city and vicinity lately. Hess himself is strongly suspected of being the man who, last night, threatened harm to one of the trainmen in the Pere Marquette yards.

Conductor McGarvey had learned that a gang of obnoxious characters, were in the neighborhood and were wanted by the police. He also knew of the episode of Sunday night, the man who was threatened being the brakesman of his train. When, therefore, on the way to the Eau this morning he noticed a suspicious and ill-favored character, accompanied by a woman, near Richardson, he surmised that they might be a part of the gang. He communicated his suspicions to Detective Skirving, who happened to be at the Eau.

The indefatigable Archie at once

One of the eleverest captures in the | made up his mind to make an attempt One of the cleverest captures in the police annals of Chatham occurred this morning, when Detective Archie Skirving, with the assistance of the crew of the early train from the Eau, nabbed Edward Hess, one of a gang which is suspected of committing the robberies which have occurred in the city and vicinity lately. Hess himself to allow the train to pass and, after its passage, was continuing his way, utterly oblivious of the fact that the strong arm of the law, as typified by the lynx-eyed P. M. detective, was even then upon him. Archie was upon him before the man was aware of his presence, and too utterly surprised to show any fight. "Come along and get on this train," said Archie, reaching out and grabbing him. "All right, boss," was the reply. Through a trainful of wondering passengers to the baggage car the prisoner was brought. Soon the passengers to the baggage car the prisoner was brought. Soon the story of the capture had leaped from lip to lip, and nothing but praise was heard for the neat way in which the round-up was made. In the baggage car the man was searched. Besides a diary, containing addresses and a Detroit ferry ticket, his pockets revealed a recent copy of The Planet, an indication that he is not utterly deprayed.

GIRL FROM KAY'S

Admirable Inaugural Production at the Grand Saturday Evening Praise for Mr. Brisco

Manager Fred H. Brisco has set a splendid theatrical pace for the ensuing season-and patrons of the Grand extend hearty congratulations. The Girl from Kay's, which was presented by a clever company on Satarday night, was all that Mr. Brisco claimed for it, and was thoroughly enjoyed from start to finish.

As a bright musical comedy it is unsurpassed. It's humor was apt, clean and contagious and the roles were admirably assigned. The company was exquisitely costumed and the whole production was one of the best ever presented in the Maple City.

LOST FINAL

Chatham Lacrosse Team Beaten at Brantford in a Rough Game.

Unless the protest against the game played here with Brantford is allowed, the Chatham lacrosse team is out of the running for the junior championship. The game played here last Monday resulted in a tie, but was protested on the grounds that Brantford played men who, by reason of having played on other teams, were ineligible. If Chatham wins this protest they will get the series. Saturday's game at Brantford resulted in favor of the team of that place. the score however, is no indication of the merits of the respective teams. Brantford took the opportunity of being on their own grounds to rough it. That they were eminently successful is shown by the fact that hardly a member of the Chatham team gacaped. There is a penalty of fifteen minutes attached to the offence of jolting an opponent in the ribs with the butt end of the sticks. Notwithstanding this the Brantford players practised this refined method of torture and, except in a very few instances, escaped being penalized. If they were sent to the fence it was for very short periods. Naturally, such rough handling wore down the locals and, in a great measure, accounted for their defeat.

Grace scored for Chatham in the first quarter. When the whistle blew the score stood 1-0.

In the second period Brantford scored thrice, making the standing 3-1. They scored the same number in the third quarter—score 6-1. In the final period Brantford massed on the defence, notwithstanding which the locals scored again—final score 6-2.

A crowd of 500 attended the game.

Waghorne acted as referee.

'Tommy" Whan, of Detroit, an "Tommy" Whan, of Detroit, an old Chatham boy who is well and popularly known in this city, paid a flying, viset to Chatham yesterday. He was accompanied by J. A. Northwood, of Mt. Clemens, another old Chatham boy. Mr. Northwood left Chatham twenty years ago, and during his early boyhood days lived in a house situated where Hotel Sanita now stands. now stands.

Mr. Whan left three years later and neither one of them have paid a visit to their old homes since, with the exception of during the Old Boys' Reunion. Then it rained and they were not able to see as much of the old town as they wished to. They came up on the boat yesterday afternoon and returned this morning. During the afternoon they drove over the whole city and spent a most interesting and pleasant time visiting the old places they used to know. Of course they noticed great changes in Chatham and many of the places they were surprised to find the Maple City such an up-to-date town and were happy to see the old town going ahead in leaps and bounds.

Mr. Whan will be hetter remains

Mr. Whan will be better remembered in this city as a lacrosse player. He was the star on the old Chatham Dodgers, the first lacrosse team ever formed in Chatham, and manyl for the older residents will remem-the many victories they won in days gone by. It was not only the first but also the best team Chatham ever had. Mr. Whan has not played la-crosse in fifteen years. The last game he played was in Chatham against Detroit

Ministers Found Excuses For Not Go-ing to New Provinces. Ottawa, Aug. 28.—Premier Laurier and Hon. William Paterson left on the Imperial Limited last night to participate in the inaugural ceremonies of the new Provinces in the west.

It was expected that Sir Wilfrid would be accompanied by several of his Cabinet, but they with one consent began to make excuses. It is under-stood that several were asked to go, but that they could not see it that way. Even Mr. Oliver found his work could not be arranged to make his presence elsewhere seem imperative.

Earl Grey and suite left in special cars on the same train to participate in the ceremonies.

AUTOCRATIC DUPLICITY.

Grecian gift.

If the Russian nation recceived the Czar's edict establishoing a popular Assembly with demonstrations of joy, the fact has not been record-The ungrateful subjects of Nicholas have not thrown their caps up in the air amid huzzahs and cries to heaven to bless the "Little Father." The sullen silence with which the "constitutional" edict was received is an indication of the completeness of the loss of faith of the Russian nation in the dissimulating autocrat and of their mistrust of the

And Russians will not have far to seek for reasons to confirm them in their attitude toward the Bureaueracy and its autocratic chief. The Governor of Moscow has prohibited any further meetings of the Zemstvo Congress, or of any other hody assembled for the purpose of discussing constitutional reforms. He asserts that inasmuch as an Assembly has been provided for, in which all permissible political discussion is to be carried on, the Czar's rescript, under which the Zemstvoists and other reformers claim the privilege of meeting, must be deemed to have been annulled. Prince Dolgorouki and his liberal coadjutors, therefore, will be amenable to the stern prosecution meted out to political offenders in Russia, if they dare to

Since the discussion by the National Assembly of the "fundamental administrative law," i. e., the autocratic institution, is expressly prehibited, the aspiration of the Russian nation is thus again left without any lawful means of expression.

