

STRIKE ON THE GRAND TRUNK SEEMS QUESTION OF HOURS COMPANY ENGAGING MEN

Ninety-Eight Per Cent of the Employees Are Said to Have Voted to Quit Work Unless Demands Are Complied With—Men Are Said To Be Determined in the Matter.

It is expected that a general strike of the Grand Trunk conductors, trainmen and yardmen, will be declared tomorrow, as a result of 98 per cent of the men declaring in favor of going out if the company refuse, as they have up to the present time, to grant an increase in wages.

Those Against a Strike. It is said that the 2 per cent of the men who do not favor the strike are men who are approaching the age limit and are afraid of losing their pensions. This is an important consideration for them.

Orders Are Issued. It is stated that the local officials have received orders to take on men, and that employment agencies will be opened throughout the district in case of a general strike.

Superintendent Bowker left for Toronto at noon on express, and it is stated will confer with officials there regarding the situation.

To business men throughout the city and district the possibility of a railway strike is a pleasant one.

Not since 1907 has there been such a tremendous amount of business, and if a strike takes place it will bring things up most seriously.

Railways Are Busy. The railroads themselves have never been busier and for weeks have been taxed to handle the increasing traffic.

Orders for engines and cars amounting to millions have been placed.

VERANDAH THIEVES ARE AGAIN AT WORK

King Street People Complain of Petty Thefts.

Verandah thieves are again operating in the city, and last night a large table was taken from the verandah of Mr. Graham, at 50 King street.

The police believe that the table must have been taken by someone who had a horse and rig, and any persons who noticed anyone about the place at the time with a table in a rig will confer a favor by reporting the matter.

BUILDING OPERATIONS HERE SAID TO BE SATISFACTORY

Figures of Last Year Were Unduly Inflated With the Result That Comparisons With This Year's Figures Are Unfair—Some of the Permits Issued.

Building keeps going on steadily in London, and for this season the number of permits are said to be highly satisfactory. It was pointed out at the city hall today that the reason London's figures for this year do not compare favorably with those of 1909, is that last year people were compelled to register at this time many permits which should have been recorded months before, with the result that the figures of the summer of 1910 were unduly inflated.

Now the comparison of the two years is not entirely satisfactory, if the figures alone are considered. The following are some of the permits issued since the first of July:

J. Collins, one-story brick veneer, on Edward street, to cost $700.

M. Goatsen, 1 1/2-story frame shop and warehouse, at 30 Maitland street.

Dr. Cline, improvements to Lilley's Corners Block.

J. W. Bartlett, two one-story frame porches, at 720 Queen's avenue.

Mrs. Landon, conservatory.

B. F. Clark, one story porch at 765 King street.

V. Cronyn, three story building at 245 Dundas street.

W. A. Grady, alterations to 245 and 247 Hill street.

Samuel Thompson, alterations to frame house on Carlton avenue.

John Daly, kitchen for 895 Princess avenue.

James Dun, kitchen for 665 Princess avenue.

H. McKenna, alterations to 225 Dundas street.

John McNe, improvements to 222 Central avenue.

A. O. GRAYDON IS INSPECTOR MAYOR IS SURE OF THE POINT

Former City Engineer Never Resigned the Office of Building Inspector of London—Is Likely To Be Made Consulting Engineer.

The immortal problem of who struck Billy Patterson isn't a circumstance to the middle that has enveloped the city hall since City Engineer Graydon resigned.

The question is, where is the city at? Yesterday it was stated that there is no building inspector for London.

Today Mayor Beattie is absolutely sure that Mr. A. O. Graydon is the holder of the office. He was appointed by bylaw and has not resigned.

At a meeting of the city council this afternoon, another effort will be made to straighten out the tangle.

Probably Mr. Graydon will be allowed to remain in his position as inspector. Probably he will resign, and will be named consulting engineer.

LOCAL BAKERS TO MAKE BIG LOAF

A Meeting Will Be Called Shortly When the Matter Will Be Finally Settled.

Will Charge Six Cents Impossible to Sell a Pound and Half Loaf for Five Cents, They Claim.

Local bakers interviewed today on the bread question are in favor of settling the matter once for all by making a 24-ounce loaf and charging six cents for it.

"We cannot make a 24-ounce loaf and sell it for five cents and make any money," said one baker.

"Present prices of flour, wages, milk and other things are such that if we don't make a living we will have to go to the wall for bread if we make a pound and a half loaf."

A Meeting of Bakers. It is likely that there will be a meeting of the bakers shortly to arrange some plan by which all will do the same thing.

"If we all charge six cents," said another baker, "people will have to pay it. The trouble is that there are always a couple of bakers who will not do what the others do."

Chicago Sisters Join the Campaign Windy City Suffragettes Much in Earnest But Use Wild Methods.

(Associated Press Dispatch.) Chicago, Ill., July 15.—Chicago suffragettes yesterday began to follow the methods of their London sisters, and inaugurated a vigorous campaign on the streets in favor of votes for women.

The first campaigners were a woman justice of the peace, a woman doctor, four Vassar girls and two men equipped with a person from a Vermont college.

They "preached the gospel of equal suffrage," for the first time on the streets of downtown Chicago.

Men pleaded for equal rights with men, standing in the rain for the better part of an hour and drew occasional applause.

Inspect Cones. Local dealers who sell ice cream cones are much interested in the proposal of Municipal Health Officer Hutchinson to inspect the cones.

They say that there are a large number of different cones made of different materials, and others are not. One of the largest dealers stated that their cones come from Montreal and have been in the city for some time.

A special inspection is made to insure that the cones comply with the Pure Food Act. Cones from the States are inspected, and are of different grades, and it depends upon the firm putting them out whether or not they are good.

FRED J. DARCH MAY SUCCEED

Prominent Londoner Mentioned For Position of Supreme Grand Treasurer of I. O. F.

HE IS NOW ASSISTANT

Mr. Darch is Now in Toronto—Is Well Qualified for the High Honor.

It is rumored today among members of the Independent Order of Foresters that Mr. Fred J. Darch will succeed to the position of supreme grand treasurer of the order, made vacant by the death of Thomas Lawless.

Mr. Darch at the present time is high auditor and assistant treasurer, and it is stated that in all probability he will shortly be made supreme grand treasurer of the order, as his work has always given the greatest satisfaction, and he is very closely in touch with the affairs of the Foresters.

Mr. Darch is in Toronto at the present time, but is expected in the city this evening.

CHAIRMAN O'NEIL HAS BIG SPORT PROGRAMME

I. B. S. Will Hold a Road Race of Two Miles at Lakeside on August 11.

Mr. George H. O'Neill is sure to establish a new record in the matter of a sports programme for the Irish Benevolent Society picnic, which will be held in Port Stanley on Aug. 11.

An enthusiastic and largely attended meeting was held in one of the grill rooms of the Tecumseh last night, at which arrangements for fun at the big outing were furthered.

Mr. O'Neill announced that more money than ever before will be given in prizes, and in addition there will be several new highly attractive features.

Chief amongst the latter will be a road race—the Irish Benevolent Society road race—which will take the contestants, like the army of old, up the hill and down again. The distance will be two miles.

Mr. O'Neill, Mr. Harry Ranaian and others will map out the route. But it is quite likely that the course will include a race up and down the big hill at the Port.

Mr. O'Neill is arranging to have the band play "Mr. Dooley," one verse of which goes:

"Napoleon was a general, he'd a hundred thousand men, He marched them up to the top of the hill and he marched them down again."

When they were up they were up, me boys, on that I'll bet a crown; But when he marched them up again, who was it called them down?"

