BRITISH EMPIRE NOW MEANS MORE TO CANADIANS; BERLIN WILL PUBLISH SECRET DOCUMENTS; AMERICAN OFFICER ORDERED FROM ITALIAN CAFE

Italian Press Comments

Regardless of Political Leanings All Stand Behind Premier Orlando in His Reply to Wilson.

BELIEVE PRESIDENT ENDANGERS PEACE

Accused of Disloyalty in Seeking Glory for Himself at the Expense of Bleeding, Suffering Italy.

American Officer Ordered To Leave Italian Restaurant

Paris, April 25. (By The A. P.)—An American officer who arrived here today from Rome says the feeling against Americans in Rome is very bitter. He asserts that he was asked in Rome to leave cafes because the Italian officers declined to eat in the same places with Americans.

Rome, April 25.—The reply of Premier Orlando to President Wilson apparently has made a deep impression on the Italian press, and virtually every Italian newspaper devotes much editorial comment to the Premier's statement.

The Popolo Romano, says: "Italy replies as one man to her king and her government, who cling with unwavering tenacity to their sacred and impregnable national rights."

After describing the Premier's reply as a proud and thrilling document, the Corriere d'Informazioni says: "The American people cannot be in agreement with a man who so haughtily arrogates to himself the right to decide the fate of Europe against the wishes of its governments and its peoples."

The Idea Nazionale declares that not one Italian would dare to sign a peace as proposed by President Wilson. The Italia considers that President Wilson has, perhaps irremediably jeopardized the peace of the world.

The newspapers announce that patriotic societies are urging the Italian people to address an appeal to the American people and the American Senate and House of Representatives.

"Long Live America, Down With Wilson," was the watchword of various demonstrations in Rome last night.

"Italy," says the Epoca, "fought a desperate war and sustained sacrifices for the purest ideals, the realization of which is jeopardized by the unreasonable obstinacy of President Wilson."

The Tempo in an editorial says: "We are confronted with a serious and committed in cold blood against us, and we will need to summon all our dignity to reply to the cruel provocation. President Wilson is not America. We appeal to the American people."

The Messaggero accuses President Wilson of disloyalty in seeking glory for himself at the expense of Italy.

The Corriere de La Serra, of Milan, says: "Can President Wilson, who repeatedly has allowed the Magna Charta of his fourteen points to be torn to pieces; who suffered freedom of the seas to stumble at the bottom of the ocean; who violated and allowed to be violated the rights of nationalities all over Europe; who calmly watched the letting loose of the fiercest imperialistic cupidities in the colonial domains in Asia; who has yet to make clear the meaning and the object of his attitude in the face of the atrocities and crimes committed against the whole of the people in Russia; who, under pressure of a brutally professed egotism, disavowed the very spirit of his work by causing the Monroe Doctrine to be inscribed among the statutes of the League of Nations, and who, finally was unwilling to admit the equality of races, and placed the Japanese in an inferior class of humanity—can he, after all this, still cherish the illusion of finding in the waters of the Adriatic the justice lost at Paris?"

FIRE DESTROYS MINTO PROPERTY

Fredricton, N.B., April 25.—The Macmann hotel block of buildings consisting of the Macmann House, stables and the general store conducted by Fred D. Macmann, at Minto, in the Grand Lake coal mining district, have been entirely destroyed by fire. The loss is $50,000; insurance $9,000.

CAPT. BARKER RECEIVES CANE FROM MONTREAL

Commander of War Redcap Was the First to Inaugurate St. Lawrence Navigation for the Season.

WELL KNOWN ON ST. JOHN WATERFRONT

Atlantic Winter Port Was Represented at the Presentation Gathering by Provincial Secretary of the Navy League.

Special to The Standard. Montreal, April 25.—Wearing on his sleeve the King's decoration, indicating that he suffered an attack by an enemy U-boat while on duty, Capt. Robert Barker, of the steamer War Redcap, was today presented with the gold headed cane given by the Harbor Commission each spring to the commander of the first ocean going vessel to enter the harbor after the closed winter season, thus inaugurating navigation on the St. Lawrence and the shipping season of the Port of Montreal.

Capt. Barker is known around St. John harbor front, and his last Canadian port of sailing was St. John when he loaded a cargo of seed grain to take to the Serbians.

The presentation took place at noon and the ceremony had a particular interest to St. John, as the Atlantic winter port was represented at the gathering by C. B. Allen, provincial secretary of the Navy League. Mr. Allen referred to the very successful trip up the St. Lawrence, and wished the port of Montreal a big season.

The present is Capt. Barker's first trip up the St. Lawrence, and besides having the honor of being the first commander to bring his vessel up this season, he also has the record for earliest arrival in nine years. It is also a peculiar fact that, with the exception of 1917, the first vessel coming to port each of the other war years was one that was making its first trip up the St. Lawrence.

The commander of the War Redcap has had an eventful career during the war. His first encounter was with a U-boat in the Arctic Ocean when the vessel he was then commanding was torpedoed on the way to Archangel. He and his crew were adrift in their boats for sixteen hours before they were picked up. His next encounter with enemy submarines was in the Mediterranean when his ship was one of three to be sunk.

When the War Redcap left St. John on her last outward trip Capt. Barker's objective was Fiume, the port in the Adriatic which is at present causing the strained relations at the Paris peace conference. He called at Gallipoli to get a pilot to take his vessel to the strait which connects the fields of the Adriatic. Fiume was reached without mishap, but the political situation was extremely critical at that time and only relief ships were permitted to enter. The War Redcap, however, was one of only three British ships to go into the port.

THE DOMINION GOVT EXPECTS TO HAVE DRAFT OF TERMS

If Received, as Anticipated, it Will be Released for Publication Same Time as at Washington.

Ottawa, April 25.—It was learned tonight that the Dominion Government expects to receive the detailed draft of the peace terms. If the draft is received here, as anticipated, it will be released for publication at Ottawa the same time as at Washington. Just what that will be it is of course impossible to say at present.

It is known that the G. N. W. telegraph company has been notified to be in readiness to copy the terms at any time, and it was understood today that the despatch would come to come in tomorrow morning. It is stated tonight that a day or two may elapse before the treaty comes to come over the wires. It has been stated in Paris cables that the draft of the treaty will contain at least twenty-five thousand words.

MUSQUASH HONORS RETURNED SON

Musquash, April 25.—A warm welcome was tendered Gunner J. F. Odell Musquash, when about a hundred of his friends gathered to extend him a hearty greeting home. A short address was given by Rev. W. H. Leane, which was much appreciated and enjoyed by all. Dancing, music and a dainty lunch brought the pleasant

LIBERALS ARE OBSTRUCTING RAILWAY BILL

Daily Growing More and More Apparent That the Opposition Was Based Upon Antagonism to Gov't Ownership.

ACTING PREMIER JUMPS INTO ARENA

Calls a Spade a Spade and Trims Out the Opposition on Their Position and Asks Them to Undo One of Their Wrongs.

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, Ont., April 25.—For three days the Opposition has been obstructing and fighting the Government's bill which provides for the formation of a Canadian National Railway Company to operate the Dominion's public owned systems. It was daily growing more and more apparent that the Opposition was based upon antagonism to Government ownership. Yesterday, the veiled hostility on this ground became quite open when Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux declared a final outburst in this chamber, to be followed by a speech, which was cheered loudly by his supporters. Sir Thomas White could stand it no longer and jumped into the arena in the best fighting speech of the session. He did not beat around the bush, but called a spade a spade.

"The incentive behind this Opposition to this bill," he declared, "has been revealed by the speech of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux. Private ownership, but not public ownership, has been contending in this chamber for past three days. I do not mean to say that there may not be a few members opposite in favor of public ownership, but Mr. Mackenzie had to rely for a following in public opinion, he would not have a corporal's guard."

Continuing his flaying of the Opposition leaders, Sir Thomas asked: "Are we going to give public ownership a chance for its life, or are we going to strangle it in this chamber? There is more liberalism in one row on this side than in the whole Opposition," he proceeded, in a remark which drew forth prolonged applause and cheers. "What made the railways bankrupt? Private ownership and politics. They call us Huns, Goths, and vandals for our railway policy. They are people who destroy things. We are trying to build up the railways and make them fruitful. It is a chance for the opposition to help us in the duty of the Government. Ownership is responsible for the overburdening of this country. I appeal to the honorable gentlemen opposite to take some pride in Government ownership, and try to save these children of theirs."

Sir Thomas added, amid laughter and cheers, that when he became finance minister he found two half-starved babies on the door step. They were "puffy, emaciated dirty ragged muffs." He had nourished and washed them. Now they were not half-starved any more. All he had got was abuse for his pains from the unnatural parents opposite. He pleaded with them not to listen longer to the promptings of private enterprises.

Sir Thomas' speech made a striking impression on the House. The Unionists cheered loudly. Mr. Lemieux and Mr. Mackenzie both denied opposition antagonism to public ownership, but were unable to offset the strong impression produced by the Acting Premier's effective effort.

Evening to a close. Three cheers were given for the returned hero, all showing how much they appreciated his safe return home.

Montreal Strikers And Employers Failed To Agree

Montreal, April 25.—Attempts made today to compromise the differences between the city carters and the employers failed. The number of employees on strike in the city is now about 10,000, including carters and freight handlers, hotel cooks and cleaners. A new strike was declared this afternoon when 230 men, belonging to the Cap Makers' Union, walked out after demands for a forty-four hour week and a $3 increase were refused.

Premier Orlando Expected Back For Peace Congress

Paris, Thursday, April 24 (By The Associated Press)—Not a rupture, but a suspension of Italy's collaboration in the peace conference—that is how the situation was defined in conference circles tonight (Thursday). The Italian delegation, feeling that its representative character has been called in question in certain quarters, considers it its duty to refer to the Italian parliament, but it is believed to be probable that Premier Orlando will be back in time for the opening of the negotiations with the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles, which will not occur before May 1 or May 2.

BERLIN GOVT TO KEEP SECRET DOCUMENTS

Will Not be Published Unless Allies Agree to a Publication of Secret Documents from Their Archives.

London, April 25.—Karl Kaatsky, one of the under secretaries in the German foreign ministry, who has finished an examination of the secret documents of the German foreign office, a task assigned to him by the government last winter, is quoted in an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin today, as declaring the government had decided not to publish these documents unless the Allies agreed to a similar publication of secret documents from their archives.

Herr Kaatsky added that certain documents, "which might have been peculiarly compromising, were destroyed before the German revolution."

Matthias Erzberger, head of the armistice commission, Kaatsky is quoted as saying, was responsible for the order that the documents not be made public. Kaatsky declared that he was greatly surprised at this attitude on the part of the German government, and pointed out that the revolutionary government is prepared to shield the old rulers of Germany.

VILLA'S FORCES HOLD THE TOWN OF PARROL

Entered Town Sunday, Seizing Much Loot and Ammunition Belonging to Federal Forces.

Juarez, Mexico, April 25.—When Francisco Villa and his forces entered Parrol, Sunday morning he seized $500,000 worth of loot, 5,000 rounds of ammunition belonging to the federal forces, in the garrison there, and made forced loans amounting to $50,000. It became known today. A number of the principle stores were looted by the Villa followers and several civilians held for ransom, but Jose de La Luz Herrera, former mayor of Parrol, his son, Melchor Herrera, former mayor of Juarez, and another son Zeforino Herrera were executed as far as known.

WONDERFUL WORK OF AIR MINISTRY

Figures Recently Given Out in England Show an Astonishing Development in Air Force.

London, April 24.—(Reuters)—The air ministry has published an astonishing record of the work of the air force during the war. It states that before the war the air force consisted of 272 machines, 197 officers and 1,547 men, while in October, 1918, there were 22,171 machines, 27,906 officers and 263,842 men.

From July, 1918, to the armistice, the air force on the western front brought down 7,054 enemy aircraft, dropped 6,042 tons of bombs, and fired over ten and a half million rounds at ground targets.

New Attempts Made To Plunder Food Ships at Hamburg

Bulletin—London, April 25.—New attempts have been made to plunder the food ships in the harbor of Hamburg, an Express Telegram despatch from Berlin says. As a result a number of warships have arrived, and guns have been placed in the streets leading to the docks.

RIVAL AIRMEN STILL HELD TO THEIR HANGARS

Showing Signs of Anxiety Lest American Naval Seaplanes Wrest from Them Coveted Honors.

HANDLEY-PAGE MACHINE AWAITED

Its Aerodrome All Ready and Unless Weather Conditions Become More Favorable it May Get First "Hop off."

St. John's, Nfld., April 25.—Still held to their hangars by fog blown inshore from ice fields by easterly gales, Harry G. Hawker, Australian, and Captain Frederick P. Raynham, his British rival, today showed signs of anxiety lest a giant Handley-Page, soon to be shipped here from England, or American naval seaplanes wrest from them the honor of being the first to fly across the Atlantic.

Besides being shrouded in fog, this harbor is almost closed in its narrow mouth. Both aviators, who have been waiting day after day for signs of clearing, are examining even more impatiently weather reports received by wireless from mid-ocean.

The possibility that, pressed by competitors, neither will wait for "ideal" weather, was indicated today by a remark made by Major C. W. Morgan, Raynham's navigator, on receiving a summons to appear in court next Tuesday to answer to a charge of driving an automobile without a license.

"If the weather should clear, the St. John's police will have to chase me through the streets," he said. "I'll get away if we have had a chance."

Even more closely than weather reports, the rival teams are scrutinizing reports of progress made by their competitors.

Today they received word that the United States navy department had selected as its jumping-off place a site on the shores of "Collier's Harbor," St. Mary's Bay, located on the southeast coast of Newfoundland.

