PRESIDENT TAFT IN EASTPORT

Prophecies a Period of Eternal Peace on Border Between the United States and Canada.—Advocates Commercial Reciprocity Between the Neighboring Countries.

President Taft, of the United States, paid an unofficial visit to Eastport in the Presidential yacht Mayflower, on Tuesday. It is said that he had not been to the border, but he anchored his yacht as close to the line as possible, and was able to look across to the Land of Promise, says a St. John paper.

He went ashore at Eastport and received a hearty reception from the people, after which he addressed them from the Public Library steps. He made some graceful allusions to Canada. He said that no doubt there were many Canadians in his audience. He was glad to see them and to be able to say the two countries were marching steadily forward on the road to prosperity. Still more glad was he to be able to state that all disturbing questions between the two countries had been settled and that a period of eternal peace on the border was before them.

The President had his wife and son on board with him. On Wednesday he proceeded to Frenchman's Bay on his way to Bar Harbor.

MR. TAFT WANTS CANADIAN RECIPROCIITY

The New York American quotes President Taft on reciprocity between Canada and the United States and discusses the subject as follows:

"Speaking for the Administration, we are convinced that a closer commercial relation with Canada will be well for both countries, and if in the next year we can come to any agreement to that end we shall think ourselves fortunate."

Where Prize Fighting is Illegal

It may be stated that Justice Swayne, of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, has no difficulty in finding law to meet the case, and his reasoning seems both plain and convincing.

"The law," he says, "declares that a public exhibition of any kind which tends to the corruption of morals or to a disturbance of the peace or of the general good order of the welfare of society is a public nuisance. The law also declares that prize fighting or even attendance at a prize fight as a spectator is a crime. Beyond doubt therefore, the law regards the public portrayal of a prize fight as an exhibition of the kind which has been described as a public nuisance. It would not be logical to make it a crime to watch the actual fight and yet make it permissible to display and to witness its exact reproduction upon a moving picture screen."

Wherever prize fighting is illegal, the exhibition of the pictures must be considered illegal, and that applies to all Canada.

No one disputes the splendid quality of Red Rose Tea. Here in the East as well as in the West it is used every day in thousands of homes where its unvarying fine quality has been proven by years of continuous use.

Capt. Bernier to Penetrate the Arctic Regions

Canada's Polar Navigator Proposes to Attempt the Northwest Passage and Bring His Vessel Around to Victoria, B.C.

Ottawa, July 24.—Captain Bernier, Canada's polar navigator, whose ambition it has for many years to reach the North Pole, is to have an opportunity for almost as distinguished a bit of Arctic exploring. With the Government steamer Arctic provisioned for a two-years' cruise, Captain Bernier is now enroute to the Canadian polar waters, with the Government's permission to attempt the Northwest Passage and bring his vessel around to Victoria, B. C., a feat which was unsuccessfully attempted by Perry, Ross, Franklin and other polar navigators during the past century.

Captain Bernier sailed from Quebec on the Arctic under sealed orders last month. Yesterday a letter was received from him at the Department of Marine, dated Chateau Bay, of the Labrador coast, July 12th. Attached to this letter was a memorandum giving the programme of his two-years' cruise.

Crushed to Death in Amherst Works

Edward Higgins, Engineer at Canada Car Plant, Was Horribly Mangled.

Amherst, July 21.—A distressing accident occurred at 7.30 this evening in the rolling mills of the Canada Car and Foundry Company where Edward Higgins, chief engineer, was instantly killed. The night watch had just started work when the belt which was running over a pulley was slipping. Thinking the belts required repairing, he took a bunch of waste and in passing it over the pulley, the waste caught under the belt, and he was hauled head first between two coupling boxes, in a space of only six inches. After passing through, the body was reversed, passing back over the upper cylinder. His head, chest and limbs were terribly crushed, and death was almost instantaneous. The deceased was about twenty-six years of age, and leaves a widow and one child. He had been employed in the mill ever since it started, and was a steady, trustworthy and highly respected man. The body was taken to Christie Evans, Ltd., undertakers, and an inquest will be held.

Mr. Robertson Joins Royal Bank

(Montreal Star.)

It is officially announced that Mr. William Robertson, president of the Union Bank of Halifax, will represent the interests of the shareholders of that institution on the Board of the Royal Bank if the proposed deal of the purchase of the Union is approved by the shareholders. That is part of the agreement under which the Royal Bank makes the purchase on the terms announced exclusively in The Star yesterday. The present directors of the Union Bank of Halifax will act as advisory board of the Royal Bank in Halifax.

The present policy of the Union Bank of Halifax in respect to the business will be carried out by the Royal Bank of Canada and the advisory board being retained by the Royal Bank of Canada is the best evidence of their intention to safeguard the interests of the customers of the Union Bank of Halifax.

It is also agreed that all the present staff of the Union shall be retained for a period of one year at a salary not less than now received by them.

Questions the St. John Times

How far will $45,000 go to repair losses that are probably $2,000,000 in excess of the insurance?

The Campbell relief fund is now said to amount to about $45,000. The total loss must have been at least $3,500,000, and some say much more; and the insurance was apparently less than $1,500,000. This would indicate a dead loss of fully $2,000,000.

The heaviest burden of this dead loss falls upon people who had no insurance and who lost everything. There is the point—they lost everything. Now to what extent are they helped by what has been done? If they were hungry, they have been fed. They were given the shelter of tents, and perhaps some needed clothing. In a word, their immediate wants were to some extent supplied. But otherwise they are today as they were the night after the fire—without anything to help them in the work of providing a home against the rigors of a Restigouche winter.

The response throughout the province to the first cry for help was worthy of all praise. But it merely supplied the immediate day-to-day needs of people who had been stripped of all their belongings. Those people are now able, no doubt, to work and to earn some money, but they are still homeless—and, as Lieut. Gov. Twigg pointedly observes, cold weather is only about twelve weeks away. They have no houses, no furniture—nothing but their bare hands. This, of course, refers to those who carried no insurance. Of those who did carry some, many will not be able to provide themselves with homes without outside help.

