JAPS WIN GREAT VICTORY

But Lose 3,000 Men Doing It.

Russians Leave 50 Guns and 400 Men Dead On Bloody Field.

TOKIO, May 28, noon.—The Russians have abandoned Nan Qua Ling and have been driven from Manchuria, retreating towards Port Arthur. The Japanese have captured fifty cannon. The Russians left 400 dead in the Kin Chou Manshan fight. On the Japanese side the dead and wounded number 3,000.

[Reports from Russian sources published in this morning's papers placed the Japanese loss at 12,000. Even allowing for Japanese reticence and Russian exaggeration, there is a discrepancy hard to account for.]

CAPT. PORTER SAYS HE WAS MESMERISED.

Bunco Man Had Him Bewildered—He Fails to Positively Identify Prisoner as the Man Who Defrauded Him.

Hurd Blair Henderson, who is accused of playing a bunco game on Captain Porter, was placed on trial yesterday afternoon in the county court. The prisoner is represented by L. A. Curry, K. C. while Hon. H. A. McKewen is prosecuting.

The witness examined yesterday afternoon was Herbert C. Tilley, who told of leasing an office in the Imperial Building to the prisoner, Robert C. Gilmore, who testified to witnessing the lease; John McAllister, accountant for the Patton estate, who swore that he had given the prisoner authority to sell the property on Prince William street; James V. McLellan, registrar of deeds, who said that no transfer of the property in question had been made since 1890; Edward H. Conroy, executor of the Patton estate, who swore that he had given no authority to dispose of the property; and Thomas R. Steeves, who told of meeting the prisoner a number of times.

Capt. Porter was the first to take the stand this morning. It was not, however, until half an hour after the court had opened that Capt. Porter made his appearance. His honor censured him for delaying the court, and intimated that he had a good mind to fine him $100.

Capt. Porter, in his direct examination, reviewed the circumstances of his meeting with the prisoner. He narrated how the prisoner had first attempted to sell him a half share in a schooner, which proposal witness refused to take up. Witness then told of the prisoner's visit to him at the house on Prince William street, which was substantially a rehearsal of the story told in his evidence in chief. The purchase of the property was closed at the office of the Imperial building at witness having offered $500 and the prisoner promising to give a title on the following day. Witness neglected to ask for a receipt for the money, and when afterwards he was unsuccessful in finding the prisoner to get the receipt from him his suspicions were aroused. Subsequently, the prisoner confirmed him in his suspicions and when asked for the receipt of the money, he refused to give it. The prisoner, who were the only dealings witness ever had with the prisoner, were ended by the name of McKewen.

Mr. Curry then took up the cross-examination. After some preliminary questions, Mr. Curry sprung the question: "Isn't it true that you bear your association in your shipping transactions?"

Witness said that he had done very much for the prisoner, but that he was not a man. He admitted, however, when pressed closely that he had considered the prisoner a man in the name of himself and daughter. He had been unsuccessful in his real property transactions, and also in some mercantile transactions. He met with losses in taking mortgages and dropping money on them.

"Did you lose money any other way?" asked Mr. Curry.

"You ought to know," said witness, "as I generally enjoyed my losses."

He admitted that Mr. Curry had searched titles for him, though at the time he was purchasing, on the property he was purchasing.

"Were you not always scrupulously careful with purchases of property?" asked Mr. Curry.

Witness said that that was his invariable practice. He seldom attempted to purchase property of which he was not sure of the title.

"You always knew about when to get in and get out, didn't you?" asked Mr. Curry.

Witness said that probably he did. Answering other questions, he said that when prisoner approached him he was a perfect stranger to him. He had no curiosity to ask him his name. When the accused offered to sell an interest in a schooner to him witness did not like the proposition as he had dropped money in schooner property before.

County Court.—No. 3.

"Did you not encourage him to call again?"

"No, I did not."

"Were you surprised when he called again?"

"Not at all."

Witness went on to explain that the prisoner was a total stranger to him and he wanted to treat him civilly. He gave him no encouragement to return a third time, but nevertheless he came a number of times. The prisoner by this time had ceased to talk schooner and had brought up the property proposition. The prisoner simply spoke about the place on Prince William street, the witness never questioning him as to what authority he had to sell the property. He asked for no documents of title.

"Is it not your practice when purchasing property to search the title?"

Witness admitted it was before the purchase was closed. The payment of $500 in the present case was only to bind the bargain and it was witness's intention to have a search of title made afterwards.

