Bovril Sandwiches are excellent

Many people prefer Bovril sandwiches to any other kind. They are prepared in a minute and provide a meal as nourishing as a many-course dinner.

The bread and butter should be cut very thin, and spread evenly with Bovril straight from the bottle. You can add cucumber, lettuce or cream, or sliced hard-boiled eggs, if you prefer.

You will be delighted with the appetising, savoury flavour of Bovril sandwiches; and they can save you a lot of cooking in the hot weather. Get a bottle of Bovril and try them to-morrow.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO YOU!"

Mr. Hurst opened the door; his sister, ringing a servant forward, would only have gone the regulation half-dozen paces with the visitor she was glad to be quit of, but as her brother, returning to the fireside, fell into a fit of musing, Mrs. Prece exclaimed from the hall:

"Oh, Miss Hurst! a moment, please," and the lady so summoned approaching. "Now I remember the curate's name. You ought to know it for fear Mr. Gilbert kindly calls first. 'Babbington.' That is it 'Heratius Babbington.' He's been among the Jews and got out of health, but this quiet place will soon set him up. I hope you'll take to each other. 'Babbington.' Don't forget. Good-day!"

The rich rector's lady wrapped her bear-skins round her in her brougham; the well-to-do equipage was coached dexterously off the small grounds without incurring reproach for ill manners, and still Miss Hurst stood transfixed where Mrs. Prece's last words had fallen on her ears.

"Fanny," she said, presently, "go and shut the study door;" and when the girl had vanished she seated herself at the foot of the stairs, took some long breaths, and put her hands over her face.

"Horatius back—and coming here," she whispered, gasping interjectionally, "and that woman—hopes we shall—take to one another! And I'm so altered! I wonder if he is. Oh, dear, dear me! Dear me! What a queer world it is!"

She was still sitting there, rocking herself to and fro, looking very odd, when Sydney returned, brighter of spirit for her secret intolerance of poor Miss Jean's shortcomings. The sight of her form, agitated and in such unusual position, brought Sydney quickly to her, asking:

"What is it? Are you ill? Or—indeed, faintly seizing her—"nothing has happened?"

"Oh, no!" Miss Jean answered, reassuringly, "Nothing of any consequence to any one—unless me; and that doesn't signify. I was only—thinking—of a long time ago. People do—silly people—like me! They—can't—help it!"

And with actual tears meandering down her nose, Miss Hurst picked herself up and went into the seclusion of

YOUNG WOMEN AVOID PAIN

This One Tells How She Was Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Regina, Sask.—"For two years I suffered from periodic pains and nausea so I was unable to get around. My mother had me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am much better and able to go about all the time, which I could not do before. I recommend Vegetable Compound to my friends if I know they suffer the same way, and yet may publish my letter if it will help any one, as I hope it will."—Miss E. G. BLACKWELL, 2079 Cedar Place, Regina, Sask.

Every girl who suffers as Miss Blackwell did, or from irregularities, painful periods, backache, headache, dragging down pains, inflammation, or irritation would only give this famous root and herb remedy a trial; they would soon find relief from such suffering.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering women than any other medicine in the world.

For special advice women are asked to write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

"I beg your pardon. My feelings got into my fingers. I brushed too hard. Yes, Taffy's, our old nurse's, Gilbert took all his troubles to her. And she shared this one; for she had given over all her savings to the same man whose unlucky counsel misled my father." (Out of the almost blank of earliest childhood rose that summer afternoon—the scent of flowers, the drone of bees, old Taffy's song, the tall boy striding up the path, then flung at length upon the bench. That was how, when, and where she had seen Gilbert Hurst before.) "So she, too, had reason to rue trusting Mr. Alwyn. Too hard again! Ah! I must not talk of it. It makes me forget myself. And please, Miss Grey, never mention this before my brother. The very name of Alwyn is like an old wound to him. I never utter it, nor talk of Stillcoote, where we lived. Shall I pass your hat, now? Please, a glance at the mirror opposite—"I have tired you out. You look quite pale. Talking has eased me, but it's time I said good-night, or good-morning, for it's past twelve. I hope, Miss Grey—sighing—"you have more prospect of it than I have, and I wish you a happy New Year!"

CHAPTER XXV. HOW MISS VILLIERS PROSPERS IN PASTURES NEW.

Civility, by now, demands attention to Sydney Alwyn's mother and step-sister, who, when last discoursed of, were turning their backs on scenes of lottly but bitterly humiliated hopes.

Leaving St. Clair's in the frame of mind both did, it is no wonder she since the dawn of her exacting capricious and then, callous to useful looks, departed, bestowing on never a one a franc or a penny beyond the legitimate bill-scored terms of service. This species of saving formed and angered still—the vigil was, indeed, high bringing the girl's soul, in her solitariness, very low, till a calm, worn face seemed to gaze tenderly upon her once again. "My child will make it all right; God bless her," came like an echo to her, and in that blessing she was once more strong. She had need to be so.

A subdued tap at the door was followed by Miss Hurst's entrance, in a wonderful dressing-gown, and in a mood that could brook no rest till it had spent itself in confidence. "I saw your light; I thought if you didn't mind I would come and sit with you, Miss Grey. When one has no one to talk to, the last hour of the year is so dismal."

"We must not let it be so," said Sydney, pushing forward the dimly-covered arm-chair. "I am wretched enough to talk or listen for hours."

"Thank you," said Miss Jean, looking with pink eye-lids and scanty, unpinned braids, most comically pathetic; "I remember how a friend of mine and I, years ago, used to chat into the small hours when we stayed with each other—girls will, you know—and how we used to brush each other's hair. May I brush yours, Miss Grey? I should like the feeling of old times."

"Certainly, though I wish you a better office," Sydney said, smiling, and let down her dark, rippling locks.

"What a quantity!" shaking out the splendid profusion, till Sydney could not even catch a glimpse of the glass in front. "Ah, mine was thicker, too, when I was young."

And then, with some brushing and many pauses, she told of her youth, purposeless tales, as they seemed, till Sydney perceived they all drifted toward a certain point, one halcyon spring when Miss Hurst had basked in love's young dream, and been affianced to her father's curate.

"And oh, Miss Grey, I felt forced to tell you this for fear you should think me stiff or singular with him. I don't wish to be cold, but I must be stiff; it will be best; for he is coming here to be curate, and we must meet as strangers. He brings his poor little children, for he is a widower."

"A widower!" said Sydney, now greatly interested. "Then I suppose he married because you wouldn't have him?"

"Wouldn't? Ah, Miss Grey, that was my worst share of the trouble I once told you something about. I couldn't! Papa's money went, that should have been mine and Gilbert's. Marrying without an allowance from papa would have been impossible—wicked. So my prospects went—and papa's health—and Gilbert's sight. For he would never have had to tell as he did if he had not become poor. Ah, me! Ah, me! you have no idea what a blow it was!"

"Perhaps I have, just a little."

"No, you can't," Miss Hurst's trouble waited on. "I shall never forget Gilbert when I told him the grand investment had failed, that papa had made by advice of the man he trusted above all others, and how we should lose everything. Poor boy! at first, he was furious; then so miserable. Ah, he was hot-tempered then! He's drifted off to Taffy's, as we called—" Sydney gave such a start Miss Hurst apologized.

"You come out to the camp to rough it, and then bring along your New Improved Gillette Safety Razor—the very last word in luxurious comfort!"

"Son—I'm game to rough it, but that's no reason why my face should."

Camp life, delightful for its makeshift comforts, and the New Improved Gillette Safety Razor, civilization's last discovery, are direct opposites. But nowhere more than in the summer camp, where hot water is scarce and strops and hones are in the way, is the New Improved Gillette so essential.

Your camp face is your town face and a summer beard on a sun-tanned skin needs all the gentle kindness of the New Improved Gillette with its automatically correct shaving angle, fulcrum shoulder and channelled guard.

Note: The Gillette Company assumes full responsibility for the service of blades when used in any genuine Gillette razor—either old-type or New Improved. But with imitations of the genuine Gillette it cannot take responsibility.

ON MENTAL ANTENNAE.

"I know, one think that has helped that man got as far as he has," said the Author, speaking of a man we had recently met, who has risen from a humble position to one of some prominence and success, and who bids fair to go farther. "He has intense sensitiveness to other people's moods and feelings."

