The Startling Record of India Since September, 1896.

536.600 Victims in Bombay-Increase in Other Presidencies.

London, June 23. - A government statement regarding the condition of India in respect to the plague from its first outbreak in Bombay in September, 1896, to March, 1902, shows a total of reported deaths from the disease dur-ing that period of 536,600 in the Bombay Presidency, and 315,400 in other parts of India, or a total of 852,000 for the whole of British India and the native states. Making allowance for untraced and unreported deaths it is calculated that a million died during the period mentioned.

During the first three months of 1902 the deaths reported in the Bombay Presidency were 62,667, compared with 17,306 in the corresponding period of 1901. Other parts of India show a cor-responding increase, especially in the Punjaub, where the deaths in 1900 were 515, in 1901, 15,245, while in the first months of 1902 the figures have risen enormously. The deaths reported in March alone numbered 42,788.

Dr. McKay Discusses the Cause of Defeat-Prohibition Vote.

Woodstock, June 23 .- The Liberals of South Oxford held their annual meeting at Mount Elgin Friday. There was a large attendance from all parts of the riding. The following officers were elected: President, C. E. Burgess; vice-president, Alex. Rose; secretary-treasurer. G. W. Hare. McKay, the late member for the riding, discussed the causes of his defeat. It was not true, he said, to lack of exertion on his part. A vital matter at issue was the prohibition question, and he was assured that he had lost 400 votes of Liberal prohibitionists. He has lost the support of the liquor men on account of his refusal to pledge himself to follow the course they had asked. He could prove that money had been sent into the riding by such men as Seagram. Walker, Corby and Gooderham to fight

AUGUSTUS NINHAM KILLED NEAR THE WOODBINE HOTEL

Another Indian Says Deed Was of the most thickly populated and Done by a White Man.

NO ARRESTS HAVE BEEN MADE

Companion of Dead Man Tells Story of a Midnight Fight That Ended Fatally.

Augustus Ninham, an Oneida Indian, was foully and brutally murdered sometime between midnight Saturday and 1 o'clock Sunday morning, on the sideroad near Hugh Sharkey's hotel, formerly the Burns House, not far from Wonderland. High Constable McLoud and County Constable Robert Ward have worked upon the case since the murder was committed, but have not as yet secured evidence which might lead to an arrest. They acknowledge that their suspicions point in a certain direction, but both officers have been extremely

KILLED BY WHITE MAN.

The death of Ninham was undoubtedly the end of a day's carousal in which he was joined by others of his tribe, but it does not appear that it was caused by any of his companions. From the story of the one man who was with him at the time, it would seem that he was killed by a white man who had been at the hotel, who attacked Ninham and kicked and struck him until he died.

The scene of the murder is well known to the people of London. It is only sixty paces from the Pipe Line road, one of the most used thoroughfares in the county of Middlesex. At this time of the year the traffic along the Pipe Line road is unusually heavy. This roadway leads to Woodland were drowned this evening by the cap-sizing of a boat at Fern Glen, a reto Springbank and out beyond to one prosperous sections of the county. On summer evenings it is used very largely by people from the city, driving or wheeling to Springbank, as well as by farmers passing home after a visit to the town. The country in the immediate neighborhood of Woodbank, which is the postoffice name of the corner where Sharkey's hotel is, is strikingly beautiful and from the hotel itself a view can be obtained, of rice fields and woodlands, of the winding Thames and heavily-forested hills, that is unexcelled in this portion of Ontario. A spring of pure water flows continually by the side of the hotel and it may have an important bearing upon the awful occurrence of Sunday morning.

The natural beauty of their surroundings had little attraction for the people who went there yesterday. They were impelled by the ever-existing curiosity that is displayed under such circumstances. Crowds of men and poys drove, wheeled and walked to the place where the murder was committed, and spent the afternoon in searching for evidences of the deathencompassing affair and listening with morbid interest to those who had learned more of it than they themselves had.

INDIAN BERRY PICKERS. Some eight or nine miles or thereabouts from Woodbank is the reservation for the Oneida Indians, whose chief is John Ninham, first cousin of the murdered man. Year after year a large number of these Indians, with their wives and children, go from the reservation when the strawberries ripen, and pick the fruit for Mr Charles Wesley Baker, from whose farm thousands of boxes are sold each summer. Mr. Baker lives off the side road that runs at right angles to the Pipe Line road and after cutting Brick street, leads on to Lambeth. North of the Pipe Line this road runs to the river and it is near it that the stopping place for the Springbank cars, known formerly as the Burns' House station, is located. Mr. Baker's house is not very far from Brick street, and when the Indians are berry-picking for him they live altogether in the big barns at the rear of his dwelling. THE BOERS SINCERE. The Boers are evidently sincere in their acceptance of the terms of peace, and the soldiers on each side have learned to respect and like each other. Generosity is succeeding so well in inspiring among the brave burghers the obligation of loyalty to the crown that softness is taking the place of hard-ness in dealing with even the complex situation in Cape Colony. Dr. Jameson has quoted Cecil Rhodes as having favored an indefinite suspension of ically that the rebels ought not to ! e classed with lawful enemies, but differentiated from them and punished for treason. vades the Continent.

London, June 23 .- A telegram from Dublin to the Times says a disaffected but very small minority of the Dublin public is deliberately trying to create disturbance and unpleasantness at the time of the coronation. The dispatch says that Michael Davitt, in a violent letter to the press, contributes to the attempts to attach religious bitterness to the philanthropic measures of the committee for entertaining a number of very poor children in honor of the coronation. A CONTINENTAL CALM. Apart from Germany there is a dead calm prevailing on the continent. The rumors of a Nihilist conspiracy in Russia are as vague as the Constantinople gossip about the revival of the sultan's system of terrorism. There are no signs of political disturbances in either Italy or Spain. The affairs troubling the world seems to have quieted down for the coronation festivities. When every court will be represented by a prince of high rank. not even J. Pierpont Morgan is an ogre who needs be exorcised from the imperial feast. Panic articles about the American raids on British shipping have ceased to appear, and the statisticians alarm over the formation of the new shipbuilding combination, amuse themselves by computing that a century will be required before American builders at the present rate of construction can supply ships for carrying the sea commerce of the United States under the national flag.

Mr. Charles Baker, to whom Sharkey referred, corroborated this statement.
"Mr. Sharkey has always been very strict," he said. "I have never known of a single case where he sold liquor to an Indian. I have never seen him let an Indian stay near his place." This also was the tone of the remarks made by the Indians themselves. Ninham's uncle, the venerable doctor of the tribe, said to The Advertiser that Sharkey was very strict and would never let the Indians in his place, much less sell them liquor. The story told by Ninham's compan-ion, John Charles, was as follows: HIS COMPANION'S STORY.

We walked up the Pipe Line road towards the east. Ninham had no drinks while with me. We got to the hotel before 12 o'clock. There were six or eight men standing on the veranda. Ninham says to me, 'Hold on a minute, I know one of those men,' and walked towards the group. He called 'Hello, John.' He had a talk with the man but I could not hear what they said. I guess they told him to get He walked up the side road five or six rods. Then he stopped and called out, 'I don't think I'll go any further. I'm on the King's highway. Then a man stepped out from the group and started up the road towards us. I was scared and walked fast up the road. Then I heard thuds as if a man had been knocked down and kicked. I heard Ninham call out, 'Hold on, John,' several times. I turned around and saw Ninham on the ground and a man standing near with dark clothes and hat on. I ran up the road to the lane near Mr. Baker's and met David Williams and Levi Dockstader in a buggy, and several others were walking. I told them Ninham was attacked and we piled into the buggy and drove down to where Nin-ham had fallen."

NINHAM WAS DEAD.