"Did he mesmerize you?"

"A little bit," replied Capt. Porter.

"You were never so careless before where you?" coaxingly asked Mr. Curry.

"No, I guess I wasn't."

CHILD CAPTURES BIG BURGLAR.

All Alone She Found and Fought Him.

Great Courage of Eleven Year Old Girl—"She's a Corker" Said the Burglar.

PASSAIC, N. J., May 28.—Remarkable pluck and bravery exhibited by eleven-year-old Marion Miles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Miles, resulted in the capture of John Wells, a sneak thief, whom the child discovered ransacking the upper rooms of the residence at No. 191-1/2 Horne avenue, Passaic.

Little Miss Marion returned home from school shortly before four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The rear doors of the house were locked. Marion ran around to the front entrance. She suspected something was wrong and quietly closed the front door, which she found unlocked. There was no one in the lower rooms. Passing into the hall again, Marion heard a noise coming from above. She tiptoed upstairs. Fearlessly she continued and entered the door of her mother's room. Contents of bureau drawers were scattered on the floor, and closets were opened and the shelves ransacked. Valuables such as jewelry and trinkets were spread on the bed, over which a man was bending, intently examining boxes and packages.

"What do you want here?" asked little Marion in quiet tones that startled the burglar. He turned and dashed toward the window.

"You're a thief and I know it," continued the child as she ran toward him and grappled with him, at the same time shouting for help.

Wells, who is powerfully built, might have easily cast the little girl off, but her remarkable nerve shook him. She grasped him by the wrist and by his coat tails and said she would call a policeman. Wells said:—

"I'm not a burglar. I've come up here to look for something and your mamma gave me permission."

He started for the stairs, but Marion was alert. She preceded him and slammed the front door. Wells made for the dining room. Two blows aimed at her by the thief put Marion on the defensive and she lifted a heavy knife from the table, saying:—"If you try to hit me again or take any of that silverware I'll strike you with this."

Wells ran for the front door again after finding the back doors locked. The little girl grappled with him, but he cast her aside and gained the street and dashed up Horne avenue in the direction of Paulison.

"Catch that thief!" shouted the little girl, running down the porch.

John T. Smith, a school janitor, heard her cries and captured Wells. The little girl ran up as the policeman was taking Wells away and said:—"Here's his hat; I saved it."

Wells declared afterwards that the little girl was a "corker." She doesn't think she did any more than any little child should do.

MONCTON IS MAD.

Underwriters Go Too Far When They Forbid City to Buy Canadian Fire Engine.

(Special to the Star.)

MONCTON, N. B., May 28.—Considerable indignation is expressed in civic and business circles here on the receipt of the following telegram:

St. John, N. B., May 27th, '04.

City Clerk, Moncton, N. B.

Gentlemen:—I am sorry to hear of your proposed purchase of a Canadian fire engine. (Signed) PETER CLINCH.

The board of fire insurance underwriters, who it is thought, are going altogether too far in dictating to the city that it should not purchase a Canadian fire engine. The underwriters recently made an imperative demand that the second water main should be finished by July 1st and that a chemical engine should be purchased, otherwise the rates would be increased. The council made haste to reply and decided to purchase a Waterous engine at a cost of about $2,000. Now the underwriters step in to dictate to the city that a Yankee-made engine shall be bought at a cost of five dollars more, though it is believed that the Canadian engine is just as good. Unless the underwriters can give some good reason for their latest dictating to this city there will likely be some vigorous kicking.

POLICE COURT.

In the police court this morning four drunks were fined and, strange to say, all paid up and departed in peace. Robert Forde, an Englishman, who says he served ten years in the army, and when his name was called came to his feet like a veteran, was fined $8. He had been very drunk and after being placed in the Water street lockup smashed the door. He has been working at Clarendon. He had six dollars, and paying that was allowed to go.

FURIOUS DRIVING.

Robert Burns, the caretaker of the Suspension Bridge, has reported Hazen Brown, of No. 5 Hope Co.; Alex. Johnston, of No. 4 and H. B. Alward, of No. 3, for furious driving on the bridge. The men who, when the offense was committed, were on the way to the Fairville fire, have been reported to be in court next Wednesday.

Dr. T. F. Johnston has been reported by the police for furious driving at the corner of King and Germain streets. The officers who reported him say he almost ran them down.