It seems as though the main purpose of the Czar's "reform" edict was to choke all other further debate on the constitutional regeneration of the Czardom. The safety valves, through which the long-suppressed public opinion of Russia has found a vent during the past year or two, have been screwed down hard and the "reform" edict fails to provide a new outlet. Lawful agitation being forbidden, the Russian nation will be driven to awful and, perhaps, violent methods.

We may state for the information of our readers that during the past fortnight the editor of this paper has. talked with leading men of both political parties in various parts of the country on the increase in the indemmity to members of parliament, and in condemning the action of our legislators. The increase seems to be lators. The increase seems to be de-cidedly unpopular in Cumberland and throughout Canada, and if we mis-take not, it will lead to the retire-ment to private life of many of the present members on both sides of poli-tics.

TO TELEPHONE USERS AND THE CENERAL PUBLIC,

In laying the foundation for the investigation by the Parlismentary Special Committee it was claimed that Telephone conditions in Canada were not satisfactory because they do not compare favorably with European countries. In this respect statements were made and statistics presented regarding telephone service in Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, France, Germany, and other countries of Europe. The movement for municipal telephones in England and Scotland was specially commended.

We cannot adequately deal with all of these in the limits of one "Talk." The information presented to the Committee by men well versed in the prevailing conditions in Europe was exceedingly interesting, and a brief resume will we think, be acceptable to those who are following this series.

In Great Britain the conditions briefly stated are as follows: The telegraph business is a Government monopoly and this includes the telephone. But while the Government owns and operates all the telegraph lines and the long distanc, telephone lines, it has been "farming out," so to speak, the local exchange telephone service under a license system limited to a term of years.

The greater portion of the exchanges are owned and operated by the National Telephone Company.

In 1899 the Government passed an Act enabling local municipalities to provide exchange telephone service. The Government itself established a telephone exchange in the City of London to compete with the National Company. Just before service was commenced, however, the Post Office Department decided to enter into an agreement with the National Company to charge the same rates, to exchange service between the subscribers of the two systems, and to restrict their operations as far as possible to separate areas in order to avoid wasteful expenditure in duplication of plant.

The Government has also established local exchanges at a number of small places. During the past year experiments have been made in a limited way in giving rural service, but the Government report states that "the receipts have not covered the cost of attendance and maintenance."

The National Company's exchanges, the Municipal exchanges, and the Government exchanges, each have a connection with the Government long distance lines on equal

The Government has contracted to take over the National Company's business on the expiry of the present license in 1911, and it is expected that at the same time it will take over all other telephone exchanges throughout the country.

This briefly outlines conditions of telephone service in Great Britain at the present time.

With the results we shall deal in subsequent "Talks."

"It is very wrong for one woman

"It is very wrong for one woman to try to get another woman's servants away from her," said the Rev. Anna Shaw, of the American Woman's Suffrage Association. "It is very wrong, and it creates a good deal of bad feeling.

"Two women of my acquaintance lived near one another and were the best of friends; but the first envied the second her cook. She actually went to see the cook one morning and offered her more money than she was then getting. But the loyal cook declined to change her place.

"Two or three days later the two women met at a dinner party, and the second cut the first dead.

"'Why, Mrs. Jones,' said the hostess, 'you know Mrs. Brown, don't you?"

Mrs. Jones, with a sniff, replied "I believe not. She sometime calls on my cook, I understand."

A WARNING TO MOTHERS. Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weath er of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the shild a dose of castor oil to correct any dis-order of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a ten dency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlin's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incip-iency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indiinstant use as soon as the first indi-cation of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by all druggists.

PETER THE GREAT.

of Russia Was a Monster

Years ago, when a low standard of morals prevailed, the epithet "Great" was bestowed upon any monarch who won battles and enlarged the territory and resources of his kingdom. It matter-ed little then to the historian what might be a king's private character, provided he made his nation formidable by its brute strength and full treasury. Even if he was a bad man they eulogized him as a good ruler. Peter I. of Russia is called Peter the Great be-cause he transformed a barbarous into cause he transformed a barbarous into a semibarbarous nation. But no one can now read the following summary of his character without a feeling of disgust. Voltaire, in his "Philosophical Dictionary," says that "Peter was half hero and half tiger." Macaulay declares that "to the end of his life he lived in his palace like a hog in a sty, and when he was entertained by other sovereigns never failed to leave un-equivocal proof that a savage had been erally caned everybody—from his cook to his counselor, from the meanest peasant to the highest noble—sparing neither age nor sex. He would get up from the table and flog the host who was entertaining him. He would stand at the door of the senate house and flog each senator that went in. Lefort was an intimate and trusted friend, was an intimate and trusted triend, yet on slight provocation he was knocked down and brutally kicked by his imperial master. But all this flogging was in the way of recreation. When Peter "meant business," it was a more serious matter. Incredible as it may seem, it is nevertheless well authenticated that one of his own sisters—it is said more than one—received 100 strokes of the whip on her back in the presence of the whole court.

In 1713 Alexis, his only son who out

Peter, when the fit was on him, lit-lived infancy, was for some offense of no great seriousness several times tortured in the presence of the diabolical father and in the end died either from the effect of the torture or by assassination. For sympathizing with Alexis the Princess Golitsyn, the bosom companion of the Empress Catherine, was publicly whipped by soldiers. For the same reason the brother of his first wife Eudovia-whom he had thrown into prison-was tortured and then torn in pieces on the wheel. Nothing ever told of Nero is more horribly grotesque than this, yet this man, or monster rather, is paraded before the world as Peter the Great.

SUCCESS THOUGHTS.

The best in others will only come out to meet the best in you.

The man with an idea has ever changed the face of the world.

One reason why we do not make the most of the winning material in our-selves is because of a magnified idea of the great superiority of others who do things in the world.

As a rule no good comes from criti-cising others. Anybody can do that, but the man who can accept his own honest estimate of himself and resolve to profit by it has achieved something.

No matter what you are doing, think your way. Don't go without thinking. Think everything out. Don't run without a schedule. Have a programme and go by it. Think! Think! Think!

