EDINBURGH, Jan. 16.—Right Rev. John McLachlan, Roman Catholic bishop of Galloway, died to-day.

Steel Works Shut Down.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Vaughan's Cleveland steel works at Eston, in Yorkshire, have been closed, owing to lack of orders. One thousand men are rendered idle by the shutting down of the works.

Went Down With All the Crew.

PARIS, Jan. 16.—The French steamer St. Marc, from Marseilles to Havre, ran down an Italian bark off Villa Franca on Saturday during a heavy sleet storm. The bark went down with all her crew of thirteen men.

Death of a Well-Known Actress.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Francis Ann Kemble (Mrs. Pierce Butler), the well-known actress, died to-day. Mrs. Butler was the daughter of Charles Kemble and niece of Mrs. Siddons. She was born in London on Nov. 27, 1809.

The Khedive Kicks Over The Traces.

CAIRO, Jan. 16. — The Khedive has changed his Ministry without having obtained the assent of the British authorities, who therefore decline to recognize the new Cabinet. The Khedive's action is believed to have been influenced by Russia and France. The British authorities await instructions from London.

Politely Warned Away.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 16.—Three Turkish officers who recently came to Russia to inspect the Russian army and to get a better knowledge of the Cossack tactics and methods of warfare were entertained by the Ministry of War for three days, allowed to see several reviews and drills, and then sent off back to Turkey under a military guard, with the intimation that it would be for their interest not to be found again visiting Russia under any pretext whatsoever.

The Finns Are Angry.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 16.—Much alarm has been caused of late by the restlessness manifested by the Finns, and there is good cause to expect trouble in that direction in the near future. The Finns are very angry at the constant abridgement of their liberties, and threaten to revolt if this is carried any further. The Government, on the other hand, is resolved to bring Finland on the same standing as the other provinces of Russia and to allow it no liberties whatsoever. To say the least, the present condition of affairs appears strained, and the Russian Government will certainly not be the one to give way.

New Mode of Canceling Stamps.

BERLIN, Jan. 16.—In order to guard against the frequent frauds in the using of canceled postage stamps the Ministry of Finance proposes to use a new method of cancellation, which has recently been invented by one Rozenblov. This will consist of a stamp having in its center a slightly raised circle which, when it cancels the stamp, also cuts a corresponding circle in the postage stamp. When, therefore, the attempt is made to ungum the stamp, the piece in the middle falls out, and becomes very evident if pasted in again.

Considering the Home Rule Bill.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—A Cabinet Council lasting three hours was held to-day. The financial terms of the Home Rule Bill are said to be substantially arranged. In the first bill the ratio of Ireland's contributions to the imperial exchequer was 1-15th, totaling £3,242,000 per annum. The new proposals, based upon juster data, will make Ireland's contribution only 1-23rd, equaling £2,070,865 per annum. Another important feature in the Irish financial scheme is that a loan shall be granted from the imperial to the Irish exchequer to enable the Irish Administration to start fair.

Federation of Tenant Farmers.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Lord Winchelsea's scheme for a national agricultural association has already practically failed. The farmers generally are declining to have anything to do with it, and are now arranging for the formation of a federation of tenant farmers, while the attitude of the agricultural laborers was forcibly indicated by their most trusted leader, Joseph Arch, M.P., who in a speech at Warwick said: "Laborers have as much to hope for from Lord Winchelsea's association as a mouse would have of its life if it attempted to lick the cream off a cat's whiskers."

The Panama Fraud.

PARIS, Jan. 16.—The Government is greatly irritated at the exaggeration of the Panama scandal by foreign journalists and is resolved to exercise to the fullest extent for the suppression of such reports the authority to expel obnoxious aliens. To-day the expulsion was announced of Signor Bernascouie, Paris correspondent of the Courrierie Della Sera, of Milan, and M. Alt, of the Courrierie di Napoli. M. Brandes, of the Berlin Tagblatt, will probably have to go. Carnot's intimates assert that he is capable of being as stern and as resolute in the enforcement of authority as any man who has ever ruled France. Should Carnot be compelled, his friends say, to face either a Monarchist or an Anarchist uprising, he would astonish the people with his severity in crushing insurrection and punishing the guilty participants. The Paris newspapers to-day show either a decided leaning or a milder opposition toward the Government.

Emigration Agents Active.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Hon. T. Mayne Daly's accession to the head of the Department of the Interior is resulting in a vigorous emigration policy being carried on in Great Britain. A feature of this new policy is the granting of increased commission payments to those steamship agents who encourage bookings to the Northwest instead of Australia. Vigorous efforts are also being made to increase the emigration from Norway and Sweden to Canada. The agents appointed in Great Britain are stationed as follows: Mr. Stewart, at Inverness; Mr. Fleming, at Dundee, Scotland, and Mr. Woods, ex-M.P.P., of Manitoba, in the English Midland Counties.

An American Baron.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—One of the curiosities of the British peerage is the Barony of Fairfax, which is held by an English-speaking foreigner, whose ancestors have for more than a century resided out of England. The present Baron Fairfax is an American by birth and descent, was educated in America, married an American lady, and is now living in the State of Maryland, although he has the right to sit and vote in the British House of Lords. This, however, he refuses to do, as it is absolutely necessary that he should be naturalized as an Englishman and take the oath of allegiance to the British crown before taking his title or assuming his seat. The baron considers the title of American citizen good enough for him.

To Rival St. Peter's.

ROME, Jan. 16.—Cardinal Parocchi has submitted to the Pope a scheme for adding another to the Catholic edifices of the country. The cardinal's scheme is to erect on the Monte Vanicule a church with a cupola equal in size and effect to that of St. Peter's, the cost of which is to be defrayed by contributions of the Catholics throughout the world. Round the sacred edifice it is proposed to group the ecclesiastical colleges of the different countries that are now situated at Rome. The further consideration of the proposal will be submitted to a commission of cardinals. The estimated cost of carrying out the scheme is about £4,000,000, and it is calculated that its construction would give employment to 14,000 workmen for six years.

The American Duchess.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The American Duchess of Marlborough has effectually set at rest all the ill-natured and prejudiced reports that narrow-minded people have set afloat touching the unpleasant relations that were supposed to exist between her and her stepson, the new Duke of Marlborough, by, in the most generous manner, giving him a clean deed of gift to all the repairs, improvements, additions and alterations she had caused to be made at Blenheim, where she is never likely to reside again. By this act of liberality and respect for the memory of her dead husband the Duchess has won golden opinions from all the Churchill connection. The Duchess has taken a furnished house in Brunswick Terrace, Brighton, in which she will make her future residence.

The Eight-Hour Movement.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The National Conference of miners at Birmingham, as had been expected, voted a resolution in favor of a statutory eight hours' working day almost unanimously, only two delegates holding up their hands against it; but those delegates represented 25,000 Durham miners, and as the Northumberland men also prefer to get their working day shortened by their own efforts the minority opposed to legislative interference is still a very respectable one. The bill, however, is to be introduced during the coming session, and the action of the Birmingham conference is certain to influence considerably those members who have heretofore been sitting on the fence, or, as the cant phrase of British politicians puts it, "have been keeping an open mind." It is probable that on the motion for second reading one of the Durham labor members will move a direct negative, and the resultant division will show some curious cross-voting. If the bill should pass into committee, amendments excluding the counties of Durham and Northumberland from its operation will be moved, and probably carried. In any case, however, an entirely compulsory bill is not likely to pass, despite the threat used at the Birmingham conference.

Terrific Storm at Trieste.

TRIESTE, Jan. 16.—A terrific storm has swept this city since 10 o'clock this morning. Sleet or snow has fallen incessantly and the wind blew a hurricane. Half the trees in the streets were snapped off close to the pavement and four tram cars tumbled from the tracks. It has been impossible for vessels to enter the harbor. An Italian bark which tried to come in at noon was battered by the ice to a wreck in sight of the docks and foundered with all on board.

An English bark went ashore an hour later just outside the harbor, and four of the crew were drowned. A Greek steamship has been endeavoring to get inside for the last two hours. She is flying signals of distress and firing guns, but no assistance has been sent her. Two small vessels are reported to have been wrecked off Point St. Andrea. A large wave broke over part of the water front in the early evening and flooded the streets near by. Two cabs with horses and drivers were caught in the current where the water was receding and were carried into the harbor and drowned. Fifty persons have been injured by falling trees, tiles and chimneys.

A Jolly Time in Prison.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—A Paris correspondent says that the imprisoned Panama directors have a pretty jolly time of it in the prison of Mezas, which is evidently not so uncomfortable as people believe. Their cells are well warmed and their beds almost luxurious. The authorities have even allowed them to supply themselves with articles of toilet not included in the prison rules. Their meals, too, are very different from the ordinary food, the restaurant outside being permitted to furnish them with delicate dishes. They drink good Bordeaux and Mocha coffee, washed down with a glass of brandy from their own cellars. Here is a menu of M. Cottu: Veal chop with potatoes, duck with peas, cheese and fruit, bread, a bottle of Bordeaux and a glass of chartreuse. Everybody in the prison, we are told, treats them with the greatest deference. The prison library is placed entirely at their service; the romances of Jules Verne are their favorite reading. Among other concessions they are authorized to have a light all night. On the other hand they are not allowed to receive visits, whether family or otherwise. Even their counsel is refused admission.

No Canadian Cardinals.

ROME, Jan. 16.—The Pope created fourteen cardinals at the consistory to-day, the list not including any Americans or Canadians. Archbishop Vaughan, of Westminster, was elevated to the cardinalate; also Archbishop Logue, Primate of Ireland; Archbishop Krementz, of Cologne; Prince Archbishop Kiopp, of Breslau; Monsignor Mocenni, Papal under-secretary of State; Monsignor Persico, secretary of the Propaganda and others. There being in all six Italian cardinals, two French cardinals, two Prussian, one English, one Irish, one Hungarian and one Spanish cardinal. Pope Leo in his allocution thanked God for having preserved him to celebrate his episcopal jubilee. This event, he said, would be regarded by men as a sign of the divine protection extended over the church in these calamitous days through the preservation of the Supreme Pontiff. The Pope announced in addition to the cardinals named the creation of two cardinals reserved.