FREE SCHOOL BOOKS.

Since 1850, P. E. I. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have increased in population much more rapidly than Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Maine 1850 1880 1890 1900 New Brunswick 220,425 320,425 340,425 360,425 Nova Scotia 120,425 140,425 160,425 180,425 P. E. I. 20,425 22,425 24,425 26,425

The three New England states increased in 70 years, 1-3 per cent. the three Canadian provinces, 224 1-2 per cent. Yet, despite this poor showing of Vermont and New Hampshire, we find these states rich enough to provide free text books to all their school children.

We all pursue the old habit, the text books are printed in Ontario and then distributed here and throughout the province by the hundreds of book stores.

The school taxes we pay are large, but it would be better to have them a little larger and provide the school books free.

The school board of each town and district would be the distributor to the different schools. We would get the books at a low wholesale price and would save the profits and commissions now paid to several hundred middlemen.

About seventy per cent. of the children of work people are forced to leave school at fourteen years of age and the books they now bought for the thirteen year old scholars are wasted after the first year.

We have an argument for free school books in the fact that in the following states of the United States furnish free text books to the scholars of the common schools:

District of Columbia appropriates also a sum for tools, machinery, etc., for instruction in manual training.

In the states of Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York free text books are given, employing competent persons as lecturers, for the benefit of working men and women, and a sum appropriated for the purchase of books, charts, etc. Subjects: Natural sciences and kindred subjects.

GOVERNMENT'S MAJORITY 46.

Final Vote on the Grand Trunk Pacific Bill was 105 to 46.

—A Warm Session.

OTTAWA, May 27.—The passing of the Grand Trunk Pacific bill, a long and arduous task, was accomplished today, when the House of Commons voted 105 to 46 in favor of the bill.

It was a 4 a. m. when the division was taken. The amendment was lost, 58 voting for and 105 against—a majority of 46 for the government.

At ten minutes past four o'clock Mr. Haggart moved another amendment. It was that the right of foreclosure of bonds guaranteed on the western division be retained by the government in spite of anything in the agreement. This was lost on the same division.

On the motion of Mr. Haggart, the House then adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Mr. Wilfrid Laurier said that as long as he was at the head of the government any document that was marked confidential would not be made public by him without the consent of the writer. There was considerable cheering.

The amendment was lost on the same division.

Ingram (East Elgin) moved an amendment that if the government take over the eastern division at the expiration of the lease the government should have running powers over the western division branches.

At 5:30 a. m. the vote on the main motion was taken and the transcontinental bill was passed by a vote of 105 to 46.

Having sat until 5:30 this morning the House was not in condition to transact business this afternoon, so it contented itself with dealing in semi-jocular way with estimates of the minister of agriculture.

The debate continued round two cases of whiskey, which Fisher as apostle of temperance tamely attempted to defend, said whiskey being charged among the items of the recent exhibition at Wolverhampton, England.

Before the House adjourned this afternoon till Monday, Borden of Halifax, called attention to a serious omission in Haggart's report of his speech last night and repeated his remarks in brief, so that they would be properly entered up on the official record.

It is understood that after private business on Monday afternoon, consideration of agricultural estimates will be resumed. Fielding announced this afternoon that the budget would be brought down before Thursday of next week, even if then.

WITH ADVERTISERS. Tonight and Monday great reduction sale of this season's ladies' ready-to-wear hats by F. W. Daniel Co., Charlotte street.

One dry goods store in St. John is contributing to the pleasure of the making purchasing a pleasant, rather than an irksome duty. Their advertisement on the last page of this issue calls attention to the way in which they are doing this. A perusal of that advertisement will repay every reader.

CARRY IS HERE.

She Has Not Talked Much Yet, But Will Have a Chance Tonight.

Carry A. Nation is in the city. She was among the first to alight from the late train last night and with a beaming smile she stepped into the depot where she entered a coach and drove to the Ottawa Hotel.

As Mrs. Nation neared the picket gate her gaze fell upon two or three men standing near some baggage trucks smoking—yes smoking the vile stuff, which only a few weeks ago in this very town, she had denounced in the strongest terms.

For an instant she seemed to hesitate, but hurried on, while the objects of her scorn puffed away, all unconscious of the humiliating lecture, which they had miraculously escaped.

Since leaving St. John Mrs. Nation has travelled considerably and has spent some weeks in a dime museum in Chicago, receiving as a recompense for her services the handsome sum of three hundred dollars a week.