"Twas Mr. Dooley," etc. On this occasion Mr. Dooley will be out of the running, and Mr. O'Neill will be the calling down.

RIDGETOWN HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

Residence of Mr. A. C. Campbell Gutted During Absence of Family.

(Special to The Advertiser.) Ridgetown, Ont., July 15.—The residence of Mr. A. C. Campbell here was destroyed by fire this morning.

It was a fine two-story building, and before the fire broke out it was in play it was almost completely gutted. The loss will be about $1,200, covered by insurance.

There was no body in the house at the time, Mr. Campbell being at present employed in London, and Mrs. Campbell and little daughter visiting at Ridgetown. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

BOY IS MISSING FATHER IN COURT

William McMullen Does Not Set His Boy a Good Example.

William McMullen, of 307 Cheapside street, appeared before Magistrate Love this morning for being drunk, and was remanded for a week to sober up.

"Aren't you the man whose boy is missing?" asked the court.

"Yes," said McMullen.

"Any word of him yet?"

"No," said McMullen.

"Well, I think his father sets him a pretty poor example," said the magistrate.

John Pennicott, arrested for being drunk, took the pledge and was allowed to go.

Sarah Patrick, William Shier and Charles Quirk were each fined $2 for allowing dogs out without muzzles.

LIGHTS MUST BURN THE ENTIRE NIGHT

Fire Chief Aitken and City Architect Nutter are looking into the matter of exit lights for apartment and tenement houses in London.

It appears that the bylaw reads that the doors must open outward, and that a red light must mark the exits, as in theatres, only in the dwelling houses this light must burn from sunset till sunrise.

Complaint has been made that in local apartment and tenement houses the stairway and exit lights are turned out at 10 o'clock.

Chief Aitken also intends brushing up the hotelmen, nearly all of whom, it is said, turn out the lights in the public hallways shortly after midnight.

MR. FRED J. DARCH, Who Is Mentioned for the Office of Supreme Grand Treasurer of the I. O. F.

LAMP EXPLODED AT MOTHER'S BED

Woman and Three Children Had a Narrow Escape From Death in South London.

FIRE A SECOND TIME

Burst Out After Mrs. McDonald Thought She Had Extinguished It—Firemen Called.

Mrs. George McDonald, 82 Ridout street south, and her three little children, including twins three months old, had a very close call from being burned to death this morning when a lamp, which was burning on a bureau beside the bed in which they were sleeping, exploded and the oil set fire to the bed clothes.

Mrs. McDonald was awakened by the noise and succeeded in smothering the flames with a coverlet.

Thinking that she had the fire out all right Mrs. McDonald went to bed again, and was again awakened when about 6:30 she was again awakened by smoke and found the bedclothes and carpet on fire.

This time the fire department was summoned. Mrs. McDonald got the three little children out of the room all right and got out herself, but the firemen soon had the fire out, but the damage, amounting to about $25, was done to the bedclothes, and to the carpet.

"It was a close call," said Chief Aitken.

Baseball. The baseball team, which is now leading the St. Thomas City League, will meet the Londoners at Tecumseh Park tomorrow afternoon. The London team is playing very fast ball, and a good game should result.

LONDON'S MILK COMMISSION ISSUES STATEMENT TO PUBLIC

Delivery of Certified Milk Begins Monday—Medical Reasons for It—Subscriptions Invited From the Public.

The London Milk Commission has issued the following public statement:

The London Milk Commission is a branch of the Canadian Medical Association Milk Commission. The members are doctors, and the local branch was formed through the agency of the London Medical Association. The chief object of the London Milk Commission is to co-operate with dairymen, so that a milk supply will be provided for the citizens of London which will be safe to give in the raw state to children and babies.

It is to co-operate with dairymen, so that a milk supply will be provided for the citizens of London which will be safe to give in the raw state to children and babies.

It is known that bovine tuberculosis can be transmitted to the human being, and when the Dominion Milk Commission reports that at least 20 per cent of dairy cattle in this and other countries are affected with the tubercle bacillus, we must come to the conclusion that many cases of tuberculosis are produced by the drinking of their milk in a raw state.

After very considerable work the London Milk Commission are able to announce that on Monday, July 18, the citizens will be able to purchase milk, which will be safe to give to children.

The milk will be sold only in quart bottles and will be delivered at 10c a quart. It will be known as certified milk.

The requirements for certified milk are as follows:

1. The herd milk shall contain 12 per cent to 13 per cent of total solids, of which 8 1/2 to 9 1/2 shall be butter fat.

2. It shall contain no coloring matter, preservatives or other foreign substances.

3. It shall be free from pus, blood, or disease-producing organisms, and free from objectionable odors or tastes.

4. It shall not have been heated in any way, nor frozen.

5. It shall be delivered only from cows which have been tuberculin tested by the veterinarian of the commission before entering the herd and have been found healthy, and which shall have been so tested every six months thereafter.

6. It shall have been cooled to 45 degrees F. within half an hour after milking and shall be kept at not higher than 45 degrees F. until delivered.

8. It shall be no more than 24 hours

CHATHAM BOY BADLY MANGLED

Bottom of Foot Taken Off and Leg Cut by Propeller Wheel.

(Special to The Advertiser.) Chatham, Ont., July 15.—The little son of Wesley Greville, of this city, had the bottom of his foot taken off and his legs badly cut in the propeller wheel of a gasoline launch last night, while bathing in the river. The boy, with a number of companions, swam out to the boat, which was not in motion at the time, and when the engine started up the propeller caught in the wheel. He was hurried to the hospital in an automobile and a surgeon summoned. A man named Carter was in charge of the launch.

COLLIER'S ESTATE. New York, N. Y., July 15.—The net value of the estate of the late Peter Collier, publisher and sportsman, was $2,373,076, according to the appraisers' report. It consists entirely of personal property and life insurance.

The bulk of the estate goes to his son, Robert J. Collier, who is to receive $238,416. A Strauss, N. Y., Roman Catholic Hospital receives $2,000, and St. John's Roman Catholic Seminary at Cincinnati, and Sten Hall College, South Orange, N. J., small bequests.

DR. CRIPPEN WAS WELL KNOWN TO LONDONERS YEARS AGO

Dr. Crippen, who is suspected of murdering his wife, Belle Elmore, a vaudeville actress, in London, England, and who is now supposed to be crossing the Atlantic in an effort to escape the police, was known among local druggists some years ago.

Crippen lived in Toronto during 1896-98 and assisted in the establishment of the Dr. Munyon Medicine Agency in that city. He has charge of the Western Ontario business, it is said.

Crippen is described by those who remember him as a man of about five feet five inches, of slight build, light complexion, light hair, moustache and neatly-trimmed beard. He was fastidious in his dress and very pleasant in manner. He was married while in Toronto, his wife being a very attractive woman, dashing and frivolous in manner. She was fond of display in dress and was always decked in diamonds and other jewels. She was a woman who would attract attention, and her husband was very jealous of her.

CELLAS IN TROUBLE

Charged With Perjury in Connection
With Bucket Shop Suits.

New York, July 15.—The Government won an important victory here today in its fight to bring to trial alleged bucket shop operators now under indictment in Washington, when Judge Hand, of the United States court, signed warrants for extradition thither for five of the accused. They are Edward S. Boggs, Richard E. Preusser, Leo Meyer, Robert A. Guy, and Oliver J. Robinson, members of the firm of Edward S. Boggs & Co., with offices in this city. All were placed under $5,000 bonds each to appear for trial in Washington on Oct. 1.

