St. Martins, N. B., Sept. 1.—Big Salmon River and St. Martins were scenes of great political demonstrations today. Crowds gathered from all the cutting districts in order to hear Hon. William Pugsley, Liberal candidate for the city of St. John; James Lowell, Liberal candidate for the city and county of St. John, and other speakers, discuss the great issues which are now before the people.

Count Loses His Ear in Savage Sabre Deal—The Don Quixote of The Austrian Nobility

Count Adalbert Sternberg, who has just shed the left ear of Count Joseph Karolyi, at Maribor, in a particularly savage sabre duel, is one of the most extraordinary figures in Austrian life. He merits some attention in the states, owing to his pronounced hostility to everything American, the consequence of a stay of some months in the United States. He had challenged Count Joseph Karolyi, who is a son of the former Austrian Ambassador in London, for leaving in the national legislature at Budapest spoken disparagingly of the Austrian army, as compared with that of Hungary.

WAS WORLD'S LARGEST WOMAN

Mrs. Letitia Campbell, better known by her professional name of Dolly Varden, the world's largest woman, whose funeral took place in Toronto on Monday. Dolly Varden toured the world with circuses and theatrical companies, and was a famous attraction some twenty-five years ago. In her palmy days she weighed 700 pounds, but of late years had "declined" to 450. At the time of her death she was sixty years old.

THE COTTON MARKET

The Situation Reviewed and Future Peered Into By Wall Street Writers

(E. & C. Randolph's Weekly Market Letter, Published by J. M. Robinson & Sons)

New York, Aug. 29.—As anticipated, the cotton market has shown continued nervousness and irregularity during the past week. The bulls seemed to be gaining ground on Friday and Saturday owing to bullish rumors concerning the national ginners' report and the fact that reports of deterioration in crop prospects found partial if not complete confirmation in the early instalment of the Journal of Commerce reports except for the Carolinas; but after working up to 11.70 for December contracts on Saturday, the market turned easier yesterday. Indications continue to point to a government report on Friday showing more than the average fall-off for the month, but the situation aside from crop prospects which many regard as still for a crop above any previous record the situation seemed to be strongly against a sustained advance, and prices at the close yesterday showed a reaction of about 30 points from the high level of Saturday.

The general feeling in the trade is that every unfavorable feature in the crop outlook is being exaggerated in the interests of the grower.

There is little doubt that the ginning report to be issued on September 5 will show the biggest ginning to September 1 on record, and we hear local statisticians estimating it at over 500,000 bales and probably nearer 600,000 against 533,011 last year.

On another occasion the count assailed the imperial family of Austria for refraining from setting off of court the suit brought by Ernest Wallburg, the natural son of Archduke Ernest and of a woman of the name of Laura Skubitz, and who after being refused to earning his living as a waiter in third-class restaurants at Budapest, had fallen into the hands of unscrupulous men, who involved him in a fraudulent attempt to prove that the avuncle had been ecclesiastically married to his mother. The marriage certificate was shown to be a forgery, but the whole affair, and the way in which it was managed, caused a very unpleasant scandal which, according to Sternberg, could have been easily avoided by the making of some provision for Ernest Wallburg.

On still another occasion he, like the missing Archduke John, published a pamphlet of extraordinary violence, charging the minister of war and the leading general of the army with incompetence, senility, and general inefficiency, while there was scarcely a date in the lower house of the national legislature at Vienna, which he did not envenom by an embittered attack upon somebody or something.

Austri's Don Quixote

With all that, he is extremely generous and it is just as easy to excite his sympathies as to arouse his anger. He is a very witty, very amusing and an extraordinary fund of anecdote, and is in many ways the counterpart of Don Quixote in France, and of "Don Quixote" in Spain.

At the time of the Boer war, in a commission of the reserve list of the Austriace

At the time of the Boer war, in spite of his holding a commission on the reserve list of the Austriace army, he proceeded to Africa and fought throughout the greater part of the conflict under the Boer flag, falling into the hands of the English, he was so clever and eloquent in persuading his captors that he was merely a non-combatant Austriac soldierman, and half-pay officer of the imperial army, endeavoring to pick up, as a spectator, some experience of actual warfare, that he was

THE BOUDOIR OF A FAT WOMAN

What do we see? Terrifically long and austere looking corsets; tiny (as possible) shoes, uppers bulging over the vamp; various restrainers, retainers, detainers, (names unknown); perspiration disinfectant; blackhead eradicator; pimples specifier; blood medicine. Stripped and what a few candy boxes; maybe an exorciser of the wall. These "properties" signify the scene of fashionable tortures of the burnings of fallings from the fire. Here the poor lady gasps into the air, raises her harness. Here she hides the fat used in simple, postipation, the reader here, when her spirit is weak, she forces the exercise for the deadly candy box.

Life—what a foe! Avoidable? A Marmola Prescription Tablet, taken after a meal and at bedtime, will reduce the fat (in a few days) down to the firm flesh beneath; banish the fat-candy bladders; give license to eat all the candy, etc., craves and sleep as long as one desires. Investigate; tender seventy-five cents to your druggist for a large case, or write the Marmola Co., 1179 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. Do not be timid—Marmola Tablets are safe—being made strictly in accordance with the famous, fashionable formula: 12 oz. Marmola, 34 oz. Fl. Ex. Cascara Aromatic, 4 3/4 oz. Peppermint Water, consequently go ahead—without fear. A month will emancipate you.