When she left this city she said she was going away feeling that much good had resulted from her work here and that God would bless her efforts in St. John.

Nation will deliver three addresses while in the city, one in Carlton this evening, the other two in the afternoon and evening, Monday night she speaks in Sackville.

REV. C. T. PHILLIPS RESIGNS.

Rev. C. T. Phillips, who has been for five years pastor of the Waterloo street Free Baptist church, has tendered his resignation. It is said that Mr. Phillips has found the care of a city congregation a rather heavier strain than his previous charges, and has concluded to ask for release, to take effect at the end of September. It cannot be said that Mr. Phillips is a restless pastor, or that his congregations have been dissatisfied. He has been thirty-five years in the ministry and Waterloo street is his third pastorate.

For fifteen years Mr. Phillips was pastor of the Free Baptist church at Sussex. His succeeding pastorate at Woodstock was of exactly the same length. Mr. Phillips came to St. John on the retirement of the late Rev. J. A. Clarke in 1889.

He was previously well known to the city readers of the Free Baptist, by reason of his contributions of bright and racy articles. "What the Deacon Said" was an interesting feature in the intelligence of later years.

Mr. Phillips is also a Saturday contributor to the St. John Star.

He joined the New Brunswick Historical Society shortly after his arrival, and is now a member of the executive and a regular attendant at the meetings.

His paper on the history of the Provincial Lunatic Asylum, which was published in the last issue of the Historical Society, Mr. Phillips is now president of the Evangelical Alliance of the Maritime Provinces.

He has been actively connected with the work of the Associated Churches and is identified with many city interests and activities.

In his own church Mr. Phillips is greatly beloved. He is a man of quick and impulsive sympathy, with a genial and cheerful disposition. His reading covers a wide range, and his preaching is fresh, individual and vigorous.

UNWRITTEN STORIES.

How would I like to read the story of the man who found drifting in a boat in mid ocean. He was too weak to tell his story and even as we wait the blistered lips with the water he had thrifted for, he died.

We never knew his name; his nationality and age we could not conjecture. From what port had he sailed? Where was his home? Who would watch for his home coming? Where were his comrades? Where the ship to whom this dead man and the nameless boat belonged? How long had he drifted and looked for the sail he never saw? How long had he hungered; how long thirsted? Did he pray; did he curse? At sunset we buried him and his story had never been told.

Three men are clinging to an over-turned boat nearly a mile from the shore. The water is rough and it chills them, and only strong men who to all they can help each other can keep their insecure position. One of them sees that there is only one chance for possible rescue he must jump up and shout for help and get help, and freed from his weight the others can more easily keep their hold upon the boat. He thinks it over. Strong swimmer as he is, can he make the shore and get help, and will his friends have strength to keep their hold until help comes?

And then, having reached his decision, he tells them and although they know that he can never reach the shore he cannot be persuaded, and, bidding them never to forget, in his dreams for many a year he will make that race with death again and, by a fraction, win. That story can be told.

But the story of that last half hour when the over-turned boat will never be written. Of their thoughts of home and the dear ones there they would see no more. Of their prayers and their good-byes and their last look on sky and shore—God knows.

AN INTERESTING CASE.

In which the Sale of Ale in a Scott Act Town is Involved.

An interesting case before the county court is that of Simon Jones, Esq., v. A. J. Laviole. Anselm Gauthier, a well known contributor to the county treasury, was given through an agent, when the draft fell due it was found that there were no funds to pay it. Hence the present action. The defence is relying on the fact that the defendant is a Westmorland, a Scott act county, and that the defendant is a vendor.

They were aware when they sold the liquor that it was to be sold within the county they cannot now enforce payment. Laviole keeps a restaurant, and the liquor was bought to sell to their customers. The defence has provided the agent who took care of the case was aware of this fact, and on those grounds refuse to pay. It is contended on the other hand that Jones as principal was not aware that the liquor was to be sold. As to whether this article then to enforce payment has yet to be decided by his honor Judge Forbes.

Witnesses have been heard, but counsel have yet to argue the case, and it is expected that judgment will be delivered next week.

Similar cases have cropped up in the province before, but considering the number of Scott act counties they are not frequent. The judgment will be of interest to a number of brewers, as this is practically a test case. Most of the ale and liquor people doing business here have accounts in Scott act counties, and if the present case goes against the plaintiff it will put an end to the sale of long Island beer in the future for sale only.