Mr. Noble's Promise Given. In the early stages of his ministry the Rev. Mr. Noble preached for some time in a village in Maine. One day a committee called upon him to settle with him for his services, and, after stammering awhile, signified to him that his further services were not de

"What does this mean, gentlemea?"

asked the parson. "Why," replied the spokesman, with some hesitation, "the people have go the impression that you are inclining to universal salvation."

"Gentlemen," answered Mr. Noble,
"I never have preached that doctrine, but if I ever should I promise to make the people of this town an exception."

Women and Pins. It seemed as if it would take a whole paper of pins to mend that torn dress. The wearer appealed to her car neigh-

"Have you any pins?" she asked. The woman had none, but passed the query on, and in a little while every passenger was feeling along concealed edges and turning back lapels. At last sixteen pins were produced. Fourteen of them were contributed by men.

"We never need them as much as the women, but somehow we carry them and they don't," said one of the latter.

Early Railroading.
In the pioneer days of railroading it was sometimes necessary for the freight conductor to run forward over the roofs of the cars to shout orders to the engineer. Traveling at night was generally avoided, though one was generally avoided, though one road adopted the expedient of running ahead of the locomotive a flat car loaded with sand, on which a bonfire was kept burning as a headlight.

Seeing Double.

"You brute!" exclaimed Mrs. Lushley. "It makes my blood boil to see you come home in this condition."

"M' dear," said Lushley, "you look beautiful when y'r angry."

"Indeed?"

"Yesh. Anyhow, you shert'n'ly look doubly beautiful to me jusht now."

A Simple Truth. Reporter—Well, to make a long story short— Editor—A good copy reader is necessary.

The Mammoth and the Mosquito

What has come to pass in thousands of years seems hardly credible. Primitive man, a weakling in comparison to modern man, was able to conquer the huge monsters of thousands of years ago, such as the Mammoth, and to-day they are dead forever; yet the mosquito and fly have never been conquered. It is now time for the scientist to devise methods for killing the mosquito and fly, so that they will go to join the mammoth and the monster inards. The mosquitoes and flies are dangerous enemies of man because they spread contagion. The mosquito often carries the germ of malaria with his bite. The housefly spreads germs of disease over our food. These bacterial germs, ever hunting for the weak spot, find a place in our blood, and then we suffer from grip, catarrh, consumption, or malaria.

The R V Pierce chief consulting physical and then we suffer from grip, catarrh, consumption, or malaria.

and then we suffer from grip, catarrh, consumption, or malaria.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., says: "There would be no grip epidemics, the germs of consumption, or malaria would find no place in the human economy, if the blood were pure, if the lungs, heart and other organs were fed on good blood. Poisons should not be allowed to accumulate in the body, to be safe it is best to take a gentle laxative at least once a week." Such a vegetable laxative as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets contains nothing which could harm the system.

Felies contains nothing which could have the system.

For putting the blood in order, and as a tissue-builder and tonic for those weakened by conghs, colds, catarrh, grip, nothing will build one up quicker than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This is a medicine made entirely of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol.

The outbreak is due to the large re-ductions in the staff which have re-cently taken place, and to the fact that the existing staff of women clerks is terribly overworked.

MASKINONGE ARE GREEDY. Fresh Water Sharks of Canada Are Heavy Eaters-Old Stagers Weigh From 29 to 62 Pounds.

From 29 to 62 Pounds.

A fine maskinonge was killed in the Otttawa River not far from here lately, says a writer from Hull, Quebec. Its captor was trolling for pickerel with a bare spoon and was greatly surprised when he received a tug which nearly wrenched his arm out, followed by the peculiar shake and rush which told that a genuine old stager had taken hold. There was a good half hour of vigorous playing done before the big fellow could be brought near enough to the boat to be killed. It weighed 29 pounds and was exactly 4 feet in length over all.

Another fish, which measured half s

Another fish, which measured half a foot more in length, was taken a few miles higher up the river on Tuesday last. It weighed 35 pounds. This one was taken in the orthodox manner, that is, upon a large spoon bait, with a triangular bit of pork on the hooks.

In both of these cases no attempt was made to get the mate, which probably was close by. It is seldom that the fish are to be found cruising alone.

They tell a tale hereabouts of a splendid pair of these glants being caught upon one set of hooks in Lake Deschenes. The spoon was armed with a triple set of large hooks hung by a swivel from the line in such a manner that they trailed in the water about half way down the spoon. At the tall that they trailed in the water about half way down the spoon. At the tall end the usual gang of hooks was attached with the bit of pork.

A $7-pound fish dashed at the balt, and got two of the hooks well set in his bony mouth. The fisherman was hauling him in, when the other, probably the female fish, seized the spoon itself, or at any rate so darted at it that it was caught in the eye socket, and securely held.

The man was alone on the lake, and was at his wit's end. As he told the tale, he dragged the boat up by hauling upon his line to where the two creatures thrashed about on the surface, and was cauther his single harreled gun.

His chance shot took effect, and both fish were so stunned that they could be towed into shallow water. The combined weight of the water. The combined weight of the two fish was 78 pounds. But the largest fish known to have been taken in this district was caught in a much simpler manner. Old Peter Brule speared it with a boathook, near the mouth of the Gatineau. It was basking and apparently fast asleep on the surface of the river when the old man first saw it, and he was about to row up to it and lift it in for a floating log when he descried signs of life, and instead hurled his boat hook straight at it.

A good deal of splashing ensued, but somehow or another the old river walf contrived to loop a cord around his tail and to tow the great thing ashore. It and to tow the great thing ashore. It was a gaunt, ugly specimen; and weighed on the paper mill scales 62 pounds. This was not, however, all maskinonge. Within the gullet of the monster was half of a partly decayed 20-pound sturgeon. With the assistance of his wife geon. With the assistance of his wife the writer once captured an immense pike with an ordinary landing net, which had another pike pretty nearly as big as himself half in and half out of his jaws, of his jaws.

They make a vigorous struggle for life, these powerful torpedo-shaped giants, but as they are generally caught with hand lines and by trolling, they do not break water much, but after a do not break water much, but after a few fierce rushes are dragged in, sway-ing from side to side.

Sportsmen rejoice over the death of every one of these creatures; with how great reason was well shown in the case of one of those taken last week. This one had in its huge may two rnis one had in its huge into young ducks, a large whitefish, and a two-pound trout. If this was simply an ordinary meal the annual upkeep of a big maskinonge must be a serious charge upon the water it inhabits.

