Refused Last Night to Bar the Automobilies Out of the Parks of London.

SPEED OF FIVE MILES

Autoists Must Not Endanger the Lives of Children and Others-Board of Works Meeting.

Automobiles furnished a considerable amount of discussion at the meeting of the board of works last night, but it was decided not to interfere with the present bylaw governing the speed of vehicles in Victoria Park. According to the board's opinion an auto was a vehicle, and the bylaw covered that.

Ald. Saunders thought the bylaw should stand as it was.

"We do not want to keep these men out of the park so long as they do not exceed the speed limit and endanger children's lives," he declared. "Perhaps, five miles an hour is slow, but for such a short run, I do not think it would seriously effect the machines. If they want to go faster there are streets all round the park and they could take them.'

Listen to This! Parks Commissioner Pring wanted the auto drivers excluded from the park altogether.

Ald. Morgan insisted that eight miles be the limit, but on motion of Ald. Saunders the bylaw was left as it was, five miles in the park, the rest of the city to be governed by the statute.

W. McFadden complained of the condition of his property on Mary street. This is the annual complaint regarding the Scanlon drain, and Ald. Tancock and City Engineer Graydon will visit the place and report to the Telephone Company's Request. Manager Beard, of the Bell Telephone Company, will be asked to appear before No. 2 committee at its next meeting to explain the request of the Bell Telephone Company regarding his application for the privilege' of placing ducts on Richmond and Dundas streets. It was stated at the committee that the company would refuse to place a duct for the fire alarm wires and the committee will endeavor to make some arrangements for the care of the wires. On motion of Ald, Saunders it was decided to ask the council to pass a bylaw giving the city engineer authority to hire men for the work of he department.

This is the outcome of the dispute regarding the appointment of men for he steam rollers.

It was decided to offer Mr. George McNeil, of Mount Pleasant avenue. $150 for earth to fill in the ravine near New Crossings.

MURDERED THREE TO GET BRIDE HOME

Marshalltown, Iowa, June 9.—Developments of the last twelve hours have strengthened the professed belief of the sheriff's Cicers and County Attorney Egermayer that Raymond Hardy guilty of the murder Sunday night of his father and mother, James Hardy and his wife, and his brother Earl, near Van Cleave. They assert that the crime was part of a plan to get money to enable Raymond to wed.

To the sheriff last night and to the county attorney this morning, young Hardy told conflicting stories about incidents of the day before the mur-der and the night the triple crime is supposed to have been committed. For three hours this morning the county attorney examined Hardy in his cell. The prisoner declared over and over again that he was innocent, but he changed minor points in the story on repeating it.

The sheriff claims to have proof that is all but positive that young Hardy's story of finding a saddled and bridled horse in the barn at his father's home Sunday morning is untrue. The saddle, he said, was on the horse that was found in the barn, but it was covered with dust, and evidently had not been touched recently.

The only motive those who accuse Hardy of the murders have considered s that he sought to become the sole eir to the live stock, machinery and other property on his parents' farm. The young man is said to have admitted that he had little money and no prospects of any more on his wedday, which was to have been today. His accusers assert that if he s guilty the crime was planned with view to securing means to start

A note of sale for $1,000, dated Nov. 1, 1909, and purporting to be given to Raymond Hardy by his father and brother Earl, was found today. Raymond admitted that it was a forgery He said he had drawn and signed it "just for fun," and had no idea of

LONDON, FRIDAY, JUNE 10. ROYALTY AT OTTAWA.

All reports of the Duke of Connaught, Canada's next governor-general, are in his favor. He has many of the characteristics of his brother, the late King. He has the same geniality and tact, and next to Edward himself say so, the Ontario Government has has been the most popular of Queen been derelict in its duty in this no will to be servant in another's house Victoria's children. Educated for the army from boyhood, he has not been a tov soldier, but a serious, hard-work- pottering with it for years, and sending and efficient officer, who has earned his high commands.

The appointment of a member of the royal family to a civil position like that of governor-general of Canada is a departure from custom intended as a great compliment to this growing Dominion. It must also be regarded as an experiment. Royalty has its approand that he will not attempt to surcound himself with the atmosphere of a court, in which Canadians could not breathe naturally. There's a very good reason why the farms are becoming smaller. A word of five letters spells 'fruit.' GOLDWIN SMITH'S RELIGION.

The New York Sun, through which Goldwin Smith spoke for many years to the American people, comments on ticular article from his pen: "My special object was to show that I was not Church of England. This would be the indications are that there will be plenty without religion." Again he wrote, most charitable explanation of their of them. after his recent accident:

"I feel that my state is still doubtful and I do not wish to go out of the world as a reputed enemy of religion. This leads me to address to you one more letter-not a very long one-and to feel that its appearance as early as it would convenient to you is on my own ac count to be desired."