ILLICIT DISTILLING.

Collector T. H. Dwyer and John T. Kelley, of the inland revenue department have returned from Kent county, where they were assessing the tax on the production of Geo. Guthrie, of Acadiaville, who is charged with operating an illicit distillery. Guthrie claims that the Kent county court has no jurisdiction in the case as his business here has accounts in Scott act counties, and if the present case goes against the plaintiff it will put an end to the sale of long Island beer in the future for sale only.

The line between the two counties runs through Guthrie's farm and a survey will be made to settle the dispute.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Heavy thunder storms are reported to have taken place yesterday, on the river and its tributaries. At Fredericton the storm lasted about one and a half hours. At Upper Gaspeville, Etabrooks' store was struck by lightning, both windows having been broken. At the head of Long Island the lightning destroyed the chimney on the house of a man named Henry.

There is a sale of Ladies' Misses and Children's Headwear, also Infants' Headwear, at the store of J. K. Storey, 155 Union street.

Woman's World.

NEW HAT SHAPES.

Hats of rose straw are among the novelties. These are trimmed with straw roses and loops of straw. Blue is much worn, from the darkest to the lightest shades. Pale green will become more and more popular as warmer days approach. Mauves and purples relieved with cream white are the fashion in crepe de chine and four-holes. The darker greys in soft silks, relieved with cut steel buckles and buttons, promise to be even more the fashion than the lighter shades.

Some of the new light cloth gowns show old fashioned black velvet trimmings, and others have equally old fashioned decorations of killed taffeta outlined with gold or silver thread and set in floral design.

Gold and silver braid and buttons are to be seen on many costumes this season, both on dressy ones and on serge and cheviot. Chief among these seen recently was a pongee made with many tucks and a suspension of Oriental embroidery. The wide girdle was clasped with a wide gilt buckle, and tiny, beautifully worked gold buttons appeared on the waist and sleeves.

HINTS ABOUT HATS.
Do not buy a hat unless you have tried it on before a chival glass. It must suit your figure as well as your face. A very short woman is ridiculous in an immense hat unless she is pretty and graceful enough to be piquant. On the other hand, a woman who is far too tall is nothing less than overwhelming in a high picture hat. There is a certain balance between the headpiece and the figure, and this balance must be preserved. Your own good taste will guide you in this matter.

Color has laws so subtle that only long study can make you sure of them. The general laws are affected by a slight tint of complexion. You must learn the colors that are yours, and then never, on peril of your beauty, depart from them. You have dark and even colors, dark and light colors, and you must know what they are.

The old rule of "match your hat by day and your eyes by night" is now regarded as almost meaningless. Experiment proved its mistakes in many cases.

THE CARE OF LAMPS.
There are few things among the details of housekeeping that require more careful attention and yet, as a rule, do not get it, than lamps. It is not only in the country, where they are used in these days of electric lights, that are still many of them used, but in the city, where they are used in the same soft and pleasing effect as a good lamp.

Many people, of course, object to them on account of the trouble involved. And it is certainly true they cannot be satisfactorily kept without some trouble. So anyone to whom the saving trouble is of more importance than artistic or home-like effect will do better to let them alone. But the housekeeper who is willing to put some work into the achieving of her effects will not find the care of her lamps a great burden.

The first requisite is that they should be clean. Every time a lamp is filled every bit of oil must be carefully wiped off, as well as every bit of burnt wick or any other speck of dirt. Besides this, to get best results, the burner should be boiled once a month, in water in which some washing soda has been added. After the boiling the burner must be thoroughly dried in every part.

Another important matter is not to let the wicks get too short. All straight wicks should be much longer than the depth of the oil receptacle of the lamp, and the round wicks should reach quite to the bottom. When they become any shorter than this throw them away and buy new ones.

Then, in filling the lamp, one must be very careful about the oil. The wick must be very clean and all the burnt part rubbed off each time. Rubbing is better than cutting, although it is sometimes necessary to trim it a little with the scissors.

Next there is the chimney to think about. That, too, must always be absolutely clean. Nothing will more quickly dim the light of a lamp than a smoky or otherwise dirty chimney. If one has been left unwashed for some time, when the washing is finally done the light will be so brilliant that it will scarcely seem possible one is using the same lamp.

