INEXPENSIVE NETS MAKE FASHIONABLE EVENING DRESSES.

A very modish evening dress may be made of those white and colored nets, at a comparatively small cost. Some sort of a foundation dress is necessary, of course, and this may be in white or color. Very pretty effects are possible with white net over linings of delicate pink and blue silk. The lining need not be costly; in fact, it were better to choose the softer China or Japanese silks, priced within the range of the average purse. This little dress with its hip and figure, evokings in the skirt of white net over white China silk. The baby waist with its net yoke embellished with rosette embroidery in delicate pastel tints is joined to the skirt beneath the crush belt of white satin ribbon. The sleeves are full puffs to the elbow, corded crosswise as a means of extension, and over these is a Japanese drapery corded on both edges, and trimmed like the yoke.

The story of the Kansas, if told in the newspapers, would have aroused the interest of the world.

The story of the Kansas, as told in the new novel by Louis Tracy, is an inspiration, a masterpiece of characterization, enveloped in a great story. You will search long for a more enchanting evening's entertainment than is furnished by Tracy's account of what happened on the Kansas!

The CAPTAIN of the KANSAS

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or grippe with "Preventics" is sure relief for pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break or head of these early colds. That's why they're called Preventics. Preventics are little candy coated lozenges. No quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe for you, too. If you're sick, if you're all over, think of Preventics. If you're well, think of Preventics. They're the best thing you can have for your throat. And don't forget your child. If you're a busy mother, insist on your druggist giving you Preventics. Insist on your druggist giving you Preventics.

EVENING STORY-- A PROPHECY

Peikka Takunen stood on a flat rock at the restless sea, which for centuries has thrown itself against Finland's granite shores. Every now and then a wave wet his feet, but he did not mind it. His thoughts were far away and his eyes stared anxiously across the breakers until he at last discovered a small black point far out. His face cleared, and when he was quite sure it was Lars Ljuster's boat he sought a sheltered spot, where he laid down and awaited his return.

He knew that Martha had gone out with her father, and today he would not let her out of his sight. Not today nor any of the following days, for something strange had happened to him.

Superstition is in the blood of the Finns from their birth, and Peikka was a frequent visitor to the old fortune teller, Aino Hattulan, who lived at the other end of the village.

The day before he had been at her house. She had laughed and talked as usual, but all of a sudden she had become silent, and had sat staring out into the air. Peikka had not dared to interrupt her. Then she looked at him with an expression of unusual sadness in her old eyes, and had taken hold of his shoulder, saying:

"I cannot quite see it, but some misfortune is hanging over the head of Lars Ljuster's Martha. Death is coming to her—through some man. Watch her, watch her!"

Peikka turned quite pale and clenched his fists. He arose from the chair.

"Tell me how this man looks," he asked, breathlessly.

"That I cannot tell you. He stood as in a fog, and had his back toward me."

"Did you see it?" he asked in a whisper.

"Yes, I saw it," she replied.

Suddenly he stopped. It had occurred to him that Martha might not be going along, and it was not for the sake of the calf that he put on his best clothes. But Martha was to go along after all. She had to carry the milk. The calf had been bought nearly two weeks before by Johann Djero, Lars Ljuster's wealthy nephew in Ebo.

So the three set out together. Martha in front, carrying the milk, and after her the two men, carrying the calf in a great basket.

They walked along in silence. Then Martha said: "Are you quite sure Johann will be at home, all that way?"

"If I were not, do you suppose I would carry the calf all that way?" replied Lars.

"I only ask because I have a strange feeling that nothing good will come from this trip," said Martha, wistfully.

Lars did not seem to hear her words, but Peikka did, and an expression of terror came into his eyes.

Johann Djero received them very cordially. He was always glad to see company. It gave him the opportunity to take an extra glass. He did not like to drink alone, but often did, for he must have his "Braundevin" (whiskey). He did not like to have women around, though an old woman came every day to cook and sweep his rooms.

She had just been there and put the coffee pot over the fire, but now Martha took a hand and soon they were all seated at the table.

As soon as the meal was over, the men began to drink "Braundevin," and while it did not take much of the fiery liquor to make Johann begin to boast and brag, there was no limit to what he could drink. But the most he drank the more bitter and exasperating did he get, and he enjoyed nothing better than to tease others until they did not know what they were doing.

