FRENCH'S LITTLE ARMY WINS IMPERISHABLE GLORY BRITAIN'S BLACKEST HOUR GIVES WAY TO FRESH HOPE OF VICTORY

BY F. A. MACKENZIE "CHESTER."

(Special Cable to The London Advertiser, Copyright.)

London, Aug. 31.—The three most anxious days, this generation of Britishers has ever known ended yesterday afternoon with the publication of Kitchener's reassuring, inspiring official statement.

Since mid-week reports and rumors have reached London indicating that the expeditionary force had been almost wiped out. Fragmentary tales of wounded men described the overwhelming numbers and irresistible advance of the Germans, and apprehensions were increased by the official silence and ominous delay in publishing figures and names of the wounded.

THE BLACKEST HOUR.

The worst fears were confirmed Sunday morning by a dispatch to The Times from its Amiens correspondent describing our enemy as broken and beaten. This was our blackest hour. The Times' dispatch evidently induced Kitchener to break his silence with the afternoon official messages, whose splendid reassuring details of British resistance, fighting powers, and improved position, caused an instant revulsion of feeling.

The official dispatch must not be taken to imply that our position is now without grave dangers. The Germans, while momentarily pausing, owing to terrible punishment received, will still accomplish their original purpose of surrounding our army, against which they have done us the compliment of directing their major strength and picked forces.

RENEWED ATTACKS CERTAIN.

Last week's attacks will almost certainly be repeated, even on a larger scale. Every hour of waiting means, however, that the allies' position improves. The two million troops are preparing still another move, which will have far-reaching results. If the Germans won the first stage of the war her victory is only partial.

The vital strength of the allies remains unaffected. Meanwhile we must reconcile ourselves without despair, without loss of hope, to see part of Northern France under temporary German domination.

LORD SYDENHAM'S TRIBUTE.

It is considered that military opinion concerning the conduct of the army was well summed up by Lord Sydenham, himself a famous veteran, this morning, when he said: "In all the long history of the British army discipline and the fighting power which has now been given to the nation, have been apparent. Attacked with special animosity by far superior numbers, it has been allowed to adequately fortify its position or rest, to make successive retirements (always trying to the morale of the best troops), the little army of Sir John French has covered itself with imperishable glory."

70,000 BRITISH TROOPS RESIST 200,000 GERMANS FOR 3 DAYS

Neutral Sources in Washington Report a Splendid Defence Against Overwhelm- ing Odds—Retired After Reinforce- ments Arrived.

(Canadian Press.)

Washington, August 31.—Seventy thousand British troops, for the last three days held in check two hundred thousand German troops until relieved by French reinforcements, according to information here today through neutral diplomats. The advices did not give the place of the battle.

Although the German forces broke through the British lines in many places, the British held their own until French reinforcements arrived and then retired in good order. Military experts of the allied forces were reported to have been greatly encouraged by the manner in which the British forces withstood the superior forces of the enemy. The information came from Paris through diplomatic sources.

APPLIES ONLY TO OUTLYING FORTS

Order at Paris to Destroy
Buildings Not So Serious.

REASSURING STATEMENT

Writer Declares Investment of Paris Would be an
'Immense Bluff.'

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, Aug. 31.—6:25 a.m.—The decision of the military authorities to clear the zone of forts around Paris does not affect the zone immediately surrounding the old fortifications of the city. It only applies to detached forts, such as those at Mont Valerien, Issy and others.

Under this decision all the buildings and small structures of no great value surrounding the forts will be pulled down. Steps have been taken to provide shelter for all homeless persons.

Reassuring Statement.

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, Aug. 31.—Lieut.-Col. Leoncerousset, the military critic, writing for his paper the Petit Parisien reassures those who may be frightened by the possible investment of Paris.

He declares, first, that in 1870 the capital was held for nearly five months under conditions much different from those of today.

Second, the Germans had a free disposition, at least as far as Nanteuil-sur-Marne, of the Strassburg-Paris through railroad lines, while at present they have not yet been able to touch the eastern fortified frontier and have been driven back of Mortagne, north of Valenciennes.

Third, their sole line of communication which passes by Belgium is at this point so precarious that it can be destroyed in a moment.

The investment of Paris, he declared, if it should occur, would be nothing but "an immense bluff," and would soon be interrupted.

Queen and Women To Fight If Needed.

(Canadian Press.)

London, Aug. 31.—The correspondent of the Express at the Hague gives another version of the conversation between King Albert and Prime Minister De Bequeville, when the King expressed a determination to fight to the last.

The incident occurred in Antwerp Saturday, when the King said to the Prime Minister, in the presence of the Queen: "If necessary you, my dear minister, and myself, will take out rifles and go to the field."

"So will I," said the Queen, "and all Belgian women will go with me."

TROOP TRAIN HITS RAIL OVER TRACK

Attempt To Wreck C. N. R.
Special Near Valcartier Fails.

ARTILLERY RIDERS HURT

Some of Those at Practice
Are Kicked and Stepped On.

(Canadian Press.)

Valcartier Camp, Aug. 31.—That an attempt was made to wreck a C. N. R. troop train early Sunday morning about nine miles east of Montreal was stated this morning by Lieut.-Col. Crookman, commander of the Twenty-first Battery, of Montreal. An iron rail had been placed across the track, but the engine of the special fortunately sawed the obstruction into the ditch. The train was travelling at about forty miles an hour at the time.

Few New Arrivals.

Very few troops arrived at the camp this morning, but two or three thousand more will be here within a day or two, making the camp strength approximately 30,000. The coming of the artillery has caused fresh activity in the camp, and the heavy work of mobilization is now practically over.

Col. Sam Hughes remained in his special car overnight, and was out on the training grounds early this morning, watching the company and the battalion drills of several thousand soldiers.

He also visited the rifle ranges, where two battalions were being drilled in skirmishing and shooting.

The arrival of artillery has made more work for the two field hospitals, riders being kicked and stepped on by horses; but there were no serious accidents.

