PICKPOCKET JUMPED TRAIN AT BRANTFORD

Story of Passengers on a Train Near This City.

Robbers Later Tried to Bribe Man They Had Robbed.

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 5.—Charles Crowley and Ancil Dublin, two well-known pickpockets, who are said to have operated on trains in Western Ontario for some time, are being held by the local police, with a view to securing their deportation. The men are charged by Joseph Malakoff with having picked his pocket on a Grand Trunk express last night while he was travelling from Montreal to Chicago.

Malakoff claims that while he was on the train east of Brantford three men crowded about him and relieved him of $23 and a railway ticket to Chicago. One of them jumped off the train at Brantford when he was pointed out, while Crowley intercepted Malakoff and endeavored to engage him in conversation as he commenced a pursuit. Later, when Dublin approached Malakoff and offered him $15 to forget his trouble Malakoff accepted the money, but also arranged with the conductor for the arrest of the men by Detective Sergt. Nickle at London. It was claimed by Malakoff that Dublin, together with giving him the $15, by a dexterous move returned the missing money to Malakoff's pocket.

Gypsy Gang Make a Clean Up in Quebec—They are in Trouble.

QUEBEC, July 5.—A band of Brazilian gypsies who made their way from Calgary, where they say they went twenty years ago, arrived in Quebec a week ago and encamped on Lewis Heights. Three of the women were arrested yesterday for telling fortunes and sent to jail under the vagrant act in default of paying a fine of $20 each. They not only paid the fine in the jail, but deposited an extra $100 as bail to appear again in the police court this morning. Later two others of the gang were arrested for theft. This morning a dozen citizens appeared in court and declared they had been robbed by the first three arrests. The police will now round up the rest of the gang.

A Sad Reunion.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 5.—Two brothers and a grandson of Joseph Braden were drowned last night when a family reunion. A warm day led them to bathe in a local river, and all drowned after stepping off a log bar.

MAN THROWS HIMSELF IN FRONT OF RACE HORSE.

In the race for the Assort Gold Cup, as the field was approaching the final bend at a hot pace, a man threw himself in front of the favorite, Tracery, and brought horse and rider to the ground. The jockey, fortunately, was not hurt and the horse, picking himself up, finished the course rideless. In the above picture doctors are seen attending to the badly wounded disturber of the race.

NEGRO HAD CLOSE CALL

NEWPORT, R.I., July 5.—Ten thousand people, men and women, witnessed a riot on Newport beach last night, when a negro, fleeing from a sailor he had stabbed in the back, shot and killed a 14-year-old boy. For nearly an hour police reserves battled desperately with the mob, which was determined to get possession of the colored man. Only by carrying him into the surf and holding him in the water up to his neck beyond the reach of the crowd did the police succeed in retaining him.

JOINS HER FAMILY BY TAKING POISON

Young Jewess at London Ends Life as Result of Melancholia.

These Will be Forwarded to Addresses by the Authorities.

LONDON, Ont., July 5.—Unable to withstand an attack of melancholia to which she had been subject since some months ago, Sadie Falk, an eighteen-year-old Jewish girl committed suicide yesterday afternoon by swallowing carbolic acid in her room at 107, Dundas Street. She was found dead when discovered and lived only a few minutes after being admitted to Victoria Hospital.

MONTREAL HARD HIT BY THE HEAT

MONTREAL, July 5.—Three deaths and a score of prostrations have resulted from the hot spell during the past twenty-four hours, while seven people have died during the last week of the heat. Last night's victims were John Brown, a laborer, who succumbed while working in a foundry, Miss Ethel Bassant, who died in her home on Dorchester street, and Frank Keegan, who succumbed in the streets.

Baby Untouched.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., July 5.—Mrs. L. O. Bradley, wife of a prominent merchant here, was instantly killed yesterday by a bolt of lightning. When killed the woman carried a small baby, and it was uninjured.

WAR IS NOW CERTAIN DISGRACEFUL INCIDENT

LONDON, July 5.—A disgraceful incident marked the arrival at Belgrade to-day of 1,384 Bulgarian prisoners of war, according to a special from the Serbian capital. The prisoners were marched through the streets in the presence of immense crowds of Servians, who closed in cheering wildly at the rear of wagons loaded with wounded lying three deep, many of them, apparently dying. Even this did not stop the outbreak of the mob, and the correspondent adds that peace between the two nations is impossible after this.

FLAG INCIDENTS WERE PLENTIFUL

Stars and Stripes Received Some Rough Handling Out West.

WINNIPEG, July 5.—When the One Hundredth Regiment was returning from Sewell Camp yesterday, a waiter stepped to the curbing in front of the Union Bank, and waving the Stars and Stripes shouted, "Hurrah for the American Eagle." Cal J. B. Mitchell, in command of the Regiment, ordered one of his men to request the American to put away the flag. Before the soldier could comply several civilians preceded him. One of them grabbed the flag and threw it into the street, where it was torn and trampled under the feet of the soldiers. A free fight followed, and several of those who took part received black eyes and cut faces. The young man escaped serious injury. Another flag incident occurred at Moose Jaw. Waving two American flags on Main street, an American was set upon by a score of youths. The Stars and Stripes were trampled into rags, and the American enthusiast was rolled in the mud. Later, an American attempted to raise a flag on top of a lamp post. It was torn down and a free fight ensued.

Methodist Chapel Prey To Militants

LONDON, July 5.—A Methodist chapel in the Welsh seacoast town of Pwllheli, whose construction recently cost $40,000, was destroyed by fire this morning and an attempt was made also to burn down the Baptist tabernacle in the same town. This is the fourth case of sacrilege in northern Wales during a week. As is usual when an incendiary fire occurs at the present time the militant suffragettes are suspected by the authorities but no evidence was found to incriminate them.

BRITAIN CELEBRATES GREATEST BLUNDER

The London Times' Comment on July Fourth Festivities.

LONDON, July 5.—The Times in an editorial on Independence Day, referring to the fact that the celebration of the Fourth has become an Anglo-American festivity, says: "It has become one of the established functions of British life, and we who rarely commemorate the triumphs of our history make an annual point of joining with Americans in celebrating its greatest disaster. Such a spectacle as is seen twice a year in London, all Englishmen eulogizing Washington's memory and honoring Independence Day, would be well nigh unimaginable anywhere else. 'One never at any rate, hears of Austrians banding together to celebrate Kossuth's birthday, or of Cavour and Garibaldi being acclaimed in Vienna, or of Madrid celebrating the deeds and fame of Bolivar, or of Poles being proclaimed as the coming one of the national heroes of Russia; and probably there are few who stop to think what it signifies when Englishmen make a feast day of July 4th, and publicly venerate the name of Washington. Honoring Britain's Humiliator. It means in the first instance that they are celebrating the most tragic blunder in British history, and in the second that they are paying tribute to the memory of the man who brought Britain to the depths of humiliation and impotence. It has come to be a sort of annual penance. Year after year this old and ugly nation dons the white sheet, and through the mouths of some of her most eminent sons expresses contrition for her share in the American Revolution. Four mistakes were great, we have at least amply, sincerely and repeatedly admitted it."

Was Killed

BERLIN, Ont., July 5.—Daniel Wicks, of Stratford, aged 32, who was riding on the bumpers of a Grand Trunk freight train at 12:30 o'clock, fell off and was run over at the Weber street crossing. Conductor Cooper heard him groaning while passing along the top of the cars and stopped the train. Although the lower part of the body was terribly mangled, he did not lose consciousness, and lived three hours after the accident.

ANARCHY HOLDS SWAY IN JOHANNESBURG, TRANSVAAL

Striking Miners Attack Trains and Do Much Damage.

Police and Troops Are Unable to Restore Order.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, July 5.—Bloody riots connected with the general strike of the gold miners on the Rand, which yesterday caused the death of four civilians and the wounding of fifty others, in a fight between the strikers and the troops, continued throughout the night. At midnight a mob looted a gunsmith's store, and firing became general. Squads of cavalry with drawn swords, patrolled all the streets, frequently charging and scattering groups of rioters, who constantly collected again in order to loot the stores and to destroy the electric lamps, the light from which helped the troops to discover the disturbers' whereabouts. Firing was incessant for hours after midnight in the riot area, and many further casualties occurred, but it was impossible to obtain accurate details. There were repeated cavalry charges and fusillades, accompanied by the crashing of windows, shouting and wild confusion, and the rushing hither and thither of excited mobs. All this took place in virtual darkness, during which the constant flitting to and fro of ambulances and Red Cross attendants created the impression that very serious incidents were occurring, and it was easily possible under the circumstances to exaggerate the number of casualties and the damage done. The police and troops showed great restraint throughout the affair. JOHANNESBURG, July 5.—Four civilians were killed and fifty wounded in a midnight riot connected with the miners' strike. The cavalry made repeated charges against the mobs and wild confusion continued throughout the night with most of the streets in darkness, the lamps having been destroyed by the rioters. The situation which arose here last night was never equalled in the checkered history of this country. The mob which seized the railway station at Johannesburg and the Braamfontein siding some half a mile away, were unrestricted masters of the situation and had the railway officials at their mercy, while the troops and police were engaged in other parts of the city. The rioters held up all outgoing trains. The station master appealed to the ringleaders to allow the trains to leave with women and children hastening out of the danger zone. The ringleaders promised to do so, but never fulfilled their promises. Later, when the police got the upper hand, an attempt was made to dispatch the southern mails. This was the signal for a savage onslaught by the mob with sticks and stones. The police within the building were overpowered. In the meantime an enormous crowd gathered outside. Mounted troops charged them three times and the rioters retaliated with stones and bullets. By nine o'clock at night the situation was extremely grave. The Park station was in flames and incendiary fires were setting fire to large buildings. The Star building was ignited from rear and soon also was a mass of flames. Mounted forces galloped up but found it impossible to take control. They were jeered when they called on the rioters to cease their disorders. At first the troops and police refrained from using their firearms, but later fired over the heads of the rioters, who continued to shower them with stones and bottles. The second volley was fired into the crowd with the effect of somewhat cowing the rioters. Reinforcements of dragoons by continued charges finally scattered the rioters. Made Two Mistakes. LONDON, July 5.—The Johannesburg correspondent of the Daily Mail sends the following: "The authorities blundered, first, in taking advantage of an old Dutch law to prohibit a meeting of the strikers, and second, in permitting the strikers to enter the square to hold a meeting. "The mob raged round the town, breaking all the windows and looting the gunsmiths' shops. During the course of the riots a striker was trampled and terribly injured. The offices of the Village Main Reef mine were completely wrecked after three policemen guarding them had been beaten into insensibility. "The strikers will stick at nothing. It is feared that many of the mines will be flooded. "The general opinion is that the government ought to have crushed the riot vigorously at the outset. The strikers are armed and have large quantities of explosives."

