TORONTO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1875.

From Our Box.

THE JATS.—These marvellous jugglers and acrobats now performing at the Royal Opera House are by all odds the cleverest we have seen. Their programme is a succession of gymnastic and slight of hand wonders which words fail to adequately describe. They give a matinee on Saturday afternoon.

MRS. MORRISON'S new stock company are this week playing Divorce to rather discouraging houses. Our city contemporaries have all been somewhat severe on the new faces, and while GRIP endorses their remarks in general he would point out that perhaps the real fault is in the play itself—for a more dreary and long drawn out affair never left the pen of DALY—or any other man. We have reason to look for much improvement in the acting of the new ladies and gentlemen as soon as they get a cast that will give a chance. In the meantime, we recognize in Mr. GRISMER a gentleman of considerable force and talent; in Mr. DEGROAT a very natural "old man," with just the pleasantest spice of Uncle Sam about him. Mr. CURTIS has a lively enough sense of humor, and will appear to much more advantage when we come to realize that he is not playing in a burlesque, and gives us less grotesque posturing and gesticulating. Mr. DAVIS and Mr. ROBERTS go in brackets to be leniently held over by GRIP until he has a chance of seeing them in better parts; in Divorce their histrionic powers are not called for, or at least do not come out. Of the ladies, as seen in this play, as little can be said, as yet. MISS DAVENPORT is a lady who will in time become a favorite—being modest, intelligent and rather talented. MISS MAY PRESTON has a disagreeable drawl in speaking her lines, and dressed, and looked too young by several years to be the mother of the gay and eccentric Newport belle. MISS DELMAR and MISS FOY are pretty and pleasing enough to make their parts agreeable to the house. Of the other members of the company there is no need to speak here. Next week we are to have MISS KATE CLAXTON, the famous English actress, in The Two Orphans, a powerful and beautiful play. Let us see how the new comers will depict themselves then.

Mrs. Caudle in Canada.

LECTURE III.

And so "Animus Vester Ego" is the satire for "Mind your eye." Is it indeed MR. CAUDLE! and you intend in future to communicate with me in the dead languages, so that I may not understand you and evade giving you a reply. If its any allusion to my visionary organs, all I can assure you is, and that most plainly, that I can still see, as far as most people; and intend while life lasts, to take care and use my eyes for my own personal benefit, as well as yours, you Hippopotamus of dormancy and sleepishness. Are not, I ask you, the eyes of any creature, even the very lowest in the scale of creation, perfect in themselves, and adapted expressly to its state in life? Not that years have been of much service to you during your existence, or we should not be as we are. You heard me singing this afternoon, "I wish I were a Bird," and you cordially, within yourself, endorsed that wish, eh? that I might fly away and leave you to perish, alone, in this foreign land.—No, no, not that, what then MR. CAUDLE? you acknowledge that in many birds—and you will surely never be so ungallant as to deny it—beauty belongs, generally, to the female sex, but that although endowed with such, it is the Male Bird alone that has the gift of song, and therefore, you assume, that, if I were a Bird, my tongue would be tied and utterance denied me because humanity, as you, you wretch, term it, had kindly stood in the way, and prevented me from speech. There is but one way, though, of putting an end to such morbid ideas, and that is by my incessancy of speech. I see, yes sir, by my, I repeat, incessant talking, if you will have it so, and then when you swore again with what gratification can I exclaim, "How are thou humbled in the clothes thou scion of a proud house."—You dare to insinuate do you that my doleful visits, as you impiously misname them, to the City churches, are not to pray, but to parade and show off my best clothes and new-fashioned Hat—and gratify my incurable propensity of being admired. Oh! CAUDLE, CAUDLE, I doubt if the world contains a worse wretch than yourself. Why don't I go plainly dressed, eh? as if other people did?—Do you think sir, when I go to place of worship, I am, as of old, to put on Sack cloth, no MR. CAUDLE, no, I shall and will go in my best, very best clothes, as all other folks do, whatever insolent interpretations you may affix to my so doing,—you unpardonable inorganic lump of the human race; nothing you can say, sir, after this gross, unfounded, and unwarrantable assertion—of the reason of my going to church—shall ever tend to mitigate the storm of indignation that shall sweep over you, at every available opportunity, by the utterances of your inconsolable and victimised wife. What would the world have come to, what would it be, I ask, if an ordinance or law existed, prohibiting the wearing of our best clothes when we go to a place of worship, restriction on a woman's dress,—look at the present fashions you say, do you,—Is there the slightest restriction now-a-days as to dress. What's that you say, you worthless mortal. That woman's dress is with her "the battle of life" and that the colors thereof are as extremely variable as the caterpillars or many species of insects. It is the most natural thing that woman should dress, and that well too, if they have taste, and can obtain the material. There is an innate desire in all women, myself included, MR. CAUDLE, to dress well, and dress well I shall, whether you like it or not, and say what you will on this subject, you cannot, and shall not, produce a contrary effect in my mind. It is wrong, maliciously wrong of me to gratify such a craving desire. Is it, indeed! and pray, sir, is it not your wish,—ardent in the extreme as I well know it to be, to be somewhat thinner than you are, and because a stout man like you, CAUDLE, cannot rid himself of the mountain of flesh which is a burden to you to bear,—you, of all other men, want to argue with me that it is wicked to gratify innate desires, and that man is the highest creature, his wife ought—and should be under his control, and subject to his power,—such assertions as these CAUDLE, are like the frog assuming the dimensions of the ox, and as Esop has told us, bursting in the vain attempt even though he were a larger bull-frog than ever came from a tadpole before, you self-opinionated heap of vanity. But grunt, yes grunt away as is always your wont when I have, as I invariably do have, the best of the argument. It's a great pity you cannot close your nostrils, as well as your ears, when you retire to this couch of sublimity as you call it. MR. CAUDLE, a pity, great pity, you sleepy lump of clay.

