NEWCASTLE, N. B., WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 6, 1905.

No. 49

The Arrival of New goods,

This is the time of year when stores put on a new appearance, owing to the many, many new things which have to find places on the fixtures. These last few days has been devoted to the opening up of new goods, marking them and getting ready for Fall business. Remember our efforts have been to make this the most popular and profitable place to do business. Every care is given to making trading relations pleasant.

VELOSET.

A nice soft, eiderdown kind of cloth, composed wholly of Cotton, but treated by a process that makes it as soft as wool. Very suitable for Wrappers, Kimonos, Dressing Jackets, etc., 29 inches wide and Another Industry for Miramichi.

The Advocate, in conversation with Ald. John Russell, was informed that he has been in touch with a large manufacturing company which is looking over New Brunswick for a suitable location for the extension and concentration of their present large business. This is now an established concern and pays $40,000 per year in wages alone. A representative of the company has been here and visited the whole Miramichi valley and is much impressed with the many fine sites and facilities we enjoy. He has been especially impressed with Newcastle, and if proper inducements are offered, Ald. Russell thinks the company might locate here.

THE MASONS ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

Pleasant Excursion to Bay du Vin Last Week.

Northumberland Lodge F. & A. M., entertained their friends by an excursion down river last Wednesday. The day was fine and about two hundred participated in the event. An orchestra was engaged and entertained the trip with good music.

The party disembarked at Bay du Vin where luncheon was served. A shower during the afternoon forced all to seek shelter, but did not dampen the ardor of the picnickers.

The steamer arrived here at about 8.30 o'clock and a jolly crowd was that on board. All had spent a most enjoyable day.

PREMIER TWEEDIE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Rumor of Political Change in the Province Which Will Bring This About.

TWO NEW SENATORS.

Governor Snowball Said to be a Candidate—Other Political News of N. B.

The St. John Sun publishes the following: In connection with the two vacant senatorships in this province, it is regarded in well informed liberal circles as certain that one of them will go to O. J. LeBlanc, the federal member for Kent. Hon. John Costigan has renounced his claims, in view of the fact that he is pretty well provided for by the act which gives to all ex-cabinet ministers who have served five years in office an allowance of $3,500 per year.

For the other senatorship, the aspirants whose chances are regarded as being the best are Governor Snowball, whose gubernatorial term expires shortly, and Hon. H. A. McKown of St. John. Other candidates for the position whose names are freely mentioned are A. Gibson, ex-M. P., and D. Gilmor of Montreal and St. George. It is understood that Governor Snowball has the support of Premier Tweedie and Attorney General Pugsley, the idea being that in the event of Governor Snowball securing the seat in the red chamber, that Hon. Mr. Tweedie will become lieutenant governor, and Attorney General premier. If the attorney general is called upon to form a government, it is believed that an appeal will be made to the province.

In the event of Mr. LeBlanc being appointed to the senate, the liberal nomination for Kent would, it is believed, go to either James Barnes, M. P. P., or J. D. Irving.

A GOOD RUN.

Lady Eileen Makes Trip from Gaspé in 18 Hours.

The lady Eileen arrived in port on Monday afternoon at five o'clock from Gaspé with a very large passenger list and cargo. Quite a large number made the round trip in her, and were enthusiastic over the scenery and the fine service given.

Passing Perce at one o'clock in the morning, the powerful searchlight was turned on the famous rock and it was not soon to be forgotten, the rock standing out in all its majesty in the light, with the inky night for a background, and the birds, of which there were myriads on the rock, protesting against being awakened from their slumbers.

The Lady Eileen made the run from Gaspé in 18 hours, the fastest on record in the Bay Chaleur.—Events.

September is a beautiful month to make a trip down to Gaspé. The mountains are bright with autumn colors and the atmosphere is clear and bracing. See ad. for this trip in advertising columns.

LADY VISITORS DEFEAT VICTORS

The Star Bloomer Girls Put up Good Game of Ball.

A LITTLE TAME

But Spectators Got Their Money's Worth—Chatham Stars Defeated.

Among the many sporting attractions which have visited here this season, came the Star Bloomer Girls which played the Newcastle victors Friday afternoon on the Farrell grounds to a fairly large crowd. Previous to the game the band in connection with the visiting team marched through the principal streets, and their splendid music attracted large crowds along the route.

At 3 p. m. the game was called and by the appearance of the first inning it looked as if the Bloomer Girls had everything their own way.

The game was well conducted and refereed, which speaks volumes for both teams. The only genuine "knockout" during the game was the ball that Al Troy received back of the ear, but his was on his feet in a few seconds and kept up his reputation as a base-ballist.

One of Newcastle's most popular I. C. R. employees was selected as umpire, but the "goo-goo eyes" trade at him by the Bloomer Girls certainly had the desired effect. The score stood 6-9 in favor of the visiting team.

On Saturday afternoon the Bloomer Girls went to Chatham and put up a good game of ball, defeating the Chatham team by a very large score.

ON TOUR OF INSPECTION.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson and Party Pass Over the Canada Eastern Section.

Fredericton, Sept. 1.—The minister of railways and canals, Hon. H. R. Emmerson, who has been on a tour of inspection of the Intercolonial Railway, was here for a few hours this morning. Mr. Emmerson arrived here by special train at 8 a. m., having made the run over from Chatham Junction during the night. The party with Mr. Emmerson included Deputy Minister M. J. Butler, General Manager D. Pottinger, General Traffic Manager E. Tiffin, Chief Engineer of Maintenance T. C. Burpee, District Superintendent Price and others.