Amalgamation of the Banks

The most important event of the past week has been the official announcement of the absorption of the Union Bank of Halifax by the Royal Bank of Canada, says J. C. McIntosh in the Herald. The terms of exchange are two shares for five shares of Union, the former being $100 shares and the latter $50 shares. At the present market price of Royal Bank of Canada stock, which is 241 per cent, this is equivalent to approximately 193 per cent for Union Bank stock. This is considered a very favorable arrangement for the shareholders of the Union Bank, realizing as they do considerably in excess of the former market price of the stock. Included in the terms is the agreement with the Royal Bank to increase their dividend stock from 11 to 12 per cent, on January 1st, 1911.

Many will regret the passing of this institution which has identified itself very closely with the business of this province. However if it must be lost as a purely local institution it is better that it should be taken over by the Royal Bank of Canada, which also originated in this city, than by some outside bank, which is not so closely in touch with the needs of the maritime provinces.

The Royal Bank has done wisely in retaining the services of the officials of the Union Bank, as the business community of this province and elsewhere has ever found the officials of this bank well qualified to satisfy their just and reasonable requirements with wisdom and with courtesy. The Royal Bank is to be congratulated on obtaining the business of the Union Bank and the services of its officials.

The Royal Bank of Canada in recent years has shown great enterprise and is now rated third among Canadian banks in volume of assets and business and the acquisition of the Union Bank of Halifax has further increased its capital, reserves and total assets. We think the Royal Bank has made a wise move in placing the president of the Union Bank on its board and trust it will ever be its policy to have representation from the province of Nova Scotia upon its board of directors.

New Pastor for Gordon Memorial Church

The Rev. Allan Simpson, for many years Pastor of Park Street church, Halifax, has accepted a call from Gordon Memorial Presbyterian church of this town, and Presbytery has arranged for his induction into this charge on Tuesday, 19th of August. Rev. R. Johnson, of St. Andrews church, Halifax, will address the congregation. A very large attendance is expected.

Gordon Memorial church is most fortunate in securing a man of Mr. Simpson's great experience and ability, and the town is to be congratulated on this addition to its list of pastors.—COM.

TOWN MAKES A GOOD INVESTMENT.

It is refreshing to read that the progressive Town Council of Wolfville, despite the fact that their up-to-date school building is in good condition, fairly well ventilated and heated, is now expending some three thousand dollars on a new system of heating and ventilation in order that the comfort and health of the students shall be assured. In these days when the ravages of consumption are so great, it would be folly, to say the least, to neglect any of those precautions, that are so necessary, if the life, health and vigor of the present and succeeding generations are to be preserved. Better by far is it for children to grow up with unventilated minds, but strong bodies in the fresh air under the open canopy of heaven, than to run the risk of growing up round shouldered, hollow-chested, bespectacled weaklings in the vitiated air of unventilated school rooms, where large numbers of the washed and unwashed meet and mingle fragrantly together. To those in authority who proceed to grapple intelligently and vigorously with so important a problem let due credit and honor be paid.—Kentville Advertiser.

MacKenzie and Mann Officials Visit Province

MIDDLETON, July 22.—William MacKenzie, president, and D. B. Hanna, vice-president, W. D. Barclay, eastern manager of the MacKenzie and Mann railways, and J. Bain, superintendent of the H. and S. W. Railway, came to Middleton this morning by special train in Mr. MacKenzie's private car. They visited the big shipping pier at Port Wade and the iron mine at Torbrook and were much pleased with the prospects of traffic from the iron ore. They were also driven in an auto over the proposed line of railway from Middleton eastward through northern Annapolis and Kings' counties to study the possibilities of extending the H. and S. W. railway through this fine apple-growing district of the province. Mr. MacKenzie promised a daily service over the Victoria Beach section of the H. and S. W. railway.

Great Changes at the St. John Exhibition

New Buildings, New Area, New 'Pike' New Cattle Accommodations

The general aspect of the grounds at the Dominion Exhibition, to be held in St. John, N. B., September 5th to 15th next, will be greatly changed as compared with former years. The new immense wing to the Industrial structures, the new cattle sheds, master new Grand Stand, new "Pike," etc., will transform the familiar view into one of a fair of national proportions and will surpass even the most sanguine visitor. The new Horticultural Building, to be 150 feet long and sixty feet wide, and three stories in height, is planned to adjoin the wing of the Main Industrial building. The new Grand Stand, to be two hundred and eight feet by forty deep, with accommodations for one thousand seven hundred and fifty guests, is to be situated in the south-east corner of the area, nearly directly opposite the old Grand Stand. In past years the Pike or Midway attractions have been located directly in the path of patrons walking from the main building across the field to the Live Stock display; but this year this open ground is to be reserved for specially new and original amusement features, while the Pike is laid out in the rear of the new Grand Stand, following a semi-circular course towards Amusement Hall. There will be new horse barns, immense new cattle sheds, new piggy and sheep pens, also new accommodations for poultry and pet stock. The transportation exhibits are to be shown in the Military Drill, which the Dominion Government has kindly placed at the disposal of the Exhibition Association. In the centre of the large ground space a stock display ring has been mapped out in which horses will be exercised and competing animals demonstrated. This track will be one-sixth of a mile in circumference.

TOBACCO CULTURE.

The culture of tobacco in the Dominion is receiving some attention of late and gives prospect of being remunerative. Mr. Charlan, Chief of Agriculture, Ottawa, has been visiting different countries throughout this province looking into conditions and seeking representative farmers who will undertake the culture. Mr. Charlan was in Kentville last week, says the Advertiser, accompanied by Mr. Moore of the seed division, Ottawa, and talked with many farmers in the vicinity. They considered our soil conditions and climate and thought that if the culture of tobacco was undertaken here it would prove of value as an industry for our farmers. Mr. Charlan made arrangements for Experiments in growing. The department at Ottawa will furnish the plants and buy the dried crop when gathered.

SUMMER SCHOOL OF SCIENCE

Over Two Hundred Teachers and Students in the Quiet and Pretty Town of Liverpool.—Useful Sessions, Kind Hospitality and Delightful Excursions Make Pleasurable Outing.

(Special correspondence to Monitor)

Liverpool, July 25.—The Summer School of Science is holding its twenty-fourth annual session at the quiet little town of Liverpool. The enrollment is large this year; 228 from Nova Scotia; 10 from New Brunswick, 8 from Prince Edward Island and 7 from the United States, making a total of two hundred and fifty-two at present enrolled. The classes are well attended, as would be expected when one considers the personality of the instructors, live men of affairs, of high ideals, and of fine independent mentality, it will not seem strange if those who listen to them, catch something of their spirit and go to their own schools next year with new ideas better methods of teaching, loving their work better, and filled with a new enthusiasm.

