Have You Given Your Stenographer a LINE-A-TIME?

We have sold a number of them in the last month or two, and the testimonials we have received show the greatest enthusiasm over this little Machine that saves so much for the employer and the stenographer. Were it not for the LINE-A-TIME hundreds of thousands of typists would have no prospect of relief from the nerve racking and health breaking practice of twisting their necks and shoulders, and straining their eyes a thousand times a day, over note books and record sheets. Hundreds of thousands of employers would have to go on wrestling with the problem of how to increase the output of their typewriters without requiring more "work" from the operators. The LINE-A-TIME has become widely popular with employers and office managers, not only as a money making, labor saving invention, but as a humane device that increases output by removing a condition detrimental to the welfare of the operator. THE PRICE IS $8.50. We will gladly put in a LINE-A-TIME for a week or a month so that your stenographer can give it a trial. If at any time she does not like it, or you think it does not do all we claim for it, we will take it back and there will be no charge for the time you have had it. Ask us. CHAPTER IV.

With an inward surprise he drew aside a little, pulled up his horse, and, quick as thought, slid to the ground, then as the maddened beast made a great lunge he caught her bridle, and, extending one arm, was just in time to catch the limp form of her rider as she fell prone from the saddle.

With an indignant smack on the face, Percy turned the mare over to the groom who dashed up at the moment, and then drew the unconscious woman out of the tan on to the path.

The movement brought her to, and almost instantly she opened her eyes. As they slowly took in the sense of the scene, and met the dark, earnest one's above her; as she felt the beating of the strong man's heart against her own, a thrill, which assuredly had never before moved her, passed through her frame.

With a tremulous sigh—that seemed to take her will—herself—with it, she returned his ardent gaze with a dreamy, upward resignation, then, as if awaking, drew herself away from him and stood pale and startled. One arm still remained in his protecting, upholding grasp, but she did not attempt to withdraw it until he had taken her hand as well as pressed it lightly.

"Are you better? Quite right!—I am so glad. Some water?" and he looked about him.

"No, no!" she said, hurriedly, and with an anxious glance in the direction of the gate at which some people were just entering. "I will go home—no, not on the mare!" she added, quickly, in answer to the look of remonstrance "I can walk across the park."

"Are you sure?" he murmured, gently. "Do not overtax your strength."

"No, no," she responded, with a smile; "I never do that. I can walk; it is no distance across the grass."

Without a word he handed her her whip; and then, ready to help her if she needed it, strode on by her side in silence.

Suddenly she looked up, still pale, but smiling.

"I have lost my character as a horsewoman," she said—"with you, at least."

He looked down at her.

"You can lose nothing of all that is good and brave, and lovable with me," he said, in his low, deep voice.

She drooped her head.

"If you had not been there," she murmured, "I should have been under the foolish creature's heels."

"Heaven forbid!" he said gravely. She sighed.

"And this was such a happy time" she murmured, with sweet regretfulness, "and I have spoiled it by my awkwardness."

"You have rendered it ten times more happier for me," he said, looking down at her lovely face. "I would give all the days of my life for the last hour."

"Hush!" she said, quickly, as, with a sudden flush she quickened her pace. "Some one is near us, close behind; they are listening. Go—do not speak; do not look behind—do not, please!"

"Do not fear," he said, quietly.

"I—I am awfully foolish and—nervous," she murmured. "Here we are; I am so glad, and yet sorry, for I have said not a word of thanks," and she opened the gate with a trembling hand.

"Not one word was needed," he said. Then as she held out her hand, he took it; he thought he understood why she did not ask him in. "Good-bye! I may call and ask how you are?" he added, with an eager flush.

"Yes—no!" she added, hastily, and with a charming smile.

"No, you must not, for I feel that I ought not to be encouraged in my cowardice. Good-bye."

And his strong hand tightened on her small one, she returned the pressure, and then drew her fingers from his grasp with a suddenness that made him look up to see the cause.

His quick eyes just caught the last of two retreating figures as they turned the west corner into Mount street, and he fancied, with a persistency that clung to him afterward, that they belonged to Count Hudspeil and Captain Warner; when he looked round again, Lillian Devigne had disappeared and he was alone. With a quick, yet trembling step, she had slipped away from him and hurried through the open window into the drawing room. Then she dropped into a chair, and leaned back with frowning brows and tightened lips.

So she sat for the space of five minutes, then as her face grew more composed, she rose, glanced at herself in the glass, and passed upstairs into her mother's room.

Lady Devigne was in the act of sipping her morning cup of cocoa in bed, and started over the rim at her daughter's unusual pallor.

"What has happened, Lillian?" she demanded; "you look like a ghost. What has happened?"

"Just what I expected," replied Lillian Devigne, with tightened lips and musing eyes. "I never button on my habit without thinking that I am putting on my shroud. If there is anything on the face of the earth I hate, it is a horse! That beast, I knew we did not get her so cheap for nothing; that beast has nearly killed me!" with a vicious clench of the teeth that would have outdone the mare. "I knew I should be thrown the moment she started, and I never felt easy for a moment. Oh, how I hate a horse! I wish, they were all in one stable and I could burn it over their heads. Fancy! sitting there having to act the Amazon—ah, and no mean acting to deceive him."

"But—but—he did not see—"

"Oh, no, I did perceive him up to the last nearly—quite to the last as you or I were concerned, for the vile beast bolted and threw me—"

"Threw you!" echoed Lady Devigne, in dismay, her eyes, running over the uninjured habit. "Where—in the road?"

"No; into his arms," retorted Lillian Devigne; and as she bowed her head aside to put her hat and gloves on the table, a slight dash of color came into her face.

"Into his arms!" exclaimed Lady Devigne.

"Yes, I said so, mamma," returned Lillian, with a tone of irritation. "It is not a pleasant thing to din into one's ears. Yes, he caught me, or I should have spoiled my habit;" and she smiled scornfully.

"Did he?" murmured Lady Devigne, still lost in speculative astonishment; "and—surely that's not all!" she suggested, with her wisdom of experience.

"Yes; there might have been more," returned the daughter, with pursed lips; "there would have been more, but for that clog and bane of our lives. He came upon us and foiled us."

Lady Devigne turned pale and groaned.

"Always he!"

"Yes; he never fails us!" retorted the daughter, bitterly. "He saw us in the park, and cut across, I suppose. He was mean enough to hear every word, and, and—and, oh, how sick I am of it all! how sick and weary!" and she laid her hand on the door.

"But—but—Percy Chester? You have quite decided. You think he is taken?"

The girl looked down, and a smile of self-scorn curled her lip.

"Yes; he thinks me all that is good and pure and truthful. How should he, who is all that is truthful and honorable, think otherwise?"

Lady Devigne paid no heed to the sneer whatever.

"And you think," she murmured, "you think it would answer—that he is worth while, good enough—"

"I think that he—a gentleman nobly born, the heir to an earldom—would marry me, a heartless, designing adventuress—"

"My dear Lillian!" broke in Lady Devigne, with crimson cheeks and an angry stare, "you forget yourself!"

"Forget myself!" echoed the girl, turning her lovely face, full of scorn and bitterness, toward the bed; "forget myself! What would I give to be able to do so for one short hour!" and with a laugh of self-contempt she left the room.

CHAPTER V.

"The course of true love never did run smoothly," says the old adage, and if it be true, then Percy Chester's love was anything but deep and veritable, for there were no obstacles at present in his progress toward the good graces of Lady Devigne and her lovely daughter.