OPPOSING COUNSEL IN THE SACKVILLE CASE.

Sir J. Carson, counsel for Lord and Lady Sackville, who are seeking to establish their right to a fortune of $2,000,000 left to them by Sir John Edward Arthur Murray Scott, made a telling address in opening the case for his clients. Mr. F. E. Smith is the opposing counsel.

FIRE BUGS GET THEIR WORK IN

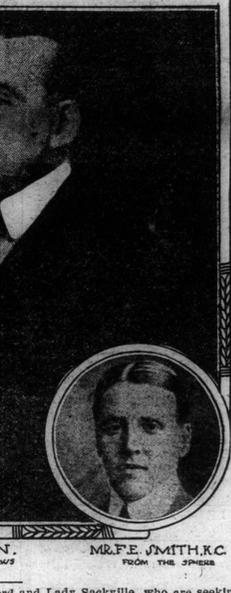

St. John, N.B., Has Been a Prey to Incendiarics.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 5.—Fire after fire, evidently incendiary, has been worrying the police and fire departments, and last night one of the worst outbreaks occurred, causing some $25,000 loss to Harvey Brown's corn meal mill in City road. A woman living nearby saw a man with an electric flashlight breaking into the place. She sent for the police, but before they arrived the fire had broken out. Two arrests have been made during the firebug reign. One was sent to the Asylum for the Insane and the other is held on remand, but the work with the torch goes on.

The Leanders Win Big Race

HENLEY, Eng., July 5.—The Leander Boat Club to-day won the Grand Challenge Cup for eight-oared crews by beating Jesus College, Cambridge. Leander's time was 7 minutes, 11 seconds. This is the last day of the royal regatta.

SITE FOR DRILL HALL IS SECURED AT BRANTFORD. Government Purchases Corner Lot at Cost of $15,500—Contract Let for Public Building at Brantford. OTTAWA, July 5.—A site for a new drill hall has been purchased at Brantford, Ont., located at the corner of Brant Avenue and West streets. The price is $15,500.

DESECRATION OF NATIONAL FLAG

United States Department is Called Upon to Investigate Matter.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Two incidents, involving desecrations of national flags which marked celebrations yesterday are expected to form the subject of complaints to the State Department, though so far nothing has been heard from them. The affair at Winnipeg, Man., involving the trampling of an American flag at a parade, probably cannot be made the basis of an official protest, for the reason that international law does not guarantee the protection of flags of a foreign country except where they are displayed over official buildings. In the Tucson, Ariz., incident, however, where the flag over the Mexican consulate was torn down, the State Department probably will feel obliged to request the local authorities to make a proper apology and amend to the Mexican consul, if that can be done without involving any official recognition of the Huerta government, which appears to be the great apprehension of the State Department at this juncture.

Deal Is On.

TORONTO, July 5.—The Monetary Times learns an arrangement is in progress for the reinsurance of the Home Life Association of Canada by the Sun Life. There is every prospect says The Times that this deal will be consummated in the near future. The terms proposed are said to fully secure the policyholders and to have the approval of the Department of Insurance.

CHARLES DURBOROW FORCED TO LEAVE THE WATER WHEN NEAR GOAL

Charles Durborow, the Philadelphia amateur, failed to accomplish the never performed feat of swimming from the Battery in New York city, to Sandy Hook. He was in the water for seven hours and thirty-four minutes and had covered twenty-one and one-half miles and had but one-half a mile to go. He could see the sandy beach of Sandy Hook, he had the strength, but the tide had turned and he found it useless to swim against it. Mr. Durborow has been the nearest of any of the swimmers who tried the feat, the next nearest having to quit two and a half miles from the goal. Captain Webb, the famous professional swimmer, tried it in 1888 and failed, and said that no man could accomplish the swim. NUTTIN DOWN WITH THE TIDE HAS TURNED. CHARLES B. DURBOROW. THE EARLY BIRDS AT THE BATTERY WAITING FOR DURBOROW'S ARRIVAL. DURBOROW HAD TO GIVE UP THE FIGHT A HALF MILE FROM THE GOAL.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE CLUBS

The annual report of the Farmers' Institutes for the Province of Ontario, relates the accomplishment of a great deal of beneficial work. In the Institute campaign of 1907-08, a few Farmers' Clubs were established, and from year to year since, through the efforts of the Institute lecturers and the District Representatives of the Department of Agriculture, the work has been extended.

The markedly beneficial results both to the individual and to the community, following the organization of farmers for the purpose of studying, discussing and debating agricultural problems, and improving themselves in a literary and social way, at a number of places throughout the Province, years ago, even before Farmers' Institutes were organized, and the benefits resulting from the work of similar societies formed within the past few years, give assurance in emphasizing the importance of this work.

Well, this braggadocio gentleman speaking recently in Owen Sound in connection with the coming by-election in North Grey, said that he dared Mr. Hanna to come into the riding and answer questions which he would put to him.

Mr. Hanna has promptly responded with the intimation that he will address a meeting at Owen Sound, to which Mr. Proudfoot is invited, and will be given ample time.

It is now up to that worthy, to face the ordeal in a manly way. If he does there cannot be any doubt as to the issue; if he doesn't, that fact will show that he is a quitter.

For some time now this paper has been emphasizing the fact that Ontario is by far the best of all the provinces, and that she leads, and always will lead, in natural and mineral resources, industrial activity, and everything else.

The glamor of the West has led many to overlook the pre-eminent position and possibilities of this province, but a change has come. The awakening is most marked, and it is but the beginning of a marvellous expansion.

As we can deduce to some degree by considering what the much milder tightness in the money-market has already meant to us: We are paying big prices for money to-day, because money is scarce; and money is scarce largely because of the local blaze of war in the Balkans and the mobilization of the neighboring Powers to which it led. Had that blaze spread and had there been a universal European War, money would not have been "tight"—it would have been lost in the conflagration.

"Canadian issues" would simply not have gone to London at all. There would have been no capital in Europe to borrow. All that had not dived underground at the outbreak of war, would have been involved in the titanic life-and-death struggle.

We know what that would have meant to us. Railways which depended upon borrowed money to build, would have stopped building. Municipalities would have stopped street laying, sewer construction and any other civic works which must be financed by borrowed money.

Corporations which must float securities to carry out improvements or new extensions, could have done neither—they must have lived from hand to mouth, and waited for the storm to blow over. Industrial enterprises which required a little new capital to expand and prosper, must have done without it. The whole golden stream of borrowed money which now flows steadily in from Europe, fertilizing our virgin land and making the conditions of life here easier than anywhere else on the planet, would have been shut as by the firing of a signal gun.

A CHALLENGE ACCEPTED. Mr. W. Proudfoot, M.P.P., is the Liberal member of the Ontario House who seems to imagine that he has won for himself undying fame because he made charges against the personal honor of Sir James Whitney and Hon. Mr. Hanna—charges which he afterwards utterly failed to prove.

In fact on this point he was thus reported in The Toronto Globe: "Mr. Proudfoot said he refused to testify before the privileges and elections committee because he had not been allowed to produce his evidence; and all that he himself knew was hearsay."

THE PROBS

TORONTO, July 5.—An area of low pressure which was in the far west yesterday is now passing eastward across the great lakes. The weather is extremely warm from Ontario to the maritime provinces and cool in the western provinces. Rain has been general and heavy in western Ontario and scattered showers have occurred in northern Ontario and Quebec.

Lakes and Georgian Bay—Fresh to strong southwest winds, very warm and local thunderstorms. Sunday—West and northwest winds, mostly fair and becoming cooler.

Temperature.

Temperature for the last 24 hours: Highest 93; lowest 68. Same date last year: Highest 90; lowest 76.

Electric Light Bill.