"When we got there we found that Ninham had been dragged from the west side of the road to the east side and lay on his back near the big tree behind the hotel. While we were getting the body into the rig we saw two men running through the field towards the northeast. A couple of us ran down the road towards the hotel to try and head them off. They came back in a few minutes and said they could not see the men. We did not think Ninham was dead until Dockstader put his hand over his mouth and said there was no breath there. We then drove faster and soon came Baker's barn. After laying body on the barn floor, we woke up Mr. Baker." Mr. Baker heard Charles' story then and again questioned him Sunday morning. He told the same Sunday morning. He told the same story and Mr. Baker believes he was sober at both times. "On being awakened," said Mr. Baker, "I went out and looked at the body and noticed a small bruise on the left cheek. I went down to my father's place, across the road from Sharkey's, and woke him up. When I was calling him, Mr. Sharkey, the owner of the hotel, came to his door and asked what was the matter. I told him one of the Indians had been killed. I then went in and telephoned to Coroner Ferguron and told him a man had been killed. He said he would come down

HAD BEEN IN THE CITY.

As was usual on pay day Ninham came to London on Saturday to spend a portion of his wages. This, his emulation of his wages. This, his emulation was a quiet sort of a fellow," Mr. Baker said, "He was a good worker, and quiet when not drunk. He drank frequently, especially on pay-days. I knew him well. He had worked for me at berry times for many years back. I never heard of him getting into any rows, and he was good to his wife and family."

was good to his wife and family." The majority of the Indians employed by Mr. Wesley Baker were very stoical, and it was not easy to obtain direct information. They had told stories to Mr. Baker, however, and he was a ready informant as to anything he had learned of the affair. The stories told by the various Indians, who in some way or other were connected with the tragedy, tallied in detail, and Mr. Baker said that any stories which had been told Sunday were the same as he had heard in the early hours of the morning. They were very quiet all day Sunday and sat around in the yard chatting in their low, deep voices, of the previous night's exciting work. THE CONSTABLE'S WO RK.

Constables McLoud and Ward worked upon the case until last night, but were not in a position to say anything about the affair. They ordered the removal of the body to Ferguson's undertaking warerooms, where it was lying during the day, and was seen by a number of the dead man's relatives. During their investigation the constables found verification for the story told by the Indians respecting the run across the fields. Right inside the fence beside the tree where Needham was found, the clover that grew there was crushed down as though someone had been lying there, and starting from this spot were footprints which went diagonally across the first was told that they were drinking whisky from a bottle, so I went out night; but at that time nothing and told them to go away become Hugh Sharkey says that, as was usual, a number of men had been at his place during the night, but he had closed the hotel about 11 o'clock, and had thereupon gone to his room, and after reading for some time, had blown out the light and retired. It was some time after this that he heard Wesley Baker arousing his father. He got up and went down stairs, when he learned the first he knew of the tragedy. He did not dispute the story of Charles, that the Indians had spoken to men on his veranda. He said that "Ninham and I met at Springbank to men on his veranda. He said that and left there shortly after 11 o'clock. that might be, as it was no unusual thing for people to go there to drink of the spring by his door.

MUTUAL TARIFF CONCESSIONS

Within the Empire Considered To Be Practical.

THE VIEW OF PREMIER BARTON

Topics Likely To Be Handled by the Premiers-Sir Wilfrid's Words Waited for With Interest.

London, June 23 .- Edmund Barton, premier of Australia, states in an interview that imperial free trade is impossible. Mutual tariff concessions within the empire he looks upon as far more practical. Canada's preference to Britain, Mr. Barton points out, has caused Germany to withdraw from the Dominion the benefits of the favored nation tariff. Similar consequences might ensue if the system introduced by Canada is extended. Penny postage would be an additional expense, involving an outlay of £300,000.

Premier Seddon, of New Zealand, favors a subscription to imperial de fense. As to the preference to British goods. Mr. Seddon says, that while not demanding a direct return, Britain could, without dislocating her fiscal system, give Canada & preference in army and navy contracts and in other ways.

WAITING FOR LAURIER. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's first word on the subject of preferential trade is awaited with peculiar interest by Canadians, who are sorely disappointed by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's action re specting the maize duty, and Mr. Barton's coolness in discussing the im perial zollverein.

The Saturday Review says that Sir Robert Giffen's published statement, in contravention of the arguments in support of preferential trade advocated by Col. George T. Denison, of Toronto, strengthens the latter's posi-tion. Sir Robert, it says, fails to ap-preciate the fact that the new business brought within the empire would more than compensate for any loss that might follow the dislocation of present trade arrangements.

THE COMING CONFERENCE. Much interest is being manifested in the approaching conference with the colonial premiers who are now in London to attend the coronation of King Edward. For months the government has been urging parliament not to express any kind of opinion upon the feasibility of preferential trade with the colonies, and when introducing measure tending to such an end has warned off discussion on the ground that it would not be fair to do or say anthing until the colonial premiers had a chance to announce their views on the subject. In short the government's whole imperial policy has been waiting in the balance until the premiers had gathered together.
Unfortunately for the government the premiers had already practically come to a decision that they would refuse to make any suggestions until the imperial government puts forward its own intentions. That is exactly what own intentions. That is exactly what the cabinet not only does not want to street.

do but cannot do. BRITAIN'S DUTY.

One of the colonial premiers said to a press representative: "We have no voice in the fiscal policy of Great Britain and have not always complete control of our own. Obviously it is the duty of the mother and governing country to make propositions to us, instead of our making propositions to We might sit for months and eventually arrive at a conclusion satisfactory to all the colonies, though it would be difficult, and then find that the results of our deliberations were merely politely filed away in some piegon-hole in Downing street. We must have at least some idea of what the government is willing to support before we can seriously discuss such vital question. Lord Salisbury has publicly stated his disbelief in the practicability of colonial preference and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach (the chancellor of the exchequer) openly declared his hostility to So what is the good of our naving a mock debate for the sake of holding up Mr. Chamberlain's hands into the empty air. It is very nice for us all to get together, and doubtless intercolonial harmony will thereby be promoted, but beyond that I can see no practical ending of our meetings. WHAT MAY HAPPEN.

The only end likely to be achieved at this notable meeting is one which s peculiarly interesting to Canada and the United States. The Associated Press learns that Wilfrid Laurier, the Cana-premier; Sir Robert Bond, premier of Newfoundland, and Chamberlain intend to thresh their long-standing differences of opinion, and on all sides there is hope-fulness that a conclusion will be reached regarding the Bond-Blaine convention. Newfoundland is determined to have the matter settled, and while her attitude will bring up almost question now pending between Canada and the United States, the prospect of a satisfactory agreement appears bright, though such matters as the Alaskan boundary and the meeting of the joint high commission are involved.

The latter is likely to make the Hon. Michael Henry Herbert, British ambassador to the United States, party to the negotiations, and perhaps Joseph H. Choate, United States ambassador to Great Britain, may be consulted, though the question directly at issue lies entirely in Canada's and Newfoundland's differences. Another noteworthy item is that a proposition will be brought forward for the confederation of Newfoundland and Canada. Newfoundland it is thought, however, will not consent to losing her individuality as the oldest especially in view of her present satisfactory financial condition, although Canada's offer to include the island in the Dominion would mean a reduction by twenty per cent of the

Had Nervous

Was Very Thin, Weak, Nervou and Run Down-Fully Restored by Using

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

There are few diseases more difficult to cure than nervous prostration. Before the discovery of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food doctors usually gave some stimulant to whip up the exhausted nerves and quicken the heart's action.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food acts in an entirely different way. It gradually and naturally creates new nerve force, and builds up your system. You can prove that it is benefiting you by keeping a record of your weight while using it. Mrs. S. W. West, Drayton, Wellington county, Ont., writes: "About two years ago I got terribly run down, and finally became a victim of nervous prostration. I had no appetite, seemed to lose interest and ambition, and could scarcely drag myself about. Hearing of good results from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I used three boxes with great benefit. In a short time I gained eleven pounds, and as I was very thin when I began to use the remedy I was very proud of the increase of weight.

