NOMORE NERVOUS HEADACHES

Since She Tried "FRUIT-A-TIVES", The Famous Fruit Medicines.

"It is with pleasure that I write to tell you of the great benefit I received from the use of your medicines, 'Fruit-a-tives'. I was a great sufferer for many years from Nervous Headaches and Constipation. I tried everything, consulted doctors; but nothing seemed to help me until I tried 'Fruit-a-tives'.

After I had taken several boxes, I was completely relieved of these troubles and have been unusually well ever since."

"Fruit-a-tives" is fresh fruit juices, concentrated and increased in strength, combined with finest tonics, and is a positive and reliable remedy for Headaches and Constipation.

Box a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"Why," said the bookkeeper, who questioned Mr.—said to take for the time you were up in the air."

The Morning
KING OF ORANGE PEKOE

WRIGLEYS

The universal military service gum—

A Soldier's offering to his sweetheart is naturally the sweetest that gave him most refreshment and greatest enjoyment when on duty.

The Flavour Lasts

The Meanest Dime.

There was a certain man in the quarry business—who was noted for his meanness.

On one occasion a quarry employe, while blasting, was blown up into the air. Fortunately, he was not killed. When he came to take his pay envelope from the bookkeeper, he found that some of his time had been deducted.

"Why," said the bookkeeper, when questioned, Mr.—said to take out for the time you were up in the air."

GERTY GLOOM'S OFFERING.

On the H. C. of L.

While we talk of the terrible "H. C. of L."

And we still hope to squelch it in time.

Yet I manage to eat, drink, and dress fairly well.

And spend an occasional dime.

But all through the day there's a tumbler of words which seem very strange.

"If I knock the 'H' out of 'H. C. of L.' I can C. and L. of a change!"

The Morning Cup well begins the day.

A VERY UNIQUE PEOPLE

DOUKHOBORS GREAT COLONIZERS BUT STRANGE CITIZENS.

These Peculiar Men and Women Live in a Real Commonwealth—They Have Simple Tastes and Are Consistent Believers in the Religion That Drove Them Into Exile.

THE announcement that Peter Verigin, the leader of the ten to eleven thousand Russian Doukhobors, or Dukhobors, has declared his intention of returning to Russia with his followers, has caused a mild sensation in Canada. Fifteen years ago a similar announcement would have been received by the people of Western Canada with expressions of devout gratitude. The illiterate peasant "spirit-wrestlers," as their name implies, were disliked as religious fanatics, who herded together in community houses, and, though peaceable and industrious peasants, refused to conform to Canadian laws and regulations, or to accept nationality. But now, everywhere in Western Canada, they are recognized as remarkable colonists, even if bad citizens, while Peter Verigin is acknowledged to be a genuine leader of men.

The Doukhobor has never been a wanderer of his own free will. He has moved from place to place in Europe as the result of consistent persecution. Church and state were his "hammers and tongs," the one telling him that all religious sects must be brought into conformity with established Greek Catholicism, the other that he must become a soldier under the Conscription Act of 1857. At first he complied with the military law and went off to battle, but with the distinct understanding between him and his elders that if he were compelled to discharge his rifle he would die in the air. For he has always been a consistent non-resistor, and so consistent an opponent of war of all kinds that, in exile in the Caucasus, the community threw away the weapons that had been considered necessary to protect its members from wild animals.

In the first year of their settlement in Canada, the men scattered in order to earn wages on farms, on railways, or in the cities. The women built the future residences and, lacking horses, ploughed the land by harnessing themselves, twelve pairs of women to a plough, with one ploughman to drive them.

Brilliant in British Columbia, is one of the great Doukhobor centres and the Socialist's Utopia. Here the community, which is self-contained and has realized something of the equality of its component citizens for which there is no such striving in the world to-day. In contrast to the modern city, there are no anxieties of the future, and the needs of the day's needs. There are evidently no divisions between "mine" and "thine" no leeches or parasites on the possessions of another, for no man is richer than his fellow. No money is in circulation. One member of the executive does all the outside selling and buying, and all money received is turned over to the treasury. Money, in fact, has no purchasing value within the community. All the necessities of life are supplied without it by the various departments in charge. Everybody has the wherewithal, which is not hoarded, but is used for the benefit of the community. There is no machinery of government. The government is the people. One week they crowd into the large assembly hall and discuss the affairs of the community, and the managers of the several departments are given their instructions according to popular sentiment. The Doukhobors possess the system of initiative, referendum, and recall in an admirably simplified form. Their officials and temporal representatives hold office as long as they do their work well.

The Doukhobor is frankly "impossible" to the average human being. He wants no police because he is free for crime; he will neither drink nor lie. He is wealthy, collectively, and yet he will not have anything to do with luxury or dress otherwise than as a peasant. Fashions do not tempt him womankind. Content with a kerchief upon her closely-cropped head, the feminine Doukhobor is never tempted by vanity to fool herself on the paths of duty concerning her work or her children. Her wealth, her occasional religious discussion, hers is a life of really strenuous toil, without any of the luxuries of the world. She is apparently content as never woman was before her. The call of the great city, with its tempting wealth, its worshippers of the gods of Mammon and Desires, goes unheeded, as she sits in the common yards, mending out flaxen, or spinning on curious old Russian wheels.

What is the explanation of these peculiar people, who live so simply on a farm or ranch which may stretch for miles along the broad and stately Columbia river? And can Canada afford to lose the "wonders" and "brothers" of a community who have builded better than they knew, who have created a unique state in the midst of the wild—Christian Science Monitor.

