WILL THE CONFERENCE FAIL?

Reports in Circulation at New York Tend That Way and the Outlook for the Adoption of a General Treaty Seems to Be Decidedly Gloomy—Montreal News.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—(Special.)—The Star's New York correspondent sends the following interesting despatch:
"Is the Quebec Conference doomed to failure? Reports in circulation here tend that way. It is said that the Dominion Commissioners insist on a free market for Canadian fish in the United States and are refusing to agree to any other matter in controversy. This is an impossible demand, for the reason that it would mean the destruction of the American deep sea fisheries industry, and of the school of the United States navy."

"In the war with Spain more than 20,000 men were taken from New England coast cities to serve on the American men-of-war, and, excepting the Pacific coast, the New England towns are, at all times, the mainstay of the country, so far as ships are concerned. With the enormous increase in the navy now contemplated, the American Commissioners would not dream of making a concession calculated to injure the country so seriously. If it were the fishery industry alone that was to be affected, the concession might be possible, but never when it involves destruction of the nursery of fish. Agreement on some other points is doubtful, and altogether, the outlook for the adoption of a general treaty would seem to be decidedly gloomy."

Large Increase in Corn.
The corn that has been received in Montreal this season already amounts to 16,400,000 bushels, against 9,320,226 bushels for the whole of last year, an increase of over 7,000,000 bushels, so that the increase of the whole year is likely to equal the entire trade of 1897. There are also increases in oats, barley and rye, so that

WHAT COUNT CASSINI SAYS

New Russian Ambassador to the United States Talks.

Russia Seeks Only Peaceful and Friendly Relations With All Other Nations—No Hostile Purpose in Building the Siberian Railroad—Regarding the Philippines.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 19.—A special to The Times from Narragansett Pier gives a glimpse into the mind of Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, in which he says:
"There has been absolutely no change in Russian sentiment or policy towards the United States, nor does there exist a reason for such a change within my knowledge. Russian policy does not conflict with the interests of the United States in any part of the world, no more in China than in England. Russia seeks only peaceful and friendly relations with all other nations."

The correspondent reminded the Ambassador that the American people were agitated by English writers to believe that some of the Continental powers had sought to arrange a project for international intervention on behalf of Spain in the recent war, and that this plan of action had been defeated by the refusal of Great Britain to be a party to it, or even to consent to see other powers engage in it, thereby placing this country under a new and special obligation to the British people.

"I never heard that there was such a proposition by any of the powers," said Count Cassini. "On the contrary, all the powers carefully maintain their neutrality throughout the war between the United States and Spain."

The Siberian Railroad.
Coming to the question of Russian development in the Orient, Count Cassini said:
"In building the Siberian Railroad it was found that the route necessary to be followed in reaching Vladivostok was a very difficult one, made so especially by the existence of areas of almost impassable marshes. The engineering problems presented by the route are of a most formidable nature. We also found that it was absolutely necessary to cross Chinese Manchuria in order to obtain an ice-free port, which was essential to enable the railroad to be a commercially successful enterprise. Our Pacific coast of Vladivostok on the Siberian coast is closed by ice during the winter months. We are not building a railroad simply for the purpose of laying down steel rails, or for the fun of the thing. It must have traffic when it is built in order to justify the investment and so we sought a terminus to the southward, where the ships of all nations could come at all seasons of the year. We obtained from the Chinese Government a lease of territory for a term of years, like the lease of Kiao-Chow by the Germans and the West by the British."

No Hostile Purposes.
"In making the arrangement we were not animated by hostile purposes toward any other power. The only sure and certain revenue which the Chinese Government possesses is its maritime customs, and a portion of these were pledged for the payment of our loan to China. The administration of the maritime customs is in the hands of an Englishman, Sir Robert Hart, but we did not undertake to remove or disturb Sir Robert Hart. We are represented as hostile to the interests of other nations in China, but we have not sought to or sought to prevent other nations from increasing their commercial privileges in that country. When the Russians acquired an extension of territory near Hong Kong we said nothing against it, and the Germans have had a free hand in the Shantung Peninsula, where they have obtained valuable privileges. Furthermore, it should be remembered that Russia and China have a common boundary of some 6000 miles in extent, so that we have a close national relation to China, exceeding that of any other country."

