The announcement of the vote was received by prolonged cheering and cries of "Long live Finland" and "End Russian connection!" The Diet thereafter rejected, 104 against 87, a proposal by M. Talas, member of the Young Finnish party, that the law, as prescribed by the constitution, be submitted for Russia's approval or veto.

A final vote was taken on a resolution of M. Hornberg, member of the Swedish party, the import of which was that the Diet reserve the right to break the last bonds with Russia. The Hornberg resolution was defeated chiefly by the vote of the Socialists themselves, who stand for this policy but object to following the initiative of the non-Socialist

Helsingfors, Thursday, July 19 .-

A conflict with Russia is regarded as inevitable because of the action of the Finnish Diet in adopting a bill granting independence to Finland. The Socialist members of Parliament asserted, however, that Petrograd has its hands too full with its own troubles to attempt repression.

Before the adoption of the bill a decision was taken on the question whether the measure should be treatnext session. The decision in favor majority under article 60 of the constitution which the Socialist majority had agreed to respect. The decision involved the immediate voting on the bill, the result giving a twothirds majority necessary for the alteration of fundamental laws.

HAIG NIGHT RAIDS REPORTED SUCCESSES

London, July 21.—Local successes were gained by the British last night at several points, it is announced officially. The statement follows: "We raided the enemy's trenches last night at Greenland Hill, north of ltoeux. The hostile garrison hyrriedly withdrew on the approach of our southwest of La Bassee and south of Armentieres. German positions were entered on a wide front, a number of the enemy were killed and his dugouts were bombed. Hostile raiding parties were repulsed north of Havrincourt rood and south of Armentieres."

LOCAL TEMPERATURES.
Following were the highest and lowest temperatures recorded in London during the 24 hours previous to 8 o'clock last night: Highest, 86; lowest, 58.
The official temperatures for the 12 hours previous to 8 a.m. today were: Highest, 77; lowest, 63.

TOMORROW

MORE ACTIVITY ALONG L JULIAN FRONT IS

Rome. July 21.—Increased activity on the Julian front all the way from Ver-toibizza, in the Gorizia area, to the Adri-atic, is reported in todar's official atic, is reported in toda's official statement, which follows:

"On the Trentino and Carnia fronts there was activity on the part of the artillery and of reconnoitering detachments. In the Posina region one of our storming detachments put to flight enemy pickets, destroyed their trenches and brought back war material, including ammunition. Enemy parties which attempted to reach several of our advanced positions were repulsed.

"On the Julian front the artillery fighting was more intense from Vertoibizza to the sea. One of our gallant airmen attacked a squadron of five enemy machines above Oppochiasella and brought down two of them, one in dames, in our lines."

PRE-STOCKTAKING CLEARANCE OF ROOM RUGS

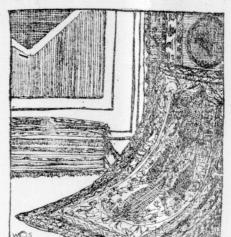

WILTONS, AXMINSTERS, VELVETS, BRUSSELS AND TAPESTRIES.

Again we have reached the six months' period of annual stocktaking and all stocks are being readjusted -many must be greatly reduced in size. To accomplish this quickly prices are being made to effect an immediate clearance. This month's sales mean a great deal to all who would practice economies so

SALE OF RUGS WILL BEGIN ON MONDAY

During the week past we have gone thoroughly through our entire stock of room rugs and find a great many one of a size and discontinued patterns, some too many of a size-altogether about one hundred rugs have been sorted from the piles, which for various reasons will be cleared, as stated above, at one-half, one-third and one-quarter off regular prices. These rugs, in most cases, have been in stock more than one season, which is significant, owing to the fact that no line of merchandise has been affected more than the carpet industry through present conditions in England, and these same rugs cannot be imported today at anything near the same prices, which means a double saving for buyers who take advantage of this sale.

As the work advances acting section and platoon commanders and platoon sergeants will be appointed, and they will be given instruction in map reading. When the required efficiency in this work has been attained, a platoon sergeant might be given a map and given instructions to report with his men to another officer or platoon commander at an appointed hour at some distant point, indicated on the map. It would then be the business of the platoon sergeant to lead his men there by the shortest and safest route, and by that route which offered the best cover for his men.

Broadway is not the only place in the world where people make an effort to turn night into day, for similar endeavors were made last night at Carling Height camp, when the soldiers there received their first lesson in night training.

