The Earl's Son

TWO HEARTS UNITED

CHAPTER XV.

The earl nodded, and seemed lost in thought for a moment or two, then he said: "Quite so. I appreciate her delicacy. Few women can resist a persistent devotion. You had better stay here as long as you can, and come down more frequently. I am not averse to the match. I don't think you're worthy of her, of course—"

"No man is!" murmured Talbot, with well-simulated modesty.

"Quite so," assented the earl. "I agree with you; and that being so, you are as deserving as another. You have this in your favor: that her affections are not engaged. Of course she has had many suitors—young Sainsbury, for instance—but I do not think she is inclined to any of them."

"I am glad to hear it, sir," said Talbot. "I shall certainly persevere."

The earl nodded approvingly and, leaning back, shut his eyes as if the subject were concluded; and Talbot, taking a book at random, went out of the room in his slow and languid fashion. It was not until he had reached the hall that he realized that his courage had failed him, and that he had not ventured to sound the earl on his "early life."

CHAPTER XVI.

That afternoon Veronica suffered from the peculiar affliction that ladies call a "restless fit." Talbot Denby's proposal, the fact that her decision had been affected by the sight of Ralph Farrington, worried her, made the imprisonment to her room intolerable, and the reclining attitude on a couch impossible.

She was pining for the open air, for the solitude of the woods, for some place away from the enervating influence of the stately rooms of the Court; and at last she summoned Goodwin from a delightful gossip in the servants' hall.

"I want to go out, Goodwin," she said.

"The carriage, miss?" responded Goodwin, promptly; but Veronica shook her head emphatically.

"No! I do not want to call anywhere. I want to go for a drive by myself. Ask Matthews to let me have the jingle and the old pony. I don't want anyone with me. You understand?"

Goodwin gave the order and came back in a few minutes to dress her mistress.

"Matthews says that you'll only be able to go a short distance, and that the pony's very slow, miss?" she said.

"Oh, I only want to moon about!" said Veronica. "I want the open air; the house seems stifling. Has the earl gone for his drive?"

"His lordship felt strong enough for a little walk, miss," replied Goodwin, "and he's gone into the grounds. Pray mind how you go, miss! Lean on me!"

"Oh, I can nearly walk quite well!" said Veronica as she went down the stairs.

Matthews and Goodwin, assisted by the butler and a footman, put her into the jingle, and Veronica, with a sigh of relief and satisfaction, took the reins and shook the aged pony into the semblance of a trot. The weight on her mind lifted as she drove away from the great house and into the leafy woods, and her spirits asserted themselves and threw off the cloud of Talbot Denby's proposal in the clear, fine air permeated by the pines through which the jingle threaded its solitary way. The intense stillness, the solitude, was like balm to her harassed mind, and the dark brows relaxed, and the lips grew less strained and hard. The pony jogged along, perfectly contented with himself and his driver, and Veronica let him go on his own pace until she reached one of the rustic arbours which the earl had caused to be built amongst the fragrant pines. Then she pulled him up and leant back in the comfortable little cart, and looked about her with a wistful sigh. It was all very silent and lonely, and it was loneliness she had wanted, but still—but still she was not quite satisfied.

Suddenly she heard a step, a firm step, crushing through the bracken and, without turning her head, she saw Ralph Farrington beside her.

He had his gun on his shoulder, and the two dogs were at his heels. The blood mounted to her face, but she drove it back again, and turned to him with an admirably assumed calmness.

Ralph raised his cap and silenced the yapping of the dogs.

"Good-afternoon, Miss Gresham," he said. "I hope you are better!"

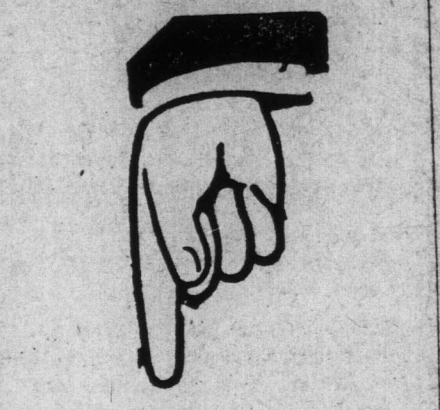

"Thanks, I am quite well," she replied, coldly. "That is, my foot is nearly all right, and I shall be able to walk again presently."

"I am glad," he said. "I heard from the Masons that you were going on all right."

"Oh," she said, curtly. "That is why you have not been up to the Court to enquire, I suppose?" She spoke with an affectation of indifference, which, of course, Ralph's dull, masculine mind did not detect.

"That's why," he said, simply. "That's a very old pony, but a good one."

She shrugged her shoulders.

"Yes, I am tired of sitting here. Will you help me into the arbour, please?"

He put his gun against one of the posts of the summer-house and helped her out of the jingle. She leant rather heavily on his arm, and the touch of her hand brought the blood to his face, but his voice was quite steady as he said:

"Wait till I dust the seat—it hasn't been used for months. That's all right."

She sank back into the rustic seat and looked straight before her.

"You must lead a most joyous life," she said, "just walking through these beautiful woods, with nothing to do—"

"But look after poachers who are as cunning and persistent as Old Nick!" he retorted, grimly. "But, oh, yes; it's enjoyable enough, and I'm sorry to have to leave it."

She raised her eyes for an instant, then looked away from him.

"To leave it? I thought you were quite contented with your—place. I saw you this morning at the weir, and you seemed happy enough."

He glanced at her, then his eyes fixed themselves upon the glade that opened before them.

"Yes, I was. I am happy enough when there is hard work to be done, such as there was this morning; but— Ah, well, you wouldn't understand, Miss Gresham!"

"Why should I not?" she retorted.

"Do you think I am lacking in intelligence? What you mean is that you have grown restless, as you said the other day—"

"Yes," he responded, gravely. "I have grown restless. I sigh for fresh woods and pastures new—"

She looked surprised at the quotation from Milton: a strange one, coming from a gamekeeper.

"—And it's time I moved on, as the police say."

"And where will you go?" she asked in a low tone.

He shrugged his shoulders.

"I don't know. Fate will decide. Fate decides most things for us."

"And when?" she asked, with well-simulated indifference.

"At once," he replied. "As soon as Burchett can find someone to fill my place, and he will find no difficulty in doing that."

"I am sorry you have not been happy here—at Lynne Court," she said.

He paused.

"That's it," he said. "I have been too happy."

"Too happy!" she repeated, incredulously. "When did you make up your mind to go?"

"Just now," he replied, absently.

She was silent a moment, pondering over his reply, her eyes downcast. She was no longer restless and dissatisfied; a sense of peace and happiness, like the warmth of the summer sun, had stolen over her heart; but it fled, and left a chill behind as she remembered that he was going. The silence grew irksome, intolerable. She knew that he was looking at her, and she grew embarrassed under his gaze, which she felt was full of sadness and melancholy.

"I must be going," she said. "Oh!"—suddenly but casually—"did you find my handkerchief?"

"Yes," he replied.

He was standing behind her, ready to assist her to rise, but she saw his hand go to his breast, and she said, quickly:

"Oh, thanks! Bring it to me tomorrow here. I shall come at the same time. I like pottering along with this old pony," she said, hurriedly, as if an excuse were needed.

"Very good," he responded.

He helped her to the carriage. She could have walked alone very well, but she leant on his arm; and when she started she asked him the name of one of the wild flowers, and, of course he had to pace beside the jingle. She kept him, without his being aware that she was detaining him near her by intention until they had got to the edge of the wood; then she said:

"At the same time, please—unless you will be gone before then?" she added, and raised her violet eyes to his face.