The Future of China.
In regard to the future of China, he said: "There will be no partition of China. There were four hundred and twenty-five millions of people in that country when the last office was made to obtain a count of them. It is a huge population in a vast country. But I do not expect to see it divided. In extending the great Siberian Railway to the Yellow Sea, the purpose of Russia was not to acquire or annex Chinese territory, but to secure a commercial outlet for her goods, and to provide necessary commercial facilities for our vast northeastern territory as well as for the parts of China through which the railway will pass."

As to the Philippines.
Upon the subject of the Philippines, the Ambassador had no opinion to express, his attitude being that merely of an observer of what is happening in that part of the world. The Russian Government does not concern itself with those parts of China or with outlying islands remote from its borders. As to the question of the acquisition of the Philippines by this country, Count Cassini went no further than to remark: "It is a very grave problem."

40,000 TROOPS FOR CUBA.
Uncle Sam Making Preparations to Garrison the Island.
Washington, D.C., Sept. 19.—It is the present intention of the Administration to send to Cuba as a garrison force for the island about 40,000 troops, in addition to the force now in Santiago under command of Gen. Wood.

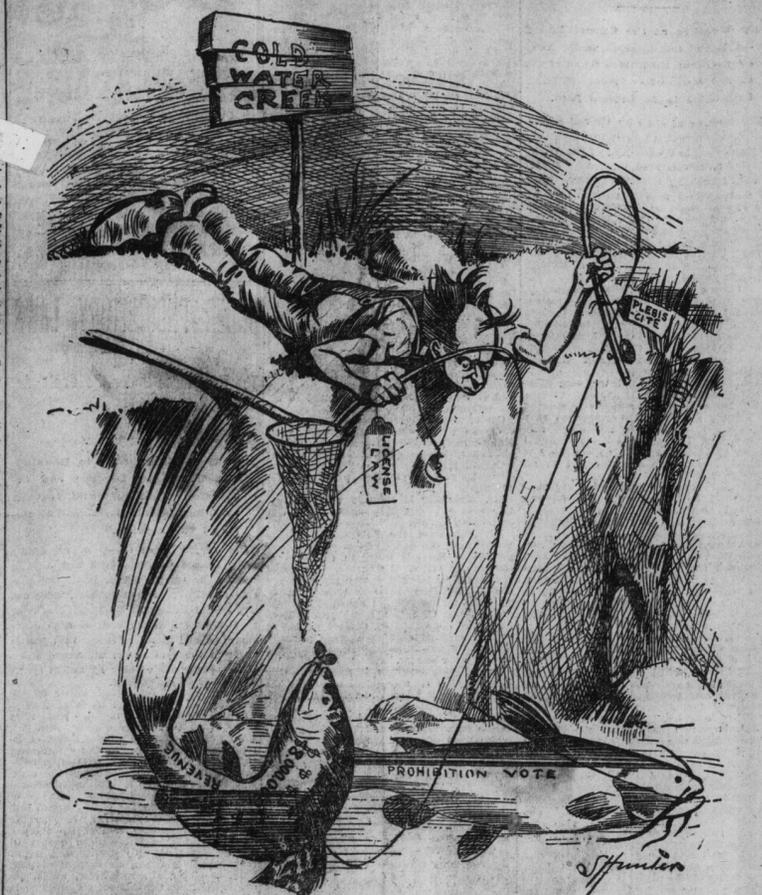

The special features are handsome finish, abundance of light and ventilation, accessibility and low rentals. An arcade has been opened through the property, No. 18 Victoria-street and 85 Yonge-street, through which the public may pass. A directory slab is placed at each entrance. This property is, therefore, almost at the corner of King and Yonge streets. On the Arcade, 100 feet from Yonge-street, is also a large warehouse, 6000 square feet of space, suitable for a printing or other business. To view the premises or to make leases apply to Mr. Fred Smith, agent, at the James Buildings.

It is just as attractive with low prices as it is with new styles.

PHILIPPINE CONGRESS.

Europeans Favorably Impressed—McKinley Will Be Asked to Establish a Protectorate.

London, Sept. 20.—The Hong Kong correspondent of The Daily Mail says:
The Philippine Congress has favorably impressed the Europeans who have witnessed the proceedings. It is believed that its deliberations will result in a petition to President McKinley to establish a protectorate. The attitude of the American army officers towards the insurgents is causing much unfavorable criticism among Europeans who have returned from Manila. They blame their almost criminal ignorance of the native character and their elementary ideas of colonizing. The officers seem determined upon winning glory at the expense of the insurgents by hatching imaginary revolts. Aguinaldo has obeyed every order, whether accompanied by threats or not.