HOW THIS NERVOUS WOMAN GOT WELL

Told by Herself. Her Sincerity Should Convince Others.

Christopher, Ill.—"For four years I suffered from irregularities, weakness, nervousness, and was in a run-down condition. Two of our best doctors failed to do me any good. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I tried it and was cured. I am no longer nervous, an regular, and in excellent health. I believe the Compound will cure any female trouble."—Mrs. ALICE HEALERS, Christopher, Ill.

Nervousness is often a symptom of weakness, which may be overcome by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as thousands of women have found by experience.

If complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions in regard to your ailment. The result of its long experience is at your service.

ITALIANS WIN GREAT VICTORY

Austrians Retreating in Great Disorder—Many Killed and Captured.

Austrians Repulsed at All Points.

Rome, June 25.—In announcing to his victorious army the repulse of the Austrians, General Diaz, the Italian commander-in-chief, says the fighting for the present is confined to local action. He calls upon the army to prepare for new trials. In an order of the day to his officers and men General Diaz says:

"The enemy who with furious impetuosity used all means of penetrating territory, has been repulsed at all points. His losses are very heavy. His pride is broken. Glory to all commands, all soldiers, all sabres, all rifles. New trials which we are defending. New trials which we, doubtless await will again show the enemy that Italy has lost none of her faith, strength and ambition."

"For Italy, for King, for civilization, let us persevere in our sacred duty."

General Badoglio, chief of staff to General Diaz, has been promoted by the King to the rank of an army commander as an expression of the King's satisfaction with the present operations. General Badoglio will remain in his present position.

Huns Retreating in Great Disorder.

London, June 25.—The Austrian retreat across the Piave River continues in the great disorder under the immediate fire of the allied artillery, according to news received here this morning. British gunners especially are doing heavy execution in this sector.

In the meantime the Austrians are rushing up new reserves to fill the breach through the Montello Plateau and Adriatic in order to avert a disaster. In spite of the official announcement from Vienna that the retreat was due entirely to the flood in the Piave River, the report states that the Italian armies caused the breaking of the offensive by their continuous pressure against the enemy.

BORDEAUX MIXTURE.

How to Mix and Resulting Benefits.

In these days when more thought is being given to the production of food than ever before, we should try to take advantage of all the means at our disposal.

In this connection I would recommend the use of Bordeaux Mixture on the gardens and farms.

Bordeaux made after any of the numerous formulas, and applied in any way is better than no application at all, but method of making has much to do with success in controlling disease. The manner of preparing the chemical together has more to do with the character of the resulting compound than is found with many spray solutions.

We are indebted to E. M. Straight for the following formula which he gives on a large scale, and applicable only to large farms.

For small gardens one pound each of bluestone and lime can be easily mixed by following the directions carefully.

I might also add that I only use Bordeaux in the mixture when spraying potatoes. Just plain Bordeaux for such tender plants as cucumbers, beans, etc.

In one barrel dissolve 40 pounds of copper sulphate, (commonly called bluestone) in 40 gallons of water, and in another slake 400 pounds of quicklime in 40 gallons of water. These are regarded as stock solutions and will keep indefinitely.

In a third barrel we place eight gallons of the bluestone stock and 32 gallons of water. In a fourth barrel we place eight gallons of lime solution and 32 gallons of water. The 91.2 bluestone and lime are then in dilute solution and are ready to be mixed.

The resulting mixture is known as Bordeaux. It will be seen that the mixture would contain 8 pounds of bluestone, 8 pounds of lime, and 80 gallons of water or of the strength 4-4-40 as commonly given. The Bordeaux is then ready for the spray or watering can. Bordeaux mixture is of course a fungicide and to this we add the poison, say one pound of Paris Green to 40 gallons of the Bordeaux making a combined insecticide and fungicide killing blight and insects at the one time.

It is not apparent why Bordeaux should be of such value to potatoes, when blight is not present, but such is the case. Many believe that the copper of the mixture acts as a stimulant to potatoes and other plants having an action similar to that of tonics administered to man. Again it may be that the evaporation from leaves covered with Bordeaux is not so great as others. At any rate leaves so treated are thicker, more vigorous, and remain green longer than leaves not treated.

It should be remembered that the various fungicides are preventive rather than cures. The secret is to get the leaves covered before they are attacked, and keep them so. If plants are covered with such armor, they are safe, for the spores, that is the seeds of the plant diseases, can find no feeding ground there.

There are some bacterial diseases of potatoes which cannot be controlled, but for early and late blight, those dreaded diseases of the potato, we recommend Bordeaux Mixture with all confidence.

It would facilitate matters to pulverize the bluestone before diluting.

H. R. SMITH.

An exchange truthfully remarks that the men who are walking from ocean to ocean and doing other stunts are wasting their time. They cannot make walking popular again. The modern man will not walk. He wants to ride in an automobile or fly—if he is going to make a change at all it will be to flying.

TELEVISION EXPERIENCE.

"How old are you?" asked the minister of a small boy who was celebrating his birthday.

"I'm four years old," replied the youngster, "and I'm glad of it too. I was getting awful tired of being three all the time."

His Mistake.

Officer—Say didn't you see the sign on the door, "Private entrance?"

Elmer—Y-y-yes, sir, I'm a p-p-private, sir.

Laugh When People Step On Your Feet

Try this yourself then pass it along, to others. It works!