Major Raynham, who will pilot the Handley-Page plane, and Raynham's drome at Harbor Grace was completed today. While no announcement has been made that the American trans-Atlantic flight prize of the London Daily Mail, the Handley-Page has entered the race, and thus threatens to take from Hawker and Raynham not only fame, but hard cash.

In either case, if they are held here by inclement weather, the two "early birds" who have Collier's Harbor as their jumping-off point in preparation for the "hop off," will find both the Handley-Page and Americans better prepared to combat adverse conditions, as the latter arrivals will be more fully equipped.

DOESN'T JIBE WITH PEACE TREATIES

U. S. Government to Build Largest Gun Factory Plant in the World.

Troy, N. Y., April 25.—It was officially announced here this afternoon by Sol Mottler, of the Watervliet Arsenal, that the government at Washington had authorized gigantic extension plans which will convert the arsenal into the greatest plant of its kind in the world, not excepting that of the Krupp in Germany. The plans call for the expenditure of fourteen million dollars, and the purchase of 25 additional acres of ground in Watervliet, eliminating several prominent streets in the city. A large number of new buildings will be erected, new machinery installed and the plant will be equipped for turning out eight inch guns. The arsenal will be the center of this industry in the United States, and will employ from 7,000 to 9,000 men.

U. S. SEAPLANE FALLS TO WATER

Was One of Four Taking Part in 26th Dive Parade—Paratroops Fail to Locate it.

Chatham, Mass., April 25.—One of the four seaplanes that went to Boston today for the 26th Division parade fell in the water on the return trip and has not been located by patrol boats. The search will be resumed at daybreak tomorrow. Word that the seaplane had fallen was sent out by the wireless operator on board. The plane was in charge of Ensign William Howard and Lieut. Buchanan.

REFUSE APPEAL OF CONSPIRATORS

Quebec, April 25.—Judge Pelletier today refused the appeal of Pion Gony and Capt. Goulet from the verdict of the jury that found them guilty of conspiring to defraud in connection with the granting of military exemptions. They immediately filed an appeal from this decision, and this will be decided on May 5.

FRENCH PRESS SUSPICIOUS OF COUNT RANTZAU

Head of the German Peace Delegation Was a Member of the Imperial Gov't in 1914, and Violated Denmark's Neutrality.

OTHER GOV'T LEADERS SERVED FORMER REGIME

Other Members of the Peace Commission Pointed Out as Having Been Intimately Associated With the Imperial Regime.

Paris, April 25.—(French Wireless Service)—The attitude of Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the head of the German peace delegation toward the approaching Peace Congress, is compared by the Temps with the conference at Versailles in 1871, at the close of the Franco-Prussian war. The paper mentions his attempt to send messengers to receive the peace treaty, and he demands that the Germans be permitted to discuss the neutrality of Denmark in 1914, when he compelled Denmark to block up the Straits leading to the Baltic with mines.

The head of the German delegation, the Temps says, was the representative in Copenhagen of the German imperial government, and he violated the neutrality of Denmark in 1914, when he compelled Denmark to block up the Straits leading to the Baltic with mines.

Other leaders of the German government served the imperial regime in the paper adds. It refers pointedly to Matthias Erzberger, the author of the famous scheme of minimum German peace terms, drafted in 1914, which Germany was to get much French territory and to have military sovereignty over Belgium. Erzberger, it says, was the first spokesman on behalf of the German government before the commission appointed by the German assembly at Weimar to examine the peace terms. The Temps points out further that Bernhard Dernburg, once colonial minister in the imperial government, has been appointed finance minister with the title of vice-premier.

Answering the spokesmen of the peace treaty, the Temps says, was received by the peace delegates, who were dismayed by the charge d'affaires said that Premier Orlando would be disappointed by the demonstration.

"The government of Italy, which is animated by the sincerest spirit of conciliation, and who has no rights to be trampled on, racial kinship and by the victory bought with the dearest blood of the nation."

The embassy announced that it had received reports that shops were closed in most Italian towns, and that business was at a standstill while crowds of demonstrators paraded, shouting: "Long Live America, Down With Wilson."

All Will Be Righted. Bulletin—Paris, April 25.—While the American delegates expressed regret over the temporary break with the Italians, they apparently were confident today that some settlement would be effected when Premier Orlando confers with the Italian parliament.

The general opinion in American circles is that the making of peace will be somewhat delayed by the Italian incident.

It has been decided that if the differences with Italy should make it undesirable to use Trieste and other Adriatic ports in supplying food to the Italians as well as the Jugo-Slavs and other peoples in Central Europe, the food control board is prepared to divert the food from the Mediterranean to the ports of Rotterdam, Bremen, Hamburg and Danzig. From these ports the food would be sent by rail to the peoples now being supplied through the Adriatic.

ANZAC DAY WAS OBSERVED BY LONDONERS FRIDAY

Anniversary of Landing of the Allies on Gallipoli Peninsula in 1915.

London, April 25.—Anzac Day, the anniversary of the landing of the Allies on the Gallipoli Peninsula in 1915, was celebrated in London today by a great parade of Australian troops through the city and the West End, while a squadron of the Australian flying corps carried out evolutions overhead.

The procession, which was led by Lieut. Gen. Sir John Monash, commander of the Australian army corps, consisted of a detachment of mounted troops and representatives of five divisions of infantry. A great crowd lined the route and heartily cheered the Australians, who are about to sail for home.

Demonstrations in Honor of Premier Orlando Today

Rome, April 25.—The acting premier has given permission to all government employees to participate in a demonstration Saturday in honor of Premier Orlando.

The university students bore the Italian flag in a procession today to the foreign offices where they cheered for Baron Sonnino, the foreign minister.

London, April 25.—Italian residents of London took part in a demonstration here the Italian embassy this afternoon to express the sentiments of loyalty and solidarity of the Italians in England to their government and country in the present crisis.

The demonstrators, preceded by flags and bands, marched to the embassy, where, after an address by the president of the Italian Chamber of Commerce, a temporary break with the charge d'affaires was received by the Premier Orlando would be disappointed by the demonstration.

Last Troopship Here Yesterday

Corsican Brought 1,349 Passengers—Only 342 Were Returning Fighting Men—Some Women Passengers Were Discontented.

Disagreeable weather and consequently disgruntled passengers marked the sailing of the last troopship to enter the port this year, the R. M. S. Corsican, which arrived at Sand Point yesterday morning slightly before nine o'clock.

The voyage across took ten days and several of those were stormy. Added to the straitened quarters of the third-class accommodations was the fact that this voyage was featured by an unusually large number of women and children, there being 246 kiddies under fourteen and many infants. It was stated that the women folk were so indignant that a mass meeting was held in the stateroom Wednesday night, protesting against the food and accommodations.

On the other hand military authorities state that the ones who did the most "kicking" were those who stated they were willing to sleep even on the docks if they could get an early passage home. As soon as they got on board the vessel, however, they began "grousing" and discontent spread.

There were 1,349 passengers on board of this number only 342 were returning fighting men. Outside of a few officers, civilians and an American party of 33 all the others were dependents, most of them travelling in the third class accommodations.

Among the interesting persons on board were Walter S. Lund, of the Toronto Evening Telegram, who is returning with his family after getting a first hand impression of conditions in England and France. Colonel L. W. Marshall, Belleville, was elected president of the Canadian representatives at the Lyons Exposition, Senator H. Bostock and wife are returning to Kamloops, B. C., after visiting the grave of their son, Lieut. Bostock of the 4th C. M. R., who was killed in action July 6, 1915.

Among the men for this district were Privates M. E. Rosa, St. Stephen, and C. Kingston, Millerton, both members of the 25th Battalion. Miss Snow, daughter of Lieut.-Col. A. B. Snow, Vancouver, who was O. C. of the military party, was painfully injured in a fall from the cabin staircase, resulting in a bad break in her left leg.

There were five stretcher cases removed to the St. James' Street Hospital, all wives of soldiers. New Brunswick dependents arriving were: Mary Arnold and child, Marysville; Ethel Clayton and four children, Prince William; Agnes Dargavel and infant, Harcourt; Ruth Garvey and child, Chipman; Annie Gardine, Fredericton; Ethel Kingston, Millerton; Winnifred Lilley and infant, 67 High street; Sarah Murray, Stackney; Florence Noble and infant, Traceyville; Annie Regan and child, Meadon; Margaret Ross and two children, Campbellton; Elizabeth Weeks and child, Sussex Corner; Thomas Copeland, St. John; Jack VanZant, St. John.

Other New Brunswick passengers on board were: Sgt. Fred Clayton, Fredericton; Sgt. Charles Morgan, St. John; Pte. Thomas Garvey, Queens Co.; Pte. Chris. Kingston, Newcasale; Spr. Harry Likely, St. John; Pte. Francis W. Murray, St. John; Pte. Vernon Noble, St. John; Pte. Sandell Pike, St. John; Pte. Edward F. Reason, St. John; Pte. Malvin E. Ross, St. Stephen; Pte. Burber J. Walker, Sussex Corner; Miss N. Beaufort, St. John; M. De Moor, St. John; Sign. L. A. C. Y. Gray, St. John; Miss Inch, Fredericton; Capt. H. D. B. and Mrs. Jack, St. John; Miss Macfarlane, Fredericton; R. Wren, St. Andrews; Mrs. F. J. Wren and four children, St. Andrews.

Notwithstanding the unpleasant weather a large crowd was on hand to greet the returning Canadians. The Depot Battalion Band enhanced proceedings with patriotic airs and the citizens' reception committee was there with apples, candy, smokes and other comforts which were distributed among the boys before they landed.

The first train, through to the coast, got away at one o'clock, the second, for Toronto, at 2:30, and was followed at hour intervals by the trains for Vancouver and Montreal and intermediate points. J. Davis was the Red Triangles representative on the Toronto train, Frank Robertson on the Vancouver train and J. J. Irvine on the Montreal train.

Freckles and Blistches Are Easily Peeled Off

If you are bothered with any cutaneous blemish, it's a poor plan to use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's much easier to remove the disfigurement with ordinary mercurized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, moth patches, liver spots, sallowness, red blotches or any surface eruption. The affected cuticle is actually absorbed a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view.

Ask the druggist for one ounce of mercurized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in the morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple, harmless treatment report astonishing results. row's church parade in celebration of

POLICE COURT CASES HEARD

Returned Soldier Charged His Wife With Assault—Firebug to be Examined—Man Fined $200 for Having Liquor.

Mary Erickson — formerly Mary Stratton, appeared in the police court yesterday morning charged with an assault on her husband. The husband of the accused gave evidence telling of finding his wife under the influence of liquor on arrival home after fifteen months' service overseas. She persisted in drinking and often went out and purchased it, which led to arguments and finally an assault on her part. The accused was remanded.

John Gray appeared charged with setting fires and was remanded until a physician is engaged to ascertain his mental status.

Edward O'Brien appeared for using obscene language and was fined $15 or an optional four months in jail with hard labor.

John Griffin appeared for having liquor in his possession unlawfully, and was fined $300, or six months in jail.

Arthur Tumith, on a charge of having liquor in his possession contrary to the liquor statutes, was remanded for further evidence.

William Jackson who was arrested on the charge of assaulting his wife, appeared for final hearing. A fine of twenty dollars was struck, but allowed to stand. Clyde Lasky, a boarder at the home of the accused, gave evidence, stating that Jackson had at one time expressed the wish that he had a revolver to make a clean-up.

At the afternoon session of the court Matthew Ramsey appeared for judgment on the charge of having supplied liquor to Howard Robinson. The magistrate dismissed the case as he believed the evidence not sufficient for a conviction. William M. Ryan appeared for Ramsey.

Clement Creary, Joseph O'Leary, and Robert McEhane appeared for further hearing on the charge of breaking and entering the store of B. Titus, Main street, last Good Friday. Mr. Titus was recalled and identified some buttons found on O'Leary as being similar to those which had fallen off his coat and had been left in the cash register along with some money. At the time of the arrest some money, one coin and several buttons were found on O'Leary, the buttons and coins answering in similarity to those owned by Mr. Titus, and which were taken from the cash till. After the evidence the three were remanded.

Almost a Miracle But Very Simple

Was the Cure of John New by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

His Troubles All Came from Sick Kidneys and He Treated Them with the Old Reliable Canadian Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hillsdale, Battledore, Sask. April 25, (Special)—With a speed that was almost miraculous, Mr. John New, a well known farmer here, has been cured of the kidney trouble from which he suffered for several years.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me," he says. "I wish to give them all the thanks."

Speaking further of his troubles and their sudden cure, Mr. New says: "I think I inherited my kidney disease from my parents and suffered off and on for several years. I had stiffness in the joints, cramps in the muscles, backache, and neuralgia.

"I perspired freely on the slightest exertion and my perspiration had an unpleasant odor. I was irritable, often dizzy and was depressed and low spirited. My skin was dry and had a harsh feeling and I was often nervous.

"I took just one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They cured me."

If your troubles come from the kidneys you will have some of the symptoms that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured in Mr. New's case. Ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The Protestants will go to St. John's (Stone) Church, where Rev. Chaplain Kuhring will preach, and the Catholics to the Cathedral. Capt. G. Earle Logan will have charge of the former party and Major Cuthbert Morgan will be in charge of the latter party. Two bands will be in attendance. It is expected that Brig-Gen. Macdonnell and staff will attend. Citizens who wish to provide automobiles to convey the wounded men are requested to notify Major Morgan.

WHY RUN-DOWN PALE EXHAUSTED WOMEN SHOULD TAKE IRON

"There's just no healthily healthy, nor abundant, steady improved season without iron. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks, the bloom from their eyes, the bloom from their hair, the bloom from their lips. Iron—(not metallic iron which enters the stomach, and does more harm than good)—iron, does not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, nervous, sagging women in two weeks' time by many times. I have used it in my own practice with most surprising results."—Ferdinand King, M.D., well known New York Physician and medical author. THE ITALIAN DEADLOCK.