Many troops are still wearing civilian clothes, the service uniforms having not all been issued. However, the ordnance department has been doing splendid work, considering the heavy strain, and most of the outfits will be given out within a very short time. This was a dark day in camp, black clouds hanging over the Laurentians.

GERMAN ROYALTY SEEKING A REFUGE?

(Canadian Press.)

London, Aug. 31.—3 p.m.—A correspondent of the London Daily News who has been travelling through Dutch Limburg has sent a dispatch to his paper declaring the belief prevails in that section that the family of the German Crown Prince Frederick William has taken refuge at The Hague.

The story has not been reported from any other quarter.

PACIFIC FIGHT DISCREDITED

(Canadian Press.)

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—The British cruiser Newcastle arrived at the British naval station at Esquimalt today and entered the drydock. She was undamaged. The cruiser Rainbow, at sea, was reported today as unmarked. The report of a naval fight in which the German cruiser Leipzig participated is being discredited.

RETURNS FROM ENGLAND, CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS OF THE BRITISH CAUSE

GEORGE S. GIBBONS.

BRITISH ARE COOL, SAYS GEO. GIBBONS

London Barrister, On Return
From Continent, Indicates Determined Stand.

SEES HOPEFUL SIGNS

Dispatches Indicate Turning
of Tide of Success,
He Says.

George S. Gibbons brought to London today some observations on the attitude of English people toward the war which indicates that everywhere in England the inhabitants hope to ultimately achieve a decisive victory over the Germans.

Mr. Gibbons, who is a son and partner of Sir George Gibbons, arrived from England in New York on the steamer Adriatic on Saturday. The trip over was uneventful, he says, with the exception of a few days, when a deep feeling of suspense hung over the ship, when lights were put out and precautionary measures taken to prevent discovery by any roaming German cruisers.

Mr. Gibbons and family are still in England, and will leave on September 2, when the Celtic slave, Sir Edmund Osler, Mrs. Gibbons' father, is coming with them.

"Everywhere the people of England are cool and determined," said Mr. Gibbons, "and quite confident of ultimate success. They are quite ready in the meantime to put up with temporary reverses, as they quite understand the odds under which the British are fighting and the superior numbers of the enemy."

Mr. Gibbons saw hopeful signs in the dispatches received today, and believed the tide of success would soon roll the other way until it had carried the allies into German territory.

INCREASE FRENCH FORCES 600,000

In Six Weeks This Will Result
From the Calling Out of Additional Men.

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, Aug. 31.—2:10 p.m.—Additional French forces, totalling 600,000 men, will be ready for active service in about six weeks, as a result of the decision announced yesterday to call out the 1914 young men and the older classes of the reservists. It is stated. The reservists will be equipped and ready for the field in a few days.

DYING GERMANS
SEND HOME MESSAGES

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, Aug. 31.—1:10 a.m.—The American press is in daily receipt of letters written by dying German soldiers forwarded to it by the French Government for transmission to Germany. One is from a German aviator who had fallen into the hands of the French. This man wrote: "Good-bye, dear father and mother; my leg has been crushed. A French officer is very kind. The French are fighting well. At this point the French officer reads: 'At this point the brave fellow died; please forward this to his parents.'"

ASQUITH CENSURES THE LONDON TIMES

For Publishing a Pessimistic
Dispatch Which Created
Much Excitement.

MORE NEWS NECESSARY

And Government Is Trying To Make Arrangements For Service.

(Canadian Press.)

London, Aug. 31.—4:05 p.m.—Premier Asquith publicly reprimanded the London Times in the House of Commons this afternoon for having published the dispatch which created such excitement on Sunday morning.

"The publication of this dispatch," said the Premier, "seems to me a regrettable exception to the patriotic reticence which the press as a whole has shown up to the present, and I trust it will not recur."

Mr. Asquith opposed the suggestion to allow correspondents to go to the front, but admitted that the public was entitled to prompt and authentic information as to what was happening there, and said that arrangements were being made which he hoped would prove adequate.

Reverting to the Times dispatch, the Premier then said: "It may become necessary to ask the House to pass some legislative provision, which I shall be very loth to propose until the urgency becomes extreme."

The London Times on Sunday morning printed a dispatch from Amiens, France, in which the correspondent took a very pessimistic view of the situation from the standpoint of the allies.

AUSTRIANS CLAIM DECISIVE VICTORIES

Report Secured in Berlin Tells of the Russians Fleeing Toward Lublin and Enemy
Gaining Ground.

(Canadian Press.)

Berlin, Aug. 31.—(Via Copenhagen and London, Aug. 31.—12:48 p.m.)—The following account of Austrian operations has been secured in Berlin from an official Austrian source.

"In the Austro-Russian theatre of war decisive battles have been in progress for several days. Our forces, which were victorious near Kozluk, pursued the Russians in the direction of Lublin. The Austrians advanced also into the enemy's territory between the Rivers Bug and Wieprz, and we have taken positions in front of Zamoara. Other contingents of the Austrian army hold their positions northeast and southwest of Lemberg. After crossing the frontier, the encountered great forces of the enemy.

"Emphasis is placed on the word decisive in this official report.

"Retreats, which seem fatal when seen close at hand, are not altogether disastrous from the proper perspective. As a matter of fact the German audacity of attack is leading them into a position from where there will be no retreat if their lines are cut.

RUN TERRIBLE RISK.

London, Aug. 31.—Commenting on the temerity of the Austrians in crossing the Vistula, apparently with the intention of joining hands with the army engaged in the Province of Lublin, the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times says: "By placing the Vistula between themselves and their base at Cracow, the Austrians are running a terrible risk. We must conclude that their aid is urgently needed in Lublin, where, according to the headquarters staff, desperate fighting has been in progress for nearly a week.

MORE GERMANS ARRIVE.

London, Aug. 31.—12:53 p.m.—An official telegram received in London declares that fresh forces of Germans have made their appearance on the Prussian front, and that at some points they are taking the offensive against the Russians.

DYING GERMANS
SEND HOME MESSAGES

(Canadian Press.)

