TRADE SCHOOLS

The Times prints on another page a very interesting statement by a former superintendent of Chicago schools on the subject of industrial and technical schools in the city of Boston, and that he is now a citizen of Boston, and that he is now a leader in this matter of trade schools. His high school of commerce has now a building of its own, and a trade school for girls, which has been conducted as a private institution, will be taken under the direction of the public school system, to give girls instruction in sewing, dressmaking, millinery and all the domestic arts.

The views of two leading educators are quoted by the Boston contemporary, and state the general case with much clearness and force. Lester Ward, of Brown University, contends that the difference of intelligence of classes, so-called, is immense, but that it is not due to differences in intellect or natural power, but is due to difference in education; that it is the result of the fact that the achievement of the race has never been transmitted to more than a small fraction of the race, and if this defect is to be remedied it will mean an organization of the schools that shall place as are most convenient, a schooling that will enable them to grapple most successfully with the problems of life.

Professor Veblen of Leland Stanford University, in his Theory of the Leisure Class, says: 'Our school systems should become really democratic in their aims and in their administration. If they become really democratic in their aims they will not, as at present, aim at giving the children of the poor an opportunity to acquire an education that will fit some few brilliant, gifted children to become members of the class above, while neglecting the cultivation of the homely gifts of other classes of society as unworthy.'

ANCIENT BABYLON (London Times). The most ancient walls of the city of Babylon, now being slowly removed by the work of the excavations, are systematically excavating the vast site, were constructed of sun-baked bricks, scarcely distinguished from the common packed earth, and some idea can be obtained of the extreme difficulty of the work. The oldest masonry uncovered themselves rest on rubbish heaps and ruins, but deep digging is impossible owing to the fact that water level has been reached. The Euphrates channel has silted up several meters during the past 5,000 years, and is now almost untenable.

REVIVAL OF TALK OF CHALLENGE BY LIPTON

The Sporting News of All Departments Culled for Readers of the Times - How the Big Leagues End the Week.

The announcement is made at New York that a challenge for an international yacht race for the America's Cup in August, 1910, would be made by Sir Thomas Lipton. It will come through either the Royal Ulster Yacht Club or the Royal Irish Yacht Club, so both of which Sir Thomas belongs.

According to Coach Wray, of Harvard, who has arrived in Boston, Harvard loses just half of the men who pulled against Yale in the 'varsity' race last July, through graduation, and in addition Coxswain Blagden, who has held the rudder ropes in three Harvard-Yale races, was also graduated. This makes a mighty big hole in the 'varsity' crew of this season, and will necessitate the use of no less than four men, three of whom, at least, will probably come from the freshman boat.

HARRY VAILS CREWS WON SEVERAL REGATTA EVENTS

New York, Sept. 10.—Honors were well divided among the many clubs represented in the twentieth annual regatta of the Middle States Association, held over a nine mile straight-away course on the Harlem River. Conditions of competition safe-guard the purchaser better today than ever before. In nearly all the better goods sold by reliable concerns, the quality is assured by the makers' label—for instance—attractive shapes and graceful lines alone will not sell foot wear, the buyer has learned that "beauty may be only on the surface" and that quality and value cannot be judged by the eye alone.

MAY COME TO CANADA FOR BUTTER. Toronto, Sept. 10.—The extreme scarcity and the consequent high price to which this commodity has attained, afforded an interesting subject of comment for local produce dealers on 'Change. It is true that, as yet, the new conditions in the United States will have no direct bearing on Canadian trade, but should there be a further trend of conditions in the present direction, it is probable that local dealers will analyze the situation, and find what advantages might accrue to them from it.