He sat at the end of the table in a great wooden armchair, in which he always remained until he again grew sober, for long before his wife were gone he lost control of his legs, and when he had company he always drank until he fell asleep.

Peikka was silent. He thought of the prophecy while the two old men were quarrelling, and did not even listen to them. Martha had gone to the kitchen. Suddenly Peikka was aroused from his thoughts. The voices of the two grew louder.

"You are a cowardly cur, Lars."

"Say that once more and I—"

"You are a cowardly cur, and have been a coward all your life!"

"Will you shut up, or—"

"Not for a man like you, who are not even the father of your own daughter."

Lars jumped to his feet in an instant. "I will make you pay for those words," Pale as a sheet he picked up the bottle and was about to throw it at Johann's head, when it fell from his grip, and with a groan he sank to the floor.

The horse scared Martha, who came rushing in from the kitchen.

Peikka lifted Lars up and laid him on the long bench near the window.

Johann retained nothing. He picked up the bottle and filled his coffee cup with "Braundevin" and emptied it in one gulp.

"Stay with father, Peikka, while I run for the doctor," sobbed Martha, and before Peikka could protest she was gone.

Peikka looked out. It was nearly midnight and very dark. It was uncanny in the room. Johann sat in his chair, snoring. His eyes were open and glassy, however. On the floor Lars was groaning as if in great pain. His eyes also were open and without any expression, his lips moved, but no articulated sound came from them. Peikka stood looking at him for a moment. Then all of a once it was as if an icy hand crushed his breast. The prophesy—Martha was alone outside in the darkness. A deadly terror overcame him. If he ran across the field he might perhaps overtake her at the grave yard. He rushed out. He must see her and protect her. He ran like a hunted deer.

He reached the graveyard, sprang across the wall and stood a moment listening. His heart was beating violently, a gust of wind tore the hat from his head and carried it off. He could hear nothing. Then he rushed across the graveyard and jumped over the wall on the opposite side. He landed close to Martha, who with a cry of terror fell into the deep ditch on the other side of the road.

"Martha—Martha—Martha!" he cried in despair.

She did not answer.

He tried to raise her up. Her head fell back limp—she had broken her neck.

Then Peikka Takunen howled like a wounded wolf. He tore his breast with his nails, his clothes from his body, and like a man insane he ran howling into the darkness.

The next day Rumsala and Ebo were in a state of terrible excitement. Martha Ljuster had been found with broken neck and wound on the back of her head near the wall of the graveyard. On the stamped dirt of her little hut by Aino Hattulan with her head crushed. Peikka Takunen had disappeared.

A few days later when Martha Ljuster was carried to her grave a huge maven was seen circling around the flat rock where Peikka had stood looking for the boat. Then it swooped down upon his body which the sea had washed up.—Philadelphia Evening Record.

The meeting adjourned until the call of the chair.

FAMOUS BALL PLAYER DIES A PAUPER.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 27.—"Eddie" Burke, a man who was at one time one of the most noted professional baseball players in this country, and for several seasons a member of the New York Giants, passed away at the general hospital in this city today, practically friendless and absolutely penniless.

The former star player had not been in the game for the past seven or eight years and things had not been going so well with him as they were when he was known by reputation in all parts of the country. Burke had been in this vicinity for more than a year past, and for a time had been employed as a cook for one of the section gangs on the New York Central railroad.

Frances McInerney, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. McInerney, has been taken ill with pneumonia in the Sacred Heart Convent, Halifax, where she is attending school. Mrs. McInerney has been with her since Monday and the doctor left by last night's train. Word yesterday was that she was progressing favorably.

MOVE FOR DIRECTOR

Good Roads Association Passes Resolution Asking Council to Appoint Public Works Director at Once.

The meeting of the St. John City and County Good Roads Association, in the board of trade rooms last night, was attended by about sixty men. A good deal of interesting discussion on the state of the streets of the city and the roads, leading around the flat rock where Peikka had stood looking for the boat. Then it swooped down upon his body which the sea had washed up.—Philadelphia Evening Record.

"Resolved, that in the opinion of this meeting it is important that the common council should, as soon as possible, appoint an official to take charge of the public works department. While economy is most desirable, it should not be practiced to the detriment of the public service, and sufficient salary should be paid to secure a thoroughly competent man, a man with a complete knowledge of street making according to modern methods, and possessed of executive ability to direct the work. Even if the salary expense should be larger than in the past it is desirable that such an official be procured in the interests of the public service."