"No, no!" he replied, swiftly and unsteadily. "I will be here, Miss Gresham."

She drove off down the road to the Court, and Ralph, after waiting a moment or two leaning on his gun, and staring, with a frown, at the ground, went his way.

Five minutes after they had left the arbour the earl rose from a rustic seat, which was fixed to the back of it, and with bent head and stern face paced slowly towards the Court.

When Veronica returned to the house she found him seated before the hall fire.

Knee Joint Stiff Three Years CURED BY NERVILINE.

Anyone would marvel at my recovery, writes Mr. Leonard Lotham, a young man well known about Chatham. I had inherited a rheumatic tendency through my mother's family, and in my early days suffered frightfully. About three years ago the pain and stiffness settled in my left knee joint. I was lame and walked with a very distinct limp. Nerviline was brought to my notice and I rubbed it into the stiff joint four or five times a day. It dispelled every vestige of pain, reduced the swelling, took out the stiffness and gave me the full use of my limb again. I don't believe there is a pain-relieving remedy, not a single liniment that can compare with Nerviline. I hope every person with pains, with sore back, with lameness, with lumbago, with neuralgia—I do hope they will try out Nerviline which I am convinced will quickly and permanently cure them.

If Nerviline wasn't a wonderful painless remedy, if Nerviline didn't quickly relieve, if Nerviline wasn't known to be a grand cure for all rheumatic conditions, it wouldn't have been so largely used as a family remedy for the past forty years. No better, stronger, or more soothing liniment made. Get the large 50c. family size bottle; small trial size 25c.; sold by any dealer, anywhere.

The Eastern Trust Company!

The Eastern Trust Company has installed safety deposit boxes in its vault in the Pitts Building, Water Street. These boxes can be hired at a moderate rent by the year.

Persons making a will in which they appoint the Eastern Trust Company executor may deposit their wills in the vault of the Company without charge.

An impression has gone abroad that the Company charges a fee upon the making of a will which the Company is appointed executor. This is an error. The Company charges no fee until after the death of a testator and the Company has undertaken the execution of the trusts under the will. It then charges the same fee as is allowed to ordinary executors.

Dr. Adams Lectures on Deformities.

At the lecture given last night in Grenfell Hall, a fair sized audience attended, although it was not so large as might have been expected. The Premier presided, and among those present we noticed Lady Morris, Hon. C. H. Emerson, Hon. S. and Mrs. Milley, Mr. and Mrs. Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Morine, Mrs. W. C. Job, Mrs. E. R. Bowring and G. Grimes, M. H. A. Sir Edward Morris in introducing Dr. Adams told of the work the latter had done since his arrival here last week. He had examined some 200 cases and performed a dozen or so of operations, types of different classes of deformities, before a number of the medical practitioners of the city.

Dr. Adams was warmly welcomed on rising to speak on his subject: "Deformities and Possible Prevention." He commenced by telling of the great social and economic work performed by the medical fraternity in the way of prevention. He instanced the great work in Panama, Cuba, and Porto Rico of the medical fraternity in clearing these zones of Yellow Jack, etc., and he told of the cutting down of 200,000 deaths in the United States from Tuberculosis to 50,000. These were the great contributions the profession was making to the whole world. For himself, although he was spoken of as a specialist, he did not claim to know more in the aggregate than the general practitioner, he was an Orthopedist, and he knew more in that special branch than the general practitioner because he had more experience in dealing with and studying more cases than came within the field of the general practitioner. Nature was the great corrective if she got a chance. Cleanliness, within and without, fresh air and proper diet were the preventives of physical malformation, which are mainly due to the abuse of nature. Diet is an important factor and ignorance as to food values is hurtful. The proportion of proteins, fats, etc., must be considered. Often food is given to infants which an adult stomach could not assimilate. Bacon and cucumber and such like were given as tit-bits and these were pernicious to children. The juice of meat and milk were valuable. It is unwise for any child under five years of age to sit at table with grown-up people. Infantile paralysis is not fully understood. It is caused by a germ which is supposed to enter the nostrils. He had operated on three cases since his arrival. Tuberculosis was also a germ disease. It thrives in the absence of oxygen. Plenty of fresh air destroys it. Fresh air is absolutely essential in the treatment of tuberculosis of the bone. The patient should have fresh air all the time, not merely for a few hours of the twenty-four. He had proved the necessity in the course of his experience. Fresh air, plain food and rest for the diseased bone were essential. Rest was necessary to prevent friction in euberculosis joints. The average shoe of to-day was criminal. It prevented free action of the foot and tended to flat-footedness. He regretted the non-arrival of slides with which he had hoped to illustrate his remarks. He asked for consideration for medical men. They made mistakes. He made mistakes, but the profession was a great one, and it was doing its best to enable humanity to make the best of life.

A vote of thanks moved by Hon. R. Watson was heartily accorded Dr. Adams.

Rossley's Motion Pictures

On Silver Screen.
The latest amusement fever to sweep the country like a tidal wave is the moving picture show. For a number of years the steady advance of moving pictures was watched with solicitude by actors and actresses, many of whom regarded this form of entertainment as one of danger to their future prospects, and, therefore, to be discontinued as a dangerous rival. Now hundreds and thousands of actors and actresses find steady employment in the field of motography. Instead of lowering their standing in the profession of entertainment the motion picture has given them a well defined status and affords them remunerative and permanent engagements. Many ask why is the moving picture popular, and Mr. Rossley gives five reasons: 1st, it is a cheap amusement for the masses; 2nd, it is wholesome and satisfying; 3rd, it is educative as well as entertaining; 4th, it possesses distinct novelty and therefore has a charm that attracts; 5th, its possibilities are boundless, and shown as they are on the silver screen at Rossley's a pleasure to look at.

Attacked by Rowdies.

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir—I would like to see this published in your paper for the benefit of whom it may concern.

Wednesday evening a crowd of young ladies, and three young men while on their way home from a picnic held in Milley's Field near the roadway, were attacked by a crowd of scamps who assaulted the young ladies, and men by continually throwing sods and stones all the way from Milley's to LeMerchant Road. Several times the ladies were hit with sods but were fortunate enough to escape without being hurt. When the party arrived at LeMerchant Road the scamps soon made themselves scarce. One of the young men while trying to catch the scoundrels fell and cut himself badly, but in the attempt managed to catch one of them and find out his name, also the names of the others. It is a nuisance to the city to have such rowdies as these around our town. If anything happens like this again this crowd who are well known in the west end will be arrested.

Packed House at the Crescent.

"MEMORIES."
Recent alterations and improvements to the interior of the Crescent Picture Palace have been very favorably commented upon by the patrons. The theatre has been repainted and now presents a very attractive appearance. The show last night drew large audiences. The feature picture "Memories" was one of the best single reels we have ever seen, a splendid drama. The two comedy subjects, the educational and extra drama were also very good. Miss Louise Arkady made good in her song, "The Waltz Song," from the musical comedy Nights of Gladness. The week-end change to-morrow eclipses all when "His Indian Wife," a splendid story and drama is the feature. A special attraction for the special matinee Saturday afternoon.

Bartlett leaves by the Beothic to-day for Sydney, C.B., where he has accepted the pastorate of Jubilee Church.

At the City Hall.

The commission held a special meeting at the City Hall last night, Mr. W. G. Gosling occupying the chair and the others in attendance being:—Hons. John Harris and John Anderson, Messrs. Jackman, Bradshaw, McGrath, Withers, Morris, Ayre and McNamara.

