

ALLOW OTHERS TO EXPERIMENT GARRATT ON NIAGARA POWER

Says the City Is Not Suffering in Any Way Now—He Favors the Distributing of the Power By the Government or by Existing Company—
Ald. Beattie Makes Explanation.

The city of London's borrowing powers are being placed in the limelight just now as the result of the number of bylaws which it is proposed to submit to the electors for consideration in January.

Ald. Garratt went to the trouble to secure a statement from the city clerk as to where the city stands in regard to borrowing.

He gave the figures to The Advertiser today, and they show that the city, according to statute, may incur an indebtedness of $2,355,488.

The city's debts now amount to $1,920,728, leaving a borrowing balance of $1,264,760.

This latter sum represents the total amount the city may borrow.

Pretty Well Eaten Up.

Up to date, the bylaws before the council, which it is proposed to submit to the people in January, total about $700,000. Had it not been that the council last night decided to cut out the second portion of the water commissioners' recommendation, the amount would have been run up to over $850,000.

Were it not for the fact, too, that the assessment of the city has been greatly increased by the assessment department, and also by the erection of many new factories, houses, etc., in London, in the past two years, the city would not now be in what appears to be a position to borrow about $1,000,000 or more. If a decrease in values should occur, the borrowing powers would be reduced accordingly.

Can't Borrow Money.

The majority of the aldermen do not regard the city's position in this regard as favorable, however, the slaps the city got the other day when Continued on Page Nine.

ALD. BEATTIE,
Acting mayor, presiding at council meeting last night.

ALD. SAUNDERS WAS THE ACTING MAYOR

Someone Sent Him a Head of Cabbage, But He Didn't Grow Angry.

Ald. Saunders was acting mayor today, and he had a pleasant hour in the office in that city hall from 12 till 1. Some joker—Ald. Saunders accuses Ald. Gillean or Ald. Stevely—sent him a particularly husky head of cabbage for a bouquet, and the acting mayor promptly ordered a boy to wrap it up and take it to the Saunders residence forthwith.

"I'm one ahead," said he, and he laughed heartily.

Then he said he would buy a cigar for the crowd in the office, and several aldermen expressed the fear that he was going to buy more cabbage.

But the acting mayor didn't.

He bought good cigars all round, and after signing several checks left the capable of superintending the cooking of the cabbage.

WITNESS PRITCHETT'S STORY PROBED BY DEFENSE COUNSEL

Under a Four-Hours' Searching Cross-Examination—Admits Forging Deputies' Names and Committing Perjury—Did Not Meet Mr. Reid at Any of the Elections.

[From Our Own Man.]

Toronto, Nov. 19.—The cross-examination of John G. Pritchett by Mr. Johnston occupied practically the whole time of the court this morning in the London election case. Mr. Johnston subjected the witness to a very searching cross-examination. Pritchett was taken over the whole ground covered in his direct testimony. He admitted that he had committed perjury and had forged deputies' names. He also admitted that he had used an assumed name on many occasions. In other details he flatly contradicted himself. Pritchett connected only O'Gorman with the alleged conspiracy. There was not a little of evidence against the others. Pritchett could not give any details of any conversations with O'Gorman.

The examination in chief of Pritchett was then concluded, and the witness taken in hand by Mr. Johnston.

"You were a Liberal?"

"Yes."

"You did work on your own motion in elections?"

"Yes; not always."

"You were always led by the nose?"

"No. I worked by myself sometimes."

"You introduced this scheme of switching into Canadian?"

"Well, I don't think so."

"Where did you learn this?"

"In the States. I also learned some in Canada."

"Then you deny you invented the scheme of switching?"

"Yes. I did not."

"You swore in the public court that you invented it."

"I don't remember."

"You went into this business because of your interest in the party?"

"Yes."

"That was your motive?"

"Yes."

"Well then, it was not because of O'Gorman's money?"

"Well, it was because of his money."

"You sold your conscience for a little bit of money?"

"Yes, if you say so."

"You offered your soul to John O'Gorman for a little sum of money?"

Used Assumed Name.

"I never thought of it."

"Did it not occur to you that it was a crime?"

$40,000 Addition to Hospital Will Be Used for Private Cases Only

Accommodation for One Hundred More Patients to Be Provided.

Plans are being prepared by Messrs. Moore and Henry for an extensive addition to the west wing of St. Joseph's Hospital.

For some time the hospital has been very much crowded, and has outgrown the addition which was completed a few years ago.

It is stated that the new addition will cost about $40,000, and will be used for private cases exclusively.

Work will be commenced on the new building as early as possible in the spring.

The building will be the same height as the present hospital, and will be capable of accommodating over a hundred patients.

YOUTHFUL PRISONER COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Gordon Mines, the youthful east ender, who was recently arrested by County Constable Shaver, on a charge of housebreaking, was yesterday committed for trial by Magistrate Chittick.

William Scott was to have appeared for trial before one of the county judges today, but was held over pending the return of Crown Attorney McKillop, who is in St. Thomas attending court.

There will be two cases tried before Squire Chittick this afternoon. One is an assault case and the other is on a charge of using abusive language.

EMPEROR WILLIAM A MIGHTY TIPSTER

New York, Nov. 19.—A Times cable from London says: Before leaving Windsor Castle yesterday for Highcliffe Castle Emperor William left no less a sum than $10,000 to be divided as tips among the servants at the castle, the gamekeepers and the stable attendants. On his previous visit to Windsor in 1891 the imperial tip was only $2,500.

The Popular Loan.

Ald. Stevely's proposal, which was adopted by the city council last night, that a public loan be instituted to relieve the present financial condition in which the city finds itself, appears to be meeting with popular approval.

Several well-known citizens called at the city hall today to secure information on the subject.

One gentleman suggested that the debentures should be issued as low as $50, so that almost every person in the city would have the opportunity of taking up a portion of the $300,000 which it is desired to raise.

This action of Ald. Stevely's is the direct result of the banks of London refusing to accommodate the city.

It is said that while there are several banks here which could raise the money, if it was absolutely necessary to do so, they will not put themselves out, because the Molsons Bank has had the city's account for a number of years, previous to which time it was held by the Bank of Montreal.

It was stated at the city hall today that the bankers will not take kindly to the popular loan, inasmuch as the city proposes to pay 5 per cent to the people for the money, whereas the banks pay only 3 per cent now.

It is probable, therefore, that the popular loan goes through, bank interest in London will be affected by it.

Ald. Stevely feels that it would be the height of folly to sell City of London debentures at 90, when they pay 4 per cent interest, and should sell at nearly par.

He thinks it advisable to appeal to the people to loan the city the money, they to receive 5 per cent for it, on gilt-edge security.

Excitement Causes Loss of an Eye Sequel to Drowning of Horton St. Lad

Mr. William Spettigue, of Hill Street, Victim of Peculiar Accident.

As a result of having become greatly excited Sunday noon, when little Archie Blackwell was drowned, Mr. Wm. Spettigue, of Hill street, an employee of the London soap works, has lost the sight of one eye, perhaps permanently.

When Mr. Spettigue heard of the accident he ran as fast as he could to the river, and in doing so strained the muscles back of the eyeball so greatly that a blood-vessel broke, destroying the sight of one eye.

Mr. Spettigue has been under medical treatment since the occurrence, but it is expected that he will lose the sight of the eye. Three specialists have already been called in.

G. T. R. YARDMEN GET AN INCREASE

Toronto, Nov. 19.—A committee of yardmen of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, east of St. Clair and Detroit River on the Grand Trunk Railway in conference for the past six weeks in Montreal with Messrs. Brownlee and Fitzhugh, have concluded negotiations. As a result of the conference the yardmen will receive an increase of 12 per cent, to take effect Nov. 21. The new rate will affect between 500 and 600 men on the entire system.

Mighty Is Name of Smith in London

Everybody knows that Smith is one of the commonest of names, but there are perhaps but few people aware that there are exactly 275 adults in this city bearing that name.

The new directory just published by the Advertiser job department for Mr. Vernon, the directory man, sets forth this fact, as well as innumerable other interesting features.

For example, there are as many tobacco stores as there are restaurants, there being twenty of each in the city.

London has 26 hotels, besides any number of cafes and other eating places.

In the matter of police the Forest City is very well equipped, having no less than 43 officers of the law.

The firemen come close up with 32 members.

There are 22 city officials, and 105 people engaged in the local mail service.

In all there are 129 lodges and benefit orders here, and 33 clubs of various kinds.

There are 26 shoemakers in London.

Twenty-three real estate agents do business here.

The new directory is very handsome in appearance, and appears to have omitted no important item concerning the city.

In churches London is well supplied, there being 49 of various denominations here.

As stated some time ago, the directory places the city's population at about 57,000, or 9,000 more than the figures of the assessment department.

Horses Frightened By Automobile

A serious accident was narrowly averted at the corner of Queen's avenue and Picton street yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock, when a team driven by a farmer named Hines, living in London Township, became frightened at a passing automobile and attempted to run away.

The horses jumped to one side, and in doing so, struck the wagon tongue against a telegraph pole, with the result that the tongue and whiffletrees were badly smashed.

The occupants of the wagon received a severe shock, but fortunately were not injured.

Jockey Cormack Plans a Great Racing Stable

To Establish a Breeding Farm and Track Near Woodstock, Ontario.

Word has been received here that Alex. Cormack, the well-known Woodstock jockey, who is at present riding in France, and who has made a large fortune in the saddle, will return after Christmas, with a stable of English brood mares and a stud, and start a racing stable at Woodstock.

Mr. Cormack's idea is to build either a mile or a half-mile track at Woodstock, near his handsome residence there, and go in exclusively for racing.

In Woodstock he has a farm of approximately 100 acres, so he will have lots of pasture for his horses.

Directly in front of the house is a long, level piece of land, and it is here that the new track will be built.

The ground for the track has all been measured.

Cormack, who rides at 110 pounds, started the game as an exercise boy only a few years ago, and now he is independently wealthy.

The young man first signed up to ride for a horseman named Kettleman, who later went broke, and sold the boy to Schultz, the well-known turfman, for the small sum of $100.

Schultz made lots of money on the boy's riding, and resold the contract at a handsome figure.

For some time Cormack has been riding as a free-lance on the French tracks, having refused all offers to ride for any one owner.

Having made his pile, he now intends to enjoy it in his own way.

This news should prove of particular interest to London horsemen, many of whom are well acquainted with Woodstock owners, and would be glad of the opportunity of competing on a modern track, such as the new course promises to be.

PROPOSES A POPULAR LOAN TO SOLVE CITY'S MONEY PROBLEM

A novel way out of the financial difficulties in which the city finds itself at the present time, was suggested by Ald. Stevely last night, when he moved, seconded by Ald. Gillean, that in view of the present stringency of the money market, and the difficulty in securing necessary funds from the banks, that No. 1 committee be empowered to consider the advisability of arranging for a popular loan to be subscribed for by the citizens only, bearing 5 per cent interest, and that the committee be given power to consult the city solicitor and to consider other ways and means of raising the funds necessary to meet the liabilities of the city, and report back to the council.

Ald. Gillean, in seconding the motion said that he thought there were enough public-spirited people in the city who had money to spare who would gladly come to the city's aid in their present predicament.

The motion was put and carried unanimously.

