THE BUDGET ON TUESDAY

Mr. Fielding Says It Will Be Brought Down Then.

The House Spends a Day in Supply—A Wrangle Over Voters' Lists.

Ottawa, April 29.—The greater part of yesterday was spent by the House of Commons in supply. Mr. Foster renewed his protests in the matter of statutory increases of salaries to officials. The estimates of the departments of agriculture and trade and commerce were under discussion, and a number of items passed, others being allowed to stand. After recess two hours were spent in discussion of the item of $2,500 for expenses in connection with the printing of the voters' lists. Members of the opposition charged that the government had assumed the power to override the act of parliament, which demanded that the lists be printed each year. Sir Louis Davies explained that no financial provision had been made for the purpose, that the auditor-general had expressed the opinion that the expenditure was unjustifiable, and that the government intended consulting the house as to the advisability of printing all of the lists each year.

Hon. Clarke Wallace charged that in the recent Brockville election the Conservatives had been placed at a disadvantage by their inability to obtain voters' lists until after nomination, while the Liberals had lists some time before. The minister of railways, the authority of the secretary of state, that is worth striving for. A clear, white complexion is one of the first requirements of beauty. Hazeline, the new toilet luxury, beautifies and clears the complexion, and renders the skin soft, white and beautiful, like the velvety freshness of youth. It is also excellent for removing all facial blemishes, as sunburn, tan, roughness, etc. ONLY 25 CENTS.

CAIRNCROSS & LAWRENCE, Chemists, Etc., 216 Dundas street. Branch—Cor. Richmond and Piccadilly.

said that the lists were sent to both parties on the same day by the same mail and in equal numbers. Mr. Taylor asserted that the Queen's printer at first refused to furnish him with lists for use in the election, but afterwards he had furnished the proper number for Mr. White, the Conservative candidate, and that these were taken to Brockville by Mr. Broder, the Conservative member for Dundas.

THE C. P. R. AND I. C. R.
To Mr. Foster, the minister, said that while negotiations were in progress for the granting of the C. P. R. running powers over the Intercolonial, no arrangements had yet been agreed to.

THE PRICE OF OIL.
Mr. Clarke Wallace read a telegram from the Imperial Oil Company, denying his statement that the price of crude oil in Canada had been reduced and the price of refined oil advanced.

THE BUDGET.
Mr. Foster asked if the finance minister adhered to his plan of delivering the budget speech on Tuesday.

Mr. Fielding replied in the affirmative, promising to give the ex-finance minister timely notice of any change in the dates.

AT A PISTOL'S POINT
Feculiar Circumstances Attending a Wedding—The Parties Remain Married.

Toronto, April 29.—A curious case came up before Judge MacMahon in Osgoode Hall yesterday, in the shape of an action to annul a marriage ceremony which took place at King, in this county,

GOOD PROSPECT FOR PEACE!

But the 'Pinos' Proposals Were Not Entertained.

Gen. Otis Believes the Insurgents Are Tired of the Struggle.

New York, April 29.—A copyrighted dispatch to the Evening Journal says that Aguinaldo today offered to surrender everything—men and munitions—to Gen. Otis, upon the condition of independence for the Filipinos and an American protectorate.

Manila, April 29.—3 p.m.—The conference today between General Otis and Col. Manuel Arguella and Lieut. Jose Bernal, who came from Gen. Luna, under a flag of truce, yesterday, to ask for a cessation of hostilities, was fruitless. It is understood that the Filipino commissioners were given the terms upon which the Americans will consent to negotiate.

The Filipinos admit that they have been defeated, and it is expected that they will return with fresh proposals from Gen. Luna.

GENERAL OTIS' MESSAGE.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—The following dispatch from Gen. Otis was given out today:

"Manila, April 29.—Adjutant-General, Washington: The conference with the insurgent representatives terminated this morning. Their request was for a cessation of hostilities for three weeks to enable them to call their congress to decide whether to continue the prosecution of the war or propose terms of peace. The proposition was declined, and full amnesty promised on surrender. I believe the insurgents are tired of war, but seek to secure terms of peace through what they denominate their representative congress. (Signed) Otis."

It is stated at the war department that the insurgent leader will probably confer and then seek another conference with Gen. Otis, and that the general will no doubt grant general amnesty.

THE CANADIAN LUMBER DUTY

Question Will Be Brought to a Sharp Issue in a Few Days.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Washington, April 28.—It is stated on excellent authority that the treasury department will adopt Secretary Gage's plan of levying a duty of $4 per thousand feet on Canadian lumber after a notice of 30 days in the event that Canada fails to take action prior to May 15, looking to the lifting of the embargo on the exportation of logs from Ontario owned by Americans. Daily conferences have been held at the department concerning these important questions, and Secretary Gage has now become convinced that the possible embarrassment of the American members of the joint high commission is not a contingency to be feared. In this connection it is pointed out that the grievance in this case is that the American citizens who have suffered an injury at the hands of the Canadian Government and that this injury has practically been received since the joint high commission was authorized. Therefore it is argued Canada is the aggressor, and no action taken by the United States can be regarded as compromising our members of the commission.

In spite of the efforts that have been made to test the sentiment of the Canadian Government with regard to the proposed action of the treasury, it is said at the department that no information on that score has been obtainable. Sir Julian Pauncefote, prior to leaving Washington, expressed the opinion unofficially that the Canadian Government would not attempt to annul the act of the Ontario Parliament, and smilingly suggested that the proposed action of the treasury department was in the nature of a "bluff." It is known here that while no official communication has been sent to Ottawa on the subject, the privy council has been informally advised by the attorneys for the American lumbermen that the department intends to invoke the retaliatory provisions of the Dingley act in default of the desired action on the part of the Dominion Government. It is believed here that the whole question will be brought to a sharp issue within the next few days.

Mallory, Cobourg, supreme representative, K. O. T. M.; counselor, D. F. McWatt, Barrie; medical examiner, Dr. E. E. McKenzie, Toronto.

and poetical competition was concluded last night. Eighteen students engaged in the oratorical contest, including one lady, Miss Fife, who won fourth prize. Tamblin tied in the essay contest, dividing first money. The prizes aggregated $100 in cash.

A PACIFIC CABLE HITCH

The British Government Involved in a Monopoly.

Senator Scott Says It Must Be Broken—The Nature of the Agreement.

Ottawa, April 29.—The government has received the information that the Imperial administration have decided that the policy of the Dominion Government in respect of the Pacific cable is not in thorough accordance with their ideas. It is supposed that the cable project will be much impeded thereby. It is believed that Canada will have some difficulty in making the cable project, as advanced by the British Government, commensurate with their plans.

In the senate yesterday, Sir Mackenzie Bowell alluded to the difficulties in the way and pointed out that as far back as 1893, when Canada was negotiating about the Pacific cable, the Imperial Government was granting powers to the Eastern Extension Company which prevented anyone else from landing on their shores. The present plan of the Eastern Extension Company was to extend their line from Queensland and Caledonia to the Philippine Islands, and then to San Francisco, and so to Europe, excluding Canada. As long as that monopoly existed, so long would Canada be cut off. He hoped the government would be able to break this monopoly.

Hon. R. W. Scott regretted to say that the main facts in the dispatch read that he had the papers on the subject, including the extraordinary document of October, 1893, specially excluding Canada from the benefits. It fully bore out what Sir Mackenzie Bowell had said. He hoped that the people of England would be brought to a realization of the efforts made to check the construction of the proposed all-British cable. Unless the cable was built now it never would be built. Of that he was certain, and now or never must the monopoly be broken. He said the document was considered the more grave it would appear. It was one the country should consider. There had never been a more serious attempt made for a hundred years than was this attempt to cripple the commercial life of Canada in the interests of a monopoly.

The document alluded to is an agreement between the Imperial Government and the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company, guaranteeing the latter a monopoly of the business between the Straits Settlement and Hong Kong, in return for the company laying a second submarine cable between Singapore and Hong Kong, touching only on British soil. If the government grants concessions to a competitive line it must forfeit $1,500,000 to the Eastern Extension Company, being the cost of the second cable.

FALL WHEAT A POOR CROP

Farmers Around Lambeth and Delaware Say So, and They Ought to Know.

An Advertiser representative who has traveled the country around Delaware and Lambeth very thoroughly the past week, finds the fall grain in poor condition, having wintered very badly, especially on the clay. The crop on sandy soils, when protected, looks fairly well, but the cases are comparatively few where any wind-breaks existed, and as a consequence the outlook is so gloomy in many instances that fields are being turned under. Some farmers will have half a crop, and they are thankful for that when they remember the misfortune of some neighbors. Compared with other years, the yield will hardly exceed one-fourth.

SUDDEN DEATH AT WINDSOR.

Windsor, April 28.—Thomas Dow, station agent of the Grand Trunk since 1884, died very suddenly yesterday morning. He had been ill some time, and a few days ago his son, Oswald, who lives in Pittsburgh, was sent for. He spent some days with his father, but the latter seemed to be improving rapidly, and the young man left on Wednesday night. At 7 a.m. yesterday, while his wife and daughter were with him, Mr. Dow turned on his side, placed his hand under his head, and died in that position. He was born at Burnham, Scotland, 63 years ago.

The Doctor's Opinion Regarding Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They Cure Dyspepsia and All Other Stomach Diseases by Curing Stomach and Bowels—They Are the Only Cure on Earth.

They were talking about Dyspepsia. The doctor said it causes more misery than whisky does. But, he said, he could cure it. He knew of one remedy—for Dyspepsia and every other stomach trouble—that always cures. That one is Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. But he knew of no other.

The lawyer agreed with the doctor, as to the misery caused by Dyspepsia. But he claimed that Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Foul Breath, Wind on the Stomach, Bilelessness, Waterbrash, Catarrh of the Stomach are responsible for equally as much torture.

"You are correct," said the doctor. "But I will wager $1,000 I can cure the

Dr. Proudfoot said today in explanation:

"I cannot account for the mistake I made. It was simply a fatality. I have not a single word to urge in extenuation. While the operation was performed the sky was overcast. But the operation is so simple, and I have performed it so often, that I could have done it in the dark."

CODDLING THE BIG TRUSTS

How These Monsters Rob American People by Means of the Tariff.

Attorney-General Griggs protests that it is impossible for him to suppress the trusts because the law cannot be made to reach them.

Well, let us assume for the sake of argument that it is. If the government cannot suppress the trusts, at least it is not obliged to encourage, protect and subsidize them, is it?

Why should we give the $7,000,000 bonux trust the power to tax American consumers 5 cents a pound on borax.

Could not the $30,000,000 Knit Goods Company and the $50,000,000 print cloth pool get along without duties of 50 per cent and upward on the things that people must wear?

Would it not be possible for the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company, capital $30,000,000, to make a living without $9 a ton protection?

Is the $30,000,000 National Lead Company in dire need of the proceeds of a tax of 1 1/2 cents a pound on lead?

Could not the $45,000,000 western lumber pool destroy our forests fast enough without the stimulus of a duty of $2 per 1,000 feet on pine boards?

Do the consumers of sugar feel morally bound to pay tariff taxes of $20,000,000 a year to the sugar trust and its allies, with their capital of $128,000,000? Are the various steel trusts, total capitalization $267,500,000, so poor that they must have outdoor relief in the form of duties of from $6 7/2 per ton upwards on steel and its products?

Is not the $50,000,000 American Tinplate Company a sufficiently robust infant by this time to be able to dispense with its pap of 1 1/2 cents a pound on tin plates?

Put every article controlled by a trust on the free list.

That is a simple, practicable policy. It needs no litigation. Its execution would not depend on the zeal and good faith of prosecuting officers and courts.

"But that would mean free trade," somebody objects. "The trusts control everything now, and if their products are put on the free list there will be no tariff left."

Well, what of it? If trusts are the only beneficiaries of the tariff we can certainly dispense with it as far as protection is concerned. As to revenue, we can get that from a graduated income tax.

Nothing will disconcert a team quicker than to have a pitcher send men to bases on balls. Put them over the plate, and let the fielders do the rest.

