EDUCATIONAL AUTHORITIES YET TO BE CONSULTED AS TO WISDOM OF JUVENILE COURT

"Why Have Not Those People Who Have Children of Their Own Been Invited To Share in Deliberations Regarding Juvenile Court?" Asks Inspector C. B. Edwards.

"What you think of the proposed juvenile courts?" asked an Advertiser reporter of Public School Inspector C. B. Edwards, casually, this morning. "I don't know," he replied. "The question has never been put to me before," was Mr. Edwards' quick reply. "Why is it that those who are actively engaged in the work of the children have not been consulted?"

"Why have not those people who have children of their own been invited to discuss the delinquency problem? Those who are seeking to bring about the formation of these juvenile courts?"

"Those who have children of their own seem to be more interested in the child as he is alike in disposition, or mental ability, or in their outlook on life as they see it than in the child as he may become through thoughtful observation of each individual."

sires.

"The influence of the bad, big boy is so harmful, but after all what is the bad big boy but the other good boys wrong, because of his instinctive dislike to the school methods. Such cases are common. The child needs measures as of the provision of some occupation that shall satisfy the natural desire of youth to grow along certain lines."

"My own personal feeling is that it is better to form the character of the child at home and school, than to spend money in the reforming of him through juvenile courts and other means, of a similar character.

I feel myself that there are still required in the public schools additional opportunities to appeal to the exceptional child. That is to say to the child to whom school work does not appeal and who rebels against its program of education.

TO MARRY PATIENTS

Montreal Physician Surprises

Young Women in Address.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Montreal, Dec. 18.—Dr. J. Anderson inspected the nurses at the graduating exercises of the Western Hospital, when, in his valedictory address he gave them advice on marriage. He advised the graduates that they would probably have very little money for their occupation depended on sickness, and old age came to all. It would be in the person of Mrs. Tanner.

"When the Mothers' Clubs of the city put up women for the school they are not sure that they will be elected and conclude, when they are elected, that the people of Los Angeles want them."

well, he said if there could be established an insurance fund for losses at a minimum cost, of course. Many of them would marry, and he advised them, however, not to marry their patients, for patients were never normal, being like children, and it would happen that they would always want their nurses to look after them. Another unfortunate possibility was that the nurses marrying patients would continue to look on their patient husbands as irresponsible. It was essential to have more nurses, and he would say to the public that it could not be expected that girls would spend three years in training, putting in twelve hours a day, and allowing for unemployment and continuous heavy expenses to work for what some people expected these people seem to think a

Lieut.-Col. C. H. Hill, D. S. O., the R. C. R., who was a guest of honor at the mayoral banquet, presided at the dinner and gave a night in a brief speech expressing his appreciation of the great pleasure with which the officers and men of the regiment welcomed the knights.

Mayor E. S. Little Follows in Footsteps of His Father, Who Was Mayor For Three Terms

Speakers Eulogize the Work Done in the Interest of the City by Father and Son—Mayor Reviews Work of the Year At Banquet Tendered To City Officials and Heads of Departments.

Many chief magistrates of the city of London have entertained the members of the city council, officials of the city, heads of departments and leading citizens to banquets in celebration of their year of office. But no previous mayor has taken Mayor E. S. Little's unique distinction of duplicating a similar courtesy act of his father, Col. J. W. Little, who was mayor of the city in 1895-96-97, exactly 25 years later and on the same day.

The fact was mentioned by the mayor in his opening speech as having been brought to his attention by Inspector J. W. McCallum, who, with Assessment Commissioner Grant, were present on that occasion. Mr. McCallum was at that time himself an alderman, and later speakers in paying eulogies to Mayor Little coupled with their references to the splendid record of his father in the services of the city. Both banquets were held in the same place, the Indian room at the Tecumseh Hotel.

Reviewed Year's Work.
Last night Mayor Little presided as host and as toast master, and in opening the speechmaking reviewed the work of the year. He spoke briefly of the splendid co-operation that had existed between No. 1 committee and the educational authorities, which had resulted in making higher education, even to the university, possible for the child of any citizen if the child's development warranted it.

Another feature of the year's work had been the progress made toward the elimination of the level crossings of the city. This much-to-be-desired and might not come all at once, but it had progressed so far with regard to the grading of the G. T. R. that a hearing of the matter is to take place before the railway board early in the new year.

Playgrounds Justified.
The establishment of playgrounds in the city, said the mayor, had justified them in one season, and he looked forward to seeing an extension of them to other parts of the city within the next year or two. "We must educate not only the mental faculties of the child, but also his physical forces. A healthy body insures a healthy mind."

Touching briefly on the street railway matter, the mayor referred to the tiling over of the danger of a strike at a most inauspicious time, and expressed the hope that when the time of settlement comes between the city and the men comes between the city and the men comes between the city and the men.

CATHOLICS WILL ASK FOR ONE OF THREE SCHOOLS

Bishop Fallon Makes Statement Regarding Course of Action Planned.

That three high schools should be built in London and one of them turned over to the Catholics of the city was the view expressed by Bishop Fallon last evening in discussing the collegiate problem at a meeting of the Catholic Club.

In support of his stand for three schools rather than one large one, he pointed out that 200 to 300 pupils can be handled more easily and more efficiently than 1,000. The bulk of the pupils he said attend the lower and middle schools, and with three colleges the people would be provided with much better facilities.

Have No Say.
"I have no right," he said, "to discuss this issue, although it involves a public expenditure of $1,000,000, perhaps more. Catholics will be taxed for their share of the cost and yet their opinion carries no weight and is not even being sought. Perhaps, however, attention may be given to their opinion. The situation is that no Catholic has a vote on this matter. As Bishop of London object to this. The board of education has the final say as to whether one or three schools shall be built. Taxpayers have no right to demand or to cause trouble before. It was a grievance in the past as now. It is in the British liberty, and yet I will say that I still believe in British liberty, although I must confess I have had a few shocks recently. We are going to see if this situation in regard to the high schools can be remedied. I have no ready-made solution, but I have a suggestion. According to the constitution of Canada Catholics of Ontario have as much right in connection with high school education as in separate school education. We intend to demand our rights. As a way out of the difficulty I suggest in all modesty that as the weight of opinion is in us as Catholics, if this is done we will agree to staff, equip and maintain it, and submit to every regulation and department of education. I think this would be fair."

To Start Seminary.
Last night's meeting was held to welcome Philip Pocock on his return to the city after having visited Rome, where he was made a Knight of St. Gregory by the pope. Richard Forrester was chairman, and on behalf of the Catholic Club, Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles presented Mr. Pocock with an illuminated address.

In replying briefly, Mr. Pocock made the important announcement that work on the new St. Peter's Seminary, which will cost about $500,000, will begin within a year.

DECLINE OCCURS IN PRICE OF COAL OIL
Hardware and Metal, December 18, says:

A decline has taken place in the price of coal oil, which has been stationary for the past five months, but gasoline prices remain unchanged. Tractor oil prices show a slight reduction.

Fewer price changes are noted this week and most of the alterations are on lines such as bar iron and steel, sheets and plates and iron castings, which show slight reductions.

Revisions made in pipe fittings show some small reductions, but pipe continues to hold firmly. Bar iron and steel have an easier tone and reductions have been made in the price of sheets and plates. Some ingot metals, including tin, have declined, and lower quotations are made on solders. Waste materials continue to recede in price. The volume of business in seasonal lines continues good and many lines such as skates and hockey goods are still scarce.

IF STRENGTH DECLINES AS AGE ADVANCES, FOLLOW THIS SUGGESTION

So many women grow old before their time, perhaps your wife or sister.
A little while ago, buoyant, full of vigor
and activity—she enjoyed life and imparted pleasure to the whole family;
but now in a few short years she has faded and lost color and strength. She is just ready to develop some disease
that will further weaken and debilitate.
You remember how it began, failure of appetite, tired in the morning, found housework burdensome, always nervous and a little irritable. It's a shame to let her go down hill further when you can build her up so quickly with Ferrozone. The change
this nourishing tonic makes in a weak woman is surprising. It gives great zest for food, increases appetite and digestion enormously. The blood gets richer and stronger and adds new life to every organ in the body. A rebuilding process works through the entire system. The first week will show an improvement and a month or two will fatten up the thinnest, most rundown woman you can think of. Take Ferrozone for lost color, for nervousness, for weakness—use it when rundown and feeling poorly—it will do you more lasting good, keep you in better health, than anything else. Just as good for men and children, too, because Ferrozone is harmless and safe, 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers,
or direct by mail from the Catarrhazone Company, Kingston, Ont.

fast action by a carnival of crime in this city within the last 24 hours, the police today arrested two men and a woman in connection with the killing of Police Officer Floyd Norton in a running fight with automobile bandits last night.
The arrests followed discovery on the Bronx of a bullet-riddled automobile,
in which the bandits are believed to have fled after holding up an elevator man, and on the running board of which Norton met his death in a grim revolver duel while trying to arrest the gang.

The arrests also followed the action of Michael Loresch of Brooklyn, in having taken to a hospital the body of his brother, Joseph, which he said he had found in his room early today with a fatal bullet wound. On the body of Joseph was found a watch tallying with the description of that taken from the elevator man who had been held up.
Those under arrest are Michael Loresch, Joseph Cavanaugh and Emma Brooks. The woman had a bullet wound in the elbow, and the police are working on the theory that after the Norton shooting the prisoners drove to Brooklyn and deposited in Michael's home the body of Joseph. It became known today that the criminals, who have been taunting the police with raids into the very centre of the city's shopping and hotel districts, have extended their pilgrimage to municipal courts.

It was found this morning that cracksmen had broken open a safe in a fashionable cafe in the West 125th Street
Court, and looted it of $2,000.

RABBI CHARGED WITH ILLEGAL SALE OF LIQUOR

Pleads Not Guilty To Allegeations Made by Former Employee of Spracklin's.

WINDSOR, Dec. 17.—Hebrew Rabbi Isaac M. Spracklin, minister in police court today, when Samuel Abramson, Jewish rabbi, appeared to answer a charge of illegally selling liquor. The charge was preferred by Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin.
He was supported in his testimony by his brother, Rev. Arthur Spracklin, and Joe Bragman, formerly employed by the Spracklins.

The offence with which Rabbi Abram-
son is charged and to which he pleads not guilty, is said to have occurred at his residence on the night of October 27.
Bragman made a statement produced in court by which he claims to have bought three cases of liquor from Abramson for which he paid $180.
Frederick Kerby, appearing for Rabbi Abramson in cross-examining Rev. Arthur Spracklin, brought out the fact that the search warrant dated October 27
and signed by Magistrate Hall, had been filled in, with the exception of the signature of the magistrate the night of the offence. He said that in reply to a question declared he did not know the warrant was illegal.
Bragman went on to say that he was purchasing the liquor, but they were unaware as to where he was going. Abramson's name had not been mentioned.

Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, when asked
as to what Bragman had been paid, stated that he had given him $25 on one occasion and $10 another time. The understanding was that he was to be paid, according to results obtained, but as he was out of work this money had been advanced before the case was concluded. It was not given to influence the statement of the witness, Rev. J. O.
L. Spracklin testified.

BRITISH MILLS SELL TO RUSSIA AS GOVT. LAGS

Manufacturers Enter Muscovite Markets While Negotiations Drag.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The protracted negotiations for resumption of trade between Great Britain and Soviet Russia
are not preventing British manufacturers from taking advantage of the Russian markets. At least two large Yorkshire woolen mills are working at high pressure to turn out orders for hundreds of thousands of yards of textiles for Russian account, it became known here today.

As Yorkshire men proverbially are hard-headed businessmen the guarantee for payment they obtained are interesting commercial circles where it is believed the financial end of the deal
must have been arranged through neutral, probably Scandinavian banks.
Through these banks, it is said, it was easy to give drafts for Soviet gold which is known to have been deposited in several European cities some time ago.

REPORT IS NOT CREDITED.
CHATHAM, Dec. 17.—The report
that R. L. Gossell, Blenheim barrister, is to be appointed to the vacant county court clerkship for Kent is not generally credited, and it is still believed that Capt. Douglas Chatham returned soldier, will be appointed to the position.