Part of London has sent 356 union men and 8 reservists belonging to unions. This city stands fourth in Ontario, Toronto sending 4,883 enllsted men; Hamilton, 660, and Ottawa, 469. Halifax, Montreal, St. Johns, Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria, in addition to the Ontario cities, have beaten London's record, but on the basis of population this city shows up very well.

The ranks of union labor have been filled up to a considerable degree, 17,064 new members having joined in 1916. The total strength of the organizations at the end of 1916 was 160,407. There are now 1,842 local organizations. Of these 1,626 are offiliated with international unions, and have a membership of 129,-123. There are 889 organizations not affiliated with international unions, their members numbering 22,884, and 27 unions independent of other organizations, with amembership of 8,400. There was a loss of 35 international local branches during the year, although the membership increased 14,401. The total membership increased 14,401. The membership is quite satisfactory, according to these returns.

Editor of the organization of the unions in 1911 was 133,132, in 1912, 160,120: 1913, 175,799; according to these returns.

Protest From Council.

Apropos the foregoing, the Local Council of Women, a federation of the leading women's organizations of the city, enters a protest through The Advertiser against the consigning of country women to the basement to dispose of their butter, eggs, poultry, cream, buttermilk, etc., on two grounds. In the first place, the objection is raised that the damp, poorly ventilated basement is an insanitary place in which to keep, even for a short time, commodities which are so susceptible to germs and taint as butter. In the second place, protest is made against obliging country women to offer their produce in such unhealthful environment.

well-earned rest, while students are taking a holiday, and choirs and other musical organizations are resting on their laurels and their oars, time it afforded and also space in a musical page for a backward glance at the earlier musical history of London.

While the city has recently closed the greatest musical season in its experience, and while 1916-17 has been marked by a big advance movement for the greatest of all great arts, so far as London is concerned, even in the good old days about the time of Confederation and subsequently, it possessed claims to the title of "musical centre."

For one thing, according to old timers, in those good old days London town had bands that were bands. In the sixties a band concert that was a band concert might be furnished almost any day by the crack military bands, composed of old country musicians, of the regiments stationed at the garrison.

After the city was no longer a garrison town, and the troops of regulars

The Liquid Worth of the first method at the garrison.

After the city was no longer a garrison of the country music of proposed the troops of regulars removed, a number of bandsmen still remained, several of them old pension remained, several of them old pension remained, several that the Seventh Regiment Band, which acquired fame far and wide, was formed under the conductorship of Bandmaster William Hiscott, who went to totawa several years ago to fill an important musical position.

Londoners knew they had a good band, and many musical critics among these were inclined to believe that there were few better bands in the country.

band, and many musical crities among these were inclined to believe that there were few better bands in the country. The supreme test came in a band competition held at Ingersoil, at which the Seventh entered the lists with the Seventh entered the lists with the Palm had hitherto been given without question. Londoners who were present on that great occasion were roturnly a little biased in favor of their own town band. One of these told A Minor about it as follows the other day; "The Seventh Band was playing remarkably well, and after a time I said to the man who was sitting next to me, I rather think the Seventh is going to come first in the contest. I don't think it is because I am partial. It really seems to me they are doing better than the Thirteenth."

The judges, musicians of high standing, who had come from Toronto, Kingston and other places, took the same view, and awarded first place to the Seventh Regiment Band.

For a number of years the band maintained this position of preminence.

160 ACRES OF LAND AND LOAN OF $2,000 FOR WAR VETERANS

Open to All British, Dominion or Colonial Troops.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, July 20 .- The House commons has put through the committee stage the measure to provide 160 acres of land and aid up to $2,000 for members of the "expeditionary forces of the United Kingdom or any of the self-governing British dominions or forces of the United Kingdom or any of the self-governing British dominions or colonies."

Dr. Pugsley thought the Government should select the land for the soldiers. It would be better for the Government to make the purchases of the land than allow the soldiers to do so.

Hon. Dr. Roche said the Imperial conference had recognized that Canada's aid to the soldiers was more generous than the proposals of any of the other overseas dominions. The soldiers would be allowed the privilege of buying the land in any of the provinces, while, owing to the fact that most of the provinces own their own lands, it would be most difficult for the Government to make the purchases.