Sam Lee has reported in Guelph. President Powers, of the Eastern League, says that he will instruct his umpires not to enforce that section of the balk rule which allows the batter to take first base when the pitcher makes a balk. He says he can see no reason why a batter should be made a present of a base when the balk does not interfere with his play in any particular.

OUR GAME LAW

And How It Was Amended—Killing Deer With Clubs and Oars—Shooting Dead Deer, Etc.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Some three years ago a long and a very strong effort was made to do away with the barbarous custom of murdering deer in the water. We succeeded, not only in that, but also in procuring the inauguration of coupons, making it almost impossible for one hunter to kill more than two deer. The whole thing has worked like a charm. Last fall we found the deer not only held their own, but actually increased under these circumstances. Our surprise and vexation can be imagined on reading, during the late sitting of the legislature, that an effort was being made to return to the old system of driving deer into the water with hounds and slaughtering them while in that helpless condition. It appears that an amendment was brought in to that effect, and actually passed. Now, what I understand is, an amendment is, when anything is wrong, it is brought in in order to, if possible, right it, or at least improve it. What would you call it, when a thing is nearly perfect and a motion is made to change it, so that it is ten times worse than it was? I know of no word, or words, to express it without swearing. The real facts of the matter seem to be these: During the last three years while water killing was illegal a large number of would-be hunters went out to the woods. They often saw the deer bounding past them, while they stood firing up into the tree tops. The consequence was the bags they brought home were empty. This would never do. For Big Indian Me to go away to Muskoka, stay a couple of weeks, and come home with the coupons in his pocket, was not to be thought of. Now these people seem to have had what is called a pull on the legislature, or quite a few of the members of it, and they pulled so effectually that we are to be forced to make of such noble animals being driven pell-mell into the water by hundreds of hounds and clubbed to death. We will also, no doubt, witness these mighty nimrods knocking the deer's brains out with an oar, dragging them to the shore, and while they lie there dead, deliberately firing a bullet through the deer's head to show their admiring friends at home what great shots they are. This has been done repeatedly in the past, and no doubt will be done in the future. Any man who would ask to have such a law passed, or help to pass it, would not hesitate to do it. We are in the habit of humming and hawing over our superior enlightenment as compared to the people of Michigan, or Quebec, to the west and east of us. The people of either of these places would scorn to pass a law such as we passed a few days ago. If I remember rightly dogs are not allowed to run deer at all in either of these places, much less to run them into the water to be clubbed to death. Of course, this last amendment to our game law means the utter extermination of the deer. Everyone understands that it is only a question of time, and a comparatively short time, before we will have an immense territory in the northern part of the province composed of bare rock without one redeeming feature. Most of the pine has gone to Saginaw, and now the deer are doomed. The bare rocks will stay with us. Neither the Yacht or the would-be hunters can make any more of them or they would go too. OUR GAME LAW

And How It Was Amended—Killing Deer With Clubs and Oars—Shooting Dead Deer, Etc.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Some three years ago a long and a very strong effort was made to do away with the barbarous custom of murdering deer in the water. We succeeded, not only in that, but also in procuring the inauguration of coupons, making it almost impossible for one hunter to kill more than two deer. The whole thing has worked like a charm. Last fall we found the deer not only held their own, but actually increased under these circumstances. Our surprise and vexation can be imagined on reading, during the late sitting of the legislature, that an effort was being made to return to the old system of driving deer into the water with hounds and slaughtering them while in that helpless condition. It appears that an amendment was brought in to that effect, and actually passed. Now, what I understand is, an amendment is, when anything is wrong, it is brought in in order to, if possible, right it, or at least improve it. What would you call it, when a thing is nearly perfect and a motion is made to change it, so that it is ten times worse than it was? I know of no word, or words, to express it without swearing. The real facts of the matter seem to be these: During the last three years while water killing was illegal a large number of would-be hunters went out to the woods. They often saw the deer bounding past them, while they stood firing up into the tree tops. The consequence was the bags they brought home were empty. This would never do. For Big Indian Me to go away to Muskoka, stay a couple of weeks, and come home with the coupons in his pocket, was not to be thought of. Now these people seem to have had what is called a pull on the legislature, or quite a few of the members of it, and they pulled so effectually that we are to be forced to make of such noble animals being driven pell-mell into the water by hundreds of hounds and clubbed to death. His Relatives May See Him Once a Week—Would Like to Disappoint Radcliffe.

Hamilton, April 28.—Sheriff Middleton has received instructions from the inspector of prisons that Parrott's relatives may visit the condemned man only once a week, and must all go at the same time.

There is little change in the condemned man's attitude. He declines to discuss religion, and appears indifferent as

Dreyfus Sensation

Discovery of a Document Which Proves the Prisoner's Innocence.

Three Cases of Plague Reported in Paris.

Queen Victoria Opens a New Bridge—Lockout of Printers in London—Wireless Telegraphy Put to Practical Use.

Paris, April 29.—A great sensation has followed the publication by the Figaro of the supplemental deposition made before the united chambers of the court of cassation by M. Paul Eologue, one of the permanent officials of the foreign office, whose evidence establishes a NEW FORGERY.

The Soier, an anti-dreyfusite organ, violently attacks the minister of foreign affairs, M. Delcasse, under whose orders M. Paul Eologue's second deposition was made. It charges M. Delcasse with giving the Figaro the evidence offered before the court, particularly that of M. Paul Eologue, declaring that "no body else could have had an interest in making it public."

A rumor circulated early last evening that Col. du Paty de Clam had been arrested turns out to be untrue, but it is understood that, at his own request, he will be examined on Saturday.

PROVES DREYFUS TO BE INNOCENT.

The Temps announces that the court of cassation has applied to the minister for the colonies, M. Georges Guillaum, to deliver the document which was found in French Guiana in 1897, among other Dreyfus documents, and sent to the colonial office under the strictest precautions. It is alleged that this document absolutely proves the innocence of Dreyfus.

A NEW BRIDGE.

Queen Victoria has opened a new bridge across the Fallow River at Nice. There was a large crowd present, and much enthusiasm was displayed. The French and English colors were displayed in profusion. The mayor and the officials of the prefecture presented a bouquet to her majesty, and thanked her for the honor she had conferred on the city.

A VERDICT FOR $25,000 AGAINST HOOLEY.

Sir William T. Marriott, who was alleged by Ernest T. Hooley, the bankrupt speculator, to have accepted $1,000 to introduce him (Hooley) into the Carlton Club, sued Hooley's trustees in the court of Queen's Bench upon a claim for commission in obtaining for Hooley a concession to manufacture Schneider guns in England, which concession was through Hooley denied the claim, but the judge said it was a question of Marriott's word against Hooley's, and the jury awarded Marriott $25,000.

PRINTERS LOCKED OUT.

The St. James' Gazette made its appearance on the street two hours later than the usual time of its publication. The delay was caused by trouble with the compositors' staff. The proprietors engaged a new staff of compositors and locked out the entire old force yesterday.

WORKED WELL.

Wireless telegraphy had its first practical demonstration yesterday morning. The Goodwin Sands lightship was struck by a passing vessel, and the crew, utilizing the wireless telegraphy apparatus, notified South Foreland that their ship was in a sinking condition. Tugs were then dispatched to the assistance of the lightship.

A school for instruction in the system of wireless telegraphy is to be established in London. The board of trade is interested in the project.

WEDDED TO A CHINAMAN.

Tseng Chao Kwung, attaché to the Chinese legation in London, was married very quietly in St. Andrew's Church, Wells street, Miss Mabel Murray Burnett, daughter of Mr. Murray Burnett, and great-granddaughter of Lord James Murray.

THE PLAGUE IN PARIS.

A dispatch from Paris gives a report of a visit of the correspondent to the offices of Prondeaujean, a publication written, printed and produced exclusively by women, where he interviewed several of the writers. The Prondeaujean a few days ago published the statement that three cases of bubonic plague had developed in a Paris shop, their origin being traceable to Orientals recently brought there. The women stick to this statement, despite the denials of the prefect of police and other authorities, and declare that several cases of plague have occurred. The interviewer, seeing a handsome youth in the office, remarked that he understood that the staff of the paper was wholly feminine. To his amazement the youth declared that such was the fact. It was a woman indeed of a young man he was addressing. She explained that she had worn masculine habits for nineteen years for the sake of convenience.

GERMANS PLEASED.

The Berlin newspapers, commenting on the latest news from Samoa, express satisfaction with the attitude of Admiral Kautz, U. S. N., interpreting it as a sign that the United States Government will henceforth side with Germany in the Samoan trouble.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

In the House of Commons the government was questioned on the subject of the proposed Pacific cable, mentioned at the semi-annual meeting on April 26 of the Eastern Telegraph Company. The secretary for the colonies, Mr. Jos. Chamberlain, said that the government had made proposals to the governments of Canada and Australia on the subject, but that no final agreement had been made. Statements which appeared in the press, Mr. Chamberlain said, did not accurately represent the proposals made.

APPRECIATED.

With reference to New Zealand's offer to send volunteers to Samoa, the parliamentary secretary for the colonies, Mr. Jos. Chamberlain, said that the offer had been declined, as the government considered the naval force now at Samoa as sufficient to cope with the exigencies of the situation. The government, Mr. Chamberlain said, expressed its high appreciation of New Zealand's offer.

$20,000 REFUSED FOR THREE ORCHIDS.

Brussels, April 29.—Some specimens of the Odontoglossum figured among the exhibits at the Antwerp Horticultural Exposition, and an admiring amateur collector offered $24,000 for three of them. The owner of the flowers, however, considering the sum inadequate, refused to part with them.

HUMPED EIGHT HUNDRED MILES.

Cairo, April 29.—Gen. Lord Kitchener, sirdar of the Egyptian forces, who has just returned to Berber from an 800-mile camel ride through Eastern Sudan, telegraphs that wherever he has gone, except on the Abyssinian frontier, near Gallabat, he has found security of life and property. The people everywhere are delighted at release from the tyranny of the dispersed dervishes.

RUINED BY OPPRESSION.

The Kurds say that years of oppression at the hands of the mahdi's men have practically ruined the country. The Shukriya tribe, which formerly possessed 50,000 camels, now hardly has 1,000. Of the Hadendowa tribe, which was forced to leave the dervishes, to remain in Osman Digna's camp, large numbers have died of famine.

The sheikhs, Gen. Kitchener reports, are taking immediate advantage of the destruction of dervish authority and are trying to repair the fortunes of their people, digging wells, making roads and collecting the scattered tribesmen.

CABLE NOTES.

Edmund Rosstand, the author, has informed M. de Biowitz, the Paris correspondent of the London Times, that he has finished three acts of "Aiglon" for Mme. Sara Bernhardt. This disproves the rumors of Rosstand's ill-health. In the Italian Chamber of Deputies the minister of the treasury, Dr. Pava-celli, announced that there would undoubtedly be a surplus in the budget for 1898-1899.

MAKES MISCHIEF

Kautz Wrote to His Cousin, Who Gave the Letter to the Press—Warning From Washington.

Cincinnati, April 28.—A letter written by Rear Admiral Kautz to his cousin, Mrs. Charles Lindsey, of Cincinnati, has been made public by the recipient. It is dated March 23, and is in the easy vein of a relative's private correspondence. In the letter he says: "You will probably read a lot of stuff about me in various newspapers, but I can assure you that I am all right, and have done nothing that I or my friends may be ashamed of."

of, unless it is the making of a king, which I am obliged to do today. But he is a very inoffensive sort of a fellow, a native, 19 years of age. He wears a French admiral's cocked hat, but no shoes or stockings or trousers. Still, considering the terrible weather, he looks very well in his climate. But I hardly think he would look very well on Fourth street, Cincinnati. I am not a king here, but just plain boss of the ranch. The German admiral, but that position has been a very silent partner. I am very much afraid he does not like me; in fact, I am not at all popular here with the Germans. But I am all right with the English, and hope to be through with them. I have no doubt of being sustained by the government in all I have done.

Washington, April 28.—It has been thought proper to admonish Admiral Kautz to write his letters as such as might be published from Cincinnati or in guarding his letters from publicity.

