The Countess of Landon.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The countess made no response, but drew her cloak round her, and fixed her eyes upon Madge's face.

"I thought so," said Seymour. "You are a detachment—a portion of the gypsies who were at Markham Fair last week?"

"Yes," said Madge. As she spoke, she drew her shawl over her head with a gesture full of simple and unconscious dignity, for Seymour's pale eyes were beginning to glow with an unwelcome admiration.

"Just so," he said. "Then perhaps you can give me some information I am endeavoring to obtain."

As he spoke, several figures, looming largely in the mingled moon-light and fire-light, seemed to float behind Madge. Lottie had spread the news, and the rest of the camp had come to see "the gentry."

"Mother Katie, Lottie, Davy, and the rest stood in a kind of semi-circle behind Madge, all eyes and ears. "I am sorry to trouble you," said Seymour in his soft, supple voice. "But I—we are trying to find a gentleman who, we are told, has joined your band."

Madge did not start, but she drew the shawl more closely round her head, so that it almost covered her face.

"A gentleman?" she said in a low voice. "Yes," said Seymour, smoothly. "He left his home and friends some weeks ago, and from information we have received we have every reason to believe that he has—ahem!—turned gypsy."

There was a profound silence. Mother Katie took up a stick and turned the fire into a blaze, and the glowing light illumined the face and figure of Seymour and those of the countess and Irene. Madge looked from him to them, and her glance rested on the latter.

Irene had, in the intensity of her interest, let her cloak fall open, and her slight, graceful figure was plainly seen in the fire-light. A moonbeam fell upon her face, and made its lily-like beauty ethereal and unearthly.

Madge looked at her as if fascinated, and Irene looked back at her as if spell-bound. To the two girls it was as if they were alone, and each was searching the heart of the other.

Seymour waited a moment or two, and then he said, suavely:

"We shall be very glad if you can give us any information respecting our friend, or help to restore him to us. He is"—he paused, for it went against the grain to describe Royce truthfully—"he is tall and—er—not bad-looking. His eyes are—"

The countess stopped him with a gesture, and came forward into the fire-light.

With an upraised hand she beckoned Madge, and Madge, as if moved by a spell she could not resist, approached her.

The countess looked at her keenly, searchingly, and though Madge's face paled, her eyes did not quail.

"My good girl," said the countess in a low voice in which pride and hauteur fought with anxiety, "I am this young man's mother. You are too young to understand or appreciate my feelings, but you can understand that I am anxious—terribly anxious about him. Will you tell me whether he is here, or where I can find him?"

Madge was silent for a moment, her dark eyes meeting the countess's haughty gaze steadfastly; then she said:

"You are his mother? What is your name?"

Seymour stepped forward.

"Is there any need to mention names?" he murmured.

The countess waved him back with a slight gesture.

"I am the Countess of Landon," she said. "The young man we are seeking is my son—my second son—the Honorable Royce Landon."

"Lawks! It's Mr. Jack!" burst from Lottie's wide-open mouth. Madge held up her hand.

"Go, all of you!" she said.

The misty figures drew back and melted out of the circle of the fire-light and left Madge confronting the three alone.

"You are the Countess of Landon?" she said, fixing her eyes upon the countess.

The countess inclined her head.

"Yes; and this young man we are seeking is my son."

"You drove him, an outcast, from your door," said Madge.

The countess started as if she had been stung, and her eyes closed for a moment under the blow.

Seymour smiled grimly.

"That let the cat out of the bag," he said. "Royce is here without a doubt."

"You drove him from your door," repeated Madge, not fiercely, not passionately, but with a stern insistence. "Why do you want him now?"

Seymour opened his lips, but the countess silenced him with a gesture.

"My son is here," she said. "You have told us as plainly as if you had admitted it. Where is he?"

There was silence for a moment, then Madge raised her head.

"What do you want with him?" she said. "You deserted him, cast him off. He is happy here. What do you want with him?"

Irene turned her face away and drew her cloak around her. She recognized the justice of the words.

The countess moistened her dry lips. "My good girl," she said, "you do not understand—"

"No," said Madge, laconically. "It is because I do not understand that I ask."

"You do not understand, and it is scarcely to be expected that you should," said the countess. "My son left me in a moment of anger."

"You drove him away," said Madge in a low voice.

The countess drew herself up.

"I can not bandy words with you, girl," she said, haughtily. "You can not know his history, familiar though you seem to be with him." Madge started at the taunt, and the red blood flamed to her face. "My son left me," went on the countess, "in a fit of anger. He is with you here, or is near at hand. I ask you to tell me where I can find him."

Madge was silent for a moment, then she said:

"And if I refuse?"

The countess's eyes flashed as Irene herself had never seen them flash, and her hand went to her heart; then she seemed, by a great effort, to command herself.

"My poor girl," she said in a half-compassionate, half-patronizing tone, "you do not seem to appreciate the

Mrs. Mary DesRoche Spit Blood

Some of the results obtained by users of Carnol are almost beyond belief. Carnol, if taken according to directions, will relieve almost any case of a run-down nature. But, as disease develops slowly, it takes time to eradicate it. No wonder Mrs. DesRoche recommends Carnol after what it did for her:

"An attack of flu in the fall of 1918 left me in such a weakened condition that I could not walk across the kitchen. For nearly two months I spit blood and my neighbors, as well as myself, thought I was in the first stage of consumption. My weight, when I took sick, was 120 pounds, and I shrunk from that to 98 pounds. On the recommendation of my druggist, I began to take Carnol. Before finishing the first bottle I felt a marked improvement. I then took four bottles and my improvement was so marvelous that at the end of six months I weighed 130 pounds—the most I ever weighed in my life. I can safely recommend Carnol to anyone in a weakened and run-down condition, as being the best as well as the most palatable tonic on the market today. My little girl aged eight years took a cold in the head and chest. She was so bad she could scarcely breathe. I gave her Carnol in hot water and the next morning she was able to get out of bed for the first time in several days."—Mrs. Mary A. DesRoche, Summerside, P. E. I., 13-9 mischievous you are working. I am as well aware that you are the cause of my son's presence in your camp as you are."

Madge drew herself up very much as the countess had done, then her head sunk, and she stood meekly, guiltily silent.

"Ah! I see that I have hit the truth," said the countess. "Well, then, listen to me: I ask you to consider the case, the circumstances. You seem a good girl!—Madge stood motionless and with downcast eyes—"and a modest girl, notwithstanding your surroundings." Irene drew a step nearer the countess, and put out her hand, but the countess disregarded the gentle, pleading touch. "I want you to see," she continued, "the harm you are doing my son. He is a gentleman; he comes of an ancient race—"

Seymour stepped forward, with a sneer on his pale face.

"No use, mother. Offer her a ten-pound note."

The countess glanced at him, and then refixed her eyes upon Madge.

"My son, his brother here, advises me to offer you money, but I am sure you do not need that."

Madge did not start, but her eyes turned from Seymour to the countess with an unmistakable look.

"No," she said, pantingly; "do not offer me money!"

"No," said the countess; "I have no intention of doing so. I prefer to appeal to your sense of duty. I prefer to appeal to you as—the proud voice quivered—"as one woman to another. My son is all in all to me. He is a gentleman, and he is degrading himself by living with a gang of cypries."

Madge breathed hard.

"He was an outcast," she murmured.

"It is only a passing whim," continued the countess in measured tones. "A week—a month hence he would have left you. I can understand, now that I have seen you, why he has remained so long."

Madge went white in the fire-light, and she turned aside slightly, and Irene stretched out her hand and laid it on the countess's arm.

"Madame!" she murmured.

The countess glanced at her.

"Be silent, Irene!" she said. "You understand me," she went on, addressing Madge.

Poles Destroy Great Church Symbolizing Russian Rule

Warsaw, March 12 (A.P.)—The Russian cathedral of Warsaw, which to the Poles has always stood as a symbol of the hated Russian regime, will have ceased to exist in a few months. The decision to demolish this church was taken a year ago, but influential Russians and some people in art circles who admired the special architectural beauties of the edifice, endeavored to postpone its demolition, counting on a possible change of opinion.

Now, however, the destruction has begun. A commission of artists is dismantling the paintings and mosaics which, together with the marble parts, will be used to decorate the church being constructed at the Citadel as a memorial to all Poles who perished in the fight for independence.

THE ARTIST.

WALT MASON

A fine old man in a G-r-a-d-a-H-u-s-h-a-t and every morn he shines my shoes, and as he tells he talks; his brush is no other than the pen; he's shined the shoes of famous men in all the higher walks. He looks on shining as an art, and it is closer to his heart than any mundane thing; he tells of triumphs great and fine, he once was called upon to shine the footgear of a king. His great devotion to his art seems puzzling to the Aleck; smart, it seems both strange and weird; he has a hundred tales to tell, but shoes were never shined so well since leather first appeared. It takes him long to shine a shoe and make it look as good as new, for artists balk at haste; if hurry caused him to over look an ill-timed lace, a banded hook, he'd feel himself disgraced. When you depart from Granddad Hughes you feel you have the slickest shoes within an English mile; your hat may seem a hive for bees, your pants may bag around the knees, but you are shod in style. Sometimes an Aleck, brash and bold, when Granddad tells of triumphs old, lifts up his voice to say, "Cut out your long and windy spiels, and brush my toes and eke my heels—I can't stay here all day." Then Granddad, with a princely air, invites the Aleck to repair to Hackensack, N.J.; "I will not shine up any skate whose soul does not appreciate my art," we hear him say.

Wolves Chase Alsace Skiers

Colmar, Alsace, March 12 (A.P.)—A company of ski-runners on the Vosges Mountains was recently pursued by a pack of wolves. The men coasted down a mountainside and managed to find shelter in a cabin, which the wolves surrounded.

A dog which was with the ski-runners was eaten by the wolves and the animals finally abandoned their man-hunt. Only the deep snow which made going difficult for the wolves, and was favorable to the men on skis, enabled the latter to escape.

Just Folks. By EDGAR A GUEST

THE CHEAT I cheated a good friend yesterday. Kept what was his, and went my way. Wronged him in silence—for in haste I let a glad thought go to waste.

I had a word of cheer to speak. To strengthen him when he grew weak. To send him smiling on his way. But what I thought I didn't say.

He would have richer been to know That deed of his had pleased me so. But oh, I failed to let him see How much his conquest meant to me.

I cheated him of words of praise Which would have cheered his troubled days: In this a faithful friend I wronged. By keeping what to him belonged.