President Wilson appears to have put his foot in it at last. After months of philosophic balderdash he has succeeded in making trouble between Italy and the other Allies leading to a serious breach in peace negotiations. One great difficulty in this whole matter is that neither Mr. Wilson nor any of his friends have a realization of the position in which the Allied nations found themselves a few years ago. These powers understood the strength of Germany and foresaw the danger threatening the world—in which world America was included. It was necessary that they should adopt every reasonable means in their power to draw Germany's side such assistance as she might have anticipated and to strengthen their own forces by the addition of these neutral or other nations. No one, however, could foresee the total breakup of the enemy powers, and agreements now described as secret treaties which were entered into by the Allies for the purpose of securing the cooperation of these neutral nations were reasonable treaties, made under stress of circumstances and were as that time considered capable of fulfillment. It has transpired that, during the course of events, certain territories bordering on the Adriatic have been lost to Austria-Hungary and that from these territories or portions of them there has arisen a new state in which are found races of people hitherto abused by their former rulers and neglected by Italy, while in these same territories are also found many of Italian birth seeking a return of allegiance to their own country. Italy, in accordance with the terms of the agreement under which she deserted the Triple Alliance and took sides with the Allies against Germany, now demands, and very properly demands, the transfer of the territories promised to her and, although conditions on the Adriatic coast have very materially changed, the Allied powers who have carried on the war and have won the war, not with the help, but despite the help of the United States, are favorably inclined toward meeting the terms of that agreement. Mr. Wilson, however, who is nothing if not an advertiser, takes a different view, and as one of the Big Four emphatically refuses his consent to the completion of the agreement with Italy. Of course, in this matter, Mr. Wilson is right to a certain extent, in that Italy is now claiming more than was promised her under the Pact of London. Lloyd George and Clemenceau are favorably disposed towards carrying out this agreement, but are in accord with Mr. Wilson in refusing to comply with Italy's additional demands. They have not, however, gone so far as to deliver a definite pronouncement on the question as has been done by the President of the United States, whose country has no definite concern in the affairs of Southern Europe.

As Italy herself has no particular say in this small group and on this one point, it is clear that Mr. Wilson's attitude must result in serious complications. The intimation is that Italy will occupy by force of arms the territory she now claims, which France and Britain agree should be hers. Such an action would be nothing more or less than direct defiance of the still nebulous League of Nations. On the other hand, there is a very prevalent feeling that Italy, which has already obtained much, is holding out rather too strenuously for the bit of territory over which this dispute has arisen and that, in view of conditions now existing in the new Jugoslav state, a less selfish attitude would be more consistent with Italy's professed aims in entering the war. In this whole matter diplomats realize that a crisis has been reached between the new ideas of frank discussion of arrangements and the old method of secret treaties. The outcome will be awaited with intense interest, for on the solution of this problem will depend many others resulting from similar agreements with different nations.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

Let us keep the records straight. Four Opposition members, Messrs. Murray, Jones, Baxter and Smith, were censured by a vote of the provincial Legislature, which vote was based on a partisan report prepared for, and signed by, James McQueen of Shediac. This man McQueen described his attitude towards his political opponents as follows:—"And now I ask you to watch things, for I am prepared from now on to dance politically as well as the daughter of Herodias ever danced before her kingly uncle, and if I do not succeed in capturing the head of some political John the Baptist it will only be for the reason that the music furnished me was deficient."

This character, selected by Premier Foster as a ready tool for the condemnation of political opponents is a person whose sole object, described by himself, is to destroy the reputation of those against whom he holds a grievance. These four Opposition members were not condemned by evidence, were not convicted by any development in the potato inquiry, but were slandered and abused by a political tool who was paid for what he did and who followed throughout the whole inquiry a determination to be revenged on better men than himself. Mr. Foster realized this at the time, but felt compelled to make some motion to the gallery and consequently introduced a motion of censure. That motion was put through on a straight party vote of twenty-two members of the Government against fourteen of the Opposition—four Opposition members named in the resolution not voting.

According to this policy it is a comparatively easy matter for any government holding the majority of the Legislature to censure and condemn any member of the Opposition sitting in the House. But Mr. Foster, having taken this disgraceful action, went no further. It was his clear duty to supplement his vote of censure by expulsion of the four members from whom he demanded resignations. Yet he did not dare take this action. Mr. Foster knew he was wrong in introducing the motion referred to, in that neither his own party nor the country as a whole would tolerate such a course as it implied, and he realized that the political bluff which he was trying to pull over could not be carried too far. He appreciated the fact that none of those named in the resolution had swerved from the path of honesty in discharge of their duties and that none of them had profited to the extent of one dollar from public funds. And he knew at the same time the danger threatening himself and his party if the probe of public opinion were driven into the conduct of the present administration. Mr. Foster failed to supplement his vote of censure by expulsion of those members. He will continue to fall in this respect for he knows better than any one else that no such action or any other action against these men will be permitted for a moment by the people of New Brunswick, and he realizes that even under the cloak of purity, political trickery has its limitations.

STREET PAVING.

At Thursday's meeting of the City Council Commissioner Fisher presented a new scheme for street paving. The council took no action. This is getting to be a fixed habit. Seldom is a meeting held at which Mr. Fisher fails to present a new scheme, and with equal frequency the council takes no action. It is that Mr. Fisher's schemes are no good or that the rest of the council are determined not to support anything he suggests? At the present time he is discussing paving, a subject which has been discussed by himself and his predecessors ever since commission government came into effect. Unfortunately discussion is practically the only thing that has been accomplished in connection with paving. With the exception of a few odd patches, some of which have been paid for by the City and some by the City and property owners combined, nothing has been done since Mr. Agar's time. Mr. Agar lost his job by pursuing a definite policy. Had he been permitted to remain in office we might now have had a few more miles of good streets, but evidently the electors objected to a progressive policy and got rid of the only man we have ever had in that particular department. Now the situation is just as it was ten years ago. The improvement act under which the council was supposed to operate has been found to be an utter failure in that property owners in every street upon which paving is suggested oppose the application of the act. The Premier himself is in reality ashamed of his conduct, and has admitted this by his failure to follow up that vote of censure with expulsion of the Opposition members condemned. On the other hand he has not had the manliness to openly confess his hypocrisy. He has left that to be understood.

for a general reception of all New Brunswick soldiers who have returned, this to take place on a day later to be fixed. Besides these local celebrations, plans are being made elsewhere—and in this respect St. John will also break loose—for the celebration of the signing of peace terms by Germany, which will be approximately May 10th, as well as for a tremendous celebration to come sixty days later when peace is formally declared throughout the world. We are in need of something of the kind right here in St. John for, while there is now a relaxation of the nervous strain under which everyone has been laboring for the past four or five years, we have only had one little day of cheerfulness—when the armistice was signed—to break the monotony of depression. In private life everyone has been enjoying the relief from constant war work and social events have, during the past few months, been almost innumerable, but publicly we deserve something more and no matter how extensive the programme may be everyone will be pleased to participate.

TOO LONG HOURS.

Yesterday was a one session day in the public schools. The children from six years of age upwards who had been given their breakfasts between half past seven and half past eight in the morning were kept in school until two o'clock, which is altogether too long a time for boys and girls to go without food. When they were released at the end of a long session it was to go home to dinners that had become cold. If the School Board in its wisdom still believes that the public schools should remain on standard time, it might reasonably dismiss the pupils at one o'clock daylight time on days when only one session is held.

One of the newspapers supporting the Foster Government complains that Mr. Foster has never been able to find a man who could go out among the lumbermen with a note book and pencil, and add one hundred thousand dollars to party funds. All of which offers further proof of the incapacity of the Foster administration. It should not be a difficult matter to secure such a man or to raise such a fund in view of the fact that members of Mr. Foster's own party provided the bulk of the original one hundred thousand dollars to which reference is no doubt made. Even among the members of the Legislature there is Mr. Burchill, who gladly handed over a few thousands at that time, believing it good business, and Mr. Burchill has a great many friends in his own political party who did the same thing and who probably would be willing to do it again if asked.

After all, it is not too much to expect that Mr. Foster might rescind his resolution of censure. Of course he will not do so, but such an action would meet with the approval of a goodly proportion of his legislative followers. One of the Premier's leading supporters apologized to the Opposition members named in that resolution for his action in supporting the vote of censure, while another confessed that he had stayed awake all night worrying over what he had done. The Premier himself is in reality ashamed of his conduct, and has admitted this by his failure to follow up that vote of censure with expulsion of the Opposition members condemned. On the other hand he has not had the manliness to openly confess his hypocrisy. He has left that to be understood.

BY LEE PAPE. SLEEP. When a person is asleep, he don't know it, while when he is awake he knows it, unless he's too sleepy. It is possible to sleep anywhere, but bed is the best place, because if people see you sleeping there they will know you're doing it on purpose and won't wake you up. It is fashionable to take your clothes off before you go to sleep, not being absolutely necessary but being more of a change. The easiest way to go to sleep is just close your eyes and wait, and after a while if you're still waiting you know you ain't asleep yet. It is more pleasant to wake up than wait for it to get up. Unconscious sounds made while you are asleep is known as snoring. Snoring affects the ones that hear them more than the ones that snore them. Some snores sound almost impossible, and if people could hear themselves making them they would probably wake up to listen. This proves that more things are wasted than we have any idea of. Berds sleep with their heads stuck under their wings as if they didn't have any, and horses can sleep standing up, which so could we if we had a leg on every corner.

Getting Close Together. Sydney Record: All over the world there is a tendency for employers and employees to get closer together. There is a clearer realization of the essentiality of the cooperation of all groups connected with great industrial undertakings. Nova Scotia is fortunate that this tendency is manifesting itself among the men of the mining industry.

UNDERHANDED. Dear Sir—On the 15th inst. the Daily Mail of Fredericton published that Mr. J. E. Michaud, M.P.E., on his return to Fredericton had been warmly congratulated by his fellow-members on his election, by acclamation, to the majority of the town of Edmundston. I am quite positive that Mr. Michaud received more congratulations than he could have had here, because the people of Fredericton did not know the circumstances under which he has been, by accident, put in his own nomination to oppose Mr. Laporte who had been one of his active supporters. When Mayor Laporte was informed of this fact he, too, put in his own nomination to oppose Mr. Michaud, but it was then too late for any other name to be submitted. Last year Mr. Michaud had the same ambition, but Mr. Dugal put a stop to his childish ideas. At the same time Mr. Michaud, working through friends to the Minister of Inland Revenue, took steps to prevent a Civil Service employee from accepting a nomination for the majority to which action he had been invited by many citizens of the town. Mr. Michaud had not been elected M. P. P. through the efforts of Mr. Dugal to pull him along, and who believed that Mr. Michaud would be of the following day, withdrew his nomination, but it was then too late for any other name to be submitted. A BIT OF VERSE

I SHALL BE PROUD. (By Florence T. Osman, in New York Herald.) When John comes home with pomp of banners proud, And marches up the street to thrilling drum, As I stand by, all eager in the crowd, And realize the truth that he has come, If on his brow the famelid laurel rest, And men shall know and speak his chivalry, Ah! service stripes his bravery attest, Ah! thrilled shall be the very heart of me! But if just John, plain John, comes back to me, The soldier lad, my only boy so dear (Whom I knew brave whenever he might be), And once again I have him with me here, The world to me would then seem just as fair, Just knowing he is HOME—and did his share.

To many fond parents throughout the Province of New Brunswick, as well as throughout the whole Dominion of Canada, to many generous supporters of the different organizations now working zealously and strenuously to receive in proper manner our returned heroes, a short summary of the activities of at least one branch, the Knights of Columbus Catholic Army Huts. To say that Major Keeffe has special qualifications for this work, would be no fulsome flattery. Under his wise direction the success of this movement has been brought about. THOUGHT IT WAS A BOIL
Doctor Said Abscess.

Mr. Gleason R. Young, Kingscroft, N. B., under date of Feb. 24, 1918, writes us as follows:—"About five months ago, a lump came on my jaw bone. I thought it was a boil, and after it had been there quite a while it began to get larger. I went to a doctor and he said it was an abscess, and lanced it. He gave me a wash for it, so I went by his directions until it calmed up, but it commenced coming again, and in about three weeks it broke itself. I thought it would get better, but it didn't. A neighbor advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I sent and got a bottle, and by the time it was all gone, the abscess had disappeared, and now it is all better."

Burdock Blood Bitters will heal and dry up sores, ulcers, and abscesses, no matter how large or how long standing. If you have never applied it to a cut, wound, sore or ulcer, just try it and see what soothing, healing, cleansing power it possesses. It takes out itching, stinging and burning, and promotes the growth of healthy flesh. So, too, when taken internally, by its power of eliminating all impurities from the blood and making that vital fluid rich, red and pure, it cuts off the origin and source of the foul matter that goes to make boils, pimples, sores, ulcers, abscesses and the like, and at the same time the purified and enriched blood creates healthy tissues where there was formerly, perhaps, a sore fall of pus.

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for 40 years. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

They distribute cigarettes, tobacco, orange-ice cream, periodicals, pipes, chocolate bars, home made jellies and candies, and have placed a Victrola with a couple of dozen of the latest records in the Military Hospital, Lancaster. In addition, parcels have been forwarded also to soldiers at the River Glade Sanitarium. Neither has the Military Hospital at Fredericton been overlooked. To set forth in detail the demands made on the C. A. H. would require more space than you may have at your disposal. However, mention might be made of a quantity of sporting goods, such as an indoor baseball outfit, badminton set, volley ball set, and gymnasium supplies. All demands that could be made where the comfort and betterment of invalid soldiers was an issue have been graciously complied with, and in setting forth the facts, embracing more or less lengthy details, the plea is justice, encouragement, and a fair recognition to all who have labored so faithfully and well.