"The newspaper is the ideal advertising medium. It solves the question of covering the country in the right way. It goes into the homes of the people, practically all of them. It is read by the whole family. It brings quick action at a reasonable cost. It is always on the job, and its influence with its public is strong." -Leroy Fairman in Printers' Ink. Advertisers covering this part of the country will find the problem of advertising medium solved by using the Daily Telegraph and Evening Times. These papers constitute the strongest, result producing, advertising team in the maritime provinces--because they go into more homes than any other papers in this field. SAMUEL GOMPERS, THE MAN AND HIS WORK

By Waldon Fawcett

(Standing) Samuel Gompers and his daughter (Seated) Samuel Gompers Sr. His wife and daughter

Gompers, Mitchell, and other Leaders of the National Civic Federation

Gompers at Work

President Gompers and his Cabinet

Each recurring Labor Day, very naturally, serves to focus public attention on the commander-in-chief of organized labor in America. Not that Samuel Gompers is conspicuous in the affairs of the nation save on the annual holiday set aside in recognition of the power and influence of the toilers of the Republic. On the contrary, there is probably no man except the president of the United States whose activities are more extensive, more continuous, or of wider scope in behalf of humanitarian movements of every description. Indeed, the best evidence of the growing realization of the importance of having the co-operation of organized labor in all great public projects is found in the number of appeals which have been made to Samuel Gompers, in late years, to serve as one of the directors of national or international undertakings for the common good.

what is best for the myriad wage-earners whose monitor he is. Latterly the recognition of the services and influence of Samuel Gompers, which was at first confined to this country, has extended beyond the Atlantic, and he bids fair to become, ere long, the most famous labor leader in the world, not even excepting the well-known leaders of the labor party in Great Britain. The prestige of Gompers abroad has been materially enhanced this summer in consequence of a lengthy visit he has paid to all the industrial sections of Europe. He has made numerous public addresses, has participated in important conferences and has otherwise voted the ideas and ideals of American organized labor. Even as this meets the eyes of readers, it is expected that Mr. Gompers will be returning from the continent to Great Britain to participate in the great convention of the Trades Unions at Liverpool, England. President Gompers has made a careful and exhaustive study of industrial conditions abroad as they affect the workers, and it is expected that his observations will be reflected in the future policy of the great organization of which he has so long been the head.

For all that Mr. Gompers, by reason of his official activities, has of late years been occupying an increasingly conspicuous place in the public eye, singularly little has been disclosed regarding the home, family and private life of this remarkable organizer and labor field marshal. Yet Mr. Gompers is by instinct an essentially home man, and he is a "home man" in practice to so great an extent as his public duties will permit. No man was ever more engrossed with his life work than is Samuel Gompers, and the one note of regret in the enthusiasm he voices is due to the fact that, take it the year through, he spends almost one-third of his time on railroad trains and is absent from home considerably more than half of the time. There is no doubt that, on the basis of miles traveled, Samuel Gompers is one of the most-traveled of American public men. In this respect he is a worthy rival of President Taft and William Jennings Bryan. The house which Samuel Gompers calls "home" is a modest, but comfortable, three-story brick structure within sight of the national Capitol Building of Washington, D. C. Marriage and the forming of new ties in new environments has resulted in a scattering of the Gompers clan, naturally a most united family. Of late years the household of the foremost figure of laborhood has consisted of Mrs. Gompers, and unmarried daughter, the eldest son and the latter's daughter. The son, Mr. Samuel J. Gompers, does not live at home, but his dwelling is not far distant from that of his father, and during the latter's frequent absences, the younger man acts as the man of the family. The granddaughter, Miss Abigail Gompers, who is President Gompers' special favorite, likewise spends much of her time at the homestead, and dreads to become proficient in stenography and typewriting in order that she may be of practical assistance to her grandfather in the very considerable amount of work that he performs at home. Mrs. Gompers, wife of the labor chief, is a woman of pleasing personality, who has not been deterred by her fondness for her home, or the responsibilities of rearing a large family, from taking a very active and intelligent interest in her husband's "missionary work" in behalf of organized labor. She and Mr. Gompers were married when they were both very young, and when the young man was working at his trade as a cigarmaker, but she had opportunity from the outset to take a sympathetic interest in her husband's devotion to the cause of labor. In tribute to the comradeship with his wife which he has enjoyed all these years, Mr. Gompers said the other day: "I cannot remember the time when I was not married." He might have remarked with equal truth that he could not recall the time when he was not active in behalf of his fellow-workmen—for since his eighteenth year he has been an advocate of the rights of labor and has been connected with the efforts to organize the working people. Impelled by no social ambition beyond their own circle of chosen friends the women of the Gompers household have been singularly resolute in remaining in the background, and avoiding publicity during the years that the husband and father has been occupying a niche in the contemporary hall of fame. With one member of the family, however, Miss Sadie Julie Gompers, youngest daughter, of the labor leader, the public has recently had an opportunity to become acquainted, for Miss Gompers, following the example of the daughters of Senator La Follette, Tom L. Johnson and other public men, has lately adopted a stage career. Miss Gompers, who is a strikingly beautiful brunette, displayed marked musical ability in early childhood, and was educated under the best masters for the concert stage, but her ultimate ambition is in the field of light opera. As Samuel Gompers is unique in his working methods and in his policy of welding workers of all classes in a close knit organization, so likewise is his distinctive, as well as distinguished, in appearance. Most persons who for the first time attend an assemblage where he is to speak are somewhat taken by surprise by his short stature, but this is quickly forgotten when the labor chief begins his address, for he has a penetrating but well-modulated voice, and his delivery, from long experience, in speaking in the open air, is excellent. Samuel Gompers, who is now in his fifty-ninth year, is an Englishman by birth, but he has few of the characteristics usually associated with that nationality. Probably the dominant distinguishing feature of his personal appearance is the massive head, sparsely covered with iron-gray hair, which is usually hidden by a black silk skullcap. Mr. Gompers is smooth-shaven and wears glasses, and in the course of his travels has been repeatedly mistaken for a college professor.