"Let us remember, Sir John Macdonald always endeavored to establish better relations with our neighbors, and his efforts have paved the way for the government of today."—F. D. Monk, M. P., at Le Devot dinner.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"Acts may be forgiven. Not even God can forgive the hanger back."

THE most of the world, it seems to me, can be divided into two classes of people—those who think up obstacles and those who overcome or evade them.

Life with such a person is at least one constitutional wet blanket. Sometimes it is a woman; more often, it seems to me, a man.

No matter what project is suggested, this person always opposes it. He is a hindrance to the progress of the world, and the people of the grounds would be spoiled. Long arguments sometimes overcome his objections, and in the end no one takes more pride in the victory than the man who has been so long in coming to the same conclusion.

Even such a simple thing as the moving of a piece of furniture from one room to another is made the occasion for unnumberable objections.

Life with such a person is just one long obstacle race. At the start, the wife or daughter or husband, or what is ever relative bears the brunt of the situation, may take the obstacles gallantly, but by and by, when she is not gifted with superhuman energy, she begins to waver.

Some simply give up, the race and lapse into weary quiescence. Others, like the spirited race horse, drop dead in their tracks. The splash for such a one should read, "She died of objections but she died game."

The strangest thing about the whole matter to me is that so few, especially of the women, seem to think for a moment that this state of affairs is anything but inevitable.

One would expect them to realize how simple life would be if there were no one determined to make it complex, and to protest with vigor, but they seldom do any such thing.

Personally I am inclined to think it would be better if they did realize and did protest. There might be some of the objection raisers sufficiently decent to be reached by a plain talk, to be made to see how much unhappiness they caused, how much of other people's energy they wasted.

Surely it would at any rate be an experiment worth the trying.

set at liberty, allowed to proceed by rail to Capetown, and to embark thence without route or hindrance for England, en route to Austria. On reaching London, he became acquainted with some members of parliament to whom he told the same story that he had related to the English general by whom he had been captured. Not only did they believe him, but they were so much interested in his account of the military operations in the field, that they gave a dinner in the House of Commons in his honor, for the purpose of honoring him to meet the prime minister, Arthur Balfour, and several other members of the administration.

Ordered Out of England

While this banquet was in progress the premier was called away from the table and informed that Sternberg had really been fighting under the Boer flag against the English. He did not resume his place at the table but from it hurriedly summoned his colleagues to the cabinet, and then caused the cabinet to be informed that unless he left England by the first morning train on the next working he would be arrested and sent back to Africa as a prisoner of war. Sternberg left without further ado, and then went to the United States. After six months stay there he returned to Austria, and published a book, which is probably the most uncomplimentary volume that has ever been printed about Austria.

In reply to a German-American reader, who asks whether "La Societe de Berlin" was not written by Madame Adam or by her husband, a former ambassador at some of the European courts, I may say that Auguste Gerard, formerly French reader to Empress Augusta of Germany, and now ambassador of France at Tokio, was the author of the "Societe de Berlin" under the pen name of "Count Paul Vassili." It appeared in the Paris "Nouvelles Revue" of Madame Adam, whose husband, a Republican politician, but never a diplomat, was dead at the time. Afterwards the pseudonym of "Count Paul Vassili" was used by a very clever Russian Jew journalist, who called himself "M. de Cyon," to write "La Societe de St. Petersburg," "La Societe de Vienna," "La Societe de Rome," "La Societe de Madrid," "La Societe de Paris," and "La Societe de Londres," all of which appeared in the "Nouvelles Revue," which de Cyon edited in conjunction with Madame Adam.

LET US REASON TOGETHER. "How am I to decide whether reciprocity would be good or bad for Canada?" This question is being asked by many persons, who are more concerned about being right than to prove themselves partisans.

Canada still has free access to the British market, and is free to make any arrangement she pleases with the mother country. No Canadian need ship a dollar's worth of goods to the States if he prefers the English market.

There are, however, two real dangers to Canada, which the voter in St. John should consider seriously in deciding whether to support or oppose the government. One is that if the reasonable demands of the west are rejected by eastern Canada there will arise in the west a bitter feeling toward the east.

Mr. Borden wants to know if we will give our heritage to the States. We won't. Nor to Mr. Bourassa. Premier Haas was greeted at Sackville with "wild enthusiasm." How glad he declined to be a candidate in this election.

competition ruins the Maine farmer his New Brunswick neighbor may entertain fears, but not before. Now we have told the whole story. There is nothing mysterious and dangerous hidden in the agreement. It is a mere question of making an already very large trade somewhat larger.

Note the fact also that it is merely an agreement, and not a treaty, and does not bind Canada any longer than the Canadian people are willing to be bound. They can terminate it at any time.

There are, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier pointed out, but two ways in which Canada can be joined to the United States. One is by conquest. Will reciprocity lead to war? Assuredly not. The other is by consent of the Canadian people.