65-YEAR-OLD ENTHUSIAST WOULD GO TO THE FRONT

"What's the matter with Canadians?" asked P. J. Watt in an interview with The Advertiser today. "I went out the other day to see the troops leave for the front," he continued, "and saw hundreds of men and boys stand in front of the newspaper offices, not reading the war news, as I supposed, but reading the baseball scores. It's a shame to think that at a time when the country is menaced for its very existence the men, who ought to be willing to fight for it, are standing around smoking cigarettes and reading ball scores. I am 65 years old, but I have volunteered and am ready to go to the front. The seriousness of the situation does not seem to reach our young men or they would be at the armories offering their services."

OFFERS TO ENLIST.

Mr. Watt interviewed Sergeant-Major Prisker, of the Seventh, at the armories today and made what he declared was a bonafide offer of his services in any capacity. Moreover, when he was told that unfortunately his age barred him he expressed a determination to use all the influence he can bring to bear to take part in the war in some way.

It was not in any boastful spirit that he said: "I would be a useful man, you know; although I am over sixty I can stand as much or more than a good many men thirty years younger."

As straight as a ramrod, Mr. Watt has been and still is a crack shot. He has a chest measurement of 55 inches, with an expansion of over six inches, and quite obviously is "as hard as nails."

TO FORM SHARPSHOOTING CORPS.

He is considering seriously the possibility of raising a company of sharpshooters, and has expressed a willingness to train recruits in marksmanship.

"The importance of being able to shoot is not recognized sufficiently," he said to the sergeant-major. "What is the use of a soldier, however well trained he may be otherwise, if he cannot shoot? That is the one thing above all others which must count in facing an enemy."

ALLIED ARMIES STRONGER STEMMING GERMAN TIDE

Drawn Across Country, They Act as a Barrier Between the Enemy and Paris — Retreats Are Altogether Disastrous.

(Canadian Press.)

London, Aug. 31.—4 a.m.—"The French army and our English troops are now holding good position in a much stronger and closer line, and stemming the tide of the German hordes rolling up to Paris," says the Chronicle's Amiens correspondent.

"Gen. Paul Pau, the hero of this war, after his swift return from the eastern frontier, where he repaired the deadly check at Mueisenau, has dealt a smashing blow at the German army corps, which was striking to the west of France. Paris is still safe for the time being, with the great army of the allied forces drawn across the country as a barrier, which surely will not be broken by the enemy."

"I have been all through this war zone during the past fortnight, and nothing I saw of the German hordes rolling up to Paris, or the French leads me to believe that our army has been smashed, or that the allies are demoralized."

Retreats Not Disastrous.

"Retreats, which seem fatal when seen close at hand, are not altogether disastrous from the proper perspective. As a matter of fact the German audacity of attack is leading them into a position from where there will be no retreat if their lines are cut."

TAKE PARIS OR DIE, IS KAISER'S ORDER

But Troops Are Learning of Russian Successes, and Are Becoming Disheartened.

(Canadian Press.)

London, Aug. 31.—6:55 a.m.—The Times correspondent at Ostend records at second hand, a conversation with a German officer from Brussels, who said that frantic efforts were being made to inflict a crushing blow on the allies, especially on the English forces. Notwithstanding the successes achieved by the Germans, the dispatch says, there is a feeling among many German soldiers that they are fighting against too great odds.

Despite all efforts to conceal the news from Prussia, it is stated, information of a disquieting character regarding even this is beginning to circulate among the German forces, and this feeling of anxiety was intensified when two divisions, totalling 80,000 men, passed the Meuse by the bridge of Adenne at Sellen, between Namur and Liege, en route for German Holland. The Emperor has made it known to every soldier that his orders are to take Paris or die, the dispatch concludes.

LONDON GIRLS IN GERMAN CAPITAL UNABLE TO MAKE WAY OUT OF THE COUNTRY

Miss Florence Egglestone and Miss Killmaster Are in Berlin,
According to Letter Received From Former This Morning—125,000 Americans in Like Predicament.

Barely able to get word to her parents of her safety, Miss Florence Egglestone, 202 Hamilton road, this city, is now in Berlin, unable to leave the German empire. Miss Killmaster, sister of Fred G. Killmaster, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, is also in Berlin.

Miss Florence Egglestone.

Since the declaration of war four weeks ago yesterday, until this morning, her parents failed to receive even a line that would tell of their daughter's safety. They knew she was in Germany—she had gone there to take a post-graduate course in music—but where was more than they knew. Cablegrams were unanswered, appeals to the state department proved fruitless, and there was nothing to do but wait.

FIRST FRUITS OF WAITING.

Today brought forth the first fruits of this long, nerve-racking suspense. A letter, under a Berlin date, and posted from England arrived. Not one word of the stirring war news did it contain, but it did tell of Miss Egglestone's safety, and the hastily-written lines were more precious to her parents than any vivid word paintings of the scenes through which their daughter must have been passing before she reached Berlin, and was able to secure the posting of the first letter that told of her safety.

The letter was written on August 12—just at the very height of the terrific German onslaughts on the Belgian forts at Liege—but the few lines tell nothing of this. They simply speak of the writer's inability to leave the country.

APPARENTLY FEARED CENSOR.

Apparently the London girl feared the rigorous censorship exercised on all foreigners' mail. Nothing is said of her Canadian citizenship, and nothing of the conditions of warfare that must have been existing in the German capital. The letter, which speaks for itself, follows:

Berlin, August 12, 1914.

Dear Mother: I am here perfectly safe. Do not know when I'll be home. Cannot get out of here, but do not worry, for everyone is very kind.

There may be ships sent to get us, but it is doubtful. There are United States ships coming for the Americans, but although I have tried, and Professor Sperring has tried also, we can do nothing. Had hoped to get off on one of the boats.

Miss Killmaster and hundreds of others are in the same fix and cannot get home.

Do not try and write me, for no mail is sent out to foreigners.

Am getting this letter off through some Americans who are leaving for Belgium. They will endeavor to get to England and post it there. Belgium being a neutral country, it may go through. I do hope that you receive it.

Have been unable to get you a cable sent on account of the cable between England and Germany being cut.

At present there are 125,000 Americans here.

Must close now. Do not worry.

FLORENCE.