"Then the following spring I became rather poorly, and they again built me up, and gave me such a good appe-tite that I wanted to eat nearly half the time. I was so pleased with the cure the Nerve Food brought about that I recommended it to others, and they have told me of the benefits they had obtained from this preparation. You may use this testimonial in order that others may learn of the good there is in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

dows Smashed-Several Persons Hurt and Arrests Made.

Toronto, June 22.—The street car employes' strike, which began on Saturday, took a serious turn early this morning when the company attempted to start out cars from the barns on King street east and on Yorkville avenue. The King street barns are in rather a rough section, and a mob of several thousand persons gathered, proved, came well provided with TROUBLE STARTED EARLY. Whitehead as motorman, an old employe, and Wm. Ferrier as conductor. Thirty-five policemen guarded the car but it had only gone a few steps when and within a minute not a pane of glass remained in the car. Whitehead had been hit several times, but stuck to his car, and after crossing the Don ran to the end of the line, where they abandoned the car, and were chased into the woods by the mob.

BEATEN BY THE MOB. The second car that went out had from the car and beaten.

Three other cars were sent out, and in every case the windows were mob. smashed and the men driven from their cars, all except James Quigley, one of the motormen, who was struck | quently as they went past the crowds by a large rock and had his head gashed. Several stitches were put in his wound, and he was removed to dred in all, in the barn awaiting the

The sames of those arrested are Wm. Brown, 45 Munroe street; Len Finkle, 465 Queen street east; Joseph Christie, 114 Duke street, and Thomas Cook, 608 King street east. Similar scenes took place at the Yorkville avenue barns, some five cars that issued being smashed.

CARS WITHDRAWN. The police reserves were all sent to the scene of the disturbance, but the officials of the company, after holding a consultation, decided that it would be putting the lives of the men in peril needlessly to run cars without better protection, and announced that the attempt would be abandoned until Monday morning.

DO YOU FEEL SEEDY?

If You Are Nervous, Depressed Sleepless, and Suffer From Sick Stomach, Headache, Constipation and Indigestion, You Need a Good Tonic Like Ferrozone to Build Up the System.

Thousands are in this dreadful condition, only half alive, unable to stand the strain of work and worry. There is no sense or reason in trying to be comfortable with the idea that it will pass off, and that you are going to be better soon. Unless the system is cleansed of the impurities that poison the blood, you will never be better. The best remedy is Ferrozone. It noted Canadian artist, James, of the N. W. M. P., and Robert, of the Bank of Commerce, Ottawa, and Mrs. Fred achieves marvelous results in chrenic wasting diseases, nervous prostration, faulty nutrition, heart disease and stomach troubles.

Ferrozone promotes healthy digestion, which results in all food being assimilated. Nutrition is vastly improved, the blood grows rich and red and gives stability to the entire system.

The store of nerve energy and force increases daily by the use of Ferrozone. The process of waste is arrested, and in its place a rebuilding of the whole system takes place. Diseased conditions cannot exist where Ferrozone is used. It attacks disease at its very foundation, and by keeping the body well nourished and supplied with strong blood and a powerful nervous organization prevents and keeps away all manner of sick-

There is no blood builder, nerve tonic and strength producer that can equal Ferrozone, and few people are so well but they could derive great benefit from its use. It is valuable in Nervous Dyspepsia, Anaemia, Weakness, Impure Blood, Bronchitis, Neuralgia and Rheumatism. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet, and is both pleasant and convenient to use. Ferrozone produces that high standard of health so much desired by everyone. It brings back the rosy tint to the pale cheeks of the Anaemic girls and women. It puts grace and elasticity into their movements, gives lustre and brightness to the eye, and symmetry and roundness to the form. It gives a man new strength and energy with which to pursue his daily toil, and can be relied upon at all times of strike sympathizers, who jeered and threw stones. The mob in the evening gathered thousands strong, and only the throwing of large police reinforcements around the barn prevented it from being wrecked.

Meanwhile the company had made a demand for more protection. At 3 o'clock Mayor Howland, Judge Mac-Dougail, Magistrate Kingsford, the crown attorney, Deputy Chief Stewart and Col. Buchan held a consultation. At 4 o'clock a formal requisition was served upon Col. Buchan as district officer commanding for a force of mili-

GIRL'S DEAD BODY FOUND IN CAR BERTH

Drummer Puts Corpse in Sleeping Apartment on Train.

Escanaba, Mich., June 23.-Early Friday morning the trainmen on the train which left here at 9 o'clock the previous night had a gruesome find. The dead body of Jessie Matthewson, of the Soo, was placed in a berth in the sleeping car before the train left here last evening. The girl came from Sault Ste. Marie on her way to Chicago to be treated for consumption. A traveling man who knew her was taking her from the Soo Line to the Northwestern depot here on a street car.

The girl grew worse, and as he was carrying her to the coach she died in his arms. Not having time to attend to the arrangements, the man simply carried her into the train, put her in a berth and left her.

THE GALLANT FIGHT

OF A BRITISH CREW

Four Days and Nights Wrestling With Fire on the Monkbarns.

San Francisco, June 23 .- That the British ship Monkbarns, which has arrived here, 149 days from Liverpool, ever reached her destination is due to the gallant fight against fire made for four days and nights by Capt. Mc-Nealy and his crew.

The Monkbarns left Liverpool Jan. 22. All went well until Feb. 21, when at 4:30 a.m. smoke was discovered coming out of the ventilators leading to the forehold. An investigation revealed the fact that the cargo was on fire. Four holes were cut in the deck and water was pumped on the blazing merchandise until the flames were subdued sufficiently to allow sailors to descend into the hold, fix tackle to the smouldering bales and hoist them to the deck, whence they were promptly thrown overboard. Nearly all the cargo in the forward hold was jettisoned before the fire was extinguished. Little harm was done to the hull of the ship. The cargo jettisoned, and in . which the fire started by spontaneous com-bustion, consisted of oakum, felt and Diminished Vitality.

Some people talk very fippantly about diminished vitality.

They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends. Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, strength and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer.

After a silence of several weeks the conveyed from the various centers in nightingale has been again heard ed police, who used their whips on the mob.

The wagons were closed with wooden sides, and were stoned frequently as they went past the crowds with horses at a gallon. No one was cause. But if precautions be not taken, this simple cause may have most serious consequences. Many a chronically debilitated constitution today owes its destruction to simple causes not dealt with in time. Keep the digestive apparatus in healthy condition and all will be well. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are better than any other for the purpose.

London, Monday June 23.