THE VICTIMS OF THE STORM

Names of Some Who Perished During the Tornado at Kirksville, Mo.

Kirksville, Mo., April 29.—The known dead at this place are as follows: Mr. Anderson, L. C. Beall, Edward Beaman, boy; Dr. Billington, Mrs. Henry Billington, Mrs. Bowman, Theodore Brigham (merchant), Mrs. Catherine Brigham, Mrs. Gibbs, A. W. Glassee, Mrs. A. S. Glassee, Mrs. Ben Green, Mrs. W. W. Green, Miss Bessie Green (daughter), Mrs. W. W. Green, Mrs. Melinda Helman, Mrs. Hill, Wm. B. Howells, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk, Mrs. John Larkin, sen. Col. Little and family of four, Henry Lowe and three children, Mrs. T. Mahaffy, Mrs. Miller, Harry Miller, Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Penschott, Mr. Cheil, Mr. and Mrs. Rainshott, Mrs. A. W. Rainshott, Mrs. W. H. Sherborn (wife of student, School of Osteopathy), Mrs. G. F. Stevenson, James Weaver (retired contractor), Alma Williams, and Mrs. Joe Woods, Mrs. C. Woods, Mrs. Lena Whaley.

A DEAFENING ROAR.

On the border of the storm the clouds were dun gray, but the core was ink black. Its roar and suction deafened everybody in its path for the minute, and most of those who escaped report that they were rendered unconscious for brief periods. The cyclone first took effect, as far as known, two miles south of Kirksville. It plowed a way through the town and went on northeast for fifteen miles, then curved and swept in some places was swept clean as a threshing-floor. Along other parts a tangle of timbers, trees and debris, knee-deep, was left, but the debris was pulverized as if it had gone through a stone-crusher.

HEART-RENDING STORIES.

The stories of the victims are heart-rending. Dr. Howells, his wife and three little boys crouched in their home in a group when the storm burst. The house was blown into fragments; the father was left dead, the mother badly injured, and the children more or less hurt. Mrs. W. W. Green and daughter, Miss Bessie, a student in the State Normal School, were crushed as their house fell, and their bodies were found some distance from the wreckage. The little son, Audrey, was found with severe injuries. The Weaver family of eight saw the coming death-cloud, but stood calmly by the chair of John C. Weaver, the aged father, who was an invalid. The grown sons might easily have run with wives and baby 100 yards out of the storm's path. The house flew into fragments. The old man was crushed in his chair; the others were knocked senseless. Mrs. Howells' legs were both broken, but the aged mother was not hurt. Joseph Weaver, his wife and baby, and brother Samuel, were terribly crushed.

TWO HUNDRED FAMILIES HOMELESS.

As a result of the tornado, 200 families are homeless, and more than 30 dead bodies and injured persons have been recovered from the ruins. Although rescuers have been searching the ruins ever since the storm spent its fury, many are still missing, and it is thought that a considerable number of the unfortunate were conveyed in flames that broke out soon after the storm had ceased.

CATHOLIC LIBERALS

Asking Representation in the House of Commons—A Convention Called.

[Toronto Globe.]

During the past two or three weeks several meetings have been held in Toronto of Catholic Liberals for the purpose of discussing the question of representation in the Provincial and Dominion Governments. To a representative of the Globe the following statement was given yesterday on behalf of those who had initiated the movement:

"The discussions which have taken place at the different meetings were not aimed at an attack on any individual. The matter of representation has, in the past, been discussed for the past couple of years, and it has for some time been held among those taking part that the representatives of the Irish Catholics of Ontario should have a seat in the House of Commons. The discussion has recently taken more definite shape, and at the last meeting the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"Whereas it has been recognized by the Dominion and Provincial legislatures that the Catholic people of Ontario are entitled to fair representation in their respective cabinets; and whereas it is desirable both in the interests of the Catholic people and of the Liberal party that the representation should be the best obtainable; and whereas, the principle of representation having been conceded, it follows that such representation should be the choice of the Catholic electorate of Ontario; now, therefore, be it resolved that a convention of Catholic Liberals of Ontario be called to consider their representation in the Dominion and Provincial cabinets.

"In pursuance of this resolution an executive committee of twelve was appointed to arrange for the convention. It was subsequently decided to hold a provincial convention in Toronto on May 23, the place and hour to be fixed later. The following officers were appointed by the committee: Chairman—Controller Wm. Burns. Vice-Chairman—Mr. W. T. Kernahan. Honorary Secretaries—Messrs. W. T. J. Lee and Thos. Mulvey. Honorary Treasurer—Dr. T. F. McMahon.

ought to be that laid down in the resolution above mentioned. "Active steps will be immediately taken to organize the different ridings for the purpose of appointing delegates, and the leading Catholics of the province will be communicated with."

TERRIBLE MISTAKE

Made by a Montreal Surgeon—Removes a Boy's Sound Eye and Leaves Him Blind.

Montreal, April 29.—Seven years ago Thomas Stewart, the 10-year-old son of Mr. George P. Walker, of the firm of J. P. Walker & Co., commission merchants, met with a serious and painful accident at Beaconsfield, where the family was spending the summer. A penknife was run into his left eye, and the sight was destroyed. Dr. Alexander Proudfoot, who was spending the summer in the neighborhood, was summoned and treated the case. It was decided that there was no possibility of the sight being restored, and the eye began to wither. The boy grew up, and is now a youth of 17.

Lately the youth's injured eye had become inflamed, and it was feared that the other eye might become affected. Dr. Proudfoot, a professional experience was again sought, and he advised the removal of the useless eye as the only means of preserving the other intact. This was agreed to, and the delicate task was intrusted to Dr. Proudfoot, who is assistant oculist and aurist to the general hospital, and oculist and aurist to the Western Hospital. The operation took place at the family residence, Tuesday afternoon, and at its conclusion it was found that a terrible mistake had been made. The healthy eye had been removed. On recovery from the effects of the anaesthetic the patient found himself blind. Dr. Buller was at once sent for, and efforts have since been made to save the sight of the injured eye, but as yet with only problematical success. At best the sight can only so far be preserved as to enable the young man to distinguish light from darkness. But no effort is being spared to this end.

FAVORABLE TRADE REPORT

For the Dominion of Canada—Good Demand From the Northwest.

New York, April 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s review says the state of foreign trade indicates an improvement rather than an apprehension. It is the season for the lowest exports of staples, and their prices this year are extremely low, but the unprecedented foreign demand for manufactured goods has far compensated for the reduction in price. Failures for the week were 184 in the United States, against 262 last year.

IN CANADA.

Canadian dispatches report a moderate demand and improvement in business with generally favorable weather, but trade especially active on the whole in drygoods. Generally fair business both wholesale and retail, is reported at St. John, with better prospects for lumber, river navigation having opened. Generally encouraging results follow favorable weather in hardware, drygoods and groceries at Halifax, with fair demand in boots and shoes. Quebec and Montreal, with collections improving. At Montreal the sorting business is better in drygoods and other lines, and since navigation has opened improvement in business is expected. Montreal as good as a year ago owing to the backward spring. Wholesale trade at Toronto is satisfactory, and in drygoods very active, with good demand for groceries, teas, leather, hardware and metals. Business at Hamilton is most satisfactory, with collections improving. Business at Vancouver is fully up to the average, and at Victoria wholesale trade has been quiet, but collections are fairly good.

Eaststreet's says: Canadian trade is of good seasonable proportions. Toronto reports drygoods travelers sending in good orders, with demand from the Northwest particularly good. Quebec, where the wheat crop section are rather unfavorable. Immigration and freight to the Northwest are expected to improve railroad earnings to that section. Better weather has stimulated demand in the Maritime Provinces. Grain packing has begun on the Pacific coast. The rather backward season in millinery has materialized at Montreal, and this trade has been active this week, while other lines have been quiet. Local navigation has opened, but ocean shipping will not be open for a week or ten days. Canadian failures number 27, against 30 last week and 22 this week a year ago. Winter wheat crop advances have continued. Irregularly unfavorable, but good weather, allowing a large area to be planted in spring wheat, coupled with rather less active export demand and denials of damage to European crops, has weakened quotations of wheat and flour at leading eastern and interior markets.

For the Dominion of Canada the bank clearances were as follows: Montreal, $1,477,414—increased 9.5 per cent; total, $1,477,414—increased 14.7 per cent; Winnipeg, $1,591,527—increased 18.3 per cent; Halifax, $1,298,625—increased 27.6 per cent; Hamilton, $749,894—increased 22.9 per cent; St. John, N. B., $561,255—increased 9.3 per cent; Vancouver, $752,480; Victoria, $645,773.

MADAME WALLACE

Cured of Female Weakness by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Montreal, April 24.—The ladies of this city are rapidly coming to realize the value of Dodd's Kidney Pills as a specific for all Female Troubles. Madame Sarah Wallace, modiste, 333 Papineau avenue, has had an experience that goes to show that no other medicine can equal Dodd's Kidney Pills for Female Troubles. "I suffered for three years with Female Weakness, and none of our physicians could relieve me. I was advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and had only used one box when I felt better. Now I am cured, and have only taken two boxes." Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Female Troubles.

Notwithstanding centuries of maltreatment and persecution there are to this day as many Hebrews in Russia as in all the rest of Europe put together.

A DINNER PILL—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. It's food partaken of is like a ball of fire upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Williams' Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion.

PASSING OF DONALD

Buildings Torn Down and C. P. R. Business Transferred to Revelstoke.

Grand Forks, April 29.—Donald, the eastern terminus of the Pacific division, will soon be depopulated. The railway men have learned that within a few weeks the workshops and the divisional point will be transferred to Revelstoke, a station 79 miles further west. As a result the town has already become nearly depopulated. Donald, until a few weeks ago, was a prosperous and charmingly-situated village in the shadow of the Selkirk. For many years it has been an important supply point for the mining country about it, and the great bend of the Columbia below.

There are two town sites at Revelstoke. The old town is located on the banks of the Columbia River, and failing to agree with the property owners the C. P. R. laid out a new town at the railway station a mile away.

THE RACE QUESTION.

Atlanta, Ga., April 28.—The race question was raised again at the International Sunday School Convention and it was pointed out that both colored people to sit together in public gatherings. After a discussion it was decided to allow the delegates to sit as they pleased.

Montgomery, Ala., April 28.—In Perry county, this state, Will Mullen, a white road overseer, was shot and killed by three negroes.

ONE GASP FROM DEATH

And Yet Not Beyond the Power of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart to Save and Cure You—This Is Not Fiction, But Fact.

The constant terror and distress of those in the thralls of heart disease, only the sufferer can know, and what a boon, so magical a relief and cure as Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart has proved itself to be. In many cases recorded the patient seemed but a gasp from the grave, and this wonderful fluid heart specific has tided over, and crisis, given relief in 30 minutes, and after taking a bottle or two perfect health has been restored and all the distressing symptoms and sufferings seem but as a dream. It cures hearts weakened by la grippe.

A TALK TO YOUNG FARMERS

They and Their Wives Given
Some Useful Information.

Thoughtful and Practical Paper
by Mrs. J. L. Smith.

Read Before the Ontario Farmers' Institute—How to Make Life Happy and Prosperous.

[Read before a meeting of the Ontario
Farmers' Institute by Mrs. J. L.
Smith, Whitby, Ont.]

To young farmers who have lately established themselves in homes of their own my remarks are chiefly addressed. They will be applicable also to those who, in the near future, contemplate taking upon themselves the responsibilities of married life and locating in our rural districts. You hope to succeed; perhaps a thought of the possibility of failure has never entered your mind. You are in the heyday of your youth and strength; to you disappointment and loss and failure are things that happen to others, and are scarcely among the possibilities with you.

Each young man starts out on a different basis. One may be starting on a farm of his own, given to him by his father, well stocked and provided with implements. A young man who has so fair a start is very often the one to make shipwreck. Such a one is apt to farm life is an Eldorado, a life of ease and elegance, in which he will have nothing to do but drive around in his covered buggy, have a good time and "boss the job." The money that to him was so easily acquired, very easily elipses through his fingers, and he is applying to his parents for more help, or, if he is ashamed to do that, he borrows in the bank; and then in a very few years more the crash comes.