Very little time was spent in the city, as the special train went out again at 11 a. m. "There is nothing very much to say about our trip," said Mr. Emmerson to a reporter, "for we came over in the night and will do our inspecting on the return." General Manager Tiffin spoke in a feeling manner of the late General Superintendent James E. Price. Mr. Tiffin said that it had been definitely decided that there would be no successor to Mr. Price appointed. The work, he said, is being divided up between the divisional superintendents and the chief engineer of maintenance.

The train hands on the Fredericton branch railway report that on Monday they met half a dozen moose around the track, and that one of them was killed by the engine.

PAPAL DELEGATE'S VISIT TO ROGERSVILLE

Grand Celebration in Honor of the Distinguished Visitor—To Visit St. Joseph's College and Other Points Before Returning to Ottawa.

(Crowded out last week.)

Moncton, Aug. 28.—Mgr. Sbarretti, the papal delegate in Canada, accompanied by His Lordship Bishop Casey of St. John, Mgr. Richard, Roman prelate of Rogersville, Vicar General Hebert of Buctouche, Father Guy, president of St. Joseph's College, Rev. A. D. Cormier and other members of the clergy, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon en route to St. John. Between trains the distinguished visitor and party were given a short drive about Moncton. Mgr. Sbarretti was driven through the principal streets and expressed himself as being very favorably impressed with the city. He spoke particularly of the beautiful shaded streets and the clean appearance of the city generally.

The papal delegate visited Rogersville on Saturday and Sunday where a grand celebration took place in his honor. Among those present were Bishop Barry of Chatham, Bishop Casey of St. John, Mgr. Varily, Mgr. Dugal, Father Hebert, V. G., Father Guy, president of St. Joseph's College, Father A. D. Cormier, St. Joseph's College, and a large number of the priests from the surrounding parishes.

Mgr. Sbarretti, accompanied by his secretary, Dr. Sinnott, arrived at Rogersville on the Ocean Limited on Saturday and was given a very warm reception by between 3,000 and 4,000 people. He was escorted to Mgr. Richard's house where a formal reception was held in the afternoon and between 2,000 and 3,000 people presented to the distinguished guest. Sunday morning a solemn service was held in the church. Mass was celebrated by Mgr. Richard, with Rev. A. D. Cormier of St.

BROKEN SLEEP—TIRED NEXT MORNING. Sleep not only rests, but builds up the body. Cut down the hours of sleep, and you cut down health in the same proportion. Rebuilding then ceases, nerves go to smash, you grow tired, weak and wretched.

To restore sleep you must get more bodily strength, more nutritious blood, healthier nerves. Ferronine solves the whole problem, makes you sleep soundly, gives endurance, vim, ambition. No more morning weakness—instead the fire of youth will run in your veins, supplying abundance of energy and vigor. Witchery expresses the instant effect of Ferronine; try it.

'Does your wife ever look under the bed?' asked the inquisitive gentleman whose better half was very timid. 'Oh, yes,' replied his friend, 'ever since I tried to hide my vest under there one night!'

WANT IT CHANGED

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—An agitation has been started to have Thanksgiving Day fixed for the last Monday in October. It is claimed that this would allow persons three days with their families, who would not be able to get home for Thanksgiving Day if it were held on Thursday as has been customary. Representations have been made to the government on the subject and they will receive due consideration.

The Union Advocate,

ESTABLISHED 1867.

NEWCASTLE, SEPTEMBER 6 1905.

The province of Alberta, which commenced business yesterday, was computed to have a population of 173,000 at the beginning of this year. But the financial basis of union assumes a population 250,000. This is considerably less than the population of New Brunswick. Alberta starts out with an allowance from Ottawa of $1,092,825, which is fifty per cent. more than the total revenue of this province from all sources.

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

In another column we print an interview which the Advocate recently had with Ald. John Russell in reference to another large industry which is looking for a suitable site in New Brunswick. A gentleman interested in this company which has been doing business in Canada for some years, was here recently and was very favorably impressed with Newcastle and the Miramichi and if proper inducements are offered we believe this concern can be induced to locate in Newcastle.

The Board of Trade and the Town Council should take this matter up, get in touch with the managers of this concern, ascertain what concessions they want, and endeavor to come to an agreement so that this important industry may be located within our borders.

Newcastle and the Miramichi have undoubtedly a bright future before them and we should try to assist the onward march of prosperity in every possible way. With the facilities we enjoy in the way of railways and waterways Newcastle ought to be the metropolis of Northern New Brunswick.

Let us give timely attention to this matter and see what can be done.

THE MISSING LINK.

Of late the Advocate has frequently been asked what has become of the "Missing Link question." The only reply we could make was that it is still missing.

Are the repairs for which the money was voted, after much hard work, to be made this year or are they to be made in the dim future. What are the plans for this work. These are questions which are hard to answer by the average person but which should be answered at an early date so that those who are deeply interested in the completion of the work may know what to expect. We think that the Board of Trade might again take up this matter and endeavor to have the work rushed through as the section of the country through which this railway runs demand sit and Newcastle needs the increased trade this line would bring. The money has been voted for the work, why not see to it that it be spent promptly.

TRADE AT HOME.

The Advocate has ever been an advocate of reciprocity among its own people. That our citizens should buy everything possible from their home merchants has always been our theme, but we are afraid our lectures on this subject have been wasted on the desert air as the increasing number of express parcels with the labels of large mail order firms clearly shows. Why these conditions? Are the people to blame or our merchants responsible for this. We think that both are partly responsible. In conversation lately we had our attention called to the fact that a certain young lady could not procure just what was required in trimming for a gown she was having made, in any store in town, and was obliged to order it from Montreal, at considerable trouble and expense. This is not an isolated case, but one of common occurrence, and this leads up to further purchases from abroad. What the merchant should have done was to have offered to procure the required material at once and then done so. He would perhaps not have made much profit on that

Ayer's The Best Value

You know the medicine that makes pure, rich blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Your mother, grandmother, all your folks, used it. They trusted it. Their doctors trusted it. Your doctor trusts it. Then trust it yourself. There is health and strength in it.