The meeting was for the discussion of the question of finance. The Secretary tabled statements of receipts and expenditure to date, together with the estimated revenue and expenditure for the current year, as approved by the late council. The expenditure showed an increase of about $9,000 over that of last year, which was consequent upon road repairing, sanitation, special appraisement and erection and repairing of retaining walls.

There was a shortage of $1,000 in the revenue, due to the shortage in vehicle taxes, collection of Crown rents, etc.

The Secretary also informed the Council that this deficit could be collected within a reasonable time.

The arrears of taxes estimated for the year was $30,000 of which $17,958.62 has been collected to date. The estimated water rates for the year amounted to $54,800, and the collections to date are up to $28,833.81, which is about $2,000 over the corresponding period last year. Various other increases and decreases were submitted, but the revenue is expected to fully cover the estimated expenditure for the current year.

After the finance question had been discussed the problem of coping with the dust was dealt with, and many practical suggestions were offered.

Mr. Harris moved that a hose with a sprinkler attached be operated in the squares and streets intersecting Water Street to Lime Street, to lay the dust as the services of the regular sprinklers were inadequate. The motion was seconded by Hon. John Anderson, and carried.

Mr. Ayre in speaking to the motion, thought that the services of the firemen at these centres to work within a radius of 300 yards would help to solve the dust problem and suggested that the Inspector General be written in the matter.

Mr. Withers suggested that Water Street be thoroughly swept and washed twice a week as an experiment. The matter was deferred until the engineer is consulted.

Mr. Jackman thought that a full and complete report from the Engineer was necessary before any intelligent decision could be reached.

On motion of Mr. McNamara, it was decided that the R. N. Co. be asked to send a representative to the next meeting of the board, at which a discussion of the contract for watering will be held.

Special to Evening Telegram

LONDON, To-day. The Committee stage bill to amend the Irish Home Rule Bill, passed today in the House of Lords and will occupy three days. The first Unionist amendment to eliminate the clause providing for a vote to be taken in each county in Ulster on the question whether it should be excluded from the operation of the Home Rule Bill, was carried by 158 against 35.

The amendment moved by Lansdowne, providing for the total exclusion of Ulster without a time limit, was next adopted, 138 to 39. Lansdowne, referring to Marquis of Crewe's challenge, said that the Opposition would not guarantee that Ulster's exclusion would prevent civil war. Things had come to such a pass in Ireland that it was impossible for any one to guarantee what might happen there in the next few weeks or even days, but on the whole, he continued, we are inclined to believe that this arrangement is more liable than any other to provide relief from the present anxieties. Three important amendments were adopted yesterday; the first provided for the elimination of the clause of the Bill, requiring a vote shall be taken in each county of Ulster on the question whether it should be excluded from the operations of the Home Rule Bill; the second provided for the total exclusion of Ulster without the limit; the third which was accepted by the Government, places excluded Ulster under a Secretary of State instead of the Lord Lieutenant, in order to avoid any possibility of influence from Dublin. The amendment offered by Lord McDonnell, proposing a sort of Home Rule within Home Rule, by setting up a special Ulster Council of 52 members to take over the chief administrative work of the Province, was supported by the moderate, like Earl of Lothburn and Baron Courtney, but was rejected on the division by 196 to 20. The Daily Telegraph asserts on high authority, that the Government eventually will accept the Bill as amended by the Lords. It adds there will be no difficulty regarding the abolition of a time limit, but that the Redmondites will stoutly oppose the exclusion of the whole of Ulster. They will, however, the Telegraph declares, be out-voted on this point in the Commons by a combination of Unionists and Liberals.

WRONG BREAKFAST

Change Gave Rugged Health.

Many persons think that for strength, they must begin the day with a breakfast of meat and other heavy foods. This is a mistake as anyone can easily discover for himself.

A carpenter's experience may benefit others. He writes:

"I used to be a very heavy breakfast eater but finally indigestion caused me such distress, I became afraid to eat anything.

"My wife suggested a trial of Grape-Nuts and as I had to eat something or starve, I concluded to take her advice. She fixed me up a dish and I remarked at the time that the quality was all right, but the quantity was too small—I wanted a saucerful.

"But she said a small amount of Grape-Nuts went a long way and that I must eat it according to directions. So I started in with Grape-Nuts and cream, 2 soft boiled eggs and some crisp toast for breakfast.

"I cut out meats and a lot of other stuff I had been used to eating all my life and was gratified to see that I was getting better right along. I concluded I had struck the right thing and stuck to it. I had not only been eating improper food, but too much.

"I was working at the carpenter's trade at that time and thought that unless I had a hearty breakfast with plenty of meat, I would play out before dinner. But after a few days of my 'new breakfast' I found I could do more work, felt better in every way, and now I am not bothered with indigestion."

An Explanation Needed

Yesterday afternoon we phoned the City Hall to make enquiries respecting the meeting which was announced at last Friday's session, to take place last night. Upon informing the person who answered the phone that a Telegram representative was speaking, and that we wanted to know if the meeting was to take place, we were told that the meeting was to be held, but he did not think the Press would be admitted. When asked to make sure, our informant left the phone to enquire, and returning told us distinctly that the Press would not be admitted until the regular meeting on Friday afternoon, as the meeting to be convened was only for a preliminary discussion of matters of finance. We shall be glad to hear why we were thus misinformed, particularly as Mr. Gosling, the Chairman, expressed to our representative recently the wish that the Press attend all meetings of the Board, so that the widest publicity be given the doings of the Commission. He furthermore intimated that we would be notified in time, so that we could make the necessary arrangements to attend.

Fishery at P acentia.

Prospects of the fishery at Placentia are none too bright, but there is plenty of caplin for bait. Eleven traps are out and 140-fories and skiffs with 12 boats are fishing. One schooner has returned from the grounds. The total catch is 1,420 quintals with 720 for last week. If the present dogfish pest should cease and squid appear in sufficient quantities for bait, the voyage may be an average one. The lobster fishery at Placentia is also very backward.

Hot Weather

The weather's hot and sizzling, and most obnoxious, now; the moisture keeps a-d-r-i-l-i-z-i-n-g down my bulging brow; it filters through my gaiters, in manner most absurd, yet I am cheerful always and chipper as a bird. To snowy wastes unending I've trained myself to look, all day I am pretending that I am Dr. Cook. Attired in linen, thinly, I make myself believe that up old Mount McKinley I'm climbing, by your leave. My Thomas cat is dozing upon the easy chair, and I keep on supposing that it's a polar bear. "The igloo" I have christened the house wherein I dwell, and often there I've listened to arctic tempests yell, when other men were swatting, and groaning in their woe, and wringing hands, forgetting that there's such a thing as snow. The days will seem less dreary, if you, by hook or crook, can play that you are Peary, or, failing Peary, Cook. Imagine you're exploring in snow up to your neck, and soon you will be roaring, "We need a fire, by heck!"

Archbishop Howley in Ireland.

St. Jarlath Bazaar Concert.