Canada has nothing to fear from that quarter. If those treaties ever proved troublesome they would be denounced, as was done with certain other treaties some years ago.

The triumph of reciprocity would mean greater prosperity for Canada. Its defeat, by the forces now combined against Sir Wilfrid Laurier, would mean discord, and racial and sectional strife.

ARE WELL TREASURED OF SOCIETY

Wealthy Women Give up Luxurious Living

GOSSIP OF GOTHAM

Companion for Statute of Liberty—Nobleman Nurse in Hospital—A Matrimonial Mix-up—F. Marion Crawford's Money—War on Dogs and Cats

(Times Special Correspondence.) New York, Sept. 1.—With ninety-nine women out of every hundred of moderate means giving up the rich and aiming through marriage and other means to get into their realm—by the front door if possible and the rear if necessary—sociologists see something paradoxical in the voluntary desertion of so-called society, by a number of beautiful women, who have had everything for which the more modest First we had the marriage of Giulia Moriani, daughter of Giovanni Moriani, the banker and partner of the late grandfather of Lady Decies, bestowing her heart and fortune of $2,000,000 on a direct policeman. The same Julia French, the pretty daughter of Amos French, relative through marriage, of the Duchess of Marlborough, running away with a handsome but indigent chauffeur. Next in order came Leonora Brouk, sister of W. Gould Brouk, who, with everything to satisfy her womanly caprice on chess society and becomes a farmette and tiller of the soil. Sickened by the luxury shored upon her by her husband, his diamonds and other contrivances of wealth, we are now treated to the novelty of Mrs. Louis A. Bryan giving up everything for the sake of the more modest and simple environment of her father's home.

Simultaneously comes the announcement of the abandonment of society for the repose of a nun by Mrs. Gertrude Hall, a wealthy widow who says she has played the whole game and found it superficial, rapid and empty. Dipping into her home, and its expensive furnishings and bidding the world adieu she now wears the simple garb of a novice and in the solitude of the conventual cell seeks the solitude she needs for her racked nerves and mental disquiet. Sickened by the luxury shored upon her by her husband, his diamonds and other contrivances of wealth, we are now treated to the novelty of Mrs. Louis A. Bryan giving up everything for the sake of the more modest and simple environment of her father's home.

Compensation for Statute of Liberty In deference to the wishes of Rodman Wamamaker, its donor, the mammoth statue of the North American Indian to be erected in the city here, will be finished and ready for installation early next spring. Officials of the government, in compliance with the authority of congress, which approved last week of the acceptance of the gift, have already started to excavate the harbor for an advantageous site for the great memorial to the red skin, who once held undisputed dominion over the surrounding hillsides and valleys. When completed, the bronze will be a fitting companion piece to Bartholdi's statue of Liberty, which holds the distinction of being the largest work of art of its kind in the world.

Because of its altitude, the high ground on the Staten Island side of the inner bay, is considered the most suitable site, commanding the entrance to the port. In the event of an attack on the city, this high ground would be within the zone upon which an enemy would be likely to centre its fire. The statue would be placed on the chance of destruction or damage. As it is desired to be a permanent monument to the man, and the first one only suggestion of him that future generations of visitors and emigrants coming here to make their home in the new world will likely ever see of him, it is probable that site passing more elements of safety will be picked out for its resting place.

In this connection the southern end of Governor's Island, which has been recently enlarged to twice its former size through the filling in and bulking of the adjacent shallow water, is suggested. This island is about half a mile from Bedloe's Island, on which the Liberty statue sits and is but a stone's throw from the Battery Park wall of the city. By using it for this purpose the unique effect would be created—which could not escape even the most casual observer on an incoming ship—of there being two sentinels on guard in the harbor, one typifying the original state of the country and the other, the subjugating of the savage and the substitution of law, order and liberty, unless some unforeseen difficulties develop, the site for the Indian statue would be set within the next ten days, so that work may be commenced on the building of the foundation at an early date.

Nobleman Nurse in Hospital Following on the heels of the discovery of Sir Genile Cave-Brown-Cave, a descendant of the Crusaders, soldier of fortune, adventurer and bankrupt, at the Brooklyn headquarters of the Salvation Army, where he is now working as janitor at $2.00 a week, his keep, New York has found that for two years it has been employing a gill-netted Austrian viscount as a nurse in Bellevue Hospital, the city's principal medical institution, at $10 a week.

The English baronet who is now 42, and has cut a wide swath since he reached his majority says he is ready to set down and apply his future efforts to redeeming his past. "I have fought every kind of man in the world," he says, "and the rest of my life will be devoted to fighting the devil. I have spent most of my time trying to destroy the bodies of men—including my own. I will now try to save their souls. "The men of my name have, alone of all the families in England, the right to be beside the King himself in action. Sir Marmaduke Cave won it in the Civil War. Not I am fighting beneath the standard of a greater King now." The viscount is Herman Rudolph von Eichwald, a member of one of the oldest families in Emperor Francis Joseph's realm. During his two years' employment in Bellevue, von Eichwald, who is a handsome looking young man, proved a model employee, studious and industrious. It is recalled now that he was practically the only male nurse in the institution who stood at his post on the reception of a patient there last year. Fearful of contracting the dreaded disease most of his associates fled, leaving the quiet, modest young Austrian to minister to the needs of the afflicted man until his death. Von Eichwald speaks German, French, Italian, Spanish, Hungarian, Polish and English fluently, and has a workable knowledge of Latin and Greek.

