Farm Labor

Nothing is so important at this critical period in the history of the British Empire as food production. Every effort should be made to put in the maximum acreage of crop this, and with this end in view, a Labor Distribution Office has been opened at the Township Clerk's Office at Mildmay. All who are willing—merchants, mechanics, retired farmers or professional men—to work a day or two or longer on the farm this spring or summer, are requested to enroll their names at once. Farmers who need help are also asked to send in their requisitions, and the Committee will distribute the labor in the most advantageous manner. Enroll now.

Mr. A. T. Missere, merchant tailor, is going to vacate his residence west of the station this summer. He has the brick on the premises now.

The entrance candidates will write on the subjects, History and Hygiene, at public School here next Saturday. There are about twenty children writing here this year.

Rev. E. D. Becker and family arrived here last Friday from Crediton and have settled in the parsonage here. Mr. Becker preached his introductory sermon here on Sunday.

Mr. Fred J. Reinhart, who owned a homestead in Saskatchewan, has been drafted, and has returned to his former home in Culross to spend a few days before donning his uniform.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Keller and son, Eugene of Breslau visited friends here and at Walkerton over Sunday. Eugene has been drafted under the new order, and will report for service at once.

Friday of next week will be Victoria Day. This day is usually observed as a public holiday, but as there is no place to fish, our citizens will probably celebrate the day by planting potatoes.

The funeral of the late Mrs. F. Scheiffe took place last Friday afternoon to the Evangelical cemetery. Rev. J. H. Grenzebach of Walkerton conducted the burial services, assisted by Rev. E. D. Becker.

There will be no reduced fare arrangements on the railways this year for conventions, athletic sports, etc. Delegates will have to pay full fares. The reduced rates have all been cancelled by the railways.

Mr. James Doig of Empress, Alta., came home yesterday to spend a few weeks with his mother on the 2nd concession. Mr. Doig says that seeding is finished in Alberta and that the grain is coming up very nicely.

We were pleased this week to hear from our old friend, Mr. W. H. Holtzman of Queen Centre, Sask. He says seeding is about over in his section. He has 180 acres of wheat, 40 acres of oats and 20 acres of barley sowed, and if it is a good crop, he expects to harvest enough to feed a lot of soldiers.

Mr. Geo. D. MacKay, who has been appointed Registrar in this Riding for the purpose of taking the Registration of Man Power, has secured the use of the town hall and the Mildmay public school for the taking of census on June 22nd. The local deputy-registrars have not yet been named.

The anti-hoarding order by the Canada Food Board came into effect on Tuesday of this week, and it will not be legal after that date to have on hand a large supply of flour or sugar. So far, the local dealers report that there has been no return of either of these commodities. The order may be considered a little drastic, but it would be good business on the part of all to observe it.

Mr. D. Izzard of Port Elgin, County Good Roads superintendent, accompanied by Reeves Case of Culross, Winchester of Amabel and McDonald of Kinloss were in town yesterday. They were on a tour of inspection over the roads assumed by the county. Mr. McDonald says that Mildmay by incorporating, lost its status in the good roads system, as only rural municipalities are entitled to benefit. This is not very pleasant news to hear, as Mildmay has an expensive bridge to rebuild in a very short time.

Don't forget the Dominion Day patriotic celebration at Mildmay. Plan to spend July 1st here.

A number of local nimrods motored to Sauble Falls last week and brought back half a ton of fine fish.

A constable to watch and prosecute automobile speeders could make some money for the town and teach some of the offenders a much-needed lesson.

Farmers' Delegation Disappointed.
Five thousand Ontario and Quebec farmers presented their views to the government at Ottawa on Tuesday, on the amendment to the Military Service Act. They pleaded a relaxation of the rigid new military service regulations so as to exempt the food producers, or at least to grant them leave of absence till after the harvest. The reply of the Prime Minister was courteous but firm. The Government, he declared, realized their difficulties, but the stern task which the Government had undertaken of keeping their pledge to the men at the front to provide the necessary reinforcement must be fulfilled. There could be no relaxation of the law. The only thing that was promised was that where there were special cases of hardship they should be brought to the attention of the Minister of Militia.

"Intolerance" to be Shown Here.
D. W. Griffith's $2,000,000 colossal spectacle will be shown in the town hall, Mildmay, on Tuesday evening of next week, under the auspices of the Union Jack Knitting Club. "Intolerance" or Love's Struggle Throughout the Ages has achieved a triumph of art which has changed the outlook of humanity. It is the condensation of a thousand centuries of evolution. Don't miss it. You will see more drama than in all other plays presented here this season. A red blooded romance, tense with the spirit of adventure—annihilates time and space—125,000 people fill its scenes—7,000 horses and 1,500 chariots add to the excitement. Babylon, the Mighty—Jerusalem, the Holy City—Paris, the Mediaeval Siren—America, of the overwhelming To-day are the features of its background. Men of valor—Hours of the Orient—heart-throbs and smiles—titanic struggles on towering embellishments—ancient luxury in its wildest excesses—are parts of the four great stories rushing to a thrilling climax that keeps alive the hope of redemption in the shuddering heart of man. A new art form that illumines every fundamental of drama, music, literature and painting. It is pre-eminent because it tracks intolerance to its lair and dares to tell the truth. The presentation is accompanied by a Symphony Orchestra.

Bad Fire Averted.

The ringing of the fire alarm on Tuesday afternoon created a great deal of excitement in the village, when it was learned that Mr. A. Fedy's general store building was on fire. The fire started on the roof of the back warehouse, where a gasoline torch stove was being used to melt tar for the purpose of laying a felt roof on the building. Mr. Fedy and Gordon Dickason were employed on the job, and a piece of the felt roofing paper carried by the wind, collided with the stove and turned it over, and in a moment the whole surrounding was in a mass of flames. Mr. Fedy jumped down from the roof of the main building to where the fire started, and pluckily fought the flames until help arrived. In a few minutes willing hands had pails of water pouring on the flames and ten minutes later the fire was extinguished, just at the moment the fire engine was ready to commence action. The great volume of smoke, caused by the burning tar, looked as if the whole block were on fire. There was a strong wind blowing from the west at the time, and it is very fortunate that the fire was in a sheltered location at the easterly end of the building, or a very serious loss would have been certain. Mr. Fedy's loss will be about $100. He received some painful burns on his hands and face but is very glad it was no worse.

Show Ticket Before Boarding Train.

The order has been issued by the Canada War Board and it has been made to give time for the conductors giving receipts for money and making change for passengers who should have bought their tickets. Holiday seekers for the weekend are offenders in this regard. Indeed it is said that in Toronto there are many people who rush to the train every Saturday afternoon, and never bother getting a ticket, thus saving time. Those persons are in for a rude jolt. At small stations it is understood that conductors and trainmen will keep a sharp eye upon entraining passengers, and require them to produce their tickets before boarding the cars.

Farmers' Mass Meeting.

