliary and other citizens.

ADJUSTMENT SERVICE.

During the past year the G.W.V.A. has taken every opportunity of helping ex-Service men and dependents in having claims for Pension, Separation Allowance, Prize Money, War Medals, Long Service Gratuity and various other requests adjusted.

The success attending the efforts of the Association in a large number of cases is a matter of satisfaction to it.

SOLICITOR.

The G.W.V.A. again places on record its highest appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. J. G. Higgins in the capacity of Hon. Solicitor.

Mr. Higgins is a past President of the Association and has at all times given valued assistance for which the Association is extremely grateful.

FOUNDER AND FIRST HONORARY PRESIDENT.

A true friend of the Association is Mr. Harold Mitchell, Founder and Honorary President, whose deep interest in its welfare is paramount.

Although not now actively engaged in any official capacity, he has constantly maintained a lively interest in matters affecting the Organization and a deep debt of gratitude is extended for the many favours which have been forthcoming.

LADIES' AUXILIARY.

The G.W.V.A. is extremely grateful to the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary whose strenuous work in the interests of ex-Service men is invaluable.

The keen interest manifested by these ladies in the welfare of the Association is worthy of the highest appreciation.

The activities of the Ladies' Auxiliary comprised organizing Remembrance Day, catering G.W.V.A. Dances and attending to Sports Day, etc., included on its personnel are:—Miss May Furlong, Mrs. McKeen, Mrs. W. B. Fraser, Mrs. Harold Mitchell and many other prominent workers.

SERGEANTS' MEMORIAL.

It is praiseworthy to note that a sufficient amount of money has been raised to place a railing and standard lights around this splendid Memorial and that a Committee appointed from the Sergeants' Mess are at present negotiating with the manufacturer of suitable railing which will be placed in a position in the near future.

A beautiful wreath was laid on the Memorial on November 11th, by members of the Sergeants' Mess.

WOMEN'S PATRIOTIC TRUST FUND.

This splendid organization is carrying on its work helping the children of needy ex-Service men who so desire it with educational facilities.

It is understood that an effort is being made to have the Act governing the Fund amended so that children may obtain further benefits than was possible heretofore.

PRIZE MONEY.

It is ascertained that a number of Reservists have not yet made application for Prize Money. All who have not received the same should make application immediately to Major Howley, care of the General Post Office.

R.N.R. MEDALS.

It is understood that a number of medals are still on hand for distribution to Royal Naval Reservists.

Application should be made direct to Major Howley, care of the General Post Office.

PENSIONS.

There are quite a number of cases where ex-Service men are suffering from Tuberculosis and who are not eligible for pension as the Ruling laid down by Section 13, Cap. 13 Geo. V. of the War Pensions Act, limits the time of application for pension to three years from date of discharge.

However, the Sub-Committee appointed at the Dominion Conference to consider this matter, recommended that the date of application should be amended to seven years from date of discharge.

We understand that following representation which was made on the above matter, the Executive Government will deal with the same and it is anticipated that very early in the New Year (1925) the matter will be decided.

R. N. R. PENSIONS.

The system of awarding pensions to R. N. Reservists by the Imperial Authorities has, we understand, been re-organized within the last few years and it is our opinion that all Reservists who have applied for pension previously and were turned down would do no harm in forwarding through this Association another application giving all details and where possible a certificate of present medical condition.

ARMISTICE DANCE.

The Annual Armistice Dance held in the Gaiety Hall was a splendid success, the net receipts realized being exceptional. The strenuous efforts of Mrs. McKeen who was responsible for the catering and the efforts of her co-workers were in the main responsible for the large measure of success attained and the Association extended hearty thanks.

The following Regular Meetings were held:—

CONCLUSION.

The spirit of self-sacrifice which inspires the membership of the G. W. V. A., is an essential factor in its well being and in order to live up to the high ideals of the Association it behoves each and every member to do all possible which makes for the advancement of the Organization.

The individual benefit is not a concern as much as the satisfactory feeling which comes with the realization that one's best has been done and we owe to those who are unable to protect themselves a duty which must be never forgotten. To be a paid up member and to take a lively interest in the G. W. V. A., should be the aim of every ex-Service man of Newfoundland for only by close co-operation can we hope to succeed.

Respectfully submitted,
H. W. QUINTON,
Dominion Secretary-Treasurer.

Little Jack Rabbit

By DAVID CORY.

"Oh, when you hear unpleasant news it makes you tremble in your shoes; just think, if you were in a sleigh A-riding down a forest way, To hear that dreadful Danny Fox Was sneaking 'round in his tiptoe box."

Well, that's just what happened at the end of yesterday's story, only there was no more space to mention it. Yes, sir, when Billy Breeze whispered to the little rabbit that Danny Fox was around the bunny boy began to tremble. And when Lady Love, his pretty bunny mother saw him shiver she knew that the old fox was nearby. Of course she did, for at that very instant Billy Breeze blew the smell of that old robber's fur coat right in the frightened lady rabbit's pretty pink nose.

"Oh dear, oh dear," cried the bunny boy right out loud. "Danny Fox is around, pretty near, not so very far." "What!" exclaimed the Old Brown Horse, turning about as fast as he dared so as not to overturn the sleigh. "I'll gallop home with you," and away he went, trotting, galloping, galloping. But, oh dear! He had gone but a little way when the little rabbit, on looking back, saw that dreadful old fox coming after them, a big gunny sack over his shoulder and a heavy stick in his right paw.

