The Heir of Bayneham

—AND—
Lady Hutton's Ward.

CHAPTER XV.

"I have quite come to the conclusion, Barbara," she said one day to her niece, "that Hilda was a relative of Lady Hutton's—perhaps the daughter of some poor cousin. One can tell she belongs to a good family. I never saw any one more thoroughly ladylike or better bred."

Miss Earle agreed with her aunt; she was pleased, too, at seeing how thoroughly Bertie admired his friend's wife.

To Hilda herself life seemed one long, beautiful dream. She was but a fair, loving, gentle child. She had been nursed in love; she only knew care and sorrow by name. The one single grief of her life was softened by the healing hand of Time. The flowers that bloomed brightly beneath the summer sun were not more fair; the birds that sang were not happier than she was. She liked to be alone at times, and think it to dream over again every event of her short, happy life.

One morning, the first time for many days, she found herself free, and without any duty that required attention. Most of her guests had driven over to Laleham Priory, and she had not been able to join them. Lady Graham, who also declined to ride, was in close conversation with her maid, and Sir Harry Higham had remained at home to write letters.

Out in the garden the sun was shining brightly, the flowers were at the height of their beauty. The large branches of the tall trees waved as though inviting Hilda to enjoy the shade beneath them. It was all pleasant and fair. She hastily threw a lace shawl over her pretty morning dress, and placed a coquettish little hat on her bright golden hair, and went through the garden. The gate that led to the park was open, so she passed through it, and down the broad, shady path that led to the lodge.

The lodge was a pretty cottage, picturesque enough in its rich dress of green creepers with their purple flowers. Lady Hilda stopped to speak to one of the children playing near the gate; then without any definite purpose, looked down the high-road that led to the town of Dulston.

Suddenly her startled glance fell upon a figure of a woman who was seated upon the moss-covered stone near the gate—a woman poorly dressed, but with something strange in her attitude. She had been looking eagerly down the broad path, when the first glimmer of the white dress shone through the trees. She asked one of the children, "Who is that lady over there with the white dress and golden hair?"

"That," said the child, "is—the young Lady Bayneham, my lord's wife."

Then, not being particularly clean or presentable, the boy ran off, where her ladyship could not see him.

The woman seated herself upon the flat, moss-covered stone; a strange look, as of deep quiet, came over her face; her eyes seemed to drink in every movement of that tall, slender, white-robed figure. But Lady Hilda never saw her until she looked out of the park gate into the highroad. Then she noted with wonder the careworn, beautiful face, the tired look of the large, violet eyes, and the drooping dependency of the whole figure. As she drew near the woman rose, when something in her face caused Lady Bayneham to stop and look kindly at her.

"My lady," said the woman, her eyes still fixed on the lovely young face, "pray forgive me. I have been away from England many years. It is so long since I saw an English flower. Will you give me one of those roses that grow there?"

With the sweetness that never failed her, Hilda gathered a beautiful rose, and held it out to the woman.

"You look tired," she said, in her kind musical voice. "Have you travelled far?"

"Yes, many miles," she replied, taking the flower from the thin, white hand.

"Can I offer you anything else?" Lady Bayneham gently, half drawing out her purse as she spoke.

"No, my lady," cried the strange woman. "I had a longing to hold an English flower in my hands again, and I thank you very much."

As though she could not trust herself to speak another word, she turned away, and was soon hidden by the branching trees. Lady Bayneham looked after her in some surprise.

"What a beautiful, sorrowful face!" she said to herself; "there is a whole story written in it."

CHAPTER XVI.

"We must do something in return for all these invitations, Hilda," said Lord Bayneham. "It is more than three months now since we returned, and although we have had what one may call parties every day, it is time we did more. What do you propose?"

"A ball," she replied, her fair young face glowing with delight at the thought. "And, Claude, ask Barbara to come down for it. I am sure she will be pleased."

"We shall soon have Christmas here, and my mother promised to spend it at Bayneham," said Claude. "Suppose we wait until then, and give a ball that all the country will remember. Bertie promised us a week. What do you say?"

"It will be best," she replied, more sedately; for though longing to see Barbara, and enjoy a ball, Hilda looked forward with more awe than delight to the visit of her stately mother-in-law.

Hilda had almost forgotten the little incident that happened in the summer. Once or twice she thought, with wonder and admiration, of that beautiful, sad face, so worn and pale, and then in her heart felt thankful that those mysterious trials and troubles which wreck other lives had not shadowed hers.

There was but one thing wanting to make her perfectly happy—that was the love of Lady Bayneham. If Claude's mother would give her but one half the warm affection she lavished upon her son or Barbara Earle, Hilda would be quite content. Time passed so happily, that the days seemed one bright, long dream. Christmas was drawing near, and great were the preparations for the coming festivities. The Oulton Gazette informed the public that Christmas would bring a party of illustrious guests to the castle, and went on in a state of wild rapture to describe the gayeties expected. Among those most celebrated, Albert Carlson, esq., whose recent work on the political state of England had created a furore, was named as "one of our leading writers."

King Winter did not appear in his usual garb; there was no snow or frost when Christmas came; but contrary to all natural laws, the weather was even warm and mild. There was an attempt at rain, a feeble gleam of sunshine, but none of what English people call "seasonable cold."

Notwithstanding the absence of snow and frost there was no lack of holly and mistletoe in the castle. It was many long years since Christmas had been kept in such royal state at Bayneham, nor was there any lack of gaiety among the guests assembled there.

It would have been difficult to decide who was most popular—the graceful, lovely hostess, whose smiles had a magical charm, whose elegant, winning manner made every one feel at home and at ease, or Barbara Earle, with her stately figure and noble, soul-like face, her eloquent words and grand thoughts. There could be little out-door amusements, except shooting and hunting for the gentlemen, but no one could be dull or want amusement where Hilda and Barbara presided. Bertie was a host in himself, and the evenings at Bayneham Castle were found too short instead of too long.

One night was given to charades—Bertie being stage manager, and thoroughly well did he accomplish his task. He had what he called "magnificent materials," and he knew how to use them.

"I have a grand idea," said Bertie one morning to Lord Bayneham; "they spoke of having some tableaux vivants to-night. I consider that we have among us the three most perfect types of beauty. We could manage a beautiful picture—'The Gift of the Golden Apple.' You may be Paris, Miss Earle would make a magnificent Minerva, Miss Dornery is a perfect Juno, and Lady Hilda would represent the golden-haired Aphrodite as few others could. What do you think, Claude?"

A Fascinating Gift that charms through all the years

GLISTENING beneath the mellow touch of stately candles, catching the ruddy lights of rich mahogany, sparkling over the lacy patterns spread by snowy tea sets, fine silverware gives a charm to hospitality—it helps to entertain; it helps to make a home; it fascinates and charms through all the years.

Holmes & Edwards SILVER INLAID and SUPER-PLATE represent the highest achievement of the modern silversmith's craft. Wear cannot mar its wonderful lustre and finish for it is protected at those points usually marred by friction.

In SILVER INLAID, blocks of sterling silver are actually laid in with delicate care before plating. In SUPER-PLATE the protection consists of an extra heavy coat of sterling silver at the wear points.