Under the highly efficient supervision of Mrs. Scully, the arrivals are furnished with coffee, sandwiches, cigarettes, etc. No one is forgotten, and these ladies deserve a special word of praise for their untiring efforts at entertainment of the war weary men and their dependents. A large and perfectly equipped booth is there, provided with every facility for making and distributing at short order material comforts. Electric urns, costing $500 are installed in this booth for tea and coffee making.

During the months of February, March and April to date over 23,500 soldiers and their dependents have arrived at the port of St. John. A committee of gentlemen from the St. John Council K. of C. with Henry Logan as convener, take an active interest in all work at the docks.

ESSEX MOTOR CARS

Has Anyone Told You
You Must Have Heard How This New Light Car Has Excited All Motordom About Essex Performance?

Ask any motorist this question: "Have you ridden in the Essex—what do you think of it?" The chances are you will right then hear the most enthusiastic praise of a car that has ever come to your attention.

The reason is simple indeed if you know anything of the Essex. It has light weight, is inexpensive to operate and sells at a moderate price.

But there it differs from other cars of that description. Its performance is of the high-priced car type. Its ruggedness is like that of large costly cars. Only the most luxurious possess such completeness in detail and beauty of appointment.

The riding qualities are such that they are not comparable to any but the easiest and most comfortable.

Any one of tens of thousands who have ridden in the Essex will tell you of these things.

But while the word of mouth praise that Essex is receiving is the finest advertising that can be given to any car, our principal desire is that you learn to know them for yourself.

An Essex ride awaits you.

Come, let us show you how Essex possesses all the wanted qualities of the light cheap car in its low operating cost and the luxury of riding and performance superiority and the beauty and sturdiness of large costly automobiles.

YOU GET THESE QUALITIES IN THE ESSEX.

DRASTIC ACTION TO PREVENT FIRES WILL BE TAKEN SOON

Bill Introduced in Senate Will Place Responsibility For Fires.

FIRE MARSHAL LAWS

Practically All the Provinces in the Dominion Are Lining up to Enforce Fire Prevention Legislation.

Ottawa, April 25.—At the present time, fire marshal laws are in force in Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia, and Quebec. In Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and British Columbia, they are administered by the superintendents of insurance. In Alberta, no official has yet been appointed. In Ontario, a fire marshal has been appointed, and the work is being well carried on by a fairly large department. In Quebec, the administration of the law is under the department of public works, but no particular fire prevention campaign has been carried on.

The Dominion Committee.

The Dominion Fire Prevention Committee is an organization called together by the Dominion Department of Insurance in December, 1918, to take up the work of fire prevention all over Canada. While the different organizations mentioned are in the provinces, it was felt that there should be some organization of the Dominion Government to take the national view, and cooperate with the Provincial Governments in formulating a uniform plan of action. In order that there may be no overlapping of the Dominion and the Provinces, with a consequent loss of energy and initiative they have outlined a definite policy, which has been widely approved by Dominion and Provincial authorities. In general, the scheme of organization is as follows:

Local Committees.

A Fire Prevention League under the Fire Marshal's department in each province will appoint local committees in each city and town of importance, whose work will be to create a strong local sentiment in favor of fire prevention and a right enforcement of the laws created for that purpose. Public meetings will be arranged by the central executive of each provincial league. The carrying on of this work will be provincial and the Dominion department stands ready to help in its inauguration, and to co-operate in the general scheme.

2. Statistics show that fire losses are largely the result of bad building construction, poor water systems, poorly organized and badly equipped fire departments, and non-enforcement of by-laws. In many cases it may not be politic for local authorities to condemn local conditions. It is in this field that the Dominion department can be of much help to the provinces. They are arranging to make surveys and give advice on such matters, to any municipality, when asked to do so by the Fire Marshal in the province where the municipality is situated. By thus getting a central consulting bureau it is hoped to establish uniformity of requirements all over Canada according to the best known practices.

3. So far as legislation is concerned, most questions affecting fire prevention are within the jurisdiction of the provinces. Some may be better dealt with by the Dominion Government, but it is not the intention of the Department to introduce measures except such as have received the joint approval of the Dominion and provincial departments affected.

In this connection, attention is directed to a bill introduced in the Senate by Sir James Loughheed, to place the responsibility for fires caused by negligence. This bill, entitled "An Act to amend the Criminal Code respecting Prevention of Fire," is substituted for clause 515 A. of the code and is as follows:

"When any Dominion, Provincial or Municipal fire officer or authority recommends to the owner, lessee or other person, controlling or operating any building, structure, factory, shipyard, vessel, dock, wharf, pier, sawmill, or yard in which logs or timber are stored or held that any reasonable change, alteration or addition should be made in or to such building, structure, factory, shipyard, vessel, dock, wharf, pier, saw mill, or yard with a view to safeguarding life or property from destruction by fire, or that any material should be removed therefrom with such view, or that any apparatus should be supplied therewith with such view, and if such recommendation is approved by an officer in the service of His Majesty, there, authorized by the Governor in Council; and if notice of such recommendation and approval has been personally served upon such owner, lessee or other person; and if, after the expiration of thirty days from the receipt of such notice, such owner, lessee or other person refuses, neglects or otherwise fails to carry out such recommendation to the satisfaction of the officer in the service of His Majesty hereinafter mentioned, such owner, lessee or other person shall be guilty of an indictable offence and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, or to both such fine and imprisonment."

LIQUORS LIABLE TO BE SEIZED

Private Stocks Laid in Before July 1 Not Immune Under Dry Law.

Washington, April 25.—Seizure and confiscation by the state of private stocks of intoxicating liquors accumulated in anticipation of nationwide prohibition will be possible and probable after the prohibition law goes into effect.

This is the opinion of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League. Although the league has taken no steps to this end, Mr. Wheeler believes the states themselves will take action, and the latest decision of the supreme court is that the states have the right and the power to prohibit possession of intoxicating liquors, just as they have prohibited sale and manufacture of liquor.

"The liquor traffic and its devotees," Mr. Wheeler said here today, "are receiving hard jolts from the courts these days. The beginning of its troubles came when the supreme court sustained the interstate liquor shipment law. Following that the next body blow to John Barleycorn" was when the supreme court sustained the law prohibiting the possession of intoxicating liquors.

"The last decision of the court holds that liquor legally purchased after a prohibition law is passed, and before it is operative, may be confiscated. The supreme court did not have to pass upon the question as to whether liquors legally purchased before the law was adopted would be confiscated, but many of the state courts have passed upon the question.

"The uniform trend of the decision is that the state may prohibit the possession of intoxicating liquor even though it was purchased before the law was enacted. Those decisions are based upon the fact that the power of the state to protect the health and morals of its citizens cannot be bargained away.

"Even liquor dealers are waking up to the fact that liquor is in a class by itself, to the treatment of which there is no analogy in the law. In view of

FARM HELP THE BIG PROBLEM IN WESTERN CANADA

The Settlers from States a Big Asset, But Many from Europe of Doubtful Value—Farm Lands Prices Unchanged.

A wire to the Financial Post from Edward Oliver, statistics branch, Saskatchewan, says that telegraphic reports from the province indicate that while work on the land has commenced in many districts, seeding will not be general until April twenty-third. Sufficient quantities of seed grain are available while there is also plenty of feed for livestock. Labor is reported scarce, the same conditions of labor scarcity in other parts being noted. Sixty-five to seventy-five dollars per month is the ruling farm wage for experienced men.

Strange as it may seem, the labor situation in Canadian farms is in a more acute condition than it was last year. The reason for this is largely owing to the fact that soldiers are waiting for land grants, or are trying to work on farms of their own, while the labor employed in munitions is not returning in large numbers to the farm. Further, last year there was its patriotic appeal, and the school boys who are this year remaining in school for the usual terms.

Against this situation, we have a large increase in tractors and bigger agricultural machinery. It is likely that Western Canada will find a larger acreage of summer fallow than usual as the cropping of the land during the last four years has been done more intensively for war production.

Farm lands in Manitoba and Saskatchewan are not selling as well this year as they were last year according to reports handed out by officials of the big land companies operating in the Canadian Northwest.

One official of a large land company informed the Financial Post that the average price this year is about $15 per acre. The company he represents sold nearly 60,000 acres in 1918 at an average of $15.29 per acre. While sales are not as good this year, there is no prospect of any decrease in price, these will remain about the same for the balance of the year.

Western land companies are encouraging immigration from the United States. They do not look for much immigration from Europe. Farmers coming from the United States to Canada

Berlin, April 25.—A journey Copenhagen to Berlin in these bellum days is no pleasure trip. Tax upon your patience and end in too great—what with stopping overnight at Ny-Koeping in Denmark, and another night at strolts, sixty miles out from Berlin, what with long waits at other stops and sitting through the cold hours in unheated cars; what with going to bed at midnight and making for lost time by rising at 4 or 6.

After half an hour some one of the ice and the talk becomes general. The woman from Riga soon becomes the centre of interest. She is a fugitive from the Bolsheviki, only weeks escaped from their clutches. She went to Stockholm on a ship, after leaving her property was allowed to stay only a few weeks. (Food scarcity!) The lower the grade of gas the easier it is for a Hot Spot Chalmers

THE great engineers of the automobile industry are discussing nowadays the low grade gas situation more often than the number of cylinders a car should have.

Not long ago one of them said that automobile engines would have to be redesigned to use the inferior gas of today.

This the Chalmers engineers did when they built into the great Chalmers engine the now famous Hot Spot and Ram's-horn manifold.

These two devices convert low grade gas into high power.

For any engineer will tell you there are more thermal units or power in a gallon of low grade kerosene gas than there is in a high test gas.

The Hot Spot puts the gas in shape for power results. It breaks up into tiny vapor molecules the gas—so fine that it really becomes "dry."

Then the Ram's-horn drives it to the cylinders by the quickest route ever devised and when the explosions come there is so little power to escape through the exhaust as to be well nigh negligible.

One short ride in a present day Chalmers will tell you the story far more eloquently than the English language can express it.

POOR SERVICE TAKES THE JOY OUT OF TRAVELLING IN THE GERMAN EMPIRE NOW

Long Stops at Junctions, Slow Trains and Gloomy Passengers Combine to Make Trip Anything But One for Pleasure, Says Writer.

Berlin, April 25.—A journey from Copenhagen to Berlin in these post-bellum days is no pleasure trip. The tax upon your patience and endurance is too great—what with stopping off overnight at Ny-Koeping in Southern Denmark, and another night at Neustrelitz, sixty miles out from Berlin; what with long waits at other stations, and sitting through the cold night hours in unheated cars; what with getting to bed at midnight and making up for lost time by rising at 4 or 6!

But there were compensations, in a way. The trip was intensely interesting, even though crowded with painful impressions. I got my first opportunity of studying in individuals the psychological effects of the downfall of German power, and I heard the not distant rumblings of the Bolshevik terror.

Entering my coupe at Copenhagen at 7:15 I found travelling companions of varied nationality. Opposite me sat an elderly Danish woman on her way, after an absence of two months, to rejoin her husband at Bremen—a fine, intellectual face, marked by deep broodings and sorrows, that were not selfish. At the other end sat a flaxen-haired young woman—self-reliant and yet full of untroubled joy—a Danish girl, I thought, from the attractive way in which she chatted in that unattractive language. Opposite her was "the woman from Riga"—as I have dubbed her mentally ever since—about forty, face rather pinched and careworn, and yet with breaks of suppressed cheerfulness. Between us, two Danes, who soon leave our train.

nothing from him for two years. A year ago her only son, a boy of fifteen, was separated from her—she did not say how and we did not venture to ask. She does not know where he is, but believes he is helping the Bolsheviks to make a hell of Russia.

She told how the Bolshevik army gradually closed around Riga from all sides; how the British fleet had come there and how the admiral had promised protection to the people, but at last had to steam away when the attackers became too strong. It was then that she escaped. Some thousands of other Baltic Germans (citizens of old Russia) escaped on coasting vessels to German towns. Thus many of the land-owning aristocracy came away; but those who failed to flee in time were taken by the Bolsheviks and shot. So, too, many Russian officers, fleeing before the advancing terror, were corralled in Riga; and at the general round-up a thousand or more were shot.

Tells of Trotsky's Army.

She was full of talk about the new Russian army Trotsky is organizing. He has introduced the severest possible discipline and is making ruthless fighters out of the disheartened Russian soldiers; the death penalty is enforced for even trifling offences. The men are paid well, relatively—600 rubles a month, with an extra 100 for the wife and for each child. So service under Trotsky is better than starvation. That is her explanation of the help that German prisoners have been giving to the Bolshevik cause.

"But our understanding was," I interposed, "that those prisoners were acting under orders from the German government?"

"Oh, no," she replied, "part of them had become Bolshevik at heart and joined Trotsky voluntarily; the rest went along to earn their pay, to escape their dull life and to try new ventures."

Trotsky and Lenin are organizing their big army by conscription, according to this woman's report. Ex-officers were needed to command it, and an order was issued commanding all such to report for duty, under threat of being shot if they disobeyed. They reported.

In the winter she was in Petrograd, where the streets have not been cleaned since the first revolution, and all life is buried in mud, literally and figuratively.

She told about the arrival at Libau of the first Russian prisoners from Germany, of their awful condition, many dying and many carried from the ships to hospitals on stretchers, only to die there.

Then the flaxen-haired dame took an interest in things.

"Of course," she spoke up, in excellent German, "there was had treatment in some of our camps, but that was by no means general. I talked with French prisoners in Copenhagen who told me that they had no complaints to make as to their treatment. And my father—he is a manufacturer in the Giant Mountain region—told me that the prisoners were mostly well treated and those working on the farms were even well fed."

