Joubert Claims To Be "Cutting Off the Retreat of the Estcourt Troops to Pietermaritzburg." London, Thursday, Nov. 23 .- 5 a.m.-Although it is evident that the situation in Natal is again becoming sufficiently alarming, nothing can be officially ascertained to allay public anxiety or the curiosity felt regarding the disposition of the reinforcements recently landed at Durban. The war office dispatches are confined to a mere recital of a few casualties at happened. The special correspon- forces at Elandslaagte. dents are only permitted to describe Boers are within 25 miles of Howick Falls, near Pietermaritzburg, and that the inhabitants are fleeing to the cap-Ital. Evidently a considerable force of the enemy is within thirty or forty miles of Pietermaritzburg, but it is numbers a thousand men, with six guns. Little is known regarding the food supplies of the garrisons thus iso-lated. It is believed that Estcourt is well provided, but there is less confidence in the case of Mooi River. GEN. JOUBERT'S PLAN, apparently, is a daring attempt to defeat the British relieving column from Durban in detail, while still attempting the reduction of Ladysmith. serious attack on Mooi River camp is hourly expected with the destroying of the bridge at Weston. Should this be accomplished, the Boers would be free to turn their attention to Estcourt, while, if it failed, the enemy would retire again on Weenen and join the investing forces around Ladysmith. In his latest report, Gen. Joubert says: "I am cutting off the retreat of the Estcourt troops to Pieter-maritzburg, and driving them back on the Hugela River."

It is also reported that the Boer com-mander with the forces near Ladysmith has "comprehensively surveyed different points from which the fall of Ladysmith can be insured." THE ATTACK ON MOOI RIVER.

Durban, Nov. 22.—The Boers opened fire with artillery on Mooi River camp from the north, but without casualties to the British. The telegraph line was cut Tuesday vening near Highland's station. BRITISH ON THE DEFENSIVE. Durban, Nov. 22-4:10 p.m.-Today's engagement at Mooi River found the British almost entirely on the defensive. A correspondent of the Natal Advertiser says the Boers' second shell fell within a few yards of a de-tachment of British infantry, that the shells did little or no damage, and that firing continued for about half an hour, at intervals from three to four minutes. According to this account the British troops hurrled with the utmost promptitude and advanced under cover wherever possible. The British artillery was in position behind the hotel, where Gen. Barton and his staff were being accommodated. Major Thornycroft's mounted infantry moved to cover on the ridge on the enemy's left flank. The Devonshire Regiment and the Royal Welsh Fusiliers occu-pied the trenches. There was but little fire, the correspondents says, but the enemy possessed at least one howitzer, with a range of five miles, besides several six-pounders.

The majority of the Free State Boers, indeed, look upon the affair as a pleasant picnic through Natal, with peace terms to be dictated by Gen. Joubert from Pietermaritzburg, with British withdrawal and an immense Mooi River, which confirm the re- strengthening of the Dutch republican ports of skirmishes there, but give Position in the country.

Pretoria, Tuesday, Nov. 21.—The official returns of the Transvaal casualties since the outbreak of the war show ninety men have been killed and 200 wounded, of whom a number have recovered and returned to the front. Newspaper reports from Cape Colony say a general rising of the Dutch farmers is imminent in Natal, and that the colonial borderers in those districts which have been proclaimed Republican territory, have already

nesday afternoon's evidence: Dr. W. J. Teasdall was the physician who first examined Gowanlock after ture of a blood vessel at the base of the brain. The rupture was caused by dislocation of the third vertebrae. Authorities gave as causes of such dis- ed that Peterson was a regularly qualeffect being produced by a blow on the

Dr. Chas. F. Neu said a blow on the chin would be more apt to cause fracture of the jaw or fracture of the skull than to cause a dislocation of the ver-

Dr. Hadley Williams said a blow delivered directly in front would not likely cause a dislocation. Weaker parts, would be more apt to give way. A fall might easily cause dislocation. If a man's head was turned sideways as much as possible a blow on the chin might also result in the same way. The first vertebrae was the weakest, but in case of dislocation it was the fifth that was usually out.

THE DEFENSE. Richard Jones for the defense described Gowanlock's condition previous to the trouble with the prisoner as very quarrelsome. Gowanlock had used bad language toward Harding.

Robert Way also heard Gowanlock cursing Harding, and said he was quar-relsome toward the witness also. Dr. J. D. O'Neil told of having or-dered Gowanlock out of his stable on Aug. 28, on account of his objectionable

Dr. Blackwell, for whom Harding had worked at odd times, gave the prisoner a good character. The prisoner, George Harding, was then put in the box. He said he was born in London, 35 years ago, is a butcher by trade, but for several years has followed the business of groom. He first saw Gowanlock on the morning of Aug. 28, the day of the tragedy. Gowanlock was then under the influence of liquor. He next saw the man in the evening. Gowanlock came towards the witness in the O'Neil House yard where witness was bandaging a horse's legs and grossly insulted him. The prisoner thought Gowanlock's design was to grapple with him, and kept moving about on guard. Beach seized the witness and told him to sit down. Gowanlock went away and came back, still offensive. The third time he came out he had his coat and vest off, and advanced towards the witness with his hands raised. Witness took a few steps to meet him. Gowanlock shoved the witness on the chest, and witness struck Gowanlock two quick blows with his left arm, swinging short with his right. He did not hit Gowanlock on the chin. He would not have struck deceased, if the latter had not struck him first. He did not see deceased fall, and it was some time later he heard the man was dead. When he did hear it he immediately gave himself up.