There was a good deal of land still available for settlement in the three western provinces. There were nine million acres within fifteen miles of railways and eleven million acres within twenty miles of railways in the three provinces. Much was suitable for agriculture. There was a half million acres of farming land in the Lesser Slave Lake district.

Dr. Pugsley held that five per cent was too high a rate of interest to charge the soldiers for the advances made.

Good Homesteads Scarce.

Hon. Frank Oliver doubted that many soldiers would take advantage of the opportunity. Good homestead land was becoming scarce, so there should be a limit of time placed upon the soldiers in making their selection, so that the general settlement of the country would not be interfered with. It would be well if idle land held by speculators could be expropriated and placed at the disposal of soldlers vor settlement.

To Hon. Mr. Marcil, Dr. Roche stated that Australia had agreed to advance

INQUIRY PROMISED

Borden Says Judicial Inquiry

-Crothers Not Aware of It?

[Special to The Advertiser.]
OTTAWA, July 20.—It is announced that there is to be further inquiry into cold storages. The form of the inquiry has not been determined, but when his estimates were under consideration, Hon. Mr. Crothers stated that there was to be a follow-up of Mr. O'Connor's famous report. He said that Mr. O'Connor himseif had suggested that there should be an examination of the affairs of the cold storage companies made by expert accountants.

of the cold storage companies made by expert accountants.

Speaking of the report that recently created a sensation, of which Sir J. Wesley Flavelle was the centre, Mr. Crothers said in the House of Commons today that Mr. O'Connor felt it would have been better if the report had not been made public until there had been further information secured.

Mr. Crothers stated today that in the inquiry made, the cold storage firms had been asked for statements of the amounts of bacon and other foods in storage, cost of bacon and other foods laid down in storage, including freight and handling charges. These questions were answered. were answered.
Firms Unable to Answer.

Statements were also asked for over-head and delivery costs, and these questions several firms, including the Flavelle Company, professed themselves flavelle Company, professed themselves mable to give answers. As Mr. O'Con-nor did not have this information his report did not profess to state net profits, but what are technically known profits, but what are technically known as margins.

A day or two after the O'Connor report had been published in the press, the Davies firm discovered the information they had stated they were unable to give. To questions Mr. Crothers said that he did not think that it would be necessary to have the further inquiry into the affairs of cold storage companies made by a judge. In his report Mr. O'Connor stated that the inquiry

"Then the minister thinks his action in publishing the report was premature?" asked Dr. Pugsley.

"I frankly admit it," said Mr. Crothers. "It would have been better if further inquiry had first been made." A. K. McLean wanted to know if there would be inquiry further than that of Mr. O'Connor's into coal and sugar. Mr. Crothers said that on these articles the report of Mr. O'Connor was satisfactory. The inquiries had not ceased; the department was requiring monthly reports from dealers and producers of these articles.

Crothers Not Enlightened.
Pugsley said that Mr. Crothers Crothers Not Enlightened.

Dr. Pugsley said that Mr. Crothers did not appear to know what was going on. As evidence of this he read a telegram in the press from the prime minister to the Davies Company stating that there would be further inquiry into the matter by "a competent judicial officer." By this Dr. Pugsley understood that meant inquiry by a judge.

Mr. Crothers said that a judicial officer was not necessarily a judge, a gudge.

Dr. Pugsley wanted to know what a judicial officer was, and the minister replied that at present he was not in a position to define the term.

It is now nearly three years since the German emperor exhorted his troops to dispose of "the contemptible little British army." Of that British army it is doubtful if more than ten per cent remain in the ranks and almost fifty per cent are dead. Its place has been taken by the new British army, whose numbers are reckoned in hundreds of thousands, not in hundreds, and the time has of loyalty and broad mind- their insolent self-confidence is always perhaps come when one may profitably review the history of the achievements of this new British army in the year in which it has actually been at work. On the first day of July, 1916, the new British army made its attack on who refuse to see that he is not only ceive. This is what our Greek friend the battlefield of the Somme. It was in the main a green army, facing a veteran force. It was commanded by officers who were only in rare instances soldiers by profession, and it was made up almost exclusively of men who had never interest every bit of progress made by the central powers. Every inch of the war and the expression of a democracy.