The Council and Street Railway. The city council on Saturday voted to sacrifice the Rectory street line and approved an extension on the Hamilton road and the construction of a belt line, connecting Wellington street with the Hamilton road, mainly by way of South street. The Hamilton road extension and the South street belt line are both desirable, but why abandon Rectory street? The city, under the agreement with the street railway company, is entitled to an extra mile of track for every 2,000 of the population above 35,000. The present population is about 40,000, so that the city can lay claim to at least two miles of new track. Let us see how the account stands. The South street belt will require 5,800 feet of track; the Hamilton road extension 2,250 feet, while 2,100 feet may be placed to the company's credit on Beaconsfield avenue and Wortley road and 350 feet for extensions in the north end. This is an aggregate of 10,500 feet of new track, or 60 feet less than two miles. Against this must be set the abandoned Rectory street line, 1,800 feet, leaving 8,700 feet of new track. Strictly speaking it is only 6,600 fet, as the the extra mileage, the route being granted to oblige the company. The company, however, claim that as 2,000 of the increase in the city's population is accounted for by the annexation of London West, the mile of track in the village should be placed to the company's credit. But the city solicitor has given it as his opinion-an opinion asked for and paid for, by the way-that the London West track-

The financial and commercial progress of Canada was strikingly set forth the other day by Mr. George Hague, in a speech marking his retirement from the position of general manager of the Merchants' Bank, which he has filled for 25 years. In 1856 the total deposits of the Canadian chartered banks were under $15,000,000; now they amount to $370,000,000; besides deposits of nearly $100,000,000 in savings banks and loan companies. The discounts of all the banks in 1877-78 were about $135,000,000, and now they amount to more than $350,000,000. In 1879 Bank of Montreal stock went down to 125; it now sells from 255 to 257. Bank of Toronto stock feil from 176 in 1877 to 106 in 1879; Bank of Commerce, from 122 in 1877 to 95 in 1879; and Merchants' Bank from 125 a few years before to 65 in 1877. Bank of Toronto now sells at 243 to 245; Bank of Commerce at from 155 to 157, and Merchants' at 148 to 150. The exports of Canada were $72,000,000 in 1879; this year they will be $210,000,000. In 1881 the population of Canada was 4,300,000, and the total foreign trade $204,000,000. In 1901 the population was 5,400,000, and the foreign trade $387,000,-000. So that while the population increased about 26 per cent, the foreign trade increased about 90 per cent. The increase in the moneyed wealth of the people had also been extraordinary, for during the same time that the population increased 26 per cent, the deposits held by the banks for the Canadian people increased 340 per cent. Mr. Hague referred to the fact that there was now in Canadian banking far less than there used to be of the bad element of advances resting upon fixed property. It was well known that every bank crisis had been precipitated by abnormal advances of this kind.

GAMBLING ON THE LIFE OF KING EDWARD

Many Thousands of Dollars Invested Last Week at Lloyd's.

London, June 23.—A brisk business was done last week at Lloyd's in the coronation event. The odds given were 100 to 3 against the event occurring or, to use the technical expression, the rates of the risk of the King living until June 26 ruled at 3 per cent premium. Many thousands of pounds sterling were underwritten on this This shows to what an extent nervousnessess has grown in ertain circles. Careful investigation revealed that there is no ground for believing that the King's health is any worse than the official reports indicated. His nerves were rather upset by the unfortunate illness at Aldershot, and every precaution is being taken to prevent a recurrence of such a sudden indisposition. In the meantime preparations for the crowning hurry on

It is already difficult for pedestrians to traverse the main thoroughfares, such as the Strand, Piccadilly and Whitehall, during the greater part of the day, and they are almost impasat night, owing to the crowds of visitors store clerks, costers, and London's marvelous floating population generally, mingle nightly as they wander through the streets gazing at the decorations, which are now taking on a finished aspect.

Robinette, presented the circumstances surrounding the case to the minister of justice, who considered it a case where clemency should be shown.

LONDON STREETS AS THEY ARE. An army of carpenters, painters and decorators is now employed in com-pleting preparations for the town shows. Platforms and stands are wellnigh continuous in the long circuit of the second day's parade, and the street decorations, which were disap-pointing at the outset, are now looking better, festcons of artificial wreathing being set off with colored electric Street traffic is hampered by lamps. police barricades, and there are constant blocks during the busiest hours. Fires of troops are coming and going, and royal scarlet liveries flash by. While London is hardly recognizable from the tiers of carpentry lining the streets, and the rows of painted Vene-tian masts, with gaudy decorations, it is full of life, movement and gaiety.

THE KING'S HEALTH RESTORED

Troops From Every Quarter Gathered in London-Welcome to Colonials.

London, June 23 .- It was announced Saturday that His Majesty has completely recovered his health and has now arranged for the court to return to London today. His nerves were rather upset by the unfortunate illness at Aldershot, and every precaution is being taken to prevent a recurrence of such a sudden indisposition. In the meantime preparations for the crowning hurry on apace.

The colonial executives, all of whom have arrived here, except Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Premier of Canada, are features of attention. The sentries guarding their hotel and their gorgeous royal carriages and footmen greatly accentuate popular interest. Every afternoon crowds gather outside the Hotel Cecil, gaze at these brilliant equipages and seem to enjoy the sight just as much as if they knew one premier from another.

ANGRY PROTESTS. From the colonial contingents, however, angry protests are now being egistered. It appears that the War Office arranged that all troops specially sent to the coronation shall, with the exception of the cavalry, be utilized to line the route of the procession, instead of actually partaking in it. As the major parts of the visiting contingents consist of infantry the arrangement has created bitter disappointment. One of the officers of the Canadian contingent said to a press representative:—"If we had known that we were merely intended to be used as police I do not think we would have cared to come over. We have sent our best men at considerable inconvenience and expense, yet our part in the imperial parade will be only a handful of cavalry, quite unrepresentative of Canada and quite unfair to the dismounted men, who will be seen by only a handful of people, and who will have to perform duties for which they were not sent over."

The Governor-General of Canada, the Earl of Minto; the high commissioner of Canada, Lord Strathcona, and Col. Pellatt, in command of the Canadians, are doing their utmost to allow the colonial troops to take part in the procession as units, regardless of the arm of the service to which they may belong.

POOR ACCOMMODATIONS. Alexandra Park, where the colonials are encamped, is now a perfect morass, thanks to the recent heavy rains. The accommodations for the troops are utterly inadequate, and many of the officers, refusing to stay in the tents, have taken rooms near The troops, who naturally brought their showiest uniforms, are now going about in raincoats heavy top boots, and much of their equipment is ruined. Even such ordinary camp arrangements as plank walks are neglected by the British staff officers in charge of the operations. As one of the colonials "If we had been told to prepare for a campaign it would have been all right, but we came here for a pro-cession in which we are not to take part, and are DUMPED INTO A BOG." Besides the complaints of the colonials, several of the leading dailies are vehemently protesting against the special war coronation contingent, hurriedly sent by Lord Kitchener from South Africa, at the government's request, being detailed to guard the route instead of marching through the streets. With all these protests the war office may perhaps relent and allow the colonial and the war contingents to take part in the coronation procession.

WELCOME TO COLONIALS. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Premier Ross of Ontario, were unfortunate in not arriving in time for the chief function on Saturday, which was the welcome of the colonial troops at Alexandra Palace. The ceremony and warmth displayed is hardly required in order to convince anyone that the empire is world-wide and that London has become a picturesque cap-

tal. Hampton Court and Alexandra Palace are the quarters of the Indians and colonial troops, and all races are on exhibition. The tall sikhs in khaki jackets and heads puggareed with crimson cloth; the brown Ghoorkas, with swaggering stride; the stealthy Pathans, in Oriental uniforms; the copper-faced guards from the Strafts Settlements; the coal black negroes from West Africa and Rhodesia; the wide-awake volunteers from Canada and the brawny soldiers from Australia, New Zealand and South Africa are united in an unparalleled imperial spectacle for staid and sober London. Piccadilly, Park Lane, Pall London. Piccadilly, Park Lane, Pall Mall and Whitehall are clogged with traffic hour after hour, but enlivened with the ceaseless byplay of masquerade faces and costumes.

CANADA'S ARCH. All the streets along the line of the royal progress are already fluttering with banners and bunting. It is the fantastic medley of many colors with-out the hoped-for proof that artistic been accomplished in results have street decoration.