"He was telling me a story while he was here and he said something which started a train of thought and my mind wandered for an instant and by George, he knew it. 'You must let me know if I'm boring you,' he said. He wasn't, but it was wonderful to see how instantly he sensed that he had lost my attention. I can understand now what has made him go so far in the law with so poor a start. He is sensitive to other people's emotions."

Digging for Fish.

Isaac Walton would scarcely believe his eyes if he were to walk through New Smyrna, Florida, and encounter Negroes digging live fish from the ground as if they were potatoes.

A certain variety of mud fish found in nearly all parts of the State is responsible for this state of affairs. This queer member of the finny tribe inhabits streams or ponds which have mud banks or bottoms. It is black, and weighs up to five or six pounds. When the water is a pound evaporates, as it does during certain seasons of the year, leaving only a mass of mud, which on the surface is almost dry, it doesn't worry the fish.

The fish merely burrow into the mud to wait for rain, and apparently continue to live as long as the earth is wet. The Negroes locate the fish by exploring the mud with their bare feet.

Have your office made comfortable for you these chilly mornings by using one of NOSWORTHY'S COSY GLOW HEATERS.

Physical Development and its Bearing on Health and Strength.

By GEE.

EFFICIENCY OF EXERCISE ON DIGESTION.
(Concluded)

Good Lung Exercise.—Stand erect with the arms thrown back over the head, inhale slowly through the nose, forcing the inhalations to the last, until the lungs are filled with air. Keep the chest well thrown out to encourage expansion. Hold the chest for a few seconds, then exhale through the mouth and let the air exhale to assist forward of the body. To assist forward of the body the chest should assume its normal position. This exercise should be done in the open air or in a room where the air is pure, and may be indulged in from two to three times a day. A gentle patting of the chest muscles assists their development.

Children's Deformities.—One of the common deformities amongst school youths is stooping, by which the habit of carrying the trunk bent forward, so that they are not in a line with the rest of the body column. A most evil consequence of this position is the depression, resulting in contraction, of at least imperfect development, of the upper part of the chest. With this kind of deformity may be classed, as a more exaggerated form, the various degrees of spinal curvature, often due to weakness of the dorsal muscles or to unbalanced or unregulated growth. Rapid growth in height, if unaccompanied by corresponding development, is not only a misfortune in itself, but the source of many other physical evils. Thus, for instance, we sometimes see lads at school growing at the rate of six or eight inches per year. Even the smaller of these additions to height, if so rapidly attained, is incompatible with fair development and robust health, because the whole formative power of the body is expended in furthering one process—that of upward growth. A marked phenomenon of this rapid increase in height is the scanty expansion of the chest which takes place during the process. A boy or girl who has thus "outgrown his or her strength," as it is frequently called, may exhibit a chest which runs up from the waist without any expansion whatever, whilst the shoulders fold round toward the front and the head stoops forward from the base of the neck, the spinal column seldom retaining its natural erectness. The thorax has even been known to actually diminish in circumference, as if it were tightened up by extreme elongation of the general frame. The true cause of these displacements is often, if not always, to be found in neglect of proper exercise for the muscles, which hold the parts in their due relationship to each other. Dwarfed or stunted growth, and growing on one side, are distressing examples of imperfect development, which can often be cured or vastly improved by duly regulated exercise.

Evils of Over Exercise.—Systematic exercise implies that no muscle or organ should be overtaxed or exhausted. An exhausted muscle has its nutrition seriously impaired, and it may take days to overcome the effect of twenty-four hours of overwork. Excessive exertion in walking, running or leaping is liable to bring on enlargement of the veins of the legs, and sometimes to produce hernia or rupture, especially in those with an hereditary tendency thereto.

PRIME ELEMENTS OF MODERN PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Essence of Physical Culture.—Some persons decry Physical Culture because they associate it with athletics, and by athletics they see nothing but brutal boxing, wrestling and other so-called sports. The above and other like sports have their place, and should be encouraged, in so far as they contribute to physical culture and development, dissociated with their excesses. In this respect physical culture embraces them, but in this respect only, for it has far wider scope and loftier purposes than mere athletics. The ancient Greeks indulged in athletics and wonderful stories are recorded of their feats in wrestling, running, jumping and throwing the discus. But in those exercises they sought more than personal triumphs. They sought to make a race of fine physical men, and thereby assure to their nation the possession and exercise of other qualities which would distinguish it, and make it potent in art, science, commerce and other possibilities. To them well applied the motto and principle of "mens sana in corpore sano," a sound mind in a sound body. Physical Culture was with them both a bodily and mental process or exercise, a blending of developments, a true, normal association of systems calculated to evolve the well equipped man. And so it should be to-day. So it is when physical culture is well understood and practised. Its agents are manifold, and suited to every disposition and physical characteristic. There is no earthly excuse for anyone to neglect every-day cultivation of his body, and the consequent achievement of greater things in all the avenues of the wide world's work.

Uneven Development.—All special exercises should be regarded as part of general exercises, unless one be in training for a specific object. If exercise is specialized, when the above object is not in view, there is danger of developing a muscle-bound condition. All voluntary muscles of the body are in pairs. They oppose each other, and when one is used for effecting a certain motion, the opposite one is used for a counteracting motion. The biceps muscle of the upper inside arm is used for bending it at the elbow. The triceps muscle of the upper outside arm is used to straighten it out again. Now, if the biceps be developed by exercise at the expense of the triceps, it will grow so strong as to constantly want to perform its function, that is of drawing up the arm. It is a law of physiology that a muscle thus in a state of contraction will gradually shorten. Its accompanying tendons will do the same. Eventually the arm will become muscle-bound. The development of the two important muscles of the arm—biceps and triceps—has been uneven, one at the expense of the other. The same may occur with any set of muscles. The condition is embarrassing, and contrary to all the laws of perfect development, and all the uses of healthy, natural and rational exercise. Competent gymnastic instructors watch such conditions, and provide means of over-coming them. But this is also possible with anyone. The best cure is to avoid them, by a general and even system of exercise.

Insomnia.—We have witnessed the beneficial effects of exercise upon that distressing and all too common disease, dyspepsia. An allied, if not a consequent, disease, and surely one equally distressing, is insomnia—sleeplessness. It may not always be a symptom of definite disease, but it is almost surely an evidence of disturbed health, either physical or mental. The exceptions are those cases where there is suffering from intense pain, as of a wound or a toothache. Here the cause is plain, and the treatment equally so. But neither cause nor treatment is so plain in those cases of sleeplessness which are due to general disturbance of the system. To absolutely close the mind on retiring against everything but the determination to go to sleep has been proposed as an efficacious remedy for sleeplessness. But this requires an exercise of will-power often impossible, and especially at a time when will-power is at a discount by the very bodily conditions which provoke insomnia. Moreover, it is contended that the mere fact of a determination to go to sleep will have the opposite effect.

(It is the writer's intention later on to give a treatise on the power of concentration, and if readers find it difficult to carry along in their present form, they would act wisely by putting these to a severe test when published.)

A Physical Cure.—It is almost universally accepted that a good, if not the best, cure for insomnia is physical exhaustion of the body; that is, the bringing about of such a bodily condition, as is best described by "tired," sufficiently tired to make one glad to lie down, and to feel that the best thing that could afford relief, would be a good, long, sound sleep. To bring about this physical condition, some prescribe a long walk before retiring, others a variety of exercises, but nothing answers better than a determined bout with the dumb-bells, forgetting everything but the effect of their use upon the muscles. The mind will thus be diverted, but in addition the exercise will relieve the sordid blood-vessels of the head and neck, a condition attendant on sleeplessness, and often the cause of it. When sufficient of this kind of exercise has been taken to divert the mind and tire the body, it should terminate in a sponging down with cold water, and an immediate retiring to bed. The sponging should especially embrace the head, forehead and neck. If one is already tired by a hard day's work, and there is no further need for a course of exercise, the cold sponge bath may, of itself, prove all that is requisite. Should this fail of intended effects, resort may be had to a course of muscular exercises in bed. Extend and contract determinedly the muscles of the arms, then of the legs and so pass over the whole muscular system, keeping the mind on the work, and remote from every source of worry. Add to the strictly muscular exercise any determined movements that may occur, such as turning the head and neck, raising head and body, stiffening out of body and limbs, etc. the mind always keeping pace with the motion. Insomnia did not come on you in a night or a week. You cannot cure it except by a persistent battle. As in the case of concentration a full series of exercises for the cure of Insomnia will be published in this column, and the writer guarantees that the night's sleep will be attained before the course is finished.

