Just for Today. Lord, for tomorrow and its needs Just for today Let me most diligently work
And daily pray,
Let me be kind in word and deed Just for today. Prompt to obey:
Help me to overcome my flesh,
Just for today. et me no wrong or idle word

Unthinking say;
Set thou a seal upon my lips
Just for today.
Let me in season, Lord be grave In season gay; et me be faithful to thy grace, Just for today. I do not pray; But keep me, guide me, love me Lord Just for today.

Occasionally one of the young men near the drivers seat was heard to berate the heat in a subdued, hopeless fashion. and therewas a rare interchange of chaff between these same young men and a lone yokel shouting from a farm-yard by the highway. Once or twice a pugnacious shepherd dog rushed out and barked at them. But no one gave heed to the implied challenge.

It was nearing five o'clock when they reached the shady park at Hintonville. Very familiar the spot looked to Rossiter, for it was at the institution situated upon the lofty hill a mile and a half from the pretty town that he had spent the four years of his college life. As to age, I think a young man should wait until he is at least twendrifts and flounders in almost everything he does—wife-choosing included—before he is twenty-five. He rarely knows himself what he wants in anything. He does not know the world nor its people. He may think he does, a young man between eighteen and twenty-five generally does—but he doesn't all the same. It requires him to reach and pass the twenty-five year period to find out how little he really does know. After he passes twenty-five he begins to learn, and from that time on, things have a meaning to him. The difference before and atter this twenty-five year period is: That

He glanced about as they passed up the residence side of the park, thinking he night recognize some of the town-folk, for he had known quite a number of the citizens when he was in college, and among them he distinguished no one whose form he remembered. Beyond the trees and the strip of greensward, a baggage-mam was driving at an ambling gait in the direction of the station, but it was not the eccentric little Irishman, "Barney' who had been wont to deliver his trunk in the old days at the top of three flights of stairs with so many remarkable expletives. Mr. Whitney f the coal company was able to sell to Mr. Whitney of the coke and gas company on terms that seemed to assure a double profit, but the profits from the Everett plant never materialized. Perhaps the soundness of the business proposition has never been fairly tested and under a talked of reorganization the company may make a better showing. In the meantime its strongest and most valuable asset is considered to be the long term, short price contract for coal made with the Dominion Coal Company.

Compared with ruling market rates the coal company is scheduled to lose hundreds of thousands of dollars each year during the life of this contract, and it will please them mightily if a release is brought about by the winding up of the gas and coke husings. inc up of the gas and coke business.

There is little hope, however, that the expensive plant at Everett will be allowed to remain idle. With the Whitney interest destroyed the financial ney interest destroyed the financial enemies who were working to ruin his promotions may cease their efforts to kill the enterprise and let a new management carry on the business unhampered, In fact the very men who worked hardest against Whitney are now undertaking a reorganization of his defeated plans. The mighty are fallen. A few years ago Whitney was a name to conjure with in Nova Scotia and it was to his judgment and energy, apparently, that a new era in our industrial life was opened. His former connection with the coal and steel companies is well known and though the people of the province were not made parties to a very good bargain with his syndicate, still his work wakened other capitalists to the idle industrial possibilities of the province, and we stand to gain in the end from our bargaining. It is not pleasant now, however, to have knowledge of the fact that a New England company is buying Cape Breton coal at

THE BRITISH:BUDGET

London, April 14—Not for many years had Great Britain's fiscal pro-gramme been awaited with such inter-est as that which is attached to this est as that which is attached to this year's announcement. There is no doubt that all the proposals entertained in it will be adopted. It is equally certain that none of these proposals will meet with the unanimous approval of either side of the House.

More important perhaps than the curious forms of the new taxation is the statement made by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, that the Government had acceded to the Boer demand concerning the re-stocking of farms. ng the re-stocking of farms. Sir Michael, in making the Budget announcements, showed a total ordinary expenditure of 1902-3 estimated at £129,159,000 with war charges amounting to £45,450,000 making a total of £174,609,000.

After touching on various details, the Chancellor estimated that expenditure for the coming year would be £174,609,000. The revenue on the present basis of taxation was £147,785,000 leaving a deficit of £26,824,000. This would be increased by £18,500,000 by gratuities to the troops and bringing the soldiers home, the maintenance of the South African Constabulary, and the cost of the international sugar convention, etc., making a al sugar convention, etc., making a gross deficit of upwards of £45,000-000.