Children For Canada. A meeting organized by the Fulham Board of Guardians was held at the of-fices of the Metropolitan Asylums Board, Tham's embankment, to give embers of their own and other boards of guardians an opportunity of meeting Mr. Boyne Smart, the Dominion of Canada Government inspector of British children sent to Canada. The Rev. S. P. J. Propert, M. A. (chairman of the Fulham Board of Guardians), took the chair.

Mr. Smart said his visit to Great Britain was not primarily to promote a large emigration to Canada of the large emigration to Canada or the homeless and needy in this country, but to look into the system and training in workhouses and orphanages here, and especially to visit institutions which were sending out children to

From 1899 to 1904 the number of children sent to Canada, through the various agencies was 8,415, and during that period there were 54,740 bona fide applications, or practically seven applications for each child.

The children were well distributed over the different parts of Canada, where, as a rule, the British juveniles were treated by the Canadian farmers to whom they were indentured as members of the family, and though the farmers were democratic they held that "Jick is not as good as his master."

Many poor children drawn from the slums of the country had become prosperous citizens of Canada, some being clergymen, doctors, lawyers, and teachers. There were 13 centres in Canada where children from Great Britain were

When a Scotchman answers a question he settles the matter in dispute once for all.

On a certain occasion the question was asked:

Dr. Grace's Autograph

Dr. W. G. Grace, the most famous cricketer in England, probably has given his autograph as often as any given his autograph as often as any other celebrity. At a match not long ago he wrote his name in the notebook of a little girl. A couple of weeks lat-er, much to his surprise, the same little lady shyly sidled up to him with the necessary documents and the request for his autograph. "But I gave it to you only a few days ago," laughingly said the veteran. "Oh." came the answer, "I changed that one for two bishops." Dr. Grace laughed heartily as he replied, "Well, my dear, if a cricketer is worth two bishops I don't believe I ought to give you another autograph. But your naivette is so deliclous I suppose I must. So there you are." ssary documents and the request

The Canny Scot.

In an English railway compartment two travelers were seated, an American and a keen-eved old Scotchman when the guard came to take up their tickets the latter had great difficulty in locating his. He kept the official waiting so long while he rummaged through his many pockets that the ticket-taker went on his way, saying he ould come back to find out the result of the search.

When the guard had gone the Amer ican saw the lost piece of pasteboard protruding from the old fellow's mouth

THE DUMMER TRAGEDY!

ting He Shot Hill Boy.

Cerener's Jury Brings In Verdict That the Shooting Was Accidental and Exonerates Gow From Blame-Crown Attorney Says Gow Was Criminally Careless and May Bo Indicted For Manslaughter - Consulting Attorney-General.

Norwood, Aug. 28.—The announcement Saturday morning by Charles Gow, a farmer living near by, that he had killed little Tommy Rifl, made a speedy end to the mystery that enveloped the Dummer Township tragedy, but has given rise to another legal problem. The confession was made to Constable Moore in Warsaw early in the morning. Shortly after noon the coroner's jury finished taking evidence, and in a few minutes decided that the shooting was accidental. Further than that, they exonerated Gow, The warrants prepared for the latter was disrants prepared for the latter was dis-carded and he was allewed to go his

Crown Atterney Wood is unprepared to say what would be done further; until he has conferred with the Attor-

Gew's Story of Shooting.

Here is the story of the shooting as Gow told it to the jury on Saturday morning:

"I am a farmer, and I live in Waram a farmer, and I live in War-saw. I am captain of the Warsaw rifle team and am at present due at the rifle matches being held in Ottawa. The Dewart boys had borrowed my army rifle and I needed it. On my way home from an evening at their house I took my gun and carried it in the buggy. We heard the lads ahead yell as they passed Hill's house. As we pulled up the rocky lane in front of the Hill house; I think there was a

"The horse was running, and when we passed out of the line of fire I pulled the trigger of my gun. The weapon lay across my knee, diagonally, with the muzzle in the crook of elbow.
"Now it is second nature for me to shoot, for I have carried a gun all my life and have practiced long distance and rapid firing work for years. I pumped up the cartridges and discharged the gun three or four times at random, simply as a bluff." at random, simply as a bluff." The others who were with Gow were

Ed. Dewart in the buggy, and, walk-ing ahead, George Gallagher, aged 12; Willie Murphy, aged 17, and Stewart Murphy, aged 26.
The Inquest.

The inquest.

Coroner Gray convened his inquest on Saturday morning and first heard the story of the Hills.

The father, sworn, told what has already been published That he and his family were fast asleep when they were awakened about midnight by the noise of cheering up the road. As the people approached he could hear the words: "A mob! A mob!" He ran to the door and there came a rife; shot same story, and the second son, Robert, followed, corroborating the tale. Little Mabel told of the death of her brother as the two stood at the window.

For the Defence.

The testimony of the other party commenced with the story of little George Gallagher. The boy's story was straightforward and accurate. He and the two Murphys had walked some distance from the buggy containing Ed. Dewart and Charlie Gow. Arriving in front of the house, they had cheered, a salute that appears to have become a tradition upon passing the Hill home; stead, and the boys walked on. Turning at the first knoll to look, he saw a blaze from the verandah and heard a blaze from the verandah and heard

The Crown officers interrupted the vidence long enough to test his ability The Crown officers interrupted the evidence long enough to test his ability to see from that point. The fact that it was the only place where he could so see made his statement conclusive. He and his companions ran to get out of harm's way, and there was the noise of firing, whence, he could not say. The Murphy boys told the same story Charlie Gow then made his statement, and Ed. Dewart supported him.

Coroner's Brief Charge.

Coroner Gray made no lengthy address. All he said was "You have heard the evidence on both sides. You know the people and I leave the matter to you."

In 15 minutes the jury had returned with a verdict. It was an accidental shooting, they said, and they exonerated Charles Gow from blame in connection therewith.

Crown Attorney's Position.

tion therewith.

Crown Attorney's Position.

Crown Attorney Wood was interviewed.

"I cannot say what will be the next step. As to that I shall confer with the Attorney-General's Department. Gow was criminally careless and may be indicated for manslaughter, but I do not think there is a jury in the land which will convict him. The yielnity has a great deal to do with such things, and what is negligence with firearms in another place is considered a small thing in Dummer."