Any person who has the slightest appreciation of how absorbed President Gompers is in his work can readily believe his disclaimer that he has any other fads or hobbies. His work, which embraces everything from editorial work to public speaking, has the merit of variety, and it is doubtless this circumstance which enables Mr. Gompers to maintain himself physically fit, though taking almost no exercise in the ordinary acceptance of the term. He says frankly that he has never felt that he could afford the luxury of a saddle horse and he is manifestly not of a temperament for golf. Walking is a form of exercise that the labor leader thoroughly enjoys, if he can

GIRL TELLS OF GETTINGS RINGS FROM PASS

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 10.—The preliminary examination of George V. Pass, of Madam, charged with stealing jewelry from Miss Strayhorn in the C. P. R. train, was commenced before Col. Marsh at the police court this afternoon. Harry Brennan, C. P. R. claims agent, appeared for the prosecution and accused was defended by A. J. Gregory, K. C. The only witness examined was Rose Sinclair, a young woman who had been employed as a waitress in a St. John hotel. She swore that she made the acquaintance of the accused in St. John last December and was under the impression that he was a single man. They became quite friendly and early in the spring, some time before the alleged robbery occurred, he presented her with a gold ring. This ring she said she had left at her home in New Glasgow, where she visited in July last. On a subsequent occasion he gave her two other rings, one being set with pearls and the other having a green stone setting. These rings were produced in court and identified by witness. Mr. Brennan asked witness if she and Pass were engaged, but the question was objected to and disallowed. Under cross-examination witness, blushing, admitted that she had taken the rings from the pockets of Pass and reused to return them when he requested her to do so. Pass told her that he had found the rings in the cars, one of them having been dropped by an actress. He cautioned her not to wear them for a while, but afterwards said it made no difference and she could wear them if she wished. As there were no more witnesses available the prisoner was remanded until Monday morning, when two more witnesses, including Miss Strayhorn, will be examined. After court had adjourned witness was allowed a few minutes conversation with the prisoner. What was said could not be heard by those in court, but the couple did not appear to be on unfriendly terms. Sir Robert Harvey, who reached here today, en route to the Miramichi woods, by R. S. Barker, the lieutenant governor's private secretary. Benjamin Waugh, a well known resident of Douglas, died at his home this afternoon, aged 72. He leaves a widow and three sons, one of whom is Harry F. Waugh, now in the Klondike, and one daughter living in Boston. A five mile running race at the Arctic Rink this evening between Thomas Coward and Patrick White was won by the latter by half a lap. DIDN'T COUNT. Suits of Quality

A genuinely good suit is "becoming" to the man who wears it—in style and fit as well as the coloring and design of the fabric.