High Prices.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—As the question when will the prices come down is of vital importance at the present time, I would ask you to give this letter a place in your highly esteemed paper, which has certainly stood behind the public during the darkest hours of our history. Sir, we have the farmer, the coal dealers, and the haulers of the latter, the wholesale dry goods man, wholesale provision man, and the retailer, all putting forth every effort to keep up high prices, for their wares. Wages alone have been reduced, in many cases 20 per cent. You will meet the farmer and he will say, "well, mister, everything is shocking high; the merchants are charging the highest price for everything." There is nothing said about himself, except he may tell of the hardships of delivering milk during the winter time. Well we all know about the winter weather of Newfoundland, but it is no harder for the farmer than for the sailor, who may have to stow in the gaff topsail. The farmer may stay at home, if the weather is too bad, and many do, but the man who buys his produce must get out and earn the money. It is a shame that these farmers do not lower the cost of their produce, especially milk. Last year they said the price of feed was practically cut in half. They would have to go out of business if they did not get higher prices. The Food Control Board allowed them to put up the price of milk, but it did not see to it that it came down when the price of feed was practically cut in half. The next man is the butcher; he is still charging war prices for his meat, and why so, in view of the fact that the price of cattle is now very much cheaper than a year ago. The shoemaker for patching shoes, the tailor for making clothes, the barber for a hair cut, the undertaker for funeral necessities, are all adhering to war prices. The workman has had to come down in his wages, and it is up to everyone else to do likewise. We know that the extra taxation does not warrant the exorbitant prices that we are being charged. It was "grind down the poor" that caused the revolution in France in 1870, and I fear that we in Newfoundland are drifting to that end. Before it is too late, the Government, through the Profiteering

Positive or Negative?

The recent offer of the Russian Government to purchase between three hundred thousand and four hundred thousand quintals of Newfoundland codfish for immediate delivery must either be of a positive or a negative value to exporters. If the former there can be no harm in ascertaining the exact financial conditions and terms which would be of the most advantage to this country in connection with the promotion of further trade with a population of nearly two hundred millions of people. If the value is negative, then there is no need to go out of our way to discuss the matter any further. But has it yet been proven that there is nothing concrete behind this Russian offer. Of course the original terms as defined by the cable from the High Commissioner's Office in London, left a great deal to be desired in the nature of the proposed methods of payment, but the difficulty is not so utterly insurmountable. The arguments advanced that the Russians are not consumers of dry codfish, are somewhat discounted by the application for such a large quantity of our chief product. Four hundred thousand quintals comprise more than a quarter of our whole catch in an especially good year, and the sale of such a complement would be of vast commercial consequence.

When the state of other foreign markets has been considered, the possibilities that open in Russia, if trade can be fostered with that country, are rich in prospect. Not only codfish, but herring could be placed, and considering that part of Newfoundland's inexhaustible wealth lies in the conservation of this valuable industry, the good prospects of enormous sales to Russia should at once be the incentive to greater production. For some reason or other the herring fishery has been more or less abandoned, and the great returns once brought into Northern and Western ports no longer are received. Thus the earning power of the people who hitherto prosecuted the herring fishery has been decreased; their purchasing power has been lowered and the exports have fallen off in proportionate value. Consequently the revenue has gone down in like ratio. No fishery that is worth anything should be abandoned. Increased production means better times all round. It means wealth to the producer, more earnings for the men who are needed for the work of curing and packing; more work for the coopers, and generally increased trade everywhere. There may be some little trouble involved in opening up this brand new trade that is offered. New markets cannot be exploited without taking pains. Rates of exchange and other necessary incidentals will have to be adjusted, while not the least of all will have to be the arrangement of sale terms that will be equally satisfactory to both buyers and sellers. There is an alternative to the Russian offer to buy our fish; however, which will be worth discussing later.

Obituary.

HON. JOHN BROWNING.

At 6.30 p.m. yesterday, Hon. John Browning, M.L.C., passed suddenly away at his residence "Victoria," King's Bridge Road. Mr. Browning was a citizen of great prominence in the commercial, private and public life of the colony. The son of the late Gilbert Browning, he entered his father's business after having received a liberal education. Under his guidance, the firm of G. Browning & Son flourished, making rapid progress towards the heights which it has now reached. Besides controlling his own business, Mr. Browning had several other business interests and was a director on many boards. He was, amongst other things, Acting President of the Gas Co., Vice-President of the Manufacturers' Association and President of the Consolidated Foundry Co. Mr. Browning was also President of St. Andrew's Society for many years. He was also very active in war work particularly on the Forestry and finance committees, and was acting as Chairman of the Patriotic Fund since the death of Hon. W. B. Grieve. Last year he was made a member of the Legislative Council and there, during the short while that he held the dignity, he made his presence felt. Mr. Browning had been ill on several occasions during the past few years, and on Saturday he experienced a sudden attack of heart disease from which he failed to recover. He leaves a widow, two sisters, the Misses Browning, of Richmond, two brothers, Mr. T. B. Browning of London, England, and Mr. Lawrence Browning, of California. Mr. James Crawford, a nephew, has recently been associated with him in his business in this city. The late Donald Browning, K.C., was a brother. To all sorrowing relatives the Telegram extends sincere sympathy.

Case Postponed.

ANALYST'S REPORT REQUIRED.

An assyrian was charged before Judge Morris this morning with breach of the Prohibition Act. Through his counsel, Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., the accused pleaded not guilty. Head Constable Byrne gave evidence of a visit to the defendant's shop to search for liquor. He produced several small bottles which he declared was the liquor he had expected to find. They were essence of vanilla bottles and contained local made liquor. Another bottle was also produced. This contained some white liquid. Mr. Higgins cross examined and elicited the information that witness had been told just where to find the liquor. Detective Constable Lee corroborated the evidence of Head Constable Byrne. The defendant had said that the bottles contained "arrack" which he took before his meals.

His Honor, "Head Constable Byrne has evidently discovered a new brand." The Government analyst, Mr. D. J. Davies, stated that the white liquor was eight underproof. Some argument ensued over the contents of the vanilla bottles, which had not been analysed. The Inspector General asked if the witness could swear that the bottles did not contain vanilla. This question was not allowed and a postponement was asked for. Mr. Higgins also thought the case should be adjourned. He declared that the accused had no knowledge of the stuff which he claimed had been put there in his absence. The postponement was granted.

Enquiry at Placentia.

The preliminary enquiry into the case arising out of the curious circumstances surrounding the death and burial of a general at Placentia, recently, will be held during the week before the Magistrate of that place. In the meantime, the result of the post mortem conducted on the body of the child by Dr. Tait, will not be made public.

Of Interest to Sportsmen

Everyone should see T. A. Macnab & Co.'s window, City Club Building—it is really striking and a work of art. It depicts a camping scene with a tent in the background against a scene on which rests the proverbial "piper" which sends out a lot of steam. The ground is covered with blueberry bushes on which are lots of ripe berries just as they grow on the hillside, and amongst the bushes is seen a partridge with its eye on the dog. Scattered around the scene are Fray Bentes Beef and Oxo Cubes—without which no true sportsman goes to the woods, also cans of "Purity" and "St. Charles" Milk, "Reindeer" Coffee and Milk, Campbell's Soup and Campbell's Pork & Beans (the Red and White label, you know), Fry's Cocoa and Five Boys Eating Chocolate, Macosochia's Pickles including the famous "Pan Yan" Pickle, a carton of "Regal" Table Salt, tins of Carr's Biscuits, "Blossom" Tea, and Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce—the finishing touch, that means so much. The whole scene is surrounded by spruce trees making what is probably the most interesting and artistic window ever seen in St. John's. The shooting season opens on the 20th inst.

Moonshine From Paradise.

A still and a quantity of moonshine rewarded the members of the police force, who, on Saturday morning searched several carts coming from the settlement of Paradise, in Conception Bay, and also, a house in the settlement itself. Whilst no actual trouble was apprehended by the detectives who conducted the search, the people did not feel so amicably towards them as residents of a place with such a name should have done.