Mr. Adam Beck, for whom the prisiner had worked off and on for the past six or seven years, gave him a good character. Edmund Meredith, Q.C., addressed the jury for the accused. He made an eloquent plea for acquittal. The jury was sworn to give the prisoner the benefit of the doubt, he said. It was only upon thoroughly reliable evidence the pris-oner could be found guilty. Nearly every witness called for the crown had been confronted with the evidence given at the inquest, and descrepancies pointed out by the crown prosecutor himself. Gowanlock had insulted the prisoner in the grossest manner. He was the aggressor. The blows were delivered by Harding in self-defense. No man could have absolute and per-fect control of his temper. After what had taken place it was only natural Harding should strike back. There was also the doubt, Mr. Meredith said, about the blows by Harding causing the fall. One witness, Harry O'Neil, thought Gowanlock was pulled back by some one. The crown had failed to establish the cause of Gowanlock's

E. F. B. Johnston, Q. C., very ably presented the case of the crown. the witnesses' statements, he said some of the witnesses had either forgotten what they said at the coroner's inquest or for some other reason were giving different evidence. He was not imputing bad motives, but memory was de-ceptive. Of the plea that Harding was justified in striking Gowanlock, the learned counsel said foul language was used by both men. There was no pretense that it was the reason for the being struck. Deceased had been much under the influence of liquor. The action on Harding's part was deliberate, when he might easily have walked

The chief justice followed the impassioned appeals of the opposing coun-sel with a clear and cold presentation of the essential features of the evidence. The jury had to decide as to the cause of death. Was the dislocation the result of a fall, and was the fall the result of a blow delivered by the Was the dislocation risoner? If so, was the blow delivered self-defense? If not, the act was a rongful one, and the prisoner was evidence to show that Gowanlock was pulled back after Parding struck him, and there appeared to be no reason why Harding should not have walked away before striking Gowanlock. To establish the offense, it was only necessary to prove that the deceased came to his death at the hands of the prisoner, while committing a wrongful act. No malice needed to be proven. As engineer he had had full charge of the machinery, as well as the engine. He was on duty in the engine room when he went out to replace the belt. The machinery had been inspected by an expert when the company took it over,

w. Hartsleven swore that he saw the accident, as he was applying a belt at the counter-shaft pulley at the time. Peterson was standing on a ledge of the wall on a level with the pulley. He would require to stoop down to reach the pulley. Witness could not see what part of Peterson's clothes had been caught first.

Mr. Larsen, foreman, said Peterson was in full charge of the machinery, and was carrying out his instructions in replacing any belt on a pulley. He was a competent and careful engin-

Wm. Chambers said he was employed in the sausage room, but up till within the past few weeks he was in charge of the machinery, and it was part of his duty to put belts on pulleys when required. He did not know of anyone having been appointed in his place.

James Creighton, fireman at the factory said he went cut of the confactory, said he went out of the en-gine-room at the same time as the engineer. He did not see the accident, but hearing the noise was on the scene a moment later. He did not think the electric wires interfered with replac-ing the belt. Peterson was in the habit of applying the belt once or twice a week when the machinery in the adjoining sausage-room was to be put in

F. E. Mitchell, a mechanical engineer, was sworn, and said that at the request of counsel for the widow, he had examined the machinery which caused the accident, 24 hours after it happened. Everything was apparently just as it had been when the accident occurred. He stated that there was no platform or other means by which belt could be replaced from a safe position. The man had to climb up on a ledge of the wall, on a level with the pulley, and feed the belt from the far side, reaching over the shaft and two electric wires, which ran parallel with the shaft and the shaft and two electric wires, which ran parallel with the shaft and two electric wires, which ran parallel with the shaft and two electric wires, which ran parallel with the shaft and the shaft a with the shaft. Besides, contact with the electric wires might cause a shock which would throw a man off ledge. The bolts clamping the pulleys projected through the arms far enough to permit of their catching clothing that came within their reach. He was the decided opinion that the deceased was in a dangerous position to apply a belt. Besides, the belt in question need never have been off the pullev, unless the object were to save wear, as there was a shifter in the adjoining sausage-room, and an idle pulley on which it was intended to be put when the machinery in the sausage-room was not in use Dr. Laurie stated that he was called immediately after the accident, and found Peterson dead. The body was badly crushed and portions of it were

The inquest was adjourned till Monday night next, when the evidence of the present engineer and one or two other witnesses will be taken.