"I suffered terribly from indigestion and thin blood. I found no relief until I took Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Four bottles permanently cured me."
MR. F. R. HART, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

Rich Blood

transaction, but it would have created the impression that he was anxious to please and ready to accommodate. It is sometimes these little things which mean success or failure in business.

The above is one instance when only a small purchase was made and which was pardonable. We know of some people who send away for clothing, dress material, fancy goods, furniture, yes, even groceries, to mail order houses. Why. Because these goods have been attractively advertised. This seems to be the secret of the success of the foreign mail order houses. They issue attractive advertising; advertising which tells plainly what the goods are and in many cases illustrates them in the most attractive manner, and they find it money well spent.

Can the local merchant with his small field successfully compete? Some will say no. Many who have do so successfully smile knowingly. With the price of good engraving down to the lowest ebb, and a live paper in the town, any merchant who studies the conditions could easily get the cream of this trade which now goes to swell the business of outside mail order houses. Mr. Merchant, the services of the Advocate are at your disposal. Our staff is always willing and ready to assist you in designing and making your advertising matter attractive. Start your fall campaign at once.

One Story is Good, Till Another is Told.

Some people have been telling you their story about clothing. But this is a story we can tell you with some zest, the reason is we have had the actual experience in things relating to that story. Years of experience in the Clothing Business has taught us what to buy to give the customer the best value. Sometimes we get a little overstocked with some particular line. If we do we reduce them to clear. This week we put in our window

In the Probate Court of Northumberland County.

To the Sheriff of the County of Northumberland, or any Constable [within the said County],

Greeting: WHEREAS Alexander McFarlane, administrator of the estate and effects of John McFarlane, late of the parish of Chatham in the said County, deceased, hath by his petition represented to me that no personal estate of the said deceased hath come to his hands to pay the debts due by the said deceased and hath prayed that license may be granted to him to sell the real estate of the said deceased for the payment of his debts:

You are therefore required to cite Lily McFarlane, the widow, Arthur McFarlane and McLeod McFarlane, the children and heirs of the said deceased, the next of kin, the creditors and all others interested in his said estate, to appear before a Court of Probate to be held at the Town Hall in the town of Chatham within and for the said County of Northumberland, on MONDAY the TWENTY-FIFTH DAY OF SEPTEMBER NEXT, at the hour of half past ten in the forenoon, to show cause, if any they have, why license to sell should not be granted the said petitioner, as prayed.

Given under my hand and the seal of the said Court this eighteenth day of August, 1905.

PRESENTATION TO THOMAS ROY

Was Honored by Friends at Campbellton Previous to His Departure.

Last Monday evening the Young People's Society of the Baptist church, gave a social in honor of Mr. Thomas Roy, one of their members, who is leaving the town for the purpose of pursuing a course of study at Horton Collegiate Academy, Wolfville, N. S.

The church vestry was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The congregation was well represented by old and young and all conspired to do honor to their guest.

A brief entertainment was given consisting of readings by Miss Mary Richards and Miss Wild of Montreal, and duet by Misses Aggie Patterson and Mattie Richards. All acquainted with these talented young ladies will not need to be told that all parts of this programme were well rendered.

After ample justice had been done to the ice cream and cake, Mr. Roy was presented with a purse and the following address:— Dear Brother Roy:—

It is with mingled feelings of regret and pleasure that we are met here on the eve of your departure from our town to say farewell to you.

During the two years that you have sojourned in Campbellton you have won the respect and esteem of all classes of citizens who have been fortunate enough to have made your acquaintance. But it is to this church that you have especially endeared yourself. Coming to the town you brought your church letter with you, as all loyal Baptists ought to do, and becoming one with us you have been willing to bear your share of toil and responsibility. In the Young People's Society and in the choir you have rendered most efficient and acceptable service, and by both of these institutions as well as by the church in general, you shall be gratefully remembered and greatly missed.

We deeply regret your departure and especially do we regret the shadow that has been cast over your pathway by the accident that has befallen your father, but trust that may not prove so serious as is at present feared.

We said at the opening of this address that our feeling of regret at your departure was tempered by joy, and now let us say that this joy results from the purpose that is taking you away. We are glad that you are to prepare yourself for greater efficiency in the Lord's work, and we trust that you shall be able to give as good an account of yourself in the Academic halls as you have in the workshop and in your Church and social relations. Indeed we know that you will do conscientious work and honest, hard work always brings its reward.

And now dear brother, as a father token of our regard, please accept this purse. It is not large in itself, but be assured that it is accompanied by our most hearty sympathy and best wishes for a bright and useful career in the service of Our Lord and King.

Yours faithfully,
On behalf of the Campbellton Baptist Church,
J. W. Keirstead.

Campbellton, N. B., Aug. 28, 1905.
Mr. Roy made a very feeling and suitable reply in the course of which he expressed the surprise he felt at being thus honored when he had done so little as compared with what he felt he might have done. His plans were a little unsettled by the accident that had overtaken his father, but he hoped to be able to realize that all things work together for good to those who love the Lord, and wherever he should go, or whatever he should undergo, he hoped to prove himself worthy of the confidence and esteem that was being shown him this evening.

After the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" the company said good bye to Mr. Roy and the pleasant function was brought to a close.—Events.