See your nearest jeweller's display of Holmes & Edwards in the dignified Jamestown and the new Hostess Pattern. Ask him to show you our handsome table appointments—casseroles, pie plates, fruit and flower baskets—ideal gifts for Christmas. Insist on seeing the mark of Holmes & Edwards on the silverplate you choose.

President of Poland Assassinated at Warsaw.

Shot While Conversing With British Minister -- Prince George to be Operated On -- Mysterious Fleet on Mysterious Mission -- French Hospital Ship Burned to Water's Edge.

PRINCE GEORGE ILL.
LONDON, Dec. 18.
Prince George, the King's youngest living son, will be operated on for appendicitis almost immediately according to the Daily Mail. He is 23 years old and a naval cadet.

POLAND'S MURDERED PRESIDENT.
WARSAW, Dec. 17.
The body of President Narutowicz, who was assassinated on Saturday, will lie in state during the great public ceremony. Narutowicz visited the Art Exhibition here against the advice of Premier Nowak. He was shot while conversing with the British Minister, William Max Muir, who had just offered congratulations on his elevation to the Presidency. "Congratulations, you say," replied the President. He had scarcely spoken the words when three shots rang out in quick succession. He sank slowly to his knees, then collapsed slowly, dead. He leaves two children, a daughter of sixteen and a son in the twenties. One of the President's last acts was to telegraph Count Samozwi, Polish Minister in Paris, and his rival in the final balloting for the Presidency, thanking him for cordial congratulations.

AUSTRALIAN ELECTION.
MELBOURNE, Dec. 18.
Although Premier W. M. Hughes expresses the opinion that the Nationalists will still be the strongest party as a result of yesterday's general elections, present figures indicate the defeat of the Government. It is impossible to forecast the result owing to incompleteness of the count, and the effect of the allotment of preferences. The Labor Party, is at present leading with forty-four seats, the Government twenty-three, the Country Party six, Liberals and Independents three.

REFERRED TO HOME SECRETARY.
LONDON, Dec. 17.
After a demonstration of the unemployed in Trafalgar Square to-day, a deputation was sent to Buckingham Palace in an orderly attempt to present a petition to King George. The King declined to see the men, and referred them to the Home Secretary.

TULSA'S CARGO ON FIRE.
CHARLESTON, Dec. 16.

DISABLED AND ADRIFT.
BOSTON, Dec. 16.
The coastguard cutter Acushnet last night broadcasted radio messages to all vessels in range to be on the lookout for the French schooner Salitro, disabled and adrift, with two men on board. She was blown from her anchorage off Nantucket on Tuesday, and has not been seen since two days ago, when the Acushnet lost sight of her. The captain and two of the crew went ashore Tuesday seeking water, and the schooner was blown off in their absence. She had two thousand cases of alcohol aboard, bound from Cuba for Antwerp.

U.S. MAY HELP.
LONDON, Dec. 16.
Diplomatic and financial experts of London newspapers, voice the general opinion that the rumor of the United States or International loan to Germany runs far ahead of fact. Reports suggest possible financial assistance to Germany, and the fact of Ambassador Harvey's departure for Washington next week, coupled with intimations that the Harding administration is disposed to exert a helpful influence to European affairs attract wide attention and fill many columns in the daily papers.

LAUSANNE TREATY.
LAUSANNE, Dec. 16.
Drafting the Treaty of Lausanne is now in progress, but it is impossible that any complete document can even be initiated before Christmas.

JAPANESE STEAMER ABLAZE.
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.
Fire in the hold of the Japanese steamer Chicago Maru, lying in the outer harbor with a three-quarter million cargo, got beyond control to-day. One hundred passengers were taken off to-day, and the sailors' feet were burned by hot decks. The steamer is in the round the world service and arrived here yesterday from New Orleans.

To Negotiate
Humbermouth
Sub-Contract.

Among the passengers on S. S. Kyle leaving here last night for Port aux Basques, was Mr. James Hughes, of Windsor, Ont., and Detroit, Mich., structural steel contractor. Mr. Hughes is accompanying the body of his brother, Patrick, to Conception Bay for burial and during his stay in Newfoundland will negotiate a sub-contract for the erection of the steel frames of the Humbermouth construction.

Mr. Hughes left his native home in Conception Bay about twenty years ago and has since made good success in the border towns of United States and Canada in which he does business. He recently completed the erection of the structural steel work of Windsor technical college. He is a firm believer of a splendid future for Windsor and declares that within ten years it will have a population of seven hundred thousand.

Mr. Hughes on leaving home first, set out to Detroit, but later went to Gary, where he was foreman in charge when the first steel of the Illinois steel plant was turned out. The plant has since been taken over by the United States Steel Corporation and the town, then just sprung out of the wilderness has grown to eighty thousand population. He returned to Detroit to engage in steel erections and later his business to Windsor and now resides in the Canadian city.

Mr. Hughes claims the destination of being when just a baby the first patient of Dr. W. Grenfell on the west coast of Newfoundland. Mrs. Hughes was formerly a Miss Clyne, of Halifax. —N. S. Herald, Dec. 13.

by Yesterday's Express.

The Mae Edwards players, which company filled a limited engagement here at the Casino Theatre, left St. John's yesterday enroute to New Glasgow, by a special car attached to No. 1 outgoing express. The players, who made the acquaintance of a large circle of theatre-goers during their period here, were given a great send-off as the train moved out, while the hope was expressed that they will return again next year.

Prospero at Valleyfield.

PORTIA WILL PROCEED NORTH—SEAL CHARTERED TO TAKE CARGO.

Up to press hour the Shipping Department had received nothing further from Capt Field of S.S. Prospero while no answer has been received to messages sent by wire owing to line trouble. It is presumed the crew of the ship are busily engaged discharging the cargo, to get in readiness for pumping the water out of No. 3 hold. The revenue cutter Daley will be leaving for the scene this afternoon, taking on board the pumping apparatus, while Engineer McGottigan will go along to superintend matters. A large quantity of the cargo is presumed to be undamaged and this will be forwarded to its destination as speedily as possible. S.S. Seal has been chartered by the Minister of Shipping for this purpose, and as soon as her bunkers are replenished she will proceed. Meanwhile the S.S. Portia, which ship is now in port, having arrived yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock will take what freight is now offering for the various ports of call north. It is expected that she will get away early Wednesday morning. S.S. Sebastopol in the meantime will replace the Portia on the Western route.

Laden Schooner Lost.

WRECKED AT PETTY HARBOR.
 Schooner Maggie Wilson, owned by Shmua Hearn, went ashore at Petty Harbor yesterday and became a total wreck. The Maggie Wilson had a cargo of fish on board and was bound to this port from St. Mary's. When near Petty Harbor yesterday the wheel chain broke and the vessel was driven on the rocks. The crew had much difficulty in making a landing owing to a heavy underflow, threatening to swamp their small boat. They are at present at Petty Harbor and arrangements are being made to send them to their homes.

Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes—
"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine."
(Mr. J. W. Vince, Druggist, of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have sold Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her much good.")