She carried her guitar with her, and at one of the stations she made an amiable diversion from the Riga woman's tale of horrors, by gently thrumming the strings for a few bars, chatting meanwhile with her companion about the jolly times she had just been having with other girls, playing on their guitars and singing songs together—the one touch of light in the sombre picture of my trip—so I reflected as I last saw her at the station in Berlin, efficiently arranging for her baggage.

That first night, as I said, was spent at Ny-Koeping. Next morning there was an early and quick breakfast, after which we steamed along for an hour to Gjedser, where we took the ferry for Warnemunde. On the boat new acquaintances, new contacts with the war. At 10:30 luncheon was announced. I remarked:

"I am not hungry yet and shall not go down." A newly made German acquaintance admonished: "But the hunger front is just before you, pointing to the coast of Mecklenburg, which had meanwhile come into view. I went down."

Opposite me at the table sat a scholarly looking German, who talked politics volubly, but intelligently all the while, partly to me, partly to my right hand neighbor, also a German. He was the first German I had met who seemed to have fully digested the war. He was already looking at it as a thing utterly detached from his personal interests and passions, and he smiled unceasingly, his eyes twinkling behind his gold-rimmed glasses.

"We got into our present plight," he said, "by our stupidity, by our own German stupidity. Our national policy was controlled wholly in the interests of the great capitalists. Our diplomats themselves were chiefly chosen from great industrial families, were either themselves embroiled or the sons of men who were embroiled. We can't lay it to the charge of the old nobility that our diplomacy went awry. The trouble was that our diplomats did not understand foreign peoples' point of view."

"Too little 'volker-psychologie,'" I suggested.

"Not that exactly," was the answer, "we have too much of that, but it is all of the scientific sort, a cold, intellectual process, a thing mechanical. That was just the trouble with us—too much emphasis on technique, too much on mechanical things. Thus the men responsible for the U-boat warfare based their calculations solely upon what they believed the submarines would accomplish; and they threw all political considerations to the winds."

"And who was the man upon whom ultimate responsibility rests for the submarine decision?" I ventured to ask. "Was it Ludendorff?"

"Not Ludendorff in the first instance," he answered. "The men of the Imperial Marine Office persuaded him, contrary to his original inclination, to undertake it. He only acted upon their representations."

"Much nonsense, moreover, has been written about Ludendorff as a usurper of political power. He did not set out to seize political power, but the very circumstances pushed him into doing so. He found the government in the hands of weak and vacillating men, who did not know what they wanted. He saw that there was need for a strong hand to keep the empire in its course. He felt that he had that strong hand and he put it forth."

And he kept on smiling, seeming to feel that all the difficult war questions had been disposed of with complete satisfaction to him at least.

When we came up from luncheon the Mecklenburg coast was just under our bows. And here was the first German town, Warnemunde (mouth of the Warn), a favorite summer resort in peace times, but now looking desolate enough. A quick and orderly landing, and then for the customs inspection. We passengers were all huddled into a small temporary house, along with others who had just arrived from the South to take the returning boat to Denmark. And here was German order again, the revolution to the contrary notwithstanding. For as the passports were taken up each person received a bit of metal containing his number for the baggage inspection.

While waiting, "the Riga woman" asked: "Why are we to be examined here again?"

"To make sure that you are taking enough in with you," remarked a wag standing near me. The answer pleased me, with my basket of good things from Copenhagen. I made him my travelling companion to Berlin. Herr M. I will call him.

When my number was called I entered the next room, and at once I felt myself a transformed individual. A "Herr Lieutenant" was in charge, evidently, though one of the kind that is made, not born. He lacked the stiff and elaborate manners of the typical Prussian officer, but his interest in me was apparently genuine and unaffected. He at once gave me a rank equivalent to an ambassador to Berlin, and turned me over to an inspector with an air that seemed to say: "You are a privileged character; we have just been waiting for you." So the inspector made his hieroglyphic upon my pieces without even making me open them.

It was after 12 o'clock now; and most of the passengers were reconnoitering themselves to a wait of some six hours for a train to Neustrelitz. But Herr M. and I decided to proceed at once to Rostock, a run of half an hour, where the waiting would be less tiresome.

People Look Well Fed.

On the train there was again general talk in our coupe. In the course of it I expressed some surprise at seeing the people looking so well fed, and added that in Warnemunde the first thing that confronted me, as I went to send off some telegrams, was a butcher's shop with four quarters of fat beef.

"But that," answered some one, "was for the whole city; and how much do you think each person will get when they come to divide it? But we are better off here than in some parts; for this is Mecklenburg, where people are mostly farmers and where we have few industries. You go to Berlin and Saxony—there you will see the effects of hunger."

At Rostock "the woman from Riga" again appeared. She had come hoping

A Maxwell Grows Better the More You Drive It

THAT is the test of anything good. The more you use a good watch the better it runs. The older your friends grow the better you like them.

And nothing is more pat on a Maxwell than this. Hardly a day goes by that some Maxwell owner doesn't take his pen in hand and write that he is now passing a mark of 30,000 miles or 20,000, or 50,000.

To purchase such a man's Maxwell from him would be like trying to buy an heirloom from a rich man.

But these Maxwells of today are far better cars than those of yesterday.

For it is the policy of the Maxwell Motor Company to keep on building and building on the original chassis plan set down 5 years ago.

300,000 Maxwells have been built on this program.

1000 refinements have been made since the first car was built.

Each new Maxwell is better than yesterday's.

For doing one thing always results in doing it well.

This Maxwell you see today is so vastly improved in appearance that you may think it a new model.

But it isn't. Just a better looking Maxwell. And a better car.

1919 finds Dunlop Traction Tread—Cord and Regular—out to surpass all quality records.

In 1918 more new friends were made—more "Traction" were sold—than in any other year.

Our own men, motoring in the various portions of Canada on their daily duties, had an excellent opportunity to see countless "Traction" in service. They saw them on big city streets, in the quiet of the country, over the even, carefully-graded expanses of highways, and on the hilly going of the mountainous districts: but the important point is that they saw them delivering service of a new order—the kind of service that has no "backfire," no "added entries" of cost to the Tire Bankbook.

With "Traction" now obtainable in Cord, as well as in Regular Construction—with each part of the tire made sturdier than ever before, with countless car owners saying "Traction" Deserve Well Because They Serve Well"—the logical choice for tire equipment is the "Master of the Road."

The "Two Hands" Line consists of: Dunlop Cord—"Traction" and "Ribbed," Dunlop Regular—"Traction," "Special," "Ribbed," "Clipper," "Plains," Dunlop "Copper" and Dunlop "Ribbed" (Regular)—both anti-skids—sell at the price of "Plains," a remarkable opportunity.

THE efficient performance of McLaughlin cars has placed them foremost in the estimation of Canadian motorists.

The new 1919 Series "H" more than uphold this high McLaughlin reputation. The Master Six Series are refined and improved in detail, making them more beautiful than ever.

Graceful in design and exquisite in finish and appointment, these models represent the best work of master builders and master artists.

The Light Six Series maintains an established record for economy in gasoline consumption and tire mileage. No detail of material and workmanship has been stinted in production. For efficiency and economy in motoring cost the new Light Six Series stands without a peer in Canadian built cars.

The McLaughlin Series "H" for 1919 will appeal to motorists intending to purchase a new car this year. Call at the nearest McLaughlin show rooms.

See the new McLaughlin models at our showrooms, 140-144 Union Street.

POOR SERVICE TAKES JOY OUT OF TRAVELING

to get a train for Berlin, but found it did not go until the next day. She set off for the city, a porter shouldering her bags. An hour later, Herr M. and I set forth for a walk about Rostock; and we soon met her again trudging along the streets hunting for a hotel; she had been going all the time and found every house filled with Baltic refugees. We wished her luck, and she passed finally with her tragedy from my life.

As we tramped around the old walls of the city, Herr M. became talkative. He had been spending two months in Copenhagen with his wife, a Danish woman. And now he was going home without her and the children; for the food was still too scarce in Germany. He had been through the war as a motorcycle courier, had been long on the Russian front, then in the Serbian campaign, and finally at Verdun and other parts of France. The soldiers at the front, he said, greeted the revolution with the greatest enthusiasm, rejoicing that the war had come to an end; and even the officers largely shared their feelings.

The Kaiser, he went on, had thrown away all popular support by holding on three months too long, then fleeing to Hindenburg to save him, and finally, after having taken refuge in Holland, trying to exculpate himself and throwing all blame upon others. And now nobody in Germany, it seems, wants him back on the throne, except a small section of the old landed aristocracy. The people at large, said Herr M., were only too glad to be rid forever of their monarchs and the military system; and there was no prospect whatever that they would be restored.

We found the streets swarming with discharged soldiers, still wearing their ill-fitting, dirty uniforms, and making a most unimpressive appearance—a pair of Germany's vast army of the unemployed, which is daily becoming a heavier and heavier burden upon the country. We ran across advertisements of public dances, which called forth the remark from me that some of the German newspapers had protested against the dancing craze that was sweeping over all the big cities as showing a lack of dignity and appreciation for the present misery of Germany.

"And how they danced!" replied

Herr M. "You see, all forms of amusement had been prohibited for more than four years; the people had been under a tremendous physical and moral strain; then came the end of the war and the removal of all restraints; and the people could not but give vent to their joy." And my mind ran back to a passage in Carlyle, describing how the people of Paris, at the conclusion of the reign of terror, rushed promiscuously into the streets and danced the Carmagnole—a whirl of mad joy.

After nightfall we found ourselves again in the train, rolling slowly and painfully toward Neustrotitz. It was to take us some five hours, though I had often covered it in an hour and a half. But our locomotive was short of breath; it looked like a product of the year 1860.
What's in a Name?
Perhaps if they didn't call it "egg coal" it wouldn't be so expensive.

MONTREAL STRONG ON MILLINGS

(McDougall and Cowans.)
Montreal, April 25.—The milling securities were the features of today's trading. Maple Leaf being the first in which strength developed. This stock advanced to 143. Ogilvie and St. Lawrence Flour followed, the former advancing two points to 217 and the latter sold up to 93. Prices generally throughout the list were firm. Brompton, which has been quiet and weak for some time, became very active around 84%. Strength still continues in the bank stocks, Merchants going to 202% and Royal to 215.

In the unlisted department North American Pulp was again erratic, opening above 8, declining at the close to 5.8.

There is still a good demand for all the war loans.

MARKET DROPS FROM HIGH PITCH

Course of Events at the Peace Conference Was Again the Occasion for Much Re-straint.

New York, April 25.—Further reduction of activity from the high pitch of the mid-week was the most striking feature of today's stock market. The movement of prices was uncertain during the early and intermediate stages but strengthened visibly late on buying of investment rails.

The course of events at the peace conference was again the occasion for much restraint, but technical conditions also entered into the calculation of traders, a considerable element evidently regarding them as top heavy and ripe for a smoky reaction. Low-priced transportation, or "oil rails" as they are known, were again the central features of the constructive side of the market.

Other prominent features among secondary rails embraced Missouri Pacific, Missouri Kansas and Texas, Rock Island, St. Louis and San Francisco, Denver and Rio Grande preferred and Southern railway. A seven point advance in Texas land trust certificates was largely effaced later.

Among high-grade rails Southern Pacific was most conspicuous, gaining 1.58 points, with marked strength in other trans-continental and trans-gulfers, notably Atchafson railway. A broader demand for low-priced railway issues marked the trading in bonds. Liberty and International floatations were firm. Total sales, per value, were $94,000,000.

Old United States coupon 4 1/4's lost 1/4 per cent. on sales, others unchanged on call.

INDUSTRIES ARE REAPING BENEFITS

Ottawa, April 25.—In securing trade orders under Canadian credits abroad, the Canadian Trade Commission reports that certain industries have taken a predominant place, and other classes equally important, have done little to obtain an allocation. As the main line in establishing credits was to enable Dominion industries as a whole to "carry on" over a difficult period, and to enable a larger export to be made into the export field, attention of business men in all industries is called to the conditions.

It is thought advisable to spread the credits over unused factory capacity without confining the benefits to a few lines, and thus prevent unemployment where possible. Present conditions upon which may never be made into the export field, are opportunities of entering the permanent export markets which may not be taken by the commission. Southern Pacific which has proved oil properties was strong in the last hour. Royal Dutch was strong on the prospect of subscription rights.

RAILS FURNISHED MARKET FEATURE

(McDougall and Cowans.)
New York, April 25.—Southwest rail rails continued to furnish the feature of the market in afternoon and stimulated an improvement in other sections of the list. Gains in the rails ran from fractions to more than four points, the extreme advance being made by Texas and Pacific on the strength of expected development of its lands in the oil regions of Texas. One test well was being sunk on the company's property and will not reach the oil depth for perhaps sixty days.

Southern Pacific which has proved oil properties was strong in the last hour. Royal Dutch was strong on the prospect of subscription rights.

SHARP BULGE IN CORN MARKET

Reports of Bubonic Plague in Buenos Aires Caused the Pressure.

Chicago, April 25.—Reports of bubonic plague at Buenos Aires brought about a sharp bulge in the corn market today, although previous to this news the tendency of values was down grade. The initial weakness seemed to be due to talk of possible imports of wheat from Canada. Likelihood, however, that shipping from Argentina would be seriously interfered with became quickly the dominating factor.

Opening prices, which ranged from 74 cent to 75 cents lower, with July $1.62 to $1.63 and September $1.58 to $1.59, were followed by decided upturns, which carried July and September well above yesterday's finish.

Oats rallied with corn. After opening unchanged to 1/2 cent lower, with July 70 1/2 cents to 70 1/4, the market sagged a little further, and then made a quick advance.

