Bid For Canada them. They revoked the reciprocity treaty, which was highly advantageous to Canada, under the belief that such action on their part would compel her to join the Union. This was regarded as a high protected tariff, and its instant effect was to strengthen the spirit of loyalty to the British Empire and her sense of Canadian nationality. A few years later Sir John McDonald handed Canada upon her "national policy" with a high protected tariff, under which her industries have flourished and expanded. Then came, in 1897, the grant of preference for British imports, followed some years later by an increase in their duties. Foreign countries found their goods subjected to higher duties than British goods, and all the forces apparently set towards closer commercial relations between England and Canada. The British people, however, rejected the overtures of Canada and the colonies in 1896, and the British Government in 1907 "barred and bolted" the door on their offer. A fresh opportunity was given to the foreign manufacturer of obtaining for himself the advantages which the United Kingdom had apparently despised. Gradual Absorption If a treaty of reciprocity should be concluded between Canada and the United States, it will involve nothing less than the gradual absorption of Canada by her neighbor. The work which the Zollverein accomplished in Germany, by bringing Bavaria, Hesse, and all the minor States under the influence of Prussia, will be repeated on the North American continent. This would be a disaster to the British race only second to the loss of what is now the United States--the end of all the noble dreams and aspirations in which the largest minds of our race have indulged. It would not, then, be out of place in such a juncture for us to appeal to Canadian patriotism to show patience. The States of the Empire have waited long and have been rebuffed often, but the period of suspense is fast drawing to a close. Only last Saturday The Times reminded the people of Canada that, "as the rain rained away the Corn Laws, so perhaps the mere distress of a large mass of voters in this country may bring the victory of Tariff Reform." Shock is succeeding shock in England as at Messina, and rapidly destroying the imposing structure of Free Trade theory. The hour has come for us, as a people, to open our eyes and to recognize that the real to closer political relations with the Empire lies, and lies only through closer commercial relations. The two are inseparably intertwined. The British Empire of the future must have its foundations laid in business as well as in sentiment. Rise with it tend only to disunion and speedy decay.

Agricultural Commission at Pennfield MANY SUGGESTIONS WERE MADE Good Attendance of Farmers Discuss Matters of Agricultural Interest

The Agricultural Commission sat in Spinney's hall, Pennfield, on Thursday evening last. There was a good attendance of Pennfield farmers and the discussions were of much interest. A. C. Poole, president of the Pennfield Agricultural Society took the chair, stating that the Commissioners were here to receive suggestions and to hear any grievances from the farmers. He thought that there were some matters needing attention. Our fertilizers cost too much, our grain feeds were very costly, making it almost impossible to use them at a profit. In other places co-operative methods in both buying or selling had saved the farmers at least 10 per cent. on each end of their business. There were many matters which might be laid before the Commissioners and he asked all present to voice their opinions. Among those present were: Walter Justason, Clarence Mathews, S. J. Poole, Percy Trynor, Rev. I. N. Trimble, Mrs. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Trimble, Mr. and Mrs. Abner Justason, Wm. Mealey, Robt. Akerley, Joseph Lack, Wm. Shaw, Melvin Dunbar, Luke Holmes, Gilbert Justason, E. J. Justason, Angus Justason, A. B. Hawkins, Austin Munroe, Alton Murray, Miss Laura Justason, Maurice Trynor, Ernest Hawkins, George Tuttle, Adrian Cross, Ross, Justason, Harry Akerley and Mr. Cawley and others. W. W. Hubbard, Secretary of the Commission, explained that the meeting was held for the purpose of hearing from the farmers. He regretted the absence of Hon. Mr. Landry, who was detailed by a meeting of the Government at Fredericton. Referring to the matter of immigration he said there were many men in Scotland well qualified to make a success of farming in Canada who could be brought to New Brunswick if the opportunities the Province offered were properly laid before them. There were also many people in the countries round the Baltic who were anxious to better their conditions. These were all people accustomed to cold winters, frugal and industrious, accustomed to work on the land and in the forest. In response to enquiries in regard to vacant farms in Pennfield the evidence showed there were not many, although there was an opportunity for new farmers as there was some good land available not at present utilized. The names of the following persons having property for sale were given to the Commission at the close of the meeting: Douglas Spinney, Hugh Gillespie, R. A. Cross, James Trimble, Rev. T. M. Munroe, the latter having good water power as well as a farm. It was pointed out that this land was good and close to the L'Etete river where there was an abundant supply of seed weed and there was also a deep deposit of black marsh mud within easy reach. Railway facilities were also good. It was shown that the Agricultural Society had been doing good work for the district. The Secretary, Mr. E. C. Justason, having devoted much time and energy to its work in stock improvement and in holding annual exhibitions. Short-horn bulls had lately been used and it was thought that the introduction of good Ayrshire blood would improve the milking qualities of the heifers without spoiling the stock for meat production. Some good Short-horn grade stock had been raised which had sold at good prices. E. C. Justason had lately sold the yearling heifer at $24.00 for beef purposes.

Failed to Connect

We are called upon to apologize to our readers for advertising what we had reason to expect would occur at the time set, but which failed to show up. We allude to the end of the world which was to have taken place last Sunday at 3.20 o'clock. It is with humility that we confess that we were misled into believing that the postponed event would take place, and got our things together that we intended to take along, only to be compelled to unpack them Monday morning. Now this thing is played out, and the next time any party advertises that the world will come to an end, we shall take no stock in it. And then perhaps it will be just our luck to have the thing come to an end when we are not prepared for it. There seems to be the worst sort of mismanagement about this business somewhere, and we are not sure but it is best to allow the ruler of this universe to go ahead and attend to the closing up of earthly affairs, and give these fellows who figure out the end of all things with a slate and pencil the grand bounce. Hereafter we propose to go right along as though the world was going to stay right side up, and have our hair cut, and try and behave, and then if old mother earth shoots off into space without warning, we will take our chances with the rest in catching on the corner of some passing star and throw our leg over and get acquainted with the people there, and maybe start "An Around the Union Column," Advertiser.