A British naval officer, who has just returned from Manila, says: "What is needed is a force acquainted with the Asiatic character. America does not seem to realize the material she has at hand. Everyone is surprised that O. P. Williams, United States Consul at Manila, was not sent to Paris instead of staff officers, who know little of the Philippines. I am satisfied that if Consul-General Wildman, who has lived among the Malays and is familiar with British colonial methods, were given power he could arrange everything satisfactorily with Aguinaldo. It is essential that the part of America that he has not been ordered to Manila long ago."

MRS. CANFIELD IS DEAD.
An Estimable Lady of Woodstock Has Passed Away.
Woodstock, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Canfield, wife of James Canfield, deputy clerk of the Crown, died early this morning at the family residence on Light-street. For the past three days it was said that life was slowly ebbing away. Much regret is expressed throughout a large circle of friends. Deceased was a woman of strong personality. Of New St. Paul's Church she was a valued member. Mrs. Canfield had spent most of the summer in Toronto and Hamilton in a vain endeavor to regain her lost health. On her return home some weeks ago it was seen that little progress towards recovery had been made. During the past week or two the patient rapidly faded. Death ensued this morning at 3 o'clock. Anemia was the cause. She was a daughter of the late James Osborne of Hamilton. Besides a husband, two children, Alan of Trinity College, Toronto, and Frederick, at home, are left to mourn the loss of an affectionate mother. Mrs. Canfield was married 27 years ago.

WILL ENGLAND GIVE IN?
Russian Newspaper Thinks She Will.
St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—Novoe Vremya warmly supports France in holding Fushoda. It thinks that England will accept the inevitable as usual, when she is met with proper resistance. She is now attempting intimidation, which is predestined to fail. It adds:
England is only one power that has the right to declare war against France, namely, the Sultan of Egypt, Sultan Abdul Hamid.

That Anarchist Assassin.
London, Sept. 19.—A despatch from The Daily Telegraph to St. Petersburg says that information has been received there to the effect that Lucchini, the assassin of the Emperor of Austria, belongs to an Anarchist gang, which went to North America two years and a half ago, leaving a few of their comrades in Europe. The gang issued orders from America, where the present plot was hatched. The members have now returned to Europe, but the chiefs remain in New York.

Church of England Synod.
Montreal, Sept. 19.—Nearly the whole of to-day's session of the Church of England Synod was occupied with the consideration of the scheme proposed by the General Synod at its last meeting in Winnipeg to merge the Domestic and Foreign Mission Societies of the Provincial Synod into that of the general Synod. The scheme met with strong opposition from many of the delegates, and no decision was reached by the hour of adjournment.

HERE IS A ROMANCE.

W. J. Cooley of Weston Ont., Has Canceled Marriage by His Peculiar Conduct.

Quite a sensation was caused in the village of Weston on Sunday, when it was learned that a telegram had been received from Portland, Maine, announcing that W. J. Cooley was lying in the hospital there with his throat cut and was not likely to recover. The news became the more sensational from the fact that only about two weeks ago Cooley was married by Rev. Mr. Woods to Miss Sarah Smith, who for thirty years lived with Mrs. Savage at Weston and was well spoken of and highly respected by all who knew her.

About a month ago he first made the acquaintance of Miss Smith, the friendship quickly ripened into love, and an engagement followed, which resulted in their marriage on Aug. 31. The newly married couple at once left for their home at Bolton, where Mr. Cooley has a nice home and comfortable surroundings. He was a well-to-do man, and was much respected by the village people, among whom he had spent most of his life.

Further particulars of the affair have since been learned, and so to show that he tried to end his life with a razor whilst on board the island steamer Pilgrim, and immediately afterwards jumped into Portland Bay. He was soon rescued and taken to the hospital, and yesterday the doctor in charge confidently expressed the belief that he would recover. He has a brother living in the suburbs of Boston, who has gone to his bedside, and a married sister in Toronto, who resides across the Don.