SAYS NATIONAL UNITY IMPOSSIBLE WHILE MEIGHEN GOVT. STAYS

Nova Scotian Lawmaker States Meighen Divides Canada.

OTTAWA, Dec. 17.—(By Canadian Press).—Eulogizing the work which the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier had done for all Canadians, in an address before the Liberal Club of Ottawa last night, Hon. Robert E. Finn, representing Halifax in the Nova Scotian Legislature, compared with Sir Wilfrid's work that of Sir Robert Borden's Government and the Government of Hon. Arthur Meighen.

The speaker made appeal for national unity, which, he said, could never be brought about while there was in power at Ottawa a Government which divided the people against themselves. The old Conservative party of Sir John A. Macdonald was not present in the new National Liberal and Conservative party, Mr.
Finn declared, and the traditions behind Sir John's party seemed to have been forgotten. He said that Sir Macdonald would not have allowed the French-Canadians to be so long without cabinet representation as had been the case.

Pleads Not Guilty.
The accused, who was represented by J. M. McEvoy, London, pleaded not guilty to the charge, and proof of the shipment of the merchandise to the L. and P. S., and the receiving of it by an employee of the line, was advanced by J. McMahen, who said that chant, W. McKnight, shipper for Massaret & Co., Sidney, Ely, checker, L. and
P. S. London, and F. Roy Smith, conductor. The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

Both Are Blamed.
The action of Nell C. Sinclair, St.
Thomas, against Alexander Somerville, farmer of South Yarmouth, was finished this afternoon at the continued sittings of the general session of the court. The jury found that both plaintiff and defendant were to blame,
and that each pay his own costs, or costs by J. McMahen, who said that the claim of the plaintiff of the court,
the claim of the defendant were dismissed without costs.

The Presentment.
The grand jury, which completed and delivered an unusually lengthy presentment, made a declaration of faith in the efficiency of the Ontario temperance act, and recommended the allowance for jurors be raised from $4 to $6 a day. The jury also recommended that citizens from the countryside, factory understanding be brought about between the people of the city and rural districts, suggested that law, relative to the retirement of judges at the age of 75, should not apply in the case of Judge C. W. Collier of Elgin County.
They emphasized the fact that under the prevailing conditions the fees of the jury barely covers their expenses.

In referring to the closing of Judge
Collier's term of office, the jury recommended that some statutory works out a hardship. We recognize the fact, said the foreman, that in some cases, when a man reaches the age of 75 years, he is not capable to be an administrator of justice, but we know that in your case you are mentally at the height of your career. We hope that in your case an exception will be made,
and that you may continue for many years to do as you have always done,
tempering justice with mercy, for we sincerely believe that a judge who administers the law in the manner in which you have is as much a disciple
of Him who stands upon the throne
as to whom we listen on the Sabbath
eve." His honor made a suitable reply.

Former Chief Is Given Two Years on Theft Charge

Sam Bickley Is Sent To Kingston Penitentiary by Woodstock Judge.

WOODSTOCK, Dec. 17.—Two years in Kingston penitentiary at hard labor was the sentence imposed on Sam Bickley, ex-policeman, by Judge Wallace on two charges of breaking and entering into cellars. Bickley pleaded guilty to both charges. He said in his story that Alex Green, who will be sentenced Saturday, actually entered the cellars, while he remained outside. The judge took into consideration Bickley's long military record, but said he could not at the present time, when a serious crime wave seems to be sweeping the country, allow him to go on suspended sentence. Bickley was chief of police here for two years.

REEVE SPOULE MAY BE NEXT COUNTY WARDEN

Oil Springs Official Is Prominently Mentioned For Honor in Lambton.

SARNIA, Dec. 17.—Who will fill the warden's chair in Lambton County Council in 1921? That is the question which is rousing no small interest. One of the best bets at the present time seems to be Reeve John T. Sproule of Oil Springs. Reeve Sproule was chairman of the printing committee during the present year, and also a member of the roads and bridges and equalization committees. An interesting incident in connection with the political status of the council is the fact that this is said to be the first time in about 30 years that the Conservatives have been in the majority.

With nomination day less than one week away, interest in the municipal campaign is keen, and the distribution of campaign literature has already commenced. Data is also being prepared for submission to the electors at the public meeting to be held in the city hall on the 21st inst. The first hold-up reported to Wind for police in nine weeks.

WESTERN ONTARIO BRIEFS

WINDSOR.—Daniel Dwyer reported to the police last night that he had been held up and robbed of $150 on Howard avenue. Part of the money had been drawn from the bank Thursday for his Christmas shopping. This is the first hold-up reported to Wind for police in nine weeks.

BRANTFORD.—The total amount of unpaid taxes for 1920 constitutes a record and is over $40,000. The civic authorities are not instituting action against delinquents, which include all classes, but are arranging for payment whereby statutory requirements will be fully met.

GUELPH.—Mayor Westoby has received word from Hon. Hugh Guthrie that he had secured one of the largest sums captured by the Canadians from the Hun in August, 1918, as a war trophy for Guelph. The gun weighs sixteen tons, and a permanent cement base will have to be erected to hold it.

WINDSOR.—Because Magistrate Gundy, recently appointed to the bench here, refuses to hear cases at Sandwich, Ford and Walkerville, deputations from the first two towns are demanding that some arrangement be made whereby offenders may be given trial in their respective municipalities. They will ask that either Magistrate Gundy be compelled to visit the various towns regularly or that a separate magistrate be appointed.

SARNIA.—An award of $300 damages for plaintiff's was the result of the case of Charles M. Field vs. Sarnia Street Railway, wherein the plaintiff had received $400 damages for the death of his horse, injured to another, destruction of harness and damage to property caused when a car ran into his wagon.

KITCHENER.—The carlet fever outbreak is now at the wane. Twelve cases have been cleared and there are now only four remaining.

BRANTFORD.—Lodge, S. O. E. has elected the following officers: President, J. Small; vice-president, R. Henderson; chaplain, J. Kirkbridge; secretary, R. W. Edwards; treasurer, J. Stonehill.

SARNIA.—The compilation of a detailed and comprehensive report of the work of the city engineer department under City Engineer J. Baird, has been completed and will be ready for presentation to the city council at the next meeting. The report, in addition to citing routine work, contains a comparison of the expenditures with other years.

FUEL COMMISSION NAMED AT PARKHILL

Will Endeavor To Procure Coal For Those Without Supplies.

PARKHILL, Dec. 17.—As a result of several families here being unable to obtain coal the council has appointed a fuel commission to deal with the matter and arrange for supplies, so that there will be no unnecessary suffering. All those who have not sufficient coal to last them until the end of March are being asked by the council to send in their names and efforts will be made to procure fuel for them. While returning from school last evening the six-year-old daughter of George Nicholson of Sylvan, had her foot caught in a hole in the sidewalk when she was struck by a car driven by Dr. George Hacey of Parkhill. The affair was purely accidental. A number of children saw the auto approaching and separated, some going to each side of the road. The doctor's dog was riding on the running-board, and his barking frightened the little girl, who started to cross the road right in front of the car. As she fell she broke the headlight on the front of the car, and she was immediately taken home and her injuries dressed.

Rev. Walter S. Nichol was presented with a purse of $250 by his congregation here prior to leaving for his new charge in Fergus.

Word has been received of the death at Huntsville, Washington, following a brief illness with pneumonia, of Lewis C. Corbett, B.A., third son of the late John Corbett of Corbett, Ont. Miss Olive E. Cost Is Doubled.
After working for several months at the new sewage disposal plant P. H. Secord & Sons have finished their contract. There is still considerable work to be done before the plant is complete, but this will be looked after by city workers under the supervision of City Engineer McArthur. Part of this work will be the equipping of aerating tanks. From figures obtained at the city hall today, it was learned that $37,749.57 had been paid to the Secord firm so far, while the final payment, which had not been made, will probably run the expense over the $40,000 mark. In addition to this, the city has paid out $5,728.93 for work at the plant, together with the cost of machinery which was purchased. The original estimate for the job was $19,000.

PREMIER MARTIN'S ADDRESS.

The Canadian Club of London confers a real benefit on the community when it secures an address like that given yesterday by Premier Martin of Saskatchewan. Statesmanlike in its outlook, hopeful as to the future, and well grounded as to the present, it was the type of address that tends to break down prejudices and build up real Canadianism. With no attempt to pass over evident weaknesses in his own province (weaknesses that in most cases are common to the other provinces), Premier Martin did show that the west is grappling with its big tasks and getting things accomplished.

There are always those who fear that the west is going to fall into the hands of the foreign element, or the American element, or some other element. It was refreshing to hear the man who knows best say that the old Ontario element is still the backbone of the province, and still the dominant factor in its population. But the speaker laid his finger on one point that had probably not been thought of by the vast majority of his hearers. We are accustomed to hearing it said that if we pump in British settlers, that this is not enough in Premier Martin showed that this is not enough in these British settlers must also be Canadian-ized. He pointed out that the British settlers in Saskatchewan, the English and the Irish newcomers, in most cases, know nothing of Eastern Canada other than what they may have seen from a car window on the journey from a Canadian port to the west. They are no more acquainted with the viewpoint of the east than any other newcomer. And since the majority of easterners have no idea of the western viewpoint, not even the businessmen who make hasty trips through the prairies, it is essential that efforts should be active to link the two parts. The premier of Saskatchewan believes that this link must be a profound pride in Canada as a whole. There must be a national feeling more dominant than the provincial feeling.

This is good advice for eastern people, as it is doubtless good advice for Westerners as well.
The habit of making snap judgments on others is a national fault. Knowing nothing of the facts, we do not hesitate to pass the most prejudicial opinions. And often it would seem that those with the least information are most dogmatic in their judgments. We often complain of the ignorance of Canada on the part of Englishmen or Americans or people of other races.
But there is an appalling amount of ignorance
with regard to Canada among Canadians themselves, and it is this ignorance that is responsible for some of our most difficult problems.

The Canadian Club offers the opportunity for men of other parts of Canada to pass on a message to their fellows here in the east, and it would be well if more speakers of the type of Premier Martin could be heard in London.
Could not the Canadian Club of London bring a representative French-Canadian to address its membership, a man of the type of Sir Lomer Gouin or Hon. Mr. Taschereau? It would be more than a mere Canadian Club function; it would be an interchange of ideas that would have, no doubt, far-reaching effect.

THE LATE CHARLES JENKINS, PETROLEA.

"Death is the messenger of peace
And calls the soul to heaven."

Charles Jenkins died on Thursday at Crescent Place, his home in Petrolea, in the 51st year of his age. "Who's Who and Why" has
the following reference:

"Charles Jenkins, manager Ontario Lands
and Oil Company, Petrolea; director Northern Life Assurance Company. Born near Bannockburn, Scotland. Educated, Scotland. Came to Canada 1889. Unsuccessful candidate to House of Commons for East Lambton, 1904; name
mentioned in connection with a Dominion senatorship; member, General Association, Ontario Liberal Association. Councillor, Petrolea, eight years; member public school board two years;
member high school board twelve years. A delegate to general and provincial synods of Anglican Church; member mission board; member general committee for a revised hymnal
for Church of England in Canada, 1906; member national committee Anglican laymen's missionary movement, 1909; favors the expansion of the Anglican ordinal, permitting deacons to follow a secular calling; favors church union;
author of a paper 'Aims and Objects of the Canadian Church union, with special reference to the uniting of the church throughout the whole of British North America,' (Canadian Churchman, 1888). Married Anne Elizabeth Kirkpatrick, daughter of S. F. Kirkpatrick, Petrolea, Ont. (deceased 1895). Liberal, Anglican; address, Petrolea, Ont."

Mr. Jenkins was one of the ablest and best men in Canada. He was a Shakespearean scholar, as well as one of the best read men in the highest class of English literature. He had a style all his own, both in speaking and writing. The Advertiser published recently his paper on the aims and objects of Canadian church union, and would have liked to have his views on the broader question respecting the union of all churches. Mr. Jenkins was brought up a Presbyterian and became an Anglican after he had reached manhood. His death is a great loss, not only to the Anglican Church, but to the whole country. He regularly attended the meetings of the Anglican synod in this city,

and was one of its most active and prominent members. He will be much missed there. He also attended regularly the meetings of the directors of the Northern Life and formed there very close attachments. He had an earnest, serious and thoughtful mind on all appropriate occasions. His wide knowledge and exceptionally keen appreciation of wit made him very entertaining in the social circle.