BAPTIST PASTOR HAS RESIGNED

The resignation of Rev. W. R. Robinson from the pastorate of the Baptist church Gibson may be instrumental in bringing about the union of Baptist and Free Baptist churches at Gibson at least sooner than the union would otherwise have taken place. It is altogether likely that the Baptist and Free Baptist churches there will be united as the Baptist congregation do not feel inclined to bring another pastor there to take Mr. Robinson's place.

About seven weeks ago Rev. Mr. Robinson broke the arch of his left foot by stepping on a small stone and turning the ankle and it is impossible for him to get the fracture to heal when he is moving around very much. The reverend gentleman has been advised to take a year's rest and on Sunday last his congregation were surprised to hear of his resignation.

Rev. Mr. Robinson has been in the work at Gibson for five years and has accomplished a lot of good work. He goes to Chicago the end of this month and will take a year's post graduate course at the Chicago University. It will be a theological course that Rev. Mr. Robinson will take, but he has not as yet decided as to whether he will seek the degree of bachelor of divinity or bachelor of philosophy.

On Thursday night of next week the congregation of the Baptist church of Gibson are to hold their business meeting to consider what steps they are to take as to the appointment of a successor to Rev. Mr. Robinson, and it is then that resolutions regarding the consummation of the union movement are expected to be introduced.

FOREST FIRES DID DAMAGE.

Burned a Large Tract on Renous River—Rain Extinguished Flame.

Mr. Henry Braithwaite, the well known guide, who returned to the city Thursday from the sporting camps on the Little Southwest Miramichi, reports that forest fires are raging along the Renous river back of Boistown. The fire broke out about three weeks ago, and has already swept over a county ten miles long by three miles wide. Several blocks of fine timber land have been destroyed and unless rain comes soon, the fire threatens to sweep the whole Miramichi country. Most of the land already burned over belongs to the government and William Richard's Company.

Mr. Thomas Pringle's sporting camps on the Renous are threatening with destruction, and he has been obliged to bury all the provisions laid in by him for the approaching hunting season. Some of Mr. Braithwaite's camps are also in danger of going up in smoke.—Herald.

Much needed rain commenced to fall early Sunday night and a steady down pour continued all day Monday and Tuesday doing an immense amount of good. All fires have been extinguished and further loss has been prevented for the meantime. The rain was general throughout the province.

Mr. John Robinson under whose supervision the forest fire rangers work in conversation with the Advocate stated that the fires on the Renous did an immense amount of damage to valuable timber lands. There were four distinct fires, but the rain of Monday extinguished these. A party under Ed. Menzies left Tuesday morning to look over the burnt ground and extinguished any smouldering fires that may have escaped.

In Gloucester county fires were raging at Salmon Beach, St. Isidore and Gloucester Junction. The latter was set by berry pickers and did not destroy much valuable property. Mr. Robinson is on the track of the parties who set this fire and they will be prosecuted.

The valuable timber lands on the Little Southwest and the Northwest have escaped injury. Fredericton, Sept. 4.—Guide Henry Braithwaite is rejoicing over reports that rain is general over all sections of the province from here to Chatham, as it means that his sporting camps and hunting country will be saved from destruction. He says much rain is needed to put out the fires, as the woods have never been so dry during his hunting experience, which extends over half a century. Up river the rain is general as far as Woodstock. It is not raining at Grand Falls. The water in the river here has not commenced to rise as yet.

Dear Sir:—I have been a student of the I. C. S. only for a short time but am well satisfied with my course. It has been the means of securing for me the position of Engineer of one of the best stationary engines on the North Shore. I would not sell my bound volumes which I got with my course for ten times the price of the course.

Gentlemen:—I have taken a course in the International Correspondence Schools which I claim is one of the finest institutions of the day. I have taken your course of Locomotive Running and Westinghouse Air Brake which has fitted me in such a manner that when my time comes for promotion, I feel that I can stand before my examiners and pass a successful examination.

To any one desiring to better their position I would recommend the I. C. S.

Yours truly

Dear Sir:—The result of my course in Surveying and Mapping in the I. C. S. began last fall. I was appointed Rodman on G. T. P. Railway survey and soon promoted to Levelman at a salary of $80 per month. I am more than pleased with the I. C. S. methods of getting education by mail, as they have been the means of raising my salary about 300 per cent. I shall be pleased to answer all inquiries.

Yours truly,
LEON ROY.

The Return of Sherlock Holmes.

By A. Conan Doyle.

Author of "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," "The Sign of the Four," "A Study in Scarlet," etc. (Illustrated by F. D. Steele.)

"What!" cried Carruthers, springing out of his chair. "I'll go upstairs and finish him first. Do you tell me that that girl, that angel, is to be tied to a knotting Jack Woodley for life?"

"You need not concern yourself about that," said Holmes. "There are two very good reasons why she should under no circumstances be his wife. In the first place, we are very safe in questioning Mr. Williamson's right to solemnize a marriage."

"I have been ordained," cried the old rascal.

"And also unfrocked."

"Once a clergyman, always a clergyman."

"I think not. How about the license?"

"We had a license for the marriage. I have it here in my pocket."

"Then you got it by a trick. But in any case a forced marriage is no marriage, but it is a very serious felony, as you will discover before you are finished. You'll have time to think the point out during the next ten years or so, unless I am mistaken. As to you, Carruthers, you would have done better to keep your pistol in your pocket."

"I begin to think so, Mr. Holmes, but when I thought of all the precaution I had taken to shield this girl—for I loved her, Mr. Holmes, and it is the only time that ever I knew what love was—it fairly drove me mad to think that she was in the power of the greatest brute and bully in South Africa—a man whose name is a holy terror from Kimberley to Johannesburg. Why, Mr. Holmes, you'll hardly believe it, but ever since that girl has been in my employment I never once let her go past this house, where I knew the rascals were lurking, without following her on my bicycle just to see that she came to no harm. I kept my distance from her, and I wore a beard so that she should not recognize me, for she is a good and high spirited girl, and she wouldn't have stayed in my employment long if she had thought that I was following her about the country roads."