THE MURDER MYSTERY DEEPENS

Another Supposed Bridgeport Victim, a New Haven Girl, Turns up Alive at Her Home—Mrs. Nancy Guilford Has Probably Skipped to Europe—Butcher Burlison Returns.

PERSONAL IDENTITY.

There is probably not in fact a more marvelous story of mistaken identity than that in the case of the Bridgeport tragedy. Neither Poe nor any of his imitators, from Gaboriau to Conan Doyle, has been able to fabricate anything to compare with it.

A girl's mutilated body was found in the water. Two men just at that time were anxiously searching each for a missing daughter.

Both examined the murdered girl's head minutely. Each swore positively that it was the head of his missing daughter.

One of them, the father of missing Marian Grace Perkins, not only recognized a photograph of the dead girl's head, but described a minute mark that would be found over the right eye if the corpse was really that of his daughter. Nobody had observed any such mark, but upon examination it was found precisely where Mr. Perkins had said. The body was delivered to Mr. Perkins, who started home with it for burial.

Then Marian Grace Perkins arrived at home alive and well, passing on the way from the station the open grave that had been prepared to receive her and meeting at her father's door the undertaker's wagon.

The missing daughter of the other identifier has also turned up in full vigor of life.

The annals of the law are full of strange cases of mistaken identity. But we cannot recall one which so strongly illustrates as this one does the difficulty of personal identification and the danger of trusting to it where crime is concerned and human life imperiled. It would be easy to hang an innocent person upon testimony greatly weaker than that which proved so mistaken in this case.

MORE MYSTERIOUS THAN EVER.
Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 19.—The forensic developments in the Yellow Mill Pond murder mystery were of the most meagre character. The remains of the victim, now much exposed from the effects of the rain, are still above ground. Medical Examiner Downs having not yet reached a decision as to the wisdom of permitting the burial of the head, with the other dismembered portions of the corpse. The only tangible piece of information thus far obtainable to-day causes New Haven to once more loom up as a highly important centre of activity in connection with the tragedy.

Meagre developments of the morning all point to the probability that serious work is being done there on some clue that may have been discovered.

New Haven Police Busy.
New Haven, Conn., Sept. 19.—The detectives of the New Haven Police Department are busily engaged in a search for a young woman who has been missing for some time, and who may have been the victim of the Bridgeport tragedy. To a reporter of the Associated Press Capt. Cowles of the detective force said: "It is true that we are looking up a New Haven girl as a possible victim of the Yellow Mill Pond mystery. This girl, whose name I cannot disclose just now, has been missing between two and three months. She was the daughter of New Haven parents and we are told that she was in trouble at the time of her disappearance. She was about 21 years of age. She had been here before and was familiar with the streets."

Registered Under Assumed Name.
When she arrived here from Blue Hill at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon she walked out of the depot with her satchel in her hand, and without asking any questions, as to streets or hotels from any of the depot employees. The uniformed messenger who offered to carry her bag and get her a carriage remembers her well, and says she showed from her manner that she knew her way in Montreal or had been here before and was familiar with the streets.

She registered at the hotel "N. A. Goodrich, Elmira, N. Y.," retaining her own initials throughout, probably because they were printed on the trunk which she had left at the depot. She left off the prefix "Mrs.," evidently thinking thereby to throw off the searchers whom she expected to come after her.

Went to Private Boarding House.
Mrs. Guilford was followed by a little later in the depot in the baggage room in the Grand Trunk depot, and presented the check for her trunk to the baggage master. To one of the expressmen at the depot Mrs. Guilford gave her trunk check and asked him to deliver the trunk at No. 70 St. Augustin-street, which is a private boarding house just off Viger-square, and only about five minutes' walk from the hotel where she had first put up. It is run by a Frenchwoman named Mrs. M. L. Barrette, who speaks no English. There is a brass sign on the door post of the house, which probably attracted Mrs. Guilford's attention to the place. It reads, "Maison de pension, 'private,' and underneath is the translation, "Boarding house, private."

Mrs. Guilford, it was learned to-night, had previously been there and engaged a room. She told Mrs. Barrette that she came from New York and that she did not know just how long she would remain. She engaged the price of a room by the week and by the month, and finally arranged to pay at the rate of $5 a week.

Mrs. Guilford went to her room after the arrival of the trunk, but stayed but a short time. She went out between 7 and 8 o'clock and returned about 8:30 in a cab. She pretended to be much confused.