The Council Orders Hospital Bylaw Prepared

Considerable discussion took place at last night's meeting of the council regarding the clause that a bylaw be prepared for submission at the next municipal election providing for the raising of the sum of $6,000 for the cost of the joint sanatorium for consumptives to be erected by the city and the county of Middlesex.

Ald. Matthews took strong exception to the proposal, and thought the city had had enough experience in joint dealings with the county council which have proved unsuccessful. He thought that with a grant of $8,000 from the Government, $6,000 from the people, and $20,000 from Mr. Blair, the city should be in a position to look after its own patients.

Ald. Stevely pointed out that the conditions of Mr. Blair's gift were expressly for a hospital for the city and county. He thought the county had been very fair with the city, and it pieces.

would be hardly right to throw them down now.

Ald. Saunders also spoke strongly against the proposal, and thought that it would be far better for the city to send its patients to Gravenhurst or some other sanatorium. If there were one-quarter of the danger in consumption that the doctors stated, all these people being brought here would be a menace to the general health. London would get the reputation of being a consumptive city, and its progress would be impeded.

Ald. Garratt also supported this view.

On the motion being put it was carried by a vote of 6 to 5.

Broke the Glass.

While attempting to move a heavy plate glass window from a downtown restaurant this morning, the men in charge met with an accident and let it fall, breaking it into a thousand pieces.

Cow Wrecks a Freight Brakeman Cut In Two

Special Committee Authorized To Employ Experts in the Matter.

The first reading of the power bylaw to provide $275,000 passed the council by a vote of 10 to 2, at last night's meeting. Ald. Garratt moved, seconded by Ald. Gerry, that the bylaw be referred to the special committee and if they see fit to instruct the power engineer to prepare a statement of the estimated cost of distribution and prepare plans, showing area proposed to be covered, and that if they see fit the engineer be given an independent and competent electrical engineer to assist him in preparing the above estimates and plans, and said estimate and plans to be before this council at its next meeting or at a special meeting to be called for that purpose by his worship the mayor.

This motion carried unanimously.

"W'LL YOU DO HIT?"

The Waterworks.

After a long argument the motion of Ald. Scarlett, that the waterworks bylaw, as proposed by the commissioners, be given by the council, passed.

Before the vote was taken, however, Ald. Stevenson wished to move that no action be taken on the waterworks bylaw, but that a bylaw be submitted to issue debentures for $250,000, for waterworks purposes, and that a plebiscite be taken at the next municipal elections on the question of (a) High pressure system; (b) Filtration system; (c) Komoka scheme. This was ruled out, because the bylaw as proposed asks for Komoka, and the motion would be of no use.

Ald. Stevenson then moved in amendment, that the city solicitor be instructed to prepare a bylaw for

CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN BETTER BUT MUST TAKE LONG REST

London, Nov. 19.—Sir Thomas Barlow, physician to King Edward's household, made a lengthy examination of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman at Downing street today, and an official announcement was published subsequently to the effect that the patient's condition was satisfactory, but that in view of the approaching session of Parliament it is necessary that he should have some weeks' complete change and rest. The Premier, therefore, is going abroad almost immediately. He has not been the same man since his wife died last year, and his recent acute attack of heart trouble at Bristol was a signal that his political activities have overtaken his physical strength.

G. T. R. Must Pay for Burley's Death

In the trial court at Osgoode Hall, before Mr. Justice Clute, ruling was given in the case of Burley vs. G. T. R. Company. Judgment (G. A. B.) in action tried with a jury at Sarnia. Action by the estate of Alonzo Burley, deceased, for damages for the death of deceased owing to defendants' negligence, as alleged.

The deceased was a conductor on defendants' railway, and left Sarnia on April 24, 1907, in charge of a train for Mimico by way of London. The train reached East London about 11 o'clock at night, and it was then found that the engine must be run into the repair shop for repairs. The order for this purpose was given by the conductor to the engine driver, while standing on the station platform, East London. The driver went off to obey the order, leaving the conductor on the platform, and that was the last time he was seen alive.

Immediately after a car from another train was run by a flying shunt into the repair shop yard, the body of the conductor was found by the night watchman at Rectory street between the rails of the first track south of the station. No one saw the accident.

The late Mr. Stiles was 69 years of age and lived in London Township all his life. He was unmarried. The funeral, which will be private, will take place from the late residence to Woodland Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon.

20 YEARS CURED BY ZAM-BUK

Mr. W. H. Leason, of Wychwood, Ont., says: "For 20 years I suffered from Eczema. My body and legs were covered with spots which itched and irritated terribly. My legs down to the knee were like one mass of sores. These discharges were very unpleasant and the pain I had tried all kinds of remedies (salves, ointments and embrocations) and came to the conclusion that nothing would cure me. A sample of ZAM-BUK was given to me one day, and I applied it to a small patch of the eczema. This did me some good and I obtained a full supply of the ointment. I took several boxes of ZAM-BUK to work a cure, and I am glad to say that in a few weeks it cured me completely. In my opinion, ZAM-BUK IS WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD."

CORTELYOU'S PLAN BRINGS OUT HOARDS

Wall Street Now Able To Stop the Importation of Gold.

New York, Nov. 18.—Gratification was the prevailing tone in banking circles today over the government's plan for relief for the money market by the issue of $50,000,000 in Panama bonds, and $100,000,000 in one-year treasury certificates.

The issue of Panama bonds had been counted upon as a probability since it was first referred to some ten days ago. The issue of short-term certificates was more of a novelty and as such attracted more discussion.

The general opinion in banking circles was that both measures would tend to draw idle money from private hoards and thereby break the premium on currency and restore normal conditions in the money market. So strong is this feeling that it is thought all gold engagements will cease today.

International bankers declared that the gold already engaged is as much as New York can justly take from Europe under the strained conditions which prevail there and that to take more will only compel its return later on. The amount already taken or engaged approaches $70,000,000, which is much more than the most sanguine predicted at the beginning of the movement about three weeks ago.

It is not considered desirable to force the Bank of England to raise its discount rate to eight per cent as has been talked of in London, nor to force the German rate any higher than the seven and a half per cent, which it has already reached. If more gold were desired the issue of short-term certificates would afford just the sort of security which the Bank of France has been disposed to insist upon during the recent negotiations through Mr. Morgan's house.

The issue of short-term obligations, bankers declare, will admirably meet the demands of the present, because they can be taken up and paid for on the expiration of their term from the treasury cash balance, which can then be withdrawn from the national banks. An excess of cash will be on deposit in the banks, according to all past precedent, in event of business depression in periods of depression for which there is little call for investment in new enterprises.

It is declared by bankers that financial and political conditions are infinitely more favorable at the present than they were when the gold reserve was almost wrecked and the possibility of a change of money standard was confronting the country. It is their belief, therefore, that subscriptions for the certificates are likely to be large and likely to draw out much hoarded capital. Secretary Cortelyou is counted upon to deposit the proceeds of both classes of securities at once in the national banks, where they will be available for general circulation. The premium on currency showed signs of weakening today, being quoted at from one and a half to two and a half per cent. Bankers declared that it would disappear before the close of the treasury certificates, and that the monetary phase of the crisis would then tend to pass away.

BANK MERGER RUMOR

Montreal, Nov. 18.—For some time past there have been rumors that the Quebec and Union Banks would amalgamate, and today it was stated in well-informed circles that negotiations are now in progress. A prominent Montreal financier, who is pretty well known with all that is going on, said: "So far as I know, there has been no particular hitch in the amalgamation plan, and to the best of my belief the deal will be consummated. Some time ago I heard that there was a little difference of opinion over the selection of a name for the combined bank, as, very naturally, neither bank wanted to lose its identity. The Quebec Bank is the second oldest in Canada. In fact is only one year younger than the Bank of Montreal. The Union, on the other hand, considers its name a very valuable one, as it is extremely well known and has a very extensive and profitable system of branches, especially throughout the west. However, this matter will scarcely block the project, and I believe the two banks will be brought together in a short time. Their union would make the new bank the fourth largest in Canada."

PREMIER'S NEW AUTO

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier have joined the ranks of the automobilists, and are now possessors of probably the finest motor car in Ottawa. A new English touring car, valued at about $8,000, arrived in the city a few days ago for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and is now in commission. It was manufactured at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, where Sir Wilfrid inspected the works last summer. The car is one of 30-horsepower, and a speed capable of 50 miles per hour. The closed apartment in the rear of the car will accommodate five persons. It is very finely upholstered, and illuminated with electric lights, the current for which is supplied from a storage battery.

WALL STREET GOT CANADIAN MONEY

Dominion Banks Put a Large Amount of Money Where Readily Realizable.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—The loans by Canadian banks in the foreign markets (mostly in New York) amounted in September to $63,158,601, and are understood to have been slightly reduced during October. Although the banks are criticised in some quarters for loaning money in New York when it is so difficult to obtain in Canada, the defense of the Canadian bank managers for their course in this matter is that New York call loans can be realized on much more readily than those of a similar nature in Canadian banks, and that their New York loans therefore constitute a sort of cash box upon which they can draw whenever they require funds.

Government Aiding. Ottawa, Nov. 18.—Hon. W. S. Fielding is in Montreal today for the further discussion, it is understood, of the arrangement with the banks to relieve the money stringency in the west. This arrangement between the Dominion Government and the banks to assist in getting out the damaged portion of the crop will go into effect without further delay.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—The Canadian chartered banks now have $63,158,601 in call loans in Wall Street; of this amount the Bank of Montreal has $23,000,000. Owing to the peculiar conditions existing in the money markets they are unable to accomplish the one particular purpose for which it is carried in Wall Street, namely, to secure the cash needed to meet the demands of the Canadian banks. In their endeavor to straighten their position, have not been able to realize on their call loans, and instead have been forced to cut down their current loans in Canada.

NEW RATES JANUARY FIRST

Railways Are Given Until Then To Arrange the New Schedule.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—The board of railway commissioners has given the railway companies until Jan. 1 to file the new rates on eastbound traffic from Windsor, Sarnia and other points, as ordered by the board last July. When the order was issued to the railway companies to make a substantial reduction in freight rates, so as to do away with the present discrimination in favor of traffic originating at Detroit, Port Huron or other American points, no definite date was set for the new rates to come into force. It was hoped that the railways could have their new schedule made up and in force by now, but the task has been found to be a very complicated and difficult one, in view of the immense number of commodities to be classified, etc. The request of the railways for an extension of time to Jan. 1 is regarded by the board as being reasonable under the circumstances. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association last week addressed a memorial to the board, complaining of the delay in putting the new rates into force.

It took 44 men 35 days to count the $267,836,166.26 in the New York sub-treasury. The cash balanced to a cent.

BENNETT'S HAVE THE REAL THING

Big Attractions Being Offered at the Popular Play House.

There are two acts on Bennett's bill this week which should pack the theater to its capacity at every performance. One is the act of the Eight Bedouin Arabs, and the other is that of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Crane.

Beyond a doubt the Arabs have the best act exhibiting feats of strength and marvelous tumbling ever seen in Canada, or for that matter in the whole of America. To say this is to but feebly attempt to convey an idea of how good the act is. It is simply marvelous, astonishing. Such whirlwind work appeals to all. It is magnificent. To particularize in one instance, it may be pointed out that one man in the party is able to support the other seven, and he never quivers a muscle. All former acts of the kind are made to appear as amateurs. The Arabs are surely kings.