"Fit," in men's clothing does not properly mean the same as the fit of a glove, for a rightly made suit drapes the form rather than clings to it.

All of which we can explain more clearly by showing you the new Twentieth Century suits—models of elegance and good taste.

"Becoming" suits for men of all ages and differences of outline.

SUPERIOR PAINLESS DENTISTRY!

"There is a world wide cry against the dentists that they torture their patients. Those of strong physique submit and endure the agony. With a second class this is simply impossible, and thousands of teeth are neglected and lost even though the patients may be able to pay for our most skilful services. Then there is a third class who, after months of mental torture in anticipation, finally come into our hands, and, with nerves strung to a hurling point, pass through the ordeal, but at what a cost! We do not sufficiently consider the consequences of shock in the dental chair, the nervous system received whilst in our hands.

The greatest duty of our profession today is to discover and adopt a mode of painlessly performing our operations."

NOTE—The above is an abstract from a paper read by an eminent dentist of New York City before a society of dentists in Philadelphia.

The famous Hale Method of painless dentistry, for which we are sole agents for Canada is the best Method on earth in the world today.

LATE LOCALS

Rev. James Crisp will be the speaker at the Every Day Club tomorrow evening at 8.30 o'clock.

At a meeting in the Every Day Club hall last evening it was decided to hold a bazaar at a date to be named. Another meeting will be held on Monday evening.

The fire insurance interests of nearly every province were represented at a meeting in Winnipeg yesterday. Geo. O. Dickson City, and F. J. G. Knowlton of St. John, were among those present.

In the absence of His Lordship Bishop Casey at the plenary council in Quebec, Rev. A. W. Meshan will have charge of the diocese, with all facilities in the bishop's name.

A special despatch to the Times from Hamilton this morning, says that Joseph Morris, of St. John, was shot in a row there about a week ago, and was taken to the hospital and is now well on the way to recovery.

The Montreal Star says: "At the Stanley Hall, tomorrow night, three one-act plays by W. A. Tremayne, will be given. Miss B. Genevieve Bagnall, a young Canadian actress, will appear for the first time in Montreal in the leading roles and will be supported by a competent company."

Mr. Halfpenny, the clever P. E. Island athlete, who has been making good in the broad jump and pole vault, is in the city today. He missed the train for Montreal, where he was to have competed today in the fall handicaps. He said A. W. Covey, of the Every Day Club, indulged in reminiscences this morning, they having met first at an athletic tournament in Charlotte town in 1891. Mr. Halfpenny, who has spent a week on the island, will go back to Montreal this evening.

THREE SENIOR FOOTBALL TEAMS?

St. Peter's and St. Joseph's Likely to Amalgamate—Provincial League Talk

It is possible that there will be some surprises in local senior football. It is understood that St. Peter's have decided to amalgamate with St. Joseph's for football purposes, as the latter are anxious to take up the game this year.

It is understood that, as it is the first effort of the purple and white along these lines they should be given an opportunity hence the amalgamation. The plan is one that should result in a strong line-up. Opinion has been expressed that the Marathons are most likely to re-organize for the season and with a three-team league of Algonquins, St. Joseph's and Marathons the game should be given a boom in St. John. How this would work out with the provincial league that is being formed again this year, is not quite clear, but there seems, on the face of it, no good reason why it should interfere with this city entering a team in the provincial organization. The next few days will no doubt clear up the situation considerably.

SCHUMANN-HEINK MOTHER OF EIGHT

Great Diva Brings Family to America—Circuit Subscription List Open Today

Wherever the fame of Madame Schumann-Heink has reached, her remarkable family has been discussed. Here is a Diva who does not leave her eight children in their handsome Berlin home during her American season. She is too fond a mother for that. She brings them all over to this country and opens her magnificent mansion at Montclair (N. J.), where for six months of every year they are reared as young Americans.