Once I tried it! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cheekman authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freemore when applied to a tender, aching corn stops soreness at once, and soon the corn dries up and lifts right out without pain.

He says freemore is an ether compound which dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissues or skin. A quarter of an ounce of freemore will cost very little at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, callus or callous from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels.

Art Editor—"Seeing is believing."
An Editor—I asked one of the French soldiers what fall was in French.

Tommie—What did he say?
"He said there was no such word as fall in French."

A Dull Old World.
"The ancients thought the world was flat."

Well, no wonder. They had no cameras, no bridges, no cigarettes, no show girls, no moving-pictures, no Kaiser Bill. It must have been, in those days.

Many yards are an abomination to the eye and nose. One finds in them all sorts of litter and refuse, from oyster cans to old boots. Here the slops of the kitchen are poured to increase the odors which ought to warn every thoughtful person of malarial influence breeding there, to break out eventually in fevers or dysentery. If a member of the families dies from one of these diseases, his death is probably lamented as a "mysterious dispensation of Providence," but the minister would say if he were to visit the back yard, that death was caused solely by a violation of the hygienic laws.

NOT HIM.
It was somewhere in France, and the trenches looked like some river not on the map. Paddy was on guard in the communication trench and was up to his chest in water.

Along came a Cockney, who inquired of Paddy if he could direct him to a company of the East Lancashires.

Paddy's temper was not of the best for he had had a long weary guard. "Holy smokes!" he replied viciously, "the bloomin' ferromaster!"

Not So Mere.
The small boy sometimes sees and sees far. He reads the signs of the times unbarbaric. John at a co-education school in England, cut quite a good figure at the examinations, but failed to get the highest marks awarded in his mixed class. His father was astonished and incensed. John beaten by a girl! "John, I am surprised to find that you have allowed yourself to be defeated by a mere girl."

"Yes, father," says John, unblushingly. "I have, but I can tell you something—girls are not very mere after all."

The True Celtic Wit.
A good story of an episode that befell him in Dublin a little while before the war is told in a London newspaper by Adm. Sir Cecil Buxton, who was commander of a division at the battle of Jutland.

Accompanied by a friend, he was strolling along the quays when the conversation turned on the alleged gift of sapphire possessed by the Irish common people. His companion ventured to throw doubt upon that gift, saying that he believed it was only a legend.

"Well," retorted Sir Cecil, "I can tell you this, that if you care to test your theory by making some jesting remarks to anyone you like around here, you'll get just as good as you give."

"Well, by Jove!" said the other, and he walked over to where an old woman was displaying some fruit for sale on a stall. Taking up a fine melon and addressing the old lady, he said gravely: "You grow pretty good apples over here, mother; but in England we have these twice that size."

HONORED BY KING.

Naval Rescue Party Was Blown Up at Halifax.
Heroic conduct on the part of members of the rescue party in the harbor at the time of the disastrous explosion at the Albert Medal in gold had been awarded to Lieut.-Commander (Acting Commander) Tom Kenneth Triggs, R. N., and the Albert Medal to Able Seaman William Becker, O. N. J. 5841.

When the French steamer Mont Blanc, with a cargo of high explosive, came in collision with the Norwegian steamer Teso, and a fire broke out on the Mont Blanc, Commander Triggs, of H.M.S. Highflyer, volunteered to go and see if anything could be done to save life. He set off in the ship's whale, and pulled towards the bows of the Teso, which was about 300 yards from the Mont Blanc. He was about to pass a line from her to the tug when an explosion occurred. Of the seven people in the whale Becker was ashore, and the remaining including Commander Triggs, perished.

The Albert Medal has also been awarded to Seaman Thos. Davis, O. N. J. 18334 Dev., and Able Seaman Robert Spion, O. N. J. 18383 Rev., for their heroic rescue after the explosion. The two men boarded the tug Mtsquab, which was on fire, and which carried a gun and ammunition.

They then both went forward to the burning part, and commenced getting to the ammunition, which was by this time badly scorched, pulled away from the ship and threw it overboard. They then broke open the door of the galley, which was on fire inside, to enable the pump lighter to play her hose into it. They repeated the same thing with the cabin. By the time they made it possible to subdue the fire and save further damage and loss of life. At any moment whilst they were on board the Mtsquab the ammunition might have exploded.

A WOMAN CENSOR.

She Has the Fun of Reading British Mail.
The latest and, to a woman, the most attractive profession is that of postal censor. To the well-educated woman in her prime, hesitating as to her choice of service, the postal censorship offers opportunities for advancement not to be found elsewhere. The pay ranges, from $7.25 a week while learning, rising by increments of $1 to $15 a week, the maximum for an expert, with additional war bonus. There are at least fifty women earning more than $1,000 a year, supervising 20 or 40 examinees each. They have all risen from the ranks.

Now they hold the proud title of D.A.C. (deputy assistant censor), to which they have been elevated not so much for their language as for their general capacity. One girl of 19, engaged two years ago as a typist at $5 a week, rose $13 within three months. Another, beginning at $10, drew $20 within eight weeks.

Yet the deputy chief censor is that "we cannot get enough of the right kind of women to do the censor work, with long waiting lists of that vast machine, created mainly for restrictive measures, which yet for years has been the station not merely the War Office, but which it now forms an integral part, but the admiralty, the Foreign Office with its offshoots, the Propaganda Department, Contraband Committee, and on which the censoring of our blockade activities are based.

