CRERAR IS TARGET OF ATTACK AT BANK PROBE

R. A. Reid, Counsel for Shareholders, Declares Westerner in Conspiracy.

CHARGES FRAME-UP

Lawyer Maintains the Former Progressive Leader Sold Out To Save Himself.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 20.—"The depositor of the Home Bank have no legal claim against the crown. It is for parliament to decide if they have any claim on moral grounds."

This was the conclusion of Eugene Lafleur, K.C., government counsel, who this morning argued his case before the House of Commons. Mr. Lafleur referred to the fact that the House of Commons had passed a bill indemnifying depositors of the Farmers' Bank, which had been refused by the senate.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 20.—An attack on Hon. T. A. Crerar, former administrator of the Progressive party and a director of the Home Bank from 1910 to 1918, featured this morning's session of the House of Commons. R. A. Reid, counsel for the shareholders, named Mr. Crerar as one of the "conspirators" in the history of the Home Bank, charged him with being a party to a scheme to defraud and fraudulent returns and claimed that, when Mr. Crerar found, from inside information, that the bank was in a serious danger, he had sold his stock and got out "when the getting was good."

"I think this is a cold, callous, heartless thing to do," Mr. Reid insisted, "and I think Western Canada will deal with Mr. Crerar when the time comes. An agriculturist is a man who works the land. Mr. Crerar is one in the true sense of the word because he certainly set out to work the farmer."

Reids Frame Up.

Mr. Reid, referring to a letter written by Mr. Crerar to M. J. Haney on April 8, 1918, in which reduction of capital and reserve of the bank was proposed, said: "Please see page 4, Column 1."

PRESIDENT OF C. N. R. COMMENDS LONDON.

Sir Henry Thornton, shown on the right above shaking hands with Charles Forrester, local C. N. R. divisional superintendent at noon today, stated he believed London's prestige as a railroad and commercial centre would warrant the construction of a new C. N. R. depot here in the not far distant future. He made no promise in this respect, however, and pointed out that no new stations could be built until more pressing questions had been disposed of.

LONDON UNION STATION NOT PRESENT PROBLEM CITY PLUMBERS ASK CLOSED SHOP

Refusal of Demand Caused Strike of Employees at One Firm.

A strike of journeymen plumbers took place in one large plumbing shop this morning and a walkout of all employees in two other shops was averted only through these two latter concerns acceding to the demands of the men for a wage rate of 40 cents an hour and a closed shop. Noble and Rich is the one shop affected.

The employees of the Wright-Teale Company and J. R. Haslett, along with the workers now on strike, had set latest they would accept a reply to their requests. The Wright-Teale and Haslett employees were accorded their demand and returned to work this morning, but those of the third concern are now on strike.

When asked this afternoon to comment on the situation, Thomas Rich of the affected firm stated he had nothing to say on the matter.

"Will the demands of the men be met today?" he was asked.

"We have nothing for publication," was the reply.

It is said the last-mentioned firm was willing to meet the request for the 90-cent-an-hour rate, but opposed the idea of a closed shop.

Vessel Breaks Canal Gates

Canadian Press Despatch. St. Catharines, May 20.—The steamer Glenora, owned by the Glen Transportation Company of Montreal, upbound, carried away two head gates of lock 11 of the Welland Canal this morning, holding up traffic for several hours. The steamer was not materially damaged.

DISTRICT FROST IS NOT SERIOUS

R. A. Finn Reports Little Damage Done to Any of Crops.

"Nothing to worry about last night," was the comment of R. A. Finn, superintendent of the London division of the C. N. R., in reference to the cool attentions of the weather man during the past 24 hours.

Mr. Finn stated that he had received no reports of any extensive damage to garden crops, such as tomatoes, beans and corn, and that so much moisture in the soil was an undoubted aid to plant life in warding off the eager attentions of Jack Frost.

Statistics compiled at the South London weather bureau show that today is the coldest May 20 in five years. A year ago today the thermometer was hovering at 51 degrees, while this morning it registered 34 in 1921 the mercury showed 63, and in 1920 55.

On May 10, last year, it was below freezing, the thermometer showing 25 degrees. Fruit buds were not far advanced at that time, and no damage was reported by the growers.

FOREST ESSAY COMPETITION WON BY BOY FROM RODNEY

Work of Walter A. Paterson Is Chosen by Judges as Winner.

EIGHT PRIZES

Will Be Forwarded to Ottawa to Compete for Dominion Title.

Fourteen-year-old Walter A. Paterson, son of J. D. Paterson of Rodney, and a pupil of the Rodney Continuation School, has been returned the winner in The Forest Essay Competition.

Out of a field of more than two hundred essays this was selected to send down to Ottawa.

Walter Paterson of Ottawa, where it will compete with the winning essays of the other cities in the Dominion.

The radio set offered by The Advertiser will be sent to Walter Paterson; the second prize of $25 to Bernard Radigan of Galt; the third prize of $10 to Olive McCallum of Tupperville, Ont., and the remaining five prizes of $5 each, which are "honorable mentions," will be sent to the following writers of essays who were next in the list of winners: Alice Moore, Thamesville; David Wenger, Goderich; Helen MacCall, St. Helmut; and Genevieve Smith, Continuation Class, Victoria.

VICTORIA PARK COURTS NOW IN EXCELLENT SHAPE

Most of the early spring work at Victoria Park has been completed, utilities officials say, and in a week or two summer planting will be under way. The tennis courts are now in fairly good shape, though it will be a few weeks yet before they will be in condition for real fast play.

Officials assert that the popularity of the park courts is greater than ever, even though it was found necessary to introduce an hourly rate for playing.

On May 10, last year, it was below freezing, the thermometer showing 25 degrees. Fruit buds were not far advanced at that time, and no damage was reported by the growers.

THREE RIVERS COUNCIL VOTES TO CHANGE TIME

WINE FIRM PARTNERS TAKE CASE INTO COURT

Mr. Justice Kelly Will Be Called On To Settle Dispute.

$3,000 IS CLAIMED

Farmer Enters Action Against Township of Adelaide Following Accident.

A total of sixteen cases have been set down for trial at the non-jury sittings of the supreme court, which open before Mr. Justice Kelly at the court house on June 26.

His lordship will be called upon to settle a partnership dispute in the wine manufacturing business carried on by Stefano Peirone and Sam Badalato.

Mr. Peirone, in his statement of claim, alleges he put $11,115.65 into the business on Sept. 22, 1922, the wine being manufactured on a farm on the Sarnia gravel road. In September, 1923, he claims, Mr. Badalato refused to give an accounting of the business, and therefore wants the partnership dissolved.

THE RAILWAY OFFER

Is $1,295,000 a fair price for the street railway?—Can the city afford to buy?—What will the alternatives mean?—School-boys on the city council.

The people of London, represented by the city council, are again facing the question of what to do about the street railway. It is required of each alderman that he examine the question in a businesslike way. Ignorance and prejudice which expresses itself in cheap wit will not satisfy the people whose money is involved, and who deserve an efficient intelligence in their representatives.

The price named by the London Street Railway Company as their lowest offer is $1,295,000.

This price is reckoned on and includes only the property owned by the company on January 1st of this year. Additions to property since that date, and copies ordered by the company but not yet in use at the time of purchase, would be added to the $1,295,000 valuation. The extent of this addition would depend on how long after January 1, 1924, purchase is made.

This property is offered to the city "free of encumbrances."

PURCHASING PROPERTY ONLY.

On this point it should be understood that the city is not attempting to buy the street railway company. What is being considered is only a purchase of the company's physical property. The company itself remains in existence and it will be responsible for current and accrued liabilities as well as retaining its assets. In this case liabilities exceed assets by approximately $100,000.

"Free of encumbrances" means that the city would purchase tracks, cars, buildings and other equipment with no responsibility for the company's debts.

The City of London in considering the purchase of the street railway is in much the same position as John Jones who contemplates buying an automobile.

John Jones would ask himself: Is the price fair? Can I afford it? What will happen if I don't buy?

THREE POINTS TO CONSIDER.

It appears necessary for the city to consider the same three points:

1. Is $1,295,000 a reasonable price for the railway?
2. Can the city afford to buy the railway at any price?
3. What will the alternatives mean?

The individual citizen is not a railway expert; neither is any member of the city council. An opinion on the fairness of the price must be reached by comparison with other valuations which have been made combined with the exercise of ordinary common sense.

The street railway says its property is worth $1,295,000 as it stood last January.

Four years ago, in December, 1919, the company said it was worth $1,721,911. Adding to this figure the new equipment bought in the four years, and subtracting the depreciation which the federal tax authorities have stated, one gets a price today on that estimate of $1,788,000. This is also reckoned only on property up to January 1, 1924.

Four years ago, on the same date, Sir Adam Beck's hydro engineers valued the railway at $1,356,036. Adding the same new equipment and subtracting the same depreciation as above, one gets a price today of $1,560,218, also reckoned on the January 1, 1924, basis.

In other words; the three prices, all brought to a common basis of January 1, 1924, compare as follows:

1. Street railway company's first estimate, $1,788,000.
2. Sir Adam Beck's hydro engineers' estimate, $1,560,218.
3. Street railway company's present price, $1,295,000.

The present price is lower than the railway company's first offer by $491,000 and lower than Beck's estimate by $265,000.

It is safe to conclude from these comparisons that $1,295,000 is the best offer the city has received; it is not yet safe to conclude that it is the best offer which can be received.

CAN CITY AFFORD TO BUY?

Can the city afford to buy? Much depends on the terms by which the deal could be handled. City Treasurer Bell has explained to The Advertiser that in the event of purchase the street railway would be expected to meet all the carrying and interest charges on the debt issue, so that the people would have no increased tax rate. If the road was for any reason unable to meet both its own operating expenses and the interest charges then either the fares would have to be raised or the tax rate increased.

In other words, it would be expected that the railway would pay for itself, the operating profits being applied to its purchase. If the operating profits were insufficient the citizens would be liable and they would have to make good either through higher fares or higher tax rate.

WHAT ARE THE ALTERNATIVES?

What are the alternatives? If the city does not buy the street railway company must continue its operation of the railway.

As things stand now this would mean a five-year extension of the present bylaw 916, with fares reduced to seven and nine tickets for 25 cents, dating from next March. The obvious plan of the company would be to operate as cheaply as possible, to make as few improvements as possible, or even, in extremity, to cease service.

An alternative would be a new agreement to replace bylaw 916, and this new agreement would require ratification by the provincial legislature, which, last session, passed the Beck bill reducing the present fare agreement.

The whole situation is anything but simple. It requires the thoughtful judgment of everyone interested and an avoidance of hasty conclusions.

The Advertiser ventures the hope that the city's aldermen will exercise in their inquiries a more judicious intelligence than the schoolboy performance they provided last night.

M'CRODAN'S CONDITION REPORTED MUCH WORSE

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 20.—Byron A. McCrodon, who was shot by a gamekeeper near Cobourg last Sunday while fishing on private property is reported to "much worse" this morning.

No hope is entertained for his recovery. His wife and mother are at his bedside.

FOREST FIRE SWEEPING ALONG THE CARROT RIVER

Canadian Press Despatch. Saskatoon, Sask., May 20.—A serious forest fire is raging in the Onasquis Forest Reserve according to word received here last night from The Pas, Man. The blaze stretches along the Carrot River for sixty miles, and Camps No. 1 and No. 2, the warehouses belonging to the Pas Lumber Company are threatened. Several forest rangers were sent from The Pas Sunday, and twenty men and fire fighting equipment were despatched yesterday.

MAJORITY OF COUNCIL FIND PRICE IS TOO HIGH

Sir Adam Beck Believes a Definite Statement Impossible.

ONLY CURRIE KNOWS

More Information on Equipment and Depreciation Is Urged.

Six of London's aldermen consider $1,295,000, the price submitted yesterday by the mayor as the purchase price of the London Street Railway "too high, four ask more information on the subject before expressing an opinion and one thinks it a fair and reasonable price."

Aldermen Douglass, Anderson, Drake, Hayden, Bottrill, and Shaw hold the "too high" opinions. Ald. Walsh, Towne, Warren, and Smith wish for more information as to the value of the road and Ald. Frank McKay believes the price submitted is a fair one. Ald. Greer, being out of town, could not be consulted.

Sir Adam Beck, London's member in Toronto, holds the opinion that it is out of the question to say anything definite about the price because there is no way of arriving at a correct valuation of the road and its assets.

"How can anyone say whether this is a satisfactory price or not?" he asked. "No one in the world except Mr. Currie knows the exact value of the road and he won't tell you. There never was a time when the railroad equipment was so highly valued in general and how can the council know either what the company has paid for its used cars or what its pressed value is. They can't. Then the depreciation on the London Street Railway has been exceptionally heavy in the past few years, and there is no accurate measurement of this in the letter the mayor has brought to the council. I don't see how the mayor or anyone else can say anything but that the price is a thing nobody knows."

TWO CHILDREN PERISH WHEN HOME IS BURNED

Roberval Lake Residence Is Scene of Early Morning Tragedy.

Canadian Press Despatch. Quebec, May 20.—Juliette Tremblay, aged eight, and Marie, five-year-old sister, are dead as the result of a fire which destroyed the house in which they lived at Roberval Lake, St. John County, Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. Tremblay and their eldest daughter, Josephine, with two other children, had great difficulty in escaping.

It is said that Josephine was pouring oil into a lamp in the upper part of the house when the fire broke out. She slipped from her hands, the oil communicating with a stove, and within a few seconds the house was ablaze. The children were asleep and were taken from their beds by Josephine. They slipped from her grasp and were enveloped by the flames. Their charred bodies were found later in the ruins.

The company contemplates the establishment of branches in Ottawa and Montreal.

Amelius Jarvis and his son are charged with conspiracy to defraud the Ontario government in connection with the sale of succession duty free bonds of the province.

Lawyer Maintains the Former Progressive Leader Sold Out To Save Himself.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 20.—The directors of the Home Bank have no legal claim against the crown. It is for parliament to decide if they have any claim on moral grounds.