It was not until he received his diploma as a graduate nurse the other day that his identity became known. He says he was discovered by his father, because he refused to enter the priesthood and that he was literally kicked out of the family home for his obstinacy. After traveling around the world he came here and took the position offered him as a nurse in Bellevue. Now he proposes to study medicine and become a physician. To enable him to make his way through college he will work at nursing in the night and study by day.

Wife in England Also While not eager to prosecute, because of the unpleasant notoriety it would be sure to attract, the authorities are determined to enter the priesthood and that he was literally kicked out of the family home for his obstinacy. After traveling around the world he came here and took the position offered him as a nurse in Bellevue. Now he proposes to study medicine and become a physician. To enable him to make his way through college he will work at nursing in the night and study by day.

Whether the district attorney takes cognizance of the matter or not, it is said that the bride will be given an annuity of $50,000 a year at the earliest opportunity. Whatever way one looks at it, Trumbull-Smith, who these days is a member of the Governor Trumbull of Connecticut, affectionately called "Brother Jonathan," by George Washington, has made a mess of it and is in a bad fix. His explanation is that he believed his first marriage was a success and he was right to marry again. While the Deisters decline to shed any light on the subject, it is suspected here that the sudden departure of the bride for Europe has something to do with the ill-fated marriage. Among the friends of the family, there is an impression that Miss Drier, while in England, will make it a point to hunt up the first wife, whose name is said to be Sarah Louise Jane Pearce, and ascertain her position and feelings in the matter. The artist gave young society women a lesson in the present of her predecessor, who is now in one of the small cities of Britain.

An Expecting Would-be Benedict Sympathy is felt for Alfred R. Riso, a young Wall Street broker, who called for England to see his wife, who is said to be who would come up to all the rules he prescribes as indispensable for a perfect woman. More capricious and exacting than Colonel Edward H. Green, the bachelor son of Hedy Green, the world's richest woman who says she is ready to marry within the next twelve months if he can find the right sort of a girl, Riso seeks the dark with a vengeance. She must have good teeth, rosy complexion and a willowy figure. She must combine with the English conventionalism and love of home the vivacity of the French and with these two the intensity and fervor of the Italian girl. She must know what to smoke and what to drop; how to say clever things and when to stop.

Mr. Riso admitted that this combination might be hard to find, but he is confident that with time and patience she will cross his path—in not in England, but in France, Germany or elsewhere. What tests he proposes applying to the candidate to determine if she fulfills all the requirements he has laid down as a prerequisite to his approval, he does not say.

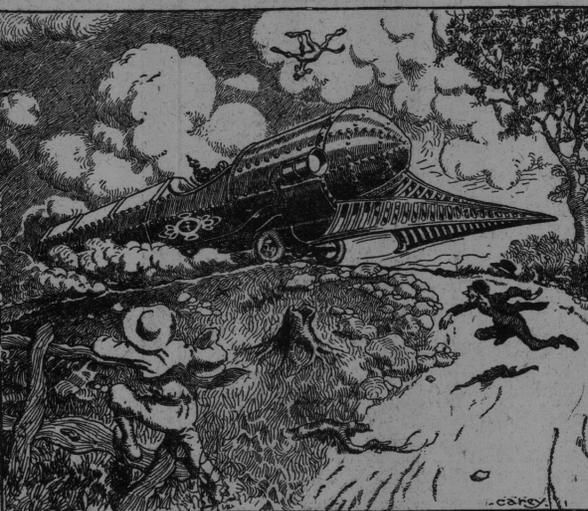

Monkey in the Weir An investigation is being made by the officials of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel to find out how a full grown monkey contrived to get into the sleeping quarters of D. L. Guthrie, a wealthy Cleveland business man, who found the animal asleep in his bed the other night, when he retired to his room on one of the upper floors. The sudden turning on of the electric light, as he entered his apartment, aroused the slumbering beast and set it in instant motion. As Guthrie drew back the covers, the monkey sprang from the bed to a chiffonier and in a second was clinging to the top of the curtain pole at the window. A detective was summoned and backed by a formidable array of porters, elevator attendants and others, they simply surrounded the monkey. Divining their purpose the monkey kept the salvage force of the hotel hopping about from place to place like hens on a hot gridle, biting, scratching, squealing and counteracting in rage, as it eluded its pursuers. Unable to stand the pace set for it by its captors, the monkey eventually surrendered and soon found itself confined in a wicker basket in the cellar. So far no one has come forward to claim its ownership and it will be shipped to the zoo in a day or two.

Marion Crawford's Money Much surprise is expressed by the friends of F. Marion Crawford, the novelist who died in Sorrento, Italy, on March 9th, 1907, that his estate, which has just been settled, has amounted to but $48,024. For many years Crawford, who was regarded as one of the most popular of American authors, was supposed to be in receipt of a large income from the sale of his books and royalties on the dramati-

FABLES IN SLANG

Series of 1911 --- BY GEORGE ADE.