On the first of July, 1916, no man, whatever his faith, could say with knowledge what this British army would accomplish in the face of a veteran Germ organized by a military system of many years standing. The British army did not pierce the German lines. Over half the they were in fact, held up, repulsed with bloody losses, driven back to their trenches. From Gommecourt to Thiepval the German line held and was to hold for many weeks to come. Eastward of Thiepval, as far as the French line near the Somme, material progress was made. The first line was taken, thousands of prisoners and many guns were brought in, and the new British army made its first considerable step forward. I have been told by British officers that the casualty list of that day of the British was 50,000. At all events, the losses were terrific. There was lacking that skill, that co-ordination between artillery of 1830, which empowers Great Britain, and infantry, only to be expected in a seasoned army. Precisely the faults that France and Russia, if agreed, to send were to be anticipated were disclosed. The British army did better than any-

The last offensive of the Somme on the defensive and gradually but the obstruction from Petrograd. It was series, which took Beaumont Hamel, attracted attention all over the world as the first clear indication that the British high command and staff had learned modern war. Even then military opinion questioned whether the British staff could rival the achievement unfolded by the French in the two attacks on Verdun in October and December.

The answer to this question was made in April of the present year. that time the British army attacked again, but it was no longer a new army There were no longer the old weaknesses of staff work which lost Loos and made Neuve Chapelle a shambles. There was no longer the failure of July between Thienval and Gommecourt. On the contrary, from the Souchez Rive west of England and France, the seaplane and airplane superiority of the Twenty-one thousand prisoners, ere than two hundred guns, many of them heavy, were the immediate prize that the British navy will have a an innocent nation like Belgium need of this attack. The moral and military superiority actually attained at the onstrated at the Scarpe.

Here, after all, frankly recognizing the complete success of this particular German operation, is the measure of German offensive achievement in a year of terrific struggle.

Perhaps before this article reaches the reader's hand we shall have another British attack. Every sign points to it. Unless the conditions have entirely changed we shall see an attack more successful than those of the past, because each British attack has been more successful than its predecessor. That the British army can now break the German line with a sudden thrust seems to me unlikely rather than impossible. GERMAN MORALE FAILING.

If we keep our eyes fixed on trench lines and accept the German formula that every engagement is a German victory which does not result in a general retreat, we shall totally misunderstand what has taken place on the British front and some day will be bewfidered by what does take place. The British front and some day will be bewfidered by what does take place. The British army has demonstrated its superiority in all respects over the German confidence in the ranks than any Napoleonic failure before Leipzig. The invincibility of the German army has been demonstrated to the somme and used one hundled that was best like that eye, and it was as good-looking an eye as the other, and both eyes could see that Miss Ruth Gordon had a very pleasant personnel. It wasn't three months later, and after several calls at Ruth's house, that the junior partner made bold to say:

It wasn't three months later, and after the years of the germa dence in the ranks than any Napoleonic failure before Lelpzig. The invincibility of the German army has been demonstrated to be a legend by the new rmy of Great Britain and her dominions in one short year, and I believe firmly that if the war continues with unchanged conditions on the western front for another year we shall see a German disaster comparable with that when he endeavored to hold too long to his trenches before Richmond. If the Germans again retreat to escape such a disaster the meaning will be

In British history the third battle of Ypres will rank with the first. The first was the success of a little army lacking in every mechanical weapon save only their rifles, outnumbered, outgunned, three to one, five to one. It was the story, of an army which died on the spot, leaving a few survivors barely holding on. The third Ypres was the triumph of a new British army, possessing all the material devices of modern warfare and possessing technical efficiency in their use. It possessed all the qualities needed to demonstrate that England had arrived and passed her foe, whose chief, three years before, had sneered at "the contemptible little British army.

THE RUSSIAN FRONT. Turning now to the Russian front, there have been interesting incidents since I closed my review of last week, without any great or decisive change. As I closed my article of last week, it will be recalled that I commented upon the success of the Russians south of the Dniester and in the direction of Halicz. This was on July 9. During the next four days this Russian success grew and spread, until it seemed to be a grave menace to the whole German position in Galicia between the Styr and the Carpathians.