Co-jointly with the Boggs case the Government sprung two surprises. One was the arrest of Louis A. Cella on a charge of perjury, and the other the appearance of Edward Altmanus, Georgetown, Ohio, jointly indicted with the Cella, on accusation of having operated a bucket shop in the district of Columbia, as a witness for the Government. The testimony of Altmanus connected Louis A. and Angelo Cella and Samuel W. Adler with the standard stock and grain dealers of Jersey City, which had wire connections with the alleged bucket shop in Washington. The perjury charge against Louis Cella is based on testimony given by Cella that he had never been interested in the concern. The Cella are still fighting extradition.

PITTMAN IN DIRTY CELL

American Captive of Madriz Rescued
By United States Consul.

Washington, July 15.—Confined in a filthy cell, six by five feet, unfed save by charitable strangers, William Pittman, an American, captured by the Madriz Government forces near Bluefields, was found in an overcrowded local prison at Managua, Nicaragua, by Consul Olivares yesterday. The consul telegraphed the state department today that he visited Pittman, discovered the revolting conditions and through protests forced Dr. Madriz to furnish the adventurous American better prison accommodations.

Pittman told Mr. Olivares that he left Greytown July 4, that since then his captors have failed to provide him with food, leaving him altogether dependent for subsistence on charity. Pittman was starving. Mr. Olivares immediately protested, reminding Madriz of his promise to treat Pittman with consideration. Madriz finally agreed to transfer Pittman to a larger and cleaner cell and to allow the consul to supply him with sleeping couch and food. The consul reported that no definite action regarding Pittman had been determined by the de facto authorities and that he, Olivares, will exert every effort to insure fairness and human treatment for Pittman.

DORCHESTER.

Dorchester, July 13.—The W. F. M. Society of the Methodist Church held their annual tea lately at Mr. Wm. Cave's. Refreshments were served on the lawn to the great enjoyment of all present. The ladies have made a number of garments, which were sent to poor children in Montreal. The Ladies' Aid propose holding their garden party July 26. Mrs. David Brown has returned home to Thameford after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Cane, and other relatives in this neighborhood.

Measles has been quite prevalent here of late, hardly a house escaping, and in some cases the whole family has been laid up with the disease. Every one was glad to see the recent rain, as it was so much needed. The dust was very bad in most places.

PILES

LONDON, FRIDAY, JULY 15.

LONDON AS AN EDUCATIONAL CENTRE.

Canada has been very much in the limelight within the past ten years. This is especially true of the great west—the prairie provinces and British Columbia. To such an extent is it true, that many of the best citizens of old Ontario have made their homes and prospered in these provinces. But old Ontario is itself a new country. It has powers and possibilities far greater than we yet realize.

Old Ontario in the past has been something like Scotland. Scotland's sons and daughters have supplied the old land with a splendid type of citizenship, but they have done more: they have gone out to other lands and carried the health and strength, the education and the steady habits, that win everywhere. They were fit to do what they found to do. What Scotland has been to Great Britain and the world, Ontario has been to this continent.

In the matter of education, the present far exceeds the past. The children in Ontario today have many privileges unexcelled in the world. There is, too, an increasing desire for education. The belief is gaining ground that it makes life better and higher. This is a natural development. The parents of the men and women of today did not in their young days possess equal advantages. They had the strong desire to give their children a better education and a better chance than they themselves obtained. The British fathers and mothers who settled old Ontario lost no opportunity to improve their children's position in life. It is natural, therefore, that these children should, in turn, for their own children, keep on striving for that which is better still.

Fifty years ago Western Ontario had public schools—good ones too; today it has high schools and collegiate institutes, and they are second to none. The university is the keystone of the educational arch, and today Western Ontario has the Western University. But the university is not supported as it should be. The Ontario Government would strangle it, or put it in cold storage, and let it freeze to death. How often an old minister will stick to his pulpit and conscientiously believe no one could fill the place as well as he does; but let a vacancy occur, and a new man puts life and energy and vigor into his work, and accomplishes good undreamed of by anyone in the old minister's time. The new man was up-to-date. He worked without any prejudices, according to the facts and conditions he found. The old minister was a back number and didn't know it. The world had grown away from him. Changes, improvement, progress, and advancement, were written on all sides, but he saw none of them. The man who would keep abreast of the times must, like Gladstone, keep his mind free, no matter how old, to receive new ideas. The idea that there must be one national university is a fossil. The time is in sight when a university education will be almost universal. It will not be confined to what are called the learned professions, but will embrace every occupation, and will give the man or woman fortunate enough to possess it, a better start in life and a broader outlook.

London is the natural centre for a good university. Western Ontario for years to come will send its sons and daughters out over the continent. Let them be qualified to occupy the best positions wherever they go. Foreign elements are being introduced into Canada at a rate greater than ever before. The English-speaking element must keep in advance. National reasons suggest this. There is no use in waving the old flag, if you let the cornerstone of the nation crumble with neglect. One university cannot furnish what Ontario must supply in educated men and women for a country growing as rapidly as Canada is, and a country crying out for the highest and best known to civilization.

The citizens of London will do their part. They will be supported by Western Ontario loyalty. Whatever is necessary to cause the Ontario Government to see its mistake, and do its duty, must be put into operation. The good the university can do must not be left undone. Antiquated theories, prejudices and cross-headed opinions must be borne down, and a university erected that will make its impress upon the Canada of the future.

PUNCTUATION IN THE ONTARIO READERS.

The public school pupils will learn nothing of grammar or punctuation from the new Readers. The editors of the Readers could be credited with care in making their selections if they had wished to perplex the boys and girls in these subjects. They were worse than careless if the Readers are assumed to teach anything of either.

A correspondent of The Advertiser, who collected numerous examples of grammatical offences in all the Readers, shows that the punctuation also is in a state of anarchy. No principle or rule is followed, even in sentences of the same construction. For instance:

"This made the bell ring, and the king came to see who needed help."—First Reader, page 44.

"Come with me and I will show you how to baffle dogs."—First Reader, page 40.

If a comma in the one case, why not in the other? There are scores of similar sentences, with and without the comma. Again, adverbial clauses, which begin sentences, are sometimes set off by a comma and sometimes not. Here are three examples on one page (No. 34) of the Second Reader:

"If you sing, she sings back to you."

"If I had been thrust into the pot with my fellows I should have boiled."

"If I had not escaped when she cut the bond I should not now be here."

On page 79-80 of the First Reader, a sentence is pointed this way:

"His father keeps his donkey, cow, and goats in the lower part of the room."

On page 82 of the First Reader the same construction is pointed differently:

"He is taught reading, writing and a little arithmetic."

In the Readers, constructions of this kind generally have a comma before the conjunction, as in the first example; but a good many cases, in which the comma is omitted before the conjunction, can be found. The Readers should adhere to one or the other. Here are four sentences of the same form, punctuated in four different ways:

"Sirrah Locksley, do thou shoot; but, if thou hittest such a mark, I will say thou art the first man ever did so."—Fourth Reader, page 101.

"At last the daylight came again; and as the darkness disappeared, the anxieties of the little garrison seemed to disappear with it."—Third Reader, page 305.

"There was a song in every heart; and if the heart was young the music issued at the lips."—Third Reader, page 100.

"He made haste to go to the blacksmith, and when he saw him he told him his trouble."—First Reader, page 54.

The first is punctuated to a nicety. The second is taken from Parkman's Frontenac, but Parkman has a comma after "and." In the same book Parkman has 54 sentences of the same type, and every one is pointed in the same way. Here is a badly pointed sentence from Nicholas Nickleby:

"Nicholas in the full strength of his violence felt the blows no more than if they had been dealt with feathers; but becoming tired of the noise and uproar, and feeling that his arm grew weaker besides, he threw at his remaining strength, etc."—Fourth Reader, page 256.