WILD RUMORS. Various wild rumors current in London Sunday night concerning the health of King Edward was referred to Sir Francis Knollys, private secretary to the King. To these queries Sir Francis has telegraphed the following reply from Windsor Castle: "There is not one word of truth in these reports."

these reports." LENNOX ELECTION CASE. Toronto, June 21 .- The Lennox election case came before Mr. Justice Mac-Lennan at Osgoode Hall this morning and argument was made on each of the disputed ballots in the case. The case is proceeding.

SERIOUS CHARGES

of a Company's Funds.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—As a result of the assignment of the United States Trust Company the police are looking for H. McDowell, a member of the New York bar, on a charge sworn to by Chas. Brown, assignee, charging him with larceny of its securities and embezziement of its funds to the value of $50,000. It is believed, however, that McDowell is already on to the value of $50,000. It is believed, however, that McDowell is already on his way to Europe. McDowell was elected president of the company about six months ago. There were 1,200 shares of stock at a par value of $25. The first thing that McDowell did, it was said, was to secure the authorization of 1,000 additional shares with a face value of $250,000, which with a face value of $250,000, which was given to him for negotiation. In addition to this, when he was made president there was intrusted to him securities to the value of $50,000. To meet the expenses of the concern notes were given. These matured within the last few days, and the amount necessary to pay them could not be found by the treasurer. A meeting of the officers was called, and an assignment was made Tuesday to Chas. Brown. Mr. Brown, after an investigation, demanded a return of the securities, but was informed that Mc-Dowell had left New York for Boston. Further inquiries have led him to the

DUKE OF WESTMINSTER DENIES HE IS A CONVERT

Says He Is Not Going to Join Camp bell-Bannermann. London, June 23 .- Two young noblenen have been the cause of sensations socially and politically the past week. The story went around that the young Duke of Westminster was going to em-brace politics seriously and ally himself with Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. This made a great sensation among their friends. The papers published it in all seriousness, the Liberal papers rejoicing at the convert. But it is not true. The Duke of West-minster is quite mad at the publication of the story and says he never could become a radical. He is a staunch imperialist and a strong unionist. Who started the story nobody seems to know, but the duke, metaphorically speaking, is going round with a club to find the man who did. The other sensation is the action of the actor-nobleman, Lord Roslyn, who has appeared in society minus his mustache. The change in his appearance is remarkable. Many, especially the women, do not like it. It has not Cornwall. THE COST OF COAL WAS A SUCCESS AT THE COAL MINES Interesting Denomination Which Adheres to Primitive Belief and Modes of Worship.

The June meeting of the Ekfrid Old School Baptist Church took place yesterday at the handsome new edifice, which was erected last year on the Longwood road, about three miles west of Melbourne. The day was unusually cold for the latter part of June, and intermittent showers fell during the day, but despite this handicap, the big meeting," as it is called, was fully as successful as any of the similar gatherings which have been held yearly since the second decade of the nineteenth century. At the morning, service the church was crowded to the entrance, while in the afternoon the crowds unable to gain admittance to the building were in excess of the number inside. For hundreds of yards on either side of the two roads running past the church, horses and carriages were tethered to the fences, while the spacious yard was also filled. It is estimated that between 400 and 500 vehicles were at the church, and, allowing also for the many who came on wheels and on foot, meant an attendance of 1,500 or 2,000 people. They come not only from Ekfrid township itself, but also from Lobo, Orford, Aldboro and Dunwich, where there are branches of the church, and from Delaware, Caradoc and Mosa.

"Thus saith the Lord," is the only warrant accepted for the mode of worship to be followed, and everything of human origin is discarded. For this reason no musical instruments are used in the services, only the psalms are sung, and the denomination has no Sunday schools and no educational establishments of its own. Foreign missions and revival services are also accounted as outside the pale of Christ's teachings. The central point of belief is salvation by sovereign grace, with no help from the works of man, commonly called the Calvinistic doctrine, and their confession of faith is to all intents and purposes identical with the Westminster Confession of Faith. The adherents of the denomination were nearly all Highland Scotch origin, and at one time the preaching was almost entirely in the Gaelic. In the afternoon Elder Carnell, pastor of the church, preached on the two covenants, finding his text in Hebrews, eighth chapter and eighth verse. The Sacrament was partaken of by the members of the church at the close of the service.

A short sketch of the three pastors engaged in yesterday's services follows: Elder Carnell, the pastor, succeeded the late Elder Pollard about eighteen months ago. He was born 35 years ago in Tennessee, and on entering upon his work as a preacher, he labored fifteen years at his native place. After working at Lebanon, Ohio, for some time, he came to take his present charge, which consists of Ekfrid, Lobo, Dunwich and Orford churches. Elder Carnell is very popular with his congregations. He preaches in South London on the Monday following the third Sunday in the month, on his way from conducting service at Lobo.

Enormous Profits-Appeal for Arbitration-Presiden! Mitchell's Statement to the Public.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 23.-President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers of America, has issued an address to the public for publication. It is partly a reply to the letters of the operators declining to accede to the demands of the union.

Briefly summarized, the address says that every possible means was load from 2,740 to 3,190 pounds for a resorted to to prevent the strike, load from 2,740 to 3,190 pounds for a resorted to to prevent the strike, ton; and it is against this flagrant MOST MARVELOUS claims that the cost of living has increased to the point where the miner was compelled to ask for higher wages, denies the allegations of the the excess weight is required to comoperators that the productive capacity pensate them for impurities and refuse of the mine workers has fallen off, matter loaded with the coal; but if but, on the other hand, has increased; their statement be true why is it quotes figures to substantiate the contention that the employers can pay docking by which at times they arbihigher wages without increasing the trarily deduct from a miner's earnings cost of coal to the consumer, asserts 10 to 15 per cent. of the total as a that the coal carrying railroads which penalty for loading impurities for control about 85 per cent of the mines absorb the profits of their coal comhim in excess weight? panies by charging exorbitant freight rates; claims that a ton at the mines means anywhere from 2,740 to 3,190 pounds instead of 2,240, and says that more men are killed and injured in the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania annually than were killed or wounded during the Spanish-American war. The address also says that in the event the union is crushed, which, it adds, is not likely, a new organization would rise from its ruins. It concludes with another appeal for arbitration of all questions in dispute. The address, in part, is as follows:

PRESIDENT MITCHELL'S STATE-MENT. "For more than 25 years the anthracite coal mine workers of Pennsylvania have chafed and groaned under the most intolerable and inhumane conditions of employment imaginable. Their average annual earnings have been less than those of any other class of workmen in the United States, notwithstanding the fact that their work is more hazardous and the cost of living greater than in any other important ndustry.

When the mines were in operation, 2.16 tons were produced per employe; while in the year 1901, against which the operators so bitterly com-plain, the mines were in operation 191/2 days, and there were produced 475.43 tons for each person employed, or for each day the mines were in operation 2.36 tons were produced per employe thus showing conclusively that in such At yesterday morning's service discourses were delivered by Elder Currie, of Ohio, and Elder Durand, of Pennsylvania. The former chose for his text the third and fourth verses of the 58th Psalm, and in an eloquent sermon pointed out how these utterancement in the productive capacity of the men after they became thoroughly organized. Can the unprejudiced reflect upon these facts and conclude that the anthracite miner is not a better workman than he was before the ten per cent

mine workers of suggesting a proposi-tion that would impose a hardship upon the public by increasing the market price of coal 10 cents a ton, the amount that would have been required to meet all the demands made by the miners; however, their solicitude the public weal has not deterred them from advancing the market price of their coal more than $1 per ton since the strike was inaugurated without giving any part of this increase to the mine workers. SOLD AT $1 48 PER TON. "In substantiation of our claim that the coal operators can afford to pay increased wages to the mine workers without increasing the cost of coal to consumers, we submit the following extracts from the government reports showing the selling value of coal loaded on cars at the mines for the eleven years beginning with 1890, and ending with 1900 as compared with 1901.