But, oh dear! again. Although the Old Brown Horse made his feet fly, the sleigh was heavy and the snow deep. Danny Fox had nothing to drag along. All he had to do was to follow the narrow path which the runners of the sleigh had made in the snow. Nearer and nearer he came, while the two little bunnies peeped back over the top of the sleigh, their poor pink noses twinkling with fright just like two stars on a frosty night.

"Can't you go faster," cried the bunny boy to the Old Brown Horse.

"I'll try," canted the breathless old steed. But, oh dear! he couldn't—I mean, he couldn't go faster. In fact he went slower, for by this time he was all tired out. The next minute he stopped, just like that, bump! And throwing out his left hind leg, high above the dashboard, he let fly a big hard piece of snow that had become caked into a snowball right inside his iron shoe. Whack! It hit old Danny Fox squarely on the nose, filling his eyes with tears. Then off started the

That dreadful old Fox coming after them.

Old Brown Horse as fast as he could, and maybe faster, but how he ever had the strength to keep it up is more than I know.

Sitting down in the snow, Danny Fox pulled his handkerchief out of his pocket and wiped his eyes and then his nose and mumbled something, goodness knows. If I did I wouldn't repeat it. No streets. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Installing Officer Bro. Geo. T. Phillips and his assistants, P. G.'s Bro. G. G. Phillips and W. G. Pippy, arrived here on last Tuesday's express and immediately after proceeded with the installation of the officers of Caribou Lodge, No. 148, which were as follows:—

- N.G.—Bro. Len Mills.
- V.G.—W. G. Tilley.
- R.S.—Bro. A. C. Pittman.

- R.S.V.G.—
- L.S.V.G.—
- R.S.S.—Bro. Absalom King.
- L.S.S.—Bro. George Pitcher.
- Chaplain—Bro. Chas. Ivany.

The proceedings ended, some of the newly installed officers addressed the meeting and pledged their loyalty to the Order, as well as predicting a very successful year for Caribou. The D.D.G.M. and his party also addressed us and congratulated the new officers. On the following evening a banquet was held in honour of our official visitors, and after everyone had done justice to the variety of good things provided, the following toast list was taken up:—

- "The King"—God Save the King.
- "Our Country"—Pro. D.D.G.M.; resp. Rev. Isaac Davis.
- "Our Order"—Prop. Bro. Wm. Pittman; resp. D.D.G.M. Phillips.

- Reclation—Bro. W. G. Pippy.
- "The Chairman"—Prop. G. G. Phillips, P.G.; resp. Chairman, L. Mills.
- "Our Guests"—Prop. W. G. Tilley, V.G.; resp. Rev. Isaac Davis.

At intervals during the evening we were charmed with the "concord of sweet sounds" so beautifully executed (not a pun) by the Rustic Jazz Band under the unique management of Prof. G. G. Phillips, assisted by Povey. No wonder Moore wrote:—
"And music to, dear music, that can touch Beyond all else the soul that loves it much."
We were all touched. Our thanks Professor.

Recording Secretary.

ON FOOLISH SIMILES.

I am making a collection. I think everyone ought to collect something all the time because that's one more interest in life, one more thing to keep you from being bored. And if not being bored isn't just about the biggest ingredient in happiness, I'd like to know what is. Maybe you will be willing to contribute to my collection?

Don't be alarmed. Your pocketbook is safe. It's your memory storehouse that I'm asking to tap.

I'm making a collection of comparisons in use in ordinary language which apparently have no basis in reason.

Here are some of them. Why do we say:

But Why Like A Dog?

"He works like a dog." And why is a dog's life synonymous for a deadly one? Of all the animals we know there is none that leads a more carefree life than the ordinary dog? The author in a story of a man who owned an obstreperous puppy and spent much time apologizing to the neighbors for pajamas removed from their clothes lines and trying to soothe motor cyclists who had had pieces removed from their legs, observes that a dog's life must refer to the life led by the man who owns the dog. We might with reason say "works like a horse" or a "horse's life." But why select the gayest, most carefree gambler of all our domestic animals as the symbol of hard work?

True, I know that the dog has had

The Windy Mouth Of May.

"Calm as a May morning" is another simile that seems to me to be rather poorly conceived. Of course there are calm May mornings. But wind and spring are apt to go hand in hand, and I suspect that weather statistics would suggest the substitution of some other month. . . . Of course one does not know in what part of the country the person who coined that phrase lived. But I doubt if he lived in my part.

These are some of my collections of thoughtless similes. Have you any to contribute?

Our Doctor is kept at it.

Good Doc! Beside an epidemic of early colds, accompanied in several cases by pneumonia, there has been another outbreak of scarlet fever. This is especially trying at this season of the year.

The woodmen are going it "two-forty." In spite of our largely decreased earning power there is a good demand for "birch" and spruce sticks, and a strong demand for dry wood for kindling purposes. ### Spray From Heart's Content

Heart's Content lying open to the North has felt the full force of Nature's icy blasts the past week. The year of frozen water pipes has led some folks to remove the "washer," others have opened out their faucets to the full. This policy of self first and Jack Frost take the furthestmost has placed the house on the hill on the dry list.

A subject of keen discussion by the "night shift" is "if we don't soon get a better supply of 'soft sunshine' still we be justified in taking to hard moon-shine?" Rumor says there's a "stall" way towards the East. Perhaps the discussion arose out of the issuance of an appeal by authority to those on the water supply line to conserve the water so as to give all hands a chance. It is recommended that a tiny nickle of one-eighth of an inch cross section will prevent freezing. No! stree, we ain't in the habit of taking our drinks in trickles. Our syphons were made on a bigger mould than 1/8 of an inch, cross section. Ordinary bottle size is ours.