Mr. Jenkins was a typical Scotsman, fond of home and all connected with it. The church and school had in him a true friend. Friendships were to him sacred. He was constantly improving his mind. He has reached "the land of the dead" after more than four score years
of a well-spent life.

"They're slowly slippin' frae oor ken—
The friends we lo'e'd sae weel,
As mistis in autumn gloamin's fa'
Along the valleys steepl;
And though the day's last rosy beam
May light some lofty Ben,
The shadows seem to deeper grow
Within the wooded glen."

MR. FERGUSON FUMING.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson is entering upon his career as leader of the Tory remnant in Ontario in a rather vengeful mood. He is talking of the hides that he is going to nail on to the fence in the coming session of the Legislature, though we venture the opinion that the Ferguson hide may itself be a rather conspicuous landmark before many months have passed.

The department over which he exercised authority during the Hearst regime has afforded
one of the most outstanding records of incompetent management of which this province has record. The royal commission, so vigorously abused by Mr. Ferguson, has laid a part of the nasty business bare, but there is doubtless more to come. Mr. Ferguson would like to divert attention from his predicament as the man responsible for the department by throwing suspicion on the fair-mindedness of the commission. We think Ontario people will not be deceived by this camouflage. Nor are they likely to think the future of Mr. Ferguson the main consideration in connection with the matter.

The man who was chosen by a clique of Tories at Toronto to lead them back into office represents a type of politician that is disappearing, and a type that cannot disappear too soon. We are done with professional politicians in this country. We want men whom the office seeks, rather than those who seek the office. And Mr. Ferguson stands conspicuous in the latter class.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Premier Martin says that Saskatchewan has billions of tons of lignite coal. An effective and economical method of briquetting this coal, which slacks so quickly, is now needed. Here is a field for the research board, which, if it could provide the solution, would mean millions
in wealth to the whole west.

The suggestion that the Government aid unemployment by starting public works rather than by doling out charity is right and proper.
We want no bread or soup lines in this country.
We want the opportunity for the men to do a day's work for a day's pay. That is the right principle for city, province or Dominion.

HIS VICTIMS MUCH LIKE HIMSELF.

[New York Times.]

Why anybody should have sympathy for the man
Ponzi it would be hard to explain, and still harder to justify, and yet the news that he is to go to jail
for five long years does inspire at least a few thoughts about "Good enough for him."

Swindler he was, no doubt, and a stupid swindler, too, as well as an egregious falsifier and a wholesale betrayer of simple confidences. But, just the same,
there was something picturesque, something suggestive of the gallant, about him, and it is almost possible, though not quite, to believe that he was as credulous as his victims and deceived himself as much as he did them.

It is with an amused interest that a Canadian reads some of the comments of editors of British newspapers on the prohibition movement in Canada.
They cannot understand what is going on here,
and feel sure that must be some explanation of it.
Being fond of us, and desiring to put the best face
they can on our strange behavior in voting for ice-water as a beverage, they describe prohibition as
"an American-born continental movement," which "only Quebec, because it is French and British Columbia, because it is peculiarly English, have been able to resist."

As one British journal remarks, "the Prairie Provinces, separated by not so much as a fence
from across the border. British Columbia is different because 'its ancient foundation by cavalier adventurers from the Pacific in Charles II's reign gives certain mellowness to its history.' This mellowness in its history no doubt accounts for a certain mellowness in its present policy. It is thus that the scientific examiner accounts for human actions by going to the historic root of things."

It is not clear yet, however, that the vote and influence of the cavaliers of Charles II. will make British Columbia markedly different from the rest of Canada. The recent vote in that province authorizes a system which any cavalier would denounce as drastic enough, were it not that it is in lieu of a system more drastic still. There will be no beer. There is to be government ownership of liquor, and no sale of it but by the government—which brings the traffic to the point where, by the pressure of a single hand, it can be destroyed whenever the province desires it to be done.

It is predicted that Quebec and British Columbia will benefit from the "sanity" they have shown. This,
of course, remains to be seen. If these two provinces
apply to the job of keeping temper and tending bar
for the rest of the continent—if they do not think better of it, if they go on with it and remain wet
while the rest of the continent goes dry—we see no reason why the rest of the continent should shrink
the comparisons which it will, in the course of time, be possible to make. A temporary prosperity of a wasteful kind may blossom forth in two wet provinces, but unless all the beliefs of the advocates of prohibition are astray, these provinces will be under a handicap from which the rest of Canada will have been released, and these wet provinces will in time feel the drag and lag behind.

[Detroit Journal.]

The first man to get the best of Henry Ford was a foreign workman. He beat the system completely by having a job in his hands at once, punching six clocks, had six names, and drew six pats. If Henry doesn't make him a general manager or something, he's missing an opportunity.

[New York Evening Post.]

John Hetherington was a prosperous haberdasher
in the Strand, London, but his career had not been noteworthy until he conceived the idea that the time
was ripe to introduce a novelty in headgear, and, accordingly, on January 15, 1917, crossed his threshold wearing the first silk hat.

In our own frontier days it seemed to be quite impossible for a cowboy to see a silk hat without feeling an irresistible impulse to shoot at it, and something of the same spirit must have existed in London two centuries ago, for no sooner had the first silk hat appeared than trouble started. Sometimes excited through gathered about the owner, and this crowd soon increased to such a dangerous extent that the authorities had to interfere. The next morning the daring haberdasher was brought before the lord mayor charged with "walking down a public highway wearing upon his head a tall structure
having a shining lustre calculated to alarm timid people."

Witnesses gave evidence that women had fainted, that children had gone into hysterics, and that one had had sustained a broken arm through the violence of the mob. Hetherington asserted his rights as an Englishman to wear such clothes as he saw fit,
but the lord mayor took another view of the matter, and ordered the defendant to pay damages
in the sum of $5,000 for his future good behavior.

[Brockville Recorder.]

The makers of newspapers do not aim to make works of literature. They strive to express clearly and according to accepted forms of English. Sometimes they succeed, not infrequently in the rush,
crash and push of a daily newspaper office they fail.
The proofroom—Heaven always shower upon it the richest of blessings!—saves every newspaper a very great deal. And a reading public that is kind is always forgiving.

Newspapers have to be thrown together hurriedly.
Their success is measured by their accuracy of statement and their honesty. They strive always at correct forms, but sometimes all their cherished hopes go wrong. And when the glaring mistake appears there's a season of sorrow, the staff holds a carnival of grief, but they buckle on the armor to begin the fight again the next day, with higher purposes than ever before, and with that ever-burning desire to serve the public with the best there is, the most accurately presented, and all attractively put together.

[Brantford Expositor.]

The job of a female police commissioner in the wicked city of New York is not a very agreeable one, according to Mrs. E. A. O'Grady, one of the number, who has just thrown up her job because she met with constant obstruction from the "higher-ups" in her efforts to protect the morals of girls in moving picture houses and elsewhere. She adds:
"When my detectives went to enforce the law in moving picture houses, the managers of these houses showed receipts stating that they had contributed to the police hospital fund, and had been promised that no police action would be taken against them.
I was told that my work was too strenuous looking and I was told to go to the law enforcement commissioners in the police departments it is not surprising that New York, Chicago and other American cities are having an epidemic of crime at this time."

WHERE THE MONEY GOES.

[St. Thomas Times-Journal.]

A ton of coal in England costs $8.31 at the pithead. The miners get $6.06, office and other expenses cost about $1.40, royalties are 16 cents,
capital adjustments are 5 cents, and the owners get 52 cents. These are reliable figures, issued by government authority.

[Hamilton Spectator.]

Rev. Dr. Chown, superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, who has just returned from a tour of Japan, China and India, is convinced, from his own actual experience, of the justice of the protests of the missionaries against Japanese atrocities in Korea. "I have no doubt that the missionaries are not preaching anything in the way of insurrection, but it is impossible to preach anything like justice or Christian democracy without coming into conflict with the ideas being insisted upon by Japan in Korea at the present time," says Dr. Chown. The detailed accounts of massacres which he printed in the Spectator yesterday are sufficient of themselves to show that no self-respecting man, least of all a minister of the Christian Gospel, could hold his peace while such unspeakable barbarities were being perpetrated beneath his very eyes. It cannot be termed interference in politics to protest against such horrors. One owes a duty to common humanity, and it would be failing
in that duty to permit such things to continue.
It is the historic problem of the power grown too big for its national boundaries spreading out into foreign fields and supplanting the native population. Dr. Chown tells of an extensive migration of Japanese to Manchuria, Korea and even as far away as Singapore and Vladivostok. "It is only true to say that where they go they bring every mark of efficiency. Their buildings stand out in great contrast to the original structures of the natives of those places. The most intense feeling of hostility, however, exists between China and Japan." So reports Dr. Chown. Japan is seeking her "place in the sun" but, no more than Germany,
must she be permitted to trample other nations
under foot in order to achieve it.

[Quebec Telegraph.]

The Brantford Expositor has done good work for Brantford and for Canada in making it quite clear that Canada is the actual birthplace of the telephone.
Boston has claimed this honor, and most American writers accept the claim, but Canada's title should be maintained. Brantford, which is known as the Telephone City, there is an imposing monument memorializing the connection of that city with the invention, at the unveiling of which Dr. Bell was the leading figure.
In a letter to the Expositor, that gentleman presents in chronological order the different stages of the invention, beginning with the following:
"The invention of the telephone at Tutele Heights, Brantford, in the summer of 1874."
He concludes his letter: "Speaking generally, I may say that Boston was the centre of the experimental work of development, and Brantford the centre of development by theoretical reasoning. I spent my summer vacations in Brantford; and, not yet being a professional worker there to distract my attention, I had leisure to ponder over the experiments that had been made in Boston and Salem, and plan out new lines of research. In this way Brantford became my thinking place; here the telephone was invented; the first draft of the patent specifications prepared; the proper relation of the parts of a telephone to enable it to be used on long lines worked out; and the first transmission of the human voice over miles of telegraph line actually accomplished. Here also the first public demonstration of this result was given to the world."

Boston, it is true, had something to do with the working out of Dr. Bell's great invention, but its preliminary was first demonstrated in Brantford,
and some of the later experiments successfully conducted there.

[By George Herbert Clarke.]
Dawn lifts the valley with a clean, cold mist,
And bathes her slender limbs and lifts
her hair
To heaven, while her frank young bosom, bare
As carved marble, gleams with marble
glint;
Each beautiful breast by kindred beauty
kissed;
Perfect and pure, her form without compare Steals into sudden contours, and her fair
Face swims and glimmers with her maiden's wit.

She smiles, blushes a little, waves her hand,
And twinkling they vanish, one by one,
The drowsy lights dotting the dewy
land;
Now is the miracle of morn begun—
She waits him, worships him, nor would withstand
Her burning lover, the Imperious Sun.

[Baltimore American.]
"We have an old family knocker on our front door."
"We have one inside."
WRINKLES.
Of wrinkles on men's faces, that's but
two important styles.
The one that's made from worry
is the one that's made from smiles.
The first won't get you anywhere; the other kind improves you.
Good cheer to folks around you
and keeps youth within your hearts.

[Truth Seeker.]
To new maid: "This is my son's room. He's in Yale."
"Ya? My brudder ban there, too."
"No year, da judge just say: 'You Axel, sixty days in jail.'"

"THAT SWEET, SWEET SONG."
[In Portland Oregonian.]
Somewhere I have read a story
Of a bird with a wounded wing
And how ere the cruel arrow struck
He would mount to the sky and sing;
Far up in the blue he soared
He sang all the livelong day,
And the notes of his song came softly
From the cloud lands far away.

One day a hunter saw him light
For the limb of a willow tree
He bent his bow and an arrow flew
As true as true could be;
The bird from the tree fell fluttering;
No more could he soar and sing,
But there in the grass he must stay,
Alas!
Because of a wounded wing.

But lo, from among the willows
That border a murmuring stream
A song came up on the evening air
As sweet as a rustic dream;
The notes were tinged with sadness,
With suffering and with pain,
But in them now was a harmony
Of a nobler, loftier strain.