Both Sunk.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Italian steamer San Marco and the French steamer Agesian were in collision last night in the Straits of Messina. Both vessels were so badly damaged that they sank a short time after the collision. All on board both steamers were rescued except three men from the Agesian, who drowned before assistance could reach them.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—A dispatch from Messina states that the collision between the Italian steamer San Marco and the French steamer Algerie, resulted in much greater loss of life than was at first reported. The steamers collided Sunday night in the Straits of Messina and both sank. Five of the persons on board the Algerie were saved, but the fate of the others is not known, and it is supposed they were drowned. Seventeen persons were saved from the San Marco. Two of her crew are missing and are presumably dead.

Military Hospital Burned.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The military hospital at Stoke was burned early this morning. The patients were saved with the greatest difficulty.

Struck on his Head.

VIENNA, Jan. 17.—Count Johann Krascks, members of the Upper House of the Hungarian Parliament, jumped from the third-story window of a hotel window here yesterday. He struck on his head and was dead when picked up.

Stirring Up Strife.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—In the Parliamentary Commission of Inquiry M. Souveride and M. Tatischeff testified as to the charges of corruption against the Russian press, M. Souveride, who introduced himself as editor of the Novoe Vremya, protested that M. De la Hayes' charges as to the receipt of 500,000 francs by that newspaper from the Panama people were unqualified falsehoods.

M. Tatischeff made a similar denial. After giving his testimony he made a short speech to the commission to the effect that the friendship of Russia and France was imperilled by this rising tide of calumny. Unless the commission would defend Russia against palpable slanders such as had been bandied about recently the most deplorable results might be expected.

A TRAIN ON FIRE!

Frightful Accident on a Russian Railway Line.

Forty-Nine Dead and Twenty Terribly Burned and Injured.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 17.—As a train composed of several cars filled with recruits was running from Statusk to Samara today flames burst from the foremost carriage. The train was going at full speed and the tongues of fire swept backward, and in a few minutes all the cars were blazing. The engineer did not stop the train until he had run a considerable distance. In the meantime there was a scene of indescribable confusion in the cars. The recruits—or, at least, as many as could do so—leaped from the windows and doors. Some of them landed uninjured in snowbanks, while others, who landed in the cleared track were killed. Those who were unable to get out of the cars were burned to death, for the train was entirely consumed. Some of the men were terribly burned before they jumped. When the confusion had somewhat subsided, the officer in charge of the recruits, who had saved himself by jumping, called the roll of his men. It was found that 49 of them were dead and 20 terribly burned and otherwise injured. It is supposed some of the men in the forward car were skylarking and upset the stove. The draft caused by the onrushing train caused the flames to spread with such great rapidity that nothing could be done to extinguish them. It is claimed the engineer was guilty of criminal negligence in not stopping the train as soon as he saw the fire.

The Corner in Pork.

Press dispatches state that "the clique began buying pork during the cholera scare, when it was going begging at $10 a barrel. Manipulation aside, the mainspring under the market is the shortage of hogs. Each day has added some evidence of the strength of the situation. The scarcity of hogs at this season is largely attributed to the phenomenal meteorological conditions in the spring, when it rained so long that the farmers began to think they would not have a chance to plant any corn. What to do with the hogs was a question with no corn to feed them on, and they concluded that it would be better to take what they could get for their pork products then than run chances for a lower price. The consequence was that there was a very free movement in pork last summer, which left a slim home contingent. One report states that the probable percentage of hogs for January, February and March of this year will be but 68 per cent. of the supply of hogs for October, November and December of last year. The estimate includes the States of Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. For the supply of spring and summer hogs from the same States estimate is 72 per cent. of the supply for the last three months of 1892."—[Bradstreet's.

Away Below the Cipher!

Coldest Weather in the Southwest for 30 Years.

A Dozen or More Persons Frozen to Death.

Forty Degrees Below Zero at Sparta, Wis.—Great Suffering Among the Winnebagos—Trains Blocked on the N. Y. Central—A Contrast at Halifax, N. S.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 16.—Not for 30 years has there been such severe weather as now prevails in this section. The thermometer is far below zero, and a dozen or more persons have been frozen to death. Business of all kinds is suspended, and the united efforts of the city officials and church members are being utilized to aid the poor.

THE CUMBERLAND FROZEN OVER.

A Nashville dispatch says: The weather here is very cold. The Cumberland is frozen from bank to bank.

GREAT SUFFERING.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 16. — Never in the history of the Central South has there been so much suffering as at present. The snow is from ten inches to three feet deep in Eastern Tennessee, Western North Carolina and Eastern Kentucky, and all kinds of labor has been suspended.

TRAINS BLOCKED.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Five feet of snow in a cut on the Niagara Falls branch of the Central, between Holly and Murray, stopped travel to-day, and no trains have arrived here from the Falls.

FORTY BELOW ZERO.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 16.—Dispatches from all parts of the State report the coldest weather for years. At Sparta the mercury froze solid at 40 below. The Winnebago Indians on the reservation near Black River Falls are suffering terribly.

RECORD BROKEN.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 16.—January has broken the record for intense and sustained cold weather in the Northwest. Yesterday a cube of ice six feet thick was cut from the lake just outside the city. The cold has, however, been entirely without the blizzard feature.

FATALITY AT PAISLEY, ONT.

PAISLEY, Jan. 16.—Mr. John Galbraith, living about five miles from here, came to town Saturday to do some shopping. He left in the evening on foot for home and was not afterward seen until this afternoon, when his body was found frozen inside his field and near home.

A CONTRAST.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 16.—Halifax can well afford to congratulate itself on the quality of the weather now being enjoyed, which has been anything but severe. To-day is sunshiny and almost as balmy and mild as a day in May.

SEVEN HUNDRED VESSELS ICE-BOUND.

HAMBURG, Jan. 17.—The harbor is completely ice-bound. Nearly 7,000 craft are locked in. Among them are 126 steamships and 101 large sailing vessels.

WORK AND WAGES.

Prospects of a Great Strike in the Pennsylvania Mining Regions.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 16.—Reports from the Westmoreland and Fayette coke region indicate that the thousands of coke workers there are preparing for a desperate attempt to secure higher wages and easier regulations. The coming strike will be operated by a more thorough organization of the workingmen than existed two years ago, and it is not unlikely that they will be supported by a simultaneous strike of the miners at all the railroad pits in that section whence coal is drawn to supply the coke ovens.

BURNED OUT.

Fifty Young Ladies Hurriedly Forced Out Into the Zero Weather—Great Cotton Mill Destroyed.

HAMILTON, Jan. 16.—A fire in the rail saw-house of the G. T. R. last night did much damage to the building and machinery. Loss, about $20,000.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Fifty young women, attending the fashionable Kenwood Institution, Madison avenue, were routed from their beds at 6 o'clock this morning and forced to hasten into the zero atmosphere, clad mostly in the scanty garments they could snatch in their hasty flight when an alarm of fire was given. The institute, a three-story and basement building, was almost totally destroyed. Loss probably $5,000, covered by insurance.

WARSAW, Jan. 16.—The cotton mill at Ozarkoff, in the Government of Radom, which was one of the largest mills in the empire, has been burned. Loss 500,000 roubles.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 16.—A fierce fire broke out on Broadway at midnight within 100 feet of the newspaper offices and gained much headway before water was thrown on it. J. H. Simmons, auctioneer, and Moses Dodge, shoe manufacturer, occupied the building, which is completely gutted.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 17.—The building occupied by the Peake Manufacturing Company, Regby & Ramsay, bookbinders, and the Heline Company's box factory, was burned last night. Loss, $60,000.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

NORWICH, Ont., Jan. 17.—1 a.m.—A fierce fire is raging here which threatens to destroy a very large section of the place. Brantford and Woodstock have been telegraphed to for aid, as the fire is at present beyond control.

Mr. Blaine's Case.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16.—Shortly after 9 o'clock Dr. Johnston told a reporter that Mr. Blaine was somewhat stronger than he was this morning. His condition was about the same as yesterday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Up to 7:30 o'clock this morning there was no change to be noted in Mr. Blaine's condition.

A New Man in Town.

R. Greene has sold out his retail business to C. A. Gillespie & Co., of Brantford. The new firm are making a clean sweep of the stock on hand. Everything must go, regardless of cost, as they intend renovating the premises and putting in a full new stock in every department for the spring trade. If you want special bargains in clothing call and see them at the old stand, Star Hall, 138 Dundas street.

THE FREEZING BLAST.

All Europe Suffering from the Intensely Cold Weather.

Harbors Icebound, Railway Traffic Delayed and Many Persons Frostbitten.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Reports of the extreme cold come from all parts of the continent. The harbor at Kiel is completely icebound. All over Germany railway traffic is delayed and in some parts suspended. Between Rome and Genoa railway communication is maintained only with the greatest difficulty. Yesterday was the coldest day of the winter in Vienna. Few ventured out as the dazzling whiteness of the snow was almost unendurable and a person's nose or ears would freeze during a five minutes' walk.

In the south of France several small railway accidents have been caused by the snow drifts. No trains are run on the railway between Castellandar and Narbonne, Chartres and Magny. The train which left Chartres on Saturday night is still embedded in the snow.

High winds prevailed along the coast of Spain. Many fishing boats have returned. Railway traffic has been suspended in Galicia and the Biscay Provinces. All mails arrive in Madrid many hours late.

Immense snowdrifts have been piled up along the Swiss frontiers, so that communication over the border is interrupted.

In Southern Italy the weather is the most severe in many years. Ice forms in the streets and snow is drifted along the highways. A dispatch from Naples says Vesuvius and other mountains thereabouts are covered with snow.

Dunkirk was swept by a blizzard yesterday, and last night the streets were impassible.

A TERRIBLE INDICTMENT.

