W HY are you waiting, you of Britain's breed? So many gone, and you still ling ring here.

And all the while the growl of cannon near Will you not answer to your country's need? Why do you stand reluctant at the gate? Why do you wait?

British, and idle while your brothers fight! Still weighing ease against your country's call!
They heard, obeyed, and straightway gave up all,
To win immortal laurels in God's sight, Why do you stand reluctant at the gate? Why do you wait?

Britain has called you, answer while you can; You are her sons in whom she placed her trust, Go of your will and not because you must. Shoulder your burden, quit you like a man!

Why do you stand reluctant at the gate? Why do you wait?

For the Empire and its persistence cannot be explained unless we understand that it is a European institution. For us it may justify itself because it is British, its a European institution is a European institution. For us it may justify itself because it is British, its a European institution is a European institution. For us it may justify itself because it is British, is a European institution. For us it may justify itself because it is British, is a European institution. For us it may justify itself because it is British, is a European institution. For us it may justify itself because it is British, is a European institution. For us it may justify itself because it is British, it was found reading congratulatory messages 'rom different parts of the world. Sir Charles Tupper spent his ninetysace; the Angles and Saxons and Jutes fourth birthday quietly on July 2, at Bexlev Heath, England. Considering his advanced age the veteran statesman enjoys good health. On being visited he was found reading congratulatory messages 'rom different parts of the world. Sir Charles Was naturally much pleased at the way in which the anniversary has but to the other peoples of Europe the word British does not mean good. They see our Empire only in its relation to Europe and they do not have our pride in our world power or our conviction that we excel all other nations in our natural capacity for ruling. We may think of ourselves as the modern Rome, just as our enemies think of us as the modern Carwould be a danger to us if we became they themselves are dangerous; and so our island position would be a danger to us if we became they are the word. It is geography that gave us our chance, and geography will turn against us the moment we fail to make a right to it in the moment we fail to make a right to it is a danger of their double frontier, but it is a danger of South African government had offered to organize a contingent of volunteers for service in Europe, and also a force of heavy artillery. by an army organized for conquest unless we first lose command of the sea. We have time to prepare against any swift blow at the liberties of Europe; and we do so because we see that it is also, indirectly, a blow at our own. Napoleon, like Germany now, wished for peace with us while he was dealing with the Continent; but we would not have peace with him, because we knew that after he had dealt with the Continent he would deal with us. And so it is with Germany now. So long as Europe consists of independent nations, we have our island advantage in our relations with them. We are well situated to fight one that had command of all the ports facing us. We should then be only a small island opposed to a large one, an island that could. Therefore it is plainly our interest to prevent Europe from becoming such an island by conquest; and it is also Europe's interest.

VALEDICTORY Mr. Chairman, Friends; It is with mingled emotions of joy and sorrow that we have gathered here this evening for our last meeting as a class. Joy we feel, for Time has winged its swift flight and brought us to the goal toward which we have been struggling. To be a graduate of the historic old Charlotte County Grammar School has long been our ambition, and now our hopes have been realized and we stand to-night with hours in this building; we have learned to love its halls and grounds, where we have worked and played. When the scholars assemble next August we shall not be among them; we shall have passed into the life beyond school life and shall not be here to join them in their work and games.

Now sorrow thrills us as we think that the time has come when we must leave all these behind, and we would linger a all these behind, and we would linger a moment in the places around which so many happy memories cling.
But our course here is finished. We must separate ourselves from the things we have learned to love here at school.

PROGRESS OF THE WAR

[June 29 to July 5]

Thursday, 8th July, 1915.