The cost of lighting the city for the month of June amounted to $1,366.60.

Passed Accounts.

The Finance committee met last night and passed a number of accounts.

Just One Girl.

One baby girl was on the births recorded at the hospital last month.

Given Warning.

The contractors who are erecting the new theatre on Dalhousie street, were given to understand this morning that they were not to leave any more refuse on the sidewalk.

Barn Struck.

The barn on the farm of Mr. Thos. Carlyle, on the Paris Road, was struck by lightning during the storm yesterday afternoon and slightly damaged.

Income Taxes.

Mayor Hartman will make one grand effort to make certain government employees in the city pay their income tax. The matter will come up for discussion at the meeting of the Council on Monday night.

Mr. Hamilton Leaves.

Mr. H. H. Hamilton, Boys' Secretary at the local Y. M. C. A., is severing his connection with the work of the Brantford Association on Sept. 1. Mr. Hamilton will continue in Y. M. C. A. work.

Welcome Visitor.

Mr. C. D. Ashbaugh of the California Real Estate Exchange, Paso Bolles, California, writing, sending his subscription to The Weekly Courier, says: "Your paper is and has been for so many years a most welcome visitor."

Go to Hamilton.

The local Orangemen and the True Blue Lodge, to the number of about 90, will attend service to-morrow afternoon at Hamilton with the Hamilton lodges. The train leaves at 1.30 by special radial car.

A Request.

Representatives of the syndicate who purchased the Woodvatt property in the rear of the O.S.B. appeared yesterday with a view of having the said property taken into the city. The proposition was discussed at length, but no action whatever was taken in the matter.

A Cow Killed.

The electrical storm which passed over this district yesterday, was not so severe as has been, but it was too close to be comfortable for a while. It was the misfortune of Mrs. Bennett, 336 Rawdon street to have a cow killed during the night. The Hamilton and Brantford radial was tied up for a couple of hours yesterday afternoon.

Provisional Directors.

A meeting of those interested in the erection of a loft building in the city, was held in the city hall last night. A provisional board of directors were appointed for the purpose of applying for a charter for the company, were composed of Messrs Jos. Ham, A. K. Bunnell, T. E. Ryerson, J. A. Sanderson, J. Ruddy. As soon as the charter is obtained, the officers of the company and permanent board of directors will be chosen.

Got Mixed Up.

A party who recently moved to the city from a small place near Sault Ste Marie, got muddled on the market this morning. He purchased a quantity of meat from a butcher and left it saying that he had to do his marketing and would call for it later. When he went to get his meat he could not for the life of him tell from whom he had made the purchase. After asking pretty nearly every butcher on the market he finally found his Sunday roast.

Narrow Escape.

On Thursday night, an auto being driven down Darling St. at a pretty stiff rate of speed, came within a hair's breadth of being smashed into splinters by being hit by a train, which was coming along on the G.T.R. tracks. The driver of the car evidently did not take any precaution when nearing the crossing and had it not been for the prompt action of the brakeman on the train in flashing the stop signal to the engineer, who pulled his train immediately to a standstill, the driver of the car would probably have been killed.

Mr. Reg. Cinamond is in Toronto today.

Two adjourned cases were laid over until next week.

Frank Mills, a billed man, was fined $10.00 for obtaining liquor.

Steve Kovaka, for being drunk was assessed $3.00 or 30 days. He will pay the three.

Mr. W. Joyce, principal at the Central school is attending the summer school at Queen's University, Kingston.

Mrs. J. H. Adams, 158 George St., and son, Master Blake, left this morning for Kingston, to be the guest of Mrs. Sherman, 31 University avenue.

Went to Port Dover

About 350 took in the Wesley Sunday school excursion and picnic today at Port Dover. The special train carrying the pleasure seekers, left the Market street station at 8 o'clock.

Gone Yachting

Capt E. H. Newman left this morning for Hamilton where he will join a number of friends who are taking a yacht cruise down Lake Ontario. The party will attend the yacht races at Kingston next week.

Go to London.

The Brantford Intermediate lacrosse club are playing in London this afternoon. The following is the team: Shannon, Collins, Nichol, Ions, Martin, Kiersey, Hutton, Slattery, Hearn, Ryan, Duncan, Tyrell.

In the Ditch.

The big motor truck of Secord and Sons took a tumble in the mire yesterday in front of the farm of Judge Hardy. Several workmen had to work for hours before they could get the big machine back on the road.

Cattle Killed.

The storm yesterday afternoon caused a lot of destruction in the vicinity of Bright, Tavistock and Innerkip. Barns in this section had roofs blown off, trees were uprooted, and one farmer had seven head of cattle killed.

Gratis Treatment.

The city clerk received an account from the hospital authorities this morning amounting to $165.00, being amount due that institution for treating 74 patients sent there during the month of June on orders from the city.

Progressive Brantford.

The bank clearings for the first six months ending with June show a falling off in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Calgary and other cities as compared with the first six months of 1912. The "falling off" in Toronto is $2,500,000—an increase of ten per cent.

Band Concert

In spite of the threatening weather last night, there was a large crowd turned out to hear the band concert which was given at Victoria Park by the Dufferin Rifles band. Rain started to fall while the band was playing the overture. William Tell, and the weather naturally took part in the storm passage. Judging from the applause, the music was much enjoyed by the crowd.

Will Continue.

Although it was the intention to close the Y.M.C.A. on July 1, with the exception of the swimming pool, the owners of the building are allowing the association to occupy the building until the 15th at least. When the rooms are closed a special entrance to the swimming pool will be provided. Outdoor athletic events will continue to be run off. It is expected the new building will be ready for occupation in September.

Life Underwriters.

The Brantford life underwriters will hold their monthly meeting on Monday afternoon in the office of Mr. A. O. Secord, Temple Building. Arrangements will be made for sending delegates to the Dominion convention, which will be held in Ottawa in August. Both the Dominion and local association are considering a co-operative advertising scheme. This matter will be discussed at the meeting on Monday.

Hadn't the Price.

A joke is going the rounds to-day on a couple of clerks who are employed on Colborne St. who are at present camping with the Y. M. C. A. boys on Slater's Island. Two of their lady friends who were driven down there in an auto and went out for a canoe ride. The two sports took the girls after the canoe trip up to Palmerston Ave. and put them on the street car. But, alas! when the clerks went to pay the conductor the girls car fare, they found that they were being broke or financially embarrassed. The girls however, had the price and arrived at their destination safely.

Found Bull Moose in His Garden.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 5.—To find a young bull moose trampling over his flower beds in his garden, in the busy section of the city, was the experience of Captain John McMullin yesterday. Evidently the animal kept captive a few hours in a barn and then released and made for the outskirts.

Drowning Accident.

FREDERICTON, N.B., July 5.—James Locke, aged 33, employed in the Marysville cotton mill, was drowned last night. He took a bath while bathing. He was a son of Key E. E. Locke of Pugwash, N.S.

Paris News

(From our own Correspondent)

PARIS, July 5.—Paris and vicinity was visited by a very heavy rain yesterday afternoon and last night, which will do a tremendous amount of good in this section. The thunder and lightning in town was not heavy, but was more severe north of Paris. The big barn on the old Maisis farm near Paris Plains Church, and at present occupied by Mr. Morris, was struck and burned, most of the live stock being saved. A deal for the purchase of the farm had been entered into during the last week.

Several members of Paris town council will accept

Warden Keardrick's invitation, and be present at the county council meeting on July 8th, when Hon. J. A. Reaume, Provincial minister of Public Works will be present at the Brant County "good roads" meeting.

The town received no replies to its advertisements for tenders for the Junction sewer, and the job will have to be done by day labor under the direction of the streets and sidewalks inspector. Labor is very scarce here at present.

The gas gang are laying pipes through the bed of the Grand river at the Dundas street bridge, and have to construct a coffer dam to be able to do the work properly.

The big road roller was taken across through the bed of the river one day this week, and is at present at work rolling the gravel on Brantford hill. This stretch of road has been a nightmare for motorists for several weeks past.

Mrs. Brooker of Calgary is visiting her mother, Mrs. Thos. Walton.

Mr and Mrs Jas. Flanagan of Chicago, Ill. are visiting Paris relatives.

Mrs. J. A. Ronson of Walkerville is visiting her father, Mr. T. Shawcross.

The Market

There was a very large market this morning, there being an abundance of meat, vegetables, etc., offered for sale. Some of the prices asked were:

White fish, 17c per lb.; salmon, 13c per lb.; round steak, 18c. per lb.

porter house steak, 22c. per lb.; butter, 30c per lb.; veal, 10-15c per lb.; eggs, 25c. per dozen; chickens, $1.15 each; cherries, $1.00 per basket; red currants, 10c per box; new potatoes, 40c for 6 quart basket; peas, 50c per peck.

"Philopina" Stories There is a story about the "Philopina" custom which shows how widespread it is, or once was, on the Continent. Some 25 years ago, according to an anecdote of the time, the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, visiting Paris, chanced to dine in the company of Rosa Bonheur, the great animal painter. They got on very well, and at dessert they ate a philopina together—that is to say, they shared a double almond. But the prince forgot to say "philopina" and lost the bet. He asked the artist what she should give her, and she laughingly replied: "Any pretty little animal that will do to paint." The prince smiled, and departed. Nothing more was heard of him.

