ANNUAL REPORT.

In presenting their Report for 1875, the Managers of the House of Industry have pleasure in stating that, although the demands upon their resources during that period were unusually heavy, they have, with the assistance kindly afforded by the public, been able to extend their operations in a corresponding ratio.

Established in 1837 (previous to which time the poor of Toronto must have been relieved entirely by private charity), the progress of the Institution has been most encouraging: according to the Report of Mr. Langmuir, Government Inspector, who made his statutory visit in September last, it is, and has for some time been, "the model Institution of the kind in the Province." This satisfactory state of affairs has been attained by a rigid adherence to the system adopted by the founders of the charity; the Managers have merely maintained and developed the principles established by their predecessors; to this end they have been most ably and efficiently assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Duckett, the Superintendent and Matron.

During the past season, various improvements, much required, have been effected about the premises: the city water has been laid on; a brick shed constructed in the yard, affording space for fuel, also for a root and vegetable cellar and carpenter's shop. The bathing and lavatory arrangements have been greatly improved, and the kitchen removed from the basement to the rear extension; the drainage has been thoroughly and effectively repaired.

The Managers feel bound in duty to remonstrate, respectfully but energetically, against the operation of the "Charity Aid Act, 1874," by which their annual Government grant has been reduced from $3,000 to $2,143.89 for the year 1876. The distribution of the Government allowance is, it seems, based upon the number of inmates of an institution; this distinction must, of course, tell against the House of Industry, whose inmates may, indeed, be fewer than those of other institutions, but whose field of labour is the city at large. It may be well for political economists to consider whether this Province already requires the overgrown almshouses of the old world, or whether it would not be better to aid the poor in maintaining their little homesteads, thus keeping their families together, checking pauperism, and cherishing that spirit of independence natural to every man, and which, under a Government like ours, is one of the surest guarantees of the welfare of both State and subject.

The apprehension of a long and severe winter, entertained at the commencement of the present season, has happily, thus far, proved baseless; there is, however, much suffering among the poor, arising chiefly from want of employment. The quantity of bread distributed by the House already nearly equals the entire distribution of last year, and the demand for that necessary article is continually increasing. To remove all cause for complaints of delay in the granting of relief, the following resolutions were recently adopted, and sent for publication to the four leading daily papers:—

"That to meet the present cases of distress in the city, it be ordered that any person applying for relief, who is recommended by a member of the Board, or one of the visitors, shall at once receive temporary relief from the Superintendent, without waiting for the customary visitation; such case to be subsequently visited; that additional visitors, where necessary, be forthwith appointed; that persons visiting deserving poor be hereby invited to send the names and addresses of all such to the House, or to any member of the Board, or to the Ward Visitor; and that the names of the Managers and Ward Visitors be published for the information of the public."

To enable the Managers to meet this increased demand upon their resources, some charitable friends have generously supplemented their donations; these have been duly acknowledged in the public prints, and will be applied entirely to the ordinary purposes of the House. In connection with this subject, the Managers may be permitted to observe that money is never invested unless devised expressly for that object; their anxious desire is, scrupulously to apply every benefaction to the known wish of the donor.

In conclusion, the Managers reverently hope, that as Divine Providence has kindly watched over the infancy and maturity of the Institution, it may become, in all respects, worthy of His benign favour in the future.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

In presenting my annual report I have to congratulate the Committee on the completion of the much needed alterations and improvements in connection with the House.

I have long felt, and several times drawn attention to the fact, that the storage of large quantities of vegetables in the centre of the building, and the use of water from a well anything but pure; must add largely to the sick list in any community, and especially among such a population as ours, where, with the utmost care and watchfulness, it is almost impossible to enforce even ordinary personal cleanliness. And I have every reason to believe that the erection of the new building which provides ample room for the storage of vegetables, coal, and other requisites, a comfortable work shop, and Porter's lodge, and a pleasant arcade made for the old men, with the introduction of an abundant supply of good water, and the removal of the kitchens, lavatories, and laundry, to convenient positions, well drained and ventilated, outside the main building, must conduce very materially to the comfort and good health of all parties connected with the institution

Many of the inmates are old and very infirm, thoroughly broken down in health, and some have been long bedridden, and yet only seven have died during the past year, while the deaths for eighteen years previous to 1874, have averaged 19.72 annually.

Respectfully submitted.

UZZIEL OGDEN, M.D.
