Some Small Kingdoms.

Monaco is probably the smallest kingdom in Europe. It has an area of only eight square miles and a permanent population of 18,000 people. It boasts a "sovereign prince" named Albert, but is more noted for the famous gambling den at Monte Carlo than for anything else. Leichstein, between the Tyrol and Switzerland, is another tiny European kingdom. Its area is sixty-one miles and swess at remedous debt of £5,280, But could pay its debt off any time, as its revenue amounts to £1,000 a year. San Marino is a tiny ropublic of thirty-three square miles—about a quarter the size of London—up in the hills near Rimini, on the east coast of Italy. The population is 8,000 and most of the men are dukes or generals in the army.

Mr. Laurier has a new trade doctrine for every town he visits. He forgets that the people of Canada read the newspapers. On the night of June 23 he will find that they have not been deceived by him, the political whirligig.

WHOLE No. 1491 trouble. The slightest cold settled in his head, and trouble at once commenced. He very freely says to the people of Can-From an independent standpoint the ada that in no way has he secured greater relief than in the use of that astonishingly quick acting remedy—Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, which cures without delay, and is free altogether of the says:—'The general election of 1896 will be fought upon two issues; first, the tariff question: and, second, the Manitoba school question. There are plenty of other subjects that the people of Canada might properly be asked to pronounce upon, but with the National Policy in real or fancied danger, and with a vexatious sectarian question arousing almost universal popular prejudice, there is no hope of obtaining the verdict of the electorate upon any other issues. We are disposed to agree with Mr. Laurier in the statement made in his speech at Westmount that 'what the manufacture ers want is permanency of tariff.' There ers want is permanency of tariff.' There is nothing more injurious to the trade of and a fleet of about sixty vessels floated the country than chronic uncertainty as to tariff changes. But how does Mr. Laurier propose to give us permanency of tariff? By a gradual process of modification until he has completely changed the essential character of the whole tariff; until he has wined out the whole tariff; until he has wined out the language of the Gloucesdownspiritedness of the Liferals. They know that more than ever before the country is with the Government. They have no confidence in their leader. John Charlton, a leading Grit M.P., is on record as saying: "With a French-Cannadian leader, and under the manipulation of such unscrupulous machine politicians as J. D. Edgar et al., I have not the utmost confidence in the immediate future of the Reform party."

The country, as in years gone by, holds just the same views. It is known that Mr. Laurier has no fixed opinion on anything, except that he wants to get into office. He began life as an out-and-out Protectionist. But he soon fell into error, and became a Free Trader. Then Mr. Blake was forced out of parliament by the Anti-Canadian policy of Sir Richard, and Mr. Laurier became a shouter for unrestricted reciprocity—in other words, for handing Canada over to the Americans. He believed in protection against for a large of the country, the tariff and the coles of the country. The process the sessential character of the whole tariff; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has whole atriff; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has dependent the whole tariff; until he has wiped out the last vestige of protection; until he has whole out the last vestige of protection; until he has whole out the last vestige of protection; until he has whole out the last vestige of protection; until he has a bast vestige of protection; until he has described out the last vestige of protection; until he has a bast vestige of protection; until he has devendent the last vestige of protection; until he has de anything to do with it, will remain true to the cause of unrestricted reciprocity until that cause is successful. I will not expect to win in a day, but I am prepared to remain in the cool shades of Opposition until the cause has triumphed."

Now, assuming Mr. Laurier to be a truthful man, we must believe that he and his faithful lieutenants—and even the unfaithful ones, like Charlton and Cartwright—still "remain true to the cause of unrestricted reciprocity until that cause is successful."

But, only a year ago, in Winnipeg, Mr. Laurier forgot his pledge, and came out as a Free Trader. He preached his new gospel in these words: "We shall not give in one inch or retrace one step until we have reached the goal, and that goal is the same policy of Free Trade as exists in England to-day."

Well, that was his belief for a time-or he pretended it was. Soon he had a change of heart. The Liberal leader went to the Eastern Townships, and there he said: "We will tax for revenue, but not state of the Hamilton Liberal Association, agreed the trade question, agreewing tired of what he calls the 'vac-liating, shilly-shallying policy' of the Library of the Hamilton Liberal Association, agreewing tired for what he calls the 'vac-liating, shilly-shallying policy' of the Library of the Hamilton Liberal Association, agreewing tired of what he calls the 'vac-liating, shilly-shallying policy of the Library of the

to the Eastern Townships, and there he said: "We will tax for revenue, but not a cent for protection. When we are in power we will relieve the people of protection, which is a fraud, a delusion and a robbery." Where was unrestricted reciprocity: where was unrestricted reciprocity: where was free Trude? Gone, lost, forgotten! The revenue tariff string was being twanged.

But Mr. Laurier went to Montreal. There he had to talk to the working classes. His statement there was very clear. Protection was not to be abandoned. Robbery was not to be abolished. On the contrary, duties were to be removed from raw materials, and the fraud and delusion as regards the finished products were to be continued. It is tands to reason that it is impossible "to relieve the people of protection," as promised in the Eastern Township speech, and at the same time to continue protection as the liberal candidate. Mr. Turgeon was chosen as the liberal candidate. Mr. Turgeon was chosen as the liberal candidate. Mr. Turgeon was chosen as the liberal candidate. Mr. Turgeon as the liberal candidate. Mr. Turgeon