Archbishop Walsh on Liquor Drinking and Its Results.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—Rarely, if ever, has the vaulted roof of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church rung with the echoes of such a powerful sermon as was preached in that edifice Sunday night by Archbishop Walsh to the members of the League of the Cross. In beginning his grace stated that he would deliver a temperate sermon on a temperance subject, which would appeal to the reason and conscience of all who sat before him. "Temperance," he said, "may be said to enter into all other virtues. It is what is called a cardinal virtue, other virtues changing or depending upon it. The first law God imposed on man was abstinence, and before he fell temperance was the great law of man's life. Sin came, and with it revolt, rebellion and disorder, creation becoming like a broken instrument, giving forth discordant sounds instead of harmony. Ever since that period the lower appetites and desires of our nature have striven to overmaster and make man the victim and slave of intemperance."

CHRIST'S EXAMPLE TO US.

"When Christ came down to rectify existing evils he established the law of self-denial upon earth. He, himself, began life by an observance of this law. He was born in a stable, when he might have come in all the power and glory that will invest him when he appears at the last day. In fasting for 40 days and 40 nights in the wilderness, did he not set us a glorious example? Think of the self-denial exercised by him on that occasion. When tortured with a burning thirst, while he hung upon the cross, his executioners were moved to pity by his suffering and offered him wine and myrrh with which to quench his thirst, but he refused, that by his sacred thirst, he might make atonement and set an example to mankind of sobriety and total abstinence."

"Sobriety and temperance are necessary qualifications for us to possess in order to wage successful warfare against the enemies of salvation.

"A drunkard is a self-made wretch, a self-degraded being. No matter what his talents may have been, he has lowered himself into the mire of vice.

BELOW THE LEVEL OF BEASTS.

"A broken, ruined creature, once made in the image of God, now a monster in the sight of his Creater, degraded below the level of the beasts.

"If any Catholic priest in the city was to keep a record of every drunkard's deathbed he had attended, and would publish it, it would be the most appalling revelation conceivable.

"As with each portion of the human body, each member lending its support to the whole, so it should be with society, all contributing to upholding it, and all working for its elevation. What does the drunkard do? Does he not violate every law of society, often to the extent of murder? The habit is a social evil of fearful magnitude. Who fill the jails but drunkards and whose children fill the industrial schools but theirs? It is also an awful domestic evil, and just here, in the homes, is where the results of the habits are heartrending to witness. Children are bound by the law of nature as well as the law of grace to revere their parents. Does the drunken bully of a young man, cursing and swearing and bringing blasphemy into a home where otherwise peace, prayer and comfort would prevail—does he honor or revere his aged parents?

THE WORK THE CHURCH IS DOING.

"If it is the parent who is the drunkard so much the worse. Even the wild animals of the forest care for and protect their young, yet a drunken parent will send his half-starved, thinly-clad child into the freezing blast to beg money with which to purchase rum. What is the comfort for a drunkard's home on a night like this, and how can his children be reared but in such a way as will cause them to curse his memory when he is lying in a dishonored grave?

"The Roman Catholic Church does not hold great conventions to boast of the progress it is making in the field of temperance, but like the great forces of nature it is working silently. In my lifetime I have confirmed over 50,000 children, and each of these little ones took the total abstinence pledge, never to partake of liquor until each had attained the age of 21 years. We form our people's desires in the plastic years of their life, and not having acquired an appetite or desire for drink when young it is altogether improbable that they will begin when they have attained years of discretion."

LONDON AND PORT STANLEY.

Ex-Ald. Jeffery Supplies Proof that $25,000 Is Up to Seal the Bargain,

As Agreed To Unanimously by the City Council on the 9th Inst.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

It has been stated that not a dollar in cash has been deposited by the Cleveland syndicate who are leasing the Port Stanley Railroad. In order that the public may judge in reference to this matter, I give below a copy of the certificate signed by the manager of the Molsons Bank:

"LONDON, Jan. 9, 1893.

"To the Treasurer of the Corporation of the City of London:

"I hereby certify that the Molsons Bank here hold a deposit certificate for twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), with instructions to pay that amount to yourself on delivery, on or before the 25th day of January, inst., 1893, to the Molsons Bank, of an indenture of lease of the London and Port Stanley Railway, executed to F. S. Miller and others, as approved by the City Council at its meeting held this 9th day of January, 1893, AND THE MOLSONS BANK HEREBY AGREE TO PAY THE SAID SUM OVER TO YOU ACCORDINGLY.

"Your obedient servant,

"P. W. D. BRODERICK, Manager."

Surely anyone must say that the above is just as good as a deposit in cash. If the cash had been deposited the parties making the deposit would have been entitled to its return if the lease had not been executed on or before the 25th inst.; and if the lease is executed on or before the 25th inst. the manager of the Molsons Bank must pay the $25,000 to the city treasurer.

F. S. Miller and others cannot withdraw the deposit until after the 25th inst., and not then if the lease is accepted as approved by the City Council on the 9th inst. But if the terms of the lease are in any way altered then, notwithstanding its execution, the deposit can be withdrawn.

With reference to the terms of the lease I have not time to discuss them at present. Suffice it to state that the terms were the best that could be obtained, and taking all things into consideration, very much better than any other offer we received. There are many things which myself and others would like to have had incorporated in the lease, but it takes two to make a bargain.

I do not hesitate to state that in my opinion the benefits that will accrue to the city are incalculable. Yours truly,

JOSEPH JEFFERY.

MAYSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 17. — Strander Mulliken, of Mount Olivet, Robertson county, was a twin. His oldest daughter was a twin, and she married A. Craycraft, who was a twin. Mr. Craycroft was a widower when he married Miss Mulliken, and his first wife was also a twin.

THE BATTLE FOR BRITISH PRINCIPLES.

J. D. Edgar, M.P., at Toronto Young Liberal Banquet.]

As to our motherland, we Liberals have the highest appreciation of her greatness among the nations and of her truest glories —the freedom of her people and the freedom of her trade. The Liberals fought the battles for English freedom in Canada, and they won. We are now burnishing our weapons for the final conflict in Canada in favor of English principles of trade. We, too, can thrill with sentiment for the home of our fathers, and sentiment counts for much in the making of nations. But, how dare men stand up under a Canadian sky and tell us, as they do, that the only loyal sentiment we may feel must be for the British Isles? Yes, sentiment counts for much, and there is a flood of sentiment and pride and love for our own land, ready to burst forth and sweep away all other loyalty when the time shall come to raise the flag of Canadian nationality. (Loud applause.)

"German Syrup"

A Cough and Croup Medicine.

For children a medicine should be absolutely reliable. A mother must be able to pin her faith to it as to her Bible. It must contain nothing violent, uncertain, or dangerous. It must be standard in material and manufacture. It must be plain and simple to administer; easy and pleasant to take. The child must like it. It must be prompt in action, giving immediate relief, as childrens' troubles come quick, grow fast, and end fatally or otherwise in a very short time. It must not only relieve quick but bring them around quick, as children chafe and fret and spoil their constitutions under long confinement. It must do its work in moderate doses. A large quantity of medicine in a child is not desirable. It must not interfere with the child's spirits, appetite or general health. These things suit old as well as young folks, and make Boschee's German Syrup the favorite family medicine. G

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

OIL IN EUROPE AND ASIA.

Darius Probably the First Standard Oil Magnate.

In Athens, writes F. B. Sanborn to the Boston Advertiser, I met a gentleman not long since at the Caspian Sea, near which Russian lake there have been extensive oil wells of the Czar's subjects, all dug and, to some extent, worked by Americans. He tells me that now the American competition in petroleum is so great that the Russian oil no longer commands a living price, and that the business is greatly depressed in that part of the Russian empire. Mentioning to him the English story that the petroleum of that region had poisoned the waters of the River Volga, so that the fish are all dying, he told me that could hardly be, since the Caspian Sea abounds in excellent fish and yet is covered with oil, so that a person bathing in it, as he did, finds himself anointed with petroleum on coming out. He said that the fine Russian steamers on the Caspian have their engines run with oil from the wells near Baku, which is the Oil City of Asiatic Russia.

Herodotus of Halicarnassus speaks of oil wells in Ancient Persia, near which, at a good distance from Susa, the Persian king settled the colony of conquered Eretrians, from the Island of Eubea, whom he carried off in 490 B. C., just before the battle of Marathon. Ardericca is the name of that oil city, and Herodotus says it produced three things—salt, asphalt and oil—all from the same well—whence they were drawn with a sweep and bucket, as the old-fashioned Yankees still draw water—and as it is drawn in Greece, when the people are ingenious enough to have a well-sweep, and keep it in repair, which is not always the case. The heavier salt and asphalt hardened and separated, while the lighter oil was collected in tubs and pails and tanks. So that Darius, the Great King, was at the head of the first Standard Oil Company of which history makes mention—unless Hebrew or Egyptian chronicles have something more ancient to offer.

HOMESTEAD INTERESTED

In the Progress of the Poisoning Case —Testimony of the Principal Witness.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—Interest in Homestead in the poisoning case increases. The principal witness to-day was Patrick Gallagher, the cook upon whose confession the charges of poisoning were made. Gallagher's testimony did not materially differ from his previous story, which implicated the cooks Beatty and Davidson and Hugh Dempsey, master workman of the K. of. L. The witness said Dempsey gave him powders to place in the coffee and tea that was to be given to the non-unionists. Dempsey said the strike of the State Street Car Company of Chicago had been broken in three days by the use of these powders. They would make the men sick, but would not endanger life. Eight or ten other witnesses who worked at the mill during the strike and who were victims of mysterious disease, were examined but nothing new was elicited. At the afternoon session Gallagher was recalled and finished his testimony, which was not shaken on the cross-examination.

J. W. Davidson, Gallagher's alleged accomplice, was called, and gave his testimony, which corroborated Gallagher's.

George W. Crail, the dispatcher of the Pennsylvania line at the power house on Pennsylvania avenue, testified that Dempsey left $75 with him for a man who called and receipted for it and signed the name of Gallagher. Court then adjourned.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

AT COLDSTREAM.