The two ladies were rarely seen now without the tall, broad-shouldered Percy in attendance, and the men of his set were beginning to nod and smile at each other, and lament over the billiard table and the rails of the Row that Chester was hooked, quite hooked; the ladies adding their sweet note of lamentation in the form of lowly breathed commiseration that Mr. Chester should be so infatuated with the Devigne girl. So palpable was the infatuation or the legitimate conquest, whichever you please, that Charlie Merivale at last came to the point of conjecture; but he had nothing but congratulations for his beautiful ideal cousin—congratulations at present unspoken, but eager for expression when he should deem it safe, for Percy, though he was gentleness itself and generous to a fault, had a nasty knack of looking grim and grave if ever Charlie trespassed beyond a certain point. So Charlie, who thought that everything his hero did must be right, and everything he said infallible, confined himself to bringing every scrap of news he could glean of the young beauty; and it was quite a study for a philosopher and a cynic to see the boy lounging about Percy's chambers and spinning out yards of boyish, enthusiastic praise of the fair Lily Queen, Percy meanwhile listening with calm, but not displeased absorption, seldom or ever checking the bright flow by more than a nod and a laughing:

"Take care, Charlie; you will have to fight that duel yet with some of Miss Devigne's admirers."

"Ah, I know who some of them would like to fight!" said Charlie one day, with a significant nod; "not me, Percy, but some one more worth their jealousy."

"Ah!" said Percy, and that was all; but Charlie could see by the tightening of the lips that no more must be said.

But that evening, as Percy entered the ballroom of a foreign countess, and made his way to that little group of female notabilities which always gathers by itself in every assembly, followed by Charlie, who was always welcome by the ladies, who found his boyish candor a pleasant set-off and change to the blasé languor of the fashionable dandy, Percy could not help noticing that there were sundry evil glances spent and wasted upon him as he bent over the small gloved hand of Lillian Devigne.

THE QUESTION—A NEXT HOPED FOR—

LONDON, May 25.

A large expectant crowd of members and of the general public assembled in the House of Commons this afternoon when Premier Asquith rose to make his statement of affairs. Although it was understood that the Prime Minister would not go into any details which were taking place in the members of the government, Irish enough to be made public, started by expressing the hope that the disappearance of martial law would be speedy and complete, referring to the sacrifices Irishmen made on behalf of the British during the present war, Asquith "could we who represent Ireland could those who represent England tolerate the prospect when war was over, when we had by our efforts and sacrifices, as we believed we should, secured our end, that here at home should be arrayed against one another in the most tragic and most of all conflicts, internecine strife. The Premier said that the duty of the government was to store order and prevent a relapse of the disturbances, at the same time there was cause for rejoicing, overwhelming evidence that the bulk of the Irish nation had sympathy with the rebellion. Much was being continued as a primary measure. Asquith hoped appearance would shortly be complete. For the time being the position of the Irish executive provisional, Asquith said, Ireland to get a first hand view situation, the Premier went on and talked freely with the number of those who have rested. There were two main infant impressions left on the first, the breakdown of the machinery of the Irish government, second the strength and depth of universal feeling in Ireland, have now a unique opportunity a new departure for a settlement of the problem. I saw with my own eyes the heart rendering desolation of unhappy misguided men, over a large area near Dublin, a full discussion with representatives and exponents of all schools of opinion. Referring to the Rule Bill, Premier Asquith said one so far as known has even contemplated its application one set of Irishmen against another. What is now in this great emergency of paramount importance is that if it be possible, and is possible, an agreement

THE IRISH QUESTION—A SETTLE-MENT HOPED FOR.

LONDON, May 25.
 A large expectant crowd of members and of the general public had assembled in the House of Commons this afternoon when Premier Asquith rose to make his statement on Irish affairs. Although it was generally understood that the Prime Minister would not go into conversation which were taking place between members of the government and the Irish enough to be made public, he started by expressing the hope that the disappearing of martial law would be speedy and complete. Referring to the sacrifices Irishmen had made on behalf of the British Empire during the present war, Asquith said "could we who represent Britain or could those who represent Ireland tolerate the prospect when this war was over, when we had by our joint efforts and sacrifices, as we had hoped and believed we should, achieved our end, that here at home Irishmen should be arrayed against one another in the most tragic and most debasing of all conflicts, internecine, domestic strife. The Premier said the primary duty of the government was to restore order and prevent a recurrence of the disturbances, at the same time there was cause for rejoicing in the overwhelming evidence that the great bulk of the Irish nation had no sympathy with the rebellion. Martial law was being continued as a precautionary measure. Asquith hoped this disappearance would shortly be complete. For the time being the composition of the Irish executive must be provisional, Asquith said. I went to Ireland to get a first hand view of the situation, the Premier went on, I visited and talked freely with a large number of those who have been arrested. There were two main predominant impressions left on my mind, first, the breakdown of the Executive machinery of the Irish government, second the strength and depth of the universal feeling in Ireland that we have now an unique opportunity for a new departure for a settlement of the problem. I saw with my own eyes the heart rendering desolation which unhappy misguided men had wrought over a large area near Dublin. I had a full discussion with representatives and exponents of all schools of Irish opinion. Referring to the Home Rule Bill, Premier Asquith said, no one so far as known has ever desired or contemplated its application by one set of Irishmen against another. What is now in this great domestic emergency of paramount importance is that if it be possible, and I hope it is possible, an agreement such as

thought in vain before the war, should be arrived at between those representing different interests and parties in Ireland. I believe, as I have already said, that in Ireland, itself there is a deep and genuine desire to obtain such agreement. The government, I speak for all my colleagues, and some of us be it remembered in the past have taken the most diverse possible views in regard to the question of Irish government, are anxious more than anxious to do everything in their power to facilitate such results. At the unanimous request of his colleagues, Mr. Lloyd George has undertaken to devote his time, energy and power with the authorized representatives and exponents of views of the different Irish parties. If there be, as I believe there is, among the Irish, no less than among the people of Britain, as honest and as resolute a desire to take advantage of this opportunity for the attainment of that which to us as a nation and an empire, I do not hesitate to say, is the greatest boon that we could possibly achieve. We cannot but hope that Lloyd George's mission of peace and reconciliation and if possible unity, will not only carry with it the good wishes and ardent hopes of all members in every quarter of the House, but something more. Asquith appealed to all sections of the House to abstain from any immediate discussion on Irish affairs, which would be likely to prevent a great and lasting settlement. The Premier took the Commons by surprise this afternoon in making his expected statement on Irish affairs. He devoted his speech not so much to the rebellion and the manner in which the Government dealt with it as it was thought he would do, as in making an appeal for a settlement of the Irish problem by agreement among Irish leaders. In this connection the Premier announced that Lloyd George had undertaken at the request of the Cabinet to negotiate between the contending Irish parties. He asked in the meantime that the matter should not be debated in the House. John Redmond, Sir Edward Carson and William O'Brien agreed to this, notwithstanding the attempt made by Laurence Ginnell, Nationalist member, to make a speech, but the subject was dropped for the day at least, and the House emptied quickly. Baron Stamfordham, Private Secretary to King George, listened closely to Asquith's speech, and departed immediately afterwards and returned to the Palace to report to the King. Baron Wimborne, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, also was present.

NO PEACE YET.
 LONDON, May 25.