Money With Him.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—George Soloman, in Assyrian pediar of Ottawa, was bruially murdered on Friday in the Township of Aldfield. County of Pondeck, 20 miles from Shawville.

He was brutally slashed about the head with a knife and left for dead. He managed to crawl to a house some distance away, where he died. He said he was robbed, and a disreputable character of the neighborhood is suspected. The man's friends in Ottawa say he had considerable money on his person.

NOVEL BALANCING

Features with the Norris & Rowe Greater Circus,

Norris & Rowe have provided so many high class novelties in bewildering display that it is impossible to pick out any particular one among the hundred acts offered, but for daring and skill, the McDonald Brosshave originated some startling new have originated some startling new have originated some startling new feats upon bicycles, unicicles, high wagon wheels, etc., that seem to defy the laws of gravitation. The climax wagon wheels, etc., that seem to defy the laws of gravitation. The climax of their act comes when they place a ladder of enormous length, that reaches from the ground to the top of the tent. Mounting one wheel, the intrepid performers dash head long down the steep declivity at the imminent risk of their lives. However, they accomplish the feat successfully and it is but one of the many difficult acts they perform. Another startling number is the suspended ladder. At the very apex of the huge tent, John Lanotte places a ladder across a flying trapeze. Adjusting the balance nicely, Lanotte goes through difficult evolutions that for daring, grace and skill has never been equaled. It is a new act and as yet has never been attempted by any other performer.

act and as yet has never been attempted by any other performer.
Hugh La Nole is another ladder expert. He performs upon what, he terms a dancing or unsupported ladder. Placing it upright without any support whatever, he goes up step by step until he reaches the top and then carefully picks his way down the other side, the ladder all the time dancing to the accompaniment of the music and absolutely down the other side, the ladder all the time dancing to the accompaniment of the music and absolutely without support of any kind. These are but a few of the many novelties Norris & Rowe have prepared for their patrons when the Norris & Rowe greater circus exhibits at Chatham, Wednesday, Aug. 30th.

Blame On Argyle's Officer.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—As a result of the finding of Commander Spain and Captain Donnelly regarding the grounding of the steamer Argyle, made public Saturday, Captain Manson has had his certificate suspended for one year. The report gives a resume of the accident, which happened July 29, when the Argyle ran ashore near Oshawa during a fog. At the time there were 150 passengers on board.

The report states that the steering gear was in good order, that the lifesaving equipment was perfectly satis-saving equipment was perfectly satisfactory and that officers and men behaved well during the panic. Then the report places the blame on the compasses and captain as follows: "The compasses were not correct and the captain had no correct idea of the deviation and the compasses had not been corrected for a very long time. The court is of the opinion that the accident to the Argyle was that the accident to the Argyle was caused by gross carelessness on the part of the captain in running at full speed in a dense fog. The lead was not used and apparently the captain had no idea of the correct compass course. The course steered was the usual one.

"Taking all facts into consideration, the court suspends the certificate of competence for inland waters of Captain William Manson for 12 months from July 29, 1905, the time of the accident.

"The court also wishes to point out that it is to be hoped the method of that it is to be hoped the method of navigation on board the Argyle is not usual on board passenger steamboats on the lakes, otherwise there is no doubt that some appalling disaster must occur sooner or later."

Germany's Reply Favorable.
Paris, Aug. 28.—Prince Von Radolin, the German Ambassador, called at the Foreign Office at noon Saturday and delivered Premier Rouvier the reply of Germany to the French note concerning the program to be discussed at the Moroccan conference. The Ambassador remained for an extended discussion of the question, which is considered to have somewhat improved as the result of Germany's reply.

The reply deals consecutively with the various points of the French program, and with the introduction of some fresh subjects which probably will entail the exchange of pour parlers or further notes. However, it is certain that progress has been made, as Germany accepts the French proposition and merely suggests amendments to them. This fact gives reason for the belief that a definite agreement will be reached in a short time.

The Foreign Office is examining Germany's reply and preparing an answer to it.

Mr. Thompson, of Merlin, whose sermons were far beyond the average and very much appreciated. Collections were good and music very fine. Dined with another old friend and enjoyed a gospel visit; then wheeled to New St. Andrew's Sunday School and found the standard-bearers at their post. Of course I enjoyed meeting the boys and girls there. Next was a call on the way home on my old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Batcheldor, shut in with age and infirmities, but cheerful and well for their years. Home in time to hear an excellent sermon on "The Sin and Shame of Profane Swearing," from Rev. Mr. Waddell, of Harwich, and then, goodnight.

MIGHT CHANGE HIS MIND.

The marriage service had proceeded without a hitch so far, but the responses proved a stumbling block. Neither the bridegroom nor his partner had received much in the 'eddiner nad received much in the "eddi-cation" line; so, when the parson in his most dignified tone asked the usual question, "Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" Jack immediately answered, "I ull."
"You must say 'I will," corrected
the cleric, and asked the question over again.

"I ull," responded Jack, more firmthan ever. The clergyman threatened to stop the service altogether if the re-sponse was not properly given. That was too much for Sally, who broke in quite savagely:

"Garn along wid ye, mon; thee 'ull
'ave our Jack sayin' he won't in a minute or two wid ye worryin'."

The service was resumed.

EDUCATIONAL SUBJECTS

New Ones More Difficult Says Deputy

Minister of Education, Recently, Mr. John Millar, Deputy Minister of Education, in a short ad-dress, stated that the main object of special training classes was to give instruction in methods of the new subjects of the curriculum. The difficul-ties in introducing the new branches, Mr. Millar said, were mainly from three

In the first place, educationists are proverbially cautious and slow to re-cognize the value of new branches of study. English literature, for instance, had developed for several centuries be-fore British universities gave any place to either Chaucer or Shakespeare. Na-tural science had to fight its way dur-tural science had to fight its way during the 19th century; and the battle for technical education was not yet ended. English composition was only beginning to receive proper attention in our High Schools. Modern geometry also has not yet displaced Euclid.