In Nicholas Nickleby, there is, as there should be, a comma after "Nicholas," and one after "but." But the editors of the Readers have tried to improve on Dickens. Here are two atrocious ones:

"Everyone laughed at this but, as soon as it was agreed, Alexander went to the horses."—Second Reader, page 172.

"The inundation had swept away crops, and cattle, and left, in their stead, a waste of red sand and gray mud."

Macaulay's schoolboy would put a comma after "this" in the first sentence, and, in the second, would either omit the comma after "left," or insert one after "stead."

Our correspondent has fully established his case against the Ontario Readers. In grammar and punctuation they are not models for imitation.

THE BOY LABOR PROBLEM.

The problem of employment for boys is a perplexing one in every country. Many boys, as soon as they have entered their teens, are expected to earn something to aid their parents. They are often put at work which is not in itself progressive, which leads to nothing better, and which they soon outgrow. At an age when they should have acquired some trade or fitted themselves for some adult occupation, they are thrown out of work, and have to begin over again. The ranks of the unemployables are recruited from this class. As a messenger a boy may earn more than as an apprentice, and the greater reward for the time being is a temptation.

The question has for some time been engaging the attention of the British Postmaster-General, Mr. Samuel. His department controls the telegraphs and telephones, and employs 15,400 boys. At the age of 16, three out of four of these are discharged without any training which fits them to secure skilled or permanent employment. Each year 6,700 of the 15,400 cease to be employed as messengers, and 700 of the 6,700 are dismissed because of deficiency in character or physique. The question is asked, why not employ the 6,000 in the postoffice? Already 1,600 are kept on until they reach the age of 18, when they become postmen, but nearly all of the remaining vacancies for postmen are filled by ex-soldiers and ex-sailors. After deducting the 1,600 messengers who find employment in other capacities in the postoffice, there remain 4,400 for whom no employment is at present found by the Government.

In the House of Commons recently Mr. Samuel said there were three directions in which this evil could be remedied—by reducing the number of boys employed, by finding more posts for them within the Government, and by training them for outside employment. In order to work out the details of these suggestions, a departmental committee is at present at work, throwing much light on the problem. The Postmaster-General not only aims to reduce the number of boys messengers now employed, but he hopes in various ways to increase by 50 per cent the number of Government posts open to the boys who have passed the messenger age. There remains still a very considerable margin unprovided for, and into that aspect of the case the departmental committee is now prosecuting its researches.

The problem for Canada is to adapt the school system to the boys and girls who are compelled to leave school and go to work at an early age. If they are not in progressive occupations, they should have the opportunity of qualifying for them in their spare hours.

The movement to preserve the wild game of the continent is bearing fruit. Yesterday five miles of Elks were seen in Detroit.

Mackenzie & Mann yesterday bought four Eastern Ontario railroads—200 miles in all. Mackenzie & Mann often do these things between breakfast and luncheon.

The wheat crop in Southern Manitoba will average eight bushels to the acre. Alberta and Saskatchewan will do better. Good old Ontario will do best, as usual.

The low percentage of passes in the high school entrance examinations may be more a reproach to those who set the papers than to many who wrote on them and failed.

remedied—by reducing the number of boys employed, by finding more posts for them within the Government, and by training them for outside employment. In order to work out the details of these suggestions, a departmental committee is at present at work, throwing much light on the problem. The Postmaster-General not only aims to reduce the number of boys messengers now employed, but he hopes in various ways to increase by 50 per cent the number of Government posts open to the boys who have passed the messenger age. There remains still a very considerable margin unprovided for, and into that aspect of the case the departmental committee is now prosecuting its researches.

The problem for Canada is to adapt the school system to the boys and girls who are compelled to leave school and go to work at an early age. If they are not in progressive occupations, they should have the opportunity of qualifying for them in their spare hours.

COLLEGE LIFE.

[Harper's Bazaar.]

Visitor—"So your boy is in college, is he, Mr. Cornstossle?"

Farmer—"I can't say, exactly. He's in their ball nine, an' in their rowin' crew, an' in their jimmayzeum, an' in the dormitory, but whether he's ever in their college is more'n I kin find out by his letters."

A BIRD IN THE HAND.

"When he fell out of his airship he plumped straight through the skylight of a hospital."

BETWEEN THE COURSES.

[Answers.]

The stranger in the hotel plumped down his bag. "I wantner room," he said.

"No. 37," rapped the clerk. "Second floor."

"Is it a good one?" queried the stranger.

"Excellent!" the boy will show you the way," replied the clerk.

The stranger took up his bag. "Right-ho!" he said. "Oh, I say, what's the eatin' hours in this hotel?"

"Breakfast," answered the clerk, "7 to 11; lunch, 11 to 2; dinner, 3 to 5; supper, 8 to 12."

The stranger dropped his bag again. "Great Jerusalem!" he exclaimed. "When am I goin' to git time to see the town?"

WORSE AND WORSE.

[Teller.]

Travelling Inspector of Schools (after severely cross-questioning the terrified class)—And now, boys, who wrote "Hamlet?"

Timid Boy—P-p-please, sir, it was not me."

Travelling Inspector (the same evening to his host, the squire of the village)—Most amusing thing happened today. I was questioning the class, and asked a boy who wrote "Hamlet," and he answered tearfully, "P-p-please, sir, it wasn't me."

Squire (after loud and prolonged laughter)—Ho, ha! That's good; and FOREST FIRES.

[Hamilton Times.]

Hon. Mr. Cochrane blames the railways for the forest fires. Perhaps they do cause some of them. But they do not cause all, or probably the most of them. Tourists, hunters, Indians, careless settlers and lightning cause many; and the variety of the causes helps to make the question a very hard one to deal with. And eternal vigilance is the price we must pay for the preservation of the timber.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

ODD SUMMER WRAP

Mandarin sleeves and the narrow belted-in skirt characterize this curious little wrap of white serge. Only the slender woman can wear this style—stout ones should carefully refrain. Black-faced white chip hats, trimmed with white roses and a huge many-looped bow of soft black satin ribbon are quite the thing for the summer girl, since the black and white combination is so popular in Paris.

HILMA

William Tillinghast Eldridge.

"Entrez, monsieur," the maid said, a mischievous smile breaking out over her face.

I passed into the room at my right. The lights were turned low, and for a moment it was hard to distinguish objects in the room.

"Monsieur," a voice spoke from the darkness, a voice full of a low sweetness that made me turn quickly. "Please enter. I must beg of you a thousand pardons for not keeping the appointment. I have met with an accident today, and am confined for a week at least."

"I regret exceedingly to hear of the calamity, madam," I replied, as I stepped forward to where I could see a woman seated in an arm-chair, her face so bandaged that only her eyes were visible.

"I have simply ruined my complexion, I believe," she replied in an exceedingly injured voice.

"I trust it will be far less severe than you fear," I answered, for want of something else to say. I itched to be doing her the opera and the opera, in some way the low lights and deep mystery did not whet my curiosity.

"Monsieur," she said, "speaking slowly, 'you have, I think, for her'—a slight accent fell on the two words—'a package. I can give you my poor thanks for the great service you have done.'"

"It is nothing," I replied, as I instantly handed over the envelope. "I am only too happy to have been of some slight service."

"It is a great service, monsieur, and you will be grateful you were able to perform when you learn for whom it is done."

I bowed, and as there appeared nothing more to be said, passed out through the door, held open by the waiting maid.