This was the conclusion of Eugene Lafleur, K.C., government counsel, who this morning argued his case before the Home Bank commission. Mr. Lafleur referred to the fact that the House of Commons had passed a bill indemnifying depositors of the Farmers' Bank, which had been refused by the senate.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 20.—An attack on Hon. T. A. Crerar, former administrator of the Progressive party and a director of the Home Bank from 1910 to 1918, featured this morning's session of the Home Bank commission. R. A. Reid, counsel for the shareholders, named Mr. Crerar as one of the "conspirators" in the history of the Home Bank, charged him with being a party to issuance of false and fraudulent returns and claimed that, when Mr. Crerar found, from inside information, that the bank was in serious danger, he had sold his stock and got out "when the getting was good."

"I think this was a cold, callous, heartless thing to do," Mr. Reid insisted, "and I think Western Canada will deal with Mr. Crerar when the time comes. An agriculturalist, a man who works the farmer, Mr. Crerar is one in the true sense of the word because he certainly set out to work the farmer."

Charges Frame-Up. Mr. Reid, referring to a letter written by Mr. Crerar to M. J. Haney on April 8, 1918, in which reduction of capital and reserve of the bank was requested, said:

PRESIDENT OF C. N. R. COMMENDS LONDON.

Sir Henry Thornton, shown on the right above shaking hands with Charles Forrester, local C. N. R. divisional superintendent at noon today, stated he believed London's prestige as a railroad and commercial centre would warrant the construction of a new C. N. R. depot here in the not far distant future. He made no promise in this respect, however, and pointed out that no new stations could be built until more pressing questions had been disposed of.

LONDON UNION STATION NOT PRESENT PROBLEM

Sir Henry Thornton States Other Problems Must Come First.

CONDITIONS BETTER

Believes Gasoline Coaches Will Come Into Wide Use Soon.

Sir Henry Thornton, who passed through London at noon today, en route from Montreal to the world's motor transport congress in Detroit, at which he will speak tomorrow, in talking to The Advertiser sounded a decidedly optimistic note as to the immediate and future prospects of the Canadian National Railways.

"Conditions are better than they have been for some years," he said, "and there is every evidence of greater growth in store."

Sir Henry proved a "regular fellow" in every sense. In coming out of his special car to have his picture taken by an Advertiser camera man, he shook hands warmly with Charles Forrester, superintendent of the London C. N. R. division; Tom White, veteran trainman, whose work took him to Sir Henry's car, and the newspapermen who interviewed him.

"Sir Henry," asked The Advertiser reporter, "will London ever have a new station?"

Stations Must Wait. "There is every hope," replied the head of the great C. N. R. system as he watched the smoke curl upward from the end of the cigar he held in his hand. "But there are many more pressing things to be handled before we get in for an extensive program of depot construction."

"The station here, for instance, although it is hardly suitable for a city of the size of London, will, however, serve for the present, and when we get to it, London will not be neglected."

I know the Forest City is one of the most progressive of Canadian centers and, due to its strategic situation, the C. N. R. system, it certainly deserves no small degree of recognition.

In regard to the new gasoline motor-driven coaches now being tested out on branch lines of the road, Sir Henry stated he believed they would shortly come into wide use on the system.

More Economies. "These coaches," he explained, "enable us to give equally good service to the public, and show their cost and operation are less expensive than the use of steam cars solely. The road is able to cut down expense. They are a good thing for short runs."

At the World Motor Transport Congress in Detroit tomorrow, Sir Henry will explain the operation of these cars to railroad and motor officials from all over Canada and the United States.

From Detroit Sir Henry will return, possibly through London, to Buffalo and Rochester.

The president of the Canadian National lines was accompanied by his secretary, S. Hobbs, and W. H. Thompson, head of the C. N. R. publicity service.

SAMPLE CASE LOST. R. J. Wilson of the Grand Central Hotel, St. Thomas, reported to the local police last night the loss of a commercial traveller's suitcase off his motor car on Richmond street, containing aluminum samples. WINE FIRM PARTNERS TAKE CASE INTO COURT

Mr. Justice Kelly Will Be Called On To Settle Dispute.

$3,000 IS CLAIMED

Farmer Enters Action Against Township of Adelaide Following Accident.

A total of sixteen cases have been set down for trial at the non-jury sittings of the supreme court, which open before Mr. Justice Kelly at the court house on June 26.

His lordship will be called upon to settle a partnership dispute in the wine manufacturing business carried on by Stefano Peirone and Sam Badalato.

Mr. Peirone, in his statement of claim, alleges he put $11,115 into the business on Sept. 22, 1922, the wine being manufactured on a farm on the Santa gravel road. In September, 1923, he claims, Mr. Badalato refused to give an accounting of the business, and therefore wants the partnership dissolved.

In Charge of Factory. Mr. Badalato alleges the plaintiff was in charge of the wine factory, and that he removed goods and wares, the property of the defendant. Mr. Badalato further alleges the plaintiff was paid more than half the compensation agreed on. He counter-claims for an accounting between the parties and claims the plaintiff is indebted to him.

J. M. Donahue will appear for the plaintiff, and M. Elvey & Henderson for the defendant.

Henry Brown, a farmer of Adelaide Township, is suing the township for $3,000 damages as a result of an automobile accident on the night of Oct. 18 last, on the approach of the bridge over Mud Creek.

Claims $3,000. Mr. Brown claims he was driving his car about ten miles an hour when the steering gear was wrenched from his hands and the car went over a 30-foot embankment. The plaintiff received severe injuries to his head and neck, which have kept him from attending to his farm duties. He asks the court for $800 damages to his automobile, $400 for the loss of the use of the car, and $2,000 damages for personal injuries.

Adelaide Township denies any negligence, and claim the road at that spot was in good condition and not dangerous, and that the plaintiff, P. A. Gahan, Strathroy, for the plaintiff, and Elvey, Elliott & Gillanders for the defendant.

THE RAILWAY OFFER

Is $1,295,000 a fair price for the street railway?—Can the city afford to buy?—What will the alternatives mean?—School-boys on the city council.

The people of London, represented by the city council, are again facing the question of what to do about the street railway. It is required of each alderman that he examine the question in a businesslike way. Ignorance and prejudice which expresses itself in cheap wit will not satisfy the people whose money is involved, and who deserve an efficient intelligence in their representatives.

The price named by the London Street Railway Company as their lowest offer is $1,295,000.

This price is reckoned on and includes only the property owned by the company on January 1st of this year. Additions to property since that date, and supplies ordered by the company but not yet in use at the time of purchase, would be added to the $1,295,000 valuation. The extent of this addition would depend on how long after January 1st, 1924, purchase is made.

This property is offered to the city "free of encumbrances."

PURCHASING PROPERTY ONLY. On this point it should be understood that the city is not attempting to buy the street railway company. What is being considered is only a purchase of the company's physical property. The company itself remains in existence and it will be responsible for current and accrued liabilities as well as retaining its assets. In this case liabilities exceed assets by approximately $100,000.

"Free of encumbrances" means that the city would purchase tracks, cars, buildings and other equipment with no responsibility for the company's debts.

The city of London in considering the purchase of the street railway is in much the same position as John Jones who contemplates buying an automobile.

John Jones would ask himself: Is the price fair? Can I afford it? What will happen if I don't buy?

THREE POINTS TO CONSIDER. It appears necessary for the city to consider the same three points:

1. Is $1,295,000 a reasonable price for the railway?
2. Can the city afford to buy the railway at any price?
3. What will the alternatives mean?

The individual citizen is not a railway expert; neither is any member of the city council. An opinion on the fairness of the price must be reached by comparison with other valuations which have been made combined with the exercise of ordinary common sense.

The street railway says its property is worth $1,295,000 as it stood last January.

Four years ago, in December, 1919, the company said it was worth $1,721,911. Adding to this figure the new equipment bought in the four years, and subtracting the depreciation which the federal tax authorities have stated, one gets a price today on that estimate of $1,788,000. This is also reckoned only on property up to January 1, 1924.

Four years ago, on the same date, Sir Adam Beck's hydro engineers valued the railway at $1,356,038. Adding the same new equipment and subtracting the same depreciation as above, one gets a price today of $1,560,218, also reckoned on the January 1, 1924, basis.

THREE PRICES COMPARED. In other words, the three prices, all brought to a common basis of January 1, 1924, compare as follows:

1. Street railway company's first estimate: $1,788,000.
2. Sir Adam Beck's hydro engineers' estimate: $1,560,218.
3. Street railway company's present price: $1,295,000.

The present price is lower than the railway company's first offer by $491,000 and lower than Beck's estimate by $265,000.

It is safe to conclude from these comparisons that $1,295,000 is the best offer the city has received; it is not yet safe to conclude that it is the best offer which can be received.

CAN CITY AFFORD TO BUY? Can the city afford to buy? Much depends on the terms by which the deal could be handled. City Treasurer Bell has explained to The Advertiser that in the event of purchase the street railway would be expected to meet all the carrying and interest charges on the debenture issue, so that the people would have no increased tax rate. If the road was for any reason unable to meet both its own operating expenses and the interest charges then either the fares would have to be raised or the tax rate increased.

In other words, it would be expected that the railway would pay for itself, the operating profits being applied to its purchase. If the operating profits were insufficient the citizens would be liable and they would have to make good either through higher fares or higher tax rate.

WHAT ARE THE ALTERNATIVES? What are the alternatives? If the city does not buy, the street railway company must continue its operation of the railway.

As things stand now this would mean a five-year extension of the present bylaw 915, with fares reduced to seven and nine tickets for 25 cents, dating from next March. The obvious plan of the company would be to operate as cheaply as possible, to make as few improvements as possible, or even, in extremity, to cease service.

An alternative would be a new agreement to replace bylaw 915, and this new agreement would require ratification by the provincial legislature, which, last session, passed the Beck bill reducing the present fare agreement.

The whole situation is anything but simple. It requires the thoughtful judgment of everyone interested and an avoidance of hasty conclusions.

The Advertiser ventures the hope that the city's aldermen will exercise in their inquiries a more judicious intelligence than the schoolboy performance they provided last night.

MAJORITY OF COUNCIL FIND PRICE IS TOO HIGH

Sir Adam Beck Believes a Definite Statement Impossible.

ONLY CURRIE KNOWS

More Information on Equipment and Depreciation Is Urged.

Six of London's aldermen consider $1,295,000, the price submitted yesterday by the mayor as the purchase price of the London Street Railway too high, four ask more information on the subject before expressing an opinion and one thinks it a fair and reasonable price.

Aldermen Douglass, Anderson, Drake, Hayden, Bottrill, and Shaw hold the "too high" opinion. Ald. Walsh, Towne, Warren, and Smith wish for more information as to the value of the road and Ald. Frank McKay believes the price submitted is a fair one. Ald. Greer, being out of town, could not be consulted.

Sir Adam Beck, London's member in Toronto, holds the opinion that it is out of the question to say anything definite about the price because there is no way of arriving at a correct valuation of the road and its assets. "How can anyone say whether this is a satisfactory price or not?" he asked.

"No one in the world except Mr. Currie knows the exact value of the road and he won't tell you. There never was a time when all railroad equipment was so highly valued in general and now the council know either what the company has paid for its used cars or what their pressed value is. They can't. Then the depreciation on the London Street Railway has been exceptionally heavy in the past few years, and there is no accurate measurement of this in the letter of the mayor has brought to the council. I don't see how the mayor or anyone else can call Mr. Currie's offer either a good or a bad price, because the price of a thing depends on its value and that's something nobody knows."

TWO CHILDREN PERISH WHEN HOME IS BURNED

Canadian Press Despatch. Quebec, May 20.—Juliette Tremblay, aged eight, and Marie, five-year-old sister, are dead as the result of a fire which destroyed the house in which they lived at Roberval Lake, St. John County, Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. Tremblay and their eldest daughter, Josephine, with two other children, had great difficulty in escaping.

It is said that Josephine was poured into a lamp in the upper part of the house, and when the fire broke out she slipped from her hands, the oil communicating with a stove, and within a few seconds the house was ablaze. The children were asleep and were taken from their beds by Josephine. They slipped from her grasp and were enveloped by the flames. Their charred bodies were found later in the ruins.

LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN

Associated Press Despatch. Moscow, May 20.—In inaugurating a nation-wide campaign for the development of the gas and chemical industry for purposes of defence, Leon Trotsky, the bolshevik minister of war and marine, last night urged workers throughout the world to keep a close eye on the Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland, which he asserted was able to produce in a single day more asphyxiating gas than the whole of Germany at the zenith of its chemical power.

"The manufacture of chemicals for warfare is making great headway in the United States and France," Trotsky declared.

"Following our usual frankness in informing the masses of approaching danger, we warn them that chemical warfare now is in sight. France possesses all the German chemical secrets and is concentrating on gas manufacture."

St. Catharines, May 20.—By a unanimous vote the members of the city council last night decided to extend an invitation to Percy White, K.C., representative of the Canadian National Electric Railways, to return to the city to renew the street railway franchise agreement negotiations. Decision upon this point was unanimous, but there was little unanimity in the expressions of opinion of the various aldermen as to whether or not they should stand firm or recede from the position taken last Tuesday in regard to a fixed assessment of $50,000, payment by the railway of the track allowance on St. Paul street, and the apportionment of half of the cost of the proposed widening of Court street with a new 15-foot pavement to the railway.

The fact that hucksters who sell at the market are in many instances infringing on the market agreements by selling goods that they have purchased, rather than produced, was brought out at a meeting of the Grocers' Association at the Tecumseh House last night.

The original market agreement, drawn up by those who have the square to the city, drew up clauses stating that hucksters were to grow 80 per cent of the products they sold on the market square, and it was shown that the law was repeatedly infringed upon, since many of the vendors simply bought a large amount of the products sold there.

CITY COUNCIL RECEIVES STREET RAILWAY OFFER TO SELL FOR $1,295,000

Price Secured by Mayor Referred To Finance Committee For Discussion.

VOTE ON FRANCHISE

Citizens May Be Asked To Decide On New Agreement.

SCHOOL GOES BACK

Proposal For East End Collegiate Also Returned To Finance Body.