The second difficulty comes from teachers themselves, who are often slow to adapt themselves to altered requirements. The new subjects are more difficult to teach than the old ones. Greater skill is needed to teach nature study than bolany, as formerly taken up. To manage a class in arithmetic is easier than to give instruction in manual training. To teach house in manual training. To teach household science is not so easy as to instruct pupils in grammar or French. To take up art as now required is much more difficult than to teach drawing. The modern subjects generally call for greater pedagogical ability. Good teachers will doubtless meet the conditions, while poor ones will be obliged eventually to leave the field

The third, and chief difficulty, is the necessary cost to the community. Many modern subjects require laboratories; a library alone was about all that was needed for the old branches. The equipment for household science or manual training requires considerable expenditure. The ratepayer finds fault with the increased cost of education, and fails to understand the needs of the present age. The municipal demagogue calls the new branches "fads and frills" and advocates attention only to the so-called "essential subjects." Too often many persons are led astray by sup-posing that the 3 Rs are sufficient for the education of the masses. It is satisfactory to know that always — as in the case of New York within the last year — the demagogue has falled, and educationists have been victorious.

The Deputy Minister gave the opin ion that the modern conception of education was not without its danger. Under the old curriculum a student had an abundance of knowledge, but he could put it to little account. There is a danger now that a person may bene a skilful manipulator, but knowing so little, his mechanical skill would be almost worthless. Knowledge and ability to execute, should be combined. Greater thoroughness should be sought.

LIGHTNING'S QUEER PRANKS.

Editor Farr Tells of Bolt Which Just Missed Dr. Drummond.

The Haileyburian thus describes the lightning bolt that struck Editor Farr's house and dazed Mr. Farr, as well as his guest, Dr. Drummond, author of "The Habitant": "The lightning flashed and the thunder roared, while the water came down in sheets. In a few short minutes more the thunder cracked, instead of roar-ing, and we all know what that means, namely, that it is mighty close. We rejoiced, for we liked it, and we could see that the doctor liked it, too, but he was not used to our storms, having the same respect for them that a man would have for another man's bull, that he did not know. Is not this just splendid, doctor?' we shouted through the deafening noise of the rain and thunder. "We love the lightning and look upon it as comparatively harmless." Hardly had the words escaped our lips when there was a crash through namely, that it is mighty close. We reour lips when there was a crash through our lips when there was a crash through our head that could only be likened to a blow with a sledge hammer on either side. Through our eyes flashed a light so bright that we cannot describe it. We thought 'Oh, this is the end,' but it was not, for when we had partly re-covered our dazed senses we saw the doctor standing on the lawn, with a somewhat startled expression upon his countenance, and in imminent of becoming wet to the skin. Before we could say a word in expostulation he had jumped for shelter, and then we began to investigate the effect, for already it must be apparent that the house was struck. It was struck, and house was struck. It was struck, and the lightning, as is usual, played some queer pranks. It formed itself into a globe, in the hall, about the size of a well grown turnip, and waited, patiently, for the fraction of a second, then burst into s'ars, the largest of which rushed upstairs, not by way of the stairs, but disappeared upwards, "We also went upstairs and found one of the bedrooms completely demoralized, the roof of the dormer window that lighted it was torn up in one spot, windows were smashed, every article in the room upset, and the fragments of the paper on the wall, scattered like leaves in the fall, made our good, tidy wife gasp in horror. The good, tidy wife gasp in horror. The ladies in the house sustained no damage, except the shock, which resulted in the phenomenon of their being silent for a few minutes, though that was not counted such a disaster. Altogether it was a wonderful illustration of the strange power of electricity, and a close call for some of us, if not all. We had been standing within 2 feet of an un-used wire that saved us, for there is no doubt that had the wire not been there the electric fluid would have chosen a nice, healthy man as an excellent conductor, whether ourselves or the sacred doctor we know not, but he allows that he has had a sufficient practical illustration of 'storms on Temiskaming,' and never wants to get as close to the subject again as he was that evening."

as close to the subject again as he was that evening."

How Jake Wonthe Judge's Daughter

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1905, by Frank H. Sweet

Jake Allsbrook was the only industrious member of an improvident fam ily, and the work of his early years was wasted on shiftless kinfolk, but in one way and another he had acquired a good education, first in public schools and then by reading all the useful books he could obtain. It was in a public school, before she was thought ready to send away to a private institution for young ladies, that before either of them understood the importance of social position. Jake was good at boat building and good at many other things which the village people who looked down upon his family did not know. This morning he was at his workbench in a small building he had erected near a lake when he heard the sound of carriage wheels, followed presently by firm, ponderous footsteps coming around the end of the cabin. Looking up, he saw Judge Potter approaching. "How do you do, Jake?" the judge said, advancing with gracious cordiality. "Always at work, it seems. Thought likely I would find you here. I want to have a talk with you."

Jake looked at him with questioning curiosity. It was Judge Potter, cer-tainly, but why had be brought his social equality voice along? He had never wasted that upon him before. "What a trim looking lot of boats you have here, Jake," the judge went on, without waiting for Jake to speak, "but never mind explaining about them, though. What I am here about is the steamer line. Would you mind going over some of the main points Jake stared, then laughed a little

"What's the use?" he said. "When I went to you about the matter I was in the first callow enthusiasm of the idea and did not realize the fool's quest I was on. Suppose we dismiss the subject altogether. I haven't money enough to get the invention patented, much less to ctart a steamboat line." The judge picked up a shaving with the point of his cane and twirled it complacently. "Sometimes an idea is worth more than capital," he observed, but with an odd look in his eyes. "Let me see. I think you said a hundred thousand?"

"Yes." Jake found himself saying, with reluctant eagerness. "My idea was a stock company capitalized at $100,000—that is, a hundred shares at $1,000 each. We should"— He paused abruptly and, in a sudden revulsion of feeling, took up a hammer as though to resume work. "But excuse me for allowing myself to be carried away, judge. I've thought over the scheme until it has grown very real and personal. It's a sure thing if one can go into it. I can't. Even the few hun dred I had saved were sunk in my railroad survey down the shore."

The judge smiled indulgently, "That's all right, Jake," he said.
"Profitable enterprises usually have a combination of brains and capital. We are ready to furnish the capital. brief, I will take thirty shares and my brother and a friend fifteen shares each. That will give us a controlling vote. Then I'm sure Lawyer Blake and three or four others will take from five to ten each. There will be no difficulty in floating the stock."

Jake dropped his hammer.
"Do you really mean," he asked huskily, "that you intend to go into this thing?

"I was rather-abrupt with you before because—because I make it a business rule never to go into anything without ample time for deliberation. Understand? Come to my house at 3 o'clock this afternoon and we will fix up the papers. You will be superintendent and general manager."