Wedding Bells.

DELGADO-HIBBARD.
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Oratory of the Sacred Heart, Mercy Convent, on Saturday last at 4 o'clock, when Isabelle, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Delgado was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. C. Ashley Hibbard, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard, of Sherbrooke, Quebec and a member of the staff of the Bank of Montreal, this city. The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. Monsignor MacDermott, before a large gathering of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride was handsomely gowned in a French draped dress of white Roman crepe, trimmed with a surmount of silver and crystal beads, and wore a coronet of pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of white Chrysanthemums and asparagus ferns. The bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Gibbs and Miss Muriel Delgado a sister of the bride. They were gowned in sapphire blue silk chiffon, velvet brocade, with metal cloth, and wore large black picture hats trimmed with tulle. They carried gold baskets of orchid Chrysanthemums and maiden hair ferns. The groom was supported by A. R. Pys, Manager of the Bank of Montreal at Carbonear, while Messrs. R. Bearn and James Gibbs capably performed the duties of ushers. After the ceremony the bridal party proceeded to the residence of the bride's parents, Military Road, where a reception was held. The bride and groom later left for O'Rourke's Hotel, Holyrood, where the honeymoon will be spent. The presents received were both costly and numerous, testifying to the esteem and popularity in which the young couple are held. The Telegram joins with their numerous friends in offering felicitations.

Obituary.

MRS. RICHARD F. HAYES.
After an illness of four weeks Mrs. Richard F. Hayes died at her daughter's residence, King's Bridge Road, on last Saturday at 3 a.m. in her seventy-fourth year, having resided for forty-five years at the King's Bridge. Her husband predeceased her twenty-two years ago, leaving a family of three children, who are all living—Sister M. Josephine of Cathedral Square, Mrs. P. F. Collins, and J. W. Hayes, of H. M. Customs, and eighteen grandchildren to mourn their loss. She was the youngest daughter of the late John Wickford, who spent over sixty years in the employ of Bowring Brothers, Ltd., as a trusted employee. Her time on this earth was well spent, as she always proved a true friend to those in need. The large concourse of relations, friends and neighbours, who visited her late home on Saturday, and Sunday, was a silent tribute of the respect and veneration in which she was held. The funeral will take place this evening at 2.30 p.m., when her remains will be placed by her late husband in Belvedere Cemetery.

Wreck of S. S. Norfjeld.

CAPTAIN'S STORY OF LOSS.
An investigation into the wreck of the Norwegian steamer Norfjeld, which ran ashore in Flower's Cove, Nfld., during a snow storm, was held at Sydney on Dec. 8th, by Mr. J. A. Young, Norwegian Consul. The captain and a number of the officers of the crew made statements regarding the wreck. Obscure visibility and lack of any positive indication as to the ship's position was given as the reason for the loss of the steamer. The captain and members of the crew tell an interesting story of their experience with the natives along the coast on which they were wrecked. The captain and a number of his hands went ashore and during their absence a large number of the inhabitants, regardless of the pretensions of the remaining members of the crew, took charge of the ship, stripped her of everything that was movable and left her bare. —North Sydney Herald.

Successful Nfld. Student.

Mr. Wilson Powell, of Bonavista, has just been elected President of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., Alma Mater Society. The College Journal says:—
"To those who do not know him, Wilson comes to us from Newfoundland. Born at Bonavista, he received his early education in Bonavista High School, and at the Methodist College, St. John's. Following this he was Principal of Twillingate High School for two years. He edited the "Canadian Machine Gunner," while in training at Seaford, and after the Armistice was Staff Writer for the Khaki Varsity."
"At the close of an enviable war career, Wilson came to Queen's and entered the class of Arts '21, in the activities of which year he was always to the fore, serving for two years on its executive."
"He has since enlisted with Medicine '24, and has been for two years a member of its executive, to say nothing of his soccer ability in connection with the same year."
"Wilson has found time to do some very important and much appreciated work in connection with the Q.U.

Couldn't Do It.

"I thought I asked you to stop at Grandmere Crescent," said a pompous-looking woman to the conductor of the tramcar.
"Sorry, madam, but I can't remember where everyone wants to get off, said that harassed individual.
"The old tale," the woman replied jolly, the very feathers in her hat quivering with indignation. "Perhaps you'll stop the car now."
Having almost squashed one meek little man in her efforts to leave the car, she reached the footboard.
"And how do you think I can get off here?" she demanded of the conductor, pointing to a puddle just beneath the step.
"I don't know, madam. You must decide that yourself," he answered, unperturbed. "But I do know that we can't wait here until that puddle dries up!"

Waiting.

By E. C. HOLT.
The linkeeps
At the World's End
Look on travelers
As a godsend.
With port and sherry
Their tables groan.
But generally
They dine alone.
And whensoever
A traveler comes,
With talk and cheer
Each tavern hums.
And when he passes
To a far country,
They wipe the glasses
And wait patiently.
As the years come
And the years flee,
They sit in dumb
Expectancy.

Ship Subsidies.

The current number of Forbes Magazine discusses the above subject in a manner which should command the attention of careful readers and students of economics. Ship subsidies are more or less the same all the world over. The Government helps the shipowners to build up carrying trade and industry, and in countries where a lot depends on water borne commerce the maintenance of an adequate merchant marine is one of the first essentials to the people. Newfoundland's subsidies have been in the past paid to the various owners operating the Government Coastal Mail Service. These are all engaged in the carriage of insular traffic over local water ways. The personnel of the merchant marine does not receive any government aid. These vessels, sailing, and some auxiliary, have to depend upon the gathering of freights for their revenue. When these offer, there is an avenue of employment offered for the men who must be articulated as crews. When steam competition, with cheaper rates enters the arena, the sailing craft and their numerous crews are not considered. It is, however, absolutely necessary, if our local merchant shipping is to become more valuable as an asset than it has heretofore been, that assistance of some sort be rendered. The nature of such aid may vary well be left to those who control both government and tonnage, but if Newfoundland is to hold on to its former marine prestige, it is time that this all important matter was taken up. On other occasions reference has been made in this column to the fact that many local vessels are idly swinging their anchors, and accumulating a large crop of barnacles, while the men who should be crewing them are unable to find other employment. Is it then the desire that our local owned carriers should disappear from the seas, and their place be taken by foreigners. Local owners should get busy, should agitate, should insist, should persist in an effort to restore the ships of Newfoundland register to their original occupation, the purpose for which they were built, that Newfoundland produce should be carried in Newfoundland bottoms. Like America, perhaps, Newfoundland should subsidize or subsidize. The article follows:

"The very word 'subsidize' arouses visions of favoritism, pampering, spoliation of the public treasury. The idea of paying the government tax money, especially such heavy taxes as we now have to meet, only to have millions handed over to ship-owners, is distinctly distasteful. But is it not possible that our opposition is inspired and influenced somehow by the word rather than by the principle of the act itself? We subsidize, in the sense that we assist financially, many different industries in this country by enabling them, through tariff protection, to charge us higher prices for their products. We subsidize the building of roads through Federal grants of money to the different states. We subsidize, and subsidized heavily, the building of railroads in earlier days. We subsidize the agricultural industry in the sense that millions of tax money is spent every year by the Federal Government for the benefit of agriculture. Why were kind are such things done? Because it was adjudged wise and helpful to do so. No, the Government should not contribute a dollar to American ship-owners unless it is believed that financial assistance will be helpful from the broad, national viewpoint. The war threw the Government into the shipping business, to the amount of some three billion dollars. Having been forced in, the Government hasn't been able to devise a way to get out. By granting subsidies which President Harding estimates at approximately $30,000,000 a year, and by enacting various safeguards against undue foreign competition, the Administration figures that the losses now being borne by the public treasury could be overcome and a way opened up to enable the Government to withdraw more and more from the shipping game which has proved so costly to it.