The mayor submitted a price of $1,295,000 to the city council last night as the lowest figure quoted by President Currie of the street railway company for the purchase of the city's franchise. In his report on the conference with the company officials the mayor declared that this was a reasonable price and advised the council to accept it.

The aldermen after prolonged discussion and after listening to the city solicitor on the question, finally decided on the motion of Alderman Douglass to refer the question of purchase to the finance committee. It was the general opinion that the price asked was higher than all conditions warranted, and that the people should record their vote as to the cancellation of the franchise before the city and the road were contemplated by the council.

The city solicitor will be asked for an opinion on the holding of a plebiscite on the question of cancellation of the franchise in June. Paving Discussed.

The matter of paving the track allowance by the street railway company also came up for discussion, and in this case the council decided to let the city engineer confer with the company on the way of co-operating with the city in paying the track allowance on Wellington street on the basis of the engineering estimates of the cost of the work, in view of the fact that the city, under the franchise bylaw, had to collect the cost from the company after the work is done.

Another matter taking up a large part of the five-hour session of the city fathers was the appeal made by Dr. A. J. Grant, chairman of the collegiate committee of the board of education, on the part of the London East High School. The fate of this proposal was the same as in half a dozen instances in the past few weeks, and in this case it returned to the finance committee of the city council for discussion, and, if favorably considered, the construction of a high school district, a circumstance which the city council of 1919 forgot when they passed a high school district.

Mayor Gives Peace. The report of Mayor Wenghe on the purchase price of the street railway company as delivered to the aldermen is as follows:

The members of the City Council. The Gentlemen: In accordance with instructions received from the city council some time ago, that the mayor be authorized to secure a definite price for the London Street Railway, I beg to advise you that several conferences were held with Mr. Currie, president, and other officials of the company, with the result that on May 13, the mayor received the company's definite selling price for the railway, now submitted to you in the following report:

Mr. Currie submitted the following: Price for the railway, consisting of approximately 36.16 miles of tracks, poles, wires, paving, bridges, cars, buildings, miscellaneous equipment, etc., $1,295,000.00.

HON. JAMES MURDOCK.

Minister of labor, who introduced estimates for his department in the Federal House yesterday. Included in them was an item for $25,000 for annuities for old age.

Depreciated value of the railway, Dec. 31, 1919, as computed by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission engineers, $1,356,926.70. Plus improvements, Dec. 31, 1919, to Dec. 31, 1923, 204,181.48. Total, $1,561,108.18.

Less depreciation same period, 140,000.00. Balance, $1,421,108.18.

The price of $1,295,000.00 for the railway is considerably below these estimates. As Mr. Currie explained, the company's lowest possible price. I personally think that it is only fair that the ratepayers should be given an opportunity to express their opinion at the next municipal election as to the purchase of the railway at the above named price.

The alternative ballot might be submitted for the purchase of the railway under the terms of the bylaw 216, which provides for arbitration. I have pleasure in submitting to you this report.

Yours very truly,
G. A. WENGHE, Mayor.

Council Comments. "Wonderful document," asserted Ald. Anderson at the conclusion of the reading.

"Well, you got a price anyway," commented Ald. Douglass. "That's something."

"Any goodwill included in that price?" asked Ald. Towse.

Ald. Greer declared: "Well, I don't see any useful purpose in discussing it. I am sure the people won't accept a price like that."

The question of acceptance of the price was referred to the finance committee.

T. G. Meredith, the city solicitor, who was present at the request of the council, told the aldermen that if they wanted to change the franchise bylaw there were only three things they must do—get rid of the present franchise, submit any new franchise to the people for a vote, and ask the Provincial Legislature to confirm the facts of the case.

Ald. Smith adding "Hm, hm," and the doctor replying, "Well, alderman, I'll be glad to have you investigate any of the facts I have quoted or the statements I have made."

ever time the courts ruled was a reasonable time, and in reply to Alderman Douglass, that any railroad into the existing agreement with the company should certainly have the sanction of the legislature for the safety of the city.

The discussion of the paying of the street car company's track allowance on Wellington street came up, when number of the committee proceeded to authorize the engineer in proceeding with the work, and charging 1 cent per foot for the work done with the Richmond street job last year.

The mayor reiterated his statement of last week to the committee that the company had agreed to co-operate with the city in doing the work on Wellington street, under the terms of the franchise penalty clause, provided the city paved the intersections.

Alderman Greer told the members that R. G. Ivey, vice-president of the company, had told the committee that the price to the company would be about $12,000, and that they would refuse absolutely to do any other work.

"The price is neither here nor there," boomed Alderman Anderson, in reference to a question from Alderman Douglass as to the cost of paving the Wharmfield road. I think the company is simply playing with the city all the way through. The fact that it is to settle with the company.

"The solicitor has just told you to treat the question from a business angle," argued the mayor, "and that's the only right way."

"I move we go ahead with the work and charge it up to the company," suggested Ald. Douglass. The aldermen agreed on the principle that this would show the degree of co-operation that the company was willing to give in their dealings with the city.

Engineer Near explained that it was impossible for him to pave the street without interfering with the company's ties and rails, and that Mr. Ivey had stated that he would stand no interference with the company's tracks. The only way the road could be paved at all was under the franchise bylaw, and that meant charging the account up to the company and collecting after it was done.

Cancel Franchise. Alderman Frank McKay, in presenting a motion to take up the matter of cancelling the franchise, the solicitor, said: "This question has been going on for years and may last for years more. In order to settle this question once and for all, I would like to propose to cancel the franchise to the people as soon as possible and that we consult Mr. Meredith on the question of legal entanglements."

"Just what the company wants," returned Alderman Douglass. "They'll co-operate with the city then," right," laughed Alderman Anderson.

Alderman Greer put a new face on it when he asked what would happen if the people voted for cancellation.

"Oh, that's all right. We'll have a fleet of buses running in the city and the people will be able to bring the company to time and make them offer a reasonable price for the road," answered Alderman Douglass.

The cost of the franchise was given as about $18,000, which was felt to be justified in the circumstances.

Dr. Grant Speaks. Dr. Grant made a spirited speech on behalf of the London East High School, which at its conclusion was described by Alderman Douglass as a "wonderful electrifying speech for votes, but it doesn't give the people the facts of the case."

He stated that while the city council in 1919 had passed a resolution making London East a high school district, that it had neglected to pass the necessary bylaw, and that accordingly it was impossible to build a high school in the east end.

"We have a right to expect that Alderman Douglass is sincere in his efforts to pursue the legal side of the question, and we now expect that he will move the necessary bylaw which can quite easily be passed by the council. The fault lies with the council in not following the resolution with a bylaw, and the present board of education has done all that it can to insure the building of the school in the district needing it."

LABOR ASKS 8-HR. DAY ENFORCEMENT

Woodworth Thinks Ottawa Should Fix Length of Working Day.

PROVINCE CONTROLS

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 19.—Dominion jurisdiction on the eight-hour day, and a labor conference, which ended in a dinner for 60 that cost $347.50, featured discussion of labor estimates in the House today.

There was considerable questioning as to the position in the eight-hour day convention, to which the Dominion government is sending a representative, and the cost of the international labor conference held under the League of Nations. J. S. Woodworth, labor member of Centre, Winnipeg, declared that there had been too much playing with responsibility. If Canada could not enforce the eight-hour day it should withdraw from the convention.

Portage La Prairie, Progressive, of Portage La Prairie, who brought up the expense account of the dinner, one that followed a conference of Dominion and Provincial representatives on labor questions in 1922.

Mr. Leadey objected to the high costs of dinners, and proposed that the vote under discussion be carried out. The amount spent on the dinner, Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, admitted that he was not himself enthusiastic over such functions. It was not right and it would not occur again in his department while he was minister.

Shorter hours for the Cape Breton steel workers and the general question of the eight-hour day for all workers came up in the House of Commons when the way that road was being taken was considered in supply. J. S. Woodworth (Labor, Winnipeg Center) asked if anything was being done to carry out the recommendations of the commission which investigated the Cape Breton dispute.

Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, replied that for as long as the provincial government had full jurisdiction, the federal government had no jurisdiction. R. B. Hanson (Conservative, Yorkton) asked if the government had done anything to improve conditions in Cape Breton before the strike was called.

Thousand of labor replied that his department had held itself at the disposal of both sides to the dispute, prepared to take any course within its jurisdiction. It had not been able to submit the dispute to a board of conciliation because the steel company was not willing to endorse the proposal for such a board.

Mr. Hanson asked if Mr. Murdock had tried to persuade the provincial government to adopt the eight-hour day.

Agreed With Murdock. Mr. Murdock said that the federal government could not undertake to instruct another government as to how to conduct its business. There had been, however, considerable correspondence giving the department of labor's opinions on the matter.

Mr. Hanson asked if the minister had promised in a public speech that he would send troops to enforce order in case of a strike in Cape Breton. Mr. Murdock replied that he did not know.

The federal government, he understood, was bound to send troops if called for by civil authorities in any part of the Dominion.

Mr. Woodworth asked why Canada's representatives at the peace conference had indulged in the question of the Canadian parliament had no power to enforce it.

HAMMOND FREED OF DEATH CHARGE

Jury Finds Truck Driver Blameless in Death of Thomas Crewe.

"That the deceased came to his death at his late home, 384 Hamilton road, Saturday, May 17, as a result of an auto truck accident, said truck being driven by George Hammond. Death occurred Saturday about 5 a.m., May 18.

"In the opinion of the jury, no blame attaches to the driver of the truck for the fatality."

Above is the verdict of the coroner's jury at the inquest held in the police station last night to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the accident on Rectory street last Thursday afternoon, which later resulted in the death of Tommy Crewe, three years and seven months of age.

Hammond gave himself up to the police Saturday morning. He was charged with the charge of manslaughter, after which he was bailed out by Frank Moore and J. J. Haskett of the Moore Fruit Company.

Will Not Press Case. Crown Attorney Albert M. Judd, on being told the jury's verdict, stated he did not intend to proceed any further with the charge of manslaughter against Mr. Hammond, which will mean the discharge of the truck driver when he appears in court tomorrow. Mr. Judd intimated that he would also get in touch with the attorney-general's department in the matter and recommend no further action by the crown.

Mrs. Thomas Crewe, mother of the boy, was the first of the six witnesses called. She stated the child was at the side of the baby buggy as she walked south on Rectory street on the west side of the street near Hamilton road. He went to the motor strike street and she saw the driver of the butcher shop across the street was a candy store.

Mrs. Crewe heard no warning, she said. She never saw the truck until it hit the boy. He was lying under the center of the baby buggy and the driver picked him up.

"The driver made a remarkably quick stop," said Mrs. Crewe, who was in a highly nervous condition. She stated that she saw the driver at the time and she still felt that way.

"There's My Car." Violet Donaghy, 113 Rectory street, was just four feet from the accident. She saw the little chap sitting on the end of the baby buggy and she heard the driver say "There's my car."

"He jumped off the go-cart and right in front of the truck. I never saw the truck until the boy was in front of it. The truck was going slow and kind of tossed him."

Mrs. Velma Tillson, 121 Rectory street, didn't see the accident, but heard screams in front of the house. She saw her mother rush from the backyard and later saw Mrs. Crewe in her mother's arms.

Mr. Hammond carried the boy into the house. There was no blood on the boy, but Mr. Hammond thought a doctor should be called. Witness heard Mrs. Crewe state that the driver was not to blame for the accident.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hocken, mother of the boy, was also present.

R. CUNNINGHAM CREDITED WITH HOBBY FAIR IDEA

Retired To Bed In Wrong House

Special to The Advertiser. St. Catharines, May 19.—R. C. McDonald was fined $10 and costs today for drunkenness. He was so drunk, according to police officers, that he walked into a house in Milton street and went upstairs to bed. The police found him asleep when called by the owner.

The previous witness, gave evidence of a similar nature. She said she thought the mother was worse than the boy, and devoted her attention to Mrs. Crewe.

"I didn't think the little fellow was very bad. Mr. Hammond laid him on the couch and he sat up. There was a sort of a scratch on his cheek," said witness.

George Hammond, the driver of the truck, said he stopped near Grey street to light his pipe. He was proceeding slowly along Rectory street when a little boy flashed in the path of his truck.

"I didn't sound the horn," declared Hammond. "I used all my strength in grasping the wheel and putting pressure on the brakes."

"I don't think I was travelling fifteen miles an hour, if I was going that fast," declared the driver. "I didn't see the boy on the sidewalk, operation."

Dr. Grant introduced Roy Cunningham, stating that although Mr. Cunningham liked to keep in the background, nevertheless, he was a man who did big things in a big way, and to him belonged the credit for the idea of the Hobby Fair.

The boy and girl winners were then announced by Roy Cunningham. They were received on the stage by Dr. Grant and B. H. Higgins, secretary of the Hobby Fair committee. Dr. Grant presented the medals to the smiling winners, who bowed acknowledgment to the applauding audience.

Is 10% Too Much?

When a man has 100% of his income with which to supply his family's needs and his own, shouldn't he arrange it

90%—as a maximum for present expenditures

10%—as a minimum for care of family in case of his death or for his own old age if he lives.

Even the small proportion of 10% of a man's salary will continue a goodly amount of income to his family under our Jubilee Monthly Income Policy.

For example, a man age 30, earning $250 a month—by investing 10% in a London Life Jubilee Policy can guarantee to his wife (aged 30) at his death, an income of $100 a month as long as she lives.

If you are not adequately insured, your family carries the risk of your death by accident or disease, not yourself. Transfer the risk to the London Life and provide for "the monthly cheque that never fails."

ARRANGE A BOOK SHOWER
FOR THE VICTORIA HOSPITAL

Women's Auxiliary Makes Further Plans for Comfort of the Patients.

AT GRAY'S STORE

Chairman of Hospital Trust Offers His Shop as Headquarters For Shower.

The Victoria Hospital Women's Auxiliary is making an appeal to the public for new books to form the beginning of a patients' library in that institution. New books, because only new books would be permitted to be circulated among ill people, James Gray, chairman of the Hospital Trust, has kindly offered his store as headquarters for the book shower. So that all any one need do is to purchase a new book, place his name or the name of the organization which he represents upon the fly leaf, and leave it there to be forwarded to the hospital.