COLDSTREAM, Ont., Jan. 16.—The Farmers' Institute here to-day was a marked success, fully 150 farmers being in attendance. Very able papers were read by Prof. Shuttleworth, D. McCrae (Guelph), and W. T. Carlyle, B.S.A.; also by such local men as Edgar M. Zavitz, B.A., and T. B. Scott. Their papers were ably discussed by the farmers of the township. A very enjoyable evening was spent and the following officers were appointed for the coming year: Alex. Grey, president; Alex. Cameron, vice-president; S. P. Zavitz, secretary-treasurer. P. Stewart and G. T. Johnson were appointed delegates to the Central Institute, Toronto. At the evening session the hall was crowded and many had to do with standing room.

The Harriers.

The members of the well-known Ranelagh Harriers' Club of London, Eng., know what is best when one writes like the following, Mr. W. F. Jefferies, member of the Club, says: "I find St. Jacobs Oil the best remedy I have ever used for sprains, stiffness and bruises. It quickly removes pains and swellings, and if rubbed into the muscles, it will be found of great benefit to all athletes. I may also add that several friends of mine have found the Oil a cure for rheumatism and neuralgia."

BANKERS,

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE.
THE UNION BANK OF HALIFAX.

SOLICITORS.

MACMASTER & McGIBBON, Montreal.

The Directors, who are now the owners of the entire Capital stock, have decided, at the request of numerous friends of the Company throughout Canada, to enlarge the proprietorship of its stock, and to offer for sale, at par, ten thousand shares, of one hundred dollars each, fully paid and non-assessable.

Payments are to be made as follows:—Five per cent. on application; fifteen per cent. on allotment, twenty per cent. each in one, two, three and four months from the date of allotment. Applicants have the right to pay in full on allotment.

Applications for shares will be received until February 15th, 1893, at any of the offices of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, at the offices of the Union Bank of Halifax, and at the head office of the company, N. Y. Life Building, Montreal.

Forms of application for shares may be obtained at any of the above places, or they will be sent by mail on request.

Should no allotment of stock be made to any applicant for shares, the amount paid will be returned in full, and in the event of the Directors finding it impossible to allot the full number of shares applied for, the surplus of the deposit will be credited toward the amount payable on allotment.

The right is reserved of withdrawing the offer in whole or part at any time before allotment, and of allotting to any applicant any less number of shares than the number applied for.

As the dividends of the Company are payable quarterly, beginning with the first day of March next, allottees of stock will be entitled to receive a proportion of the quarterly dividend as declared, corresponding to the amount paid upon their subscription.

It is proposed to apply to the Stock Exchanges of Montreal and Toronto for official quotations of the shares of the Company.

The Consumers Cordage Company was organized in June, 1890, with a Capital of one million dollars, to operate several of the largest Cordage and Binder Twine Factories in Canada. It, at first, operated these under leases, but its operations having been successful, the Capital Stock was subsequently increased to Three Million Dollars, and the leased properties were purchased.

The Company has no mortgage indebtedness; and, according to the law under which it was incorporated, none can be created without the consent of two-thirds of the shares holders, represented at a meeting called for the purpose.

The Company has placed in the hands of Bankers:—

(a) Full statements of its affairs, certified by Messrs. Caldwell, Tait & Wilks, Chartered Accountants.

(b) The following letter from Messrs. Abbotts, Campbell & Meredith, advocates, Montreal, upon the legality of its incorporation, and the issue of its stock:—

MONTREAL, January 5, 1893.

Consumers Cordage Co., Ltd., Montreal:—

GENTLEMEN,—We have examined the books and documents connected with the organization of the Consumers Cordage Company, Limited, and are of opinion that it has been properly incorporated, and that its capital stock of $3,000,000, as issued, is fully paid up and non-assessable, according to the provisions of the "Companies Act."

We are, yours truly,

(Signed), ABBOTTS, CAMPBELL & MEREDITH.

(c) A report from Messrs. Macmaster and McGibbon, Solicitors of the Company, that the titles to its Mills have been duly examined, and that no encumbrances exist.

Applicants for shares may examine these documents, copies of which may be seen at the Company's offices, and at the various offices of the Banks mentioned above.

The Consumers Cordage Company is probably the second largest Manufacturer of Cordage and Binder Twine in the world, and claims the following very material advantages over its competitors:—

1st. Ample capital to conduct its business which enables it:—

(a) To buy its raw material in larger quantities, and at lower prices.

(b) To use only the latest and most improved machinery, thus keeping its mills in the highest state of efficiency.

2nd. Economy in selling and distributing its manufactured product.

3rd. The business covers so wide a territory (its manufactured goods go to almost every civilized country in the world) that it cannot be seriously injured by local troubles; and its Manufacturing establishments are so scattered that the danger of several loss by fire is very slight.

4th. Lower cost of production.

(a). By maintaining the sharpest competition between its several mills, it is enabled to introduce in all the best methods found in each.

(b). By spreading its commercial expenses over a larger output.

(c) By placing in one hand the purchasing of the Raw Materials and Manufacturing supplies for the several Mills, thus securing lowest prices.

(d). By manufacturing for themselves many of their supplies.

The Company has always found it in the interest to divide the economies effected in production and distribution with the Consumer, and since its existence the Consumer has, upon the average, had a better article at a lower price than previously.

The Company does not claim to have any monopoly, or to earn monopoly profits; in fact, it has not done so. Since its organization it has been able, owing to the advantages above referred to, to earn a net return on its present capital of not less than 10 per cent. per annum (as statements in their Bankers' hands will show), and the Directors believe that these profits will be maintained in the future, as the cost of production and distribution shows each year a marked decrease.

The Dividend for the year ending 31st October, 1892, was at the rate of 3½ percent. per annum. The past record of the Company and its present position justify the Directors in believing that quarterly dividends of one and three-quarters per cent. can be paid [and should the profits for the present year be as large as the outlook promises, the final quarter's dividend might be increased.

Any further information may be had at the head office of the Company at Montreal.

CONSERVATIVES DIVIDED

On the Proposition that the Tariff Has Outlived Its Usefulness.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—At to-night's meeting of the Young Conservative Club Mr. E. F. H. Cross' motion for the reduction of the tariff came up for debate. The motion was as follows:

"Whereas the prosperous condition of the Canadian manufacturers bears adequate witness to the fact that the National Policy has consummated the purpose for which it was instituted, and lived the full period of its usefulness; and whereas this association has observed with regret that the condition of the various other classes of the community, particularly the mercantile and agricultural classes, is not commensurate with that of the manufacturers, and finds a partial explanation of this in the existence of high protective taxes on several of the essentials of life and implements of industry, which taxes are paid by the Canadian consumer in the additional price for the articles imported; therefore, this association desires to place on record its conviction that the time has arrived when in the interests of the country it is advisable to modify the tariff by reducing the protective duties on all essentials of life and implements of industry."

A number of speeches were made for and against the motion, and the discussion adjourned.

President Armstrong spoke for the resolution.

Judge Armour, not certain whether this charge constituted a misdemeanor, made a reserved case to the chancery division, which to-day confirmed the judgment. The penalty for misdemeanor is fine or imprisonment or both.

JOHN CAMERON, President and Manager.

"The Advertiser" is an organ of news and of thoroughly independent opinion. The ADVERTISER alone is responsible for opinions expressed in these columns.

"The Advertiser" advocates Continental Free Trade, free trade with Great Britain, free trade with the world.

"The Advertiser" looks forward with hope to Canada's future as that of an Independent Canadian Nationality, in equally friendly alliance with the United States and with Great Britain, believing that such a status would be best for Canada, best for Great Britain, and promotive of the best attainable relations with the United States. As to Imperial Federation, sometimes spoken of, the ADVERTISER as yet has seen nothing proposed that bears any stamp of practicability, and in any case infinitely prefers the grander and more really hopeful scheme of a federation of the English-speaking peoples of the world. Towards this consummation a large stride would be taken by a Confederation of the English-speaking people of the North American Continent.

"The Advertiser" advocates prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor; and all expedient general legislation and persuasion in the meantime.

"The Advertiser" is an advocate of equal rights for women, whether as regards the franchise, or equal wages for equal work.

"The Advertiser" is a believer in Christian Union, and considers the time has come when the various Christian denominations should come closer together. These bodies which are now nearest should unite first. Under the present system there is an unjustifiable waste of men, means and effort. The ADVERTISER will endeavor to promote the movement for Christian union not alone by direct appeal and argument, but by seeking to present the best rather than the worst side of each denomination.

"The Advertiser" advocates Obligatory Voting as both necessary and practicable. Nothing would so much purify electoral contests. Nothing would so much enforce the idea that the franchise is a duty, not a chattel.

God's in His heaven,
All's right with the world.
—[BROWNING.

London, Tuesday, Jan. 17.

THE LESSON OF THE LONDON AND PORT STANLEY.

Why is it that there has been so much rejoicing in London, St. Thomas and Port Stanley over the prospective opening up of direct commerce with Cleveland, Ashtabula and other points on the United States side of Lake Erie?

Why is it that so many Canadians indorse the project for establishing direct communication between Great Britain and Canada by means of fast Atlantic steamships?

Why is it that many millions of Canadian money have been spent in deepening the St. Lawrence and connecting streams, in order to make it easier for ocean vessels to reach the head of navigation?

One is prompted to ask these questions at a time when it is announced by those in power at Ottawa that the system of trade restriction, which has been in force for the past thirteen years, is to be continued.

We have had men in the midst of us professing to believe that it is all wrong to encourage trade, defending taxes on imports of almost every description, with the object of discouraging commerce; and doing everything in their power to make believe that the advocates of unfettered trade are the enemies of their country, are unpatriotic, traitors, and so forth.

A new light has dawned, however. These men do not yet join with us in demanding that every unnecessary shackle shall be removed from international trade by river, lake, sea, or land, but they feel inclined to rejoice that men can be found to aid in reopening trade with our neighbors, even in the one commodity of coal.

This is a hopeful sign. The object lesson which the re-establishment of direct trade with Cleveland teaches is that if it is profitable to trade in taxed coal, it will be more profitable to trade in untaxed coal. If it is profitable to trade in taxed iron—taxed enormously, by the way—it will be more profitable to trade in untaxed iron. And so on with regard to many other necessaries of life and items of commerce that the United States can supply us or we can sell to the great consuming people that live at our doors.