Is there enough of the right kind of women anywhere? The right kind of woman has many avenues open to her. Some offer service in France—adventure, romance, the making of a name, the honor of the uniform and a chance of honor and glory. But the woman censor, catch spies through the mail, see the things that are hidden.

There are women in the censorship to-day with three or more years' service who are not less than the heroines of war. They work in secret and in silence, with long waiting lists and their successes are hidden. They will not even tell their friends the nature of their work, but they do. Although the women examiners of mails number some 2,000, against some 500 in the censoring, there has been little mention of the women. The recent decision of the authorities to remove women from the censorship is a disclosure which can possibly be of use to the enemy, and the discipline habit of the censoring is not demanded of recruits, since the women are called to the work by the harsh needs of war, and the censor's office itself is not merely a matter of training and experience can be obtained.

The necessary qualifications are not merely linguistic, but they are not to be read other people's dull letters, as seems the general impression. The censoring is a matter of judgment and their unquestionable discretion besides their education and general knowledge of the world, and the common sense the work is absorbing, at times thrilling.

Like a war widens the censor's horizon. It is not until one marvels how the German secret service agent can slip through their manifold meshes. Slip through them he does, and that is why the country needs her gauntlets to help to outwit him.

In the women's army or navy the average pay of a sergeant is $245, with five free quarters. They must leave their homes, and to the woman who has settled in London this is a difficulty. But if the London dweller has not the robust health that enables her to get on her feet, though she can do a good day's work "on her head," if her family father is a man of letters, she will have responsibility, with scope for individuality and the great chance of bringing a spy to book by her keenness in drawing close the net.

Bulkheads Save Ships.
J. W. Isberwood, naval architect, told a London Express representative recently that the British merchant ships sunk by U-boats could have been saved if they had been built with bulkheads in the proportion of about one for every forty feet of their length. "It is quite a simple matter," he said, "to build a ship which cannot be sunk by one torpedo and, as a rule, that is sufficient to sink the ship. The mercantile marine to-day, I maintain that if the Glenart Castle had been built with ten instead of six watertight compartments she would have remained afloat. The same applies to practically all ships that have gone down as a result of one torpedo."

Read Kaiser's Palm; Fined.
Ruth Smith, a fortune teller, boarded as a means of drawing clients that she told the fortune of the Kaiser twenty-seven years ago. When she was charged with telling fortunes a magistrate fined her $25, although she said he did not take into consideration her forecast of the future of the Kaiser.

Not All Hours.
Mrs. Willis—They say your husband comes home at all hours of the night.
Mrs. Gillis—No; only the late ones.

She Knew.
Louise, nine years old, asked her mother:
"Where is papa going?"
"To a stag party," she replied.
"What is a stag party, mamma?"
"Sister Mabel, seven years old, who has been listening with a dignified attitude of superior wisdom answered instantly:
"It's where they stagger. Don't you know?"

Two Irishmen arranged to fight a duel with pistols. One of them was very stout, and when he saw his less adversary facing him he said: "Look here, I'm twice as big a target as you are, so I out to stand twice as far away from you as you are from me." "Wait a minute," replied the other; "I'll soon put that right." And, taking a piece of chalk, he drew two lines down the stout man's coat, leaving a space of moderate width between them. "Now," he said, "fire away, and remember that any hits outside that line don't count."

GOOD FISHING.
The recent use of water has made good salmon fishing in the rivers between Matapedia and Tide Head, and many fine salmon have been caught.

CAUGHT LARGE SALMON.
Dr. Finlay, who recently purchased the Nichol estate and erected a neat cottage on Dougan's Island has been enjoying some good fishing. He caught one thirty pound and one small salmon on Friday.

WHEEL CHAIR.
Has any person in Campbellton an invalid's wheel chair they would care to loan to a wounded soldier so that he can get out doors, or will some owner volunteer to take him out for an occasional car ride. Please notify Lieut. O. J. Lawson.

BORDEAUX MIXTURE.
On page three will be found the formula for Bordeaux Mixture which should be cut out and saved by every farmer and gardener. This formula has proved to be the most successful in this locality.

NEW STUDEBAKER.
What is needed to be the most beautiful and easiest riding car on the local market is now on display at the Lounsbury Co.'s warehouses here. It is the new Studebaker, which arrived last week. Any one interested in automobiles is invited to call and see this car.

ROAD REPAIRS.
A considerable amount of road repairs are under way between Campbellton and Dalhousie. Hon. Peter Veniot visited the work Tuesday and we hope it will be speed up. A number of sections between Campbellton and Dalhousie Junction are very rough.

BEAUTIFUL WINDOW DISPLAY.
Our reporter was attracted during the holiday by a beautiful window display at F. E. Shephard & Co's. store. The entire scheme being brought out by green boughs forming a rustic seat supported at either side by massive pillars. A lady model seated with her knitting, dressed in one of the firm's new summer dresses completed this attractive display.

PRESENTATION.
On the eve of the departure from Newcastle of Dr. Charles W. Squires, pastor of the Methodist church, a reception was given at the congregation, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Clarke, presented him with an address and a sum of money as a token of their appreciation of his ministry and best wishes for his future. The address was delivered by Ald. H. H. Stuart of the Quarterly Board and the money presented by Miss Ethel Allison of the choir. Dr. Squires made a very feeling reply, and the gathering dispersed with "Blessed be the Tie That Binds."

PRESENTATION.