The praise was his by right to hear. To him belongeth my word of cheer: In silence, though, from him I turned. And cheated him of what he'd earned!

Buzzards Nearly Starve IN UNSPOTTED YERA CRUZ.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico.—(A.P.)—Vera Cruz, once the pestilent spot of the Mexican Gulf, with the buzzards constituting its only sanitary service, has in the few years since the American bombardment and occupation of the city in 1914, obliterated its unfavorable reputation of the past. Today it is among the cleanest and healthiest cities of the sub-tropics. Yellow fever and malaria have been reduced to a minimum, and other tropical diseases are being combated successfully.

The buzzards that once clustered about the city in great numbers are still to be seen, but they eke out a meagre livelihood from the few scraps that gain their way to the streets. The open sewers that once ran through the centres of the thoroughfares have disappeared, and a modern sewerage disposal system has been installed. During the De La Huerta occupation additional sanitary precautions were taken, and the Federal occupational authorities are exhausting every means to render the city free from disease.

Bar Association Conference

OTTAWA, Ont., April 1.—(By Canadian Press)—That more than 200 members of the Canadian Bar Association will cross the Atlantic to assist their English conferees in entertaining the members of the American Bar Association in London is now evident, as reservations have been made for over 350 persons, of which number, however, include families and relatives of the Canadian members.

This great gathering of lawyers will take place in London, England, next July, and is the cause of much interest on both sides of the Atlantic. It is expected that the unity and aspirations of the English-speaking world will be stressed at the meeting, rather than any attempts made to refashion the foundations of international law.

Conde Salteanu, K.C. Dean of the Faculty of Advocates of Edinburgh University, has extended an invitation to the Canadian Bar Association, in consequence of which a visit to the Scottish city will be arranged to take place following the meeting in London.

Golding members of the association are particularly pleased with another invitation, that of Lord Riddell, in which he asks them to consider the links of the Walton Heath Golf Club as their golfing home during the period of the meeting.

Across Canada in 1793

One of the most distinguished Canadian explorers, and one of whom little is heard, was Sir Alexander Mackenzie—the first European to reach the Pacific by land passage. It was in 1793 that he reached his aim, some 300 years after Cabot had first set foot on this continent. When Mackenzie started on his great adventure, he ascended the Peace River to one of its sources, and then descended the Columbia. From there he went by trail to the coast and one can imagine with what feelings he wrote in his diary on May 17, 1793:—"At two in the afternoon, the rocky mountains appeared in sight, with their summits covered with snow." His comments on spring days, unfolding flowers, and small returning birds, reveal him to have been a keen naturalist. On May 25th he noted that the mountains were all around them; and so eagerly they pressed on, breaking new ground, pushing through unfamiliar ways, until at last Mackenzie's tireless efforts were rewarded—he had reached the sea!

WAR WITH THE RUM RUNNERS.
WASHINGTON, April 6. The first units of the coastguard's new prohibition navy probably will be ready to put to sea within a few weeks. With an additional $18,000,000 available under the recent Congressional appropriation, coastguard officials have drawn up detailed plans for the acquisition of some 300 large and small vessels equipped to chase rum runners away from U.S.A. shores and for an enlarged personnel to man them. The nucleus of the force will be twenty destroyers which Congress authorized the coastguard to purchase from the navy.

BRITISH SUBJECT CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY.
MEXICO CITY, April 6. Eugene E. Bailey, a British subject, after a preliminary examination on Saturday, was formally indicted and remitted to prison pending trial on a charge of conspiring with revolutionary agents to introduce arms and munitions into Mexico for the revolutionists. The date for his trial was not set.

K. K. K. RIOTING.
LILLY, Pa., April 6. Two men were killed, another believed fatally wounded and a score of others more or less seriously hurt in rioting on Saturday night between townspeople and members of the Ku Klux Klan, a close check up by State police and deputy sheriffs disclosed to-day. Four residents of Lilly were being held by State police upon charges of rioting while at Johnstown.

U. S. FLIERS OFF AGAIN.
SEATTLE, April 6. Three of the world flight planes hurried off for Prince Rupert this morning, the fourth, piloted by Lieut. Wade, leaving later. Flying conditions were considered fair. Lieut. Wade was delayed when his plane failed to rise from Lake Washington after several attempts until he lightened the machine by removing gasoline and baggage.

EARTHQUAKE IN DERBYSHIRE.
LONDON, April 5. Severe earthquake shocks occurred last night in the Derbyshire Coal Fields, and in the neighborhood of Alfreton. Shocks were first noticed at about eleven o'clock and were more violent than any of those experienced early in March when the earth disturbances were first noticed. Buildings were shaken and windows vibrated loudly, while oscillations were accompanied by uncanny noise, like motor lorries passing over wooden bridges. The shocks were felt in many places and the people ran into the streets in alarm. Very little damage has been done and no injuries.

A Well Tried Official Asks Consideration

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—This little building was of the thought of it was born in the mind of the Postmaster General of that time, Hon. H. J. B. Woods, and his ideas were very ably assisted by the clever young man, his secretary, Mr. Woods, who always had some new idea in his mind to get the Newfoundland mail so sorted as it would be put off on the railway through the country and give the whole public of Newfoundland the full benefit of a good service.

The first office was 12 x 10, built in August, 1906. I was sent here in November of that year to open the office and thereby to assort the mail in conjunction with the mail office of the "old Bruce", the late James Gushue, who, I am sorry to say, has since joined the Heavenly post office. No finer man could be found than the same Jim. This work went on as well as could be expected with the room at our disposal until 1907, when the Postmaster General gave me permission to enlarge it. It was lengthened 20 feet making it in length all 32 x 12, and 10 feet high. The work went on, and the mail grew every year, and more attention was given to sorting separate mails for the important offices throughout the country so as to keep the work off the Newfoundland mail clerk who had to work enough to do with the local mails as he made his run through the country. Everything went on well, but the building was too small. It had to be enlarged again so no ground could be had to make it larger, it had to go up. So up it went 8 feet. This was finished in 1912. All the letter mail coming to the office, which at times would amount to not less than 10 bags, and when an English mail would arrive it would be as much as 20 bags. This would have to be lugged over the stairs and opened, and every individual package of the bag sorted for the box holders, letter carriers and small offices like River Head and Kings Bridge, St. John's, etc.; and to make it plain in all, two hundred and eighty divisions were made. When the daily service was on, the papers were done on the bottom flat of the office. The bags would be taken off the frame by the clerks and given to the men who would take them to the ship. This little office has grown from a one man job to four men, who give every hour of the day to the work, and very often late at night. The mail to-day compared to 1906 is very different, and so are the divisions. There are five separations alone for the big industry at the Humber, and there is still room for improvement if we had the space and the men. One grand feature, and one that makes me feel proud is that in all the millions of valuable matter treated here, not one cent's worth of loss can be laid to this office. The register mail is treated in the same way as the ordinary mail. Now the short postage is a question, and what I would call a nuisance to business people throughout the Island of Newfoundland.

This, however, I hope will soon be done away with, and the public postage mail will get to know the postage to Newfoundland is 4 cents. You all know if this is not paid the double postage will be charged, which is done at this office. The parcel post goes through unopened to St. John's, where the Customs will handle it. I may say out of one hundred bags of mail coming to this office every day when divided up St. John's get about one quarter. The rest is put off on the way to the city by the mail clerks for all points in Newfoundland. Not only in mail matter attended to here by the boys in the Newfoundland office; there are hundreds of friends that come and go who receive every kindness, and there is nothing the travelling public want to know that the boys in the Newfoundland Post Office cannot tell them, or do for them, if they need it. Some unkind people would say lots have been done that should not have been

Will Give Series of Addresses

This week in the Lecture Room of Cochrane Street Church, the pastor, Rev. C. H. Johnson, M.A., B.D., will commence a series of addresses on "The House of Prayer," beginning at 8 o'clock to-night. The week's programme follows:—

(1) The Three Gates to the House of Prayer. Monday—The Glorious Gate of Sonship—"Our Father Who Art in Heaven"; Wednesday—The lowly Gate of Reverence—"Hallowed be Thy Name"; Thursday—"The Peaceful Gate of Obedience—"Thy Will Be Done."

(2) The Three Gates of the House of Prayer: Friday—The Gift of Contentment—"Give us this day our daily bread." The remaining subjects will be discussed on succeeding nights, viz:—

The Gift of Love—"Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us."
The Gift of Purity—"Lead us not into temptation."

(3) The Three Treasures in the House of Prayer. The Incomparable Power of God—"Thine is the Kingdom."
The Inconceivable Power of God—"Thine is the Power."
The Imperishable Glory of God—"Thine is the Glory."

The general analysis of these talks on the House of Prayer will be on the lines of Burkhardt. Tuesday night of this week will be reserved specially for the Girls' Mission Circle.

Laid to Rest

All that was mortal of the late Richard T. McGrath was laid to rest yesterday afternoon. The funeral obsequies, which took place from his late residence, Allendale Road, were attended by a large concourse of citizens, including guards of honor from the Knights of Columbus, B.I.S., and representatives from the Law Society. The prayers for the dead were recited at the Cathedral by Rev. Fr. Kennedy, following which the remains were reverently laid to rest in the family plot at Belvedere.

"The Eternal Light" Now at the Crescent

WILL BE SCREENED FOR THREE DAYS ONLY COMMENCING TO-DAY.

"The Eternal Light," the magnificent Biblical screen spectacle which delighted thousands at the Nickel Theatre last week, will be shown at the Crescent theatre for three days commencing to-day. This production, which is a classic reproduction of the famous Passion Play is produced on an elaborate scale, and photographed in the Holy Lands under the direction of The Catholic Art Association therefore patrons of this popular picture house are in for a very rare treat of educational entertainment. This beautiful picture opens with the Birth of Christ, and the scene of the wise men coming across the desert following the guiding star to the manger is a spectacular sight. The episodes that follow are beautifully depicted. To appreciate this truly wonderful production you must see it. During the screening, a specially prepared musical programme will be discoursed.

Candid Chats Concerning Crisco

The first step in the digestion of fat is its melting. Crisco melts at a lower degree of heat than body temperature. Because of its low melting point, thus allowing the digestive juices to mix with it, and because of its vegetable origin, and its purity, Crisco is the easiest of all cooking fats to digest.

The Fundamental Principle.