As I stepped into the hall I drew a breath of relief, glad the documents were off my hands. Then as I walked slowly down the corridor I had a thought my part in affairs of state was over.

And yet as I was about to enter the dining-room I paused suddenly. Like lightning had come the startling thought was on hand which had taken the envelope had been a ring much like the one I had picked up on the train from Chicago.

CHAPTER IV.

A change in plans. Sunday was soon passed, and Monday came cloudy and thick, as it is so often in London. Frank and Polly had planned to take the car at some unobtrusive hour like 5 o'clock for a run to Stratford. Their persuasions had failed to stir me, for while I was by choice an early riser, five was not to be considered, even if Shakespeare's haunts were the objective point.

I, however, might as well have gone, for I was awakened before they left by Frank's knock at my door. He came, he said, in an endeavor to persuade me to change my mind. I consigned him sleepily to a far distant place and then made vain efforts to doze off again. I tossed for some time and finally gave it up. It was, therefore, about half-past seven, having finished my bath, that I paused in the middle of my dressing at a sharp knock on my door.

"I was a bit out of patience on account of being roused so early, and so feeling quickly vanished when I found Karl von Merlder in the hall."

As I threw open the door I stood in, with only a curt word to my surprised and cordial greeting.

"Mr. Converse," he demanded sharply, waving aside my invitation to enter, "I've come here to demand a reckoning with you."

"A reckoning with me?" I said, repeating his own words slowly. "What the deuce do you mean?"

I stood there in my shirt sleeves by the door, while he remained, his hands behind his back, in the middle of the rug. He was watching me from under his low drawn eyebrows, and his sharp manner and short words surprised me.

"What are you doing in London?" he demanded.

"What am I doing in London?" I repeated, my astonishment growing, and with it my resentment. I could not make the fellow out and finally asked an answer for him.

"Yes!" he almost shouted, his voice rising as he stood glaring at me. "I demand to know what you are doing in London?"

"And I," I said, my voice growing cold and sharp, "demand to know what you mean by such a question."

"You know what I mean, sir!" he replied, his voice lowering to my cold tone. "You know what I mean, sir!" he repeated, forcing me to account for your cursed actions."

For a long minute I eyed him, hardly believing my own ears. Could this be my travelling companion? Had the man suddenly gone crazy?

"Possibly," I began, taking a sarcastic tone, "you will explain why you have called here this morning."

"Wait," I interrupted in a sharp voice. "Von Merlder, you certainly are not yourself. Sit down and explain matters. Sit down, man, I say!"

For an instant he seemed to calm himself as with a great effort. He stared hard at me, leaning forward and looking closely into my face, and then sank into a chair and buried his face in his hands.

"God help me!" he moaned. "God help me! I can't doubt you, and yet who can I believe?"

"Doubt me?" I said. "Why in the world should you doubt me?"

"The envelope," he moaned, his face still buried in his palms. "The envelope," he repeated mechanically, still at a loss to understand.

Yes, the envelope, the documents," he shouted, springing to his feet. "You got them from me; now what in God's name have you done with them?"

"The envelope I got from you?" I repeated with a laugh, for now the matter seemed very simple. "Why, I delivered it, of course, as you bade me do. I should have let you know, had you given that was mine. But, God, man, how I am an address."

He stood there staring at me for a minute as if he had failed to hear my words. Then as if satisfied he suddenly held out his hand and a great calmness passed over his face. "I believe you. Forgive me, John Converse, for the doubt have suffered this last hour. I have been tricked; I have failed. My country and my princess suffer for my blind folly."

"In Heaven's name," I demanded, "what are you talking about?"

"Listen," he replied. "Sit here. I am calm now and can tell you all."

I sat by his side and he told me briefly and quickly of his plight. The cable he had received at Liverpool had been a forgery, though in code. Thus he had handed me his precious documents. In my turn I had given them to the one who had undoubtedly sent the false message.

"I'll say naught of my doubt of you," he ended. "I came here at once and now must be off for Paris. If I can reach Zakhar before those documents I'll promise you they'll never get to Zerkal's hands. That is my only hope now, to stop the person who has them."

In a brief instant, while I knew little of his secret mission, I saw the whole plain. Karl von Merlder was to take me to some place with precious documents. Those who least of all would wish him success had managed to take them from him, and now he must wrest them back again at any cost.

"They have a start on you," I said. "I gave the envelope up Saturday night."

"More need for haste. They have one day, that's all, for they would have to go by Paris and so left yesterday."

"They could have left late Saturday night."

"They would have to wait in Paris until last night. One day is all they have. By a hard ride from Kerbad I may get there first."

I nodded, accepting what he said as true, though, of course he spoke of facts and places unknown to me.

"Can you give me a description of the woman?" I doubt if they will change hands again."

Then suddenly I recalled the fact that the one who took the envelope from me wore a ring like the one I had picked up on the train. In another moment I had pulled Von Merlder down into his chair and was telling him hurriedly of my suspicions.

He listened intently, and as I finished spoke bitterly. "What a fool I have been! And yet I did not think a soul beyond her Highness and Kurimurt knew of my mission. And she was on the train?"

"Yes."

"Tell me of the ring. It has helped us so far; it may again."

I described it and the woman carefully.

"I wish it were a man I had to deal with," was all he said.

"Would they not destroy the package as soon as they got it?" I ventured.

He shook his head. "They would hardly have the power. I doubt if they know its contents. If I get that envelope again, or when it reaches Zerkal's hands, my seal will be intact as it was when I gave it to you."

"Can you secure it again?" I asked foolishly.

"As long as it is in existence there is a chance," he answered quietly.

"I wish I might be of some assistance," I said, feeling in some way I had helped bring about the loss of the envelope.

"Only forgive me for my doubt of you," he asked, holding out his hand.

"True," he answered as he wrung my hand. "Aye, Converse, and I wish the understanding was going on."