On the eve of the departure from Newcastle of Dr. Charles W. Squires, pastor of the Methodist church, a representative gathering of the congregation, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Clarke, presented him with an address and a sum of money as a token of their appreciation of his ministry and best wishes for his future. The address was delivered by Ald. E. H. Stuart of the Quarterly Board and the money presented by Miss Ethel Allison of the choir. Dr. Squires made a very feeling reply, and the gathering dispersed with "Blessed be the Tie That Binds."

FAST FISH FREIGHT.

Owing to the lack of sufficient express refrigerator cars at the present time, and the necessity of conserving coal, the plan to increase the express service for fish shipments, supplied under the auspices of the Canadian Food Board, has been attempted, and a fish freight service will be established instead. Under the new arrangements, a fast fish freight service between Mulgrave, Halifax and Montreal, with connections through to Toronto, has been agreed upon and introduced by Mr. Hayes, of the Canadian Government Railways.

The happy couple left on a trip to Berlin and other southern points after which they will take an extended trip through the White Mountains.

KENNEDY-DOGGETT.

A very pretty wedding took place on Monday at 5 a. m. in the Convent of the Sea of the Holy Rosary, Douglastown, when Mr. Leo Kennedy was united in marriage to Miss Jennie Louise Doggett. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Gauthier and only relatives and intimate friends were present. Mr. Anthony Kennedy, brother of the groom acted as groomsman and Miss Frances Doggett, sister of the bride as bridesmaid. The bride wore a gown of grey satin with chantilly lace with veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of cream roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore a gown of black silk with large black hat and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas. The ushers were Mr. J. Morris and Miss Belliveau. After the ceremony light refreshments were served, the happy couple leaving at 6.30 for a trip to Montreal. On their return they will reside in Douglastown, where Mr. Kennedy is the popular manager of the firm of Kennedy Brothers.

Served Her Right.

Uncle was talking to a single lady, who is a property owner and lives next door. "Expenses keep piling up on me," she complained. "Broken hose cost me $5 just last week."

"Served you right!" growled Uncle.

"What did you mean by that? My hose was..."

"You don't need to tell me. Your hose was broken and you lost the five."

Why in thunder, madam, don't you put your money in the bank instead of carrying it around that way?"

ONE ON HIS DAD.

My son, aged six, had been reading in one of his books about "Billy White-knives," and came to a part where "Billy and Nanny" were married. We sat down to supper and my son, with the story still in mind, said: "Mamma, how old are goats when they get married?"

His mother said, "Why, dear I do not know."

Then turning to me, he asked "pa-pa, how old were you when you got married?"

ATHOL. Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a baby boy at their home recently. Mr. T. Shepard spent a few days here last week the guest of his daughter Mrs. Wm. Harris. Pte. Arthur Keeley of the Depot Battalion, Sussex is home on leave. Miss Carmel Jolicoeur left on Monday for Montreal where she will spend her holidays. The closing exercises of the advanced department of the Athol school took place on Friday last. On account of the concert held in the opera house only a short programme was carried out. Including the class work at the close of the exercises, the pupils presented their teacher Miss Murphy with an engraved signet ring. An address was read by Miss Clementine Klippert and the presentation made by Miss Maud Warman. Miss Murphy thanked the pupils. The exercises were then brought to a close by the salutation of the flag and singing of the national anthem. The Soldiers' Comfort Association met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. T. Little, a very enjoyable evening being spent by those present. Miss Annie Hamilton was the guest of Mrs. John Dickinson last week. An epidemic of small-pox was discovered at the south boom house some time ago. The men have been placed under strict quarantine, and it is thought they will be out in a short time if no more cases are found. Misses Alta Ireland and Sadie Gallen were the guests of Mrs. Dan. Viennet last week. A very successful concert was held in the Opera House on Wednesday evening last by the advanced department of the Athol school. Quite a crowd attended, and the sum of $12.00 was realized which has been handed to the Soldiers' Comfort Association. The teachers wish to thank Mr. Smith for the use of the Opera House, also Miss Thompson who furnished the music.

JACQUET RIVER. Our road commissioners have been busy of late and have added considerably to the roads around Jacquet River bridge. The western approach has received a much needed coat of gravel, which improves it greatly, and there would have been a very nasty wreck if it had not been so. The good people of Nash's Creek have once more been stirred up by a railway accident, but they are getting accustomed to such little incidents. A wreck is quite a common occurrence. The Mackay Express decided to leave the rails about a mile east of the station on Thursday morning, for no apparent reason, except to keep up the good record of the vicinity. Luckily it did not occur an acre farther on, or there would have been a very nasty wreck to report. No one was injured, and no lot left lying around loose. An Ice Cream Sale under the auspices of the Red Cross Society will be held in the Red Cross rooms at Durham Centre on Saturday evening. Ice cream was also sold at the Temperance Hall at Nash's Creek on Registration Day, and a nice amount realized for Red Cross purposes. Mr. Wallace Sheehan of Dalhousie spent last week in town on business. Mrs. Paul Doyle was in Chatham on Friday to attend the closing of St. Michael's Academy. Mrs. Doyle was accompanied home by her daughter Irene.

BLACK CAPE. The sudden death of Miss Hannah Hardy occurred here on Wednesday evening, June 12th after a few hours illness. Deceased was in her 49th year. Her home was in the city of Montreal but she came here early in May with her aged mother, and were spending the summer at their cottage. Besides her mother, Mrs. Henry Hardy she leaves three sisters Mrs. John Artye and Mrs. of Montreal, and Mrs. John Burton of Caplin River, one brother Edward who is on active service in France.

