Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Foley, of Mon-treal, were in the city Wednesday on a visit to Mr. Foley's mother, prepa-ratory to setting out for a trip to Cuba and their orange groves in Florida.

Bishop Hawkins, the elderly colored divine who is well known throughout the Dominion, delivered a lecture in the B.M.E. church Wednesday night. His subject was his "Visit to England and his travils through the United Kingdom." There was a very good attendance and the meeting proved very profitable.

Mr. H. E. Gilbert, superintendent of the poultry department of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, arrived in the city this morning and will read a paper at the 12th annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union, which is in progress at the Ontario Agricultural College. His subject will be "Poultry in its relation to Canadian Agriculture.

The many friends in this city of Dr. and Mrs. Kennedy (nee Miss Anna Doran) will be sorry to learn of the death of their infant son, which co-curred at their home in Phelpston, this morning. The remains will be brought to this city and the funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. M. J. Doran, Glasgow street, on Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock.

The Rev. Gabriel Johnston, of Milland, Ont., who gave a most interesting lecture here a short time ago, will deliver a lecture next Tuesday evening in St. George's school room, on his experience in the civil war between the Northern and Southern States. The Bible Association are getting up an excellent musical programme as well, so everyone can expect a thoroughly enjoyable evening. Fuller particulars will be given in a day or so.

An Accident.—What came very near being a fatal accident occurred at Goldie's mill this morning. Harry Prabsie, a man well up in years, was unloading coal from the small car which they have for conveying coal from the train to the coal house, when it let it the manufactualist man against the wall, breaking three ribs. The ambulence was at once sent for and the injured man was taken to the General hospital.

Has to be Shot.

An exc ting runaway occurred on Arthur street on Wednesday afternoon when a valuable horse broke its leg.
It appears that Mr. H. H. Anderson, of the Dominion Bank, was driving a merry load of young people around the city. On reaching Mrs. Hall's residence, in Arthur street, a short call was made. Then the horses were again started off. In turning the rig was upset, throwing the cocupants out and frightening the horses, which started off on a run along the side-walk leading to the Eramosa bridge. When in front of Mr. Wm. Morris' house the sleigh collided with a tree and was broken, the horses only carrying away the tongue and front bobs. They continued to run till they reached Dyson's harness shop and there turned around and dashed into the trench between the sidewalk and fence.

the trench between the sidewalk and fence.

Several men hurried to the scene and attempted to extricate the animals. But this proved quite a task, the box drain having to be first taken up. When the animals got out it was found that open of how had broken its leg. It was assisted to the Wellington livery and a veterinary surgeon was called. He was, however, unable to do anything in the matter and the horse was shot.

The team was owned by the Wellington livery and the animal which was destroyed was a valuable one.

Another Runaway.

A runaway occurred on the Market square on Wednesday evening, when a farmer and his wife had an unpleasant experience. It appears that a number of boys were coasting on the Northumberland street hill when their sled ran into a farmer's rig. The horse became frightened and started off at a break neck pace. In turning around in front of the Queen's hotel, the cocupants of the cutter were thrown out, but fortunately escaped without any injury. The coasters did not, however, come off so fortunate, as Charlie, a young son of Mr. Charles Dempsey, received a severe cut in the back of the head, besides several bruises. A Herald reporter called at this gentleman's store this morning and learned that the injured boy was getting along very favorably. He was also informed at this place that the farmer's name was Joseph Bruthers, of Guelph township.

THEY ASKED FOR MORE.

County Council.

Messrs. Mutrie and Hobson moved the adoption of the report of the special committee appointed to strike the standing committees.

Messrs. Smith and Fletcher moved in amendment that the name of Mr. McNab be struck off the House of Industry committee, and that Mr. Nicholl's be substituted.

Messrs. Marshall and Ransom moved that the names of Messrs. Nicoll and Mutrie be added, and the by-law amended to make the committee 5 instead of 3.

After some discussion the amendments were lost and the motion for the adoption of the report carried.

BY-LAWS.

On motion of Messra Nicoll and Stewart, a by-law was introduced to appeal by-law No. 447, and to authorize the county treasurer to prepare a list of lands three years and over in arrears for taxes and to proceed to collect the same according to law. The by-law was read a first and second time.

credit, the wicked brother checks it credit, the wicked brother checks it credit the wicked brother checks it with the aforesaid blank checks and hands it over to Geoffrion, treasure of the corruption fund; and so Honore, like Mercier, can call heaves to witness that he knew nothing of the boodle. "You sign the check, we do the rest," is the cry of Mercier's brother.