The town hall was crowded to the doors last Saturday evening, when the farmers of Carrick assembled to appoint delegates to go to Ottawa to interview the Government, to secure, if possible, further exemption for the young farmers who are being drafted into the army. As one speaker remarked, nothing has so stirred up the farmers of Carrick as the recent amendment to the military service act. Mr. M. Filsinger, reeve, was selected as chairman, and a number of speakers, including Messrs. J. M. Fischer, Joseph Montag, Thos. Jasper, Philip Gress, John Lints, and Wm. Albrecht addressed the audience. Mr. Gress spoke for nearly twenty minutes, pointing out that the Government had failed in its promises to the farmer, and assured his hearers that production is just as important as reinforcements. After the speechmaking, it was decided to select three delegates to join the big delegation of farmers of Ontario, who had arranged for a hearing at Ottawa on Tuesday morning. Messrs. Moses Filsinger, Philip Gress and Thos. Jasper were chosen. They left on Monday afternoon and we understand that the big delegation was given a hearing by the Government on Tuesday evening.

John D. Miller Writes.

We received this week a very interesting letter from Mr. John D. Miller of Wiste, Alta. He says that they have had a splendid spring, and that a great deal of crop has been put in. Rain is badly needed, however, as there has been very little moisture since April 9th. Mr. Miller says he has 205 acres of wheat and 102 acres of oats, and wonders how many Carrick farmers have put in as much crop. "We are working for the Empire out here, so that our boys at the front don't have to suffer. I have only one boy left to help me, and he was 20 years old a few months ago, and if they take him to the war, who in the world is going to harvest such a large crop, if we get one. I wish the editor would come out and give me a lift, it would relieve him of some surplus flesh. This country agrees with me very much, as I tip the scale at 225 lbs. I was very sorry to hear that Mr. C. Wendt is in poor health. I think a trip to Alberta would do my old friend a lot of good. There is lots of sunshine and pure air and plenty of room to turn around here. Say, we want a good blacksmith in our town. He would do well here, as there are none around here, and there is all kinds of work for the right man. Would like if some of my old friends would send me a personal reply to this letter.

Registration of Man Power, June 22nd.

Provided the many and intricate details of organization can be completed in time. Saturday, June 22 will be the day upon which general registration will take place. In many towns and cities the organization is already well under way. Public schools and teaching staffs have, in a large number of instances been placed at the disposal of the registrars. It is the desire of the government that registration shall be carried out with the least possible interruption of business and with a minimum inconvenience to employees. Two points are emphasized in connection with the registration. First and foremost is the necessity of making the registration complete. It is pointed out that if the war continues it may be necessary to have recourse to the rationing system, in which event the facts obtained throughout registration will be of great value. The second point is that the information obtained shall be immediately available and made to serve a practical and beneficial purpose. With this object in view it is suggested that provincial and municipal bureaus and all parties desiring labor should obtain information direct from their local registrars, on the day of registration, as to the available labor supply in a particular locality. Ascertaining in this way particulars of local labor conditions before the cards are returned to Ottawa will avoid delay and should assist materially in satisfying labor requirements.

Village Council Meets.

Mildmay's first municipal council met in the town hall yesterday at 11 o'clock, as provided by Statute. The members took their seats as follows—Reeve—J. M. Fischer; Councillors—U. Schmidt, Henry B. Miller, P. D. Liesemer and Ernest Witter. After the declaration of office had been taken before Mr. Chas. Schurter, who acted temporarily as clerk, the members settled down to business.

The first duty was to organize, and this was done by the Council resolving itself into a committee of the whole to strike the standing committees for the year. The Road and Bridge, Salaries and Finance Committees will be comprised of all the members of Council. Schools Committee—Schmidt, Witter and Miller. Property Committee—Liesemer, Miller and Witter.

The Council is of the opinion that one man should hold the combined offices of Clerk and Treasurer, and fixed the salary for the same at $65.00. Applications for the office will be received up to the date of the next meeting. The next meeting of the council will be held on Friday evening, May 17th at 8 o'clock.

The members of the Council are all men of considerable business experience and grapple with the municipal problems in a manner that will inspire confidence in the tax payers. It is not expected that extensive improvements will be carried out this year on account of the heavy expense the village is under at present. Economy is therefore the watchword for 1918. We hope that the Reeve and Aldermen will enjoy their municipal work.

FORMOSA.

Mr. Albert Kropp of Brantford is visiting his mother here at present.

Mr. Max Benninger has moved into the house lately occupied by John Fahren.

Most of the farmers in this vicinity have finished their seeding.

Mr. Ed. Benninger of Riversdale was in on business on Saturday.

Mr. J. Newman of Toronto, brother of George Newman visited friends in Culross last week.

Mr. Geo. Flachs was in London last Tuesday to visit his son, Pte. Geo. E. Flachs.

Mrs. J. N. Scheffer and her daughter Miss Estelle visited friends in the village last Wednesday.

Born on May 7th to Mr. and Mrs. Seraphin Meyer, a daughter.

Incorporation Expenses.

Reeve John M. Fischer has received notice from Robertson & McNab, barristers of Walkerton, that the expenses incurred in securing the incorporation of the village of Mildmay amount to $440. This with a number of smaller accounts will total up to nearly $500.

Will Get All They Need.

A local miller informs us that there seems to be a good deal of misunderstanding among the public over the new flour order. Many people have the impression that the supply of flour is to be curtailed. This is not the case as there is plenty of flour but it will be sold only in small quantities as the public need it in order to allow the mills to keep up their export orders. A few people who had more flour on hand than the law allows are bringing it in, but there has been very little hoarding of supplies in this district.

Robert Nickel Deceased.

The death of Mr. Robert Nickel of the 17th concession of Howick, took place on Sunday afternoon at Toronto. Deceased, who had been ill for nearly a year with bladder trouble, was advised to go to Toronto for an operation, as the only means of recovery, and he underwent the operation five weeks ago. He was not able, however, to rally after the shock, and he passed peacefully away at the time above stated. Mr. Nickel was born in Flamboro township; 65 years ago and came with his parents to Carrick when he was 12 years old. He lived in this township almost continuously until twenty-eight years ago, when he purchased a farm in Howick and moved to that township. He was a man of splendid principles, and enjoyed the highest esteem and confidence of all his acquaintances. The remains were brought to Wroxeter on Tuesday and laid to rest at McIntosh cemetery on Wednesday afternoon. He is survived by his widow, five sons and two daughters. They are Robert of Harrison, William of Trenton, James at Toronto, Thomas and Russel at home; Margaret, wife of Wm. Trimble of Howick, and Ella at home. He is also survived by his aged parents, four brothers and two sisters.

Runaway Julietta

By Arthur Henry Gooden

Chapter I.—(Cont'd.)

"Dare!" She faced him, and as he came up her arms went round his neck. "Really, and, please, you mustn't come with me—or say I'm not!" She turned and sped away again, her brown feet riffling the yellow dust in little trailing clouds. And, young as he was, Clay Thorpe recognized the finality in her voice and in that good-bye pressure of her slim arms. He stood by his horse, watching until the little figure had vanished into the shimmering distance, then slowly rode home.

"I won't tell her folks," he loyally resolved. "I won't tell anybody at all." The sun was dropping behind the snow-capped Sierras. Far down the valley a cloud of smoke drifted. By this sign the little runaway knew that the Transcontinental would soon pause for a panting moment at the La Vina station. Lizzie stared at the smoke as the immensity of an idea seized her. Would two dollars take her to Los Angeles?

That was her first lesson in the usefulness of the dollar. She never forgot it. She sedately walked to the Pullmans. A grinning black man, who stared curiously at her bare brown legs and hatless head, helped her mount the vestibule steps; her air of confident poise was oddly convincing. Possibly the porter thought she belonged to the lady in rustling silk who preceded her, or to the stout drummer who followed on her bare heels.