Burlison Back at Bridgeport.
Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 19.—Henry Burlison, the butcher who made such a commotion in Mattawana, N.Y., last Wednesday because of his supposed connection with the case, returned to his home here this afternoon in his famous pneumatic-tired buggy, with red running gear. He laughed at the attempts made to connect him with the mystery.

Mrs. Guilford in Montreal.
She Was Seen There, But Has Again Fitted—Gone to Europe.
Montreal, Sept. 19.—Reporters to-day traced Mrs. Nancy A. Guilford to the Place Viger Hotel here, where she had registered under an assumed name, and from there to a private boarding house on St. Denis-street.

She left the latter place at 8:30 p.m. Friday, taking her trunk with her on the driver's box, which is the last trace obtained of her up to date. She may still be in this place, or she may have taken a train for some other city. There were three trains that left here Friday night after she took her leave from the boarding house, going respectively to Chicago, Ottawa and Quebec, and intermediate points.

ANTI-COCAINE We want to emphatically state that in our new anesthetic for the painless extraction of teeth we have an innovation that is a boon to all patients. Cocaine, which is the most generally used local anesthetic, will render the patient senseless of pain, but the after effects of its use are nearly always more painful than the operation itself. Our new method employs no cocaine, and we positively agree to refund the money where any soreness or swelling of the gums is produced. Painless extraction 25c.

"ROMAN COMMISSION" GOES, But E. A. Macdonald Refused Permission to Address Council.

July Weather at the Council Board—A Royal Commission to Be Asked for, But No Names Tacked on to the Request—Street Railway Franchise to Be Looked Into.

The meeting of the City Council yesterday afternoon was a stormy one. Communications were read from W. C. Wilkinson, secretary of the Public School Board, requesting that the $5000, which accrued interest at 4 per cent, held by the city in trust, be forwarded to the Board; and from the Police Department reporting the aggregate of fines collected during the past month as $160.88.

Graham introduced a motion, seconded by Ald. Dunn, that the Council petition the Attorney-General to appoint a Royal Commission John Ross Robertson, Col. Denison, R. C. Clute, to investigate the obtaining of the Street Railway franchise.

Ald. J. J. Graham thought that the matter should be settled once and for all. He had seen letters, which, if correct, were evidence sufficient for an investigation. Ald. Leslie called the attention of Council to the fact that a committee had been appointed last June to consider the communications from Mr. E. A. Macdonald, the Harbour Commissioners refuse to do so. The matter will be investigated.

Mr. Alexander Manning wants to renew the lease of several lots on the south side of Colborne-street. The Police Iron Works complained upon the Board of Control, and complained of the low water in the slips at the eastern end of the harbor. He asked the Harbour Commissioners to do so. The matter will be investigated.

Mr. E. A. Macdonald has informed the City Council that he will object to paying the tax on areas located in front of his property. Health Officer Sheard has received requests from Windsor and Montreal for his report upon sewage.

25 WOMEN ON STRIKE
Female Operators in the Freyberg & Co. Factory Go Out on Strike—Reasons Thereof.
For the past week the firm of P. Freyberg & Co., cork manufacturers, Queen Street West, has been working with their female employees on the outside of the fence. The officials of the firm have made no strenuous efforts to bring them back, although several have returned of their own accord. The breach took place last Tuesday, when the women employees numbered about 25, picked up their tools and left. Some of them were quite dilatory, however, but on being persuaded that they would force the firm to bend they followed the leaders. The strike attracted the engaging attention of several of the firm's employees, who were brought from Montreal. The women were not action as something uncalled for, and the minute the new boss arrived the female employees walked out. On the other hand, it was claimed by the firm that Phillips was not enlisted for the purpose of being a strike breaker.

DEBS, THE

Past Grand Secretary of the B. of L.

F. Talks.

The Leader of Coxy's Army Says, 'The Future of the Race is in Monopoly by the People'—Quiet Day With Firemen—Watches Given the Local Entertainment Committee.