If we believe the restricted trade advocates, the opening up of new avenues for interchanging commodities must be regarded as a distinct injury to us rather than a gain, as every sensible man knows that it will be. If we were to adopt the view that it is detrimental to Canadians to buy and to sell wheresoever they can find a market or deem it to their profit to purchase, we would do everything in our power to baulk the London and Port Stanley agreement; we would oppose a fast steamship service between Canada and Britain; we would condemn every expenditure to improve our river and lake navigation.

One cannot but note the inconsistency of those who countenance the spending of many millions to improve the facilities for trading between Great Britain and Canada and between the Dominion and the United States, while placing obstacles, in the shape of heavy taxes on imports, in the way of commerce. The object lessons we are now receiving should teach even the dullest of comprehension the absurdity of the contention that harassing taxes on necessaries of life are a benefit to the masses. They are not, and never can be.

GEMS FROM LAURIER.

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier has returned to his country home in Arthabaskaville, but he has left behind him, in the speeches which he delivered at Hamilton and Toronto, the strongest incentives to effort on the part of all patriotic Canadians, no matter what their political antecedents.

The keynote of Mr. Laurier's masterly addresses have been Freedom of Trade; the goal he aspires to reach is emancipation from every tax that is not needed for revenue and the steady extension of our opportunities to buy and sell without let or hindrance from monopolists or self-seeking politicians.

Here are a few gems from the Toronto address of the honorable gentleman:

"Of all the signs, sir, which I have found in the Province of Ontario which make me go back to my own native Province with a sense of pride and of hope unbounded, is this fact, that I have found the young Liberals of Ontario—the young men, I should say, of Ontario, because in this I should also include the young Conservatives—eager to do their best for their native country, as their ancestors have done in the past. (Hear, hear.) It is a most hopeful sign that you see the young men of this country determined at no distant day—determined as soon as the occasion offers—to do their best for the country, which indeed must be admitted, much as we love it, to be a suffering country. A week ago to-day you heard the ministers of the crown in this city, and to-morrow you will hear them again, piling up before you figures and statistics in a vain effort to convince the people that they are happy and prosperous. (Laughter.) Sir, what a delusion! I should say what an insult to common sense and common honesty. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) To tell us, indeed, that this country is prosperous, when out of a population of only 5,000,000 one full million of our countrymen have fled from this prosperity—(a voice—"Shame")—to tell us that this country is prosperous when a country like Canada, which can easily shelter and feed and give happy homes to at least 100,000,000 of men, cannot retain the paltry 5,000,000 that she has."

The duty of those who desire emancipation from this condition of affairs, Mr. Laurier thus set forth:

"We are told that we are prosperous, that we have nothing more to do than to fold our arms and enjoy the blessings which Providence has given us. The men who use that language are not deserving of the confidence of the people, and the time has come when the people of Canada are resolved to never cease their efforts until we have brought about in this country a state of things wherein the facts shall be such that every Canadian born in Canada shall remain and enjoy its blessings until the end of his life. Until we have attained that result there can be no peace for the Liberals, but it must be constant warfare."

Those who have been hugging the delusion that they can maintain the high tax policy by asserting that the Liberals have no programme of tax reform will find little comfort in this declaration:

"I have exposed this doctrine in another place, and I shall not repeat what I said, but I will repeat that there is a remedy, which must be applied, and it is decreased taxation and increased markets. Reform the tariff, and reform it in the line of absolute free trade, such as it is known in England. That shall be the goal for us. Of course in our present condition it is not possible for us to adopt free trade in its entirety as it is in England; but then in England free trade was not adopted at a fell sweep, but gradually, and so as not to jeopardize any existing interests. This should be the policy of the Liberal party, and so far as I have anything to do do with the management of this question I say this is the line upon which we should proceed, now and forever."

As to the future of Canada, Mr. Laurier is equally clear:

"For my own part I re-echo every word which has been spoken by Sir Oliver Mowat, when he said that Canada should not always remain a colony. (A voice—"Certainly not.") No. Canada cannot always remain a colony. I say that at some time or other Canada shall take her place among the nations of the earth. (Applause.) But, gentlemen, if that result could be brought about by me by a turn of the hand I would not do it if it meant a difference with the motherland. This severance will come at the proper time, as the ripened fruit falls from the parent stem; or, better still, as a young man grows up and leaves the home of his father to become the head of a household of his own, so gentlemen, will Canada become a nation. (Applause.) She will not part from England in war, but in amity, peace and harmony. (Renewed applause.) Nay, more, I conceive of a state of things in which it may be possible that the independence of Canada may not mean a severance from Britain."

Though Imperial Federation has a most alluring fascination, Mr. Laurier holds that to place it, as is proposed, on the basis of the military defense of the empire, is to adopt the very narrowest groundwork that is possible. He says:

"I am sure of one thing—and I assert it, knowing that the words which I now speak are echoed in the hearts of every man within the sound of my voice—we do not need any Imperial Federation, but if the time ever came that England were really in danger, there is not a Canadian, whatever his birth—Scotch, Irish, English or even French—who would not give of his money and of his blood for the security of the old empire. (Cheers.) Sir, I fear nothing of the kind; and when the apostles of Imperial Federation place the basis of their scheme upon military consideration, I tell them they are not of their age. The age has passed when, in countries of British institutions, political institutions will be moulded on account of military considerations. (Hear, hear.) That day has passed; we look to nobler aspirations. Sir, I said in your city a week ago to-day that the great agent of civilization in this century, in this age, and on this continent, and in England, is trade. (Hear, hear.) This is the great agent of civilization. Give me a union which will be based upon the laws of trade—upon laws which will make the country more prosperous—not only people more prosperous here, but in the old sod as well; and for such a union I am striving every day of my life." (Hear, hear, and cheers.)

Free trade, Mr. Laurier asserts, is making progress. It is the policy of Great Britain and the first-born daughter of England, the republic of America, is just now entering into her footsteps. Therein the Liberal leader sees the possibility of a union not only upon the basis of empire, but upon the larger basis of union which would include all the countries issuing from England. He continues:

"And why, sir, do I, a Canadian of French origin, demand that there should be a union in trade of all countries springing from England? It is not because I would confine that union exclusively to the Anglo-Saxon race, but simply because at this time every man must recognize that the Anglo-Saxon race is the great commercial race of the world—(hear, hear)—the greatest commercial race that the world has ever seen. Nay, more. A moment ago the name of John Bright was spoken; and, sir, of the many names that were spoken here, and who in former times have striven in the cause of true Liberalism, there is no name that stands higher for breadth of thought, for purity of motive, than the name of John Bright. (Hear, hear.) I recall, sir, in the year 1876, when the American nation was celebrating the 100th anniversary of their independence, John Bright wrote to some friends in New York these words, speaking of England and speaking of the United States: 'Two nations; one people.' 'Two nations; one people,' and yet, sir, accepting the words of Sir Oliver Mowat that Canada shall sometime be an independent nation, why should we not enlarge the thought of John Bright and say, 'Three nations; one people'? (Cheers.) Sir, this is the policy as to which—in my humble capacity as a member of the Liberal party—I don't pretend at this moment to speak as the leader of the party because I have not yet received any mandate to speak on this question—but speaking in my own heart, I say this is the policy which I believe to be best for this Canada of ours."

These manly, straightforward sentiments were applauded to the echo by Mr. Laurier's hearers. We feel assured, knowing something of the strength of the movement in favor of getting rid of every possible tax that now burdens the workers of the Dominion, that the programme set before his followers by this distinguished Canadian statesman will find general indorsation. It appeals not to the prejudices of the narrow-minded or the selfish—that would be an unworthy appeal, which would not deserve success—but to all patriotic, fair-minded citizens who desire to see their country progress, who wish that laws shall be maintained not for the benefit of the few but for the welfare of the masses.

OUR esteemed contemporary says that when it asserted that food was never as highly taxed as it is now it meant the opposite, and that the printer changed it. The unfortunate printer has to bear a multitude of sins.

HON. MR. HALL, Provincial Treasurer of Quebec, says that he has "yet to find any authority say other than that direct taxation is the best." Mr. Hall will be read out of the party if he does not have a care. People would never submit to the vexatious taxes levied by the present Ottawa Administration if they could tell how much tribute is paid on almost everything that they purchase.

*

THOUGH the price of raw cotton has declined nearly 50 per cent. in the past few years, the Canadian cotton combine has, according to drygoods merchants, increased the price of manufactured cotton over 10 per cent. during the past six months. This combine also keeps a number of mills idle, paying their shareholders in order to prevent competition. How kind to the workers!

*

EXPERIMENTS regarding pavements still continue, proving that experts have not yet reached what they regard as the ideal. In the British metropolis a roadway of granulated cork and bitumen, pressed into blocks, is being introduced, it is said, with satisfactory results. It is elastic, furnishes a fine foothold for horses, and greatly diminishes the noise of traffic. India-rubber pavements have proved so satisfactory where they have been tried experimentally in Germany that the use of this material is to be largely extended there. The latter material has also proved satisfactory in an experimental section at St. Pancras station, London. Cedar block pavement will have to be replaced in this city and other places soon. What shall its successor be?

HAGEN BEATS BREEN.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 16.—Harold Hagen, the Norwegian skater, again defeated Fred Breen, the Canadian, in the mile skating race to-day. Breen got the best of the start, but Hagen soon made up all he had lost. For the first two laps Breen seemed to be holding his own, but at the end of the third Hagen gained rapidly, winning the race by 40 yards in 2:49 4-5. Breen's time was 2:54½. The third and last of the series of races (five miles) will be skated Wednesday afternoon.

CURLING.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—Oshawa beat Prospect Park to-day, three rinks a side, by 52 to 40.