She followed the lady in silk down the aisle of the Pullman, and dropped into an empty seat. The stout drummer did not sit down at once; he produced a little card and examined it, then stared at a number far above Lizzie's head, gave Lizzie a quizzical glance, smiled genially, and seated himself beside her.

The car began to move with a gentle swaying motion very pleasant to the tired body beside the window; the speed increased, telegraph poles became a blur, and almost insensibly Lizzie Dare relaxed in the cushions and closed her eyes to the crooning lullaby of the wheels. The stout man rang for the porter, whispered, and presently a pillow was carefully inserted beneath the thick chestnut curts.

The thunderous roar of the passage across a long bridge awakened her. For a moment, she blinked at the lights, then remembered everything. She was on the train! Beside her was the stout drummer, absorbed in a magazine. Lizzie sat up and peered eagerly at the picture of a young woman, gloriously beautiful, gloriously gowned. A fervent desire swept over the child.

"Hello! Awake?" The stout man beamed down at her. She nodded gravely, pushing back her tumbled curls with one little sun-browned hand. "Well, well! Jiggled right off to dreamland, and back again, eh?" She nodded again, her eyes appraising, questioning, pondering. This big jolly man with the kindly brown eyes and ready smile was very nice indeed.

"My name's Paul Morrow. What's yours, little girl?" A flush darkened her cheeks. Her eyes fell, and by chance lighted upon the picture of the beautiful woman. Underneath was a name in big black print. "Julietta! Just Julietta!"

Into the stout man's eyes crept a puzzled expression. Then he glanced at the magazine, and chuckled suddenly.

"Pon my soul! You're a great actress yourself, eh?" "That's my name," she said firmly. "Well, Julietta, what do you say to tackling the diner? All right! Come along!"

Chapter II.

A taxicab sped away from Mrs. Drake's academy in Pasadena, and slipped through the foggy night into Los Angeles. Inside the taxicab sat a young woman who crumpled a yellow telegram in her hand, then smoothed it out and read it again, a smile curving her lips. The message was addressed to Miss Julietta Dare, and read:

Love and congratulations to my little girl on her eighteenth birthday. Home-to-day. Alexandria. Dinner. Theatre.

Uncle Paul, in the drawing-room of the Alexandria, Paul Morrow was holding her at arm's length. He had not seen her for ten months—the new president of the Truitt Shoe Company was a busy man—and a great deal had happened in that ten months.

He had last seen Julietta with her hair in a thick braid, her skirts about her ankles, girlhood delightfully upon her. She stood before him now a slim, coiffured, gowned woman, and Morrow was shocked. It had not occurred to him that Julietta would grow up. But the swift sadness in his eyes was gone in exaltation.

"Pon my soul!" he cried. "I—why, my dear, you're full of surprises! Here you are a real sure-enough woman!" "Do you remember how we came into town that—first night?" Morrow's eyes were twinkling now. I got you a pair of silk stockings at a pawn-shop, and a pair of sample shoes from my bag."

"And how I said then and there I'd always wear silk stockings because they felt so nice?" She broke in with a chiming laugh. "And how we went to Mrs. Drake's—"

"And how nice you said she was? Do you still think so?" "Yes, of course I do, Uncle Paul. And you too—aren't you going to kiss me?"

Morrow reddened. "Why—why—pon my soul, Julietta! Of course I am." They passed into the dining-room. Morrow eyed her gown—she was in blue from hat to slippers—and remembered that first night.

"You like me grown up? Am I so different from the little girl of La Vina?" "Rather. Eight years have made a heap of difference—just eight years. My dear, close your eyes and lean forward, and don't ask a single question."

"Now, look!" She turned to the mirrored wall. "Oh! A—pearl pendant! Oh, Uncle Paul, isn't it beautiful!"

"A little birthday gift." Morrow stared at her, fascinated by her beauty, fascinated by the sight of that single pearl, lustrous against the satin-white of her skin.

"My first piece of jewellery." She touched the pearl with her finger tips. "Uncle Paul, I think it is about time that I fenced for myself."

"You're a dear good uncle," she went on quietly. "You've been a real fairy to me, and I've let you. But some day I shall pay back all this expense; and I shall pay you not in love alone, dear uncle." Her tone became matter-of-fact. "You see, I've been thinking a lot about—about myself and the world. I—"

"What's all this nonsense?" exclaimed Morrow, staring at her. "Forget it! When you leave Mrs. Drake next month you're going on to the University. Your application has been in for the last four years. You—"

"I've decided not to go." She smiled gravely at him. "Not—to go! I've set my heart on your going."

"I'm sorry, Uncle Paul. I've made other plans. I'm going to take up a business career. I don't like poverty." "Poverty!" Morrow wore a blank, helpless expression. "Why this talk of poverty? Does the feel of that pearl hint at poverty? I'm not a poor man—"

"It's not that at all, and you know it. It's something within me, Uncle Paul. It's something that's taken hold of me; something that has come to me day and night; something I know!" She leaned forward earnestly. "I'll not be dependent upon you, Uncle Paul, except for love. I could be dependent on no one! I'm going into business. There's a big field for women in business."

"My dear young lady," exclaimed Morrow, "the cities are teeming with women in business. The woods are full of 'em. Women lawyers, women doctors—"

"You miss the idea," said the girl calmly. "I'm not talking about stenographers and the kind of women who deliberately takes up the type of work for which a man is better fitted; I am neither a drudge nor a masculine girl. I fervently hope. Am I?"

"Eh? Why—pon my soul! No!" "I'm talking about real constructive business, big business. I'm going to enter the lists and shiver a lance with 'big business,' she went on. "I'm going to make money—not a pittance, but loads of it."

Morrow laughed suddenly. "My dear, do you know how hard men hang on to money? Do you know that 'big business,' or little business either, counts every mill and grips it hard—You have a fine ambition, but, my dear Julietta, you don't know—"

"Don't know!" she broke in. "Don't know what? The practical side of it. Granted. I intend to learn that side of it right away. I'm going to play the game, Uncle Paul."

He nodded. His face became grave as he watched her, appraised her, weighed her in his mind's eye. "Listen, little girl! Business is a life study. You were made for love, not for dull scrutiny of books and men; you were made to take your high place in the world—"

"Did anyone make your place for you?" she flashed at him. "Or did you make it?"

The shot went home. "What do you want to do?" he asked helplessly. "In concrete terms?"

"May I do it, first?" His hand went across the table and enfolded her slim fingers. He looked down at them for a moment, then met her eyes with his quizzical.

"Dear Julietta, you may do anything in this wide world you want to do, and you may always know that behind you stands Paul Morrow and all that he has. Yes, you may do it. It will bring you sorrow and trouble and failure, but I shall stand waiting when your dear voice calls to me. Now, what is your wish?"

WAR AND FOOD SERIES, ARTICLE No. 16—POTATO FLOUR.

Everyone doesn't know it but the fact remains that delicious white bread may be made simply and solely from potato flour. This is not a war discovery. Long before August, 1914, and the beginning of the reign of bloodshed, potato flour was in use and bakers liked it particularly for making sponge cake.

There are enormous quantities of potatoes in Canada. The farmers know that; their wives know it; city people know it. What are we going to do with them all? Are we going to allow such valuable food material to go to waste?