"Am I Your Wife?" the sketch of Mr. and Mrs. Crane, is the most ludicrous, laughable uproar it is possible to imagine. It is built around a case of mistaken identity of two brothers. As Mrs. Munroe, Mrs. Crane gets mixed up to which of twin brothers she is married to. Mr. Crane plays the dual role of Tom and Jack. It's a breezy, lively act, with a roar in every line, and it is put on in a finished manner by Mr. and Mrs. Crane, both of whom are artists of much ability. They don't overdo it. They have too much talent for that. They know their business, and Monday afternoon and night, the audience laughed itself tired, at this cyclone of humor. Manager Elms is to be congratulated upon securing this attraction.

"The Country Kids," an act put on by a dozen girls and boys, is fair, but appears amateurish. Probably it's not in working order as yet.

Ed. Grey, the story teller, tells tales for twenty minutes, and judging by the applause he received, the audience would be willing to listen to him for twenty hours. He has good stories, and he tells them well.

Steele and Edwards have a good musical act, with a piano imitation of the Galveston act a success. Some of the comedy is crisp and catching.

Shields and Rodgers, the lasso throwers, are all right, and so are Adamini and Taylor, the Italian street musicians.

It is a truly big vaudeville bill, and should not be missed.

Professor Stevens' orchestra renders a dainty musical programme worthy of mention.

TO EXCLUDE HINDUS FROM UNITED STATES

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 18.—J. H. Clark, American immigration commissioner for Canada, with headquarters at Montreal, has decided, after investigation here, to recommend to the Government at Washington the enactment of legislation to exclude Hindus from the United States. In view of the fact that the Government of Everett, Washington, the Government has been given much concern by the Hindu problem. Thousands of Hindus have gone from Vancouver south to that of the Government of Everett, Washington, and the fruit ranches of California.

THE LIGHT COMPANY OFFERS TO CONFER

Toronto, Nov. 18.—The Toronto Electric Light Company has offered to confer with the city in an attempt to make some arrangement to avoid a duplicate distribution of light in Toronto. It is understood that the suggestion will be made that some arrangement similar to that with the Consumers' Gas Company be entered into, giving the city representation on the board of directors, and limiting the dividend of the company by reducing the price of power and light. This view of the matter was confirmed by Sir Henry Pellatt, the mayor.

"The city," said Sir Henry, "would be represented on our directorate, and the rates would be reduced according to the regular scale, to be decided by the profits of the previous year."

PORTLAND'S WHISKERS

More Startling Evidence in the Druce Case by American Witness.

London, Nov. 18.—The venue in the Druce case, involving the claim to the Duke of Portland's estates, was transferred from the Marylebone to the Clerkenwell police court today.

Robert C. Caldwell, of New York, who continued his testimony, made the somewhat astonishing statement that the fifth Duke of Portland, wearing the whiskers in which he is said to have disguised himself as the late Thomas Charles Druce, was walking about the Baker street bazaar, talking to residents, just before the coffin supposed to hold Druce's body left the premises.

Miss Mary Robinson, said to be the daughter of a southern planter, testified that the diary which figures in the case, was stolen from her in the street on Nov. 2.

The magistrate was informed that a certified copy of the diary had been taken by counsel before the book was lost.

Continuing, Miss Robinson said she was introduced to T. C. Druce, whom she also knew as Welbeck, and later as the Duke of Portland.

The case was again adjourned.

POOR OLD TORONTO

Toronto, Nov. 18.—The Judicial committee of the Privy Council has decided the appeal of the city of Toronto vs. C. P. R., and orders that the appellants pay the costs.

A cablegram to this effect came from London this morning, announcing the defeat of the city in its attempt to LONDON, TUESDAY, NOV. 19, 1907.

LONDON'S UNIVERSITY.
The city council is showing a sympathetic attitude toward the Western University. This is good policy from a merely economic standpoint, to place the question on no higher grounds. A comparatively small sum is needed to give security to the arts department of the university. The Provincial educational authorities have stated that the professional staff is entirely adequate, but the finances of the institution do not at present allow them to assume that the present staff can be maintained. With the assurance of financial support will come the recognition of the teaching honor degrees.
These objects attained, there should be an immediate influx of students from the surrounding districts, and the retention of home students who have had to attend other universities to qualify for the higher ranks of the teaching profession.

The expenses of the university are at present extremely low, $7,000 annually covering everything. There are remarkably good facilities in the way of class rooms, which would provide for an attendance of about 300 students, so that no extra expense would be caused by the sudden growth of the undergraduate body. The pecuniary gain from students attending from outlying districts is expected to more than compensate at the outset for the few thousand dollars annually taken from the civic coffers. The city of Kingston, with a population less than half of London's, has always generou-ly supported Queen's University, and has found it a paying investment. The personal expenses of the students attending Queen's are estimated at $5,000 weekly during the term time, exclusive of fees paid to the university authorities.

Geographically, London has a great advantage as a university center.
There are twenty-four Collegiate Institutes and sixty high schools in the western part of the Province, the majority of which should be "feeders" of a university so conveniently situated as the Western. In primary and secondary education London is second to none. It has a Normal School and a Medical College, the latter a faculty of the Western University. The standing of the medical school is such that the accommodation is severely tested. A live university would complete the chain, and make London what it ought to be—the educational metropolis of Western Ontario.

The council has adopted the wisest course of lending aid. A debenture issue in the present state of the money market, even if the ratepayers were disposed to vote the money, would entail considerable loss. The Legislature will be asked to permit the city to make annual payments out of current revenue for a term of years. No doubt the present senate of the university will be willing to make such amendments in its constitution as are asked for as a condition of municipal support.

JAPAN AS AN EXCLUSIONIST.

The question of alien labor appears to be causing the Japanese Government trouble at home just as it has been for some time a cause of perplexity in the United States and some of the British dominions. According to cable dispatches the Government at Tokio has been obliged to assume the same attitude in regard to the matter as to that which it has been so stubbornly objecting on the part of other countries. Recently hundreds of foreign laborers who have been in the employment of various contractors throughout Japan, have been summarily dismissed and ordered to return to their native countries. This action has been prompted by the opposition of Japanese workmen to the increasing importation of Chinese and Korean laborers. Railway contractors and mine managers have been bringing Chinese coolies to Japan in large numbers for the reason that they work for less money than do the Japanese and are more easily managed. While the Chinaman is content with a wage of twenty cents a day, the Jap insists on more than double that amount.
Consequently there has been a growing demand for the cheaper labor on railways, public works and in the mines. There have been frequent collisions, similar to those in Canadian and United States Pacific coast cities.

That Japan possesses an alien labor law few people even in that country suspect. As a matter of fact when the treaty of July, 1899, with the United States, was concluded, the clause that was inserted at the instance of the latter country, permitting mutual exclusion of foreign labor, applied as equally to immigrants from all nations as to those from the two countries immediately concerned.

At the time Japan, no doubt, little thought she would ever have need to exercise this right, but she now evidently finds it the most satisfactory and expeditious way out of a most unpleasant difficulty. No sooner did the Government become aware to the seriousness of the situation than the exclusion law was put into force with sweeping effect. Since the issue of the order, for the enforcement of the imperial ordinance prohibiting the importation of foreign labor, a large shipment of Chinese have attempted to land at Kobe, but police at once took them in charge and insisted on the owners of the ship deporting them.

A serious problem, growing out of the Government's action, was, what was to be done with this small army of laborers suddenly left penniless and destitute? Many of them were said to be in a straining condition, and for some time it seemed that no provision could be made for their transportation home. They appealed through the Chinese ambassador to the Government, who referred them to the contractors. The latter claimed that having been peremptorily deprived of the labor of these people, they could not afford to meet the expense of their deportation. A recent cable dispatch, however, reported the sailing of one or two shipments of deported laborers from Japan.

Henceforth, Japan may be expected to accord freely to other nations the same right in dealing with alien labor as she is now herself exercising. If she insists upon excluding Chinese labor (which is Asiatic labor), she cannot honestly expect any nation country to refrain from adopting a similar course. Furthermore, Chinese labor in Japan cannot be regarded as calculated to disturb the conditions of labor to nearly such an extent as Asiatic immigration might in Canada or the United States.

THE COUNCIL AND NIAGARA POWER.

The City Council last night instructed the city engineer to submit estimates of the cost of distributing Niagara power in the city, and prepare plans, showing the area to be covered.
He will be permitted to engage a competent electrical engineer to assist him.

It should not be assumed, as is done by Mr. Beck's organ, that the council is unfriendly to the Niagara power project, or that secret influences have been brought to bear upon the aldermen. These insinuations are thrown out for more definite information upon this weighty question.

The City Council of Toronto engaged special engineers to make an independent report upon the local distribution of Niagara power. Their figures proved to be radically different from those of the hydro-electric commission, and the city is now in a position to deal more intelligently with the problem. The local Council is taking the same course. It may cause delay, but there is no imperative reason for haste. No copy of the contract which the council is asked to make with the hydro-electric commission, has yet been forwarded. The City Council has been asked to plunge ahead without this necessary instrument. The ratepayers want to be sure of their ground and will not censure the Council for moving cautiously, and demanding further light.

The Komoka scheme is to be presented to the electors on the installment plan.

The British people are tickled by the suggestion that the Kaiser's visit is a case of going to Canossa.

We shall now hear both sides of the London election case, and not the one side alone, which the Conservative press paraded as the whole truth.

A Chicago woman came to this city with her hoard in a towel to deposit it in a bank which she believed to be safe. The Canadian banks are a case of a good name and great riches going hand in hand.

LOVE'S LABOR LOST.

[Sam Kiser.]
He read the poet's lines to her
When she was young and fair;
He gave a meaning to the words
That few discovered there.
Within his breast he had a heart
Such as no clown might claim;
He had a high regard for art,
And understood the same.
To her he read the poet's lines
With all a poet's feeling,
And now and then she heaved a sigh
While gazing at the ceiling;
But it was not the poet's thought
That caused her pensive mood;
Her heart was so tight that she Was always in distress.

In later years, when he could claim
The lady as his own,
He read the poet's lines to her
As they two sat alone.
His tones were deep and soft and rich,
In every verse he caught
The feeling and the charm with which
The poet's words were fraught.
And while he sat and read to her
With tender enthusiasm,
She often writhed as if she were Agitated to have words from
But never a word he being stirred
To sorrow or delight;
She sighed and rolled her eyes and Sighed again.

Because her shoes were tight.
THEIR IMPEDIMENT.
[Washington Post.]
"When George Ade wintered in Egypt," said a Baltimorean, "it amused him a good deal to see the serious way in which his fellow-tourists took their smattering of the Arabic tongue. They had picked up all this flimsy knowledge in a week or two's reading, but they acted as though it was the precious fruit of a lifetime's study. At Assuan a young woman from St. Joseph complained that she could not understand the Arabic of her guide. To the crowd that encircled her she pointed out the guide—a bent old fellow, with a white beard—and she said bitterly that, after her thorough study of Arabic, it seemed strange that she and this guide could not converse. From the rear of the crowd Mr. Ade called gravely: "It's your own fault, Miss Hodeson. You should have hired a younger guide. These toothless old ones all speak gum Arabic."

HE CARES FOR ME.