Farewell to Major Gallaher.

A large number of people were at the Furness Wharf pier yesterday to bid farewell to Major Gallaher who has been here since January last on special work in connection with the Salvation Army. The Major is proceeding to London, where he will continue his work. As the steamer was leaving the pier, No. 1 and No. 2 S.A. Bands played suitable selections. Major Gallaher addressed the gathering and bade the adieu, and expressed the hope that before long the dark clouds of depression would have disappeared and that the cloud with the silver lining would once more be apparent.

Police Court.

A man was charged with being drunk and disorderly. The defendant was found under a bed drunk and was placed under arrest. He was allowed to go.

A man was charged with being drunk and disorderly in his own house and for assaulting his wife. The assault did not amount to anything, and all his wife wanted was that the accused should be bound to the peace. He was bound over in the sum of $50.

For a breach of the Traffic Regulations, a truckman had a small fine inflicted.

An assault case in which a man threatened to throw his creditor, the complainant, over a wharf, was the next case called. The accused was fined $1 and costs.

ON THE LOCAL GROUNDS.—Local fishermen are not doing much on the grounds at present. The weather has not been very favorable, and the fish taken are of a small run with a good per centage of haddock.

Report of Oil and Fish Inspector.

Inspector Coyell, who returned on Friday last from the northward, reports that there are not as many people engaged in the oil refining business as in other seasons. In Grate's Cove there are six factories operating, and at Bay de Verde one manufacturer has some 5,000 gallons put up. "The livers are yielding well," says the inspector, "and the oil is of the best quality I ever saw, and the people are all interested in getting a No. 1 article." Mr. Coyell brought up a number of samples, which are a credit to the manufacturers. Regarding the herring, the inspector thought there would be a good demand for them this fall, that is if they are inspected. Three packers have received licenses to pack Scotch herring on Labrador, beginning this month. These will be brought here in sea stacks (loose in packages) and repacked for market. Asked for a confirmation of the story that a large quantity of bad herring had been shipped to Halifax this summer and that Inspector Howlett had to be sent from here to adjudicate claims, the inspector said he was not at liberty to speak.

Farewell Address.

Rev. Fr. McLoughlin of the Redemptorist Order who has been here since last Lent, conducting religious exercises for the R. C. people of the various outports gave a farewell address after last Mass at the Cathedral yesterday. He spoke feelingly of the hospitality received during his stay, and the devotion and self-sacrifice of the people in attending the missions both in the outports and the city. The Rev. gentleman leaves for New York by Sable I. on Tuesday and hopes to again be able to meet the people whose kindness he said he can never forget.

MR. H. W. STIRLING will resume lessons in Organ, Piano, Singing and Theory on Tuesday, Sept. 13th. Pupils of all grades received. Further particulars on application. Studio: 29 Victoria St.—8.5, 9.12, 13, 15.

LUMBER PRICES DECLINING.—Quite a number of schooners from the northern outports are arriving in port with lumber cargoes, and the price of building material has consequently declined considerably from the prices prevailing during the spring. No. 1 studing can now be bought for $26. and 1 inch rough board for $30 per thousand feet.

Ricketts V.C. Lost.

HALIFAX, Aug. 31.—The Newfoundland schooner Ricketts V. C., has been missing on a voyage from San Domingo to Mobile, according to advices received yesterday by I. M. Mathers, local agent for her owners, Messrs. Patten and Forsyth, of Grand Falls. The vessel, which registers 155 tons, was bound to Mobile in ballast and left off Pettibois Island, near that place, on August 28. It was reported yesterday that the vessel had been sighted but made no mention of the fact that it was presumed that they were on the Ricketts V. C. was here in June when it was loaded with general cargo for Porto Rico. Although owned by the Ricketts V. C. Co., the vessel was built by the Ricketts V. C. Co. at Conquerall Bank, St. John's, Nfld. She is 114 feet long, 11.2 feet beam, and 11.4 feet depth.

Wireless Burial For Fireman.

London.—When the Cunard liner Carmania was 200 miles west of Fastnet, on her last voyage, she received a wireless message from the Canadian Government steamer Canadina Trapper, bound from Montreal to Antwerp and London, asking: "Can you oblige us with a copy of the Burial Service at Sea?" It transpired that one of the Canadian Trapper's firemen had died, and that no copy of the burial service procedure could be found on board. The Carmania's operator "wirelessly" the service to the Trapper, 200 miles away, in batches of 150 words, and the Captain of the latter steamer repeated the words as they were passed to him folio by folio from the wireless room. After an hour's dictation from the Carmania the service was completed, and the fireman's remains were duly committed to the water.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

THE IRISH SITUATION.

LONDON, Sept. 4. Dail Eireann's reply to the British Prime Minister, signed Eamonn de Valera, which was made public in London and Dublin simultaneously to-day, has been preceded in the British and Irish Press by a number of apparently inspired statements that "it would create a very grave situation. A perusal of the reply, however, offered little reason to fear an immediate breakdown of negotiations, unless the Cabinet Council, meeting on Wednesday to consider it, should decide to impose a time limit within which Ireland must accept or reject the Government proposals. The reply shows that De Valera and Dail Eireann have not receded in the slightest from the position formerly adopted. It emphasizes that the Government proposals are not an invitation to enter into a free and welded partnership with the Nations of the British Commonwealth, but that on the contrary, the conditions Mr. Lloyd George seeks to impose would divide Ireland into two artificial and mutually destructive states. It insists that plenipotentiaries must enter the Conference, untrammelled by any conditions, but with that proviso, says Dail Eireann is ready to appoint plenipotentiaries. Except that De Valera seems to ignore the Prime Minister's warning of danger in continued delay, the position is much the same as on the occasion of the last exchange of letters, and almost certainly there will be further exchange before a real crisis arises. The most threatening feature of the situation still remains in the refusal of Ulster to yield the slightest point, and in her persistence in this attitude it is recognized there is real danger.

ULTIMATUM SENT.

LONDON, Sept. 4. An Indian despatch to the Daily Mail from Madras says it is understood that an ultimatum has been sent by the British Government to the rebels, demanding their surrender within 48 hours.

FATAL COLLISION.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 4. Rammed by the steamer Keywest of the Keopline Transportation Co., of Montreal, while steaming West, the schooner Oliver Mowat, engaged in carrying coal to ports of the Bay of Quinte, sank Thursday night, about eleven o'clock and three of her crew, including the Captain were drowned.

GREEKS ADVANCING.

ATHENS, Sept. 4. Greek troops are continuing their successful advance against positions held by Turkish Nationalists along the Sakaria River in Asia minor, says an official statement issued here. They occupied Beasikay railroad station at Politt and the dingle of Phairi. Greeks have also advanced to the north and east of the village of Bvritaili, the statement says.

I. R. COMMANDER SPEAKS.

ARMASH, IRELAND, Sept. 4. Michael Collins, Commander in Chief of the Irish republican army and Sinn Fein Minister of Finance, came to his constituency to-day the first time he had been able to make a public appearance here since 1916, to thank his supporters for electing him to Dail Eireann, and, as he explained, for giving him of a mandate not to sit in the Northern Parliament. Collins touched very gingerly on the Peace Negotiations, explaining that at the present moment he must choose his words. "England," he said "is handing out Parliaments like Carnegie libraries. They are a sort of medicine, which cures, neither the north or south. It was obvious from Lloyd George's letters," he declared "that the Northern Parliament was being used as an excuse to keep the north and south asunder, but Orangemen, who had been used as tools, might find that they stood in the way of an agreement which was Britain's interest, and then they would be thrown aside."

Personal.

The many friends of Mr. Wilson Vardy, Harbor Master and Light Keeper, Port aux Basques, will be pleased to learn that since his arrival in the city to undergo special treatment, he has made considerable improvement.

Mr. Fulmore, Superintendent of Motive Power, R.M.C.O., has taken the house of Mrs. Smallwood, Rennie's Mill Road. Mrs. Smallwood is going to England for a year.

Mrs. P. J. Fortune left by yesterday's express for Peterboro, Ont., to visit her daughter Sister M. Emerita, of St. Joseph's Convent, who is at present unwell. She was accompanied by Miss Genevieve Fortune.