Responding instantly to Sir Edward Grey's declaration that peace talk is idle until Germany changes her attitude, Lloyds today made a radical shift in rates of insurance against the war ending before December 31st. A few days ago Lloyds offered even money that the war would not end this year. To-day insurance brokers are willing to wager 3 to 1 that the war would end in 1916; other odds posted by Lloyds to-day were 7 to 3 that the war will not end before April 1, 1917; twenty to one that the war will end before 1919. The newspapers to-day generally applauded Sir Edward Grey's answer in the Commons yesterday to the German Chancellor's latest peace talk. The opinion among Londoners is that the Foreign Secretary killed all hope of peace on Germany's terms, and at the same time served notice on Bethmann Hollweg that he must make radical changes with his peace programme if he hopes for an early ending of the war. No other period of Sir Edward's speech won such applause as his statement that the Allies are not beaten and are not going to be beaten. There is no phrase or word in Sir Edward Grey's speech which encourages the hope of an early peace, said the Daily Chronicle to-day. He dismissed at the outset any idea that this country is acting separately from her Allies. He repudiated with scorn the German Chancellor's attempt to place the blame for the continuance of the war on the Allies, because they cannot accept German terms of peace which would place other nations of Europe at her mercy.

Makes Hair Grow.

All drug stores sell SALVIA, and it is guaranteed to grow hair or money back.
 The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of. If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.
 The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.
 And remember it destroys the Dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots.
 SALVIA is sold by first-class druggists under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 50c. The word "SALVIA" on every bottle.

Air Members of British House Had No Audience

London, May 18.—The adjournment of the House of Commons yesterday occurred during a speech by Noel Pemberton-Billing, who was recently elected a member of the House on an improved air service reform.
 According to one of the morning papers the adjournment was deliberately engineered as a snub to the young air man, who was formerly connected with the Royal Air Service.
 The Daily News lobby correspondent, in this connection, says:
 "In order to show less than a quorum some fifty members filed out of the chamber. The members remaining cheered and laughed while the count was going on, for they had designed the affair as a deliberate snub to Mr. Pemberton-Billing, who is generally regarded as having made himself ridiculous by his failure to substantiate, before an inquiry committee, his charges against the air service."
Everyday Etiquette.
 "When at a dinner where finger bowls are used, how should I use them?" inquired George.
 "Simply dip the tips of your fingers into the bowl and wipe them on your napkin. If necessary you may touch your lips also with a mistletoe finger and wipe them with your napkin," replied his sister.

The Municipal Bill

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE MEET.

The Citizens' Committee on the new Municipal Bill met last night in the Board of Trade Rooms. The meeting opened at 8.20. Vice-Chairman, Mr. W. A. O'D. Kelly, presided in the absence of Chairman Soper, who was unavoidably absent, owing to one of his children being ill at home. The Secretary read minutes of the last meeting, which were adopted after some discussion. Correspondence written by the Secretary to the Colonial Secretary and Chairman of the Municipal Board was approved. Mr. Barter proposed and Mr. Mr. Pud-dister seconded a motion that the Colonial Secretary be written to for a correct definition of the qualification of voters in all future elections. Discussion of the Bill was then taken up. Sections 8 to 24 were gone through. It was proposed by Mr. Bradley and seconded by Mr. Curnew that a sub-committee to report on sections 10 and 11 be appointed. This section deals with the right of the partnership vote. Messrs. Barter, Curnew and Bradley were chosen as the sub-committee.
 Section 22, dealing with the election of Councillors, was deferred for future reference as was also section 23. Some of the committee objected to councillors serving "free gratis" as in their opinion the city would be losing the benefit of men whose services were worth having. From five to seven hundred dollars should be paid as a yearly salary. Mr. Peel wanted the section to be passed as it stood in the new Bill.
 The meeting then adjourned till Monday at 8 o'clock.

 Another big crowd turned out last night and were present at the Casino when "Milestones" was repeated. The performance being even better than the previous evening, proved an unqualified success. To the promoters, performers and all who helped to make the affair a success much credit is due.

GOOD WORK FOR SICK WOMEN

The Woman's Medicine Has Proved Its Worth.

When Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies were first introduced, their curative powers were doubted and had to be proved. But the proof came, and gradually the use of them spread over the whole country. Now that hundreds of thousands of women have experienced the most beneficial effects from the use of these medicines, their value has become generally recognized, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard medicine for women.
 The following letter is only one of the thousands on file in the Pinkham office, at Lynn, Mass., proving that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an article of great merit as shown by the results it produces.
 Anamosa, Iowa.—"When I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered with a displacement, and my system was in a general run-down condition. I would have the head ache for a week and my back would ache so bad when I would bend down I could hardly straighten up. My sister was sick in bed for two months and doctored, but did not get any relief. She saw an advertisement of your medicine and tried it and got better. She told me what it had done for her, and when I had taken only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my head began to feel better. I continued its use and now I don't have any of those troubles."—Mrs. L. J. HANNAN, R.F.D. 1, Anamosa, Iowa.

The Opportunity and the Man.

Mr. Asquith's speech in the House of Commons yesterday was statesman-like. It was a big hearted and big minded effort to pave the way for the constitutional elements to work together for the salvation of Ireland.

As we have pointed out on other occasions there is a gulf between the rebels on the one hand and the two Irish parliamentary parties on the other, and a similar gulf does not divide the Redmondites from the Carsonites. The two latter are parliamentary parties. Both are upholders of the British flag, the British Constitution and the British King. The rebels are anti-parliamentarians, hostile to the flag, and republican independents. The true policy is to find a modus vivendi between those parliamentary parties for the government of Ireland under the British flag and King George. It is a policy which has been tried elsewhere with success. It succeeded in Canada well nigh a century ago. It has succeeded with the Boers during the past decade and the Great War has crowned its success. Its tendency is to swell the ranks of constitutionalists as the years come along and diminish the number of irconcilables. The very rebellion has emphasized more strongly what the Great War had proved was the great need in Ireland. The opportunity is unique for a settlement. The gravity of the national crisis must give pause to the contending parliamentarians and make them think and think again before they reject the chance of standing shoulder to shoulder in the present crisis.

Hope of a settlement is based on the statement of Asquith that his colleagues in the Coalition Cabinet, having in the past most divergent views on the government of Ireland, "are anxious, and more than anxious, to do everything in their power to facilitate such results." That hope is buttressed by the action of leaders like Redmond, Carson and O'Brien agreeing to drop controversial debate on the Irish question to facilitate the Round Table Conference under Lloyd George, who is a man eminently qualified to preside over a Board of Reconciliation.

She is 3,000 tons register. Bowring Bros., Ltd., are her agents.

Free Diet Advocates.

Brought to Task for "Stabbing" a Restaurant Keeper.

Last night the Chief Engineer and Second Officer of a ship now in port who had been celebrating during the day visited McGarry's Cafe on Water Street. They got served with a rather appetizing menu, as requested, and after they had polished off the edibles, a bill was presented to them for $1.50 or 75 cents each. They stoutly refused to pay and became disorderly. The police were sent for and Head Constable Sparrow came and gently ordered the cheap diet advocates to "cough up" the amount they owed or give him their names. They did neither, and in double quick time were marched off to the lock-up. This morning they were brought before Judge Hutchings. They gave a flimsy explanation of their conduct and found to their dismay that the last meal they had had "gone up" considerably, as they were fined $2 or 7 days as well as getting a meal of tongue, but for the latter were not charged anything.

Heart's Content Festivities.