Sunday, the 18th inst., was this season's limit for cold. The big church of St. Mary on the Hill got its full share of Jack Frost's givings out. The Little Methodist church facing the harbour's mouth apparently got more than its share. Friend Winon, the cheery agent of the U. T. Electric Co. who visited the big church on the hill was seen to remove his overcoat. Bowring's Hardware Dept., set up and take notice. Here's a fine ad. for your line of Calorific Pipeless Furnaces—a real warm testimonial.

The Angel of Death has touched four Heart's Content families since Christmas. A large section of the community has been affected by the passing of A. M. Young, Mrs. A. Rabbits, E. Taylor and Mrs. Philemon Legge. The whole community is poorer for their deaths for they will be missed outside their own immediate family circle.

Our Doctor is kept at it. Good Doc! Beside an epidemic of early colds, accompanied in several cases by pneumonia, there has been another outbreak of scarlet fever. This is especially trying at this season of the year.

Exploit of a Motor Bandit

"BRIXTON CHARLIE'S" DESPERATE VENTURE—WILD DASH FROM CHESTER TO CARDIFF—£4,000 NECKLACE HAIL.

(Liverpool Weekly Post.)

By "FIDDLER" MOORE.

FOREWORD.

In this thrilling series of articles, a well-known crime journalist, who has paid close attention to what is a new and increasing form of crime, relates the confessions he received personally from a man who, for some time, was associated with a gang of motor-car criminals.

A Big Coup in Wales.

It was in a stolen car of a well-known make that "Brixton Charlie," leader of the gang, and three other confederates set out one April morning on the road to Chester, ostensibly bound for the races. The real destination was Cardiff, from whence "Brixton Charlie" had but recently returned after selecting a shop offering excellent plunder to thieves.

Disaster nearly overtook the party from the start. After an early morning departure from London, it was late in the evening when they drove into the city of Chester. As the race meeting was in progress the party had little to fear from the local police. In fact two very much wanted men smilingly obeyed the hand signals of the white-gloved constables. It was "Brixton Charlie," who decided to take no risks, however, and his confederates were relieved when he announced that he proposed to strike off in the direction of Liangollen and spend the night in the car in the mountains just beyond.

A good stock of provisions and two bottles of brandy was carried in the car from London, so that there was little danger of going hungry. One of the party, however, had different views on the matter of food, and whilst they stopped for a few moments the other side of Wrexham he disappeared in the darkness. Ten minutes later the missing one returned, with two plump chickens under each arm, and seemingly quite proud of his success as a fowl run thief. The leader soundly rated him for his folly in running unnecessary risks, and alarmed everybody by stating that trouble would come of it.

The Twinkling Light.

In this respect he proved to be right for an hour later, after the party had run the car off the road on to a mountain pass some three miles from Liangollen, and were just about to settle down for the night, they noticed a bicycle lamp coming in their direction. As there was no outlet to the path selected it soon became clear that the rider of the machine must be a policeman.

The small twinkling light came nearer and nearer, until it was less than a hundred yards away from where the car had been sidetracked. The stranger was walking and wheeling his machine, and seemed to be approaching warily.

After a whispered consultation, "Brixton-Charlie" decided to go out and meet the intruder, and with this object in view he set off. Presently his confederates heard him whistling a tune, and then the sound of his voice as he spoke to the man with the bicycle. A mumble of words floated down to them, but what the conversation was about they could only ima-

Eventually, to their great relief, they saw the light of the bicycle swing round, and knew that the machine had been turned about. Then it slowly disappeared and with it went "Brixton Charlie." After keeping awake an hour or more and debating as to what had happened to the chief of his party, he dropped off to sleep but had barely closed his eyes, when one of them felt a vigorous arm shaking him by the shoulder, and a familiar voice urging him to rouse. It was "Brixton Charlie." Addressing the chicken-thief he roundly abused him for landing the crowd into a plight which might have been serious, and which was now responsible for a hasty departure, in the pitch darkness. With that, he trouble the motor bandits regained the main road, and made their way at a breakneck speed to Liangollen, then to Wrexham on to Chester and, by a round-about journey, managed to set a good eighty miles between themselves and the scene of the fowl run theft. Helped by a P.C. Meanwhile "Brixton Charlie" had explained how he managed to mislead the policeman. By persuasive powers Charlie had convinced the officer that he was a tourist who had lost himself, and was escorted back to the main road by the kindly constable who accepted the bandit leader's word, that no motor-car was to be seen lower down the path. When the sun rose, the party stopped, and snatched a few hours sleep by the roadside. Cardiff had been reached early in the evening, and having dropped the leader at Roath, they proceeded slowly to an appointed meeting place in the centre of the busy town. At a corner of one of the principal streets "Brixton Charlie" rejoined them, and took a seat next to the man who was driving on the dickey. The instructions given to the confessor of these exploits had been simply, but firmly repeated for his edification many times since he had embarked on the trip. A heavy spanner and a loaded revolver were ready to hand. These he was only to use in case any person in pursuit might succeed in boarding the car after the "job" had been performed. The main task entrusted to him, however, was to be prepared to take the driving wheel in case anything happened to the short, beady-eyed individual who had hugged the steering-gear for most of the time since the departure from London. "To say I felt nervous," my confidant remarked, "is but to give a very inadequate idea of what was passing in my mind when "Brixton Charlie" dropped from the footboard of the still moving car, and darting across the pavement, stopped in front of the plate-glass window of a jeweller's shop. A sound of ringing glass followed the raising of Charlie's powerful right arm. Fascinated I saw him stop. In a flash he was erect again, and had wheeled round and springing after us regained the now fast-moving car in a breathless state." Snatched A Necklace. The short man at the wheel jabbed his foot on the accelerator until he had the motor moving along the street at a terrific pace. Shop people and vehicles were hardly distinguishable one from the other, so fast was the pace. "Brixton Charlie" lay on the floor of the car, his body doubled up in a remarkably small space for so tall a man. In his hand he clutched a diamond necklace which sparkled and flashed with every movement of the motor car. Conversation was carried on in jerks. Rufus, the third member of the party, who, like my confidant, had remained in the car ready to cope with any emergency, seemed fairly cool. He kept up a continual fire of shouts and exclamations. That some kind of pursuit was in progress was clear, but the driver dare not look round. Swaying and twisting in alarming fashion the car turned corners on three wheels. For what seemed an eternity the mad flight continued. Once the party missed a tramway car by inches. Half an hour seemed an age to the bandits, but by this time they were out in the open country. Here they stopped and removed the cloth with which the number plate had been hidden by Rufus at the same time that "Brixton Charlie" had dropped on to attack the jeweller's shop window. A brief halt was followed by a round