Mr. Gerald S. Doyle returned from a business trip to the northern districts by Saturday's express.

Mr. Jack Sharpe, inside left for the Briton's football team, who has been on this station for the past four years, leaves during the week enroute to England.

Ex-Councillor J. J. Mullaly left by yesterday's express for Halifax and Boston, making his home in the former place. A large number of friends were at the station to bid him adieu.

Mr. George Kearney sails by Sable I. to-morrow on a business trip to Canada and the States.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, Sept. 5. We have lately opened a fresh lot of Page and Shaw's Chocolates of all the popular assortments—Assorted Chocolates, Hard Centres, Nut Assortments and Caramels. Lower prices enable us to quote these at an appreciable reduction on the prices that have been ruling the last couple of years, dispute the extra duties, etc., lately placed upon goods by our paternal government. There are no better, cleaner, fresher, or more delicious Candies on the market than those put up by Messrs. Page and Shaw.

Here and There.

HORSE SHOT.—A fine horse owned by a man named Mackay was hit by a motor car on Cornwall Avenue yesterday morning, and had its leg broken. As a result of its injuries, the animal had to be shot by Mr. James Barter of the L.S.P.U. Both the police and the S.P.C.A. Both the police took the horse to the abattoir.

ENQUIRY PROCEEDING.

The enquiry into the Bristol's Hope tragedy is still proceeding before Magistrate Penney at Carbonara and will probably be concluded this week. A large number of witnesses had to be examined whilst the Magistrate, himself, found it necessary to visit the scene of the accident.

MASON WORK FINISHED.

The mason work on the Acetylene Compression Plant at the King's Wharf was finished on Saturday, and the masons are having their scaffolding removed to-day. The lower portion of the building, which was not done by tradesmen, looks very odd to the top half, and it is expected that the work will have to be gone over to make the building look uniform.

"Rock of Ages" Pilgrimage.

People from all parts of England took part in a remarkable pilgrimage to Burringtoncombe, near Bristol. A great open-air service was held near a river rock in the valley where Top-lady is stated to have taken refuge during a storm, and was inspired to write the famous hymn, "Rock of Ages." Quite 10,000 people attended this service. The gorge is one of the most famous in the Mendip Hills, and opens out into a vast amphitheatre fronting the traditional rock. The proceedings were taken part in by clergy and ministers of all denominations, and an address was delivered by the Bishop of Exeter. One result of the pilgrimage is that a memorial to Top-lady is to be placed on the rock.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)

Codfish—The exports of codfish this week amounted to 23,647 quintals of dry and 3,529 salt bulk, as follows: St. John's—Dry fish, by s.s. Rosalind to New York 4,611 quintals from Messrs. J. A. East, Ltd., C. F. Bennett, Bowring Bros., Ltd., T. H. Carter & Co., A. E. Hickman Co., Ltd., Job Bros. & Co., A. S. Rendell & Co., George J. Carter & Co.; by s.s. Digby 622 quintals to Boston from Messrs. J. A. Baird, Ltd., and A. E. Hickman Co., Ltd. for transhipment to Piræus and Demerara; by schooner "Lila D. Young" from Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., 3,527 quintals for Bahia; by schooner "Little Princess" 3,032 quintals from A. E. Hickman Co., Ltd., to Barbados; by schooner James W. Baker, 3,529 quintals (salt bulk) from Harvey & Co., to Pierce & Co., Gloucester, Mass. From Outports—By schooner Nina Lee to Gibraltar for orders, from Messrs. A. E. Hickman Co., Ltd., 2,730 quintals from St. Anthony; by schooner "Matters," from Messrs. Farguhar & Co., Ltd., Sandy Point, St. George's, to Halifax, 1,566 quintals; by schooner General Jacobs from Hermitage Trading Co., through to Oporto, 3,147 quintals, and by schooner Atlanta to Halifax 2,264 quintals, from E. Pike, Channel.

Cod Oil—Foreign dealers offers this week are so poor that they are not regarded. They will have to do better if they are hoping to get Newfoundland Cod Oil, especially as the codfish is almost a failure, except in three or four sections of the entire coast line. The oil supply will therefore, be very short. The exports this week were 106 tons contracted for early in the season.

Cod Liver Oil—The market is in the worst possible condition and there is no demand. Only 128 gallons were exported since last issue. Refined Oil will certainly be a scarce commodity in Newfoundland this season, as there are not quite half the number of manufacturers engaged in the business as compared with the past year.

Flour—Canadian flour dealers are making offers to the trade here at lower prices and there is a general feeling that the world is going to have lower priced flour the coming fall. October Wheat is quoted this week at $1.39 to $1.39 1/4 per bushel, which is a good indication for the consumer and a hope for $12.00 flour before long. Present St. John's prices are, $13.00 and $13.50 wholesale and retail. The imports for this week were 6,000 barrels.

Beef—Beef quotations show no change this week. It is believed that as in the case of Pork, that Beef prices are about as low as they will be this season. The decline from last year's quotations is quite as great as can reasonably be expected. The imports from New York this week were 535 barrels.

Pork—The imports this week were 655 barrels. There is no change of importance in the local conditions to record but the new York market recently took a firmer tone. Importers here, however, believe that the present prices with very little variation will prevail during the fall.

Sugar—Raw Sugar shows considerable strength in New York this week, but in view of the large stocks held in Cuba it is not likely that there will be any advance. Cuban holders are making a big effort to prevent a slump and sustain the market, but it is very doubtful whether their attempt will succeed. Local prices are $12.25 and $12.50 per hundred pounds for White American Granulated.

Molasses—The Little Princess brought 546 puncheons, and 77 half of molasses from Barbados last week, which makes the total imports to St. John's for the season to date 4,730 puncheons as compared with 5,523 this time last year. There are two more cargoes now on the way, so that the total should be about 5,500 puncheons. Local prices are 75 and 80 cents per gallon.

Potatoes—Home-grown Potatoes are now holding the local market. Prices are reduced to $5.00 per barrel and 20 to 25 cents per gallon by retail. Prices are likely to decline further next week and onward according as the potatoes progress in growth, to their normal size. The crop will be a good one though some early varieties are not so numerous as usual under the stalks.

Hay—The market is very firm. As far as we can learn it will cost nearly $50.00 today to land. Prices in the local market have not advanced yet, but it is safe to predict that quotations will be much higher from next week forward. The present quotations here are: $50.00 to $52.00 per ton wholesale and at the rate of $55.00 for bales less than a ton. Local hay is $48.00 to $49.00 a ton.

Oats—The market is strong, but not notably higher. Prices in the local market are unchanged since last week. Mixed Oats are $2.30 to $2.40; White, $4.20 to $4.30; Black unobtainable. The Canadian crop on the whole will be a good one and there is no likelihood of any advance in price during the Fall. Oats are rather scarce here just now.

Apples—A few carloads of early varieties such as Duchess, Astrachan and Early Williams arrived during the week and sold at $7.50 to $8.50 in the barrels. We understand that Saturday's Cricket.

SHAMROCKS DEFEAT FELDRIANS

The Shamrocks defeated the Feldrians by a margin of 25 runs in a cricket match played on St. George's Field on Saturday afternoon. The match was the second for the year and was a single inning one. The Shamrocks won the toss and elected to bat first. The pair was soon separated, however, and things began to look gloomy for the Feldrians when H. A. Whistler came in and proceeded to knock down bowling about in fine style but partners were unable to keep their feet up, and were speedily dismissed by a deadly bowling of the Shamrocks. The Feldrian wicket fell for 11 runs including extras; and Winter had carried his bat through for 25. The Shamrocks next went to bat. The Shamrocks required to win. Whilst several men fell victims to Jerritt's with the veterans managed to do some fairly good hitting and had passed the Feldrian score with three wickets left. They concluded their innings however, and the last wicket was down with the total 77. The fielding on both sides was excellent, particularly on one of the players has had a recent practice. Finn and Cliff got some of the bowling for the Shamrocks whilst Jerritt's average for the Shamrocks was also very good. Six of the Shamrock's wickets fell to his lot, a great pity that cricket has been allowed to fall into abeyance here, owing to our unfortunate climatic conditions during the spring it could be otherwise. It is manifestly impossible for a game such as cricket to be played under the uncertain weather conditions which prevail between August and June which is the only time the schools could take it up. There is no reason however, why some matches could not be arranged during the summer by devotees of the game. It is satisfactory to note that a cricket game has been arranged between the Feldrians and the Shamrocks.