CONVERSAZIONE.

A most enjoyable evening was spent by the good folk with "Contented Hearts" at Mr. and Mrs. Tranfield's residence last evening, together with the executive staff of the S. S. Cranley, in aid of the Heart's Content Cots. This was benefitted to the extent of $45.00. The house and exterior were very prettily decorated by the kind hands of Captain Mann, lending his assistance and allowing his officers to decorate. A football match was arranged between the "Cableites" and the "Cranleyites," which resulted in a win for the "Cableites" of 4 goals to 0. Some game. Owing to want of practice the "Cranleyites" were defeated, as they gave a fine exhibition of play. A concert was held in the evening when the following ladies and gentlemen took part: Mrs. Crokebroke, Misses Balley (2) and Cook, and Messrs. T. Mallam, White, Daly, Peach, Ford, Barker, Carberry, A. Smith and Rev. Canon Smart. Mrs. Anderson acted as accompanist. An auction conducted by Mr. Ford in truly auctioneer's style caused great fun, and also resulted in a profit for the Red Cross Fund. Canon Smart conducted the closing ceremonies in his usual hearty manner, and everybody was made to feel good by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and reminded our Empire by singing "God Save the King."

1ST NEWFOUNDLAND REGIMENT HEADQUARTERS.

St. John's, May 23rd, 1916.

[No. 45.]
Regimental Order.
By Colonel Sir W. E. Davidson, K.C. M.G., Officer Commanding.

The following appointments are noted for information:

Appointments—

(a) 143 rd. Ede. Order No. 349: Major W. H. Franklin, 1st Newfoundland Regiment, is appointed to the command of the 116 Battalion Royal Warwickshire Regiment with rank of Lieutenant Colonel from this date, vice Lieutenant Colonel F. O. Wethered, V. D., invalided to England, (dated April 15th, 1916.) (Authority A. G.'s letter A/12245).

(b) "The King has been graciously pleased to give directions for the following appointment to the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and St. George, for distinguished service in the Field. To be dated 1st January, 1916:

"To be an additional member of the Third Class or Companion of the said Most Distinguished Order: Major (temp. Lieut. Colonel) Arthur Lovell Hadon, Norfolk Regiment, (attached 1st Newfoundland Regiment)." A. MONTGOMERIE, Captain & Adjutant.

"Somewhere in France."

Mrs. Boland, 22 Burke's Square, received a letter from her son, Private Leo Boland, yesterday, who is now with the Newfoundland Regiment "somewhere in France," saying that he is enjoying himself and hopes soon to have a go at the Huns. Pte. Boland was with "Ours" at Gallipoli, and like many others suffered much from exposure. At the time "Ours" crossed to France he was then recuperating at Wandsworth. So eager was the young soldier to be with his comrades that he found out the transport they were to leave England in and stowed away, only to be sent back again to Wandsworth. However, after a short while his much desired wish was gratified and he is now happy with his chums "somewhere in France."

Supreme Court.

The Grand Jury was in attendance at the Supreme Court this morning, to consider the indictment against Albert E. Hickman on a charge of conspiracy. Two witnesses were examined, Miss Atwell (book-keeper) and Mr. Cyril Tessier. Recess was taken till 3 p.m., when further hearing of the Crown case will be resumed.

GOOD SHOES Reflect Good Judgment

On the Manufacturers part in the choice of materials and in the selection of styles that well dressed men will find appealing. On the dealers part, in handling high grade shoes for the sake of the prestige gained in the eyes of the people who appreciate quality. On the purchasers part in discerning value and appraising quality.

Invictus Shoes,

Manufactured by Geo. A. Slater, are good shoes in every sense of the word. We have just opened a large shipment of these well known Shoes. We are sure to have a particular style suited to your own especial requirements.

MARSHALL BROTHERS.

The Way We Say It.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A friend who knows theatrical people told me this interesting incident the other day.

Two theatrical people connected with a certain play were listening behind the scenes to the applause at the end of an act.

One of them said to the other, "It isn't so much what the actors say as the way they use their voices that brings applause. I'll wager I can go before the audience and say something entirely unconnected with the play, and get a hand."

The other took him up, and at the end of the act the actor went before the curtain and in a tone of one saying something of great emotional import, and with a lift of his voice at the end, said, "White is black and black is white."

And the audience clapped. They responded to the voice not to the words.

"It was the inflection that got them," said the actor, "that and the open vowel at the end. If I had said, 'black is white and white is black,' they wouldn't have clapped."

If that incident is true (no reflection on my friend intended) it is an interesting example of the power of voice and inflection, isn't it?

Few people realize how much meaning tone and inflection carry. If you want to see a remarkable instance of a volume condensed into one single word, take out your Bible and look up John xx. 16, and try to imagine the inflection with which the two words in that verse must have been spoken.

The value of a smile on the lips has been pointed out to us since childhood, but comparatively little has been said about the need of a smile in the voice. And yet there is nothing more depressing than to listen to a down voice. It seems as if a cloud crossed the sun when you come into the presence of someone who speaks that way.

But when a person with a happy voice comes into the room it is indeed as if "another candle had been lighted."

A writer on business courtesy in one of the recent magazines contributes this interesting data to the subject of the importance of the voice:

They Must Use The Upward Inflection.

"The telephone company has discovered that the word 'please' repeated several million times a year delayed messages and really cost a lot of money. So operators now inquire merely 'Number?' But they are under rigid instructions to say the word with a rising inflection on the second syllable, which gives a cheerful, chipper sound to the inquiry, whereas the word with a falling inflection at the last makes it sound as if the operator is bored with her job. Moreover, the big telephone companies in hiring a girl insist that she must have a pretty voice."

Voices are wonderful things, ain't they? And not the least wonderful thing is that they are infinitely more flexible and capable of improvement than many other things—features, for instance.

When stitching chiffon or any such material on the machine use the finest possible thread, and put a strip of thin paper under the goods and stitch them together. The paper can be torn away when the work is finished.

Celebrating Empire Day.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Editor,—Kindly allow us space in the columns of your paper to give you an idea of how the pupils of the C. of E. School here celebrated Empire Day. The pupils about 25 in number met at the school room at 9:30 a.m., each one bearing a flag with which the school yard was decorated. A very nice programme was arranged by our teacher, Mr. Penny, which consisted of:—1st, a short address on Empire Day followed by patriotic songs and recitations in which all took part, the music was rendered by our teacher, afterwards various games were indulged in and we all enjoyed ourselves immensely. About 11:30 Canon Netter, visited the school and gave us a very interesting address on the Union Jack, after this the National Anthem was sung and cheers were given for the Empire then we wended our way homewards delighted with the pleasant way in which the morning was spent.

We are, yours in anticipation, LILLIAN CHAYTOR, GEORGE KEARLEY. Topsail, May 24th, 1916.

Your Boys and Girls.

Mothers must learn to refrain from meddling and let the little ones learn to do their own lessons. When a child has already learned, unfortunately, to ask for help, one must try at once to undo this evil tendency by providing simpler and simpler exercises until, through making a very slight effort "all himself," the child learns the joy of self-conquering and re-acquires his natural taste for independence. Healthy, normal children give no trouble of this kind. The average child always says: "Let me do it." Mothers must learn to be patient enough to let him do it. This is not to be considered "unbridled child liberty" but simply heading him in the right direction.

The Real Irish.