What The Busy Lads Are Doing--Some Features of Their Work

Brantford's most serviceable and unique stretcher is shown in the accompanying cut. This cycle stretcher was built entirely by members of Colborne street church troop under the supervision of Scoutmaster W. Youmans, and the results which they have achieved are unequalled in the Dominion. This is the only stretcher in Canada that can be attached to two bicycles and successfully operated, all other appliances requiring, at least three. The best features of the stretcher consist in its strength, lightness and the compact manner in which it can be carried on a bicycle. The displays given by this cycle corps at Toronto and Paris evoked great interest among scouts and spectators, the most favorable comments being passed on the ingenuity of construction, and ease with which the work was carried out. Scoutmaster Youmans' assistant, Mr. Lockington, is seen in the background.

ound efficiency in scoutcraft, and in this competition many troops entered from different cities in Ontario. The bugle was won by the patrol bugler, L. Colquhoun, who has acted as bugler for the Ontario Scout Camp at the Canadian National Exhibition, and proved his merits as a crack bugler to the satisfaction of the entire camp. The Brant Chapter I.O.D.E. rifle, presented to the best marksman team in the district is also seen. The marksmanship of Instructors G. Matthews, D. Andrews and J. G. Matthews combined to put on a score that lifted the team of six men easily into first place. The acting scoutmaster and the efficient assistant scoutmaster W. Colquhoun, are seen at the ends of the rear rank.

In this photograph the Headquarters' Patrol is seen at the ready position, preparatory to signalling the Morse alphabet. This patrol has

This picture shows some of the Silver Wolves attached to the Headquarters Patrol and their badges which have been gained by hard and varied work. The Silver Wolf is the highest honor which a scout can attain and has only been procured by a very small percentage of Canadian scouts. The City of Brantford has more Wolves than any other Province in Canada. A few of the subjects in which a scout must be proficient to obtain his Wolf are as follows: Bee farmer, cook, handyman, woodman, carpenter, gardener, swimmer, signaller, dairyman, cyclist, horseman, musician, sturman, master-at-arms, farmer, electrician, poultry farmer and many others.

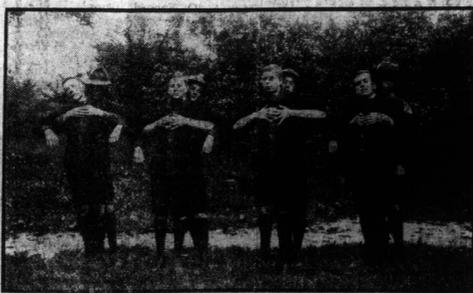

This cut shows the Headquarters Patrol with the trophies which the members have carried off for proficient scoutcraft. In the centre is the shield won at the Paris Rally for all description, does not need to be enlarged upon. The members of the patrol through practice in the water are thoroughly efficient in this humane branch of Scoutcraft. Although all of the instructors attached to the Headquarters' Patrol are excellent swimmers, instructors H. Waddington, R. K. Deagle, M. Smith and L. Sutherland are rightly regarded as the patrol's crack rescuers and swimmers.

This picture shows a patrol of Wesley Church Troop Scouts completing a first aid display. A fractured thigh and arm has been set and splinted, a broken collar bone correctly bandaged, and a scalp wound dressed and bandaged. This photograph will be appreciated by people who have studied first aid to the injured, as they will observe that the work is technically correct and neatly executed. Mr. J. Maich, who is an expert St. John's ambulance society man, has been of great assistance in bringing this state of proficiency about, and he was complimented at the Paris rally on the showing which his ambulance team made. Mr. J. E. Stopps, the scoutmaster of this efficient troop is seen in the background with his little son, who is the troop mascot.

At Alexandria A largely attended preparatory service was held at Alexandria Presbyterian Church last evening. The Rev. Mr. McClintock was assisted by the Rev. Mr. Whitelaw. Forty-four persons were received into the membership, twenty-six by certificate and eighteen on profession of faith, a number most gratifying to pastor and people. The sacrament of baptism was observed during the service.

BECAUSE driving a cab in Philadelphia too few thrills for his spirit, "Barney" journeyed to New York little more than a year ago, and now that the proper name for the city is "The City of Adventure," has made a name for himself as an extraordinarily skilful chauffeur. A favorite with those timid whose hearts thump like the pistons of the engine when they ride in it. Also, for the very identical reason, he is a favorite with those who are in a hurry. Thus he has made a name for himself in all kinds of service, and so you see, well, here is one he tells

I was engaged a number of times in winter by a striking looking man leaving a certain Broadway office each time he hailed me. I've carried out of ten passengers in the first class, and I suppose I hear the name of the man. What struck me was he looked at me as he spoke, and I never met, yet I knew he was in a hurry. Then his eyes searched me, I reckoned I was up from top to toe, and he could do it, too. I could tell such a judge of men as a politician is a judge of a motor.

"That man has my number," I thought, as I closed the door after I couldn't puzzle out why he cared. I know what a fast run is and one to the station. When we were fare stepped deliberately out of the cab, paid me at his leisure, and turned around and drove off, he was still there puffing on a cigarette rolled about between his lips as after me.

"Thundering hurry he must be," I said to myself, then forgot him, and another passenger.

Next day I was passing the same building and the same performer repeated, except that this time to a different part of the city. Of this continued several days a several weeks, and always with

The New Leader of the Chipewyan

MORE than a century has elapsed since the Chipewyan tribe was recognized as a nation. In 1813, since all the Chipewyan tribes met in one general council, and were present during the council which began in Cambridge Bay, all seemed pleased that after many years they had arrived at a point where the Chipewyan tribe would have one through which it would find wanted and, having found out one man. All through this meeting would be remarks from one or the older Indians which indicate they held government men to their lack of unity for years. There was only one mind among delegates when it came to the question whether they wanted to be a future action or not.

The older Indians took pains to younger men that they looked for their fight for the future. They realized that the younger generation was better equipped to fight the battle for the future.

It was easy for them to see that of their own who had matched politically against the white men and received from the white men that they recognized him as their equal in every respect. Their natural choice of leader had among them a man who elected by white men's vote responsible position of Council of a county organized under man's laws. He had been elected by white men of great ability in a test. If the white men had to defeat before him in their own why would he not be the man to help the red man win in a fight, long delayed?

Every man in the council accorded great respect when he spoke, those who were there from the start that when occasion threatened to be tied up in temporary snarl, there was one word was as much final, even temporarily in the chair, as the chief's word ever could have or two sentences from this man were straightened out and smoothed again. What more could this man, who, like Saul of Tarsus, should be by common suggestion from all bands and of the council as the proper man new chief of all the Chipewyan bands, under the name that is white man in similar organization.

Edward L. Rogers, at present Attorney of Cass county, is physically a giant and the spirit most white men as has been created by his feats in the Minnesota University football selected unanimously. At no time the entire council was there a vote than the one which gave place of honor in the organization.

A Story from Real Life The Strange Man and His Mysterious Package

BECAUSE driving a taxicab in Philadelphia held too few thrills for one of his spirit, "Barney" Gurney journeyed to New York little more than a year ago, and he says now that the proper name for New York is "The City of Adventures."

I was engaged a number of times last winter by a striking looking man who was leaving a certain Broadway office building each time he hailed me.

Nothing very remarkable about those words, I'll admit. We hear 'em from nine out of ten passengers in the financial district, and I suppose I hear them oftener than most men.

"That man has my number," I said to myself, as I closed the door after him, yet I couldn't puzzle out why he cared.

"I know what a fast run is and we made one to the station. When we arrived my fare stopped deliberately out of the taxicab, paid me at his leisure, and as I turned around and drove off he was still standing there puffing on a cigar, which he rolled about between his lips as he gazed after me.