[Sam's Horn.]
If I could only have a human career,
That all the little things that tire me so
Were noticed by the Lord—
Pang that cuts me like a knife,
The noise the knowledge, the strife,
What peace it would afford.
I wonder if He really shares
In all my little human cares—
This mighty King of Kings?
If He who guides through boundless space
Each blazing comet in its place,
Can have the condescending grace
To mind these petty things?

CRITICS OF MR. BECK.

[Hamilton Times.]
Hon. Mr. Beck reminds one of the mining company promoter. He is voluble on generalities, but mighty reticent as to details. And it is the latter that interest the careful buyer. There are enough moonbeam chasers abroad without a cabinet minister assuming the role. Give the people the facts and their intelligence will provide the rest—Stratford Herald.
The Herald has taken Mr. Beck's measure correctly. If he would confine himself to definite business statements that would bear examination in the light of known facts and conditions, he would do a great deal for himself and appeal more strongly to intelligent people.

THE AVERAGE MAN.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]
"Pa, what is an average man?"
"One who has a sneaking suspicion that he has qualities which make him superior to anybody else."

RECONCILED TO THE INEVIT- ABLE.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]
"The only thing I can recommend in your case," said the surgeon, "is a long journey."
"Well, if it has to be, doc," the patient groaned, "get out your whittling tools and go ahead with the operation."

CAUTIONS.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]
"Your husband is an extremely cautious man, isn't he?"
"Yes. When we were married I wanted to go right to housekeeping, but he thought it would be better to assume the role of a cautious man, so that if we decided that we didn't care for each other we wouldn't have to sell any furniture at a sacrifice."

A HOT PACE.

[Washington Star.]
Have you not felt the peril which our present pace reveals?
The small, the great, the poor, the rich
Are going it on wheels!
The auto skid in zigzags strange,
The street cars jingle and balk,
Hey, driver! Stop and keep the change!
Let's all get out and walk!
The locomotives madly dash,
Nor fear what wrecks may come.
The roller skater risks a crash,
And says, "That's going some."
We catch our breath and say, "Shake,"
With faces white as chalk.
For pity's sake put on the brake!
Let's all get out and walk!

HE HAD TO GO.

[Harper's Weekly.]
A Chicago medico tells of two physicians in a Wisconsin town, the one elderly, with a long record of cures, the other young, with his record to make. The older doctor, it appears, was inclined to surrender some of his night work to the younger man. One bitter cold night in winter the veteran was aroused by two farmers from a hamlet eight miles away. The wife of one of whom was seriously ill. The doctor at once referred them to his young colleague, but they refused the latter's services.

"Very well," replied the doctor, thinking to put a convincing argument before them.
"In that case my fee is $10, payable now."
Whereupon they refused a remonstrance on the part of the farmers, but the doctor was obstinate. Finally one of the men asked the other:

"Well, what do you think I ought to do?"
"I think you had better pay him the $10," said the other. "The funeral would cost you more."

WHO BOSSSED.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]
Once upon a time a youth who had commenced to navigate the sea of matrimony went to his father and said:
"Father, who should be boss, I or my wife?"

Then the old man smiled and said:
"Here are 100 chickens and a team of horses. Hitch up the horses, load the chickens into the wagon, and wherever you find a man and his wife dwelling stop and ask who is the boss. Wherever you find a woman running things leave a chicken. If you come to a place where a man is in control, give him one of the horses."
After 79 chickens had been disposed of he came to a house and made the usual inquiry.
"I'm boss of this ranch," said the man.
"Got to show me."
So the wife was called and she affirmed her husband's assertion.
"Take whichever horse you want," was the boy's reply.
The husband replied, "I'll take the bay."
But the wife didn't like the bay horse, and she called her husband aside and talked to him. He returned and said:
"I believe I'll take the gray horse."
"Not much," said Missouri. "You'll take a chicken!"

A MODERNIST.

[Washington Star.]
"Don't you wish," said the romantic girl, "that you lived in the old days, when there were knights errant?"
"Certainly not," answered Miss Cayenne.
"A policeman may not be so picturesque as a knight errant, but he is much more reliable in case of disturbance."

HURLS BOMB INTO TENEMENT

Miscrants Dropped It From a New York Elevated Train.

New York, Nov. 19. — A dynamite bomb, which had been thrown from a passing elevated train, threw consternation into the sixteen families who occupy tenements in several floors above Wing Hing's laundry at 382 Third avenue, early today. The lower part of the building was badly damaged by the explosion, but fortunately none of the occupants of the house were injured. Many of them were tumbled out of their beds, and nearly a hundred frightened men, women and children rushed into the street from the rocking building. Many windows in the neighborhood were shattered, and several pedestrians were bowled over in the street near by by the concussion. The thrower of the bomb had not been found. The police are inclined to believe the bomb was hurled by an enemy of the laundry-man, whose shopfront was badly damaged by the explosion. Wing Hing, however, declares that he has no enemies, and that no one had any reason to seek to injure him. He suggested that the bomb had been intended for a Greek restaurant which adjoins his place of business.

SKIRLING PIPES

SCARED WOLVES

Peterboro, Ont., Nov. 19. — Donald McLean, of Warsaw, who recently came to Canada from Scotland, while engaged in deer hunting at the head of Stony Creek, returned to camp Friday night, only to hear the distant howling of timber wolves; his rifle was found to be useless in the dark against the oncoming pack. Mc-Lean, hearing that noises of various descriptions had been effectively used to frighten off wolves, selected the bagpipes, and playing them incessantly, walked constantly around a large tree for several hours. The wolves of the district grew distant, and they finally disappeared.
McLean declares that he owes his life to the lively skirling of the bagpipes.

produced a colt called Music Master.
He can trot some and should sire speed, as through Moko he gets the extreme "lick" of the Strathmores, so well shown in Bumps, 2:03½, pacing, to wagon, full brother to Moko.
McLean declares that he owes his life to the lively skirling of the bag-
pipes.

Another Streeter Star.

But while Santos is the star of the Streeter broodmares, there is another, Alberta, foaled in 1899, that looks like a wonder colt, and has an inheritance of extreme speed, especially at the pace, although all her foals trot. She is by Albert W., 2:20, trotting son of Electioneer; first dam by Echo (sire of the dam of Direct, 2:06½, pacing); second dam by Alberta (sire of Flying 115, 2:04, and of the dam of An-acanda, 2:01½, both pacers). Alberta was brought from California by Monroe Salisbury and sold to F. S. Gorton, of Chicago, who bred her to Ax-tell, the result being a filly foaled in 1897.

This miss when three weeks old so attracted Mr. Streeter that he bought the youngster and its dam. The filly, called Lady Katherine, took a record of 2:17½ at 5 years, and was beaten a head only in 2:12, it taking so good a horse as Dr. Strong to do the trick.
Then she went to Austria and now is a brood mare.

Alberta, a high strung thing, as are most good broodmares, was used in various ways by Streeter. For one thing she hauled a buggy for two years in his construction camps. Also she was loaned one winter to a Kalamazoo man and ran off the first time he hitched her, first nearly upsetting the sleigh. Finally she was bred to Peter the Great and the foal now is known as Icon. She was a trotter from the start, being up to a mile in 2:30 as a 2-year-old and at 3 could beat 2:20. She trotted in 2:14½, and this year made to a mark of 2:10, looking like a sure 2:08 horse at the end of that mile.

Her sale, presumably to the English, was made the other day at a price of $10,000.

After Icon was foaled Alberta was sold to Bingen, and the filly foal was appropriately called Rhinestone. In 1905 Alberta foaled a sister to Icon called Amelita. In 1906 she missed to Maxworthy, and this year was bred to Music Master. In 1908 she will be sent to Peter the Great in the hope of getting a brother or sister to Icon.

Mr. Streeter had two other foundation broodmares, Kahla Belle, by Pilot
Medium, and Episodic, by Ambassador.
They have produced some speed, but Santos and Alberta are champions, and for a breeder who had no farm and no stallion of his own Mr. Streeter stands alone in that sphere. He naturally is pleased with the results, but never falls, when the subject is discussed, to give Johnston credit for his handling of the colts.

In a recent talk with me he said:
"As time goes by Peter's work becomes more and more impressive.
From the days of Bodine, which won over $70,000 in purses in one season more than 30 years ago, with Monroe Chief and Piedmont, greatest race horse trotting stallions of their time, job; Peter the Great, Kentucky Fu-

CASTING A BRONZE STATUE.

Immense pains and immense labor attend the production of a bronze statue of any size, even after the artist has done his work," remarks a sculptor.

"To begin with, the plaster model has to be completely covered with small lumps of a special kind of sand, sometimes as many as 1,500 or 2,000 of these pieces being required. After these blocks of sand are dry they are taken off the cast one at a time and carefully put together to form the mold. The latter is then filled with clay, and the same operations are again gone through, a facsimile of the plaster cast being thus obtained.

"Then comes the most delicate part of the whole work. The clay model or 'core,' as it is technically called, has to have a quarter of an inch taken off its entire surface, which is anything but easy, especially if the subject is at all ornate.

"The core is then again put into the mold—which has of course to be reconstructed once more—being kept exactly in the center by means of iron rods.
"The molten bronze is then poured in from the top, completely filling the space between the core and the mold.
After it has cooled the latter is then removed and the clay interior extracted, when the statue somewhat rough and needing a slight touching up, is revealed."—Cassell's Journal.

THE GUARDED SECRET

It was a curious yet so natural mistake that all had drifted insensibly into it. Dr. Anthony had said that he was carrying at least five miles from Maywood to the mysterious mansion. No one had reflected that Maywood was five miles distant from Chestnut or if they had it did not connect itself at all with the mystery of Alne's disappearance. No one except the keen-witted detective dreamed for an instant of connecting Delaney House with the mystery, and his suspicions were at first diverted by his employer's confident remark. He turned his attention at once to another subject, and gave up the vague idea. Delaney House was destined to hold its secret yet.

"With one black shadow at its feet, the house thro' all the level shines, close-latticed to the brooding heat, and silent in its dusky eaves," And 'Ave, Mary,' was her moan, 'Madonna,' said it night and morn'; And 'Ah,' she sung, 'to be alone, To live forgotten and love forlorn.'"

Mr. Lane gave his closest attention and best talents to the solution of the mystery, and he felt perfectly confident of success. When had he, the most able detective in the great city of New York, failed in any undertaking? It was not likely he should be foiled here in this little country town. He settled himself at the pretentious hotel as an inviolable gentleman in search of health. He had his own private buggy sent down from the city, and he made solitary excursions into the surrounding country in quest of the goddess of health, as he pretended. Sometimes while walking, no one suspected his real reasons for being in the town. He passed everywhere for that which he represented himself to be.

Weeks came and went, and he was no nearer the solution of the mystery, no nearer the finding of Alne than when he first came to Chester. A baffled feeling began to grow upon him, but still he would not own himself defeated, would not give up the quest. It was quite impossible that he should fail, he told himself, inspired by the natural self-confidence of one who has always succeeded. Some day he would be sure to find the aristocratic mansion with the beautiful blue room, where the wounded girl was hidden away from the yearning hearts of those who loved and mourned her.

CHAPTER XVI.

Alne Rodney possessed a very quick and passionate temper. She had been very injudiciously spoiled by her father and very judiciously punished by her mother. The result showed itself in a wilful, capricious temper, that could not bear contradiction and restraint.