THE close of the week under review ushered in the twelfth month of active hostilities in the present war. The week witnessed fierce fighting at many points in the enormously extended battlefront; and while the results were momentous, and will have an important effect on future operations, nothing of a really decisive nature transpired. Great activity prevailed in the western theatre from the sea to Alsace, and the theatre from the sea to Alsace, and the net result would appear to be to the advantage of the Germans, though the appointed by Parliament and to field office until removed by a joint vote of both conversity reports are at variance or are quite several reports are at variance or are quite

CLEAN-UP

On Monday Mayor Greenlaw, accompanied by Marshal Rigby and a number of citizens, went to Indian Point gratuitously supplied, they made a most effective beginning of cleaning up the Park, which has long been such an unsightly object in the Town. Between forty and fifty double team loads of old tins and miscellaneous rubbish were tins and miscellaneous rubbish were removed to a refuse dump, and other things done to help to make the Park a park indeed as well as in name. The Mayor and his volunteer assistants worked hard, and earned the praise of all who would like to see the Town beautified. More remains to be done, and we are sure the good work now begun will be continued till the Park becomes not only sure the good work now begun will be continued till the Park becomes not only a source of pleasure to the citizens, but an attraction to visitors and excursionists as well. As eternal vigilance is said to be as well. As eternal vigilance is said to be as well. As eternal vigilance is said to be the price of Liberty, so constant care is necessary to keep the Park in every way attractive; therefore it is well to remind the citizens that they should discontinue the habit of depositing rubbish on the beach in front of the Park, and use instead the dump provided for the purpose. All rubbish that is combustible should be burned.

A Successful Business Career

Successful business mea reagnize as the foundation of their career the early formation of the thrift habit. The accumulation of a competence should be commenced during boyhood. There is little difficulty in sustaining the effort after a beginning has been made. Lasting success in life is not attained, however, until a sound depository is found for one's money.

The controversy has been made more intense by the publication in Der Tag of an article by Admiral Von Truppel in which he counsels acquiescence in the American views and an abandonment of the submarine attacks on merchant vessels. But his counsels may not prevail.

While the week ended without signal advantage to either side, it left both sides in a position of great anxiety and uncertainty. The next week may witness some great undertakings, especially on the part of the central European powers.

BISHOP-GUPTILI

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening June 30, in the Episcopal Church, Grand Harbor, G. M., when the Rector, Rev. Jas. Mason, united in marriags Miss Dora Guptill and Sidney Bishop. Miss Mildred Guptill, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, while Herbert Small acted as best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McDonald, only the relalives and intimate friends being present.

A pretty wedding took place in Beaver Harbor, at the home of Mrs. Martha Bates, at 7 o'clock on Thursday, July 1, when her son Melbourne T. was married to Miss Lottie Bell, of Island Falls, Me. Rev. A. F. Brown officiated. The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreen and roses with a background of flags. A number of relatives were present. The bride was gowned in a dress of white embroidered voile, and carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley. Luncheon was served at the conclusion of the ceremony, followed by a reception. Many beautiful gifts were received. Mr. and Mrs. Bates will reside at Beaver Harbor.

OBITUARY MURRAY BYRON

Campobello, July 5. Late Saturday afternoon the community was shocked and deedly grieved by the news of the tragic death by drowning of Mr. Murray Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Byron, of Welshpool, Campobello, The sad accident happened at Ellershouse, N. S. Full particulars of the sad occurrence.

S. Full particulars of the sad occurence have not yet been recelved, but it has been ascertained it was caused by the upsetting of a canoe in swiftly running water.

The deceased had just completed his second year at King's College, Windsor, where he was fitting himself for the Church of England ministry. He had also offered his services to his country, and had accepted a lieutenant's commission in a Nova Scotia regiment. Mr. Byron was a brilliant young man and possessed a lovable disposition and a spotless character. He was a favourite with everyone on the Island; and his death under such distressing circumstances leaves a vacancy in our nstances leaves a vacancy in ou ing circumstances leaves a vacancy in our community which will be a long time unfilled. Loving friends from Windsor and Halifax will accompany his body to St. John to-morrow to be brought here for burial on Thursday.