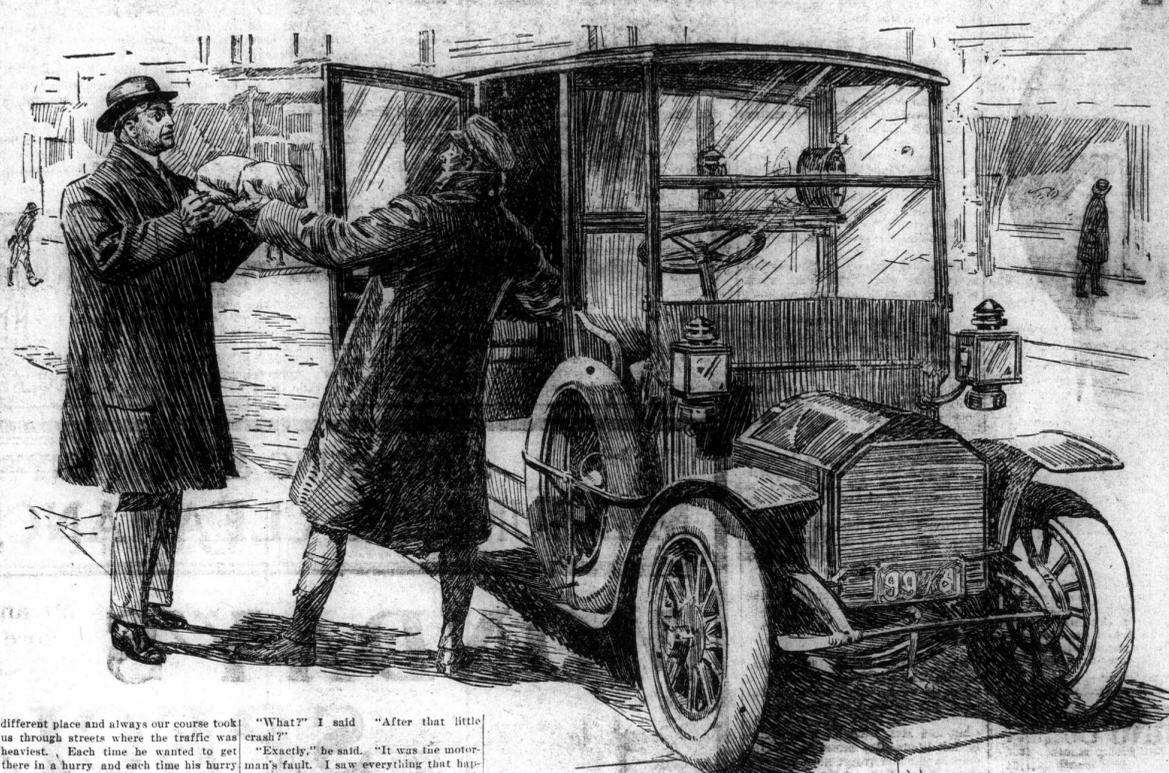

The New Leader of the Chippewas

MORE than a century has elapsed since the Chippewa tribe has been recognized as a nation. More than seventy-five years have elapsed on May 6, 1913, since all the Chippewa tribe of Minnesota met in one general council.

The older Indians took pains to tell the younger men that they looked to them to fight their fight for them in the future. They realized that the younger men are better equipped to fight the battle of the present for justice.

Every man in the council was accorded great respect when he spoke. However, those who were the often noticed from the start that when occasionally words were straightened out and running smoothly again.

Edward L. Rogers, at present County Attorney of Cass county, Minnesota, physically a giant and the superior of most white men, as has been demonstrated by his feats in the Canadian and Minnesota University football teams, was selected unanimously. At no time during the entire council was there a more eager vote than the one which gave him the place of honor in the organization.

different place and always our course took us through streets where the traffic was heaviest. Each time he wanted to get there in a hurry and each time his hurry was over when we arrived.

"What?" I said "After that little crash?"

"Exactly," he said. "It was the motor-man's fault. I saw everything that happened. And to get right down to business, I want you to meet me at the point where I first engaged your car at three o'clock this afternoon."

"I wish you'd find room for this parcel up in front," he said, "before getting into the taxicab. I have an ungettable hatred of carrying bundles. But be very careful of it. I'd hate to have you lose it."

"I took the bundle, which was a little heavy for its small size, and climbed to my seat.

"Go to 116th street and Broadway," said my passenger, "and then I'll give you further instructions."

"The door closed with a bang, but before he had gone ten blocks his head was sticking through the window, and he said to me:

"Be very careful with that bundle. You surely won't drop it?"

"No, I won't," I said. "It's on the seat beside me."

"I wouldn't want to have to wear soiled collars," he said, in what seemed to me a rather harsh and needless attempt to hint at what was in the parcel.

"No fear of that," I said. "I'll hang on tight."

At 116th street I stopped. He stepped out the better to speak to me.

"Above all," he said, "and first of all, hang on to that package. Now drive me to No. — 116th street. Draw up to the curb there and let me out. Here is your money, so you need not wait for that."

"I held it up so that he could see it. There might have been collars in that package, but as though rolled inside them I felt some hard metallic substance. I'm not built so that I scare easily, but this whole proposition began to look an oddity to me.

At 116th street I stopped. He stepped out the better to speak to me.

"I was just turning into the street when a man rushed around the corner and ran frantically toward me. It was my passenger, looking more like an insane person than the cool, unflinching business man I was accustomed to seeing. He was leaning back and his eyes were like holes burned a blanket.

"The package, the package," he almost gasped. "Have you it?"

"I jumped from my seat and hauled the thing out from its hiding place.

"His agitation increased."

"It was in that place all night?" he gasped, pointing to the garage.

Brother Sculptors Model Statues of Robert Burns That Are Strangely Unlike in Poetic Conception and Execution

A MODEL for the thirty-fourth statue of Robert Burns to be erected in the world and the ninth for the United States has just been completed by Mr. J. Massey Rhind, a New York sculptor, whose studio is at No. 208 East Twentieth street. The work is to be a heroic sized representation of the Scottish bard and will be placed in Pittsburgh, a committee of whose citizens commissioned Mr. Rhind to model the memorial.

Mr. Rhind in this connection is that curious fact in the connection is that last year Mr. Birnie Rhind, a brother of Mr. J. Massey Rhind, completed a statue of Burns which was unveiled at Montrose, Scotland, last August by Mr. Andrew Carnegie.

Although the sculptors are brothers and both were taught the principles of their art by their father, John Rhind, a famous Scottish sculptor, these two statues of Robert Burns are very different both in conception and in execution. The American one shows a robust, strong, lithe and manly figure attired in the clothes that a farmer would wear and leaning against a plough that looks to be ready for use.

Mr. Carnegie, in a word, will be prevailed upon to unveil the Pittsburgh monument, as he did the one fashioned by Mr. Birnie Rhind at Montrose. He was one of the contributors to the fund. The movement has been in charge of a committee headed by a woman, Mrs. A. R. Peacock, and, besides her, composed of Messrs. Thomas Morrison, Alexander Deupster and James Scott. The design has been approved by the Pittsburgh Art Commission. The statue will be placed in a beautiful spot in Shingley Park, near the Botanical Gardens, where it will be surrounded with flowers most of the time, a fact that will be especially appropriate to Mr. Rhind's idea. The unveiling will be next spring.

Tapestries of Tape Great Value

MORE than a dozen tapestries that are soon to be seen in the Metropolitan Museum of Art will be a collection of Gothic tapestries of such rarity that it is one of only four collections known to exist.

The three others belong to the royal house of Spain, the Imperial family of Vienna and the Brno Museum. Thus the great American collector, pleased with royalty and a noted antiquarian as often did, the distinction of owning a collection of special objects as rare as they are beautiful.

Mr. Morgan bought the tapestries out of an ancient and famous English mansion, Knole House, Kent, but he, however, a similarly curious circumstance that although these hangings had been in place in Knole for several centuries and a record is said about them in an old book which minutely lists every painting in the mansion. The book is the "Sketch of Knole," printed about a hundred years ago. Its omission of all reference to the tapestries makes all the more interesting and important a series of large drawings of Knole executed about 1800 by Joseph Nash for his work on the mansions of England in the olden time. They show several of the large interiors of Knole, and there on the walls hang the very tapestries which the author of the "Sketch of Knole," his mind wholly occupied with the pictures, did not think it worth his while to mention. Probably, regarded them merely as decorative features, and he could not import enough to include in his list of objects.

The collection consists of thirteen large tapestries, their subjects religious, mythological, philosophical or taken from scenes of chivalry of the Middle Ages. They are lofty in sentiment and admirably executed as to design, their colors admirably preserved, a skillful and rich mixture of different tints, and not a single unimportant detail through my stupidity. I dressed in seconds, and, not waiting for breakfast, ran all the way to the garage. I was almost surprised not to see the building a smoldering heap of ruins.

The waterman was stirring, but without a word to him I jumped into the car after cranking up and started out of the garage to take that mysterious package to a police station. I was afraid of it, but I was more afraid to leave it where it might kill others.

I was just turning into the street when a man rushed around the corner and ran frantically toward me. It was my passenger, looking more like an insane person than the cool, unflinching business man I was accustomed to seeing. He was leaning back and his eyes were like holes burned a blanket.

MANY NEW BATHING DRESSES HAVE TUNICS

The severely plain skirt is not as attractive in a bathing costume as the skirt which has some fancy trimming touch. The tunic is a favorable motif this season and this new bathing dress of black lansdowne—a worsted and silk material much liked for this purpose—has a graceful skirt with a lapped tunic much shorter at the front than the back. The sleeves are also lapped at the outer side of the arm and there is a shoulder-point collar of cerise brocade hemmed with black satin which gives glowing color to the suit. The cap is black satin piped with cerise.

VICTORIAN ORDER

The regular meeting of the Victorian Order was held on Wednesday morning, July 2nd, when the reports for the month were given. The Treasurer, Mrs. Henwood reported donations: $2.00 from Mrs. Brewster, $3.00 from Mrs. John H. Stratford, Toronto; $25.00 from Dr. John Kippax.

The management wish to say a very grateful "thank you" to the friends of the Order, who each year so generously remember them. The warm weather of the past few weeks has increased the work of the nurses and their days have been very full as the following report will show:

Monthly Report from Victorian Order Nurses.

There was only one game in the Canadian League yesterday and Brantford had to lose it.

Remer's three-bagger completes the slaughter," says a London Free Press headline about the Brantford extra game to-day. The score was 15-0 on the same basis the 15-0 score of the day before might be considered by the Free Press thrillingly close.

Nelson, the new infielder, who accepted terms and then failed to report, has changed his mind again. He will be here next week. It was either a report to Brantford or remain out of organized baseball for this fellow, and he acted wisely. He will be played at third base.