SAME FISH. The lonely fisherman fished his net and pushed his plate away with a gesture of distaste. "I don't care for this turbot very much, Mrs. O'Flanagan," he said to his housekeeper. "It's nothing like so good as what you gave me a week ago." "Sure, sir, and that's a strange thing!" exclaimed the old dame. "Tis off the very same fish."

GRAY HAIR. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon the 13th and was largely attended. The service being conducted by Rev. E. J. Rattee assisted by Mr.

A STURDY PROPEL

Newfoundland Does Not Attract a Casual Visitor.

The casual visitor who may journey along the black Newfoundland shores, perhaps as far as the Labrador, will wonder how any one could want to live there. The rock-bound coast, the great inland barrens, the seemingly ever-present fogs on the coast, and very limited opportunities for employment—outside of fishing there is little reason to be for the larger part of the people—offer few inducements for settlers. But it is a hardy race that has made its home on its shores, built the little houses that border the bays and hang on the rocks of the tiny fishing ports. Some of these houses literally stand on stilts, supported along the steep cliffsides in the manner of the platform called "fakes" that the visitor wonders over as he sails into the narrow entrance of the harbor at St. John's. These fakes, for drying fish, are typical of the entire coast. You will see them along the shores of every little harbor. A traveller who goes no farther than St. John's, and then out to Quidi Vidi, Torbay, Middle Cove, Portual Cove, will get a good idea of the simple, limited life of the fishing people.

The fishing season is a very short one, from about June until September, and the rest of the year the fisherman is always a matter of speculation. The hand-liners who fish with bait go out in their small punts in fair weather and foul, lie to (in the rough seas along the rocky shores) with a larger sail set, and trust to luck. The cold waters, the ever-mening fogs, and the floating icebergs make it a hardship for even starve for thousands, and even with good fishing the harvest of living fish is in debt for supplies, and they start the new season with a heavy load of debt. The little hope of ever getting square. The middleman and the storekeeper own many of them.

Passing a little fleet of punts bobbing about in the choppy seas in the island is a sight to see. Here and there you will see smoke rising from a boat, the sign of a breakfast of hot food in their little homes. The boats without occupants until you get alongside and can look down into the cabin, and then you will probably see two tired men or a man and a boy lying asleep in the bottom. (Every day they are called by a skilled fisherman and can handle a boat like an old sailor.) Four or five dollars a day they will earn with fair luck, but there are many days when luck is not fair. The work is hard, the exposure to the cold fogs and the spray brings rheumatism, and the percentage of tuberculosis cases in the island is appalling. In spite of Dr. Grenfell's efforts, the people have not yet learned that fresh air is their best medicine. In the winter many of the little houses are sealed tight, the windows never opened.

NEW RICHMOND RED TRIANGLE FUND

During May, and at the time of the Y. M. C. A. drive all over Canada, the New Richmond boys were organized, two and two, and went out to collect for this worthy cause. They made a splendid success of the work, and the treasurer has had in hand for over a month the official receipt for $305.90 sent to Montreal headquarters. This was the gross total collected in New Richmond and sections adjacent. The names of the boys, who did so well are as follows:—Hastwell Montgomery, James Henderson, George Rattee, Harold Gilker, Bryce Montgomery, R. McAdam, Reggie McLellan, Clifton Kerr, R. Brake, E. McWhirter, Kenneth Campbell, Lawrence Kerr, Lloyd Duthie, Luther Willett, Dudley Dimeck, Raymond Willett, Charles Cook, Fred Robertson, Herbert Robertson, J. S. C. Fallo and one young lady, Miss Bond, who kindly stepped into a vacant place. To all these the sincere thanks of the treasurer are tendered. In a letter from Mr. W. M. Birks of Montreal, he speaks of the most generous contribution contribution from New Richmond and vicinity.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH NEW RICHMOND, QUE. Sunday July 7th. New Richmond 11 a.m. Grand Caspacia at 3 p.m. New Richmond at 7.30 p.m. Rev. E. J. Rattee, Pastor.

Military Indecision. A sergeant was trying to drill a lot of raw recruits, and after working hard for three hours he thought they seemed to be getting into some sort of shape, so decided to test them. "Right turn!" he cried. Then, before they had ceased to move, came another order, "Left turn!" One hoodlum left the ranks and started off towards the barracks room.

Why He Wished to Marry. A Galveston widow says that the stoutest proposition she has received was from a professional lecher, who said he wanted a place to stay at night after the pool halls close.

Gray Hair. The lonely fisherman fished his net and pushed his plate away with a gesture of distaste. "I don't care for this turbot very much, Mrs. O'Flanagan," he said to his housekeeper. "It's nothing like so good as what you gave me a week ago." "Sure, sir, and that's a strange thing!" exclaimed the old dame. "Tis off the very same fish."

WOLF BECAME A SOLDIER

A somewhat unusual case has come to the attention of the Toronto authorities in connection with the distribution of soldiers' insurance.

The delicate boy told his mother of the wish he had to become a soldier. It appeared to her sympathetic heart. She took him in to live with her car children, clothed and fed him until he grew up to be a stalwart youth. When the war broke out he enlisted, fought, and was killed in action.

No objection was taken by his relatives to the boy being adopted by the woman, whose name was put in for the $1,000 insurance on his life. The poor woman who brought up the boy said she did not want the money herself, but objected to it going to any of the boy's relatives. The case is receiving attention, and she will probably get it, as the city regulations provide that any person who acts in loco parentis, or in the place of a parent, shall be entitled to the insurance.