TO THE COUNCIL

Manager of the Canadian Packing Company Makes Reply.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Did Ald. Pritchard know what he spoke about at the council meeting of Nov. 21 re the Canadian Packing Company's sewer? I never knew that the Canadian Packing Company had asked anything unfair of the city. When the company came out here (1892) it was recommended by Sir John Carling to build in London, and we wanted to build where the Watson box factory now is situated; but the bylaw says that no slaughter-house is allowed inside city limits. But the council of that year were willing to do anything to locate the new industry near London, and they asked us if they could do anything to help; but we thanked them, as at the time we knew of nothing, as we wished to start without any help. After the lot was bought, our contracts let to London contractors only, I went home in December and expected to see the buildings finished in the spring of 1893, when I came out with skilled labor, but to my great disappointment they were not finished before July, although we were recommended to take the best architect, as he was employed by the city as engin-eer. Before starting we had made arrangements with a then prominent butcher in the market to handle our ullty of manslaughter. There was no offal, but after the first killing he could not take it, as he did not expect so much; so we got permission from the market clerk to occupy an empty stall in the market until we could ask the council to rent it at the usual rent. But it was rented to a butcher in the market, and the council declined to rent it to us shortly after it stood

In both these preparations the Albumen and Fibrin, which are the Nourishing Constituents of the Meat, are lost, being congealed into the residue in an absolutely indigestible form.

This summer we made application to the city for tapping their sewer at Seventh Officers Will Write for Certifi East London, we to lay a six-inch sewer at our own expense, and we were willing to pay a yearly sewer tax on our property, just the same as any other factory of our size, lying in the city, has to pay. After two inspections by the committee (and several meetings), it was told us that the committee would recommend permission to tap the sewer under the following condition: We to construct a fifteen-inch sewer from Egerton street to city limits (which would cost about $1,200) and make it a present to the city, and we also, at our own expense, construct a six-inch sewer to packinghouse, and give a guarantee that no grease or any other objectionable mat-ter should go into this sewer. This we accepted, and the committee then recommended it, but it was referred back to committee by council; and then again was recommended by the committee, and again sent back after such nice speeches by Ald. Pritchard and Aid. O'Meara.

I do not think that our solicitor has cracked any blacksnake whip at the committee, as they have met us in a very courteous and business-like way but he might have cracked the whip over the council for the very unbusiness-like way they treated the com-mittee and the packing company, and, of course, where the whip touched there comes a squeal. The packing company has paid from three-quarters to one million dollars out in London yearly through the bank of British North America, and never asked for any favor, and then get such treatment from one or two aldermen. Is the city at large profited by such representatives? their speeches scare new manufacturers away down here now, when every city wants as many industries as possible? In Toronto, Palmerston, Strat-ford, Harriston and Hamilton the councils allow the packing houses to drain into the sewers, and in some places they give them financial aid to carry on their business. Messrs. Pritchard and O'Meara might be good aldermen for cities 100 years behind the times, but for a city up to date it is very doubtful. A city like London ought to be represented by men who help to build it up, like mechanics, factory owners, wholesalers and contractors. Thanking you for space in your paper, I remain, yours truly.

Alexander Brown, 119 Elizabeth Street, Cured of Rheumatism-Found No Other Remedy Would Help Him-Two Boxes Fixed Him.

Toronto, Nov. 22 .- This city is the home of the great world-remedy Dodd's Kidney Pills. The discovery of the medicine that would act on the kidneys was made here, and here is where Dodd's Kidney Pills made their first cures. It is interesting to note the fact that a greater number of cures from the different forms of Kidney Disease is made in Toronto than in any other town or city in Ontario.

This is a significant fact. Dodd's Kidney Pills were introduced here. They have been known longer in To-ronto therefore than anywhere else. If they were not a sterling remedy it is impossible to suppose that they would, have had anything but a temporary favor in this city. So far from this being the case, however, they have become the popular medicine here. They are in greater demand in the drug stores of Toronto today than they have ever been be-

Wednesday Afternoon. THE BIGAMY CASE.

At 4:20 the trial of Jordan Pickell, charged with bigamy, began. Pickell is the big ex-motorman on the London street railway, who acted as president of Division 97 of the Employes' Association at the time of the first strike, and for some months afterwards. His face, as he appeared in the dock, was placed, though not infrequently lighted up with a bland smme as he caught the eye of some acquaintance in the densely packed court room. Wife No. 2 often cast tender glances in the prisoner's direction, but wife No. 1 for the most part kept her eyes averted. Pickell's complaisance vas strongly contrasted with the expression on the countenance of his fellow-prisoner, George Harding.

The jurors sworn were: Michael Bairns, Caradoc; Thos. McKenzie and E. J. F. Henderson, Adelaide; Henry, Hayman, London; Emslie Hodgins, Biddulph; John Hyslop, London; D. C. Brodie, Caradoc; John Irvine, Lobo; Wm. Noble, McGillivray; Henry Blaine, Mosa; Simeon Peacock, Delaware, and Hanry Tanton Henry Tanton.

E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., was the prosecuting attorney, and Mr. E. T. Essery appeared for the prisoner. WIFE NUMBER ONE.

Mrs. Esther Pickell was the first witness. Her maiden name was Esther Wilson and her parental home was in Burford township, Brant county, where Horticultural Hall under auspicious she was married to the prisoner. Nov. circumstances. The total number of 28, 1881, by Rev. Mr. Law, a Baptist minister. From Burford township the young couple came to London. They went to Detroit 12 years ago, and the witness had been living there ever since. They had two children, aged 16 and 14 years, respectively. She and Mr. Pickell lived together until April 23, 1898, when he came to London. The prisoner came to where the witness was living on Eighteenth street, Detroit, in September, 1898, and talked to her at the door ten or fifteen min-utes. He came for some books; witness did not know what books. She told him he could have nothing out of the house. He did not go inside the door. That was the only time she had seen her husband after he left her until she came to London to have him arrested last July. Before he left her, she said, he had tried several times to have her put in the Wayne county asylum.