The staff of the Summer School this year consists of:

Agriculture and Physical Science: W. W. Andrews, L. L. D., Prof. of Chemistry at Mount Allison University.

Botany: L. A. DeWolfe, M. Sc., teacher in Soldan High School, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Geology: D. S. MacIntosh, M. Sc., professor of Geology in Dalhousie College.

Literature, Physic: G. P. Oulton, M. A., Moncton, N. B.

Drawing: Percy Harlow, teacher of Drawing in schools of Charlottetown, P. E. Island.

Besides these instructors there are four sergeants sent from the Royal Canadian Regiment in Halifax teaching those who are taking the course in Military Drill.

The classes in English and Botany each number considerably over one hundred, and great interest is taken in them. The botanizing excursions are a pleasant feature of this most enjoyable and instructive outing. In the Agriculture Class Professor Andrews gives the pupils the benefit of the newest thought and methods in Agriculture, and the results of his own independent investigations. The other classes are all well attended, and the Physiology Class might be mentioned as a particularly useful one conducted in the way that it is. There are pupils also taking advanced courses in various subjects.

Kind friends of the summer school who feel that those teachers who put themselves to the expense of coming to the school and studying hard during vacation time, are entitled to some reward, have offered a number of scholarships to those writing the examinations at the end of the session. This year the scholarships offered are four $20 scholarships open to those who were candidates for scholarships last year; and ten $10 scholarships open to all pupils of the summer school except those competing for the advanced scholarships. Besides these there are several prizes of books offered for good work in the English class.

The Summer School is visited from time to time by prominent educationalists, who give lectures and in other ways help the usefulness of the school. This year it has had the great advantage of a visit from the commission which is enquiring into the needs of Canada in regard to technical training and industrial education, and of listening to the ideas of such great men as Dr. Robertson, who has done so much for that same education in Canada.

Besides the fine opportunities for instruction provided by the summer schools, there is abundant opportunity here for having a good time—excursions, boating, bathing. The people of Liverpool are most kind in anticipating the wants of the Summer School and in making its stay in their town enjoyable in every possible way. Captain Hatt has put his little steamer, which accommodates forty, at the disposal of the members of the Summer School; so also has the Mayor his motor boat. Mr. Starratt is very kind about taking the students out in his yacht. The tennis club of Liverpool on Saturday afternoon entertained the Summer School most enjoyably at a lawn party on their grounds. On Monday afternoon there was an excursion to the pulp mills two miles away in Milton.

The climate in Liverpool is so delightfully cool and refreshing that it puts new life into everyone. In fact everything seems to combine to make this session of the Summer School a most useful and delightful one.

Merchant's Day a Success in Sackville

The weather man did his best—or worst—to hinder the success of Merchants' Day but, nevertheless, quite a large number of people came to Sackville for the day and the merchants generally report business good. In some cases the amount of business done was below that of the previous Merchants' Day but in others it was reported to be about up to the average while one or two of the merchants say that they broke all records in the amount of their business. When it is remembered that the weather in the afternoon was anything but good and that nevertheless the day's business was on the whole satisfactory yesterday may be taken as another evidence of the advantage of Merchants' Day in the town.—Tribune.

SAVED FROM THE KNIFE

Appendicitis Cured By "Fruit-a-tives"

NEWBRIDGE, ONT., Feb. 12th, 1910.

Just about a year ago, our daughter Ella, (fourteen years), was taken with terrible pains in the right side. The pain was so severe that we had to carry her to bed. We at once put her under the care of a first-class doctor, who pronounced it a case of Appendicitis and advised an operation.

We took her to a hospital in Kingston where she was again examined by an eminent specialist. He said she had Appendicitis and must be operated on at once if we wanted to save her life. As we had taken her to Kingston to have this done, we were ready, but our daughter was afraid and cried and begged so pitifully, that we postponed it for that day. Luckily for us and for her, an uncle came in with some "Fruit-a-tives" and insisted on Ella taking them. Good results were apparent, almost from the first dose, and the continuous treatment cured her. "Fruit-a-tives" saved our daughter from the surgeon's knife and to-day she is enjoying the best of health."

Construction of Wells

The well itself must be so constructed that impurities can not get into it from above or from the sides. If water can soak into it after passing through a few feet of soil only, it cannot be regarded as secure from pollution. To prevent this, the well may be provided with a water-tight wall built of hard-burned brick and cement down to the water level. The outside surface of this wall should be covered with a thin layer of cement, and clay pounded and puddled in around it. Or, tile may be used to the water level. Driven wells, i. e., wells constructed of iron tubing driven into the ground, are, perhaps, the safest where the quantity of water needed is not large, and where other conditions are favorable.

Wells are exposed to contamination in two ways. The surface water from rain, house slops and barnyard drainage may find its way into the well at or near the surface of the ground. Or the ground-water stream supplying the well with water may in its subterranean movements encounter cesspools or seepings from cesspools, and carry with it soluble and suspended particulars, some of which may enter the well. There can be no doubt that a large percentage of the wells are exposed to contamination with refuse matter in the manner described, and it now remains to gauge the danger to health and life which may be carried in the contaminating substances. The danger of typhoid fever bacteria entering the water has already been mentioned. These may be washed in from the surface, or they may pass from cesspools near by through fissures in the ground, passages dug by rats, etc. Whether such bacteria can pass through the pores of a compact, unbroken soil from a cesspool to a well near is a matter not fully settled. Since, however, the actual condition of the deeper layers of the soil between cesspools and well cannot be known, it becomes imperative to prevent all pollution of the ground-water current supplying wells by either abolishing the cesspools or else placing them at a considerable distance from all sources of water.

Besides typhoid fever bacteria, those organisms which cause digestive disturbances, and severe troubles, such as diarrhoea, dysentery, and possibly other unknown diseases may be carried into well water. During the cholera epidemics, polluted wells might form centres of infection. Eggs of animal parasites may be washed in from the surface. Again, the barnyard manure, representing the mixed excrement of various animals, may under certain conditions, be bearers of disease germs, and such excrement should, under no conditions, be looked upon as entirely harmless to human beings.