W. F. Burditt, the president of the association, was in the chair and read an interesting and instructive paper on the subject of good roads.

THE SCOTT ACT IS NOT ENFORCED AT HAMPTON

Correspondent Writes Complaining Bitterly of Conditions in Hampton Station and Village.

The failure to enforce the Scott Act at Hampton Station and Village is a source of much complaint on the part of residents. A correspondent writes: "At Hampton Station last Saturday midnight a number of men—some belonging to the crowd that are getting out Christmas trees to ship to the States, and others from this vicinity—were so drunk and noisy that the night operator sent for the sheriff, who, with his deputy, soon arrived. Even they had difficulty in quieting matters, but they finally did. Part of the crowd went towards the village shouting and yelling all the way in the early Sunday hours.

WEDDINGS. Caldwell-Thorne. At the residence of Rev. Angus A. Graham, pastor of St. David's Presbyterian church, Thursday, Robert E. Caldwell, of Middlesex, S. B., and Miss Mott Alward Thorne, of Havelock, Kings county (N. B.), were married by Rev. Mr. Graham.

Worrell-Kenred. A pretty and interesting wedding occurred at St. John, Wednesday, the contracting parties being Mabel Louise Kenred, daughter of Albert Kenred, of Rexford, Kent county (N. B.), and Thomas E. Worrell, son of Alexander Worrell, 127 Wright street. The ceremony, which was witnessed by only immediate relatives, was performed by Epw. A. Graham.

OBITUARY. Miss Mary McNally. The death occurred at the general public hospital this morning of Miss Mary McNally, a member of the nursing staff. Miss McNally was about 30 years of age and was a daughter of Michael McNally of Fredericton. On Tuesday she was operated on for appendicitis but the operation was unsuccessful and she passed away this morning.

Mrs. James Logan. Relatives in St. John have received word of the death of Mrs. Logan, widow of James Logan, formerly of St. John, which occurred on Nov. 19 in Seattle (Wash.). Mr. Logan was a member of the grocery firm of Logan & Lindsay, so well remembered here. Mrs. Logan had been living for some years in Seattle, where her husband was teaching in the public schools. Many in St. John will be sorry to learn of her death.

Mrs. Margaret T. Stackhouse. The death of Mrs. Margaret T. Stackhouse, widow of ex-Judge Stackhouse, of an old and respected resident of Carleton, took place on Wednesday evening. She had been ill only a few days. Her husband was a member of the grocery firm of Logan & Lindsay, so well remembered here. Mrs. Logan had been living for some years in Seattle, where her husband was teaching in the public schools. Many in St. John will be sorry to learn of her death.

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B., FRIDAY NOVEMBER 29, 1907

The Evening Times. ST. JOHN, N. B., NOVEMBER 29, 1907. The St. John Evening Times is published at 21 and 23 Canterbury street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd. A company, incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

THE EVENING TIMES, THE DAILY TELEGRAPH. New Brunswick's Independent newspapers. These newspapers advocate British connection. Honesty in public life. Measures for the material progress and moral advancement of our great Dominion. No graft! No deals! "The Thistle, Shamrock, Rose entwine, The Maple Leaf forever."

IN COLCHESTER Colchester, N. S., has declared its adhesion to the Halifax platform of Mr. Borden. The result of this contest is very significant. It breaks the solid Liberal ranks in Nova Scotia. It marks for Mr. Fielding a distinct loss of prestige. It gives the greatest encouragement to Conservatives all over Canada. The finance minister and four other members of parliament spoke in support of the Liberal candidate. Their combined efforts failed. The immediate effect of this victory will be a great revival of confidence among Nova Scotia Conservatives, who had already been greatly encouraged by the announcement that Sir Hibbert Tupper would be one of their leaders in the next campaign. When the solid Liberal ranks can be broken in a by-election, with the odds greatly in favor of the government candidate, it is obvious that in the next general election many more breaches will be made in those ranks. Following the great reception given to Mr. Borden at Ottawa comes the news of the Colchester victory. It is Mr. Borden's turn to be cheerful, and that of Mr. Fielding to look to his defenses.