"The average home value of all coal mined and sold during this period was $1 48 per ton, while a press bulletin recently issued by Chas. D. Walcott, secretary of the United States geological survey, says that for the year 1900 the increase in the value of the anthracite product received at the mines showed a gain of $27,746,169, or more than 31 per cent over that of 1900. The average price for the marketed anthracite coal that is, the product shipped to market or sold to local trade, was $1 87, the highest figure obtained since

In other words, while according to President Olyphant, 13 cents per represents the operators' increased cost of production in 1901, 39 cents per ton as compared with 1900, represent the increased value of the product to the ENORMOUS PROFITS. Further evidence of the ability of the coal mine operators to pay increased wages is found in the sworn testimony of Mr. John Markle, managing partner of the G. E. Markle Coal Co. This firm operates three mines in the Lehigh region. In the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in re Markle vs. Wilbur, John Markle, during his testimony swore that he was appointed superintendent or manager by the articles of co-partnership, at a salary of $15,000 per year, and that under his manage-ment, from 1890 to 1894, inclusive, the partnership made large profits of over $1,000,000. During the five years referred to by

Mr. Markle the government reports show that the home value of coal produced by the anthratcite coal companies was $1 51 per ton. If the G. B. Markle Company could make a profit of over $1,000,000 in five years when the selling price of their coal at the mines was $1 51 does it not seem reasonable to suppose that the larger companieswhose cost of production is necessarily less-could make a sufficient profit in 1901, when the home value of their coal was $1 87 per ton, to enable them without detriment to their business, to pay anthracite mine workers the small pittance asked for by them? WHAT IS A TON

Attention is respectfully directed to the fact that a ton of coal as the consumer understands it is not a ton of coal as the miner is paid for it. When the consumer purchases a ton of coal he receives 2,240 pounds, a legal ton; when the railroad companies transport coal to market they receive tariff upon 2,240 pounds, a legal ton; but when the miner is being paid for his labor he is required to produce and

LONDON WELCOMES KING AND QUEEN

The Coronation Festival Has Now Begun.

HIS MAJESTY LOOKS

Great Crowds Cheer the Royal Couple-Foreign Visitors Are Arriving.

London, June 23 .- King Edward and Queen Alexandra arrived in London hundreds of men and boys. Between from Windsor at 12:30 today. His majesty appeared to be in his usual health. With the return of the court | tended east to the Don bridge and to London from Windsor today, the festival of the coronation of King Edward may be said to have commenced, and each day until midnight Saturday, when the last gun of the royal salute will be fired by the royal fleet at Spithead, will furnish its quota of the attractions which promise to make the week memorable.

From today, the special ambassadors, envoys and princes invited to join in the festivities, became the guests of the King. Throughout the day numbers of royal personages have been arriving from the continent. They were met at the railroad stations by royal carriages and guards of honor, and were escorted to the official residences assigned to them. Consequently plenty of entertainment was provided for the crowds of sightseers filling the streets.

A big throng took the opportunity of greeting the King and Queen in their entry into the capital and semi-state progress to Buckingham Palace. Accompanied by Prince and Princess Charles of Denmark, their majesties proceeded in semi-state landaus, drawn by four horses with postillions preceded by outriders and attended by an escort of the Royal Dragoon Guards, along the route usually followed by the late Queen Victoria. The thoroughfares were thickly lined with the people and the enthusiasm of the spectators evidenced their delight at the ocular proof of the recovery of the King from his recent indisposition. Rigorous police precautions were taken at the railroad station; but the public managed to invade the bridge crossing the track, and the arrival of the royal train was greeted with warm cheering. The King lost no time in alighting, and after chatting with the railroad officials entered a

Their majesties reached Bucking-ham Palace shortly before 1 o'clock. They received the same hearty welfrom the thousands of people who congregated in the avenue leading to the royal residence as greeted them through the entire route from the station.

They formed up on the roadway and entered upon the questionable amusement of pulling bicyclists from their wheels amid cries of "Walk, walk," interspersing the de-mands with oaths and epithets of the vilest character. Whoelmen who resented the treatment meted out to them were struck and showered with stones. and in several instances had their clothes torn. The stones used for the intimidation of wheelmen were taken from piles of building material ready for use in laying a macadam sidewalk on the north side of King street be-tween St. Paul and Sumach.

AS NIGHT CAME.

As the shadows of night began to fall the crowds became more boisterous. The male portion jostled one another, hooted and yelled, and jeered at the police. The worst-humored part of the crowd, however, gathered on a vacant lot, just east of River street, with frontages on King and Queen streets, and directly opposite the main entrance of the barns. This ground stands two or three feet above the street level. In the front part of this were a number of ladies, behind them this lot and the barn doors the street was thickly packed with people, and as a matter of fact the crowds exwest to Sackville street.

THE WINDOWS SMASHED. At exactly 9 o'clock someone in the lot mentioned threw a stone, which broke a window near one of the doors of the barns. There was for an instant an almost complete silence. Several people cried "Shame," someone laughed, and then a cheer broke out, and judging from the volume of the sound it was from the throats of young men and boys. Following the cheer, a shower of stones was directed against the building, and every tinkle of falling glass, every thud upon the doors, provoked another cheer. The sensible part of the crowds made their way out of the crush, and many of them walked home, while others ga-thered at the junction of River and King streets and Sumach and King streets, where they were safe from fly-ing stones, but could at the same time watch the building.

Sergt. Martin, who had previously telephoned for reinforcements, found it impossible to get at the spot whence the stones came, owing to the dense masses of onlookers on the roadway. A PEACEMAKER.

In the midst of this fusillade of stones one of the striking railway men, who wore the union button, asked the sergeant for permission to address the crowd. "Go ahead," said the sergeant. The man advanced, heedless of the flying stones, as near as he could to those who were doing the mischief, lifted his hat, and urged the crowds to disperse, pleading that their action would seriously interfere with the chances of the strikers. Those who heard him laughed in derision, and he gave up the attempt and walked away.

TIMELY REINFORCEMENTS. A few minutes before 10 o'clock someone shouted, "Storm the barn; there's thered together, prepared for a hard forcements in the shape of eleven officers arrived in the patrol wagon from police headquarters. CHARGED THE CROWD. They alighted west of Sackville street and charged into the crowd, which be-gan to break up. They were slow to disperse, and repeatedly threw stones at the policemen. Other quotas of policemen from various sections joined the fray, and soon the crowds were flying in real earnest, though they still paused occasionally to throw stones. Six mounted officers reached the scene at 10 minutes past 10, and Staff Inspector Archibald, who had arrived in the meantime, took charge of the whole force. The mounted men quickly dispersed the thickest of the mob from the roadway, and their com-rades completed the work by keeping everyone moving along the leading from the section. By 11 o'clock the crowds were completely dispersed and no disturbance afterwards occurred. The jury viewed the body where it lay in the undertaker's cellar, dressed in the rough and dirty clothing worn at the time of death. The dead Indian was Dundas Center Methodist Church. The | a fine specimen of manhood, tall and broad-shouldered. He was 41 years of age. In addition to the livid bruise over the cheek-bone, believed to be caused by the blood-stained stone, found near the body, the neck and chest is frightfully discolored. Whether this is due to blows and kicks, or to the natural discoloration which sets in after death, will be determined by the post-mortem to be conducted this afternoon. Detective Ward formally identified the body as that of Augustus Ninham, and testified that he had found the body in the barn on Wesley Baker's property.