Collapse of a Paper Warehouse—Three Men Killed and One Badly Injured.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—About 5:54 this afternoon the four-story brick building at 517 Commerce street, occupied as a salesroom and warehouse by the Nixon Brothers Paper Company, collapsed. Seven men were in the building at the time. Three were buried in the ruins and killed, one was badly hurt and three escaped uninjured. The dead are John McKenna, Joseph Wallace and Albert W. Marker. Albert Gales, a colored porter, was injured internally. At the time mentioned an ominous cracking of splintering joints was heard, and then with terrible suddenness the whole upper part of the building came down with a rush upon the men on the first floor. The cause of the collapse was probably the weight of paper stored in the upper floors. The building is a total ruin. The loss is about $30,000.

A VERITABLE family medicine box, BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Sir Walter Raleigh introduced the use of tobacco in Europe centuries ago, but if he could to-day smoke a Highland Lassie cigar manufactured by H. McKay & Co., London, he would assuredly consider himself one of the greatest of public benefactors. It is a five-cent cigar and has no superior on the market. The composition is of the choicest nature, the workmanship of the best and the flavor delicious. Try them.

Fatal Accident on an Oregon Railroad.

Collision on the Pennsylvania—A Fireman Instantly Killed—Slight Accident on the C. P. R.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 16.—A wood train on the Portland and Williamette Valley Railway was derailed near Oswego to-day, and the engine, seven cars and a caboose went into a ditch. Several persons in the caboose were severely injured, the fireman, John Hobeliter, and a laborer being fatally hurt.

THE DEATH CHAIR.

Most Successful Killing in the History of Electrocution.

DANNEMORA, N. Y., Jan. 16.—When Loth, the murderer of a defenseless woman, was to be electrocuted to-day, the State electrician, at the signal given by Dr. Ransom, sent 1,720 volts into the victim. The body stiffened up against the straps and as the voltage was decreased it resumed its normal attitude. An interval of a few seconds elapsed during which there was not the slightest indication of life, not even a twitching of the muscles, and then Dr. Ransom again raised his hand, the electrician responded, and the body stiffened up against the straps once more, the electrician reducing the current until finally it ceased.

The physicians then examined the body and declared the man dead. The apparatus used was the same as that used at other State electrocutions. The only innovation was the introduction of the diminishing current, which the State electrician believes prevents any muscular or nervous reaction.

Electrician Davis says the electrocution was the most successful in the history of electrocutions and that there were no marks of any kind on the body.

BEN BUTLER'S BURIAL.

More Than 20,000 People Gaze on the Remains

Of the Famous Soldier, Politician and Lawyer — His Body Interred at Lowell, Mass.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 16.—It was barely 3 o'clock this morning when Huntington Hall, where the remains of Gen. Butler reposed in state, was opened to the public. There were thousands waiting then to look upon the dead, and more than 20,000 people gazed at the face of the departed warrior. The greater portion of this throng of sight-seers came from out of town. The trains were packed, and the streets were filled with sleighs and vehicles of every description. The crush on the sidewalks was frightful, and the police found it difficult to prevent injury to the women and children. One woman fainted and was carried unconscious into a neighboring store. A child was trampled upon and was carried into a doctor's office with a badly-sprained arm, while many women emerged from the crowd with torn clothing. Nothing like this crush has ever before been seen in Lowell.

Although there were insignia of mourning on all the buildings in the neighborhood there was little semblance of it in the crowd. Fakirs were present in scores, loudly calling their wares as they sold pictures of the dead general and brief biographical sketches of his life. At 11:30 the hall was closed and the body of Gen. Butler was surrendered by the G. A. R. to the State military authorities. To them was assigned the duty of giving it a military burial. Only those who held cards of admission secured entrance to the church, and they numbered only 850. Among them were: Gov. Russel and staff, the Governor's Council and the committees of the Legislature, ex-Govs. Banks, Ames and Brackett and the surviving members of Gen. Butler's council in 1883, Gov. Smith and staff of New Hampshire, and members of State Legislature, Gen. John Palmer, past commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., came from Albany, and the present commander was represented by Inspector-General Goodale and aides.

At the church Rev. Dr. Chambre and his assistant, Rev. George S. Sinclair, conducted the services, the surpliced choir chanting selections from the 39th and 90th psalms. It was the regular Episcopal burial service. More than 150 carriages took part in the cortege, and when the escort arrived at the grave with the casket the last of the followers had but just left the church.

Gen. Peach and staff occupied a knoll beside the troops, and the volley firers were grouped near the grave. Rev. Dr. Chambre concluded the religious services, the Masons gave a short ritual, and the volley was fired.

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—As a mark of respect to the late Gen. Butler, the Legislature adjourned from Friday until Tuesday next.

"A CANADIAN NECESSITY."

Resolution Adopted by the Toronto Board of Trade on the Matter of Fast Steamship Service.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—At a special general meeting of the Board of Trade, held to-day to consider the question of the early establishment of a fast Atlantic steamship service on the Canadian route, the following resolution passed:

"That in order to obtain the full benefit of our already enormous expenditure and our great natural advantages, and render the nation independent of foreign ports, a fast Canadian Atlantic steamship service is a necessity and should be encouraged by the Canadian people and Government.

"Resolved, that this board is of opinion that a fast Canadian Atlantic service, would increase the value of European exports and decrease the cost of delivery of our European imports, largely augment the volume of our passenger travel, and otherwise be of great national importance."

J. & J.

Hopes raised by our advertisements are realized when the goods are inspected and put to the test of actual wear. You are aware, reader, that this is not your experience at all times and in all places.

Our stock of linen goods is moving, not as rapidly as we would desire, but it is moving, and that is something to be thankful for. They will go faster when the weather eases off a little and people begin to realize what is going on at our store.

We purpose taking stock at the close of this month. With us it is always an arduous task. To reduce the labor as much as possible, we will lay upon our counters many useful articles, which, no doubt, will be picked up rapidly, as they will be marked down for the occasion.

We have still on our tables the balance of our stock of Ulsters, Cloaks and Mantles. As the winter is not half over (indeed it seems as though it had just begun), do not conclude to wait till next season, when you will doubtless pay full price for it. We are anxious not to carry over these goods, and it is for this reason that we urge you to buy now. Your interests and ours are identical in this case. It's a saving to both.

Patrons living out of town are asked to write for samples. Should the samples suit, we will pay express charges on all orders of $5 and upwards.

There won't be anything the matter with your neckwear or linen or cuffs if you take advantage of what we are offering. Don't remain still under the idea that the goods are stuck here. It's sure to be exhausted soon and you will do well to look at it now.

British Grain Trade.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: English wheats are unchanged. Only 69,500 quarters have been sold. The average price was 4s 8d below that of No. 1 California, compared with a difference of 4s 10d in 1892, and 5s 10d in 1891. Hence though prices are low, they are not excessively depressed, compared with those of foreign wheats. There has been a fall of 6d in foreign wheats in most of the markets, but the trade is steady and values are still 6d in advance of those prevailing at the end of 1892. The spring corn trade has been firm, the demand showing a genuine increase, raising the price 1s at some places. Despite the news of an augmented visible supply in the United States, the largest markets have been most difficult to move. Nevertheless there has been some advance. At Liverpool prices have gone 1d per cental.

A Hamilton Double of Jay Gould.

Samuel S. Ryckman, junior member from Hamilton, Ont., to the Dominion Parliament, is in this city. He bears a most startling resemblance to the late Jay Gould, and was told so a hundred times yesterday when he went into Wall street. He had just entered a Sixth avenue "L" car at Rector street, when a well-known Wall street man looked at him with surprise and exclaimed: "My God! Is Jay on earth again?" Several of the passengers laughed, but Mr. Ryckman didn't.—[New York Recorder.

BOXING IN BROOKLYN.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 17.—The boxing tournament of the Hamilton Athletic Club at the Clemont Avenue Rink last night attracted most of the sporting men of New York and Brooklyn and many from Philadelphia and Boston. The event of the evening was the eight-round fight between Walter Campbell, of Philadelphia, and Billy Ernst, of Brooklyn. The men fought at 130 pounds and with three ounce gloves. Ernst forced the fighting, and put Campbell on the defensive. Ernst, in the second round, knocked out his opponent. The round lasted two minutes and four seconds.

Stevens dislocated his left thumb in the first round, and was during the rest of the fight handicapped. Connors won in the thirteenth round.

A THEORY AS TO THE WEATHER.

(Atlanta Constitution.)

"Do you know where the comet has gone?" asked one of our citizens. "Well," he continued, "I'll tell you that, in my opinion, it hasn't gone anywhere. I think it is here—all about us. We are daily breathing comet, sneezing comet, and feeling comet. We can't see it and probably don't smell it, but when the astronomers lost it I think it was because we ran into it, or it over us, before we knew it. This cold and unsettled weather throughout the world must be due to the presence in our path of a vapor that absorbs or intercepts the heat of the sun. You know some of the savants of the skies said the comet was only a vapor spread throughout a mighty area of space, luminous by absorption or reflection at a great distance from us, but invisible if about us, and contained not enough solid matter to make a handful. I believe we are taking a prolonged comet bath—and I don't like it."

Virgie's Inheritance.

"A day of reckoning will surely come for him," Virgie answered, firmly; "for, if this child lives; she will one day make her appearance at Heathdale and claim her heritage. There may be other children, but she will have the first right there. Tell your Lady Linton this—tell her that 'that girl,' of whom she wrote so slightingly and heartlessly, will live to educate her child for her position as the mistress of her 'proud ancestral home;' tell her to warn her brother that the day of retribution will not fail to overtake him."

Virgie was regally beautiful as she stood there before her enemy and pronounced this stern prophecy. There was not an atom of color in her face, but her figure was drawn proudly erect, a sort of majesty in every graceful curve, while there was a resolute, inflexible purpose in every line of her beautiful features, and her eyes burned with a steady, relentless fire which told that, if she lived, she would accomplish her vow, let the cost be what it would.

Mrs. Farnum, woman of the world though she was, felt cowed and abashed before her, and when, without waiting for a reply, the wronged wife turned from her and walked, with a firm, unfaltering step, into her chamber, shutting the door after her, she slunk away so her own room, feeling like the guilty thing she was, and trembling for the future if it should ever be discovered what part she had played in the plot to ruin Virginia Heath's happiness.