Mr. Essery—How did you come to

Mrs. Pickell-He said if the doctors could not prove me imsane, he would not live with me.

Mrs. Pickell said she was away from home nine days in March, 1898. A lady friend took her away to prevent her from being put in the asylum. She had been in the asylum twice before, from Sept. 25 to Dec. 7, 1896, and from July 28 to Oct. 9, 1897.

Mr. Essery—Did you take proceedings to obtain a divorce?

Mrs. Pickell—Papers were drawn up. Witness identified the application, which alleged "extreme cruelty and misconduct,"on the part of Pickell, as grounds for the divorce. Pickell, she said, was then a motorman on the Detroit Street Railway, earning $12 a week. At the time witness applied for the divorce, Pickell was trying to have her put in the asylum. No dayorce was granted. Her object was to prevent her husband from accomplishing his chieft and in this she was successful.

The divorce proceedings were dropped. Witness was questioned as to the do-mestic happiness of the Pickell home. Mr. Essery—He says that you were in the habit of throwing chairs at him, also the stove iron, cups of tea, plates,

Mrs. Pickell smiled, and denied hav-the bigamy proceedings. Detective Hays came to her house and asked her to come to London to give evidence against Pickell. Her railway fare was paid, she did not know by whom. Likewise her expenses at the hotel. The proceedings were started by the witness through a letter written to the city ciera here. The letter had been written by a lady who called at the home of the witness to sell soap. She was a stranger, but Mrs. Pickell spoke to her of her husband being away, and the writing of the letter was thus sug-Rev. Mr. McEwen, of Toronto, super-intendent of Baptist missions in Canada, identified the Rev. Mr. Law, refer-

Mrs. Ida Chambers, of Detroit, was for years the next-door neighbor of the Pickells in Detroit. She once saw Pickell strike his wife. She knew there was trouble in the family, but never knew of Mrs. Pickell having thrown anything at her husband.

Rev. Mr. Hannahson, Presbyterian minister, of Arkona, gave evidence of having married Jordan Pickell and Miss Annie Smith on March 29 last. Before the ceremony Pickell said he had been married, but that he was a widower. He said nothing about a widower. He said nothing about a Wife No. 2, who was Miss Annie Smith, the daughter of a Bosanquet farmer, is much younger in appearance than wife No. 1. She met Pickell in London at the house of a mutual friend about seven months before the marriage ceremony took place. They were engaged about three months.

The prisoner, Jordan Pickell, was examined. He said he left his first wife because she threatened to kill him. "She wouldn't cook, nor do the washing," he said, "and was always striking me with the stove iron. She had also cut her neighbor's clothesline and interfered with the water service. She had been away from him twelve or fif-teen days, when he was serv-ed with notice of the divorce proceedings and attended court. He had paid his own lawyer, her lawyer and the costs of the court, and had been informed by his lawyer that he "was all right now." On the strength of that he believed the divorce had been granited.

The court adjourned shortly after 6 o'clock. Wife No. 2 fondly kissed the prisoner before he left the dock.

Thursday Morning.

The trial of Jordan Pickell was resumed sharp at 9 o'clock. The evidence all being in, Mr. E. T. Essery began his address to the jury for the accused. The learned counsel throughout his address hinted darkly at the influence of a third party in the prosecution.Mrs. Esther Pickell was put a figurehead. She had not acted in the matter of her own accord. It was the hand of "an assassin" that persecuted the prisoner. "They talk about boycotting," said Mr. Essery, turning toward the prisoner in the dock, "but God help the man that is to be boycotted in a box like that." He attributed Pickell's connection with the street railway strikers as the cause of his prosecution.

Mr. Johnston carefully reviewed the case for the crown. This was not a fight between the street railway com-pany on the one side, and the prison-er at the bar on the other, as the counsel for the prisoner had intimated. There was no other prosecutor than the crown. Whatever the prisoner may have had to do with street rallway strikes had nothing to do with the Fifth race, handicap, 2-year-olds, 6 furlongs—Sidney Lucas 1, Hagerdon 2, Allaire 3. Time, 1:15%.

The Prisoner Confronted by His Two with the conduct of wife No. 1. They had merely to deal with the crime of bigamy, and Mr. Johnston held that no bigamy are held the pure anything to do bigamy.

that the prisoner was not guilty. Chief Justice Armour told the jury that their duty was plain. There was no contradiction in the evidence. They had nothing to do with the manner in which this prosecution had been brought about. If evidence regarding it had been brought in it would have been rejected as being irrelevant. There was no doubt about these people living unhappily together, but it was not pertinent to the inuqiry to consider who was at fault. The question for the jury to decide was pointed out. There seemed to be no doubt about the legality of the first marriage, nor that the second marriage took place while the first wife was living. No divorce had been produced, and even if a divorce were granted in a Michigan court to two British subjects, as they were, his lordship would have asked the jury to find the prisoner guilty, in order to have the divorce passed upon by a higher court. The jury was out less than ten minutes before returning with a verdict of