Don't Be "Chained" to the Medicine Bottle Any Longer

AWAY WITH DRUGS.

Life-Giving ELECTRICITY Will Restore Your Shattered Nerves

And Free You From Aches and Ills.

If all the medicine in the world were cast into the sea, said a very distinguished Physician and noted Author, "it would be a blessing to mankind and a bad thing for the fish."

The faith of the ailing in drugs and medicinal concoctions would be amusing if it were not tragic. They take calomel and other drugs to "whip up" a lazy liver, salts to make a weak stomach weaker, narcotics to stupefy, and stimulants to excite already irritated and enfeebled nerves. Momentary relief can thus be obtained, but at what a cost! Therein lies the danger.

SYMPTOMS—NATURE'S DANGER SIGNALS.

To attempt to suppress symptoms QUICKLY is a very different thing to curing an illness. It is most dangerous and may be even fatal, for symptoms are Nature's danger signals. The action of medicine in a sick body may be likened to the presence of a mad dog in a sick ward. It will excite and provoke certain liveliness for a time, but the reaction is inevitable and dangerously depressing.

To improve or increase the functional activity of an organ in this way is simply to increase the expenditure and consumption of that vital Nerve Force which is the Capital of Life and the motive and energising power of the whole Human Organism.

Food is the natural source of your Nerve Capital, and when the system is too weak to extract Nervous Energy from food it cannot obtain it from any medicine or drug. ELECTRICITY IS THEN THE ONLY SOURCE FROM WHICH YOU CAN OBTAIN NEW SUPPLIES OF THIS VITAL AND REVITALISING NERVOUS ENERGY WITHOUT INJURING OR WEAKENING THE ORGANISATION.

NERVOUS ENERGY SCIENTIFICALLY RESTORED.

That greatest of all modern Scientists and Nerve Specialists, Professor Loeb, says that in Electricity is to be found the only co-equivalent of Nervous Energy, and it is indeed the real Life-Force of the body. It is scarcely to be wondered at, therefore, that the employment of scientifically designed and connected electrical appliances is surely and rapidly supplanting the use of medicines and drugs in the treatment and cure of a vast number of ailments.

This change is well justified by the amazingly successful results by the use of the Ajax Dry Cell Body Battery in overcoming such familiar ailments as:

Indigestion, Constipation, Liver Sluggishness, Neurasthenia, Nervous Dyspepsia, Anaemia, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuritis, etc., etc., and even in such serious conditions of the Nervous System as St. Vitus' Dance, Locomotor Ataxia, and Paralysis.

ELECTRICITY SUPERSEDES DRUGS.

The functional well-being of every organ and system hinges on the condition of the nervous system—the Key System of your Body. Drugs are only employed to influence some specific organ or system—and a drug that will assist one organ or system will often "upset" others, just as a "cough mixture" frequently causes stomach disturbances and dyspepsia—the Ajax Battery, by pouring electric force into the central and sympathetic nervous system, diffuses and distributes new Nerve Force everywhere, thus proving both local and general in its benefits.

THE TRIUMPH OF "AJAX" BATTERIES.

In all our leading hospitals to-day Electrical Treatment plays a most important part in the conquest of illness and suffering, and it has become an essential feature in the curriculum of every medical student. The triumph of Electricity is complete, thanks mainly to the invention of such light, comfortable and effective electrical appliances as the Ajax Battery used in one's own home at will without interference with one's daily occupation.

INCREASES RESISTANT POWER TO ILL-HEALTH.

Don't remain chained to the old-fashioned medicine bottle any longer. There is no medicine or drug known to medical science that can add even a fractional portion to your stock and store of Nervous Energy. Electricity, alone, does and will.

It will secure you complete freedom from excruciating aches and pains; from the appalling and agonising errors of shattering cures by the misery, physical and mental functional troubles. It will banish that First Cause of Ill-Health—the presence of waste products and poisons in the blood. Thus relieved, the nourishment and nutrition of every tissue and of the blood is increased and improved, consequently natural cellular Resistant Power of the body, which is, as the late Professor Osler well put it, the first and last line of defence against all ailments.