She was dismayed by the young mother's last words. At first she felt triumphant when she had spoken of her intention of obtaining a divorce, for such a measure would simplify matters greatly; it would relieve Lady Linton from the disagreeable task of trying to persuade her brother to adopt such a course, and thus he would be free, without any effort of his own, to wed whom he chose, and she had reckoned upon Sadie being the favored one.

But she had not taken into consideration the fact that Virgie's child would have a claim upon Heatndale; no divorce would affect her right there, if the legality of Sir William's marriage to Virgie could be proved, and thus endless trouble, to say nothing of the scandal the story would create, might ensue.

Still, there was a hundred "ifs" and possibilities in the way. Virgie might not be able to get satisfactory proofs; the child might not live herself to accomplish her object; and she finally resolved to try to be satisfied with the success of her plot thus far, and not trouble herself about future developments. But that pale, beautiful face, with that resolute yet heart-broken look upon it, haunted her for years afterward. She was deeply thankful that Sadie was not there to see it, and she was resolved that they should not meet again.

That evening Virgie was waited upon by the proprietor of the house, who, with much stammering and many apologies, informed her that he was obliged to request her to vacate the rooms that she was occupying.

She understood instantly, but her proud spirit rebelled against this last indignity, and she arose and stood before him in all the majorty of her insulted womanhood.

"Sir! Mr. Eldrige! you will please explain this very extraordinary request," she said, meeting his eyes with a steady glance.

Mr. Eldrige hemmed, looking embarrassed and remarked, with all the blandness he could assume:

"Really, Mrs. ——, madam, I regret to pain you, and it might be as well to avoid explanations."

"No, sir; that is impossible; my husband left me here with the understanding that I should remain here until he came for me, and there must therefore be some very urgent reason for such a strange proceeding on your part."

"Yes, madam," said the man, driven to the wall. "I—have been informed that—that you are not Mrs. Heath at all; that the gentleman who brought you here was not what he represented himself to be."

"What authority have you for making such a statement?" Virgie demanded, haughtily.

"This," answered the hotel keeper, producing the paper, containing the notice of the marriage at Heathdale, which Mrs. Fanum had slyly laid upon his desk, with the marked paragraph uppermost. She was very careful, however, not to appear in the matter herself.

She had determined to get Virgie away before Sadie's return from Coney Island, which she feared; too, the coming of Sir William to investigate the cause of his wife's long silence.

One glance was sufficient to tell Virgie what paper it was, and she flushed to her brow.

"I see," she said, scornfully, "those who have professed to be my friends are leagued against me."

"But—pardon me—have you no doubts yourself regarding your position?" questioned the landlord feeling a deep pity for the beautiful woman, in spite of his anxiety regarding the reputation of his house.

"None," but the word came hoarsely from the now hueless lips.

"But you have had no letters for a long time; the gentleman has for years been engaged to an English lady; this paper gives a notice of his recent marriage to her, and everything goes to prove that you have been grossly deceived. It is very unfortunate, but I have received notice from several of my guests that they will leave to-morrow morning unless I insist upon this change, and thus it becomes my painful duty to request these rooms to be vacated."

This was a bitter blow to add to the rest, but Virgie, conscious of her own purity, bore it with Spartan-like heroism.

She cast one look of scorn upon the man before her, then said, with a calmness that was born of despair:

"Sir, I still assert, in the face of all that you have just said, that I am the wife of Mr. —yes, of Sir William Heath, of Heathdale, Hampshire country, England, and some day it will be in my power to prove to you the truth of my words; but I have no wish to occasion you either trouble or loss, so I will go away to-morrow morning."

The landlord looked greatly relieved at this assurance, and yet he was impressed both by her manner and her words.

He assured her of his sympathy, and kindly offered to assist her in obtaining other rooms and establishing herself in them.

Virgie quietly declined this offer, however, and thanking her for her speedy compliance with his request, Mr. Eldrige took his leave, though, to his credit be it said, with considerable shamefacedness and embarrassment.

The next morning Virgie sent to Dr. Knox for his bill, paid it, dismissed her nurse, notwithstanding her urgent plea to be retained even at reduced wages, and then she quietly disappeared from the place, leaving no trace behind her to point to her destination or future plans, and, after the gossip consequent upon such a choice bit of scandal had died away, she was, for the time at lerst, forgotten.

CHAPTER XIX.

SIR WILLIAM HEATH RETURNS TO AMERICA.

"I cannot understand it, Miriam. It is the strangest thing in the world, and I shall sail for America on the very next steamer."

It was Sir William Heath who spoke thus, and there was no mistaking the decision in his voice.

He was sitting at the table in the large, sunny dining-room at Heathdale, while the open and empty mail-bag lay upon the table beside him.

There were several letters scattered around his plate, but these were unheeded, while the anxious, perplexed look on the baronet's face told that he was deeply troubled about something.

Lady Linton sat opposite him, and she had been furtively watching him during his examination of the bag. There were two very bright spots upon her cheeks, which might have been caused by her morning drive to the post-office; or they might have been produced by the guilty conscience and anxiety regarding her brother's announcement.

"Then there is no letter for you this morning," she remarked, trying to appear unconcerned.

"No; and I am nearly wild with anxiety. I must go to Virgie at once," Sir William responded, moodily.

"I do know how mamma will bear the thought of you going," Lady Linton said, looking grave.

"It cannot harm her. Sir Herbert says she is doing very well, and I might have gone last week but for the severe cold which she took. I must go, Miriam. My wife is more to me than all the world, and this uncomfortable silence and suspense is unbearable. I am afraid something dreadful has happened to her. Just think, I have not heard one word from her since she wrote me after the birth of our little one."

"Why don't you cable, then? I am going to town this morning, and I will send a message for you, if you wish," craftily suggested his sister, who felt very uncomfortable at the thought of his starting off so suddenly; for he might meet his wife just at the very moment when success was about to crown her plans.

She had heard from Mrs. Farnum only once since her coup d'etat, when she had given an account of that last interview with the heart-broken wife. The letter had been posted that same day, for the woman had hoped that Virgie would leave the house so quickly, even though she knew she was going to be asked to do so; and as she knew her friend would be anxious to learn the result of her last measure, and as a steamer was to sail the next morning, she had written immediately.

"I suppose you are very anxious. It is natural that you should be," replied Lady Linton, as she broke an egg into her cup and busied herself seasoning it, although she did not even taste it after it was prepared. Excitement and anxiety had destroyed her appetite.

Two or three times every week, of late, there had been just such a scene as this when the mail came in after the arrival of a steamer.

No letters came from Virgie. At least, he received none; for they were all cunningly abstracted before the bag came into the house, and Sir William did not dream that anyone possessed a key to it save himself, and so, of course, was unsuspicious of any plot.

(To be Continued.)

Sunshine in the House!

"I'm weary with work!" the good wife sighed;
"But after all," she said,
"It's sweet to labor for those we love—
No wonder that maids will wed."

A wise housewife lightens her toil and gladdens the home circle by her cheerfulness. But health is the first requisite, and her just prerogative. Health follows the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which repairs the ravages caused by those peculier diseases which afflict womankind. It enriches the blood, cures the cough, increases the flesh, prevents hysteria, nervousness and low spirits, and is a veritable fountain of health to women, young and old. Satisfaction, or the price ($1) refunded. Of druggists.

The most agreeable thing some men ever do is to make their exit.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills as they are extremely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

SUFFOCATED BY SMOKE

Sad Death of the Late Sir Hugh Allan's Son.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 16.—Arthur, youngest son of the late Sir Hugh Allan, met his death by suffocation at an early hour this morning. He had spent the latter portion of Sunday evening at the St. James' Club with a number of friends, and about 1 o'clock this morning left the club, going home to his rooms on Dorchester street, only a few yards from the club house. Some time after the other occupants of the house were awakened by smoke issuing from Mr. Allan's sitting-room. When the door was opened the flames were speedily extinguished, and the young man was found sitting in his easy chair dead.

Investigation showed that he had probably fallen asleep and dropped his glowing cigar into the waste paper basket, and that death by suffocation from the smoke had ensued. Mr. Allan had been in poor health for some time, suffering from sore throat. He was one of the most popular young men in town; he had only attained his majority a few months ago, when by the terms of Sir Hugh Allan's will the Allan estate was divided. Arthur's share brought in a revenue of about $40,000 a year. The tragic death has created a great sensation in the city on account of the prominence of the family.

MILLIONS IN IT!

Great Interest Excited in New England Over the Cape Breton Coal Deal.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 16.—The Herald says: Great interest has been excited in Boston and throughout New England by the announcement that Henry M. Whitney and a syndicate of Boston capitalists have obtained control of the coal mines of Cape Breton. From information gleaned in Boston it is probable that the deal consummated is of even more gigantic dimensions than this and embraces not only the coal mines but a large area of undeveloped mineral properties and the railways connecting the mines with navigation.

Many millions of Boston capital will, it is said, be invested in this enterprise, which is understood to include a great extension in the output of coal in that island, the construction of a railway from Sydney, where it will connect with the Intercolonial system to Louisburg, a port on the seaboard open all the year round; the opening up of iron, copper and gypsum mines and the establishment of smelting furnaces and other industries.

All the coal mines have been consolidated under one lease, and the period of the lease, it is said, is fixed for 60 years.

Kidder, Peabody & Co., of this city, have undertaken to float the bonds of the company, $4,000,000 of which will be issued as soon as the terms are ratified by the Nova Scotia Legislature. The name of the company will probably be the "Old Provincial Mining and Transportation Company."

Well, Who Cares?

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Jan. 16.—John L Sullivan last evening said he had retired from the ring, and would not under any circumstances enter it again.

A Woman's Lonely Half Century.