Throughout the world in recent years there has been very much in evidence a spirit of unrest which shows itself chiefly in openly expressed dissatisfaction with the old order of things, in social, political and even religious affairs. Some people attribute it to the general depression and regard it more or less as a passing phase which will disappear as soon as normalcy returns; others prefer to consider it as of no concern, and to dismiss the subject with the careless remark that it is just an evil result of the war. To say that it is a result of the war is undoubtedly correct, but to classify it as an evil, or to treat it as a matter of no significance is a display of ignorance and foolishness. History furnishes us with numerous parallels, and those who direct the destiny of their country cannot afford to disregard the lessons they teach.

J. L. Garvin, the Editor of the Observer, in referring to the recent political upheaval in Great Britain says:

"Throughout the country, former conceptions of party-politics are changing profoundly and for ever. . . . In an odd manner there is creeping into British consciousness a kind of retrospective resentment against the older parties and their leaders.

"What did they do when they had the chance?"

"What did they do with the years which the locusts have eaten?"

It would almost appear as though Democracy had failed to measure up to the standard anticipated, or else that it had altogether lost sight of its primary aims and objects. Politics to-day are for the politicians, and beyond voting for them the people themselves are only a secondary consideration. The promises on which the people have been fed at last fail to deceive, and the attempts to carry the electorate off its feet by grandiloquence or by a pose fail to accomplish the desired effect. No longer are they satisfied with a stone when they ask for bread—their own bread.

There is an absence of the humane element in political affairs and a failure on the part of those in authority to recognize their sacred obligations, to their fellow men.

There is a groping about by the electorate in every country for a something, nebulous perhaps at present, undefined and elusive, but nevertheless capable of exercising men's minds and, like the Holy Grail, urging them on. The underlying force is unmistakably spiritual, but the elusive object is decidedly human and practical.

Where this something first began actively to exercise its influence it is difficult to say; possibly it was in the mud of France and Flanders, in the broiling heat and discomfort of the East, on those great war vessels that kept ceaseless watch on the high seas, or in the cramped quarters of submarine, torpedo boat, and traveler as they thrashed their way through the storm regardless of the dangers which strewed their path and intent on one object only, to do their DUTY. Duty! after millions of men and women too had been inspired in their every action by that motive, it became in time second nature to them; it inspired them when they were engaged in the most menial task in exactly the same way as it prompted them at other times to perform deeds of heroism or willingly to make the greatest sacrifice of all. In the long hours when they had nothing to do but think—and much of their time was occupied in that way—they recalled vividly their previous lives, the artificialities, the petty jealousies, the lack of sincerity of those who posed as demagogues, the insignificance of those things formerly considered important, the striving for self, and the almost entire absence of the fundamental principle which directed and governed their action—DUTY.

In course of time they returned—some of them—to civil life, to find that the fire through which they had passed and in which they had been tempered had had but little effect on the outside world. Their return, they found, embarrassed their governments, and they learned with surprise that those who had remained at home had in many cases amassed fortunes. Even their own positions were in many cases filled, and when they dared to remonstrate, were told that they had been paid to fight!

It is to be wondered at that their first inclinations were to defy the conventions which paid such little regard to the standard by which they were accustomed to gauge their action, or to treat with contempt those who calculated the value of their services in terms of dollars and cents?

Now that the spirit which was misnamed lawlessness has died down and these men are again engaged in civil employment, it is safe to assert that they have not forgotten their code of ethics while under arms, and that in practising it themselves they are unconsciously exercising an influence on others. They have learned in a stern school that Duty and Service cannot be divorced. They see around them no signs that those in authority are influenced in their actions by this principle, but confident that they themselves have found the secret of success, they pass the word along among their fellows and urge them to adopt it as their motto also. And are they not right in demanding of those set in authority that they shall govern their actions by the same measures? Is it too much to expect, and can their demands be considered revolutionary?

What did those leaders do when they had the chance? What did they do with the years that the locusts have eaten?

(Before Chief Justice Horwood and Mr. Justice Kent.)
In the matter of the Companies Act, 1899 and in the matter of W. & T. Hollett, Ltd.

Mr. Hunt for petitioner.
W. T. Hollett moves for an order be granted for the winding up of the Company by the court.

Mr. Fenlon for three creditors consents to the order.
It is ordered that the Company be wound up by the court.

Gladys Higgins, plaintiff and Joseph Nesoworthy administrator of the Estate of Ernest Nesoworthy Deceased.

Gibbs, K.C. for plaintiff asks for a day and moves for Friday, April 11th. Higgins for defendant consents. It is ordered accordingly.

Rumors That Public Meeting Will be Called

In reference to action on the findings of the Royal Commission, it is generally conceded that the Executive Government intends to sit tight until the matter blows over. So far no official announcement has been made. Meanwhile there are rumors that a public meeting is being called to stir the Government to action. Quite a number of prominent business men of the community have intimated their willingness to co-operate. So far the movement is only in the initial stage and no leader has been named.

Burin Fishermen Astray

A message received from the Sub-Collector at Grand Bank to the Deputy Minister of Customs states that the schr. Christie and Elnor, which has arrived from the Banks, reports that two of the crew, Herbert Harding and Charles Francis, both of Burin, had strayed away. No other particulars are given, but it is possible that the men may have been picked up by other bankers.

French Vessel Abandoned

A message from Mr. Myrick, operator at Cape Race, was received by Mr. J. J. Collins on Saturday night last, which reads as follows:—"S.S. Mount-carreil reports French Barquette Jacques de Coeur abandoned on fire in Lat. 46.30 N.; Long. 32.40 W. Crew taken on board French schooner.

Confirmation Service at St. Michael's Church

Yesterday His Lordship the Bishop administered the Sacrament of Confirmation to thirty five boys, thirty seven girls and several adults at the evening service in St. Michael's Church. A full account of the service, which was received too late for publication, will appear to-morrow.

Susu Off Dock.

S.S. Susu came off dock this morning. During the past three months the ship has undergone a thorough overhauling under the supervision of Inspector McFarlane. All worn or dented plates have been removed and replaced, so that the hull is now in first class condition. The interior has also undergone renovation, and a staff of carpenters and engineers will be engaged for the next three weeks making repairs and improvements. In this connection the passenger accommodation is being "done out of the new." When completed the job will cost over $15,000.

Shipping.

Schr. George Wood sailed from Barbados on Saturday with a load of molasses for this port.
Schr. Lucelle B. Cresser arrived at Ponce, Porto Rico, on Friday. All well.
S. S. Schem arrived at Halifax at 8 o'clock this morning.
S. S. Rosalind is due at Halifax today and leaves to-morrow for here.
S. S. Silvia is due at Halifax to-morrow, and leaves New York for the return trip April 12th.

SEALING NEWS

SEALS AVERAGE 51 LBS.

By the messages received from the sealing fleet on the northern front over the week end, the respective crews were engaged all day Saturday picking up seals and stowing them on board. The only ships that did any killing work while over the Neptune and Ranger. The former ship panned 2,000, while the latter accounted for an additional 5,000. News of an encouraging nature is expected hourly from the Gulf. Capt. Bartlett's wire that the ship was making slow progress in a N.W. direction, 15 miles S. by W. Deadman's Island through scattered whitecoats is the best news yet, and it is hoped that she will be in the midst of main body to-day. The whole outlook looks very bright for a successful seal fishery.
The messages received are as follows:—

BOWRING BROS.

Terra Nova, (Saturday night)—Total on board to-day 14,000.
(Sunday night)—All pans on board total count 16,000. Apparently patch cut up.

Eagle, (Saturday night)—Stowed 10,000, calm, first flight from strip 150 yards by 40 feet cleaned from heavy rafters. Prospects poor for night in White Bay.

(Sunday night)—Twenty miles S. E. by E. Harbour Deep, total stowed 18,000. Wind N.E. half E. ice very heavy.

Viking, (Saturday night)—In heavy sheet ice making slow progress, steering N.W. Position 15 miles N.E. half E. Deadman's Island, snowing hard at intervals.

(Sunday night)—In heavy sheet ice making slow progress, steering N. N.W. fifteen miles S. by W. Deadman's Island; whitecoats scattered.

Sagona, (Saturday night)—Total on board to-day 4,000, cannot set; made the number killed, hard getting around. Impossible to get to seals without swell, believe 2,000 on ice.

JOB BROS. & CO.

Neptune, (Saturday night)—Panned to-day 2,000. On board 9,000; on ice 24,000.
(Sunday night)—Estimated 12,000 on board. Ice very heavy, light as far as can be seen. Cannot do much picking up. Position 12 miles north Horse Islands. Light breeze from East. Eagle and Seal near.

Thetis, (Saturday night)—Men panned to-day 2,000. Seals on slab ice, impossible to do anything.
(Sunday night)—Estimate 5,000 on board, ice breaking up.

BALNE JOHNSTON & CO.

Seal, (Saturday night)—Jammed, weather fine and calm, men exhibiting pans, impossible to pick up any until ice slackens. Think average weight 51 lbs.

The following message was received from S. S. Ranger at 11 a.m. to-day:—
Ranger—Panned 5,000 on Saturday, men walked to seals, impossible to search in Bay or pick up pans until break up follows.

POSTAL TELEGRAPHS.

Yesterday's Express Delayed

REAR TRUCK BAGGAGE CAR LEAVES RAILS.
The cross country express which went out 1 p.m. yesterday, was delayed for several hours at the 98th mile last night, owing to the rear truck of the baggage car leaving the rails. The train crew found it a difficult job in placing the truck on the rails, and as a result the roadbed was somewhat damaged and required considerable spiking before the train was permitted to continue on its way. The express is making slow progress across country, owing to the soft condition of the roadbed, and had only reached Benton 8 o'clock this morning.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN ELECTION RETURNS.

ADELAIDE, Australia, April 7. The returns of the South Australian State elections, held yesterday, are still incomplete, but the result of the count to-date shows the Labor Party has obtained 26 seats in the Assembly, while the Liberals have 15 and the Country Party 2. The Country vote is expected to alter this standing.

RUSH OF WATER INJURES CANADIAN CONQUEROR.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 7. A heavy rush of water which flowed into St. John Dry Dock this afternoon with the heavy gale, hit the stern of C.G.M.M. steamer Canadian Conqueror, causing damage to the ship's rudder and breaking a blade off her propeller. The gate was slightly damaged.

PROMPT ACTION OF FIREMEN AVERTS A DISASTER.

MONTREAL, April 7. Whole families were driven from their homes; two men and a man were aided down ladders by firemen; children were carried to safety; and damage that will run into many thousands of dollars, was caused by a fire of unknown origin which severely damaged the wing of an apartment block on Esplanade Avenue in the North End of the city to-night. All the inmates of the building got out in safety although the fire spread with great rapidity. One fireman was overcome by smoke but subsequently recovered.