Eugene V. Debs a name that will arrest the attention of capitalist and laborer the world over. A socialist, as he himself says, who believes in the future of the human race more than in any victory of labor over capital, who sees mighty forces working, as foretold by the prophets of old, and is willing to leave something to time. Eugene V. Debs is in the city and may address the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, of which organization he was Grand Secretary and Treasurer for three years. Although Mr. Debs had come to bed to secure much-needed rest, The World was enabled to see him. Conducted to his room by Mr. "Booth" Thompson of Cleveland, Ohio, a knocking on the door began, which was continued for some time. Finally the door opened and a face peered out from the dark. When the guide was observed there was a joyous exclamation and a hearty invitation to come in, and into the unlighted room he stepped. The place was lighted and, in a suit of undecorated, Eugene, or Gene, as his friend called him, stood revealed. He is a large, simple, intellectual face, and a smile as sweet as any such face can break into. And of affectionate nature, he began to talk, leaning forward with the stoop of the student or the poet, though he is, to be exact, 6 feet 2 inches in height, a large, massive frame, almost the ideal build of a prize fighter, a clean-shaven face and a head to which there is only a slight shadow behind—not behind, but in his personality, the very reverse of anything like self-consciousness or sought autocracy, and almost a dreamy expression in his eyes.

With "Booth" Thompson on his right, who has been a personal friend for a score of years, Mr. Debs thought to look arms, when "Booth" thought he could help out with a word or a suggestion.

A Soliloquizing Shot.

Eugene Debs began to talk, not as a man who is giving his views to the world because he has arrived at the height where he beyond me to say, but with his arms crossed and looking generally ahead of him, or with a smile at his friend, whom he treated as a brother in the blue-gray suit, industrial system" was the keynote of all he said, though one did not always realize it, because it is not in the United States and Canada are equally culpable, but in the last analysis it is the people who have to pay.

"John Macdonald was the cleverest statesman that ever lived, along with J. G. Blaine, and both were jingoes."

"Would you call John a jingo?"

"He was; he had the characteristics of a jingo; he lived so long, and he yielded to the Democratic feeling, and he was as near as possible to a jingo. I admired him very much, but not even a decent word for protection. He tried to uphold great men with despotism. My antecedents are French, and I don't like it, but look at England's stand."

England and the World.

"The difference between England and the world is this: England says she looks the globe in her jurisdiction, and she looks at the nations as if they were a flock of sheep. The nations there—Russia and Turkey—may be a foe in a hundred years, with Russia battling for the mastery of the world, a homogeneous people, England says Crete is a coaling station in 100 years. The United States didn't know what it was to have a coaling station every month till the war came. In comparison with England's navy other navies are as cockles. You say so and so, and you'll learn here, and when England says so and so it goes. I heard a gentleman choose English passports in preference to American. If you were to go to Turkey as a correspondent, they would do this to you or that, but wherever you go as an Englishman you have the lion behind you. I don't believe in war as I don't believe in England, but the question is going to culminate in position. There's going to be more history made within the next ten years than in the last decade. There is no map at present that shows the map of Africa; not the uncertain lines between France and England. France has no business in the Sudan; neither has England—it is the march of the Anglo-Saxon, and why do we crowd them? Because we haven't enough room, do we go to Canada where opportunity? No, it is because the artificial market, made under a competitive system, has extinguished itself before it has time to culminate. The recent war of the United States with Spain was not humanitarian. The Cubans were oppressed, and the States said: 'Let us kill, but whom? The fellow who stole the American and foreign exploiters of the sugar plantations of Cuba—no, the other fellows. The purpose never was to free Cuba—it was to render it up to individual exploiters.' Some way the talk drifted to Bill Nye, the saddest life in the world, said Mr. Debs, I was in Laramie and saw the old man with his name on it in the postoffice.

He was a victim of this system; he said to Debs, this is a desperately uncertain proposition. I am working to make my wife and children comfortable for life. I have only a certain number of years, say 10 to 15, and four months later he died. He had made a world laugh for 25 years, and is now forgotten.

"Why should a man be responsible for what happens at his death? Four months after the death of Bill Nye the bank in which his savings were failed, and he finally had an income of $8 or $10 a week, a sad proposition, indeed."

"I consider," resumed the speaker, "Morgan Wood a coming man. It is only necessary to see a man once, you know."

"No, it isn't, I saw you two or three times," interrupted his friend, and Debs looked at him with a smile that said: "There is a man that is not born every day."

"Well, how often is a Debs born?" said Booth.

"Oh, once in every two years," was the reply.

Jefferson.

Then the talk shifted to Jefferson.