Besides the protection of the ground-water near the well from pollution emanating from cesspools, etc., the surface of the ground about the well should be kept free from manure slops, and other waste water; hence the well should not be dug under or by the house, nor should it be located in the barnyard, where the ground is usually saturated with manure. It should be surrounded by turf, and not by richly manured, cultivated or irrigated soil. The ground immediately around it should slope gently away from it, and be paved if possible. The waste water from the well should not be allowed to soak into the ground, but should be collected in water-tight receptacles or else conducted at least twenty-five feet away in open or closed channels, which are water-tight.

NEWSPAPER MAN CRUSHED UNDER AUTOMOBILE AT CAMPBELLTON.

Campbellton, N. B., July 19.—One of the most active of Campbellton's workers for the relief of the stricken people, Charles W. Anslow, lies at the point of death in the Hotel Dieu Hospital tonight as the result of an auto accident late today. There were five men in the car. It was being backed down St. Andrew street when suddenly the car turned over into the ditch. Three of the occupants escaped without injury. The fourth, Ross Malcolm, son of Thos. Malcolm, of the International Railway, suffered internal injuries, and Mr. Anslow was pinned unconscious under the car. Concussion of the brain is feared, and tonight Dr. Murray said there was little chance of recovery. Mr. Anslow was connected with the Campbellton Graphic, newspaper.

He Explained Things

Englishman Meets a Canadian Who Tells Him Why.

(Toronto Star.)

They got into conversation in the smoking car on a branch line of the Grand Trunk, a young, newly-arrived Englishman and a Canadian, who, if not old, was well along in middle-age. The latter could not tolerate the silence, and showed that he was going to talk to the stranger if he couldn't talk with him, as there was nobody else to talk to or with.

"But," said the Englishman, "you do some things in this country that I don't understand."

"We do lots of them," was the reply. "But what do you mean in particular? Let's go down to particulars."

"Well, for instance, I heard a man championing what he called temperance, but what I call teetotalism, and he was filling his remarks with profanity."

"Was it a public speech?"

"No, no! It was in this train on the down trip. But he was taking high ground on the drink question and he used shocking language in doing it. Not only so, but he was actually chewing tobacco at the time. Now, I'd rather drink my beer than swear or chew tobacco as he did."

"It's just a question of taste," said the Canadian. "Now, I don't drink and I don't swear and I don't chew. I tried those three vices and quit them. They got to be too common, so I quit them, and hunted up a vice of my own." The visitor seemed curious, but did not ask what this vice was.

"But why should a man chew tobacco," he enquired, "or if he does chew it, why should he venture to criticize any other man's habits?"

"I was just going to tell you," resumed the other. "There's lot of things different here from what they are in England, because of the country. You take a farmer working in a field about a mile from the nearest fellow creature. Well, he wants a smoke, and has it; then he wants another, and his last match goes out. He can't walk a mile for another. So he takes a chew. The habit of chewing tobacco arose from the habit matches have of blowing out."

"I never heard of that before," said the stranger admiringly.

"I suppose you didn't. Well, here's another thing. Women in this country are often seen chewing gum, and English people think it's disgusting. Well, all I can say is it doesn't look nice, but it's necessary. I said necessary, but its necessary in this way. When a man's out in the bush mad as hops because he hasn't got a match, his wife is alone in the house with-out a soul to talk to. A chew of gum is about the best substitute for somebody to talk to that any woman could have. It keeps her from thinking, and woman shouldn't think, especially when they're alone. If you know any English woman out on prairie farms in the west you write and tell 'em to send to town for some gum. In this country we've found out some things, and one is that it's better for a lonesome woman to chew gum than go crazy."

"Really now!" exclaimed the Englishman.

"I know you never heard of such a thing. How could you?" interrupted the Canadian. "Here's lots of pointers I could give you, only I've got to get off at this station we're coming to."

"But, wait a moment. Tell me one thing," begged the stranger. "Tell me this; Why do not people out here eat boiled eggs out of the shell? Why do they turn them into a glass? It seems barbarous to me."

"Sure, I'll tell you. The reason is that sometimes the pioneer found himself with nothing to eat but eggs.

Canada's Next Census of Population

The next census of Canada will be taken under date of June 1st, 1911, and will embrace the subjects of population, mortality, agriculture, manufacturers, minerals, fisheries and dairy products.

Population will be recorded under the heads of residence and personal description; citizenship, nationality and religion; profession, occupation and trade or means of living; wage-earnings and insurance; education and language spoken, and infirmities.

Every person living on 1st June will be entered on the schedule of population by name, as member of a family, institution or household, together with place of habitation, sex, relationship to head of the family or household, and whether single, married, widowed, divorced or legally separated. The month of birth, year of birth and age, at last birthday will also be recorded.

Entries will be made for each person to show the country or place of birth, year of immigration to Canada if born elsewhere, year of naturalization if formerly an alien, and also racial or tribal origin, nationality and religion. Every person of alien birth who has become a naturalized citizen is a Canadian by nationality; and every British subject with residence in Canada, as well as every native of Canada who has acquired citizenship by birth or naturalization, is also a Canadian by nationality. But there is no Canadian by racial or tribal origin, unless the Indians are so counted.

Every person having an occupation or trade will be entered for it, but if employed in the census year at some other occupation for part or whole time he will be so recorded also. If the person is working on own account, the entry will be so made. An entry is also required to be made showing where the person is employed, as on farm in woolen mill, at foundry shop, in drug store, etc.

Wage-earners are entered to show the number of weeks employed in 1910 at chief occupation or trade; at other than chief occupation if any; the hours of working time per week at chief occupation, or at other occupation; the total earnings at other than chief occupation; and the rate per hour when employed by the hour.

Entries are required to be made for each person showing the amount of insurance held at date of the census upon life, as well as against accident or sickness, together with the cost of such insurance in the census year.

Under the heading of education and language records will be taken for every person of five years of age and over showing the number of months at school in 1910, and if the person can read and write, and the language commonly spoken by each person.

The cost of education in 1910 for persons over sixteen years of age at College, Convent or University is also called for.

The last question on the schedule of population relates to infirmities. It calls for a record of each person having an infirmity. If blind, deaf and dumb, crazy or lunatic, idiotic or silly, a record thereof will be made in the proper column, and the age at which the infirmity appeared is required to be specified.

WHAT CO-OPERATION DID.