MAYOR MARTIN USES HIS FISTS

MONTREAL, April 7. Pandemonium broke loose at an already riotous meeting here to-night, when Mayor Martin, exasperated beyond control, by the continued heckling, dashed forward from the platform, and satisfactorily disposed with his fists of one adversary besides promising to deal likewise with another. A little later another meeting was held in the east end of the city at Maisonneuve which is generally regarded as the Mayor's stronghold. His Worship came in attended by an imposing squad of police and his reception was one prolonged boo, which continued even after he began to speak. This was the last speech of the Mayoral campaign before to-morrow's elections, and His Worship was interrupted from the very start with taunts, questions and general heckling. (Other contestants are Charles Duquette, J. H. Pettit, and Luc Rochefort.)

Magistrate's Court.

A resident of St. Phillips named Mitchell was arraigned and pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing $70.00 cash, the property of H. B. Dave, Cupids, from his boarding house on George Street. A fine of $100 or six months imprisonment was imposed.

Lewis Marsh, who gave his residence as Upper Battery Road, was charged with breaking and entering the cellar of John Lawlor, Portugal Core Road, and stealing therefrom potatoes to the value of $2.00; second maliciously breaking sash and glass to the value of $3.00. Owing to the Crown not being ready to proceed, the accused was held on remand.

One ordinary drunk was discharged. A drunk and disorderly was fined $2.00 with the option of 7 days.

A man named Kirkpatrick, given in charge by his wife will be examined by a doctor as to his sanity.

A War Street Chemist, summoned at the instance of Sergeant Wain, Lear for a breach of the Prohibition Act, was postponed until to-morrow.

Two residents of Topsail, summoned by Hon. W. H. Cave, Minister Finance and Customs, for committing a breach of Section 208, Chapter 22 of the Consolidated Statutes, third series, entitled of the Customs, was postponed until Saturday next.

Orders Winding up of Burin Firm

An order for the winding up of the firm of W. & T. Hollett, Burin, was issued in the Supreme Court to-day. The company was incorporated in 1920 with a nominal capital of $400,000. The assets are given as $57,441 and the liabilities $445,535. The account at the Bank is stated by the auditors to be overdrawn to the extent of $149,000.

Train Notes.

Sunday's west bound express left Benton 8 a.m.
The incoming express which left Port aux Basques on Friday night last did not reach the city until 11.45 last night, the delay being due to a truck of a west bound freight leaving the rails near Arnold's Cove.
Passengers leaving here by train to-morrow morning can make connections with the Gloucester at Argenteau. The local Carbonifer train arrived at 1 p.m.

UNITED STATES STEEL.
(From Halifax Morning Chronicle.)
NEW YORK, March 28.—Wall Street pessimists have apparently lost sight of the most important impending developments, the April meeting of United States Steel directors when dividends will be declared.

Trade estimates made first quarter earnings at the largest in the history of the company. If such current operations make good of $55,000,000 logical. If such expectations are realized, it would be natural to look for more generous treatment for common holders. It has been the policy of the corporation to measure its extra dividend on common by its earnings. A net of $100,000,000 would seem to justify the belief that this extra might be as much as $1.

Induction of St. Thomas's New Rector

HIS LORDSHIP THE BISHOP OF FICIFATES AT IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

The Lord Bishop of Newfoundland at St. Thomas's Church yesterday morning inducted the Rev. John Brooke Elliott as Rector of the Parish, in succession to the Rev. Canon Earp, who recently resigned to become Precentor and Canon Residentiary of Saskatoon Cathedral. There was a large congregation. Including his Excellency the Governor, the viceregal party and staff. In addition to the Bishop and the Rector-Elect the following clergymen were present in their robes: Rev. Canon Bolt; Registrar of the Diocese; Rev. Canon Jeeves, Rector and Sub-Dean of the Cathedral; and Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, Rector of St. Mary's. The latter acted as Bishop's Chaplain. The service opened with the processional hymn, "O Thou Who Makest Souls to Shine," after which a shortened form of morning prayer, including proper Psalm 121, was taken by the Rector of the Parish, the special lesson from the 21st Chapter of St. John's Gospel being read by Canon Jeeves. At the end of the third collect the congregation knelt and sang the Veni Creator and the induction of the Rector then proceeded.

The Bishop first addressed the congregation as follows:

"Dear Beloved Brethren, John Brooke Elliott, appointed Rector of this Church, is present here to enter upon his office. Wherefore it is thought good that, before he is inducted thereto, there shall be in your presence the License to officiate as a Priest given to him by the Bishop of the Diocese, and also the Declaration of his assent to the Doctrine and Discipline of the Church of England."

The Priest's License was read by the Registrar, after which the new Rector made the following Declaration of assent:

"I, John Brooke Elliott, to be inducted as Rector of this Church, do solemnly make the following Declaration:—I assent to the thirty-nine articles of religion, and the Book of Common Prayer, and the Ordering of Bishops, Priests and Deacons. I believe the doctrine of the Church of England as therein set forth, to be agreeable to the Word of God; and in Public Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments I will use the form in the said Book prescribed, and none other, except so far as shall be ordained by lawful authority."

The People's Churchwarden, Hon. R. Watson, then handed the keys of the Church to the Bishop, who delivered them to the Rector, saying:

"I, William, Bishop of Newfoundland, acknowledge you, John Brooke Elliott, as Rector of this Church and Parish, and in token thereof give into your hands the Keys of this Church."

The Rector answered:—"I, John Brooke Elliott, receive these Keys of the House of God at your hands, as the pledge of my Induction and of your recognition, and I promise to be a faithful shepherd over the flock committed to my charge, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

The Bishop said:—"Almighty God be thy Helper in these and all other good things," and after he read the Lord's Prayer had been recited by the congregation, kneeling, the Bishop prayed:

"O God, the Pastor and Guide of all people, look favourably on Thy servant, John Brooke Elliott, whom Thou hast willed to preside as Pastor over Thy Church in this Parish; grant, we beseech Thee, that both by word and example he may profit those over whom he is set, that together with his flock, he may attain eternal life, through Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen."

Then the Bishop, standing up, and addressing the new Rector, who remained kneeling before him, said: "I, William, Bishop of Newfoundland, by the authority committed to me, do hereby give thee, John Brooke Elliott, induction and Mission as Rector of this Parish and authority to preach the Word and to administer the Sacrament hereof."

The Rector's Warden, Sir Marmaduke Winter, handed a Bible to the Bishop, who placed it in the hands of the Rector, charging him as follows:

"I charge thee before God and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead at His appearing and Kingdom, preach the Word; be instant in season, out of season, reprove, exhort, with all long suffering and doctrine."

The Bishop afterwards conducted the Rector to a seat within the Sanctuary, saying: "O praise the Lord for his goodness and declare the wonders that He doeth for the children of men. Thank Him also in the congregation of the people, and praise Him in the seat of the elders."

After the singing of the hymn, "Lord, pour Thy Spirit from on High" the Holy Communion was celebrated by the Bishop. Before the sermon, with special thought for the late Rector and his family, who are at sea, there was sung the hymn, "Eternal Father, strong to save." The sermon was by the Rev. Canon Bolt, D.C.L., his text being from Ephesians iv. 11-12. The Hymn, "And now, O Father mindful of the Love" was sung during the Offertory. The service concluded with Benediction by the Lord Bishop.

THE EVENING SERVICE. The newly inducted Rector preached at night to a full Church, from the words, "Speak Unto the Children of Israel that they go Forward." He thanked the congregation for the great honour that had bestowed on him. He felt that, as the Rev. Canon Bolt said in the morning, he had entered into a goodly heritage. He knew his limitations, and realized how difficult it would be to fill the place of his immediate predecessor, and indeed of the long line of distinguished Rectors of St. Thomas's Parish. He asked for the prayers of the congregation for himself and for the future of the great parish over which he had been called to preside. God being their helper, he was confident that St. Thomas's would continue to go forward.

The sermon was an able one, and there is no doubt that the new Rector struck a responsive chord in his appeal for the loyalty and co-operation of every member of his parish and congregation.

Obituary

CAPT. JAMES MEIKLE. NEW GLASGOW, March 20.—The death occurred here to-day of Capt. James Meikle, who for the past few months had been suffering from cancer. He was sixty-five years of age. He lived in New Glasgow in the home of his late brother, Captain Richard Meikle, where throughout his illness he was taken care of by his niece and nephew, Miss Ethel Meikle and James Meikle. He was a very fine man of Christian character and had for a number of years been with the Dominion Iron and Coal Company fleet. His last ship was "Kamauraska." He took very active part in the relief work in Halifax at the time of the explosion in 1917.

He was the son of the Hon. and Mrs. James Meikle, Pictou, and is survived by one brother Captain John Meikle, in Brooklyn, New York; Mrs. Cyrus Archibald, Truro is the only surviving sister. Interment was at Pictou.

Capt. Meikle came to Newfoundland about 21 years ago in command of the s.s. Woban, he also commanded the s.s. Nascopee and s.s. Watulka. His many friends in St. John's will be sorry to hear of his death.

Summary of Address GIVEN BY MRS. CAVE-HISCOCK BEFORE THE OLD COLONY CLUB.

National Health and the many varied factors that go to make the intricate combination of subjects coming under its head was discussed; special stress being laid on those immediately affecting us as a people.

Maternity and Child Welfare was shown to be of primary importance, in that not only should the physical needs be attended to, but as "the child is father to the man," self-control, self-respect, and obedience should be instilled into the receptive mind of youth. In short nothing should be lost sight of that would make for better citizenship in the future.

While the professional worker has a very necessary and defined sphere of activity, much could be accomplished by the lay mind in propagating that desire for self and neighbour which would help in securing a healthy life.

The establishment of school clinics, and there results for good accruing in other countries, should leave no doubt as to their necessity and proven usefulness.

Industrialists, it was pointed out, had proven the value of the Industrial Nurse, in making for efficiency, resulting in economy.

While the duties of a Public Health Nurse showed that such an appointment should always be made with due regard to ability along the path of fact and diplomacy. This appointment should always be civic.

The section dealing with food education, strongly impresses one that much with little effort could be learnt, which would ultimately result in better health to those desiring to obtain it, and keeping fit of those already in the enjoyment of health.

The tariff on essential foods. It was pointed out, is at present a deterrent to national health, in that it places such foods beyond the reach of a great majority of the people.