There doesn't seem to be much difference between Cassavant, Spillane and Tesch. All these players came from New England territory which leads one to suspect that the ball they play in Tim Murnan's circuit is not so wonderful after all. In fact the Canadian League is fast enough for most of them.

President Nelson this morning said he hadn't heard of Forgue being released at St Thomas had consequently could not have signed him up for Brantford. Forgue is a brilliant shortstop but a weak hitter, but Brantford fans would like to see him here. In fact the St. Thomas man by his seasonal work behind the dyke has robbed Brantford of many a game. He would be an improvement on anything we have had this year.

VICTORY FINALLY GAVE TO OTTAWA

Senators Beat Brantford After a Hard Uphill Battle.

RED SOX HIT HARD

All Other Games Were Postponed on Account of Rain.

OTTAWA, July 5.—Ottawa took yesterday's game from Brantford by 5 runs to 4 after a hard uphill fight. The Red Sox hit Merchant hard, and had it four to two at the end of the seventh, after which Rogers and Renfer combined to win it for Ottawa. Rogers retired Brantford in one-two-three order in the eighth, and inaugurated Ottawa's half with a single over-throw. Lage doubled and Dolan singled, scoring Rogers. Renfer who had replaced Kubat in the outfield, then stepped into a fast ball and lifted it to the fence for three bases scoring Lage and Dolan. In the ninth only one hit was secured off Rogers, Ivers getting a single. The final score was thus favorable to the fast climbing Senators. Gero had the Senators flagged until the removal of Merchant, who does not appear to have much. Rogers did great work. This win moves Ottawa to within one and a half games of St. Thomas.

BRULEUR WINS THIS YEAR'S GRAND PRIX DE PARIS IN FAST TIME

The Grand Prix de Paris, the annual event of the French turf, was an unprecedented success. Mr. Evremont de Saint Alary's bay colt Bruleur, won by a length and a half after a sensational sweep to the front in the home stretch. Bruleur beat all speed records for this event by covering the distance, 8,000 metres, or one mile and seven furlongs, in 3m. 13 2/5s., one second better than the record set in 1908 by Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt's Northeast. Mr. August Belmont, Mr. H. B. Duryea and Mr. Frank Jay Gould's horses were unplaced.

CLEVELAND, July 5.—Cleveland took both games from Detroit yesterday by the score of 4 to 2. For seven innings in the afternoon game Willitt, aided by excellent support, held Cleveland scoreless, but failed in the eighth. Gregg was overcome by the heat in the sixth and retired in favor of Cullop, who held Detroit to one hit for the rest of the game. A terrific rain and thunderstorm interrupted the morning game in the seventh with two Cleveland batters out, and Cleveland won 4 to 2. Detroit's sole runs were scored on Bush's single and Vit's home run drive inside the grounds. The scores: Morning game—R.H.E. Cleveland0130000—4 8 2 Detroit0000200—2 5 4 Afternoon game—R.H.E. PHILLIES AND GIANTS CAPTURED TWO GAMES

The Heat Affected Tesreau—Dooiin's Team Forced Dick Rudolph to Cover.

BROOKLYN, July 5.—New York won the afternoon game from Brooklyn yesterday before a big crowd, by a score of 9 to 5, while the Giants also captured the morning game 5 to 2. Tesreau, who pitched a great game in the morning, wobbled in the ninth, victim of the heat, and Crandall finished the game, having a narrow escape, as Snodgrass juggled a fly, which had he not finally held, it would have let in at least two runs. Hit Rudolph Hard PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—Philadelphia took both games yesterday from Boston, winning the morning contest by the score of 6 to 2 and the afternoon game 6 to 1. In the morning game Philadelphia's runs were made in the fourth inning, when Rudolph was hit safely seven times, and Rariden made two errors. A Sandstorm at Pittsburg Pittsburg, July 5.—After the Pirates and Cardinals had gone through eleven innings of weird baseball, the crowd clamoring to get in for the afternoon contest, caused the game to be called a tie, 3 to 3. St. Louis took the afternoon game from Pittsburg through wildness of Pittsburg pitchers and getting hits at the right time. A sandstorm interrupted the game for 20 minutes during the seventh. Leo Ames Weakened CHICAGO, July 5.—Chicago and Cincinnati broke even yesterday. Cincinnati shutting out the locals 4 to 0 in the first game and losing the second 3 to 5. Ames, the former New York pitcher, opposed the locals in the second game, and was almost invincible until the eighth inning, when Chicago bunched five hits.

WICKED RIGHT CROSS PUTS RIVERS AWAY

Ritchie Defended the Title With Knockout in the Eleventh Round.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—A wicked right cross—the same blow which was so effective against Ad. Wolgast—proved too great a stumbling block to Joe Rivers in his attempt to wrest the lightweight title from Champion Willie Ritchie yesterday, the Mexican being knocked out in the eleventh round of a scheduled twenty-round battle. Immediately preceding the knockout Ritchie toppled his victim over for the count of nine with a ponderous right to the jaw and another fight to the chin, preceded by a left in the stomach, settled Rivers' chances as a lightweight contender. The fight throughout was viciously contested, and twice in the earlier rounds it looked as though Rivers might win. Ritchie's wonderful ring generalship and ability to hit effectively straight from the shoulder with either hand, however, offset the Mexican's attack, and it was not long before Rivers became disheartened and pinned his faith solely on will swings.

Leaders Win and Lose

NEWARK, July 5.—Newark turned defeat into victory in Newark yesterday aided by the wildness of two Jersey City pitchers in the afternoon. The score was 5 to 4. Up to the sixth inning the fans had settled down to witness the second defeat of the day for the locals, the score then being 4 to 0. The locals, however, put two runs over and in the eighth got three more, which proved enough to win. The score: Afternoon game—R.H.E. Two for Baltimore BALTIMORE, July 5.—The Birds took both games of the double header with the Clams yesterday, 9 to 2 and 8 to 6. In the morning contest the locals got away to a five-run lead in the first inning and repeated this in the afternoon battle, but the Jays evened the score in the fifth. Lafitte was unable to hold the locals, however, and they scored once in the fifth and again in the sixth. The score: Afternoon Game: Baltimore50011100X—8 9 1 Providence000000000—5 14 2

Race Becomes More Interesting Ottawa Near the Leaders Now.

SAINTS GET NEW ONES

Fox, Cocash, Brodie Added, Forgue and "Midge" Craven Let Go.

(London Free Press) Jupiter Pluvius again turned on the water yesterday and shut off the sun and consequently only one game was played in the Canadian League, and that was in Eastern Ontario at Ottawa. The Senators won, and are right on the heels of the Saints. For fear of being displaced by the fast-going Ottawas the St. Thomas club has made several changes on their team.

Three New Men for Saints.

Pitcher Brodie, Infielder Frank Fox and Outfielder Jack Cocash, have been signed up, and Forgue and Craven have been released. Just how these changes will improve the leaders remains to be seen, at any event it shows determination by Manager Ort not to relinquish the first place position held so long by the Saints by strengthening at this stage of the game.

Great Race Now

Day after day the race is becoming more interesting and never in the history of the league has the interest been more keen by the many followers of one of the best class "C" baseball organizations. London and Ottawa are fast crowding the leaders with stronger teams than ever, and the race from this out will become still more complicated. It has been said that Forgue will be seen in a Brantford uniform, while as yet no one has made a bid for Craven, who still has considerable baseball left in him.

Double Headers To-day

Yesterday's lay-off will in all probability cause double-headers in Guelph, St. Thomas and Hamilton.

Soft Ball

The last games of the present soft ball schedule will be played don July 17. Another schedule will be drawn up, and the victorious team will play off. It is expected that there will be only four teams play in the last schedule. The Gould, Shapley and Muir team has been strengthened by several new men.

Persian Art on View in Robinson Gallery, London

Mr. John Richard Preece's Collection Includes the Famous Mihrab, or Prayer Niche, Vases, Tear Bottles and a Unique Garden Carpet Made for the Shah Abbas.

PASTEL SOCIETY'S EXHIBITION SHOWS PROGRESS

(Special Dispatch.)—LONDON, July 5.—Much interest has been aroused by the exhibition of the famous collection of Persian art, which is being shown in the Robinson Gallery, in Pall Mall, London.

Mr. John Richard Preece's collection includes the famous Mihrab, or Prayer Niche, Vases, Tear Bottles and a Unique Garden Carpet Made for the Shah Abbas. The collection includes the most valuable pieces of Persian art, and is the most complete collection of its kind in this country.

In addition there is an interesting collection of important vases and tear bottles of the most brilliant and sparkling brightness of the "fronts" and concessions, the Colonel Francis Ferrar's Shows United, will appear in Brantford, under the auspices of The Base Ball Club.

Resplendent in brilliant paint and new gold leaf, thousands of electric lights added to the sparkling brightness of the "fronts" and concessions, the Colonel Francis Ferrar's Shows United, will appear in Brantford, under the auspices of The Base Ball Club.

That, in spite of its fragility, pastel can be used with considerable force and depth is shown in the etchings by Mr. Donald Shaw MacLaughlin.