Senator Colby, loaned by the United States Food Administration to the Canada Food Board, and who has just returned from the front, is impressing it on his audiences all over the country that he would not sit down at a table where there was one slice of pure wheat bread after what he saw in Europe. To eat it would seem to him like reaching his hand out and snatching it from the mouths of starving people. "Eat substitutes," he says. "Eat substitutes," the Canada Food Board has been preaching for months past. "Eat substitutes," echo all thinking and earnest-minded people.

They why not encourage the manufacture and the free use of potato flour? It is wholesome, makes a delicious loaf and does not rob the people of Europe of the thing they most need—wheat and the manufactured product, the staff of life. Bread is the basis of social order. Everything that makes life endurable in times of stress depends upon bread. People have bartered their souls before now for a crust of bread.

Indeed, starvation has reached such a point in certain districts of Russia that members of the improvised classes are selling their wives and children for bags of flour.

Is it not essential then that we save white flour lest our Allies in Europe reach such a pitch as this? We have the wheat on this continent. The United States and Canada alone are in a position to meet Europe's desperate need for wheat. And still we go on using white flour freely! It is time for potato flour to be given a trial in order that increasing quantities of standard flour may be saved. Healthy men have lived and worked for months on a diet of nothing other than potatoes, oleomargarine and a little fruit. The food material in potatoes is 98 per cent. digestible. Potato flour is very fine in texture and has an agreeable flavor.

Spring Diet. During the spring and summer meat may be entirely eliminated from the diet. It is a source of protein, it also produces certain acids that should be offset by foods of alkaline nature. Now that we are consuming large quantities of oats, rice, buckwheat, barley and corn, it behooves us to know that these same cereals will not counter-balance the acids left in the system from eating meat. Frequent-ly it will be found that the cereals will encourage this acid condition. The legumes, such as peas, beans, lentils and unpolished rice, may be turned into attractive dishes that will tempt an epicure.

Legumes are low in fat content, therefore it will be necessary to supply the amount that is needed. Beans contain calcium, which is a bone-building element. Eggs, fish, cheese may be included for variety's sake.

Green salads and vegetables abound in vitamins and mineral salts, which cause the kidneys and liver to filter and refine the blood stream actively, thus removing many poisons from the body. These poisons would, under ordinary circumstances, revert into the blood stream and cause auto-intoxication, or spring fever. So, therefore, let us all

First. Eat good, plain, wholesome food. Second. Just enough to keep us at par.

CANADA IS A LAND WITH A GREAT FUTURE

Population Not Much More Than That of Greater New York—Second in Wheat, Wonderful Resources.

Canada is a country in its infancy. With a population that is not very much larger than that of Greater New York scattered over an area of over 3,700,000 square miles, it is impossible even to imagine the possibilities of this Dominion. The United States has a population per square mile 14 times as great as that of Canada.

Fortunately for the Allied cause, the smallness of the population has always enabled Canada to have a large surplus of wheat, and she now ranks second in the great wheat exporting countries of the world; 268,000,000 bushels of wheat were shipped to Europe in 1915-16. In the whole of Canada and even in the three great wheat growing provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, only slightly more than one-tenth of all the land at present readily adaptable to agriculture was under crop last year.

The forests of Canada are unsurpassed and constitute a resource that will be called upon to a very great extent in the reconstruction period after the war. There are between five and six hundred million acres of forest. The total value of the different classes of forest products for 1916 was $173,000,000. The exports of forest products to the United Kingdom, United States and other countries realized in that year over $43,000,000.

In one of the most essential mineral products Canada leads the world. In 1917, 84,500,000 pounds of nickel were produced. This represents over 80% of the world's production. The largest asbestos mines in the world are in the Province of Quebec, and at present supply the greater part of the world's consumption. The war has stimulated in a very pronounced manner the production of all those metals which are necessities of war. Some of them had never even been developed prior to the outbreak of war. Only a comparatively small part of the coal resources has been touched; an estimate of the examined mineral coal areas shows that there are 73,500,000,000 tons of bituminous coal and 401,000,000 tons of anthracite.

In regard to its fisheries, Canada has been richly endowed by nature with an extensive coast line, innumerable rivers and lakes. The Canadian lobster fisheries of the Atlantic and the Gulf of St. Lawrence are the most productive in the world.

Canada holds a position second to no other country in the world in regard to its water-power possibilities. At present 1,800,000 24-hour horsepower have been developed. It is estimated that, within areas likely to be populated in the near future, there is an aggregate of nearly 18,000,000 24-hour horsepower.

In its fur-bearing animals Canada has an opportunity that is presented to but few other countries to develop a great fur industry. The annual output of furs is 15% of the value of the whole world's production.

Finally, the transportation system has developed at a rapid rate. The railroad mileage of Canada for every 10,000 persons is nearly twice as great as that of the United States and more than eight times that of Germany. Consequently, Canada is well prepared to meet the transportation requirements of those future settlers who will cultivate immense areas of good agricultural land lying within fifteen miles of the railroads.

Canada is yet but a very young nation. Only a minute portion of its resources has been examined; vast areas have never been explored. Now is the time, in the present great world crisis, for the most careful study and economic development of its resources and their industrial derivatives in order that Canada may be prepared, at the restoration of peace to rebuild the devastated regions of Europe and feed, clothe and shelter all those who may come to its hospitable shores.—Reprinted from the Wall Street Journal, New York, one of the world's greatest financial authorities.

BRITISH POSITIONS IN SOMME REGION IMPROVED IN LOCAL ENGAGEMENTS

Allied Line Completely Re-established in the Voormezele-La Clytte Sector After Hard Fighting—Enemy Gains Footing Near Albert at Cost of Heavy Losses.

A despatch from London says:—A vigorous counter-attack on Wednesday night resulted in the re-establishment of the allied line in the Voormezele-La Clytte sector, where the Germans in a local attack yesterday succeeded in making some advance. This operation developed hard fighting throughout most of the day and into the night.

Two attacks were attempted against the British lines in the Somme sector. The first, at Bouzincourt, was dispersed. Near Albert the enemy, after suffering heavy casualties, succeeded in penetrating the defence positions on a front of about 150 yards.

The Canadian forces from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have engaged in a successful local attack south of Arras.

A despatch from the British Army in France says:—The Germans had intended to make a much more pretentious assault in Flanders on Wednesday than they were actually able to carry out, it has been learned. Their failure was due to the excellent work of the allied gunners and to a small coincident operation by the French east of Scherpenberg Hill. The combination of the French attack and the great bombardment undoubtedly completely upset the German plans for additional German divisions, which were assembling to assist their comrades on their right, could not be brought in. As a consequence the assault was confined to a two-division affair, which was directed mainly against the British about Ridge Wood.

In the meantime along the French front between Loere and LaClytte the French had their eyes open and began a heavy bombardment. Also, the French had undertaken a small operation in the early morning for the capture of a position east of Scherpenberg Hill. The combination of the French attack and the great bombardment undoubtedly completely upset the German plans for additional German divisions, which were assembling to assist their comrades on their right, could not be brought in. As a consequence the assault was confined to a two-division affair, which was directed mainly against the British about Ridge Wood.

DARING AVIATOR SAILED UNDER BRIDGE AT NIAGARA.

A despatch from Niagara Falls, Ont., says: An unknown aviator from Beamsville Camp circled over the Falls for a few moments on Thursday and then dived down at frightful velocity and sailed under the steel arch bridge. Evidently he experienced some difficulty in rising from the gorge as did Beachy some years ago.