REV. GEORGE W. TITUS ACCEPTS CALL TO COBURG STREET CHURCH, ST. JOHN

Preached His First Sermon Sunday

Rev. George W. Titus has accepted the pastorate of Coburg street Christian church in the stead of Rev. J. F. Floyd, who is now located at Charlottetown, P. E. I. Rev. Mr. Titus began his pastorate on Sunday morning when the subject of his sermon was "What is Christianity?" On Sunday evening the title of his sermon was "Wayside Altars." Mr. Titus preached most interestingly, ably handling both subjects. He pleased the entire congregation, which was exceptionally large on both occasions. Rev. Mr. Titus was born in St. John, North End, where he still resides. He received his early education in the public schools. He began his ministerial education at the Tennessee School of the Evangelist at Knoxville, Tenn. He studied there and finished his course at Sinclair College, St. Thomas, Ont., being graduated in 1907. Since that time he has been very active in ministerial work, having preached for short terms at Owen Sound, St. Thomas and Niagara Falls. He was subsequently stationed in Charlotte county, where he preached at L'Etete and Back Bay. While the youngest Protestant clergyman occupying a city pulpit, Rev. Mr. Titus is an eloquent and learned speaker and has been an enthusiastic and indefatigable worker in his chosen field. He has won his way chiefly through his own efforts and he assumes his new position with the brightest prospects. Rev. Mr. Titus was for many years very prominent in base ball circles, having officiated as pitcher on several local league-winning teams, among others the Portlands of the St. John League. His last appearance on a local diamond was with the Marathons last year. Mr. Titus began his ministry at Back Bay and L'Etete Dec. 1897, where he was very successful. Under his teaching the following received the International Diploma--Mrs. Wentworth Quigley, Mrs. Wilson Wentworth, Mae Kinney, Ethel A. Saunders, M. Blanche McGee, Jessie G. Catherine, Mildred Dick, Pearl Dick, Allie S. Kinney, John G. D. Ck, Walter Hoyt. The Rev. gentleman leaves Back Bay and L'Etete with best wishes of the people, of all denominations, among whom he was most highly esteemed. Mr. Titus has many friends in St. George, who regret his departure but are glad to learn that he has been called to such an important field of labor.

The New House of Commons

An analysis of the personnel of the new House of Commons with respect to places of birth and religions gives the following interesting figures: In the last House there was 200 native born Canadians, in the new House the native born number 204. There are six English born, as compared with four in the last House. Ireland sent four sons to the old House, but there are only two native Irishmen in the new House. In each House the membership included three men who were born in the United States. Scotland had three representatives in the last House; now it has only two. The new House also includes one member who was born in South Africa. By religious the figures are equally interesting. The Roman Catholics are exactly the same force as in the old House, the figure in each case being 70. The Presbyterians number 46 in the new House; last year they had 47. The Methodist Church is represented by 50 in the new House, as against 40 in the last Parliament. The Church of England has 41 as against 42. The Baptists numbered 8 in the former House; in this they are 6. One addition to the religion is a Universalist. The Congregational figures are 2 the same as last year. And there is one Lutheran and one Farrington independent, just as there was in the last House.

Nut Chocolate Caramels

"Nut Chocolate Caramels are a rich, delicious confection, immensely popular, says Fannie Merritt Farmer in Woman's Home Companion for December. "Put three and one half tablespoonsful of butter in a sauce pan, and when melted, add two cupfuls of molasses, one cupful of brown sugar, and one half cupful of milk. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, bring to the boiling point, add four and one half squares of unsweetened chocolate and stir constantly until the chocolate is melted. Let boil, until, when tried in cold water, firm ball may be formed in the fingers. Remove from the range, add one and one half teaspoonfuls of vanilla and one half pound of almonds, blanched and chopped. Turn into a buttered pan, cool and cut in small pieces. In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Sloop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Sloop's Restorative was not made to dose the Stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Sloop's Restorative goes directly to these falling-in-nerve. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these falling organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all Dealers.

HAMLIN'S HOSPITAL

BY W. R. ROSE

The world was surly turning over. The man saw the hills rise, and the sky slide across, and the earth lift beneath his feet. He reached out and caught at the rail of the fence, and the fence wasn't there.

"What's the matter, Joseph?" inquired a gentle voice.

The gray haired driver stopped the ancient horse. Then he answered with the roadward, "Ma'am."

"The lady leaned forward. "So there is. What is he like, Joseph?" The driver turned and handed the lines to the lady. Then he alighted and deliberately examined the fallen man.

"Seems to be a tramp, ma'am." "And what's the matter with him?"

The gray haired man bent lower. "Seems to be drunk, ma'am."

The lady sighed. Then she straightened up. "Lead Detsy into the shade, Joseph. We can't leave the poor man lying there."

She lightly stepped from the carriage into the highway, a little lady with white hair and a face as gentle as her voice.

"Why, he's only a boy, Joseph," she cried. "Poor, poor boy." She knelt beside him as she spoke and pushed the dark hair from his forehead. He wasn't lie here, Joseph," she called. "In a little while he would be in the glare of the hot sun. We must lift him into the shade under the big tree there."

The old driver stooped over the prostrate form. "I don't like the looks of his face, ma'am," he said.

The lady bent lower. "It may be the fever," she said, and it may be something else. Did you say there were some cases in the village?"

"Two, ma'am." "Then we mustn't take any chances. The man seems to be in a stupor. He has been drinking, but this looks more like the effect of a fever. Any way we must do our best for him. If he has what you suspect there is no place to take him—except to my home."

The old servant shook his head. "Think of some other plan he said. "I have thought of a better plan," said the lady. "We will leave him here. That tent we used at the lawn fete last summer is in the barn. We will put it up in the field, near the trees. It's my field and there can be no objection. Whatever is needed can be brought from the house—and you and I will take care of him, Joseph."

The old man grimaced. He's an unfortunate boy, and we can't let him suffer, ma'am."

"It's going to be just as you say, ma'am," growled the old man. "You're not afraid, Joseph?"

He gave her a rebuking look. In half an hour Joseph was back with a light wagon that bore his first load. He had the tent and this he at once proceeded to set up.

The old man was strong and handy, and with a little help from the lady he raised the sheltering canvas over the sick man, and pegged it down and guyed it to the nearest trees. Then he brought in the supplies.