Read this case: Mr. W. F. Johnston, a young man who lives at 714 Queen's avenue, made this statement: "I was feeling very miserable from kidney complaint and weak back, and was getting worse rather than better all the time. "I used several prescriptions, thinking that they might help me, but my old enemy still clung to me. Through persuasion of friends I tried Doan's Kidney Pills, and have derived great benefit from them. In fact, I am feeling better now than I have for a number of years, and with pleasure recommend the afflicted to get this remedy without delay." Doan's Kidney Pills always cure backache, lame or weak back, rheumatism, dropsy, puffiness under the eyes, urinary weakness of children or

"There is no political partisan, no matter how bitter, who ever belittles our German fellow-citizens," truly says tenor of the replies was that the obwould feel to be none of their business pacity. and if it should happen that Great Britain came to war with Germany, they would say "Let us stay at home, protect our own country, but not fight with the people of our own blood."

No doubt this is a fair reflection of the sentiments of our German fellow-citizens, yet who dares to throw a slur on their patriotism? They are emong the very best Canadians, prosperous, law-abiding, progressive and assimilated to our institutions. Affection for the land of their ancestry is perfectly consistent with the deepest loyalty to the Dominion. The same is true of all other races on Canadian soil. The Irishman, who in his native country would be an ardent Home Ruler and perhaps a bit of a tail-twister, is in Canada a true-blue Canadian, The brilliant D'Arcy McGee was an example. His country has furnished us some of the richest elements of our national life. Likewise the Scotchman's love for Scotland never impairs his Canadianism. The French-Canadians are as thoroughly Canadian also as the Germans, the Irish or the Scotch. They have more than once sealed their devotion to Canada with their blood. But for the French-Canadians, the British flag might not today be floating over the northern half of this continent. Within Afteen years after they had been conquered by British arms, they were fighting for the King of England against the American invaders during the revolutionary war. All efforts to wean the French-Canadians from British allegiance in that crisis were vain. The Roman Catholic hierarchy in Quebec was among the most steadfast sup- attention to the work done under the porters of the crown. The sentiment has time and space to work and spread. Imperial unity presupposes Canadian unity, and we

The London Times truly says that "it is unfortunate at such a time that any Canadian politicians should have attempted to exalt their own loyalty by throwing suspicion on the loyalty of their opponents; and it is still more deplorable that some British enthusiasts should have made this the occasion for attacks upon their French fellow countrymen. These attacks," adds the Times, "happily, have been reprobated by the more sober writers and speakers in the ranks of the Conservative Opposition, as well as by the Englishpeaking Liberals."

London, Nov. 23.-Right Hon. James the board of trade and ex-secretary of state for foreign affairs, paid considerable attention to the colonies in addressing his constituents of Aberdeen. He said the spirit of independence in Australia was kept in check by affection for the mother country and pride in her greatness, secured by complete identity of blood and speech. In Canada, also, Mr. Bryce added, the spirit of independence was restrained by the same influence, aided by the natural rivalry between Canadians and the people of the United States. My baby had a terrible breaking out all over his face and head, extending half way down his back, while his arm became one solid, scaly, bleeding sore. A physician gave me a prescrip-tion which I used, but he kept getting worse, and suffered beyond description. The pain became so intense that he had to be put under opiates. We could get no rest, night or day. Ho dwindled down to a mere skeleton. Everyb who saw him said he would surely die. As a last resort a trip to the country was suggested, that the change of air might do him good. As soon as my mother saw the child she got a copy of an Atlanta paper, in which there was an account of a wonderful cure CUTICURA REMEDIES had wrought on a two-year-old child. My father started to the nearest drug store, which was five miles, and purchased CUTICURA (ointment), CU-TICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT. WO applied as per directions putting plenty of the CUPICUMA on his head, face, arm, and back. The child slept for over two hours that night, improved daily, and in nine weeks from the time he started on the CUTICUBA REMEDIES we were able to discontinue their use, and not a sign is left to tell of his awful sufferings.

EMPEROR WILLIAM AT WINDSOR Windsor, England, Nov. 23.—Em-peror William of Germany yesterday nspected a corporal and two troopers of the Life Guards, in kahi field service uniform, in the quadrangle of Windsor Castle. His majesty expressed great satisfaction with the servicebleness of the uniforms. Afterwards the emperor mounted his favorite charger, which he brought with him from Germany, and, accompanied by the empress, went for a ride in the great park. Their majesties visited Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein and then lunched with the Duke and Duchess of Connaught at Bagshot Park.

Local Market. London, Thursday, Nov. 23. Large markets cannot be expected more than once a week, so long as this continued fine weather gives the farmers such a good opportunity to prepare for winter. The appearance of this morning's market was not much better than that of Tuesday. If it were better it was on account of a large number of purchasers. In most lines the supply was about the same as on previous mid-week markets. Potatoes are gradually lessening in quantity, while the price remains about the same. The only apples now brought in are those that were not good enough for shipping. Some, however, are of a very good quality. An average supply of meat was in, but the demand for it was by no means active. Fresh eggs were rather backward. Generally speaking, only packed eggs are put on for sale. An average quantity of butter was brought in. First-class butter can always find a purchaser, and for what was in today there was a brisk demand. Poultry was very much in evidence in comparison with other lines. A local dealer said yesterday that 1,500 turkeys had been brought in for this week's mar-

Constant Arrival of Transports at Cape Town.