Mrs. H. A. Winnett, convener of the library committee, had some excellent suggestions to offer yesterday in her report given at the hospital auxiliary meeting. The committee will arrange for some sort of dinner wagon, on which the books may be placed and wheeled into the wards so that the patients may make their own choice. It was also suggested that young girls clubs might help out by going to the hospital on certain days and acting as librarians.

Mrs. F. J. Greenway, chairman of the auxiliary, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Alfred Drew and Mrs. Angus Graham, telling how successful Hospital Day had proved, estimated that about 1,000 visitors had seen through Victoria Hospital on that occasion. But 400 had registered, but it had been impossible to begin to register all of those who came.

The committee expects to attend the Victoria Hospital graduation exercises in a body to show their interest in the work. Other committees reporting yesterday were the social committee, by Mrs. Frank White and Mrs. Angus Graham, who told of the drive and afternoon tea, planned in honor of the graduation class on Thursday of this week; the nurses' home committee, by Mrs. John Slater; the linen committee, by Mrs. C. R. Somerville; and the flower committee, by Mrs. T. C. Benson.

MISS RUTH TANNER SCORES
IN READING OF "PRUNELLA"

Miss Ruth Tanner, dramatic pupil of Miss Tooley, who has been heard in brilliant recital last night at "Playerscraft," reading through the three acts of Granville Baker's play, "Prunella." Possessing a keen and rich voice and plenty of imagination, as well as dramatic instinct, Miss Tanner gave a most adequate interpretation of the drama. The lovely characters of Prunella and Pierrot were artistically drawn by Miss Tanner. The audience saw the beautiful settings and followed the mood of Prunella under Miss Tanner's guidance. Changing quickly from laughter to a more serious strain, she delighted those who listened to her. Delightful baritone numbers by H. E. Phillips rounded out an altogether pleasing program.

CHILD SHOULD BE TREATED AS INTELLIGENT PERSON

Parents Talk Down to Their Children Instead of Up To Them.

MEETS 4-YEAR-OLD

Julia Hoyt Discovers a Really Intelligent Little Man Looking For Lost Dog.

By JULIA HOYT.

Elsie Janis and I were taking a walk with some friends one Sunday near her place at Tarrytown, New York. Suddenly a clear little voice

"Have you by any chance seen a brown dog with white spots and one ear flat and the other standing up?" In front of us stood a fine-looking boy. He seemed so tiny to speak so clearly and describe so accurately. He was so adorable in appearance that we naturally stopped and talked with him.

In the course of conversation he informed us that he was four years old. For fifteen minutes we were held enthralled by the little fellow's imaginative suggestions as to how we could induce the dog to come back to him. Finally we gave up our walk, but his extreme naturalness, lack of shyness and his intelligence started a discussion on the question of the average behavior and intelligence of children of this little boy's age.

I think there is no denying that many children are extremely shy at the age of six months, with their minds independently and have not commenced to become personalities—that is to say, they give most people that impression.

Whose Fault?

We became interested in discussing whether or not this was the fault of the parents and the older people with whom the child is associated. Do not most of us take it for granted that children have no capacity for individual thought, and do they not generally talk down to their children instead of stimulating them by talking up? If anything, a little ahead of them? I am afraid they do.

I have noticed many people who seem to endow their dogs, cats, and other pets with more intelligence and understanding than they would grant to their children of four or five years. How many times do I see parents try to divert their children's attention to some babyish game, rather than take the trouble to answer their questions? I do not mean when they are acquiring subjects, but when they are asking questions. I can't help but feel that when they are seeking perfectly ordinary and valuable information. Is the reason for this that parents would be foolish to let their children know that they are seeking perfectly ordinary and valuable information. Is the reason for this that parents would be foolish to let their children know that they are seeking perfectly ordinary and valuable information. Is the reason for this that parents would be foolish to let their children know that they are seeking perfectly ordinary and valuable information.

It is amazing to me sometimes to watch an amusing little child and his mother—the kind of mother for instance, who nudges her friends and says, "listen to that," or "watch that," firmly convinced that the child has no idea that it is being shown off. Nine times out of ten, not one hy-play escapes the child, and it is perfectly intelligently playing a game for its mother's benefit. Child specialists assert that very young children's emotions and power of observation are strongly developed. It must be so, as it is during the first four or five years of their lives that they learn more than they ever learn again. But, unquestionably, they need the help and belief of their parents, but as much as we need the help and belief of people later on in life.

If you make children feel that you believe in their capacity to understand what you are talking about, instinctively they will be inspired to a greater effort at comprehension and will often surprise you with their unexpected understanding.

TRINITY CHAPTER O. E. S.
Court whist was played at the regular social meeting of Trinity Chapter, O. E. S., held in the I. O. E. rooms. Twenty-one tables were arranged, and the prizes were won by Mrs. Darling and Mrs. Pollard. Following cards a dainty supper was served. Mrs. J. E. Hill acted as convener of the affair, assisted by a committee including Mrs. Katherine Pollard, Mrs. C. B. King, Mrs. Fred Ross, Miss Hazel Jones, Mrs. Jack Murray, Mrs. Merrill, Miss Ethel Pulling, Mr. W. E. Manness and Mr. H. R. Hooper.

At an executive meeting of the North Middlesex W. L. held in London during the convention last November, it was decided to ask Mrs. Pankhurst to address the district annual convention, to be held in Ailsa Craig in June. Mrs. Pankhurst accepted, and arrangements were under way, however, owing to illness, she is now resting in the Bermuda Islands, and will be unable to attend. Arrangements have now been made with Professor Bishop, musical director in the schools of St. Marys and Granton, to address the meeting on the teaching of music in the public schools, and the prizes were won by the women, as they are all desirous of learning how music can be taught in our public schools. Mrs. George Edwards, principal president of the W. L., who belongs to North Middlesex, has also promised to be present. Mrs. Middleton, district president, is most active in putting the district on a good business basis, and an interesting time is expected. The meeting will be held in the town hall, Ailsa Craig, on the afternoon of June 5. Lunch will be served.

The Speedy Heating Electric Range

Several years ago we came to the conclusion that no woman likes waiting around for her kitchen range to heat up. So we set out to make Moffats Electric Ranges the speediest heating ranges manufactured. And that is just what they are today.

With a Moffat Electric Range in your kitchen there is no delay or tiresome waiting for the elements or oven to heat up. The snap of the switch brings intense heat with astonishing speed to the range top or oven elements.

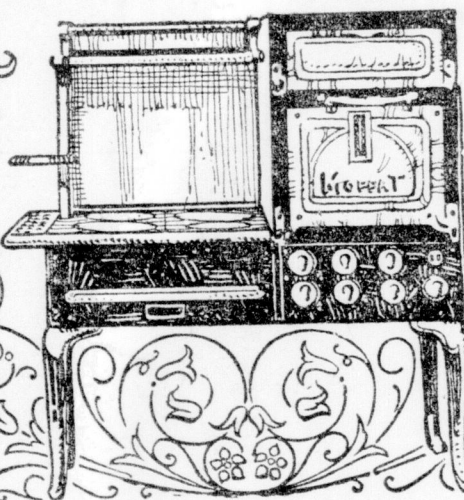

They are Inexpensive to Operate

No heat is wasted. Every degree of heat is directed toward the cooking of your food. Food is cooked in shorter time. That means less current is used.

If you save, say, 10 minutes at each meal, you save 30 minutes of time and current every day. That comes to 180 hours in one year—a worth-while economy you must admit.

Moffat Electric cooking is truly economical. The ranges themselves are moderately priced, and the cost of operating is low. Can you afford to do without a Moffat any longer? Consult your local electrical dealer for an estimate or write Moffats, Limited, Weston, Ont.

An Awful Attack of Pimples All Over His Face

Pimples breaking out on the face and other parts of the body is a sure sign that the blood is not in proper shape.

While the skin is the object of the attack the real seat of the disease is in the blood on account of the entire circulation being poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually banishes pimples and all other skin diseases as it goes right to the root of the trouble by cleansing and enriching the blood.

Mr. Conrad Anderson, Kelfield, Sask., writes: "A year ago I had an awful attack of pimples. They broke out all over my face and I could not get rid of them in any way. One day a friend told me about your Burdock Blood Bitters and let me have a bottle he had to spare. After using it I noticed a change, so I bought three more bottles, and now I don't know there is such a thing as pimples."

POWERFUL DRAMA IN "ANNA CHRISTIE" AT THE MAJESTIC

DISTINCTIVELY NEW

Few pictures to equal "Anna Christie," the special attraction at the newly-opened Majestic Theatre, have been seen in London during the past year.

Adapted from Eugene O'Neill's stage drama, which was a sensation on two continents, and won the 1922 Pulitzer prize for the best American drama of the year, "Anna Christie" is presented with Blanche Sweet as the star, replacing Pauline Lord of the stage success. The entire picture is proof conclusive that every type of moving picture has not been tickled and card-indexed by critics, ready for its place in the pigeon-hole.

The picture is so distinctively unlike the commonly accepted type of heroine, and its hero, at times so positively unheroic, that the whole thing absolutely refuses to be assigned a place with any other moving picture drama. It is a class unto itself, standing forth on the strength of its story and acting, as one of the most powerful pictures of the year.

O'Neill has brought a romance out of singularly sooty surroundings. His characters are at once ignoble and noble. His heroine is the daughter of a Swedish soldier, who attributes to a superstitious dread of the sea his own unhappy life and that of his family, and particularly his own weakness for drink. The daughter is sent inland, that she may escape the terrors of the sea, and the wretched loneliness of marriage. Her father, only to find greater torment at the stave in the family of bestial cousins. Her degradation is inevitable, but she is redeemed by a reunion with her father, with an attendant cleansing passion for the sea, and the awakening of the first real love life he has ever known.

The dramatic genius which lifted "Anna Christie" so far above every other play of the season is strikingly evident in the motion picture production. In no other picture to be mentioned this year have the characters been of such engrossing interest. They are, but four in number: Blanche Sweet as Anna Christie, George Marion, repeating his notable stage success as her father, Eugene Bessner in a striking characterisation of the besotted Martha, and William Russell rising to dramatic heights hitherto undreamt of as the Irish Mart Ruge.

Thomas H. Ince, whose "The Hot-terent," of straight comedy, was such a success last year, has gone to the other extreme in producing "Anna Christie," where the drama is superb. It is directed by John Griffith Wray, and bears the hallmark of finished technique. "Anna Christie" is a revelation in the way of moving pictures and a decidedly interesting film.

INDIAN BOY KILLED ON RAIL CROSSING

Mystery Surrounds Injuries Which Caused Death of Henry Green.

Special to The Advertiser.

Simcoe, May 19.—Mystery surrounds the injuries received by Henry Green, an 18-year-old Indian lad, who was found in an unconscious condition alongside the C.N.R. tracks at McNally crossing, and who died just as he was carried to the office of Dr. Copeman here.

The lad was found by Weyman Bye. The left foot was severed from the body and was lying between the rails, the left leg was mangled and lacerated up to the hip and the right hip was broken. There are no injuries on the upper portion of the body.

Just before 7 o'clock, the lad was seen walking in the direction of the crossing, which is about two miles north here. Shortly after 7, Mr. Bye made the gruesome discovery. He called Dr. Copeman, who brought the injured boy to town in his car.

Green is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Green, who have been employees on the McNally farm for the past twelve years. The father was away from home all day attending the funeral of his aged mother, which took place from Hatchley to the Indian Reserve Cemetery.

No one has been found who can offer any definite suggestion as to how the accident happened. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

BAPTIST HISTORY IN CITY OF LONDON TOLD AT JUBILEE

Interesting Story Told At Anniversary Celebration of Adelaide Street Church.

EXPLORING PARTIES

A reception and set-together social was held last night by the congregation of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church, celebrating their jubilee anniversary. It was one of the most successful social gatherings in the history of the congregation. Rev. Dr. P. A. McEwan, first ordained pastor of the congregation, now of Ottawa, and Mrs. McEwan, were guests of honor, and spoke during the evening. Congratulatory.

A letter of congratulation was received from Rev. Dr. Arthur E. Fowler of Brooklyn, New York, an old London boy, who went out in the church when it was in its earlier stages.

A special letter of congratulation was sent from the ladies of the church to Mrs. Morgan, an immortal of the Old People's Home, who is in her 94th year, and is the oldest active member of the church.

A condensed history of the Baptist cause in London was read by R. Angus, 350 Princess Avenue, who stated that in July, 1844, the Rev. R. A. Fyfe, acting principal of the Non-Resistant Society, and the Rev. Girdwood, were sent into the western part of Upper Canada by the Baptist Missionary Society. They were to organize churches and visit churches. In time they came to London, the city of the woods, but so far as is known nothing came of this visit.

Exploring Start.

In the fall of the same year the American Baptist Home Mission Society sent an exploring and collecting agent into that part of Canada lying between Niagara and Windsor. The Rev. Eleazar Savage acted in that capacity until 1845. He worked in concert with Elder Wm. Wilkinson in gathering together the few Baptists living in London. Their organizing meetings were held at the home of Duncan Bell in March, 1845. Mr. Savage presided.

At this meeting the little band inquired into each other's belief and Christian sentiments and practice and the covenant of the Long Point Association, and the articles of faith and discipline were read and approved. A resolution was proposed to form a church. Nine members signed the declaration. D. Bell was elected to the leadership until the pastor should be settled. The first deacons were elected the same year. It was nearly three years before the new church had a pastor, but ministers visited the gathering from time to time and some regular calls. The meetings were held in the Mechanics' institute, a building situated on the court house property facing Ridout street. By 1847 the little flock of nine had grown to twenty-two.

First Pastor.

The first pastor was Rev. James Inglis who came from Detroit in 1847, and remained after two years' work in London. He was a pious man and a splendid organizer. He published the first Baptist newspaper in Canada, the "Evangelist and Pioneer." Rev. Robert Boyd from Brockville was the next pastor. The congregation had grown to 82, and a chapel was built at the corner of York and Talbot. The pastor baptized 95 persons in the first four years, and the congregations increased in strength. Charles Campbell succeeded and followed by Rev. Wm. Allington, and later by Rev. M. Thomas Ure of Scotland and his successor was Rev. W. H. Watts.