Provisions were strong from the outset, and had jumped to a new high record, 32 cents a pound. The reason ascribed was European demand.

OBITUARY

John K. Johnston.
Goshen, Queens Co., N.B., April 25.—The death occurred on April 15th of John K. Johnston at his residence, Goshen, Queens County, aged 78 years. Although in failing health for some years the end came quite suddenly at last. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and three daughters, Mrs. Chas. K. Johnston, of Goshen, and Mrs. David Ward, Highfield, Queens County, and Miss Margaret at home, and two sisters, Mrs. John Coyle, of Martown, Kings County, and Mrs. Mattail, of St. John, and a large circle of relatives and friends. He was a lifelong resident of Goshen and a faithful member of the Episcopal church. He was a man of upright character and will be much missed in the community where he lived. The funeral took place on Easter Sunday from his late residence at 3 o'clock, and was attended by a large circle of friends and relatives. Interment took place in St. Paul's Cemetery. The services were conducted by the Rev. C. A. S. Warnford.

The Red Triangle Campaign

"The biggest thing in Canadian Reconstruction, in that it directly deals with the development of an efficient Canadian manhood depleted by the wastage of war, is the national Y.M.C.A. programme for 1919 to be financed by help of public contribution.

The purposes for which the fund of $1,100,000 called for will be expended are as follows:

1. In maintaining Y.M.C.A. services among returning Canadian Soldiers during demobilization and aiding the Y.M.C.A. to carry on similar work among their wives and children.
2. To enlarge Y.M.C.A. work among Canada's "warage boys."
3. To carry the Y.M.C.A. into the country towns, villages and counties.
4. To develop social service work among factory operatives in industrial centres and inaugurate Y.M.C.A. work in isolated industrial communities like lumber and mining camps.

"TREAT 'EM RIGHT" IS THE ACCEPTED SLOGAN OF THE MERCHANT MARINE

Woman Finds Quarters and Food for Seamen Far from Conditions of Years Ago—Old Skipper Surprised.

By Jessie E. Henderson.
Like most people who want to learn about the "good old days" of America's sailing ships, I had been reading Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast." Somehow, it left a bad taste in my mouth. It was so brutal.

chant marine to see how American sailors live today.
Taking the two together, I have decided that the romance of the sea of those earlier days—the days when "rough stuff" was the rule and the quarterdeck governed the crew with a baying pig—had nothing at all to offer for the present era in the way of suggestions on how to treat sailors. Those were the "good old days" of salt horses, the grand old days of scurvy—a toothsome subject, which nowadays isn't mentioned in the maritime world, principally because it doesn't exist in well regulated crews.

treat 'em right, feed 'em right, and give them the best of quarters—in other words, try to make a job about as attractive as one a shore.
An old sailor accompanied me aboard the freighter, a captain of sailing days, curious to see how they were doing things on "them ships that everybody's talking so darned much about." I suspected the old gentleman came to scoff. If he didn't remain to pray, at least he remained to praise.

Comfort Beats Thrills.
A sample breakfast for instance, served to both officers and men contains honey and milk, hot breakfast, hot boiled potatoes, bread and butter and coffee. A sample supper comprises bread and butter, some kind of cold meat, a vegetable and stewed fruit. A typical dinner includes a soup, roast, one fresh vegetable, boiled potatoes, bread and butter and bread and butter pudding, or baked pork and beans, corned beef hash hot boiled potatoes, cheese, stewed fruit, bread and butter and tea.

Quarters Are Attractive.

The quarters for the mates and engineers were better than those enjoyed by many, a small sailing ship captain in other years. The quarters of the chief officers were as trim and polished as in the newest of bungalows. But it was the quarters of the crew, the seamen and firemen, which most astounded the old time skipper.

NOTED SPORTSMAN, 95, DIES IN ENGLISH HOME

Henry Sparrow, Long Known as Follower of Hunts, Riding When Eighty Years Old.

No more than one bunk can be built above another nowadays. The beds had good springs, in neat steel frames. The bedding included a mattress of "kapoc," a tropical fibre that keeps the sailor comfortable while he is asleep, and floats him, like a life preserver, if he is wrecked.

The death of Henry Sparrow, of Baddesley, Wombourne, at the age of ninety-five, removes a famous character from the world of British sports. He was a keen lover of all outdoor sports, and as far back as 1889 played for Warwickshire and Worcestershire against an all-England cricket eleven. You Need More Than A Laxative

To correct constipation, all organs of digestion and elimination should be helped. Try NR and see how much better you feel.

NR Today—Keeps the Doctor Away

To live and be healthy, your body mechanism must properly digest your food, extract all the nourishment from it and promptly throw off the waste that is left. This is accomplished by the processes of digestion, assimilation and elimination—the work of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

The failure of any of the vital organs to do its work properly affects the action of all the others. A forced bowel movement does not help constipation; it only relieves for a few hours the condition that constipation brings about.

Now if you are used to taking so-called laxative pills, oil, purgatives and the like, you know mighty well you've got to be taking them all the time. Moreover, if you stick to any one laxative, you've got to be increasing the dose all the time. That can do you a lot of harm.

Stop dosing yourself with such things just long enough to give Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) a trial, and let the results show the difference. NR Tablets are not mere bowel movers, their purpose is to correct the condition that induces constipation and give you real, genuine, lasting benefit: to improve your digestion and assimilation, give you good healthy appetite, regulate your liver and bowels, tone up kidney action and give your poison-clogged body a good cleaning out.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is not harsh; it is mild, easy, pleasant in action, no griping or pain ever follows its use; but it is thorough and sure, by its action on the digestive organs it promotes assimilation, which means extraction of full nourishment from your food, and thereby gives you new strength, energy, better blood, better appetite, by toning, not irritating your liver, NR sends bile into the intestines, improving intestinal digestion. Lastly, by gently encouraging more vigorous bowel and kidney action, NR drives poisonous impurities out of and cleans up your body.

Try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and just see how much better you feel in every way. Get a 25c box today and take one each night for a week. You'll say you never felt better in your life. NR is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

NR Tonight—Tomorrow Feel Right Get a 25c Box

There was a neat little dining room for the crew on the new freighter. In the days of which Dana wrote the crew ate rather haphazardly, sometimes preferring the sea-washed decks to the ill-smelling, vermin-infested quarters where the meals were supposed to be "served."

What Sailors Eat.

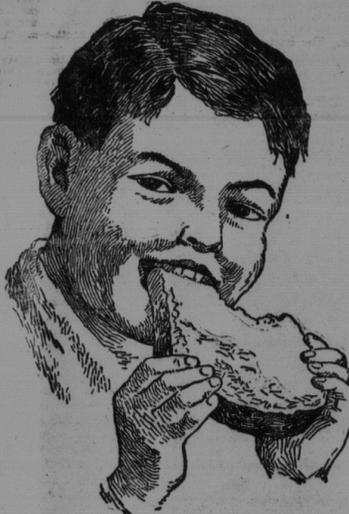

Only in those times there was no "serving." The crew went to the galley, got its dose of rations in a "kid" or wooden tub, and ate as it was, straight a course as possible across the dizzy decks to the forecabin. More than once a sea swept aboard lifted the tubs and hungry seamen from his feet and carried away the contents of the ration kit. And there was no second serving.

and nerve are told that a century ago he rode along a sheep track round the Great Orme's Head, when the slightest mischance would have meant instant death. Once he rode into the Wrexham Hotel on an elephant which a few days before had killed its keeper.

Imparts Confidence.
Watertown Times: "Lloyd George's speech imparts confidence, for through out it has a tone of satisfaction over the work of the conference and confidence as to the future. It imparts the feeling, also, that Russia is to be taken in hand with vigor, and that to the world seems the all important thing at the present juncture."

For Health and Nutrition

Use this Famous Flour to get Best Bread—Guaranteed to give Full Satisfaction, or Money Back

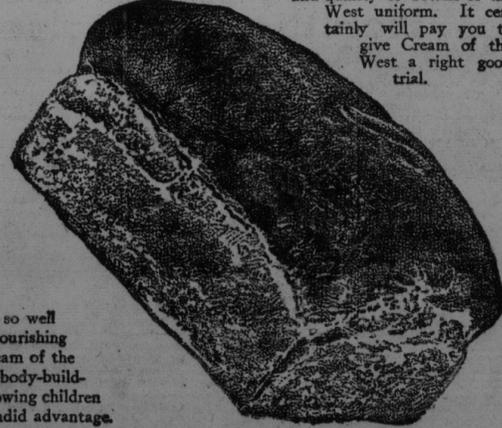

Why is it that the famous Western Canada hard wheat is prized the world over for making good bread? Because it is rich in a highly nutritious substance called gluten. This gluten has such wonderful elasticity, or power of expansion, that it imprisons and holds the little bubbles of gas developed by the yeast, thus enabling bread to rise properly.

Cream of the West Flour is made from the best quality of this famous Western hard wheat—rich with gluten. That is why bread made from it rises splendidly and gives you the biggest kind of loaves. When using white flour for bread, why not have the big loaves of highly nourishing, light, flaky bread you can always get with

Cream of the West Flour

Milled according to Government Standard

Cream of the West "goes farther" than other flours. Not only does it make good bread but it is used with success by housewives for all kinds of baked products. All shipments of grain are tested in our laboratory, knowing exactly what the wheat contains, we can always keep the strength and quality of Cream of the West uniform. It certainly will pay you to give Cream of the West a right good trial.

Cream of the West A High Gluten Flour

The gluten that makes bread rise so well is also the reason for the high nourishing quality of bread made with Cream of the West. This substance is rich in body-building protein. No mother with growing children can afford to overlook this splendid advantage.

CAMPAIGN NOW IS UNDER WAY TO BRIGHTEN BRITISH SUNDAY BY SPORTS

Churchmen Are Favorable to Scheme to Provide Wholesome Outdoor Recreation Under Proper Auspices.

London, April 23.—A much needed step toward making the British Sunday a better, brighter and healthier day is to be taken soon. Representatives of the various sports governing bodies are to be invited by the Sunday Games Association to attend a meeting next month to discuss thoroughly the subject and put the organization on a proper working basis. Promoters of the association have endeavored to make it quite clear that they do not wish any way to conflict with public worship or increase Sunday labor. Many distinguished churchmen themselves are favorable to, if not enthusiastic over, the scheme, judging from the letters which have been received by S. H. Noble, the honorary secretary of the association. Mr. Noble is a seasoned sportsman, and his connection, official and otherwise, with pastimes of the rigorous and healthy kind extends over thirty years. "During that time," he states, "I have seen the blighting influence of betting, and speaking for myself and those who are working with me, we shall do all we can to check any form of betting or gambling, and confine ourselves to endeavoring to make Sunday what it ought to be—a real day of recreation for boys and girls, men and women."

A Revival of Old Customs.

"A brighter Sunday will make for a healthier, more moral and, in the best sense of the word, more religious people. Happily, there are signs that the churches will not continue to hold aloof from the movement." If the Sunday Games Association has its way it will simply mean a reverting to a phase of English life in earlier days. It is not so very long ago that a certain "squire" and another country parson used rather to encourage football among rustics on Sunday afternoon. It was a common custom centuries ago for men and youths to go straight from church to practice archery at the butts, and other sports were favored provided they did not interfere with religious observance. Then came a violent reaction, and among those who took stern view of Sabbatarian moralities was Sir Isaac Newton. A few years ago a notebook used by him in his undergraduate days was discovered and deciphered, and among the contents was an account of Newton's self-examination before he received the sacrament one Sunday in 1662. The sins for which he asked pardon were "eating an apple at Thy house" and "making a mousetrap on Thy day." Poor, self-tormented Isaac!

couldn't stand any clothes on the bed. Then, when I thought I was going to sleep, a voice yelled out from the next cubicle and asked me if I was cold. I reminded him he was in a Turkish bath. "Thank heaven!" he said; "I'd forgotten. Thought it was the fire coming on!"

It is curious that at such a critical time as the present, when the whole country is agitated over the cost of living and the regulation of wages, there should be such a large and growing campaign against the importance of a new dance. Of course, all the outcry against the "jazz" recalls that a few years ago again the "tango" was forbidden by the Vatican until a couple of experts danced it before the Pope, when it was reinstated. Even the Kaiser taboos it—but his substitute was the goose-step.

Most of the critics, as one may gather from the correspondence in the newspapers, seem to forget that there are only three kinds of dances—graceful, ungraceful and disgraceful. Everything depends whether in a solo or duet, upon the spirit in which it is performed.

American soldiers, both officers and men, of whom there are still a great many second London, are amused at the sight. Mrs. Lawrence, organizer of the American Nights at Prince's, at which the jazz forms a conspicuous part of the programme, has issued a challenge to Canon Drummond, the Rev. Hugh Chapman, Sir Dyke Duckworth and a committee of five clergymen, to come and see it and be converted, as the Vatican was to the tango. She is willing to give $500 to any clergyman named if the committee's verdict is that the jazz dance as performed at the American Nights entertainments is either vulgar or demoralizing.

"I am quite in sympathy with a newspaper campaign against any dancing which is rightly considered decadent or improper," said Mrs. Lawrence, "and I am willing to agree that there are places where 'jazz' is made an ugly if not unwholesome thing. But at such places the simplest and most obnoxious of dances is raised by its treatment, and I do not believe there is anything inherently wrong in the 'jazzing' seen at our dances or in the best London society. Some of the critics have condemned the dance without seeing it. I hope my challenge will be accepted."

Hat Shortage Threatened.

There is a conspiracy to make you go without your hat in this country. The Hat Makers' and Trimmers' Union of England threaten to make every one join the "hatless brigade." At least this is the effect of their ultimatum to the Hat Manufacturers' Federation. They demand a thirty per cent increase in wages and a forty-three-hour week, and apparently if they do not get these concessions they will "down hats."