When Mr. Delaney firmly reiterated his assertion, that she should never be permitted to leave Delaney House unless she solemnly pledged herself to silence regarding her sojourn there, Alne's young heart was filled with the bitterest anger and rebellion. She was unaccustomed to absolute control. Her mother's efforts in that direction were weak and futile, her father's love made him blind to the inherent obstinacy of her nature. When Oran Delaney, strong and masterful as he was by nature, undertook to dictate to this spoiled, petted child, he found that he had incurred a serious risk. "I am ashamed to record this of my heroine—such characters are expected to realize our ideal of perfection—but she flew into a passion. She scolded, she flew into a passion. She scolded Mr. Delaney in the bitterest terms she was capable of. She reproached him sharply little tongue could devise. She reproached him angrily, laying all the blame of her presence in the house upon his broad shoulders, and utterly ignoring her share in it. She was half-maddened by her sense of wrong and injury, and when she found that all her remonstrance broke against his strong, firm will, like water against a rock, she relapsed into violent hysterics.

She was not your ideal of a heroine, reader, nor mine, nor Oran Delaney's. His proud lip curled, half in pity, half in scorn, at her passionate ravings. He was not at all frightened by her anger. He said to himself that it was the time, at least, that she had a decided shrewish temper; but at the same time he could not help seeing how beautiful she was in her anger and spite. Her blue eyes sparkled through the tears that had them, a crimson color glow- ing upon her cheeks. Her voice, even at its sharpest, trembled with her sense of injury, and had a certain pathos that made it sound musical. She would have been sure to arouse, Her whole proud spirit was aroused. She would have been sure to arouse, Her whole proud spirit was aroused. She would have been sure to arouse, Her whole proud spirit was aroused.

If Alne had been well and strong, Mr. Delaney would have laughed at her anger; but he grew apprehensive now. It was not well for her to excite herself. He regretted his precipitancy in acquainting her with his intentions. He wished that he had temporized with her.

"But how was I to know that she would take it so hardly?" he muttered to himself. He was greatly relieved when Mrs. Griffin suddenly put in an appearance. She was honestly as honest at the state of the patient, and while hurriedly mixing a composing draught, she gave loud utterance to her anxiety.

"This will be the death of her. A fever will be sure to set in. I cannot imagine what you have said to excite her so much, Mr. Delaney. It was very imprudent."

"I did not know she would take it so hard," he muttered, glancing uneasily at Alne, whose angry reproaches had subsided into low, smothered sobs and heart-broken wails. "You had better leave her to take this medicine, when you are gone."

He went up to Alne and held out his hand. "I am sorry you think so hardly of me," he said, "try to forgive me, won't you, Alne?"

"I will never forgive you," Alne cried out resentfully, as she pushed the offered hand away. And Mr. Delaney went away, then, without another word or look.

But Mrs. Griffin gave her a glance of lively reproach. "For shame, Miss Rodney!" she cried. "You might treat Mr. Delaney civilly, at least, considering that he saved your life."

"When?" demanded Alne, desisting from her sobs in sheer surprise. "There, now! I always said I had a long tongue," Mrs. Delaney told me not to tell."

"When did he save my life?" demanded the girl, in her pretty, petulant way. "Don't worry, Miss Rodney, that was a mere slip of the tongue, just now," said Mrs. Griffin, as she approached with the wine-glass of medicine. "I shall not take the medicine unless you tell me what you meant by saying that Mr. Delaney saved my life," declared Alne, coolly.

"Won't you? Then I shall have to call him back to pour it down your throat, as he did last night," threatened the nurse, vexed at the willfulness of her patient. "You will do no such thing, for I shall immediately tell him what you have said, and ask him if it is true," declared the perverse girl; "but, if you tell me the truth, I shall not tell him that you betrayed his confidence."

Mrs. Griffin looked thoroughly vexed, but seeing what a headstrong nature she had to deal with, she meekly capitulated. "If excitement weren't so hurtful to you, I'd tell you your worst, my spoiled young lady," she said; "but, for your own sake, and to save you from another fit of temper, I'll tell you the truth. Mr. Delaney saved you from that creature that assaulted you yesterday. She had already wounded him upstairs, but he pursued her and reached the parlor just in time to prevent her from giving you a second stab with her dagger; and if she had succeeded in that second attempt you would have bidden good-bye to this world, my pretty one."

Alne shuddered at the emphatic tone. Mrs. Griffin held out the medicine to her, and she swallowed it meekly, without a word of remonstrance. Her pretty face, still flushed from her anger and tears, looked very grave.

"I am very glad he saved my life," she said, after a minute, thoughtfully. "I should not like to die yet. I am too young, and the world is too lovely."

"As well die young as old," growled the grim nurse. "One is saved a deal of pain by it."

"You are an old croaker, like Mr. Delaney," Alne exclaimed impatiently. "I dare say I shall be as hopeful and happy and as much in love with life when I am old as I am now."

"Let us hope so," said the old woman, dryly; then she added, with some spirit: "As for Mr. Delaney being an old croaker, Miss Rodney, he is not old yet, let me tell you. He is only a little past thirty. I nursed him when he was a baby."

"Did you, really, Mrs. Griffin? How strange!" cried Alne, trying to realize the fact that Mr. Delaney had ever been a baby. She looked at Mrs. Griffin meditatively a moment, and as a vision of the tall, handsome man in bibs and long skirts came before her mind's eye, she burst out laughing.

"Well, I never saw such a child-crying one moment, laughing the next!" cried Mrs. Griffin, offended at her levity. "Don't be angry, nurse. I was only laughing at the idea of that stern dark man ever being a baby. Tell me, did you really nurse him? And was he a pretty baby? And was his mamma very fond of him?" cried volubly.

"His mamma died when he was born, Miss Rodney. She was as young as you are, I believe, and she had a vast deal more dignity than you have," Mrs. Griffin said, reprovingly. "I have no dignity at all. I have heard that every day of my life, and I am eighteen years old," said Alne, rather soberly; "and this poor young mother who died so sadly, Mrs. Griffin, was she a pretty girl?"

"How do you fly from one subject to another, miss?" cried Mrs. Griffin. "Yes, she was very beautiful. But, my dear, I don't think Mr. Delaney would like for me to discuss his family affairs with a stranger. Suppose you shut your eyes and go to sleep. You have had too much excitement already."

Alne could be a very sweet, obedient child when it pleased her to be so. She relapsed into one of those graceful moods now. She nestled her dark head down upon the pillow and obediently closed her eyes.

But she was not asleep, although the grim nurse "laid that flattering unction to her soul." She was busily thinking, "So Mr. Delaney saved my life," she was saying to herself. "Why did he not tell me? I might not have been quite so abominable to him then. What a little wretch he must think me! I am sorry his mother died when he was a baby. I don't think I should have had a very pleasant life if my mamma had died like that, even though she scolded me and punished me sometimes."

She was unconsciously penitent for all her rudeness and anger towards Mr. Delaney. He had saved her life. That was a great boon in Alne's eyes. She was young and fair, and life was very sweet.

"I should not have been quite so bad if only I had known," she repeated to herself. "I will be kinder to him after this. I do not want him to think me a little heather. But he should not keep me here against my will. He must know that I want to go home."

While she lay thus apparently sleeping, but in reality busily thinking, the nurse watched her anxiously. She believed the girl was asleep, but she did not like to see the bright, warm color that began to burn fitfully on the fair cheek beneath the long, dark fringe of the lashes.

"I do not like the look of it," she muttered, shaking her gray head ominously. "Twill be a mercy if fever does not set in after all that passion was in. And if it does, he daren't bring the physician again. The risk will be too great."

She started when the blue eyes un- closed presently and looked up into her face. They were naturally dark, and bright.

"Send Mr. Delaney to me," she said. "I am not going to tell him what you said, nurse, oh, no! Only send him here." He came, and when he saw the faint light in her eyes he was frightened. They were unnatural.

Alne put out her dainty, dimpled hand to him. "I was very rude to you," she said simply. "Will you pardon me, Mr. Delaney?"

He clasped the small hand gently, and assured her that he was not offended in the least. He knew that he had given her great cause to be angry with him.

"Still I need not have been such a little wretch," she said, "and— I punished myself when I would not take the flowers. I wanted them very much. Will you give them to me now?"

He brought the little basket to her and she buried her face among the cool, dewy leaves of the roses. She began to talk to them in a childish whisper, that suddenly grew into a loud, meaningless, vacant babble. Oran Delaney looked anxiously at Mrs. Griffin.

"Great heaven!" he said. "What ails her? What does it mean?" She shook her gray head gloomily. "It is fever! I feared as much," she said. "The excitement was too great in her weak, wounded condition. Heaven only knows how it will end."

It was fever, indeed. Alne's reckless indulgence of her wrath had wrought the worst possible results. Fever and delirium had set in. The wound which they had thought so lightly of at first now threatened to terminate fatally.

"If she dies it will be I who have killed her. I was a fool! I was mad as a vision of the tall, handsome man surely when I told her all I did," said Oran Delaney to himself.

The fever set in high, and strong, and violent. It was pitiful to hear the sweet, high-pitched voice, raving of the dear ones from whom she was cruelly separated. As she fought the hard battle between the opposing forces of life, and death, she clung upon them all to help her—mamma, papa, Max, and Effie, all those dearly beloved ones who were so near and yet so cruelly far.

SAVED FROM DECAPITATION
As Executioner's Axe Was About To Fall Reprieve Came.

Dortmund, Germany, Nov. 18.—Condemned to be beheaded for murdering a mine foreman, Kurschutznar, narrowly escaped decapitation by a reprieve, which arrived a few seconds before the axe was to fall.

Kurschutznar had been prepared for death by priests and was brought from his cell to the block in the presence of the usual official witnesses, the executioner, his office, was waiting to raise the axe, which is still used in certain parts of Germany, when one of the jailers hurried into the execution hall with a telegram for the governor of the prison, having pasted upon it a scarlet slip, indicating that

It is because Dr. Chase's Ointment possesses in a remarkable degree the ability to stop itching and heal raw skin that it has become known the world over as the most successful treatment for such diseases of the skin as eczema, salt rheum and psoriasis.

By all means tone up the system by the use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but also cure the eczema by the local application of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The wretched stinging, itching sensations will soon disappear under this treatment and gradually and naturally the raw sores will become smaller and smaller until they entirely disappear.

But there are scores of ways in which the eczema is useful in every home, and especially so where there are children who suffer from teething eczema, chafing, insect bites, hives, poisoned skin or any form of skin irritation or eruption.

The sailor blouse suit, in any of its numerous variations, is always becoming to little girls, and a design that is rather out of the ordinary is illustrated here. The sleeves are pleated at the wrist in the approved mode, and the side-pleated, attached skirt has a smart flare at the hem. The frock has a removable shield and closes at the side-front. For serge, mohair or other serviceable woollens the style is excellent, 5½ yards 44 inches wide being needed for the 8-year-old size. 4265—Eight sizes, 5 to 12 years. UNEARTH PLOT TO BEAT P. M.

Railroad Officials Say Passes
Are Stolen and Then Sold—Three Men Arrested.