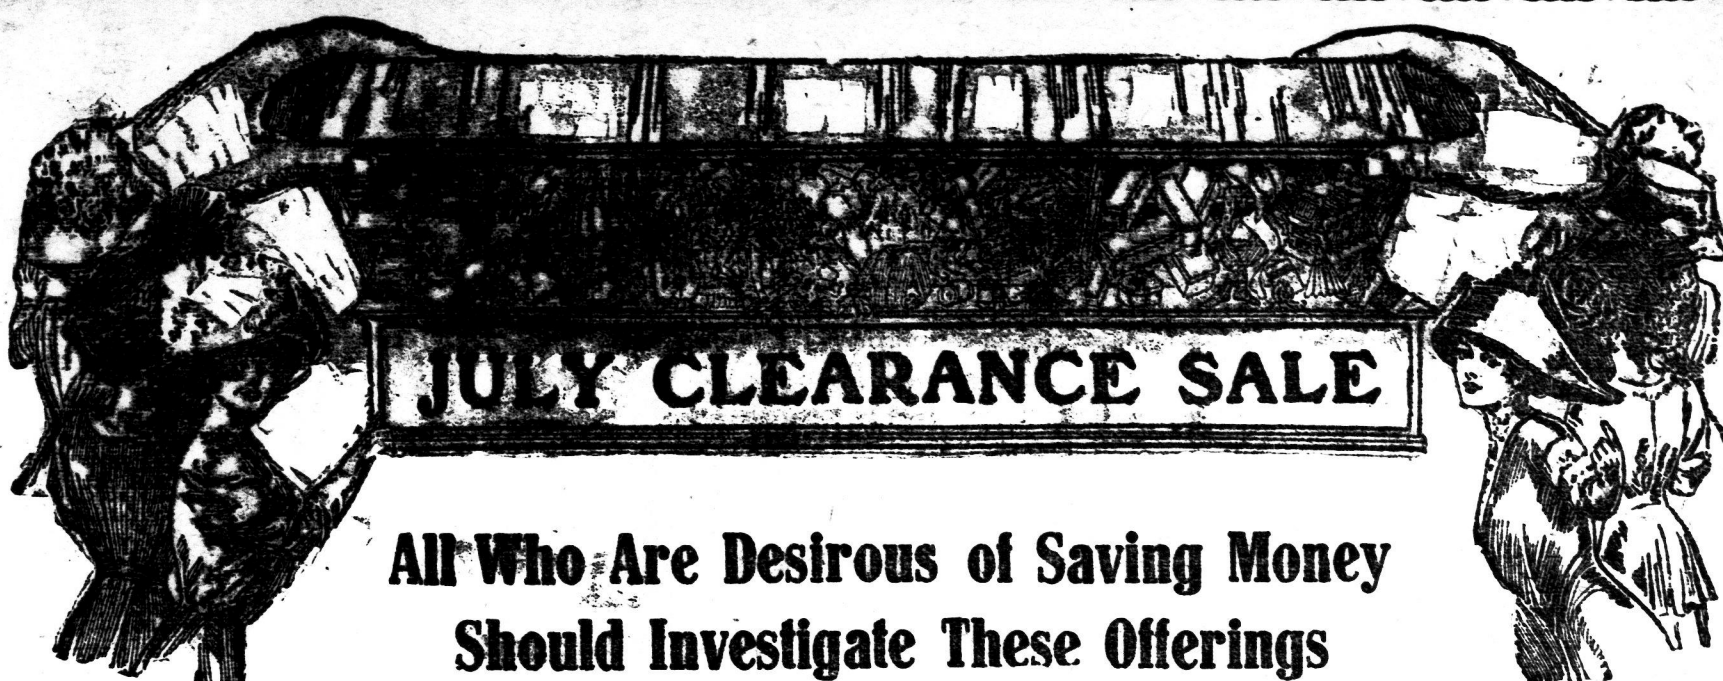

I caught his meaning and seized at the idea, though he has told me since he had no thought when he spoke of the thing being possible.

"And why not?" I demanded.

"You mean—"

"I know the woman. I have held the ring."

He hesitated a moment, a queer smile coming to his lips.

Scowls vs. Smiles

BY CYNTHIA GREY.

There is just as little excuse for a frown on a woman's pretty face as there is for the man in the moon to think he can frighten the people on earth by frowning.

A scowl on milady's face is fully as distressing as would be a scowl on the man in the moon's face, too!

No man with a spark of life in his veins but thaws at the sight of a pretty woman. We are all cheered by the pleasant-faced man in the moon.

There is little more justification in a woman's frown than there is in a mild little house cat trying to roar like a lion.

It is absolute idiocy for anybody to try to impress others with their importance or learning by frowning—and many of them pucker their pretty brows for this very reason.

One can conceive of only one personage who has anything like a legitimate right to frown; the very old philosopher who has earned his place in the world of knowledge. At that, genuine philosophers usually smile.

But the young man, or the young woman, or the pretty girl, or the baby, cherishes a fond delusion if any of them hope to impress the world with their importance or intelligence by copy-cattling the hoary-headed old philosopher whose labors have soured him.

Frowns do not pay. Smiles win friends and conduce to good blood circulation.

ALL AROUND THE HOME

BY CYNTHIA GREY.

In papering a room which has been whitewashed it is not easy to make the paper adhere. The experiment should be tried of forming the paste with skim-milk instead of water. The milk must be carefully skimmed so that every drop of the cream has been removed, the whey of separated milk being best for the purpose. The paste must be scalded well and should on no account be too thick.

Should there be white marks left on a highly polished table from hot dishes, use olive oil and salt without delay. Spread over marks and leave for an hour or two, when the stain should be gone.

To clean tiled grates, a strong solution of washing soda thickened to a paste with fuller's earth is good. This will remove stains of grease, while it is equally efficient in the case of grease-spotted marble. The paste should be left on for an hour or two, and then washed off with a flannel, dipped in a hot lather.

In putting down a carpet it is an excellent plan to slide a pair of rubbers over the shoes. The rubbers enables the carpet to be drawn out and stretched by simply walking or pushing the carpet with the feet from the centre to the corners.

Try several shades of silk together in one needle when mending plaids or checks, using colors to harmonize with the predominating tones of the material. The mended part will scarcely show after it is pressed.

CYNTHIA GREY'S CORRESPONDENTS

Dear Miss Grey: I am 18 and go with a young man, who recently proposed. I have not promised, as I am in doubt about something. I think a great deal of him, but fail to find the understanding which I think a husband and wife should have. We always get along well and he says I am the only person that can take him in the right spirit, and that I understand him even better than his mother. But when I try to find that perfect understanding on his part I fail. Now, would you advise me to accept him from what I have told you above?

A—If you are well-mated mentally and physically, that perfect understanding will come when you are married. However, don't marry until you are sure. I'm always in doubt myself when a girl confesses a doubt as to the status of her own heart.

Dear Miss Grey: The blue collar to my white middie blouse has faded into the white. Is there anything I can do?

KATHRYN.

A—Not unless boiling in a chloride of lime solution will take out the stains, but it will also take all the color out of the collar.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. Tell me how to clean white taffeta silk ribbon. 2. How should a girl of 16 wear her hair, which is not thick, but wavy. 3. What is the most suitable style for a girl of 24? 4. What style of rings are most popular for young men?

G. W.

A—1. With gasoline and white soap. Rinse in clean gasoline. Be careful about fire. 2. Parted, rolled and tied at the nape of neck. 3. In any prevailing style which is becoming. 4. Seal.

"And you know so much there is hardly any harm in your knowing more." He laughed like a boy. "Assuredly there cannot be," I agreed. "All things are favorable, none unfavorable." "It seems so."

"Her Highness—" he began. "Cannot object I knowing what I do." "If you should not be discreet it would be safer to have you under my eye." "Beyond a doubt far safer." I answered. "I could shoot you then, if needs arose," he said.

I nodded, as if he had said he could make me a fine present. "It might be dangerous to leave you," he agreed. "Beyond a doubt; and then, too, I'll have the whole journey to better describe this woman and her ring." "I afterward he told me he had made up his mind to have me with him as soon as the suggestion had well struck home. As that may be, I too had the same thought to go. So we each made good excuses why I needs must accompany him and why I could not with safety be left behind. (To be continued.)

STREET RY. LINE FOR SOUTH END

Rumored That a Scheme Is On Foot to Have Line Through Chelsea Green.

OFFICIALS ARE "MUM"

Say They Have Not Heard of the Project, But Look Upon it as a Likely Idea.

It was stated today that there is a scheme under way for extending the London street railway by connecting the southern end of the Wellington street line with the present Ottawa avenue line, by building east from the Wellington road to Chelsea Green, and then north to Ottawa avenue.

CIVIC HOLIDAY AT POTTERSBURG

Annual Celebration Will Be Held Monday, August 1.

A number of the residents of Potteryburg met last evening and decided to hold the civic holiday celebration at Girvin Park there on Monday, Aug. 1. The affair was a great success last year, and the programme will be duplicated with a few new features.

The following officers were elected: Honorary presidents, Hon. Adam Beck, M.P.P., Mr. Neely, M.P., Major Beattie, M.P., Sir John Carling, Hon. C. S. Hyman, Rev. S. F. Glass, and Dr. Robinson, president Mr. T. H. Lashbrook, secretary-treasurer, J. L. Wolfe.