To make people go without hats in such weather as we have been having would be cruelty of the purest Bolshevik type. At present London hat makers say they will bowlers to go round for another month.

As Anston Chamberlain is busy now preparing his budget, about which the most fearsome things are expected, bachelors have read with dismay a significant reply he made in the House of Commons the other day. Commander Bellairs had asked if the Chancellor of the Exchequer had seen statements to the effect that the new Italian finance bill included the taxation of bachelors.

"Yes," said Mr. Chamberlain. "There have been taken to obtain particulars."

CRIME WAVE SWEEPS "BONE-DRY" CAPITAL

(Bangor Commercial.)

The Association Opposed to Prohibition Saturday gave out a statement pointing out that the crime record in the district of Columbia has increased since the district was declared bone dry by Congress. It is pointed out by the statement that the association had no figures to show that the number of drug addicts has increased in the district.

"The Grand jury found 167 new indictments which, added to 80 other true bills previously reported, made 187 criminal indictments for one week," said the statement. "United States District Attorney Lasker, whose duty it is to prosecute the criminal cases in the Washington courts, is quoted as having said that the Grand Jury since he has been in office has never returned so many indictments against violators of the criminal law."

"Sixteen of the 187 indictments were for the taking of human life, the degrees ranging from murder outright to homicide. Some of the murders are said to have been committed in the most cold-blooded, savage ways. One of the accused is charged with having thrown a lighted lamp at a woman, setting fire to her clothing and causing her to be burned to death. Several persons were beaten to death with lead pipes. A great number of automobile collisions occurred, causing death and serious injury as a result of criminal negligence. Such acts of depravity and savage violence are too often pictures by the anti-prohibitionists as the sole results of inebriety, and they promised Utopian realization of law and order if Congress would only vote the District of Columbia bone-dry. But after something more than a year of the bone-dry delusion, the nation's capital city is showing up the worst criminal record in its history."

"Crimes involving violence are invariably laid to interperence by the prohibitionists. If the assaults and murders committed in streets of the Capitol are to be thus accounted for, it must be concluded that interperence is on the increase in Washington since the District of Columbia was voted dry and prohibition at the very citadel of the Republic has proved a miserable farce. But the great bulk of crimes returned by the Grand Jury tells of an increase in other crimes than those of murder, manslaughter, homicide, and assault. There were 29 cases of robbery, embezzlement, forgery, cheating and swindling returned."

Health and Happiness

Women of today seem to listen to every call of duty except the supreme one that tells them to guard their health. Home duties, church duties, war activities, and the hundred-and-one calls for charitable enterprises soon lead women to overwork. Nervousness, headaches, backaches and female troubles are the inevitable result.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which, added to my weak condition, kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness. Health and happiness? Yes, I have both now."—Mrs. J. WORTHINGTON, 2838 North Taylor Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The majority of women nowadays, towards, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down nervous condition with headaches, backaches, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. Avoid them by taking in time

"Is this the genuine Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"Yes, madam, we do not offer substitutes, nor do we believe there is anything to take the place of this great nerve restorative."

"WELL, it has been so strongly recommended to me that I do not want to make any mistake in getting the right medicine."

"You are not making any mistake in this, for we think too much of our reputation to try to talk you into taking something else."

"Do you sell much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"It is one of our largest sellers, and gives such universal satisfaction that it is a pleasure to recommend it to our customers."

"But do you know of cases in which it has actually cured people of sleeplessness, headaches, irritability and nervousness?"

"Scores of them, madam. Some people never say anything about the medicines they buy, but scarcely a day passes that we do not hear of some case in which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has effected a cure. It is also great for anaemia, and all ailments arising from a thin, watery condition of the blood."

"Well, I am going to try it. How much is it a box?"

"Fifty cents a box, or six boxes for $2.75. Better take the six, for you save a little on the price, and you need that many to give it a fair trial."

"Do you think I will?"

"Oh, yes, the process of building up the nervous system is necessarily slow. You will no doubt feel benefited after the first box or two have been used, but too many make the mistake of neglecting the treatment then instead of keeping on until the nerves are fully restored."

"Do me up the six boxes, then, for I hear of so many people being benefited by using the Nerve Food that I am going to give it a thorough test."

If your dealer does not have Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in stock, write direct to Edmanston, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

"The Home Commands."

Westminster Gazette—"The decision of Sir Ian Hamilton and Sir Julian Byng to refuse high commands in order that, as Sir Ian puts it, 'younger men should now be given a chance,' is close akin to the attitude that is becoming fashionable in the Navy, where Rear-Admirals wait for a step in rank and then at once go on to the retired list to make way for their juniors. It is a measure of self-sacrifice that has much to commend it, and both Sir Ian Hamilton and Sir Julian Byng can well afford to be generous. They are men with great reputations, who have distinguished themselves as few soldiers have done."

ST. JOHN

The social event of the week and one which has been anticipated with keen interest was the bridge and dance given at the Masonic Hall, on Wednesday evening by the St. George's Society in honor of St. George's Day and the anniversary of Zebrugg and Ostead. The hall room was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Pastors of red and white bunting, caught in the centre in a huge rosette completely covered the ceiling and around the balconies red roses on a white ground were used in abundance with flags and engravings appropriate to the occasion. The Imperial orchestra rendered splendid music for the programme of fourteen dances. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Estabrooks, Mr. E. L. Risling and Judge Grimmer. Mrs. Estabrooks wore a beautiful gown of black satin and Mrs. Risling, black tulle over satin embroidered with silver. For many who preferred cards a card room had been provided and at the close of the evening prizes were presented to those having the highest score. The prizes and prize winners were Mrs. W. J. Ambrose, a silver coupe dish; Mrs. Frank Young, a cushion plate; Mr. J. M. Christie, a thermos bottle; Mr. Heber Vroom, a bridge set. The supper was provided and served by members of the Loyalist Chapter I. O. D. E. The supper tables were arranged in the form of a St. George's cross and were decorated with silver candelsticks containing red and white candles. At the large table in the dining room tea and coffee were dispensed by Mrs. Alexander Fowler and Mrs. A. G. Bishop, the former wearing black lace over black satin with panel embroidered with indolent beads, and the latter blue satin with embroidered overdress of blue silk net. The decoration of the tea table was much admired and consisted of red satin ribbon forming the St. George's cross, with crystal bowl of red and white roses, and massive silver candelabra containing red shaded candles. The address of welcome was read by the president, Mr. T. H. Estabrooks, and an address on "St. George's Day" was ably delivered by Hon. Chief Justice McKeown. During the evening Miss Louise Knight and Mr. Clarence Girvan delighted those present by their solos, "Tomorrow" and "The Englishman," and Mr. James U. Thomas, secretary of the local society, read several messages of greeting from other societies.

Several young people motored to the Manor House on Tuesday evening where they were the guests of Miss Phyllis Kenney at one of the most enjoyable dances of the season. Mrs. Kenney and Mrs. A. C. Skelton chaperoned the party and an orchestra provided music for the programme of dances. The annual Easter ball given by the Knights of Columbus was held on Monday evening and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large number present. The ball room was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting and excellent music for the dancing was provided by Jones' orchestra. In the supper room the table was beautifully arranged and had in the centre a silver basket containing yellow daffodils. On the table was a large bowl of yellow tulips in which was caught a spray of mauve iris. Small silver vases containing the same flowers and silver candelabra with yellow candles were effectively arranged on either side of the centrepiece. The chaperones for the evening were Mrs. W. P. Broderick, Mrs. William M. Ryan, Mrs. Henry Regan and Mrs. J. R. Nugent.

SAFE HOME TREATMENT FOR THE CURE OF RHEUMATISM

CHANGEABLE SPRING WEATHER STARTS THE PAINS BUT THE TROUBLE IS ROOTED IN THE BLOOD.

Thousands Throughout Canada Who Are Suffering Can Be Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The twinges and tortures of rheumatism are not due to cold, damp weather as so many people suppose. Bad weather may start the pains going, but the real cause is rooted in the blood.

ACTUALLY CRIPPLED. FREE FROM PAIN. COMPLETELY CURED.

Mr. Henry Smith, a well known and respected resident of St. Jerome, Que., says: "For upwards of a year I was a victim of rheumatism in a most painful form."

There has been no increase in the price of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are still sold at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

My Dear Chums:—Of course I don't mean all that is in house-cleaning and outdoor cleaning time. Probably there are, or soon will be, many evidences all about you indoor cleaning, and I don't say of the little folk like it or better than the mothers do.

Then we hear so much about habits which grow and become in ourselves before we really have begun. I couldn't blame anyone over the naughty habit of the young as well as the old.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

The Road To Glory

And the Bargain with Jonah Quail.

"Hi, hi, Jonah Quail! Dicky Sturm is a-coming back from the wars! Shift your lazy bulk and come and see him...

"What! You don't remember Dicky, Farmer Sturm's lad, who went away from Droneaway seven year back?"

"Oh, ay, I call 'im to mind," growled Jonah Quail sleepily. "Many's t' hiding I give 'e in my time, I did."

"True, Jonah, as you're so fond of 'e, you'll have to mind your 's and 's now, for 'e's a-coming back a splendid soldier o' t' King, w' many medals on his shining breast."

"As gallant-looking a lad as—ye are a loutish-looking clown, Jonah Quail. An 'e's unwillin' to him 'e'll remember old scores mebbe, so be wary."

"Anyways," chuckled the old man, "Sally Waters, as you're so fond of 'e, 'e's been a-feasting here on Dicky ever since he showed 'isself."

"This was too much. The roused Jonah moved off to investigate. There was bad temper in his eyes, and he kept shifting his jaw as if he entertained intentions of devouring the disturber of his peace."

As he approached the farm a circle of gaping yokels, boys, and dairymaids opened to make way for him, and he perceived in the centre of the group a fine figure of a young man in the uniform of the Light Dragons, with a sword swinging at his side.

"A good-looking fellow he was, too, with merry blue eyes, standing straight as an arrow, one hand on hip, the other on the hilt of his sword in his glittering steel scabbard."

Jonah's heart sank with envy; then he remembered that this was Dicky Sturm, whom he used to terrify and play the bully over. Clearly he needed taking down. Jonah would show the spectators whose eyes and open mouths appeared first at the sight of admiration, that this swaggerer must be kept in his place.

"Who's this?" he demanded in slow, heavy glances at his side. A contemptuously. He came closer, as if in minute examination of "this."

"They tell 'e 'e's Dick Sturm," added Jonah, with a grin. "True enough, Jonah," cried the other heartily. "I recognised you, though you're twice as fat and half as handsome as you were."

There was a burst of laughter. Jonah turned very red. "See ye here, my pretty-looking boy," he growled dazedly. "Now you all follow me, and away to cook it over us w' yer fine clothes and ready tongue, ye have made a mistake. A fine murderer 'e was, but a fool to trust ye w' a sword."

"Be careful, Jonah! I wear this sword guard his Majesty's name and honor," said Dicky, his eyes flashing. "But you always were a bear."

"The dragon turned his head upon Jonah and glared at him. He hesitated for a moment, then, stung by the grins of the onlookers, he stropped forward and planted a heavy blow clear from the crown of the other's neck. Dicky staggered, recovered himself, wheeled like a flash, caught Jonah round the middle and, lifting him over his shoulder, literally flung him over a low wooden rail into a large pond covered with duckweed."

Jonah Quail disappeared under the water. He was pulled out of the very picture of blind fury.

CHAPTER II. "Shall I tell you what's the matter with you, mate? You want revenge. Now you listen to me—to us, and we'll promise you a fair dose of 'e."

Jonah quail started. He had had no thought that he was being watched in his long fit of the sulks. After his cooling immersion he had gone away to lie in the sun behind a straw dicky to dry his clothes and nurse his wrongs. He now looked up to see a couple of strong, lean, unpleasant fellows watching him.

"Bless your little heart, we saw what happened," said he who had first spoken. "You tackled the wrong customer, my lad. They don't turn out weaklings in the King's army. But ye were in the right, though. Williams, my mate here, thinks so too; don't you old pard?"

"Think? This poor young fellow has been most outrageously treated," answered Williams, with emphasis. "Listen to my mate. He'll put you up to a trick that'll do you brave heart good, it will!"

Jonah regarded the two men with suspicion. They had a nautical way with them, big fellows both, their faces tanned with foreign suns. It was evident that they were not of no good. Jonah now remembered that he had seen them hanging about the village for a day or two.

"Ye know Farmer Sturm?" said the first speaker, drawing near and peering round cautiously. "The father of your enemy, my lad?"

JIMMY COON STORIES

By DR. WARREN G. PARTRIDGE

JIMMY COON SETS UP HOUSE KEEPING IN THE NEW HOME

You remember that Jimmy Coon's mother-in-law, his color-law, and his fourteen children were to live with Jimmy Coon and his mate, Mrs. Jimmy. So they needed a very big bedroom for herself and Father Coon, that she didn't look where she was going, and she bumped into some one in the front door. And Jimmy Coon's mother-in-law gave an awful scream, and yelled for dear life, "Murder, Help, Help, I'm killed dead!"

Now, who do you suppose this stranger was, who was standing in the front door, and into whom Mrs. Coon bumped with a terrible fall, as she hastened into that front door? It was Quilly Porcupine! And you can imagine how you would feel if you suddenly bumped into Quilly, with all his sharp daggers sticking out straight.

Well, poor Jimmy's mother-in-law fainted away from fright, and loss of blood; and she fell headlong down through the branches, bumping from limb to limb. And Father Coon tried to catch her, as she fell, but the force was so great that it knocked Father Coon over, and sprained his lame back terribly.