A message of inspiration
To all who pass it brings,
For among earth's human beings
There are many with wounded wings;
And they forget their worry,
Discouragement and care
In that sweet, sweet song that floats
Along
On the wings of the evening air.

FAIR WARNING.
Patsy—Morn, won't yer gimme candy
now?
Mrs. Casey—Didn't O' tell ye O' wouldn't give ye anny at all if ye didn't kape still?
Yes'm, but—
Well, the longer ye kape still the sooner ye'll get it.

PATHS OF LIFE.
For the New Year.
[Frederick B. Fenton.]
The Avenues of Time are strewn
With garlands of the years;
In Triumph's ways some wreaths are thrown.

Whilst some are wet with tears;
Each o'er Life's path may view tonight
Wreaths grand and drab forsooth;
Some weaved for sorrow, some delight.
Some faded, some with youth.

Turning, we see o'er others' ways
Fame's lurid banners fly,
Having no higher aim than their days,
Riches before them lie;
While Pity, born of Toll and Pain,
Explores our humbler road,
Till Happiness trips back again,
And Courage lifts the load.

For 'tis not to the loftiest slopes,
However grand they seem,
Life lifts us all with those fond hopes
That beautifully each dream;
As sunlit ways are often found
Among the plains below, Joy's brightest beams may gild the ground
Of humble life and love.

[Dallas News.]

Titlie Clinger says the reason she didn't last long as clerk at the book store was because when an old gentleman asked for the Chicken Fancier's

Modern Youth

Guide she told him he didn't need a guide—what he wanted was a guardian.
But every thought on himself he spent,
And LIFE became a weary care
Because of the I that was always there.
Once on a time, says this legend profound,
As his long, lean form grew jolly and
round,
The fairy proved beyond a doubt
That loving is living rounded out.
For the best of self will life improve;
Take the I from LOVE and make it LOVE.

LAST POST.
[Adapted by the Grand Army of Canada
for funeral ceremonies.]
O Canada! whose aires on land and sea
Sought for mankind eternal victory;
Our mighty dead bequeathed to us
Sweet freedom's diadem
That freedom won is ours to keep,
Shall we break faith with them?

Though war entombed, rest, Heroes,
rest;
We'll carry on that all men shall be blest;
Here's heart and hand—our lives—to freedom's test.
Comrade—A Dieu! To God our thanks for thee!
God save thy life to pledge his people
free,
If soldier-life pledge joy a birth,
And peace o'er all the earth,
Let a nation here o'er her warrior's
Pledge to God a contrite heart.
Loved Canada! Glory to thee—
Glory to God for true humanity—
Glory to God! we'll share our liberty.

ALMOST THE CONTRARY.
Jinks had been out the night before
and was late at his desk.
Employer (sternly)—Well?
Jinks—Not very, sir.

The Campbell Becher Chapter, I. O. D. E., is planning a bridge to be held on Thursday night, December 23, at the Western University.

Hyman Hall was the scene of a jolly dance on Thursday night when the freshmen class at the Western University entertained there.

Mrs. Hunt of Winnipeg, formerly Miss Marjorie Struthers, is spending New Year's with her mother, Mrs. E. R. C. Struthers, Colborne street.

Mrs. Samuel Stevely and her three daughters, Mrs. Cheyne, Mrs. Solon Albright and Miss Dorothy Stevely, are spending the winter in Los Angeles, California.

Mrs. A. Derby of Detroit, who has been a guest in the city during the past week, returned home last evening. Mrs. Derby will be in the city again to spend Christmas Day with friends here.

The annual New Year's dance of the Anshel Shalom Progress League, Hamilton, will be held on the evening of January 3, this year in the Alexandra Academy. As in former years, many out-of-town guests are expected, among them several London people.

The Children's Hospital committee are arranging for a big "at home" to be held in the new tea room, which is to be opened on Richmond street on Wednesday next. It is probable that the "at home" will be held some time between Christmas and New Year's Day. The proceeds will be in aid of the Children's Hospital.

A very interesting dance, which has been scheduled for next Tuesday, December 21, is the college institute dance to be held in the Masonic Temple. Arrangements for the dance are in charge of a staff committee, including Miss Kelsie, Miss McPherson, Miss McCann and Capt. Sims, and a students' committee, with the following members, Miss Shirley Johnston, Miss Penelope Kitchen, Miss Clara Barnett, Miss Elaine Stevely, Mr. Frank Kennedy, Mr. Walter Rennie, Mr. Jack Givens and Mr. Ed. Hamilton.

One of the most delightful private dances of the season was that held last night at the Western "U" gym by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wylie in honor of their daughter, Miss Elaine Wylie. The gym itself presented a gay scene with ceiling and walls decorated with evergreens and colored streamers, while on the platform the orchestra was concealed behind a bank of palms and ferns. One end of the gym was trellised off for sitting-out spaces, these cozy nooks being artistically furnished with palms and tall drawing-room lamps.

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie received their first guests just within the side entrance door and immediately in front of the orchestra. Mrs. Wylie was beautifully gowned in navy georgette, having a lovely smile, and wore a corsage of roses. Miss Elaine Wylie made a graceful young hostess, wearing a gown of black panne velvet, made with bouffant hips and trimmed with gold and silver lace. The young couple were surrounded by a large number of guests, and a turquoise blue feather fan completed this charming costume. Miss Aileen Hudson of Toronto, a house guest, was wearing a pretty Parisian frock of black tulle made in beige style and trimmed with burnt orange flowers. Among the other out-of-town guests present were Mrs. Meryl Tuna of Stratford, Miss Jean Richardson of Valparaiso, Indiana. One hundred and fifty guests were present at the dance.

DEMMEERING-ADAMS.
On Wednesday, December 15, a quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. D. M. MacKenzie of Stratford, Ontario, when Miss Elsie Adams, daughter of Mr. Thomas Adams, son of London, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred Demmeering of Mt. Forest. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Lenz, the bride, who was unaccompanied, was given away by Mr. MacKenzie, and wore a suit of brown tulle and a corsage bouquet of American Beauty roses. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome place of pearls. On the return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Demmeering will reside in Mount Forest.

BLACK-TAYLOR.
A pretty December wedding was solemnized by Rev. A. R. Kellam at the Belmont Methodist parsonage on Wednesday, December 15, at 4 o'clock, when Miss Alice M. second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus A. Taylor of Belmont, was united in marriage to Mr. Willie J. Black, also of Belmont. The young couple were attended by Miss Jennie Taylor and Mr. William Taylor. The bride was becomingly gowned in Alice blue satin, and wore a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses and narcissus. After the ceremony the happy couple left by motor for London and Sarnia, the bride traveling in a navy embroidered serge dress, Plutux seat coat and hat to match. On their return they will take up their residence in Belmont.

BALSDEN-ATKINSON.
A pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkinson, Lucan, on December 15, at high noon, when their daughter, Ethel E., was married to Mr. Edward J. Balsden of Stratford. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Merritt in the presence of about 25 guests. Miss Vera Atkinson, daughter of the bride, played "The Bridal Chorus" from the Lohengrin, as the bride entered the drawing-room, leaning on the arm of her father and wearing a tailored suit of navy blue, with hat to match. Her corsage bouquet was of Sweetheart roses.

After the ceremony, the guests retired to a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Balsden left for Sarnia, Detroit and points west, and on their return will reside in Stratford. The groom's gift to the bride was an exquisite lavalliere set with pearls and a diamond clasp, and to the pianist a cameo ring. The young couple were the recipients of many other handsome gifts, including checks and silver.

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

Gallstones I Have Overlooked.
As a diagnostician I do not now profess to be any great shakes, just ordinary. When I was younger I knew more.

One of my star patients was a man about forty-five years of age, seemed to me, I was young and calico, fresh from the hospital, equipped with all the latest diagnostic wrinkles and exceedingly sorry for his condition. He was already established in town who were destined to compete with me. (I didn't say sorry very long.)

This star patient had visited all the noted physicians in our parts. Yes, he had traveled forty, sixty, even a hundred miles to consult specialists of all degrees. He had spent many months at health resorts imbibing the milky waters and the confident assurance of the medical superintendents. Then finally he gave up and came home discouraged. The case began to look desperate. It was at this point that I was called in.

The diagnosis had come ready-made. All the specialists had agreed at least about that. Neuraesthesia. He radiated neuraesthesia in great circles wherever he went. He had a neuraesthetic expression, a neuraesthetic gait, and a neuraesthetic pocketbook. I decided at once that these things I needed supportive treatment. Tonics and such things. Nerve tonics, particularly. What was a good nerve tonic? Gosh, what was I? I was young, and fondly imagined there were tonics, even nerve tonics. I prescribed for the patient, and he imbued all I prescribed, and then some. Every little while his friends would bring in, then some, to cheer him up, you know.

Finally we performed an operation on my patient. You see, all along he had complained bitterly about the discomfort his food caused and about that gas which formed so much and all that sort of thing—exaggerating more normal or trifling conditions into the most serious symptoms, as neuraesthesia does. So, there being nothing else left to do, we decided to operate.

By the way, I neglected to say that before we decided to do this operation the patient had for several weeks shown signs of mental depression, becoming quite unreasonably irritable and morose by spells and altogether causing us a great deal of annoyance. The confirmed neuraesthesia will if not firmly managed.

Well, the operation disclosed a gallstone the size of a hen's egg and a badly affected gallbladder.

You never can tell what you will find in a neuraesthetic if you go into the subject thoroughly.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Incipient Cancer.
I am a woman 64 years old. For years I have had a lump in my breast, which of late seems to be growing and it is rough and annova me by itching and becoming sore. My doctor once said he would cut it off were it for my age. What would you advise—should I apply that corn plaster of your readers found so effective in the case of my breast?

Ans.—By all means have the wart excised without further delay. Do not experiment with any external application. Such a thing is likely to become a skin cancer (epithelioma). After removal, perhaps a few months of treatment to prevent possible recurrence, if it proves to be cancer.

THE MARRIAGE OF ANNE

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

LXXV.—"Keep a Firm Hand."
Margery and my bridegroom had gone for a walk together, leaving me alone.

Oh, well, I wasn't going to mope! For moping wouldn't mend the situation. Some of Julie's sayings came back to me. "One must exert oneself in order to keep a husband by one's side, these days."

There are lots of husband-snatchers going round, seeking whom they may devour. A married woman must never loaf on the job of being attractive!

For the first time in my life I longed for Julie's company. The clever Frenchwoman would advise me wisely, speaking, against Margery. Her judgment was excellent.

I certainly had not shone today. Not only had I played badly on the golf course, but I had been a most awkward looking a rump!

My cheeks burned as I remembered the fiasco. Later on, by collapsing on the cliffs, I'd drawn little attention toward my insignificant self. But the victory had been gained. I had won the prize of the weakness of my physique, as contrasted with Margery's robust build.

"Tomorrow will be different," I assured myself, wondering if it wouldn't be worth my while to run up to town in the morning, and have a long chat with Julie.

I needed strengthening. And encouragement! Julie had urged me to this marriage. She would approve the step that I had taken. She would give me the best of advice.

Nevertheless, it was a very humble thing that I had done. I had married a millionaire! No doubt the old man would be very kind to me.

I retreated. I didn't want either of them. I perceived a group of five men round a table, playing poker. Fred Delaney was there.

A girl came running toward me. "So that's Fred's 'special business'!" she cried. "I saw him with a girl. He's a millionaire! No doubt the old man would be very kind to me."

St. Thomas Intermediates Open Here With Locals in First No. 8 Group Game Jan. 7

Schedule Meeting Yesterday Was Fully Attended—London Gets Home Dates On Fridays.

The schedule, Tillsburg at Ingersoll—January 6, St. Thomas at London—January 7, Tillsburg at Ingersoll—January 10, Tillsburg at London—January 11, Ingersoll at Tillsburg—January 17, London at St. Thomas—January 17, St. Thomas at Tillsburg—January 20, London at Ingersoll—January 21, London at Tillsburg—January 24, Ingersoll at London—January 28. The above schedule was drawn up yesterday afternoon at a meeting called by Conventer Jack Greer for Intermediate group No. 8.