WAS NEAR DANISH BODDER.

The Professor Sperring, to whom Miss Egglestone referred was the master under whom the talented London violinist was studying. In a letter, dated July 23, "Sanct Peter, Nordesbad, Germany," Miss Egglestone informed her parents that she has just arrived at the little summer resort with Professor and Mrs. Sperring.

As Sanct Peter is almost on the border of Denmark, the members of Miss Egglestone's family hoped against hope that she might have crossed the international border and escaped through the Scandinavian countries to America.

TWO ELECTROCUTED AT AUBURN PRISON

(Canadian Press.)

Auburn, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Joseph Di Goia, of Erie County, and George Coyer, of Cattaraugus County, were electrocuted in Auburn Prison this morning.

Both went to the chair stoically. Di Goia killed a successful rival in Buffalo, and Coyer slew his wife, after she had left him because of cruelty.

German Railways Are In Control of Russians

[Canadian Press.]
LONDON, August 30.—Two sticks of dynamite with caps attached, were found in the hold of the Bessemer, the Pere Marquette car ferry, playing between Rouleau and Conneaut. The dynamite was found last evening by some deck hands shortly after the Bessemer docked at the Eau.
The captain of the Bessemer stated to The Advertiser that it might have escaped the notice of the workmen and might have been placed on the steamer by mistake. Such things, however, rarely happen.
There was no fuse attached to the dynamite, but if the coal had fallen off it during the passage, there is no telling where the Bessemer might be at the present time.

MYSTERIOUS AIRSHIP SEEN AT MANY POINTS IN DISTRICT

[Special to The Advertiser.]
AYLMER, Aug. 30.—Shortly after 3 o'clock this morning the G.T.R. telegraph operator at Tillsonburg called the local dispatcher, telling him to watch for a big airship which had just flown over Tillsonburg and was headed in the direction of Aylmer.
The local operator did not wait long before the plane came into view. It sailed over Aylmer and disappeared in a northerly direction. A red light on the airship was distinctly visible.
As a result of rumors of an airship being in the district and the appearance of two strange men in a boat at Clear Creek with rifles and big knives, a special guard has been placed on the wireless station at Port Burwell.

RUSSIANS TAKE KOENIGSBERG

[Canadian Press.]
LONDON, Aug. 31, 4:50 a.m.—The Chronicle's St. Petersburg correspondent sends the unofficial report that the Russian forces, hotly pursuing the German army, succeeded during the general confusion in entering the city of Koenigsberg, East Prussia, on the heels of the enemy and securing command of the town and fortress.

FRANCIS JOSEPH NOT ILL MAY HAVE SLAYERS OF C. P. R. GUARD

[Canadian Press.]
VIENNA, Austria, August 30 (by way of Rome and Paris), 2:35 p.m.—It is learned from a reliable source that the health of Emperor Francis Joseph is perfectly satisfactory, and that he has been quite well since the war began. Yesterday he gave a protected audience to the Foreign Minister Count Leopold von Berchtold, and also received Count Forstner de Chyimes, formerly minister of Serbia. He also exchanged telegrams with Emperor William.
The aged monarch rises at his usual hour and works all day.

GERMAN CRUISER LEIPZIG CAPTURED?

Rainbow and French Cruiser Montcalm Have Her—Report Is Unconfirmed.

[Canadian Press.]
VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 30.—The afternoon World publishes the following dispatch under Victoria date: "The chase for the German cruiser Leipzig, which has been playing hide and seek with the cruisers protecting British trade in northern Pacific waters, is over. The German warship is on her way to Esquimalt. She will be in that port tonight, according to most reliable advice obtainable."
"To the French cruiser Montcalm and the Canadian cruiser Rainbow according to the information so far received, the credit of the capture is assigned. The casualties aboard the Leipzig are said to have reached 120 killed and wounded. The full details both of the fight, the capture, the casualties and the bringing in of the only German war vessel in British Pacific waters, are being withheld, owing to the close censorship and to the explicit instructions to naval authorities here to report first direct to the British admiralty."
No confirmation of this dispatch is to be had, the naval authorities at Esquimalt denying all knowledge.

TALES OF LOSSES DO NOT DISTURB BRITISH

Though Apprehensive, Do Not Clamor for Names of Dead.

[Canadian Press.]
LONDON, Aug. 30, 10:50 p.m.—The British public has been reassured by the statement from Field Marshal Sir John French, issued this afternoon, that the British army in the field is in good condition and spirits and has been reinforced by twice as many men as were lost during the four days' battle and retreat, and is ready to meet the enemy again.
The announcement that the losses totalled between 5,000 and 6,000 was something the country was prepared to hear. The people would not have been surprised to learn that the losses had been much greater.
Earlier in the day the country received a distinct shock through stories of disaster to and demoralization of the British army which were published in some of the London papers. A correspondent had evidently been listening to startling tales from wounded stragglers behind the lines who gave the impression that the British troops had been cut to pieces, that their organization was gone and that they were without supplies or communication.
Although the country has known for a week that many of its soldiers are buried in French and Belgian soil, and other hundreds are in hospitals, there is no outcry for names, but a general willingness to wait if the interest of the army requires it. A few newspapers have criticised the extreme secrecy which the Government maintains, but there is nothing approaching a clamor against it.

Festival of Autumn Fashions

TOMORROW the Annual Exposition celebrating the Opening of the 1914-15 Season and disclosing the New Styles in Millinery, Cloaks and Wraps, Gowns and Afternoon Costumes, and a complete ensemble of Madame la Mode for Autumn.

"Paris sets the style" is no mere empty phrase, for in Millinery, in Coats and Suits and Gowns, in Gloves, in Purses and Bags, in Hairdress, and in every detail of the toilette of stylish women, the style inspiration is invariably from Paris originally.

Before the calamity of war had struck the French capital, their renowned designers had "created the styles" for 1914-15, and the merchandise world had been to and returned from Paris, after studying the countless varieties of Paris interpretations of the new figure silhouettes for Autumn and Winter in the salons of the famous Paris Coutouriers.