And all the big Coon family rushed down that tree, and fell sprawling over Father Coon and Mother Coon. It was an awful mixup. And Quilly Porcupine stood there, in the front door, scolding at the top of his harsh letters. "Don't you people know enough to keep away from my house? This house is not for rent. If this house was vacant, I should put up a sign 'To Let'!"

But of course everything about our contests we wish to be fair and square. The fortunate ones in today's list are: Meta M. Long, Sussex, who sent in the first Golden Glow, evidently this goes under different names, as all little folks do not call it that, but the names were not in order in awarding the prize.

Daisy Boone, Aroostook Jet, sent the first Dandelions.

Marion Brown, Salisbury, Pine Tree Buds.

Ina V. Brien, Moss Glen, Spring Beauty.

Enter the front door, near the top of the tall live oak tree. And just as she was going to enter the front door, she turned her head back to warn Father Coon to be very careful, not to hurt his lame back in climbing.

And Mother Coon was in such a hurry to get in the house first, and pick out the biggest and best spots...

"Sign of Spring Contest"

On account of the Easter attractions in our page last week we were obliged to leave out reports of our contest, so this week it will be eagerly looked for by many of the kiddies. All specimens of course have been recorded and in some cases the coupons are not enclosed with them, but in separate letters. You can see little folks how impossible then it is to know just which box belongs to the coupon, as they have been sent in by different names. However, I don't think we have made very many wrong raises.

over the sale of three mares. We know the man who bought those mares. We have never been in the farm, yet understand and need a guiding hand. Take us there tonight, by all, and tell me twenty of those pounds in your pocket, and something to chuckle over when you remember the ducking that young brigand gave ye."

Jonah started. The suggestion took his breath away. If he fell in with it, and the plot failed, the consequences might be serious. On the other hand, he was burning with desire for vengeance, and here was a speedy chance all ready to his hand.

"Your enemy is staying at the farm," said Williams, "on three days' leave. We won't disturb him, but if he interferes with us we promise you that we'll treat him to a keel-hauling that he'll never forget, and he needn't see you."

"Still Jonah quail hesitated. Revenge was sweet, but this after was desperate. Still recollection of the humiliating he had received stung him into action.

"All right," he said with sudden fierceness. "I'll be w' you."

ADVICE TO THE MARRIED

By Aunt Sophie.
Out of the night that fills the sky. Above my husband's head and mine, There comes no light for me and I. For him and me can't keep in line. For he and I no joy can be. So him and me apart should fee.

This is a noble sentiment, to be sure. The authors of this ungrammatical outburst is a little matron from Eau Claire, Wis. Her name is Mrs. Maxine Martingale, and her husband, she writes me, is in the heavy business. I just can't trust him," she writes. "I ain't never caught him doing any flitting, but when I ask him if he loves me dearer than his own life he looks doubtful and says he ain't sure about putting it that strong. I think a husband should place his wife's happiness first and his own life second, don't you, Aunt Sophie?" Aunt Sophie wouldn't go so far as to say that. It is true that life in a lively stable will shoot a man's ideas full of holes, and Mrs. Martingale's husband is a man who is a

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William T. Ellis.
The International Sunday School Lesson For April 27, "The Holy Spirit Our Helper," Acts 2:1-8. There are more tongues in Paris than were heard at Pentecost. Our world is a bigger world than Peter knew. When the forked tongues of fire rested upon the little company of men and women gathered in Jerusalem to await the promised outpouring of the divine Spirit, they represented the universal outreach of Christianity. From that room the disciples went everywhere at preaching. The rapid dissemination of their Message became one of the wonders of history; and it made over the world. Our world is larger than theirs, but it is also more easily reached. It can be reached in an aeroplane over the route of Paul's long, tedious missionary journeys in a few hours. It was but yesterday that I covered in a night and a morning the distance from Rome to the tip of Italy, which took the prisoner apostle nearly weeks. Couriers carried the decrees of Caesar to the limits of the Roman Empire, so that the outermost provinces were many days or weeks in getting news; but now the ends of the earth read at breakfast what was done in Paris the day before. Our area has enlarged since the day of Pentecost, (already the Bible is printed in five hundred languages and dialects), but so also have our material facilities. The apostles had no such opportunity as the Christian Church of today possesses. They had a Power which explained the wonder. So marvelous was their effect upon life that they got a attacked by Remore or any other emotion except regret over letting the till off so easily. Diving to the duo-art and effort-recess-astute of man, Remore's dom camps on his trail until the post-office inspector begins to check up the office. Instances are numerous where postal employees have held out on the government for years at a stretch, in the meanwhile maintaining a sunny disposition and attending Sunday school with the utmost regularity, but are completely overcome by Remore when caught in the company of a few marked bills. Some of the most violent exhibitions of pure and unadulterated disposition and attending Sunday school with the utmost regularity, but are completely overcome by Remore when caught in the company of a few marked bills. Some of the most violent exhibitions of pure and unadulterated disposition and attending Sunday school with the utmost regularity, but are completely overcome by Remore when caught in the company of a few marked bills.

Women are sometimes subject to Remore, especially those who attempt to start a reform school in the home by converting a booze fighter into a bridegroom. After a young woman of high ideals has been seduced by the honeymoon with a husband who did not draw a sober breath from the time he landed in Niagara Falls, she is usually the first to be unable to live as long as she does. Remore which doesn't work both ways is a poor investment. If Remore's begin to operate before the check is raised, it would stand higher than it does.

Byron's lines while you are holding the lines over a kicking horse. The thing is not done, as they say at Newport. If I were Mrs. Martingale, I would strive to bear this in mind, and I would make it a point to make allowances for my husband until he sold out his stable and got into some more esoteric line of endeavor. It is true that a sensible woman must keenly the social line drawn between the wife of the leading lawyer and the wife of the leading ironworker. Such things cannot be overlooked, cannot be avoided. They exist. Of course Aunt Sophie, during her long married life, never had to play second fiddle to a man who was a husband was brilliant and wealthy. Aunt Sophie was a queen in his eyes when he was sober. He insisted that every body in the community regard her as a queen when he was not sober. And so our wedded life was free of such annoyances as are mentioned by Mrs. Martingale. Ah, me! How often in the course of my journalistic jabbering do my thoughts flow back to that king of men! It seems as though every discontented letter I receive from a matron brings home to me the exceeding excellence of that dear old boy! Everything he did was big. He never piked, if I may use the expression when he played poker he lost the bankroll. When he stayed over I wondered if he would ever return. And now I sit among the written ruins of a man whose hopes and wish he deposed here again, gazing into my loving eyes and asking for another night out. Ah, them dear old days of yore! They will never come no more!

reputation as earthquakeers. People declared that they had turned the world upside down. No pagan position was too strong for them to take. Even Caesar's household was conquered. The military might of the Roman Empire became subject to them. Greek philosophy soon was their tool, and their conquests were not limited to the military but extended to the spiritual. This lesson is being written in an upper room in Paul's old city of Thessalonica. As I have wandered about its muddy, filthy streets, and as I have come into contact with its squalid, sordid oriental life, I have missed much of Paul and the wonder that he wrought here in the long ago. Paul made his Thessalonica Christians—and by no power that is not the command of the Church today. Facing the pagan cities of complacent Rome, the little company of Christian disciples needed a new equipment. Roman arrogance could easily overtake them, Roman power could dishearten them, and Grecian

Why Doesn't He Propose

THE PRIM GIRL.
Are you one of those girls who would make a wonderful wife if he would only propose? One of those deep and true souled women who ought to be mothers—but who usually finish out their lives as orphaned nieces and nephews—and die unmarried. The world alas has millions of such—and why? The type is familiar to you so just study for a moment any one of the half dozen such women that you know. Why was your own Aunt Maggie left? Why was she left? She was so much prettier than Aunt Mollie who was happily married. Yet in spite of her prettiness she lived her life alone—and died alone—and not because she did not care to marry. Not because a house and family and all the attendant responsibilities and annoyances were not to her liking—but because she did not propose and why didn't he? She had a tiny picture of him in a little jeweled frame, don't you remember? She showed it to you the day you broke your doll—and then she put it back in the little velvet box with a key. He was young—and dressed in a funny tight coat—but his eyes laughed up at you and you forgot about the doll. And you asked her where he was. And she said: "I wish I knew. Dear, don't you remember? Why didn't she know? Why was she there alone with his picture in his little jeweled frame all that was given to her of love—or life? And why are you now facing the same situation? A girl who belongs in some man's home and yet left behind with all the Mollies and Kitties, and Grace's trail in all their glory to that Promised Land—that Some Man's Land of shelter and of love?"

Do you know what I believe? I know that tendency that makes you shudder when your adored but incorrigible brother drops his cigar stub comfortably into his empty coffee cup after dinner? You know the little cup that goes through you as you recall the picture in your mind all the details of just how the ashes will be all mixed up with the coffee as you wash the family's conversation while you revel in misery at the prospect of removing the offending remnant and combating it easily to the proper receptacle for your doll—and then she put it philosophy could confute them. It was in vain for them to go forth as condemned unless they had some special inducement which the proud world could neither match nor meet; the disciples simply had to possess some irresistible equipment. That is the logic of Pentecost. It was necessary and inevitable. The descent of the Spirit was a natural corollary of the resurrection. Christianity's heralds had to be both empowered and equipped. At the present time all the world is waiting upon the deliberations of the Peace Conference in Paris. The commissioners have envisaged a new world order. They see what must be abolished and what must be established. So far as sagacious statesmanship can do so they have provided for a better state of human society everywhere. Out here in Paul's Thessalonica, however, amid such misery and sordidness as the Peace Commission knows nothing of, it is clear to everybody that if the desired wonder is to be wrought there is needed some such Power as turned old Thessalonica upside down.

Every mile I have travelled since the war began—and I have been all the way around the world, and back again to France, and one more half way around again—has only intensified my conviction that all the varied cost of the conflict will have been wasted unless the herosim of the battlefield and of the home can be supplemented by a new and more real sense of spiritual obligations. It is in vain that we have chased the Hun out of France if we do not also chase his spirit out of human hearts. For men to be free matters little. Today I had luncheon with three British officers—a lieutenant colonel, a major and a captain—who have been through the bitterness of the Salonica campaign, and as we discussed the question of what is ahead of the world they were a unit in thinking that only religion, vital, unprofessional religion, can save society. No new laws will avail unless there is also new life.

That is merely the average man's way of affirming his belief that there is no refuge for the race except in a visitation of the Almighty Spirit of the Eternal God. We cannot maintain civilization successfully, much less Christianity, without this divine reinforcement and enabling. This is an hour of history when every believer in the realities of our religion should pray and work without ceasing for a baptism of the Holy Ghost upon all the disciples of Jesus, for the saving of mankind. A stout ship rides the waves that submerge a weaker, smaller vessel. Something like a wave of carnality is sweeping over the world, in the wake of the great surge of spiritual

More is involved here than formal Christianity. All the old sanctities, of woman's noblest place, of the home, of our social organization, of the Church, and of men's fraternal relations one with another, are being challenged from Russia and nearer points. It almost seems as if all the evil forces of the universe were rallying for one desperate charge upon humanity. The times are portentous. Wherein is our hope? Is it any where else than in a greater spirituality for men and women individually—a spirituality that is an expression of the presence of the Spirit who has given to the disciples at Pentecost?

It matter not who, any man, young or elderly, needing moral vigor, strength, who is not quite the man he should be, who feels himself weakened as a result of past practices and excesses, can, beyond the shadow of a doubt, hope for self-restoration of his lost or weakened powers if he is willing to make a fair, square effort along certain perfectly natural lines (of which he can easily learn), and will lead that sort of a decent existence which Nature demands that all of us SHALL lead, if we are to prove up to the normal standard of vigor and manly capacity, as we see it exemplified in the best men of the world today. Just what I believe you yourself should do or should not do where more manly strength may be desired is told in a perfectly plain, commonsense, practical, everyday sort of way through the medium of a little 72-page illustrated book of advice that I publish and am now sending free, sealed, by mail, to men all over the world who write for it. This little compendium of self-help has, I hope, been of more lasting benefit to my fellow men than any similar publication of its kind before. Over one million copies have been distributed since my first announcement that they would be sent free of charge. Therefore, reader, please use the coupon below, which entitles you to this wonderful little free book, a copy of which will go to you in a perfectly plain, sealed envelope by return mail. REAL MANHOOD ALWAYS WINS of his manly energy and to the alertness of a brain which is fed by the vital energy of the man it belongs to. It seems to me that any man, unaided he bowed down by extreme old age or by some consuming ailment, may increase his physical and vital strength if he really WANTS to and is willing to make the right sort of a conscientious effort in the right direction and along right lines. We manufacture a little mechanical appliance called the Sanden VITALIZER (referred to above), and all about which it will pay you may want to use one. This little Vitalizer is not expected to do its work unaided, but is meant to act as a powerful assistant to Nature and to the man who wants more vitality or vigor and is willing to do his part in regaining it. You simply buckle the Vitalizer comfortably on your body at night when you retire to bed. It starts its work at once. It sends a stream of a certain silent, penetrating power of all else, and is a free gift in every sense of the word. It carries with it no obligation on your part of any kind whatsoever. It seems to me that any man, unless he is bowed down by extreme age or by some chronic ailment, may increase his physical and mental strength if he really WANTS it and is willing to make the right kind of a conscientious effort in the right direction and along right lines.

This Little Vitalizer is not expected to do its work unaided, but it is to be used as a powerful assistant...

It simply buckles the Vitalizer on to your body at night and you retire to bed. It starts work at once. It sends a stream of certain silent, penetrating power which we call Vital Force into your kidneys, liver, stomach, bladder, nerves and blood while you sleep.

With special attachments, the Vitalizer is also used for rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder, nerves, etc. If, after reading the booklet, you decide that you would like to wear the Vitalizer, we shall be pleased to make special arrangements for you to have one sent to you or near this city.