Wedding Bells.

COOKE-WILLCOCK.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the Oratory of Sacred Heart, Convent of Mercy, on Saturday afternoon. The bride, when Alice Mary, eldest daughter of the late Thomas and Mrs. Cooke, of St. Peter's Street, was united in matrimony to the Rt. Rev. Monsignor McDermott, William M. C. Willcock, second son of the Rev. J. Willcock, D.D., of Scotland. The bride, who was accompanied by W. P. Shortall, Esq., looking charming in a dress of white Gossamer over silk, and large white hat, carried a bouquet of white carnations and asparagus fern, and was attended by her sister, Miss Ellen Cooke, and Miss Mercedes Delgado, both of whom wore grey with large black hats. The groom, who has been attached to the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, since returning from overseas, was ably supported by Mr. George Murphy of the Bank of Nova Scotia. The ceremony supper was served at the residence of the bride's mother. The happy couple left by the "Saschem" on a visit to relatives in Scotland. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Willcock many years of happy wedded life.

"Edith Pardy" Lost.

The collector of Customs received a message on Saturday from Perth stating that the schooner "Edith Pardy" had been lost on Friday, a mile west of St. Pierre. The vessel was bound from Sydney to Arran with a cargo of coal when she sprang a leak. The vessel in a sinking condition, was sighted by the schooner Ellis M. Randall, which took the crew off, and landed them at Perth. The "Edith Pardy" was owned by Perth, and was well known in the local trade and was well known to the vessel and cargo are insured.

Halifax Herald Marathon.

Outside Talent Will be Seen in Race.
(Sunday Leader.)

The Herald and Mail ten mile run into Halifax is expected to have some outside starters this year. Eddie Lawrence, of Montreal, a member of the Canadian Olympic team of 1920, may try this event. Lawrence has competed outside of Montreal a number of times and has won the Fort William ten mile road race twice. He has also won several other long distance races outside of Montreal. Edouard Fabre, the star Montreal marathoner, is another runner who may make The Herald and Mail race his goal. Fabre is better at the fifteen to twenty miles than he is at the ten miles, and yet is no laggard at the ten miles either. No doubt the appearance of Fabre and Lawrence would give more outside interest in the race.

The first of the Gravensteins will arrive here by the Rosalind and will sell at lower prices than quoted above. The Annapolis Valley Crop is excellent this season, so that we may look for $5.00 apples in October. He vic McAuley, of Portland, formerly of Noel, Hants County, may be a starter this year. McAuley was the best long distance runner in the Maritime Provinces three years ago, but went to Portland. Last summer he ran ten miles to victory in a Portland road race in fifty minutes. McAuley was finishing in Nova Scotia ten years ago, but went to Boston and represented the North Dorchester A.A. of the city of culture and garden bullels in a number of races about Massachusetts. He started in the Boston Marathon twice, but could not finish. His best distance was five to ten miles. If in shape, he will take some beating over the ten mile course at Halifax. However, McAuley is not usually in the best of shape for running long races. He does not train very diligently.

And Alf Rogers.

That antique gent, Alf Rogers, of Halifax, will be in The Herald and Mail grind once more in an effort to make his third win. Rogers surprised some of the Maritime fans April 19, in the year 1921, when he finished twelfth in the famed Marathon classic from Ashland to Boston. And he finished in 2:35 faster time than winners in several other years of the Boston Marathon. As he failed at the Canadian Olympic trial Marathon at Hamilton last summer to do anything, it was thought Alfie would fall by the wayside in the Boston Marathon.

Norman and Jim Turnbull, of Springhill, two brothers, who have been competing in long distance running races in the Maritime Provinces for the past eight years, will again be in The Herald and Mail race this year. Sometimes Norman Turnbull leads his brother to the finish, and then Jim reciprocates. Norman Turnbull won the fifteen mile race last summer, which gave him the right to compete from the Maritime Provinces in the Canadian Olympic trial Marathon. Both of the Turnbull brothers have been in The Herald and Mail race for five years. Jimmy Martin, the veteran Dartmouth runner, will be another entrant in the race from among the old-timers in Maritime long distance running. Martin has been running in long distance races since Jacques Cartier started rambling through these Provinces. Jimmy is just as much a veteran as Alfie Rogers, and there is little need of saying more. Martin has not been as successful as Rogers, but his intentions are just as good. Martin has been representing Dartmouth in long distance races for high onto twenty-five years. He was a veteran fifteen years ago, when Len Lennerton was representing Dartmouth in long distance races through the Maritime Provinces. He competed, as did Rogers, against Hans Holmer, when the New York star was in the Maritime Provinces. He also competed against Fred Cameron, the star Amherst long distance runner.

About Hans Holmer.

Hans Holmer retired from running six years ago, but made a come-back in Scotland at the Powder Hall Marathon. Holmer was living in Halifax fifteen years ago for a year when he was a member of the Canadian Permanent Army Service Corps and was stationed in Halifax. He was transferred to Quebec and went under the management of Edgar A. Shee as a professional. Holmer when in the Maritime Provinces was an amateur and won many races from one mile to ten miles. Some of his Maritime records stand through the years. Len Lennerton usually gave him his hardest races in these days, although Freddie Cameron, of Amherst, was also pushing him fairly hard.

Holmer went from Quebec to New York, where his folks lived. He ran scores of long races in the United States and in Europe. Inside of six weeks he won six Marathons. He was a demon at the Marathon, and by some was rated as in the same class with Tom Longboat, the Indian from Toronto and Hamilton, when at his best, and with Henri St. Yves, the French star; Johnny Hayes, the New Yorker; Dorando Pietri, the Italian star; Alfie Shrubbs, the English wonder, and Willie Kolehmainen, the Finn.

Of Danish Descent.

Holmer won the Powder Hall Marathon once. He was beaten several times by Willie Kolehmainen, the Finnish star, who is an older brother of Hannes Kolehmainen, now of New York, one of the best of long distance runners and winner of the Olympic Marathon of 1920, and was also defeated by Billy Quail, although he also defeated Quail. Quail hailed from Alexandria Bay, N.Y., and is now coaching the cross-country runners of Yale.

Not only did Holmer run as an amateur in Halifax and in Amherst, but he competed in a seven mile at John, which he won by a wide margin. Some think Holmer is a German, but this is not so. He is of Danish descent, supposed to have been born in New York city. He is said to have enlisted in the permanent force of Canada when not perhaps broke, but at least somewhat bent. He was surely a wonderful long distance runner.

CALICUT, British India, Sept. 4. About forty Moplah tribesmen and two British soldiers were killed in a fight of several hours at Thrirangadi, which resulted in the capture of Alimuduller, the rebel leader and thirty other Moplahs. Four British soldiers were wounded. Explosive material and a number of carbines, knives, swords and other weapons were captured.

For years I have never considered my stock of household remedies complete unless a bottle of Sherrill's Liniment was included. For burns, bruises, sprains, frost-bites or chilblains it excels, and I know of no better remedy for a severe cold in the head, or that will give more immediate relief than to inhale through the nasal organ. And as to my supply of veterinary remedies it is essential, as it has in very many instances proven its value. I can recommend it to you with confidence. It was supposed to be a lost section of a valuable cow's udder has again demonstrated its great worth, and prompts me to recommend it to the highest terms to all who have a herd of cows, large or small. Memorial Service.

AT ST. PAUL'S, HE. GRACE. The Memorial Service held at St. Paul's Church, last Friday evening, to dedicate a pulpit erected by the parents and friends of the eighteen men of that Parish who sacrificed their lives in the Great War, was an impressive one. The presence of several hundred by clergy, the members of the various societies in regalia, and a squad of exercise men, with the large attendance of the general public combined to give the service a solemnity that was in keeping with the occasion.

HAPPINESS.