PROVINCIAL POLITICS There is a growing opinion that if New Brunswick is to have a change of government and get away from the undesirable political entanglements of a score of years the time is not far distant. In other words, the sign point to an early dissolution of the legislature. It is evident that up to a recent date Premier Robinson had not made up his mind, but later developments point to dissolution rather than a session. The practical abandonment of the highway act is an evidence of panic in the government ranks, due partly to Mr. Hazen's successful tour, but more particularly to a conviction that the people will not endure present conditions any longer. It is clear that before the elections take place the government must pay particular attention to the selection of candidates in St. John, Kings and some other constituencies, and that the path is by no means strewn with roses. Hon. Dr. Pugsley has not proved as clever a leader as was anticipated, and this adds to the difficulties of Premier Robinson. The opposition, on the other hand, was never more united or aggressive, and the coming banquet to Mr. Hazen will no doubt reveal a degree of party enthusiasm which will do much to hearten and stimulate his supporters throughout the province.

SCHOOLS AND DISEASE A report which Dr. Laberge, city bacteriologist, makes to the health committee of Montreal foreshadows an important forward step in the matter of medical inspection of schools. We quote from the Montreal Star: "The report will ask that the committee vote ten thousand dollars in order that a better school inspection can be given. At present the city only gives six thousand to this purpose. It will also be asked in the report that the city shall be divided into medical school districts. To each district a medical inspector will be appointed. His duty will be to give attention to every scholar in the district. But the most drastic reform suggested in the report is that the city shall have a fine display of holiday goods, and the early buyer is generally the most cheerful citizen when the festive season arrives."

Referring to the agitation in British Columbia in favor of the establishment of a Dominion naval militia, Collier's Weekly says: "It would be a wholesome branch of the government; it would stimulate Dominion patriotism, and do more than perhaps any other instrument could do to bring Canada before the nations of the world as a potent factor in world politics." A good time to do Christmas shopping is several weeks before Christmas. The purchaser then has time to select and the clerks have time to devote to individual customers. Already many St. John stores have a fine display of holiday goods, and the early buyer is generally the most cheerful citizen when the festive season arrives. Hon. Mr. Emmerson has evidently decided to get into the parliamentary game at the earliest possible stage. His friend Dr. Pugsley may be the New Brunswick leader and Mr. Graham may be minister of railways, but Mr. Emmerson proposes to have the first word on the subject of intercolonial branch railways and extension westward. The Sun report says there were cheers for Dr. Pugsley in the house yesterday, and more cheering for Mr. Graham. The cheers for Mr. Emmerson are not recorded. No such omission would have been noticeable a year ago.

BOOMING MONTREAL "The population of Montreal, including its suburbs, now approaches half a million. There are those who predict that within ten years it will be a million. The present rate of increase would bring it to three quarters of a million in that time, for we are adding a city the size of Vancouver every year. There is no city that has a more glowing future." These are the opening sentences of a proclamation, signed by scores of the leading captains of finance, which is printed on the first page of an industrial edition of the Montreal Witness, issued on Tuesday. The Witness has made arrangements with over thirty United States newspapers to reproduce the supplement in its entirety with a regular issue of their journals, so that the facts set forth concerning Montreal will have a very wide circulation. This 16-page supplement gives comprehensive figures relating to the city, its population, property, general facilities, and business. Each branch of its industrial and commercial life is treated in a brief and comprehensive way. A mere quotation of some headlines will illustrate the character of the issue. Among these are: A Vast and Growing Business in Lumber. Remarkable Scope and Diversity of Metallic Industries. Amazing Progress in Electrical Manufacturing. Transportation Facilities Such as No Other City can Offer. Greatest Ship Channel in the World. Flour Mills Among the Wonders of the Dominion. Centre of Dairy Export Trade. Stock Yards Most Complete East of Chicago. New Buildings Last Year Valued at $16,000,000. Wire Ropes Turned by the Mile. Dynamite Made by the Carload. Thousands Employed in Making Rubber Goods. Grain Elevating and Storage a Big Feature. New Locomotive Every Day in the Year. Headquarters for Insurance Interests. Making of Cotton Fabrics Brings Millions to Montreal. Over 100 Railway Cars a Day. Abattoirs and Packing Houses. World's Biggest Fur Trading and Manufacturing Firm. Boot and Shoe Factories Cover Acres of Ground, etc., etc.

The wide publication of such a supplement, illustrated as it is with handsome views, appropriate to the text, must prove of benefit to the city. It is entirely different from the usual commercial edition issued for profit, and pursues the method adopted by the St. John board of trade in its recent publication relating to this city.