The editor of the Sun says these private explanations show the urgency of Goldwin Smith's desire to be misunderstood by no man as regards the character of his quest. The last paragraph of the article referred to in the foregoing passage was:

to exclude a truly religious frame of mind or even fraternity in spirit pious. 'Credo quia impossibile est' (I believe because it is impossible), is surely, when scrutinized, not an expression of rational piety, of piety likely to present a firm foundation for character or perhaps to be very acceptable to the God of truth. "If this seems presumptuous, le me say once more that I speak as a learner, not as a teacher, and that a man in extreme old age has little time left in which to learn.'

COUNTY COUNCIL ARE GOING SLOWLY

Joint Municipal Building Proposal Will Be Gone Into From All Sides.

TO A COMMITTEE

Which Will Glean All Possible Information and Report Back to the Council.

The county council will consider a ong while before they take any definite steps in regard to the proposed new oint city and county municipal build-

They recognize the importance of the matter and did nothing more at their session yesterday afternoon refer the request of the city's representatives for a sub-committee to confer with the council on the question, to the jail committee.

Mayor Beattie and Ald. Pocock, Morgan and Tancock were present as a deputation from the city council asking the county council to appoint a sub-committee.

Mayor Beattie Speaks. Mayor Beattie was the first speaker. "There is a great diversity of opinion," he said, "as to the best site. My opinion is that the city would be foolish to entertain any idea of putting an expensive building on the present court house site." The mayor's opinion was that this site is not centrally enough located. "By diverting Park avenue," he "into the shape of a crescent. abundance of room can be obtained on the "V" formed."

Mayor Beattie referred to the report that it would not be possible to utilize the present court house site for anything but county purposes owing to it having been deeded over by the Gov-ernment for this means. This, he stated was an erroneous impression for even if such was the case the Legislature could pass a special act to obviate the difficulty.

A Waste of Money.

Ald, Tancock thought that it would be a squandering of money if the county council should spend $10,000 in improving the old court house.

"Therefore," he said, "we should come to terms if possible and get buildings in keeping with our position in Western Ontario. It is a slur upon us to have reports of Government inspectors constantly reflecting on our buildings. I have come to the conclusion that this site would possibly be good enough for us, if we can build up the west end of the city, but of late the east end has been rapidly growing while the west has been lying dormant, and I think we should ep our buildings as at present situated in the centre of the city." Ald, Pocock would like to see the building a little further north and Morgan's idea was a large ouilding similar in architecture to the present city building, but much larger and occupying a long row.

'Visitors are anything but favorably mpressed with our old-fashioned buildings," he concluded. Are Going Slow.

The deputation then retired, and the matter was referred to the jail committee

The council showed no disposition to rush hurriedly into the scheme, and the following motion by Reeves Glass and Hawkshaw fairly embodies the general sentiment of the members: That a committee be appointed to confer with the city to consider the matter of proposed joint municipal buildings, to ascertain the accommodation required, the probable cost, the proportions of use by the two municipalities and their relation as to cost, the matter of site, and generally to submit such information to this council at its next session as may be necessary to enable us to arrive at a basis for definite negotiations, and that a sum not exceeding $250 be placed at the disposal of the committee, if required, for the purpose of obtaining plans in conjunction with the city."

This motion was tabled, pending the fail committee's action in regard to the deputation's request for a sub-

Aid for Fall Fairs. A deputation from the agricultural societies of the county was also heard, requesting a grant from the council for aid in the fall fairs throughout the county. The speakers stated that whatever is given will be split up evenly among the societies, a large society receiving no more than a small one. Representatives from eight of the eleven societies in the county were present, as follows: David Evans, Strathroy; Isaac Waterworth, coe: W. S. Weld and A. Rickman, Delaware; J. Woods, Thorndale; G. Wade, Dorchester; C. H. Wilson and J. C. Knapton, Parkhill: Wm. Young, Mount Brydges; A. J. Blaikie and F. R. Shore, White Oak. The matter was referred to the agri cultural committee.

Another suggestion is that the thieves were disturbed at their work, as a rope and a pair of botton gives, used to disguise finger-prints, were left behind.

The adventure had evidently been well planned, the thieves having overnight secreted themselves in an unoccupied unoccupiedroom next door, and when all was quiet worked their way to their goal by climbing along a ledge—a feat extremely dangerous in itself—forcing several windows and doors open, and eventually making a hole in a floor, through which they dropped, by the aid of a rope, into the shop.

CHILDHOOD STORIES OF SIR WALTER SCOTT

Did Not Study Hard, But Had a Good Memory.

In Scotland about 140 years ago a little boy was born who was named Walter by his parents. When he grew to be a man he was called Sir Walter Scott, for he wrote many beautiful stories which people still love to read. When a little boy Walter Scott had a severe illness, which caused him to lose the use of his right leg for many years. On this account he was sent to his grandfather's farm, where it was hoped he would grow strong. There an old shepherd called "Auld Sandy Ormistoun" grew very fond of the child. Every morning he used to carry little Walter on his back out to the hills, to help him watch the flocks. There the child rolled around on the soft, green grass and watched the little clouds in the sky. Often this amused him for hours at a time.