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 18.—Clarance Kingham, Percy McGonigal, and Paul McKenzie are detained at the police station here in connection with an alleged plot to defraud the Pere Marquette Railroad by the sale of stolen passes. According to the company, the scheme was to cut blanks out of books of passes which each department of the railroad has filled out and sell them. The company's officials say one of the men in the railroad's employ abstracted the passes, turned them over to another man, a former clerk, who filled them out, and then the third, an outsider, disposed of them to travelers.

Pere Marquette conductors have, it is said, been suspicious of many passes tendered for transportation, and reported the matter to their superiors. The latter investigated, and say they have unearthed a systematic scheme for selling stolen passes, which has, it is alleged, caused the loss of a large sum to the company.

The company is considering a new form pass and additional restrictions regarding its handling which will make it impossible for such schemes to be worked in the future.

AFRICAN COTTON JUST A DREAM

Germany's Colony Will Not Compete With America
Yet Awhile.

Berlin, Nov. 18.—When Herr Dernburg, colonial secretary, started on his journey to German East Africa there was much talk about the founding of cotton plantations in the colonies for the purpose of making German manufacturers independent of American cotton planters. From the persons who accompanied him on his journey it is learned that the prospects for cotton raising in East Africa are not bright, as described by Herr Dernburg before his departure.

The country chosen for the establishment of the cotton plantations lies in valleys, which will prove fertile only when artificial irrigation is provided. Experts declare that the cost of installing the irrigation plants will be prohibitive. Besides, the question of labor is a serious one. The natives of the valleys in East Africa dislike work, and under these circumstances cotton growing can never become a success.

Herr Von Otto, a cotton goods manufacturer of Saxony, who purchased 5,000 acres for the purpose of founding a cotton plantation, has become convinced that the negroes cannot be relied on, and he has decided to ship 150 families to his domains to work in the cotton fields.

Persons conversant with the cotton industry in America know that when native labor cannot be utilized for cotton raising the United States has nothing to fear from German East Africa as far as rivalry and competition in the cotton industry are concerned.

NO MIXED MARRIAGES

Pastoral From Archbishop Bruchesi
Absolutely Forbidding Them.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—An important pastoral was read in the Roman Catholic churches today, absolutely forbidding mixed marriages. Archbishop Bruchesi made an announcement that in so far as this diocese is concerned dispensations will no longer be granted to Roman Catholics wishing to marry Protestants. The custom hitherto in vogue is done away with. In strong and emphatic language his grace places a ban upon all such unions. Hereafter should Protestants and Catholics wish to marry they will not be able to secure the blessing of the church upon their union.

ROYAL VISIT ENDS.

M'CARREN GANG IS INVOLVED

Politicians Must Tell the Grand Jury of Dealings With Wrecked Banks.

New York, Nov. 18.—The affairs of the Brooklyn institutions which were put into the hands of receivers by the action of Attorney-General Jackson, on Saturday after he had stated that in two of the institutions there would be an investigation with a view to criminal prosecutions, will come before the grand jury in Brooklyn at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

In his statement of Saturday, Attorney-General Jackson spoke of certain forgeries which had been found in the affairs of one of the banks. The Borough Bank, known in Brooklyn as the "Politicians' Bank," was the bank referred to.

The names of a number of prominent Brooklyn politicians have been mentioned in connection with the bank's affairs, including those of Senator Patrick McCarren, former Sheriff Butting, Senator Reynolds, and others of the McCarren following.

FIERCE BATTLE WITH ARMED GANG

Montreal Detectives Attack a Party of Supposed Bank Burglars.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—A pitched battle between city detectives and a band of supposed bank-robbing crooks occurred this evening at St. Lambert's just across the river from Montreal, which resulted in the arrest of two of the crooks. Although there were six detectives and six crooks, all of whom were busy emptying revolvers at each other, not one of the whole party was injured, and the detectives scored a bloodless victory.

Chief Carpenter, of the city detective force, was this evening informed that a band of men, supposed to be robbers, were camped near St. Lambert's, and he dispatched half a dozen of his men to gather in, guided by the man who brought in the information. While on the way the detectives met four men on the road, but passed them, thinking they were not the men they were after. Later they found two of the gang sitting by a campfire.

As soon as the detectives appeared the strangers opened fire on them with revolvers, and the detectives pulled their guns and fired back. The shots alarmed the four on the road, who were also members of the gang, and they at once ran back and attacked the detectives from the rear. The latter, however, won out, and the four decamped, leaving the original two to be arrested. The latter gave their names as John Brown and Will Hudson, but their names do not count for much as yet.

It is thought that the gang was composed of the men who have been traveling through the Province, burglarizing banks and stores lately.

Horace George Rayer left the infirmary at Parkhurst prison the other day, but came back again almost immediately. He is at present in the infirmary under the special observation of the medical staff. Punishment is rarely inflicted in cases of attempted suicide.

The Rev. A. N. Cooper, known as the walking parson, described at Leeds his walk from Fife to Pompeii. He started on April 8, and accomplished the journey of 900 miles there and back in six weeks. He went over the St. Bernard Pass when the snow was 10 feet deep.

A correspondent has sent an indignant letter to the press, alleging that a needless insult has been paid to the ladies who show their interest in political affairs by wire-netting being put in front of the ladies' "grille" in the House of Commons, because of last year's disturbances.

The Lord Mayor announced that the £50,000 required for his Cripples' Fund had been received—and exceeded. The last social function of Sir W. Treloar's term of office was held at the Mansion House, when Lady Treloar was presented by the common council with a diamond and ruby ring.

Some shipments of port fetched remarkably low prices at Mincing Lane. About 500 pipes, or 70,000 gallons, of port from one of the best known Oporto firms, were sold for about half their shipping prices. Some "soft, old, delicate tawny" port, which would be shipped at £42 a pipe, was sold at £25.

CLUB FOR CHORUS GIRLS

Pittsburg Minister at Head of Such a Project.

Pittsburg, Nov. 18.—A club house for chorus girls, including among its many attractive features a place for the girls to dance, and all this arranged and countenanced by church people, is the latest fad in Pittsburg.

Rev. S. Edward Young, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, of Pittsburg, is head of the scheme.

"It would be my idea to not make the club so strict along religious lines as to drive away those girls who are really not religiously inclined," he said today. "Of course I would want an air of religion about the place, but I would not care to have it so absolutely rigid that chorus girls of whom have been used to living a different sort of life after show hours, would not feel that they were welcome."

COUNCIL DESIRES MORE LIGHT

$292,500, for waterworks extension purposes. Ald. Stevenson explained that although this was the same amount as the proposed bylaw asked for it did not stipulate that it was for any special scheme, whereas the bylaw as proposed was for the Komoka scheme.

Ald. Matthews maintained that the bylaw as proposed by the commissioners was simply a scheme to get the people started, and then when they could not draw back, the other $276,000, making a total of $568,000, which had originally been asked for would be demanded. He thought that it would be well to ask for $575,000 at once, and made a motion to that effect, which was lost.

The motion of Ald. Stevenson was then put and was also lost.

The Western Grant.

No. 1 committee made the recommendation that application be made to the Legislature at its next session for an act authorizing the city to grant to the university, now known as the Western University, or hereafter to be known by such name as may be given to it by the Legislature, a sum of money, to be paid annually for such a term of years as the city may think fit, upon condition that the university be made and always remain absolutely undenominational in every respect, and be governed by a board of governors, upon which board the city shall have such numbers of representatives as the council may hereafter decide upon.

The committee be empowered to confer with representatives from the senate of the university for the purpose of arranging all details and preparing such clause or clauses as it may be necessary to insert in the city of London bill in connection therewith. This was carried, and it was suggested that the number of representatives upon the board be four. This, however, was left over for another meeting to decide definitely.

Minor Business.

No. 1 committee's recommendation that the offer of Miss May Scott to sell a house, 56 Waterloo street, for the sum of $1,510 be accepted, was also carried.

The bylaws to appoint a building inspector and to issue debentures for $19,000 for a north end fire hall, were left over.

Communications were received from Mrs. J. Lloyd, asking that her taxes be remitted, as in the past. Referred to court of revision.

The Chosen Friends wrote asking for the use of the city hall on the evening of Dec. 13, for the annual concert. The matter was left over to see what arrangements could be made.

Secretary Ennals wrote the Mann Brass Works that a meter was placed to supply these premises with the following results, consumption for first quarter, 13,100 cubic feet; second quarter 13,800; third, 14,600; fourth, 15,000; total, 57,100 cubic feet.

The amount of $7,140 by the company for the supply and meter rent was $63.88. The commissioners' estimate per 100 cubic feet is 5.5 cents.

Mrs. F. Moffatt wrote asking that her taxes be remitted. Referred to court of revision.

Mr. K. L. Aitken, of Toronto, wrote asking when the council would likely appoint a consulting engineer for the distribution of Niagara power.

The Central Engineering Company, through Mr. G. Best, wrote offering to install a municipal lighting plant on an absolute guarantee of a total cost of one cent per kilo-watt hour. This would make the cost of the lighting $25 or less per annum per arc lamp. Referred to power and light committee.

Thomas Williamson, of Oxford Park, wrote asking permission to open a street between Wilson avenue and the Wharfside road, opposite to Surrey avenue. Referred to No. 2.

The Brotherhood of Trainmen, Forest City Lodge, No. 240, asked for the use of the city hall on Dec. 31, for their annual ball. Granted.

The members of High Street Methodist Church wrote asking for the use of the city hall to hold a bazaar on Dec. 12 and 13. This was left over to see if the date can be changed.

The Real Estate Owners' Association wrote requesting that the city and east end be heated, lighted and kept open for public meetings during the week of the municipal nominations in order that the public might be given a chance to discuss the bylaws. Referred to No. 1.

City Solicitor Meredith wrote stating that in his opinion Mayor Judd's ruling on the question of Sunday cars was correct.

J. W. Lyon, secretary treasurer of the Niagara Power Union, wrote that he would send a model for the proposed power bylaw to be voted upon at the next election.

WHY CATARRH POISONS THE SYSTEM.

The Catarrh germ excites inflammation, offensive secretions are thrown off and pass into the circulation, contaminating the river of life and thus wreck the whole body. Every catarrh victim should use fragrant, healing Catarrhazone, the surest cure for every type of catarrh yet discovered. Catarrhazone can't fail to cure because its vapor kills the germs and removes the cause of the trouble. Then it soothes and heals, stops the cough and relieves the stuffed-up condition of the nose and throat. Tens of thousands have been cured by Catarrhazone, which is guaranteed. Use only Catarrhazone. KITE WENT UP BUT DROPPED TO WATER

But Inventor of Telephone Is Satisfied as Conditions Were All Unfavorable.

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 18.—The preparatory rehearsal to trying out the huge tetrahedral kite lately constructed by Dr. Alexander Graham Bell at the Mine Research Laboratories, Baddeck, was held Friday afternoon. At 3 o'clock a model of the new kite, composed of 240 cells was taken out on the lake on the Ugly Duckling, a contrivance specially arranged for giving the kite an upward start in the air, the surface of the Ugly Duckling, a five-knot breeze the steamer started up the harbor. Dr. Bell had given instructions that the kite was not to be freed until the Blue Hill had reached the outer bay, and was going at full steam.

The kite was launched, and the machine, fair into the wind, and the Ugly Duckling soon began to show signs of distress, disappearing at times almost completely under the water. The men in charge of the kite, fearing their supposition was going to be towed under, after the rest, and the machine soared gracefully up into the air. The speed, however, was not great enough and after a short flight it settled slowly on the water.