Some people say that a little salt put in the oil will make the flame of a lamp much brighter, but this is, of course, not among the necessary parts of the care of a lamp. A little point very apt to be forgotten is that the lamp should not be absolutely full of oil at any time. In filling it always stop with the oil a little below the top.

A strict following of these directions can be counted on to secure satisfactory results with any good lamp. But most housekeepers will find that the real success they must do the work themselves.—Examiner.

CARING FOR THE TEETH.
We have often seen those who have regular features, but whose appearance was far from being inviting because the teeth were dark and discolored. When we consider that the general health and comfort as well as the appearance depends in a great measure on the condition of the teeth, we often wonder why they are so sadly neglected by a vast number of people.

If the teeth were kept clean, it will prevent decay, make them last twice as long, and keep the breath sweet and wholesome. The proper method of doing this is to give them a thorough brushing every morning and evening. An excellent wash for the teeth is made by two ounces of powdered borax in two pints of water, and one tablespoonful of spirits of camphor and bottle until ready for use, and put one half a wineglassful in one gill of tepid water. The brush should be soft and pliable, so it will not injure the gums, yet stiff enough to thoroughly cleanse the teeth. Remove any particles that may lodge between the teeth by pressing a piece of sheet rubber, such as dentists use, edgewise between them, and pulling it back and forth until the particles are removed. The inside of the teeth need cleansing as much as the outside, but is often neglected.

Unsound or decayed teeth are a menace to the general health and cause intense pain. Filling decayed teeth often preserves them indefinitely, and they should be attended to as soon as any indication is noticed. If, upon examination, an aching tooth is found to be too far gone to be filled it should be taken out as soon as possible.

When tartar has formed upon the teeth, it sometimes requires a vigorous and persistent effort to remove it. Make a tooth powder by mixing an equal quantity of ground chalk, or is root and carbonate of magnesia. Use this first, then follow by a wash made as follows: Dissolve one ounce of borax in four quarts of water, add one drachm of tincture of myrrh and ten drops each of essence of clove and wintergreen. Shake well and use freely for use. This removes all tartarous adhesions, arrests decay and induces healthy action of the gums. It should be used at least once a day.—E. J. C. in the Religious Herald.

CLEANING FEATHERS AT HOME.

Owing to the frequency with which it is turned over to the professional cleaner, a white or pale-tinted plume becomes something of a luxury. If the feminine contingent only realized how easily these pretty ornaments can be cleaned at home quite as well as they can be done by the professional, they would not be so much inclined to the latter course.

Nothing more difficult to obtain than soap and clean water is necessary to clean an ostrich tip in a thoroughly scientific manner. If the plume is fully done, the plume will stand an infinite number of "shampoos" without showing the least signs of wear. Here is the simple process:

Make a lather with warm water and a good white soap. Fill a bowl with this and dip the plume into it. Wipe it thoroughly saturated with the tip through the fingers. Repeat a number of times if the feather is very soiled.

Now rinse thoroughly in clear water, making sure that no vestige of soap remains. Put on a white apron or cover the knees with a clean towel and gently pat the plume into shape until dry. Curl with a blunt knife.

WASHING EMBROIDERY.
In washing embroidered pieces, make a suds with good white soap before putting in the linen, and rub the soiled places with a brush. Immerse in several waters, for it is the soap which affects the colors, and makes the linen brittle. Only a single piece of work should be washed at a time, as embroidered articles should not be kept long in water, and the water, being hot, will press the water out with the hand, stretch and continue ironing on the wrong side until perfectly dry. The article will retain its shape. Laundered in this way the linen will be beautifully brought out.—The Filgrim.

ORANGE CAKE.
Beat three eggs and five ounces of sugar to a cream, add six ounces of pastry flour, in which a teaspoonful of baking powder is mixed, also the grated rind of one orange. Beat all well together, and bake in a quick oven for a quarter of an hour. When the cake is cold, ice it as follows: Squeeze the juice of a good sized orange and mix it smoothly with half a pound of icing sugar. Pour this over the cake and place in an oven, with the door open, to harden.

A WRONG IDEA.
Some active women, who pride themselves in housekeeping, seem to forget that the object of keeping house is that human beings may be accommodated in it. Their sole idea seems to be this, that the house may be kept in a certain form and order, and to the performance of the form and order they sacrifice the comfort the house was established to secure.