"I'll put in a floor tomorrow—if he ain't dead."

"You will put in a floor tomorrow," said the lady.

The old man brought his heels together with a click and touched his battered soft hat. He had fought in the great war.

"All right, superintendent," he said. "Why do you call me that?" the lady asked.

"Because you're the superintendent of this hospital—Hamlin's hospital," the old man answered with a quick chuckle. "Now I'm going back for the things I forgot."

Ten days later the sick man came out of his fever and back to earth.

"You're still here," he murmured to the lady. "Why should you do this?"

"You needed me," was her smiling reply.

"But I'm worthless," he told her; a vagabond, a prodigal. I've disgraced my father and shamed all who cared for me. Doesn't this make a difference?"

There were tears in his eyes. He was very weak.

It was the convalescent who thought of making the Hamlin hospital continuously useful. It was a hot July in the town, in the valley below, a cruelly hot July that caused much sickness—more particularly among the factory folk.

"Why can't we have some of those suffering babies up here on the plateau?" he said to the lady. "They are suffocating down there. Here's fresh air and good water and cool nights. Bring them up, and I'll take charge of things."

That was the beginning of the second installment of good work at Hamlin hospital. The tent had been enlarged, other tents were added, there were scores of details to be arranged—and John Cameron looked after every detail and laughed at fatigue. Alert, quick, sympathetic, day and night were alike to him.

"I'm very proud of you, John," said the lady.

He flushed and smiled. "You're the first one to say so," he laughed. "And I'd rather hear it from you than anyone else."

The lady put her hand on his arm. "But your father, John?"

His face clouded. He turned and walked away.

As the camp grew, its fame spread beyond the county borders. Somebody told a metropolitan editor about this life saving station on the knoll above the factory town, and the editor sent a clever young man with a ready pen and an accurate camera.

The article duly appeared in the great daily and John's picture was in its midst. And a tall old man in a high office building saw the portrait and stared at it, and the paper shook in his hands as he looked and looked again.

John was walking beneath the trees with a sleeping child in his arms when this tall old man confronted him.

"John!"

"Father!"

They spoke quietly, because of the sleeping child.

"I need you, John."

"I'm needed here, father."

"Yes, John, I understand."

He looked at the fine young figure, the sunburnt face, the clear gray eyes. His heart suddenly swelled, and he gently laid his hand on his son's shoulder, very gently because of the sleeping child.

"I've missed you, boy."

"You should have forgotten me, father."

"I can't lose you again, my son."

There was a little silence.

"I'm useful here, father. I'm doing something helpful."

"You shall not cease the good work my boy. You shall be still more helpful. You shall build a hospital for these little ones; you shall establish a permanent camp."

John looked at his father with troubled eyes. He noted the silver hair, the trembling hands.

"I am bound by a compact, father, a compact with the woman who took me from the ditch, and nursed me back to life and made a man of me."

"God bless her," said the old man. "We will go to her together, son. She will not keep you from me."

John hesitated.

"That great hospital, father."

"Yes, John?"

"It will be called—"

"Whatever you like, dear boy."

"It will be called Hamlin's hospital,"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Conundrums

Why is evil-speaking like a carpet?—Because it ought to be put down.

What is the difference between a boy and his shadow?—A boy can see his shadow, but his shadow can't see him.

What is the difference between an ambassador and a bear hunt?—One bears despatches, the other despatches bears.

Which is heavier, a half or a full moon?—The half, because the full moon is as light again.

Why is a soldier like a vine?—Because he's listed, trained, has tendrils, and shoots.

Why is gooseberry jam like old money? Because it is not current (ent) because he always has his back up.

Why is a camel easily angered?—Because he always has his back up.

What is the difference between carriage wheels and a carriage horse?—The former goes better when tired, the latter doesn't.

Everybody Likes Her

We all know the homely girl. She isn't pretty, cannot play bridge, yet it is surprising what an uncommonly good time she manages to have. She gets most charming house invitations because she is full of good feeling.

If a man is paying attention to a daughter of the house she does not try to cut her out. On the other hand, she praises her friend to him, and does her best to make matters pleasant for every one. The kind, homely girl isn't too grand to help her hostess in simple domestic matters and if anybody in the house is ill she is a real help in her quiet, unobtrusive way. Bonnaventures ordered to charming health resorts to recruit as the homely girl to go with them. She is a queen in a plain setting, and everybody likes her.

CHASE and SANBORN MONTREAL

Rules Adopted by a Wise Girl

As she was passing the other afternoon, in getting something out of her pocket, a young woman dropped a slip of paper on the ground. One saw it and picked it up, intending perhaps to return it, but a glance at the clean-cut angular hand writing induced him to read it through, for publication, and here it is:

1—I don't let a man smoke when he walks or drives with me. If he knows no better than to do it, I promptly tell him what I think of it.

2—I don't give my photograph to men. I used to occasionally, but I am wise now. I should hate to see my face hanging up in Tom, Dick or Harry's room.

3—I don't let a man take my arm when he walks with me. If he does I tell him I prefer him to give me his arm.

4—I don't go out with a man just because he asks me to. I like it better if he asks another to go, too—his sister for instance.

5—I don't let any man see me home from church. If he hasn't got gumption enough to take me there and sit through the service with me, he can stay away altogether.

6—I don't let any man give me a present, unless it is something of a trifling cost—like fruit or flowers.

7—I don't encourage a man who is not perfectly polite and agreeable to my mother. Whoever calls on me sees a good deal of her.

Leave your home with loving words they may be your last.

Love is the best and strongest thing on earth, but impatience can kill it.

Speak kindly, it encourages the downcast, cheers the sorrowing and often wakens the erring to earnest resolves to do better.

Parents are indebted to their children for the constant incentives to noble living; for the perpetual reminder that you do not live in yourself alone; for their sakes you are admonished to put from you the despicable appetite, the unorthodox example of impulse; to gather into your lives every noble and heroic quality, every tender and attractive grace.

Womens Period of Pain

Regularity of the system can only be secured by maintaining strong, healthy circulation. If feeble, run-down, nervous, be sure that circulation is poor. The natural result is congestion that exacts so severe a penalty. Besides being a food former and nerve tonic, Perrozone adds additional vigor to the heart and ensures strong blood circulation. This is the only means of preventing congestions that cause pain, headache and nervous weakness. The whole system is renewed and fortified, with strength, vigor and endurance. For girls and women nothing equals Perrozone, 50c. at all dealers.