The locals' three games are all in Friday nights, which gives them their own night at the club. The opening date of Tillsburg at Ingersoll is not a certainty, the Ingersoll representatives not being able to give a definite promise of rink accommodation that night. For the rest of the dates, however, the schedule goes. The London curlers have promised to do all in their power to assist the team in getting ice as early as possible, and claim that the ice will be put to work right away.

Manager Lee Walden is busy having the certificates filled in and is very enthusiastic over the prospects, and especially with the manner in which all the hockey fans in the city are assisting the club to whip matters into shape for the opening game.

Those present were: Jack Greer, Conventer; representatives, London, Lee Walden and George Arthur; Ingersoll, J. Maycock; Tillsburg, W. Legg; St. Thomas, not represented.

Fourteen Runs of Yankees Against Senators Last Year American Record For One Frame, But History Shows Some Equally Bad Games.

When the Yankees made 14 runs in the fifth inning against the Griffins on Tuesday, July 6, they set a new record for the American League, but before this a Washington team had had this number of tallies chalked up against it in one frame and a Washington team also had scored 14 runs in one inning. Cleveland was the club that had such a prosperous season against the combination representing the District of Columbia and Baltimore as gained by the Senators. The winners in each game flushed the same number of runs—20.

Probably the third inning, at Cleveland, on August 7, 1888, was the largest inning a Cleveland team ever had, but Tebeau & Co. making 14 runs then off Sullivan of Washington and winning the game with that number of runs to spare. Sullivan lasted all through the game, being touched up for 19 hits. Of the men who participated in this fracas there is only one mixed up in the present now. He is Arthur Irwin, who has just booked up as leader of the Hartford club. The "peerless slough" played short for Washington in the game of 21 years back, scoring two of his 15 hits, six runs and making one of its 15 hits.

He also committed one of 15 seven errors in the field. Washington turned the game over to the Senators in the fifth and in which Washington turned the

AMERICAN LEAGUE VOTES SUM TO PROSECUTE GAMBLING CHARGES

Ratify New Agreement With Changes in Inter-League Waiver Rule—Cleveland Gets Pennant.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—A sum of money, the amount of which was not disclosed, was voted today by the directors of the American League to be used in aiding the Cook County state attorney in prosecuting the players and gamblers indicted by the Chicago Grand Jury in connection with the 1919 world's series scandal. This was the official awarding of the 1920 pennant to Cleveland, and it was also the business before the directors, although their meeting lasted more than two hours.

The meeting of the league proper lasted more than four hours. While it was stated that the session was harmonious, significance is attached to the election of directors for the ensuing year from the fact that the only called insurgent clubs—New York, Chicago and Boston—again were denied representation on the board.

The directors chosen include the presidents of the St. Louis, Cleveland, Washington and Philadelphia Clubs, the only change being the substitution of Cleveland for Detroit. President Navin of the Detroit club was elected president of the league. President Johnson presided at both meetings.

Matters in which the American League concurred with the action taken by the National League include the ratification of the new major league agreement, fixing April 15 as the opening date for the 1921 season, and permitting the use of that form of delivery during the remainder of their careers, but to permit no new pitchers coming into the league to use the spit-ball. It was said there are now six spit-ball pitchers in the American League.

The club owners went on record as opposing the inter-league waiver rule, except rule a major league club which desires to send a player to a minor league must first secure waivers from the clubs of both major leagues, and a club refusing to waive on the player may claim his services for the league. This rule is changed, and clubs of one league would have to ask waivers of clubs in the same league. Clubs of one league would be subjected to claims from all major league clubs.

Ty Cobb did not get his appointment today as manager of the Detroit club, because he missed his train coming to Detroit. He is expected to arrive today, but it is not yet known whether he will be able to attend the meeting.

Inter-City Boxing Tournaments Should Be a Feasible Plan

Army and Navy Vets Likely To Initiate Idea After Game Is Properly Started Here.

Inter-city boxing tournaments are the subject of a report which is being made by the purely city affairs and this looks to be a perfectly feasible scheme. Interest in boxing is high in the United States, and it is being developed in a number of cities. The idea is to have a series of tournaments in which the best fighters from each city would compete. This would be a good way to promote boxing and to give the fighters a chance to show their skills. The idea is being considered by the Army and Navy Veterans, and it is likely to be initiated after the game is properly started here.

UNITED STATES TO HAVE IMMENSE SHIP TONNAGE IN 1922

Benson, of Shipping Board, Says Great Britain Alone To Exceed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—With completion of the government shipbuilding program by 1922, the United States probably will have as much ocean-going tonnage as all the other countries combined, with the exception of Great Britain, Chairman Benson of the shipping board declared in his annual report, made public today.

At the end of the fiscal year, the chairman said, American merchant ships, government and private owned, numbered 3,404, of 16,918,212 dead weight tons, not including more than 2,600,000 tons of shipping on the Great Lakes. The net program of government owned ships, Admiral Benson said, contemplated 2,316 vessels of 13,675,111 dead weight tons, and at the end of the fiscal year 2,076 ships aggregating 11,622,361 dead weight tons had been completed.

During the year 1,180 finished ships of 6,379,823 dead weight tons were delivered, exceeding all records. They were built without overtime or other aids to rapid production, Admiral Benson said.

"The shipyard worker of the United States has developed an expertness which has raised the efficiency of the shipbuilding industry to a high level," Admiral Benson said. "The industry has expanded its skilled mechanics to a force of 35,000 men available to the private shipyards, he added.

"The new replacement of the aims of the Emergency Fleet Corporation is therefore due to these men who have surpassed all previous performances in the shipbuilding of the world," he said.

American vessels are now sailing in 229 separate services. They carried 44.8 per cent of the nation's foreign commerce last year, as compared with 37.7 per cent before the war, the report said.

The government fleet in operation June 30 consisted of 1,234 steel vessels, including 508 to Northern Europe and 126 to Southern Europe. In the transport service there were 163 vessels, and in the South American line.

Forty-one direct service lines have been established to South and Central America from nine ports on the Atlantic coast, four on the Gulf and two on the

19 Rinks Spring Into Being For Thistles Industrial League Formed Last Night

Enthusiasm, Pep and Ginger Permeated Fast Moving Affair At North End Banquet Last Night.

The Industrial Curling League of the Thistles was launched last night, following a big banquet, with all the enthusiasm of a camp meeting, and the youthful circuit is backed during the coming season by half as much pep, ginger and good fellowship as was displayed during its launching. Its success is already assured.

It started creeping when the travelers started proceeding by putting in the first rink, it was doing the Australian crawl when W. H. Rhodes stuck in the "Fourth Estates," and it was a howling lusty babe two minutes after, with fifteen more entries, the close nineteen rinks were entered by sponsors who have taken upon themselves the task of assembling players from the different professions and trades they represent. The meeting enlarged the circuit to 24 rinks and the remainder will be entered shortly.

The banquet was a big success, and started things out in the right way. President Tom Benson presided and made a genial host. Vocal numbers were given by Jack Revere, and Messrs. Napp and Wright, accompanied by Mr. Leithbridge. Throughout Alfred Tibbs' five-piece orchestra jazzed up the proceedings. Fast President Benson Taylor and R. D. McDonald took occasion before the tables were cleared for action to eulogize the work of the youth and formulate plans for the organization of the Industrial League.

Once the meeting got down to business there was little time lost. In one sweep the membership committee were made executive of the Industrial League, and the members of the league were explained by T. C. Margaret and Cy Edy. President T. C. Margaret heads the new league, with Leithbridge as secretary.

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

To those convalescing from a serious illness, or those who need a change of scene, rest and recuperation, there is not a more attractive and satisfying place to go than Algonquin Park. A prominent guest at the Highland Inn, who recently underwent a serious operation, and who is enjoying the pleasures of the world, writes as follows: "Amongst all the attractions here I feel like a boy when school is let out, and who does not have to come home until supper time. All worries have slipped from my shoulders and I am enjoying myself as I never did before. The crisp air and the musical scurrying of the snow under one's feet makes one's steps light and face to glow with color. Yesterday a deer leaped across my path not ten feet from me, and he who had never seen a deer in action, it was as if I had inherited a fortune. A squirrel surveyed me with blinking eyes as it poised on a tree stump. A move of my arm and away it went. And then back to the hotel to a roaring fire and a hearty meal. This is life and till one samples it he is just existing."

Apply to any Agent, Grand Trunk Railway System or write N. T. Clarke, Manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, Ont., for illustrated descriptive booklet telling you all about this wonderful territory. Dec. 15, 1920.

JESS WILLARD IS ANXIOUS TO REGAIN CHAMPION'S TITLE

Making Preparations for Bout With Dempsey.

Kansas City, Dec. 17.—Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, expects to train intensively three months in preparation for his bout to regain the title from Jack Dempsey in New York on March 27, according to a statement made here by Ray Archer, his manager.

Archer came to Kansas City from Lawrence, Kas., the home of the former champion, to confer with Hugh Walker, a heavyweight, concerning the employment of Walker as one of Willard's sparring partners. Walker will meet Capt. Bob Roper, heavyweight, in a bout here December 30. According to Archer, Willard has already begun to train, although his work is somewhat handicapped because his home is quarantined on account of illness in his family. Archer said Willard expects to have several sparring partners, and that he would make every effort to obtain well-known fighters. Discussing the coming bout with Dempsey, Archer said: "Willard is not thinking about money. He wants to prove to the public that he was not himself at Toledo."

BURNS WATER--- SAVES COAL!

THE HUMIDIFIER does just that. It equalizes the temperature of your home—adds the necessary humidity to the atmosphere, and utilizes the waste heat that now escapes up the flue.

HUMIDITY is the most modern discovery for the solving of home heating problems. It stops the drying up of the body by dry heat, and keeps people more comfortable at a lower temperature.

EVERY TEXTILE MILL, flour mill, cigar factory, etc., has an appliance to humidify its plant—the manufacturer cannot afford to have his building and material dried out,—neither can you afford to have your body dried out and left prey to disease and suffering.

THE HUMIDIFIER is a simple appliance for the home. It can be installed in connection with hot-air furnaces, steam boilers, hot water furnaces, etc.

COME AND SEE the Humidifier demonstrated at our new offices. Write for free booklet, "A Healthy Body and How to Have It," containing a full description of the Humidifier, and recommendations from local medical men and citizens who have had the Humidifier installed in their homes.

GEORGE MELFORD'S PARAMOUNT PICTURE, "BEHOLD MY WIFE,"

AT THE GRAND TWICE TODAY, 2:15 AND 7:30.

One of those rare photoplays that you recognize instantly as far out of the ordinary is "Behold My Wife," which has been delighting capacity audiences at the Grand all this week, and which will be seen for the last two performances today at 2:15 and 7:30.

The picture was adapted from a great novel of the Canadian Northwest by Sir Gilbert Parker. Such prominent players as Elliott Dexter, Mabel Julienne Scott, Milton Sills and Ann Forster are in the cast. The picture is a Paramount and undoubtedly the big picture of the current season.

A wonder scenic and musical prologue, under the personal direction of A. D. Jordan, precedes the showing of the big attraction and has proven one of the biggest features of the entertainment during the week. Local singing acts are making a big hit in their native Indian costumes and Indian settings. The stage work and effects are of the ordinary and reflect the excellent work of Manager Minniknick and A. D. Jordan.

Harold Lloyd in "Get Out and Get Under."

spectacular scenic prologue with four live prancing snow-white Arabian horses in a mad race across the stage precedes the screening of this marvelous photoplay.

One of the dancing girls in the master production, "Madonnas and Men," which will be seen at the Grand all next week before going to New York to open at $2.00 prices. The master of a masterpiece. The picture that took Detroit and Toronto by storm. Don't miss it.

"Madonnas and Men," the Barnum and Bailey of All Picture Presentations at the Grand All Next Week

Combining For the First Time On Stage and Screen All in One Colossal Entertainment, the Spectacular Features of a Circus and Hippodrome, the Novelty of Vaudeville, the Heart Interest of Drama, and the Art of Motion Pictures.

The management of the Grand Opera House is to be congratulated in securing for a week's run the newest sensation in the picture field. It is the big spectacular production which has been so much talked of late, "Madonnas and Men."