AIRSHIP TRIPS POPULAR WITH AMERICANS IN BERLIN NOW THAT THE CITY IS NORMAL AFTER BIG FESTIVAL

THE KAISER AMONG THE POOR CHILDREN OF THE AHBLECK RECREATION HOME

An interesting surprise journey was recently paid by the Kaiser and Kaiserin to a new recreation home for poor children at Ahlbeck, the Baltic resort celebrated for its beautiful sands. The Emperor's trip turned out a veritable holiday, and the pleasure of the children reached its height when the Emperor suggested that he and they should be photographed together.

Events of the Week in German Capital Recorded by Our Special Correspondent.

(Special Dispatch.)—BERLIN, July 5.—This capital has resumed its normal aspect after the feverish round of the last month's festivities. International travel is still zealous, Americans in particular being much in evidence.

Mania has been replaced by the Victoria Luis, a sister ship newly completed, and the Sachsen, which has just made a second trip to Vienna. Americans who made the circuit this week as passengers by the Victoria Luis included Mr. J. T. QUEEN MARY TO GIVE FANCY DRESS COURT BALL

(Special Dispatch.)—LONDON, July 5.—KING GEORGE'S keen personal interest in his empire and all matters imperial are well known.

Princess Victoria, who for three years had practically abandoned Queen Alexandra's retirement, has been going out a little more this season. The Princess has been dining and luncheon out among friends, and that, the Duke and Duchess of Russia, the Queen Alexandra, the two sisters go about constantly together.

The Queen's hands are also well shaped and denote capability and domesticity. The nails have the beautiful pink tinge of health which the manufacturer has given artificially to many nails. Rings suit them well, and being fine and of the gema, she wears a few which match the dress she happens to wear.

Lady Arthur Grosvenor, the distinguished social figure, is at Ascot, where she is stopping for a week or two in her caravan. The van, with another for the accommodation of her two attendants, stands in a field close to Brook Lodge, formerly the home of the late Sir Robert Sheffields, Lady Arthur's father, where she passed most of her childhood days.

Medical Men in London Once More Take Up What They Admit is a Hopeless Task.

(Special Dispatch.)—LONDON, July 5.—THAT kissing is dangerous is an opinion that long has been held by medical men generally. The only point on which they appear to differ is whether it is a filthy habit.

"There is so much consumption about," he added, "that when a person kisses he or she transfers saliva from the mouth to the other person, and hence it is no wonder that disease is spread so easily with it."

"Not an Urgent Matter."—Washington Star—"There doesn't seem to be any hurry about filling the position of poet laureate in England," said the man who was reading a newspaper.

BONITA, A FAIRY AND A SPIDER

The Wichita Indians

THE Indians known as the Wichitas were remnants of other tribes affiliated together when first known to history over a century ago. One tradition has it that the Wichitas were originally of the far Northwest, using dogs as pack animals, as all Western Indians did before the Spaniards brought horses to their land. But this is not history and we have no proof of their life previous to their being found living on the plains west of the Missouri State line. Their language and tone of voice would suggest their descent from the tribes along the Columbia river in Oregon, and are entirely foreign to the voice and language of the tribes east of the Rocky Mountains.

The year 1864 found the Wichitas that were located in Kansas very prosperous and happy. Buffalo were more plentiful—they covered the prairies in vast herds. They had many well-trained ponies and dogs. The women had cleared the ground and planted vegetables, such as beans, melons, squash and maize (Indian corn). Indeed, along the valley of the Arkansas river red men had made themselves comfortably domestic. Their houses were well-built and roomy when compared with the dwellings of most of the neighboring tribes. They were built of strong saplings and thatched with heavy, broad-bladed grass. Doors were made of buffalo hide. The floors and walls were often covered with the same warm robes, for the Indian know the process of curing the skins of wild animals, making them soft and durable.

Owaha, says a writer of that time, chief of the Kansas Wichitas, was an ideal prehistoric man of 5,000 years ago. He was not a bad fellow by any means. He was a hunter, but he might have made a fine statesman, for he was keen-witted and of fairly good judgment, and held his people together in peace with other tribes. The greater number of Wichitas died that time were living peacefully at the Wichita agency in the Indian Territory, and braves from the two Wichita settlements often visited each other. When the Civil war broke out the Wichitas, with many other loyal tribes, had been driven out of the territory to the friendly soil of Kansas, and there had taken refuge through the friendly Osage Indians who owned most of the extreme Southern part of Kansas. The Osages granted a portion of their holdings to their stricken brothers to hunt over. The buffalo being so plentiful, the streams so full of fish, the prairie so abundant with quail, prairie chickens, wild turkeys and rabbits, the Wichitas found plenty to keep them from want. But their homes had been destroyed, their horses stolen and their lands invaded by the enemy, and owing to these hardships many of them became discouraged and died. But those who remained took up their life anew and began to prosper. They were given many horses by their friends, the Comanches, and built their wigwams and tepees on the banks of the Little Arkansas river. But hardly had they become settled when a new calamity befell them. The wild tribes became involved in war among themselves, and troops from St. Louis were scattered along the old Santa Fe trail. This great disease made havoc among the peaceful Wichitas, carrying off their chief Owaha. A little later the combined cruelties of a prairie fire and white outlaws again made the Wichitas, who had just renewed their sufferings were past understanding.

In 1868 the Wichitas, what was left of them, were finally settled in their old home on the Washita, where the government sent aid to them. Their descendants remain to this day.

BONITA was very, very miserable. Her good father, who loved her so dearly and who was beloved by her in return, had been thrown into prison on a false charge. She was wholly innocent, as Bonita knew. But how could the poor father prove his innocence? And how could Bonita—only ten years old—prove his innocence? Wicked men, in order to get hold of a piece of property belonging to Bonita's father, had concocted a wicked scheme by which they might put poor, honest Andris (Bonita's father) in prison for a long term of years and in the meantime rob him of the coveted property.

Bonita's mother had been dead more than two years, and the little girl and her sad-hearted father had grown more and more attached to each other in their common grief over the loss of the wife and mother. And Andris tried to be both mother and father to his little Bonita, and Bonita tried to take her mother's place in the little white cottage whose windows overlooked the blue bay. Of evenings Bonita laid the table and prepared the bread, cheese and eggs for her father's supper. She always placed a silver bowl of flowers on the table, just as her mother had been wont to do.

But there came an evening when Bonita did not spread the blue bay net, and when she did not gather flowers from the garden to fill the silver bowl. Her heart was too heavy to think of anything but the wrong done her dear father. He had suddenly been tried, convicted and thrown into prison.

As Bonita sat watching the sun's last rays falling into the blue bay her tears fell one by one, bitter, bitter tears. What should she do through the long days and silent nights without her father? He, poor man, had begged her to take a cholera which spread like a prairie fire over the different reservations of the Indians in both Kansas and the Indian Territory. This great disease made havoc among the peaceful Wichitas, carrying off their chief Owaha. A little later the combined cruelties of a prairie fire and white outlaws again made the Wichitas, who had just renewed their sufferings were past understanding.

In 1868 the Wichitas, what was left of them, were finally settled in their old home on the Washita, where the government sent aid to them. Their descendants remain to this day.

huge insect that was still busily weaving his web in the lattice casement of the window. "The three of us will rescue your father." "What shall we do, so?" asked Bonita, drying her eyes. She felt the fairy would do as she promised. "We'll begin tonight, my child. Are you allowed to visit your father in his prison?" "Yes, once a week I may go there in company with the jailer and speak with him through the bars. But as he just went to the prison this morning, I shall not be able to visit him till this day week." "Yes, I think you will be permitted to carry to him some clean clothing," said the fairy. "You may put up a little bundle of garments for him and go to the prison now—before the jailer comes to see you. The jailer will heed your plea. He is not a bad man at heart."

So Bonita hurriedly put together some night clothes for her father and wrapped them into a bundle. Then she set out towards the jail. She stopped at the jailer's door and begged leave to speak with her father. He would give her some night clothes. Strange to say, while it was a violation of the prison rules, the jailer permitted the little girl to visit her father. He went with her to the prison door, opening it for her. Then he said: "You may enter, my child, and sit with your father." "But Bonita held her arm. "Sit still, Father. The spider will not harm you. I came with me. Have faith that what I tell you is true. Let the creature do its work. It will do no harm—but great good. Can you trust me, Father?" Andris looked into Bonita's eyes and saw something very mysterious there—something he could not solve. But he knew she was serious and that what she said was true. "Very well, Daughter," he replied. "I shall have faith in you—in all that you say and do."

Bonita did not stay long. The jailer called for her very soon, and as she kissed her father, she said: "Never fear. We'll soon be together—far, far from our enemies."

Then she went away and Andris prepared himself for bed. Soon he was fast asleep, dreaming of his liberty—the dearest thing on earth to him after his darling Bonita. When he awoke after a full night's sleep (for he had a clear conscience) he saw the spider had woven a web from the table to the top of the high window which was covered with three iron bars. But nowhere could he see the spider. When the jailer entered with his wretched breakfast he noticed the spider's web and said: "I did not know this cell was full of spiders. I shall proceed to poison them soon. But now I'll finish the one building this web."

But ere he could lay his hand upon the web to tear it from its place, Andris said: "I beg of you, good jailer, to spare the spider and his work. I enjoy watching him weave. It shows his industry. The day would be long indeed without some creature near by working at his trade."