One day the shepherd left him alone, and went down to the house. While he was gone a thunder storm arose. The child's aunt, remembering that little Walter was out in the hills, thought he would be terribly frightened, so went out to bring him home. Instead of being frightened, the boy was lying on his back looking up at the bright flashes of lightning, and ex-claiming, "Bonnie! Bonnie!"

When Walter Scott was about six years old he was taken to Bath, England, for his health. While there he saw for the first time a play enacted. There was a scene in the play which represented two brothers quarreling. The little fellow was so surprised to see that brothers could act in such a way that he cried out, "Ain't they brothers?" When Walter grew strong So fond was he of this pony that he called Marian, that he used to ride her in the house and feed her with his own little hands. During Walter Scott's school days the boy did not study very hard, so was very sorry of a great many stories that he had heard. During play hour he usually had many boys around him to listen to these wonderful stories, for he

General Booth has written a sketch for the current edition of the War Cry of the reception accorded him by King Edward in June, 1904. After describing his arrival at Buckingham Palace, General Booth says:

"Anticipations with regard to courtly etiquette not only proved in this case vanished into thin air, and before Lord hind me His Majesty had with extended hands and cheery countenance bidden me welcome, pointing me to an easy chair within a few feet of the one in which he seated himself, and expressed the pleasure which the meeting gave him. I therefore expressed my appreciation of the privilege afforded me by the interview of saying something to His Majesty regarding the efforts the Army was making. I am interested in such work,' he said. 'I always have been. You will perhaps know something of my efforts for the maintenance and extension of the London hospitals?" 'Yes,' I interposed, 'and I have also heard something of your Majesty's efforts on behalf of the poor in other directions.' General Booth, in reply to inquiries by the King, gave details relating to the beginning of the Salvation Army's work, and, continuing his article says: "The King then made some interesting and important remarks on the poral condition of the working classes but in the notions that they entertain plutocratic manners, customs, with respect to the material changes . Had Weak Back. Would Often Lie in Bed for Days Scarcely Able to Turn Herself.

Weak back comes from the kidneys, and when the kidneys are out of order the whole system becomes deranged. Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble do not know of the suffering and misery which those afflicted undergo. Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles.

They begin by heiping the kidneys to flush of all the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus olearing out the kidneys, bladder and all the urinary passages and carrying away the uric acid, the chief cause of rheumatism, from the blood.

Mrs. Arch. Schnare, Black Point, N.B., writes: Fer years I was troubled with weak back. NEW YORK, June 10—Wall street, 10 a.m.—Americans in London are irregular, mostly above parity. London settlement concludes today. The postal savings bill passes the House of Representatives. The attorney-general declines to take up the question of commuting rates. President Taft is understood to have abandoned his attempts to regulate the issue of new capital in the pending railroad bill. Under agreement with Paris bankers, underwriting debenture bonds, St. Paul will retain $100,000,000 Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound Railway stock in the treasury until the fifteen-year bonds mature. Some foreign buying reported in copper. I from market relieved by the adjustment of rates. Better reports coming from the more important centres. C. P. R. reports

"We need a hatchery here very had ly," said Mr. Nate Cornell, one of the prominent fishermen of the Port Practically every port on the American side has a hatchery, and they are putting millions of fish into the lake every year. We have but one hatchery, that at Sandwich. The beneficial results of that are very evident. Four years ago we caught few whitefish. Now we make fine catches, and these fish evidently came from the hatchery. If we had a big hatchery here the busines of fishing would boom. In his last will and testament the late William Fisher left an insurance policy of $1,000 to his mother, the income from which was to go to her for life, and at her death the principal was to be used for paying off the mortgage. Get Your Piano During NORDHEIMER'S PRE-INVENTORY SALE AND SAVE $75 TO $100

You can save from $75 to $100 by purchasing your Piano during the Nordheimer Pre-Inventory Sale. This sale occurs but once during the year, and the values offered you while it is in progress cannot be duplicated again this season.

It is the policy of this house to clear out all our odd lines of Pianos before stock-taking, which occurs at end of the month. This year our odd lines are a prize lot. We've never had their equal to offer you in values. They consist of some entirely new Pianos, which we would hold for regular prices, but for the fact that the style of the case is to be changed. We have also some slightly-used Pianos, which we have had out on rental during the winter. These are also marked down for speedy clearance.

To our mind the "plums" of the sale are the following Pianos, all of which are uprights, and guaranteed for five years.

One only Piano, regular price $350, for $275 One only Piano, regular price $375, for $300 One only Piano, regular price $400, for $325 One only Piano, regular price $450, for $350

Included in this sale also are some secondhand Pianos, marked at about HALF the original value.

Musical Merchandise, including Banjos, Violins, Accordions, Guitars and Music Cabinets, will be sold during the sale at 25 per cent reduction.

Don't miss this sale. It occurs but once a year. We couldn't afford to hold it more than