There is a humorous aspect to last evening's session of the civic treasury board. It would almost appear that the humble reporter is the most serious obstacle in the path of the aldermen. And yet the reporter has no desire to report, nor the papers to print, anything that is not said, or anything said which if published would be prejudicial to the city's interests. A very good motto at City Hall would be "Trust the Reporters." There will be no trouble between the city's representatives and the papers unless it is made by the former.

The God Roads Association asks the city council to appoint a director of public works, and the provincial government to appoint a road expert for the province. With regard to the city council, that body should either appoint a director or tell why it fails to do so. If there is to be a reorganization of the departments the proposed plan should be submitted for public consideration.

A leading American weekly journal says: "The country is certainly giving signs of movement toward the conviction that saloons as they exist in the United States are the source of great and many evils. A usual answer is talk about personal liberty; but the boundaries of freedom are drawn by consequences. Personal liberty does not give to the individual unchecked indulgence in opium or cocaine." Referring to the agitation in British Columbia in favor of the establishment of a Dominion naval militia, Collier's Weekly says: "It would be a wholesome branch of the government; it would stimulate Dominion patriotism, and do more than perhaps any other instrument could do to bring Canada before the nations of the world as a potent factor in world politics." A good time to do Christmas shopping is several weeks before Christmas. The purchaser then has time to select and the clerks have time to devote to individual customers. Already many St. John stores have a fine display of holiday goods, and the early buyer is generally the most cheerful citizen when the festive season arrives. Hon. Mr. Emmerson has evidently decided to get into the parliamentary game at the earliest possible stage. His friend Dr. Pugsley may be the New Brunswick leader and Mr. Graham may be minister of railways, but Mr. Emmerson proposes to have the first word on the subject of intercolonial branch railways and extension westward. The Sun report says there were cheers for Dr. Pugsley in the house yesterday, and more cheering for Mr. Graham. The cheers for Mr. Emmerson are not recorded. No such omission would have been noticeable a year ago.

THE WORLD'S SORROW The quarrelling of the sparrows in the eaves. The fall round moon and the star-laden sky. And the loud song of the ever-singing leaves Had hid away earth's old and bitter cry. And then you came, with those red mournful lips. And with you came the whole of the world's tears. And all the sorrow of her laboring ships. And all the burden of her myriad years.

IN LIGHTER VEIN PARTICULARS WANTING. (Atlanta Constitution.) "The mule kicked him sky high," says a Georgia ditty, "but we have no word as to whether he broke in or not."

AN EXPERT. (From Life.) Mrs. Hatterson—"Is Mrs. Witherby a good bridge player?" Mrs. Catterson—"The best one in our church."

A GOOD DAY FOR DUCKS. (Illustrated Bites.) "Bah! I thought you said this was a good day for ducks." "So it has been. We haven't hurt any of them, have we?"

NO PLACE TO DIE. (Hunting Post.) The soldier of the Legion lay dying in Algeria. A committee of citizens, who wanted to boom Algeria as a health resort, waited upon him. "We want you to change your headquarters," announced they. "You're hurting business here."

VARIOUS HUNTERS. De Hunter—"Well, it's just this way. The man who can go out hunting day after day and not get whether he gets anything or not has the right stuff in him." De Gunter—"Yes, especially when he's hunting for work, eh?"

PREFERRED AGE. "Yes," said the old man, addressing his visitor, "I am proud of my girls and should like to see them all comfortably married, and as I have a little money they won't go to their husbands penniless. There's Margaret, 25 years old, and a real good girl. I shall give her a thousand pounds when she marries. Then comes Bell, who won't see 35 again, and she'll have two thousand, and the man who takes Dora, who is 40, will have three thousand with her." The young man reflected a moment or so and then nervously enquired:—"You haven't one about 50, have you?"—The Tatler.