Dr. Bell was completely satisfied with the test. In the first place the kite had gone up while the Blue Hill was going at less than half the required speed, and again the lifting power was anything but fair in the wind when the kite was set free. Dr. Bell claims that once the kite got up in the air at a certain speed she may be maneuvered about regardless of the direction of the wind.

This week the tests will be continued.

DECREASED LUMBER CUT.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Preliminary reports received in the Department of Lands, Forests and Game, that the lumber cut in Ontario this season will be below the average of the last few years. In some cases the cut has been as low as 10 per cent of the men they desire, and in others they are limiting the cut, with a view to keeping down expenses.

CHARGED WITH NON-SUPPORT

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Frederick G. Shephard, a butcher, will go before a jury on the charge of neglecting to provide the necessities of life for his wife and family. Mrs. Shephard said she returned from a six months' visit to her mother in Winnipeg, to find her husband living with another woman. She has eleven children living, five under the age of 14 years.

GOES TO CHAIR SMILING.

Ossington, N. Y., Nov. 18.—John Wenzel, the murderer of George Spatz, a Brooklyn saloonkeeper, went to his death in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison today, with a smile just as he had promised his sister he would do. The sister visited him in the death house yesterday, and before her departure Wenzel said, "I will walk to the chair with a smile on my face and the smile will be for you." Wenzel went to the chair without the slightest show of fear, and as the straps were being adjusted he said good-bye to the warden and one of the witnesses whom he recognized. A moment later the electric current was turned on. Death was almost instantaneous.

HOW TO MAKE BEST HOME REMEDY

A Fine Prescription To Relieve Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

A large health publication tells its readers of a number of simple and safe prescriptions that can be made at home. The following, however, for the cure of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles receives the greatest praise, viz., Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple, harmless ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy at little cost, and are mixed by shaking well in a bottle.

The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime, drinking a full tumblerful of water after each dose. It is further stated that this prescription is a positive remedy for kidney trouble and lame back, weak bladder and urinary difficulties, especially of the elderly people, and one of the best things to be used in rheumatic affections, relieving the aches and pains and reducing swellings in just a short while.

A well-known local druggist states that this mixture acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, cleanses these spongelike organs and gives them power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, which is the cause of rheumatism.

Cut this out and hand to some sufferer, which would certainly be an act of humanity.

The beginning and the end of the meals of the day should be Chase & Sanborn's SEAL BRAND COFFEE. It's the first thing for breakfast—the last for dinner—and the "best thing" in every meal.

Four Months for a Morphine Fiend P. M. Love Makes Attempt at Rescue

Out of Sheer Kindness He Sent the Man to Jail, Out of Reach of Drug.

"Out of sheer kindness to yourself, Joseph Morton, and in the hope that it will break you of the awful morphine habit, which you have contracted for four months," said Magistrate Love this morning. "You will be placed under the charge of a doctor and everything will be done to help you. No one believes that you were a thief willingly. People who have contracted the morphine habit will do anything to obtain it."

Unfortunate Case.

Morton is a respectable looking Englishman, who has served in the army for many years, and has hitherto borne a spotless reputation. A few days ago he stole an overcoat, while under the influence of the drug. Upon examination it was discovered that his arms were full of punctures caused by morphine needles.

Wanted to Fight.

Joseph Ward, a young man, who went into a local hotel last night and wanted to fight everyone in sight, was fined $10.

Broke a Walk.

Frank Pickle, charged with driving a traction engine over a cement sidewalk, was fined $3. Mr. Pickle thought the sidewalk did not amount to much, but when he was informed that he was liable to a fine of $50 for his offense, paid the money and was glad to let it go at that.

Let Go With Warning.

A citizen, charged with driving an automobile at a furious rate on the street, failed to put in an appearance and the case was enlarged until tomorrow.

Frank Copperburg, a peddler, was charged with not wearing his badge in his hat while following his work, and explained in very broken English that the elastic had broken. He was let go with a warning to wear the badge in future.

Five persons who rode their bicycles on the sidewalk were fined $1 each.

David Ross pleaded guilty to being drunk, and was fined $2.

The case of Thomas Fox, charged by Douglas Wheeler with a breach of the pawnbrokers' act, was left over until tomorrow.

Tell the Operator If There Is a Fire

Fire Chief Clark desires to call the attention of the public to the fact that many citizens when sending in fire alarms greatly hamper the operators of the Bell Telephone Company, and also the brigade, by refusing to answer the questions of the operators. The first thing to do is to ask for the fire department.

Central will ask, "Is there a fire?"

The answer should be given at once, "Yes."

Central then rings the private alarm of the brigade, and as she does, she asks where the fire is.

The answer should be given readily, and while the horses are galloping under the harness, she repeats to the man on duty at the phone where the fire is.

Then the fireman repeats twice the direction to proceed and away go the fire fighters to the fire.

The other day Central asked a certain citizen where the fire was. "None of your business," he replied. And the brigade was delayed until the man answered the operator's question.

Of course, Central will not ring out the brigade unless there is a fire, and the operator must be told plainly that there is a fire and then where it is.

May Lose the $20,000 Hospital Offer

It was rumored today that as a result of the apathy displayed by certain members of the city council last night in reference to the tuberculosis hospital, Mr. Blair, who offered to donate $20,000 toward the project, would withdraw the offer.

Although the rumor cannot be verified it is known that Mr. Blair feels very much annoyed that the council should look upon his offer in the light they apparently did when they only voted to place the matter before the people in January by a vote of 5 to 6. Well informed people about the city are, however, inclined to think that when the time comes Mr. Blair will not back down.

BENEDICT BETTER THAN BACHELOR

The statement appeared in an American paper a few days ago that 80 per cent of the intoxicated who appear in Chicago police courts are bachelors. Judge Newcomer, of that place, made the statement that marriage was the greatest reforming influence in the world for these men. A number of other prominent judges, who every year come in contact with thousands of drunkards, expressed opinions coinciding with those of Judge Newcomer. Magistrate Love, when asked regarding the matter this morning, admitted that it was a fact that the majority of the men who came before him on charges of drunkenness were unmarried men, but his worship was rather non-committal when questioned as to the advisability of their marrying to be cured of drunkenness. Too many of them, he thought, would be shiftless, and would not be satisfied to settle down. Many cases of this kind end in the wife being either deserted or else having to sue for non-support, when a separation generally results. This sort of thing is most unsatisfactory all round.

Row Over Electric Signs Is Brewing

It is not unlikely that certain merchants who have gone ahead and erected electric signs over their stores on Dundas street may have to take them down again.

The recommendation of No. 2 committee that these merchants be given permission to erect these signs failed to pass the council last night, and several of the aldermen expressed themselves rather strongly on the subject, especially when they learned that many signs have been erected and are in operation without permission.

sion having been given either by the council or the engineer.

It was pointed out that there is absolutely no guarantee between anyone and the city that the merchants shall live up to the regulations in regard to keeping the signs lit for the required number of hours.

The understanding, as far as it has gone, is simply between the merchant and the out-of-town firm who is putting them up, and in case of failure the city can not hold the merchants responsible any further than that they can make them take the signs down. The matter will come up at the next meeting of the committee.

First Tenor of Holman Opera Company

The Pittsburgh Dispatch of Nov. 16 contains the following account of the death of Mr. Charles H. Drew, who was one of the first tenors of the Holman Opera Company of London, of which Miss Sally Holman was the star, many years ago.

Charles H. Drew, the comedian, who died yesterday, had charge of the opera company which appeared years ago in the old Schenley Park Casino, afterwards destroyed by fire. He was connected for several seasons with the stock opera companies which appeared at the Duquesne Garden. In fact, Mr. Drew was connected for so long with Pittsburgh theaters that he was regarded as a Pittsburgher. He had hosts of friends there. He was born in Massillon, Ohio, and spent his boyhood there, so that he really belonged to the Pittsburgh district. He first appeared on the stage with the Holman Opera Company, of London, member, and during most of his stage career he was a comic opera comedian. He was the original Koko in "The Mikado," in which part he was seen many times in Pittsburgh. Few of his Pittsburgh friends will realize that "Charles" Drew was past 61, or that he had been on the stage for 44 years.

Niagara Power Again on Wednesday

No. 1 committee of the council will hold a special meeting on Wednesday night to again consider the Niagara power matter.

Engineer Richards, of the commission, is proposing much data for the aldermen, and it is promised that Mr. Beck will provide some more information, though it is doubtful if he will be here on Wednesday night in person.

Mr. Beck has also intimated to Ald. Stevely, president of the board of trade, that he will be unable to be present at a meeting on Friday night, which it was intended to call for the purpose of discussing Niagara power. Consequently the meeting has been called off.

It was stated today by several of the aldermen that the council's action last night in shelving the bylaw for some weeks, at least.

Mr. Beck and Engineer Richards were in the afternoon ready to address the council again, but they were not called in.

The member for London, when he saw the drift of things, left the city hall without saying anything to anybody, and he was not there when the matter was finally shelved.

Death of Sergt. J. H. Simpson.

At the Toronto General Hospital on Sunday James H. Simpson, staff sergeant of the Royal Grenadiers, passed away after an illness of only a fortnight. He came to Toronto from the old country in 1888, but during the next ten years lived in this city, Tillsonburg and Guelph, returning to Toronto in 1898. Sergt. Simpson was a crack shot and represented Canada at Bisley on eight occasions. In Canada he won the Governor-General's prize in 1893 and 1901. Sergeant Simpson's second wife is living. He leaves six children.

Big Chief Won't Light Morning Fire For His Little Kickapoo Maiden

And Mrs. Antone Wants Him Sent Away Until He Is Good.

An Oneida Indian case is being tried at the court house today before Squire Chittick, and the Indian jabber made Lawyers Meredith and Pauls go fairly wild.

Mrs. Antone wants her husband sent away for the winter chiefly because he won't get up and light the fire in morning.

Then, again, she claims that he often playfully mops the floor with her, as a means of diversion when he is not busy scheming out some additional work for her to do about their farm.

Antone wooed and won her some time ago over in the village of St. Thomas, and since then, according to the story which the interpreter prised out of her, his life has been a long, sweet dream.

Every morning she has had to paddle out on the cold, cold floor and light the fire.

"We'd all be in jail if that was an indictable offense," remarked Mr. Meredith.

Mr. Pauls, who is acting for Mrs. Antone, contended that it was the husband's duty to get up and light the fire for his wife.

A peculiar feature of the case was that while Mrs. Antone at first could not speak English, necessitating the employment of an interpreter, later when she became angry at something that was said, she spoke English faster than anybody else in the courtroom.

"I knew it would come out if she got riled," said Mr. Meredith. "She has just been jabbering that pidgeon Indian so that I could not understand it."

The case was still being argued at time of going to press.

WITNESS PRITCHETT'S STORY

"Never thought of it."

"Why then did you use an assumed name?"

"John Garratt is my name."

"No, sir, part of your name, used for purposes of deceit."

"You traveled about under a name that was not your true name?"

"I did."

"Why did you travel under an assumed name?"

"I don't know."

"Your business is of such a character you must travel under an assumed name?"

"I often used it."