Then there are other young men who have bought their farms, who, making haste to become landowners, have placed mortgages on the farms, the result of which is a heavy rent. This is just where some young farmers make their first mistake. Better rent a farm than own one heavily mortgaged. Do not make too much haste to be a landholder, and on no consideration morgage your farm to purchase luxuries which you can do without by practising a little self-denial. From a tolerably reliable authority I have obtained the information that only 20 per cent of the mortgages placed on farms in Canada are redeemed. There is nothing that drags like a mortgage.
The young man who has rented farms
at a reasonable rent, and have purchased stock and implements for which they have paid cash. All classes are somewhat differently circumstanced, but yet whatever basis you start on,
your success as a farmer depends very largely on yourself and your wife. The farmer's wife, by her economy and forethought, has no small share in the upbuilding of her husband's fortune.
Both husband and wife are active partners in the firm of "my wife and I."
Your gains are one, your interests and your losses are one. The young farmer ought to choose a wife who is in sympathy with him in his vocation, then there will be four hands to fight the battles, four eyes to watch for the dangers and four shoulders to carry the burdens.

Unless you set out from the first with a firm determination to succeed you will not accomplish much, and having so set out you will soon find that life means earnest work. Work that cannot be done by the wife with her finger tips, nor by the husband with his hands in his pocket. I think that sometimes the farmer's wife fails to do her part thoroughly, from lack of competent help, and also from a lack of knowledge more than from carelessness. We train our doctors, lawyers and ministers for the work they are expected to do. Why not train our sons and daughters to be farmers and farmer's wives? This is an age when the problem of education is coming to the front, when men and women are interesting themselves in the education of the masses. Sometimes I wonder if the prophet Isaiah was looking down through the intervening years and speaking of our day when he said,
"And wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times." I would not for a moment speak disparagingly of a literary education for our daughters, nor of a manual education for our sons, but along with these there should be a thorough education in domestic economy. We should instill into the minds of our daughters the conviction of the respectability of labor, that to sweep and churn and bake is just as respectable as to play the piano or paint a picture or speak in three or four different languages, and that to mend the clothes and darn
the stockings neatly, is a more useful accomplishment than to be able to work with symmetry and swiftness the up-to-date embroidery stitches.

If you are going to succeed you must learn to say no. The occasions on which you will have to use that word and use it emphatically are many and varied. I mention only a few. One is when your friend comes to your home, makes himself wonderfully agreeable,
speaks flatteringly of your skill as a farmer, praises your wife's delicious butter and home-made bread, and then asks, very meekly, of course, if you can lend him a little money, a mere trifle, you know, of fifty or one hundred dollars or so. He will give you his note, and, of course, it will be all right, etc.

It may be all right, and it may not,
and even if you have the spare cash you better say no. Then, when some neighbor, it may be, and a first-rate fellow, asks you to do the favor of indorsing his note, it seems hard, almost unkind to refuse a neighbor, but you had better do so. For some time to come you will have quite as much as you can manage to attend to your own affairs without burdening yourself with the affairs of others. I will mention just one other occasion when an emphatic "No" should be said. When the indefatigable agent calls at your door; it may be some day about noon, so that he will find you in, besides giving you the pleasure of his company at dinner, of feeling for sale some article which,
though it may be good in itself, to you, as a farmer, is utterly useless. When he takes up your precious time discussing on its merits and the blessings and benefits accruing from its possession don't be persuaded by him.
Just say "No" and go to work. Very few young farmers just starting in life can afford to buy things they have no use for; to them it is equivalent to so much money thrown away.

Start out in life with a fixed determination to keep out of debt. If you do this you will soon find that life is not only earnest work but economy and self-denial. You may be the son of a well-to-do farmer and your wife
the daughter of a well-to-do farmer, and if so, you have no doubt both of you been accustomed to many little trifles in the way of ornamentation and perhaps luxuries which are beyond your reach now that you are in your own home unless you go in debt to obtain them. Do not do so under any consideration. Your fathers and mothers practiced economy and self-denial in their younger days and now they are enjoying in their old age their well earned comforts. Do not expect them to provide you with luxuries and be constantly harping to them about how you miss this and that and hang around waiting to see if the mantle of their success or at least some shreds of it might once more fall upon your shoulders or to try some cunning maneuvering to induce another slice from the parental loaf to drop into your hands. They have started you up in life once, let that suffice. From this time forth let the world see that you are a man. Launch out into the world and fight your own battles, be willing to begin as your father and mother began and be contented with such things as you can afford. I know that the work which you have to do now, both indoor and out is vastly different from the work of your grandparents, but if you would succeed, the principle upon which you must work is essentially the same. While rapid progress has been made during the last fifty years in art, literature, and notably in electricity,
the searchlight of science has also been thrown on agriculture and it too has joined in the onward march; many things have been made easier to us upon which the light was only dawning in their day. The inventions and improvements of the nineteenth century have given to you and your wife many advantages over your grandparents, and yet in spite of difficulties such as you will never have to contend with,
they prospered. How did they achieve their success? By practicing industry, economy and self-denial, being willing to do without many comforts they had been accustomed to in their homes across the broad Atlantic, by keeping out of debt, by being sober and honest and by courageously facing all their difficulties with a purpose and will.
Looking down through the years that have passed and thinking of the comforts that we many of us enjoyed because they have lived and worked, we cannot but say, all honor to those noble men and women, the heroes and heroines of our land and century. They have been largely influential in making our country what it is today and passing away they leave to us an heritage of which we are justly proud. Those men and women are no myths existing only in imagination, some of the younger of those pioneers are still with us, old men now, connecting links between the present and the past. Men who 50 or 60 years ago started at the very most with a few pounds sterling and have steadily worked their way until now they are men of means in our land.

In starting out on your farm you must of course have some stock and implements and furniture. Take care that your outlay is within your means.
Do not go into debt for things that you or your wife imagine you need just because Mrs. So-and-so has them at home. As little by little you add to your savings you will be justified in adding to your comforts. Did you ever notice that it is the wealth that we gain little by little that usually stays with us, while that which comes to us usually vanishes with uncomfortable rapidity. Then having made your purchases take care of your possessions. Don't leave your implements in the field to bleach in the winter storms, don't leave your grain bags lying about for the mice to gnaw, and your young wives don't leave the milk standing till it sours before you put it away, and don't leave the kettle to boil dry on the stove, and perhaps have the spout melted out while you are reading a trashy serial and probably shedding tears over the imaginary trials of the heroine.

There is enough real sorrow in the world to weep over, if weep you must,
and had you attended to your work you might have saved the money you will have to pay to get the kettle mended; and there is just a possibility that your next churning of butter may not command so high a price as it would have done had the milk been properly cared for, so that altogether your loss may amount to quite a little sum. Only a trifle, I fancy I hear you say. Well, trifles are not to be despised.
It is the little leak that sinks the ship.
One cent saved every day and paid out at intervals of 6 per cent in fifty years amounts to $50. There is scarcely any such thing as a trifle.
Economy and more particularly economy in little things may be said to be the guardian of property, a good genius whose presence guides the successful man. As far as domestic economy is concerned we do not consider it at all out of place to rank it amongst the fine arts. There are some wives who make mistakes in their household management. They want to save and be economical but don't know how.
Again a great many people mistake stinginess and meanness for true economy, when in reality it forms no part of it. One mistake that is frequently made is in the preparation of food. It is always good economy to take care of our health, to be properly fed and properly clad. We should spread upon our table a generous diet, when I say that I do not mean to advocate extravagance, but I mean that there should be a sufficient supply of well cooked, nourishing food provided for wants of the family; such a provision is not extravagance. It might in the long run cost the health after it has been impaired by the lack of proper nourishment and clothing than it would to provide nourishing food and comfortable clothing.

Do not be misled by the cheapness of ter of dress many make mistakes by the most economical, which is not the case, because good material will last so much longer and wear so much better than poor, that the difference is soon made up. We have heard some women boast of how much they have saved by the purchase of inferior articles when in fact they will lose by it, as suits instead of Jockey the season. Then as regards home dresses, they need not be expensive, but should be clean and neat.
Do not, under a mistaken idea, slouch about the house in an untidy, slipshod manner during the six working days of the week in order to be able to don a gaudy Sunday gown, which very often is neither appropriate nor becoming.

Keep a strict account of your receipts and expenditures both on the farm and in the house so you can see at once just how you are getting along; they are dear at any price. We have known women who could not resist the temptation to buy pretty ribbons, remnants of silk and other similar articles. These things were of no use to themselves or their families, and they were foolish enough to buy them on credit, too.
And there are men who seem to have a mania for bidding on auction sales, until their yards become homes for incurable implements and their stables a home for the aged and infirm. The money paid for such things is usually thrown away. Very often, if you would find them untidy and uninviting and they tell you—and think they speak truly—that they cannot ford to have things like other people, when in fact the time they might have been more comfortable than they are had they spent their money judiciously. Try to exercise good judgment in making your purchases. Try to form a correct idea of the fitness of things. Don't spend your money on ribbons and gawags for either yourself or your children, which can be done without, while all the time you are in need of useful clothing. Try to practicing economy you are doing without. This kind of management is not along the line of making a fortune.

Then let there be a thorough understanding between husband and wife on financial matters. The wife should be the husband's confidant in all things. A good, frugal, honest, sensible wife is the best help a man can have, as step by step they travel together on the road that is to bring

The Secret of Health

The health of the whole body depends upon the blood and the nerves. Therefore a medicine that creates new blood and supplies the necessary materials for rapidly rebuilding wasted nerve tissues, reaches the root of many serious diseases.
It is these virtues that have given

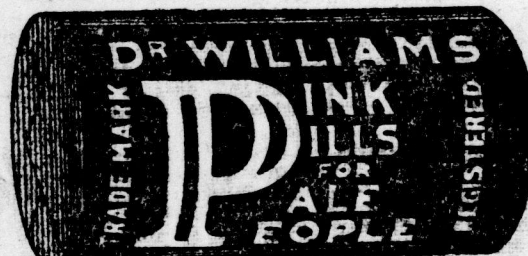

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE

their wonderful power to conquer disease, and caused the miraculous cures that have startled the scientific world. Thousands of cases have demonstrated that this remedy is an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, pale and sallow complexions, and all forms of weakness in either men or women.

But you must get the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.
Imitations never cured any one, and other so-called tonics are but imitations of this great medicine.

A SEVERE CASE OF ANÆMIA.

Miss Mabel J. Taylor, living at 1334 City Hall Avenue, Montreal, writes: "I write to give you the honest testimonial of a young girl who believes her life was saved by the use of your Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. In November, 1897, I was suddenly stricken with loss of voice, and for eight months could only speak in a whisper. At the time I was completely run down.
I had no appetite, no energy; suffered from headache, palpitation of the heart, and shortness of breath. I was not able to walk up or down stairs. I was given up by the best doctors, and the different remedies I took did me no good. While in this condition I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had taken four boxes my voice was restored, and after the use of eight boxes I am feeling perfectly well. I cannot find words to express my thanks for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, and you are at liberty to publish this letter, in the hope that it may be of benefit to some other sufferer."

The Genuine are Sold only in Packages

STORE TEETH

Sometimes Left as a Legacy—Second-Hand Teeth of Little Value.

Hundreds of thousands of artificial teeth manufactured and sold every year. What becomes of them? It is like asking what becomes of pins and other things which are practically indestructible.

Before making a guess it is worth while to consider how artificial teeth are made. The story is told in Nantucket of a sea captain, who was a great whistler until he lost one of his front teeth by accidental contact with a belaying pin. For some time he bemoaned his lost accomplishment, until he found that he could whistle with an artificial tooth whittled out of a piece of wood. When a performance was required he would calmly whittle out an insisor and put it in position. Then the audience would wait until the tooth was swelled by the moisture of his mouth so that it would not slip out.

When plates were discovered, and the expert dentist was able to supply a whole mouthful of new teeth, the hand false teeth, but if there is such a traffic it is not of large proportions.
Second-hand teeth are valuable only
for the platinum, wire that they contain, and when they fall into the hands
of regular teetmakers, they are
smashed up to get the platinum out.