The Chancellor proposed to suspend the sinking fund, reducing the deficit by £4300,000 and to increase by a penny in the pound, the income tax yielding £2,000,000 increase. From July 1 there will be a penny to two pence stamp duty on sight bills, in-cluding dividend warrants and checks

OBITUARY. MISS MARGARET MCLEAN.

Miss Margaret MacLean passed peace fully away at the residence of her father, Mr. Thomas MacLean, Margarrather, Mr. Homas macLean, margar-etville, March 22nd. A loved one has gone from our midst whose voice and smile were as the music and sunshine of the springtime. She bore her se-vere sufferings with the unwavering of the Great Shepherd, and passed into the valley of the shadow of death fearing no evil. No trace of the struggle with the dread enemy marred the calm repose of the features in the last sleep. The majesty of death's stillness was softened by a smile of peace and rest. May we not ke allowed to say "Beautiful in life and beautiful in death." Among the many floral tributes adorning the casket was a wreath of rarest flowers, sent by her brother of Montreal.

The services were conducted by Rev. Wm. Phillips, who delivered an impressive address from the text above quoted, the passage having been the choice of the deceased. Tenderest sympathy is felt by the many friends of the family in their sad bereavement.

coating of mud, even if it dries a litter lew will be of great benefit in covering the tender rootlets and bark and in causing them to be in close contact with the earth when planted.

A lot of these puddled trees may be loaded in a wagon with their roots buried in wet straw and their tops leaning backward, and quickly and safely taken to where they are to be planted. By first loading in the last to be set, and following in this order each kind willo come out just as it is needed. The wagon can be driven along as the trees are wanted and almost no exposure of the roots permitted. This is the way the great or chards are planted and with almost no loss. A small lot may be put in a box in the same way.

The greatest care should be used in pressing mellow earth between, under and over the roots, and packing it hard with the feet, that there may be no open spaces. There is no danger of getting it too compact about the roots (if soil is not too wet) nor can there be too much care in looking after them after they are set. Nothing should be allowed to trouble them thereafter, such as cattle or horses or even calves or pigs.—Prof. Van Deman.

sible by lessening the evaporating

As the time of planting trees is at hand, we venture to give some suggestions about this matter and on the apple in general from some of the best authorities on the subject.

As the orchard gives little return for labor expended on it for the first ten years, it is most important that its early life should be well cared for that the trees may come into profitable bearing as early as possible.

The QUESIION OF VARIETIES.

One of our correspondents has late theory of shortening roots and tops at transplanting. We do a great many things the true philosophy of which we could not give and this may be one of the wear farmers are visited by travelling tree agents who exhibit highly colored chromos of various kinds of fruits. It will be unwise to give orders to unknown tree agents. The farmer who does so runs many risks. He may in signing an order be giving his signature for a purpose very different from what he intended. Instances of such kinds have resulted in the end in discovering the farmers' signature to a promaisory note. Then if the "order" result in a deliver yof trees there is no certainty that the farmer secures the may come to us. Continual discontration to do unknown tree agents who exhibit highly colored chromos of various kinds of fruits. It will be unwise to give orders to unknown tree agents who exhibit highly colored chromos of various kinds of fruits. It will be unwise to give orders to unknown tree agents who exhibit nighly colored chromos of various kinds of fruits. It will be unwise to give orders to unknown tree agents who exhibit highly colored chromos of various kinds of fruits. It will be tree agents a who exhibit highly colored chromos of various kinds of fruits. It will be unwise to give orders to unknown tree agents who exhibit highly colored to retire in the agents of the best agents and order be given dress to make residued in the hope of being able to retire in the agents and the profit of the farmer who does so runs many risks. He may in signature for a purpose very different from what sult in a deliver yo ftrees there us no certainty that the farmer secures the ideal kind of fruit trees he ordered. After a number of years, when the tree commences to bear, he discovers the fruit is comparatively worthless. The "agent" cannot be found in and money and the secure of the put into exercise later. Unless we find something every day to be happy over, we shall never be able to fully enjoy any blessing which may come to us. Continual discontent shapes the mind for unhappiness and no amount of good limit to back to be and no amount of good limit to be the secure of the put into exercise later. Now a theory is worth nothing that finite received the option. It is a subject in which everyone is increase in the nothing that the content of the Western New York Horti-ral Society, expressed the opin-that 'no subject is more deserv-form a series of facts. to know to a certainty where the dif-ferent varieties are located. This knowledge is not only of use to rec-ognize when desired the kinds, but the knowledge enables one to study year by year the growth and habits of each variety. There are too many farmers who allow themselves to buy whatever the agent recommends.