In this "Festival of Fashions" will be presented for your inspection the designs that might well be named "Certified Fashions for Autumn and Winter." We will have much to tell you about the styles in future announcements, but today we are content to invite you to the most interesting style event of the new season—

The Festival of Autumn Fashions, Commencing Tomorrow

Replicas of Paris Millinery

Crowding into the show-cases today, ready for inspection tomorrow, are a few of the latest arrivals from New York, copies from Paris for the most part, with some adaptations in others. Jaunty small hats are strongly represented and larger models will also be noticeable. Many new ideas in trimmings make their initial appearance tomorrow also—observable in the lot themselves.

The very moderate prices will be a feature of our Millinery this season. See Window Display.

Many Shapes Are Warlike

One would almost think that hostilities had broken out while the coutouriers were designing the shapes—that the designers had visions of gunboats, torpedoes and submarines.

These particular styles have been enthusiastically indorsed by Dame Fashion; they are jaunty and becoming and will be very popular everywhere.

Black velvet and dark colors are equally favored, and we invite you to note particularly the hats displayed at from $5.00 to $10.00. See Window Display.

Coat Styles Developed In Newest Coatings

Duplicated and adapted by New York from photographs, sketches and in some cases from actual Paris garments. The noticeable style influences in this collection are:

First—The cape effect given by the roomy back.

Second—The following of the lines of suits with semi-fitting or loose straight lines above the waist, and a broadening out from the waist down. And, Third, the various Young English Pony Coats. These models have been developed in all the favorite woollens, including the rich velours, duvetine weaves, Zibelines and smooth cloths.

Tomorrow we present an opportunity to view the first showing of these new styles—certified as correct down to the last detail. Coats that give you that feeling of satisfaction that comes from a knowledge of one's style correctness. Second Floor.

New Crepe and Chiffon Novelty Blouses.
See Opening Display.

Types of New Autumn Modes In Suit Section.

The Suit Section will hold a daily Autumn Style Exposition this week.

The creations present an unceasing change, with the same correct general style "motive" apparent in each.

Tomorrow's exposition presents a galaxy of new arrivals hurried here from our favorite house.

The flowing tunics will be prominent in this display. A great many characteristic examples carried out in gabardines, serges, worsteds, etc., in all colors—particularly the new, soft, dark tones will attract quick attention and meet with unanimous favor. A gathering of the styles that in the estimation of competent judges is the last word in the suit style situation for Fall and Winter, 1914-15.

Those who choose from this popular showing may be assured that they never bought more intrinsic value and complete satisfaction during the early weeks of the new season.

GERMANS EXPECT PARIS TO FALL WEDNESDAY

Believe Official Prediction Will Be Fulfilled.
LONDON, Aug. 31, 4:55 a.m.—A Times-Copenhagen dispatch declares that the German Emperor and several high German officers are selling their English and Russian orders and turning the proceeds over to the Red Cross fund. The German press confidently asserts that the official prediction that their troops would be in Paris on September 2 will be fulfilled.

GERMAN SEAPORT YIELDS TO BRITAIN

[Canadian Press.]
LONDON, Aug. 30, 7:20 p.m.—The official information bureau announces that the German port of Kiel, and the islands of Heligoland and the German part of the group, has surrendered to the British.

Two Score Others Have Been Sent to Bottom of Sea.
[Special Cable to Advertiser.]
LONDON, Aug. 30.—The London Times publishes today a list of 225 German ships captured by British cruisers in all parts of the world since the war began, giving the name, tonnage, home port and destination of each ship. These will come before the prize court which assembles in London next Tuesday. More than 200 ships are now held in various ports in all seas, from London to Rangoon and Colombo. About two score others are at the bottom of the sea, with the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

AIRED VOLUNTEERS' FAMILIES.
GODERICH, Aug. 30.—The band concert held this evening to raise money for the families of the soldiers who have gone to the front was very largely attended. The Thirty-Third Regimental Band rendered a fine program.

DAILY PAGE FOR ADVERTISER WOMAN READERS

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

Peg o' My Heart.

Dear Miss Grey,—I take great pleasure in reading your answers, and I have gained much from them.
1. I am 5 feet 2 inches tall, and 13 years of age. How long should I wear my dress?
2. I have between a dark and light complexion, with brown eyes and very dark brown hair. What are my colors?
3. What are the meanings of these names: Nora, Cecilia, Marian, Carmella and Josephine?
4. What do you think of my writing?
P. S.—Please answer soon, as I have to go away.

Ans.—1. About three inches below the knee.
2. Red, brown, green, navy, mauve.
3. Nora, honor; Cecilia, heavenly; Marian, bitter; Carmella, attendant at a sacrifice; Josephine, she shall add.
4. Your writing is a trifle large. Try to form your letters smaller. Otherwise it is very neat and plain.

For New Fall Dress.
Dear Miss Grey,—Will you please answer these questions for me:
1. Could you suggest some kind of trimming for a garnet-colored fall dress?
2. Is Bulgarian silk going to be used for trimming this fall?
3. Could you please tell me the meaning of the following names: Mae, Wynn, Beatrice, Bertha, Lulu, Lilly, Nellie, Katie?
4. Could you please publish the song, "School Days"?
5. I am fourteen years old and weigh

95 pounds. I am 5 feet 3 inches in height. Do you think I am too slim?
Please answer as soon as possible and oblige. A MORNING GLORY.
P. S.—We take The Morning Advertiser.
Ans.—1. A piping of satin the same shade or black would look well. Dresden silk for collar and cuffs is usually a becoming trimming.
2. Yes.
3. Wynn, lover of peace; Mae, bitter; Beatrice, happy; Bertha, bright; Lulu, good; Lilly, lily; Nellie, light; Katie, pure.
4. If you will send a stamped envelope I shall send you the words of "School Days," as it is too long to publish.
5. That is fair weight for your age.

Dustless Mop.
Dear Miss Grey,—Noting an inquiry from a reader of the Woman's Page for "a dustless mop," I append an abridged copy of one recipe which appeared in another paper lately. I have not tested it, but trust it will fulfill expectations. Very truly yours,
MRS. H. McE.