On Tuesday evening last a successful concert in aid of the Cathedral Bazaar Fund was held in McDonnell's commodious wool stores, before a very large audience, which included the distinguished Archbishop of Newfoundland, Most Rev. Dr. Howley; Ki. Rev. Monsignor O'Riordan, and Very Rev. Father St. John, P.P., who accompanied His Grace. The concert opened with an orchestral selection, in which Mrs. Weekes, Miss Paine (violins), Miss S. Guy and Miss T. Walsh (cello), Mr. J. Weekes (double bass) and Miss C. Walsh (piano) contributed. The Rev. Joseph Walsh, St. Jarlath's, sang "The Mill Wheel" with very pleasing effect, and received very enthusiastic plaudits. In a naive way—all her own—a great favourite, Miss Daisy Keane sang "You'd Better Ask Me." Miss Margaret Rooney, first prize winner Sligo Feis, gave an exquisite rendering of "The Rosary" for which she was deservedly engaged. Miss C. Walsh next contributed a cello solo, "Salut d'Amour," which was much appreciated. Mr. Feversham's humorous contributions were thoroughly enjoyed, and he was recalled again and again. Miss Bridie Keane sang with rare sweetness and feeling, "The Irish Lullaby." Mr. H. Egan, Dunmore, sang with great effect "In Happy Moments," and in response to an undeniable and vociferous encore gave a touching rendition of Moore's haunting melody, "When he who adores thee." It is to be hoped that Mr. Egan's tuneful voice will be heard oftener on Tuam concert platforms. Mr. Quinn was next heard in a sweet rendering of "The Little Red Lark," and in response to an encore gave "Mother Machree." Mr. J. M. Meldon, Galway, playing his own accompaniment, sang with sidesplitting humour, "When the Old Ass Died." Needless to say he was encored and responded with another humorous ditty. Miss Fitzgibbon tastefully rendered "My Dear Soul." Part II. of the concert was contributed by the same artistes.

The Rev. Father McDermott, Adm., after the concert, addressing the audience, said he regretted the absence of His Grace, the Archbishop, to witness the response made by the people of the town on that occasion. It was not surprising, considering that the object for which the concert was organised appealed to every one in the town (applause). He did not think many words were necessary from him to thank them for their attendance, but it was his duty on their behalf, and as spokesman, to thank the ladies and gentlemen who afforded them that beautiful musical treat (applause). The Tuam artistes at all times responded to the call for their services, and were always anxious to serve local matters. Their thanks were due to Mrs. Costello for organising such a beautiful concert, and for bringing them artistes from far and near (applause). He should also express their gratitude to that wonderful child, Miss Rooney, for her contributions, and he thought they should concur in the opinion of the Sligo Feis by saying that they were justified in giving her first prize (applause). In conclusion, Father McDermott announced that they had a very distinguished Archbishop in their audience, the Most Rev. Dr. Howley, Archbishop of Newfoundland, who was accompanied by Monsignor O'Riordan, and Father St. John, P.P., from Newfoundland. On behalf of the people of Tuam, he could assure their visitors of a hearty welcome and that His Grace was not more welcome in any place in the West of Ireland than in the town of Tuam (applause). They were very grateful to the Archbishop for coming to the concert, and would be very pleased if they had a few words from him (applause).

Archbishop Howley, on rising to address the audience, was received most enthusiastically. In the course of his brief observations he thanked the people of Tuam for their warm reception. He stated that he was not Irish born but was of Irish descent. His father hailed from Cashel. He (His Grace) was one of a family of thirteen, though at one time his father was intended for the Church. He would bring back with him on his return happy memories of his tour in Ireland. He had the happiness of being present the other day in the House of Commons when the Home Rule Bill was carried from the lower House to the House of Lords (applause). His Grace referred to the enthusiasm he and the many other visitors felt at that historic scene in the House, and said that there was one gentleman who told him that he came all the way from New York to be present on that occasion (applause). That would give them an idea of the feelings and enthusiastic spirit aroused all over the world for Ireland (applause). He hoped, with the sunburst of freedom about to dawn over them, that for many centuries Ireland would be a great, thriving and prosperous country (applause). He again thanked them for their enthusiastic welcome.

The s.s. Durango, Capt. Chambers, 8 days from Liverpool, arrived last night. She brought 50 packages of mail matter and 500 tons cargo.

Where Responsibility Lies.
No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office—its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WARNER CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland.—jls17,21

HALIFAX, To-day.

The schooner Ida M. Clarke, South Sea sealer, arrived at Halifax this morning from Monte Video. Capt. Ryan reports having met bad weather during the whole of the trip. He and others of the crew were well except the cabin boy. The latter was taken to hospital on the arrival of the schooner. The Ida M. Clarke was the only sealer to leave Halifax last year. Had they had good weather a record catch would have been made; 1,900 seals were killed, and these sold at fairly good prices.

For breaking out in places new I hand it to that Tiger crew from automobile town. You tie 'em up with data rope an'—slip!—they simply take your dope an' turn it upside down. O' Hughie Jennings takes the blame for most o' this sort o' game an' most of it is his. But Oscar Stange helps a lot an' he don't wanta be forgot—he's part of Hughie's biz.

This Jennings has some temper, bo. An' now an' then he lets it go instead of holdin' tight. When he sees up its Oscar's cue to stick his cold spoon in the stew an' see that things go right. The boxmen work at Oscar's will, no pitcher's ever yanked until O' Oscar gives the sigh. He warms 'em up an' picks 'em out each afternoon before the bout an' keeps the rooks in line. Don't get the hunch, though, that 's through—that coachin' all the geut can do. He ain't no passing vet. Not Oscar! Out behind the plate he's on the job an' goin' great—he's good for some years yet. For work he's just a reg'lar hog an' base thieves think him some, watch dog—his pegs still swift an' true. My tip is just watch this ol' boss. Fore long he'll be a big league boss himself—then watch his crew.

The Lords' Amendments.

A forecast of what was likely to take place on the amending bill, made by Mr. T. P. O'Connor last week, should afford a means of making an interesting comparison with the amendments reported by cable to-day. "T.P." foreshadowed that when the Amending Bill got into Committee it would be drastically amended in the Carsonite direction...

ing $835,000 of the debentures on the hands of the Underwriters. The stock has now sunk to 99 1/2. We observe that the Montreal Star speaks of the "Success of Quebec Loans." Canada is thankful for small mercies these days. If the Quebec Four and a Half had been as successful as the French Three and a Half, the public would have tendered £40,000,000. The agents would have had to reject £29,000,000 of the £40,000,000 offered, and of course the underwriters would have had none of the stock left on their hands. The stock would have been at a premium. Instead of that the underwriters have £835,000 left on their hands and they are offering it now at a discount.

With British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia and Quebec finding it advisable to offer Four and a Half Per Cent. Bonds instead of Four Per Cents or Three and a Half Per Cents, would Newfoundland fare any better, were she a Province of the Dominion of Canada?

Stars Defeat Feildians.

The Stars defeated the Feildians in last night's football match by a score of 2 goals to 1. The game was a fast and exciting one and was witnessed by a large gathering of spectators. Mr. T. Hallett acted as referee and the line-up was as follows:— Star—Phelan, goal; Hart, Thompson, backs; Christopher, Kavanagh, Brien, halves; Phelan, Adams, Power, Morgan, Caul, forwards. Feildians—Lush, goal; F. Rendell, Strang, backs; Strong, Tait, Ryall, halves; Winter, C. Rendell, Pinsent, E. Rendell, Trebble, forwards.

Damaged by Lightning.

Battle Harbor Wireless Station is temporarily out of business on account of damage to instruments by lightning Tuesday night. This interrupts communication to Battle H. and stations north of that point.

LATER.

Marconi Station, Fogo, reports communication O.K. to what Stations are opened North of Battle Harbor, but Battle Harbor is not working. Business for that place is forwarded by mail.

A Marked Contrast.