Private Michael Flannigan is hammering the foe man From a line of British trench beplastered thick with "minnies"; Private Michael Flannigan in courage yields to no man. You will find him blithe and gay however vile the din is. Private Michael Flannigan is out for death or glory Where beneath the hail of steel the parapet is flying. Adding yet another page to Ireland's splendid story. Written in the blood of those whose fame shall be undying.

Private Pat O'Sullivan is starving with the hunger In a German prison-camp, his spirit yet unbroken. O! you should have heard him curse the dirty treason-monger. Proferring him bread and gold to wear the Kaiser's token! These be Ireland's own true sons, who keep her honor ever. Sure the bravest tree that grows may have a branch that's rotten;

Tales of them shall point the way to glorious endeavor When the little traitor crowd is perished and forgotten! —Touchstone, in London Daily Mail.

GLORY OF WAR.

The war is raging; it has been raging for nearly two long years; and what's the showing? An endless flowing of human blood and tears. Oh, tell the story of martial glory to captains of marines! Go forth and wander, in Europe yonder, and see what glory means! Go count the legions, in those red regions, of men whom war made blind, in blackness groping, and done with hoping for light they'll never find. Behold the shattered and torn and battered remains of once strong men, who looked for glory in meadows of glory, and ne'er shall walk again. The war is sending its crippled vending back to their ruined farms, to beg, to borrow, to mourn, in sorrow, their missing legs and arms. This is the glory of which the hoary old harpers like to chant; but it's more charming to stay home farming, and rear the cabbage plant.

Liquid Catarrh Remedies Useless Only Relieve—Never Cure. They go direct to the stomach, have very little effect on the linings of the nose and throat, and entirely fail to cure. Only by cleansing the air passages, by relieving the inflammation and killing the germs is cure possible. No combination of antiseptics is so successful as Catarrhazone. In breathing it you send the richest pine balsam right to the seat of the disease. Irritating phlegm is cleared out, hoarseness, coughing and hacking are cured. For a permanent cure for Catarrh, nothing equals Catarrhazone, get it to-day, but beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhazone. All dealers sell Catarrhazone, large size containing two months treatment, costs $1.00; small size, 50c; sample size, 25c.

Bell Island Recruiting Meeting.

A successful recruiting meeting was held at Bell Island on Monday night last. The opening address was made by Magistrate Power in stirring and patriotic words. He urged the young men present to protect the Homeland and Empire by enlisting. Rev. Mr. Stead and Rev. T. Nangle followed with spirited addresses, appealing to the men of the Island to come forward and do their bit. Lieut. Murphy was the last speaker. He made a strong appeal for recruits and he painted a graphic picture of the present titanic struggle and Newfoundland's duty to the Empire.

Eight young men presented themselves for enlistment and they seemed anxious to don the Khaki right away. Since Monday night several other young men have responded to the call.

Some ten volunteers arrived in the city yesterday from the Island and presented themselves for the medical examination. Among them is Arch, the second and remaining son of Magistrate Power, a younger brother being already in the fighting line. Bell Island has responded creditably to the call for volunteers. One of her sons, Sergeant Walter M. Green, has won the D. C. M., gaining honour for himself and his native land.

TO-DAY'S Messages.

ENEMY SUBMARINES BUSY IN MEDITERRANEAN.

LONDON, To-day. Reports received here by shipping companies indicate that submarines have been busy recently in the Mediterranean where a considerable number of ships, both belligerent and neutral, have been sunk. With the exception of two cases, according to reports, the attacking submarines displayed a large Austrian flag. Warning given each instance, but a number of sailors were either killed by explosion or drowned by overturning lifeboats. On two occasions, according to advices, showed the German flag. Among neutrals affected by this submarine activity the Greeks and Norwegians are the greatest sufferers.

KING SIGNS MILITARY SERVICE BILL.

LONDON, To-day. The signature of King George yesterday was affixed to the Military Service Bill, recently passed by Parliament. In giving the Royal sanction to the Bill, King George issued the following message to the nation: To enable our Country to organize more effectively its military resources for the present great struggle for the cause of civilization, I have, acting on the advice of my Ministers, deemed it necessary to enroll every able-bodied man between the ages of 18 to 21. I desire to take this opportunity of expressing to my people my recognition and appreciation of the splendid patriotism and self-sacrifice they displayed in raising by voluntary enlistment since the commencement no less than 5,041,000 men, the effect far surpassing that of any other nation in similar circumstances. The record is one which will be a lasting source of pride to future generations. I am confident the magnificent spirit which hitherto has sustained my people through the trials of this terrible war will inspire them to endure the sacrifice now imposed upon them and that with God's help, lead us and our Allies to victory which shall achieve the liberation of Europe.

BRITISH ACTIVITY IN EUROPE.

LONDON, To-day. The British official communication issued last night concerning operations in Egypt says: Since the enemy's air attack on Port Said, the Royal Flying Corps in Egypt has given the enemy little rest. Four British machines heavily bombarded the enemy's advance posts, 40 bombs were dropped, resulting in the building and plant at El Hamma being seriously damaged and the water tanks at Rodhsalen being smashed. This will upset the whole plans of the enemy since the destruction of his drilling plant at Jiffa by our patrols he had set great store on the Rodhsalen water works. It has now been learned the columns of troops which suffered by our bombing attack on El Arish on the 18th were Germans. This probably explains the hasty retreat by dropping bombs on Port Said civilians. Further details show two British monitors sloop fired 34 heavy projectiles in the attack at El Arish, causing the enemy to scatter in all directions among the palm groves near the shore which afterwards were thoroughly searched by savors of medium shells. The bombardment lasted two hours, and the strong fort of the town was reduced to ruins. The enemy completely demoralized made no reply to our fire.

BRITISH ARTILLERY EFFECTIVE.

FIGHTING ON GREEK FRONT.

PARIS, To-day. Reports received from Saloniki by the Havas correspondent at Athens yesterday are to the effect that a violent bombardment of the sector from Doiran to Gievell on the Macedonian front has been accompanied by infantry actions and that wounded are being brought in from the front by Red Cross autos.

BRITISH BOMBARD TURKISH COMMUNICATIONS.

LONDON, To-day. The Turkish force confronting the British below Kut-el-Amara in Mesopotamia has not effected any further withdrawal since those reported recently in the incident of realignment of the Turkish front after the surrender at Kut. The British, however, through their advance on the right bank of the Tigris have been able to command with their artillery the line of Turkish communications on the opposite bank, according to an official statement which says General Lake reports on May 24 the enemy still holding positions on the left bank in the vicinity of Sannayyat. Our artillery from the right bank have been maintaining active fire upon his communications along the left bank.

FRENCH AVIATORS DROP BOMBS.

PARIS, To-day. French aeroplanes operating from the lines of the Entente Allies on the South of the Macedonia border, dropped bombs yesterday morning on Xanthi, Velles and Uskup, Serbia, inflicting considerable damage, according to a Havas despatch from Athens.

THE GREAT RECONCILER.