The value of co-operation among farmers is nowhere more strikingly illustrated than in Denmark, a little country about the size of New Brunswick, which supports a population of over two million people and exports to Great Britain nearly a hundred million dollars' worth of butter, eggs and bacon every year.

Forty years ago, Denmark was agriculturally insignificant. Now it has no food trusts or middlemen. The creameries, hatcheries and packing houses are co-operative and co-operative marketing is carried on. Thus, from being a country whose agricultural exports within the memory of living people were comparatively nothing, the little peninsula has become one of the important food-producing countries in the world. And co-operation had more to do with the progress than anything else.

When the stomach fails to perform its functions the bowels become deranged, the liver and the kidneys congested causing numerous diseases. The stomach and liver must be restored to a healthy condition and Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets can be depended upon to do it. Easy to take and most effective. Sold by all dealers.

Did it ever occur to you that it never in the great calamity which embitters existence? It is the petty little vexation of the day, the petty disappointment, the trifling jealousy—all these are really the things that will surely sour the temper if you but let them.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Panels of glass may easily be removed if soft soap be laid over the putty and left for several hours.

Butter is excellent for a burn. If the spot is covered instantly with butter the skin will not blister.

A few grains of salt sprinkled on the coffee before adding the water will bring out and improve the flavor.

A child's room should, if possible, face south. Sun is as important to their growth and well-being as it is to that of a plant.

A vegetable brush should be found in every kitchen. Boots may be cleaned more readily with one than with the hands.

When boiling an old fowl or tough meat add a pinch of soda to the water. Simmer gently and the meat will be perfectly tender.

Salt meats, such as ham, tongue, beef and so on, which are to be boiled, should be put in cold water and allowed to heat slowly.

To clean decanters, mix half a gill of vinegar with a handful of salt. Put a little in each decanter and shake well. Rinse in clear water.

CURED OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N. S., writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:—$1.50 per year. If paid in advance $1.00 per year. To U. S. A. subscribers, 50 cts. extra for postage.

Notwithstanding the prompt and generous donations forwarded from many sources to the sufferers from the Campbellton fire, there is obvious still a grave lack of necessities not to speak of comforts.

The generous donation of the Bank of New Brunswick of one hundred mattresses and pillows was welcomed as a god-send, but one hundred mattresses could not satisfy the demand of over five hundred applicants.

Bridgetown rate payers are called to meet at the town hall on Monday evening next, to vote upon the donation of a sum not to exceed one hundred dollars as a donation to the distressed community.

To realize the plight of the impoverished community, it is necessary to imagine what Bridgetown would be like with its homes, business houses, industrial establishments, churches, school houses, all a mass of ruins.

The Monitor suggests that in addition to the cash voted by the town a committee be appointed to solicit household goods. Almost every householder has articles of furniture stored away which would be greatly appreciated by those whose household goods accumulated after years of toil are completely demolished.

Commendable enterprise and regard for the public health is displayed by the Halifax Board of Health in dealing with street vendors of fruit and confectionery.

The next thing the board should undertake to supervise is the distribution of baker's bread and other bakery products.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house

By a paper covering, as it is in the most up-to-date city bakeries, where it is slipped into a white parchment paper bag, it should never be handled by the driver of the cart, nor exposed to careless handling by unwashed hands at any time.

A supersensitive individual accuses the Monitor-Sentinel of helping to "give the Valley a black eye" by publishing F. C. Whitman's letter regarding the apple crop in last issue. It may be editorial density but we fail to see how Mr. Whitman has given the Valley a black eye by stating the true condition as to prospects for the apple crop.

GOOD AND BAD LUCK. Sir Wilfred Laurier put a homely lesson in brief form in his speech at Winnipeg the other day when, discussing the question of what constitutes good luck or bad luck he said:—"Two boys go to work in the same shop; one is industrious, willing and ambitious; he works hard, getting the approbation of his employer. He is promoted by-and-by and ambition rises. He goes into business for himself, and by-and-by becomes a capitalist of industry."

Jottings by the Sea

Nestling amongst hills on Fundy's shore and not without its touch of romance to those acquainted with life's struggles, lies Delaps Cove, where should be noted what patient industry can accomplish, amidst many and untold obstacles of which people living in more favored places know little.

The above statement is a conservative analysis of the estimate of the crop situation in the Spruce Grove, Stony Plain, Rosenthal and Inga districts of the province of Alberta, gathered from the farmers on the spot—that is in their own wheat fields.

The motor car left the Board of Trade offices yesterday morning for these districts, which occupy the country lying west of Edmonton and between the railway lines and the North Saskatchewan river.

ANNAPOLIS FISH DRYER BUSY

Both bank and shore fishing have been very good this season and there has been a big catch of fish in Cape Breton. This has given extra work to the Annapolis Royal Fish Dryer. Fifteen hundred quintals of cod has been sent here from Lunenburg. This with two thousand more and one thousand quintals of haddock to follow, will certainly keep the Robin Collas Co. busy drying and packing fish for export. In conversation with Mr. Whitman, the company's manager, he informed us that he expects a pack this season of 6,000 tubs and drums.—Spectator.

LIGHT HOUSE FOR HAMPTON

A petition is being circulated by Mr. T. S. Burton of Hampton for the purpose of inducing the Marine and Fisheries department to build a lighthouse at that place. The shipping at this live little shore port has largely increased during the last few years and a lighthouse is most necessary for the convenience of shippers using the breakwater there. Hampton is now the only port on this part of the Fundy coast without a light.

IN THE PULPIT

Hamilton, Ont. July 18.—H. H. Miller, M.P., author of the Racing Bill, which bears his name, occupied the pulpit of the Barrow Street Methodist church at both services yesterday, speaking at the morning service on gambling and the Miller Bill. Mr. Miller stated that the opponents of gambling were by no means satisfied yet, and would not let up until they had succeeded in having a law passed prohibiting gambling on race tracks.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house

"What the devil good is he after you cure the sores? You had better leave him here to die." These words were in response to the action of G. P. Henry, agent of the S.P.C., was taking in trying to save the life of a young fellow in Arichat. For a long time past, the community in that neighborhood has been stirred by the case of a young fellow, nineteen years of age, who has been a cripple for the past three years, owing to the neglect of his father. Mr. Henry visited the place on the 19th inst., in company with the councillor and the clerk of the district. The people of Arichat had been loath to interfere and invoked the aid of the society. The boy was taken in charge.