In 1871 sixty-eight members withdrew to form Adelaide Baptist Church, and soon members expressed a desire to found a mission, and this was accomplished. A building at the corner of Adelaide and King was bought, and mission services were conducted by Dr. Cooper and Rev. R. B. Montgomery.

Take Over Property.

In 1877 it was decided to take over the York street property and organization services were held, various officers were elected from the 76 persons who identified themselves with the new movement. Rev. J. Dempsey was the first pastor. The Sabbath school had its beginning with a membership of 22.

Adelaide Street Baptist Church was duly received into the Middlesex and Lambton Association in 1878. Brother F. A. McEwan was the first pastor of the new church. He commenced his work in 1878 and was ordained in August, and there since, he has been a source of revival while he ministered.

Rev. Joseph Forth of Perth succeeded, followed by T. S. Johnson of Scotland. In 1890 Pastor Spiller took charge. During his charge the mission school on Egerton street was started. Rev. D. M. Mitchell followed, succeeded by Rev. T. S. Johnson, who served the church for a total of fourteen years.

Rev. James H. Boyd came to the church direct from Ireland and re-

CROWD AT LOEW'S GREET LOMBARDO WITH ENTHUSIASM

"The Royal Canadians," Composed of Londoners, Return From Tour.

PROGRAM EXCELS

"The Royal Canadians," formerly known as the Lombardo Orchestra, are a striking feature of the bill at Loew's for the first three days of the week. Having established a splendid reputation locally, under the Lombardo title, the orchestra have been enjoying for the past few months, a successful vaudeville tour of the Eastern states. They officially returned home with their engagement at Loew's, and the applause which greeted them at all performances yesterday was nothing short of thunderous. Their playing, together with the local interest, practically "brought down the house."

The Lombardos were a real orchestra before they left London, but they have undoubtedly gained something as the result of their vaudeville tour. The playing itself has been given a new degree of excellence, and an artistic atmosphere has been added which is decidedly attractive. There is no doubt that "The Royal Canadians" have been a success on their tour, and their reception here yesterday was nothing short of a triumph.

The first two vaudeville acts leading up to the appearance of the orchestra, were good. Art and Lucille Davis display dexterity of various types. The former is an adept at the tight-rope, and the fair partner contributes and the latter is an Indian club juggler. Bussey and Donia give comedy of a homely enough sort, but it goes over successfully, and the latter makes an effective hit by herself with a nursery rhyme song.

Wesley Barry, that leggy, freckle-faced boy of the movies, is starred in "The Country Kid," the feature picture. It is a simple story of rural life, with comedy and a good deal of human interest, woven nicely together. Helen Jerome Eddy is notably excellent among the cast, and the picture is a splendid evening's entertainment for the entire family.

2 NEW TEACHERS FOR TECHNICAL

M. Smith of Hamilton and J. Simpson, Toronto, To Join Staff.

Mr. M. Smith of the Hamilton Technical School will be offered the position as instructor in the printing department at the London Technical School at an initial salary of $2,800. This was decided upon at a meeting of the advisory committee on Monday evening after some discussion.

Objection was raised by several members, Trustees Messrs. Ross and Hussey maintaining that a local man should be given the preference. The feeling of the whole committee was in sympathy with the same plan, the objection being that the department at Toronto had stated that a qualified teaching-printer be selected for the position.

The attitude of the department, as stated by Principal Deal, had much to do with the decision arrived at. The qualifications asked for by the department are that a man, as well as being a competent printer, shall have taken a course in teaching methods, this occupying some ten weeks at Toronto.

Mr. Smith comes recommended by the department as having had a successful experience at the Hamilton school.

Mr. John Simpson, teacher in the Toronto Technical School, will be the chief instructor of the electrical department. Mr. Simpson has had wide experience in this line, and will be a valuable addition to the staff.

The Budget Debate Too Long.

The House of Commons debates for Thursday, May 15, is an imposing looking document. It represents a session from 3:00 to 6:00 in the afternoon and from 8:00 to 7:35 the following morning, or in all 14 hours and 35 minutes.

The budget debate was too long—far too long. It was out of all proportion with what the speakers had to say. It lasted for 35 days, and had the effect of prolonging the session. It is on the length of the session that the claim is made for the $4,000 indemnity for members.

It costs money to have page after page added to the records of the Commons. The salaries of members and the services that must be maintained for their conveniences costs the people about $42 per minute. When a man makes a speech of three hours' duration he has occupied the attention of a governmental machine to the extent of $7,560. That does not allow for the Senate at all, but for salaries of members and a modest estimate for other services that must be maintained by reason of their presence.

There was nothing in the budget to occasion such a waste of time. The chief point was the reduction of the duty on farm implements and the removal of the sales tax, and the lessening of the same on other lines. It was known in a very few days after the budget came in how the vote would go. Yet there were all sorts of topics not at all germane to the subject under debate dragged in to fill up the breach in the wall. There seemed to be the awful possibility that the debate might run out. It was often recorded that a speaker who had something to say "relieved the bored House." Those who had nothing to say, but insisted on saying it, kept on boring the House still more, and boring into the expense column to keep the machinery moving.

In the British Parliament Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden brought in his budget on April 30, and it passed the House after a debate of 12 days. There was far more to debate about in the British statement than in the one that took 35 days, or three times as long, at Ottawa. The British budget showed a surplus, always a fine chance for controversy; Britain is a world power, and its statement dealt with financial and other arrangements in various parts of the world; the budget attacked the idea of imperial preferences, and wiped out the McKenna duties, all of which might have given cause for long debates in such far-reaching policies. Yet it was all over in 12 days, and the British Parliament has never been accused of passing over its business lightly.

The folly of prolonging a debate to such an extent is that it brings a rush of business that has been held up, and there is always the possibility that much of it cannot get its proper consideration.

The Canadian Parliament should shorten its budget debate very abruptly. It gets a place in the program that is altogether out of proportion to its importance. Apart from the leaders of the three parties, one-half hour should be sufficient for a member to give his views; many of them do it in less time. That would allow for 150 of the 234 members to speak, and get through in about 12 days. Let this be the end of 35-day budget debates. It can be done in one-third that time.

He Must Make the Next Move.

A statement from Edmonton that settlers in Northern Alberta are starting bush fires so they can get positions as fire rangers is too serious to pass unnoticed.

Col. R. H. Palmer, chief of the forestry service, says the fires are mostly of incendiary origin. He does not go the length of making the positive charge that those starting the fires do so in order to get paid for fighting them, but what other reason would there be?

The statement of Col. Palmer that the fires are incendiary in their origin is either true or not true. If it is not true he should be quick to make a retraction, for it is a desperate charge to lodge against any settlers. If it is true, then there is need for definite and quick action to stop it. Taking it either way, Col. Palmer's statement makes it very plain that the next move is up to him.

Four Men and Two Votes.

The vote on the budget provides an interesting review of the way in which it affected different men.

Take the cases of Gouin, McMaster, Mitchell and Raymond. Mr. Gouin did not vote; Mr. McMaster returned to the government for that purpose; Mr. Mitchell resigned before the vote was taken, and Mr. Raymond voted against the budget, but remains in the government benches.

Sir Lomer Gouin denies that he will resign over the budget, but it is a fact that he was not a supporter of the measure when it was before Commons. He gladly released the Conservative with whom he was paired; when the vote was called he was not present and his voice was not recorded one way or the other. His attitude was not at its best anything more than a disinclination to openly oppose. It lacks the frankness that attaches to many of the Gouin policies in the past, and he would have been on better ground had he come out openly and cast his vote against the budget.

Mr. McMaster left the Liberal government of 1923, and returns to it in 1924. He was elected as a Liberal. If a man finds after being elected that he cannot remain in the party, what should he do? Go back to the people who elected him and say so? There seems to be much to commend such a course. Mr. McMaster's sincerity is not questioned, and he has undoubtedly come back to the government for the same reason that he went out in the first place.

Walter Mitchell resigned because of certain utterances made by some of the cabinet ministers, which he held spoke of free trade as the aim of the Liberals in Canada. These ministers know such a thing is impossible, but that is the ground advanced by Mr. Mitchell. It may be argued that it is a clever move to open the seat of St. Antoine, which has returned only one Liberal out of the last six elections, but there are just as many reasons to be advanced against such a motive. When a man disagrees with a government he is quite within his rights in resigning from it.

W. G. Raymond of Brantford took a different course. He voted against the government, yet remains a member of it. He stated his case clearly and well, and voted as he thought his constituents would have him vote. He is still a Liberal who can see no reason why a difference of opinion on the tariff should make him any the less a Liberal.

Of the four cases, Sir Lomer Gouin appears to have the poorest. The others took definite action right before the House, and they were all frank about it. The country respects them for that attitude. Sir Lomer leaves the country to guess at what he thinks. His position would have been better had it been marked even by a fearless adverse vote.

Bravery Is Widely Distributed.

The last word from the ill-fated Duxnide has been found, a note sealed in a bottle. It gave little information, probably there was no time. It was undoubtedly a last word, hurriedly penned. Its conclusion was just such as might have been expected: "Adieu and vive la France."

After all it is worth while having lived to be able, in the hour when death can be only minutes away, to write a note of farewell, coupled with a message to the land these airmen served and loved.

Bravery generally comes to the surface in the hour of need. Extremity will drive more good qualities into action than indolence. It is such devotion that makes nations possible.

Voting and Not Voting.

The people of the Yukon polled more votes in proportion to the number entitled to vote than any section of Canada in the last general election. Of course they had just one member to elect, but in the natural course of events it should have had as much difficulty as any other section in getting out the vote. Of 1,658 votes, 1,388 were cast, or 83 per cent.

Prince Edward Island came second with 79 per cent, and Quebec third with 75. The showing for voting in the last general election was: Ontario 63 B. Columbia 67 Quebec 75 Saskatchewan 67 Nova Scotia 69 Alberta 63 New Brunswick 64 Yukon 83 Manitoba 65 Pr. Edward 79

The City of London was slightly above the average; there were 32,907 voters on the list, and 22,026, or 68 per cent, of them went to the polls. There were more votes uncashed than polled by the winning candidate.

East Middlesex had 15,945 who could have voted; of this number, 10,712 voted, and 5,233 did not, making a voting strength of 66 per cent. There were more votes uncashed than were received by the winner, A. T. Hodgins.

West Middlesex ran away up, recording an 80 per cent vote; 12,027 voted out of a possible 15,342. Unlike most of the ridings, there were not enough uncashed votes in West Middlesex to defeat either of the first two candidates.

The big problem is not about those who voted, but why there were 37 in every hundred voters on the list who did not go to the polls in Ontario.

The Tide Is Turning.

Young men who left Western Ontario for Detroit and other U. S. points are moving in the opposite direction.

The reason why they left Ontario was that work was plentiful and wages good in United States.

There are many plants there now where there is no work to be had. The magnet toward the republic has ceased to pull.

There are cases not far from London where young men left the farm for Detroit. They could not be blamed, because they were sure they could make more money. Today a number of them are back. They did work for a time and made good wages, but they had to part with a large percentage of them to pay living costs. Then the work ceased, and they once more made a wise move—they came back to Ontario and took the first work they found, on a farm.

The tide has turned in the opposite direction. Canadians are coming home, and Canada today is fundamentally in better shape than United States.

Note and Comment.

Hon. John Babinington Macaulay Baxter, speaking on the budget, referred to one of his opponents as "the microbe of the Liberal party." All of which helps to bring the tone of parliamentary debate to a high level.

A millionaire bootlegger at Washington claims he paid officials $300,000 for protection; but in spite of that he was sent to jail. A man who buys police protection is in the proper place in jail, and he should stay there for a good long time.

A terrific explosion in France was heard in some directions 500 miles away, and in others not at a distance of 40 miles. The test was conducted to establish whether the sound travelled equal distance to all points of the compass. It was clearly demonstrated that it did not. There are many things yet to be found out about the peculiar properties and whims of the air.

Fathers and Sons

The news of late has been burdened with accounts of family troubles peculiarly distressing. Most domestic quarrels are kept quiet, both parties hating publicity as much as they hate each other, but now and then the conflict, usually because of financial issues that can only be settled in court, becomes public property.

In two recent cases there has been considerable scandal caused by quarrels between father and son, scandal which emphasizes the ever-recurring tragedy of parent and child. They show how we in our blundering way mismanage the delicate problems which destiny thrusts upon us. The child resents the care of the parent as his own strength develops. The parent is wounded at the unappreciative attitude of the child.

The seed of discord thrives and becomes an oak of dislike. Well for both if they can go their ways and live their separate lives. Then at least they can settle into a more or less pacific intolerance.

But where there is money there is possibility of infinite mischief. Children may philosophically resign themselves to the loss of their father, but not to the loss of his money.

In both the cases referred to the old men sought in the companionship of a new woman that sympathy and ministrations which, for one reason or another, they found no more in their families.

The profession of Abishag has always been a perilous one. The late flower of sentiment blooming amid the snows of age may seem charming to disinterested observers, but not to children waiting to get their hands upon the old gentleman's goods and chattels.

Then come the evil days. No bitterness is so bitter as the bitterness of sweet love turned. Two people can hate each other with the wholeheartedness of two that have loved. No misunderstanding is so ocean-wide as that which develops from perfect accord.

This is the tragedy of Fathers and Sons, which has been on the stage since the days of Adam and Cain, or Noah and Canaan, or David and Absalom.

If you've a grown son, old man, and if you've an old father, young gentleman, and you're good pals, and like each other, why, you may thank your lucky stars!

After all, one of the most intricate problems for human beings is how to adjust enforced intimacies. We can get along with our friends and acquaintances, because we select them, and if we do not like them we can drop them. But you cannot drop a father, nor a son. They remain as close to you as your ear to your cheek, and a better comparison might be sometimes to say, as a ball to your neck. Few people have the moral courage to go away far enough from their relatives to get along with them. And often circumstances prevent removal.

It is then that we realize that the problem of dealing with those persons whom Fate has decreed shall be always with us is, after all, but a part of the great problem of self-control.