"Wait a moment, judge," cried Jake as the visitor moved toward the door. "How do you dare to-to trust me? I have heard you say that all of my name were—well, thieves."

"Oh, tut, tut, boy! That was in a moment of petulance. As to trusting you," an enigmatical smile twitching the corners of his mouth, "remember l have known you a good many years. And—er—I am really glad to be associated with the name." With that the judge turned away, chuckling and mur-muring to himself, "I do believe the boy has not seen the paper yet."
'Ten minutes later as Jake was me chanically putting his tools away he heard other footsteps coming around the cabin, this time light, nervous and hurried. Turning, he found himself face to face with Lawyer Blake. "Good morning, Jake. Didn't I see Judge Potter leaving here just now? I hope it wasn't about the boat scheme I was considering."

"Yes, it was just that," Jake answered dryly; "about the boat scheme you refused to consider. He has arranged for shares enough to assure its suc-The lawyer's countenance fell.

"Too bad, too bad, too bad!" he mut-tered. "I had thought the matter over and decided upon that very thing my-self. Well, if it's too late I suppose there is still the railroad scheme? "Yes," faintly.
"Well," more briskly, "I will under-take capitalizing that, then. Come to my office this afternoon and we will arrange the details. We will need you for a general oversight of the business.

of course."

An hour later he was in the postoffice, still dazed and bewildered. His two or three letters were read and slipped into his pocket, then he opened the county paper. Almost the first paragraph was one with the startling headlines:

"Coming Home With Millions of Gold. Mr. John Allsbrook, uncle of our esteemed fellow citizen, Mr. Jake Allsbrook, is probably on his way home with a ton or more of gold. We notice the name and his great success in a current Klondike paper."

Jake crumpled the paper contemptuously. That explained the whole wretched business. Five minutes later he was in the presence of Judge Pot-"There has been a mistake," he began grimly. "My Uncle John is not"-The judge interrupted him blandly. It never occurred to him that there might be a mistake.

"Oh, tut, tut, boy! I see you have the paper. I hope you don't think a man of my position is influenced by a thing like that. Three o'clock, remember. And— Oh, yes, we are going to have a few friends in this evening and we wish you to join us. Mrs. Potter and Edith both desire it."

Jake murmured something and allowed the judge to bow him from the room. This was more stupendous than all the rest. He could grasp the magnitude of a few thousand dollars, but an invitation to the inner circle of so cial life, into the very heart of the social fortress, was incomprehensible. But, in spite of his bewilderment, he found his way to Lawyer Blake's of-fice and listened to another indignant protest against the aspersion of being

"Once, on one of his Kern county ranches, he had a foreman with whom he quarreled. The foreman said, 'If it were not that you are a smaller man than I. I would beat you half to death.' At this Miller threw off his coat and went for the man. The foreman succeeded in giving him a good trouncing, then demanded a set

Cured Mrs. Jas. Murphy and Everyone Else She Recommended Them

River Gangnon, Que., Aug. 28.— (Special).—No complaint is so common among women as Pain-in-the-Back. It is a safe estimate that fully half the women in Canada are afflicted with it. For that reason every evidence that there is a sure and complete cure in existence is thankfully received. And there is abundant evidence that Dodd's Kidney Pills is just such a cure. This district could furnish a dozen cures, but one is enough for an example. but one is enough for an example. The one is that of Mrs. Jas. Murphy.

The one is that of mrs. Jas. Mulphyshe says:

"I suffered for thirty-eight months with a pain in my back. I took just one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and I have never been troubled with the pain since. I also recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to other people, who complained as I did, and in every case the Pills did their duty and brought relief."

THE HAPPINESS OF HOME.

Very largely depends on the mother's disposition: if she is animated and bright, everyone is happy; but if she is nervous, irritable and cross-everything goes wrong. Bright, cheery women usually use Ferrozone, the greatest health-maker known. By acting through the blood Ferrozone is able to reach all the organs that need assistance; it establishes regular and healthy action of all tunctions, builds up the general health, fortifies the system with a reserve of energy that defies discase. Don't put off-Ferrozone costs only 50c, at any drug store; get it to-day.

Declares Northwest Wheat Crop Will Be 90.285,000 Bushels.

Winnipeg, Aug. 26.—An excursion of representative grain men, who have been making a tour of Manitoba and the Territories, returned to the city last night. F. O. Fowler, secretary of the Northwest Grain Association, gives the fellowing particulars, which may be accepted as a conservative estimate of the best body of expert opinion in the west:

the west:
Average yield of wheat for the whole Northwest, 221-2 bushels, with total yield of 90,225,000 bushels.
Grade will be generally Nos. 1 and 2 northern, with unusually large percentage going No. 1 hard.
Twenty-five per cent, of wheat is cut and by Saturday of next week 30 per cent. will be out.
Of the whole wheat crop 50 per cent.

Binder Kills Farmer's Child.

Brandon, Aug. 26.—Daniel McPhee, a farmer who lives just opposite Hay-field postoffice, was cutting wheat in the field near his home when a number of children, among them his own, entered the field.

McPhee ordered them away and they apparently obeyed, as he noticed them some distance away, near the house, a few minutes later. But as he was passing with his binder at a point near ing with his binder at a point near his house he was startled by a cry that came from the wheat close by. A hurried investigation showed his little three-year-old son, Jack, with his leg taken of just above the knee. The little fellow died within an hour. He had wandered away from his compan-ions and was completely hidden by the tall grain.

Beginning the Detroit Tunnel. Detroit, Aug. 26.—Work on the rail-road tunnel, which is to be construct-ed under the Detroit River between Windsor and Detroit began yesterday when a force of workmen were set when a force of workern were set to work sinking the initial shaft on the American side. The actual length of the underground portion of the tunnel will be two and six-tenths miles and the distance from surface to surface almost exactly three miles. Between two and three years will be occupied in the construction.

TERRIBLE BACK PAINS.

They fairly agonize your life. Some-thing powerful and penetrating is needed. Doctors knew nothing so needed. Doctors knew nothing so swift to relieve as Nerviline, a strong penetrating liniment made to cure just such pains as yours. Nerviline is very concentrated, about four times more powerful than ordinary liniments. In the worst cases Polson's Nerviline is extraordinarily good. All muscular pain flees before it. Nearly fifty years in use—a good recommendation, surely.