Only Two Left. Rooney and Mooney, two Canadian soldiers, went up to London together and as they strolled down one of the streets Rooney noticed a shop which he thought he had seen before. While his clothes were being repaired, as there was nothing in the window, he saw two clerks sitting on their high stools, busily writing. "I say," he said to the man in the window, "You have nothing in the window." "Oh," said one of the clerks, with a superior smile, "we sell nothing here." "Well, then," returned Rooney, "you must be doing a roaring trade; only two of you left!"

Nothing New. "Enter consider my course in efficiency training. I can show you how to earn more money than you are getting." "I do that now."

Eczema. Come in and we will tell you nothing about what Dr. D. P. Froese, of Toronto, has accomplished in your own neighborhood. Your most stubborn skin trouble is the first bottle reliever you will use.

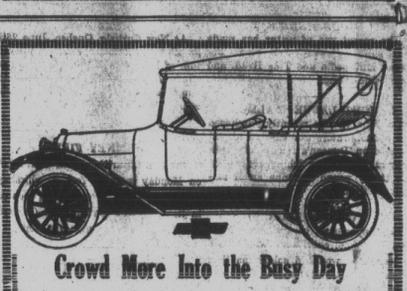

Gray Hair. The lonely fisherman fished his net and pushed his plate away with a gesture of distaste. "I don't care for this turbot very much, Mrs. O'Flanagan," he said to his housekeeper. "It's nothing like so good as what you gave me a week ago." "Sure, sir, and that's a strange thing!" exclaimed the old dame. "Tis off the very same fish."

SAVE FOOD In a time of food economy many people are not getting all the nourishment they might from their food. It is not how much you eat, but much you assimilate, that does you good. The addition of a small teaspoonful of Borax to the diet as a peptogenic before meals leads to more thorough digestion and assimilation and thus saves food, for you need less.

Crowd More Into the Busy Day THE CHEVROLET 490 is an investment, not an expense of luxury. Doctors, business men, farmers, salesmen and ladies—all should use the Chevrolet Four-Ninety and crowd more energy, activity and business into the busy day. The Four-Ninety stands unchallenged in its price class. The electric starting and lighting equipment is most efficient. The car is powerful, roomy, comfortable and economical. The time gained by operating a Chevrolet more than pays for the cost.

Vocal Records that Stand Supreme IN the making of Pathe's Vocal Records, by a recording process used only by Pathe, every note, big or little, every delicate nuance, every breath, tone or expression of the artist is faithfully caught and inscribed. The Pathe record in which the minute sound waves are recorded is from two to four times as large as in any other record. This big groove enables Pathe to get 40% more tone colors and detail. Compare these records with other makes in the same class. Study the detail, the tone quality, the true naturalness of the voice, the orchestral accompaniment, always in perfect sympathy, yet note how voice and instrument each stand out clear and distinct right through to the end. The satisfying completeness of a Pathe vocal record leaves nothing to be desired. The Pathe repertoire includes records by the foremost artists of the world, and will prove a revelation to the critical lover of the exceptional in music. While to hear Pathe's records at their best, they should be played on the Pathephone, yet if you already have a machine of another make, any Pathe's agent can equip it to play Pathe's records—or, better still—will make you a liberal allowance for your machine in part payment of a Pathephone, which plays any record.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S RESOURCES

In the material age, the cry is for opportunity, opportunity to develop and utilize every available asset. While much interesting and instructive material has been published regarding the province of New Brunswick, from time to time, by both the federal and provincial governments it has chiefly to do with her possibilities from the standpoint of the agriculturist. Her vast wealth of forests and mines; her water powers and vast tracts of her shores of fish and game have not made the subject matter of many concrete publications. It is only of comparatively recent years that the attention of the world has been effectively called to the undeveloped resources of this little province by the sea.

There has been issued recently a small pamphlet of 27 pages entitled "The Province of New Brunswick, Its Natural Resources, Developed and Undeveloped." While the wealth of the forest, mine and fisheries has been dealt with in this little work, it must not be supposed that the agricultural advantages of the province have been ignored. By no means. They have been given a prominent place, as they well deserve. Following them, the subjects of forestry, mines, fisheries, water powers, water ways, angling and fur farming have been treated in a concise but intelligible manner. What adds very materially to the value of the publication, is the series of maps outlining the agricultural, forestry, mining and water power situations.

This pamphlet may be obtained gratis, on application to the Superintendent of the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch, Department of the Interior, at Ottawa.

Reason Enough. The customers complain the coffee tastes like mud. Chef—"That's right; tell them it was ground this morning."

There's no use saying it. In the Canadian Rockies, you can't see a tree of great timber if there wasn't a mountain with no other trees. The tourist who comes to the mountains with no other than a pack of traps to keep off the ground and for the best of his holiday. "I'd had good weather all the time, but the weather was so sunny day after the other, half way between field and mountain, that I was sure to get a pack of traps to keep off the ground and for the best of his holiday. "Do you ever remember noticed the charming valley between the mountains? THE TREES.

The poplar is a French tree,
A tall and laughing weech tree,
A slender tree, a tender tree,
That whispers to the rain,
An easy, breezy Sapper tree,
A libbe and blithe and dapper tree,
A glit of tree, a sport of tree,
Beside the shallov Ains.

The oak is a British tree,
And not at all a skittish tree;
A rough tree, a tough tree,
A knotty tree, a knotty tree,
A drive-his-nose-in-deep tree,
A high-top, a high-top tree,
A mighty tree, a mighty tree,
A tree of stubborn thorns.