"Answer my question. I want to see your moral and mental attitude to this matter. Why did you use it?"

"I did not think of it."

"Why did you do it? A man of your tender conscience must have the question put differently. I will ask you why did you sign John Garratt instead of John Garratt Pritchett?"

"I never thought of that."

"Was it because you were engaged in shady transactions?"

"I did not consider it shady transactions."

"Did you ever commit perjury?"

"No, sir; I value my oath as much as you do."

"Did you not instruct deputies how to kiss the thumb instead of the Bible?"

"No, sir."

"You gave evidence in police court that you did."

"Well, if it is there, I must have said it."

"You committed perjury in connection with the West Elgin election?"

"No."

"You made a signed statement knowing it to be untrue?"

"Yes."

"You knew this was wrong?"

"And you did it wilfully?"

"Yes."

In West Elgin Pritchett admitted that he might have taken the oath and sworn the clerks and scrutineers. He was not positive.

"Would it surprise you to know that the oath was signed according to the election act?"

"No."

"You gave the name of Marshall B. Johnston?"

"Yes."

"You gave that false name to deceive the returning officer in order to get an office, and you did it knowingly and wilfully?"

"Yes."

"You could not have got the appointment under your lawful name?"

"No."

"You signed a false statement of the state of the poll knowing it to be false?"

"Yes."

"Then you forged Marshall B. Johnston's name?"

"Yes. I suppose it would be forgery according to law."

"According to the law of the land, not Pritchett's law, you signed several affidavits in Detroit?"

"Yes."

"Who came to see you?"

"A man named Barker from Hamilton, Fleming, from Windsor, and a man from St. Thomas."

Mr. Johnston objected to bringing Barker's name into the court for political capital. Mr. Barker was organizer for the Conservative party.

"It is necessary to prove the credibility of the witness," retorted Mr. Johnston.

"That is not necessary," said Judge Winchester.

"The crown should be the last to talk of political capital after the exhibition in the police court," said Mr. Johnston.

Pritchett made several affidavits, truth of which he admitted.

"Did you know Mr. Leys, the late member?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever write him to tell that the affidavits were false?"

"No."

Mr. McEvoy produced a letter and showed it to Pritchett.

"Is that your signature?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, you will prove that later on. Who promised you that if you made these affidavits you would not be prosecuted?"

"Either Barker, Hamilton, Fleming, or Windsor, or Ponsford, St. Thomas."

"Your lordship sees now the necessity of connecting Barker's name with this matter," continued Mr. Johnston.

At this juncture Pritchett became confused and swore that the railroad man, named Johnston, had introduced him to the sheriff.

Mr. Johnston then read Pritchett's police court testimony where he swore positively that O'Gorman, or Lyle, St. Thomas, had introduced him to the sheriff.

"Then the police court record is false?"

"Yes."

"O'Gorman did not introduce you to the sheriff?"

"No."

"You did some crooked work in West Elgin?"

"Yes."

"And you got the poll clerk to swear to something false?"

"Yes, he did not know it was false."

"You admitted that you were prepared to take oaths you knew to be false. You admit that in law you committed forgery. You admit that you introduced people to swear falsely and avoid the penalty. You admit that you were criminally engaged as a conspirator with O'Gorman. You admit that you will use any name not your own to suit your own purpose. You committed perjury. Now, before the bar of your conscience are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty."

"You now ask us to believe that You are telling the truth?"

"I am telling the truth."

Pritchett's Operations.

Pritchett was then led through his operations in Brockville, West Huron, South Ontario and other places, and forced him to admit that he had heard Gundry, Horton, Grant, White, Franklin and others deny absolutely that they had anything to do with him. In the police court they had stood up before the witness and denied that he had instructed them in ballot-switching. Pritchett swore that Mr. Alex Smith had given him two sums of money, aggregating $100. He had sent Vance at Whitby, and the latter apparently knew what was going on, as he had told witnesses where to go and what deputies to see. Vance never gave him any money that he could remember. He also met A. T. $50 from the latter. A man named Brant or Brand was present at this time. The money was to pay him for his time and expense.

In North Hastings you swore James Vance brought deputies to you. Is that true? "No."

"Well, then, what you swore in the police court was false?"

"Yes."

"Then you also swore that you instructed several, promising some money and some jobs. Is that true?"

"No, sir. I promised one man a job."

"Did you report to O'Gorman?"

"No."

"You knew all about the thumb nail business before you met O'Gorman?"

"Yes."

"You never said anything to O'Gorman about that method?"

"Yes, I did. We talked it over."

"Yesterday you swore that nothing was mentioned about that. Is that true?"

"No, Toronto? Yes."

"I could not be in Toronto?"

"No."

"There was no concealment about the sort of work you were doing?"

"Smith and the rest knew."

"You and O'Gorman together never had anything to do with London?"

"No, we did nothing in London."

"Your work had nothing to do with bribery?"

"No, sir."

"All you and O'Gorman had to do was connected with switching ballots?"

"Yes."

"Every by-election called for a distinct arrangement if such there was?"

"Yes."

"You had no arrangement covering a period of years?"

"No."

"In West Elgin you had nothing to do with John O'Gorman?"

"No, sir. It was with Con O'Gorman."

"Is it true that at any time you found ballots in O'Gorman's room, on the bed?"

"I can't swear. I found ballots in Goderich on the dresser in the Craig House."

"Mr. Reid had nothing to do with you in any of these matters?"

"No, sir."

"You never saw him in any constituency, and never had anything to do with him in election matters?"

"No, sir."

"Since West Elgin, you have taken no part in elections?"

"No, sir."

"That was in 1898 or 1899."

"I don't remember the exact date."

At 12:20 Pritchett left the stand, having been under examination for about four and a half hours.

London, Tuesday, Nov. 19. The market today was fairly good, the average for this day of the week. One would have thought that owing to the big market of Saturday last, that sales for produce would be slow, but such was not the case, there being a fairly brisk demand in all lines, and prices were steady. Hay and Straw—Although there were 25 loads of hay marketed today, sales were brisk, all the loads having been sold by 12 o'clock; prices were steady, at $15.50 to $17.25 per ton. Straw is coming in more freely, and sales for the 10 loads offered were slower than have been the case for some time back; prices ruled at $2.00 to $2.25 per ton. Butter and Eggs—Butter was in good demand, at 27c for crocks and 28c for pound rolls. Eggs were scarce, at 25c to 27c for the best lots. Vegetables and Potatoes—There was fair demand at 30c to 35c per bag, most of the sales being made at 30c; rutabaga sold at 30c per bag; carrots, 50c per bag; parsnips, 50c per bag; cabbages, 40c to 50c per dozen; celery, 25c per dozen; lettuce, 25c per dozen. Amusements
A somewhat different sort of melodrama is "The Mysterious Burglar," which appeared at the Grand last night before a large and highly-pleased audience.
The play abounds in brilliant incidents, interesting situations and clever comedy lines. In point of staging, it was far ahead of the average melodrama, while the cast was a talented one, and well balanced.
Minstrels Tonight.
Coming to the Grand tonight will be Guy Bros.' big minstrels. Guy Bros. are popular favorites in London, having been seen here before, on numerous occasions. They occupy this season with an entirely new and elaborate production. One of the most popular ideas with the Guy Bros. is that they believe in giving the people a good clean subject at popular prices.
Tomorrow's Comic Opera.
"The Burgomaster" will be the big attraction at the Grand tomorrow evening. Gus Weinburg and Ruth White, the originals in the leading roles of Peter Stuyvesant and Willie Astorbit, will play their old parts, and will be supported by a company of 50 people. The costumes are especially handsome this year, and the production is new. Much that is novel has been installed in the way of electrical effects. Some of the scenes have been revised and the dances are all new. The chorus is said to be one of the strongest singing aggregations on the road.
Leather Novelties.
Such as collar-boxes, card-cases, and drinking-cups, give the best satisfaction when bought at the Commercial Trunk Company's, manufacturers, 230 Dundas street, opposite McCormick's.

MINISTERS DISCUSS ADULT BIBLE CLASS
The November session of the Ministerial Alliance was held Monday morning in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. Among those present were President D. E. Martin, Drs. Ross and McColl, Messrs. Harris, Henderson, Black, Stuart, Andrews, Hamilton, Lancelley, McAllister, Bowen, Stewart, Belcher, Mitchell, Rollins and Steven.
The subject for consideration was "The Organized Adult Bible Class Movement," which was presented by the secretary, Rev. E. R. Black. The Sunday school superintendents of the city had been invited and a number were present. It is confidently expected that a number of classes will be organized as a result of the very practical conference of this morning. The secretary volunteers his services in the organization of any classes in the city. At the next meeting the question of evangelistic methods will be discussed.

of the aldermen say that instead of being prosecuted, Mr. Somerville should be bonused for erecting the coping. Engineer Graydon declares it is a good example to set other citizens, and that Mr. Somerville is to be congratulated.

The beautiful picture offered some time ago by the Epworth League Union in this city for the branch having the largest percentage of its members present at the semi-annual rally, was won by the Epworth League of Kensington Street Mission last night at Dundas Street Center Church. Dundas Center League came second in numbers, and Askin Street third. President W. C. Courtis presided, and excellent addresses were given by Rev. F. E. Mallett, who spoke on "The League of Today," and by Mr. J. F. Maine on "The League of Tomorrow."

Welcomed Strangers.
The schoolroom of the First Congregational Church last evening was the scene of a splendid social. The main object in holding the social was to welcome the British and other outside church members who have recently come to Canada. The programme was almost entirely a musical one. Deacon Anundson occupied the chair. The speakers of the evening were: Mr. G. E. Gosling, Miss McBride, Mr. F. W. Robins, Miss Edith McBride, Miss Nellie Moule, Miss Evelyn Wrighton, Mr. Alfred Anundson and Mr. W. T. E. Wrighton.
Mr. Pearce at Toronto.
Toronto Telegram: Mr. J. S. Pearce, park commissioner of London, addressed the members of the Ontario Horticultural Association at the final session of their convention in the city hall yesterday afternoon. He advocated the planting of more trees for the beautifying of cities and towns, with proper care to the municipal palities. He referred to the fact that citizens all over seemed to be hounded half to death because some frigate old gardener or laborer imagined he owned the grass, and chased everybody off it. Mr. Pearce, speaking from long experience, said he did not agree with the "keep off the grass idea," unless the public made persistent efforts to wear paths. The citizens paid for the grass, plots and their care, and they should not be subjected to insult or inconvenience because they walked on the grass.
Annual Supper.
The twenty-second annual oyster supper of Court Welcome, No. 12, of the I. O. F., given last evening in the hall in East London, was a big success. The orchestra of the Tabbot Street Church was present, and provided excellent music, while the supper was gotten up par excellence. A lengthy musical programme was afterwards given. Bro. T. Ball occupied the chair, and the speakers of the evening were as follows: Bros. F. J. Darch, chief ranger of Court Welcome, No. 12, also H. C. R. of West- Ontario, J. W. Wines, D. S. C. R., and C. H. Merryfield, D. S. C. R., and chief organizer of Western Ontario. Solos were rendered by Messrs. Proven, J. Howard Moyer and Miss Glas- hall. A quartet, composed of Messrs. Tait, Parker and E. and H. Moyer, accompanied by R. Hudson, were well received. Piano solos were rendered by Miss Blisset.