Not long ago a man who found a
double set of teeth that he had a prize.
The finder was surprised when the dealer refused to make an offer, and
said that ten cents a set was all they
were worth to anyone but the person
whom they fitted.

The expensive teeth are not market-
able, and the marketable teeth are not expensive. That is the whole thing
in a nutshell.

Yet teeth have been used over. A lady went to a dentist with a set of
teeth which had belonged to her mother, who was dead. She said she had always admired those teeth when her mother wore them, and now that her
own were gone she wanted the old

may look just as well as or better than real ones, but public speakers, singers and other prominent people want their own teeth reproduced in all their peculiarities of form and color and fillings, if they have them. They want teeth that cannot be told as false—
and they get them—not all at once, perhaps, but one by one, as the originals give out.

The teeth are made to order
nothing is impossible, from the short, white teeth of normal youth, to the long, discolored one of extreme age, and the prices range with those of watches.

And now for the answer to the question, "What becomes of false teeth?" Sometimes they are lost, sometimes they are stolen, and sometimes left as a family legacy. Generally, however, they are buried with the owner, and lie forever hidden in the ground.

It is occasionally suggested that the hand false teeth, but if there is such a traffic it is not of large proportions.
Second-hand teeth are valuable only
for the platinum, wire that they contain, and when they fall into the hands
of regular teetmakers, they are
smashed up to get the platinum out.

Not long ago a man who found a
double set of teeth that he had a prize.
The finder was surprised when the
dealer refused to make an offer, and
said that ten cents a set was all they
were worth to anyone but the person
whom they fitted.

The expensive teeth are not market-
able, and the marketable teeth are
not expensive. That is the whole thing
in a nutshell.

Yet teeth have been used over. A lady went to a dentist with a set of
teeth which had belonged to her mother, who was dead. She said she had always admired those teeth when her
mother wore them, and now that her
own were gone she wanted the old
set remounted for herself. It was done.

FACTS ABOUT THE AZTEC LAND

Mrs. (Dr.) Fraser Writes to Correct Some Hasty Conclusions—The Mexican as He Is.

Mrs. (Dr.) Fraser, formerly of London, writes the following interesting letter from Mexico to The Advertiser:

Mapini, Mexico, April 17, 1899.

Having noticed in your paper some days ago an article, Mexican and particularly referring to this district, written by Dr. Wilson, after a few days residence here, I thought possibly your readers might be interested in hearing the views of one with some two years' acquaintance with life among the Mexican people. It is not an unusual thing for the tourist, while here, to accept all he hears and sees, from the curios he buys, in freshly made Aztec idols, with their bottle-glass eyes and tin-foil teeth, to the tales his guide is pleased to tell him, whether contrary to historical facts or not, and on his return home write a criticism on the habits and character of the Mexican people. But as the letter I read in your paper was so exaggerated and untrue I feel that, in justice to ourselves, some notice must be taken of it, and an attempt made to correct the impression that Dr. Wilson has tried to give your readers, that while here for a few weeks relieving the company's physician, he has risked his life among Mexican savages and American criminals.

In the reliable every variety of climate and soil, of customs and people are to be found, and it is utterly impossible to judge the whole by one part. The northern states of Mexico, on account of the scarcity of water, are almost entirely given over to mining and grazing, excepting in the Laguna districts and the bottom lands of some rivers, which are largely used for cotton raising. The southern states are with-out an equal in the world. For over 300 years the Spaniards and Mexicans have been working them, and new mines are constantly being discovered and old ones reopened.

From El Paso to Mapini is a run of sixteen hours on the Mexican Central Railroad. Along the line are many very interesting towns of considerable importance. Chihuahua is a city of 30,000 inhabitants, including a large American colony. Santa Rosal and Escorial are towns famous for their mineral springs. Jimenez is a large shipping town, near which are the great Guadalupe mines. Besides these, there are many towns distant from the railroad and large haciendas, little worlds by themselves, that the traveler, rushing through the country by night, cannot have any idea of. Dr. Wilson says that "hundreds of Mexican beggars, half-dressed," saluted him when the train pulled into the station at Juarez, across the river from El Paso. I have heard of "peons" saluting him, but never in such multitudinous numbers before. It must have been the doctor's saint's day. "Half-dressed, dirty, and with no ambition," he so describes them. Esquimaux eat candles, drink whale oil and wear furs. The Mexican (Peon) wears cotton pantaloons and a shirt (when he can get it out of pawn). He bathes on pay day and he works when he has money and he goes to bed when he is tired. He lives on frijoles and chiles and sleep in his blanket on the floor. Customs, clothes and food are all matters of climate. Treacherous he is not. Wherever is life and property safer than in the Republic of Mexico to anyone peaceably disposed. In point of amiability and warmth of manner there is no nation equal to the Mexican. They are the perfection of civility, obliging, excessively good-natured, and very easily become attached to those with whom they live. Their graceful cordiality is even an unfailing charm to strangers. From the manners of the schools and the appearance of the bright little dusky faces, no one can accuse them of sluggishness of mind or stolidity of countenance, as you so often see in the Northern Indian.

It is to the Indian blood and not to the Spanish that Mexico is grateful for the rapid progress made during the last few years. With President Juarez and Diaz, Mexico has known peace and prosperity. Under the wise administration of President Diaz, it is no longer a country of revolution, but one with a wonderful future.

Dr. Wilson says that all the Peons carry knives, with which they do not hesitate to stab one another. Such accidents do sometimes occur, even as they might in the Klondike, but only when they are under the influence of tequila, a maddening drink made from the maguey plant. This terrible knife that these Indians carry is to them what the jack-knife is to the northern boy; and more, it is his knife, fork and spoon—his scissors, his Hatchet, or shoemaker's awl, and numerous other things. No man has been shot by the authorities in this district for over six years. Some one has been imposing on the doctor's credulity.

Mapini is a mining town over 300 years old, with a population of 15,000. It is situated in a valley about twenty miles in extent. The buildings are all of adobe, of one and two stories, plastered and whitewashed on the outside, with window and door-casings of blue or brick color, giving the streets a very quaint appearance. There are in the town 2 saloons, 3 cantinas, 2 drug stores, 48 general stores, 2 theaters, 1 church, 1 plaza de toros, or bull ring. The town has its chief support from the Penoles Mining Company. This company has expended hundreds of thousands of dollars for the health and comfort of the employees, foreign and native. At the surface of the mines, some twelve hundred feet above the valley, and distant about eleven miles, the company have built over 200 houses, suitable for the Mexican employees. They have built for the foreigners large frame or stone houses, which are lit with electric light, furnished with a good water supply, and are steam-heated for the cool season, when necessary. Recently a large billiard hall was built for the enjoyment of the young men at the mines. For a mining camp everything is in magnificent shape and in and around the furnaces and mines. Nowhere, even in Canada, will you find a plant kept so clean, and any company so considerate of the health and comfort of its employees.

When Dr. Wilson's letter was read here, a great deal of indignation was justly felt, not only because of his misrepresentation of the Mexican people, but also because of his reference to the "few Americans here because, possibly, they can't go back." That is as false as it is unkind and uncalled for. The "few Americans" are Germans, Americans and Canadians, who are as free to return to their native lands as the doctor. Mining engineers, smelter men, assayers and chemists are where the profession calls them. The doctor need not feel himself socially or otherwise degraded by his short stay here. The Penoles Company are not likely to intrust millions of dollars to a man who is so easily misled by a letter. His curiosity went beyond his disgust, and carried him to an amateur bull fight in the town. He made wry faces at first, but I am afraid that finding it "awfully funny, too," his taste might have been offended as he gazed at the barbarous Mexican he had not hastened away.

MARGARET M. FRASER.

THE MECHANIC AND ARTISAN

There was a large attendance of members at the regular meeting of the trades and labor council this week. President W. A. Hunter presided. Credentials were received from representatives of the shoemakers' and coopers' unions, and the delegates seated. Thomas Beattie, M.P., notified the council that he proposed introducing a bill making eight hours a legal day's work, and asked if the council approved of his action. On motion, the secretary was instructed to acknowledge Mr. Beattie's letter, and inform him that the council was in hearty accord with a reduction of the hours of labor, and ask that a copy of the bill be forwarded to the council. Mr. Beattie also stated that he believed the union label bill would be passed without any opposition.

The president reported that he had received the five copies of the labor laws of Ontario ordered by the council. The members will be given an opportunity of reading the books whenever they desire them.

The subject of technical education in the public schools was brought up through a circular sent from Ottawa asking the council to appoint a delegate to a convention to discuss the matter. There was somewhat of a diversity of opinion on the subject, and after brief consideration it was decided to lay the matter over for a future meeting.

The building laborers complained that some of their members had been discharged from work on the Nipawit street. After the difficulty had been explained it was decided that a committee wait on Col. Leys, M.P.P., to see whether he can settle the trouble. The appointment of the Labor Day committee was introduced. It was decided that one member from each affiliated organization constitute the board, which will embrace over 30 unions.

It was reported to the council that the Ontario Plant and Overall Manufacturing Company had adopted the union label. The agreement (for one year) had been signed by the employers and the Garment Workers' Union, and had been forwarded to headquarters. The firm above referred to has always been looked upon by organized labor as the fairest in their line in the city. But the adoption of the label brought forth loud applause from the delegates. The tailors reported that they had also unopposedly adopted the union label. A general discussion on union labels was then indulged in. The secretary reported that he had sent out several communications to shoe manufacturers and others, asking them to have the union label affixed to their goods. In some cases the replies were quite encouraging, and it was decided to call on union label articles every time the members made a purchase.

The early closing movement was reported on by the grocery employees. A list of the fair and unfair stores was furnished to each organization. Some of those who had promised to close were specially mentioned. It was decided to use every endeavor to get all the grocers in line.

At the close of the council the Labor Day committee met for the purpose of organizing. Delegate Frank Plant was elected chairman, Wm. Burleigh secretary and W. Lumley treasurer.

LABOR NOTES

Advances in wages continue to be the order of the day. Several concerns in the iron industry have made a second advance.

The Kansas City labor temple fund has $2,715 pledged so far.

The team drivers of Hamilton and Toronto will be organized shortly.

Organizer Gurofsky, of the Garment Workers, was in the city this week.

During the next two weeks three more unions will be formed in this city.

The pork butchers of Ingersoll have formed one of the strongest unions in Canada.

The Team Drivers' International Union has issued 23 charters so far this year.

Omaha labor unions are working hard to have their new labor temple ready for occupancy on May 1.

A machine that will greatly reduce the cost of harvesting has been invented for harvesting sugar beets. This means a few more laborers will be looking for work in the cities.

The novel feature of witnessing an alarm on strike happened at Buffalo, N. Y., recently. When the employees of the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railroad went on strike, Aid. Darmstadter walked out with them.

The passage by the California Legislature of the Hoey eight-hour bill and its approval by Governor Gage gives California a law which will establish the eight-hour day in practice, as well as in theory, on all public works of the state.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, by action of its board of directors, has authorized an advance in wages, affecting about 1,000 employees at Creighton, Tarentum, Ford City and Charlot, Pa.; Kokomo and Elwood, Ind., and Crystal City, Mo. The advance will take effect May 1.

The invention of a machine which will automatically fold, wrap and address newspapers is announced. It was recently tested in New York, and found to be a phenomenal success. Two men can operate six machines, thereby doing the work of 24 men. The machine will soon be on the market.

Left alone, the painters' muddle of dual organization will soon settle itself, as reports from all over the country indicate that the Lafayette, Ind., faction is making agreements in all large cities with the employers, and the Baltimore, Md., faction is beginning to realize that it is not even a circumstance in the labor world.

The Western Labor Union has issued a call for its second annual convention, which will be held in Salt Lake City, beginning May 8. It is likely that the Salt Lake City convention, if western papers are correct, will not only regard with coldness any attempt to secure reaffiliation with the A. F. of L., but may throw down the gauntlet in the shape of carrying a proposition to organize all trades, whether or not unions already exist.