Smith & Ryerson.

They grew in beauty side by side,
And always did agree,
But now they're sundered far and wide,
Is GOLDWIN SMITH, and E.

The same fond Globe which day by day
At GOLDWIN poketh fun;
Once made it in the self-same way
Too hot for EDGERTON.

E. says that G. is bound to go
Too fast, if not delayed,
While G. says E. is much too slow,
And turns things retrograde.

To "GRIP's" advice now listen ye!
And then he'll end his song;
Lot in reporters, then we'll see
Who's right and who is wrong.

A Suggestion.

GRIP, I like your paper. But a serious defect is the absence of Sentimental poetry to mix up with your funny stuff. Jokes may do for the old buffers who don't believe in anything except moneymaking, politics, and toddy. We young folks, however, want something tender and earnest. I am fourteen years and five months old, and am just beginning to woo the muses. I enclose a specimen of my poetic powers. It is not in my highest sentimental vein, but I think it breathes of the true afflatus (Pa says he is sure I will one day cut out TENNYSON if I keep on "pegging away.") I can send you some every week if you like.

Yours truly,

SYLVANUS O' SPRAY.

SONNET.

Moon! it is queer, yet certainly 'tis true,
That sometimes thou art round, and sometimes not—
But, round or unround, thou art fair to view,
And, when I gaze upon thee, there are what-
D'ye-call-'ems stir within my breast—(I mean
Emotions, and such like,)—I can't express,
That thou chaste moon! art made of cheese—or green,
Or any other color—I confess
I won't believe without some proof—for I
Would ask how any one on earth can show
For certain there are cows up in the sky?
But cheese without a cow won't do you know,
And therefore let the chaps first show me, please,
Their cow, before I swallow down their cheese!

PISTOLS FOR THREE, OR THE TRIANGULAR "DUEL."

"Free Trade in Medicines"—"No Protection to Pills, Powders or Plasters."

We deem it our duty to come to the assistance of the Globe in its war to the knife with the Medical Council. If that body is permitted to monopolize the healing of "all the ills that flesh is heir to," what is to become of our political quacks? This is a momentous question. It is all very well for SHAKESPEARE to say "throw physic to the dogs," but dogs don't want physic. Men do. As we desire with the Globe that quacks shall be protected, although the reason why shall not be torn from our bosom by wild horses, we have gone to the trouble of soliciting testimonials from prominent people who have found relief in nostrums and specifics in open defiance of the regulations of the Medicine Council. We possess thousands more of a similar tenor but a few will suffice.

TESTIMONIALS.

Dear Grip.—Do we breathe the pure air of freedom or are we grovelling under the iron heel of the despot? Let us rise in our might and defy the Medicine Council. Our midwives and our sassafras tea are trembling in the balance.—JOHN SMITH.