But, the supreme argument, the argument which should dominate, is this, unless assistance be extended to American ship-owners, this country's mercantile fleet will decay, leaving us a second-rate maritime power. If our fighting ships are to be limited to the strength of Britain's fighting ships, Britain would be incomparably stronger at sea by reason of possessing mercantile auxiliaries far beyond ours, while there would be nothing to prevent Japan from passing us as a power on the mercantile seas. There are far-reaching commercial and economic reasons for our doing everything feasible to build up American shipping. But important as these reasons are, they are transcended by vital political reasons, patriotic reasons, reasons of national safety. The net of the whole matter would appear to be that America, ocean-wise, must

Subsidize or Subside."

Cochrane Street Sunday School.

HELD SPECIAL SERVICE—DR. POWELL PREACHED.

The teachers and scholars of the Cochrane Street Church Sunday School held Christmas White Gift service yesterday afternoon. A special programme, brimful of interest to the friends and relatives who were present, was very successfully carried out. Some hundreds of white gifts were presented and arrangements are now being made to deliver same to the poor and sick of the congregation during Christmas week.

EVENING SERVICE.

The evening worship was conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. H. Johnson, M.A., the preacher being the Rev. G. L. Powell, M.A., D.D., of Ford City, U.S.A. Dr. Powell, having introduced as an old Newfoundland boy, congratulated the congregation on their beautiful church, erected to the worship of God, and after several happy reminiscences of old friends he saw before him, the learned gentleman proceeded with his text, "And the iron did swim," taken from the Book of Kings. The sermon was presented with much force and was couched in choice language, closing with an impassioned appeal for men to live right lives, to be firm and to put their trust in a loving Saviour. A very large congregation was present. The singing by the choir, was much appreciated.

George Street Church

GIFT SERVICE.

The church was well filled on Sunday afternoon with children and parents and friends, each bringing a parcel of something useful or eatable, as a Xmas gift for Christ the King, who said, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto Me." Mr. Leonard Mews took charge of the program and made a thoroughly efficient chairman, manifesting, in spite of professed inexperience, all the standard virtues of public speaking. He will certainly be needed again in this capacity. Miss Alice Woods rendered a suitable recitation with effect, and Mrs. Robert Joyce gave a quiet little talk about Habit, with a telling demonstration that fixed the attention of all. She called a boy from the audience, and would round a thread round his arms and body, which he easily broke. A few more threads were broken with more difficulty. But when the thread was wound round and round sufficiently he was unable to break it himself, and it had to be cut. The singing of the thy tots from the Primary Department is always appreciated. For this the accompaniment was played exceedingly well by a quite small organist. The Boy's Choir which is being trained by Mr. Gordon Christain, acquitted themselves with honor, the solo part by Master Whiteway being very pleasingly rendered. The parade round the church at the close of the service heaped the platform with a noble pile of gift parcels, while the girls of the A.B.C. filled their special frame with pump stockings. The whole service sets a high-water mark of effectiveness for this church.

Magistrates Court.

A travelling salesman arrested under warrant Saturday night at the instance of a city tobacconist appeared in court this morning on a charge of cashing a cheque for the sum of eight dollars on the Canadian Bank of Commerce, on which it was drawn, but was returned as the accused had no account at the Bank. The Judge, taking certain "explanatory" circumstances into consideration, would not inflict a fine, but ordered that costs be paid. The two postponed milk cases preferred by Inspector Edward Lawlor against two country milk vendors occupied the attention of the court for some time. Mr. D. J. Davies, the Government Analyst, sampled the adulterated milk as packaged and sealed by Inspector Lawlor and which was contained in two bottles. When removed from the container he declared on analysis in both cases that they were slightly below the standard. The first sample, as tested, showed 10.22% fat; 2.83% solids not fat 7.32%; equivalent to added water 12%, while the second case showed total solid 11.88%; fat 2.88%; solids not fat 8.87%; remarks, partly skimmed milk. Both cases were dismissed on the grounds that the milk should have been divided into three parts, not in two as carried out by the Inspector. According to law the Inspector had no right to make the division he did as the Act calls for three samples.

Removing Scaffold.

IDENTITY OF HANGMAN UNDISCOVERED.

All trace of Saturdays grim proceedings at the Penitentiary is being obliterated. The work of demolishing the scaffold and removing other accessories began to-day. Wo Fen Game was buried Saturday afternoon in a coffin covered with black cloth, and having bronze trimmings. The contents of the letter which he wrote before his execution have not yet been translated. One of the letters, however, is known to contain an account of small debts he had contracted. There are various rumors as to the identity of the executioner, but no reliance can be placed in them. In one case a prisoner being a seven years term is mentioned, but it is learned that he has been, and is, in hospital suffering from a tubercular neck. It may be accepted as fairly authentic that the executioner came from outside the Colony, and is now on his way home again.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

ELEVATED RAILWAY HORROR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. Twenty-nine persons were injured, and hundreds thrown into a panic last night, when a swiftly moving train on the elevated shuttle branch of the In-terborough Transit Company, Leasing Avenue subway, crashed into the rear of a stalled train. Seven women and children are among the injured. The motorman of the moving section, Pat. Keough, is believed to have been fatally injured. As the trains came together the concussion was heard for blocks, and the frantic screams of injured and imprisoned passengers brought thousands of helpless spectators to the scene. Pandemonium followed the crash, with men, women and children struggling to escape from the cars through the tightly closed vestibules, and thence across tracks and third rails to the street below. Many were saved from electrocution by the station master at Hunt's Point, who saw the collision and threw the emergency switches, thus cutting off power.

EVACUATION COMPLETE.

DUBLIN, Dec. 18. The last eighteen posts, occupied by British troops, were transferred to-day to the Irish National army. The evacuation of British troops was effected amid scenes of real enthusiasm and goodwill, both sides showing a desire to forget by-gones. All the evacuated posts are in the Dublin area, and include British headquarters, Parkgate Street Royal Hospital, Royal Hospital, and Royal Irish Constabulary Depot in Phoenix Park. Between three and four thousand troops left Dublin to-day. Before they left the British troops hoisted the Union Jack, and incoming Free State troops immediately hoisted the Irish tricolor, which now floats over all barracks and government buildings in Dublin.