The telegraphers of the Union Pacific system and the officials of the company have arrived at an understanding, and have signed an agreement regulating wages, hours, and conditions of labor. The new agreement is practically the same as that made with the receivers at the time of the celebrated hearing before Judge Caldwell, of the federal court. The minimum wages for operators is $45 per month on the Kansas and Nebraska divisions, with $50 on the western division, with extra pay for overtime. It is said the agreement is satisfactory to both parties.

The recent increase in the wages of the cotton operatives of New England is but one of the many signs that prosperous times are ahead. The increase of wages in this industry will amount to more than $75,000 weekly in New England, writes M. A. Murphy in the New England Printing Trades Journal. This money will not be idle; it means the manufacture of more clothing, shoes, in fact, everything that tends to make the living of the wage-earner more comfortable. Most people are beginning to realize that when they buy prison-made, tenement-house or sweat-shop goods they are only driving a nail in the coffin of their own line of business.

A JEWELER'S CASE.

Mr. R. F. Colwell, of Windsor, Tells How Dodd's Kidney Pills

Cured Him of Bright's Disease. After Many Other Remedies Had Utterly Failed—Dodd's Kidney Pills Helped Him From the Start.

Windsor, April 28.—In no city in Canada has that celebrated medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills, won a brighter record, than in Windsor. The number of persons cured of deadly Kidney Diseases, by Dodd's Kidney Pills, in this city, is surprisingly large, and increases daily.

One of the latest to testify to the magic power of Dodd's Kidney Pills is Jeweler R. F. Colwell, No. 104 Queen's street. He says: "I have endured, for two years, the greatest torture, from backache, and pain in the loins. A puffiness appeared under my eyes, my limbs bloated, and my urine was of a dark, unnatural color, and bad odor. I tried many remedies, but all failed to help me. When I ascertained that I had Bright's Disease, I became thoroughly alarmed. I was told of the efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills, in all Kidney Diseases, and I began to use them."

"After the first few doses I began to improve. The pains left me, my sleep became sound, puffiness and bloating vanished, my health gradually became all I could wish it to be. I used only a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, but they cleaned my system thoroughly, of that dread curse—Bright's Disease."

There is no case of Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Gout, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Diseases of Women, or any other Kidney Disease, that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists, at 50 cents a box, six boxes $2.50, sent on receipt of price, by The Dodd's Medicine Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When some actors attempt to sing there is no place like home. The receiver is often as bad as the original board of directors.

FAGGED OUT.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All fatigue has gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills.

EXPLORING THE AMAZON

United States Gunboat Navigating the Great River.

Commander Todd, of the United States gunboat Wilmington, now or lately cruising in Venezuelan waters, has been assigned a job that ought to be almost as interesting as fighting. He has been directed to go up the Amazon as far as the Wilmington can go, and take notice of what he finds there. It is said that no United States vessel has ever navigated the Amazon above Mananos, which is 850 miles up-stream. The Wilmington draws 8 feet 10 inches, and it is thought that she can go 1,000 or 1,200 miles farther. The Upper Amazon is not absolutely unexplored, but information about the district traversed, and the folks who live along its borders is vague, scarce and unreliable. Monkeys, orchids and gay birds come from that region, also bicycle tires and overshoes.

It may be that what put it into the government's head to send Commander Todd up the Amazon was that it had been reading the report, recently issued, of the Intercontinental Railroad Commission, which has been busy for ten years past in investigating the feasibility and probable cost of a railroad from New York to Buenos Ayres. The distance is 10,200 miles, of which nearly 5,000 is covered by railroad already built. The commission has spent nearly $300,000 in its researches, of which the United States provided $245,000, Brazil $30,000, and the other South American republics the rest. It first met in Washington, in December, 1890, when it organized three survey parties—one under Capt. E. Z. Sawyer, to survey south from Mexico; one under Mr. William F. Shunk, to survey north from Quito, and one under Mr. J. Imbrie Miller, to survey south from Quito to Lake Titicaca, in Bolivia. The surveys were finished about three years ago. Now the results have been worked out, and the report summarily published. The verdict is that the road is perfectly feasible, and that the roadbed for the main line, including masonry, grading and bridges (but not rails) would cost about $175,000,000. The most expensive and difficult section of the proposed line would be in Colombia, Ecuador and Peru, where the road strikes the Andes for 3,600 miles, at an estimated cost of $125,000,000.

Why is it that nearly all aged persons are thin?

And yet, when you think of it, what could you expect?

Three score years of wear and tear are enough to make the digestion weak. Yet the body must be fed.

In Scott's Emulsion, the work is all done; that is, the oil in it is digested, all ready to be taken into the blood. The body rests, while the oil feeds and nourishes, and the hypophosphites makes the nerves steady and strong.

In Woman's Interest

Our Skirts.

The thrifty feminine mind, just now focused intently on the getting up of things comfortable for summer, is harassed to a degree over the question of skirts. Women who do careful "shop gazing" are coming to the conclusion that there is no faith to be put in the present cut of skirt, with its lanky tail and close hip fit, and the fortune-tellers of fashion advise very modified imitations of the wondrous petticoats worn by the wax ladies in the show windows. They don't believe it is exactly safe to run with one's expensive silk or satin to the present extreme, and as a matter of fact it is not. Cling with cheerful conviction to your modified skirt if you would be wise, and if you wish to wear or make it over next season.

Let the rear width merely brush the floor, cut the front to easy stepping length, not as if you were making an old-style riding habit, and don't let your reputation for taste and elegance depend upon it, close your pocket hole with ornamental pins or buttons. Let your frivolous friends waste their pin money and deface their gowns with such eccentricities which no more than arrived in the arena of fashion before they became hopelessly vulgarized.

It is only right and generous also for one who assumes to give news of the mode to inform her readers that among well-dressed women a skirt fitting without pleat or gather over the back is regarded as an excessively poor choice. It is all very well to quote that in Paris women wear their dresses so tight they dare not sit down in them, but such an accusation is not to be brought against the Parisian ladies. Felix, Paquin and the rest of their fellow-artists make such abnormal costumes for actresses to wear on and off the stage, but for the members of good society quite another cut is followed.

With all soft, thin goods, such as voile, crepe, silk mohair, etc., the back of the overdress is cut on the bias so artfully that from the belt a slight fullness commences, and you are left in doubt as to whether there is a pocket hole in that fullness or not. Its whereabouts is never proclaimed by buttons and pins and such.

Again, let it be known once and for all that no woman should wear her street dress with a flowing tail. There is nothing repulsive in the use of trains, but in their abuse, and she who drags a length of good material through the street mire is a stranger in the modern procession. The smart woman has all but her house and evening gowns so cut that, by catching a handful of goods just four inches below her belt in the rear, and lifting and pressing her hand against her belt, she holds the tail of her skirt absolutely clear of dust, displays a clean pair of heels, a glint of bright silk petticoat, and occasionally a trifle of prettily-stocked ankle.

A Delightful Husband.

Joseph Choate, who paid his wife such a delightful and delicate compliment, which set everyone talking, when he replied to the question: "Who would you rather be if you could not be yourself?" "Mrs. Choate's second husband" has been quoted by the Kings of Italy. Queen Margherita of Italy is still a beautiful woman, but she has begun to realize that she is not so young as she was, and that her beauty is diminishing. She is happy in being well.

A TORONTO MUSIC DEALER.

His wife suffered from weak heart action and nervousness.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cured her.

The wife of Mr. A. R. Taylor, the enterprising dealer in musical instruments, whose place of business is 192 Queen St. East, Toronto, was for some time troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart and general run-down health.

192 A. R. TAYLOR, 192

down health. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have been the means of strengthening her heart, toning her nerves and invigorating her system.

In the following statement she gives an account of her case: "For some time I suffered a good deal from palpitation and weak action of the heart and nervousness, so much so that I got terribly run down in health. I could get nothing to do me much good until I tried Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

"The improvement they have made on me has been truly wonderful. I feel stronger and healthier in every way than I have for months. My heart does not bother me any more and my nervous system has been toned up and invigorated. I consider there is no remedy equal to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for people who have any heart trouble or are weak and nervous and I never fail to recommend them to my friends."

loved by her people and by her husband, but at the same time she does not contemplate the loss of beauty with indifference. It is said that some time ago she remarked to the king somewhat wistfully: "I am too old to wear white any longer." The king smiled, but did not contradict her, merely saying: "We will take a fortnight to consider the matter." At the end of that period a packing-case arrived filled with white gowns of every description and of great beauty. The case was addressed to the queen, and contained a card bearing the words: "The king's decision."

Things Worth Knowing.

A darning-needle held between the teeth while preparing onions will prevent one's eyes from smarting. The steel attracts the volatile juices before it has a chance to reach you.

Lampwicks must be changed often to insure good light, as they will soon become clogged, and the oil does not pass through them freely. A clear flame will be certain if the wicks are soaked in vinegar 24 hours before using.

An egg cooks just under the boiling point, and if a custard boils it is liable to curdle. To tell when it is done, sufficiently dip a spoon into the hot custard, and if a coating remains upon the spoon the custard should be taken from the fire at once; but if the spoon comes out clean let the custard cook a minute more, then test it again.

It is now claimed that rubbing the face downward while washing is the cause of many of the wrinkles on women's faces today, and the best remedy is to reverse the process, and always rub the face upwards.

Hall Appointments.

The attention given to the hall by modern architects indicates that we are adopting the English idea of making this part of the house a miniature expression or photograph of the whole interior. The hall should be an appropriate introduction to the rest of the house. It should neither be too conventional nor too haphazard in its furnishings. Neither should it be built out of all proportion to the rest of the house. A small house has no right to a large square hall suitable for a mansion. It is difficult to make a square hall of the right size for a small house. It is much better to give it a small circular effect, or artistically divide it into two parts by means of grill-work or portieres. In furnishing the hall the mistake should not be made of trying to turn it into a reception room. At the best, this is poor taste, and should never be resorted to except as a matter of necessity, or in very large houses where its size warrants a large open fireplace, with seats, couches and tables.

The appointments of the hall should be simple, and not too numerous. No part of the house suffers more from overcrowding than the hall. The pieces of furniture should be conventional in form and carving, but this does not prevent one from administering those few touches which always add a feeling of warmth and comfort to any place. A cold, cheerless hall is just as inartistic as an overdressed one. The color of the wall paper should be selected for the purpose of contributing toward this end. A plain, natural color without any attempt at figure-work will produce the best effect. A dado of some richer color may be used to lend a contrast. The stair carpet must be of a color and simple pattern to harmonize with it. Parquet floors are always desirable in the hall. Finally the lighting of the place should be made so as to cast over the whole scene a soft, yellow, and harmonious light that will intensify the color scheme sought.

Their Pet Relief.

If there is a woman who can lay her hand on her heart, or the region where it ought to be, and solemnly declare that she has ever succeeded in mending anything permanently with paste, gum or cement, I should like to meet her, says a writer in Pearson's Magazine. I have known many housewives and many valets, add the other ingredients in the course of a brief but useless life, and I have never yet met with an instance where anything mended by a woman with any of the devices in question has remained mended for ten consecutive minutes when subjected to the slightest strain.

A woman can mend a saucer with cement, and its broken parts will continue to adhere until someone picks it up. She can also mend an umbrella handle with gum, and it will present a decent appearance until someone tries to take it from the umbrella-stand. This, however, is not the sort of mending which the woman desires, and it is needless to say that it is worse than mending whatever. Yet, although every woman who has reached the age of 35 has probably made 450 attempts to mend things, every one of which has failed, she will still continue to believe that broken articles can be firmly and permanently mended with her favorite sticking mixture. Whence comes this indomitable faith? Echo declines to return any answer whatever.

Beef Canneloni.

Five pounds of lean beef, two scant tablespoonfuls of salt, one teaspoonful of pepper, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one and one-half cupfuls of fine stale bread crumbs, five tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, five eggs, one-half of a cupful of suet. Put the meat and suet through a chopper, add the other ingredients and work with the hands until thoroughly blended. Mold into two long loaves, arrange on a shallow baking or roasting pan, and bake for from three-quarters of an hour to an hour in hot oven, timing it according to the thickness of the loaf. Set away until cold, cut in thin slices and garnish with parsley.