Dear Grip.—As an election tonic nothing on earth excels raspberry syrup. Every family should have a bottle in the house.—JAMES GEORGE CURRIE.

Dear Grip.—Under heaven the country owes the salvation of its constitution to a South Simcoe poultice.—WILLIAM McDUGALL.

Dear Grip.—It is some people's nature to cry "quack, quack"—JOHN DUCK.

Dear Grip.—I have had so mething in my eye for years. The doctor^s called it a constituency. It is quite gone now.—JAMES DAVID EDGAR.

Dear Grip.—"Afflictions sore long time I bore, physicians were in vain," until I was taken charge of by Dr. GOLDWIN SMITH. Look at me now!—CANADA FIRST.

Dear Grip.—All my life I have been afflicted with a cacathes scribendi, and I'm not quite rid of it yet.—E. RYERSON.

Dear Grip.—I had my nose put out of joint when the Reform party took office. A Chief Justice Bandage has almost cured it, but it troubles me occasionally yet.—E. B. WOOD.

Dear Grip.—Four years' constant application of Poor Man's Plasters cured me of corns. My heart is too full for thanks.—A RETIRED CLERGYMAN.

Dear Grip.—If there is any virtue in black draughts I will be a member of parliament within a month. We have drafted every colored man in East Kent.—W. MCCRANEY.

Dear Grip.—I had a large lump over the region of my left breast, but Dr. MACDONALD successfully removed it in a few applications. He exhibited it to his friends as an "election fund swelling." I haven't been troubled with it since.—HUGH ALLAN.

Dear Grip.—One application of the habets corpus will cure the most obstinate case.—BROTHER BOYLE.

Dear Grip.—Permit me to place on record my warmest approval of Horrocks's pills. They proved a good friend to me.—ARCHIBALD McKELLAR.

Dear Grip.—I'm going to try a change of advisers next attack.—M. C. CAMERON.

Dear Grip.—One dose of Globe pills warranted to purge corruption out of any constituency. None genuine without the proprietor's signature.—GEORGE BROWN.

Dear Grip.—Have never been troubled with sleeplessness since I took Crown Lands Soothing Syrup.—T. B. PARDEE.

Dear Grip.—The Reform party is spavined and wind-broken. Will send you a remedy by first Mail.—T. C. PATTESON.

Dear Grip.—Was threatened with foot and mouth disease, owing to excessive walking and talking. A South Oxford plunge bath has set me on my feet again.—ADAM CROOKS.

Dear Grip.—One application of Spaulding's glue induced a beautiful mustache on my upper lip. It is dearer than life itself—I mean the glue. This is his 234th day out.—SUN SKIT MAN.

And yet in the face of all these miraculous reliefs the Medical Council would prevent unregistered practitioners from cutting a corn or curing a cold. SNOUTRAGE!

DR. RYERSON'S LATEST—Arcades Ambery.

ODD FELLOWS.—Icicle McDUGALL and Philosopher MILLS.

FRIENDS IN COUNCIL—The Council of Public Institution.

THE UN-HOLY TRINITY.—EGERTON, GOLDWIN, and DANIEL.

Is there any excessive mortality in Toronto? The saying is: "While doctors differ patients die." If the doctors die, let them R. I. P.; and the public will possibly rest in peace for a time. Till then beware, oh punsters, lest if delivered of a fun without the aid of a registered practitioner, you are fined $50 and expenses—and serve you right.

The Globe Dictionary—Just Published.

LIBERALITY—Tying a cord round the neck of the Liberal.
"MONOPOLY"—The exclusion from an honorable calling of all who have not prepared themselves for it by a liberal knowledge of its fundamental principles.

"COMPULSION"—TYRANNICAL EXACTION.—A free invitation to all and any to study these fundamental principles, before experiments with human life.

IMPERTINENT QUACKS OF PAST AGES.—Men who have manfully struggled with error and darkness and, acting up to the light they had, added to the store of knowledge such as Galen, Hippocrates, Hervey, Sir Asley Cooper.

BRILLIANT DISCOVERERS IN MEDICINE.—Those who have discovered the short and easy method of filling their pockets by working on the credulity of nervous fellow sufferers such as Tumblety, Sir John Long, The Great Shoshonce, The Virgin of Lourdes, Mr. Horne, Davenport Brothers, et hoc genus omne.