The French Loan at 3 1/2 p.c. attracted forty times more money than the amount the French Government asked for a few days ago. So the cable story ran yesterday. Last week the Province of Quebec asked the public to take up £1,000,000 sterling at par, offering 4 1/2 per cent. interest. On Thursday it was found that the public offered to take up £165,000 of the Million Pounds, leaving £835,000 of the debentures on the hands of the Underwriters.

The Colonial Building, Government House and principal halls will be also artistically decorated with colored lights and mottoes in many novel designs.

At the Railway Station about 4,000 lights in colors of red, white, blue and amber, the building on the front and eastern end being outlined. The word "Welcome" will be placed between two colored lines, and the whole surmounted by a crown, arranged in patriotic colors. The work will be completed by the end of the week.

Mr. William Bright Dies in Boston.

News was received in the city yesterday of the death at Somerville, East Boston, on July 2nd, of Mr. Wm. Bright, printer, a native of St. John's. Mr. Bright, it seems, had been only sick for about a week, the cause of his death being rapid consumption. For a number of years Mr. Bright worked on the staff of the Evening Herald, later working a considerable time on the Evening Telegram, going to the States about 12 years ago, where he has resided ever since. Mr. Bright leaves a wife, three sons and two daughters, besides a mother and two brothers to mourn their loss. Mr. Stephen Bright, foreman of Mr. William Clouston's tinsmith shop, is a brother, to whom with his other friends the Telegram tenders sincere sympathy.

The Duke's Visit.

Last night a public demonstration was made at Curling in honor of the visit of the Duke of Connaught, who was presented with an address of welcome. The Duke left in the Essex last night for the Straits. The ship may call in at Hawke's Harbor on her way to Battle Harbor. On Sunday H. R. Highness is due at St. Anthony.

Kitchener on Cotton Growing.

London, June 30.—The production of cotton was the subject of an address delivered by Lord Kitchener of Khartoum yesterday at the International Congress of Tropical Agents, which is being held here.

The successful development of the cotton industry depended, he said, on the most serious attention being paid to the following points:— The renewal by purer strains of cotton seed in a country which is liable to deterioration ever seven years; regulations and the improvement of irrigation and drainage; proper cultivation and the manuring of land; and a rotation of crops and an incessant war waged against insect pests.

Fool Hardy Autoists

Met Terrible Death. Burlington, Iowa, July 2.—Clifford Johnson, aged twenty-five, met death in an unusual automobile accident early to-day. He was riding with two girls, both of whom, it is said, were asleep. As the car passed over a bridge girder, whisking him from the car. When his absence was discovered a few minutes later the car was run back and John was found dead. His arm had been pulled out at the socket and he had bled to death.

Loses Fortune to Wed Again.

Boston, July 2.—To wed the girl of his choice, Miss Katherine May Vinton, of Stoneham, Frank Palmer Speare, according to the terms of the will of his first wife, loses a part of the fortune she bequeathed him if he did not marry again. That fact, however, is the Educational Director of the Boston Y. M. C. A.

"What is money compared with love?" he said. "There isn't enough money in the world to make me regret losing it if I could by giving it up to win the sweetest girl on earth."

Big Grain Movement.

Predicted that 1,000,000 Bushels Will Come Down in Two Weeks. Duluth, July 2.—At least on million bushels of grain will go down the lakes in the next two weeks, despite the prevalent three-quarter cent rate, grain men predicted to-day. The prediction followed a sudden rush of vessel men to sign contracts.

The movement will let stocks here down to three million bushels and elevators will be in good shape to receive the new crop. Five cargoes, aggregating nearly half a million bushels, have gone out in the last twenty-four hours. New Orleans, La., June 30.—State and health authorities were astir here to-day preparatory to the inauguration of the first wholesale campaign in the history of the South for the extermination of rats in order to prevent the spread of bubonic plague. Two cases of the disease recently have been discovered in the Industrial Home of the Volunteers of America in New Orleans.

NEWS BY CABLE.

Special to Evening Telegram. CHESTER, July 8. Suffragettes burned the railway station at Board Health to-day.

BELGRADE, July 8. Death threats having been received by Crown Prince Alexander, a special body guard has been provided.

MADRID, July 8. Despite strong opposition from Socialists and Republican deputies, the Lower House of Parliament have passed by a large majority, the bill providing for the construction of a second squadron consisting of four battleships and several minor vessels, to be completed within five years.

GLASGOW, July 8. An attempt to destroy the College at Ayr, where Burns, the Scottish poet, was born, was made last night by two suffragettes of the Arson squad. The women were surprised by the night watchman, while placing bombs against the doors and windows. One of them was captured.

LE TOUQUET, France, July 8. The French Open Golf Championship has been won by a young and practically unknown player, J. B. Edgar, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, whose score was 288 for 72 holes. Vardon, the British Open Champion, finished second with 294; Edward Ray, champion of Great Britain, third, with 296; John Taylor, British Open Champion for 1913, was fourth with 296.

LONDON, July 8. Fully seventy per cent. of the funds of the Irish National Volunteers are coming in from the United States, according to the London Standard. The financial end of the movement is being controlled systematically from headquarters in New York. A committee of wealthy Irish-Americans will shortly leave for the South of Ireland, with the object of obtaining first hand knowledge of the needs of the Home Rule Army.

HALIFAX, July 8. Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Piccott, had a short interview with Sir Robert Borden to-day. He expressed great admiration for Canada, and said he was much impressed with the future possibilities and boundless wealth of the Dominion, as a result of his trip to the coast. Premier Borden returned the compliment by making very complimentary references to the sister Colony, and expressing good wishes for her prosperity. Mr. Piccott was much pleased with his interview with the Premier.

LONDON, July 8. There was dramatic suspense in the Commons last night, when the Government's majority fell to 23, the lowest Premier Asquith has yet secured, except on one or two occasions when a snap division was called. This situation, which gave rise to great excitement in the lobbies, where there was talk of almost an immediate general election, arose from the Premier's motion to allocate only seven days to further discussion of the finance bill. During an animated debate, this application of the guillotine was sharply criticized by the Opposition, and the vote was taken at 8 p.m., when the figures were announced, 289 to 266. Members on both sides were so amazed to make any immediate demonstration, though a few cheers were raised by the Tories, but later excitement grew intense. A speech subsequently made by Walter H. Long, ex-Chief Secretary for Ireland, added to the electricity of the atmosphere. He complained bitterly of the absence of the Premier, and threatened to move the adjournment of the debate. It was explained by Lloyd George that the Premier was keeping an important engagement. Meanwhile in the Lords the Government's bill to remodel the Council of India, a body which in London advises the Secretary of State for India, was rejected by 96 to 38, so that altogether the Ministers had a very bad day in Parliament.

LONDON, July 8. Mrs. Pankhurst has again resumed command, and was at the Suffragette Office at noon to-day. Simultaneously with her reappearance, a violent scene was created in the Central Criminal Court, where Alice Hall, Grace Roe, Julia James and Ellen Armes were brought up for conspiracy. They had been arrested during a raid in a West End flat on May 21. In their rooms had been found shrapnel-grenades, coils, fuses and plans of houses with instructions how to reach them. Roe and Hall refused to plead, threw the pens and papers from the prisoners' enclosure, and shouted a running commentary on their treatment in Holloway jail. Two policemen and five women attendants carried them out of the court to their cells. Mrs. Pankhurst was permitted to remain in active command for only a brief period, as when she emerged from headquarters to go to luncheon, the police pounced on her and took her to Holloway jail.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, June 24th, 1914.
THE PRINCE AND THE POLITICIANS.
The Prince of Wales has now celebrated his twentieth birthday and many interesting functions in the more private circles of the Royal Family were held. The newspaper experts here devote a great deal of attention to the young man's movements and at times political capital is attempted to be made out of them. The fact that His Royal Highness dined with the Premier to celebrate the King's birthday is, of course, without political importance, but it is interesting to note that two eminent politicians are amongst His Royal Highness's greatest friends. He is very fond of Mr. Asquith's society and his partiality for Mr. Balfour is equally well known. Mr. Balfour finds a delightful companion, and when the ex-Unionist leader was at Balmoral it was noticed that the two were together on every possible occasion, even walking to the little church attended by their Majesties in one another's company. The heir to the throne is an earnest student of constitutional law and history. He is determined to complete the course on the subject before he leaves Oxford, and if he is unable to do so before Christmas he will probably stay on till Easter of next year.