On this front the situation was as follows: The Austro-German standing in front of Lemberg and some forty miles to the eastward of the town. Its northern flank rested upon the Styr River, its centre was pushed orward along the Zlota Lipa River, its southern flank curved back from the Zlota Lipa River to a point just east and north of the mouth of the Gnila Lipa River, which enters the Dniester opposite Halicz. Southward of the Dniester the Austro-German army stood at the Bystritza River, straight southward to the Carpathian Mountains. The only town of importance in this region was the small city of Stanislau, which had been captured by the Russians last December, and this marked the extreme southern point of their advance in their

The two armies of the Central Powers standing north and south of the Dniester made contact not far from the point where the Gnila Lipa River enters the Dniester, and the Russian attack, moving north and west out of Stanislan, forced the passage of the Bystritza River and thrust a wedge between these two armies, taking Halicz and reaching and capturing Kalusz, about twenty miles west of Stanislau, and the headquarters of the Austrian army south of immediately posed whether it could retreat and hold the Lomnica line. Like the Bystritza River this stream rises in the Carpathians and flows north, entering the Dniester five or ten miles west of the Bystriza. Either of these streams supplies a satisfactory line for extending the Austro-German position south of the Dniester to the Carpathians. But if the Russians succeeded Stryj should fall the fate of Lemberg would be sealed.

In the first dash of the Russians they passed the Lomnica River and were to be anticipated were disclosed. The British army did better than any-body who knew it thought it would do, but it showed itself still lacking in pied a number of towns west of the river, as well as Halicz to the north bank of the Dniester, west of the Gnila Lipa. In this position they threatened the whole Gnila Lipa north of the Dniester and the whole Lomnica line south of it. They interposed a wedge between the two armies of the Central Powers, and the position of each of these armies became dangerous. Unless the Russians the position of each of these armies became dangerous. Unless the Russians could now be checked a general and sweeping change on the eastern front was

TAKING OF KALUSZ.

The taking of Kalusz was announced on Saturday. On Sunday the Russian still pushing forward south of Kalusz and were clearing the eastern bank of the Lomnica River and seizing the crossings. But then there came a change. First we had reports of heavy rain which slowed down the Russian advance, and later on Tuesday came the announcement that the Germans had retaken the town of Kalusz and that the Russians had retired behind the Lomnica line. the Austro-German counter-offensive shall now make good the line of the Lomnica, it is plain that the Russian offensive will come to a dead halt, and that it will amount to a considerable, but only local, success. The Russian official statement announces that more than 36,000 prisoners and many guns have been taken since the general offensive of July 2 began. A considerable an number of small towns have likewise been occupied.

But all this is of minor consequence if the Russian drive is over. Then it will remain true, as I said last week, that the moral rather than the military value of the new Russian offensive will be the important thing. We have now to wait and see whether the Russians can bring up fresh munitions and new to some constant times are written. If the Austro-German counter-offensive shall now make good the line of the many and point is shall now make good the line of the many and point is shall now make good the line of the many cars being marked with a star: 6:15, 7:30, *9:00, 10:00, *12:00, *2:00, *2:00, *3:00, *4:00, *5:00, *2:00, *10:00, *10:00, *1:00 and 11:00 p.m. cars at 9:00, 10:00, *1:00 and 11:00 p.m. run to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6:15 p.m. Frares to St. Thomas only at 1:30 and 6 reserves and renew the attack south of the Dniester or whether they will now have to resign the offensive for the time being. Before these lines reach the Lomnica it is fair to conclude that the Russian offensive south of the Dniester is over for the time being and that the Germans have succeeded again, as they succeeded along the Stokhod last year, in beating down a Russian drive which threatened to dislocate the whole front from the Pripet Marshes to the Carpathians.

LEMBERG THREATENED.

Any further considerable advance of the Russians west of the Lomnic will compel the Austrians and the Germans north of the Dniester to etire behind the Gnila Lipa line. If this line is turned there is defensive position east of Lemberg, and it seems inevitable that the Austro-Germans will have to evacuate the capital of Galicia again; but it must be nbered that such an evacuation would be the greatest moral disaster for the Germans since Verdun. They are bound to bend every nerve and energy o avert it, and unless they have reached the cracking point it is likely that their superior lines of transportation and organization will enable them ward off the blow. Conceivably the Russians will now try elsewhere, as the struck at the Bystritza line after they had been checked north of the Dniester in the first week of July, but much depends now on the domestic affairs of Russia. Above all, it is again necessary to advise against too great optimism and too great hope so far as the Russian offensive is concerned. It has done more than anybody had a right to expect, but it has not achieved a decisive ore than a local success so far, and it has not in any degree approximated Brusiloff's success of last year, when he broke the Austrian line in Volhynia, ear Olyka, and subsequently captured Dubno and Lutsk and came within an ace of capturing Kovel.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Liked "Adlanod's" Cookles.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am writing to thank you for the famous recipe for Boston cream. It is, to all my people, the best home-made drink they have ever tasted. Also, I wish to tender my sincere thanks through your valuable page to "Adlanod" for her recipe printed in Issue of May 29. I made a batch of cookles and sent them overseas to my dear boy. The following is a copy from his letter to his father after receiving same: "I received mother's box all right. The cakes were certainly fine. Tell Mum that's about all she need send in a parcel, for some people put butter and meat sandwiches in, and all that mush, and it gets moldy; but those ginger snaps turned up fine."