The Spare Bedroom

When I go 'way from home a spell to visit in a place what's new, I always have a dread around that makes me see both pink and blue.

I am a scared they'll lead me off to rest my dreary, swimming head, and put me in between cold sheets that dwell upon that one spare bed.

That old spare bed, it used to camp in places where the shadows loom, somewhere within the sacred walls of what was called the one spare room.

Ah, well I mind on winter's night when I'd be sittin' by the fire, the folks would beckon unto me to trudge along and go up higher.

I'd take my little grin and shiver, I'd follow like a lamb bein' led, and up them squeaky stairs what's leadin' to where they parked that old spare bed.

'Twas awful quiet away up there, the frost it camped upon the glass, a coal oil lamp was doin' its best to keep up with the city gas.

And then then sheets, them snowy sheets, just one degree from zero mark, they seized upon my shins and bunions and struck 'em awful in the dark.

It makes me think the world is better, at least that's how it seems to me, 'cause there ain't nearly half the number of spare beds what there used to be.

Begone, those slumber cots, begone, that only work one week in four, I'd rather have one woolly blanket and snore upon the kitchen floor.—ARK.

The Vulgar Rich

(From the Manchester Guardian.)

A writer in the Manchester Guardian puts very clearly the facts about the poverty in Germany and the luxurious living of the German tourists in Italy and Switzerland. The complaint of English visitors about the German tourists has recently been frequent and severe; they live in the best hotels and spend money freely, and in the opinion of those who see them and those who hear about them, show no signs of concern for the masses of the needy and distressed at home. These individuals are, in fact, only a small proportion of the German people who have made money out of the depreciated exchange or by common profiteering and are now having a "good time" in disregard of the suffering at home. There is a class of this kind in every country, and it justly gives offence to those who resent its ostentation and callous selfishness. It is a class that no government can "get at" with complete success, for however severe taxation upon the rich may be, there is always a section who, with ample means to spare for private benevolence, remain luxurious and self-centred. What we must not do is to allow a just indignation against such offenders to obscure the suffering of the middle, the professional, and the working classes in Germany, of which there is the most conclusive evidence.

Races For Model Boats.

Showing At Hobby Fair Gives Rise To Suggestion For a Practical Test of Same.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I have a suggestion to offer to you in connection with the Hobby Fair. Could you not promote a race or sailing test for model boats? There are quite a number of boys in this city who have made very fine model boats, and would welcome the opportunity of a sailing competition. I think it would stimulate a greater interest in that branch of the Hobby Fair. Arrangements could probably be made to hold the tests on the Thames Park swimming pool, say on May 24th and 25th, respectively. We have in London all kinds of competitive sports for boys from marbles to bicycle racing, why not model boat racing? It is a good clean sport, and has a very large following in England. The tests need not be conducted as in England, but can be modified to suit conditions, as the boys here have not the same facilities here that they have over there for boat sailing. I have roughly outlined a few tests and rules, subject to your approval, and enclosed herewith.

Being greatly interested in boys' work and welfare I am submitting this proposition to you with the approval of Mayor Wenige for your consideration. I am willing to assist in any way I can to put this over, also will contribute a prize if the tests can be arranged. Thanking you for your time and consideration and hoping to hear favorably from you I remain yours respectfully,

The market for Mabou coal

UNQUESTIONABLY, the principal market for Nova Scotia Coal is eastward from the Ottawa river.

Ontario cannot be a factor in the marketing of Nova Scotia coal until coal can be water hauled from the mines without breaking bulk, or until coking plants can be established on the St. Lawrence or further west.

But last year—for 12 months ending March 1st, 1924—Quebec used 6,517,000 tons of steam coal, of which only 1,700,000 came from Nova Scotia. The balance, 4,800,000 tons, was imported from the United States at no saving in cost, and with a duty of 53 cents a ton against United States bituminous coal.

The total output of Nova Scotia mines last year did not equal the consumption of Quebec.

It is obvious, therefore, that if Quebec could secure coal of the desired quality at a price equal to or less than that of coal imported from the United States, Quebec would purchase such coal. The market for Nova Scotia coal in Quebec is, therefore, limited only by the capacity of Nova Scotia mines to produce coal of satisfactory quality and at the right price.

Equally clear is it that under present conditions, United States coal is amply able to compete with the present supply of Nova Scotia coal in both quality and price. This is borne out by the complaint of one of the largest producers in Nova Scotia that it cannot find a market for half a million tons of its production of the current year.

In order to extend the market for Nova Scotia coal in Quebec two factors are necessary. They are simple but vital and may be stated in four words:—

Better and Cheaper Coal

This better and cheaper coal will be available to Quebec and the Maritime Provinces by the development of Mabou coal fields by

Atlantic Coast Collieries, Limited

These coal measures contain 150,000,000 tons of easily mineable coal, 25% of which is better than any other coal in Nova Scotia and all of which can be brought to the surface for 50 cents a ton less than by any of the chief producers in Nova Scotia today—and enough of it to supply the entire Quebec and maritime markets at present rate of consumption for many years.

The coal from Mabou 8 ft. seam is the highest grade coal in Nova Scotia. It is higher in heating quality and lower in ash and sulphur than any other coal in Nova Scotia, or steam coal imported from the United States. Mabou coal, sold on an analysis basis, will command a premium over any coal now being used in Quebec.

The Mabou mines being practically a new operation will have a minimum underground haul in extracting coal, as the workable coal begins almost at the pit mouth.

ASSOCIATION HITS RUSH LEGISLATION BY GOVERNMENTS

Dominion Mortgage and Investment Association Opens National Annual Convention.

FAVOR INSPECTION

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, May 19.—The practice of law-making bodies to rush through important legislation in the closing hours of a parliamentary session was criticized by A. B. Fisher, vice-president of the Dominion Mortgage and Investment Association, at the opening session today of the annual convention.

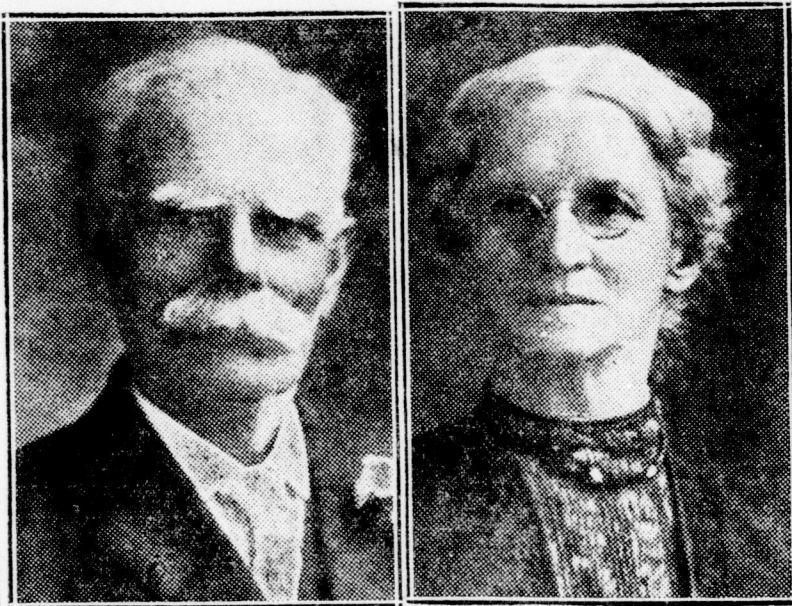

Representatives of the leading mortgage and investment organizations from all parts of Canada are in attendance.

In moving the report of the executive committee, A. B. Fisher, who presided in the absence of the president, J. C. Breckenridge, dealt briefly with the growth of the association.

"The association," said Mr. Fisher, "has given its support to such government inspection of assets as will insure the public safety, and it would seem desirable that this practice should be extended. It cannot be denied that reasonable government inspection is a contributing factor to good management. Nor can it be denied that the knowledge that such inspection exists and does result in and justifies an increase in public confidence."

The growing tendency on the part of the state to enter into business in competition with loan companies cannot be ignored, and, in our opinion, should almost invariably be discouraged. There is at the present time a demand that provision be made by the Dominion government for rural and intermediate credit, based on the suggestion that the present facilities are inadequate. However, in so far as the handling of credit on this continent has been entered that business the results would not appear to have justified the venture."

Mr. Fisher stated. "There are cases in some of our provinces where the effects of such legislation have been felt," the speaker continued. "Our legislators should realize that new legislation, particularly at a time like this, should be broadly constructive rather than petty restrictive. There appears to be no denying the fact we are today faced with the two necessities of prime importance. (1) The urgent need for more 'right' economy in government expenditure of public funds, with a view to early reduction in taxation. (2) More careful consideration on the part of governments and legislators when considering legislation of vital importance to the public interest, and a willingness on their part to discuss proposed legislation with those most likely to be affected thereby, and who may be in a position through long years of experience to render valuable assistance and advice."

Happy Reunion of Family Marks Diamond Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas

Well-Known Lambeth Couple Celebrate Passing of Sixty Golden Years.

GIFT OF SOVEREIGNS

Family Has Lived in Middlesex County For Half a Century.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas, Lambeth, who for the past fifty years have lived in Canada, celebrated the 60th anniversary of their wedding at their home last week, when five of their children and a joyful group of grand and great-grandchildren joined in making the event of their diamond celebration a happy one indeed.

Sixty years ago the marriage of Emma Robinson of Worlaby to Joseph Thomas of Elsham was solemnized by Rev. Richard Baty at Worlaby, Lincolnshire, England. Today the happy bride and groom of so long ago are still active and in the best of health. Ten years after their marriage the couple came to Canada, and brought with them three children. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas resided in Caradoc Township for 25 years and it was there that the remainder of the family was born. Later they moved where they are living at the present time.

Mr. Thomas is in his 80th year and his wife is 77, but despite their advanced ages they retain great interest in farming and are respected members and regular attendants of the North Street Methodist Church. Gifts and congratulations were received by the happy couple from all over the world, including New Zealand, England, Ireland and United States.

Their immediate family includes Mrs. J. W. Forsyth of Delaware, E. G. Thomas of Chicago, A. E. Thomas of Westminster, J. W. Thomas of Moose Jaw, E. J. Thomas of Mount Brydges, Mrs. W. G. Pierce of this city, and E. H. Thomas, living at home. No deaths have occurred in this happy family circle. Sixteen grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren greeted them on the gala day.

Two sons, J. W. Thomas of Moose Jaw and F. G. Thomas of Chicago, were the only ones absent from the big family reunion. Altogether 32 sat down to a sumptuous dinner at noon. A presentation to the couple of a purse of gold sovereigns was made by Mrs. J. W. Forsyth, on behalf of all the children. Mr. A. E. Thomas, after presentation, read a very pleasing address. Both Mr. and Mrs. Thomas replied in a very fitting manner.

HYDRO ASSOCIATION SELECTS OFFICERS

Sixty Delegates Attend Annual Meeting of Eugenia Group.

Canadian Press Despatch. Owen Sound, May 19.—With about sixty delegates present, the annual meeting of the Eugenia Hydro-Electric Association was held in Owen Sound this afternoon.

Officers elected were: Honorary president, John Legate; president, Dr. Roy Hacking; Tara; first vice-president, John Taylor, Hanover; second vice-president, H. Hurdon, Kincairdine; secretary-treasurer, C. Elvidge; executive committee, Dr. Fowler, Teeswater; C. J. Halliday, John Parker, Owen Sound; J. J. Lucas, Markdale; A. Flischie, Mount Forest; J. A. Richards, Grand Valley, and W. Holmes, Wingham.

The association will draw up a constitution, and the latter was left in the hands of the executive. With an idea of having an association which would cover the entire district now known as the Georgian Bay system, other systems, Muskoka, Waddell's and Severn, will be asked to form associations, and when this has been done the four will unite. The matter was finally left with the executive.

The superintendents and secretary-treasurers of local commissions will hereafter be eligible for membership and office in the Eugenia association. The invitation from Wingham to hold the next annual meeting there was unanimously accepted.

The gathering endorsed the stand of the provincial commission on the St. Lawrence power development, the Chicago drainage steal and on the matter of preventing private companies from securing power rights on the great waterways of the province.

METHODISTS HEAR FINANCES SOUND

Optimistic Report Goes Out To Twelve Annual Conferences in Canada.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 19.—Reporting to the twelve Methodist annual conferences assembling at various dates the next few weeks at as many different points in Canada and Newfoundland, the Methodist general department of finance gives as its judgment that, in consideration of the country's recent financial condition, the Methodist Church "has great reason for thankfulness that her enterprises have not lagged more than they have." Continued careful administration in all phases of the work and "the cultivation of sacrificial stewardship" among those whose spending power is unimpaired—these measures are urged in the report.

Gratification is expressed that the enlistment of Methodists as Christian stewards has been made "one of the great objectives of the missionary centenary." Hearty co-operation with the missionary department in this connection is reported.

A tendency toward increased fire losses on church property is deplored; hospitality of the press of Canada to the news of the church is noted, and the condition of the church and parsonage loan fund and other funds reviewed.

Loans on church property amount to $150,000 with 120 circuits thus receiving assistance in the building of suitable plants.

During the year the Methodist Church insurance commission wrote $2,189,180 insurance on connexional and local buildings.

Delegates to the Presbyterian General Assembly at Owen Sound will be given the usual high standard of Canadian Pacific service by a special train of parlor car, cafe car, and first-class coaches, leaving Toronto Union Station at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday, June 4, and arriving at Owen Sound at 4:50 p.m., standard time, with only one stop, West Toronto.

The shortest route will appeal to those attending the conference as will the excellence of the equipment. But four hours are spent on the train.

Full particulars may be obtained from any Canadian Pacific agent or M. J. McCallum, city passenger agent, 417 Richmond street, city.—Adv.

"Buenose" Youth Is Canada's Latest Olympic Quarter-Mile Hope

Capt. Cornelius Uncovers Find in Maritime Trials

Phil McDonald, Lanky 19-Year-Old Islander, Is Phenom, Coach Thinks.