W. W. CHESLEY SHOULD EXPORT MORE FRUIT Mr. J. Lockie, Wilson, Superintendent of the Agriculture Societies has returned to Toronto from a six weeks' trip to Europe. Mr. Wilson has been studying the fruit problem, and has made up a report which the Government intends to distribute among the Ontario farmers. Mr. Wilson is of the opinion that the peach and tomato exportation to the English markets is not carried on to half its extent and that much profit is in store for the Ontario exporter if he chooses to see it. "Why, we can grow tomatoes at 25 cents per bushel, and sell them over in London at sixpence per pound," said Mr. Wilson. MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

An Odd Honeymoon

It was a beautiful little cottage with a wide porch, a lawn sloping down to the frozen lake and great trees, heavy with winter snows. With in was a deep fireplace built of rough stones.

"I think it was perfectly lovely of Cousin Beth to let us come," said the little bride.

"It's the nearest thing to Paradise that I can imagine," he said, fervently.

"That's the beauty of the country," Joyce emphasized.

"It is bliss after the hurry and worry of getting married," her husband teased. "I don't see why you are not worn to a frazzle, Joy."

"I was so happy," said the little bride, "that I didn't have time to get tired. But it is so good to rest, away from everybody."

"I'll build a fire in the fireplace," Philip said, "and we might get a warm supper over the coals."

"Joyce's laughter rippled. "Phil Brandon," she said, "I think you are wonderful to have such confidence in my cooking."

"You do everything well," was his assertion.

But Joyce had some doubts as she tied on the distractingly pretty apron with its pink ribbons and surveyed the pots and pans. Hitherto her culinary skill had been tried only in her mother's dainty apartment, where a chafing dish and a competent maid had made things easy.

But here there was no obliging housemaid, and the sacks of flour and the cans and bottles of supplies had a discouraging, unfinished look.

"I might make pancakes," Joyce ventured doubtfully.

"Of course," was Philip's ecstatic acquiescence.

But while she stirred and whipped and mixed the necessary ingredients energetically, the pancakes were not a success. With unlimited maple syrup, however, they were eatable, and Philip's enthusiasm supplied all defects.

"Of course you can't expect to have things perfect when cooking under such difficulties," he said, as he moved the griddle from the coals and wiped off the ashes. "Tomorrow when our coal comes we will have the stove in running order, and then we will have feast—just you and I—king and queen in our own domain."

But the stove didn't help matters much. Joyce's efforts at cooking were distinctly discouraging. Moreover she couldn't keep her finger nails pink and shining and her hair in its usual crown of puffs.

"For I just can't look nice and cook, Phil," she said, almost tearfully one night.

"Never mind," said Phil. But his tone was a trifle doubtful. He dismissed Joyce's usual pretty plumage. In spite of love and romance there was something lacking. Philip had lived hitherto in his mother's well-ordered household.

But he wouldn't complain. Joyce was dear and sweet, and he didn't want a cloud on her face—so he ate soggy biscuits and overdone steaks and smiled in her anxious face.

But Joyce couldn't smile. "I-I never worked so hard in all my life," she confessed one morning, "and I don't think I like housekeeping, Phil!"

A little shadow came into Philip's eyes. He was of a race of men, strong, home-loving, he had dreamed of the little apartment over which Joyce should preside. He could not afford a servant.

If they did not keep a house, a room in a cheap boarding place must be their home. He sighed, then made a little protest. "You know it won't be so hard after you've learned, Joyce."

Joy leaped forward and looked into the flames. "But I am not sure that I want to learn, Philip," she said.

After that neither of them said much, but something was lost out of their happiness.

By noon they were practically snow bound. They ate an unappetizing lunch of canned salmon and crackers—Joyce was not in the mood to cook—and as an inevitable consequence by four o'clock they had quarrelled.

"If you loved me you wouldn't care what you ate," was Joyce's accusation when Philip had complained of hunger.

It seems to be that hunger has nothing to do with love. Philip had visions of what his mother's table would be under like conditions, but, of course, his mother was his mother and Joyce was Joyce. And his little wife was a dear.

So his arms went about her and he kissed her, and asked if he couldn't get the dinner for a change, and having gained her consent he went into the kitchen to forage.

Somewhat the prospect didn't seem hopeful. He wasn't sure that he could fry eggs, but he thought he might try first he sliced the bacon, glancing into the other room now and then to see Joy in the easy chair. It seemed difficult to break the egg

A POPULAR ROLE

Mrs. Rogers had the barrel of rusted apples placed in the attic because they were not quite ripe enough to eat, and a writer in Green's Fruit Grower says she warned her three boys whose ages range from five to eleven years, not to touch them.

Then, one rainy day, when she sought the attic to get something from a trunk, she came full upon her sons, surrounded by apple cores. At her appearance two of the boys, drew closer together; but the third, a little distance off, who lay on his stomach, contentedly munching an apple, apparently paid no attention to his mother's entrance.

"Jack! Henry! Willie!" she exclaimed, reproachfully. "Whatever are you doing? And those apples! Didn't I tell you not to touch them?"

"Yes, mamma," replied Jack, the eldest, "but we're not really eating them; we're acting the garden of Eden. Willie and I are Adam and Eve, and Henry, over there, is the serpent, trying to lead us to our downfall by showing us how good the apples are."

"But," began the mother, as sternly as she was able, "you two must have been eating apples; Henry hasn't done it all. I see as many as ten cores around you."

"Oh, yeth," returned Willie, the youngest, "we've all been taking turns being the serpent."

VERY INELEGANT.

The subject of a young man's essay who was graduated from a high school in a Pennsylvania town, was "Hawthorne," and in that essay he said, "At the age of thirty-nine Hawthorne married and took his bride to the old manse."

In discussing the merits of the essay one young woman observed to a school-mate:

"Wasn't it awful that Harry Meggs should say such a thing as he did?"

Then in response to the other's inquiry as to the allusion, the young lady added:

"Why, he said that at the age of thirty-nine Hawthorne married and took his bride to the old manse. Why couldn't he be more elegant and say his father-in-law's?"—Harper's Magazine.

SCIENTIFIC TACTICS.