THE 1911 FABLE OF THE LOGICAL FINISH OF THE PROGRESSIVE MANIAC.

HE APPEARED ON THE ROAD WITH THE REAL THING.

(Copyright, 1911, By George Ade) Limited, he heard behind him a low and fair painted Red, with a Toucan as wide and rosy as a Telephone Booth, and approaching from the extreme Rear by a small Doo, as in the case of a Blind Pig. When he turned in the Rear, he was working on the Puzzle Column in a Jack in Exchange. He was Some Motorist for about Three Weeks after the delivery of Juggernaut Number Two. He wore Leather Clothes, the same as Barney Oldfield. In the absence of a Speedometer he told what the Car could Do and got away with it. But when he humped up against the Owners of the Big Logging Cars he was just as much at home as a One-Armed Man at a Blanking Bar. He began to dismount in the Gasoline Set a Man as rated by the number of Cylinders he carries. At the beginning of the Third Season we find him steering a long low, rickety Chariot of Fire, with a Clock, a Trunk Box, an Emergency Ice Box and all the other Comforts of Home. He had learned to smell a Constable a Mile off, and whenever he ran up behind a Peewee Coffee-Grinder he went into the High and made the Cheap Machine look like a Fish. Whenever the Bobber pointed to anything short of 4 felt that he was just the same as standing still. He loved to throw up the Muffler and hit the High Spokes, never stopping until the Wheels became clogged up with Live Stock and Poultry. One day while he was breezing along the Pike at the clip, usually marking the Schedule of the Twentieth Century

London Eager For Result of The Tenders

M. P.'S TO CANADA

How the Dominion Was Affected By the Big Railway Strike—A Word for the Lemieux Act—Suggestion That All Canadian Offices in London be Grouped Together

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, Aug. 23.—Among the Canadians who have been heard in public has been Professor Robert Magill of Dalhousie University, who gave a lecture in Canada to the North of Ireland. In Scotland Senator William Gibson, who is a native of Peterhead, was the guest of prominent citizens in his Scottish birthplace. The Bishop of Calgary continues his energetic campaign on behalf of a college and other Anglican church extensions in the province of Alberta. The return of F. Orr Lewis from Montreal is believed to be connected with leaders for the building of the warships of the Dominion in a Canadian port. Great interest is manifested in the outcome of the tenders submitted by British firms especially since the unconfirmed cable report that Cannon, Laird and Co., had made the lowest bid and favored St. John as the port for the erection of their plant.

British M. P.'s Coming From London Sir William Howell Davies, M.P., for Bristol, and Lady Davies will sail for the Royal Edward next Friday. They will be joined at Montreal by Naval W. Helms, M.P., for Lancaster, and Mrs. Miss Helms, E. Parkes, M.P., for Birmingham, and Mrs. Parkes, who will also join the party. He will make a trip through to Victoria. In Vancouver they will receive the acquaintance made at the Montreal convention. Hon. R. P. McBride, and in Manitoba with Hon. R. P. Roblin and Hon. D. C. Cameron. In the west they will study the Okanagan Valley and will later pay a visit to Red Deer. The Premier had a promising development there. In Toronto they will attend the constitutional conference and will be guests of W. P. Bull, K.C., and other representatives. The fifteen women elected from fourteen synods, whose admission at last makes so decided a departure from the old precedent, were most cordially received and created a fine impression. Their leader, Mrs. Hugh Price Hughes, addressed the assembly several times very acceptably. The conference marked its approval of women as exercising authority as well as rendering service, by electing Mrs. Hughes one of the sixteen lay representatives for a term of three years.

Miss Mollie Spicer, lately appointed a deputy sheriff of Dutchess county, N. Y., is said to be the first woman in the state to hold that office. She is employed by the New York Charities Aid Association to rescue children from worthless or delinquent parents, and she is often obliged to serve warrants. As a deputy she is empowered to take whatever action is necessary.

Canada's trade with the United States fifteen years ago was $111,022,513. Last year it had increased to over $404,000,000. Are Canadians less loyal because their trade with that country increased almost four-fold in fifteen years?

ARMCHAIR REFLECTIONS

By H. L. Spencer

The youth who has just graduated from school, academy of college, is generally impressed by the thought that he has reached a very superior order, in being able to do a prodigy in erudition and know everything which man is privileged to know. But when that same youth has grown old and feeble he hobbles into his corner and soliloquizes—"What an ignorant I always have been, and still am!" "Most poets have been unhappy," said the literary youth. "Yes," replied Mr. Cumrox; "but a whole lot of people are just as unhappy as they are without expecting to be paid for talking about it."—Washington Star.

Withering Rebuke to Tories

(Dr. Andrew Mc-Pheill)

"There are certain subjects of which one does not speak unless he is compelled to. They are taken for grants, like the honor of a patriot, the virtue of a woman, the fidelity of a friend, the loyalty of a subject. And yet into this matter of trade the question of loyalty has been wantonly forced. To put it roughly, we are told that if we are allowed to trade with the United States, we shall become disloyal. This suggests that those who utter this calumny are themselves loyal for their bellies' sake. The attempt to put the stigma of disloyalty upon those who, confident in their own ability to meet the world in competition ask for nothing but freedom, gives force to the dictum of Samuel Johnson, that 'patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel.'"