Dear Miss Grey, we have many friends in Eveled.

moldy; but those ginger snaps turned up fine."

Dear Miss Grey, we have many friends in England, so any lonely boys going overseas that I know I give them addresses to call on, and often, when I get a letter from the boys in France, they say: "I have just heard from So-and-So, or am just answering So-and-So's letter. It just makes me so happy to know that I have been the means of putting a little sunshine in some boy's life. Also, in my overseas boxes I put in a pennant of Canada or an American flag. They write back and say what prominent positions they have given them. Trusting you will be able to read this awful scrawl, but, remember, I am an old woman. Wishing success to the page and all the readers.

HELP-ON-A-BIT.

Ans.—It DOES warm our hearts and makes us eager to do more when we realize that the little we do means so much to the ones overseas. Expecting an avalanche of inquirles after "Adlanod's" gilt-edged recipe, I am reprinting it right here for the benefit of all:

The clipping you send, "Heart-Humby an arrangement of weekly or monthly payments. A small deposit is sufficient to begin in scrawi" awful at all.

Dad's the Gardener.

Dear Miss Grey,—Again I venture to write just a few lines to you. Did you really miss me from your cosy corner? Well, now, I will try and make my visits a little more frequent. I wonder if our dear kind readers would care for my brother's address? He is in England, and I know how very much a letter or a few goodies would be appreciated by him. I send him a box every month, which is as much as I can afford. He used to be a real London's Own drummer boy, you know. every month, which is as much as I can afford. He used to be a real London's Own drummer boy, you know, but now he is with a Montreal unit, and he is wearing kilts and still plays the drum. My father was invalided home last April on account of illness, but he is expecting to be discharged shortly, so you see, Miss Grey, I have lost my job of "gardener." I would love you to see our "back yard garden." Dad has spent a great deal of time in it, and it sure is a credit to him.

I am going to ask for a little help this time. I have a pale blue corduroy velvet sport coat, which has become faded in the wash, also in the sun. Now, I wonder if you, Miss Grey, or any of our readers, could tell me if I could dye it, say, a green, or red, or dark blue. It is a good coat, and by dyeing it would save me quite a lot. I may be able to do some little thing in return some time.

Well, I think this is all this time, so I will bring my letter to a close. Thanking you for time and space. My brother's address is inclosed. I am, as ever.

Six Reds Pounding the Pill—Roush and Cruise Tie for National Honors.

Chicago, Ill., July 21.—Cruise of St. Louis has batted to a tie with Roush of Cincinnati for National League honors, unofficial averages released today showing them hitting 331. Roush, playing in 78 games, five less than his rival, has driven out 99 hits for 124 bases, while Cruise has stretched 98 hits for a total of 131 bases. The St. Louis outfielder made twelve doubles, six tripies and three home runs, as against eight doubles, six three base hits and one circuit drive for Roush. The terrific hitting of six Cincinnati, players is keeping the club safely in the first division and in possession of team battling honors. Hal Chase, veteran first base star with Cincinnati, is a point below the 300 class, and Catcher Clarke is hitting .321, but has only played in 36 games. Hans Wagner, the Pittsburg veteran, is battling .331 for 35 games. Carey of Pittsburg increased his lead in base stealing to 21. Hornsby is in possession of home run honors with eight. The averages include games of Wednesday.

Mary Miles Minter, that famous little screen actress, will be seen at the Patricia Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next in "Annie for Spite."

The story deals with a pretty little girl with wonderful wide appealing eyes, a wealth of tawny hair, the happy smile of innocence and the delightful mannerisms of trusting maidenhood, the central figure in a new life drama that is certain to appeal alike to old and young.