WARSAW, Dec. 18. Naewadomski, assassin of Narutowicz, is an artist suffering from mental derangement, attributed to injuries sustained in an automobile accident in 1918, which necessitated two operations. There is no doubt but that he acted on his own responsibility.

INDIANS IN DUTCH.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. Five thousand members of an American Indian tribe, who have lived near Grand River, Ontario, since 1874, and who insist they are a sovereign people, not answerable to the Canadian Government, have appealed to the League of Nations, through the Dutch Government, for a settlement of their dispute with Canada. Chief Deskahes, in Washington, gave a statement of his people's argument to the charge D'Astres, at Washington for the Netherlands, with a request that it be forwarded to the Dutch Government then to the League. He said the Dutch are asked to do this, because the Dutch were the first whites to settle near their land.

Obituary.

MR. JAMES BOGGAN.

(H. F. SHORTIS in Daily News).
A link of the past has been broken by the death of Mr. James Boggan, one of our most enterprising and successful master coopers, and a highly respected and well-known citizen of this city, which occurred at his late residence, 238 Theatre Hill on Friday evening last, after a long illness, borne with truly Christian fortitude and submission to Divine Will, and fortified with all the rites of the Catholic Church. Mr. Boggan was born in St. John's 78 years ago, son of Mr. John Boggan, a highly esteemed resident of St. John's, and served his apprenticeship under his father, who carried on an extensive business in years gone by. After the death of his father James carried on the coopering business on a large scale, and by honesty, industry, integrity and enterprise, he succeeded in establishing one of the most extensive and prosperous trades in this city in his line. It may be said that an invariable courtesy marked his every word and gesture. He was a man of many gifts. He possessed a charm of manner which made him an addition to any circle in any rank of life, for his was that quick sympathy which enabled him to fit himself without conscious efforts to mix with men of all ages and every rank. He always took the deepest interest in the affairs of the city which had for their object the welfare of his fellow-citizens, and always supported any measure which he believed was for the advancement of his countrymen generally. Even-handed, even-tempered, fair and just in all his dealings, truly charitable in mood and thought, judging without harshness and quick to listen to the claims of others, to his intimates he was always the sympathetic and helping friend, whose friendship shone the more brightly when friendship's services were needed. He possessed a natural genius for music, and it was to this he turned during his spare moments, and few those moments were because he was never as happy as when busily at work amongst his employees in his extensive and well regulated cooperage.
But it was as a most consistent and exemplary Catholic that his chief characteristic shone forth, believing in the words of a high dignitary of Holy Church, that Religion, taken as a synonym of Faith, brings happiness to this world, because, as its etymology tells us, it binds men to God, and in this sacred union, men will find light for their mind to love and to act, and strength for their will to accomplish and assist. Every deserving case of charity received the support of Mr. Boggan, without distinction, and few in this city has been a more constant and liberal benefactor than the deceased, and the beautiful and costly statues and altars, etc., which he has presented to the Church and Convents stand there today as memorials to his generosity. Above all he never forgot the orphans, more especially at Christmas season, and now he rests in peace, within sound of the bells at Belvedere, and I am sure as the Angelus rings out, the good Nuns and the fatherless and motherless little ones committed to their charge, will raise their pure voices to Heaven in prayer for the repose of the soul of their late true friend and benefactor, James Boggan. The prayers for the dead were recited in the Cathedral last evening by the Rev. Dr. Greene. Mr. J. T. Martin conducted the funeral arrangements, and the large concourse of citizens who attended the funeral was evidence of the high respect and esteem in which James Boggan was held by all classes of our community. Interment took place at Belvedere. Requiescat in pace.

A CHRISTMAS PUZZLE.

I am hoping some of my Reader Friends will know how to solve it. I have been up against it over and over again and never have thought out a good solution so far.
Once upon a time some kind friend or relative, probably the latter, gave you as a Christmas gift an article which was either absolutely useless to you or absolutely offensive.
Maybe it was perfume and you were never known to use perfume.
Perhaps Purple.
Or maybe it was a necktie of a color that would never harmonize with any of the colors you wear.
Or maybe it was a pair of silk stockings of lovely color but of the wrong size.
Or maybe it was some homed jelly of a flavor you have a particular hate for.
Anyhow, being full of the Christmas spirit (no, I am not going to flatter that pun upon you, do not be afraid) you thanked the relative for the gift with all the enthusiasm and apparent delight you could summon for the occasion.
Which was hypocritical, of course, but forgivable. Fancy Saint Peter keeping account of all the "thank you's" lies. Why, he wouldn't have a moment for the more important parts of his job.
Another Battle of Perfumery.
But what happened next year? Of course you know, without my telling you, from bitter experience. You got another bottle of perfume, another purple necktie, another pair of stockings that you could not possibly get on your feet, another batch of ginger jelly.

Why not? You said you liked it. You were enthusiastic about it. Why bother to think up something new, says the donor, why not repeat his or her former success.
And there you are, absolutely caught on the horns of the dilemma.
To say anything now is not only to brand yourself a liar but to hopelessly hurt your donor's feelings. You didn't really like it after all. Her gift was a failure instead of a success. How uncomfortable that makes everyone feel.
But if you don't say anything you are likely to get the same gift year after year.
His Fatal Error
I once knew a man who had a row of perfume bottles all unopened in his room, yearly monuments to such a mistake.
Oh yes, I know it's simple enough, you should have been frank the first time. Perfectly easy. Instead of that rancorous letter, you should have simply written "I detest perfume, don't ever send me any more," or "Why do you think I like purple? did you ever see me wear it?"
But once you have made the mistake of not following this obvious method there is no turning back.
Of course St. Peter doesn't bother to arrange punishments for these little hypocritical lies. He doesn't have to. The law of cause and result attends to all that for him. As it does in many larger things.

A Wealthy Poet.

Samuel Rogers, who was born at Stoke Newington in 1783 and died at his house in St. James's Place, on December 18th, 1855, achieved in his day considerable reputation as a poet. Of his works, probably the "Pleasures of Memory" and "Italy," are the best remembered; but, fortunately for himself, he was not dependent upon poetry for a livelihood. The head of a private banking house, he always possessed a substantial fortune, and it was as a man of taste and letters, as a patron of artists and authors, and as the friend of almost every notable man for half-a-century and more, that Rogers principally engaged the public attention. At his celebrated breakfast parties, persons of almost all classes and pursuits were to be found. In this way, he made the morning meal famous as a literary rallying point, and during the London season there was scarcely a day on which from four to seven persons were not assembled round his hospitable board in St. James's Place. There, discussions about books or pictures, anecdotes of the great of old, some witty sayings of Sheridan, Erskine, or Horne Tooke, some special trait of Fox, some apt quotations or fine passage read aloud, some incident of foreign travel recounted—all flowed on without restraint and charmed the hours until noon. A shrewdness and distinct acidity of sarcasm characterized Rogers's talk, and it is certain that not a few of his friends regarded his powers in that line with apprehension. In fact, it is recorded that, when he was present, there was evident among the company an unwillingness to be the first to leave. Yet he was a generous and charitable man, of whom it was not truly that his purse ever was open to distress and that merit always found in him a discerning patron.

Where Loss is Gain.