READING, Pa., Jan. 16.—A strange romance has been ended by the death of Mary Reis, who for 50 years led a lonely life because her parents forbade an early marriage. Her body was found in the little house near Stonersville. She was 78 years old. When a girl she fell in love with a young man whom her parents did not admire, and they forbade a marriage. This broke Mary's heart, and her home had no more charms for her. She preferred to live by herself, and she refused to accept the hospitality of friends or neighbors, saying that all the world was against her. Twenty years ago she moved into the little stone house, and after that she rarely saw anybody. A day or two ago a friend called and offered to help her in any way, but the aged lady refused aid. The sum of $20 was found in the little house of the recluse.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, is ear ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, in which the young are specially subject.

Untold Misery—What a Well-Known Commercial Traveler Suffered, and How He Was Cured.—Gentlemen,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time traveling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of dyspepsia. (Signed.) T. S. —Mr. A. W. Mann, of Boston, representing the Pope Bicycle Manufacturing Company, is in the city. He was entertained last evening by members of the F. C. B. C.

—The following corrections to the report of St. George's Society's annual meeting are desired; Chairman relief committee, T. Santo; standard bearers, A. Cave and T. Cole; marshal, Wesley Webb.

—Mr. Justice Street, who is in South Carolina for the benefit of his health, was to have returned on Monday, but he has not yet sufficiently recovered. Chief Justice Armour will take the Hamilton assizes.

—The semi-weekly snow shoe tramps of the London Athletic Club are proving quite attractive. Thomas Paton, president of the Montreal Snow Shoe Club, an expert in that line, has promised to join them to-morrow night.

—The postponed choir concert will be held this evening in the London West Methodist Church. Geo. C. Gibbons, Q.C., will occupy the chair. Some of the best talent in the city will take part, including Mr. Sim Fax. The proceeds are in aid of the organ fund.

—The annual meeting of the Pond Mills Cheese Company was held at the factory on the 13th inst. The average price received for cheese was 9.61 cents per pound. The average cost per patron to manufacture 100 pounds of cheese was $1 76. Mr. [illegible]ler, Mr. Hodgson and Mr. Isaac, cheese buyers, addressed the meeting.

—Fred T. Trebilcock, secretary of the London Gun Club, entertained a number of the members to a supper at the Grigg House last night. Among those present were: N. Stanley Williams, George C. Gibbons, Q.C., C. S. Hyman, M.P., C. W. Davis, J. Evans, D. B. Dewar, Thos. S. Hobbs, A. E. Parey and Moses Masuret. The menu was in Mr. Horseman's best style.

—The waterworks superintendent has been compelled for the last few days to use steam pumps in addition to the water power to meet requirements. An average of 4,000,000 gallons a day is being used at present by the city—as much, or more, than in the hottest part of summer. This is accounted for by the fact that people let water run to prevent it from freezing in the pipes, and an immense quantity is thus wasted.

"Get Your Skates On."

The gala event of the season, on ice, will be the carnival at the Princess Rink to-night. As this is the first of the year, it ought to be a happy gathering of youth and beauty in brilliant array. The Seventh Band will add to the enjoyment. Four attractive prizes will be offered—one for the handsomest costume, two for the best comic character garbs and one for the best lady character dress. The carnival lasts from 7 to 9 p.m., after which all will be allowed on the ice.

Disgraceful Doings.

Some miscreants who ought to be pretty well punished if the clutches of the law seize them broke into the Princess avenue school house Sunday night, forcing an entrance by breaking in the back door with an iron grate. They smashed furniture, tore or destroyed pupils' books and turned everything topsy-turvy, leaving all of the rooms in a disgraceful and some of them in a filthy condition. This was not discovered until the janitor visited the premises in the morning. The police think they have a clue to the scamps, and it is understood a reward has been offered for their detection by members of the school board.

London West Council.

The London West Council of 1893 held its initial session last evening in the village school house. Reeve Platt, Councilors Spence, Collins and Smith, Clerk W. H. Bartram, and Village Constable Ward were present. After the declarations of office had been taken, a batch of accounts were passed. Col. John Peters' claim for $10 damages to sheep was laid over. Mrs. Susan Smith's school taxes were ordered to be remitted. James Stewart and Robert Morrison were appointed auditors. The bylaw providing for their appointment at a salary of $20 each was read three times and carried. Deputy-Reeve Scarrow was elected chairman of the special committee, Councilor Spence of the finance committee, Councilor Smith of the board of works, and Councilor Collins of the relief and printing committee. Squire R. F. Lacey complained that trees on private property along Albion street were only about five feet above the sidewalk. The bylaw provided that they should be nine. Pedestrians had to crawl under the branches. The village constable will notify the owners of the property to abate the nuisance. The matter of appointing a board of health was laid over until next meeting.

THE OPEN FORUM.

London and Port Stanley and the West Indies.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Your readers are asking me many questions how will the new Port Stanley Railway arrangement affect the West India trade. To answer every one I must draw on your unlimited kindness.

It will knock out the chief difficulty, the handling of freight, and also put the young men of Port Stanley on better terms with the writer. They thought him the veriest fool for thinking of crossing the lake to avoid the route via Toledo, and so a long haul for the railways on this side. Well, if a long haul did not add to the cost of coal and other freight the young men would be wise, it also brings light to the young men who thought it was like milking the cow with one teat. The new lessees of the London and Port Stanley Railroad are wideawake to the importance of the trade. While endeavoring to supply coal they are ready to take all the freight offering. They will not only be able to make quicker time to Cincinnati, but discount any of the present rates.

The balance of the route via Louisville and Nashville Railway to Pensacola, Fla., is in the hands of one company, who are ready to encourage any effort leading to business. Letters in the hands of the London Board of Trade will prove this. I have received letters from Pensacola stating a new line of steamships sail from Pensacola for Havana as well as the steamships in the coal trade of the West Indies. Captain George C. Harris wrote, "I saw a cargo of the finest bananas I ever saw landed and sent north." He also informs me that oysters are $2 per barrel in shells, and that he is bound for a cargo for his first trip in a vessel built by himself.

The young men who were digging that hole at Orchard Beach for the sugar refinery last summer may find out that sugar will be refined, if not in Port Stanley, not many miles north. There seems great need of a little energy of the hot kind in some of the Port Stanley people. They have needed that for twenty years. They ought to be prepared to give a workshop free for the repairs of cars and locomotives fully equipped, and not look to outside live men to galvanize them into life. Poverty is not a good thing to boom a village that ought to have been a city before this time. Nine months since the people there arranged for a committee to wait on the council and make some propositions to them, looking to advertising Port Stanley, not only as a healthy pleasure resort, but a good point for establishing manufacturing. They have not been heard from.

The Single Tax Question.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Would you kindly permit a few remarks anent those of W. Yates in your issue of Friday last. The question of exemptions, as was said, has of late been brought prominently before the public but in a manner mainly antagonistic to the principle of exemptions. Mr. Yates, however, by a method of a sweeping character, is disposed to do the exempting by wholesale. By taxing land only, he proposes to exempt all buildings, plant, personal property, income and everything else that cannot be considered land. Trained to oppose monopolies on principle, it seems at first sight a somewhat bold proposition, and certainly before we seriously contemplate such a move, we need to consider the subject in all its aspects and bearings. The objection we would have to this wholesale exemption business is, that it frees some from taxes and not all, that what it takes off some it places on others, that it violates a well recognized principle in economics that the burden of taxation should be in proportion to our ability to pay, that the capitalist is relieved while the burden is made heavier on the masses. We conceive the best way to increase prosperity and promote progress is by some system or other distributing wealth more thoroughly and justly, not still more concentrate it in the capitalist.

To avoid these objections Mr. Yates should have some method by which to adequately compensate the masses for the extra burden placed on them, but the writer fails to see how it is to be done by the single tax system.

Mr. Yates gives us his mode of assessment on the land tax principle, apparently simple enough, but does not follow it up to its legitimate results. The highest assessment of land he places at $100 per foot. This is below the present valuation of much on Dundas street. This shortage, as well as the buildings, etc., would have to be made up on other lands. Can these other lands bear it? What would be the effect on these other lands? We must remember about $250,000 has to be raised to meet the city's expenses. The tax on buildings, plant, income and personal property of all kinds is all shifted on the land alone. The tax on land generally would be so increased as to make it equal in amount, in very many cases, to what, with our present system, is paid on the land, plus buildings, etc. But the tax on other lands, which will not be so increased as to make up the exemption on the buildings, stock, etc., will leave a balance which will have to be placed as an additional burden on others and will prove an unjust share to those less able to pay. It is said it would encourage improvements, trade and manufactures, but are we sure this would be done in justice to all others? It would be done by moving the tax off one class on another class. Would this be fair? Who would really pay this increased burden of taxation? Are they on whom it would fall better able to pay? Would they be compensated in some other way? Take the mechanic, for instance, a wage-earner, who owns a house and lot. He will not only have to pay his usual amount of taxes on his house and lot, although nominally paying only on his lot, but will have to pay his share of the vast exemptions of others. Will his house and lot be worth all the more because it is more heavily taxed? We trow not; or if he is able to obtain more rent, then the tenant has to pay the extra tax. Will the tenant get any compensation? If the manufacturer, tradesman, etc., would divide up their extra profits on account of their relief from taxation, among the wage-earners we could understand how, otherwise it looks like an arrangement for the benefit of the capitalist at the expense of the masses. Mr. Yates, we presume, does not include this distribution of wealth in his theory, and the plan of conferring a just share of the wealth of the nation to the owners of labor through the capitalist is exploded in these days. What we most want is not theories that will still further concentrate wealth, but such as will give a fuller and juster distribution of wealth to labor. The laborer is a capitalist owning a power that operates, develops, modifies, adds value to what he may touch, one of the great sources of wealth. The laborer is a contractor and should be treated as such, not as a servant. The general undervaluation of labor is the fruitful source of evils in our social economy. The true remedy to apply, we conceive, is to place a higher value on labor, a fairer share of the profits where labor is employed, and in our attempts to improve the condition of society, to deal directly with the laborer as a capitalist, whose interests should be separately considered and not merely through the interests of capitalists. This single tax business, seems to us to have too much of a class character about it. It benefits one portion of the community at the expense of another. The radical remedy does not lie in that direction. J. HARGRAVES.