The Beamsville cadet, however, after being in the gorge about three minutes, managed to rise on the American side, and after circling round, made off for camp.

BRITISH TROOPS WITHIN 80 MILES OF MOSUL.

A despatch from London says: British troops on May 7th entered the Turkish town of Kerkuk, 80 miles south-east of Mosul, in Mesopotamia, the British War Office announced. The text of the statement reads: "Mesopotamia—A portion of our troops entered Kerkuk on May 7th without opposition. The Turks, who retired towards the Lesser Zab River, left 600 men in hospital in the town. They also abandoned three damaged airplanes. A heavy rain has fallen."

INCREASE IN SINKINGS OF U-BOATS.

A despatch from London says: The sinking of enemy submarines has increased steadily, and the sinking of merchant ships has fallen steadily, declared T. J. Macnamara, M.P. for North Camberwell and Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, in a recent speech at Bristol.

Germany has made many mistakes in the course of the war, but never made a greater one than in thinking she could end the war by driving British merchantmen from the seas, declared Vice-Admiral Sir Rosslyn Wemyss, First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, at the annual meeting of the Mercantile Marine Association.

BERLIN "SHELLS OUT" DISCARDED WARDROBES.

A despatch from Amsterdam says: The city of Berlin has been ordered to produce forthwith 40,000 complete second-hand suits for war workers, principally those engaged in railway and farming work. It is to be a "voluntary" surrender against a small payment," but warning is given that if the clothes are not forthcoming they will be taken by force. This applies especially to persons whose social position warrants the assumption that their wardrobes are well stocked.

OVER 500,000 U. S. SOLDIERS IN FRANCE.

A despatch from Washington says: More than half a million American soldiers have been sent to France. Secretary Baker has authorized the statement that his forecast in Congress in January that five hundred thousand troops would be despatched to France early in the present year now had been surpassed.

A Word About Shot.

Why are lead shot made by dropping the molten metal from the top of a very high tower? The popular supposition is that they acquire the requisite spherical shape by falling from a great height; but it is not so. The leaden globules are as perfectly spherical when they start from the top of the tower as when they strike the water in a well at the bottom. The stuff is held at the top of the tower in a large iron pan that has a perforated bottom and the metal drops that fall through are the shot.

In falling they cool, hardening sufficiently to suffer no deformation on striking the water, two hundred feet below. This, indeed, is the reason for the tower—to give the leaden globules time to cool while passing through the air. The use of the water in the well is to furnish a soft cushion for the shot to fall on. Later the shot are scooped out of the well and are put through a series of sieves to sort them into sizes.

EXPECTED GERMAN OFFENSIVE MAY NOT BEGIN FOR A FORTNIGHT

Military Authorities of Opinion That the Enemy Has Met With Severe Repulse From Which Recovery Will Take Time.

A despatch from Paris says: Contrary to the belief expressed in despatches from correspondents with the French army, military authorities here do not believe that the next German offensive is as imminent as expected, and agree that the battle may not begin before a fortnight. Many reasons contribute to this delay, the foremost of which is the fact that so severe has been the repulse of the last week, especially on the days of the 29th and 30th, that sufficient time must elapse before the enemy can be able to fill in and reorganize his divisions. On the other hand, allied aviators are working such havoc in the enemy's lines that he is finding it extremely difficult to carry out concentrations. From high military authority it is understood the allies would be willing to give up Ypres if the enemy was willing to pay to the extent of about 20,000 men for it, and at that would be a good bargain, as tactically Ypres is worth less than 10,000. This authority expressed the belief that in the coming offensive aviation may play the most important role in the whole field of war. The allies are now much superior in the air than the enemy. It has been established recently that the German airplane production averaged from 1,800 to 2,000 machines. While it is not permitted to give the figures of the French and English output, it is not exaggerating to estimate it at more than double, and daily increasing. It is hoped that the allies will be able to give a demonstration of their superiority in the air before many months.

The council of the Twp. of Kincardine are passing a by-law to prevent the spread of noxious weeds in the township. An inspector will be appointed and where the cutting of weeds is neglected the inspector shall cut them and the work charged to the party owning the same.

The Rural Phone.

The flagrant abuse of any privilege evolves its own remedy in time. This is about the only consolation one has over the misuse of party telephone lines. It is rather exasperating for a business man to call someone in the country to discuss a matter of business of interest to both, which would not occupy half a minute on the line; and after trying several times in the course of ten or fifteen minutes, find that the parties who were using it had rung off, and still more trying on one's patience, when one discovers that the parties who held the line so long were simply discussing the size of their respective washings or some economical wrinkle in making a pudding out of the porridge left over from breakfast which only requires a cupful of cream and an egg or two more than the ordinary kind, or that baby has another tooth, or is beginning to walk and is just as cute as he can be, all of which perhaps is very interesting to the two ladies but causes a lot of lost time or annoyance to those who have an equal right to the use of the phone. If trivial matters like these must be discussed over the phoned would it not be better to pre-empt the line at about five in the morning, or at eight or nine o'clock in the evening, when business is practically over? The abuse of phone privileges is very difficult to handle, and as yet the phone companies have not succeeded in lessening the trouble. However, an effort is being made to do so by metering all phones, so that the more that the phone is used the higher will be the cost to the owner, and that is really the fairest way to purchase phone service, the same as one does gas or electricity.

Trying Times Ahead.

These be desperately trying times and the indications portend that during the coming summer the Empire will be plunged more deeply into the war than ever before. Canadians are going to feel the pinch as they never did, and the petty evasions by which it has been sought to shirk one's plain duty will no longer avail. It is well that it is to be so. Men have been tried and a great many have exposed their real pettiness and weakness. Perhaps when they are tested again in the great crucible of national duty they will come out better and purified. Let us hope so at any rate.

The Draftees.

It is announced from Ottawa that the boys nineteen years of age will be called upon to register for military service about the first of June. They will not, however, be asked to enter the military training camp, before July. Young farmers who must answer the recent order calling out all young men of 20, 21 and 22, will be given two weeks leave to help finish the seeding. As seeding is about finished throughout all the country they will not be able to give very much help in that way. But there is always a job on the farm.

The Toronto police have been instructed to seize all firecrackers in the possession of persons on the street says the Owen Sound Sun, which advocates the abolition of their sale in war time as they belong to a class of luxuries that could be done without at any time. It goes on to say that they are dangerous to property through fire and to life by accidents from runaways.

In talking to a produce dealer we were told that we can expect hard times this year. He is of the opinion that there will not be enough food to go around. He states that there is lots of sugar in Canada, but the trouble is to get it here. In two months the sugar situation may be better. At present it looks as if the fall wheat crop is a comparative failure. While it is folly to be unduly alarmed, yet it will be wise for all to produce everything they can, should the crops of 1918 be poor then the situation will be serious enough.

Tommy Burns, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world has decided that he can do effective fighting against the Kaiser, and decided that the best way he could do it would be to enlist in the Canadian army. An optimistic outlook for Canada in the after-war conditions is contained in the Wall Street Journal which declares that the trade of the Dominion fell only $21,000,000 short of that of the United States exports in 1904. The article continues that the war debt of Canada will be well within the power of any government at Ottawa to deal with, as the country has the wares to sell to a world half starved for raw material, which must attract commerce in the first years after the war.