In all phases discussed, the economic benefits to be derived were separately pointed out.

The matter of "Perversion" in those with fixed ideas was referred to as a disease which could be eradicated with much benefit to all, for there is nobody from the school of experience, but can teach something to somebody else.

The conclusion drawn was that the individual benefits, so does the state, and the state benefit must be as economic one if national health is preserved.

Cheap Francs Legal as Rent

PARIS, March 14.—Paper francs are still legal currency for the payment of rent despite their depreciation. French courts have ruled. In 1870 a landlord introduced into a long term lease a clause exacting that the rent should be paid in gold or silver. The tenants with great difficulty fulfilled the terms of the lease, but finally appealed to the court, which has ruled that the clause was contrary both to public order and law.

Wealthy, But Living in Poverty

NEW YORK, March 31.—(By Canadian Press)—When Henrietta Coffin, an aged reclus, died recently she left an estate valued at $100,000. Her home had been in a meagre two-room flat on Fulton Street in Brooklyn. In all the six years that she had lived in the dingy old building she had never been known to speak to anyone, although it was whispered among the tenants that she had moved from a fine mansion on Madison Avenue.

No one knew why she chose to cover herself with obscurity and die away from her family and friends. Her death was discovered when tenants reported to the superintendent of the building that she had not been making her usual trip to the grocery. The door to her flat was forced and her body found huddled on the bed. Death was from natural causes. A search of the room revealed several bank books all showing substantial accounts, in addition there were numerous mortgages and securities. A diploma was found showing that the woman had been qualified to teach school in the city of Brooklyn, together with some pieces of jewelry such as a girl might have worn in the '70s. A postcard to a friend directed that her body be cremated.

London Letter

(By PANTON HOUSE for the Canadian Press)

LONDON, March 14.—One hundred years ago to-morrow the first pile of our London Bridge was driven into the bed of the Thames. The Bridge was completed over seven years later—in July 1831—having cost, with its approaches, some £7,291,000 (a much larger sum than now) besides the lives of 40 to 300 men employed by the contractors. It is 925 feet long; its original width of 64ft. was increased twenty years ago to 68 feet. The total weight of stones in the Bridge is estimated at 120,000 tons. It is borne by five granite arches, that in the centre have a span of 152 feet.

Only when the present bridge was completed was the bridge pulled down that Peter of Colechurch built in 1175-209. A replica of Peter's bridge will be seen at the British Empire Exhibition, with its rows of wooden houses and shops, its chapel, and the fortified gates at either end—everything, in fact, except the heads of traitors, which frequently ornamented the original. These buildings were several times burnt down, and finally cleared away in 1758. The span of the old bridge's arches was only from 10 to 35 feet, and the total waterway about 330 feet as compared with 700 to-day. The water rushing through all these narrow arches formed very respectable rapids, and to "shoot the bridge" was an alarming adventure for the timid. Samuel Pepys, writing in 1660-69, several times alludes to the terrors of the passage.

LONDON BIRD SANCTUARIES.

About 18 months ago bird sanctuaries were established in three of London's Royal Parks—Hyde Park and Kensington Gardens, in London's heart, and Richmond Park, ten miles away. The last, of course, possesses by far the greater number of comparatively uncommon birds, but even in the inner parks, 23 species have been noted. Berry-bearing and other shrubs have been planted to provide the birds with extra food and cover, and nesting-boxes have been put up in trees. Human Londoners are quite willing to leave the sanctuaries undisturbed; but cats, sparrows, starlings and the pretty grey American squirrels which have overrun our parks the last few years, are less forbearing.

One of the sights of London just now in the half-hour before dusk is the homcoming of the starlings. Arriving in huge flocks from their feeding places, often several miles distant, the birds make a rendezvous of Regent's Park, whence they disperse to their dormitories. Many roost in trees, but they have a special fancy for public buildings—the National Gallery, the Royal Exchange, the British Museum, and above all, St. Paul's Cathedral, where they settle down for the night in thousands, with a noise that drowns all other city noises. Such is the racket and clatter of these large bird communities that a London hospital, a year or two ago, had to take prolonged and desperate measures to render its neighbouring trees unpopular to the birds.

MARCH SHOWS IN LONDON.

Four exhibitions will be open next week. The Ideal Home Exhibition, with its village of fully-furnished houses and little gardens, continues a successful career at the Olympia. At the White City there is a Fashion Fair, where 80 firms are exhibiting the choicest feminine attire; and beautiful mannequins parade three times a day; additional attractions being provided in the shape of tea and supper dances. At Grosvenor House, lent by the Duke of Westminster (whose residence it is) we have an exhibition of modern British architecture, and at the Royal Agricultural Hall a show of small craft, organized by British yachtsmen.

COWBOYS COMING TO WEMBLEY.

The first World's Championship

Cowboy Contests are to be held at the British Empire Exhibition on June 14-23. Mr. C. B. Cochran, the famous theatrical manager, who is organizing the affair at a cost of $500,000, is chartering a special steamer for the competitors from Canada, the United States and Mexico, and the wild horses and steers which will take part in the performances. Some 300 ranch owners and cowboys from these countries and from Australia, South Africa and the Argentine will compete for prizes worth $100,000. Expert judges are to be imported, but the timekeepers will be chosen in London. Competitors are to pay their own expenses to the port of embarkation, from which port (and back to it) transportation will be provided for them.

THE 1818 BICYCLE.

The Science Museum at South Kensington has just bought a specimen of the first bicycle made in England. This machine, which is known to have belonged to a former duke of Marlborough, bears a nameplate of the maker, Denis Johnson, with the date 1818. They did not call it a bicycle in those days, but a "pedestrian Curricule." The rider sat astride a horse hair seat and rested his forearms on a padded support, holding the handlebars to guide the front wheel. His body was inclined forward, and to get and keep the machine in motion he had to push the ground away, as it were, from under his feet, as there were no pedals. It is built chiefly of wood, with steel-rimmed wheels, and a hard-working driver may have caused it to move at seven or eight miles an hour. The Museum's collection of bicycles, covering over 100 years, now consists of 25 specimens.

JUDGE YOURSELF THAT WAY.

"Maybe there wasn't anything in it," said the lady who loves to tear reputations to pieces, but you must admit it looked like more than a coincidence."

She was referring to the fact that one of our doctors had business in the big city at just about the time when one of his feminine patients had been moved to take a trip to visit her cousins in the same big city.

Why Not?

The doctor likes the lady and the lady likes the doctor. There is no reason why they shouldn't. They are both of them likeable people and their likeableness was not snuffed out when they married. Nor their capacity for liking someone other than the mates,—whom I feel sure they devotedly love.

I don't believe there is anything more than a coincidence in their trip and I should not be at all surprised

if they did not see each other during their stay in the city. Nor if they did. In fact I don't see why they shouldn't. Nor, I am sure, would his wife or her husband see anything unnatural in their going to luncheon or the theatre together under such circumstances. But the lady who loves

But here's a sobering thought for such people.

Try it on yourself. Take something that you have done in perfect innocence and put the worst construction anyone could upon it.

Maybe you went to call on a friend and she was out and her brother was home. And he had some pictures he wanted to show you and you stayed a few minutes to look at them and before you knew it the few minutes was an hour. Absolutely no reason why you shouldn't stay. No. But just try putting the worst construction on it that could be put, and fancy a tale started by someone with that tendency going around the town.

Produce and Provisions

(Trade Review.)
 Codfish—There is now, according to business people who are well informed, little or no fish of the 1923 catch left in Newfoundland, and most exporters are concerned at present with the question of the marketing of the stocks now held in Europe. The most recent advices as to this fish show that it is being disposed of with all necessary despatch, and in the main at figures which will take the country out of it with a pretty fair margin to the good. It is many years since the local market has been so completely cleaned out of fish, and the only portion of last season's voyage which will remain to be dealt with is the late-caught fish of last fall which will be cured later and put on the market in due course. There will not be much of this fish to be handled and the general impression is that it will get a good reception in the markets to which it will be assigned. Advices as to the progress of the Norwegian voyage received during the week show that the fishery since last report has recovered itself considerably, and that the shortage as between this year and last is not near as pronounced. Last week it was found 9,000,000 short of last year's catch, but the figures received this week show that it is only about 4,000,000 less, with a prospect of equalizing the previous year's catch before real up time. However, our future prospects are very good, and whether the 1924 voyage is above or below the general average, the portents are for a profitable disposal of our offerings. The Oporto situation also seems good and the figures received 15th week were: Stocks (Nfld.), 46,457; Consumption, 3,172; Norwegian—stocks, 2,457; Consumption, 2,972. The exports for the week were 122 qtls. for Italy, and 2,804 qtls. for British West Indies, by S.S. Rosalind, with 85 for the United States; and S.S. Frank, taking 10,284 qtls. for Spain and 2,268 qtls. for Italy.

 Common Cod Oil—The demand in the United States and elsewhere is not very brisk at present, in fact there is little doing in oils. However, enquiries are being received often and dealers are in no hurry to close, as the stocks held here are slow and there are indications that a better price will be realized in the near future than can be received now. One gentleman interested in oil stated a few days ago that there were only a few thousand gallons of common oil now available in this market, and there is no fear but that the goods will sell at a very decent figure. Most dealers are reticent as to the prices quoted here for cod oil, but those interested say that somewhere round about $140.00 the ton comes near the mark. It is anticipated that this year will be a good one for oil as far as prices go, and that most of what we will produce will be sold comparatively early. The Recalind last week took to New York 6 tuns of this oil and the Digby 33 tuns to Boston.