Nervous Ills and Their Cure

Exercises conscientiously gone through in your bedroom, night and morning, a few breaths of fresh air taken every day in the open air, and a brisk, even walk, during which care is peremptorily banished from the mind, will, either separately or collectively, accomplish as much if not more, toward reducing nervous ills than a sea voyage under the best conditions.

Nervousness, unless it is of such pronounced symptoms as to call for the advice of a physician, will yield to systematic physical training nine cases out of ten. Home exercise for the cure of nervousness should not be violent at first. Practise only such movements as raising the arms from the sides to a point above the head, all the bending movements of the upper body, chest expansion, and the simple raising of the legs, one at a time toward front and side, while in a standing position.

Threatening feverishness with children is quickly and safely calmed by Preventics. These little Candy Cough Care Tablets should always be at hand—for promptness is all-important. Preventics contain no quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. They are inhaled, "the safest in time." Carried in pocket, or purse, Preventics are a genuine safeguard against Colds. 25c. GOOD ROADS
A village, town, or city cannot develop without good roads or streets. Farming sections will never become thickly populated without good roads. Wherever a road is seen branching from a main thoroughfare, that road says there is something living beside it, back in the woods somewhere. A little branch is built from that branch and someone is living near that road, and so on, a web-like net finally stretches over an entire section, and each tributary denotes civilization and activity.
We are all interested in the town and parish, and so long as money is expended judiciously for road and street construction, and maintenance, there should be no dissenting voice. Good streets and roads are expensive, but if done right they are worth every cent paid for them. The child of today will reap the benefit of the good sound judgment, of the generation in control, in building good roads and streets.
We all want our children to have things easier when they get in control.

GREAT BRITAIN'S NAVAL PROGRAMME
Great Britain's naval programme has been deemed, on the one hand, to be insufficient, in view of the hidden menace of Germany, and on the other to be ruinously extravagant.
In these views, political considerations are doubtless operative; but one notices that England is still building the fastest torpedo boats, the biggest battleships, constructing the most powerful guns of an other naval power.
The two-power standard has not to be sought for. It exists.
The United States is now the second naval power since France; which needed all her attention for her army, reeled from that position, while Germany is the third; but if these two powers were combined, England would still be able to show a decided superiority.
The marvel is, where the money comes from. Great Britain and Ireland comprise a population of 43,000,000. The United States boasts a virile and enterprising people of 65,000,000, while the natural increase of Germany, in spite of emigration, has been enormous, showing at present nearly 63,000,000.
Though the British Empire is the greatest in the world, territorially, and materially, and, in fact, the support of her defensive force is wholly supplied by a fraction of the population which salutes the British flag.
The British people are already heavily burdened. They are still paying for the old European war. They are still in debt for the waste and havoc wrought by former swashbuckling generations.
They suffer, too (though it is amazing to consider how slightly they yield to it), from "four bottle" taxation.
This new burden of taxes, due to over-wrought fears, is now added to those whose weight has been increasingly felt of later years, which have caused a doubt as to whether free trade, so long the national shibboleth, is synonymous with prosperity. Many wonder if the over-burdened back is not likely to be bowed to the breaking point. The colonies, one notices, remain calm.
They observe poor old John Bull bending under his burden; but sympathetic articles afford him a poor support. The young nations which call Great Britain another pursue their jaunty way, willing to be protected, delicately insisting that all references to imperial contributions must be considered "taboo."
In the meantime, to show that she is alive to the situation; that she is able to hold her own in the world; England builds the boats that travel faster than an express train; makes, with more tremendous fabrications, the "Dread-noughts" seem like barges; stations the biggest League fleet the world ever saw in the home waters; and asks no man for a penny.
Rather curious to consider, especially, as the British taxpayer still manages to have his "beer and baccy."

A minister, on coming from a walk, came upon a crowd of youngsters, who were in heavy debate about a dog which was in their midst.
On inquiring the cause of the commotion he found that which ever child told the biggest lie was to be the owner of the dog.
When he heard this the minister rebuked them, saying, "My dear children you should never tell an untruth, when I was your age I never uttered anything but the truth."
For a time there was strict silence broken only by the heavy breathing of all present.
Then one little sandy-haired youngster cried out, "Come on, fellows. Let's give him the dog."
Five thousand cats whose sole mission in life, or rather in their nine lives, henceforth is to serve as rat destroyers in Japan, have been shipped from Chicago. The purpose of this curious feline invasion is to aid in fighting the plague spread by rodents.—Ex.
If more of the feline family should be needed by the Mikado, we know of a little town where perhaps a few thorough bred could be spared to help out a good cause. Some difficulty might be experienced in inducing these natives to go into the rat catching business, as their firm conviction is that they are beautiful and accomplished singers. It is the firm belief of every man and woman, who cannot sing, that, he or she has a magnificent voice. We can easily understand this, but from an intelligent animal like the cat we naturally expect better. Catching rats for an occupation may be uninteresting to the cats we have in view, but if impelled by actual starvation they might take a hand in the plague business and help the Mikado out.

Mr. Milne came here from St. George and has been seven years with the Clinch firm during which time he has made hosts of friends. Last night a number of his friends entertained him at G. D. Davidson's rooms, Germain street, when he was able to the recipient of a handsome gold ring and stick pin.—Times 4th.
A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Sarah Davis in West Berlin last evening, when her daughter Miss Sadie Mae, was united in marriage to George Moore of Swampscott, Mass. At eight o'clock the couple entered the room, the bride being attended by her sister, Miss Clara, and the groom by his brother, A'ford Moore of Orange Mass. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. W. Sharp, pastor of the Methodist church, Northfield. The ring service was used. The bride was becomingly gowned in blue silk, trimmed with white embroidery. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are both well known in Northfield. Mr. Moore was a member of the class of 1907 of Norwich University, and a member of the Alpha Sigma Pi fraternity, where he was held in high esteem. The worthy couple have the hearty congratulations and best wishes of many friends. Besides the immediate relatives those present were Mrs. Mary Gould of Northfield Falls, Mr. Middlebrook of Vergennes, K. E. Hodge of Burlington, Cadets Brush and Collins of Norwich University, and Alfred Moore of Orange, Mass.—Vermont Paper.