In Canada my childhood years were spent, mid snow and rim; and though often I from my ears, I had a bully time. The winter started in the fall and lasted through the spring, and blizzards used to howl, but I would smile and sing. For I was born a happy guy, my heart was full of glee, and January or July was all the same to me; in Kansas long I made my home; 'tis there the wild winds chase; they blow the ripples from my dome, the whiskers from my face. A cyclone hoisted me at times, and while I rode the blast I jotted down those cheer-up rhymes that made you stand aghast. On Arizona's scorching plain I dwelled a year or more, with Gila monsters in my train, and rattlesnakes before. My peat dried up and wrinkled of heat the burning rays, but I was still a cheerful toff, and I had happy days. If one is born the child of mirth, no ill can stop his song, not all the ordeals of the earth can will him very long. It is a rare and wondrous gift, the cheerful frame of mind, that sees the heavy cloudbanks drift, and knows they're silver lined. There is no envy in my heart for gifts that others own; they may be wise, they may be smart, and in their class alone; and they may scale the shining heights that I can never achieve, but I am warbling gay and glib, while they cave round and grope.

Malta Yielding to Great Britain.

On Friday, September 5, 1900, Malta, an island in the Mediterranean Sea, was ceded to Great Britain. It had been possessed by many important nations, including Phoenicians, who were the inhabitants of the great merchant seaports of Tyre and Sidon on the west coast of Syria; Carthaginians, of Carthage; by the Greeks a second time, at Constantinople, when Constantine the Great, Emperor of Rome, captured Byzantium, and made it his capital, naming it after himself. Each of these nations had secured command of the Mediterranean Sea, and then the final and chief French Emperor, Napoleon Bonaparte captured Malta. In 1800 he was compelled to surrender it to Great Britain, and this action was confirmed by the Treaty of Paris in 1814. To Bible students Malta is interesting, as being the island where Saint Paul was wrecked when being conveyed to Rome, to whose emperor he, as a citizen of that capital in rank and privilege, could appeal for judgment. (Acts XXV, 11-12.) In the account of that Apostle's wreck the island is called Melite, and some have doubted whether it could be Malta, because the account says that the ship was driven about by the storm in Adria (Acts XXVII, 27), and Malta is not in the Adriatic Sea on the east side of Italy, but is fifty miles south of Sicily. The name Adria was used of the sea south and west of Italy also. Malta has an area of 91 square miles with a population numbering about 200,000; the British troops, which were protectors of it, numbered 3,707. It is provided with a university, 89 elementary schools, two secondary schools, and 88 night schools for boys, and these are all maintained by the British Government, besides garrison and dockyard schools. In addition to supplying all these the British have discovered one most important and successful way to promote and preserve the health of the inhabitants; one of the most dreadful and deadly diseases having long been distinguished as a Maltese fever. When Saint Paul was wrecked there, the father of Publius, its Roman governor, was ill of fever and hemorrhage, but the Saint prayed for him, laid his hands upon him, and he was healed. (Acts XXVIII, 8.) In the nineteenth century a British scientist went to Malta to seek the cause of this complaint, and brought it to an end. He found that it was caused by the inhabitants drinking the milk of wild goats, and that practice has since been forbidden and abandoned; no wonder, therefore, that they prefer the British Government to any other.

Liberty of the Press.

"The liberty of the Press is the liberty of saying things, which may be intemperate and unfair, and which Governments will certainly think to be intemperate and unfair," says the Westminster Gazette. "If a Government is to be at liberty to draw a line and say that a particular kind of intemperateness and unfairness is damaging to the public interest, there is no logical stopping point."

The Siege of Sebastopol.

In the night of September 3, 1855, the Russians evacuated the city of Sebastopol as the result of the capture of the Malakoff by the French in the course of the day. So ended that great siege, which lasted from Oct. 1 of the previous year. The sufferings endured by the besiegers during the bitter winter of 1854-5, had been great, and the English army in particular had paid the full penalty for the blunders of its administration of a war that grew wholly unuseful to war. Nor had our troops the satisfaction of concluding their term of trial with a success. The English attack on the Redan was repulsed with a loss of 2,371 officers and men, three generals being wounded. The French loss many more—7,567; and the casualties of the Russians on the last day were computed at 12,913 officers and men, with two generals killed and three wounded. They withdrew to the other side of the harbour, with complete success, the operation being undisturbed and unperceived by the besiegers. But they abandoned the worst of their wounded; all the magazines were blown up; and the only two line-of-battle ships afloat in the harbour, were burned. The fire that broke out wherever anything combustible remained, completed the work of destruction, and when they entered the Allies took possession of a heap of ruins. But the object of the Crimean adventure had been achieved, and the active operations of the war practically ended. The armies remained face to face throughout the next winter, but on March 3, 1856 the Treaty of Paris closed perhaps the most ill-managed war in which this country ever was concerned.

Paying With Fish Hooks.

In odd corners of the world many queer things are used as money. In China you may find in circulation lumps of gold or silver bearing marks which show that they were first issued hundreds of years ago, in shape they are square, oval, or oblong, and they weigh anything up to one and a half pounds. The Chinese also use small strips of brass or copper, some of which are worth less than a hundredth of a penny. Some of the Mongol tribes pay their bills with little cubes of compressed tea.

In Burma one finds the cowrie shell used as money, while little porcelain coins take the place of halfpence. The inhabitants of some of the districts bordering the Persian Gulf do their buying and selling with fish-hooks of various sizes.

Africa provides a weird assortment. Beads, elephant tusks, and spear heads are all used as coins. In Oceania flint axes are the most common means of exchange, but we find considerable use made of parrot feathers worn into ropes. The real wild Red Indian hardly exists now, but in a few remote countries, such as Alaska, he is still to be found using his shell money.

The Yellow Peril.

Ex-Emperor William II. of Germany, in the days when he thought he had a mandate from God to dispense light and wisdom to a benighted world, talked of the danger of an invasion of Europe by hordes of yellow men from Eastern Asia. He drew a cartoon, entitled "The Yellow Peril," representing the nations of Western Europe banded together in arms against the Eastern heathen, and he was shocked and chagrined at the very idea of an alliance between England and Japan.

The newspaper discussions over the question of the renewal of the Anglo-Jap Treaty have revealed a surprisingly widespread and persistent conviction that some day in the near future war between the United States and Japan is inevitable. There is no telling to what lengths of national distrust and enmity this open, though unofficial, jingoism may lead. The probability is that at present mankind and the peace of the world are more endangered by "yellow journalism" than by yellow men. Japan has her own problems in Asia. Her statesmen have shown a disposition to make large concessions to outside opinions in order to retain the good-will of the English-speaking world. The Japanese are too wise to pick a quarrel with the United States on account of the attitude of California toward coolie immigration. Neither would the Philippines compensate them for the cost and risk of war with a great Western power. It is to be hoped that the conference called by President Harding will tend to reduce the power of the militarists.

Charles Jefferson, D.D., describes the triumvirate behind military preparations as follows:

1. The retained military experts who are interested in war as a science.
2. The contractor and manufacturer of guns and armour-plate, employing large numbers in supplying military and naval equipment.
3. The patriotic business man who is scared because he is told that the country is in danger.

"It is in a manufactured atmosphere of suspicion and terror that the militarist rides to victory." Those who foster international suspicion and military preparedness are a menace to peace and a return to prosperity. War will come, and the probability is that the next great war will bring the end of civilization, but every sane man should lend his influence toward making the coming of such a thing as remote as possible. It is fully demonstrated that armaments do not make for peace. Military preparations only encourage counter-preparations. Japan cannot be reasonably criticised by Anglo-Saxons for adopting in Asia plans and policies which she sees Britain using in Europe and the United States adopting in America. If a conflict with the yellow races is coming, then by appealing to guns, the Western man throws aside all the advantages that Christian civilization has given him. A machine gun operated by a yellow boy is as deadly as one operated by a white soldier.

The inventive genius of the white man invites Armageddon, and may destroy civilization by putting deadly weapons into the hands of the awakening Orient.—The Canadian Watchman.

Sun Bombs.

Sun bombs are not of the metallic kind, but consist of a highly heated and very light gas. Their favorite part of the sun is where a great deal of activity is taking place, as, for example, where groups of spots have appeared.

The remarkable discovery was made by Dr. Ellerman, of the Mount Wilson Observatory, U.S.A., and he has described them as following one another like balls of a Roman candle, at intervals of ten or twenty minutes.

The bombs, apparently, come to the sea's surface during the tremendous uprush of gas which produces the sunspots, as generally they are to be seen on the fringe of the spots. An explosion of one of these gas bombs often occurs in precisely the same place.