"Annie for Spite," a new American-Mutual photodrama, starring that fasticiating little actress, Marry Miles Minter, is one of the cleverest bits of picture construction ever achieved by James Kirkwood, Miss Minter's clever director.

The play was built from a story by Fred Jackson which appeared in the Popular Magazine a year ago. Discussing the wisdom of paying a picture star a fabulous salary, and providing a vehicle that may be mediocre or worse, the Dramatic Mirror says editorially:

"Much has been written concerning the high salaries paid stars for appearances in motion pictures. And among the men who should know—the manufacturers and distributors of the product of these stars—there continues to be a difference of opinion concerning the probability of a profit—than with a better picture acted by unknowns."

Since the original petition, bearing over four thousand names, has been forwarded, additional signatures have been secured, and will be sent with the requested papers. The completed petition will have about 4,400 signatures.

According to officials at the county jail, Miss Thompson remains as determined as ever in her stand not to divulge the information concerning Grace Jean. information concerning Grace Jea the information concerning Grace Jean Link, her niece, for whose possession the father, William Link, sued.

Miss Thompson has been gradually declining in health since her imprisonment at the jail.

The representations of Dr. James Wilson, jail physician, that continued incarceration at the jail will have the effect of permanently injuring her health, will, it is believed, carry great weight with the minister of justice. Dr. Wilson has closely watched her condition, and believes a prolonged sentence would be injurious to her health.

After the Reichstag had listened to him it could have done no more appropriate act than to pass a vote of thanks to the agents and instruments of delay at Washington which have been furthering German hopes of victory. Doubtless these gentlemen would be much amazed by so unsought a tribute, but they could be no more astonished than Germany has been delighted by their efficient if unexpected aid.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

New York, N. J., July 21.—The third successive week of declining prices, with moderate rallies in the later dealings, was attended by a gradual diminution of operations on the stock exchange. Public interest seemed to abate altogether and professional traders extended their commitments on the short side. A temporary flurry in call money, which rose to 10 per cent, the maximum rate of the year, the unfavorable turn to events abroad, especially the Russian situation and the German submarine menace, together with the further delay in arriving at a settlement of war prices and taxes combined to disturb the market.

What a Policy May Do

IT MAY PROVIDE AN EDUCATION FUND. Most people of the better class want their children to get a ge ducation. The expense of a college course is beyond the means masses; and yet an endowment or even a life policy may afford the tunity to spread the cost of a four years' college course over a perioden, fifteen or twenty years, and this plan is within the reach of nearly in case of death the fund at once becomes due and may be left at integrating the content of the college of the college. In no other way can a father so easily and so surely profor the education of his children.

PALMERSTON PEOPLE

PALMERSTON, July 20 .- Thousands of people visited Palmerston today to see the biplane which had landed in Thain's pasture just east of the town. The aviator was Cadet Pervis from Camp Borden, with his biplane C1490. He claimed to have lost his bearing towards Toronto, and mistook Palmerston, with its overhead bridge, for West Toronto. He had a slight mishap to the propeller by coming in contact with a wire fence, but expects to be ready for the air again Saturday. of people visited Palmerston today to

For further terms and particulars, apply to conveys the idea. The Orangemen have been "done," and the worst of it is they cannot complain too loudly, because they actually voted unanimously to "do themselves."

The French members who voted against the "joker," many of them with their tongues in their cheeks, knowing that it would carry, are today hilarious over what happened. And illarious over what happened, And what happened was this:

The prime minister took out of the military service act the specific exemption for divinity students. Thereby he mightily pleased the Orange members, who thought the said exemption would have allowed too many Roman Catholics to stay at home; but in doing so Sir Robert Borden and his minister of justice, Hon. Charles Doherty, carefully placed an interpretation upon the word "clergy" which remains in the exemption clause, and this interpretation means that Roman Catholic divinity students will be exempt because they are technically clergymen, whereas Protestant divinity students will not. On account of the heavy rains north, the Thames is higher than it has been for years at this season.

The students from Thorndale high school who were successful at the lower school examinations were Olive Bilyea, Jane Bilyea, Wilma Harding, Mabel Hobbs. As the Thorndale school did not open till Christmas, the students and teachers deserve credit for the good showing made, Whalen. She was operated on recently for the removal of her tonsils, and was recovering nicely when blood-poisoning developed. Her sister, who had been conversing with her, left her alone for a few minutes, and upon her return found her dead, the poison having affected the heart.