 Cod Liver Oil—The market in cod liver oil, like that in common oil, is dull and not much business is looked for for a little while yet. Our holdings of cod liver oil are now very low, only amounting to a few thousand gallons and this will be sold to good advantage later. Every week enquiries are being received from the United States, from England and European centres, and the stocks left will soon be cleared up. It is difficult to get the market prices on this oil, but as far as we can learn, it is selling in the local market for about $170 per tun, though, of course, we would not guarantee this figure as being absolutely correct. Most people in the trade think there is a splendid future before our refined cod liver oil, and that the coming summer should witness for this product a splendid position in the estimation of dealers. It has the guarantee of absolute purity for the scientific men and experts who visited our factories last summer can vouch for it in this respect, as well as testify to its super excellence as a curative factor in pulmonary diseases, and a health-giving element and invigorator. All with whom we have spoken of late are optimistic and we reiterate what we have repeatedly said of late that there will be good money in manufacturing cod liver oil.
 Flour—During the week the flour market put on a somewhat brighter appearance and some business was done, but, of course, not to the extent that would be noticeable at other and busier seasons. Several sales of comparatively small lots of flour were made, and most people believe the market will take a healthier turn with the knowledge of the fact that the seal fishery, contrary to expectation, will turn out well. This, of course, will give a fillip to the supplying business, and will impart to wheat in general more vim than has been noticeable since the beginning of the winter season. A feature of the market last week and during the early part of the present was that it appeared to be much easier, and consequently there was a deviation towards a slump in the price of all brands. This phase, however, as most people expected, was but short lived, and after a few days the wheat market showed a disposition to become firmer, and the net outcome was that prices all round changed but slightly since last report. The very superior grades of flour which were quoted last week at $8.10, wholesale, in the local market per barrel, are listed this week at $7.95 per barrel, and other qualities priced at $7.50, $7.85, and $7.90, are this week sold at $7.45, $7.70 and $7.75. Some shipments of goods were received by the Silvia, but there were no heavy consignments.
 Pork—Depression in the provision market has been the rule rather than the exception for some time past, and though as the weeks pass there has been some more or less spasmodic activity in pork, the general tone of the market has been sluggish, conforming with the depression evident in all classes of goods in the local market. Each week sees small sales of provisions made, and some pork changed hands during the week, but only small parcels were disposed of, about enough to supply the average demand at this particular season of the year. In this particular department of trade a period of greater activity, it is thought, will be noticeable in the near future, when the spring trade opens properly, with the issuing of fishery supplies and the opening up of the general trade of the country incident to the activities of the summer. As regards prices for pork, in some lines there was a slight decline in the local market as compared with the previous week's report, while other grades hold their own or showed nominal advances. Some small shipments of this article were received by S.S. Silvia from New York, and the figures quoted for the week, wholesale, were:—Loin, $31.75 per barrel; Fat Back, $30.25; S. C. Clear, $30.25; Family Back, $30.00; Regular Plate, $29.50; Bacon Pork, $27.00; Ham Butt, $27.50; Spare Ribs, $23.00.
 Beef—The depression in this market is still in evidence, this week showing no appreciable change. There were the usual small sales to be noted, but no worth while activity relieved the monotony which has prevailed for several weeks. Like the pork market, the dullness evident will not be relieved before the general activities of the late spring season will be noticeable, and with this condition prevailing the market will take on its old-time vigor. Though as regards prices there was no appreciable change to speak of, yet there was a slightly easier turn to pickled meats, especially family beef, though it is thought this is no criterion as far as future quotations are concerned, and it is not anticipated that any further decline is imminent. As far as we can learn, the holdings of beef here are not heavy, and some small shipments were landed from the Silvia. The wholesale prices quoted here are: Bos Flank, $26.50 per bri.; Extra Family, $24.50; Family Special, $22.50; Boneless, $21.00; Boneless New York, $22.75.

 Sugar—It looks as if our observations as to sugar last week were to the point, as in conversation with some of the importers of this article during the week, they stated that advices received intimated that very much higher figures would be quoted for sales effected in April and May, and it would cause no surprise if figures were still steeper later. Some who had advices from New York state that prices now ruling are considered to be the lowest that will or can be quoted for some time to come, and most dealers are inclined to the belief that the present is the most opportune time to buy, which in other words means that prices can not possibly decline much further, but will on the contrary take a sharp upward trend. The large consumption of sugar increasingly evident these late years during the summer months, will tend much to bring about this situation, so that it seems to be certain that our informant's estimate will likely be correct. The wholesale figures now quoted here are: Granulated, per barrel, $9.35; Brown Sugar, in sacks, $8.85.
 Tea—The tea market is still active and the demand fairly good considering the general depression which exists in trade. A marked improvement in this line of goods like others will necessarily be expected when the Spring trade is in full swing and we reiterate what we have repeatedly said of late that there will be good money in manufacturing cod liver oil.
 Flour—During the week the flour market put on a somewhat brighter appearance and some business was done, but, of course, not to the extent that would be noticeable at other and busier seasons. Several sales of comparatively small lots of flour were made, and most people believe the market will take a healthier turn with the knowledge of the fact that the seal fishery, contrary to expectation, will turn out well. This, of course, will give a fillip to the supplying business, and will impart to wheat in general more vim than has been noticeable since the beginning of the winter season. A feature of the market last week and during the early part of the present was that it appeared to be much easier, and consequently there was a deviation towards a slump in the price of all brands. This phase, however, as most people expected, was but short lived, and after a few days the wheat market showed a disposition to become firmer, and the net outcome was that prices all round changed but slightly since last report. The very superior grades of flour which were quoted last week at $8.10, wholesale, in the local market per barrel, are listed this week at $7.95 per barrel, and other qualities priced at $7.50, $7.85, and $7.90, are this week sold at $7.45, $7.70 and $7.75. Some of the Things to be Seen in "Hearts of the World"

D. W. Griffith's supreme triumph. Actually one million men and women in the production.
 50,000 horses in one scene.
 The most remarkable spectacle ever conceived.
 The sweetest romance since the immortal "Romeo and Juliet."
 More hearty laughter than a musical comedy.
 Scenes in France on the actual locale of the story.
 Forget your troubles in this visit to the land of romance.
 "Travel along the very roads where Henry of Navarre whispered love into the ears of his sweethearts."
 It will make you hold tight to your seats.
 Audiences in New York stood up and cheered; men shouted; women waved their handkerchiefs and the boys in the gallery whistled their praise in the most tremendous outburst of enthusiasm ever witnessed in a theatre.
 The most delightful musical accompaniment ever composed for a motion picture.
 The entire entertainment a series of marvelous panoramic scenes that might have been painted by the greatest artists of the old world, giant waving canvases of rare beauty and charm.
 A typical Griffith cast of notable players.
 Remarkable record of 591 consecutive performances in greater New York; twenty weeks in Philadelphia, twenty-one weeks in Boston; twenty-two weeks in Chicago; sixteen weeks in Pittsburgh; four weeks in Buffalo; fourteen weeks in Los Angeles; eighteen weeks in San Francisco.
 All forms of drama crystallized into moments of delight.
 A tale of love and romance, of heart-throbs and daring deeds.
 An old-fashioned play with a new-fashioned theme.
 More than eighteen months in the making.
 Mr. Griffith touches the nerves of the nation and plays upon the heart-strings of humanity as a great composer produces exquisite harmonies.

News from the Sealers

The news has come in for our spirits to rise, that hatching it is found, and now go to it boys!
 For 'twas never worse wanted, no one can deny.
 If 'twas only for flippers our women to fry.
 But it means more than that 'twill put merchants and all in far better humor to open the ball. Supplies will be given with a far freer hand.
 It's just what is wanted in this hard-stricken land.
 Now open the House and ease up the tax.
 For you know very well 'tis too hard on our backs!
 With a strong pull together the job will be done.
 And we'll place the Dominion once more in the sun.
 Bell Isle and the Humber will help us along.
 We are told in the papers they are going strong!
 We are turning the corner it's plain to be seen.
 And we'll dry all our codfish, we won't sell it green.
 The markets are good and the prices are fair.
 Now level the tariff and act on the square.
 The men are right here for to still carry on.
 For we think it is time to bid hard times become DON'T YOU?

Emigrants Crowd Hamburg Docks

HAMBURG, March 31—(A.B.)—Hamburg has become the gateway to North and South America for the travellers of eastern European states. According to emigration statistics, 32,400 persons passed through Hamburg last year bound for the United States and 50,300 for South American countries. All told 186,118 persons embarked from here last year, or about 51 per cent more than during 1922. Of these 75,000 were Germans, the others being from the various countries of eastern Europe.

Scouting

Sir Alfred D. Pickford, Commissioner for overseas Scouts, has just returned to London from a tour of 45,700 miles, during which he visited Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Kenya by invitation of the Scout authorities in the places mentioned. He speaks of the colossal possibilities that lie before the movement, which is correctly described as a revolution in educational method. During his tour, Sir Alfred addressed nearly 300 audiences which included Public Meetings, Civic Receptions, Mayoral Luncheons, Rotary Clubs and other Clubs such as the Commonwealth Club and the New Zealand Club, Officers Clubs, Returned Soldiers Leagues, Meetings of Clergymen, School Teachers, Church Conferences, University and College Students, Schools, etc. It is of course difficult for those who have not studied the movement, to grasp just what it means. Briefly, it is as follows:—A Scout promises to do his best, to do his duty to God and the King, to help other people at all times, and to obey the Scout Law which is:—(1) Honour; (2) Loyalty; (3) Help to others; (4) Friendship to all no matter to what social class the other belongs, brotherhood to all other Scouts; (5) Courtesy; (6) Kindness to Animals; (7) Obedience; (8) Cheerfulness under difficulty; (9) Thrift; (10) Cleanliness in thought, word and deed. Four main roads are followed to assist the Scout to arrive at the goal of true citizenship. They are:—Character, Handicrafts and Hobbies, Physical fitness, Service to others. We all know that boys will form "gangs," it is natural for them to do so, and even desirable in order that they may learn the value of team work and not become selfish and narrow. Anybody who has studied boys knows very well that they are bound to assemble in "gangs," whether they play in the streets, wander about the countryside or take to the water. This fact was recognized by the founder of the movement, Sir Robert Baden Powell, and he also realized a very important point, and one which it would be well for us in Newfoundland to bear in mind, namely: Boys are bound to have a leader, and it is not too much to say that the entire future of lads depend on whether the influence of that leader is for good or for bad. Provisions for leadership is made by the Scout movement. At 8 years of age a boy may become a Wolf Cub under the care of a Cub Master, at from 11 to 13 years of age, he transfers to a Scout Troop, where he immediately becomes a member of a "gang," that "gang" in Scouting is a Patrol which is really the unit. The leader of that Patrol is a specially selected boy, the Patrol leader is really the Big Brother in their work and their play. Here they learn to "play the game" and at the same time "crafts" which will be useful to them in after life. A youth becomes a Rover Scout at the age of 17, which is the time he has to face powerful temptations. A very fine publication which can be recommended to all lads of 17 and over is "Revering to Success," readers of which will find it extremely helpful. The religious policy of the Association has been drawn up in consultation with the heads of all denominations, and while giving religion a definite place it prevents sectarianism. It is expected that every Scout or Cub shall belong to some religious denomination, and attend its services. Scouting not only expects lads to attend a place of worship, but insists that he attend his own Church. From an educational standpoint, Mr. Edward Holmes in his new book "Give me the Young," has this to say: "The Boy Scout Movement is by far the most successful attempt which has yet been made to provide for the education of adolescents. And it owes its success to the fact that it makes provision for the satisfaction of two imperious needs of man's nature—the need to realize one's own self and the need to work with and for others. The Boy Scout is encouraged to develop himself in many directions, to make the most of his actual capacities, aptitudes and tastes. He is encouraged to do this, partly in order that he may realize his own self, partly in order that he may become a helpful member of society. For he is encouraged to play his part as a member of the community, to identify its interests with his own and be loyal to it, to work for it, to serve it. In other words in the Boy Scout philosophy of education the balance between the claims of the individual and of the communal self is steadily maintained, and the way is thus opened for the ideal or universal self to come to birth, and for the highest of all causes to make its appeal to the heart. To achieve and maintain this balance should be the primary aim of all who are interested in education;