This production has the reputation of being the most important thing ever done on stage and screen combined. Not only does it carry a company of real, bona fide actors, dancers, slave girls, horses, tons of stage effects, etc., but it travels in a special car, and the enormous expense attached to the presentation of same eclipses anything heretofore ever attempted in motion pictures.

As is usual in theatricals of importance, the picture was given the first tryout in Detroit before opening in New York four weeks ago, and so spontaneous was its success, it was immediately pronounced one of the biggest things ever accomplished in the cinema field. More than 80,000 people packed the Madison Theatre to see it. On its way back to New York, where the feature will be given a run at $2 prices, it showed in Toronto. Its Detroit success was again repeated, and by popular demand was held over for the second week. It was during the Toronto engagement that overtures were made by the Grand management to have "Madonnas and Men" stop in London a week, as it would not be much out of their way toward New York, and this was accomplished at a great expense, as certain liberal guarantees were necessary to interest the owners of this latest sensation, who realize they have a tremendous feature in hand when New York sets its stamp of approval on it.

The picture is preceded by a prologue, scenes of which are laid in one of the courts of Rome. Actors, portraying Roman princes, generals, guards, gladiators, etc., surrounded by beautiful slave girls, lend enchantment to very picturesque situations. "Capange," a famous Hawaiian beauty, in daring costumes, and more daring dances, appears personally, surrounded by the luxurious Roman beauties, in costumes just as daring, and many we say, luring as "Capange." But the great climax of all is the chariot race—four snow-white, Arabian steeds are driven across the stage by dare-devil drivers in an actual race that beggars description. Lashed to the limit, both man and beast strive to win the race. The horses are driven at break-neck speed, and no race ever seen at any race track could surpass it in genuine interest and excitement. The stupendous story of "Madonnas and Men" is acclaimed everywhere as the photo-dramatic production of the age, is most startling in story, pretentious in production and astounding in action.

Through the picture runs a story so realistic, so absorbingly thrilling, that it simply carries the beholder away. Life as it now is and as it was is depicted on the screen. Across the stage at the Grand will flash four dashing white horses drawing chariots in the most breath-taking race ever run upon any stage. These are all alive, real breathing beasts! The famous races of history are shown with startling life-likeness in this stupendous spectacle that forms the prologue to this massive, masterful, majestic picture that has taken the drama-loving audiences of Detroit and Toronto by storm.

The prologue depicts the orgies of a Roman holiday in the Coliseum, when the emperor and his attendants make merry at the sight of dying gladiators and Christian maidens thrown to the lions.

The story is of the excesses of night life in New York, where men and women seek diversion among the roof gardens and the midnight cabarets.

Those qualities that marked the days of decadent Rome are found among the frequenters of lobster palaces, and a stupendous story ends with a climax extraordinary.

Wonderful Story Retold.

"Madonnas and Men" are in evidence at the Roman Coliseum when Emperor Turnus sits with his son Gordian, his soothsayer Grimaldo, and Nemesis, his favorite dancer, watching a sacrifice of human lives made to satisfy his brutal passions.

When the young Christian girl is brought in to be eaten alive by lions, Grimaldo holds up the spectacle while he tells Gordian a story of the future which may be prophetic of his own. The story is of a modern emperor of finance who attempts the sacrifice of just such a young girl to satisfy a low desire for revenge on her mother. In it the same characters are reincarnated, because the younger man is led by his manliness to put a stop to the plan of his father. It is a highly dramatic story, ending in a convulsion of rage which destroys the brutal example of ruthless power, crowning the son in his stead.

The young prince is entertained by the story from time to time, but he is only impressed with its possible truth of his own tacit recognition that it is "better to defy all Rome than to dishonor womanhood." He knows that there will be a matinee every day at 2:15 and the night performances start as usual at 8:15.

In its women. His imagination is kindled by the prophecy of a super-race which shall rise afar, with magic cities and great wealth, because of honor paid to women. His better nature thus aroused, he springs into the arena to save the Christian girl. His father, the emperor, is convulsed with rage. He orders his guard to kill his own son. He dies before they can do so. The son becomes emperor and saves both the girl and the fair name of his race by his manly defence of pure and exalted womanhood.

The engagement is for one week, beginning Monday matinee, December 20. There will be a matinee every day at 2:15 and the night performances start as usual at 8:15.

LATIN AND HAWAIIAN SPIRIT IN CAPAGNE

Danceuse With "Madonnas and Iven" Has Technique
and Fire.

Capagne, the dancer who will create a profound sensation by her performance at the Grand Opera House next week, comes of French and Hawaiian parentage, contrary to the general impression that she is Egyptian. In the prologue of the big cinema spectacle, "Madonnas and Men," Capagne displays her art in an Oriental dance that compares most favorably with any artist ever seen in London.

Born in Paris, Capagne, at an early age, was taken by her parents to her mother's native land, Hawaii, where she was given an early education in Honolulu. It was there that she showed her adeptness for dancing, picking up the native dances which for rhythm and grace are known all over the world. She was then sent back to Paris to finish her education, but the love of dancing had instilled itself in her warm Latin and Hawaiian blood, and she joined the French ballet at the Grand Opera House. It was during her first season that Signor Copatie, the famous dancing instructor, saw great possibilities in her future, and the result of his careful tuition is the Capagne of today. An artist to her fingertips, her interpretation of the daring, Oriental dances are brilliantly and faithfully illustrated, a feat that must be admitted rather hard to accomplish in this day of reformers. Capagne devoted herself to the entertainment of the soldiers of the various camps almost exclusively during the war, and in the various "drives" for funds to take care of the soldiers. It is only within the last few months she has turned her undivided attention to her future and her art.

"Capagne" must take a dare-devil ride at each performance. After her dance she is kidnapped by a gladiator, and thrown into a waiting chariot, hitched to stamping, clamping, fiery Arabian steeds. They're off. Along comes the prince in his royal chariot in pursuit. It is then the race takes on its most exciting aspect. Capagne galloping as fast as she can go, their drivers driving them to the limit, chariots swaying and careering in a dangerous manner. Then the rescue! Capagne herself says: "believe me, it's some ride! While I like it, and it is a most exhilarating experience while it lasts, still I'm always glad when I find my feet on solid ground again."

An incident occurred in Toronto which was not given out for publication, which shows the hazard of the ride. Capagne must take at each performance, during one of the races, "Highball," one of the horses, threw a shoe. It sailed by Capagne's head with speed of a bullet, leaving a hole a yard square. Capagne, very lady-like, promptly faint-ed, but who could blame her? She finished the race in the arms of her driver, unconscious!

Possibly that particular driver would like this same particular accident to happen every night—minus the casting of the shoe—but there romance is romance, and many an old shoe has been cast at a bride who knows?

"Behold My Wife," from "The Translation of the Savage," by Sir Gilbert Parker. Added Attraction—Wonder scenic and musical prologue under personal direction of A. D. Jordan. Pretty girls, novel Indian songs and music, special scenic and lighting effects. Special Attraction—Harold Lloyd, screenom's funniest of funmakers, in his latest million-dollar scream, "Get Out and Get Under," a rollicking comedy all to do about a pesky "Ford." It's a knockout!

ALL NEXT WEEK—Matinees at 2:15, evenings at 8:15—The master picture you've been waiting for! The Barnum and Bailey of all so-called super features, "Madonnas and Men," an absolute epoch in motion pictures that sinks to oblivion all efforts of any presentation before attempted on screen or stage. Combining for the first time on screen and stage in one colossal entertainment the spectacular features of circus and hippodrome, the novelty of vaudeville, the heart interest of drama, and the art of motion picture. Four white Arabian horses driven by live daredevil drivers at breakneck speed right on the Grand stage. The most pretentious prologue ever attempted. Put off all other engagements and see the "master of all masterpieces."

What the Press Agents Say About the Shows

AT ALLEN'S

GOLDWYN'S ALL-STAR SPECIAL, "MILESTONES," SHOWING AT THE ALLEN MONDAY, MARKS NEW EPOCH OF MOTION PICTURES.

Coming to the Allen Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be one of those unusual pictures which rank far above the ordinary in photoplay production, "Milestones," the all-star Goldwyn special.

"Milestones," as a play, was hailed by press and public as the most original contribution to the drama of the present theatrical decade. The picture, presented with scrupulous attention to detail and lavishment impossible to the stage, is going to register an even greater impression upon the photoplay public. The story of "Milestones" traces the family fortunes of the Rhoads and Sibbys through three generations, depicting the moods and manners of the different periods with indelible charm.

"Milestones" has romance, sweet as the odor of lilacs. It has humor, pathos, drama, and above all, it has a story that will appeal to all people, of all ages, and any taste. The story depicts the endless struggle of caste and ambition against the call of progressive youth and love.

The cast headed by Lewis Stone of "The River's End" fame, includes beautiful Alice Hollister, Gertrude Robinson, Mary Alden, Gerald Prince, Corcoran Kirkham and Lionel Belmore.

Among the extra attractions will be a beautiful Chester travel picture, Allen's Canadian news, Christie comedy, and the overture will be "Maritana," by Wallace.

"JUST OUT OF COLLEGE," ROMANTIC ALL-STAR COMEDY PRODUCTION FOR COLLEGE CELEBRATION, AT ALLEN NEXT THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

Clean, fast humor, swift-moving, sparkling fun, that is the proper way to describe Goldwyn's great comedy production, "Just Out of College," which is to be shown at the Allen next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Thursday night is the event of the great college celebration, when nearly every student in the city is to mark the close of school for the Christmas holidays by the biggest theatrical party ever held in this city.

The story is of young Ed. Swinger, who was told he must either win a fortune in twenty days or lose his chance to wed the ONE girl, and who found the key to the problem in a jar of pickles. The romance of how he tricked her crafty business pirate of a father is a laugh-classic and one of the best humorous stories that George Ade has ever written. Young Swinger used everything from an overland automobile race to pony blimp balloons to put over his advertising campaign, and finished by receiving a check from old Pickering, who was forced to buy this energetic young opposition trade out. It was his own pickles under a new label which young Swinger was advertising at just double the price.

The big special Christie comedy, which has been held for the Christmas program, will be "A Seaside Siren," with all of Christie's famous beach

"CIVILIAN CLOTHES," THE BIG NEW YORK COMEDY DRAMA SUCCESS, WILL BE THE BIG CHRISTMAS OFFERING AT THE MAJESTIC.

After weeks of negotiating with the big New York interests, Director Grew, of the Majestic Players, has secured for London permission to offer as the big Christmas week bill the only New York success, "Civilian Clothes." As the original New York company leaves New York after a run of over a year and a half to open in London, England, Director Grew has been able to bring the piece here, and London will be the only city in Canada to enjoy this greatest of successes this season.

The play will afford each and every member of the company wonderful opportunity to display their respective talents and the charming little "red-head," Miss Gwen-Edine Pates, will again take up the role of lead, with George V. Dill in a most capable role in support. The other members of the company have most excellent roles, and next week should be a banner week at the favorite Majestic.

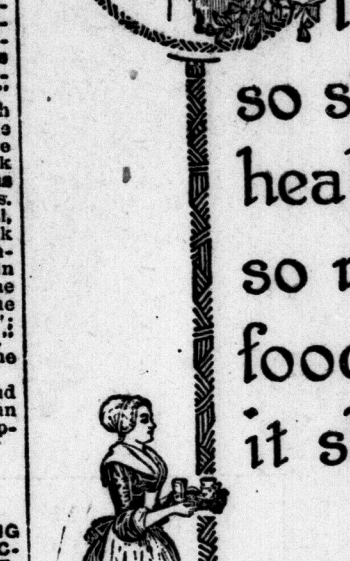

The plot of the play, and there is one, and a good one too, surrounds the marrying of "tommy" by a charming little lady, who, enamored with the appearance of her "sweetheart," in his uniform immediately falls for the "tinkling" of the cathedral bells, and the happy bride sits at home with dreams of her here at the front, fighting the battle of freedom. But when he makes his return in civilian clothes to his waiting bride, leaves her with a different impression in the matter of heroes, he looks like a traveling hobo in a suit too large for him and then the fun starts, and to help things along, three other admirers, not knowing of the charming wife's marriage to our hero, make love to her and try to win her hand in marriage, and our hero is compelled to engage as a butler in my lady's household, and to enjoy the distressing dilemma of seeing his wife being wooed by three other men.