Skull Worship,
Lecky, in his "History of the Eighteenth Century," shows us that skull worship, strange as it may seem, was simost the only form of devotion in the upper circles of France just prior to the revolution. A skull illuminated by tapers, garlanded with gay ribbons and adorned with pearls might then commonly be found in a devout lady's boudoir. Its pet name was La Belle Mignon, the pretty darling, and the fair devotee was wont to spend a part of devotee was wont to spend a part of every day in prayer and meditation be-for it. The Queen of Louis XV. was much addicted to this, and the skull be-fore which she prayed was said to be that of Ninon de l'Enclos, the noted court beauty, around whom fitted Car-dinal Richelfeu, the great Conde, and La Rochefoucauld every day in prayer and meditation be

MARRIAGE IN INDIA.

the Missionaries Act As Go-Between Christianized Young Hin-

A lady missionary who has spent some years in India and whose work is particularly concerned with an orphanase in Calcutta has given an account of the way in which marriages are arranged in India. She, refers to the marriages between the girls in the orphanages and the young Christian men of the neighborhood and says that scarcely a week passed without the managers of the institution being petitioned by some young man for assistance in obtaining a wife. dus and the Girls.

"Of course we never induce a girl to "Of course we never induce a girl to get married if she does not feel inclining that way." said the missionary, "but the majority of them are perfectly willing, and oftentimes we are petitioned by some girl to let her have the next chance. The choice between the girls rests with us, not the young men, for if the suitors were permitted to meet the girls at the orphanage and make their own choice the fairest girl would inevitably be selected. The Hindoo is not different from other folk in his appreciation of beauty, but the prettiest not different from other folk in his appreciation of beauty, but the prettiest girl might not be the wife best suited to the young men in whose behalf we are working, so we make the choice, and if the girl is willing the young man is informed of the fact. He usually comes to the orphanage accompanied by his nearest feminine relatives, and as a general thing the preliminaries are soon arranged. The period of engagement does not last long, and the couple ment does not last long, and the coupl rarely express any desire to see much of each other. There is no hindrance to a reasonable amount of intercourse, but they do not care for it, and it is not the custom of the country. not the custom of the country. Or course we never let a girl marry from our home unless here future ausband is a Christian, and we make all the ne-cessary inquiries as to his character and his ability to maintain a wife. and his ability to maintain a wife. Girls marry very young in India, the law permitting a girl to become a bride at twelve years of age. We consider sixteen a preferable age, but in India that is considered quite old. As a matter of fact, a girl who is not wedded at eighteen is unlikely to be so unless she should be fancied by some widower."

Co-Operative Farming In England. Go-Operative Farming in England.
Four years ago British farmers organized to promote reciprocal aid, and from the showing made at a recent annual meeting the object of the movement is being carried out. In one year the membership has grown from 4,500 to 6,500, and the society now has branches in thirty-three counties.
One of the important aims of the 80-

One of the important aims of the so ciety is the cheapening of freight rates. This is being done with success by combining farm products in wholesale quantities. General working expenses have been reduced, and in some cases the prices of products have been increased. traiso enables members to buy in wholesale quantities from one central point instead of dribbling out small orders to a large number of producers. Farmers can buy their supplies and implements at wholesale prices, and this is considered so important that prophets are found who see in it the redemption of British agriculture from the low estate to which it has declined. Through the efforts of this associa tion motor transports have been placed on some country roads by railway and other companies and are carry-ing farm products at rates satisfactory to the producers.

AT PORTSMOUTH.

Portsmouth, Aug. 28.—The conference at the navy yard adjourned at 4.30 p. m. Saturday. The official statement says:

"In the sitting of August 26, the conference has proceeded to the signature of the protocol of the previous sittings. The next sitting will be their Monday, August 28, at 3 o'clock in the after-

Adjourned to Tuesday.
At 16 o'clock last night, after a conference between Mr. Takahira and M. Witte the announcement of a further postponement was made M. Witte said that Mr. Takahira had told him that no instructions had reached him from Tokio, and fearing none might be received before the meeting to-day he had suggested the propriety of post-poning the meeting until Tuesday. To this M. Witte said he had readily as-

Mr. Takahira made the following statement, "Inasmuch as this conference was initiated by the friendly ofence was initiated by the friendly offices of your President, after the consultation we felt that we should be cautious about terminating its labors."

Pressed as to whether he regarded the situation as hopeless, Mr. Takahira said: "No, not hopeless, but almost hopeless."

This in itself from one who has spok n always in the most guarded fash on is sufficient to show the despera-tiveness of the situation. The real risis in the negotiations is at hand.

Receivelt Appeals to Tekio.

There is a persistent report that President Roosevelt has made a new appeal to the Emperor of Japan.

CAUSE OF FAILURE FOR PEACE.

Japan's Proposal: Russia to purchase back from Japan the northern half of the island of Sakhalin and pay for it the sum of 1,200,000,000 yen, $600,000,000, for remuneration for the war expenses of Japan.

Rejected.

Russia's Counter Proposal: Japan to yield back to Russia, without payment, the northern half of Sakhalin, and Russia to pay liberally for Japan's care of Russian prisoners, the sum alluded to being $100,000,000.

Paris Newspaper Makes Appeal to World's Richest Citizen.

Paris, Aug. 28.—Owing to the reports from Portsmouth indicating that the question of peace between Russia and Japan hinges solely on Russia paying an indemnity to Japan, The Matin caoled Saturday night the following remarkable appeal to John D. Rocketeller at Cleveland, Ohio:

"The question of money threatens to amloose afresh and with redoubled violence the scourge of war. President Roosevelt is making noble and heroic efforts to end a struggle between two nations, whose populations amount to me-seventh of the entire population of the globe. His initiative honors America in the opinion of civilized nations.

"The question arises as to whether another American would not share the flory of President Roosevelt and complete his work by overcoming the sole obstacle now indering peace. He would thus demonstrate the might of noney in powerful and generous hands.

"The Ma.in. constituting itself spokesman for this sentiment, addresses he lichest citizen in the world."

The appeal concludes with lengthy reguments showing the immense benefits such an act would confer upon ivilization.

Last week the children, who range from 2 to 6 years of age, became ill and physicians suspected arsenic poisoning, but search revealed only one possible clue to the source of the poison, the well. This was dragged and a number of cans were found there, and it is thought possible the water had been poisoned by them. One boy died Tuesday last, another ded Saturday and the third is not expected to live.