When the Passion Play at Ober-Amunson was in progress an American visitor spent much of his spare time looking up the actors in their homes and chatting with them about the play. One complaint he met almost everywhere was the tremendous fatigue the performers suffered at the close of the eight-hour performance. Coming to the home of Hans Zwick, the Judas of the play, he found the painter-actor in quite a cheerful mood.

"Does the performance fatigue you so much, too?" the tourist inquired.

"Yes, Herr Zeinik could reply his little ten-year-old son chirped up.

"Pa, he don't get so tired. He hangs himself at 3 o'clock and comes home two hours before the others."

A LESSON IN GRAMMAR.

Hetty's uncle, who was a school teacher, says The Lutheran, met her on the street one beautiful May day and asked if she was going out with the Maying party.

"No, I ain't going."

"Oh, my little dear," said her uncle, "you must not say 'I ain't going.' You must say 'I am not going,' and he proceeded to give her a little lesson in grammar. "You are not going. You are not going. They are not going. Now, can you say all that, Hetty?"

"Sure I can," she replied, making a courtesy. "There ain't nobody going."

THERE IS ONE.

There was a little bachelor who lived all by himself.

And all the bread and cheese he got he put it upon the shelf.

Yet, he couldn't keep a valet, nor a laundress nor a cook.

So he signed: "For something very cheap in servants I must look!"

In glancing round he saw a wife, and married her, my son.

And now he's got a valet, cook and laundress, all in one.

New Capital Invested in the Valley

English Syndicate Buys Valuable Orchards at Wolfville and That Vicinity.

English capital is to be invested in the Annapolis valley and conditions there should be revolutionized, says the Halifax Herald.

George H. Rittner, of London, who is representing a London syndicate, arrived in Halifax Saturday and completed a deal, negotiations for which have been under way for several months. On behalf of the company he has purchased a large number of orchards at Wolfville and Starr's Point.

The department of industries and immigration through their representative in London, M. McLean Goldie, in conjunction with A. S. Barnstead, of Halifax, has been hard at work interesting capital in the fruit industry of the Annapolis valley and the success they are achieving will be good news.

CAME TO NOVA SCOTIA TO COMPLETE DEAL.

Mr. Rittner, who represents a large financial following in London, came to Nova Scotia for the purpose of inquiring into the fruit and farming industry in the Annapolis valley, and he has succeeded on behalf of the company he represents, in purchasing a large section of fruit bearing orchards, chiefly certain properties in Wolfville and Starr's Point, and involving the expenditure of a large sum of money.

LOOKED WELL INTO SECTION WHERE THEY WERE INTERESTED.

With Mr. Rittner is Captain Zeigler, late of the Royal Artillery. They went over all the orchards secured, and others in view. They report the orchards very good, though they realize that owing to the unfavorable season, the apple crop this year will be very much under the average.

The proposal of the English capitalists is not only to engage in fruit raising, but canning and the development of dairy farming and stock raising.

Mr. Rittner was the conservative candidate in Hanley, Staffordshire, the center of the potteries district, where he was defeated by the labor candidate, but at a loss of about 1,000 of his majority. He will be in Canada all summer.

Here is What It Costs To Dress Young Women For Summer in Boston

(By Dorothy Ames, in Boston American.)

Man-fashion, one man asked: "Just what ought it to cost a young woman to fit herself out for spring and summer?"

And after long weary nights and nights and nights of thought on the subject, the answer is: "Whatever amount of money she has to spend."

If a girl has $50 to spend on clothes she'll get along on that. If she has $150 she'll spend every cent just the same. One girl putting down just the things she thought were absolutely essential found that the list footed up to $215.30, and then she gasped.

Preposterous for a working girl, you say.

Yes, from a man's standpoint; but just listen and see if you don't think that every girl who wants to look nice and sweet and clean oughtn't to have $200.00 to spend this spring.

NEEDS AT LEAST THREE HATS.

In the first place anybody who knows that a girl ought to have three hats a season—one for best and one for every day and an extra one. Believe me, even at that, she often feels pretty lacking in headgear before the summer is over. If she has a hat that combines durability and style she must pay about $8.50 for two of them, and perhaps $15 for the third. Here are a few figures:

Two hats, $8.50 each $17.00

Dress slippers 3.00

Two pairs shoes, $3.50 pair 7.00

Eighteen pairs hose, @25c. 6.50

One hat 9.00

Six pairs hose, $1.50 pair 9.00

Tailored suit 25.00

Ten shirtwaists, average $3 30.00

Silk or cloth dress	15.00
Best lingerie dress	10.00
Second lingerie dress	5.00
Linen suit	15.00
Twelve sets underwear, average of $2.50	30.00
Four lingerie skirts at $2.50	10.00
Two lingerie skirts at $5	10.00
Two pairs corsets	2.00
Six pairs gloves	6.00

Considering the fact that the total for one season makes a total of $215.30 for a year, and as that is entirely out of proportion to the incomes of the great majority of girls, it next behooves us to find out just what a girl can get along on.

REAL ECONOMY IN THIS

One girl said she has everything made, either by a low-priced tailor, or dressmaker or by herself. Her list went something like this:

Sailor hat	$ 2.00
Best hat	5.00
Two pairs shoes at $3.50	7.00
Three pairs hose at 35c.	1.05
Tailored suit	18.50
Five shirtwaists (home made)	6.00
Two wash dresses	10.00
Two sets of underwear	2.00
Two lingerie skirts	3.00
Dark skirt	2.00
Corsets	1.00
Gloves	3.00
Her total	$63.55

Another girl advocates the buying of ready-made clothes, and her total, including an extra raincoat comes to $84.50.

Still another girl, who makes all lingerie and wash dresses herself, which decreases the cost at least fifty per cent., has a total of $108.76.

The majority of girls haven't the least idea of what it costs to dress. They cannot name the total without going over the entire ground. When they have done so they usually gasp at the price.

The item in the list only include the larger needs, and every girl knows that it is the numberless little accessories which she must buy from time to time which add greatly to the cost of her wardrobe.

The thing, perhaps that our girls today desire above all others, is that perpetually immaculate look which some girls manage to have continually, and which other girls, try as hard as they may, only have occasionally.

Dirt has an unchristianlike propensity for attaching itself to a spotless shirtwaist, and for the ordinary working girl, a fresh waist each day is out of the question, because of the excessive cost of laundry.