ALL OVER HIM.

"You, there, in the overall," shouted the cross-examining lawyer, "how much are you paid for telling untruths?" "Less than you are," retorted the witness, "or you'd be in overall, too."—Housekeeper.

A HARD CRITIC.

"Most poets have been unhappy," said the literary youth. "Yes," replied Mr. Cumrox; "but a whole lot of people are just as unhappy as they are without expecting to be paid for talking about it."—Washington Star.

The Millions Who Don't Have Corns

Do you know that millions of people never suffer from corns? Just as soon as they feel one they attach a little Blue-jay plaster. There's no pain after that, no inconvenience. One simply forgets the corn.

In that plaster lies a bit of soft wax—the wonderful B & B wax. That gently loosens the corn, and in two days it comes out. No soreness, no feeling of any sort.

Why pare a corn at the risk of blood poisoning? Why nurse and protect it? Millions of people remove them at once. They never suffer at all. Why not you?

Father Morrissey's Lung Tonic Really Cures

Treating a cough with most "cough cures" is like repairing a leaky kettle with a piece of rag or a dab of putty. Though you succeed in stopping the leak for a little while, you never know when it may break out again, for the hole is still there.

Ordinary cough cures relieve, temporarily, the irritation in the throat, but they do not remove the cause of the cough. They do not remove the mucus in the passages, but that is not all. To tone up the whole system, especially the affected parts, restores the inflamed membranes to a healthy condition, and so strengthens them that they will not easily fall a prey to the trouble again.

Father Morrissey's No. 10 is sold in trial size bottles at 25c. and in the large regular size at 50c.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction.

ST. JOHN HAS GREATEST OPPORTUNITY OF ANY PLACE IN NORTH AMERICA

Writer in Nova Scotia Paper Predicts That This City Will Become One of the Greatest Manufacturing Centres of Canada — Gives Reasons in Detail

(Article in Wolfville (Cape Breton) paper.) One of Canada's kings of industry, speaking in St. John a few days ago about present day conditions in manufacturing, made the remark that "The man, or men, who enter the fight for existence here, cannot enter the fight for existence here, unless they have the advantage of economy of production and distribution. And to my mind you people in St. John have the greatest opportunity of any place in North America that I know of, to become the great manufacturing section of Canada. Take your raw materials, for instance, right at your back door you have an abundance of hard and soft wood timbers, birch and maple, spruce and cedar, forests that the woodman's axe has not yet penetrated.

Manufacturers' Chances "What a splendid opportunity this would be for furniture factories or wood-working factories of any description, but so far as I can learn your timber is being shipped out of the country in practically its natural state, that is, in boards and square timber. Why are you content to make the small profit and let the manufacturer in England and the United States, who buy your lumber, take the big profits on the finished article?

"Then take the iron deposits—I understand your iron ore is being shipped out in its raw state with a large percentage of impure steam coal in the immediate vicinity of the iron mines. Here again you are letting the other fellow make the profits. Your autonomy mines also, which, according to government analysis, produce the finest diamond in the world for the manufacture of printing type, and is certainly very valuable for the manufacture of patterns and dies—deposits of copper, gypsum, oil shales, natural gas, etc. One could keep on naming your raw materials for the next half hour and probably not exhaust the list, but I think I have mentioned enough to show you that you have raw materials in sufficient variety and of sufficient quantity to keep a good many factories going for a great many years.

"So much for the manufacturer's first requirement—now as to economy of production. I have already shown you that you have the raw materials at the back door of the factory, the next thing is to get labor and machinery to work these raw materials into dollars.

"You have all around you one of the finest agricultural countries on this continent—I tell you, from what I have seen of the farming districts of the Province of New Brunswick, you can grow anything you put into the soil; look at the showing you get for your New Brunswick apples last year, first prize at the Amberley, N. S., apple show in competition with the famous Annapolis Valley apple, first prize at the London, England, fruit show in competition with the world practically. But I am digressing.

The Labor Question "To get back to the question of labor—the agricultural country gives the manufacturer a source of supply of the very best class of labor. The farmer's sons and daughters accustomed to long hours and hard work take hold of factory work with an energy and intelligence not to be found in the ordinary labor obtainable in the large cities, with their congested conditions. This native labor soon develops into skilled heads of departments with an interest and spirit of co-operation in the business; this is shown by the almost total absence of labor difficulties, strikes, etc., in St. John. The manufacturer here has also another source of supply for labor in the arrival at this port of thousands of English and Scotch immigrants, making a very good labor market.

NO DYSPEPSIA, STOMACH GAS OR HEARTBURN

Diapepain Makes Your Out-of-Order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Diapepain's Digestin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards. If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, your pain is a case of Diapepain's Digestin. Get from your pharmacist a recent case of Diapepain's Digestin. There will be in your medicine bottle a small card with a food mixed with acid and heavy fat, the Diapepain's Digestin will dissolve it, the Dizziness or Intestinal griping you have will all go and your stomach will be no sour, all food left over in the stomach will be purged from your system. Diapepain's Digestin cures out-of-order stomachs because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as your stomach would do.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any grocery store. These large Digestin cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

over me. We must add to this the number of days that my factory will be shut down on account of the best such as is the case now in a number of these Upper Canadian and United States cities, which would run on uninterrupted by the whole year.