RADICAL AND PERMANENT CURE.

The Ajax Battery reinforces these natural defences by revitalising and re-energising all the great centres that regulate and control the whole Mechanism of Life. The Ajax Battery grapples with illness in the body as a whole and effects a radical and permanent cure by getting rid once and for ever of the cause or causes of that illness, instead of "chasing" and suppressing what are called "symptoms." The functional well-being of every organ and system hinges on the condition of the nervous system—the Key System of your Body. Drugs are only employed to influence some specific organ or system—and a drug that will assist one organ or system will often "upset" others, just as a "cough mixture" frequently causes stomach disturbances and dyspepsia—the Ajax Battery, by pouring electric force into the central and sympathetic nervous system, diffuses and distributes new Nerve Force everywhere, thus proving both local and general in its benefits.

THE TRIUMPH OF "AJAX" BATTERIES.

In all our leading hospitals to-day Electrical Treatment plays a most important part in the conquest of illness and suffering, and it has become an essential feature in the curriculum of every medical student. The triumph of Electricity is complete, thanks mainly to the invention of such light, comfortable and effective electrical appliances as the Ajax Battery used in one's own home at will without interference with one's daily occupation.

INCREASES RESISTANT POWER TO ILL-HEALTH.

Don't remain chained to the old-fashioned medicine bottle any longer. There is no medicine or drug known to medical science that can add even a fractional portion to your stock and store of Nervous Energy. Electricity, alone, does and will.

It will secure you complete freedom from excruciating aches and pains; from the appalling and agonising errors of shattering cures by the misery, physical and mental functional troubles. It will banish that First Cause of Ill-Health—the presence of waste products and poisons in the blood. Thus relieved, the nourishment and nutrition of every tissue and of the blood is increased and improved, consequently natural cellular Resistant Power of the body, which is, as the late Professor Osler well put it, the first and last line of defence against all ailments.

RADICAL AND PERMANENT CURE.

The Ajax Battery reinforces these natural defences by revitalising and re-energising all the great centres that regulate and control the whole Mechanism of Life. The Ajax Battery grapples with illness in the body as a whole and effects a radical and permanent cure by getting rid once and for ever of the cause or causes of that illness, instead of "chasing" and suppressing what are called "symptoms." ### GIVEN INTERESTING REVIEW OF VISIT OF THE NEWFOUNDLAND DELEGATES TO CANADA.

(Concluded.)

Tuesday, December 23rd.—We had a lengthy conference with Mr. Robb at his office, when several matters were discussed and at noon we were entertained at luncheon at Government House by their Excellencies Lord and Lady Byng, Premier King and Hon. Mr. E. Lapointe, Minister of Justice and the latter's wife were also guests on this occasion.

It is unlikely that Lord Byng will be able to visit our Island this summer as he is booked for a lengthy trip in the west.

After the luncheon we accompanied Premier King to his offices in the east block of the Federal buildings, where he discussed with us, not alone the Boundary Question, but various matters of commercial interest to both countries. Our discussion occupied the whole afternoon, and at the close he showed us the Privy Council Chamber, or Cabinet Room, and explained the procedure under which the Cabinet business is disposed of.

That night he entertained us at dinner, where we met, besides the guests of the previous night, the Hon. W. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture and Hon. Hewitt Bostock, the Speaker of the Senate. Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Speaker of the House, could not be present as he had left to spend Christmas with his family at Quebec. This function of Mr. King's could not have been more enjoyable, for while it was an official function, in one sense, he stripped it of any semblance of formality, and made it delightfully informal and altogether social and friendly. He lives at Laurier House.

The mansion in one of the residential districts of Ottawa, which was built by Sir Wilfred Laurier in his will to the leader of the Liberal Party in Canada. It has recently been thoroughly gone over by Mr. King at a cost of $30,000 and makes a very handsome residence. He showed us all over it, from the street floor to the attic, and we had an opportunity to see his library and his most interesting collection of curios of every kind. One of his favorite authors was the late Norman Duncan, who wrote several stories of Newfoundland and through them and other works, Mr. King has acquired a great knowledge of the country than could be supposed.

Wednesday, Dec. 24th.—In the afternoon we finished our conversations with the different ministers, and in the afternoon left to return to St. John's. We made the run on time, though a snow storm was raging, and were back in our comfortable quarters in Mount Royal Hotel at eight o'clock. Sir Patrick McGrath had secured, through Senator Casgrain, two tickets for the midnight Mass at St. James' Cathedral, for himself and Mr. Higgins, but having contracted a severe cold, through which he lost his voice, he had to visit Dr. Birkett, a specialist, on reaching Montreal, and was forbidden to go out again, so we went instead and witnessed a most impressive ceremony carried out with great splendour in one of the largest Catholic Churches in the world which, despite this fact, was crowded to its utmost capacity.

Thursday, December 25th.—Spent Christmas Day quietly in the Hotel having some visitors and paying a few calls in the afternoon.

Friday, December 26th.—We had a conference in the morning with President Wolvin of Becco at his request in order to discuss the future operations of the Company, when he had before us a statement of the present position and future outlook, alone with regard to its ore mining operations in Newfoundland, but cool mining operations in Cape Breton and its smelting operations at Sydney. I need not go into this matter as it will be discussed in time in another place.

In the afternoon we took up with Premier Taschereau the matter of a second conference, the original idea being that we should visit Quebec, as he had invited us to do so but as he found he had to revisit Montreal on Monday, on other matters of urgent interest to his Province, he asked if we could hold the conference there and we agreed to this, fixing it for Monday afternoon and inviting him and the other members to lunch with us there at 1.30.