Strange as it may seem, some of them did, but it was surely not to the credit or good treatment of the planters.

Whether one goes to a nursery for his trees or to some point of delicity to take the best care of them on the vary home. Wet straw, burlap, old carpets or some such thing should be taken along to cover them with. When a box of trees is opened that is, heeled in, and well heeled in too, unless they are to be planted into ounless they are to be planted instantly. No risk should be run of drying winds and other like dangers. If they seem dry, moisten them at once, using plenty of water. When all is ready to plant them they can easily be taken out of their place of safety.

JUST BEFORE PLANTING.

If any considerable number of trees are to be planted they should be taken to the planting ground in a wagon where the trees are heeled in, about a foot deep and two feet wide. Fill in water usil it is in early full. Then put in fine soil and stir it until it is a mass of very fine mud. The naverage is the wondercate of all. There is a discontent which is the wholesome and creative of better things. The Voice as a Revealer of Character.

There is no greater revealer of character than the human voice. It is the first thing that strikes us in a stranger, or in a new acquaintance. If it ger, or in a new acquaintance. If it has that spontaneous ring of truth that no training can impart, we recognize its-appeal for confidence. Some voices have the jar of falsehood, and are as full of warning as the hiss of are as full of warming as the liss of a serpent. The unconscious natural voice is to be regarded as the index of biaracter. To speak promptly and positively is generally to act promptly and positively; to speak politely is to act politely, and to speak gruffly is a good way to make rude action easy.—Amelia Barr in the Ladies' Home Journal.

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BRITINGE, Md., March 90, 1901.

Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you ny case, to be used at your discretion. ars ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost are acrentically. About five years ago my right car began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would there exact, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,

"There is no harm in making yourselves pretty, my dear," said Grandma Wiseman to her young readers in an Eastern paper. "I do not like to see a girl who does not 'prink.' I am sure there must be something wanting in her. But, once dressed and in society, you should never allow yourself to show that you are thinking of your personal appearance. Stay as long as you like before your glass, consider the becomingness of every curl, the set of every fold of lace, examine yourself critically with your hand glass—back, front, and on each side—but when you leave your room whether you are satisfied or dissatisfied, forget all about your looks. No one who is conscious of herself can help showing it, and there is nothing that is so fatal to popularity. If you look pretty yourself, forgetfulness will prove an added attraction; if not a frank unconsciousness will go far to atone for want of beauty. Girls do not realize how they show the trend of their thoughts by their gestures. The constant touches to their hair, the adjustment of belt or collar, the furtive look in every available mirror and, more than all, the preoccupied look and perfunctory smile that generally accompany such motions, all betray the vanity of which the girls themselves are probably unaware.

It was the first day of school, says the Denver Times. The bell had tapped, and the little children of the set your and the little children of the set your and the little children were sitting upright in their seats, hands properly folded and with round eyes fixed on the new teacher, taking a mental inventory. She was a bit nervous. It was her first school. The children made her fidgety, they stared at her so hard and watched her so closely. She began to feel like a mouse that is within the clutches of a cat. She cast about wildly in her mind for some occupation to begin the first day of school. The repose of well bred women is not the quiet of weakness. It is the calm of trained faculties, balanced so nicely that an earthquake may cause a change of color, but will bring out no loud cry. Well bred women are a boon to the human race. They help the social and professional world to maintain a high standard both of morals and behavior.

"How many women are persistently ruining the 'bloom' of their lips and contour of cheek and all pleasant expression by pinning their veils too tightly across their faces," said a woman yesterday. If the reservoir in the lamp for stove has stood partially filled for many hours, the space that is not filled with oil may become filled with vapor. When the lamp is lighted a gust of air may carry the flame down to this inflammable gas and an explosion is the result. The safeguards are: Purchase the best quality of oil, trim and fill the lamp every day, and do not burn the lamp until practically all the oil is exhausted. There is also danger of explosion when the wick is not large enough to fill the burner.