LONDON, To-day. David Lloyd George in stepping temporarily from the Minister of Munitions to a sort of round table conference to settle the Irish difficulty is a striking illustration of how at all great crisis and emergencies during the war he gained an enviable reputation in the eyes of men of all parties for his capable handling of the nation's finances, then came to the rescue of the military in an emergency, as head of the Ministry of Munitions to provide the army with shells. Lately it was undoubtedly his forceful personality which converted the country in the face of the strongest opposition to universal military service. Now he steps into the breach to solve one of the most difficult political problems ever presented to a British statesman, to reconcile apparently irreconcilable sections of the Irish people, and establish Home Rule in Ireland. How soon Lloyd George will be able to arrange a formal conference, and exactly what shape the conference will take is still unknown. He has been engaged for some days in informal talks, preparatory to such conference. It is understood besides John Redmond, Irish Nationalist Leader, Sir Edward Carson, Ulster Leader, the conference will include Herbert Samuel, Home Secretary, who had much to do with the forming of the finance clauses of the Home Rule Act. Other names mentioned are John Dillon, Joseph Devlin. It is asserted the proceedings of the conference will be quite confidential. The place of meeting will be Lloyd George's private room in the Ministry of Munitions, Whitehall. In Parliamentary Lobbies to-day a feeling of optimism prevailed, the circumstances under which the parties are being called together offer a fair chance of settlement.

CUNARD LINE BACK TO BRISTOL.

LONDON, To-day. To mark the sailing to-day from Avonmouth under the Cunard flag of the first ships taken over from the Canadian Northern, the Lord Mayor of Bristol, Dr. Barclay Baron, entertained Sir Alfred Booth, Chairman of the visiting directors of the Cunard Line at dinner last night. About 50 citizens, representative of the shipping and commercial life of Bristol, joined in welcoming to the port a dozen British shipping firms. The Lord Mayor recalled the fact that the first great western ship sailed from Bristol, and the founder of the Cunard Line selected Liverpool as a terminus for four boats built on the model of that steamship. Now to-day the Cunard Line had come back to Bristol.

DEVELOPMENT EXPECTED ON GREEK FRONT.

ATHENS, To-day. The military activity at Saloniki is believed here to portend developments of great importance. General Bowell, Chief of British Staff, and other officers who have been on leave in Athens, have been recalled suddenly.

DOES NOT FAVOR INTERVENTION BY WILSON.

PARIS, To-day. The Temps again goes on record as not favoring any idea of peace negotiations. "It seems," the Temps says, "that President Wilson thinks his refusal to pass judgment gives him a right to intervene. To have tolerated the violation of the neutrality of Belgium does not create for him the right to participate in the restoration of Belgium."

PARTY LINES OBLITERATED.

LONDON, To-day. The Premier's speech was heard with intense interest by members. He had scarcely resumed his seat when John Redmond, Nationalist Leader, arose and acquiesced in the Premier's request and adding in a speech filled with emotion an ardent desire for a solution of the difficulties of his country. Redmond was quickly followed by his political arch enemy, Sir Edward Carson, who tendered all support possible, and by the independent Irish leader, William O'Brien, who did likewise. Those speeches effectively obliterated the party lines. From the moment those members who had come prepared to attack the Government fell in with the leaders and the question dropped.

A VOICE IN THE SETTLEMENT.

LONDON, To-day. The Dockers' Union has given its enthusiastic endorsement of the proposal of the American Federation of Labor that at the same time and place of negotiations for peace there shall be a world's labor congress, so that labor shall have a voice in the terms of settlement with the object of putting forth efforts to make war impossible in future. The Dockers' Union will urge the proposal on all other British Labor bodies. Last March, Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, issued an address calling on Trade Unions to send representatives to attend a Labor World Peace Conference. This was provided for by holding of a labor congress for the same time and place as the general peace congress shall be held, which will determine the conditions and terms of peace at the close of the war.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day. The battle of Verdun continues unabated on both sides. The Meuse River Northeast and northwest of the fortress, the Germans are keeping up their unprecedented bombardment and vicious infantry attacks. The French are replying to the German guns, virtually shot for shot under a withering fire, holding the Germans almost at every point. One more gain, however, has been made by the Germans. After recapturing Fort Douaumont and taking trenches south and southwest of the fort, the German west have occupied a section of French trenches, following a series of attacks, all of which they were repulsed with heavy casualties, except one where they penetrated the French lines around Douaumont. Heavy artillery duels are in progress northwest of Verdun. The Germans increased the artillery fire against French Hill 304, probably preparatory to another infantry attack for possession of this much fought for vantage point. The German attack against the Russian west of Delen Island gave them momentarily possession of a Russian advanced trench, a counter attack by the Russians dislodged the invaders. At Foutons to advance against the Russians north of Olyka station, southeast of Lutsk, was repulsed by the Russians. In the region southeast of Foutons, across the border of Italy, Rome reports the repulse of the Austrian attacks and the throwing back of the attacks in disorder. In the Astico Posina region the Italians are replying effectively to the bombardment of Austrians. In the Asiago Sugana Valley district, the situation is unchanged. Petrograd reports the junction of Russian troops with British forces in the region of Kut-el-Amara. The Russian came from the region of Kermandah and Kasr, Ishirin Persia, northeast of Bagdad. This announcement probably refers to a force of Cossacks which was officially reported several days ago from London to have joined the British. In connection with operations near the Persian front Constantinople reports the Turks stopped the advance of Russians in the region of Kasr Ishirin and defeat of Russian detachments at Suanannah, north of Kasr Ishirin.

ROME, To-day. The retreat of the Italians on a portion of the Trentino front has not caused any pessimism in official circles here. It is pointed out that the entire line of battle is four hundred miles long and that there need be no surprise that there should be withdrawals at some points under overwhelming pressure.

The Escape From False Hair.

No woman is truly beautiful without good hair. Nowadays few women wear false locks, so it is necessary to depend entirely on Nature's endowment for crowns of glory. In the first place the hair should be kept scrupulously clean and well brushed. The next step is to massage the scalp with pure olive oil or yellow vaseline.

Of course, this makes the hair oily, but scalp massage is the secret of keeping the hair healthy and making it grow. It is not necessary to go to a beauty parlor—you can do it yourself each night in your room, and if you persist, in a very short time you will find gratifying results. Before dressing the hair and when taking it down, shake it out loosely, letting the air get to the scalp. Now dip the fingers in the oil—just the finger tips—place the finger tips at the forehead where the hair first appears and gradually work them backward over the scalp in a circular motion. At each turn let the fingers press deeply enough to move the scalp and work the oil into the roots. Then, with the same circular motion, still moving the scalp, begin at the base of the neck and work forward over the head to the forehead. About fifteen minutes should be spent in this manner, every morning and night.

GEO KEARNEY Manager

Broke Into House. Spelt With an "I".

A case of a rather unusual character was heard in private before Judge Hutchings this morning. The defendant was a volunteer, who was arrested under warrant last night. It appears that a few evenings ago this volunteer, while half crazed with liquor, rushed into a private residence on Parade Street and in a bedroom where a woman, the owner of the house, was at the time in delicate health. The volunteer was disorderly, though he did not attempt to do any harm, and the woman was badly frightened. To-day the volunteer was fined $5 or 14 days for his conduct.

The drama contained thrills of all sorts, and was certainly good value for the money if you didn't look too closely at the scenery and overlooked the weakness of the actors. After the third evening the manager of the company was discussing the small audiences with the proprietor of the theatre. "Business has been bad," said he frankly. "I suppose it must be on account of the war." "Not at all," said the owner of the theatre. "I think it is more on account of the piece."