What a farce on both Laurier's and Mercier's part! Laurier is a fool if he didn't know it, and if wilfrid Laurier did not know what kind of men he was in association with, and to whom he had given a public pledge that Quebec was to be allowed to raid the Federal treasury if the Liberals succeeded in carrying the Federal elections, then he is the last man in the world to whom the destinies of this country should be entrusted. He lacks the first qualifications of a politician—he is no judge of men. No, Mr. Laurier, that excuse doesn't go on all fours with the Globe's description of you as a heaven-born stateman. By your confession you ask people to write you down as a weak young platitudinarian, a sort of curate in whose mouth butter won't melt.

So ridiculous is the end to which it all comes that La Patrie, the recognized Liberal organ of Montreal, throws up the whole pretence and gives this explanation of the transaction of which Mercier says he is innocent and Laurier is perfectly guitless:

"The said $25,000 were touched by Mr. J. A. Mercier with the blank checks of his brother, and were given to Mr. C. A. Geoffrion, who, with this amount coming from a Provincial asource, had mases said for the souls in purgatory. If some readers are not my the whole pretence and gives this explanation we must admit that they are very hard to Mr. Laurier may still protest his innocence; if he does, we must adventigation. He can be a subject to the suggestion. After again and the waster of the control of the control inmocence; if he does, we must advertise his verdancy, his incapacity, his utter lack of knowledge of the men who have been his confidantes for years. He can choose which he likes, but he stands condemned equally with Mercier, who robbed the province that he had sworn to govern and protect in order to put his chief (Laurier) in power at Ottawa.

Don't let us mince matters, don't let us hum and haw over it, the World concludes. Mercier did the stealing, Laurier respect who had in hand before the bar of public opinion and history.

This closed the exciting part of the meeting.

This closed the exciting part of the meeting.

Hon. Mr. Bowell and Mr. Curran, O., followed at length. The meeting was quite disorderly at times, but, taking everything into consideration, passed off quietly. The complexion of the meeting indicated that Aletcalfe's election is certain.

Mr. Curran, in his remarks, said he understood the meeting was to be a sanguinary one and the most exciting held in Canada. He was pleased to see it so quiet. One thing the meeting had done, it, thad driver the Haggart charges back from whence they came.

Died of a Broken Heart.

CHATHAM, Jan. 27.—Further particulars in the case of the sudden death of Mrs. John Weeks, wife of a colored laborer, Burke street, North Chatham, show that the woman literally died of a broken heart, the result of heavy and continuous work. For several months Mrs. Weeks had been complaining of a pain and uneasiness in her left breast. She was a very hardworking woman, laboring faithfully and steadily at her household duties and other tasks which she undertook apart from the home cares. It seemed to her that if she could only get a rest from the daily drudgery for a period she would get well. But her work was never ending, and so the poor soul toiled on to the very last.

Ale Causes Many Ailings!

Most of us are aware that the use of ale causes many ailings in society. Paine's Celery Compound, in all communities, will banish sickness and suffering, and bring to all homes joy. peace and true happines.

Degradation the Result!

Some indulge in narcotics to assuage and banish pain brought on by disease. The after effects are terrible to contemplate; misery and degradation are the result. Paine's Celery Compound removes pain and trouble, and the result is new life, peace and joy.

Healing Waters.

Some one has said that Paine's Celery Compound "is a running stream that hath much variety of great value." It has most undoubtedly proved its powers over disease sufficiently to convince the most skeptical.

INNOCENT POLITICIANS.

There's something funny in the Quebec scandals, remarks the Toronto World. Take Mr. Laurier: He always went out of the room when Pacsaud Mercier, Geoffrion and others got down to serious business—that is, going into committee of finance for election purposes. So that he would be free to get up and declare that he knew nothing of any corruption fund and accordingly he is quite shocked when he hears of Mercier's misdeeds. And then there is Mercier himself: He gives his brother checks signed in blank, and when the money is bagged out of the Provincial treasury by way of Langlais, the stationery contractor, and deposited to Premier Mercier's ecomplice, and said his affidavit that Haggart had no bear to reduce the there is mercier himself: he gives his brother checks it credit, the wicked brother checks it credit, the wicked brother checks it eut with the aforesaid blank checks and hands it over to Geoffrion, treasurer of the corruption fund; and so Honore, like Mercier, can call heaven.

Life at the pretty little villa outside Marpeth had been delightful as the sweetest summer idyl.

"If I had never had another day's happiness in my whole life," said Lord Rylestone one day to his wife, "I should have no reason to complain, for I have had very many alresdy."