Coroner Ferguson told the jury that he had appointed Dr. Waugh to conduct the post-mortem examination, but that in view of serious developments which were expected it would be well to have a second medical man engaged in the autopsy The jury con-curred and signed the requisition reouired. Dr. Ferguson then appointed Dr. Neu to assist Dr. Waugh.

Of the truth of this reasoning Latimer himself was the best judge, but if the Cottage was his only home he was strangely belied. "Then home he was strangely belied. "Then I've been unlucky at play cursedly unlucky. Why, only last night, when we all went up from here, Macer broke the bank at Number Nine, while I was losting every shilling I had in the world at Poulterers. I can't be in two places at once, can I? Again, had she loved him, how such a hardless enecth would have dried her heartless speech would have dried her tears and scorched her brain; but her holier feelings at least were unwounded, and she only suffered from an oppressive and she only suffered from an oppressive sense of loneliness and injustice; so she hid her face in her hands and wept on.
"I shall get away tonight," he proceeded, his good-humor returning with the prospect of traveling, and the indulgence of his innate love of change and excitement. "Being Sunday, I'm safe, you see, and I can run down to South-

LACROSSE. RIPE CHERRIES FOR COCKNEYS. From the standpoint of a practice game, Saturday's match with Stratford was a very good one, but the contest was too one-sided to be very interesting. The visitors from the Classic City were ripe cherries for the local aggregation, and the players in red and white were not dangerous at any stage of the game. London's home players bored holes through Stratford's defense at will. The visitors deserve credit for the plucky losing fight they put up, with victory beyond their grasp from the time the game started. altogether his own fault. He ran out, 3. Time, 1:56. In the second quarter the visitors' defense did some stubborn fighting, and it took London nine minutes to shot and before he could get back in Chicago, turfmen believe that the reahis goal the ball, which lay but a foot in front of the two sticks, was shoved in by Smith, who thus made Stratford's first tally. London once more started in the game with their quick passing and combination work and had three more goals to their credit before half time was called. Score, London 8, Stratford 1. In the third quarter Stratford kept the score down better and London only managed to score two goals, while the visitors seemed as far from increasing their score as ever. Leddy,

THE TURF.

THE AMERICAN DERBY. Chicago, June 23 .- Coming with a sweeping stride through the stretch traditions of the race by the overthrow of the favorites and by the Western horses beating the best that could be sent from the East. There is no room for argument about the best horse winning. The race was free from rough riding or anything in the nature of that lined up at the barriier Saturday

For furlong after furlong have still two fast men to fall back he fought for the lead with Barney on and who will likely take part in the Schreiber's Otis and they set a pace which in the slow and muddy track told on both of them at the supreme moment of the race-the struggle in the home stretch. Singleton, on Otis, front a colt carrying 127 pounds and trying to tiptoe such a large and high class field. However, it is only folly of this kind of a game and got to presume that Schreiber's jockey rede according to the orders given him.

AND ARSENAL.

Pentecost and Arsenal ran a terribly disappointing race. Neither ever reached a position sufficiently near the front to be regarded as a serious con-tender and visitors from the east, who had witnessed their best races on the tracks around New York, declared that the unsatisfactory performances of those two colts would have to be attributed to their unusually long and trying railroad journey on the eve of son advanced for their poor showing is not without foundation. Perhaps the greatest disappointment race to those who decided at the last moment to pin their faith to a Western horse, was the race run by Belle's Commoner. He failed to finish within the first three.

HILDRETH HORSES A SURPRISE. The real surprises of the race were Lucien Appleby and Aladdin, who finished second and third, respectively. Lucien Appleby would have been conceded a good chance had the track been heavy, but when the dust was seen flying as the horses went to the Mooney and West made an impens- post for the first race on the card. those who had placed their faith in him in the future books gave up their bets for as good as lost. The Cincinto who should have the largest num- nati colt, Hermis, broke down after running about a mile, but his showing up to that time did not lead one to believe that he would have been well up to the finish had he been able to complete the race.

One of the best features of the race run by Wyeth was that he got off last and wore the field down one by one. $20,000 TIDAL STAKES. New York, June 23 .- On the worst day that the Tidal stakes for 3year-olds, worth $20,000, mile and a quarter, was ever run, F. C. McLewe & Co.'s Major Daingerfield galloped home an easy winner at Sheepshead Bay Saturday on a track that was covered with water by the heavy rains. Five good 3-year-olds faced the starter with Major Daingerfield a hot favorite at 7 to 10, and Goldsmith second choice at 2 to 1. Dixieline was third choice at 5 to 1.

The horses paraded past the stand in a drenching rain. Only a few mo-ments were wested in lining up at the barrier. Goldsmith was first to show but Major Daingerfield raced to the front in a few strides with Goldeure second and Goldsmith third. Major Daingerfield continued to show the way to the first turn and into the back stretch. At the five-eighths, Goldcure headed the leader for a few strides and then gradually fell back beaten. Meanwhile Burns on Goldsmith began to move up and was within a length of the hand-spring colt at the stretch the hand-spring colt at the stretch turn. Here, however, the Major bounded forward and was soon three lengths to the good with Goldsmith about six lengths in front of Dixleline. From the eighth pole to the wire it was a procession. Major Dainger-field won in a gallop by five lengths, Goldsmith second, the same distance in front of Dixieline.

Montecarlo won the Surf stakes for 2-year-olds from the favorite Charles Elwood. Rowdy won the inaugural steeplechase over the short course by half a length from Foolhardy, the favorite. The programme is out for the Michigan short-ship trotting and pacing circuit, which includes Traverse City, July 2-4; Windsor, Ont., July. 8-11; Saginaw, July 22-25; Bay City, July 29-Aug. 1. Good classes have been armounted for all the meetings and as ranged for all the meetings, and as the purses are heavier than those offered in last season's, many good horses will no doubt be found along that route this summer.

Col. Sam. Bryant, owner of the famous Uncle Bob, which won the American Derby in 1890, and other noted thoroughbreds, Saturday witnessed what may be his last American Derby. The famous Kentucky turfman was carried from a carriage to a sleeper by two attendants, who are accompanying him in his journey. He is thin and emaciated and is so feeble that his voice hardly rises above a whisper.

Mr. Hildreth said Saturday that he would take up Baldwin's bet for a race over th. Derby route and when Mr. Bald-win was told of this he said his challenge held good and that they would make the race a feature for some future date.

Horses owned by T. Hitchcock, jur. and others were sold Saturday at Sheepshead Bay. The 3-year-old filly Leonora Loring, by Dr. MacBride-Hoyden, property of L. M. Meyers, was sold to W. C. Whitney for $6,100. The other sales of $1,000 or more were: Property of T. Hitchcock, jun., Somerset, ch. c., 4 by Imp. Great Tom-Miss Ryan, G. Boskel, $1,100; Dr. Riddle, ch. h., by Iroquois-Taffeto, P. H. Mc-Carren, $1,700; Rossignol, ch. f., 8, by Imp. Rossington-Valuable, J. J. Mc-Cafferty, $1,900.

"Pop," the bright turf writer of the Toronto World, recalls the story of a fashionable palmist in London who states that for some time before the Derby she was pestered by ladies who wanted to know in advance the name of the winner. Her power, however, did not lend itself to such debased purposes. There is a story, however, of another prophetess who in 1875 being asked whether she could give this information replied: "Of course I could. I should merely project myself into the future; the race would appear before me, and I should see the winner gallop in before my eyes." "Thank Thank you," said the inquirer, who had a certain kind of gambler's superstition, "you have told me what I want to He went away and backed the horse named "Galopin," and "Galopin" won.