CHEESE PUFFS.
Beat the whites of two eggs till stiff and dry, add one cup of rich uncolored cream, cheese finely grated, season with a dash of cayenne and a few drops of vinegar, then stir in some fine sifted, soft bread crumbs, merely to hold the eggs and cheese together. Make into small balls and cook quickly in deep smoking hot fat. Drain and serve hot.

The newest leather belts are very wide. They are in white as well as in colors, and are finished with a gold or leather buckle. A narrow gold belt made of folds of gold ribbon has a long, straight gold buckle at the back, while in front it fastens with a small diamond-shaped buckle.

A dark-blue suit is trimmed with bands of linen color, striped with fine gold braid, and has small gold buttons at each strap.

THUNDER STORM.
CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., May 27.—A heavy electrical storm passed over this province today. The house of Henry Guernsey, farmer, three miles from Charlottetown, was struck by lightning, destroying the chimney, damaging the kitchen stove and killing a dog chained outside. The family was at breakfast at the time and escaped injury. Mrs. Guernsey left the house and was surprised to find the stove pipe following her into the dining room.

The house of John Morris, Mill Cove, ten miles from Charlottetown, was also struck, one and being completely demolished. All the occupants were absent.

HE BROKE IT QUENTLY.
(New York Post).
Danny O'Brien worked on the section, and was a tender-hearted man, as ever got drunk and cracked a pate with a shillelagh. At the time of Pat Murphy's great misfortune Danny was chosen by the section gang to break the news gently to Mrs. Murphy.

"Good mornin', Mrs. Murphy," said he. "Did ye hear about Pat?"

"I heard nothing about him since breakfast," she answered.

"Did he seem to be all right then?" "Sure he did."

"Nothin' at all. Phewy de ye ask?" "Well I hear that his mind do be wanderin' a little."

"An' phewy de ye mean be that?" "I mean he have lost his reason, Mrs. Murphy."

"Lost his reason, is it? An' how did he do that?"

"Well, Mrs. Murphy," said Danny, scratching his head, "I don't know exactly. Ye see, I wasn't close by when it happened. But I do be hearin' from the rest of the b'ys that he fell across the track an' a train cut his head off."

WAS KNOWN IN ST. JOHN.
Andrew Proutfoot, who was stricken with paralysis some months ago, died on Saturday, May 28th, at his home, Mount Pisgah. The deceased was of Scottish descent, being a native of Perthshire. He came to Quebec in 1845, where he spent a short time, coming from there to Nova Scotia. Finally he settled near Hampton, in this province. He was then made superintendent of stores for the government, in the building of the I. C. R. from St. John to Sussex. He charged his responsible duties with much credit and satisfaction. On the completion of the road in 1883 he went to Mount Pisgah, where he spent an unbroken wilderness. THE BERWICK TRAGEDY.
KENTVILLE, N. S., May 27.—No new developments took place in the Robbison tragedy today. After the inquest yesterday Robbison was brought back to jail by the Berwick constables and will remain until he is brought up for his preliminary trial. It has not yet been determined when this trial will take place as some evidence of importance which will throw considerable light on the suspected murder, is now being sought. The prisoner has not yet been served with the warrant for the charges under which he has been held since he was committed to custody. The preliminary trial will be held before Superintendent Magistrate Macdonald and it is generally believed that the evidence from the inquest at Berwick will be sufficient to place Robbison on trial before the supreme court, which is to be held here the first week in June. The prisoner is keeping his own counsel and does not talk much. He however, seems to fear that every one is against him and that he will not have a fair trial.

NEW MILL.

PICTURE POST CARDS.

(From the London Chronicle).

There has been some discussion lately as to who invented the picture post card, and the fad has been traced back to a German, who first gave it to the world, and sold it in 1873. But the idea of the thing is very much older than that, and even some of the modern manifestations seem to have been traced many years ago. Leonardo says that "political caricatures, which were probably Italian in their origin, came into fashion in England during the reign of the Saxons, and the picture cards, which were for a time exceedingly popular, were invented by George Townshend in 1526."

"It wouldn't be a bad idea."

"Look here! Suppose you give me an exact description of the kind of girl you want instead of letting me do the guessing!"

"Let me see," was the pensive rejoinder. "You'd better send one who is about five feet four inches high, weighs about 120 pounds, has a head of a hundred and thirty pounds and—rather short-waisted."

The clerk gave a grasp of astonishment and then added:

"Would you mind telling me what you discharged the last girl for?"

"We didn't discharge her," he said sadly. "She left. My wife's bicycle wouldn't fit her."