"Why didn't you tell her of her danger?"

"Because then, again, she would have left me, and I couldn't bear to face that. Even if she couldn't love me it was a great deal to me just to see her dainty form about the house and to hear the sound of her voice."

"Well," said I, "you call that love, Mr. Carruthers, but I should call it selfishness."

"Maybe the two things go together. Anyhow, I couldn't let her go. Besides, with this crowd about it was well that she should have some one near to look after her. Then, when the cable came, I knew they were bound to make a move."

"What cable?"

Carruthers took a telegram from his pocket.

"That's it," said he.

"It was short and concise: 'Hurry!'"

"Hurry!" said Holmes. "I think I see how things worked, and I can understand how this message would, as you say, bring them to a head. But while you wait you might tell me what you can."

"The old reprobate with the surplice burst into a volley of bad language. 'By heaven,' said he, 'if you squeal on us, Bob Carruthers, I'll serve you as you served Jack Woodley! You can bleed about the girl to your heart's content, for that's your own affair, but if you roused on your pals to this plain clothes copper, I will be the worst day's work that ever you did.'

"Your reverence need not be excited," said Holmes, lighting a cigarette. "The case is clear enough against you, and all I ask is a few details for my private curiosity. However, if there's any difficulty in your telling me I'll do the talking, and then you will see how far you have a chance of holding back your secrets. In the first place, three of you came from South Africa in this game—you, Williamson; you, Carruthers, and Woodley."

"Let number one," said the old man.

"I never saw either of them until two months ago, and I have never been in Africa in my life, so you can put that in your pipe and smoke it, Mr. Busybody Holmes!"

"What he says is true," said Carruthers.

"Well, well, two of you came over. His reverence is our own homemade article. You had known Ralph Smith in South Africa. You had reason to believe he would not live long. You found out that his niece would inherit his fortune. How's that—eh?"

Carruthers nodded and Williamson swore.

"She was next of kin, no doubt, and you were aware that the old fellow would make no will."

"Couldn't read or write," said Carruthers.

"So you came over, the two of you, and hunted up the girl. The idea was that one of you was to marry her and the other have a share of the plunder. For some reason Woodley was chosen as the husband. Why was that?"

"We played cards for her on the voyage. He won."

"I see. You got the young lady into your service, and there Woodley was to do the courting. She recognized the drunken brute that he was and would have nothing to do with him. Meanwhile your arrangement was rather upset by the fact that you had yourself fallen in love with the lady. You could no longer bear the idea of this ruffian owning her?"

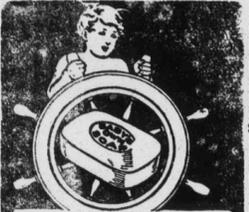

"No, by George, I couldn't."

There was a quarrel between you. He left you in a rage and began to make his own plans independently of you."

"It strikes me, Williamson, there isn't very much that we can tell this gentleman," cried Carruthers, with a bitter laugh. "Yes, we quarreled, and he knocked me down. I am level with him on that, anyhow. Then I lost sight of him. That was when he picked up with this cast padre here. I found that he had set up housekeeping together at this place, and on the line that she had to pass for the station. I kept my eye on her after that, for I knew there was some devilry in the wind. I saw them from time to time, for I was anxious to know what they were after."

"Two days ago Woodley came up to my house with this cable, which showed that Ralph Smith was dead. He asked me if I would stand by the bargain. I said I would not. He asked me if I would marry the girl myself and give him a share. I said I would willingly do so, but that I would not have her go with me. He said, 'Let us get her married first, and after a week or two she may see things a bit different.' I said I would have nothing to do with violence, so he went off cursing, like the foul mouthed blackguard that he was, and swearing that he would have her yet. She was leaving me a week and, and I had got a trap to take her to the station, but I was so uneasy in my mind that I followed her on my bicycle. She had got a start, however, and before I could catch her the mischief was done. The first thing I knew about it was when I saw you two gentlemen driving back in her dogcart."

Holmes rose and tossed the end of his cigarette into the grate. "I have been very obtuse, Watson," said he. "When in your report you said that you had seen the cyclist, as you thought, arrange his necktie in the shrubbery, that alone should have told me all. However, we may congratulate ourselves upon a curious and in some respects a unique case. I perceive three of the county constabulary in the drive, and I am glad to see that the little hostler is able to keep pace with them, so it is likely that neither he nor the interesting bridegroom will be permanently damaged by their morning's adventures. I think, Watson, that in your medical capacity you might wait upon Miss Smith and tell her that if she is sufficiently recovered we shall be happy to escort her to her mother's home. If she is not quite comfortable you will find that a hint that we were about to telegraph to a young electrician in the Midlands will probably complete the cure. As to you, Mr. Carruthers, I think that you have done what you could to make amends for your share in an evil plot. There is my card, sir, and if my evidence can be of help to you in your trial it shall be at your disposal."

The Adventure of the Priory School

No. 5 of the Series

Copyright, 1904, by A. Conan Doyle and L. Hoyle.

Copyright, 1905, by McClure, Phillips & Co., Inc.