Pour a half and half mixture of paraffin oil and kerosene over the mop-cloth here and there, roll up tightly so that the oil may be evenly absorbed. When it becomes filled with dust wash and dry the cloth; then repeat the oiling process.
We thank the reader for her kindness in forwarding this to the Woman's Page, and are sure the party who desired the recipe will appreciate it very much.

A Field Fought and Won

No more typical example exists of the difficulty which has beset the advances of women workers into fields long exclusively occupied by men than the struggle that was faced and conquered to gain recognition as printers and compositors, says the Binghamtonian. A few far-sighted men. Horace Greeley included, recognized the merit of women's claim to a place in the wage-earner's world, and early advocated her employment. It was only after a half-century of effort that male printers, in national convention, formally acknowledged woman's right to work beside them at the case, and to sit as members in their trade unions. Several instances are known where women performed work at the case and press soon after the introduction of printing in America. Among these were two pieces of Benjamin Franklin. The first reference to organized printers taking cognizance of the presence of women in the trade was in 1832, when a Philadelphia employer addressed a letter to the typographical society, denying a report that he expected to employ female typesetters in his establishment. Two years later, during a strike of printers in Philadelphia, several girls did take the places of the strikers, and Duff Green, then public printer at Washington, was accused of having planned to employ them. The Columbia typographical society of Washington adopted a resolution inquiring what should be done "to prevent the further progress of this evil."

Young women began to be employed at typesetting in New York City in 1853, and one shop was started where the employees were all women. The following year, in the convention of the national typographical union, held at Buffalo, the question was heatedly discussed, and a motion was offered that the union recognize none but male compositors. After a long debate it was agreed finally to let individual unions legislate for themselves on the question, but not to encourage the employment of women in the trade.

Horace Greeley favored women workers for certain kinds of labor, and in a public address before the printers he ridiculed their argument that women should be excluded, "because of the moral depravity to which they might be subjected." He employed girls for typesetting at the Tribune office, as did the World also for a time, and then abandoned the position. The assertion that they were inefficient.

The activity of Susan B. Anthony on the question of equal rights in 1863 led six women printers in New York to organize the first women's typographical union. Its membership rose rapidly, and within six months it had brought about an advance in wages for women typesetters. It gave material assistance in a strike of printers in New York the following year, and after a hot fight was granted a charter from the International Typographical Union. As the women were unable to obtain the same wages as the men, however, there were continual difficulties between the women's and the men's unions, which in 1878 resulted in the passage of a resolution forbidding the issuance of further charters to women. Women are admitted now to membership in the men's union, and they command the same wages as are paid to male compositors.

OLD SONGS AND POEMS

KIND IS MY MARY.

Her brow is fair as winter's snow,
Her cheeks w' modest roses glow,
An' d'v'elike glances sweetly flow
Frae out the een o' Mary.

Chorus.

Sae kind, kind, and gentle is she,
Kind is my Mary;
The tender blossoms on the tree
Cannot compare w' Mary.

Oh, see you proud and haughty lass,
Her head w' pride an' folly tossed,
Ne'er look on her, but let her pass,
Be sure that is not Mary.

But see ye an o' modest air,
Bedecked w' beauty sweet and rare,
That mak's your heart beat sweetly sair,
Oh, weel ye ken my Mary.

Great Claus and Little Claus

[AS TOLD BY AUNT GERTIE.]

CHAPTER VI.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed Little Claus. "Why, these are sea cattle. I am very thankful to you for drowning, or trying to drown me, because, see what I got in the river!"

Great Claus stared and stared. His mouth grew larger and larger, and his eyes fairly bulged.

"You see," said Little Claus, making up a wonderful story as he went along. "I fell to the soft bottom of the river, and there a beautiful young girl offered me these lovely cattle. I found out that the river is a sort of highway which the sea people use to go from the mountains to the sea."

"It was lovely down there, and there were so many cattle!"

"Then why did you come up so soon?" asked Great Claus.

"Why, you see," said Little Claus, "the sea lady told me that if I would take the short cut by land and go to another place in the river I could have a much larger herd of cattle."

"My, but you are lucky," sighed Great Claus. "Don't you think I might get some cattle, too, if I went down?"

"How can I tell?" said Little Claus. "Oh, you are selfish and don't want me to get any cattle," said Great Claus. "I can see your scheme."

(The End.)

Uncle Ned's Fishing Party

"Come on, youngster, let's go fishing," called Uncle Ned up the stairs. Robin opened bewildered eyes on the new day, started at the strange wall paper and the old-fashioned bureau, glanced at mamma, and remembered. "Oh, this is grandpa's. I forgot," he took time to say before he shouted, "All right, Uncle Ned, I'll be there."

And so he was in an incredibly short space of time. Who would waste precious minutes on getting dressed up when one had arrived at grandpa's big farm late last night and hadn't seen one of the wonderful things letters had been telling about?

But, somehow, fishing was a surprise. Nobody's letters had remembered to mention that a little river ran right along the foot of the big meadow, with fish in it and a dam across. Robin squealed with joy as he waited for his uncle to get the tackle. Daddy used a jointed rod and a reel and a good-looking hat and a minnow bucket when he went at home, and carried a box of lunch that mother had spent time of the day before in preparing. But Uncle Ned looked just as usual and didn't have so much as a fish-hook with him.

"How!" began Robin.

"You'll see," Uncle Ned interrupted as he took down a basket from a hook under the back porch roof.

Away they hurried in the lovely, early morning, through the barnyard, across the big meadow and down to the little river at its foot.

"That's my fish trap," announced Uncle Ned, as they reached a queer-looking arrangement at one end of the dam. As he spoke, Uncle Ned pointed to a row of sticks, or slats set slanting, with one end down somewhere under the brown water and the other up above it. And there, sure enough, in plain sight on the slats, lay several, good-sized fish.

Uncle Ned explained afterward, how the trap was made right in the dam and that the river-current washed through it with so much force that the fish were drawn to that spot. The perch and trout couldn't get through, between the slats, and as the stream went flushing over the dam it threw them out of the water and onto the high part of the trap. Then all that was left for Uncle Ned to do was to pick up the slippery, flopping things and get them into his basket. Of course, he walked out on the trap to do it.