Active Entraining of Troops for the Mysterious "North" - Conflicting Theories of Military Writers.

Cape Town, Nov. 22 (evening) .- The constant arrival of transports and the entraining of troops for the mysterious north are the chief incidents among the military. II Gen. Joubert possessed all the war news printed in current London papers. the New York Tribune's correspondent believes, the Boer leader would not have a single helpful cue. He thinks Gen. Joubert "would be forced to pick and choose among a dozen different estimates of the strength of the British force in lower Natal, and on the southwestern frontiers of the Free State, with the certainty that every one was below the mark. He would not find any clew to the distribution or composition of Clery's troops between Estcourt and Durban, nor a single glimpse of what is going on within Gen. White's lines at Ladysmith. Ho would also have reason to question his own sanity were he to attempt to CONFLICTING THEORIES advanced by military writers respecting his strategy, immediate objects and point of view. Equally unintelligible is the mass of rumors and contradictions to English readers. They know that Hildyard is at Estcourt with naval guns and the Provincial Horse and a portion of the 2nd Brigade, and they suspect that Barton is at Mooi River with a portion of the 6th Brigade, while the remainder of Clery's army is scattered at various points lower down, with reinforcements still at sea, and three batteries of field artillery and possibly several companies of mounted infantry somewhere on the shore. Otherwise they are completely IN THE DARK.

respecting the situation in Natal, and know as little of the maneuvers of their own army as of the mysterious tactics of Joubert's forces, which is an unknown quantity, either for looting or serious warfare, have flung themselves between Estcourt and Pietermaritzburg, and cut off communication

THE NORTHERN LIFE

Filling the Vacancy Caused by Death of Mr. E. J. Parke.

The Northern Life Assurance Company of Canada met today, in consequence of the death of the late Mr. E. J. Parke, and unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"The directors of the Northern Life Assurance Company of Canada record with the deepest regret the death of E. Jones Parke, Q.C., first vice-president of the company, and one who took a very active part in its organization and management.

"He was appointed first vice-president at its organization, and retained that position until his death. He had been very active in the formation of the company, and desired to lay the foundation of its success on principles tried and sure. To this end, from day to day he gave the management the benefit of his matured judgment and experience, and was thoroughly conversant with every detail of its affairs.

"The company will long reap the benefit of his connection with it, and the directors will remember him for his great ability and energy, and for the kindly relations which a ways existed between him and them.

"They desire to extend to his widow and family their heartfelt sympathy." Mr. John Purdom was elected a director of the company, in the place of the late Mr. Parke, and Mr. T.H. Purdom, Q.C., was elected first vice-pre-

AMUSEMENTS

A MYSTERIOUS PLAY.

There is some catchy singing and dancing in "A Man of Mystery," which is to be seen in this city for the first time next Saturday matinee and night. So powerful is the serious interest of the play, that a little musical and terpsichorean relief is an absolute necessity. A Bowery girl tells, in a comical tough way, about her love affairs and Specific the lively time she has generally in the slums of New York. Miss Marie Leslie, who plays Mott Street Moll, is beat a rattling tattoo as she shakes out some fancy steps that fairly dazzle one. It is conceded by those that have seen 'A Man of Mystery" that it is in every way a perfect stage entertainment.

ANDERSON THEATER CO. The great play, "The World," with its wealth of magnificent scenery, will be the opening attraction of the above company. They open a three nights' engagement at the Grand on Monday, Nov. 27. This grand old play will be followed by others of equal merit. The company carries a vast amount of special scenery, and our theater-going people are assured perfect productions. Prices, 10, 20, 30 cents. Ladies can secure the best seat in the house for 15 cents if purchased by 7 p.m., Monday.

"THE CARPETBAGGER." "The Carpetbagger," a romantic comedy by Opic Read and Frank S. was presented at the Grand last night by the well-known American comedian, Tim Murphy. The play has more than ordinary literary merit. It is beautifully written and full of refined humor. The excuisite art and finish of the dialogue is delightful. The story is of a Chicago auctioneer, who, at the close of the civil war, has been made governor of Mississippi. He starts out with the principle that "to the victor belong the spoils," and makes the most of his office accordingly. The auctioneer governor's character is a fine study. His sardonic humor, his contempt for the South and its institutions, his unblushing un-scrupulousness in all things political are completely offset by his innate manliness and his tenderness to his motherless daughter. Then he falls in love with a Southern gentlewoman, and the process of purification wrought thereby in his character makes the theme of the play. The character is perfectly adapted to Mr. Murphy's genius, and he made the most of it. The support was quite capable and the entire performance most enjoyable. It deserved a better house.

They are supposed to have gone to St. Louis. A short time ago the sister went to Minneapolis, where she had been left a legacy by a relative, and returned to La Salle with a large sum of money. It is thought by many that an attachment was formed between the two when Gray was an inmate of the hospital a few months ago.

British Camp at Mooi River Shelled at 5 A.M.

Artillery Duel Carried on Three Hours-Enemy's Fire Does Little Damage.

Pessimistic Review of the Situation Apparently Prepared for the "Foreign" Reader.