The only drawback—if it could be called one—was that he did not like concealing from Margarita the whole the will. More than one he sat down by her side determined to him, the dread than he bould not; he interest and fortune, the fear of being a burden to him, the dread that his love had cost him dear, had been almost too much for her. She was so keenly sensitive in all that concerned him, and he knew that, let him tell her when he would never know, and would not here here will. So he resolved that he should not know; it might be that she would never know, and would not lought to him such prosperity that he could laugh as heighd her.

"She shall be happy while she can—and I pray Heaven that may be forever," he said, gently—"and she shall hever know the she would never know, and would not how; it might be that she would never know, and would not had brought to him such prosperity that he could laugh as heighd her.

If, in after years he blamed himself for his reticence, still he always remembered that he had specificed for love of her would have made her wretched beyond words. So they passed the pleasant autumn and with the word words are the know how sensitive she was, and because the know how sensitive she was a mysure of the word words. So they passed the pleasant autumn and with the should like to ask you a question." "Dork," she said, with a charming centure, raising one white jewich to know the will become dissinguished."

"Had this here to take the will be be able to serve Lord Rylestone," she said, earnestly; "now the way is open to you."

"How can I serve him?" she asked, eagerly.

"Make friends with the great ones of the land—the leading politicians, who are always open to the charm who are always open to the charm of a beautiful face. Exert all your influence in his favor, and then when you hear of any vacancy under Government, ask for the appointment for him."

"I will," said Miss Cameron; and she kept her word.

They went to London—a pretty home had been taken for them at the great word.

They went to London—a pretty home had been taken for them at the great word.

They be ruit and beauty him the great word had been taken for them at the great word had been the release of the pretty home had been the release of the queens of fashion. Lady Carrol presented her at Court, and then she became the rage; her bright blond loveliness was the object of universal admiration; her queenly grace, her charm of conversation a constant theme of discussion; wherever she appeared in public he was surrounded by admirers. She was remained to the pretty of the court of the ocean. She was true to the great aim of her life—working for him. She was true to the vow she had made on that fair. June night when she had walked under the light of the stars by the side of the man she loved.

The succeeded at last. A lucrative position became vacant; she brought all the charm of her beautiful face to bear upon a white-headed socretary of atate, and won the approintment for Love Rylestone.

The great minister looked at her with a wille. He was old now, but he could remember the time when his heart had beaten and his pulse thrilled like hers.

"How plainly she tells her secret,"

In the spring Miss Cameron went to London; It was not so much for her own wish as for the desire of Mine. de Valmy and her charge's trustees. They represented to her that it was only right and fitting that she should take her place in the great world—that she must do as other heiresses did. Lord Rylestone's name was never mentioned. An elderly widow lady, a distant relative of the late lord's Lady Carroll, wrote to her, and offered to introduce her into the best society if she went.

Adelaide felt no great desire to respond to the invitation, but Mine. de Valmy knew exactly how to manage her.

"You have often expressed a wish to be able to serve Lord Rylestone," she said, earnestly; "now the way is open to you."

"How can I serve him?" she asked, eagerly,

fax Garrison and Makes Confession.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 27.—Rev. H. F. Adams, who created a great sensation by his charges of gross immorality against the British officers and men in this garrison, publishes an apology to-day. He says: "My statements last Sabbath evening were made on hearsay, for which I had no facts. In the fervor of the meeting I became excited and, without thinking of my grounds, uttered rash words involving the reputation of many persons. To-day I have learned many good things from those who know of the military which I never knew before, and which disprove my statements of Sabbath evening. With the conviction that I made a grave mistake in speaking as I did in the excitement of the moment without facts, and now possessing knowledge which proves my statements untrue, I most humbly apologize to all persons attacked in that speech for misrepresenting them, and ask their forgiveness."

And Sir Richard Cartwright Gives the Globe Editor Instructions.

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—Edward Farrer of the Toronto Globe, arrived here tonight from Kingston and proceeded to the Windsor hotel, where he met Sir the Windsor hotel, where he met Str Richard Cartwright, who is also here. Both afterwards had a long conference with Mr. Laurier, the Liberal leader, when the attitude that the Liberal leaders should assume towards Mr. Mercier was fully discussed. The conference is expected to result in an important declaration from Mr. Lau-rier, who will commence a tour through Ontario next week. Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Farrer returned west by the 11.55 express.

Good Deeds Done.

THE good deeds done by that unequalled family liniment, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, during the thirty years it has been held in ever-increasing esteem by the public, would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, coughs, colds, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache. Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headaches in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.