Deceased was 23 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron and family have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

St. George, July 3.—The body of Joseph McCormick, who died on Wednesday last at his daughter's home in Northfield, Vt., was brought here for burial on Friday, and on Saturday at 2 p. m. the funeral took place. Mr. McCormick was in his winesterly year. For over sixty years.

took place. Mr. McCormick was in his ninetieth year. For over sixty years he resided here. He was born in Ireland. For years he was engaged in the shoemaking business. About four years ago he went to Vermont to be near his children. He leaves four sons, James, of St. Stephen; Joseph and John, of Vermont, and George, of Chamcook; three daughters, Mrs. Benson, of Potsdam, N. Y.; Mrs. Gilley, of Vancouver, and Mrs. John Berry, of Northfield, Vt. Mr. McCormick was a staunch Orangeman, always taking was a staunch Orangeman, always taking a prominent part in the affairs of the order. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. Spencer, and a large number of Orangemen from the surround-ing district, together with many relatiees and friends, attended.

CAPTAIN CHARLES LUDGE It was with very deep regret that the citizens of St. Andrews heard of the death of Captain Charles Michael Judge, which occurred at his residence here on Monday night at 10 o'clock. He returned to St. And-reminiscences which were a constant source of enjoyment to his hearers. It is not too much to say that no one in the Town will be more missed than "Charlie," by which name he was always familiarly called. The place that knew him once shall know him no more forever. Man goeth to his long home, and the mourners go about the streets. He is survived by two brothers: Hugh, of Woodstock, and Joseph, of Perth, Carleton, Co.; besides a number of relatives in St. Andrews and elsewhere, to all of whom the sympathy of the community will be extended in their bereavement. The funeral took place yesterday at 10 a. m., the services being conducted by Rev. Dr. Meahan in the Church of St. Andrew. Interment by which name he was always familiarly

ST. ANDREWS COURT

Friday last before His Honor, Judge Carleton under the Speedy Trials Act. The youthful criminal pleaded guilty to the charge, and was sentenced to six months in the common jail. Young Miller came here from Rhode Island, and was engaged by Captain Clarke to work on the farm. During the absence of Captain and Mrs. Clarke he took advan tage of his opportunity and broke into the house, and committed the theft for which he is now to suffer punishment. In reply o numerous questions put to him by the Judge before passing sentence upon him, young Miller admitted that before leaving Rhode Island he had stolen twenty-five dollars from his former employer. His Honor intimated, that while he would pronounce upon him the sentence bove stated, he was quite certain the Department of Justice would take the natter in hand and deport the criminal to he United States from whence he came. The Secret Out Judge Carleton while here on Friday last also heard an argument in Chambers relative to an application by Alexander McPherson against the St. Stephen Fox Ranch Company, Limited, under the Act Stuart.

relating to the protection of wage earners. Mr. J. J. H. Doone represented the claimant and M. N. Cockburn, K. C., appeared for the Judgement debtor and for eight judgement creditors. The point involved in the argument turns upon the right of a wage earner to claim the benefit of a lien in the Wage Earner's act, after obtaining judgement and causing the property of the judgement debtor to be seized under execution. After argument by Counsel, His Honor reserved his decision.

RELIGION AT THE FRONT

WITH OUR FIGHTING MEN. The Story of their Faith, Courage, Endurance in the Great War. By William E. Sellers (Religious Tract Society. 2s. 6d. net.)

IT is a common opinion that the occurrence and the long-drawn out agony of the present war imply that religion is largely in a bankrupt condition. If the Gospel, it is urged, were really good for anything, it would have prevented the outbreak of hostilities or, alternatively, it would have secured an early cessation of bloodshed. They generally fought in sun shine and always in radiant armor—metals are flashing all through the tale; they were probably big fair Northerner themselves, and the poems call them "flowing haired." Perhaps Homer's "god-like" was not a bad word for the best of them. Things are different now in the Plain of Troy. "It is unsoldierly to have long hair," our inspecting officers always say, and a French "képi" is a poor substitute for a "glancing helm." The French only made a feint into the Trojan Plain, but they took and hold Sigeum, and the rifles must have been heard crackling all along Scamander and the Xanthus that Achilles choked with dead.

The French are fighting there because the Hellespont is still a "crafty river," though its craft has long since ceased to make Troy rich; and yet, whatever its conduct now, the Hellespont once struck a good blow in a good cause.