TOWN COUNCIL
The Town Council met in regular session Monday evening, with Mayor Lawrence, Aldermen Bogue, Dewar, Johnson and Grant present. Mayor Lawrence who was the town's representative at the Municipal Council, presented a report of the proceedings of that body, so far as the town was concerned. The matter of changes and additions to the town incorporation act was left in the hands of a committee, Mayor Lawrence, Ald. Bogue, and other information and report at a meeting of the council to be held Friday evening next. It is understood that the changes desired are, change on town lines, date of election to be January; to abolish the ward system, and elect Aldermen at large; change in qualification;—the assessment of bank and Telephone Co., which are not paying anything to this town, for carrying on business, but making the public pay for doing business with them. The delinquent tax list, and building of new lock-up was discussed, but no action taken. On motion of Ald. Craig, seconded by Ald. Bogue, an order was drawn to pay the street commissioner ten dollars. The ward boxes, which appeared in the original motion, was withdrawn, and made to read amount due. The clerk was instructed to correspond with Mr. Toft in reference to having steps placed in the wharf. Adjourned.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Advertise in Greetings.

Candlemas day services were held in the Catholic church here on Sunday.

Rumor has it that a citizen's ticket will be in the field for the Council Board at next election.

Plenty of small herring are reported at Seal Cove, Grand Manan, and some are being sold for bait.

The farm at the Canal, owned and occupied by Mrs. Wm. Campbell, has been sold to Walter Maxwell.

There seems to be much sickness in the community at the present time, owing probably to the sudden changes in the weather.

Don't send us reports of marriages based on rumor. We must be sure that news of this nature is reliable before we can publish it.

The lumbermen are feeling pretty good over the fall of snow, as there has not been enough to sufficiently carry on lumbering to advantage.

Dr. E. M. Wilson will begin the construction of a fine residence as early in the spring as the weather will permit. The plans have been prepared.

A large quantity of pulp wood is being hauled into town from outside districts. Those who have wood lots near town are also engaged in the business. It gives employment to quite a number of men and teams.

The following grants brought down in parliament, appear among the estimates for Charlotte County: $10,000 for Beaver Harbor wharf; $23,000 for Cumming's Cove wharf; $14,000 for Leonardville wharf; $18,000 for St. Andrews wharf; $4,000 for St. George wharf; $32,000 for Seal Cove wharf; $24,000 for Welchpool wharf; $7,000 for North Head break-water; $5,400 for White Head wharf.

Shipping at this port promises to be very active next season. The pulp company have already six vessels under charter for the season, and it is rumored that one of the steamers will make two trips a week here carrying freight. The fishing boats will also make trips here as usual. The new wharf will be completed when navigation opens, and we can look forward to a boom in shipping circles.

Lewis Connors, Patrick W. Connors, Wm. J. Campbell, Bernard Connors and Robert Thompson, of Black's Harbor, and John A. Thompson and George F. Paul of Beaver Harbor, are applying for incorporation as The Maritime Steamboat Company, Ltd., to carry on a steamboat business on the Bay of Fundy between points in St. John and Charlotte counties. It is proposed to have head offices at Black's Harbor, and the capital stock is placed at $20,000.

Net earnings of the Eastern Steamship Co. for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, were slightly in excess of $500,000, an amount sufficient to meet interest and sinking fund charges and leave a balance equal to seven per cent. on the $3,000,000 stock. This compares with earnings for the stock of 1907 of about five per cent. and in 1906 of 8.9 per cent. Gross earnings of the Eastern Steamship Co. for the past year were somewhat less than in 1907, but the management introduced radical operating economies with the result that net for the year showed a substantial increase.

Capt. James Thompson of the Eastern Steamship Line died in Brooklyn, while undergoing an operation, Thursday morning.

The captain was on his way to his home in Portland, Maine, from Washington, D. C., where he had been at a gathering of captains, and stopped off at Brooklyn to go to the hospital.

Captain Thompson was well known and had been in the employ of the present company almost all of his life. He was the son of the late Captain John Thompson, who was also connected with the Eastern steamship line.

Captain James Thompson was one of the most popular commanders of the fleet, and he will be greatly missed by the travelling public. He was between fifty-five and sixty years of age, and leaves a sorrowing widow at Portland, Maine.

His steamer, the Governor Cobb, has been hauled off the route during the winter months, undergoing repairs, to be placed in commission in the coming spring. He was of a jovial and kindly disposition, and manly appearance, and will be greatly missed by those with whom he came in contact.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

A slight earthquake shock was felt here Saturday morning at 7:15.

A petition from the railway men of Calgary will be presented to the Dominion Parliament asking for an eight hour day, as a means of guarding against accident.

Ice cutting commenced last week on the lake. The quality is said to be extra good this year. If the cold weather has a hand in it, the thickness should be above the average.

I. H. Gillmor has been giving strict attention to business this winter, having disposed of thirty sleighs of various patterns, shipping to different parts of the county. He has a few good horses left and one especially good. The owners of fast ones, around town, will hear from him very soon.

The Golf Club will have a meeting very soon, to map out a plan of campaign for the coming season. Negotiations are now under way to secure the beautiful grounds of Mrs. C. H. Lee for use of the club. The members are taking deep interest and we can look for some keen competition when the season opens.

The Hockey club has been contemplating holding a social function in connection with the rink and providing a sufficiently large number of patrons will interest themselves and participate, a carnival will be held at the rink on Friday evening Feb. 19th from 8 to 9:30 p. m. After the carnival the skaters will be treated to a ball in Drageorgian hall. Each individual in order to gain admission to the ice must impersonate some character or idea. Those wearing dominoes, only, shall not be allowed on ice during carnival. Judges will determine prize winners during the carnival and prizes awarded at the hall. Prizes to be three in number; best lady, best gentleman and most original. Costumes must not be removed until after the prizes have been awarded. Full orchestra at the hall. For further information see the posters. St. George Cornet Band will be in attendance at the rink.