The Market "So much for economy of production, now let us see what you are going to do with the goods after they are made. As the Atlantic terminus of the trans-continental railway of Canada, you have a fine Pacific coast with a freight rate that allows you to land goods in competition with other manufacturers east of Montreal and for non-perishable goods you can be by water to Mexico and over the Trans-Canada railway around to Vancouver and get to the western market at about the same freight rate the western manufacturer has to pay on his all rail route. Being the centre of distribution for the eastern goods with your net work of branch railways radiating to all points east of Montreal, and small steamer and schooner service to the West India Islands, and competitive freight rates to the markets of the east, which for a great many manufacturers means the limit of economical operation. For the manufacturer in St. John, however, this is only a portion of his market. With your direct steamship service to the West India Islands, for instance, you have an open door to a good purchasing market requiring almost all lines of manufactured goods. Then there is your South African market, this may be a long way to ship goods, but it is a good market and with your direct steamship service to Cape Town, Durban and Port Elizabeth, at the low water freight, there is no market where you should not develop a greater market at these ports than you have. You have also direct steamship service with Australia and New Zealand ports which I understand you are taking advantage of. This also provides you with an outside market that is almost beyond the reach of the western manufacturer on account of the rail haul to the seaboard.

"In addition to these markets which I have singled out as being particularly available to the manufacturer in St. John, you have the regular sailings of I think, some fourteen lines of steamers between St. John and the ports of England, Ireland, Scotland and France. This gives you the advantage of not only being able to export your manufactured goods at the lowest possible rate of freight, but look at the immense advantage you have on the importing of raw materials; you can bring stuff in at a very low water rate and have it dumped from the steamer into your factory while we have to pay for a four or five hundred mile rail haul, beside the additional handling. It is a wonder your factories are not paying the stockholders a 35 per cent. dividend. With your advantages we could ship to the same extent as you, but I have travelled through South Africa, England, United States and Canada, but I have never seen several lines of good a combination of opportunities and facilities for successful manufacturing as you have right here in St. John, and the day is not far distant when St. John will be one of the greatest manufacturing sections of Canada.

Canada's total trade with all countries last year was valued at $759,094,369. More than half of it, or $404,137,940 was in trade with the United States. Does that fact lessen our loyalty to the Empire?

TRUE, AT SOME "Do you think a college education pays for itself?" "I hardly know. True, my daughter got engaged after a four years' course, but she might have attained the same result in two weeks at a 'beach'."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE TALE OF TWO WOBBLES. WOBBLE NUMBER ONE. Mr. Borden in March, 1900—I am IN FAVOR of a Canadian-built navy. The alternative of money contributions to Great Britain has not worked satisfactorily in Australia and has been abandoned. Mr. Borden in November, 1901—I am AGAINST a Canadian navy and for one imperial fleet. As an emergency measure, I would present the mother country with two Dreadnoughts or the cash equivalent. Mr. Borden in August, 1912—I WAS in favor of an emergency contribution, but I have no plans for the future. (London cheers from Mr. Bourassa.) WOBBLE NUMBER TWO. Mr. Borden in March, 1904—Was there any idea that the reciprocity treaty with the United States would in any way interfere with self-government in Canada? No. Then why should that treaty be so far as Great Britain concerned? Mr. Borden in July, 1905—The Reciprocity agreement makes Canada a commercial appendage of the United States and virtually surrenders the control of her destinies. It interlocks our fiscal system with that of the United States and fetters the power of Parliament to alter our tariff according to the just requirements of our people.

HAS SHAVED 60,000 CHINS

Septuagenarian Barber Finds Prize Fighters More Docile Than American Politicians

Within a few weeks, Thomas M. Leonard, the oldest barber in Philadelphia, will observe the 51st anniversary of the day when he began to scrape chins and yell "Next!" says the Philadelphia North American.

He has shaved John L. Sullivan and former Gov. Pennypacker. And now, after 51 years of experience and judgment, Leonard says he would rather shave prize fighters than politicians.

He is 71 years old and is still in a South Penn square shop. "Oh, yes, I've been in the shaving business for 51 years. I at 1 was 20 years old. I have shaved governors, judges and congressmen.

"Sen. Cameron, the secretary of war under Lincoln, used to come into my shop and have his hair shaved. He had a beard and he wanted it all off. I remember how he used to be grabbed by the middle and pounded on the floor. He wanted everything just right.

"One night John L. Sullivan came over from New York to see a sparring match at the old Miller Garden, on Vine street. After the fight he and his friends had a party and John L. didn't get up very early the next morning. Toward noon he came in to get shaved. He lay just as quiet in the chair and never asked a question nor answered one, either.