FREE DISCUSSION.—Suppressing any letters in your newspaper which really bear against you, and keeping others back till you can prepare a warping editorial to "explain" them.

REFORM PARTY.—The Globe.

OUTRAGEOUS MEDICAL CONSERVATISM.—Preventing men from tampering with human lives who cannot give evidence of having studied the structure of the human body, its functions, the action of drugs, the use of surgical and medical appliances.

SOUND LOGIC.—Because a surgeon may at some time have accidentally cut an artery, let us blindfold surgeons hereafter, or allow ploughboys to tie the carotid. Because a physician may have given an overdose of chloral and morphia, better entrust them to those who cannot show they have ever read a page about the action.

To the People of Toronto.

Oh, whited sepulchres, followers of the times,
Whose ssembled indignation at foulest crimes
Is now most rampant o'er the new-made graves
Of two frail women. Had ye tried to save
Them e'er they died.—Had ye banished those Whose trade was public.—Had ye even chose,
By your chaste lives, to make their living bare,
Those victims would not now be lying there.
Plead ignorance ye dare not—each daily page
Of public print proclaims for hireling wage
The cursed profession, or some potion vile
To do away with lives, while lustful vice beguile
With secrecy and safety—Harlots prevail,
And innocence too late its loss bewails.
Shall this continue, shall the cursed roll,
In each quacks day-book, name some guilty soul,
Who, to the world, in shame stands unconfessed,
And in society moves unexpressed.
Whose is the guilt—the wretch who holds the knife,
Or he who finds the victim—maid betrayed, or wife,
For, tell it not before high heaven—such ties
Are held not always sacred—or the record lies.
Spread not your rage in hanging those whose crimes
Are doubly proven—But crush betimes
The Hydra-headed monster whose instigation
Corrupts our newspapers and pollutes the nation.

A "Sun"—net.

The unwearied Sun from day to day
On Crooks doth all its wit display,
While he doth trudge with well-worn sole,
His mournful march from pole to pole.

Por fas aut Nefas.

C—KS log.

Tell me not in mournful numbers, that with ballot boxes stuffed,
The refused of East Toronto, by South Oxford is rebuffed;
I am really in earnest, and the Treasury is my goal,
'Tis the next best thing I know of—to Supreme Courts—on the whole.

All about a Privy Councillor.

Says DAVID to WILLIAM, in paradox quite,
"You're out if you're in, and you're wrong if I'm right,"
Says WILLIAM to DAVID, non qualis eram,
I'm in, so you're out, O philosopher D.—M.
Says the Globe to them both, letting compliments slip
"Lay on Bothwell, strike Simcoe, none cares which will whip,"
Says the nation at large, "Brother asses, why rail,
While you quarrel lang GEORDIE is supping the kail."

LACHINE
CANAL ENLARGEMENT.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the Secretary of Public Works, and endorsed "Tender for the Lachine Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western mails on THURSDAY THE SIXTEENTH DAY OF SEPTEMBER NEXT, for the enlargement of this canal, consisting of the widening and deepening of the channel from near the new basin east of Wellington Street bridge, upwards to the river St. Lawrence and Lachine, embracing the construction of new locks at St. Gabriel and Cote St. Paul, also the taking down and rebuilding the upper portions of the present locks at these places: building regulating weirs, culverts, bridge piers; the construction of a new entrance lock at Lachine, and the formation of a channel and basin on the south or river side of the existing entrance.

The works will be let in sections of the respective lengths indicated on a map of the line which, together with plans and specification of the various works, can be seen at this office, and at the Lachine Canal Office, Montreal, on and after FRIDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF SEPTEMBER NEXT, at either of which places Printed forms of Tender can be obtained.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that Tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted bank cheque, or other available security, for the sum of from one to three thousand dollars, according to the extent of work on the section, must accompany each Tender, which shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines or fails to enter into contract for the work, when called upon to do so, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The amount required in each case will be stated on the form of Tender.

The cheque or money thus sent in, will be returned to the respective parties whose Tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required on real estate, or by deposit of money, public or municipal securities, or bank stocks, to the amount of five per cent on the bulk sum of the contract, of which the sum sent in with the Tender will be considered a part.

Ninety per cent only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the works.

To each Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions as well as the due performance of works embraced in the contract.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,

Department of Public Works, Secretary. Ottawa, 6th August, 1875. 511-5-15