Considerable interest is still manifest in hockey, and prospects for a fast team to compete with outside teams are good. Watching the games one can notice rapid improvement and good ability in the respective players.

The game played Thursday afternoon between the Nemoes and Beavers showed advancement in checking and combination work, tackling however was considerably slighted. Stewart checks well, Hibbard and Johnson show great ability to steal the rubber and rush.

In the first half the rubber went to the Beavers ice. The Nemoes made long shots but were usually blocked by Kennedy. After one of these shots McCallum stole the puck from Hibbard and scored a very rapid goal. Near the end of the half Parks shot but was blocked by Kent, however he shot again and scored the last goal of the half. In the second half it was Sherman's turn to p. etect the goal. In the excitement Anderson secured the puck and after some nice combination between Anderson and Parks a long shot by the latter goalied. Score was 3--0 in favor of Nemoes.

The team lined up as follows:

Beavers	Goal	Nemoes
Kent	Point	Duabar
B. Cawley	C. P.	E. Johnson
Stewart	Centre	Parks
Hibbard	Right	McCallum
Westmore	R. Wing	Anderson
Kennedy	L. Wing	A. Johnson
	Relerece	Doull

McCallum the captain of the Nemoes contracted a severe cold last week and has been unable to play. The league wishes for his speedy recovery. Bob Cawley the captain of the Beavers has gone to Plaster Rock to work. Bob is missed by the club and his team.

Prophecy Fakirs
The Messiah business flourishes with the green goods game and the gold brick swindle, but it counts the deluded by multitudes instead of the individuals. Apparently a considerable part of the population of every city and village is the willing prey of every sharper who comes along with a new crack of doom prophecy, providing he has long hair and a frouzy beard. Undoubtedly the business is profitable to the charlatan, and it requires less of genius than it takes to promote fake mining companies. Generally most of the "faithful" are women, and many of them belong to families that otherwise are regarded as normal in their communities. What it is that causes the never-failing following of a glib talker with a calamity howl or a new "religion" is an intensely interesting problem for the psychologists. In a manner this latest and other end of world fashions seem humorous. They are not entirely so, however, and if the Messiah charlatanry cannot be reached otherwise, a few examples made of "prophets" by the evenly balanced relatives of the "faithful" would be wholesomely discouraging to the whole industry, which has come to be a public nuisance. In a recent base in the West fanaticism wrought by a fake preacher resulted in a battle between his followers and the police, in which two or three persons were killed.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not itself a true disease. We think of dyspepsia, heartburn, and indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve disease—working also.

CATARRH
The Mother of Consumption

How this dread disease may be prevented and cured—the opinions of people who have been cured by Cattarrhozone

Catarrh is very often spoken of as the mother of consumption, because when unchecked it extends of its place of beginning to the bronchial tubes then deeper and deeper, till finally the disease becomes consumption of the lungs.

The safest and best remedy for any form of Catarrh is Cattarrhozone. It is inhaled to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the disease, and drives it completely out of the system.

Mrs. Mary J. Whitney, of Clay Street, Topeka, Kansas, was cured Nasal Catarrh after twenty years' suffering by Cattarrhozone. She says:—

"I owe to Cattarrhozone an immense debt of gratitude. It cured me of Catarrh of the most disagreeable kind after doctors without number had pronounced my case incurable. My breath is pure and my respiration regular, and I do not cough any more since using Cattarrhozone. It has cured me perfectly."

Another case of Chronic Catarrh that was cured quickly by Cattarrhozone is that of Mr. G. J. Luce, of 1,700 Navasota Street, Austin, Texas. Mr. Luce says:—

"I tried for four years to get rid of Nasal Catarrh, used salt douches, atomizers, tablets, stomach medicines, etc., but they didn't do me much good.

"Then I tried Cattarrhozone, and received relief in a few hours. It cured in a week, so that I never had a recurrence of my former trouble."

Miss Winer, who resides on May Street, in Hartford, Conn., was cured of throat trouble by Cattarrhozone, and speaks of her recovery in the following words:—

"Repeated colds finally resulted in a Catarrhal condition from which I suffered more or less every spring and fall. Cattarrhozone was the only remedy that relieved and cured me. I recommend it."

No treatment is so good for Catarrhal affections and Bronchitis as Cattarrhozone. Its success is quite unequalled in the history of medicine. It will cure you quickly and surely, and is well worth a trial. Two months' treatment guaranteed to cure, price $1.00; small size 50c. Druggist, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy it to-day.

Politeness

What is politeness? It consists of sincere and earnest desire to promote the happiness of those around us, and not of false smiles and flattering words. The word politeness seems real kindness, kindly expressed and also good breeding or elegance of manners. It is a trait which everyone admires and which confers upon its possessor a charm that does much to pave the way to success. It has been said that a "man's manners form his fortune." Whether this is really so or not, it is certain that his manners come directly from a kind heart, they will please though they be destitute of graceful polish.

Politeness is as much required at home as elsewhere. We should do things willingly and cheerfully. Small acts of kindness make life more pleasant and desirable, they make the difficulties of life seem more trifling and help to wipe away the tears of sorrow. We should always show the greatest politeness and deference to our friends and parents. Some persons are polite everywhere, but at home and there they are rude indeed. Perhaps if they are asked a question and they are occupied they will scowl and mutter something over to themselves and pay no attention to that one who spoke, or though they were too insignificant. How does it sound to hear a person say "yes" and "no" to everyone, especially to their seniors? There is scarcely anything more important in a child than good breeding. While it is comparatively easy to be polite toward strangers, or toward people of distinction, whom we meet in society or on public occasions, still it should be remembered that it is at home, in the family that an everyday politeness is really most prized, coming as it should from the kindly feeling of the heart.