THE RUSSIAN CONQUEST OF LONDON.

If the effort which is being made to acquaint London with Russian painting, comes off, the Russian conquest of London—indeed, of Western Europe—will be complete. These last two years we have had Russian music and the Russian ballet and they have boomed exceedingly here. Russian art will be quite as great a revelation. To some extent the way has been prepared by the decorative work, the scenery and costumes of that famous getting intelligence on the wires. The latter quality appears in Jules Verne's description of the war correspondents at the telegraph office in "Michael Strogoff." Burtleigh had all these qualifications in an exceptional degree. In these days of rigid censorship a different type of war correspondent is, perhaps, required. Burtleigh's great failure was the Russo-Japanese War, where he first met the modern censorship. During the Boer War his clever evasion of an exceptionally strict censorship in connection with his announcement of the peace of Vereeniging is the classic instance of the triumph of the correspondent over the censor's vigilance. A one-word message to his brother in Glasgow—"Returning"—and a simultaneous cable to the London Daily Telegraph reading "Whitsunday Greetings" conveyed the first news that peace had been concluded. A reference to the Prayer Book Gospel reading for Whitsunday with its insistence on the word peace made quite clear to the editor of the newspaper what Bennett desired to convey and what the South African censor would have stopped for a few days at least. In the Italian Tripoli campaign it was evident that age was telling on him. A fellow correspondent explained to me how Burtleigh did not trouble to move out of the town into the oasis, but sat in a cafe all day in receipt of intelligence. Whatever his messages may have lost in interest they gained in comprehensiveness and, perhaps, accuracy, but he took a different line from his English and German colleagues over the Italian atrocities, probably because he was not an eyewitness.

THE ERA OF RUBBER.
What a difference rubber has made to our civilization is shown at the rubber exhibition now being held at the Agricultural Hall. From the feeding bottle to the rubber-tired hearse, from the cradle to the grave, said a sentimental rubber magnate at yesterday's luncheon, we are helped along the path of life by rubber. The men cards of the luncheon were of rubber, by the way, but the meats were not at all rubber like. Among the exhibits there is a rubber tennis court, the first of its kind. It is a full sized court with a green rubber floor that outdoes in greenness and resiliency any turf lawn one has ever seen. Then there is a rubber room. It is fitted up as a writing room. Surrounded by a frieze of white rubber, the walls are covered with grey rubber, panelled at intervals with nicely scalloped red Paraleather and grained rubber cloth. On each panel is hung an etching framed in a polished vulcanite (hard rubber frame), not a nail being used in the construction. The floor is covered with a rubber carpet. The room is furnished with a suite made from rubber. The writing table is of hard rubber, and on it is an inkstand with inkpots and pens and two electric table lamps, all made from rubber. The delicate curtains which drape the window are made from rubber, as are the curtain pole and rings. The blotting pads, letter racks, and covers for railway guides and illustrated papers are all of rubber, and, in short, the only things in the room that are not made of that material are the ink and electric light. A rubber collar stud that will not snap has perhaps a wider appeal. If it is adopted it will tend to promote the peace of suburbs in that hurried half hour before the morning train. On the other hand, it will deprive our

PASSING OF A GREAT WAR CORRESPONDENT.

It is not too much to say that Bennett Burtleigh was the last of the great war correspondents of the old school. Besides a graphic pen the qualifications were a physique of iron, almost the superhuman endurance, dare-devil courage, and a never failing intuition of the most rapid means as it is being delivered, or tapping it down on a swift, silent shorthand machine. Afterwards you will see them typing out the speech from their shorthand note as on an ordinary typewriter. Both the shorthand note and the transcription are done accurately and swiftly as anyone could wish. Still more astonishing is it to see a blind delegate suddenly in conversation plunge his hand into his breast pocket, pull out an ordinary wallet, and scribble down—or rather prick down with a stylus—a memorandum just as a business man does any hour of the business day. In the exhibition hall books for the blind, in the Braille system and the Moon system, are on show—Gibbon's "Decline and Fall," treatises on arithmetic and mechanics, with the diagrams and tables complete, magazines, catering for the blind of all classes, from the "intellectual" down to the plain man, books in many foreign languages, a Braille newspaper, and so on. There is a Braille printing machine that produces punched metal sheets. From these any number of printed pages may be taken in an ordinary platen press.

THE UBIQUITOUS CAPE.

Partly, no doubt, owing to the uncertainty of the weather, but also on account of the prevalence of the cape, the "Ascot Sunday" parade in Hyde Park on June 21, was not the gay spectacle it has been in the past. The cape is most effective when worn not as protection from the weather but hanging loosely from the shoulders with an air of careless abandon, the high military collar helping the rather dashing effect. Its most popular form is in smooth, navy blue cloth with a wide white up-and-down collar. One noticed, however, several in black satin and one in bright vermilion over a black dress, and a pretty cape in brocade, with small pink roses on a black ground and a niche of tulle at the neck. Among the hats nothing looked so well as the shepherdess shape at its best—that is, worn tilted well up at the back. There were several of the fluffy hats ruffled with tulle that came in last year and are always becoming, and varieties of the plateau shape worn very much on one side. A very smart dress was in black and white shepherd's plaid silk, with a long tunic. The latter was pleated at the hem, and as in the case of most of the smartest dresses, almost as long as the skirt. A touch of color was provided by the sash of bright corse velvet. A feature of the recent fashions, the use of Roman striped silk on a dress of dark material, found some exponents. Draperies folded so as to give room to walk and yet preserve the narrow effect at the ankles characterized the more fashionable dresses. There were many quite flimsy dresses, and after all, it does not require much courage to appear in the most perishable dresses when your car is drawn up alongside the path. But the cape is the thing of the moment.

WHAT THE BLIND CAN DO.

Thanks to the Braille and Moon and others, the power of reading and writing and all that that power means have been restored to the sightless. It is amazing how far this has been carried. The public is being well informed upon these matters just now. Not only are there blind training exhibits at the Anglo-American exposition but there is also an international conference of the blind now being held near Westminster Abbey. There one sees girls pricking down in Braille shorthand a speech

The Social Tyranny.

By BUTH CAMERON.

Sometimes when I think of the way in which we are bound hand and foot by a million meaningless little customs it makes me sick at heart.

An acquaintance of mine received a wedding announcement the other day. As she opened it a look of horror came into her face. One would have thought she read of the wedding of some old sweetheart for whom she still retained a deep affection. But it was no feeling so human and creditable. It was just this—that wedding announcement was engraved. It was printed. She suspected it the moment she opened the envelope; the finger tip test proved it.

The above italics are supposed to hint at the scorn with which she announced that fact. They cannot begin to convey her feeling.