The Lutheran congregation of Warrton, recently had their church building destroyed by fire and since that time (April 8th) have been holding Sunday services at the parsonage. Some of the members have been told that if they persist in holding these services they will have the parsonage burned also. Because of this they have made an appeal to the town authorities for protection, stating that they are loyal Canadians and all British subjects.

With the price of tobacco and matches increased it is going to make us step lively to keep the home fires burning.

Are you giving aid and comfort to the enemy?

Any householder in your neighborhood who has a garden plot, or who owns a piece of suitable vacant land that is not being put under cultivation in order to increase food production, is (though he or she may not believe it) giving aid and comfort to the enemy in restraining food production, as really as is the Submarine Commander who sinks an Allied ship laden with food. WIRE WORMS AND THEIR CONTROL.

Wireworms are to be recognized as one of the worst pests of corn, and carry their destructiveness to wheat, oats, potatoes and many other crops. They are yellowish-brown larvae having hard polished skins, the bodies slender and cylindrical in shape, measuring from three-quarters of an inch to an inch in length. The most injurious form in Ontario prefers low, mucky or poorly drained soils, feeding on the roots of grasses, grains and the like. Two or three years are required for them to reach maturity, which accounts many times, for the damage done by this pest a year or two after sod has been turned under. The adult of the wire-worm is a brownish beetle which, from its habit of snapping its body up in the air, when turned on its back, is known as a "click-beetle," "skipping-jack" or "snapping-beetle."

Where They Live

Early in the spring these beetles come out from the soil and soon lay their eggs in sod land or land thickly overgrown with grass. These eggs hatch into tiny wireworms. It frequently happens that, during the first year, the young worms feed upon sod, that has been turned under, and do not do their greatest harm to the cultivated crop until the second season. They require about three years to turn into beetles. Towards midsummer of the year in which they become full grown they form little cells in the soil in which they transform to the pupa or resting stage. About a month later they change into the beetles but stay in the ground until the following spring.

Control Measures

Susceptible crops like corn, potatoes or root crops should not be planted after plowing up grass sod, especially if wireworms are known to be present. They do not thrive well in clover land and so this crop is a good one to use on infested soil. If wheat is going to follow infested corn land it will be best to have the land well tilled as soon as the corn is removed. Plowing kills many worms by destroying their food supply and preventing them from preparing suitable quarters for the winter.

Inasmuch as many of our worst cutworms live in poorly drained soil it will be well to have such land tilled.

The use of commercial fertilizers has a tendency to overcome wireworm injury. It will not kill the insect but will aid the plant in overcoming its work. It is sometimes advisable to drain land and add lime in order to make it possible for the clover to establish itself, and this has given rise to the impression that lime itself kills wireworms. The action of the lime is simply to change the physical character of the soil which makes it unfavorable to these pests.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON

Lesson VII. Jesus Exercises Kingly Authority—Mark 11. 15-33.

Golden Text, Matt. 28. 18.

Verses 15. Entered into the temple—In the early part of his ministry, as recorded by John (2, 13-17) he had cleansed the temple, but now the old traffic was in full swing, and perhaps worse than before. He now with great vigor and authority expels those who profane the holy courts. Cast out them that sold and them that bought—Victims for the temple service, wine, oil, salt were the various things purchased. That they could be purchased within the temple precincts was doubtless a great convenience to the pilgrims, but the sordid mercenary spirit which had grown up turned all the traffic to desecration, profanity, greed, and fraud. Overthrew the tables of the moneychangers—The temple tax of a half-shekel which every Jew had to pay annually had to be paid in Jewish money. Pilgrims from all parts of the neighboring world brought with them Gentile money which naturally would have to be changed for the current coin of the Jews. Great profits came to the moneychangers at this time, who were not slow, as in Cairo, Jerusalem, and Constantinople to-day, to reap rich results from extortionate charges. Them that sold doves—The Levitical law (Lev. 12, 8; Luke 2, 24) provided that those who were unable to purchase lambs might purchase doves. 16. Carry a vessel through the temple—Any kind of implement. They had fallen into the habit of making a thoroughfare of the temple precincts, which the Jewish authorities had prohibited. 17. And he taught—Stirred by what he saw he seized the opportunity to instruct them on the prophecies of the sanctuary. Ye have made it a den of robbers—The din of traffic is not in harmony with the spirit and practice of prayer in the house of God. The chaffering of traders, the noise of sacrificial beasts, the noise of men tramping through the sacred courts, was not so bad as the greed and robbery by which unscrupulous traders had enriched themselves at the expense of the thronging pilgrims who had come to worship.

18. The chief priests and the scribes heard it, and sought how they might destroy him—Since all this traffic took place by the sanction of the priests, and since all animals offered for sacrifice had to pass the priestly inspection we may well understand how bitter was their rage toward Jesus, when we are told that the priests derived revenue from this barter. To sweep out of the temple the entire miserable crew of traffickers interfered with the gains of these secularized religionists. They feared him—We have two other instances where they combined against him (John 7, 32 and 11, 47, 57). He had the people with him and they did not dare arrest him before the crowd, who undoubtedly looked on with supreme satisfaction as they beheld his fearless attack upon the corrupters of the people and despisers of the common folk.

28. By what authority—who gave thee this authority?—This was on his third visit to the temple at this time. He is challenged by all three classes, including the custodians of the temple, who might reasonably claim to inquire why he presumed to exercise authority in a region over which they had special jurisdiction. 29. I will ask you one question—He now brings up the mooted question of John's authority to do as he did. What authority has any man to move out of the conventional order, unless he is moved with a mighty call to his day! Why did John baptize and so scathingly arraign the leaders of his day? 32. They feared the people: for all verily held John to be a prophet—Consequently, to have lightly esteemed John was to bring upon them the popular indignation. Instead of frankly owning to their conviction of John's divine call they took refuge in a cowardly profession of ignorance.

33. Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things—John's fearless action was the action of a prophet; Jesus' conduct was likewise the procedure of one moved by divine authority, but he refused to answer men who were moved only by a hostile curiosity.

How Canada's Greatest Shoe House Supplies the Nation's Footwear

CONSIDER the amount of time and the infinite care you take when buying footwear to suit your own taste in regard to style, size, etc. Multiply your own individual needs by millions and you will get an idea of the immense task which confronts the makers of Canada's footwear, and the size of the organization it is necessary to maintain for that purpose.

The buying of a single pair of shoes is an event that occupies a person but a few moments two or three times a year—but to meet the accumulated demand of a nation's individuals, it requires the whole resources of a gigantic industry. Ames Holden McCready are truly "Shoemakers to the Nation." It is a title justified by their size and the importance of their business.

It may be a revelation to many Canadians to know that to supply them with proper footwear, this firm maintains huge factories each with many acres of floor space, and hundreds of intricate, almost human, machines—facilities and equipment sufficient to turn out 8,000 pairs of shoes every working day.

It requires a small army of work-people, clerks and warehousemen, in addition to executives, buyers and travellers.

It requires much study and thought to plan styles and models of Men's, Women's and Children's shoes in their various grades and styles.

In order to secure the best results in the production of various kinds and grades, it is also necessary to specialize.

For example: Ames Holden McCready factories are separated into three distinct factory units, each a complete factory in itself.

One unit of our factories is devoted entirely to the manufacture of high grade footwear for Women and Children. Consider the great variety of styles in women's footwear, including high-top boots, oxfords and pumps. Consider the many different patterns and lasts, the varieties and shades of leather and finish—then you will see what a great number of models are required to meet the widely different needs of Canadian women in the cities and towns and also in the country districts.