Saturday, December 27th.—We accepted an invitation from the Mount Royal Curling Club to lunch and play a picked team. We did so and defeated them by three points. I might say that all these luncheons were notably enjoyable affairs at which prominent members of Montreal's social life made apt addresses and expressed a feeling of pleasure at the opportunity of meeting fellow curlers from Newfoundland. Saturday night we saw another interesting hockey match, as the guests of Mr. Kenneth Dawes, President of one of the Clubs. The match, which was between the Montrealers and Canadians, ran until nearly 11 o'clock, and resulted in a draw.

Sunday, December 28th, was another exceedingly cold day, though not as cold as the previous Sunday, the thermometer dropping to 10 below, but as there was a high wind it was almost equally as uncomfortable. While at lunch we were called upon by Mr. J. Stadler, who invited us to be his guests at the New Year supper at the Hotel on New Year's Eve, a courtesy which we gladly accepted. He had followed by the express after us to spend Christmas with his family in Montreal, intending to return to Corner Brook sometime during next month.

Monday, December 29th.—The forenoon was spent preparing for the Conference, and it was held, as already stated, after lunch, and the outcome of which it is not possible to state here, further than to say that, as the Prime Minister has already announced, "a long step was made towards an understanding."

Tuesday, December 30th.—We were entertained to lunch at the St. James Club by Mr. W. B. Walker, the Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The company on this occasion being much the same as those at our previous luncheon there—merchant princes, and others interested directly or through their investments in this country and its development.

Wednesday, December 31st.—We were occupied in making ready for our departure, having decided to leave by the Ocean Limited at 7 o'clock on

New Year's evening. In the afternoon Mr. Higgins and I, through the courtesy of Senator Casgrain, were able to make a thorough inspection of the offices and warehouses of the Quebec Liquor Commission. At 10.30 Mr. Stadler with his party came to the hotel, and we entered the main dining room, where we had secured a table. This ushering in of the New Year was a big affair in all the Montreal Hotels. In our hotel there were 2,100 people taking part. They were disposed of in four rooms, the main dining room, and the Salle Doree, or Golden Room, on the main floor, and the Banquet Room and Ballroom on the top flat of the building, nine storeys up. There was a separate orchestra in each room and dancing, of course, and a separate staff of waiters served the meal. A very noticeable circumstance was the very few who showed any evidence of over-indulgence in liquor, and the good order which prevailed was to my judgment a striking evidence of the sanity of the present Quebec Liquor Law.

Thursday, January 1st.—We visited the Caledonian Curling Club at noon for a farewell luncheon. All the clubs have this function and many other organizations in Montreal. We had several invitations, but decided to accept this, as it was the first club that had invited us to play. Our health was so good, and we were so pleased to make, tople with good wishes for our safe return and expressing the hope of future meetings. To these we made suitable responses. In the afternoon we paid some visits and joined our train in due course.

Friday, January 2nd.—We were fortunate to make a good run from Montreal to Truro, reaching there on schedule time, 9 o'clock. There we had to wait one and a half hours before the train from Halifax, which would take us through to Sydney, arrived, and we utilized it to view the Truro Curling Club, as the rink was only two blocks from the station, and we saw a match that was then in progress.

At Truro, through the courtesy of the Canadian National Railway, the private car which took us from North Sydney, was again placed at our disposal for the run back, and we availed of it very gladly.

Saturday, January 3rd.—We had been invited by the Sydney Curlers to play a match with them if we had to wait during the day for the steamer, as ordinarily happens, so we continued on to Sydney in our car, and in the afternoon met a picked team and vanquished them by a score of 15 to 10. We were put up at the Guest House, maintained by the Besco, and remained there until 9 o'clock, having to dine with us the heads of the various departments of the steel plant. We motored round to North Sydney in the night, as the roads were almost bare of snow, and joined the Kyle, which left at midnight.

Sunday, January 4th.—We made a good run across Cabot Strait, doing it in eight hours to Port aux Basques, where a special train had been made up to carry us eastward, and also to bring along a very heavy mail. A very high wind was blowing when we arrived, and were not allowed to leave until noon, but having started we made a satisfactory run across country, arriving in St. John's at 8 o'clock on Monday evening.

I need only say in conclusion that apart from the business which brought us to Canada, I think I can honestly claim that the visit was a success in the way of improving relations between the two countries, giving the public men of each an opportunity to meet one another, and to understand one another's problems.

A Great Food—

Thousands pay tribute to the amazing results it has achieved

"My husband invented a new nickname for me: 'Frenzied Medicator.' Constipation had become chronic. So had the pernicious and easy habit of taking cathartics for relief. One evening my husband showed me the Fleischmann advertisement, simultaneously producing two silver-wrapped yeast cakes. 'At least this is food, not dope!'"

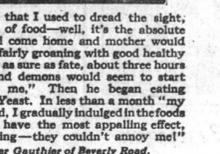

"To be obliging I promised to try it out. The yeast proved slower in action than my pet drastic drugs, but I soon discovered its superiority. In two months my internal economy was operating like a well-oiled motor. Today I am surprisingly regular, despite my mother's insistence that as constipation is 'inherited in our family,' I must expect to take medicine all my life! Two yeast sandwiches daily keep my 'health budget' down to six cents a day."

(Mrs. Lillian B. Pagnsey of Evanston, Ill.)