The funeral will be held on Saturday to the Catholic Cemetery.

AMERICAN AMAZED AT LONDON'S GIVING TO RED CROSS FUND

Proud of His City's Contribution of $12,000.

LISTS TO BE PUBLISHED

Names of All Contributors in Two Tory Tickets Likely To Be Last Campaign Soon To Be Announced.

The names of more than 13,000 subscribers to the local patriotic and Red Cross fund will appear in the lists which will be published for distribution in the course of a few weeks, the contributions ranging from 5 cents to $10,-000

A man from an American city of some 80,000 residents was here a day or so ago investigating methods adopted in Canada for raising patriotic funds. Telling of the reorganization and putting of Red Cross work on a big war basis in his own town he mentioned the splendid success met in a Red Cross membership campaign at $1 per member. "We raised $12,000 for our Red Cross in this way," he proudly announced. He was more than amazed when, inquiring what had been done in London, he was told that this city in a fixed days' campaign had raised something over $350,000 for patriotic fund and Red Cross purposes for one year, in addition to raising large amounts for other objects, such as the British and French Red Cross, Belgian and Serbian Relief. Soldiers' Comforts, etc.

HORSES BOLT AND FATHER AND SON

ARE THROWN OUT Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fox Now Jack Anderson, a farmer living on the 3rd concession London Township, and his small son had an exciting few minutes Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock when a team of horses driven by Mr. Anderson took fright at a passing motor car on Talbot street near Dundas.

The team bolted down Talbot street and swerved into an automobile at the corner of King street, ripping off the mud guards. The horses were finally turned into the front of the Massey-Harris building, one animal falling down on the sidewalk. Mr. Anderson was thrown out and hurt his hand, while his son was picked up with but a few scratches and bruises from underneath the wagon box that had turned over on him. Broken harness constituted the only damage done.

BAND CONCERT IN

FOR MILITARY HOSPITAL

One of the big hits of the evening was the "Kitchen Quartet," the clever performers producing excellent harmonies by the manipulation of such novel instruments as teapots, tin pans, baking mugs, bread casters, egg beaters, potato mashers, etc.

Miss Newbury and Miss Metcalfe, readers, were repeatedly encored, Miss Newbury's rendition of "Dora" and "On the Old Porch," and Miss Metcalfe's imitation of grand opera being especially deserving of mention.

The audience was indebted to Mr. Spettigue for arranging the concert.

The board of control will hold a special session on Monday morning to discuss with the London Railway Commission the question of giving a switch to Beattle Brothers' factory in Chelsea Green.

The board will also take up the matspettigue for arranging the concert.

Some of the members of the hospitals commission favor an asylum site, and have them prepared as the section of the success of the big show. Arthur T. Little was responsible for the occasion. It is no easy task to get ready over 1,000 lunches, and have them prepared as the section of the secti those of yesterday, and no small amount of credit is due Mr. Little for this feature of the work.

T. Archie McMahen was chairman of the sports committee, and he had a very ambitious program, too much in fact to run off in a reasonable length of time. However, it was well handled by Mr. McMahen, and he deserves much credit for it. He had valiant assistance from Charles Taylor. Charles Abbott, and others. Mrs. Donald McLean and Mrs. A. T. Edwards, representing the Woman's Canadian Club, did their share well. The various chapters of the Daughters of the Empire must not be overlooked in distributing bouquets.

Robert J. Webster looked after the transportation arrangements, the printing, and the like. He did his work well. The transportation was furnished by the London Railway Commission.

Pte. Jack Cunliffe, secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, was responsible for getting the men from the Convalescent Hospital to the trains and he had the work well in hand at all times. The boys got back at an early hour, tired but well pleased:

"It was a fine picnic, and the arrangements were perfect," said Mr. Cunliffe.

British Headquarters in France, June 30—(By Mail).—The feminine section of the British army is growing larger day by day. Khaki-clad young women, at first confined to the Red Cross section of the field army, are rapidly pushing into many departments of army activity, displacing men who in turn are passed along to work nearer the front-line trenches.

Every boat coming from England brings new companies of women workers. At first their work was mostly at the remote bases, but now they may be found working further and further afield, sometimes indeed within hearing distance of the guns. In the clerical departments at the chief bases, women have very largely displaced men. As chauffeurs, they are being employed by hundreds, not only on ambulances and light supply wagons, but also on heavy transport lorries, and with entire success.