W have had some dramatic entrances and exits on our small stage at the street, but I cannot recollect anything more sudden and startling than the first appearance of the Thorneycroft Huxtable, M. A., P. M. His card, which seemed too small to carry the weight of his academic distinctions, preceded him by a few seconds, and then he entered himself, large, so pompous and so dignified that he was the very embodiment of self-possession and solidity. And yet the first action when the door had closed behind him was to stagger against the table, whence he slipped down upon the floor, and there was that majestic nature prostrate and insensible upon one of the bearskin hurs.

We had sprang to our feet, and for a few moments we stared in silent amazement at this ponderous piece of wreckage, which told of some sudden and fatal storm far out on the ocean of life. Then Holmes hurried with a cushion for his head and I with brandy for his lips. The heavy, white face was seamed with lines of trouble; the hanging pouches under the closed eyes were evidence that the nose beneath drooped dolorously at the corners; the rolling chins were unshaven. Collar and shirt bore the grime of a long journey, and the hair bristled unkempt from the well shaped head. It was a sorry stricken man who lay before us.

"Is it he?" asked Holmes.

"Absolute exhaustion, possibly mere hunger and fatigue," said I, with my finger on the thradly pulse, where the stream of life trickled thin and small.

"Return ticket from Mackleton, in the north of England," said Holmes, drawing it from the watch pocket. "It is not 12 o'clock yet. He has certainly been an early starter."

The puckered eyelids had begun to quiver, and now a pair of vacant gray eyes looked up at us. An instant later the man had scrambled on to his feet, his face crimson with shame.

"Forgive this weakness, Mr. Holmes. I have been a little over-tired. Thank you, if I might have a glass of milk and a biscuit I have no doubt that I should be better. I came personally, Mr. Holmes, in order to assure that you would return with me. I feared that no telegram would convince you of the absolute urgency of the case."

"When you are quite restored"—

"I am quite well again. I cannot imagine how I came to be so weak. I wish you, Mr. Holmes, to come to Mackleton with me by the next train."

My friend shook his head.

"My colleague, Dr. Watson, could tell you that we are very busy at present. I am retained in this case of the Peters document, and the alleged railway murder is coming up for trial. Only a very important issue could call me from London at present."

"Important!" Our visitor threw up his hands. "Have you heard nothing of the abduction of the only son of the Duke of Holderness?"

"Exactly. We had tried to keep it out of the papers, but there was some rumour in the Globe last night. I thought it might have reached your ears."

"Holderness, sixth duke, K. G., P. C.—half the highest! Baron Berkeley, earl of Carston—dear me, what a list! Lord Benteanton of Hallamshire since 1900. Married Edith, daughter of Sir Charles Appleford, 1888. Heir and only child, Lord Saitire. Owns about 250,000 acres. Minerals in Lancashire and Wales. Address, Carlton House Terrace; Holderness Hall, Hallamshire; Carston castle, Bangor, Wales. Lord of the admiralty, 1872; chief secretary of state for— Well, well, this man is certainly one of the greatest subjects of the present."

"The greatest and perhaps the wealthiest. I am aware, Mr. Holmes, that you take a very high line in professional matters and that you are prepared to work for the work's sake. I may tell you, however, that his grace has intimated that a check for £5000 will be handed over to the person who can tell him where his son is and another thousand to him who can name the man or men who have taken him."

"It is a princely offer," said Holmes.

"Watson, I think that we shall accompany Dr. Huxtable back to the north of England. And now, Dr. Huxtable, when you have consumed that milk you will kindly tell me what has happened, when it happened, how it happened, and, finally, what Dr. Thorneycroft Huxtable of the Priory school, near Mackleton, has to do with the matter and why he comes three days after an event—the state of your chin gives the date—to ask for my humble services."

Our visitor had consumed his milk and biscuits. The light had come back to his eyes and the color to his cheeks as he set himself with great vigor and lucidity to explain the situation.

"I must inform you, gentlemen, that the Priory is a preparatory school of which I am the founder and principal. 'Huxtable's Side Lights on Horace' may possibly recall my name to your memories. The Priory is without exception the best and most select preparatory school in England. Lord Leverstoke, the Earl of Blackwater, Sir Cathart Soames—they all have intrusted their sons to me. But I felt that my school had reached its zenith when, three weeks ago, the Duke of Holderness sent Mr. James Wilder, his secretary, with the intimation that young Lord Saitire, ten years old, his only son and heir, was about to be committed to my charge. Little did I think that this would be the prelude to the most crushing misfortune of my life.

"On May 1 the boy arrived, that being the beginning of the summer term. He was a charming youth, and he soon fell into our ways. I may tell you—try that I am not indiscreet, but that confidences are absurd in such a case—that he was not entirely happy at home. It is an open secret that the duke's married life had not been a peaceful one, and the matter had ended in a separation by mutual consent, the duchess taking up her residence in the south of France. This had occurred very shortly before, and the boy's sympathies are known to have been strongly with his mother. He moped after her departure from Holderness Hall, and it was for this reason that the duke desired to send him to my establishment. In a fortnight the boy was quite at home with us and was apparently absolutely happy."

"He was last seen on the night of May 13—that is, the night of last Monday. His room was on the ground floor and was approached through another larger room, in which two boys were sleeping. These boys saw and heard nothing, so that it is certain that young Saitire did not pass out that way. His window was open, and there is a stout iron railing to the ground, but it could trace no footmarks below, but it is sure that this is the only possible exit.

"His absence was discovered at 7 o'clock on Tuesday morning. His bed had been slept in. He had dressed himself fully before going off in his usual school suit of black Eton, with cap and dark gray trousers. There were no signs that any one had entered the room, and it is quite certain that anything in the nature of cries or a struggle would have been heard, since Caunter, the elder boy, in the inner room, is a very light sleeper."