The Poets.

The Sharpshooter.

A soldier went riding away to the war, With a sword and a sash and a jacket of blue; The notes of the bugle were sweet on the air, And the drummer was beating a merry tattoo. But his sweetheart was left in the dawn and the dew, With the tears of love and of fear on her face, While the cluster of roses she wore at her breast Was broken and crushed by his parting embrace.

The soldier came riding home from the war, To the cheers and the music that welcome the brave. The ivy had hidden the latch of her door, And green were the grasses that covered her grave; For the sharpshooter Death through the trenches had passed, And left him unharmed in the tempest of lead— To stop at the little white house in the north, And take for his target a pretty brown head.

—Minnie Irving.

Chidder

Chidder, the ever-young, thus spoke: I journeyed past a city gate; A gardener from his fruit-trees broke Rich clusters for the market great. "How long hath this fair city stood?" "This city hath stood here of yore, And shall stand here forever more."

Thither again my pathway led When full five hundred years had fled.

I found no trace of town or throng; A lonely shepherd piped his song, And fed his flock in pastures green. I asked: "Where has the city gone?" He careless answered, then piped on: "No spot so rich in herbs is found, Forever here my pasture ground."

Five hundred years and yet again My way led to the self-same plain.

Where once the rustic clown I met, Of surging waves I heard the roar. A boatman boldly cast his net. Deep in the main, then dragged ashore.

"Since when this mighty sea?" I cried. He with a chuckling laugh replied: "This port is famed both far and near. They fish and fish forever here."

Five hundred years elapsed, once more I wandered to the self-same shore.

There found I now a wooded space, The tenant of that solitude A woodman, felling trees apace.

I questioned him: "How old this wood?" Said he: "It hath been here always. Here ever have I spent my days, No mortal may these forests raise."

When full five hundred years had sped Again my pathway hither led.

A city there I found and loud The market rang with bustling life. In vain I spoke; the struggling crowd Heard not my words for noise and strife.

"By whom the city built, and when?" "Wood, sea, and shepherd, what of it?"

So went it there in days of yore, And so shall go forever more.

Five hundred years to come, and then Perhaps I may go there again.

How to Make an Orange Baby.

A very fascinating doll may be scooped out of a large and a small orange with a penknife.

The small orange is to be the head. With a penknife carefully take out part of the peel so as to form eyes, nose and mouth. Make the eyes small and the nose flat and broad, and be sure to give the doll a good big mouth. If you like, you can turn the peel back a little for the lips, or you can take it all out and leave only an open space and some teeth.

Turn up a little of the peel on each side of the head, and the little man will have a very good pair of ears. It into two parts. You can separate an orange so that the juice will not run by cutting the peel first and then tearing the inside part out. Take all the pulp out of one-half and turn the peel up neatly all around to make a stylish little hat. As the doll is bald you must excuse his wearing a hat in the house.

Now turn the other half of the large orange on its flat side to form the body. Cut off a slice from the lowest part of the head, so that the head may rest on the body, or they might be joined together by running a piece of wire from the head into the body. You can take out some of the white lining in the hat to make a "comforter" or scarf for him to wear around his neck. The orange is now all ready for play, and he will look like a cheerful and happy, I think.—Buffalo Times.

A Garden Cinderella.

[By Martha Burr Banks.]

The pear-tree and the cherry-tree were dressed in snowy white, But the tiny little apple-tree was in a sort of plight.

For it couldn't boast a blossom, and it wasn't fine at all, And the doleful little apple-tree felt very, very small.

But Spring, the fairy of the world, still lingered on her way, And she waved her magic wand around, and magic words did say.

And with an answering blush and smile the happy apple-tree

Came blooming out in pink and white, the prettiest of the three.

The Happy Boy.

[By Mary Willis.]

He was a gay and happy little figure, A red fez with tassels on his head covered with kinky black hair; his face was the color of bronze, and was beautiful because of its happiness. A yellow jacket, a gay plaid dress and red stockings made a bright spot in the street that day. He sat flat on the sidewalk, with his stub-toed shoes stretched out in front of him. The people had to walk close to the kerb or the railing, but the small boy paid not the slightest attention to them. The clanging of the cable cars, the rumble of the cart, the people gazing at him, were all unnoticed, for he had in his hands his greatest treasure—his precious doll. The head was a round wooden ball, not at all clean; a stick driven into a hole in the ball was neck and body; about this was wrapped a say shawl. Two round spots of black paint made the eyes, a long straight line the nose, and two lines of red paint the mouth. He cuddled, hugged and patted his doll, his face shining with pleasure.

"What a remarkable doll!" I said to the small boy. "What is her name?"

"Margie," he answered. "She is delightful," I said. "Want to hold her?" I asked the boy, with the friendliest smile, holding the doll up. I took the doll in my arms and hugged it to sleep. He watched intently, and swung softly back and forth, as if he were rocking. "Now she is asleep," I said, giving Margie back to him. "You must not wake her." He stood up, holding the doll in his arms, humming softly. "Hush, hush, 'ush!" I put a penny in his hand, he looked up surprised, asking, "What for?"

This little colored boy lives in a street that is half a business street; he is the only child ever seen in the neighborhood. He never seems lonesome, nor idle, nor tired. He skips from one end of the block to the other, plays with his doll, sits on the steps of the house where he lives, watching the wagons and the people. If a wagon stops on the block he hurries off and begins making friends with the horse, patting its sides if he can, rubbing the horse's head if the horse holds its head down. Every dog who goes through the street is his friend. The other day he sat on the stoop, with his arm around the post talking earnestly to it. His doll was on his lap, covered with his jacket.

A happier small boy is not to be found in New York than this small boy who looks like a gayly-dressed piece of bronze when he stands still.—The Outlook.

WARM JOKE FROSTED

English Gravity Proved Fatal to a Time-Honored Gag.

"Talk about getting tired of the Sunny South gag!" said the cigar-stand man in an uptown hotel. "It was nothing at all to one I had to put up with while the cool wave was waving. You see, there's very little room back here, and have to keep the cash register on top of the steam radiator. While the blizzard lasted the steam was on all of the time, day and night, and the register naturally got hot, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"So I proceeded to dish out specially warmed specie for change, and with that my troubles began. A customer would pick up a coin, look surprised, and then wink the other eye.

"Just made it, eh?" he would ask. And of course I was expected to make some playful remark about having a counterfeiting plant back of the cigar case.

"After the feed had been handed to and for some 500 or 600 times it began to get slightly stale, but each fellow thought it was brand new, and when I failed to grin he set me down as a stupid ass. At last I got desperate, and concluded I'd anticipate the blow. A big Englishman sauntered up, and feeling certain I'd spring the joke, I got ahead of him.

"I just made this," I said, handing him a nickel that fairly sizzled. He looked blank.

"Ah—part of your—er—profits, I presume?" he replied.

"No," says I, determined to make him see the point, or perish in the attempt. "I made it—stamped it out on my little machine. How'd you like it?"

"He frowned and pushed it quickly away. 'I beg pardon,' he said, 'but really I'll have to ask you to give me something else. I can't be a party to anything like that, doncherknow?'

"I made it make his understanding that it was simply a joke, for I didn't know how soon he might go to the police about it. But, pshaw! it was a hopeless job.

"I can't see anything comic in the plain statement that one is engaged in counterfeiting," he insisted.

"Neither can I," I replied, "and that's exactly why I made it." That happened to be the actual truth, but it gave a final twist to the situation that floored the Englishman completely.

"Then you consider it comic to get off something comic because it isn't actually comic in the least," he repeated in great bewilderment. "Pon me word," says he, "this American humor is too deep for me."

"I restrained myself and allowed him to escape alive; but I'm going to have the gore of the next man that starts a continuous performance joke in this hotel."

A SERMON FOR MEN.

The man who earns his living with his brains cannot afford to neglect his body. The body is the furnace and boiler that furnishes steam to the brain. If the furnace is permitted to get clogged with dirt, the boiler will make no steam, and the delicate machinery of the brain will slow down and come to a dead stop.

Why do Some Women Grow Homely so Soon?

That's a question we ask ourselves every day as we watch the daily crowd in great cities, in villages and towns. Women nowadays begin to lose their good looks before they are twenty-five; the lustre leaves their eyes, and the color their cheeks, and in its place comes dullness, sallowness, muddiness, or any unhealthy pallor—and presto! beauty is gone.

Wives and daughters, you do not take proper care of yourselves, that's why your good looks vanish. Our grandmothers and great grandmothers were wiser in their generation than we are today. They did not allow themselves to be so driven as we are, for their steady, continued health gave them strength enabling them to keep abreast of their work which, when it was finished, left them tired, but happy, not as we find ourselves today, bilious and constipated and generally forlorn.

Their secret will be found in the regular use of herb teas, prominent among them being preparations of clover tops and clover roots. These kept their digestion in good trim, and so made their blood pure and muscles strong. That's why they were so nimble on their feet, and could do their own housework till they were three-score and ten!

Karl's Clover Root Tea revives the use of this wonderful plant in our generation; its formula, prescribed by a famous German physician, is printed on every package. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." Why not try this grand remedy? We guarantee your cure or money refunded.

"Evil Dispositions"Are Early Shown."

Just so evil in the blood comes out in shape of scrofula, pimples, etc., in children and young people. Taken in time it can be eradicated by using Hood's Sarsaparilla. In older people, the aftermath of irregular living shows itself in bilious conditions, a heavy head, a foul mouth, a general bad feeling.

It is the blood, the impure blood, friends, which is the real cause. Purify that with Hood's Sarsaparilla and happiness will reign in your family.

Blood Poison—I lived in a bed of fire for years owing to blood poisoning that followed small pox. It broke out all over my body, itching intensely. Tried doctors and hospitals in vain. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla. It helped. I kept at it and was entirely cured. I could go on the houseboats and about about it. Mrs. J. T. WILLIAMS, Carbondale, Pa.

Scrofula Sores—My baby at two months had scrofula sores on cheek and arm. Local applications and physicians' medicine did little or no good. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him permanently. He is now four, with smooth fair skin. Mrs. S. S. WOOTEN, Farmington, Del.

—A "Union Man" writes that some of the grocers are not adhering to the early closing regulation, and says that every union man is being supplied with the names of grocers who refuse to close at 6:30 o'clock on week nights and 10 o'clock on Saturday nights. The admission corresponds with the century—19 cents.

—Mr. W. T. Hallam, who carried off the Senate's scholarship at the Western University here last year, has been successful at the second year examinations of Dalhousie College, Halifax. He obtained high honors in mathematics and philosophy, standing second in his class in both subjects. Young Mr. Hallam has many friends in London who will be pleased to hear of his well-doing, and wish him still further success in his studies.

—The Cannon Stove and Oven Company yesterday received a check from the British America Assurance Company, in satisfaction of their claims for damages from the recent fire. The directors are highly pleased with the generous and prompt treatment they received from the British America. The new manufacturing company is likely to prove one of London's greatest. The premises have been refitted and extended, in anticipation of the enormous business which the warm weather is developing in their line of goods.

GIRLS ON STRIKE.

Fifteen girls employed at Laidlaw & Watson's shoe factory, went out on strike yesterday. The forewoman claimed that one of their fellow-employees was insolent and insubordinate, and discharged her on Thursday. Yesterday the girl wanted to return to work. The forewoman required an apology, which the girl refused. The firm sustained the forewoman, and the other girls in the room went out in a body. The firm says there has been no other difference, save over the matter of discipline. They have offered to take back all the girls but two. A deputation of the men employees have gallantly offered to act as mediators, and will interview the striking girls today.

MISS OLGA NETHERSOLE.