The pine tree is our own tree
A grown tree, a cone tree,
The tree to face a bitter wind,
The tree for mast and spar—
A mountain tree, a sea tree,
A fragrant tree, a resinous tree,
A lumber tree, a lumber tree,
And resinous with tar!

AIRMAN WON V.C.

gallant exploit of Youth From Manitoba.

A remarkable story of a flight in the air by a young Manitoba airman who won him the Victoria Cross is officially related by the War Office.

Lieut. Alan A. McLeod, son of Dr. McLeod, St. John's, Manitoba, is only eighteen years old, and has seen less than two months' service in France. He has been in the air service only one year, enlisting directly after training, partly in Canada.

The official story runs that while flying with an observer, Lieut. A. W. Hammond, and attacking formations of German aeroplanes, Lieut. McLeod was assailed at the height of five thousand feet by eight triplanes which dived at him from all directions, firing from their front.

He enabled his observer by skillful manoeuvring to direct fire bursts at each machine in turn, shooting three down out of control. Lieut. McLeod by this time had received five wounds. Whilst engaged in the engagement a bullet penetrated the petrol tank and set the machine alight. He had to bail out on the left bottom plane, controlling the machine from the side of the fuselage and side-repelling assembly kept the flames to one side, thus enabling the observer to continue firing till the ground was reached. An observer had been wounded six times, when the machine crashed in the sea. Lieut. McLeod, notwithstanding his wounds, dragged him away from the burning wreck, and at great personal risk took heavy machine-gun fire.

This very gallant pilot was again wounded by a heavy shell burst in the act of rescue, but persevered until he placed Lieut. Hammond in comparative safety. He saved himself from exhaustion and loss of blood.

Lieut. McLeod is the Canadian Press understands, in a hospital in London, and his condition is serious.

BEAVER IN F. E. I.

About eight years ago the Provincial Government of Prince Edward Island received from the Government of Ontario two pairs of beavers. These became the property of Robert Jenkins, an English farmer, who was a fur farmer. These were the first beavers on the island for many years.

To-day the beaver population is quite numerous. A portion of these are in the ranch owned by the Mt. Allison Fur Co. and others are in different parts of the province.

A report submitted by a committee appointed by the Development Commission to investigate the beaver industry with a view to the desirability of conserving it for the island.

They find that while the island contains no vast waste areas, laws can be enacted similar to those in other provinces which will confine the beaver to suitable districts so that no serious damage can occur to valuable wooded or farm lands.

In the report of Mount Allison it is reported that there are upwards of two thousand beavers, though it is difficult for the committee to form an estimate of their own. The damage done so far in that section is trifling, and the committee are assured that with the introduction of certain regulations valuable properties in that section can be safeguarded against injury. In the event of the beaver spreading to districts where valuable lands were situated and in the event of damage thereby resulting, a law should provide that the beaver be trapped alive under Government supervision and removed to a more suitable location.

An offer is being made by the owners of Mount Allison Colonies to sell their land and beavers to the Government.

Prayer for the Kaiser.

Santiago Abadia, a resident of South America, who has been indent at the O.A.C. Ouelph, since last September, was arrested at the college by Inspector D. H. Reynolds of the Immigration Department, and was fined $100 and costs of two and a half years in the penitentiary, and ordered deported to his own country, after he pleaded guilty to writing a letter to a friend in Columbia which contained objectionable matter under the War Measures Act. The letter was written in Spanish and intercepted by the Dominion censor.

Part of the letter reads:

"In relation to the war, if I am not mistaken, you are pro-ally. I respect your inclination, but I am content more pro-German daily, and every morning I pray for the Kaiser and his army."

Fighting the Locust.

Truroy has appointed a commission to investigate the feasibility of a scheme to turn the locust pest into a blessing by using these insects in the manufacture of fertilizer, soap and lubricants and stock feed.

Helping Education.

Motion pictures are being used with great success in connection with lectures and demonstrations on agriculture in the Province of Ontario.

By Mistake.

"One day didn't you see the sign on the door, 'Private entrance'?"

"Eh, yes, yes, sir, I'm a p-p-private, sir."

Tedious Experience.

"How old are you?" asked the auditor of a small boy who was exhibiting his herding.

"Ten, yes, sir, but I'm a p-p-private, sir."

Story Told by English Girl

About a U-Boat Captain

Captured by the British

THROUGH the Manchester Guardian there has just been made public a story of the sinking of a submarine which has some dramatic features. The story was written by a girl who lives in a remote seacoast village. Names are suppressed, but the article is well worth while reproducing without comment. It is as follows:

"At midnight on last night I heard a terrific explosion, and, wrapping a dressing gown about me, rushed down to my father, who had heard the report, but made little of it. Then, father remembered our two old boats, and forthwith these were manned by some eager boys.

"No time was lost, but we were there in ten minutes. The boat was seen to be in the bay, and we were there in ten minutes. The boat was seen to be in the bay, and we were there in ten minutes. The boat was seen to be in the bay, and we were there in ten minutes.

"Will-Be-Sure"

DO NOT NEGLECT YOUR EYES

We hear much of people who sacrifice everything to sartorial splendor. They would go without dinner every day for a new pair of shoes.

Sacrificing health for appearance is not good policy—it does not make for health or happiness.

Not only do you squint and frown when you neglect your eyes, but you seriously injure your health.

Better have a careful examination made.