"Jefferson, a man of the old, but inspired by the new; the world doesn't know Jefferson yet, like the poetry of Homer. Homer wrote two poems 3000 years ago, and only within the last 3000 has been known. And he was a tramp."

"Like Sir John Macdonald, who will be remembered in the centuries?"

Mr. Debs placed his finger on his nose, and which he did frequently when just in thought.

"He was an organizer and a genius, and he has only gone to sleep—his whole policy was broad—it was going to link him with Napoleon's Prime Minister, whose name I forget. And yet no one in the States knows anything about him."

Mr. Debs referred to Tom Payne, whose grave he visited seven hours before he died. The place was kept by a man named Seed, who said, "Come in, come in; I'm against you, but I want to see you."

"And what of the Anglo-American sentiment?" was asked.

"It is bound to come, the sentiment is an inevitable part of the Anglo-American sentiment," he said.

He goes to lecture at Erie and Buffalo, and though he does not reach the latter place till Wednesday, the seats are all taken now.

Mr. V. Debs may to-day address the convention of the B. of L. F., amongst whom he has scores of friends.

The recent war of the United States with Spain was not humanitarian. The Cubans were oppressed, and the States said: 'Let us kill, but whom? The fellow who stole the American and foreign exploiters of the sugar plantations of Cuba—no, the other fellows. The purpose never was to free Cuba—it was to render it up to individual exploiters.' Some way the talk drifted to Bill Nye, the saddest life in the world, said Mr. Debs, I was in Laramie and saw the old man with his name on it in the postoffice.

He was a victim of this system; he said to Debs, this is a desperately uncertain proposition. I am working to make my wife and children comfortable for life. I have only a certain number of years, say 10 to 15, and four months later he died. He had made a world laugh for 25 years, and is now forgotten.

"Why should a man be responsible for what happens at his death? Four months after the death of Bill Nye the bank in which his savings were failed, and he finally had an income of $8 or $10 a week, a sad proposition, indeed."

"I consider," resumed the speaker, "Morgan Wood a coming man. It is only necessary to see a man once, you know."

"No, it isn't, I saw you two or three times," interrupted his friend, and Debs looked at him with a smile that said: "There is a man that is not born every day."

"Well, how often is a Debs born?" said Booth.

"Oh, once in every two years," was the reply.

Jefferson.

Then the talk shifted to Jefferson.

"Jefferson, a man of the old, but inspired by the new; the world doesn't know Jefferson yet, like the poetry of Homer. Homer wrote two poems 3000 years ago, and only within the last 3000 has been known. And he was a tramp."

"Like Sir John Macdonald, who will be remembered in the centuries?"

Mr. Debs placed his finger on his nose, and which he did frequently when just in thought.

"He was an organizer and a genius, and he has only gone to sleep—his whole policy was broad—it was going to link him with Napoleon's Prime Minister, whose name I forget. And yet no one in the States knows anything about him."

Mr. Debs referred to Tom Payne, whose grave he visited seven hours before he died. The place was kept by a man named Seed, who said, "Come in, come in; I'm against you, but I want to see you."

"And what of the Anglo-American sentiment?" was asked.

"It is bound to come, the sentiment is an inevitable part of the Anglo-American sentiment," he said.

SLATER SHOE PUBLICITY

How It Has Built a Big Business and Cut Down Expenses.

An Interesting Chat With the Ad-vertising Manager—His Opinion About Other Lines That Might Be Specialized and Advertised.

The best proof that advertising is good is results. Results consist of increased business, ergo, more profits. Thus advertising should be considered as an investment—one requiring shrewd experience and thorough knowledge of the varied and devious ways of losing money by injudicious selection of media. When considered and handled thus it is no lottery.

Three years ago the Slater Shoe was unknown. To-day it is the best known, most worn, most discussed men's shoe in Canada. It is a good article, well advertised. The Slater people see to it that they get the best media in the advertising market to tell why their shoes are the best shoes. That's the simple "cause why" of its fame. To-day most men who know a shoe ask for it; it is the first one they think of when they think of shoes. It is kept constantly under the eye of the public—they see it constantly. It is made in a big factory in Montreal, employ- ing 300 hands; it is advertised in 250 Canadian newspapers; it is sold in 240 agents—one man in each town. The present Toronto agents are the Citizens' Shoe Company, who own the Slater Shoe Store at 88 King-street west. The people in this company are Toronto and Montreal business men. The manager, Mr. William Pickles, formerly in the shoe business on Yonge-street, was selected because he was known as a man who kept his promises to the public, and would not break those of the Slater Shoe people. This company will soon open other stores in Toronto.