"A year ago I found me morose and irritable with a nervous, rundown body and an exceptionally bad complexion. One day while sitting at a soda fountain I read an ad for Fleischmann's Yeast and concluded to give it a trial. . . . Within a week I slept better, and everyone complimented me on my improved appearance. Today I am a picture of health, have a wonderful complexion, and everyone says I look five years younger."

(Miss Jane Branch of Houston, Texas)

"I am a graduate nurse. Back in 1911 while in charge of an operating room, I was afflicted with boils. I tried many remedies—still boils came, and I got run down and unable to carry on. Finally a physician told me to take Yeast. . . . That was twelve years ago, and I have never had a boil since. I have used Fleischmann's for hundreds of patients and for a number of different ailments. I am glad to say that twelve years have not dimmed my enthusiasm for Fleischmann's Yeast, or staled my appreciation of what it has done for me and for others in the course of my professional life."

(Miss Ann Batchelder of New York)

"It looked like hanging on to the pill wagon the rest of my days. One day while reading a story, I ran into an advertisement of Fleischmann's Yeast. Soon I was eating yeast and very soon I just automatically quit medicine. Directly my body began daily to free itself of poisons and waste in a very easy, natural, healthful way. Today, thanks to Fleischmann's Yeast, I am well, happy, and full of pep."

(Mrs. James H. Boyce of Memphis, Tenn.)

THESE remarkable reports are typical of thousands of similar tributes to Fleischmann's Yeast.

There is nothing mysterious about its action. It is not a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense. But when the body is choked with the poisons of constipation—or when its vitality is low so that skin, stomach, and general health are affected—this simple, natural food achieves literally amazing results.

Concentrated in every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast are millions of tiny yeast-plants, alive and active. At once they go to work—involving the whole system, clearing the skin, aiding digestion, strengthening the intestinal muscles and making them healthy and active.

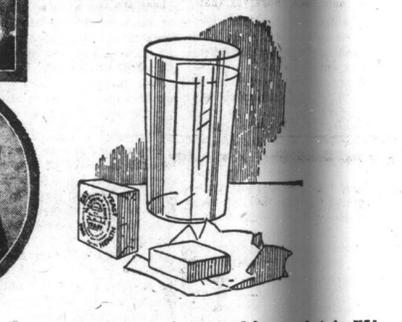

Dissolve one cake in a glass of water (just hot enough to drink) —before breakfast and at bedtime. Fleischmann's Yeast, when taken this way, is especially effective in overcoming or preventing constipation.

Or eat 2 or 3 cakes a day—spread on bread or crackers—dissolved in fruit juices or milk—or eat it plain.

Fleischmann's Yeast for Health comes only in the tinfoil package—it cannot be purchased in tablet form. All grocers have it. Start eating it today! You can order several cakes at a time, for yeast will keep fresh in a cool, dry place for two or three days.

Write us for further information or let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health.

Mr. Mackenzie King, the Prime Minister, and his colleagues were most gratified at our visit, because it was the first time in thirty years that any Newfoundland delegation had come there. During all the intervening period, we had been more or less estranged from each other, and they welcomed the opportunity to meet us officially and socially, and to close the gap that had existed in the meantime. Now that the ice has been broken, it is not improbable that in the future when questions of concern to both arise, the opportunity to visit one capital or the other will be availed of and although Newfoundland can still maintain her own autonomy and work out her own destiny, still great benefit will accrue through the closest friendship between ourselves and our big sister Dominion.

The final hockey game of the first league fixtures between the St. John's and Terra Novas teams, takes place in the rink on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Great interest is expected in the meeting of these two teams, because a loss for either will practically put them out of the running for the championship. A win for St. Bon's will place them on an equal footing with the Guards and Fellows. The line-ups for Monday's game will be as follows:—

TERA NOVAS—Goal, G. Field; defence, Peters and Gillie; forwards, Manning, J. Field, R. Clarke; subs, Barrett and Lockyer or M. Barr.

CLUB BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

A joint meeting of the C.E.I. and C.A. Billiard Committees was held last night in the C. E. I. Club rooms, when matters were proposed and discussed in connection with the annual billiard tournament. The committees decided to select twenty players from each club, and class them in two divisions. Class "A" to play 350 points, and Class "B" 250 points. The regular two rounds will commence in the M. G. C. A. on Monday night, Feb. 2nd. A silver cup, kindly donated by Hon. J. Lang, President of the C.E.I., and J. Wyatt, President of the M. G. C. A., will be competed for, therefore an interesting series of games can be expected to follow. The cup will be held on exhibition in a few days, the governing cup have been left to the donors to decide. These will be submitted to the committee next week, when they will again meet to draw up the fixtures. The forthcoming tournament is being looked forward to with great interest by the members of both clubs and the players are getting down to hard practice. Players competing for their respective clubs, are reminded that they can only practice on their own club tables. This was a decision which met with the popular approval of the committees.

"BEAU BRUMMEL" WITH JOHN BARRYMORE.

With mingled pride and pleasure the Nickel Theatre announces that the picture magnificent has arrived—"Beau Brummel" with John Barrymore will be screened on Monday.

Entitled to rank among the really great productions of the screen, "Beau Brummel," must be listed as a triumph not only for its celebrated star, John Barrymore, but for all concerned in its making. Since opening at the Strand Theatre, New York, that commodious house has been jammed to overflowing night and day. Judging by the enthusiastic reception given the picture, it seems destined to prove as big a commercial success as it is an artistic hit.