Therefore, one must not only have good clothes, plenty of them, but one must allow for the additional expense of laundry. Truly the cost of cleanliness is a potent factor. We used to say, "Well, at least a person can be clean," but nowadays we know that cleanliness is not only next to godliness, but next to impossibility.

The girl who lives at home usually has pretty clothes because both she and her mother can put plenty of time into the planning and making of them. They not only save money by so doing, but often gain daintily, original effects in clothes that the girl who is rushed to death with business can never hope for.

PRaise For Working Girl.

Still, the business girl of today is a credit to herself. She is conforming more and more to a strictly tailor-made standard of waists and hats and suits, after the manner of men. Her clothes, being plain, always look smart, and she does not tire of them as rapidly as if they were more elaborate. Although, as a rule, she loves to deck herself out in feminine finery for evening and dress wear, she cannot be comfortable in anything but plain clothes for work. The simpler the clothes, the less they bother her by getting out of gear, the more effectively she does her work. The business girl is usually put together in the morning to stay. Her belt and skirt band have an inseparable affinity. She is as fastidious about her collars and ties and stiff cuffs as any man in her office.

Then too, the girl who works, whether she is in a very lucrative position or not, knows the value of money, and she is inclined to count her dollars more carefully than the girl who orders her clothes and sends the bill to her parents. The working girl usually wants to put her dollars to work earning more dollars.

Just how the poorly paid working girl makes the neat appearance she does is one grand mystery, unless you look behind the scenes. If you do, you often find that the trim clothes are bought at the sacrifice of meals, and that they are kept well pressed and fresh by the sacrifice of much time and more work.

WON'T SOMEBODY LEAD REFORM?

To be sure, much depends on the girl. So many girls are hopeless frumps from the time they appear out in their first baby clothes. Others look smart ever since their young mothers tied pink bows on their little sleeves. Carelessness is the stumbling block of the first kind. If they would pay attention to every detail for just one week they would hardly know themselves when they gazed into a mirror. Perhaps they wouldn't even then be chic, but they would be at least well-groomed.

Men never have and never will appreciate the feminine dress problem for the simple reason that they have such an easy time of it themselves. They buy a dress suit that usually lasts them a life time. They have none of the dozen and one little necessary details which eat up all the small change a girl can acquire.

But in all mercy somebody ought to call a halt on the progress of women's fashions. If some of our otherwise worthy but, at the present, only divert their energies toward this somewhat misguided sisters would bowling need and let the ball go hang, in a few years we might all have time to pursue that elusive prerogative of man, and with such an ensemble attack, we couldn't fail to come back the victor.

YIELDS BIG RETURNS

We are only beginning to discover the productive possibilities of the earth. A yard can produce as much as half an acre once yielded, and no one has yet found the limits of Jersey and Guernsey prove that one of our big States like New York and Texas could raise all the food-stuffs needed for all the people of the country.

Many experiments had to be made by many different people on small patches of land before this was accepted. But once having established the truth of this, having once shown that the earth is ready and willing to yield big returns to those who work it, we have only begun to teach.

The next question is, "Why should there be so much poverty and suffering; why should children cry for bread in this great country?" There is but one answer—"because people do not have access to the land." If they had, and knew what could be done with even a small piece of it, they would never again have to listen to children crying for bread.

The new movement to bring the people and the land closer together is doing a great deal toward decreasing poverty and increasing the food supply. Its plan is to get the people onto the land near the cities where they work and live, that they may go on with their work while learning to grow their food until they know enough to get all of their living from the land.—Bolton Hall.

CHEMIST WARNS HOUSEWIFE OF MEAT WITH DARK RING.

"Twenty-five per cent of our food stuffs are wasted after they reach the house wife," said Dr. P. F. Trowbridge, professor of Chemistry, in a lecture on "The High Cost of Living and Selection of Meat," before the Home Economics Club of the University of Missouri.

"Women buy too much over the telephone," especially in large cities," he said. "They should go out to the butcher and grocer and become acquainted at first hand with prices and conditions of the markets.

Slides were shown, illustrating the different cuts and quality of meat. He advised women not to buy meat with a dark ring in the marrow of the bone, as this was a sign of the emaciated condition of the animal before it was slaughtered."

"A Kingly Gift"
EARL GREY'S APPEAL
On behalf of Needy Consumptives
Strong words of Canada's Governor-General

At the official opening of the King Edward Sanatorium for Consumptives, near Toronto, His Excellency delivered an address that must have an important bearing on the future of the sanatorium movement in Canada. We quote:—

"The proceedings this afternoon commenced with a beautiful and fervent prayer from your old friend, Dr. Potts. He prayed that the light of the Lord might shine upon us. That prayer is abundantly answered. We also prayed that the White Plague might be removed. Well, whether that prayer will be answered or not depends upon yourselves."

"Is it not a standing shame and reproach to the governments and individuals that there is not more care taken by the people of Canada to protect themselves against the curse of consumption?"

On his way out to the King Edward Sanatorium,—so named by permission of His Majesty King Edward VII—the Governor-General's car was stopped in its progress outside the Canada Cycle & Motor Co. by a large crowd of its employees. A contribution of one hundred dollars was handed the Governor-General, a donation to the Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives.

"'Twas a kingly gift," said His Excellency in making acknowledgment. "I will tell the King."

Addressing the large audience that attended these opening exercises, referring to this event, Earl Grey said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, when the workmen of Canada are setting an example of this character, I hope you will not be slow to follow, and I trust that the example of the Canada Cycle & Motor Co. may be followed, as I am sure it will, in every factory and manufacturing industry throughout the land."

We carry these words to the people of Canada in our appeal to-day on behalf of the

Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives

An institution that has never refused a single applicant admission, because of his or her inability to pay.

Seventy-five patients can be cared for to-day. Accommodation could be provided for three hundred if the required money were forthcoming.

To make this possible, our appeal is for $50,000, to be used in extension of buildings and maintenance of patients.

Where will your money do more good? Every community and every individual is interested.

His Excellency Earl Grey has shown his interest and sympathy in the work at Muskoka for needy consumptives, by accepting the position of Honorary President of the National Sanitarium Association.

Contributions may be sent to Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Chief Justice, Osgoode Hall, Toronto; W. J. Gage, Esq., 84 Spadina Ave., or J. S. Robertson, Sec'y-Treas., National Sanitarium Association, 247 King Street West, Toronto, Canada.