"Sweetie" make love to his own little wife. The play is replete with comedy lines and the drama is the real enjoyable sort, that helps to round out a most fascinating play. Patrons will undoubtedly enjoy next week's offering as the big entertainment of the season, and those who are desirous of securing seats for next week should make known their wants as early as possible. Seats can be reserved one week in advance.

FAMOUS NOVEL IS PICTORIZED FOR ELSIE FERGUSON, MRS. HUMPHREY WARD'S GREAT STORY "LADY ROSE'S DAUGHTER," STARS' VEHICLE.

Elsie Ferguson's latest, appealing Paramount picture, "Lady Rose's Daughter," which will be shown at Loew's Theatre for three days, beginning next Monday, is a superb pictorialization of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's celebrated novel of the same name which scored a world success several years ago.

The story, which is regarded as one of the best ever written by Mrs. Ward, was first published as a serial in Harper's Magazine, and later it appeared in book form. It was dramatized by George Fleming and produced in London. Under the management of Charles Frohman, "Lady Rose's Daughter" was presented with enormous success at the Empire Theatre in New York, with Fay Davis in the title role.

The heroine of the story is Julie Le Breton, an orphan girl, who is born out of wedlock. Her misfortune is continually thrown into her face and she has an interesting love affair. The story treats of heredity in an entertaining manner and in its development, Elsie Ferguson plays three roles, those of the grandmother, mother and daughter.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY FOR BORDER POLICE

Chief Thompson Will Put New Schedule Into Effect Shortly.

WINDSOR, Dec. 17.—Declaring that eight hours daily is not enough for anyone to work, and particularly police officers, if efficiency is expected, Chief Daniel Thompson, who assumes the duties here as head of the local department, declared today his intention of instituting an eight-hour day for members of the local force as soon as possible.

Two Windsor men are held by the Detroit police, charged with obtaining money under false pretences. They are Earl McKee, aged 22, 145 Tecumseh road, and Louis O'Brien, aged 18, 466 Goyeau street. Clifford Curtis, 18 years old, 710 Lyster avenue, Detroit, is held on a similar charge.

According to Detective Yank and Whitman, the Western Union Telegraph Company was misled of about $600 by means of forged telegraph money orders. Curtis, who is a telegraph company employee, is alleged to have sent out the code messages calling for payments of $150 each. O'Brien and McKee, the two Windsor boys, it is stated, went to the cities upon which the fraudulent money orders were drawn and succeeded in collecting the cash.

DOES DISEASE CAUSE GERMS?

A university student who likes to think for himself asks how we can prove that germs cause disease—how do we know that disease does not cause germs? He admits that in a given disease, say typhoid fever, we may always find a certain kind of germ which we call the typhoid bacillus; but he claims that we have no right to say that therefore the typhoid bacillus causes the disease. He points out that in bacteria we may find pus, but we do not therefore infer the pus causes boils. Rather we say that the boil causes the pus. If a boil causes pus, which is made up of little living and dead particles, why cannot it cause also other little living and dead particles of a different kind, which we call germs?

NEVER INVESTIGATED.

This question has been asked many times in years gone by. Twenty years ago the contention that germs were, like pus, merely by-products of disease, and not the cause of the disease at all, was maintained by a famous Harvard professor very emphatically. However, he had never investigated for himself, or he would have found some very difficult points to meet, if he wanted to prove his position.

He would find, for instance, that the very first disease germ detected by discovered was the germ of anthrax, a rather big one as germs go, some of them as much as five-thousandths of an inch long. In all cases of anthrax, in cattle or sheep or man, the germ was yet to be discovered; and that when the disease developed it had as one of its peculiarities the ability to generate in the blood of the animal a particular sort of pus or similar substance which we mistake for an independent living thing, and call a germ. But we can go beyond the mere finding of the germ in the animal that has anthrax. We can remove a little of the blood to a tube of heat broth or a tube of milk, and carefully sterilized first, of course. We keep the heat broth or milk or potato at body heat for 24 hours or so, and then we find the heat broth quite milky in appearance, whereas before it was quite clear. On examining a drop of this new cloudy liquid under the microscope, we find it teeming with germs just like the animal itself has disappeared—disappeared, of course, by the broth into which we put it; the pus, if there were any, is gone—also broken down and destroyed.

FIND SAME THING.

If we examine the milk we find the same thing. The potato shows on its surface a thick creamy smear quite visible to the naked eye; and on placing a little of it under the microscope we find that it also is composed of millions and millions of the same germ. The pus and blood we put on the surface of the potato at the same time, the night before, is gone, or represented by a few broken-down cells, mere debris.

But, says our Harvard professor, "What does that prove, except that the disease produced something—call it germs if you like—that will grow apart from the body? It does not prove that the germ caused the disease."

All right. Let us now take a tiny speck of that growth from the potato, or a tiny drop of the milk or the broth, and with a hypodermic needle put it under the skin of a cow or a sheep or a guinea-pig. In a very short time the animal becomes sick, and develops all the symptoms that the sick animal shows. The animal who suffered from the presence of anthrax against his animal will die. No need, in the countries of Europe or South America, to make this disease prevalent, to call a veterinarian to make a diagnosis. With thousands of cases of cattle and sheep dying at a time, everyone who has to do with them recognizes what is wrong very promptly.

Well, we have now produced the disease in a healthy animal by using the germ. How is that for proof? "No," says the Harvard professor, "what you really did was to transfer to your brood your milk, or potato the germ—true enough—but also some pus or blood, and that contained not only the germ, which is a mere by-product of the disease, not only the blood cells and pus cells, which died and broke up in the broth or milk or potato—it contained the real cause of poison, the disease germ. When the germ grew and you removed some of it to a healthy animal, you removed also some of that other disease-producing substance as well; very little, truly, but enough to produce the disease."

All right. Instead of putting some of the potato or milk or blood into a cow or a sheep, let us merely transfer a tiny speck of the growth to another potato. Let us note just where we touched the potato with our pin-point transfer needle. Next day we have a growth from that pin-point as big as a five-cent piece—perhaps as big as a quarter in three or four days. Let us take a tiny speck from the very edge of this, as far from where the growth began as possible, and put it on another potato. When that has grown as big as a quarter, take from the edge again to another potato, and so on and on, a hundred times if you like. Surely by this time we must have lost in the shuffling the other mysterious disease-breeding thing that the Harvard professor thought was there in the original potato. Surely so—yet when we take a speck of growth from the last of the 100 potatoes, and put it into a cow or sheep or a guinea-pig, there comes the same old attack of anthrax—the animal sickens and dies just the same as ever.

DO YOU TRY PARADOX?

Do you follow all this? Let us try a parable. Suppose a savage, who knew nothing of rifles or shotguns, going through the forest one day, was deeply wounded by a stray bullet from a far-off woodsman. The wound inflamed and the savage died. His friends examine this strange disease. They decide that it is a new kind—one that produces a hard conical lump in the hole it makes, as well as pus and blood. They think the bullet hole causes the lump. Some one of them, however, takes the bullet and inserts it into a cow's leg, producing a similar hole, and pus and blood. But his friends argue that that does not prove the bullet made the lump, for all it proves is that something that was associated with the bullet did it, not the bullet itself; something that the investigative savage took over without noticing it from the original wound, with the bullet, when he extracted it. But, not to be beaten, the investigative savage makes some new bullets, that have never been near the dead man, and produces similar bullet holes with those. Then what will his friends say?

PROVES NOTHING.

Do you know what our friends say when confronted with the proof given above that germs cause disease? They say, "That proves nothing. You made up your mind that the germ you have grown is the cause; you then, with your mind fully set on this, put the germ into an animal, and your mind conveys the disease to develop." Isn't that simple?

If anyone could do that has a balky horse to deal with, he ought to be able to "set his mind" hard enough to get the horse to go. Surely if he can produce disease in willing it, he ought to be able to merely start a balky horse without any other help.

Intelligent and educated people approve of the above, and say, "That is a disease. Yet how about a bullet wound? Does a man get killed by a bullet merely because the man who fired the bullet 'willed' it to kill him?"

Next week I will try to show how this "argument" is met.

Apathy at Ottawa Is Preventing Passage of Advanced Legislation

"Law comes to the aid of those who are awake, and not of those who sleep." The old Roman maxim applies with singular force to the position today in labor legislation in Canada. Laws passed by the Dominion Parliament since the war reveal the hand of a small, vigilant group, active in preventing any suggestion of a retrogressive legislation, always first in data, and argument to uphold their view. While openly in favor of the labor principles laid down in the treaty of Versailles—principles which received the approval not only of Canadian plenipotentiaries at the peace conference, but the approval of the Dominion Parliament itself—they are in reality no means friendly to those principles being given the effect of law throughout the Dominion. The activities of the group go further. They are evident in post-war legislation, reactionary in its terms, and highly dangerous to organized labor in the indifference of its provisions.

Parliamentary records of nearly all the Allied and neutral countries since the war show a wealth of advanced labor laws, offset here and there by a reactionary measure devised in time of intense depression. Since the armistice, the Dominion Parliament has passed a certain amount of labor legislation, but none of it could be any stretch of imagination be called highly progressive. It consists in the main of more or less technical amendments to existing statutes. But there were two acts passed at a time in hurry, in the Winnipeg strike, which, in the interests not only of organized labor, but of the community at large, should be revised with the least possible delay. In both of them the reactionary bias was obvious. One was an amendment of the Immigration act; the other amended the Criminal code in regard to unlawful association.

In 20 Minutes. The Immigration act amendment went through both houses almost without comment, and within the space of about 20 minutes. It greatly widened the powers of deportation authorities. Aimed at the Winnipeg strike leaders, it authorizes deportation for offences stated in the amendment as soon as first time, but committed years, perhaps, before the act was passed. The amendment to the Criminal code also passed without strenuous opposition. Among its provisions there is one declaring as unlawful an association "whose professed purpose or one of whose purposes is to bring about any governmental or economic change without lawful association."

COLLEGIATE QUESTION BROUGHT TO MEETING OF WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Presentation To City of London by Mrs. W. Cummings of Toronto.

No definite action in regard to municipal affairs was taken at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Local Council of Women held in Cronyn Hall, although there was discussion on both the collegiate institute question and on the matter of how best to get women voters out on election day. Mrs. Donald McLean and Mrs. John I. A. Hunt, women candidates for the school board, were at the meeting, which added to its interest.

Mrs. McLean declared that she had nothing in the way of a platform to declare, maintaining that she was for giving the public what they wanted so far as the collegiate institute was concerned, and that she had not yet been able to discern just what they did want.

Good suggestion.
"I think that the mothers' club suggestion that the first building of a three-unit school be erected on the old Collegiate Institute location is a very good one. But I know this much, that

If but one 16-room school is to be built it will not accommodate the present collegiate pupils, even the much larger old school would not do that. Even had the old school not been destroyed by fire the board was contemplating building another branch school in South London, and was being forced to do so by the crowded condition of the central building. It doesn't seem to me that one 16-room school is going to help the situation very much, no matter where it is built. As far as I can see, the collegiate institute question is one for the ratepayers of the city to discuss from every angle. It is not a question for women alone, or men alone. It is a question for both men and women to think about. And I believe that it should be brought to a public meeting, where every side of the question may be voiced and where opposite opinions would be spoken, face to face. This alone will clear up the situation, to my mind.

Mrs. Hunt spoke strongly in support of the central school idea, with branch schools later when possible. Mrs. Winnett of the Aberdeen School also spoke in favor of the central school. "Why the present collegiate institute site is nearer to the outskirts of the city than the present school," she said, "and the collegiate institute is moved north to Huron street, it will be in the east and south, who would otherwise go to the high school, will not be able to do so. Parents will not be forced to pay for their children's lunch at the school cafeteria will have to keep their children at home."

"It is a fact that from 50 to 60 per cent of the high school pupils now attending the collegiate institute are from the south and east of the old collegiate. Why then should it be taken away north?"

The meeting voiced its intention to support the women candidates for the school board.

Mrs. Boomer.
"We do not need to say we will support you," declared Mrs. H. A. Boomer, who was present. "Because the Local Council of Women has been standing for women on the school board from the very beginning. I was on the board once myself, and I think I must have been pretty tough to stay there three whole years, when every man on the board wanted to take me away. They gave me one month and I stuck for three years."