"I've also shaved Philadelphia Jack O'Brien. Prize fighters are easier to shave than politicians. They are more free and easy. "Styles have changed in 50 years. There used to be more chin whiskers and grates. Then there was a time when side whiskers were the real thing. Then, 25 years ago, every man, who could do it, started a Van Dyke. You don't see many of these any more. "And haircutting! They used to have a style of curling the hair under around the edge. The volunteer firemen used to sport a big spit curl over each ear, rowdy style.

According to Leonard's estimate, he has shaved 60,000 chins in his 51 years beside the chair. In the same period he has used the scissors on 15,000 kinky, red and other heads. "Tonsorial statisticians have calculated that a barber averages 600 strokes in each shave. An average stroke, say, is an inch long. Therefore, Leonard has stroked a distance of 37.3 miles in 51 years, or the distance from Pittsburg to Chicago. He had made 30,000,000 strokes in his career. He has cut 29 acres of hair.

Oh, for a brand of good resolutions that even a strong man couldn't break?

WHAT THE MARITIME PROVINCIAL FARMER MEANS TO YOU

THERE ARE 100,000 FARMERS IN THE MARITIME PROVINCES. Say each of these farmers grows an extra barrel of potatoes, an extra sack of meal, another steer, a couple more sheep, some half dozen additional fowl. What a tremendous increase this would be in production!

COMPUTE THESE INCREASES IN DOLLARS AND CENTS, then follow the ordinary course of such money into stores and general circulation. Who will get the benefit of it? Why Maritimers. Provincial merchants of course, after the farmer has turned his profit.

CAN OUR FARMERS LAY HANDS ON THIS MONEY NOW? It doesn't seem so. The great majority of them do not absolutely do not pay them to increase the power of their farmhands. There is no outlet for their products at home; so they sit tight and farm in what might be termed a purely household way.

OUR FARMLANDS ARE BIG ENOUGH AND RICH ENOUGH to produce the garden truck and hardier products for Canada, or all New England. There is no scarcity of territory but market possibilities are fatally limited. Once the demand is increased the alert farmer will do his share.

IT IS A LIEBEL ON MARITIME PROVINCIAL FARMERS to call them unprogressive, to refer to them as "good-enoughers" and "stand-patters." The industry of New Brunswickers, Nova Scotians and P. E. Islanders in the great western fields falls as a lie, this imputation so often heard among pessimists.

GIVE THEM A CHANCE, ENLARGE THEIR FIELD OF OPERATION, then watch the latent farmlands produce many fold. Take down the barriers between them and a vastly-populated market nearby and see the land blossom forth to untold profit. Western Canada, with all its boom as a new country, will then cease to be so alluring to our buyers.

THERE IS NO POLITICS IN THIS, NO DARK PLOT, it is a straightforward businesslike proposition, such as men are making to one another every day. Our farmers have something to sell and they need the buyers. Don't let rank partisanship, blind following of moss-grown ideas and personal canvasses knife a scheme that our producers have been waiting for a generation.

CANADA'S TOO BIG, WE HAVE TOO MUCH TO SELL to let the question of Laurier, Borden, Taft, or any other transitory man or condition, come between the upbuilding of our country and the bettering of its people. British connection is as safe as the historic rock of Gibraltar and it will be safer the stronger we become financially.

The Campaign in New Brunswick

Liberals of Charlotte county are in high feather over the prospect of a sweeping victory for W. F. Todd, on the 21st. There is great amusement over the statement of the organ of misrepresentation in St. John, that the "Victoria Harp" is developing strength in Charlotte. The man who was taken up after Cannon, Clarke and Gannon, had all said "nay," is in for a great trimming in Charlotte. Life-long Conservatives in every parish are outspoken in favor of reciprocity. It is only a question of Todd's majority.

Local Notes

The Conservatives who gathered in Carleton city hall last evening, heard speeches from H. A. Powell, L. P. D. Tilley, and Recorder Baxter, with Ald. Wignore, as chairman. This looked as though it had been difficult to secure a west side chairman. The speakers dealt with the old and tiresome arguments against Liberal administration. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Dr. Pugsley and reciprocity. Recorder Baxter was frank enough to admit that under the reciprocity agreement it was going to far to say that the winter port trade would not increase.

The erection of a paper mill in any community, he said, naturally meant increased prosperity to the section in which it was built, and the opportunities offered in New Brunswick for the carrying on of a successful paper manufacturing business under reciprocity were numerous and fruitful.

WHAT A MAN OR A STORE HAS DONE IN THE PAST IS SIGNIFICANT OF WHAT IT WILL DO IN THE FUTURE

So far as it is in control of his or its own action: If the Oak Hall Clothing Store has served you, dollar for dollar, with better merchandise than any other store for twenty years past; then it is logical to assume that dollar for dollar you will get the best merchandise here again today.

Our salesmen tell us enthusiastically that if the advance showing of Fall and Winter Clothing that we are making is a criterion of what is to follow, then the Oak Hall business ought to jump forward by leaps and bounds.

Owing to the advance in prices of labor and materials many retailers are sure to yield to the temptation to substitute cheaper grades of woollens and less careful workmanship.

This coming season the standard of quality in Oak Hall Clothing will be moved up a peg—it will be as near perfection as all these years of experience and high ideals can bring it.