The costly settings, beautiful photography, dazzling costumes and glowing society life of the Georgian era combine to make this a de luxe attraction of gorgeous proportions. But fine a spectacle as it is, the real drawing power of "Beau Brummel" lies in the story's wistful pathos and the marvelous acting of John Barrymore.

Lavish backgrounds and brilliant accessories provided with utter disregard of expenses have frequently failed to achieve their purpose when associated with films where the human interest note was lacking. But here we have the colorful atmosphere and luxurious display, plus the warm outpouring of sympathy which carries away an audience on a veritable tidal wave of emotion.

At the beginning a mournful chord is struck, when the two young lovers are forced apart. Then the comedy current takes control, as the Beau, basking in the sunshine of royal favor, becomes the supreme arbiter of fashion, treats Prince, acquaintances and creditors with an air of languid, polite irony, reigns as society's recognized leader—and plays lightly with women's hearts while his own is breaking.

For despite the atmosphere of gaiety and humorous interludes, sorrow lurks behind it all, the secret sorrow of a man who smiles disdaintly on the world and hoards bitter memories within the temple of his soul. Only for fleeting instants does he drop the mask of indifference, and it is on these occasions that the superb art of John Barrymore asserts itself.

Preferred Dividends To Resume
The directors of Fisk Rubber Company have decided to resume the payment of dividends on the 7% preferred stock which has been suspended since the publication of the earnings statement three weeks ago. The dividend is $1.44 a share on the senior stock and $1.12 on the junior stock. No preferred dividends have been paid since May 1, 1921, and the suspension of back dividends now amounts to $24.50 a share.

During the period of the year on account of sustained high production bank borrowings steadily increased to a usual peak in May, it is estimated if any start is made at this time toward liquidation of the arrears, until late spring do loans begin to flow out and not until summer do holdings mount rapidly.

Her Trouble Started From a Bad Cold

ONTARIO LADY'S LITTLE DAUGHTER SUFFERED FROM HEAD-ACHES AND WAS RELIEVED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a kidney remedy and can be taken by young and old.

Williamstown, Ont., Jan. 23 (Special). We have a testimonial from Mrs. L. Stanley, a well-known resident of this place. She writes to us because she feels that she owes it to other mothers, who have children suffering from weak kidneys, to tell them the relief afforded her little girl. She states:—"I must write to you regarding your Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have been giving them to my child. She has been suffering from headaches, broken sleep, fitful appetite, and was always tired and nervous. I have found your pills very satisfactory and am going to keep on using them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have become a family remedy because people have tried them and found them good. They help Rheumatism, Lumbago, Lane Back, Heart Disease, Headaches and Urinary troubles, because all these are Kidney Diseases, or are caused by the Kidneys failing to do their work.

BIG PICTURES AND MUSICAL ACT MONDAY AFTERNOON AND NIGHT.

Jacobson and Evans have a new and an entirely clean bill for Monday afternoon and night, as will be seen by the following programme:—"Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," "Doodle Do Do," "At the End of the Trail," "Nobody Knows What a Red Head Mama Can Do," "Negro Spiritual" and "Go Along Mule."

The artistes have already sent forth the good word that they will be seen at their best in these numbers, and that is saying some.

The big picture, David and Jonathan, is the one so much spoken of, because of the fame of the writer and the novel, which was taken from the "Wandering Jew." This is the story which made Madge Titheradge, the celebrated movie star, famous. A wonderful story, a wonderful book, a wonderful play and a still more wonderful movie feature. Altogether this makes a big attraction for the holiday and patrons of the Majestic are assured of a big afternoon and night.

SLIGHT BLAZE.—At 10.35 this morning the Central and West End Fire Companies were called to the residence of Sergt. Furlong, Casey St., where a slight blaze was found in the front room caused by a defective chimney. The fire was quenched by the use of a hand extinguisher without any damage being done.

Famous Recipes for Home Cooking

"G. A. R." BROWN BREAD.
(A Civil War veteran recently brought us a little loaf of bread of his own making. It looked good. We tried it. It was good. This is his recipe.)

- (All measurements level.)
  - 3 cupsful graham flour.
  - 2 cupsful cornmeal.
  - 2 cupsful rye meal.
  - 1 cupful New Orleans molasses.
  - 1 cupful raisins.
  - 1 cupful rolled oats.
  - 1 tablespoonful soda.
  - 2 tablespoonfuls Crisco.
  - 1 tablespoonful salt.
- Mix together thoroughly graham, rye and cornmeal and salt, add the Crisco to the molasses, then the raisins, then the soda dissolved in a little cold water. Scald the rolled oats and let stand covered a few moments. Then add to the molasses, etc. Mix thoroughly and add to the dry ingredients. Beat all together well. Have ready baking powder tins with covers, greased with Crisco. Fill about two-thirds full with mixture, cover tight and set in a kettle of boiling water, cover the kettle and let boil steadily for about four hours. Take out and remove covers. Serve hot or cold or tasted.

Radio Sets Installed in Conception Bay

Good Results Received Through Local Broadcasting.

Mr. W. A. Brown, Asst. Superintendent Marconi Company, left town on Thursday for points in Conception Bay on business for his firm and is not expected to return before Monday next. On Thursday night he installed a Marconiphone six tube receiver for Sir Robert Bond, at Whitebourne, and later proceeded to Bay Roberts and Harbor Grace where he installed similar sets for Mr. Wm. Dawe and Mr. John McRae respectively. Amateur Station 8J.J.C. located at 9 Parade Street, this city, held a half hour test for the above places last night, and the reports received were very encouraging indeed.