HOW HATS CAUSE BALDNESS They Make the Scalp a Hothouse for Microbes and Retard Circulation. There is every reason to believe that primitive man had a thick and abundant head of hair, and that this natural clothing of the scalp is diminishing among civilized peoples, and will end by disappearing altogether, which would certainly not be advantageous from an esthetic point of view. The cause of this disappearance of the hair, according to the doctors, must be sought in the very conditions of civilization and in the customs it has introduced. One of the customs especially hurtful to the hair is the hat, and, above all, the masculine hat; so we see man's hair suffer more than woman's. The hat produces baldness by two different methods. First, by creating about the head an atmosphere which is fatally warm and moist, and which prevents the penetration of the rays of light that are so fatal to bacteria; the hat makes for the microbes a sort of improvised hothouse, which is extremely favorable to their development, and it is known that microbes play an important part in the production of baldness. If it had been desirable to foster the existence of microbes capable of living upon the scalp or in the hair, a more favorable means for their protection and multiplication than the hat could not have been found. Again, the hat, holding its place upon the head solely by pressure, exerts a second pernicious influence upon the scalp; it compresses the arteries and the veins; it impedes the circulation of the blood and, consequently, the nutrition of the organs which produce the hair. It is, therefore, doubly desirable that the reign of the hat should be ended, in the case of men—for with women the hat is so light a thing that it can exert only a trifling proportion of the ravages it is responsible for in men—and that this garment should be renounced or replaced by some less injurious article. As a matter of fact, men who wear hats with bare heads. The hair would be strengthened and would serve as a hat; it would only be necessary to protect the head against the rays of the sun in summer, in order to avoid sun-stroke. It is true the public imagines that it would catch cold more easily, but this is a mistake, a draught alone is not enough to give cold; a microbe is absolutely necessary. With lighter, well-ventilated hats, that will not compress the blood vessels in the scalp, which more cleanliness in our barber shops and with the intelligent use of Herpicide or some other dandruff germ destroyer, there is no reason why modern man should be far behind his primitive ancestor in the matter of natural head covering.

The Fat Man (at skating pond)—"Can I skate here?" The keeper of the Lake—"No, sir. The ice is thin and we only allow thin people on it."

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT

Dr. Pugsley Introduced—Mr. Emmerson Gives Notice of Motion Re-taking Over I. C. R. Branch Lines.

Truro, N. S., Nov. 28.—Never since the days of 1877 when the "war horse of Cumberland" struck terror into the Liberal ranks and captured seat after seat from the Mackenzie government, has such a staggering blow been struck at an administration as was struck in Colchester today. This was the situation: A government entrenched with a majority of over sixty in the house, a majority from every province in the dominion except Ontario, a solid delegation of eighteen from Nova Scotia, and having captured Colchester by 194 majority at the last federal election. With the tremendous influence and patronage of the federal and provincial government and with the grand figure of Hon. W. S. Peadar, the conservative candidate, John Standfield, is elected by a majority of at least 198 over Charles Hill the nominee of the Liberal party.

The town of Truro gave Standfield a majority of 274 and the Acadia Mines sections between them gave Standfield 159. Standfield was the farmers candidate and yet he has only been able to hold his own out in the country, while in Truro he was beaten badly. Hill polled a big vote in Lower Annapolis, where he was a resident and which, at the last election, gave 31 majority for the Conservative candidate. The vote was large, being only 195 less than at the general election when Laurier was elected by 191 majority. No less than five Liberal members of parliament, a half dozen local members and a great crowd of workers were in the country in the Liberal interest.

GOOD SHOW AT THE NICKEL

Daintiness, weirdness, ancient fiction and modern realism will be the chief characteristics of the Nickel's new show for today and Saturday; a programme that will not offend the most exacting and special request of old and young alike. The Mysterious Boudoir is a charming novelty in which pretty figures appearing in Milledie's dressing mirror; Some Weird Fancies is a strikingly new genre in motion photography, being a maze of ever-changing pictures most effectively tinted. All Bats and The Party Thieves is a long enactment of that famous tale from the Arabian Nights Entertainment by several distinct character parts.

TWO OLD EMPLOYEES OF TROOP AND SON DIED YESTERDAY

Captain Edwin J. Fritz and Henry Raven Passed Away Almost Together.

Two men who for a long time had been in the employ of Troop & Son, shipping merchants, died Thursday—Captain Edwin J. Fritz and Henry Raven.

Henry Raven, for 40 years a trustee of Troop & Son, died at his home, 228 Prince William Street, Thursday evening. He had acted for twenty years as watchman of the property of the firm, and then for the last twenty years he had been janitor of the Troop building, where he resided. He possessed not only the confidence of his employers, but of a large circle of friends, who will be sorry to hear of his death. Mr. Raven is survived by his wife, one daughter, Emma, at home, and two sons, George, in Pictou, and William at home. The funeral will take place from the family residence, 116 Ludlow street, Saturday afternoon, at 2.30.