Among the striking features of the humane convention at St. Paul was the stereopticon exhibition of the financial losses sustained by the meat packers and railroads through cruel treatment of livestock in transit. A representative of the Institute of American Meat Packers stated that 3,716,141 pounds of meat in 1918 had to be removed on account of bruises to cattle; that the total loss that year in pork from injuries to hogs was 15,254,000 pounds; that the corn required to raise this amount of lost pork was 1,605,900 bushels. Pictures were thrown upon the screen showing the bruises, cuts, etc., sustained by the animals as seen when dressed. Then came photographs of the clubs, prodpoles with sharp metal points, and whips which drovers and others used in handling cattle, sheep and swine. This expensive campaign now being carried on by the railroads and packers is purely from the point of view of profit and loss. The published report makes no appeal to the men who handle these animals except on the ground of financial loss. "Stop abusing livestock," it says. "Every blow means a bruise. Bruise means wasted meat." We rejoice for the animals' sake that at last the financial loss incurred by cruelty is resulting in the animals' gain—Our Dumb Animals.

Produce and Provisions

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)
Codfish—The exports of dried codfish amounted to 28,402 quintals this week as follows:—
From Outports—By schr Rita M. Cluett from W. Webb & Sons, Rencontre, 2,740 quintals to Oporto; by schr General Allenby from the Marystown Trading Co., 4,566 quintals to Oporto; by schr. General Ironsides from Elliott & Co., Change Islands, 4,630 quintals to Oporto and by schr. Gay Gordon, from Harvey & Co., Belleoram, 3,614 quintals to Oporto.
From St. John's—By Schr. Cape Race from Juan Lazo 8,000 quintals to Seville; by schr. J. H. Sinclair, 1,491 quintals from Goodridge Export Co., A. H. Murray, and A. E. Hickman to Barbados. By schr. Douglas E. Parks 2,891 quintals to Macao for orders and by S.S. Beverton 150 qts. to Boston from T. S. Devine and A. E. Hickman and Co.

Cod Oil—The demand for cod oil in the foreign markets continues good. The exports this week were again heavy and totalled 65,322 gallons as follows: by S.S. Harmony to London, 23,676 gallons from Joe Bros. Ltd., and C. F. Bennett & Co. By S.S. Belverton to Boston, 41,646 gallons from Tessier & Co., Jas. Baird, Ltd., A. S. Rendell.

W. A. Munn, T. H. Carter, A. E. Hickman Co., T. Hallett and J. B. Orr. About 4,000 tons have been shipped of this season's oil. The figures for each month beginning with July are as follows:—
 July . . . . . 13,265 galls.
 August . . . . . 105,546 galls.
 Sept. . . . . 262,675 galls.
 Oct. . . . . 148,840 galls.
 Nov. . . . . 264,137 galls.
 To Dec. 15th . . . . . 112,845 galls.
 Total . . . . . 912,308 galls.
Cod Liver Oil—There is no improvement whatever in the C.L.O. situation. The Norwegians have been and are still offering their oil at very low prices and this makes it impossible for us to get buyers for our oil at an increase over their offers. The bulk of the Norwegian oil should soon be marketed and as their new catch starts a few weeks after the New Year they are certain to be forced to higher levels as the value of all kinds of oil have materially advanced so that the livers of the codfish will be worth much more than they were last year.

Flour—The market is steady at last weeks prices. Imports for the week are slack—only 200 barrels by S.S. Manoa from Montreal and by S.S. Silvia from New York. The total imports to St. John's to date are now levelled up to the record of last year viz: 20,700 barrels. The present local quotations are $28.50 for Fat Back and S. Clear; $33 for Fine But, $26.50 Spare Ribs and 45¢ Grocers Family-Mess per barrel. The heavy trade is over for the fall and desultory orders chiefly for lumber camps are now the only ones to be filled.
Beef—A market scarcity has again developed in Boneless Beef. Packers will have none to offer till January. The low price prevailing for this quality the past six months, resulted in abnormal consumption which about cleave the available supplies. St. John's has imported 10,000 barrels to date for 1922 more than in 1921. The figures are 36,600 as compared with 26,208 barrels. The local quotations are $21.50 Bos Family, $21 Ex. Family, $19 Family Special and Boneless.
Flour—The wheat market is strong this week. The quotation reached the high point of 124 and Winnipeg 103. The Australian and Argentine crop reports indicate a shortage which is said to be the cause of the advance. The imports this week were 12,975 barrels by S.S. Manoa and 4,597 barrels by the Mapledawn from Montreal; total 17,572 barrels. The total imports to St. John's are now ahead of 1921 viz: 290,950 barrels as against 290,000 last year. The local price is still $9.00 per barrel, wholesale.
Molasses—There is a firm feeling in the molasses market on scarcity of stocks and the price is likely to advance about five cents a gallon in the New Year. The drain on stocks held in St. John's was heavy the past month in response to outport orders for the winter supply. The holdings are now quite low, especially of Choice molasses. The quotations are this week 30 cents per gallon for Fancy wholesale in puncheons and 80 cents for Choice in barrels.
Sugar—Further advances were made in American granulated this week. In the New York market the price is now 4 cents a pound for "Raws" and $8.00 per 100 pounds for refined. These prices are the highest for the year. The stocks of raws in Cuba are said to be one million tons less than last year at this date, which is no doubt the chief cause of the recent advance. The St. John's wholesale quotation is now $11.75. It looks now very likely that the market will hold this high level through the winter. The imports to St. John's to date are 77,117 cwt., as against 68,327 last year. Present stocks in the local market are light.
Tea—A sensational advance has taken place in the price of tea in the foreign markets, which no doubt will soon be reflected in this market. The total increase amounts to about 14 cents per pound and is said to be caused by shortage in Chinese crops. Dealers predict that the advance will go to twenty cents from the low point during the winter. Local prices are likely to advance soon, as they are now below the cost of importation.
Potatoes—The first big 1922 importation of Canadian potatoes occurred this week, when the Canadian Sapper brought 3,107 barrels from Charlottetown, P.E.I., to various importers. They are an excellent quality and find a ready sale. They are all "Reds" as the "Blues" did not thrive to any extent this season at P.E.I. The local wholesale price is $3.50 to $3.60 per sack of 180 pounds, and $1.80 per half sack of 90 pounds. Home-grown potatoes are offering on mill ddays for $3.00 per barrel. Farmers are unwilling to move their stocks until confident of mild weather.
Hay—The local quotation for hay to arrive in $40 per ton this week. Sales of stocks in hand are being made at $39 to $39.50 wholesale for No. 2 Timothy received by the St. Lawrence route; but as this navigation is over for this year, hay imported by rail and steamer will be subjected to a higher freight and local prices will advance accordingly. The imports were heavy this week, viz., 5,230 bales by S.S. Manoa from Montreal; 1,747 by S.S. Canadian Sapper from Charlottetown, and 784 by S.S. Mapledawn from Montreal; total 7,761 bales.
Oats—The local market is now well supplied. This week the S.S. Mapledawn brought in 10,352 sacks from Montreal, the Canadian Sapper 9,362 sacks from P.E.I., and S.S. Manoa 2,000 sacks from Montreal; total 12,352 sacks or 49,408 bushels. The oats from P.E.I. are of a superior quality. The Blacks are quoted at $3.90 per sack of 4 bushels and White at $3.70 wholesale. The markets in Canada continue easy on big supply and are expected to hold so for some months.