"When Lord Saitire's disappearance was discovered, I at once called a roll of the whole establishment—boys, masters and servants. It was then that we ascertained that Lord Saitire had not been alone in his flight. Heldegger, the German master, was missing, his room was on the second floor at the further end of the building, facing the way as Lord Saitire's. His bed had also been slept in, but he had apparently gone away partly dressed, since his shirt and socks were lying on the floor. He had undoubtedly let himself down by the iron railing, and he had left the marks of his feet where he had landed on the lawn. His bicycle was kept in a small shed beside this lawn, and it was also gone."

"He had been with me for two years and came with the best references, but he was a silent, morose man, not very popular either with masters or boys. No trace could be found of the fugitives, and now, on Thursday morning, we are as ignorant as we were on Tuesday. Inquiry was, of course, made at once at Holderness Hall. It is only a few miles away, and we imagined that in some sudden attack of homesickness the boy had gone back to his father, but nothing had been heard of him. The duke is greatly agitated, and as to me—you have seen yourselves the state of nervous prostration to which the suspense and the responsibility have reduced me. Mr. Holmes, if ever you put forward your full powers I implore you to do so now, for never in your life could you have a case which is more worthy of them."

Sherlock Holmes had listened with the utmost interest to the statement of the unhappy schoolmaster. His drawn brows and the deep furrow between them showed that he needed no exhortation to concentrate all his attention upon a problem which, apart from the tremendous interests involved, must appeal so directly to his love of the complex and the unusual. He now drew out his notebook and jotted down one or two memoranda.

W hat a disappointment, then, to see the fair young wife's beauty fading away before a year passes over her head! A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home, and a drag upon her husband.

The cost of a wife's constant illness is a serious drain upon the funds of a household, and too often all the doctoring does no good.

If a woman finds her energies are flagging, and that everything tires her, dark shadows appear under her eyes, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams; if she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, whites, irregularities, or despondency, she should take means to build her system up at once by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This great remedy for women has done more in the way of restoring health to the women of America than all other medicines put together. It is the safeguard of woman's health.

Following we publish, by request, a letter from a young wife.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley of 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so that I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed.

THE IDEAL WIFE

Shapes the Destiny of Men—The Influence of a Healthy Woman Cannot Be Overestimated.

Seven-eighths of the men in this world marry a woman because she is beautiful in their eyes—because she has the qualities which inspire admiration, respect and love.

There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature. The influence of women glorious in the possession of perfect physical health upon men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured. Because of them men have attained the very heights of ambition; because of them even thrones have been established and destroyed.

Our visitor had consumed his milk and biscuits. The light had come back to his eyes and the color to his cheeks as he set himself with great vigor and lucidity to explain the situation.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for every woman who is in poor health and ailing.

Its benefits begin when its use begins. It gives strength and vigor from the start, and surely makes sick women well and robust.

Remember Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of women's ills. This fact is attested by the thousands of letters from grateful women which are on file in the Pinkham laboratory. Merit alone can produce such results.

Women should remember that a cure for all female diseases actually exists, and that cure is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Take no substitute.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

Protruding Piles Doctors Failed

Mr. John W. McLeod, carpenter, Tarboro, N.C., writes: "I was confined to my bed by protruding piles, unable to move without the greatest pain. As the trouble affected my whole system, I was soon brought to realize the seriousness of my condition, and although no person ever suffered as I did. The doctor gave me an ointment which did me no good, not even affording temporary relief. Then a specialist gave me a different kind of ointment, but it did me no more good than so much snow."

"A friend advised me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the first application brought relief. By the use of one box I was completely cured, and have not had a trace of the old trouble since. I was exposed to all sorts of bad weather last fall, and spent the winter in the woods as foreman of the Victoria Gypsum Co., and have had no indication of piles."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only positive and guaranteed cure for piles, 60 cts., at all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Red Rose Tea Uniformity

A TEA that is good to-day and poor to-morrow is unreliable.

Have you ever noticed variations in the quality of the tea you use? One package good, the next bitter, herby, perhaps weak and insipid.

A lack of expert knowledge by the tasters and blenders of that tea produced that result. There was a failure at a vital point, an ignorance of combining qualities in teas, poor judgment in the blending of that maker's teas, a weakness which invariably gives just such results as your poor tea.

Every chest of Red Rose Tea is tested at the gardens, again by the Eastern Red Rose shippers, then at the Red Rose warehouse upon its arrival before blending; after that an experimental blend is tested, and the final or actual blend is also tested before being packed.

That is why that "rich fruity flavor" is always present in Red Rose Tea.

Why Red Rose Tea is always uniform, why

Red Rose Tea is good Tea

"Did you meet my tailor coming up the hallway?" inquired the Russian nobleman.

"No," replied the American visitor, "but I met a man with a pair of steel-cutting shears, several sheets of armour plate and a bag of rivets. Are you going to have the boiler in the castle repaired?"

"No, that was my tailor. He is coming up to fit on my new spring coat."

"Well, what was he doing with all that hardware?"

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years it was pronounced a local disease and pre-ferred local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Rheumatism Entirely Cured

Also suffered from constipation, kidney disease and stomach troubles.

Whatever mystery there may be about rheumatism, this much is certain, that it is caused by derangement of the kidneys, and disappears when the kidneys are set right by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mrs. Geo. W. Lawson, Concession, Ont., writes: "It is a pleasure for me to state that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills made a well woman of me, completely curing me of constipation, rheumatism, stomach troubles, and a very severe kidney trouble after years of suffering. I am now sixty-eight years of age, and very grateful for what Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have done for me, and for the remarkable cure of my husband by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

By their combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure the most severe and complicated illness arising from derangements of these organs. One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

SUCCESS, PROFIT & PLEASURE

When You Use DIAMOND DYES

Thousands of city and country women and girls will engage in the work of home dyeing, in September. Old dresses, skirts, blouses, capes, jackets, wraps and clothing for men, boys and girls, will be carefully looked out and prepared for the dyebath.