"I should think Margaret would feel terribly to do such a cheap thing," she declared. "I should think she would rather have no announcement at all."

"She might have wanted to let her friends know about the marriage," someone suggested mildly.

"But printed announcements!"

"That was an invincible answer to any argument that could be advanced, so none was attempted."

"What fools we mortals be!"

Some sorts of tyranny we resent most violently, others we welcome and encourage.

The American Revolution followed an effort to impose a small tax without the country's consent. The cry of a vast army of women suffragists is, "We refuse to be governed without a share in the government."

Household Notes.

Lunch sets of large and small dolies are one of the best ways out of the tyranny of the tablecloth.

Use milk instead of water for making pie crust which is to be served cold. It will keep crisp longer.

When iodine is spilled on sheets or clothing, simply soak the article twenty-four hours in cold water.

Two brushes and combs should be on every dressing table, so that a fresh one may be used every day.

When washing raw lace let the final rinsing be in skim milk, if you would give it a soft, creamy tone.

Iron garments with buttons by laying the garment face down on a thickly folded sheet or Turkish towel.

When preserved citron gets dry and hard, it can be softened by pouring hot water over it and letting it stand.

To make a faded dress white boil it in two gallons of water in which a half cupful of cream of tartar is dissolved.

To remove paint from clothing saturate the spots with ammonia and turpentine, mixed, and then wash out in soap.

The best eggbeater is a glass jar and a firm wire whip. Not only eggs and cream, but mashed potatoes, can be beaten in it.

A steaming hot dish of baked or boiled macaroni dressed with cream and grated cheese is a very good substitute for meat.

Cornstarch is the best for starching cuffs and collars—white starch for delicate dresses, rice starch for the French linings.

A very good way to singe chickens is to hold them over a saucer of burning alcohol. There is no soot left then on the flesh.

Good crackers to serve with salad are made with a half-inch cube of cheese set in the center of each cracker, which then is browned in the oven.

Paint can be removed from clothing by saturating the spots two or three times with equal parts of ammonia and turpentine, then wash out in soap suds.

Tea is used for giving laces an an-

And yet see how blithely old and young, male and female, permit a social tyranny which is quite as exacting, penetrating and hampering as a legal tyranny would be.

We didn't make any of these strict social laws. We didn't vote Mrs. Grundy a despotic authority over our lives. And yet we obey these laws as carefully as if we were to be hung for disobedience, and we cheerfully lie down and let Mrs. Grundy walk over our prostrate backs.

Now, is it merely a few servile-minded social slaves who submit to this tyranny. I know many clear-minded, intelligent people who see the absurdity of the whole situation, and yet haven't the courage to resist.

For instance, I know a woman who prides herself on being rather unconventional and strong-minded. Yet she did not have the courage to announce her engagement without an engagement ring. She cared nothing for rings, the money was needed for other purposes, and yet she was not independent enough to dispense with the convention of an engagement ring.

Now please understand when I speak of foolish conventions I do not mean those laws of propriety of conduct which are firmly grounded on a foundation of kindness, safety or morality. Do not use these arguments to justify disobedience to such laws. I am thinking rather of social laws similar to those I have mentioned—conventions that require of us that we shall spend money we cannot afford to accomplish a purpose which could just as well have been accomplished inexpensively.

I believe that every time we have the courage to defy such laws we establish our advance in manhood or womanhood.

Try Again.

You have, it may be, used ointments, pastes, lotions for Eczema till you begin to get tired of trying things. Well, but you should remember that science is advancing all the time, and that what was not possible yesterday can be accomplished to-day if you neglect to try Zylex—the newest and best thing that science has yet to offer for the relief and cure of Eczema and other annoying and disfiguring skin diseases—you are missing a great opportunity. It may be that it will cure you. It has cured some very bad cases. Price 50c, a box. Zylex Soap, 25c, a cake.

Empress of Ireland Disaster.

Amctst case lost in the above mentioned Disaster was Mr. H. R. O'Hara, of Toronto. Mr. O'Hara was insured with the Railway Passengers Assurance Company for $5,000.00. The total amount which has been paid under this policy was $13,500.00, made up as follows:—

Original principal sum $5,000.00, plus accumulations $1,750.00 making in all $6,750.00. This doubled for travel accidents amounts to $13,500.00

Another point in connection with this case is that Mr. O'Hara carried $2,000.00 in the Canada Life, $2,000.00 in the Continental Life, $4,000.00 in the National Life, and $5,000.00 in the Sun Life totalling in all $13,000.00, the annual cost of which was $474.06. His policy with the Railway Passengers, which was a Combination Accident and Disease Policy, cost him $35.00 and for which his beneficiaries received in final settlement $13,500.00 as against $13,000.00 from the total of his life policies and which as above stated cost him $474.06. These figures show the importance of not delaying in taking advantage of the benefits granted by the

Regatta Notes.

Already there is considerable interest centred in the Regatta, and last evening the lake side was well sprinkled with people. The race boats Mary and Togo were in commission, and not less than fifteen crews were out for a spin.

The Royal Stores will be represented in the Mercantile Race. The crew went over the course last evening in the Mary, and showed up well.

Reid's Factory crew had their trial spin in the Togo. They are a strong aggregation and with practice will have to be reckoned with.

Not since the Football Race first occupied a place on the programme will that event be as exciting and interesting, as it promises to be this year. At least five clubs, we hear, will be represented, namely, the Collegians, C.E.F., B.I.S., Casuals and Fieldians. The Stars, Saints and St. Bon's are still considering the matter and may yet decide on entering. If they do there will likely be two heats rowed, owing to the insufficient number of boats available.

"Ned" Brophy is forming a Trades' crew for the new boat, but he will have to go some to put it over "Joe" Boone's stalwarts in the Nettle R.

The Myrtle is now being painted and thoroughly cleaned. She will be available for practice to-morrow.

The Regatta Committee will meet to-morrow night to consider a lot of important business.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Miss T. Garland, daughter of Mr. Joseph Garland, has just accepted a position in the Grocery Store of Mr. Joseph Ross.

We heard a little chap telling another a few days ago that Mr. Higgins did not intend to cut hair any longer. No, nor shorter either on the Wednesday holidays, as he has decided to enjoy himself one day each week, and take the children in the country for an outing.

Mr. William Smith, son of the late W. H. Smith, blacksmith, passed away at his home here at 5 o'clock last evening, after an illness extending over seven years. He was a member of the C.B.B. and S.O.E. societies, and both bodies will attend the funeral to-morrow afternoon. The deceased, who was only 38 years of age, leaves a widow and three children to mourn his death.

Another member of the British Society died at Boston, on June 11th, after a year's sickness—Mr. George Taylor, son of the late William Taylor, of Bear's Cove. He also leaves a widow and family.

A number of the brethren of Lodge "Harbor Grace," went to Bay Roberts this morning to be present at the opening of "Mackay" Lodge of that town.

Mr. LeDrew had a good sign of codfish in his traps the past few days. The fish are of large run, and we hope it will continue for a time.

The Reid Nld. Co. received a message from Capt. Parsons, of the S. S. Kyle, saying that the ship had left Battle Harbour at 2 p.m. yesterday, coming south.

Capt. Parsons reported a sign of codfish from Griffin's Harbour to Battle Harbour, and that the Labrador coast is now free from ice. When the ship left Battle Harbour a dense fog and heavy wind prevailed, so that she is not expected to reach port until Sunday next.

 Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manures.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Clears The Head, Opens The Nostrils, Stops Sneezing, Cures Catarrh.