While Robin, with wide eyes, was watching this very unusual fishing party, Uncle Ned gave a shout and said, "I've got you at last, you rascal!"

Then he called, "Don't be scared at the fireworks youngster," and first thing Robin knew, "Crack!" went a pistol that Uncle Ned must have had ready on purpose.

Now, what do you suppose? No, indeed, it wasn't the fish he shot. A big water-snake, which he called a moccasin, had come to visit the fish-trap. It had raised its head up between the slats and had swallowed a good-sized fish. For moccasins like fish and also like to be saved the trouble of catching them.

Then, because the first one tasted so good, he decided he'd try another. So he ran his head under the slat next to him and out on the other side where lay fine, fat perch, and he swallowed them. But his growling got him into trouble, for he couldn't move backward or forward. Half his breakfast was on one side of the trap-slat, and the other half on the other side and he was as neatly caught as any one could have asked.

"I's ugly head stuck up to see what Uncle Ned was about and that's all he ever did see," for then the pistol cracked and Mr. Moccasin had eaten his last fish.

Uncle Ned cut him in two and held the pieces up to show the big lump in each half, where the fish had been stopped. Then he dropped them into the hurrying water that swirled and tossed them out of sight, and for all Robin knew, carried them clear to the Gulf of Mexico.

Over the broiled fish at the breakfast table that morning, Robin looked up to say thoughtfully, "My daddy says snakes eat what he goes fishing. He doesn't usually even get any fish."

But he couldn't understand why Uncle Ned laughed at daddy.

Facts About Gobelin Tapestry

France, which has long excelled in the old art of tapestry weaving, takes pride in the fact that at Paris she has the finest tapestry school in the world in the renowned "Gobelins" manufactory.

The "Gobelins" was founded in 1660 A. D. by two brothers and their wife, who judged it well to set up a small dyeing and weaving establishment in the southeast corner of "la Belle Ville." Later on Louis Quatorze took the industry under his special protection, so by state aid, in conjunction with the efforts of great artists, the factory has developed into a centre of decorative art, the pieces being equal in design and coloring to the fine pictures from which they are frequently copied.

The materials used for the execution of a hanging are wool and gold and silver threads; silk is introduced where a lustrous surface is required, as for fruit, flowers and the like.

A peculiar excellence of these materials is their brilliant colors, and the materials are also very finely graduated that there have been over twenty shades evolved for each color.

Like other arts, tapestry weaving has its school, where students from time to time pass examinations before proceeding to the atelier. The maiden efforts of the students are hung in the Gobelins museum, which contains as well specimens of ancient and medieval hangings, also curious connected with the craft.

The ateliers or workrooms are long and somewhat narrow and have low windows of ground glass to modify the light. The frame pictures are placed before a window, and the weaver sits or stands at the back to work. On the frame threads are stretched tight and close. These warp or ground work, upon which is sketched the design to be woven. The artist works in his subject line upon line by means of a bobbin—termed "aiguille"—pointed at both ends. The back of the frame where there are a number of objects to be delineated, appears to the uninitiated to be a crackles forest of aiguilles. Often several artists—specialists—are engaged on one piece.

Gobelin tapestries are not offered publicly for sale, but are reserved by the French Government to be given the presents to royalties and nobilities, also to decorate churches and state buildings. At Windsor Castle there is a splendid display of tapestry, some of which was a present from Charles X. of France to Queen Adelaide. The galleries of the Vatican at Rome are adorned with fine tapestry, which was restored after the sack of Rome in 1798 by Pope Pius VII.

The value of a piece of Gobelin tapestry can be estimated by the fact that a very moderate-sized hanging, a few feet square, can be easily disposed of for $10,000.

Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—Winnipeg, wheat opened 1/2c lower to 1/2c higher; oats and flax unchanged. Trading was fairly active during the first hour of business, and prices strengthened in sympathy with American markets. It was stated that the Morgan and Company, New York bankers, had agreed to pay exporters for wheat sold to certain European countries, and this was a factor in stiffening values, being aided by short-covering of the week-end. Closing prices were generally higher. The cash demand was quieter for wheat, and prices were steady. The movement of wheat was gradually increasing, and the market generally is showing the effect of hedging.

Cash grain closed: Wheat, 1/2c higher;
oats, 1/2c to 1c higher; barley, unchanged, and flax, 1/2c lower.

Inspections Friday totalled 248 cars, against 31 last year. In eight days there were 250 cars.

Cash Grain: Wheat—No. 1 northern,
1.12 1/2; No. 2 northern, 1.10 1/2; No. 3
northern, 1.08 1/2; No. 4, 99 1/2; No. 5, 98 1/2.

Oats—No. 2 Canadian western, 51 1/2;
No. 3 Canadian western, 50; extra No. 1
feed, 50 1/2; No. 2 feed, 49 1/2.

Barley—No. 3, 61 1/2; No. 4, 59 1/2; rejected, 58 1/2; feed, 55 1/2.

Clay No. 1, N. W. 1.24 1/2; No. 2
Canadian western, 1.31 1/2.

WHEAT.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—The impression that the European war is to be a prolonged one was again reflected in the wheat market at the outbreak of the war.
Speculators, attracted by the recent decline, bid the price of wheat for delivery on May up to $1.25, and the price higher than the close on Saturday, and only 1/4c under the highest price of the crop year. The market was in a scramble at the opening, bids were 2 1/2c apart, but in the next five minutes the price declined, to settle between $1.21 and $1.22.

WHEAT RECEIPTS.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—Wheat receipts were 44,674 bushels. Shipments for the week were 2,880,337 bushels of wheat.

OPENING OF SCHOOLS TAKES PLACE TOMORROW

Board of Education Will Not Build On Princess Avenue For a Time.

School opens tomorrow.

After the long summer holidays the public and separate schools of London will open tomorrow morning, and so far as the instructors and board of education are concerned, the war will have no effect upon studies.