C. P. R. AND CITY CAN'T AGREE.

Agreement Re Wharves May Fall Through.

C. P. R. Refuse to Give Up the Water Lots in Exchange for New Wharf Site.

General Supt. Downie of the C. P. R. called on His Worship Mayor White this morning in reference to the much talked of agreement between the city and the C. P. R. Mr. Downie visited the city fathers through his worship that the C. P. R. would not comply with certain clauses in the agreement that had been submitted to them, after being approved by the council.

There are one or two minor differences and both his worship and Mr. Downie are of the opinion that they will be easily settled, but there is one point upon which it looks as if the bargain would certainly split.

The C. P. R. refuse to re-convey to the city the water lots granted them on the first contract in exchange for the property they now desire to acquire, situated between the present wharf and Rodney slip.

The mayor asked Mr. Downie to inform the C. P. R. authorities that the city would insist on the C. P. R. giving up the 1600 foot stretch down the bar in exchange for the property they now want.

Until this point is settled nothing more will be done. There is a feeling that the C. P. R. want too much, and that it is time they were shut down on and made to pay for what privileges they want.

Mr. Downie was, of course, unauthorized to make any reply to his worship without first consulting with President Shaugnessy and others.

57th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. William Peters Enjoy Unique Celebration—Both are Well and Hearty.

Mr. and Mrs. William Peters, of Waterloo street, probably enjoy the longest married life of any couple in the city. Few married people live to boast of what was their people's privilege yesterday, the celebration of the fifty-seventh anniversary of their marriage. Though beyond the three score year and ten mark, Mr. and Mrs. Peters are both in the enjoyment of health and happiness, and there is every possibility that they will be spared to each other for many years to come.

At the home of their son-in-law, Wm. Peters, Jr., last evening, Mr. and Mrs. Peters were the honored in a unique gathering. It was by no means a gathering of cronies, for the presence of many childish faces gave a brightening effect to the occasion and added to the pleasure of the elderly couple in whose honor the gathering was held. Mr. and Mrs. Peters, in the midst of children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, felt peculiarly blessed and happy.

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Peters took place fifty-seven years ago yesterday, at the residence of the bride's father, Benjamin J. Underhill. Mr. Underhill's residence stood on the present site of the Roman Catholic Cathedral, Waterloo street.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters have living six children, twenty-two grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. The children are: Fred A., Jr., a stock broker, of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia; Geo. B., of Worcester, Mass.; Mrs. Hamilton, wife of Dr. Hamilton, of Victoria, B. C.; Mrs. William Peters, Jr., of this city; Mrs. C. F. Baker, of Randolph; and Mrs. Ernest DeWolf, of this city.

Mr. Peters comes of a Loyalist stock. He was born in Queen's county, New Brunswick. Fifty-eight years ago he left to try his fortune in the city. He opened up a small business at Indian town, whence he removed a year or two later to Charlotte street and started a large grocery and provision store. In a few years he left this to go into the tannery business, which he has continued ever since. Where the Opera House stands now, Mr. Peters once carried on a large tanning establishment. Disposing of the property to his advantage he erected the building which is now the White candy factory, and there up to within a few years ago his business was conducted. His present tannery is located at 286 Union street.

MISSING MAN TURNED UP.

Went For a Walk Last Tuesday and Came Back Today—Says This is a Fine Country.

About a year ago Hans Pedersen arrived from Copenhagen and went to work with W. & K. Pedersen, florists, whose conservatories are situated on the Sandy Point Road. He was a quiet young fellow and very attentive to his work. On Tuesday, Victoria Day, work was suspended at the greenhouses and young Pedersen was given a holiday.

It did not seem to interest him much, but during the forenoon he said that he thought he would have a look about the country and strolled off through the woods near Mr. Pedersen's house. As it was unusual for him to be away more than a few hours at a time considerable uneasiness was felt when he did not return by dark. This feeling of unrest and uncertainty as to the whereabouts of young Pedersen greatly worried his friends who searched in vain for him and it was to their great relief that he turned up about nine o'clock this morning.

He had little to say as to where he had been, confining himself to the statement that this was a nice country and that he had just been looking about. He was sorry that his absence had occasioned any anxiety. He was all right and did not seem why anyone should worry.

During his tramp Pedersen says he called at several farm houses and in each case was well received.

He says this certainly is a fine country.