In a recent interview the famous singer made the surprising and interesting statement, in effect, that her range of voice had kept pace with the increase of her family.

To particularize the prima donna turned gaily to the piano. "This is the voice of the poor Austrian officer's daughter," and she tilted off two octaves. "Now here is my first baby and a new note as bonus." She tapped another ivory. "This is my second, this, my third," and so on, down the eight children to the much prized baby, George Washington Schumann-Heink. "With every visit of the stork my voice has gained a note; eight new notes for eight children." A smile came to the great singer's lips and a laugh, rich, melodious, sweet, and soul stirring.

Will St. John hear this great singer? Subscription list opens in Landry's music store this morning.

SALVATION ARMY PLANS AND CHANGES

Big Annual Convention in October Being Now Arranged

MRS. COOMBS HERE

Wife of Commissioner in City Yesterday—Little Chance of Visit From General—Adj. Cornish Transferred to West—Woodstock Man Comes Here

Plans for the annual convention of the Salvation Army, which is to be held in this city during the latter part of October, are now under way, but will not be definitely completed for a week or two, as there have to be some further arrangements made which can not be decided upon until the dates for upper Canadian conventions have been permanently settled.

Commissioner Coombs will be on hand to superintend the meetings and conduct the services, which will be of a special nature. The expectation is that this year's convention will be attended by more than 200 delegates from different points of the maritime provinces.

At the convention plans for the advancement of the Salvation Army in the eastern provinces will be discussed and the reports of the different sections will be submitted. The full programme of meetings, services, etc., will be officially given out in the course of a few days. It is not thought likely that General Booth will visit Canada, much less St. John, in his tour this year. The members of the army in Canada are deeply in sympathy with him in the recent affliction which he suffered to his eyesight. It was thought likely that the venerable commander would be present at the general convention in Toronto this fall, but although no announcement has been made in the matter, the prevailing opinion is that he will not be on this side of the Atlantic this year.

Brigadier Potter, of the head office, in Toronto, was in the city yesterday auditing the books of the department in this city. This is in accordance with the commercial system on which the army is conducted here, and will continue until the departure of Adj. Cornish, who will be replaced by an outside officer. Brigadier Potter is the financial secretary for the dominion, and is on his annual tour of inspection, auditing the accounts in Ottawa, Montreal, St. John and Halifax.

He said yesterday that the general convention in Toronto, which is to be held in the near future, was expected to be a great success. The arrangements for the big affair were now being made. The Massey hall had been engaged for the accommodation of the delegates, who would be in attendance from all over Canada, and who were expected in large numbers. In the event of the general not coming to Canada this year for the convention, one of his staff officers would probably represent the headquarters in England. Guidance and no other representatives have thus far been named from this province.

MONGTON TEAM ON WAY HERE

Games With Marathons Likely To Be Played Though Weather Was Bad This Morning

The weather looked threatening this morning but Manager Donald of the Marathons said he believed the games with Moncton scheduled for this afternoon would take place. The visitors he said, were on their way here.

The championship battle should be the best seen here in some time.

There will be two games. The first game will start at 2.30 sharp, the second following immediately.

The management of the locals have announced the re-appointment of Copeland their star short stop who has been cleared of all blame in connection with the recent trouble. Small will play in the outfield. The Marathons will line up as follows: Catcher, J. Rootes; pitchers, Bovaard and Nobhill; first base, Bradbury; second base, Clawson; third base, Titus; short stop, Copeland; left field, D. Malcolm; centre field, Small; right field, J. Malcolm.

A swoofball ten feet long and weighing 300 pounds attracts the attention of all who pass the window of Smith's fish store in Sydney street. The monster has been stuffed with ice, and his sword is a most formidable looking weapon. He was taken off Casco. There is now quite a demand for swoofball in this market.

Fourteen deaths were reported at the Board of Health office for the week ending today. The causes were: Marasmus 2, inanition 2, tuberculosis 2, apoplexy 2, senility, malnutrition, heart disease, acute diarrhoea, cholera infantum, infantile convulsions, one each.