Strong committees have been appointed to assist the officers in arranging for the demonstration.

It is a question as to which is drawing the crowds at Springbank this week, "The Show Gal" or "The Knock Out."

"The Show Gal" is a story of stage life, showing life behind the scenes. Carrie Adams was the star part and caused much laughter, while Miss Chandler is one of the 400 and plays her part well.

"The Knock Out" is in three scenes and finishes with a boxing match. Will Lloyd as Spike Slattery acts the hard guy, while George Nagel as Jimmy Dugan takes the part of the quiet little fellow.

The two boys put up a good bout, the ladies cheering for more. Mr. Lloyd suffers defeat each night at the hands of Nagel.

EVERYBODY'S HELPING THE FRESH AIR FUND

So, Be in the Swim and Chip in Something to Help Give the Boys an Outing.

Yesterday was the best day since the opening of the fresh air fund. Over $40 in actual cash contributions was received, while a number of special donations were made. This morning $33 was received.

A number of merchants are showing a keen interest in the movement, and from present indications the 50 poor boys of the city will have a most delightful ten-days' outing at Port Stanley.

The present sum in the hands of those in charge is far below the figure aimed at, but a continuance of the present liberality of the citizens should soon reach the desired amount. The required sum is $400, although considerably more could be used. To date $150.75 has been received.

London's Greatest Clothing Store--R. H. & J. Dowler.

Our Big Stock Clearing, Store Alteration Sale

Will Start Saturday Morning and Will Be Run for the Next Three Weeks

Every vestige of summer goods must go. In three more weeks carpenters, painters, plumbers, hot water heaters, fixture and furniture makers will be making this store ring with the hustle of alterations. The whole back floor will be lowered, our workroom doubled in capacity, an up-to-date made-to-measure department, fitted up, besides the enlarging of our work goods space. But first of all we must have room, and goods must go.

OUR WHOLE ENERGY FOR THE NEXT THREE WEEKS WILL BE GIVEN TO THE CLEARING OUT OF ALL SPRING AND SUMMER STOCK, and value-giving here will trumpet forth all through this section of the Southwestern Peninsula the three-fold advantage of QUALITY, WORKMANSHIP AND PRICE to every man and boy buying their outfit at this, LONDON'S GREATEST CLOTHING STORE.

$18.00 Suits, All New, for $11.60

This we consider and we know the greatest snap in suit values ever offered in London. Come early, while the choice is good.

$9.00 Blue Serges, Pure Wool, for $6.20

FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS, AND FIGURES WON'T LIE--It's a fact that's being fast realized by the people of London and Middlesex that you can buy men's and boys' outfits from your finest Sunday suit right down to the mechanic's overalls at 10 to 20 per cent less than any other store in London. Our goods are all marked in plain figures, strictly one price to all.

All Suits and Trousers

Fitted, finished and pressed in our tailor shop before being sent out, as carefully as if you were paying full price.

To Our Out-of-Town Customers

If not convenient to attend the great clothing opportunity, all mail orders will be filled with the greatest care, and if goods are not satisfactory, money will be cheerfully refunded. Carriage paid on all orders of $10 and up.

R. H. & J. DOWLER

The Policy of This Store

Is as unalterable as the laws of the Medes and Persians, and

That Policy Is

Not to carry over a single garment from one season to another. That policy has been strictly adhered to by our firm for fifteen seasons. To do it, cost in many cases does not count. Every reduction is made as represented; every reduction here from our regular cash prices means a double saving to the purchaser.

Alterations on a Large Scale

Will be commenced in a few more weeks, and when finished our spacious store at 176-178 Dundas street, will be one of the best lighted, spacious, and most convenient stores in all Ontario.

BUT FIRST THE STOCK
MUST BE CLEARED.
COME EARLY.

Made-to-Measure Department To Be Enlarged

So satisfactory have been our made-to-measure garments in frock, evening dress, and other suits, that we have decided to establish a special department for this line. Orders being booked every day.

WOMAN GETS LIFE FOR POISON PLOT

Attempted to Kill M. Doudieux,
But Godard, Belgian Tenor,
Took the Water.

Paris, July 14.--Marie Bourrette, formerly an employee of the Louvre department store, who was arrested on the charge of poisoning Godard, the young Belgian tenor attached to the opera, here, last October, has been found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment. She was also condemned to pay the sum of $20,000, as indemnity to Godard's widow.

The death of Godard caused quite a sensation in Paris. He was visiting a friend, M. Doudieux, at Vesinet, and while there was attacked by a violent headache. M. Doudieux gave him what he supposed was a headache wafer, and an hour later Godard died after terrible suffering. Later it was discovered that the headache wafer had been sent to M. Doudieux accompanied by an anonymous letter, the handwriting of which was similar to other anonymous notes M. Doudieux had received reproaching him for his marriage. A police investigation disclosed that the notes were written by the Bourrette girl, who was acquainted with M. Doudieux, who had received a few days' after his marriage a box of bonbons poisoned with arsenic. A search of the Bourrette girl's lodgings revealed traces of what the police supposed to be arsenic, and she was arrested. It was supposed that she was madly jealous of M. Doudieux's marriage, and sought to poison him, but only succeeded in killing M. Godard.

CANOE OVERTURNED. Lake of Bays, Ont., July 14.--A young lad named Peterson was drowned from a canoe near Grove avenue this morning. He came up from Buffalo last night. He was evidently an inexperienced swimmer, for he overturned and sank shortly after getting into the water, before anyone could reach him.

COMPANY RESPONSIBLE. Toronto, July 14.--The coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Samuel Warren, a fireman, killed by the collapse of a trestle at Little York, returned a verdict to the effect that the Grand Trunk was criminally responsible for not having the trestle in proper repair.

The author of "Home, Sweet Home" was born in New York on June 9, 1792. This was James Howard Payne, by profession an actor. He died in Tunis in 1852, where he was the United States consul.

THE TEACHER DENIES MINISTER'S STATEMENT

Did Not Compel the Protestant Scholars to Recite Catholic Prayers.

Ottawa, July 13.—Miss Grace Rankin, one of the teachers in the county of Russell, who was mentioned in the affidavits read by Rev. W. T. Allison in Toronto on Sunday last as having compelled Protestant children to listen to Roman Catholic religious exercises, writes to the Ottawa Free Press as follows:

"I notice in your issue of the 11th inst. a statement made by Mr. James Smith, of the township of Clarence, county of Russell, to the effect that, when teaching in section No. 10, Clarence, I hit his children on their heads in order to make them repeat Catholic prayers, and also that I used a Catholic form of prayers in the school and kept a statue of the Blessed Virgin therein, all of which I desire to state is entirely untrue.

"The school is opened in the morning with the Lord's Prayer. With that exception, I never asked a Protestant child to repeat any prayer. I never used a distinctive Catholic form of prayer in school hours, and I never kept a statue of the blessed Virgin in the school."

THE GRAND TRUNK AFTER TRAINMEN

Company Opens an Employment Bureau at Toronto.

MEN SEE EARLY STRIKE

At Toronto They Believe It Will Be Called For Next Tuesday.

Toronto, July 14.—The Toronto Star tonight says:

The officials of the Grand Trunk Railway system are not neglecting to prepare for the possibility of a general strike of their employees at a very early date.

In order to meet this contingency, if it shall arise, the company this morning opened, in Toronto and throughout the west, bureaus for the employment of experienced railroad conductors and trainmen to take the place of men on strike.