and in no branch of education is the need for the realization of this aim more urgent than in that which deals with adolescence." Mr. H. A. L. Fisher has said of the training "The Boy Scout movement is one of the happiest educational discoveries, and like all great discoveries, it owes its success to the fact that it is founded upon a very true appreciation of boys' nature; that it is in close contact with the real facts of human nature and is not divorced from them. It responds to the nature of the ordinary boy, in that it develops some of his best moral and physical qualities." Many great educationalists can be quoted if space permitted. As Sir Alfred Pickford says, "any policy which involves marking time means that thousands of boys WILL FOR EVER miss this most valuable form of training." That is true and it is a sad thought, and applies particularly to Scouting in Newfoundland, for although there are thousands of boys thirsting for a friendly hand, if I may put it so, prospective Scoutmasters are lacking. There are many young men fully qualified to take our Scout work, which is most interesting and amusing, who will later on have some of the boys of to-day under them in later life. If there are any who on seeing this seek to learn more of the movement and who are willing to take up the work Commander Howley, Acting General Secretary, or the Officiating Chief Commissioner, Mr. H. A. LeMessurier, will be glad to hear from them. The movement is not a Military or semi-military movement, it is simply a movement to prepare lads for later life and its motto is BE PREPARED. His Excellency Lord Byng has lately been invested as Scout Major of First Canadian Troop, having passed all his tests and won many proficiency badges in his time. Our own Chief Scout, his Excellency Sir William Allardice, is also a very keen scouter and there are many other great men who are busy Scouting, serving the rising generation, and placing Self last. Scouters are now looking forward to Camp and Harbour Grace Troop as well as No. 6 St. John's have their arrangements well in hand. It is not likely that Mr. Rodney C. Wood who was to have come here in May, will do so now as it is realized that in Newfoundland camping in May is out of the question. We are promised however that next year during the latter part of August he will come and organize a Gilwell Camp, and give at the same time some instruction in winter Camp. Having this in mind, Scouters should make the best of their time this year and determine that they will camp, and that their Camp will be in every respect a Pattern Scout Camp.

Capt. Stevenson's Fine Work on Kyle Is Highly Praised.

"The many friends of Captain L. Stevenson, of the Kyle, are hurt very much by the way The Sydney Post criticises his work as master," says A. W. Shano, Nfld. Postmaster at North Sydney, in a letter to The Record. "The fact is," Mr. Shano goes on, "that on the last trip a very difficult one, no one could have done better, and if the man who was responsible for the article that appeared in the Post, Monday evening had to go through what the captain of the s.s. Kyle has had to contend with in his years as master, he would sing a different song. He talks of Arctic ice who never saw Arctic come as far as Cape Breton. All the ice that is on the shore here is ice that was made during the past winter in the Gulf. There is no better man to rely on the deck of any ship sailing the seas than the man who commands the good ship Kyle. What that man went through last winter, that is 1923, when he lost the mate, would turn one's hair white in one night, as it did his. He is only a young man, comparatively, but the trials and the anxious days and nights spent on the bridge made him an old man."—Sydney Record.

71 Years in Saddle Fail to Curb Ardor Of Veteran Rebel

Vera Cruz, Mexico, March 16. (A.P.)—Devoted of color and revolutionary flavor as has been the De La Huerta revolt, it has not been without its picturesque figures reminiscent of the days following the downfall of the Porfirio Diaz regime. One of these is General Division Higinio Aguilar, 87-year-old rough rider of the Vera Cruz hills, terror of federal train guards, and a thorn in the side of the conquering Obregon armies between Esperanza, on the edge of the great Mexican plain, and the seacoast. Tall, thin, and slightly stooped, but with a face almost unlined despite his age, General Aguilar is a splendid horseman and capable of long hours in the saddle without rest. With the seven or eight hundred men under his command, he makes long forced marches appearing suddenly at some railroad station to dynamite a train or harass the federal garrison. A day later he is reported at some far distant point.

His activities along the Mexican railroad have cost the government thousands of dollars in wrecked rolling stock, lost shipments and damages to the right of way.

Aguilar was a boy of seventeen when he joined the first Mexican revolution, the revolt against Santa Ana, the dictator, in 1853. Again in 1858 he took part in the revolution which deposed Ignacio Comonfort as president, and in 1865-68 he fought against the Emperor Maximilian. A native of the little village of San Juan Casomotepec, near Cordova, in Vera Cruz State, he gained with rebel forces in his several campaigns a complete knowledge of the hill country that has stood him in good stead in his present operations against Obregon.

When the Diaz revolution gained authority, Aguilar appeared as a colonel in the regular army. He never opposed President Diaz, but at one time was accused of treason, confined in the military prison at Santiago Tlalcoac and sentenced to be shot. A few minutes before the time set for his execution prison authorities were unable to find the key to his cell. The delay saved his life, for a messenger from Diaz appeared bearing a commutation of sentence. Aguilar acted as a confidential agent of Diaz, and later was credited with quelling, by diplomatic uprisings of Yaqui Indians in Sonora and of the Mayas in Yucatan, the deposition of Diaz in 1911. He served with the Carranza forces later joined Victoriano Huerta, was one of the first to join the cent revolt.

Sum Cuique.

If at any time the motto "to every man his own" meant anything more than mere words, that time is here and now; in making practical use of this doctrine it is necessary to remember another quotation which reads: "God helps those who help themselves, but—God help you if you are caught helping yourself."

action, and the Opposition is powerless, that disposes of our two Political Parties; and then, what? Mr. Editor, I am asking you.

I may say, in closing, that if every man in Newfoundland did his duty as honestly and fearlessly as you are doing yours, it would not take long to right the Ship of State.

CHARLES J. VASASOUR.

Another of Newfoundland's War Veterans has answered the roll call of the Church Triumphant. It is several years now since that awful but glorious day, when the youth and chivalry of Newfoundland demonstrated their indomitable courage and loyalty at Beaumont Hamel. Hundreds are lying near the field, many living in known graves, others as peacefully, like Moses, in sepulchres known only to their God.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

HIS ACCOUNT OF A JOURNEY TO THE SOUTH COAST.

March 28th.—A wet, chilly morning, mightily unpleasant on the steamer's deck. She did to-day make Pushthrough and Gaultois, where the unloading and putting on of freight takes much time, a deal of it being lumber, and cumbersome stuff to handle.

March 29th.—Waked betimes, and find myself standing now on my head, now on my feet, and is because my bed, lying crosswise, and the steamer rolling mightily, I to be turned out on my head and then up again to my feet.

South Coast Service.

Two steamers needed. Within the past six weeks, the S.S. Glencoe, running between Argentea and Port aux Basques, has carried more than 550 passengers to the latter port, the majority of whom were bound for Lunenburg, Sydney, Quebec and other outside places to look for work.

AMATEUR BILLIARD TOURNAMENT— POWER AND SKINNER THE VICTORS.

Two additional games in the Amateur Billiard Tournament were played in the Star Club rooms on Saturday night last, before another large
gathering of interested spectators.
The brand of billiards as witnessed
throughout was of a real classy variety, and left nothing to be desired.
The first game, between Power and French, proved to be the most exciting and closely contested match thus far played in the series. Throughout the game both players played to form
with very little noticeable difference
in the scoring column. French, who held a slight gain practically from the very outset, was leading by a scant 20 points at the 300 mark. In the last hundred French held a slight lead
practically to the close, but Power steadily crept up, and almost turned defeat into victory with a splendid break of forty-two, which proved
rather disastrous for his opponent.
The final stages of the game proved to be a real test of the nerves, while excitement reigned supreme. In the dying moments of play Power rallied and tied the score, 398 all. French next in, played a short follow through cannon shot, which was played very accurately towards his opponent's
ball, but in the roll French's ball ran foul of the red from the cushion, and was robbed of his game. This was rather amazing, not alone to French,
but to the spectators who were closely following the game. Power then ended the excitement with an easy
cannon, thus ending the game. Both players received a splendid reception
at the close. The breaks were:—
R. C. Power—400—15, 10, 15, 14,
33, 14, 23, 11, 11, 12, 25, 17, 11, 42, 10—278.
D. J. French—398—30, 11, 14, 10, 10, 20, 14, 25, 10, 18, 11, 22, 17, 15—227.
Time of game—1 hr. 56 min.

Scores at Intervals

Power—35, 153, 223, 364, 391, 398, 400.
French—45, 156, 250, 375, 398, 398, 398.

In the second game Skinner easily defeated his opponent, Newbury, by a margin of 184 points. During the early stages of the game the play was
very close and found both players
making several angle shots to improve their positions. Skinner, who was playing in his best form, secured
the desired opening after the 150
mark had been passed, and ran off
three successive breaks of 30, 15 and 21, for a total of 66 points, to his opponent's nil. From this on Skinner
went in and scored almost consistently, and ended the game with a pretty break of 30, unfinished. Newbury was away off color, and failed to show any of the effectiveness which brought him through so well in the previous games. Skinner's performance was high perfect, and should
he play with the same brilliancy in his games to come he will be a strong contender for the championship honors. A noteworthy feature of Skinner's performance on Saturday night, was that he ran off the game in the quickest time to-date: 1 hour and 16 minutes. The breaks were:—
W. B. Skinner—400—18, 10, 34, 19, 11, 30, 16, 21, 11, 15, 10, 19, 34, 11, 30
unfinished—278.
W. Newbury—216—17, 13, 25, 23, 17,
10, 10, 15—135.
Time of game—1 hr. 16 min.

REMARKABLE RECORD IN EN- GLISH BILLIARDS.