IS 6 FT. 1 1/2 INCHES

Canadian Press Despatch. St. John, N. B., May 19.—The discovery of the makings of Canada's best quarter-mile hurdler and a possible victor in this event in the Olympic games in Paris is one result of his visit here, Captain J. R. Cornelius, head coach of the Canadian Olympic track and field athletes, believes.

Phil McDonald of Charlottetown is the "find." McDonald came to Rotherham to work with other aspirants from the Maritimes for places on the Canadian Olympic squad with the hope of getting a place in the broad jumping contingent.

Capt. Cornelius' eye took one look at the six-foot islander as he tore down the run and leaped from the take-off. He decided to put the watch on him to find whether he could sprint. It is reported that in the 220 yards he did better than the men who are trying out for the sprints, and in the quarter he made astonishing time.

Capt. Cornelius will endeavor to make arrangements for his return to Ontario for the further development of McDonald. Meanwhile the island boy will remain at Rotherham.

Capt. Cornelius was delighted with the calibre of the material assembled at Rotherham. He said that if he had three weeks to spend on these youngsters he thought that he could take them up to Hamilton with him and trim the track and field team which he had been coaching there.

Young McDonald is 19 years old and stands six feet one and one-half inches in height.

POOR SPORTSMANSHIP SHOWN BY FRENCH FANS

Victory of U. S. Team Fails To "Go Down" With Certain Element.

Paris, May 19.—Discussing the victory of the U. S. football team over the French in the Olympic contest yesterday, which occasioned a hostile demonstration on the part of the French spectators, the French sporting writers today all agreed that the visitors won on their merits as football players.

The principal reason for their success, in the opinion of L'Auto, leading sporting authority, was that "these picked athletes" followed, during a whole month, a course of training together which our team was unable to do.

The Frenchmen, it is alleged, were stale after a season of play lasting seven months. They had stopped training and were specially affected by the weather with the temperature at 50 in the shade. These, however, were but extenuating circumstances, the writers admit, the fact remains that France was fairly and squarely beaten by a team of greater speed.

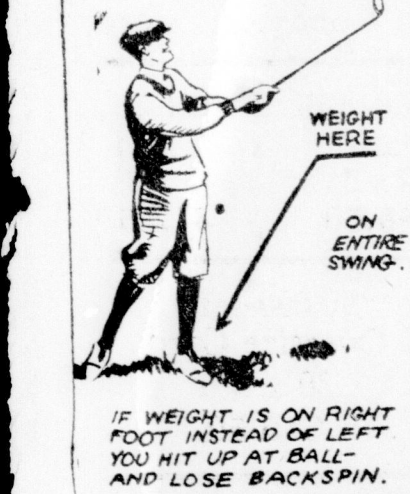

The newspaper experts are all over- come with disgust and indignation at the display of poor sportsmanship and ill-feeling among the ignorant section of the spectators, which they term entirely unjustified and uncalled for.

PLAYING THE MASHIE

IF WEIGHT IS ON RIGHT FOOT INSTEAD OF LEFT YOU HIT UP AT BALL AND LOSE BACKSPIN.

In playing the mashie, which leg should carry the balance of weight at the top of the swing?

Answered by WILLIAM MELHORN. "The St. John's Youngsters" whose batter keeping courage and sound hitting him to finish well up in all the tournaments he enters.

In playing the mashie, the left leg should carry the weight from the time you address the ball until you finish. If your weight is on your right foot, a number of things happen to destroy the efficiency of the shot, such as mostly hitting up at the ball, losing all backspin. Keeping your weight on the left leg will help develop backspin and give you more control in placing difficult mashie shots where you wish them to go.

Luther has been let go, as one of the first to be dropped by the London leader in order to get down to the limit by today. Luther was one of two rookie hurlers Beatty kept.

Have you noticed that Charley Hindt, former Kitchener and Sarnia baseball player, has been playing the red light corner for the Huns in the past two games?

George Stutz has been shifted to second, owing to the absence of Riley, whose injured finger has kept him idle.

I have no reason for saying so, still I would not be a bit surprised if Hindt stayed at third base when Riley gets back into action. In that event Stutz would be relegated to bench duty.

Stutz has not been fielding or hitting any too well. A lot of balls hit down the third base line have been going for hits, and it's no secret that George has been severely criticized by his team-mates for not covering more territory. George doesn't get balls driven on the right side of him. Hindt can gobble 'em up from either side.

Wetzel plays no favorites. He has shifted Stutz to second because he regards the infield stronger with Hindt at third. And if Hindt comes to play smart ball in his old position, Wetzel is not one to take him out of the game.

The answer will be forthcoming when Riley is ready for work again. Meanwhile Stutz will have a hard task pushing Hindt back onto the bench. Hindt is much younger than Stutz. That goes a long way when everything else is equal.

Harry Dayton of the Flint Journal lauds Lefty Achenbach to the blue and back for his performance in the game last Thursday when London emulated his own act in turning him the first attempt at a clever smart, heady pitching Mr. Dayton had seen this season. It was Achenbach's change of pace that the writer liked best—something that's very hard to master without letting the batters in on the secret. Achenbach was cool, and also handled the sluggers, and speeded and curved the lesser lights.

Indian baseball players always recall the exploits of Chief Bender and Chief Meyers, two aborigines who reached the heights in their chosen trade or profession. The Mint League has had no Indian players until this year, when Chief Nason turns up in London and Chief Provan as a first sacker with the Grand Rapids team. Williams, the Belleville amateur, has been added. Provan will be seen here in the series which starts today with the Homesteaders. Nason has shown some fair promise of use of a natural ball player. Both have plenty of faults to correct, especially in their hitting. Provan, according to accounts, is a third base hitter, the left-handed driver sizzling down past the danger corner. Nason has shown badly against curve ball pitching, and is inclined to let his knees too much. Otherwise both possess everything that should go to make them good ball players.

The last Indian player seen hereabouts was Chief Nevins, who used to play with St. Thomas in the old Canadian League days.

DUTTON NINE LINES UP STRONG THIS SEASON

Working Out Steadily Preparing To Open Against West Lorne.

Special to The Advertiser. Dutton, May 19.—Regular work-outs of the local baseball team are being held at the Athletic Park here and Eugene Saunders, pilot of the local nine, has every confidence of making a good showing in the West Elgin group of the O. B. A. this season.

The team will line up as follows: Catchers, Angus Fletcher, Walker; pitchers, G. Law and B. Fletcher; 1st base, Doc Hafele, D. Black; 2nd base, Jack Graham; 3rd base, Russ Braddon; short stop, Arnold Crawford; fielders, Bob Affleck, Kirkland, Humphries, snbs, Clark, Schouler, Snell, Reichheld.

As far as the hitting propensities are concerned, the manager has nothing to worry about, for they are undoubtedly a murderous crew. Arnold Crawford and Bob Affleck, who have the positions of center field and short stop well salted down, are real hitters and many others on the team will make a fine showing with the stick this year.

The opening ball game will be held at West Lorne Saturday. West Lorne will play the return game a week from Monday.

PETROLIA'S LACROSSE MIDGETS GOING GOOD

Petrolia, May 19.—The local midget lacrosse team is fast rounding into form for their opening series with Sarnia. THREADS OF COINCIDENCE. The motor bearing Kitchener sportsmen to the Woodbine broke down opposite a farmhouse near Oakville Saturday morning. Scotty Ferguson, former Londoner, now manager of the Seagram racing stable, told London friends at the course just before the King's Plate was run off. It was water they needed. As the farmer gave them the required liquid, he inquired if they were going to the races. They admitted it. He admitted that he had bred Maternal Pride, the Wilson entry.

Wonder if the same sentiment caused him to buy one little two-dollar flyer on the gelding? Anyway the Bate Brothers received $500, which goes to the breeder of the King's Plate winner.

Messrs. Bate have a yearling by McNeil, a foal by Alaskan. Mother, both sires being members of the band imported by four of the C. R. A. clubs four years ago.

WILL HYPNOTIZE GIBBONS. Someone has told Francois Descomps, Carpenter's manager, that Tommy Gibbons is sensitive to mental suggestion. That is the reason, according to a friend of the writer's, who crossed the ocean on the same steamer as the French fight party, that the wily, hypnotic Francois feels so certain that Georges is going to take Tommy.

As a matter of fact, it is to be suspected that Tommy has been known to yield to his imagination. He did with Harry Greb, if ever a man did. Yet with Dempsey he didn't. But perhaps this was because Jack Kearns was too busy trying to corral three hundred thousand dollars from the impoverished alms of Montana to bother with psychology.

Anyway, Descomps believes that his eye and Georges' right can turn the trick. That is the reason why Michigan City these days is being flooded with tales of the added force and velocity which has come to Carp's right as a result of his increased weight. All of which need not affect the mentality of a man as wise as Tommy, a man who knows that the fleshiness of middle age means a wastage of pristine power rather than increase thereof.

Gibbons has never been knocked down, and it is doubtful, even if Carp's right is as good as it was in 1921, when he smacked Dempsey with it, that the Frenchman can do it. Dempsey let out just one good one in the ring at Shelby which struck Gibbons just between the eyes. It was one of those wallops that sent Firpo to the canvas so repeatedly. Such was the force of it that blood was forced into both of Gibbons' eyes, and after the fight they were black down to his cheek bones. Yet Gibbons was not even jolted.

SEAGRAM'S DIGIT WINS WOODSTOCK

$5,030 Event's 30th Renewal Feature of Chilly Card.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 19.—Digit, Seagram's entry, won the Woodstock Plate this afternoon at the Woodbine in 1:50 3/4. Only three horses started. Unseasonably cool weather, cloudy sky and a nippy breeze prevailed here today for the second day of the Ontario Jockey Club's spring meeting.

The feature of this afternoon's card was the 38th running of the Woodstock Plate, a sweepstakes of $20 with $2,000 added, for 2-year-olds, run over a mile and a sixteenth. First run in 1885, when T. D. Hodges' Cartolina won it. The Woodstock Plate was run without interruption until 1918. On the resumption of racing in 1920, after two years' suspension, the Woodstock Plate was continued, with the distance shortened to a mile and a sixteenth. The record for the present course is 1:45, made by E. Loh's Star Jester two years ago.

The Queen's Hotel Cup, a handicap for 3-year-olds and upwards, over a mile and 7/16, with $1,500 added, four claiming races and the Hopeful steeplechase for maidens, 4 years and up, over the two-mile course, completed the program for this afternoon.

SIR GALAHAD WINS BY SHORT NECK

Epinar's Rider Out-Generalled in Lincolnshire Handicap.

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, May 19.—Sir Galahad III, winner of the Lincolnshire handicap, defeated Epinar, a French four-year-old, in their match race at St. Cloud today.

Sir Galahad III, ridden by Frank O'Neill, won by a short neck from his rival on which Epinar was ridden by the mount.

Brains and not horseflesh won the race in the opinion of experts at the track. The horses were incidental and the jockeys constituted the supreme factor in the match race.

When Sir Galahad passed Epinar, it was Jockey O'Neill of St. Louis who was the victor, triumphing over Jockey Haynes of the Bronx and Oklahoma Haynes, who only recently left the American hospital at Neuilly, where he had been confined by serious illness, could not cope with O'Neill who was fresh from his victories in the Lincolnshire stakes and the Kempton Park Jubilee handicap.

In a heart-breaking finish, Sir Galahad won by a short neck, literally shoved Sir Galahad's nose in front of Epinar while Haynes, sitting still on the pride of the French turf, was doing none too vigorously before the astounded multitude which had come to see Sir Galahad presented as an offering to the gods of racing.

Epinar was the overwhelming favorite at one to three. The winner paid little better than 2 1/2 to 1.

Was Close Finish.

Racing as a team both horses entered the stretch. Epinar slowly forging ahead until a hundred yards from the finish with O'Neill a length behind, giving the impression of riding a defeated horse. Epinar's breathless multitude of 60,000, the largest crowd ever attending the races at St. Cloud, with the exception of Easter Sunday, sheltered at the premier jockey of France dug his spurs into Capt. Cohen's horse and began whipping the faltering Sir Galahad. Haynes was taken by surprise. In short strides the son of Teddy forged ahead by inches ahead of Epinar whose tremor was visible to the multitude in the unbeatable spirit and driving power sitting astride Sir Galahad.

Captain J. D. Cohen's entry was as usual as used at the post, and spoiled three perfect starts, finally settling away flying with Epinar trailing listlessly behind. Epinar's horse was in two lengths behind at the furlong post, but moved up before reaching the half mile. Both horses were head-and-neck at four furlongs. Epinar's smooth and easy action caused the crowd to roar "Epinar win!"

Both Ran True.

Both horses ran true to form; the American-trained, American-bred Epinar lost to the British-trained, but American-bred Sir Galahad. Epinar's training camp sits in London, and Epinar is a "British" Galahad's balliwick. exults. The supremacy of the European turf, according to the racing experts, remains unshaken notwithstanding Sir Galahad's victory. It is felt that Pierre Wertheimer, owner of Epinar, made a mistake in giving Epinar eleven pounds.

"Are you satisfied with the race?" he was asked. "I have no complaint to make against Haynes, and would give him the mount tomorrow under similar circumstances. Haynes will ride my horse in England and the United States this summer."

"The defeat of Epinar does not change my opinion of the American trip as arranged. There is no condition attached to my contract. Epinar will refrain from racing in Europe just previous to his departure."

The race was run in rather slow time, 1:20, owing, apparently, to Haynes being unwilling to assume the lead, and a permitting O'Neill of Sir Galahad to get the jump on him at the start. The only fast furlong in the race was the fifth, when the horses raced neck and neck, until Haynes thought he had broken the spirit of his rival, only to discover too late that O'Neill and his mount had plenty of reserve.

The Shah of Persia attended the race. "Who is the favorite?" he inquired. "Epinar," was the reply.

Then he bet forty francs on Sir Galahad, commanded the Persian ruler.

MRS. ANDERSON TELLS WOMEN

How Backache and Periodic Pains Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Leslie, Sask.—"For about a year I was troubled with a distressing down-bearing pain before and during the periods, and from terrible headaches and backache. I hated to go to a doctor, and as I knew several women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with good results, I finally bought some and took four bottles of it. I certainly do recommend it to every woman with troubles like mine. I feel fine now and hope to be able to keep my medicine on hand at all times, as no woman ought to be without it in the house."—Mrs. OSCAR A. ANDERSON, Box 15, Leslie, Sask.