HARKINS NEXT WEEK

The W. S. Harkins Company will begin an engagement at the Opera House Monday night with a production of the English domestic play Squid Kate, by Finero. It is thoroughly English in theme, construction and character. The comedy is created by several distinct character parts, and Miss Van Duser has a strong emotional role, and Orson Dunn will play the part of "Gaffer Kingsley" of the Warren, one of the strongest character parts ever written.

Dequire Kate ran an entire season in New York with Miss George Cayvan, and the celebrated character actor, Mr. LeMoine, in the leading roles.

ST. JOHN MAN SAYS HE IS A

Robert C. Cartwright Found Badly Frozen in Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 28.—Robert C. Cartwright, 25 years old, who says he arrived here last Saturday morning from St. John (N. B.), was today found lying in a barn on the outskirts of this city with both feet frozen and weak from not having had food for four days.

Cartwright, who is now in the general hospital, said his home was in London (Eng.), but that he had been in this country for 18 months, most of which time was spent in St. John.

He finally left there in search of work, but on arrival in Montreal could find little to do, so he went to St. John to try and find employment as a farm hand and towards evening went into the barn, in which he was afterwards found, for shelter. He went to sleep weak to walk out, but he found himself too weak to get up and called for help, but it was not till today that assistance reached him.

A ST. JOHN NURSE IS MARRIED IN NEW YORK

Elvira Belyea, Formerly of West End, Becomes Wife of James D. Rockhill.

New York, Nov. 28.—Elvira Belyea, a trained nurse, graduate of the Woman's Hospital, and James D. Rockhill, formerly a chauffeur for Edward R. Ryan, of the Manhattan hotel, were married at Bath Beach on Friday, and are now at the Hotel Belmont.

"Reports in the papers that we eloped are untrue, as we have intended to be married for some time, and all our friends knew of the ceremony, which was performed Friday," said Mrs. Rockhill, to a reporter for the Times last night.

The bride is said to be Miss Elvira Belyea, whose home is in Carleton, and who graduated a few years ago from the General Public Hospital here as a trained nurse. Several members of the family are resident in the city.

E. W. Lewis

Moncton, N. B., Nov. 28.—Word was received of the death of E. W. Lewis, principal of the Campbell school, which occurred this afternoon in Royal Victoria Hospital at Montreal. Mr. Lewis was taken ill with stomach trouble in the school two or three days ago, and was taken to Montreal Wednesday night, being operated upon last night.

News of his death came as a shock to his friends who had no intimation of his critical illness. Deceased was a son of the late W. J. Lewis, of Moncton and has been principal of the Campbell school the past ten years. He was forty-three years of age and is survived by a widow, formerly Miss Harsbarran, of Moncton, and three children. One sister, Miss Bertha Lewis, resides in Moncton (N.B.).

The R. K. Y. C. opened the winter season last evening with an enjoyable smoker which was attended by many members. Commodore Thomson presided. An excellent programme was rendered. Those taking part included: A. Chip Ritchie, D. B. Pidgeon, S. C. Matthews, H. J. Rowan and K. E. McDonald. John Froehman furnished phonographic music. Refreshments were served, the catering being done by Frank White. A very pleasant time was spent.

Norwegian steamer—Havn, Captain Olsen, arrived last evening with a cargo of coal from Philadelphia for the C. P. R.

CONSERVATIVES CAPTURE ELECTION IN COLCHESTER

Liberal Administration Sharply Rebuked --Stanfield Has Majority of 198 Over Hill Representing a Turnover of 400 Votes Since 1904.

THE EVERY DAY CLUB

Interesting Debate on Propriety of Women in Barrooms Was Highly Enjoyed.

The debate in the Every Day Club hall last evening was decided in favor of the side which argued that women may, with equal propriety, stand at a bar with men and drink liquor. The judges were Mr. Brown, Joseph Reicker and H. McCavour. Messrs. Belding, S. P. McCavour, Witterton and Brown supported the affirmative, and Messrs. Tait, McLaughlin, Sheppard and Othier the negative. The leaders spoke ten and the other speakers five minutes each. The discussion was lively and the interest keen.

Next Thursday night Messrs. Othier and Witterton will lead, with half a dozen or more men on each side, to discuss the question of the relative importance of the farmer and the mechanic in any country. Several new members will enter the lists. Interest in these debates is rapidly growing.

POLICE COURT

Martin Dalton was fined $4 or ten days and Thomas Courtney $8 or twenty days also for drunkenness.