Mooi River, Natal, Nov. 23-10 a.m.-The Boers' guns began to shell the camp at 5 a.m. The British artillery is n position on high ground to the east, west and north of the station. The artillery duel was continued until eight, when it ceased for an hour. The Boers recommenced at nine, and dropped three shells into the camp. They are still firing at intervals, with no damage, although their aim is good. A patrol of Thorneycroft's has returned from the direction of Rosetta and reports all quiet there.

London, Nov. 23.-The fact that fresh portions of Natal are being overrun daily by the Boers is producing exasperation in that colony, and also in Great Britain, where the idea of a possible extensive violation of British soil early stages of the war. Operators on the stock exchanges here are becoming nervous, and the continued fall in consols exemplifies the restlessness of the market.

RUMORS OF A PEACE PARLEY. The rumors that a peace deputation from President Kruger is on its way to Cape Town for the purpose of ascer-taining the terms upon which an immediate cessation of hostilities could be secured, are discredited here, and it is said that if such a deputation has been sent, it will meet with scant courtesy, as those who are conducting the war will be satisfied with nothing less than dictating terms of peace at Pre-toria after a parade of British strength throughout the Transvaal. In the meanwhile, from the scanty dispatches which are dribbling in from the front, it is difficult to form an opinion of the true situation. The Boer invaders are occasioning

The Strange Metamorphosis

And certainly he was in no condition to convince an angry schoolmaster of anything whatever, except that he was in a state very unbecoming to the head of a family.

It was all over; Paul saw that too well; he dashed frantically from the fatal billiard room and in the hall met Boaler preparing to admit the visitor. "Dont' open the door," he screamed. "Keep him out. You mustn't let him in. It's Dr. Grimstone.'

Boaler, surprised as he naturally was. at his young master's unaccountable appearance and evident panic, never-theless never moved a muscle of his face; he was one of those perfectly bred servants, who, if they chanced to open the door to a ghoul or skeleton, would merely inquire, "What name, if you please."

"I must go and ask your par, then, Master Dick. There's time to 'ook it up-etirs while I'm gode. I won't say nothing," he added a spassionately.

Paul lost no time following this Paul lost no time suggestion, but rush upstairs, two or three steps at a time, stumbling at every flight, with a hideous nightmare feeling that some invisible thing behind him was trying to trip him up.

He rushed blindly past the conservatory, which was it up by Chinese lanterns, and crowded with "little Kate Greenaway" maidens crowned with fantastic head-dresses out of the crackers, and comparing presents with boy-lovers; he upset perspiring waiters with glasses and trays, and scattered the children sitting on the stairs, as he bounded on in his reckless flight, leaving crashes of glass behind him. He had no clear idea of what he meant to do; he thought of barricad-ing himself in his bedroom and hiding in the wardrobe, he had desperate no-tions of getting on to the housetop by means of a step-ladder and the skylight above the nursery landing. On one point he was resolved he would not be retaken alive! Never before in this commonplace London world of ours was an unfortunate householder hunted up his own staircase in this distressing manner; even his terror did not blind him to the extreme ignominy and injustice of his

And below he heard the bell ringing more and more impatiently, as the doctor still remained on the wrong side of the door. In another minute he must be admitted-and then!

Who will not sympathize with Mr. Bultitude as he approaches the crisis of his misso: tunes? I protest, for my own part, that, as I am compelled to describe him springing from step to step in wild terror, like a highly respected chamols before some Alpine marksman, my own heart bleeds for him, and I hasten to end my distress-ing tale, and make the rest of it as li:-

tle painful as I may with honesty. Poor Mr. Bultitude, springing wild-ly upstairs in a last desperate effort to his goal. Just above him was the nurslanding, with it little wooden gate, and near it, leaning against the wall, was the pair of kitchen steps, with which he had hopes of reaching the roof, or the cistern loft, or some other safe and inaccessible place. Better a night spent on the slates among the chimney-pots than a bed in that terrible No. 6 dormitory.

But here, too, was fate against him. He was not more than half a dozen steps from the top when, to his unspeakable horror, he saw a small form in a white frock and cardinal sash come running out of the nursery, and began to descend slowly and cautiously, clinging to the bannisters with one chubby little hand.

It was his youngest son, Roly, and as soon as he saw this he lost hope once and for all; he could not escape being recognized; the child would probably refuse to leave him, and, even if he did contrive to get away from him, it would be hopeless to make Roly understand that he was not to betray his hiding-place. So he stopped on the stairs, aghast at this new misfortune, and feeling himself at the end of his resources. Roly knew him at once, and began to dance delightedly up and down on the stair in his little bronze shoes. "Buzzer Dicky," he cried, "dear Buzzer Dicky, tum 'ome to party."

"It's not brother Dicky," said Paul miserably; "it's al la mistake."

"Oh, but it is, though," said Roly,
"and you don't know what Roly's found."

No, no," said Paul, trying to pass, which, as Roly persisted in leaping joyously from side to side of the narrow stair, was difficult; "you shall show me another time. I'm in a hurry, my boy; I've got an appointment.'

'Roly's got something better than that," observed the child. Mr. Bultitude, in spite of his terror, was too much afraid of hurting him by brushing roughly past to attempt such a thing, so he tried diplomacy. "Well, what has Roly found, a cracker?'