Mrs. Kelsey Adds Her Testimony
Copenhagen, N. Y.—"I read your advertisement in the papers and my husband induced me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to get relief from pains and weakness. I was so weak that I could not walk at times. Now I can do my housework and help my husband out doors too. I am willing for you to publish this letter if you think it will help others."—Mrs. HERBERT KELSEY, R.F.D., Copenhagen, N. Y.

Sick and ailing women everywhere in the Dominion should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before they give up hope of recovery.

What's Best For A Bad Stomach?

Nine-tenths of all stomach troubles—indigestion, sourness, gas, pain, heartburn, etc., are caused by an excess of acid in the stomach. Artificial digestives, such as pepsin, are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids, and instead neutralize the acid that has upset your stomach with a spoonful or two of Bisurated Magnesia. This instantly sweetens the stomach and stops the pain and discomfort and your food digests as nature intended. For quick, positive relief from Acid Stomach.

MEN AND HORSES

How closely related is man to the more intelligent of the animals is seen in many of the ailments to which both are prone and the remedies to which they answer.

Doctors and veterinarians are oftentimes surprised to learn of the similarity of their methods of handling the ailments of man and beast.

Sprains, burns, scalds, scratches and many other minor injuries, many everyday ailments, too in men and animals take the same course, and both answer immediately to the same treatment—Absorbine Jr.

Absorbine was first discovered by a very close student of the horse, W. F. Young, and by him devoted to its cause. Its very exceptional benefits, however, were promptly seized upon for the human race and, in a milder form, the preparation is sold all over the continent today as Absorbine Jr. It is used for men, women and children everywhere as a positive germicide—a germ killer—and a prompt and certain healer of all hurts. It is useful not only for all the purposes served by ordinary liniments and embrocations, but as a mouth-wash and for anything else where a germicide is needed. Don't wait until you need it. Get it in the house today. $1.25 at your druggist's.

U. S. SOLDIERS ARE TO RECEIVE BONUS

MAY AFFECT TAXES

Associated Press Dispatch.
Washington, May 19.—The soldiers' bonus bill finally has become law.

The measure, which has been the subject of a fight between the United States Congress and two successive presidents, was repassed today by the Senate over President Coolidge's veto by a vote of 59 to 26.

This was a margin of two votes more than the necessary two-thirds majority as compared with the 51 votes there were to spare when the veto was overridden in the House last Saturday.

President Coolidge made a futile last-minute effort to have his veto sustained in the Senate, calling to the White House for a breakfast conference seven Republican senators. Four of these, who had previously voted for the bill, cast their ballots in support of the executive.

Altogether there were only five senators who had supported the bill on its first passage to vote against it today. The last move of the administration was to seek delay in the vote until Saturday.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, assistant Republican leader, who had charge of the bill, moved for a vote, and was joined by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, in suggesting that debate was unnecessary.

While House officials, in discussing the senate action, emphasized that the Mellon tax-reduction program was predicated on the assumption that there would be no bonus legislation. While they refused to say so directly, they left the impression that Congress having decided on a bonus, hope of material tax reduction must be abandoned.

Secretary Mellon was not prepared to discuss the effect of the bonus on the treasury's financial program, but he said that "sooner or later there must be provision for payment, and it can be met only by new taxes."

The soldiers' bonus has been variously estimated at from $2,255,000,000 to $4,000,000,000, treasury officials making the higher estimate. The only cash provided for is $50 to each service man not entitled to more than that in adjusted service credit. Others would receive a paid-up twenty-year endowment insurance policy.

Shatter Dreams of Bandit Girl

Canadian Press Dispatch.

Toronto, May 19.—A sentence of six months' imprisonment registered today, cut short Molly Pennington's dreams of becoming a "hobbed-haired bandit." Molly came to Canada from the old country to become a domestic servant, but developed other ambitions. One of her letters written to a male associate asking for a revolver and a "gang to break into jewelry stores and rob houses" was produced in court, where she was charged with vagrancy. She may also be deported.

WHITE WOULD HAVE BANKS WATCHED

Former Finance Minister Suggests Regular Inspections by Government Officials.

WOULD END FRAUDS

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, May 19.—Regular inspection of the head offices of Canadian banks by finance department officials was suggested by Sir Thomas White, former minister of finance, toward the conclusion of his argument before the Home Bank commission this afternoon.

Sir Thomas, in supporting his contention that the placing of outside auditors in a bank might be provocative of very serious results to the institution, declared that the difficulty was one of long standing. "Every minister of finance in the past thirteen years has felt himself in a very grave dilemma when he received a complaint regarding the condition of a bank," he said. Ministers were without the means for taking action which would give them impartial information as to the condition of the bank without impairing the position of the institution. Regular inspection by the officials of an especially established bureau of the finance department would prevent the perpetration of such gross frauds as in the case of the Home Bank. They must be real inspection and not a mere audit, however.

The former finance minister who began his argument on Friday afternoon, and continued it this morning, did not finish until this afternoon. He was followed by R. A. Reid, who is appearing before the commission on behalf of a number of shareholders opposed to payment of the double liability.

Work For Cabinet.
Mr. Reid insisted that provision should be made in the bank act for bringing complaints as to the solvency or insolvency of a bank to the whole government. A single cabinet minister should not be charged with the power of determining whether or not a bank required to be inspected. He contended that the Home Bank, which was an outgrowth of the Home Savings and Loan Society, had not been legally incorporated and that the process of transforming the society into a bank was also illegal.

Apparently some of those interested in the bank society "had seen the storm clouds gathering" and felt that there was some danger of the large loans not turning out well, and had decided to shift them over to a bank. As a result, Mr. Reid claimed, the bank, at its very inception, was saddled with these large obligations.

He criticized Hon. T. A. Crea, former shareholder and director of the bank, for not pressing the condition of the bank upon the attention of his colleagues when he entered the Union government, stating that both Mr. Crea and the United Grain Growers had sold their stock and escaped the required liability.

Pauperized Investors.
Mr. Reid contended that until provision was made for government audit of banks, bank stock should not be regarded as a legitimate investment for trust funds. He claimed that the Home Bank had pauperized people who had invested money in the institution.

Mr. Reid claimed that M. J. Haney, who had been associated with the bank since its inception, knew that false statements in regard to the condition of the bank were being given out. The annual reports of the bank were "budded" for the purpose of misleading the public, and selling stock.

Surely Mr. Haney, even though under the doctor's care, could furnish the commission with a statement in regard to his association with the bank, said Mr. Reid. Not once had the former president (Mr. Haney) come out into the open and given testimony.

Mr. Reid will continue his argument tomorrow morning. He will be followed by Eugene Lafleur, K.C., and H. J. Symington, K.C., for the government. There is a possibility that this phase of the investigation will conclude tomorrow, but it is more likely to go over until Wednesday.

Was Deceived.
Sir Thomas White emphasized the fact that he was deceived as to the real condition of the institution. He supported this statement by quotations from letters received by him when finance minister. One, dated March 23, 1919, signed M. J. Haney, president, and Z. A. Lash, solicitor of the Home Bank, was written following the reorganization of the management. This letter stated that Messrs. Haney and T. A. Crea had reported favorably on the Frost timber limits, that Mr. Haney thought the New Orleans loan could be pulled through, and that "the board expressed the opinion unanimously that if a proper time was given to do what was necessary to bring about the result indicated, they would be able to succeed."

Sir Thomas insisted that if he had closed the Home Bank after receiving the letter there would have been a cry to heaven against his injustice. "People would have claimed that I was in league with the big interests. I believe that if I had closed the bank a cry would have gone out that it was the most sacrilegious thing done since the time of Martin Luther," he declared.

As for the complaints of the western directors of the bank, Sir Thomas claimed that their attitude had shown considerable variation. In the first place, they complained against certain accounts, but did not ask an investigation. Secondly, they asked for an outside investigation. And, finally, when the management was reorganized, Hon. T. A. Crea had come to Ottawa, said that the bank's condition was improved, and declared against an independent investigation. He had every confidence in Mr. Crea. Sir Thomas reminded the commissioner, "What would your lordship have done if you had received that letter?" he asked.

Accepted the Report.
Finally, the former minister dealt with the MacHaffie letter of August, 1918, making charges against the bank directors and management. Such letters are frequently received in the finance department, and nine out of ten are based on a quarrel or on pure spite," he said. "Most people that write such letters have axes to grind." However, he claimed that he had taken the letter seriously. It was the usual course to refer such letters to the board of the bank concerned in order to allow them to answer the charges, and this had been done. The answer has been a unanimous report from the board denying the MacHaffie charges, and intimating that he was inspired by Ananias in making them. Sir Thomas said he was of the opinion that the board of the bank was honest, and he accepted the report.

Continuing his argument at this morning's sitting of the Home Bank commission, Sir Thomas White, former finance minister, placed on record the claims of the bank which were "mandatory" and those which were "permissive." He contended that section 56a of the act came into the latter category. This is the section under which an inspection of a bank may be ordered by the minister. He also quoted further extracts from authorities to illustrate his point, made at last sitting, that the decisions of a minister or ex-minister are subject only to criticism by parliament. Sir Thomas emphasized the fact that he referred only to "unconditioned, honest executive, discretionary action by a minister."

PREMIER REPLIES IN MITCHELL CASE

Explains Meaning of Laurier-Fielding Tariff—Election Date Undecided.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, May 19.—The date of the by-election in the St. Antoine division of Montreal, formerly represented by Hon. W. G. Mitchell, has not been decided, Premier King announced this afternoon when questioned by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader. Mr. Meighen asked specially for an answer in view of the fact that Mr. Mitchell's resignation was "destined to test public opinion." The premier said that an announcement would be made of the date as soon as a decision had been reached. He laid on the table of the House the correspondence between Mr. Mitchell and himself.

The premier, in reply to Mr. Mitchell's letter announcing his resignation, wrote in part as follows: "The phrase 'Laurier-Fielding tariff policy' can have no meaning other than a policy on tariff matters in accordance with the principles advocated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding. This, indeed, would appear to be your own view."

"The tariff changes proposed in the present budget are completely in accord in principle and otherwise with the measures consistently and persistently advocated and practiced by Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Fielding while in office from 1896 to 1911, and as advocated by them both prior to and subsequently to that period."

"As to what Sir Wilfrid Laurier's views and wishes were with respect to tariff revision in the event of the Liberal party being returned to power, there would appear to be, in your own case, no room for doubt, since you accompanied Sir Wilfrid through Western Canada in his last appeal to the electors in the general elections of 1917, at which time reduction of duties on the implements of production and a revision of the tariff in the interest also of consumers were a part of Sir Wilfrid's manifesto in that campaign."

The BREATH of the AVENUE TRAVEL FASHIONS

Costumes that will travel east and west and north and south this summer are already predicted by the women we see boarding the great liners, taking the fast trains, and motoring in town and out of town.

The woman who travels always considers her costume with a careful eye to the whole effect. She is going into foreign countries, or at least into different states, where the people she meets will judge her by a first keen glance.

This year, when there is so much emphasis on the ensemble effect, the traveller finds it is easy to select a complete costume to satisfy the most critical stranger. And she finds that this complete costume is the smartest of all, whether she travels or stays at home.

There are two types of costumes which are worn now by fashionable travellers. The women who wear them will be in step with the mode everywhere, no matter where they travel.

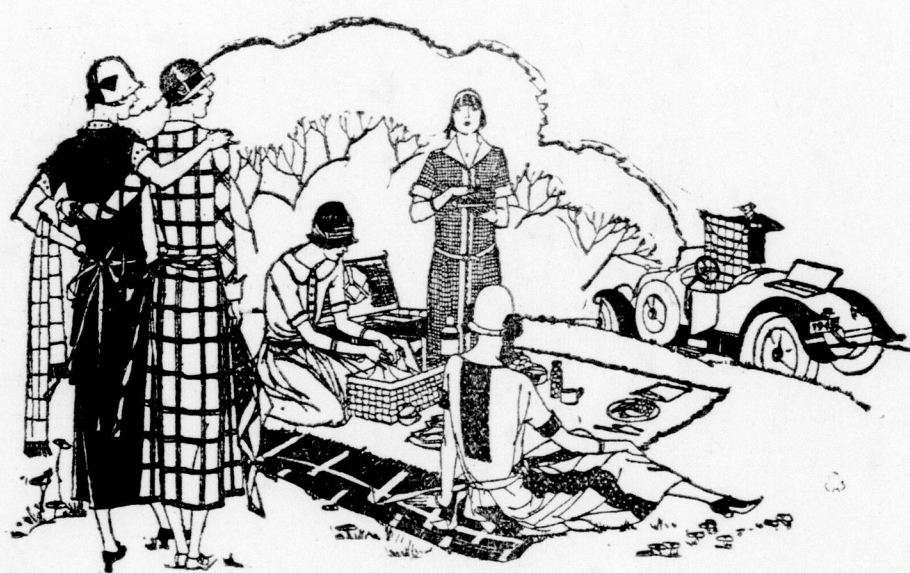

First for travelling comes the coat and dress ensemble. The ensemble costume may be worn for the short trip, and in between times on the long one. The straight, simple coat and the dress that goes with it will be worn by cosmopolitan society stopping at the Ritz and other fashion-knowing hotels on their way around the world.

When the coat is black or navy blue, it is easy to find a black or blue silk frock to match. And a couple of simple dresses of printed silk, or a tunic blouse and a skirt that matches the coat, take up very little room in a suitcase, and can introduce great variety into the costume idea.

The complete tailored costume may be worn with equal success on the deck of a liner, on the train, or in a car. Such an outfit usually begins with a tailored suit or dress. The traveller who agrees with the passengers who come and go on the Olympic, the Majestic or the Berengaria these days chooses her suit or dress either in dark twills, blue or black or Oxford gray, or brown covert.

Finally the traveller always includes a bright handkerchief or scarf in the scheme of her costume. For even if she does not tuck it in a pocket, or wind it about her throat, she has need of it to wave a gay greeting or a cheerful farewell.