Anniversaries of 1909

The astrologers would have said that in certain years through remarkable conjunctions of celestial bodies and other celestial influences, so influence the human character and physique that children born at these times become great and commanding in numbers far exceeding the appearances of geniuses in other years. If so, there must have been a remarkable manifestation of celestial phenomena in the year 1809, for a surprisingly large number of men and women who have commanded fame and greatness first saw the light in that year. During those twelve months occurred the births of these American celebrities: Hannibal Hamann, Park Benjamin, Geo. Joseph B. Johnson, Cyrus McCormick, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Abraham Lincoln and Edgar Allan Poe. President Andrew Johnson was born December 29, 1808, so he very neatly comes into this cherished period. Among eminent Englishmen whose careers belong also to our own world of thought were: Charles Darwin, William E. Gladstone, Alfred Lord Tennyson, John Stuart Blackie, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Edward Fitzgerald, and Alexander W. Kinglake. In the same year Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy was born in Austria, Pierre Joseph Prandhon in France, and Frederic Franccois Chopin in Poland. There are also to be celebrated in this country and in England, and in some cases throughout the civilized world as well, of the anniversaries of Holmes, Lincoln, Poe, Darwin, Gladstone, and Tennyson. In the United States and England last month was celebrated the third centenary month was celebrated the third centenary of the poet John Milton, who was born December 6, 1609. All Protestant Europe and America will take note of the four-hundredth anniversary of John Calvin, who was born in Switzerland in 1509, while England will commemorate the bicentenary of old "Sam" Johnson, who first saw the light 200 years ago. Americans, finally, will make historic commemoration upon one occasion of the French steamship triumph, which was born in 1807, and the discovery of the Hudson River in 1609, besides celebrating with their Canadian neighbors the discovery of Lake Champlain by the old French navigator in 1609.

PHYSICIAN GIVES ADVICE

Tells Why So Many Suffer from Catarrh and Rheumatism.

A distinguished physician, famous for his successful treatment of catarrh and rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, states as follows:—
"Our climate being more or less damp and changeable, is bad for catarrh and rheumatism, and care must be taken not to let these troubles gain headway. In addition, he states that a great many Canadians are careless in their habits, and to this as much as climatic conditions is due a great deal of the trouble. Inefficient clothing and improper eating will cause rheumatic and catarrhal troubles in any climate."

This eminent authority gives the following as the simplest and best treatment known to science, and to it he gives credit largely for his success: Fluid Extract Cascara, ½ oz.; Fluid Extract Cassia Compound, 1 oz.; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, 6 oz. Directions: One teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

The ingredients are all vegetable, and have a direct and specific action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, eliminating all poisonous matter from the system. Any druggist can dispense this, or you can buy the ingredients separately and mix at home by shaking in a bottle. Many of our readers should benefit by this article. Save the receipt.

Riches

I should as soon think of going in to my barnyard and saying: "O, Alderneys, be careful about giving too much milk," as I should think of saying to men, "Avoid getting rich. I do not care how much milk my cows have. If it is good, rich milk, the more there is of it the better I like it. I have never exhorted men not to seek wealth; but I have said to men, 'Riches alone do not make manhood nor produce happiness. A man may be rich and be a fool. A man may be miserable.'—H. W.

The Girl Who Wouldn't Marry

In one of the mills in Fall River I met a girl whose marriage created some excitement because of the bitter opposition it met with on the part of her mother. Observe that in New England mill towns the father and mother work in the mills until the oldest child, or more commonly, until two children are old enough to work. Then one parent, usually the father, I observe, leaves the mill forever. The other parent leaves as soon as the combined wages of the children amount to a living income. The mother assuming her rightful function of housekeeper and housewife, the family enjoys a degree of comfort and prosperity they never knew before. They live in a decent house, eat good food, and have some pleasures of existence.

The mother of this girl in Fall River, Lillie, was aroused to a perfect frenzy of apprehension as soon as Lillie began to "keep company" with a good-looking young French Canadian teamster. She forbade him the house, she watched the girl to prevent her meeting him outside, she did all she could to break up the affair. Finally she told Lillie that if she dared to marry without her consent, she would have Lillie arrested! declares Rheta Childs Dorr, in "The Wreck of the Home," a remarkable sociological study in the November issue of Hampton's Broadway Magazine.

Now Lillie, who was a weaver and earned ten dollars a week followed the universal custom of carrying her pay envelope unopened to her mother. She received a trifle back for pocket money, but she was unaccustomed to independence, and she trembled under her mother's threat. The teamster's arguments and pleadings finally prevailed and they eloped, although she believed that her disobedience was criminal. When she found that marriage was allowed even to working girls, and against the will of parents, her joy was amazing. I never saw a happier bride. She continued to work in the mill, of course, for the teamster's wages were only seven dollars a week, which is not enough to live on. Seven dollars and ten dollars are seventeen dollars—a fortune to a girl who had never had so much as a dollar at a time to spend. Life, for the present became a brilliant thing. The teamster not only permitted Lillie to keep her own envelope, but gave her his, and went with her to market to teach her how to spend. "William," said Lillie with pride, "has ideas. He intends to live like people ought to."

Yet this beautiful resolve can only be realized in the rare event of their having no children. When the children come William's wages will be smaller than ever, nor will Lillie's ten dollars look quite so large. Thus it will be that during the time their children are small and need nourishing food, there will be little money to provide it. Worse, much worse, there will be no mother at home to cook the food and care for the children. In Fall River, old women, broken-down mill hands, plus soothing sirup, take care of the babies. Lillie will bury a third of her children. When the surviving ones are well grown she will leave the mills and realize once more, in her old age, a little of the comfort and happiness she knew in her bridehood—until her children begin to marry.—Ex.

Which Lincture is Best?

For muscular pains and aches a thick, oily preparation can't penetrate—that's why Nerviline beats them all—it sinks right in. "I wouldn't live without Nerviline in my house," writes J. B. Cottam of Mastown, N. S. "If you have rheumatism or soreness in the muscles or in fact any need of an honest lincture, Nerviline fills the bill. I can recommend it highly because I have proved that in one application of Polson's Nerviline there is more virtue than in a whole bottle of ordinary lincture." Try one of the large 25c. bottles.

The Reason Why

"Now, Peters," said the teacher, "what is it that makes the water of the sea so salty?" "Salt," said Peters. "Next?" said the teacher. "What is it that makes the water of the sea so salty?" "The salty quality of the sea water," answered Peters. "Next?" "It is due to the admixture of a sufficient quantity of chloride of sodium to impart to the aqueous fluid with which it commingles a saline flavor, which is readily recognized by the organs of taste!" "Right," said the teacher. "Go up one!"