The American Horse Preeder announces that Harry Stinson, who has been located at Cleveland, O., for several years, intends to leave the Buckeye State next fall. He will move his training establishment to Brantford, Ont., where his father, R. Cope Stinson, now lives. Last week the two purchased a farm there, and a mile track is to be built on it before another training season is at hand. Here the Stinsons will continue the work of rounding out youngsters and then they intend to send out a racing stable next year. Turned out now on SAINTS II. DEFEAT L. P. ENGLISH WON DECIDING GAME. London, June 22.-The second period King, like his mother before him, is of the deciding polo game for the American Cup, at Hurlingham, ended with refers also to the increasing vogue of a score of 7 to 1 in favor of England. The latter half of the game was the hottest playing of the kind ever seen at Hurlingham. The score stood 6 to can and British polo teams for the in-1 in favor of England just before the ternational cup), as the first time a close. In the last period the Americans attacked vigorously, and held the ball right in front of the English goal, keeping the whole team engaged in defending it. Just before the final bell England broke away and scored. The very greatest interest was taken in the game. The club ground has seldom seen such an assemblage, which included prominent Americans. The event rivalled Ascot so far as beautiful women and toilets were concerned.

DIVINE SERVICE

Lessons From Building of King Solomon's Temple.

REV. DR. BATTISBY PREACHES

Knights Templar Chapters and Blue Lodges Turn Out in Full Force-26th Battalion Band.

Members of the various Masonic lodges of the city assembled yesterday afternoon to attend divine service at ple, which dated a little further back than 1000 B. C. Nothing of that templar chapters and blue lodges ple remains today. There exists a Templar, chapters and blue lodges were all well represented. Meeting at the Masonic Temple, a procession was formed, headed by the 26th Battalion Band, under the leadership of Mr. Roselle Pococke, and proceeded up Richmond street and east along Queen's avenue to the church. The chief marshal was W. Bro. Wetherall, and his assistants were W. Bros. Ellwood, Graham, Lawson, Murray. The service was speak to Freemasons. Besides being himself well versed in Masonry, he The following item from the St. Catharines News of a recent date concerns an old Delaware boy and the son of Mrs. John Pannell, William street, this city: "Public School Inspector Ireland has been honored by the University of Winnipeg with a degree of M. A. Mr. Ireland already holds a B. A., but his latest degree is with the construction of that most sacwith the construction of that most sac-red of edifices. Dr. Battisby belongs to the liberal school of Presbyterianism, which places true religion beyond the tenets of any particular sect. He is a clear and convincing preacher, whose words carry conviction. The singing of hymn 385 was followed by an anthem by the choir. The Scripture lesson was I. Kings, vi., from which chapter was taken the text of the discourse. Beginning with the 7th verse, the preacher read: "And the house, when it was in building, was built of stone made ready before it was brought thither; so that there was neither hammer nor axe, nor any tool of iron heard in the house, while it was in building."

"I have been amazed, and frequently pained," said he, to hear the Masonic fraternity spoken of as an agent of Satan. There is nothing in connection with Freemasonry that is inconsistent with the simplest Christian faith." They were, he continued, assembled in commemoration of John the Baptist, also of the coming coronation of the King. The fact that Great Britain was now at peace with the world was no small cause for rejoicing. The foe had been reconciled, and men who had erstwhile shot down British soldiers with savage barbarity were now shout-ing, "God Save the King."

The speaker went on to speak of the construction of King Solomon's temhigh wall near the site, which, how-ever, is no part of the temple itself. Jew attempt to set foot therein he would be put to death by the Turkish soldiers. It is a sad thing that this spot, so sacred to the Hebrew heart, should be in the hands of such a despot as the unspeakable Turk. In Syria is a quarry from which stones of immense size have been ta-ken. The keystone of the arch weighham, Lawson, Murray. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. R. Battisby, of St. Andrew's Church, Chatham. Dr. Battisby is admirably qualified to Battisby is admirably dualified to Battisby scarcely able to do today, with all our engines and mechanical devices. It taxed human ingenuity to the utmost to raise a Cleopatra's Needle taken from Egypt. The speaker likened the process of preparing stones for a place in the temple to apprenticeship one must undergo before he is fit for a must undergo before he is in for a place in God's kingdom. Go to the quarry of human nature, sai he, and you will not find a person fit to occupy a place in the great and glorious temple God is building every day from immortal souls. In building a church, the material is selected; in a simile way, God makes his own choice of the material he requires for his temple. People may say what they like about elecple may say what they like about elec-tion, continued Dr. Battisby, but if God had not elected me, I should not have chosen him. Under the direction of Hiram of Tyre, the material for the temple was selected and made ready. No stone quarried, nor timber in its natural state, was fit for King Solomon's temple, and I tell you God in his infinite mercy has delivered many hard knocks to men here below in order that they may be fit to occupy a niche in the great superstructure of eternity. Men, in speaking of material for a building, often say this or that shall not be used, but in the temple of God it matters not what a temple of God it matters not what a man's color or creed may be if he lay hold of God by faith. God will make him suitable to occupy a place in his kingdom. Men may despise, but God will not despise.

Both Jew and Gentile joined hands in building the temple for God, and its foundation rested on the volume of the Sacred Law. That temple was a home for the Gentile, as well as for the Jew. All stood on a common platform. The Mosque of Omar, said the speaker, now stands where stood King Solomon's temple. On the floor is a large rock, which no one is allowed to touch. It was the spot on which Abraham offered up Isaac as a sacrifice. No Gen-tile was permitted to enter the gate without first taking off his shoe, so sa-credly is it regarded by the Mohammedans, and so sacredly should it be regarded by all God's people. Whether Hiram's men or Solomon's men, they worked with combined action. Any work is bound to succeed wherever there is united action on the part of God's people. Another important thing to notice is the fact that the temple was built in silence. What does it all mean? What must Hiram have been to carry out everything so completely that all that required to be done was to lay the ma-terials in their places! It is symbolical of God's way of working. He al-ways works in silence. Who ever heard of this world grating upon its axis? Just so, the work of the Spirit is unseen. The work of regenerating the human heart is done in a quiet, unostentatious way; so with the working of the Masonic fraternity, which is a beautiful system of morality and benevolence. Spurgeon, who was in many respects the greatest preacher of his generation, once spoke to the effect that not by excitement, not by evangelistic effort, was the greatest Masonic service was held.

good accomplished, but by going about the work quietly from day to day. The temple was raised not only in silence, but by degrees. Progress in Masonry is made in a similar way. A person begins as an apprentice, and attains perfection by degrees; he pro-ceeds from one degree of improvement to another. The structure mentioned in the text became a complete and per-fect home, because God was the architect. Not a single stone in the quarry of God will be cast aside.

Dr. Battisby said that edifices for the worship of God were not held in sufficient veneration. He thought it a disgrace to hold entertainments in churches. God had designed that the temple should be his home. The speaker endeavored throughout to point out the close relation of the central idea of the Masonic fraternity to the Bible or the Volume of the Sacred Law A few years ago the Free-masons of France agreed to abolish the Volume of the Sacred Law as the foundation of French Masonry. When they did that a message was sent them by the British Masons to the effect that French Masonry would be no longer recognized by the fraternity in Britain. The Bible is the bulwark of our fraternity. No man can become a Mason without being a better man, for no man in the world is more bound by solemn obligation to guard the purity of his brother's household. The doctor

In conclusion the preacher stated that he was pleased to have the opporvote upon the clause respecting the vote upon the clause respecting the alone. Notwithstanding this both Douglass and Cooper voted to tear up misconceptions that may have existed in their minds regarding the fraternity. He reminded the brethren that they had taken upon themselves vows that to tear up the tracks on Rectory street through or its final reading left to they could not ignore. By-and-bye they stood six to five upon the second be voted upon by a full council. Would exchange their lambskin for a robe of purity. They must always bear in mind the deep significance of their symbols, and ever remain true to their