SCALDED! DOCTOR SAID ZAM-BUK

The little son of Mrs. Albert Sawyer, of Midland, pulled a vessel of boiling water over him. Mrs. Sawyer writes: "When the accident occurred, I called in a doctor, who gave me some ointment, but it did not seem to give the child any relief, and his sufferings were terrible. I then commenced applying Zam-Buk, which gave him ease almost as soon as applied, but to make sure I was doing the right thing, I called in a second doctor. I told him I was applying Zam-Buk, and he said: 'The very best ointment you could use; just continue the Zam-Buk treatment.' I persevered; the soreness was soon drawn out; new skin began to form, and finally the scalds, which had been very deep, were completely healed."

Mother! You should never be without Zam-Buk; it is so good for the accidents which are of daily occurrence amongst children. There is nothing stops the bleeding of a cut, ends the pain of a burn or scald so quickly, or heals skin diseases so surely as Zam-Buk. Besides being the best remedy for home accidents, Zam-Buk is equally good for eczema, ringworm, boils, blood-poisoning, piles, abscesses and sores of all kinds. All druggists 50c. box, 3 for $1.25, or direct from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c. stamp to pay return postage on free trial box.

The Municipal Elections

Editor Evening Telegram. Sir,—Only three weeks more and nomination day will be here, and yet there is no move made by the citizens to select their candidates to govern the Civic affairs for the next two years. It is time for us to wake up or we will pay for our indifference. Surely the citizens have some interest left in Civic affairs. It is certainly an opportunity for good citizenship to come forward and deal with this matter in an intelligent manner. I hope incapables will not be allowed to slip in, for this is what is going to happen if we continue to doze as we are doing at the present. If good solid men cannot be induced to come forward nomination should be asked to continue their work for another two years, and perhaps this would be the better way, for it appears useless to expend a couple of thousand dollars on an election just now. Surely this money could be devoted to a better purpose. Anyway, the citizens do not appear to be keen on an election just now, and it looks as if the election if carried out will be fought devoid of interest, the result being that we will have councillors elected unfit for the position. Whatever is going to be done should be done at once. Delays are dangerous. It will be too late to lament when nomination day has passed. Yours truly, WATCHMAN.

The usual extra pictures for the children at the big Saturday matinee.

Here and There.

HIS SON WOUNDED.—Mr. J. Jackson received a message yesterday from London stating that his son, Lieut. A. M. Jackson, R. E. was wounded on May 21st in France, but still remained on duty.

"THE DRAGON'S CLAW" AT THE NICKEL.

The week-end performance at the Nickel Theatre beginning to-day is a very attractive one and no doubt will attract crowded houses. The principal film is a Knickerbocker star feature entitled "The Dragon's Claw." It is a beautiful story and is faultlessly acted. The popular actress, Marion Leonard, is in the lead, and she is very ably supported by Walter Handley. This grand story is in three reels. The Vitagraph artists appear in the powerful two-act drama "The Woman in the Box," featuring Peggy Blake, Harry Morey and L. Roger Lytton. "The Vagabond" is another pretty picture. "Sonny Jim's Love Affair" is a suave comedy in which Bobby Conolly does some great things. Parents should send their children to the big matinee to-morrow as it will be one of the best ever given.

British Machine Gun

IS SUPERIOR TO GERMAN WEAPON. New York, May 15.—A London cable says: "The Germans were for many months superior in machine guns, but the British now have a gun which can beat theirs and is beating it every day."

Invented by an American officer, Col. Lewis, and made in Belgium almost up to the moment when the German scouts entered the city of its manufacture, the invention narrowly escaped capture by the Germans. Its killing power may be gauged from the fact that in one trench recently one of the guns, manned by a crew of two men, accounted for 330 Germans in half an hour.

It has been described as the "horse of death," and whether in advance or retirement it is going to be the supreme battle arbiter of the coming year. Suppose that instead of a rifle weighing ten pounds and firing fifteen bullets a minute and carried by one man, one had a rifle weighing twenty-five pounds and firing fifteen bullets a second and carried by two men, what would be the effect on any advance made by the enemy? No troops could meet such a weapon.

Not one would like to raise his rifle to his shoulder. The new arm gives the greatest volume of fire in the least time of any gun known. It is working now in France and Flanders night and day, sending a steady sweep of lead across the far-flung German line. It is as if a comb of bullets were carding out the men from their trenches.

The gun can be fired upside down from an aeroplane or sideways from a trench, from the ground, from a wall or from the roof of a house. It comes to pieces like a jigsaw puzzle in a minute under expert hands and only one tool is needed and that tool is an ordinary rifle bullet.

These guns are being made in England now, and in the factories you may find many a maimed hero of Liege and Haelen proud to think that he can still work as efficiently as if he were in the firing line.

Muskeiry Notes.

On Empire Day, in the forenoon, a squad of 18 men of the 3rd Battalion engaged in machine-gun practice, at 500 yards. The scores were very creditable, considering it was the first time these recruits had received any instruction in machine-gun work. The scores follow, the possible number of points being 20:— 500 Yards Range.

In the afternoon a squad of seven men had skirmishing practice, firing from cover at 12" iron targets set out on the opposite slope, and partly under cover, at varying distances from 120 to 175 yards. Squad advanced in open order, taking cover, and firing three rounds rapid, again advancing at the double, and firing a further round. At the finish only one of the 12 targets remained standing. The squad disposing of 11. The best previous score recorded was 8 out of 12. A and B Companies of our 3rd Battalion promise to break all records on the Range, and already have 29 possibilities to their credit. Capt. Rennie was in charge of the practices, and he, and all the other instructors were more than pleased with the results of the shooting.

Plans For a Restored Parliament Building.

Original Design of four Storeys Will be Carried Out. Ottawa, May 17.—The revised plans for a restored parliament building were on view for the members of parliament in the office of the minister of public works to-day. The joint committee of both houses, after consultation with Architects Darling, of Toronto, and Marchand, of Montreal, have just about decided to add another storey to the building destroyed by fire last February, thus giving ample accommodation for many years to come. The plans as drafted carry out the present architectural design and as a matter of fact are in accord with the original design for the building which contemplated four storeys instead of three. No change is made in the plans for the inner grouping of offices, commons and senate chambers, etc., as submitted in the architectural plan of a month or so ago. The new upper storey will be devoted to restaurant accommodation and additional rooms for the members. From the architectural standpoint the raising of the height of the building is an improvement, according to the architects.

The additional cost is estimated at something over $1,000,000. The present main tower will have to be taken down entirely and replaced by a larger and higher tower preserving the same architectural outlines as the present one. According to the preliminary estimates of the architects it will cost nearly $5,000,000 to restore and enlarge the building along the lines now recommended. It will also probably mean nearly a year longer before the work is completed and parliament will probably have to meet in its present quarters for the next two sessions.

War's Poetic Slide.

Many have remarked before about the great dearth of high class verse production inspired by the present war, which is so all-absorbing as to apparently give no time for poetic rumination. Few pieces of any great merit have so far appeared in the English tongue, a different condition of affairs as compared with the American Civil War, the Crimean struggle, the Great Mutiny, and even with the South African struggle. No sign of modern warfare seems to have as yet deeply touched the fancy as the story of Jessie of Lacknow, the Scotch woman who deep down in the cellar of the besieged Residency caught the distant tones of the bagpipes long before any other ear heard them, and some hours before the relieving force attacked the besiegers. Many poems have been written celebrating the event, but best of all was the simple heartfelt lyric by Grace Campbell. If any of our readers have never before read the entire poem, let them read it now:

"Far awa' to bonny Scotland Has my spirit ta'en its flight, An' I saw my mither spinnin' In our Highland hamme at night; I saw her knit a browsin', My father at the plough, And the grand auld hills aboon them."