Another factory unit is devoted to making only the better grades and styles of Men's Shoes—shoes for professional men, lawyers, doctors, and all business men, whose occupations permit the use of fine leathers such as calf and kid.

The third unit specializes in sturdier types of shoes for heavy wear and rough usage. Shoes for farmers, lumbermen, miners, trainmen, and workpeople who require a heavier and more solidly-constructed boot.

In addition to the work of manufacture—the requirements of distribution are also tremendous. A manufacturer must not only make his goods economically and well—but he must deliver them—DISTRIBUTE them. Therefore, in addition to a force of 60 travellers constantly visiting the retail trade from coast to coast, Ames Holden McCready maintain, in the centres of population throughout Canada, immense stocks of boots and shoes ready for immediate shipment to the retailers in each section.

These warehouses are located in the following cities:

St. John Toronto Montreal
Winnipeg Edmonton Vancouver

Years of experience has taught us the kind and styles of boots which are required in each locality. No matter in what part of Canada you reside, no matter what particular kind of shoe you require, your retail dealer can procure it for you without loss of time.

And that is the reason why you will find, even in the outlying districts, that dealers selling Ames Holden McCready goods are up-to-date with stocks that are fresh and new, and which reflect the latest shapes and styles.

When you see the A.H.M. trade mark on a shoe, you know that not only is that mark an endorsement by the largest shoe concern in Canada, but that being the product of a highly organized industry, the shoe you are buying represents the utmost in value, style and wearing qualities which can be obtained at the price.

The Treatment of Asthma.

The most common form of this disease is bronchial asthma, which shuts up the bronchial tubes and prevents air from moving in and out as it normally does.

There may be a spasm of the tubes, or the lining mucous membrane may be so swollen as to fill up the cavity of the tube.

Miners, potters, grinders, and millers suffer from this disease, their tubes becoming choked with dust while at their work.

Those who have troubles with their nose, enlarged tonsils, and certain forms of heart and kidney disease, may also be asthmatic; and children have it in the form of spasm of the larynx, when a gland in the neck called the "thymus gland" is diseased.

In hay-fever the mucous membrane of the nose is often so swollen that no air will pass through, and this swollen condition may extend down the throat and into the lungs, causing almost a continual asthmatic spasm.

Asthma is usually worse at the sea level and in a moist atmosphere. A coming storm at the sea level, or unusual humidity, will bring on an attack.

So, also, will any unusual experience acting through the nervous system, such as anger, grief, bad news, worry, or fatigue.

With miners and those who inhale dirt and dust, the smaller bronchial tubes may become filled up and useless, asthma being persistent and more and more troublesome.

The object of treatment will therefore be to remove this solid material from the tubes, reduce the swelling of the mucous membrane, and loosen the spasm.

There are remedies which are intended to relax spasm—these are mostly gases and vapors and they include compressed air, oxygen, vapor of chloroform and ether, and the powerful vapor of nitrite of amyl.

Cigarettes containing arsenic, belladonna, and stramonium, may also be smoked with advantage.

Useful also, are preparations of opium, the bromides, and chloral, though these are all dangerous.

To relieve the swelling of the mucous membrane, physicians often give quinine, strychnia, antimony and lobelia and some of the forms of electricity are also sometimes employed.

Serums and vaccines are coming more and more into use, as means of treatment, and there are those who think they have obtained good results from their use.

We must not forget that the mental influence has much to do with the effect of medicinal substances and that a medicine which is skillfully advertised, or is recommended by a friend, may have no intrinsic value.

Change of residence is the most valuable means of treatment with which I am familiar, and in making the change it is always well to get the advice of some one who is familiar with the influence of climates and who has no personal end to gain.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. S.—Am unable to close my fingers on account of stiffness in the tendons resulting from a cut followed by blood poisoning. How can I get rid of the trouble?

Answer:—Your trouble is one which very often follows infected injuries. Such troubles can sometimes be relieved by a course of massage with manipulation of the stiffened tissues. There are various forms of apparatus which are made for this purpose.

A. H.—Is there any cure for hardening of the arteries, and what is the cause of this trouble?

Answer:—If you will send a stamped and self-addressed envelope, a copy of an article on this disease will be mailed you, which will give you a full account of the trouble.

BEGINNINGS OF AIR CONQUEST

THE BRITISH AND DEVELOPMENT OF AERIAL COMBAT.

At the Present Stage There Are Three Branches of Aviation, Differing in Several Respects.

In an interesting communication to the National Geographic Society, Captain Andre de Berroeta, of the French aviation service, now on duty with the French Military Mission to America, traces the development of the airman's duties since the beginning of the world war.

"The preparation, conduct and results of an offensive military operation in Europe," says the captain, "bear but a faint resemblance to those of a battle at the opening of hostilities."

"The extraordinarily effective application of aircraft to the uses of war has greatly accelerated this radical transformation. To-day aviation reigns supreme over the field of battle."

"There are at the present time three branches of aviation, which differ in the duties performed, in the machines used and in the armament provided."

Branches of Aviation

"These are:
 "First. The divisional or reconnaissance aviation, a valuable ally of the staff it serves, of the batteries whose firing it directs, of the infantry it assists in leading during the battle."

"Second. The aviation of combat, younger sister of the first and the most faithful ally she has for her protection from the aggressions of hostile airplanes. 'Attack the boche, down him or compel him to flee,' is its clearly offensive motto."

"Third. The aviation of bombardment, hitherto chiefly employed in reprisals for the aerial raids of the enemy, but now called to a much greater and perhaps a decisive role."

"Although essentially distinct, these three branches of aviation can only be effectively employed by the constant co-ordination of their efforts."

"When the war was declared the chief strength of the French and German armies lay in the masses of their infantry, in the power of their artillery and in the skill of their cavalry. However, it seemed the part of wisdom to put the few hundred airplanes we possessed at the service of the fighting forces, in order to facilitate the success of their undertakings, the offensive strength of both the French and German squadrons was very small in comparison with the millions of combatants ready to clash with each other, supported by the fire of several thousand cannon."

"But these airplanes possessed the power of exploring the field of battle to an extent far beyond that of the cavalry, for which this delicate and dangerous duty had hitherto been reserved. To them, accordingly, from the beginning of the war was intrusted ed the observation of the movements of the hostile armies.

Increased Services.

"During the whole period termed the 'war of movement'—that is to say until the battle of the Marne—the French commanders were kept promptly informed of the movements of the German forces, thanks to the airplane reconnaissances of our pilots, who, accompanied by staff officers, made flights far within the lines of the enemy and at a low altitude in the rear of hostile forces. The aviation of reconnaissances was thus created."

"The number of aircraft in use was so small that a hostile airplane was rarely encountered in the course of these reconnoitring expeditions. If adversaries did chance to meet, all the pilots could do was to shake their fists at each other or discharge their revolvers without the slightest chance of hitting. It was, however, from these gestures that aerial combat took its birth, the history of which will remain as one of the most brilliant episodes of the present war."

"Taking advantage of their excursions within the lines of the enemy, the pilots carried with them a few artillery projectiles, which they dropped on hostile assemblages, camps or columns. Such was the beginning of aerial bombardment."

Johnny, Get Your Hoe.