The Dangers That Lurk in "Soft" Drinks

According to a writer in the London Lancet, there is hardly less danger to body and mind in so-called "soft" drinks than in those which are unblushingly alcoholic. This gentleman declares with considerable vehemence that if one wishes wholly to avoid the demon of alcohol it is necessary to eschew not only lemonade and ginger ale, but even more water than is absolutely requisite for quenching the thirst, since, in the purest of water, there is a small percentage of natural alcohol. This reformer agrees with the celebrated French satirist that "the only superiority ordinary drinking men show over the animals lies in their ability to drink when they are not thirsty." He opines that many of the dyspeptic and heart evils of the day arise from drinking more than is required to quench the natural thirst. To indulge in tea or coffee drinking, or in seltzer or ginger ale or lemonade drinks, in order to quench an unnatural or educated thirst, is to confess oneself in the same category as drug takers and dram drunkards.

Much of the artificial-drink abuse of our time is due, says the writer in the Lancet, to the idea that municipal water is mostly tainted, and that it thus accounts largely for the death-rate. He points out that the best and purest waters of the natural spring are not free from a certain taint, and that the evils of tannin, alcohol, carbonic-acid gas, glucosid and ginger are far more to be apprehended than the impurities of ordinary water, since the human body is not without its own natural poisons and impurities and their natural antidotes. Lemonade which is so freely recommended as a refreshing and stimulating drink to reforming toppers, is, says this physician, a pregnant source of gastric trouble. At first the harm is not noticed; gradually, however, when the citric acid has had its play upon the coating of the stomach, dyspeptic gases begin to form, the eating of a meal becomes a source of apprehension as regards after-effects, and bilious trouble makes its entry. Ginger ale is hardly less harmful; in time the ginger corrodes the coating of the stomach, the same being the case with seltzer waters and ever-infused tea.

Are You Drowsy After Meals?

Is there a fullness in your stomach—a drowsy, lazy desire to sleep—this isn't natural in healthy folks and only occurs when the liver is torpid. You need a stimulating tonic—need Dr. Hamilton's Pills to stir your liver and put life into sleepy organs. You'll feel brisk and lively—you'll eat, digest and sleep well after regulating with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. No medicine so universally used, so mild, so sure to benefit as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold by all dealers in 25c. boxes.

For a home to be a home in the highest sense of the word, and not merely a place to sleep and eat, each member of the family must contribute his or her share. There must be forbearance, sympathy and love. A great deal depends on the parents. They should in the early childhood of their children teach them to make the home the dearest place on earth. The aged live more in the past than the present. Their reveries are principally of their boyhood and girlhood. How necessary then that these days be made happy, that their reveries may give them pleasure. It is not a perfect home where the inmates hold themselves aloft. It is where the guest is ever welcome, where friends delight to come and come again. Those that shut themselves from the world become selfish and narrow minded. It requires interchange of thought to expand the mind. And what is more delightful than the happy interchange of thought between friends in a happy home.

Coughs of Children

Especially night coughs. Nature needs a little help to quiet the irritation, control the inflammation, check the progress of the disease. Our advice is give the children Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask your doctor if this is his advice also. He knows best. Do as he says.

If you think consumption is of trifling consequence, just ask your doctor. He will dissuade you of that notion in short order. "Correct it, at once," he will say. Then ask him about Ayer's Pills. A mild liver pill, all vegetable.

Made by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

PENNFIELD CENTRE

The ladies of the Y. P. S. C. E. will hold a valentine social in Spinney's hall, Monday evening Feb. 15th, at 8 o'clock. WILSON'S BEACH

Mrs. Greenwood, wife of Capt. Greenwood of Head Harbor, died on Thursday Jan. 28th of a shock. She took suddenly ill on Wednesday evening. A physician was summoned as soon as possible, but nothing could be done, and she passed away the next morning at five o'clock. Mrs. Greenwood was a lady esteemed by all who knew her. To the family much sympathy is extended, who will miss a kind loving wife and mother. Her death seems doubly hard coming so close to the loss of their son Reuben, who dropped dead in St. John, on his way home from Vancouver, from which blow, Mrs. Greenwood never seemed to recover. The funeral took place on Sunday, from her late home at Head Harbor, and interment at Welchpool churchyard. She is survived by a husband three sons, one daughter, three brothers and three sisters.

Why Cough Syrups Fail

They slip quickly over the sore irritated membranes, drop into the stomach and do little else but harm digestion. It's different with Catarrhoxone—you inhale it. Every breath sends healing balsams to the inflamed tissues. Tightness, soreness and inflammation are cured by healing pine essences. The cough goes away almost as if by magic, business is cured. Nothing so simple, so convenient, so certain to cure as Catarrhoxone. Try it. 25c. and $1.00 sizes. Sold everywhere.

Unable to Walk for Rheumatism

A Lady 70 Years of Age Cured By "Father Morriscy's No. 7."
 Pictou, N.S.
 "FATHER MORRISCY MED. CO., LTD.
 It is with feelings of the deepest gratitude that I write you, to let you know what Father Morriscy's medicine has done for me.
 I was for years a sufferer from Rheumatism and could not walk, so I had to be carried from one place to another. I was treated by several doctors, but relief seemed unattainable. At last a friend recommended Father Morriscy's medicine to me. I got it, and used it only a short while, when I was restored to the best of health. I am now a woman of eighty-four years, although it is about ten years since I used the treatment.
 I shall ever feel grateful to Father Morriscy for his valuable medicine, and shall esteem it a favor to recommend it to any person similarly afflicted."
 MRS. F. CARROLL.
 Don't you think a medicine that will completely cure a stubborn case of Rheumatism, in a woman, over 70 years old, will at least help you? Isn't it worth trying? At your dealer's or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.

Watchmaker, Jeweller and Graduate Optician

I have just received the NEW EDISON AMBEROL RECORDS and combination attachments for playing either the old 2 minute records or the new Amberol record which runs 4 1/2 minutes or over twice as long as the old record. The new record is a marvel, it is no larger than the old one.
 If you have a Phonograph, bring it in and have the new attachments put on so that you can play either Record.