"Oh, leddy, while upon your knees Ye held my sleepin' head, I saw the little kirk at hame, Where Tam an' I were wed; I heard the tune the pipers played, For high aboon the din o' war Resounds the welcome strain."

"Surely, I'm no wildly dreamin'—For I hear it plainly now—Ye cannot, ye never heard it On the far off mountain's brow; For in your southern childhood, Ye were nourished saft and warm, Nor watch'd upon the cauld hillside 'The risin' o' the storm."

"Aye! Now the soldiers hear it, An' answer with a cheer, As 'The Campbells are a Comin', Falls on each anxious ear. The cannon roar their thunder, And the sappers work in vain, For high aboon the din o' war Resounds the welcome strain."

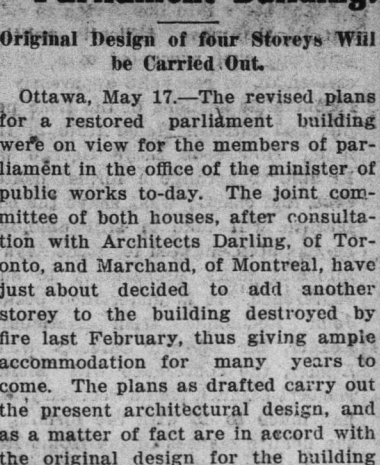

"An' nearer still, an' nearer still, An' now again 'tis Aul' Lang Syne, Its kindly notes, like life bluid rin, Through this puir sad heart o' mine; O, leddy, dhna swoon awa! Look up, the evil's past, They're comin' now to dee' wi' us, Or save us at the fast."

"Then, let us humbly, thankfully, Down on our knees and pray For those who came through bluid an' fire To rescue us this day. That He may o'er them spread his shield, Stretch forth his arm an' save Bold 'Havoc' an' his Highlanders, 'The bravest of the brave.'"

DIED. Passed peacefully away after a short illness, Effie, darling child, of George and Lavinia LeDrew, aged 10 years; funeral on Sunday, at 2.30 p.m., from her late residence, 23 Alexander Street.

FUNERAL NOTICE. The funeral of Mr. Bert Churchill will take place at 2.30 p.m. Sunday, from his late residence, 212 Theatre Hill. Minard's Linctment Cures Diphtheria.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them; I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest, is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

March on, Boys!

March on, boys! The bugle is calling! The great flag is unfurled; the beacon aglow; The world is aflame! — and your brothers are falling In grapple of death with a treacherous foe. Your sisters and sweethearts, your wives and your mothers Depend for protection on you, boys, on you, gallant brothers. Your country is calling, and those gallant brothers Within the red trenches are calling you too!

March on, boys! Your honor is calling! The hope of the world may be lost if you wait— For freedom is threatened, your brothers are falling, While bravely resisting the Hun at the gate. The sword of oppression drips red with its slaughter, The heel of the tyrant still tramples the slain— And outraged and murdered the wife and the daughter Of brothers who perished, nor perished in vain.

March on, boys! The trumpet is calling! The trumpet that calls to the soul of the world; The ramparts of Hope all about us are falling, As renegade nations against them are hurled. March on! boys, march on! and with never a falter; Your brave hearts aglow, with white passion alight; No sacrifice laid upon Freedom's great altar Can outweigh the glory of guarding the Right.

March on, boys! The Spirit is calling! The Spirit that broods in the heart of the brave— The purpose of God that's eternally falling Like sunshine, to quicken the soul of the slave. Man's progress requires the thrust that opposes, To give it the firmness and strength that endures; And sacrifice only the splendor discloses Of courage so noble, so sacred as yours. Paul Derrick.

Die in Doves For Crown Prince.

London, April 14.—Colonel Repington, the military correspondent of the London "Times," sends that journal the following account of his visit to the Verdun front:

"The Germans now have thirty divisions around Verdun. At a moderate estimate, they suffered 150,000 casualties during the first month of the battle. They are getting no rest. The French are assuming superiority in artillery. They continue their fire all day and night. They hold every road, reserve position, ravine, wood, and possible billeting zone under their fire. No German within five miles of the French guns can be sure of a moment's rest; and while the 250,000 German infantry suffered the bulk of the losses, there are probably 125,000 men of the artillery, supply, and other arms and services who also suffered much.

"General Petain is not above giving the enemy a piece of ground if he wants it very badly and if it forms a not easily defensible salient like Malancourt; but he is a tickler for the price and will not allow the enemy to come on until he is ready to pay three lives for one. In every unexpected corner machine guns watch to strike.

"The chief theatre of fighting remains on the northern front. It is on this front that the main masses of German artillery are posted in two main groups—one about Septarges, the other around Beaumont. Flank positions on the northern front—namely, Avocourt and Malancourt on the west, and Vaux on the east—are utilized mainly for the tactical purposes of aiding the northern attack. The German position in the Woivre Plain is bad, and the artillery on this side seems to be willing to stop firing when it is left alone. Since the failure of the great attack on Fort de Vaux, the Germans have dropped back a few hundred yards from the entanglements of the French.

"The whole northern front is carpeted with German dead. A French patrol went out by night to examine one of the foremost German trenches which had been reported full of men by our air observers. The trench, in fact, was full of Germans, but all were dead.

"Since this great attack failed the Crown Prince has resorted to his favorite method of disconnected and partial attacks. He did the same in the Argonne when he commanded there, and on one occasion made attacks with twenty-six battalions in succession, taken from twenty-one different regiments. Before Verdun he is making similar attacks, using up his divisions one by one. We are fortunate to have him here; but, just as in the Argonne, he was given all he needed with bountiful hands in the vain hope of connecting his name with victory. So now the whole German line is being drained of men and guns to save him from failure. He appears beneath everything as a commander, and but for his birth would have long since been relieved."

"GOOD CLOTHES."
We all like to wear what we call "Good Clothes." Now good clothes are costly—not dear—but they become dear if they have to be discarded practically unworn. The French Dry Cleaning Process meets the difficulty. We can afford to buy the best and most beautiful fabrics without being extravagant, because of their quality we can rely on being able to have them restored by this process to their original beauty quite often enough to enable them to be eventually discarded without a lament.

A New Novel by a New Writer.
The Honey Pot by Countess Barcynska. It is a story of the stage, and never perhaps have the expectations and disappointments of the aspirant for a successful stage career been more naturally described. Two girls, Maggie and Lexie, hold the interest throughout. They are excellently contrasted. Maggie, the daughter of an actress, having been associated with the stage from her earliest childhood and influenced by its freedom, while Lexie has been brought up in refinement and wants a career for the use of her talent. It is not too much to say that Maggie, the lovable and loving girl who, with all her worldly wisdom, falls a prey to the man who captures her fancy, is a triumph of characterization. Natural and human she is the heart of the book; but hardly less interesting is Lexie's stubborn fight with its happy ending and the many intimate pictures of the life of the chorus girl. The whole story rings true. Paper, 65c.; Cloth, 90c.

Farmers, Attention.
Nitrate of Soda the Great Fertilizer!

We have a small quantity unsold and will not be importing any more this season owing to present excessively high freight rates.
We would advise our customers to secure their requirements WITHOUT DELAY, even though the price be high, as we figure it will be found more economical to pay a LITTLE EXTRA for NITRATE OF SODA now and secure good crops than to pay a LOT EXTRA for your hay next winter.