It was expected that the Collegiate Institute would not be ready for tomorrow to discuss the school outlook for the coming year. The building of a school on Princess avenue will probably be abandoned for a time.

Railway Trespassers Crowd Popular West End Pension.

The practice of arresting every man found upon railroad premises who fails to give good and sufficient reasons for his being there has developed into a steady drain upon the county.

In many cases the men who are arrested are out of employment and would gladly accept the opportunity of work if it were obtainable. Other cases are on record where sailors on the lakes have been laid off from their vessels in the east, and in attempting to work their way home have been arrested on the old time-worn charge of vagrancy, and because of lack of funds to pay their fines, have been forced to serve sentences ranging from fifteen to twenty days.

The fact that constables are paid a fee for every man they arrest and that an additional one is paid them for every prisoner they bring to the county jail, ratifies the charge that this state of affairs is purely exploitative. The desire to turn the office of keeper of the peace into a lucrative position, it is charged, is responsible for the number of so-called vagrants who are every day being unloaded upon the county.

The military guard of the Seventh Regiment, which left in charge of Sergeant Holmes on Wednesday, as an escort to two German reservists arrested here, and an Austrian taken in further, who were being sent to the fort at Kingston as prisoners of war, returned to London on Saturday. They reported that their prisoners had been handed over safely to the authorities at Kingston. The men appeared to be resigned to their fate, the members of the guard reported, although they did not appear to relish the idea of being incarcerated while their country was at war.

Sunday Band Program Draws Many to Victoria Park.

Citizens to the number of several thousands attended the band concert given by the Victoria Park Sunday band.

A well-chosen program arranged by Bandmaster Roselle Pocock, did not fail to meet with the approval of those who heard the numbers rendered.

The popularity of the Sunday evening band concert was evidenced by the fact that almost as many people as the first number was given all of the park benches were taken. By eight o'clock there was not a seat available.

A GOOD SCHOOL.

In periods of depression trained men and women are not laid off. The demand for graduates of the Spottis Business College of London is greater than ever. The Spottis Business College of London is situated on the corner of Dundas and Adelaide streets. The fall term begins September 1. This school is a link in a chain of colleges established during the past thirty-two years, and is affiliated with the Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. Hundreds of Spottis graduates are holding the best positions in London, and are proud in their praise of the old school. This college absolutely guarantees its graduates, and is the only management teaching exclusively the Sir Isaac Pitman Short-hand. The choosing of a school is a serious matter, and needs careful investigation. All young people desiring the best in business education should call for particulars. Ask graduates and then decide. UNLIKELY THAT CANADIAN NURSES WILL GO TO WAR

Large Number of Applicants From London and District Will Be Disappointed.

According to information received by Mrs. A. T. Edwards, from the British Red Cross Society, it is unlikely that any Canadian nurses will go to the front in the present war, unless it is the Canadian women's hospital ship at Portsmouth.

Mrs. Edwards, secretary of the local Red Cross Society, has received a great many applications from volunteer nurses, both graduate and practical, who are anxious to accompany the Canadian hospital ship to the front, but in reply to inquiries at headquarters it is stated that no applications are being received by military headquarters until further notice. A cablegram further gives the information that 60,000 nurses, enrolled by an organization working under the British Red Cross Society, are in training, 25 per cent of whom are ready to go to the field of war at once.

At the time the South African war various societies sent nurses to the front, and considerable confusion resulted, on account of which the British Red Cross Society keeps in mind the necessity of maintaining service a large number of trained nurses.

REMOUNT STATION TO BE ESTABLISHED TUESDAY

Transfer of Horses Will Be Made to Carling's Heights Then.

It will be Tuesday morning before the remount station, under Major W. J. Coles, is established at Carling's Heights. Last night Major Coles was out at Queen's Park, where 200 horses are stabled, perfecting organization plans. He will continue buying at the park tomorrow, and on Tuesday, and will ship to Valcartier those animals already on hand.

Recruiting for the Army Service Corps already has been fairly brisk and three sergeants, a corporal and twenty men now are available for the remount station. Altogether 50 men are wanted for this work, as each car load of horses shipped will need half that number of men in charge of the animals. The duties of the others will consist of breaking in "green" horses.

Major W. G. Coles, of the Army Service Corps, received a telegram from Captain Williams Saturday night, which stated that the men had arrived in Toronto and all were in high spirits and eager to get to the front. Being the last of the contingent from this city, Major Coles said that the following wholesale grocers, Edwards Adams & Company, A. M. Smith & Company, E. J. Mayne & Company, M. Massey & Company and T. B. Escott Company, furnished enough pipes and tobacco for the men to last several weeks. The officers and men appreciated the gift very highly.

Included in the course will be an insight into the ways of alleviating the present economic situation and bettering the conditions of the many unemployed who are in all parts of the city. Mayor Graham will attend on behalf of the city.

BISHOP'S ANNOUNCEMENT

Issues Special Circular Read in All Churches of the Diocese.

His Lordship, Bishop M. P. Fallon, head of the Roman Catholic diocese in London, issued a circular Friday, which was read at all masses yesterday, ordering that the votive mass "Tempore Belli" be celebrated in all parish churches next Sunday, and that it be solemn wherever possible.

At benediction of the most blessed sacrament, whether on Sunday or week days, the Psalm Miserere is to be sung between the "O Salutaris" and the "Tantum Ergo" for the spiritual strength of those engaged in the war.

Bishop Fallon also urged upon the laity the fervent reception of the sacraments of penance and holy communion that God may protect their interests.

NEW CLOCK SYSTEM

Smallman and Ingram Install Series of Automatic Timepieces.

The desire of every ordinary human being to know "how the time is going" is fully appreciated by Smallman & Ingram, who have recently installed a system of automatic clocks, to the number of fifteen, in the store.

The master clock, which regulates the rest, is posted over the main floor elevator on the west side of the store. It is the only one that contains no works, an electric clock turning the dial of the other fourteen.

There is a clock over each elevator on each floor, and also one in the basement, while the clock over the main Dundas street entrance bids fair to outlive the famous "clock corner" timepiece in popularity. The clock at the Richmond street entrance is situated over the inner door.