The speed with which they rush to the surface is equalled by the violence with which they explode. Though they do not appear to be very large when viewed from the earth—a distance of about ninety-three million miles—they must be of enormous dimensions, and their gaseous contents must add considerably to the clouds of incandescent gas which hover above big sunspots.

They have been photographed, and are now recognized as an established feature of the sun's activity. Students of solar matters are looking forward with interest to the return of the sunspot period, so that they can study these extraordinary gas bombs more effectively.

Bishop Asbury Honored.

A full sized equestrian statue in bronze of Francis Asbury, the pioneer Bishop of American Methodism, is to be erected in Washington, D.C., on public ground granted by Congress for the purpose. The statue is a gift to the nation from the Methodists of America in honor of this worthy successor of John Wesley on this continent, who with the men he inspired laid well the foundation, religious and moral, in the eastern States from Canada to Carolina. It was hoped that the required $50,000 would be raised in time to have the statue paid for, so as to be unveiled by President Harding, October 27th, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the landing of Ashbury when sent out in 1771 by John Wesley, as one of those to take charge of the new societies already being formed. His landing is considered to be for world Methodism of equal importance to the landing of the Pilgrims.

Shortage of Fish.

The short catch of Shore fish will be rendered more so by the fact that so many are now curing them. Straits and French Shore catch, as well as Labrador. We shall be consequently not have enough fish cured suitably for Spain, Portugal and Brazil, and another opportunity will be given to other fishing countries that make hard neither his power nor his influence among his brethren. Why? "He already ruled by love in all their hearts."

In his extraordinary labors he outdid even Wesley himself. "He ordained 3,000 preachers, preached 17,000 sermons, travelled 300,000 miles—from the pine-shaded St. Lawrence to the Savannahs of Georgia, and from the Atlantic seaboard to the then far west banks of the Mississippi. Such is a brief glimpse of the man whom Methodism will "delight to honor" after a century and a half during which he has never been forgotten. To do justice to such a man and to attempt to trace the far-reaching effects of his influence and work would require volumes.—Ex.

The Only Non-Set Automatic Stop is on the Columbia Grafonola

THE greatest improvement ever made in the phonograph is the Columbia Non-Set Automatic Stop, which is now an integral part of the new Columbia Grafonola.

With this improved instrument you simply place the tone arm needle on the record, and the stopping takes care of itself.

There is nothing more for you to do—no stop to set at a given point, as in other phonographs. Come in and see our latest models.

Motor Association.

SECRETARY'S MONTHLY REPORT.

The August report of the Secretary of the Motor Association, which is published below, shows that much progress is being made in the Association's work, and that it is proving of great benefit to motorists, whether they are members or not. The report is as follows:—

"Since the last General Meeting, which was held on July 30th, three meetings of the Executive and Road Committees and a combined meeting of the Executive, Road Committee and Committee on Discipline have been held. The latter meeting was held to discuss what attitude the Association should adopt with regard to the several complaints re reckless and inconsiderate driving received this season. The Inspector-General was asked to attend for an informal discussion, but was unable to be present. After considerable discussion of the part of the meeting it was decided that in instances of minor offences the party offending be written to by the Secretary, except in the second complaint—in which instance a meeting of the Committee on Discipline was to be called to decide whether the matter should be passed on to the Inspector-General for attention or not.

At the Executive and Road Committee meetings the following business was disposed of:—

The City Council was written on the following matters:—

The condition of Mullin's Bridge, near the Methodist Orphanage.

Projecting telephone pole on Theatre Hill, which was a menace to motor traffic.

Condition of road from Rawlin's Cross to R. C. Cathedral, owing to disused street car rails projecting from ground.

Dangerous blind corners at junctions of Circular, Rennie's Mill, King's Bridge, and Forest Roads.

The matter of certain car owners transferring number plates issued for a certain car to another car; and misrepresentation of horse power by certain car owners endeavoring to save paying the correct tax. A systematic checking up of licenses due but not paid, by the Council. The following matters have been taken up with the Board of Works:—

Projecting telephone and telegraph poles in various localities in the city limits, which were a danger to vehicular traffic.

Bridge which was down on the Bay Bulls Road and the repairs required to Manuel's Bridge. The desirability of repairing all bridges within a twenty mile radius of St. John's, and of substituting concrete culverts for bridges wherever possible.

The necessity of seeing that the telephone poles which are to be placed along the "Cowpath" be put out of the way of traffic.

Certain information re the Government's plans of doing anything to the road from Colinet to Salmonier.

The necessity of providing all Government institutions with first aid outfits for use in the cases of motor car or other accidents.

The Road Commission was communicated with in regard to the rebate promised certain small car owners on account of tax paid in 1920, and at last the payment of this rebate has been authorized.

The Royal Automobile Club, with which the Association is affiliated, have been written to regarding the possibility of obtaining a second hand roller for road work for next season, and Mr. Baird has written Halifax re the possibility of obtaining two horse dump trucks.

The sum of $147 was advanced on account of repairs done at the foot of Topsail Hill, and the sum of $10 authorized to be advanced on account of certain repairs in the vicinity of Beaver Pond. Sundry road work has been done which will be covered by Mr. Soper's report.

A weekly motoring column has been arranged in the Evening Telegram, to which contributions of interest from members are cordially invited.

Fifty Association badges have been received, and the balance is expected within a few days.

In the matter of the request received by the Association to provide some drives for the Soldier patients of Sudbury Military Hospital and the Sanatorium, the following kindly undertook to give this matter their attention:—

Mrs. Eric S. Ayre, Miss Margaret Beards, Mr. Benjamin Bowring, Mr. Edgar Bowring, Mrs. John Browning, Mr. B. R. Clouston, Hon. Treasurer Cook, Mr. C. O'N. Conroy, Lady Croft, Mr. T. V. Hartnett, Mr. John Leamon, Mr. Simon Lovitz, Mr. Harold Mitchell, Mr. A. H. Murray, Mr. Basil Outerbridge, Sir Joseph Outerbridge, Mr. C. C. Pratt, Sir R. A. Squires and Hon. M. G. Winter. Five dollars each was received from Mr. Frank Behm, Mr. H. R. Brookes, Mr. R. B. Job and Mr. L. C. Outerbridge and two dollars from Captain Campbell towards providing taxis for the above purpose.

Respectfully submitted,
P. E. OUTERBRIDGE,
Secretary-Treasurer.

PURPOSE.

Used to think I had to be Building up a name for me. Used to think that I must show This old world how much I know. And must spend my days and years Working for the public's good— Then your mother came along And I found that I was wrong.

Found my job was not to make Money for my selfish sake, But it was to keep her glad With the very best I had. Little fame and money meant If her heart was not content— Then I lived for her until You arrived with wants to fill.

When you came your mother smiled, "Now we have a little child." Tenderly she said to me: "We have reason now to be Brave and strong and kind and true, And he really looks like you. So that he shall come to joy We must struggle for our boy."

From your mother and from you I have caught the broader view, I have learned the joys of life Are not born of selfish strife; More than money or my fame Are the honors you may claim, Now the sweetest goal for me Is the man that you may be.

Not Much Like Prohibition.

The statement that the revenue of the Colony will be augmented by $600,000 from the sale of intoxicating liquor during the coming year, says the Harbor Grace Standard, is ample proof that prohibition does not prohibit either the sale or the use of ardent spirits. $2 per head of our people spent in liquors! It could be one million dollars—if a little freer hand were given. Where the value of the spirits smuggled into the Colony from St. Pierre, and of the manufactured "moonshine" added to the $600,000, we should see a total that would make us all wonder where the money came from? Prohibition does not prohibit in this little corner of the Empire.

The "Devil's Own."

The story of how the Inns of Court Officers' Training Corps, which can trace its history to the days of Queen Elizabeth, came by its nickname, "The Devil's Own," is not without its humour.

At the time of the threatened invasion of England by Napoleon I., a great review was held in Hyde Park. George III. was present, and as each regiment marched past him he would ask of what type of men they were made up.

As the Inns of Court approached, the King asked Erskine, the Lord Chancellor: "Who are these?"

"They are all lawyers, sir," replied Erskine.

"Lawyers, lawyers," said the King, "Call them the 'Devil's Own,' and the name has struck to them to this day."