You Get Instant Relief by Inhaling the Soothing Vapor "Catarrhizone."

Catarrh is bound to come with this weather. Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head. Soon the ears begin to buzz and ring. The head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. The filthy secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMATIC CATARRH, which saps strength, depletes the vital energies till consumption is the unhappy result.

There isn't the slightest use in trying to cure this condition with tablets, snuff or spray. Such treatments are wholly inadequate. You must employ Catarrhizone, the only remedy that possesses power to kill the germs of Catarrh. The healing vapor of Catarrhizone is carried by the air you breathe to the most minute cells of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. Its antiseptic medication goes everywhere that air can go. No case is too chronic, no person too old—everybody that has catarrh of any kind can be cured by this grand treatment which is endorsed by thousands of physicians throughout America, who say: "The only way to permanently get rid of Catarrh is to use Catarrhizone."

TWO MONTHS' TREATMENT GUARANTEED TO CURE. PRICE $1.00; small size 50c.; trial size 25c. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessong Fuesle

A Rainy Day

Marian stood at the window of her little room, rested her forehead against the pane, and peered gloomily out upon the wet, muggy street. Below in the parlor of the rooming house someone was drumming the piano drearily. In an adjoining room she could hear an aspiring actor rehearsing his lines. For one line he seemed unable to catch the right emphasis. He struggled patiently with the baffling line, repeating and repeating it without end.

"He is unable to do it," he said with grim earnestness. Then: "He IS unable to do it." Again he would try it thus: "He is unable to DO it."

Marian stood listening to him until she felt that she must scream out her assistance, or else tell the actor that her own personal opinion was that no one was able to do it, whatever "it" was; that none of those upon whom he was trying to inflict the obligation was the man for the job. In this frame of mind she had crossed to the window for relief.

In moody spirits, she watched the little bubbles the winddrops made as they smote the pavement. Never had she felt as glum in her life as to-day—not even during those bleak and empty days with Frank.

Presently she saw the street lights begin to sparkle here and there. The rain stopped and soon a heavy fog descended, masking the faces of the thoroughfare's houses. Turning from the window, Marian found herself in a back room. She turned on the lights and began listlessly to dress for dinner. Already a few prompt six-o'clockers had gone down. Marian had recognized their steps as they passed her door. Old Mr. Fairbanks, a past middle-aged man of the family, and who "at one time" had lived on Riverside Drive, according to Mrs. Kern, the landlady, habitually walked with a curious little uncertain step—one, two, halt, one, halt, one, two. He rose at about six p.m. and retired at about four a.m. He still imagined himself as one of the smart set.

The elderly couple who roomed on Marian's floor, whose minister used to be Mr. Van Dyke, whom they used to know "very, very well," and with whom they had shaken hands "many times," were likewise easily identified by their walk—a feeble patter beside an uncertain heavier stride, then down the stairs marked by the sound of the heavier step, a pause, and the heavy step's echo in the soft patter that followed.

To-morrow—Luck on a Rainy Evening.

Never had she felt as glum in her life as to-day—not even during those bleak and empty days with Frank.

Marian had observed the Boston trio for several days. Obviously, she had at once concluded, they were not boarding house people. And now, after what Mrs. Kern had said, Marian divined that the Barkers were stopping here undoubtedly for sentimental reasons, perhaps merely in order not to hurt Mrs. Kern.

"And you're from the South, I know," said Barker, in reply to Marian's remarks. His soft, interesting voice thrilled her. She felt her eyes being riveted to his handsome, clean-cut face. She gazed into his eyes and found them wonderfully brown and kind. His gentle gaze seemed to penetrate her brain and spirit, and a flood of peculiar happiness went storming sweetly through her.

To-morrow—Luck on a Rainy Evening.

Wreck of the Steamer Gothland.

Was Bound From Montreal to Rotterdam—Lifeboat Crammed With Passengers Falls Thirty Feet and is Smashed to Pieces, But All Were Saved.

Penzance, Eng., June 24.—With a volunteer crew of 35 seamen on board, the Belgian liner Gothland, from Montreal to Rotterdam, lies in a perilous position to-day and is in danger of being battered to pieces by heavy seas. The steamer Lioness, which took off 86 passengers and 95 members of the crew, landed these persons to-day.

The captain of the Gothland remained on his ship. He asked for volunteers to stay with him and most of the seamen stepped forward, but only 35 were selected.

The ship lies with a heavy list to port, having been punctured below the water line. Twenty-five feet of water floods her.

The saving of the passengers of the wrecked steamer was attended by almost superhuman efforts on the part of officers and crew of the steamer and by lifesaving boats' crews which came to the rescue when she went ashore on the grim rocks yesterday.

Members of the life-saving crew from St. Mary's describe the scene as awful, when one of the Gothland's small boats crammed with passengers and seamen broke away from the davits.

The bottom of the boat was smashed by its violent contact with the waves and all were thrown into the water. Most of the passengers who had occupied the boat were women and children, and they struggled helplessly in the waves. A quarter-master of the Gothland sprang from the steamer's deck and succeeded in saving three of the women.

Several of the life-saving crew also jumped into the water and handed drowning children to their companions in rescue boat, until all had been saved. Meanwhile, a heavy sea rendered all salvage work perilous, but eventually all were got safely ashore.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Gents.—I cured a valuable hunting dog of mange with MINARD'S LINIMENT after several veterinarians had treated him without doing him any permanent good.

Yours, &c., WILFRID GAGNE, Prop. of Grand Central Hotel, Drummondville, Aug. 3, '04.

Painted Hair.

By GEORGE FITCH. Author of "At Good Old Sivash." Painted hair is a recent inspiration which will be very popular with the skirmish line of society until it becomes too common to create further comment.

Great sensations have been caused in enterprising newspapers and elsewhere by the appearance of beautifully dressed women with hair colored to match their gowns. More than one man who has seen a handsome woman toting a head of bright blue hair down the street has gone quickly home and has sent for a doctor who is an expert at repairing the ravages of strong drink.

Women are now wearing pink, green, ultramarine and violet hair and some of them are even wearing eyebrows to match. But no one need be alarmed over the habit. No young man will be compelled to marry a young woman with green hair. At least he can compel her to take it off, and leave it at home when she starts for the church.

All of the cubist effects in hair that have been noticed in the large headlines are strictly detachable. Many a society woman now has a complete set of hair in all shades.

This enables her to match her gowns and hats. Thus an up-to-date woman can now buy ten times as many gowns and hats as she once did. This is becoming a harder world for man every day.

Outside of the extravagance involved, there is nothing reprehensible in the custom of buying a hat with an attached head of hair. In fact, there is nothing even remarkable about painted hair. Men have been wearing painted noses for hundreds of years and the society editors haven't made half as much of a fuss about it as the police magistrates have.

Thus far, man has only adopted two shades in nose painting—red and purple. However, it should be perfectly easy to elaborate the practice. If woman insists on wearing green hair under her green hats we may soon expect to see the very particular man putting on green socks to match his green necktie and then carefully painting his nose to match both.

When he thinks how much consternation an American army equipped with green or blue noses would spread among the foe in Mexico we are almost inclined to come out firmly for the new custom.

Celebrated Norwegian Jigger

Fishermen should use these Jiggers and rig them with swivels same style as in Norway, then the Jigger acts like a minnow and when spinning attracts the fish, so that instead of jiggling they really snap the Jigger and in this manner you never fail to catch them. Ordinary lures can be used, but the Norwegian style seems more simple and easily made. Our fishermen should try this great Norwegian fish killer.