BURIED TODAY

Funeral of George Fairweather Held This Afternoon.

With the funeral today from his home Broad street at 2:30 o'clock closed the last act in the tragedy by which little George "Goslin" Fairweather met death by his own hand. It will be remembered that his act was apparently the result of his being summoned to court to face a charge of stealing coal from the I. C. R. His death came yesterday in the hospital where he was taken and where he lingered for a day or two. Rev. J. E. Hand conducted the service and the choir of St. James church rendered the hymns: "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and "Nearer My God to Thee." In the choir which included ten boys, are playmates of the little suicide.

PAID $400 FOR THE PRIVILEGE

That is What It Cost George McArthur For His Altercation With A. G. Edgecombe.

The Edgecombe-McArthur case for assault and battery, which was set for trial this morning before His Honor Mr. Justice Hanington, has been settled without further court procedure, on the basis that defendant pay the plaintiff $400 and taxed costs. This settlement was put in writing and signed by both parties.

It will be remembered that this case was tried here several months ago, when the jury brought in verdict in the defendant's favor. The case was then taken to the supreme court at Fredericton and a new trial was allowed.

This, however, was averted by a settlement being reached.

When A. W. Baird announced in court that the matter had been settled, his honor said he was very glad of it as the case should never have come into court, other circumstances, the circumstance should never have occurred.

The terms of the settlement read as follows: "In the Supreme Court, Between Alfred G. Edgecombe, plaintiff, and George McArthur defendant.

The above case is hereby settled on the following basis: The defendant agrees to pay the plaintiff the sum of four hundred dollars in full settlement of the above cause and also the plaintiff's taxed costs, as between party and party.

Dated the twenty-eighth day of November, A. D. 1907. A. G. EDGECOMBE, GEORGE McARTHUR.

The settlement was arranged by the voluntary intervention of friends of the parties a few days ago. The settlement was arrived at last night and put into writing but was not signed until this morning.

Today for more than an hour, there was considerable discussion between the parties and counsel on both sides, but finally the agreement as reached last night was adhered to.

The defendant was willing to pay the $400 and taxed costs but expressed the desire that should the plaintiff have a surplus after paying counsel fees, etc.—that he divide the balance with the Catholic and Protestant orphan asylums, but this Mr. Edgecombe refused to do.

This morning's hitch in the settlement was caused by Mr. Edgecombe wanting $700 instead of $400 but to this the defendant's counsel would not consent.

L. A. Cursey and A. W. Baird appeared for the plaintiff and D. Mullin, R. C. for the defendant.

THE ITALIAN STABBING CASE

Taken Up in Circuit Court This Morning and Witnesses Examined.

The circuit court session was continued at the court house this morning. His Honor Mr. Justice Hanington presiding.

In the case of Nicholas DeLory, Mr. Mullin asked that the prisoner be discharged until the next case against him be taken up; but his honor said he could not allow Mr. Mullin's application.

The Italian shooting case was next taken up and his honor announced that E. S. Ritchie had been appointed to defend the prisoners, Antonio Checateri and Antonio Wolteri.

Attorney General McKeown, after briefly outlining the case to the jury called Codispatti to the stand, saying that he would be the first witness, in fact the only one for the prosecution.

Antonio Codispatti, with Chris Nichols as interpreter, was examined by Attorney General McKeown. He told of being at Masquah on the day in question and identified both prisoners as they sat at the end of the table in front of the clerk's desk. On Sunday, September 8, he had had a quarrel with Antonio Checateri.

He caused some amusement by stating in reply to a query that he did not know where the chest was, but said later that he had been shot in the chest from a revolver in the hands of Checateri, having been struck three times with bullets in the chest as already stated—and on the arm and under the ear as well. Wolteri had a knife in his hand at the time, with which he cut him (Codispatti) in the neck; despite the fact that there had been no quarrel between himself and the two prisoners. Witness also declared that his son was there at the time. He could not say what his son did, as he (witness) was unconscious at the time. Some shots had been fired in fun, before Checateri fired at him. Witness also told of being brought to St. John's at the same time as the two prisoners were. He had ninety dollars on him at the time he was shot, but hadn't it now, as he did not know where it was, nor did he know who took it from his pockets.

Cross-examined by Mr. Ritchie witness stated that he did not see the knife in Wolteri's hands, and all had been drinking.

Dr. Malcolm said he had examined the wounds on Codispatti.