Miss Olga Nethersole appears at the Grand Opera House for one night, May 17. The career of Miss Olga Nethersole is a vivid example of what may be achieved by hard work and indomitable energy. With a stage record of only ten years, and at an age when many artists are only beginning to take their first important dramatic steps, Miss Nethersole at this moment occupies an undisputed place among the most prominent English-speaking dramatic artists. Her voice is a marvelous organ, as magnetic as the dark eyes that seem to read the very soul. Without remarkable strength, her voice is so perfectly under control in its well-modulated penetration that every word of the lines she speaks conveys exactly the shade of the meaning she desires to express. In her face is where the greatest secret of Miss Nethersole's power dwells. Its mobility is phenomenal; shades and waves of meaning are exploited in this facile countenance at times, that makes one's heart fairly leap in recognition. Genius she has beyond all question. In England, in Australia and in the United States, Miss Nethersole has pursued her destiny, ever aiming at the highest, ever endeavoring to direct her great gifts towards the goal of perfection. Her universal popularity is obvious testimony to the immense success she has achieved.

CITY HALL NOTES

Cement Walks in Favor—23 Mill Rate Inevitable—Vital Statistics.

There is every probability of Ald. Jolly's scheme to encourage the laying of permanent walks being supplanted by the scheme outlined in yesterday's Advertiser, and which has been adopted by Hamilton. The objectionable feature of a rebate to ratepayers having permanent walks will then be obviated. No appropriation will be made for plank walks. Only cement walks will be laid, and the portion that the ratepayers for whom the walks are laid will be called upon to pay will be about equal to the cost of a plank walk. The mayor gives Ald. Jolly great credit for persistently advocating permanent walks, but personally is strongly in favor of Hamilton's plan. Ald. Jolly may withdraw his motion in favor of the more recent suggestion.

Even if $15,000 or $17,000 be not appropriated for plank walks, the tax rate will be 23 mills, or a small fraction under 23. It is said. The mayor frankly confesses that had the rate been 22 mills last year, as it should have been, and the 22c. rate of supply of that year, the city would have been in a position to provide a sinking fund for a dam at the waterworks a 23-mill rate is inevitable.

While engaged in "paring the estimates," the financiers at the city hall live up to the motto on the city's coat of arms, "Labore et Perseverantia."

The vital statistics for April show 50 marriages, 68 deaths and 54 births.

Wheat sowing in Manitoba is now progressing favorably, a week earlier than last spring, and Hunt Bros. are now host of a plentiful supply of that grain of wheat for the manufacture of their celebrated "Diamond Flour" for the coming year.

PROHIBITIONISTS

Will Move a Resolution in the Dominion Parliament

Favoring a Measure Which Leaves Out Quebec—Opposed to Coal Oil Duties.

[Special to Advertiser per C. P. R.]

Ottawa, April 29.—It has been decided by the prohibition members of parliament, in accordance with the recommendation of the Dominion Alliance, to bring in a resolution next week calling on the government to recognize the result of the recent plebiscite by bringing in a law against the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicants throughout the Dominion. Provided, however, it shall only come into force in provinces which express their approval by vote of the people. Quebec will thus be freed from its operation, while the Maritime Provinces can avail themselves if they choose.

A large delegation of members of parliament waited on Messrs. Jolly and Fielding last night, and protested against the duty on coal oil. They want a reduction, with the entire removal, as soon as possible. The British Columbia, Manitoba and Northwest Liberals were with the delegation.

WILL NOT URGE HIM TO REMAIN

St. Andrew's Congregation Have Informally Decided to Allow Their Pastor a Free Decision—Offered $6,000 a Year and a Free Manse.

About 25 of the most influential members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held an informal meeting yesterday in the office of Mr. M. H. Rowland for the purpose of obtaining an expression of opinion regarding the recent calls to Rev. Dr. Johnston. The meeting unanimously expressed confidence in their pastor, and agreed to ask him to remain, stipulating, however, that if he wished to go to Baltimore they would place no obstacle in his way. A deputation was appointed to wait on Rev. Dr. Johnston, and inform him of the sentiments of the meeting. Dr. Johnston made no definite reply, but in the course of his remarks read letters from eminent divines all over the country, urging him to accept the Baltimore call. In this connection some anonymous letters which he had received were also referred to. These letters were not supposed to have come from any of his congregation, but from some parties who disagree with the action taken by Dr. Johnston respecting Marion Brown. From what Dr. Johnston has said, there is no other reason to believe that he will give a decided answer at tomorrow evening's service.

The call to Baltimore is from the leading Presbyterian Church of the Eastern States. The stipend is $6,000 a year, and the house here is a free manse. Dr. Johnston will likely preach in Baltimore on May 7.

WINTER WHEAT.
Mr. Harry Edwards writes: In regard to your query, I will say that I have traveled through Middlesex, Lambton and Oxford counties lately, and find the fall wheat badly damaged by the extreme cold of February in many localities, at least from 15 to 20 per cent was the total loss. About the 1st of March the outlook was more favorable. On the light sandy soil the plant is killed, and on the undrained clay and low lands the plant is heaved out. There is no chance now

CAUGHT A WHOPPER.
A Burwell Road correspondent sends the following remarkable fish story: Last Tuesday, while fishing in the Thames, Aaron Cornclaus, an Oneida Indian, caught the largest sturgeon ever taken by hook and line in this part of the country. Cornclaus was lying lazily on the bank, puffing smoke into the blue sky, when he suddenly noticed his pole slipping quietly and swiftly into the river. He grabbed the pole and began to haul away. But it was no use, something stronger than Aaron was pulling up-stream. Aaron hung on to the pole and shouted for help with all the power of his leathery lungs. Several times he was dragged into the water. But he pluckily stuck to the pole and managed to scramble back on to the bank each time. Luckily the line held until assistance arrived, when a sturgeon, 5 feet 6 inches long, 2 feet 6 inches in circumference, and weighing 87 pounds, was landed. It was sold to Mr. Cornclaus, of Muncey and placed on exhibition.

DINNER TO JAMES O'NEIL
The Grand Pacific Hotel was the scene of a pleasant event last evening, and those who attended will long remember it as a decidedly enjoyable occasion. The purpose of the gathering was to do honor to Mr. James O'Neil, the popular ticket agent and dispatcher at the C. P. R. station here, who leaves on Monday to take charge of station affairs at Windsor. About 25 of Mr. O'Neil's personal friends dined with him, and expressed their friendship in a tangible manner. Mr. Daniel Bowen presided at the head of the table and Mr. Thomas Norman assisted him from the foot. The former, in a neat speech, eulogized Mr. O'Neil, and the latter presented him on behalf of his many friends, with a costly traveling bag and dressing-case. Mr. O'Neil was taken wholly by surprise, but thanked his friends in a few well-chosen words. Songs and a few well-chosen words. Songs and a few well-chosen words. Songs and a few well-chosen words.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Griffiths came in for a share of the compliments.

WOULD HAVE A SHELTER

In Connection With the Children's Aid Society of London.

Inspector Sanders' Efforts Productive of Much Good—Several Charitable Societies Want Grants From the Council.

The finance committee was urged last night to make grants to several charitable organizations in the city. A special effort was made by the Children's Aid Society with a view to getting a shelter established in the city. If this is done the two orphanages here will be affected, as last year $150 was divided equally between them by the city for maintaining wards of the Children's Aid Society. Aid. Rumball presided, and the other members present were Aid. O'Meara, Plant, Graham, Greenlees and Carrothers, the mayor, and City Treasurer Pope.

Messrs. A. Thomson, John Wright and J. H. Flock, Q. C., asked the committee to grant the Protestant Orphans' Home board the same amount as last year, which was $350, with $75 additional, on the strength of an agreement between the Protestant Orphans' Home board and the Children's Aid Society. The same conditions existed now as then.

Messrs. Sheriff Cameron, J. I. A. Hunt, T. R. Parker and Secretary Sanders, representing the Children's Aid Society, asked the committee to find the society a shelter home, and appropriate amount to be contributed towards the maintenance of the children in the home. It was expected that the average number of children in the institution would be 10 or 12, and the amount asked was $1 per week for each child.

Sheriff Cameron pointed out that the society had been working under unsatisfactory conditions. To broaden their work they must have a shelter. Without it a certain class of children had to be dealt with by the police, and that method was crime-producing, instead of having a tendency in the contrary direction. But limited as the work of the society had been, much good had been done. From 1879 to 1893 the number of children under 16 years of age confined in London Jail was 516, or an average of 34 a year, and from 1894, when the Children's Aid Society was started, until 1898, the number was 87, or an average of about one-half. This decrease was largely attributable to the society's efforts. Neglected children were under the surveillance of Inspector Sanders, and in this way his work had been productive of much good. But there were some children who could not be properly dealt with under existing conditions. The society had tried to make arrangements for them with both or either of the orphanages, but the ladies justly objected on the ground that there were no more around the institution. A shelter would be a tax-reducing medium. The city's contribution has been a constantly increasing fraction of the cost of maintaining prisoners in the jail.

One Thousand Pairs of Lace Curtains.

This is not by any means the number of Curtains we have here, as our stock is nearly five times that. This one thousand pairs we purchased in addition to our regular importations, and are in very fine Brussels Effects, finished with the new over-locked corded edge—a much neater and stronger edge than the taped Curtains.

Another result of Mr. Sanders' work was the reduction of pauperism in the city. In the past four years he had found homes for 40 children of city derivation, and it was just to assume that half of that number would otherwise have been a direct charge on the city. Independent of this he had assisted 60 families. The society now has four city children in each of the orphanages in the city.

Mr. J. I. A. Hunt spoke of the cost of establishing the institution. He thought that for the present year it would be sufficient if the council would rent a fair-sized cottage and help to run the home.

The petition which the society sent to the council at the first of the year asked a lump sum of $1,000.

The question of maintaining county children in the proposed shelter was raised. Aid. O'Meara said, good-naturedly that it would be a good thing if the society built a home in the country where city children could be kept at the county's expense. The Cameron replied that the county would pay for children taken from the county. But even if they did not, the children requiring the society's care would, if not taken charge of, soon be a burden upon the city, for to the cities such a class gravitated. He dwelt upon the need of controlling neglected children. Under control, the prisoners at the jail were willing workers. Outside the prison, they were not to be trusted. It was pitiful to see those men so helpless against themselves. The speaker held that the society's work would do much to lessen the number of inmates at the jail. "I'll give you a remedy," said Aid. O'Meara. "Drive the whisky out of the country and you'll have lots of cell room."

President J. S. Pearce, of the Charities Organization, petitioned for a grant toward the "potato patch" work. With the grant received last year the organization had effected a saving of $500 or $600, he said. He thought it still greater saving might be made this year. It was a manner of giving relief which the recipients preferred to coming to the city hall in the winter for. The amount asked was $200.

A petition for the usual grant to the Salvation Army also came up. All the petitions were laid over until the estimates are being considered. Several tax petitions were dealt with.

STRUCK A GUSHER.

Sarnia, April 29.—Geo. Matheson and Randal Kenny, who are drilling for oil on the James Boyle farm, on the 4th line of Sarnia township, struck an excellent well on Wednesday. In 24 hours 40 barrels of crude were pumped from the well.

The Chainless A Success

People don't talk of the weather when they meet nowadays. The salutation is apt to be, "What wheel do you ride?" It's the important question. To anyone not up in bicycle lore the number of persons who reply, "Oh, I ride a Crescent, of course," would be astonishing. A visit to James Reid & Co.'s hardware store, 118 Dundas street, would go far towards explaining the popularity in London of the Crescent. This firm received a carload of Crescents at the beginning of the season, and have had to replenish the stock with several large orders since. The Crescent became known very quickly here because James Reid & Co. were its sponsors, and the name of that firm is a guarantee anywhere in Western Ontario. Once introduced, however, the Crescent won popularity on its merits. These wheels are of the highest grade in every detail, and are listed honestly. The trick of putting the list price at about double the actual selling price resorted to by some unscrupulous concerns should deceive no one. When you ask the price of a Crescent you will know it is an honest price, and a visit to James Reid & Co.'s store will convince you that there can be no higher grade wheel. The Crescent bevel-gear chainless bicycle is a gem. The simplicity of construction and the ease with which the adjustment can be made is beautiful. Experience has demonstrated that the longer the gears are used the more perfect they become, and that they will outwear the rest of the bicycle. The driving mechanism of the chainless is of much finer construction than that of the chain bicycle, and the ease with which they run is a thing to marvel at.