"No, no, better than a cwacker-you "I can't guess," said Paul; "never mind, I don't want to know." "Well, then," said Roly, "there." And he slowly unfolded a fat little fist, and

"Ith it a game?" asked Roly, his face clearing, and evidently delighted with clearing, and evidently delighted with his eccentric brother Dick, who had run all! the way home from school to play games with him on the staircase. "What sort of a sugar-plum?" demanded Roly, who inherited business instincts.

Death of Thomas Condor and Daughter at Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 22.-Thomas Condor, aged 65, one of the coal gas poisoning victims, died at the Emergency Hospital shortly before noon today. Condor never recovered consciousness. His daughter is still unconscious, and her recovery is now very improbable. The open stove door is the only evidence as to how the tragedy occurred. There is no suggestion of suicide, the evidence going to show that the old man and his daughter had tried to reach and to open the door when they awoke and found the room full of gas.

Matilda Condor, the daughter linger ed on for a few hours longer, and died at the hospital shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Liberals Nominate Mr. Daniel McIntyre, of Yarmouth.

Enthusiastic Convention-Party Favors a Fair and Pure Election-Resolutions of Confidence.

Aylmer, Nov. 23 .- The Liberals of East Eigin met in convention in the town hall here Tuesday afternoon and unanimously nominated Mr. Daniel Mc-Intyre, of Yarmouth, as the candidate of the Reform party at the coming bye-election, his name being the only one brought before the convention. An enthusiasm was displayed which is a strong indication that Mr. McIntyre, who was defeated at the general election on March 1, 1896, by 29, will be elected by a good majority. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. S. Caron, of Aylmer, president of the East Elgin Provincial Reform Association, and, besides the chairman, the speakers were Messrs. H. J. Pettypiece, M.P.P. for East Lambton; Dr. Sinclair, of Aylmer, president of the Dominion East Elgin Reform Association; J. C. Dance, ex-M.P.P., of South Dorchester, and Dr. Wilson, ex-M.P., of St. Thomas. The tone of all the addresses had the ring of victory. All the speakers deplored the stain which had been cast upon the Reform party by the acts of some of its over-zealous and un-authorized supporters at the general elections, and expressed a determina-tion to wipe it out, to fight a fair fight and win the election. While in the west riding outside supporters of the Reform party had been accused of 11legal practices, in East Elgin the Conservative member had been unseated ecause of corrupt acts on the part of his agents and friends, residents of the riding. The determination of the convention was to again con clean, honest election. Mr. McIntyre, in accepting the nomination, said that if the election could not be won honestly and by straightforward means, he did not want to win it at all.

The following resolutions were unanimously carried: Moved by Dr. Sinclair, of Aylmer, seconded by Mr. R. Locke, of Malahide, that the Liberals of East Elgin, in convention assembled desire to tender to the Hon. Geo. W. Ross their sincere congratulations on his advancement to the high and honorable position of premier of the pro-vince of Ontario, and to assure him of our confidence in him as an able, faithful and patriotic leader of the Liberal forces. We fully recognize the fact that his many years of brilliant service in the Legislature and Government of Original Services. ment of Ontario eminently qualify him for the honor and distinction he has received, and we confidently believe that he will prove a most worthy successor to the illustrious men who have preceded him in that office. Under his leadership we look for a strong, progressive and patriotic administration of the affairs of the province, as outlined by him in a most eloquent and Normal School Agreement Adopted With Slight Change-Tribute to Mr. Merchant.

The board of education met last night to consider the 'question of teachers' salaries and the proposed Normal School agreement. The report of the special committee re salaries, submitted by Dr. English (chairman), was as follows: "That the present scheme regulating the salaries of teachers in the city schools is satisfactory, and would recommend that no change be made.

"Your committee wish to place on record a few of the facts which led them to this conclusion, for the information of public school supporters: "(1) The average salary paid to female teachers in London in 1898 was $346, while the average salary paid in other cities in the same year was $425. "(2) The maximum salary paid to female teachers in London is $500. There are only 16 female teachers out of a staff of 130 now receiving the maximum salary. No teacher receiving this salary has been in the employment of the board less than 15 years, and some have served the public in London 30 years.

"(3) The annual increase of $20 in the salary of female teachers is a continual incentive to good work, and is preferable to a larger advance every five years.

"(4) If the teachers in the employment of the board in any given year remained until they attained the maxi-mum salary the scheme would be an mum salary the scheme would be an ever-increasing burden on the taxpayer. But it was found on comparison of the list of teachers employed in 1888 with that of 1898, that out of a staff of 66 teachers in the former year only 34 of them remained in the service of the board in 1898. Of the 32 teachers at the minimum salary of ten years mentioned some were re-ceiving $400. Their places were filled by promotion from the staff, and other teachers at the minimum sala ry of $275 were employed to fill the vacan-

It must be remembered that the staff of female teachers has increased from 66 in 1888 to 130 in 1898, which accounts for the annual increase in the total salaries

The report was adopted as read. THE NORMAL SCHOOL.

The proposed agreement with the government for the use of a public school for normal school work was also adopted as submitted by the committee. The city will ask $1,500 a year for the privilege instead of $1,000, as originally proposed. An amendment by Mr. MacRobert, seconded by Mr. Morgan, to make the term of the agreement five years instead of ten, was lost. Mr. MacRobert gave notice of motion for reconsideration. Then followed a pleasant incident.