The English billiard match played at Montreal on March 27th, by four members of the Montreal Club against Claude Falkner was a remarkable
one for the exceptional display of the cuesist's art by the visiting English
professional. The game was 800 points, and the club members were given 400 start. Between them they scored 138 points, but this is not surprising when it is stated that Falkner
put on five breaks of over a hundred, and one of over 200 in the game.
Against such an opponent amateurs
could not expect to make much of a showing—they did not have the time
for the professional is one of the fastest scorers ever seen in Canada. His breaks were 100, 103, 105, 116, 124 and 212.
Falkner, who left the city on March 28th for the Laurentian Club, Ottawa,
has created a record which it will be hard for anyone to beat. Since he landed at St. John he has played eight matches, and in every one of them he has scored a break of over two hundred points. His first match at St.
John saw 239 completed. At the National Club in Montreal his best was 259, at the Engineers' Club he made a 215, at the King's Hall he ran up a 311, at the University Club a 235, at the C.P.R.A.A.A. his highest was 245,
at the Montreal Club a 212 and in his final match at the King's Hall a 214.
Yesterday Falkner played 1,600 points
and scored eight breaks over a hundred, and two of over 200 each, thus totaling twelve hundred points on ten visits to the table. Such consistently good billiards has never been seen in Montreal before and the British professional, who by his genial manner
made himself a warm favorite with everybody he met, was assured that if, after completing his world tour, he can pay a third visit to Montreal he will be heartily welcomed, and with the Billie his his present tour has given
the game it is hoped by then Montreal
will have developed some players who will give him some real good games.

SIKI LIKES THE "FLOWING BOWL" —BUT NOT THIS KIND.

HAVANA, March 28.—Demanding that more respect be given him because of his international importance Batling Siki, Senegalese heavyweight
received a coffee bowl on his skull as a tribute in a coffee house here last night.
The bowl was bounced off his head
by a colored stevedore.
After six stitches had been used to close the opening where the bowl
landed, Siki was imprisoned for participating in a common brawl.

The Passing Hour

Not That Kind.
An old farmer who, by hard work
and parsimonious habits had got together a little fortune, decided that the time had at length arrived when he was justified in ordering a family
carriage. He went to a carriage builder's, and described in detail the kind of vehicle he wished to buy.
"Now, I suppose you want rubber
tires?" said the carriage builder.
"No, sir," replied the old farmer in

Olive, and Charlie, and Willie, and Nell
and Grace and Tom and Desmond, and Joan, and Brian, and Leonard, and Elsie, and Horace, and—"
"Er—madam, it will be sufficient if you will just give the number."
"Number, indeed," replied the proud mother, wiping her dripping hands
on her apron; "we haven't got to numbering them yet. We haven't run out of names by a long way."—London

PREMIER FOUND GUILTY ON SERIOUS CHARGES.
Received $22,000 in Liquor Money and $16,000 From Steel Interests.

(Special Dispatch to the Globe.)
ST. JOHN'S, N.F., March 22—The capital of the United States is not the only seat of government in America which has been shaken during the past few months by scandalous evidence of political corruption which involves big business interests.

Since the report this week of the High Commissioner, sent from England to investigate charges brought against the former Premier of Newfoundland, Sir Richard Squires, alleging misuse of Government funds
and acceptance of large sums of money by the then Premier from the Dominion Steel Company at a time
when the Newfoundland Government
was negotiating with the steel interests about ore taxes, public excitement has run high.

THE CHARGES.

The first of these is as follows:
That the sum of $22,000, monies of
the Government Liquor Control Commission, at St. John's, was paid into Squires' account in the Bank of Nova Scotia local branch.

The second is: "That the sum of $16,000, monies of the Dominion Steel Company, was similarly paid into
the accounts at a time when that
company and its sister company (since merged into the British Empire Steel Company) were negotiating with the Government as to the amount of a royalty or export tax
on ore shipped by the companies
from their mines at Bell Island in this island."

When the intimations of the scandal which has now been officially confirmed began to sift through the island last July, a tremendous sensation resulted. On July 23, last, Squires resigned as a result of these charges, and an hour after he quit
his entire cabinet followed him.

After the first legal inquiry was instituted, it was discovered that
not only were the Government Liquor interests in the island involved, but also the big coal interests, the steel
and iron interests and other branches
of big business in Newfoundland.

A Government auditor, assigned
to check up the accounts of the administration of the Squires' Ministry,
reported to the investigators that
during the two years of the incumency of John T. Meany in the office of Liquor Controller, under Squires, there was an actual shortage amounting to $100,000; that there were ample indications that this amount would be added to were it
not impossible to check up accurately because of the absence of records; and that there was great difficulty in knowing how much of this shortage was represented by actual cash and how much was
in liquor stocks, and where both the cash and the liquor went.

As the inquiry proceeded, it was brought out that Squires' personal
business interests became chaotic
during his term of office, and the money diverted from Government
accounts was used in an effort to meet
his own needs. His secretary, Miss M. Miller, told the investigators that Squires instructed her to obtain money through her brother, James Miller, who was an accountant for the Dominion Steel Company, and instructed her to obtain enough
money that source she was to go to the Liquor Control Department
and get them there.

She testified that she obtained
from her brother $40,000, which
the officials later swore went to his personal account. From this she declared she received, as instructions, $26,000, of which $10,000 was repaid. In the connection which the steel interests had with Squires as an officer has, if anything, created a greater sensation here than the corruption reported officially as attaining the Liquor Control Department of the Government.

The steel companies' tax agreement with the Government had expired in December, 1919, and it was agreed to negotiate a new agreement. During negotiations, according to the testimony, Squires' financial straits were told to the steel interests, and it was suggested that he would be doing a wise thing if he financed him to the extent of $85,000. The result of this
that representatives of the steel industry obligated the Dominion Commissioner for Squires during the next few months to the amount of $40,000,
in various sums was applied
credit to meet personal notes.

His secretary told the investigators that the large part of the money she obtained from Meany in
the Liquor Control Department was sent to him, and that the total payments
received and turned over to Meany amounted to $26,000. There were no receipts for any of these transactions, nor for a repayment to Meany of $40,000 by Squires.

burden of its failure, falling upon Squires.

The snarl in the accounts of the Liquor Control Department is to be made subject to a special inquiry.
Strangely enough, the news of the whole scandal was brought about
through a falling out between Meany
and Squires over the question whether Meany should have full appointment
as controller.

Meany evidently feared Squires
planned to "double cross" him and
though the appointment was actually made before the last election, it
was held back until after pulling presumably because the Prohibitionists
would have resented it and voted against Government candidates.

A few weeks later Meany's office
was "burgled," in search of papers, he said, and he was reported
by a detective as stating that he blamed Squires as prompting a "heeler" to do this. For this he was suspended and then came report of a shortage in the Department.

Meany deposed he heard that Squires intended ordering his arrest,
so he put his facts in the hands of his solicitor, who saw the Attorney General and informed him of Meany's position. The Attorney General
took up the matter with Squires and
so did other members of the Ministry.
Apparently without getting as full an explanation as they desired, so several
resigned, thus bringing down the Government and the accession to office of Warren, who, in his first Ministerial statement, announced that there would be a full inquiry into this whole matter.

The involved situation has been further complicated recently by the declaration of Squires that he will run
for re-election as Premier in the elections which are to be held in May.

Newfoundland
Ball in Boston

The Newfoundlanders Mutual Benefit Association of Boston, Mass.,
held their thirty-third annual meeting on Friday evening, Feb. 29th.
Owing to the large number of people
who failed to gain admission last year it was deemed advisable to procure a hall which would provide ample room and accommodation for the large number of patrons who attend
each year. It was finally arranged to engage the entire Hibernian building
comprising three large commodious
ballrooms with accommodations for twenty-five hundred people, and it was firmly believed no difficulty
would be entertained by anyone desiring admittance. The attendance,
however, exceeded all previous records established by the Association.
Newfoundland residents from several of the New England States including
the cities and towns of Massachusetts
attended in large numbers, and hundreds of people were obliged to wait
in line for hours before they could gain admission.

It became evident to the committee
in charge that despite the special provisions that had been made it was physically impossible to admit all those who had so patiently waited in line. The Superintendent in conjunction with the police and fire departments ordered the doors closed as
the building was overcrowded, and
several hundred were obliged to return to their homes disappointed. It was estimated that over three thousand people were in attendance. The ball was a wonderful success both socially and financially. The proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of the Sick and Death Benefit Fund.

The large ballroom was beautifully decorated with flags and colored bunting; potted plants adorned the stage which was reserved for the invited guests. The young folks enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent,
dancing all the modern dances to the
accompaniment of a large orchestra
which furnished the latest music.
Another hall, which was handsomely
decorated with bunting for the occasion, was the rendezvous for the old-timers who could be heard relating
tales and experiences of bygone days
in Newfoundland. The seal industry
was discussed from all angles, and it was very interesting to hear of the hundreds of young harps and old
hoods they had killed in those good old days. It surely created a desire for a good meal of flipper. It certainly was a genuine meeting of old friends and acquaintances.

Miss Olivia Murphy, of 21 Palermo
St., Cambridge, Mass., was presented with a purse of gold. She was accorded the honor of being the most popular young lady present at the ball.
Suitable prizes were given to Miss Annie Brennan and Alice Butler of East Boston. Owing to the large attendance it was impossible to attempt the Grand March until midnight. The President, John Fitzhenry, led the grand march, accompanied by Mrs.
Fitzhenry. Next in line was Vice-President William Lane with Miss Fitz-henry, followed by 100 couples. It was a wonderful sight to witness, the
beautifully gowned ladies and escorts
promenading around the table.

The invited guests included Governor Channing Cox, Lt. Governor
Alvin Fuller, Theodore Glynn, Fire
Commissioner, representing the Mayor of Boston, who was absent
from the city; James Wilcox, President of the Newfoundland Charitable Association; John F. Powers, President of Boston Terra Novian Assoca-
tion, and Senator P. J. Melody. Fire Commissioner Glynn delivered a spirited address, congratulating the members of the Association on the good work being accomplished in caring for the sick and providing for those whom they leave behind. He paid
a glowing and complimentary tribute to the ladies on their handsome appearance. He was given a wonderful applause at the completion of his address.

Amongst the patrons were noticed
some old time friends, Messrs. Jonas
Barter of St. John's, Deputy Chief
Edward Shallow of the Boston Fire
Dept., Jeremiah Williams, formerly
in the St. John's Legislature, Denis Cantwell, a school teacher in the West End of St. John's some years ago, and numerous others whom
space forbids to write about.