The Slater advertising manager, Mr. J. P. McConnell, is in town during the week of the Fair, with one of the most unique adver- tising exhibitions ever put on in this city. It consisted of a section of the Slater fac- tory transplanted to the store. The famous coolers and machines and the Chase lasting machines were there, actually making shoes. Thousands of people came in to see it. They saw done before their eyes what they could only imagine, even in reading the superb ads. of the Slater Shoe. They could under- stand why the Slater shoe is a good shoe because they saw it made. This principle permeates the Slater advertising. There is always a "because," or a "therefore," in their ads. They're logical.

A World reporter asked Mr. McConnell about how much the Slater advertising had benefited his firm.

"That's a pretty long story," he replied; "because the Slater people have had so many benefits. In the first place, they have become specialists. You know they used to make everything, just like most other fac- tories. Now they make but one kind of shoes—you know what kind. And half of them have had to travel, doing half as much travelling, and doing twice as much business as formerly. Instead of carrying over $200,000 and $300,000 worth of stock, as formerly, they don't carry any of it at all now. You or I would like to have for an income the saving effected in the set-on investment. These are the accumula- tion of big stocks in this particular alone. As you can see, this loss had to be made up in the price the goods sold. Just as up in the Slater shoe, not only shoes, but every line, where they are at the mercy of dealers, have to do. Then our losses in bad debts have shrunk to less than a tenth of 1 per cent. Not many monetary institu- tions, I venture, can say as much."

"But how did advertising bring this about?"

"Oh, I'm coming to that. You see most manufacturers are content to make a con- nection with the dealer, and let the dealer do the rest. But the Slater people have a deciding inter- est in the matter. We recognize this, and we go right to him, through the newspaper, and tell him about the best method. It is the best shoe in Canada. Any dealer who won't want to sell that shoe under these circumstances usually has a gold in his hand, and a grape vine in the backyard. But as a rule they are all anxious to get it to sell. As we sell to only one house in each town, we naturally select the best method. It is likely to keep the promises we make to the public, and his financial responsi- bility must be good. Hence our small bad debt losses."

"Why don't other manufacturers sell shoes on this system?"

"I think that is it because there is already a well-known shoe in the market, and some difficulties in the way," he replied. "I think there are a lot of lines that could be specialized in this way. A ladies' shoe would find a big waiting market for an advertised specialty, and shoes are more easily promoted, because women, as you know, are the great ad readers. A line of corsets ought to do well if they get at the merits and the quality properly explained. In men's goods we already have a big success. The prominence which they have attained shows that Slater Shoe success is not a streak of luck. It's all due to down- right shrewdness and tact in having the right goods and the proper kind of pub- licity. Don't be surprised to hear of a line of ladies' mantles, jackets and skirts being brought out soon. A deal is now pending, and someone will likely be in the market for spring with them. Then there is talk of lines of men's suits and shirts. There is also a big field for furniture, and any other article with merit and for which there is a field in the general market. You will please take note of the fact that a field can be created by advertising."

"But where could advertising experts, with the necessary knowledge of the lines you speak of be secured?"

"If an advertising man understands the principles of good advertising, he can apply them to any saleable article. If he cannot get at the merits of an article, the same as a lawyer in a case, he cannot be suc- cessful. Three quarters of advertising suc- cess consists in learning first, what are the distinguishing points of the goods to be advertised. After that he must tell them in an attractive and impressive manner, with- out deviating from the facts. The adver- tising done to-day is so much balderdash; for it makes broad, sweeping state- ments, which may or may not be true, and leaves out the very things the purchaser wants to know."

"What media do you most generally use for the Slater ads?"

"The newspapers," he replied simply. "Nothing else."

"Nothing to speak of. A general adver- tiser, who is like a man who can do more effective work in the newspapers than any other medium I know of. Programs, posters and the like are all so far as they go, we leave those things alone, and stick to the newspapers. Of course, we have ad- vertising done in the newspapers, but these are advertised in the newspapers. We believe it better to get people to ask for our literature than to force it on them. We have sometimes as many as a hundred applications for catalogs in a single day's mail."