Mr. A. Barnstead, organizing secretary of the National Committee on Food Resources of Nova Scotia, has sent the following, which was composed by Mr. George E. Graham, manager of the D.A.R., a subsidiary company of the C.P.R., and was sung with good effect at a public meeting held recently at Kentville, N.S.:

Johnny get your hoe, get your hoe, get your hoe,

Make your garden grow, make it grow, make it grow,
 Plant your seeds from sea to sea,
 Let them work for liberty.

Hurry right away, don't delay, start to-day,
 Forward to the land with a right willing hand,
 So we'll help defeat the Hun,
 Now we've got him on the run.

Over there, over there, over there,
 Send the food, send the food, over there,

For our brave boys need it, our brave boys need it,
 The calls are coming everywhere,
 So observe and preserve

Save the food, save the food, and conserve,
 So we'll help win the cause of freedom,
 And we'll plant, save and send, till it's over, over there.

ROYALTY AT ONE WITH PEOPLE

Queen Alexandra Wields a Hammer In Shell Plant.

How thoroughly the royal family is at one with the people in the present situation has been shown by the King's informal visit to the battle front and by the Prince of Wales' return to duty before the expiration of his recent leave. Since his return his Majesty and the Queen have been busy visiting munition factories and equipment works.

At a factory at Walthamstow the Queen, as ever, was chiefly interested in the girl and women workers, among whom she mingled with her usual cheery smile, chatting most of the time—when not passing a few words with the girls—with Mrs. Phipps, the organizer.

The Queen, impressed by the appearance of the girls, remarked to Mrs. Phipps, seemed to be girls of a very superior type, when one of the conducting party remarked, "Yes, your Majesty, we are some stunt on these girls."

The Queen looked puzzled, not understanding the slang, but quietly laughed with pleasure when it was explained that what the official meant was that their experience in the employment of female labor had been altogether satisfactory.

Queen Alexandra has been busy, too, visiting factories with Princess Victoria, throwing out a useful word or two of advice as it occurred to her practical mind. In one shop she saw a girl wielding a hammer and punching identification marks on a shell.

She thought this must be very heavy work for a girl, but to the Queen's inquiry the girl smilingly replied it was quite simple now she had grown accustomed to it. Accepting an invitation to try for herself, Queen Alexandra held the punch in position with one hand, and with the other hit a series of hard blows, but on examining the marking feared that they came far short of the standard.

There are many advantages to a single pitch roof on the poultry house. This type is most easily built. It gives the highest vertical front exposed to the sun's rays and throws all of the rain water to the rear.

GIRLS! WHITEN SKIN WITH LEMON JUICE

Make a beauty lotion for a few cents to remove tan, freckles, sallowness. Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply you with three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Squeeze the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle, then put in the orchard white and shake well. This makes a quart of the very best lemon skin whitener and complexion beautifier known. Massage this fragrant, creamy lotion daily into the face, neck, arms and hands and just see how freckles, tan, sallowness, redness and roughness disappear and how smooth, soft and clear the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless, and the beautiful results will surprise you.

Increased Acreage in West.

Ample evidence that the farmers in the great grain growing areas between the Great Lakes and the Rockies are responding wholeheartedly to the government's appeal for increased production, is contained in a detailed report of farming operations in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta received at the head office of the Canadian Northern here to-day.

It is pointed out that the late fall in 1917 and the early spring of this year have compensated largely for any shortage in farm labor at this critical time. Recent reports to the Canadian Northern indicated that the new breaking along its lines would be between three-quarters of a million and a million acres, and that sufficient fall ploughing had been done to facilitate early operations this year. The report just in from 235 points, shows that up to the week ending April 17th, there was pronounced activity throughout all districts served by the lines of the Canadian Northern in the west. The condition of the ground was given as good, there being not a single complaint in respect to the state of the soil.

If you want the bottom crust of pie or tart to keep crisp do not put on flat surface when taking it from the oven; let it cool with space beneath it.

ANY CORN LIFTS OUT, DOESN'T HURT A BIT!

No foolishness! Lift your corns and calluses off with fingers—It's like magic!

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn, can harmlessly be lifted right out with the fingers if you apply upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

For little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain.

This simple drug dries the moment it is applied and does not even irritate the surrounding skin while applying it or afterwards.

This announcement will interest many of our readers. If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to surely get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.

It ain't as I 'opes He'll keep me safe While the other blokes goes down, It ain't as I wants to leave this world And wear an 'ero's crown. It ain't for that as I says my prayers When I goes to the attack, But I pray that whatever comes my way

Secret Worth Knowing.

The secret of creamy fudge is the addition of a small teaspoon of corn-starch diluted in a little of the milk when added to the sugar.

Minard's Liniment used by Physicians.

Straw and similar material gather moisture, and when the litter becomes damp enough to be limp it is practically useless for fowls to scratch in for their grain feed. Scratching litter in the poultry house is essential, but it should be cleaned out and renewed frequently.

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night, would awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around and in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZE, 603 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I cannot sleep" or "It seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultze's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS
TORONTO.

With a run of cattle approximating 4800 head on the Union Stock Yards Exchange yesterday, and with a lot of the offerings of exceptionally good quality for this season, the market on the whole for the good to choice grades was steady to strong with last week's best prices.

In the earlier stages of the trading the market opened with a rather easier feeling, but later in the day it became very active with a strong and insistent demand for any good cattle with weight, fat and quality.

In no former day on the Union Stock Yards have so many straight loads of good to choice steers and heifers gone over the scales at such consistently high prices. All the large packing houses, as will be shown in the list of representative sales were heavy buyers at strong prices. By the way, a careful study of the prices quoted in to-day's World will well repay anybody interested in the live stock trade of Canada.

There was a light run of sheep and lambs, which held steady with last week's prices. Choice grain-fed sheep and yearlings are selling well and wanted, while the medium to thin ones are selling slow. Choice yearlings are quoted at $20 and $22; medium, $18 to $17.50; choice light-weight sheep, $17.50 to $19; heavy fat sheep and bucks, $15 to $16.50.

There was a fair run of calves, over 700 head, and the market held steady. Choice veal calves sold at $14 to $15; medium, $11.50 to $13.50; grassers and common calves, $7.50 to $10, and heavy, fat calves, $12 to $14.

With receipts of 1897 hogs the market held steady at $21, fed and watered, and $20.25 f.o.b.

Prorogation of Parliament by Thursday, May 16, or Saturday, May 18th, is hoped for in Government and in official circles, although it is quite likely that it will not be possible to dispose of the business until a week later. May 23rd, is, therefore, regarded as being a quite likely date for the formal winding up of the session.

An Ontario recruit who refused to allow himself to be vaccinated was sentenced to two years imprisonment. An Iowa recruit who committed the same offence was sent down for 15 years. It seems that in Iowa they are seven and a half times as much at war with slackers as we are in Ontario.

Use honey, maple syrup, molasses and brown sugar instead of granulated sugar. The first three of these cannot be shipped to our Allies in Europe as they require too much shipping space. Brown sugar cannot be shipped as it ferments. Use these commodities at home so that granulated sugar can be shipped abroad.

This anti idling law is a dandy. The idea of able-bodied men sitting around a hotel playing rummy and smoking and spitting when the country is calling for greater production, is not exhibiting patriotism for their works. They are a nuisance to the hotel proprietors and a bad example to the public in this crisis in the world's greatest war.