Patient Sues Surgeon.
 A remarkable medical case has just been decided by the Supreme Court at Cape Town. An eminent surgeon was sued by a patient at a public hospital for £10,000 damages for a serious operation to which plaintiff's consent had been previously obtained amputated a vital organ as the only means of preventing a horrible death. The jury, by 6 to 3, gave a verdict for the defendant, and judgment was entered accordingly, with costs.

COULD YOU WISH FOR MORE THAN "PASSION'S" STAR IN A DRAMA OF GIPSY LOVE.
 COME with Pola Negri through the languorous lanes of Old Seville, where the days are hot and slow, and the nights deep—purple—incense.
 HER'S is the art that brooks no limit. To bind it is to destroy a glorious creation.
 HER'S the fascination that transcends mere beauty. To deny it is to mock the appeal of an incomparable woman.
 THOUSANDS will pass before you. Kaleidoscopic panoramas will amaze you. Swift, sweet flashes of wonderful wooing will call to you. But above all, you'll remember the thrill of the Ballerina who holds a humble soldier with a love as ecstatic as the love of the World's Immortal Beauties.
 LUBITSCH creator of "Passion" gives you another triumph. Based on Prosper Merimee's original French story "Carmen"—not the opera.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

GETTING ON TO CHRISTMAS.
It's getting on to Christmas and a little boy I know
Jumps out of bed o'mornings and to school seems glad to go.
And a pair of little stockings which his mother grieves about
Now have ceased their awful habit of being always inside out.

It's getting on for Christmas and a little fellow stands
At the basin in the bathroom scrubbing dirty little hands.
And a certain little necktie which was once a sight to see
Now looks as neat and proper as a necktie ought to be.

It's getting on to Christmas, and a shock of curled hair
Now wears the shine and lustre of the most devoted care.
And although the part beckons that at times the task was rushed,
No one could doubt the statement that his hair was combed and brushed.

No longer little garment now are hung upon the floor,
At night his cap and jacket always hang upon the door
There's a safty air about him, things are going as they should—
It's getting on to Christmas and the rascal's being good.

Peers in Borrowed Robes.

Of the brilliant uniforms of the diplomats, the rich robes of the peers, and the frock coats of members of Parliament seen at the royal opening in the House of Lords, not all are the property of the wearers. On the last occasion when the King opened Parliament at least one Peer hired his scarlet and ermine vestment for the occasion, and returned it the next day. The man who loaned it—the head of a big business which specialises in hiring clothes—tells some queer stories of suit and uniform borrowing by all classes. The members of the late Government had their court dress on hire regularly. A certain person who was recently summoned to the Palace in borrowed frock coat and vest. Court dress for movers and secondors of the Address in the House of Commons has frequently been "let" in the past and the supply of full regimentals to Army and Navy officers in an everyday occurrence. In the huge wardrobe of the firm there is every conceivable kind of uniform and dress. Even that of the King's Bodyguard of Scotland could be hired.

Strange Courts And Customs.

LITTLE-KNOWN RELICS OF THE PAST.
In the early days of October every year there is held in Bristol the last surviving Court of Pied Poudre (Pie Powder Court) in England.
These courts date back for seven hundred years, and the object of them was to "determine the claims of persons passing through them who cannot make any stay there." They were called Courts of the Pieds Poudres (dusty feet) on account of the dusty feet of the suitors, and were held in towns where they were periodical fairs.

Trying Cases in the Market.
The Pied Poudre Court at Bristol, at which the Recorder presides, is opened in the market according to the old custom, but later moves on to the Guildhall, which is more convenient. Here all kinds of actions can be heard, as long as they arise in the town itself. Although the court stays open a fortnight, there are not many complaints.
A most famous ancient court which has a wide powers, but is practically unknown to the layman, is the Court of Arches. Here important cases are heard relating to the ornaments or furniture of any church or cemetery or concerning ritual in the province of Canterbury. The president of this is a barrister, who is known as the Dean of Arches.
The Liverpool Court of Passage is another court quite unknown outside its own radius. In actions which arise in the town it has almost complete jurisdiction. This is one of the few remaining Borough Courts of Record which were started in the Middle Ages!

Massive Motion Picture at The Nickel.

FAST PRODUCTION SCALE MARKS "GIPSY BLOOD."
 The feature film offering at the Nickel Theatre tonight is the widely heralded continental film, "Gypsy Blood," starring Pola Negri, acclaimed as Europe's greatest screen actress, who made her first cinema triumph in America in "Passion."
 And if advance reports are to be believed this latest vehicle of the emotional Polish star is fully as wonderful a product as its predecessor.

It is a screen version of Prosper Merimee's original French story of "Carmen," and Pola Negri is seen in the role of the bewitching Gypsy girl whose loves and hates change color like the chameleon and leave in their wake a trail of joy and sorrow.
 Harry Liedtke, who was Armand De Foix in "Passion," is again seen playing opposite Pola Negri. In the role of Don Jose Navarro, the Spanish dragon, who sacrifices honor, robs and even kills for love, he becomes the victim of La Carmencita's entrancing smiles.
 "Gypsy Blood" is presented by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

What a British Election Costs.

The cost of a contested election in England to the individual candidate is a serious matter. The chief sources of expense are printing and advertising. Referring to the accounts of my last election I find the former totalled £319.

This sum was incurred over the issue of my election address to every elector in the constituency, the three original posters I had designed and scattered broadcast to hasten the discomfiture of my opponent, the portrait cards, for display in the windows of my supporters, a quantity of leaflets, and the poll-card that told the electors the polling stations where they were entitled to record their votes.

Advertising cost me £130, which included the rent of hearings. Salaries, as might be expected, came to a substantial figure. For the central office and the eighteen branch ones I paid out £423; 10 sub-agents received £66, 14 clerks £63 18s. 7d., while messengers cost £40. In addition, my head agent received £109.

Public meetings, of which 24 were held at an average cost of 17s. 6d., were cheap enough, as was the hire of 26 committee rooms (15 on election day only) at 10s. 6d. apiece.

Compared with these modest figures, £12 for telegrams was exorbitant. My personal expenses, comprising my hotel bill during the three weeks' campaign amounted only to £24.

The total cost of getting into the House of Commons came to £3400 odd, but while I secured a tangible reward for the outlay involved, my defeated opponent, whose expenses equalled mine, had nothing to show for his money.

Novel Love Duel.

It has just leaked out that a novel duel took place a few days ago in Paris, in which the combatants were a young married woman and a young sempstress.

The story goes that the wife had discovered that her husband had formed a liaison with her sempstress. She faced her husband with the accusation, and declared:—

"I know you are deceiving me, but, as I love you, I mean to keep you. One of us must go, and it is only just that it should be the inferior one. So put us to the test. Intellectually I say the other woman's superior, so do not test us in the matter of culture, but physically we are about on equal terms. I propose, therefore, a duel of strength, in which the loser will give up all claims to you."