The question of getting the women out on election day was brought up by Mrs. E. B. Smith, who was in the chair. And an appeal was made for women who were willing to get out with their boards on January 1 to take women to the polls. Mrs. Smith also made an appeal for the support of the women for the $50,000 grant toward the Children's Hospital, and Miss Margaret McDonald of the Women's Christian Association, asked for their support of the $50,000 grant towards the Home for Incurables.

Historical Document.
Mrs. H. A. Boomer brought an interesting matter before the meeting, concerning the presentation to London of an historical pen and ink plan of the London Ordnance Property. This plan was found by Mrs. Willoughby Cummings of Toronto, among some old papers belonging to her uncle, who was at one time in the Royal Engineers. Thinking that it might be of historical value to the city of London, she forwarded it to Mrs. Boomer, asking her to have the Local Council of Women present the plan to the public library. It is the intention of the Local Council to have the plan framed and then presented to the public library.

Report of National.
Mrs. John Rose gave a most comprehensive report of the national executive meeting held in Peterboro recently, referring to the affiliation of the W. C. T. U. with the National Council; the annual meeting of the Dominion Social Service Council, which is to be held in London in January, and to which ten Women's Council delegates have been appointed, including Mrs. E. B. Smith and Mrs. Rose of London; the council's encouragement of British films; their strong feeling against Hearst publications; their resolution asking for a clean and healthy marriage was granted; this resolution emanating from the London Council and drawn up by Dr. Hill; their petition that the manufacture of safety matches only be allowed; their request that prisoners be given employment and wages for the same; their resolution asking that the criminal law have only one standard for men and women and their request that the Government appoint Armistice Day as Thanksgiving Day.

Health Committee.
Mrs. Rose also reported on behalf of the health committee, which some time ago to deal with health conditions in the city. She mentioned the fact that the chamber of commerce had written to this committee to enquire if they considered that the election of the board of health by the people, although it might improve the personnel of the board, might not be judicious, seeing that this body sometimes performs unpleasant duties for the good of the people. Mrs. Rose also reported that the Mothers' Clubs had named Mrs. Partridge for the 1921 board of health, and would put her name before the incoming council.

MOTORCYCLE COP
NEEDED IN LONDON
EXECUTIVE BELIEVES

Ask Police Commission To Appoint One—Pipe Line Proposition Laid Over.

Because it was believed by the executive of the London Motor Club that with the rapid growth in the number of car owners in this city the police force needed assistance in the enforcement of the motor vehicles act, a resolution asking a motorcycle policeman to be appointed by the local police commission was passed at a meeting held Friday afternoon.

It was felt by the members of the executive that policemen on foot could not regulate motor-car traffic satisfactorily. The officers, they claimed, were at a disadvantage in dealing with speeders as they were forced to depend on their ability to take the number of a passing car before they could bring the offender to justice. Furthermore, because of the law recently passed requiring that after the first of the year all cars must use certain specified lens on their headlights, it was believed that there would be much extra work for the police force.

The proposed paving of the Pipe Line road came in for considerable informal discussion. No action was taken by the executive, however, as it considered that insufficient data had been received. As a body it voted to leave the matter until next year, when, it was thought, the new city council would have all the statistics and details needed. The members of the executive individually expressed the belief that the London Motor Club had done everything in its power to support the scheme.

RESOLUTIONS RE WORK TO GET ARMY BACKING

The local post of the Grand Army of United Veterans at its regular meeting last evening decided to co-operate with the Unemployed Returned Soldiers' Conference and the Great War Veterans' Association in indorsing any resolution that might be passed regarding the securing of work for the unemployed returned man. Arrangements for the furnishing of club permanent clubrooms above the Grand Opera House were discussed, and this work will commence at once. The regular weekly euchre drive will be held next Wednesday evening, instead of Tuesday evening, in the clubrooms, and at the conclusion of this, the drawing for the Christmas turkeys will take place.

Plans for the "Grand Old English Song" which will be held on the eve of December 31, were made and discussed. Next Thursday evening there will be a Christmas tree and entertainment for the members with their wives and children in the clubrooms. The financial report was very satisfactory.

MACDONALD'S CUT BRIER

MACDONALD'S "BRIER" has become a Canadian institution. Smoked by the men who made history. In the bush, on the trail, in mining camps, prospectors' huts, factory yards, on trains, steamships, in the luxurious homes and downtown clubs of our Canadian cities—Macdonald's has always been recognized as the smoke.

MACDONALD'S CUT "BRIER"—the same tobacco but in new form—maintains every Macdonald tradition since 1858, and gives to smokers—more tobacco for the money.

WANT BETTER LIGHT SYSTEM IN POULTRY BUILDING, RESOLVED

Impossible To See Fine Points
of Birds At Night, Say Exhibitors.

As the result of a letter appearing in The Advertiser criticizing the lighting system in the poultry building of the Western Fair, the London Poultry Association passed a resolution at a meeting held on Friday night, requesting the Western Fair board to install a new system of lights. The meeting was unanimous in the belief that the lighting could be greatly improved.

It was thought that the present lights should be lowered considerably, because they were too high to illuminate the interior of the lower coops properly. At night time it was almost impossible, they said, for a person to see the fine points of the birds on exhibition.

Although it was only nomination nights several members of the executive for the coming year were elected by acclamation. H. Lam was elected secretary-treasurer, and W. J. Slessor was elected superintendent. Mr. Slessor will be allowed to choose the assistant superintendent. W. J. Brown and A. J. Morgan were elected auditors by acclamation.

C. Moulton and W. Watts were nominated for the presidency. A. Holts and E. Smith were nominated first vice-president, and H. E. Butler and J. McCugan second vice-president. The election of these officers will be held at the next meeting.

Cup Re-entered.
The president of the association re-entered a cup put up by Dr. H. A. Stevenson, and which he had won in 1919. It will be awarded to the winners in both double and single-combed Rhode Island Red classes.

W. A. Green spoke to the members of the association on co-operation. Mr. Green took up a collection for the Santa Claus fund. The members of the association contributed $10.30.

WHAT IS MEANT BY HOME, SWEET HOME?

"Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home." That tune doesn't sound so well on somebody else's piano as it does on your own mouth-organ, and you don't get the same kick out of it if it is played in a rented domicile as when you're listening to its sweet strains played in your own home, sweet home. STEALING A SECRET OF STRONG MEN'S STRENGTH

Medical Science shows why Spinach and Carrots with organic iron often so surprisingly increase one's strength, vigor and endurance.

This big burly man lying on the floor OUGHT TO BE ASHAMED OF HIMSELF—but his blood is thin, pale and watery, and he suffers from the strength and endurance to "go up against" the little fellow. When there is a great deficiency of iron in the blood you often have shortness of breath or palpitation of the heart and you may THINK YOU HAVE HEART TROUBLE.

The reason for this is simple: THE IRON IN YOUR BLOOD TAKES THE OXYGEN from your lungs and carries it to every part of your body. WITHOUT IRON YOUR BLOOD CARRIES NO OXYGEN, and WITHOUT OXYGEN you may have shortness of breath; your heart flutters on some slight provocation, and sometimes there is a FEELING OF SUFFOCATION OR DIZZINESS, the same as if someone shut off your breath, so no wonder you lose so much of your bodily vigor, strength and endurance.

Scientific experiments have proven conclusively that a secret of the strength, POWER AND ENDURANCE OF ALL STRONG MEN, is an abundance of iron in the blood. Without iron your blood loses its power to change food into living tissue, and nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good; you do not get the full strength out of it.

PRIZE-FIGHTERS, WRESTLERS AND ATHLETES have learned the value of plenty of plain, coarse foods in their training, as such a diet helps supply their blood with iron.

THERE ARE 30,000,000,000,000 RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES IN YOUR BLOOD, AND EACH ONE MUST HAVE IRON.

Nature puts plenty of iron in the husks of grains and the skins and peels of vegetables and fruits to enrich your blood, but modern methods of cookery throw all these things away—hence the alarming increase in recent years in anaemia—iron starvation of the blood, with all its attendant ills. When you get up feeling tired in the morning when you find yourself nervous, irritable and easily upset, when you can no longer do your day's work without being all fagged out at night; when your digestion all goes wrong, or you have pains across the back, and your face looks pale and drawn, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, or until in your weakened condition you contract some serious disease, but consult your family physician and have him take a specimen of your blood and make a "blood-count" of your red blood corpuscles, or test the iron-power of your blood yourself by adding plenty of spinach, carrots, baked apples or other iron-containing fruits and vegetables to your daily food, and take organic iron with them for a while, and see how your condition improves.

Thousands of people have surprisingly increased their strength, energy and endurance in two weeks' time by this simple experiment. But in making this test be sure that the iron you take is organic iron, and not metallic iron or mineral iron, which people usually take. Organic iron is like the iron in your blood, and like the iron in spinach, carrots and apples, while metallic iron is from dust, as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic iron may be had from your druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron.

Concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating half a quart of spinach, or one quart of green vegetables. It is like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat. Always insist on having genuine organic iron—NUXATED IRON. If you are not feeling quite up to the mark telephone for a package today, in tablet form only. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. See also by all druggists.

SPECULATIVE ISSUES
FOR PRICE DEFLATING

Foreign Exchange Offers Only Interesting Feature—British Rate Highest in Months.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Speculative issues of the more vulnerable class were singled out for price deflating in the stock exchange today, their weakness being attended by developments which stimulated with increased force the prevailing reaction in trade and industry.

Foremost among these stocks were those comprising the sugar group, in which gross losses of 2 to 3 points were precipitated by the passing of the preferred and common dividends on Santa Cecilia, and a further decline in the price of the refined product.

Heavy losses accompanied the trading in copper, independent steel, excepting Crucible, and several of the oil, shoe, utilities and textiles, as well as miscellaneous shares of the type represented by Sears-Roebuck, rumor ascribing these and affiliated issues with prospective dividend revision or suspension.

The better class of rails and industrial including those in a strong financial position, moved within restricted limits, their uncertain trend resulting mainly from the lack of more than intermittent or tentative support.

Average prices were lowest in the final dealings on the relative firmness of call money, which ruled throughout the session at 7 per cent, as against the recent minimum of 6 per cent. This invited an extension of the short interest in steel, rails and oils, losses predominating at the irregular close.

The total sales of stocks amounted to 675,000 shares.

Foreign exchange offered the one interesting feature of the day, the British rate rising to highest quotations in almost three months on buying of sterling bills for the year-end adjustment of payments in London.

Rates to the continent, with few exceptions, were also firm to strong.

The re-investment demand for bonds fell away with consequent easing of prices for most domestic issues, including the Liberty group. The total sales of bonds, par value, aggregated $23,875,000.

Old United States Government bonds were unchanged on call.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Wheat export buying of both wheat and corn did a good deal today to show the value of all grain, and provisions as well. Wheat closed strong, 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 net higher. Corn, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 net higher. Oats, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 net higher. Provisions, 12 to 14.

The market for wheat was on the up-grade practically throughout the entire session. Foreign purchasing was said to total 2,000,000 bushels of wheat, in addition to 3,000,000 bushels of the previous day, and it was said that the market had alone taken recently 1,000,000 bushels of corn, with liberal sales of corn also to Holland.

The somewhat better exchange had moved up rapidly of late was likewise a bullish factor, and so, too, was knowledge of steps being taken in Washington, looking toward an emergency tariff on wheat and other agricultural products. Russia, it was given to dispatches saying the government of North Dakota had denied reports that he would request farmers to sell 25 per cent of their wheat. Government figures on the acreage and condition of the wheat crop were said to be about as expected, and so, made little impression.

The leading elevator interest had switched to the bull side helped to strengthen the corn market. The total sales of stocks amounted to 675,000 shares.

CONTROL OVER OTTAWA HOUSE FARMERS' HOPE

U. F. O. Convention Ends—Confidence in Drury Government Boundless.

War Veterans Official Says Soldiers With Agrarians in Fight.

TORONTO, Dec. 17.—The seventh annual convention of the U. F. O. came to a close this morning. Perhaps the most important result of the convention was the expression of confidence in the Drury Government.