It is safe to assert that every wife, mother and daughter who has heard of the wonderful and popular DIAMOND DYES, will use them in preference to any of the crude, weak and adulterated package dyes sold by some dealers for the sake of big profits.

It is unnecessary to add a word regarding the great superiority of DIAMOND DYES over all other makes of dyes. They have a worldwide reputation for grand home results; they give colors that never fade in sun or washing. Home dyeing is certainly profitable work when DIAMOND DYES are used.

Beware of imitation package dyes; they ruin your hands and spoil your work. Ask for the DIAMOND, take no others. Send to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., for valuable book on home dyeing work and 48 dyed samples. Sent free to any address.

Is he still sticking to that yarn?

Yes, indeed. He says there is one charge that he will remember to his dying day.

H'm! That must be the time the bartender charged him for a round of drinks and he thought the boys were treating.

HUMOR

HER CRIME.

Mrs. Empson's Stolen Book and How She Adjusted Matters.

"It is the easiest thing in the world," said Mrs. Empson, "to be a shoplifter. I turned one myself today. I stole a book called 'Happy Thoughts For Happy People.' I didn't mean to steal it. I picked it up by mistake and walked away with it. I didn't know I had it until I got almost home."

"In that case," said Empson, "I suppose you will take it back."

"Y-y-yes, I suppose so. The only difficulty about that is that I don't know where to take it. I don't know where I got it. I was in the book department of half a dozen stores and at every counter I looked at a 'Happy Thoughts' book. I don't know which place it was that I really turned that!"

"It was probably the last place you were in," suggested Empson. "At any rate, I advise you to go there and explain your mistake. They will probably know their own goods."

Mrs. Empson promised to attend to the restoration of purloined literature early the following morning. Evidently his wife's misdeeds weighed heavily on Mr. Empson's mind, for his first question that night was about the book.

"Did you take it back?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Belonged where I thought it did, I suppose?"

"Yes—that is, the floorwalker thought it was theirs."

"That's good," said Empson. "I'm glad you've got it settled. I've worried about the matter all day. I see you made good by buying more stuff as well as returning the book. Bought this there, didn't you?"

Empson took a short length of lace from the table and dangled it before his wife's eyes.

"Yes," she said. "You see, it was awfully hard to explain, the floorwalker seemed so cross. I was afraid he wouldn't understand and would have me arrested or something, so when he said the book was theirs—"

She looked at Empson appealingly.

"Yes," he said, "and then—"

"Why, then, I didn't have the courage to confess that I had stolen the book. I pretended that I wanted to make an exchange, so he gave me a credit check for 98 cents, and I bought this lace with that."—New York Press.

Would Tire His Jaws.
A Cambridgeshire farmer was recently arguing with a French chauffeur, who had slackened at an inn, on the merits of the horse and the motor car.

"Give me a horse," remarked the farmer. "Them travelin' oil shops is too uncertain for me."

"Eat sees prejudice, my friend," the chauffeur replied. "You English are behind the times. You will think deaf-arent some day."

"Behind the times be blowed!" came the retort. "P'raps not. Case the Froosians are round Paris and you 'ave to git your dinner off a steak from the 'ind wheel of a moty car you Frenchies 'I wish you wasn't so jolly well up to date!"—Birmingham (England) News.

HUMANITY RETRACTS CHARGES AGAINST DEPUTY SHERIFF.

To THE EDITOR OF THE WORLD.
Dear Sir.—The writer regrets that owing to an incomplete knowledge of the facts, the letter in your issue of August 19 contained several inaccuracies.
In the Union Advocate of August 23 you will see another side of the story in which Mr. Irving clears himself by showing the man under arrest to be a desperate character.

OBITUARY.

MISS ALICK WALLS.

Alice the fourteen year old daughter of Howard Walls, Chatham, died at her home on Wednesday last, after a short illness of typhoid fever. She was a bright little youth and was a general favorite with all who knew her and especially with her school companions. The funeral took place Friday afternoon and was largely attended. Services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Rainnie. Interment took place in St. James' cemetery Newcastle. The deceased leaves a father and mother and three brothers and five sisters who have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

MARRIED.

In the Methodist church, Bathurst, on the 27th of Aug. by the Rev. Richard O'Neil, Walden Brewer Smyth to Miss Emma M. Bateman, both of Bathurst.

At St. Mary's R. C. church, Newcastle, Sept. 5, by the Rev. P. W. Dixon, Mr. Jeremiah Kelly, of Derby to Miss Annie McMahon, of Newcastle.

DIED.

At Chelmsford, Aug. 25th, Annie Wilma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carnahan aged 6 months.

At Chelmsford, Sep. 2nd, Harold R. son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lyons, aged 40 years.

Every man owes it to himself and his family to master a trade or profession. Read the display advertisement of the six Morse Schools of Telegraphy, in this issue and learn telegraphy and be assured a position. 42-4m.

Mr. Wm. Sauntry a former Miramichi man visited his home here after an absence of about forty years. During that time he has made a fortune in the lumber business. He is a member of the firm of Sauntry, Muzzer & Co. of Minneapolis, Minn. His old friends were glad to welcome him after so long an absence. In conversation with a Millerton gentleman he stated that the lumber industry of the west is about done and that New Brunswick principally the Miramichi, had a valuable asset in its forests. Mr. Sauntry is now deeply interested in mining in the west. A business engagement in New York cut his visit short, but he expects to return next year on an extended vacation.