The jailer laughed, then went his way, locking the door securely behind him. Then Andris went to the spider's web and tested it. It was built in the form of a ladder, with many, many little threads intertwining, so as to hide the exact pattern. And when Andris tried his strength upon it, he found it like threads of steel—unbreakable. He remembered the words of his darling Bonita, and sat him down and pondered. He decided to do nothing till nightfall, so he spent the day in hope and patience. Just as the sun was setting, Bonita again appeared at the jailer's door and begged to see her father. "I know, I am supposed to come but once a week, sir," she said; "but my dear father gets so lonely—and I so lonely, too, and a good-night kiss makes it less hard for us both."

"It can do no harm, child," said the jailer. And he led her to her father's cell, unlocking the door and ushering her in. "I shall not call for you for one hour," he stated, "for I am going out with my wife and son to dine with our relatives over the other side of the river. So you may have a long visit together, my friends."

After the jailer had departed, Bonita turned to her father: "Has anything happened, dear father?" Whereupon Andris showed her the spider's strong web. "Oh, I see," said Bonita. "The ladder to liberty! The fairy came to me this evening and told me we'd find outside the prison window a high wall, and the gate leading from it locked. But in the corner of the wall would be another spider web which we were to climb. Once outside the wall we would find a cart and swiftly-going horse. He would not need guiding, but would take the road leading over the mountain to your mother—my dear grandmother. And she would be safety for us, as no one knows grandmother's whereabouts, not even of her existence. There you can live in peace and happiness with her and your little Bonita."

"You may enter, my child, and sit with your father."

Then, it being quite dark, the two ascended the ladder and found the iron bars in the window loose. These were soon removed, and they beheld another spider web leading to the ground. Down that they went. Then they ascended the wall; then down on the other side by means of other webs, and found the pony-cart, with a swiftly-going horse hitched to it, all ready for them to start.

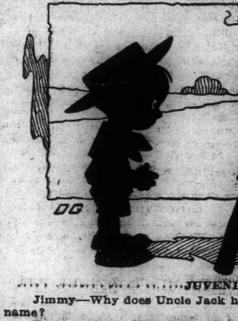

That night they crossed the mountains and came to a beautiful valley on the other side just at daybreak. And in a neat stone house, in the midst of a grape vineyard, they found Andris' aged mother. She held out her arms to them. She had received news of their coming in a dream, and knew before her son told her of his persecution.

"Ah, this is in another country, my son," said the old woman, "and even if they wanted to take you here, the law would not permit them to do so. And the property the wicked men want—let them have it; for it will be their undoing—their ruin. They will never retain a morsel of their stolen bread. But here—and she waved a hand about—"we are in fairland. Everything we want, and plenty to spare. We three shall live together—and be happy, happy, my boy, Andris!" And then she kissed Bonita, who put her arms about her tenderly.

"Yes, happy, happy, Grandamma," she said.

And so they remained in the valley of flowers and vines, and had plenty and to spare, and the wicked men who had robbed Andris came to untimely ends, having cheated and swindled each other, till at last both were ruined.

So ends the story of Bonita, a Fairy and a Spider.

Freckled Tom Haines

TOM HAINES had not a spot on his face or hands the tenth part of an inch square that was not marked by a freckle. The boys called him "Freckled Tom." Tom did not mind this nickname till the Grays moved into his neighborhood—the house next door to his own. Then he began to wish he wasn't so "speckled," for the Grays had a fourteen-year-old daughter whom Freckled Tom thought very fair.

One afternoon Tom was making the short cut across the back yard of the Grays' place, thus reaching his own home half a minute earlier than by the front pavement, when he encountered, face to face, Julia Gray. They had never met before, and while Tom knew her by sight, she evidently did not know who he was.

Tom doffed his cap and began to stammer an apology for crossing their yard in such an unceremonious manner. But Julia, her face averted, could hardly keep back a smile of amusement at his awkward manner. His freckles also looked so funny to her. She simply said, "That's all right—please don't mention it"—and was off to her own back door.

Tom blushed a burning red. He ground his heel into the soft earth. "She's making fun of me because I'm so darned freckled," he said mentally. Then he rushed home and banged his own door behind him. "I'll never, never try to get acquainted with her, so I won't. She's a little stuck-up, that's what she is." Then he dismissed the girl next door from his mind and went on with his work of building a small-ship model.

The following week the Grays went out of town to visit some relatives in an adjoining county. They were to be gone three weeks. Three days after their departure Tom heard the weak creaking of a kitten in their back yard, and going over the fence, he found a wretched little creature, half-starved. He knew it to be Julia Gray's kitten. A dear little white thing with black-tipped tail and ears. He did not stop to wonder how the Grays had happened to leave the helpless mite, locked out and without food or water during their long absence. He merely ran and jumped the fence between the two yards, made broadsides on his mother's cold provisions, and with a bottle of sweet milk in his hands and meat and other cold bits of food in his pocket, he hurried back to the starving kitty. The way the little creature ate made Tom's big heart glad. And after kitty had finished a hearty meal, Tom began to rummage about the place, hoping to find some sort of shelter for the lonely creature. A garage was in the rear of the house and Tom found a small window open. He crawled through it, and from the inside opened the great door about six inches, propping it so that the cat might get in. From home he fetched a basket and bit of carpet and made a bed for the kitten. Then he set food beside the basket and called the kitten into the garage. Kitty seemed to understand that the bed was for her for she

THE FISHER-BOY AND FISHES

TWO little fishes swimming went Out in a pond so deep; At the world away from home They wished to take a peep.

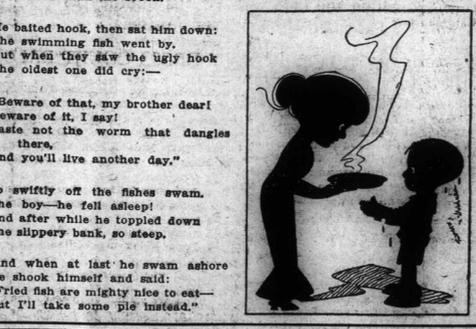

One little boy a fishing went With pole and line and hook. "I'll try the pond," said little boy; "The better than the brook."

He baited hook, then sat him down; The swimming fish went by. But when they saw the ugly hook "The oldest one did cry:—

"Beware of that, my brother dear! Beware of it, I say! Beware the worm that dangles there, And you'll live another day."

So swiftly off the fishes swam. The boy—he fell asleep! And after while he toppled down The slippery bank, so steep.

And when at last he swam ashore He shook himself and said: "Fried fish are mighty nice to eat— But I'll take some pie instead."

Our Puzzle Corner

DIAGONAL. This diagonal contains seven words of seven letters each. If the words are rightly guessed and written one below another their diagonal letters, beginning with the upper left-hand letter and ending with the lower right-hand letter, will spell a very severe kind of storm. The cross-words are: 1. Something to be found in extinct volcanoes. 2. An athlete. 3. The name often applied to a horse or coach kept for hire. 4. The summit of an elevation of ground. 5. Two flies of soldiers. 6. To be vivacious or cute and attractive. 7. To share.

HIDDEN PROVERB. Each of the following sentences contains but one word of a well-known proverb, and if all the words are rightly guessed and written together the proverb will stand complete. 1. Every cloud has a silver lining. 2. Rolling in the fresh, green grass is enjoyed by all children. 3. Human hearts may be hard as stone. 4. The good man gathers friends about him. 5. It is not always easy to say no. 6. Damp shady nooks are often covered with moss.

BARN GAME

A JOLLY barn game to be enjoyed during rainy afternoons when the children cannot play in the open is "The Little Man's House." It is played in this way: The children participating sit in a semi-circle, the leader in front of them. The leader begins by addressing the first boy or girl on his right: "I sell you the Little Man." This is repeated down the line till it comes to the leader again, who says: "I sell you the house of the Little Man." This is again repeated, as at first time, he says: "I sell you the door to the house of the Little Man." And again the leader's words are taken round the semi-circle. And again the leader adds to his sentence, this time saying: "I sell you the lock to the door to the house of the Little Man," and so on, without end. If any of the players misquote the leader they are put out of the game and made to pay a forfeit at the end of it. The Little Man's House is a game that one never grows tired of, if a quick-witted leader is chosen, one who can think out clever things to say about The Little Man's House. He may even go inside the house and sell away the Little Man's clothing or furniture. It can be made very laughable.

Delicious Salad for Girl's Luncheon

There is no dish more appetizing than salad for an afternoon luncheon, the following recipe may be gladly followed by girls when making up a luncheon menu. Take one ripe, juicy orange; one large, ripe banana; one marrow, yellow apple; one mellow pear; three large, perfect celery; one white, crisp stalk of young American cheese (must be old and crumbling); two hard-boiled eggs each into small pieces, grating the cheese. When all have been well mixed together with a wooden spoon in a wooden bowl, pour over the whole the juice of two lemons, twice the quantity of olive oil, a bit of mustard and salt, which have been beaten together till thick. Put into the ice-box, cover tightly and place in the ice-box. When thoroughly chilled, put two spoonfuls upon a crisp white lettuce leaf on a small salad plate and serve with thin slices of bread and butter. This, with a cup of rich chocolate, makes an appetizing combination for luncheon. It may be followed by ice cream or whipped cream and sponge cake.