The Toronto bureau, at 6 Agnes street, was visited today by a reporter, who succeeded in obtaining an interview with the men in charge—a railway official from Montreal. The latter stated that he was authorized by the railway company to engage men who should be ready to commence work on the line at a moment's notice, in case of a strike.

Paying Them in Any Event. "I scarcely anticipate a general strike myself," said he. "But we will be prepared, at any rate. We are engaging men on the understanding that they shall stand in abeyance, pending the issue of orders from headquarters. These men will receive good wages, commencing now, whether they are later called upon to fill the places of striking employees or not."

A considerable number of men applied at the Agnes street office this morning, but only a small percentage of these were accepted. The company's examining official insisted upon experienced conductors and trainmen.

The Toronto employment bureau has orders from Montreal to engage 40 or 50 men. Similar numbers will be enrolled at railway centres in Ontario and the west, so that the company may have a considerable supply of new employees at its disposal the moment that the present staff decide to go out.

Strike Next Tuesday. "There will undoubtedly be a big strike, and that very soon."

This was the opinion of some 25 G. T. R. employees—conductors, brakemen, baggage-men, and trainmen—who were interviewed this morning by a reporter at the union station and freight yards at the foot of Bathurst street.

All these men expressed their conviction that the vote which is being recorded this week will strongly indorse their committee's recommendation to reject the proposals of President Hays.

"I think that you will see the men go out in a body about next Tuesday," said a freight conductor. "The voting will close tomorrow evening, and the ballots will be forwarded to Montreal to be counted. The result should be made known at the beginning of the week, and I have little doubt as to what that result will be."

Changed Their Minds. "I was a little hesitant at first about the advisability of striking," he continued. "But since I have looked into things carefully, I have become convinced that it is our only wise move, now that the company has rejected our demands."

"Will many of the men object to going out when the order is given?" was asked.

"Very few," was the answer. "A few of the oldest men on the line don't like the idea. For instance, I know one old baggage-man who has been drawing practically the same rate of wages for the past 23 years. He has got so accustomed to his amount of pay that he doesn't realize that it is too low, and consequently doesn't fall in with the idea of a strike for increases. But this is a rare case."

The Grand Trunk men have never known how to hang together in a crisis," said a passenger conductor, "but I think they will this time. The feeling is very strong all over the system."

GHOULS AND PLAGUE IN CAMPBELLTON RUIN

The Homeless Ones Have Many Miseries Following the Great Fire.

St. John, N. B., July 15.—Dispatches received here from the burned town of Campbellton state that looting has broken out, and that the police are unable to cope with the situation.

Col. McKenzie, of Newcastle, left shortly after for Campbellton with 20 men of his regiment, who will do police duty there. As many safes and vaults are lying in the fire debris and some of them are known to contain large sums of money, it is felt that special protection is necessary.

Secretary Anderson, of the St. John Board of Trade, who went to the scene as the representative of that body, says there is now no scarcity of food, but that medical stores of all kinds are urgently needed. The work of providing shelter for the homeless is proceeding rapidly, and rough wooden shacks are springing up all over the town.

Those who have arrived from the burning town say that the scenes on Tuesday night were pitiful in the extreme. Men, women and children were huddled together in the fields with no shelter from the pelting rain.

Several births were reported, but in all cases the little ones who entered upon this life under such tragic circumstances are alive, and they are also thriving.

Peatland added its horrors. A case of smallpox was discovered among the refugees in the tents, and promptly reported. Quarantine was at once established, and vigorous action will be taken to prevent the spread of the dread disease among the thousands of homeless souls.

A RUSSIAN DISASTER

Many Lives Reported Lost in Collision on the Dnieper. [Associated Press Cable.]

London, July 14.—Startling rumors of great loss of life, following a collision between steamers on the Dnieper River reached here today from Odessa, Russia. Inquiry develops that the reports are exaggerated of last Saturday's accident, when a boiler exploded on the steamer Lovkij. At that time three persons were killed and subsequently fourteen others died from injuries.

A REASONABLE ARGUMENT

We know of no argument you can put forward to explain why your next suit will not bear the Scotland Woolen Mills Company's label. There are several arguments worth printing to convince you that it should.

The cloth sold in the Scotland Woolen Mills Company's branch is imported cloth. It comes direct to us from the mills in Scotland and is of one quality. You can satisfy yourself as to this quality by calling and looking through the stock.

The clothes made to your measure are carefully designed by master-cutters, and every suit or overcoat sold is intended to act as a travelling advertisement for the Company. The clothes are finished in splendid style, and are fully guaranteed.

There is only one price for a suit or an overcoat. Fifteen Dollars, no more—no less. You have the choice of anything in the store at that price. The cloth from which you select your clothes comes in full webs, and not in suit lengths.

Also, with every garment sold there goes a legal guarantee to protect you. If you are not perfectly satisfied with the clothes when they are completed, why your money will be cheerfully refunded.

These are the arguments to tempt you to consider the Scotland Woolen Mills proposition. Let us add that we can prove to you that you cannot duplicate the clothes we sell, elsewhere, for twice the price we ask.

OUT-OF-TOWN MEN—Ordering with us by mail is as easy for you as if the measure were taken by our own cutter. The chart and the instructions positively insure that your measurement will be properly recorded. Write us for book of samples and for sample plates.

OUR NEW MAGAZINE—We have issued a number of our splendid magazine. It contains some very useful information on general subjects, besides giving some particular hints on how to dress for different occasions. Drop us a postal—the magazine is free.

Toronto, July 15.—Very alarming reports of the condition of the western crops continue to arrive, and the strength of the Winnipeg market this morning was a partial vindication of the bad crop news. Local dealers decline the sale of Manitoba wheat on the soaring market, and only quote nominally at 40c to 41c at lake ports. Ontario wheat is also strong, and is quoted higher at 40c to 41c at lake ports. In all the Ontario breadstuffs, however, trade is light, and especially for foreign and export orders are practically out of the question. Local quotations are as follows: Local wheat, No. 2, 39c to 40c; No. 3, 38c to 39c; No. 4, 37c to 38c; No. 5, 36c to 37c; No. 6, 35c to 36c; No. 7, 34c to 35c; No. 8, 33c to 34c; No. 9, 32c to 33c; No. 10, 31c to 32c; DIPROSE Three Popular STORES

Three of London's best grocery stores most conveniently located—west, north and east—insuring prompt delivery in all parts of the city.

In our buying, quality is always first consideration. You can depend on first-class goods, whether you personally leave your order or telephone.

IN SUGAR.

We sell only the best made: 16 lbs. for $1.00; 100 lbs. for $5.50.

IN STARCH.

We sell the best Large Lump Gloss Starch, at, per lb., .8c

IN BACON.

Our stores are noted for our fine mild-flavored Sugar-Cured Bacon. Sliced, per pound, .25c. Delicious Cooked Ham, .35c. FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES are not a side line with us, but one of the big branches of our business. SMALL FRUITS, owing to unfavorable weather this season, are scarce, and the prices will consequently be a little higher than usual. Do not wait for lower prices, but buy your fruits as soon as they come in.

Red Raspberries, Black Raspberries, Red Currants, Black Currants, Cherries and Gooseberries are now on sale.

IN VEGETABLES.

For Saturday we quote: Butter Beans, per quart, .10c. Green Peas, .10c. Young Carrots, 3 bunches, .10c. Beets, Onions, Radishes, Lettuce, etc., 2 bunches for, .50c. Cucumbers, each, .20c. Ripe Tomatoes, per pound, .20c. Watermelons, each, .40c and .50c. Let us fill your Saturday order.