The husband accepted the proposal, as did the sempstress, and the duel, or rather fight, took place in the man's apartments in the Avenue de Saxe. Seven strenuous rounds the injured wife knocked her rival out in the eighth, and when the husband, who acted as timekeeper and referee, pronounced the fatal ton he took the victor in his arms.

The wife is now doing her own sewing.

WHY MEN ARE WILD.
 Strict Parent:—"From my observation of him last night I should say that that young man of yours was rather wild."

Daughter:—"Of course, it was your watching him that made him wild. He wanted you to go upstairs and leave us alone."

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT OF THE CHIEF AGENT FOR WEEK ENDING DEC. 15.

Attended to the landing of 45 head of cattle, 9 sheep and 16 horses from the Canadian Sapper, one horse was accidentally killed on the passage down; everything possible was done for the comfort of the cattle. It was one of the stormiest passages the ship had met for the season. The cattle were all landed immediately and all watered and fed. I also attended two cartloads of cattle at the Railway Station. I might say here that there is not sufficient food put in the car for those cattle, they were watered on the 8th and did not arrive here until the 11th, the Secretary Mr. Leslie Curtis is investigating the matter. I had them watered and fed at Neal's Wharf after leaving the train;—the railway company having no facilities at the freight sheds. I also received several complaints from sick persons in reference to the howling of dogs which are left out all night annoying them very much. I received a phone message also on Wednesday night in reference to the matter, but was powerless to remedy it. All horse owners have promised me to keep their horses covered when standing with rugs. I think if people would do their shopping earlier at this season of the year, it would give the express men a chance to get their horses in earlier and dried off. I was also asked to humanely put to death a faithful old mare owned by a resident of the West End. The animal had rendered good service and the owner rather than sell her had her humanely put to death. I also attended to the landing of 3 horses from the Silvia. The animals were imported by Mr. Joseph Judge, they were comfortably boxed and covered and secured against all weather. Mr. Judge is loud in his praise of the Captain and officers, crew and passengers during the passage, who were keenly interested in the horses and saw to their comfort enroute.

JONAS BARTER,
Chief Agent.

Brigus Notes.

The 53rd Annual Meeting of Royal Standard, L.O.A., No. 59 took place in the Lodge Room Monday evening, 11th inst., and was largely attended. After a very favorable financial statement had been given by the Treasurer and Financial Secretary, the election of officers was conducted by the W.M. Bro. H. E. French, and resulted as follows:—

W.M.—H. E. French, re-elected.
D.M.—Azariah Percy, re-elected.
Chaplain—John Gushue, re-elected.
Rec. Secy.—Thos. Roberts, re-elected.
Fin. Secy.—Wm. Gushue, re-elected.
Treasurer—Joseph Bartlett, re-elected.
D. of C.—Fred. Percy, elected.
1st Lecturer—E. J. Roberts, re-elected.
2nd Lecturer—Caleb Clarke, elected.
Committee—Wm. Hayse, Philip Jackson, N. Bartlett, F. Percy, Leonard Gushue, re-elected.
Tyler—B. Hazeltine, F. Spracklin, elected.

We may note here that this is the fifth successive year that W.M. Bro. H. E. French has been re-elected, thus showing the esteem in which he is held by the members of the Lodge.

We chronicle with regret the death of one of our oldest citizens in the person of James Antle, who passed to his reward on Sunday the 10th inst. Deceased who had attained the ripe old age of four score and two, was one of the "old stock." He was a prominent member of the Methodist Church, and also a member of the L.O.A. for fifty years. He was laid to rest in the Methodist Cemetery on Tuesday, 12th inst. The L.O.A. attending in a body, besides a large number of mourners. Revs. O. Jackson and W. Swan conducted the funeral service.

Some time ago a movement was made by our local hockeyists to procure funds to build a rink, but owing to financial embarrassment, and the lack of enthusiasm taken by the prominent and financial men of this community, the movement fell through; but nothing daunted, the boys decided to keep up the old "name and game," and use the open ice for it again. They have already taken advantage of the splendid sheets of ice in the vicinity. Some few nights ago the Hockey Club held its annual meeting in the Jubilee Club room, and the election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows:—

Chairman—Capt. Wm. Bartlett.
Secy.—Mr. Freeman.
Committee—Fred Pomeroy, George Meaden, Geo. Jerrett, Capt. Wm. Pomeroy.
Capt.—George Meaden.
Business Manager—Capt. William Pomeroy.
All the old hockey players have decided to don the hockey armour again, and are ready for invitations from the different teams of the Bay and City. The annual meeting of the C.E.A.A., No. 4, took place at St. George's Guild Hall, Tuesday evening, Dec. 5th, W. H. Cursey presiding. After the usual routine of business, Past-President A. Roberts conducted the election of officers which resulted as follows:—
President—Thos. Meaden, elected.
Vice-Pres.—C. Chalke, elected.
Chaplain—Karl Spracklin, elected.
Secretary—Wm. Gushue, re-elected.
Treasurer—Geo. Meaden, re-elected.
Committee—Thos. Chalke, Jno. Waits, Geo. Meaden Jr., H. Bishop, elected.
Tyler—John England, M. Gushue, W. G. G.

HARD EARNED MONEY.

VOLT MASON

They're paying We s t Commercial street, and many men are toiling hard; all day they trudge on weary feet, and lay the concrete by the yard. They all are stalwart husky men, whose hinges need no helpful oil; I stand and watch them now and then, and give three cheers for honest toil. "No doubt," I say, "these men of brawn pull down at least three plunks a day; and when their weekly wage is drawn a goodly share is put away. For men who earn in bitter sweat and grinding toil their humble wage, will value coin—they'll not forget to have a store for wintry age. When money seems to grow on trees, men can't be blamed who blow it in; but hardy driven men like these must think extravagance a sin. "You ought to see my merry men," the foreman said, "when payday comes; for to the birds they throw the yen, and to the cows feed princely sums. On Saturday they draw their pay, and forth they go, on pleasure bent, and Monday morning, cold and gray, finds them without a rusty cent." It matters not what wage they draw, it goes like chaff, adown the gale; there surely ought to be a law requiring men to save their kale.

To Clean Lamps.

Have two good-sized bags with draw-strings, one of dark material, the other of light. To clean the lamp, slip the hand into the dark bag and wipe off all soot, etc.; then remove the metal parts with that. If the lamp is very dirty use a piece of paper first, so as to keep the bags cleaner. The advantage of the bags is chiefly the protection they give the hands, keeping away almost entirely the smell of the oil.

Don't forget St. Joseph's Xmas Tree opens at 4 o'clock Monday evening, Mount Cashel Band in attendance. The Tree closes with a grand Dance Tuesday night.

"Rather! and I'm hoping to goodness someone gives me a Camera for Xmas. I saw just the one I want at Tooton's, and I'd rather have a Camera for Xmas than anything I know!"

Get her Christmas Camera at Tooton's and have happy records of Christmas joy all the year round.
