

So Well
since Girlhood

J. Vanderburgh, of Eastern avenue, St. Catharines, Ont., For twenty-one years I was troubled with heart trouble, nervousness, and in the limbs, also of the muscles and nervous system. I became weak, debilitated, emaciated. My condition worsened, and I was made worse by a long stay in hospital, tried a hundred remedies in vain, and finally decided to try it. After having taken a dozen boxes of this preparation, all my troubles had entirely passed away, and I was enjoying the best of health and vigor since girlhood. I am now the life and soul in perfect health.
I can take the most strenuous and fatiguing work of today, and am in my former state.
This remedy is especially valuable for the women because of its nature and its restorative and remarkable effects. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes

An Exile's Song.
I lean from my window that looks over the street,
And send out my spirit to those I would greet.
And, hark! my heart wanders forth and wails,
To a little green valley that's cradled in hills, I'm hearing, instead of a great city's roar,
The sound of the wave as it laps on the shore.
My heart seeks the land where I'm longing to be,
In dear little Acadia, down by the sea.
And in that green valley, how well my heart knows,
Where, through the dyked marches, Annapolis Bay,
Doe-hunted Acadia, drooping in grace,
And great arching elm trees bend o'er the place,
And in the throes lodges that border the stream, The only white may and the sweet herb Apple-blossoms by paths are seen at the Untold Hands.

Old David Griscorn awoke from his after-dinner nap on the front porch with an uneasy feeling, which amounted almost to guilt. He straightened himself in his rockingchair—which his son had insisted on bringing out for him—and glared about defiantly, as if he were denying an imputation that he had been dozing at midday.
In his semi-somnolent condition his first idea was that it was Sunday; but the sound of his daughter-in-law's voice, raising in secular rescendos as she washed the dinner-dishes in the back kitchen, and the shouts of the men loading the teams in the hayfield, brought to him the realisation that, despite his idleness here on the front porch, it was a weekday, after all.

Old David granted. On the impulse of the moment he half rose from the chair; then he settled back in it with all the air of a man who bowed to the inevitable.

Beside him, on the floor of the porch, lay the morning paper, where it had fallen from his hands. Griscorn picked it up, set his spectacles on the bridge of his nose, and read for a time.
Now and then he lifted about the the chair; and the longer he read, the more frequent became these restless squirmings. At length he tossed the paper from him and pushed the spectacles up to his forehead.

"Ain't nothing" in the papers these days," he told himself disgustedly.
"Seems as if they gets worse every year!"
He sat for a while looking thoughtfully at the July sky. The smell of the new-meadow hay came fragrant from the meadow.

"Great hayin' weather," he mused.
"Most always we gets more or less showers in hayin'-time, but there ain't been a drop of rain for more'n a week. I'll bet the lower lot's makin' well."

His keen old ears caught the sound of a creaking hay-rack, as it went rumbling into the barn. A wistful light came into the gray eyes; but he stolidly kept his solitary state in the rocking chair.

Momentarily the smell of the hay grew more compelling; the hay chatter in the barn beckoned him more forcefully; his own idleness bore upon him with more pressing heaviness.
When at length he could stand it no longer, he deserted his chair and stroiled leisurely around the house in the direction of the barn.

His son, a sturdy young farmer of thirty-five, was pitching great forkuls to the man on the mow. He paused to smile pleasantly at the old man, as the latter came up to the rack.

"Hay enough this year, father!" he said, leaning on his fork and mopping his brow.
"You want to get it in before it rains," old David admonished. "The weather ain't goin' to hold on like this forever."
"We'll have the last of it in tonight," the son replied.
"I guess I'll go down with you, next load," said David, "an' rake acterin'." "No, you won't!" the younger man laughingly vetoed. "I told you when I came home an' took the farm this summer that you was goin' to be a real man of leisure, an' that's just what you're goin' to be. I'm the one that's goin' to do the work now."
He began tossing up hay to the mow again, and old David sat down on a near-by grain-chest to watch the proceedings in stony silence, his "I guess I might go over an' hill up a little of that over across the road," he hazarded at length. "I noticed this mornin' it was plenty high enough to begin hillin'!"
"There ain't no hurry about that," said the other from the top of the Old David's face lengthened.

"Well, I might begin Paris-greenin' them potatoes," he suggested as a forward hope.
"There, there," said his son, a bit impatiently. "I wish you wouldn't set yourself about these things! All I want you to do is just to leave them alone."
The old man shuffled out of the barn and sought the front porch again.
He sank into the rocker, and for a moment he gazed moodily at the ceiling, as he sought for words.
At length he brought out one horrid, worn-out, and worn-out chair with a resounding whack.

"Talk 'out takin' things easy!" he exploded disgustedly. "It's about the hardest work I ever done, an' I ain't a goin' to stan' it." With a light of determination in his eyes he got stiffly out of the chair and stalked into the house. When he came out, a few minutes later, he wore his old working-clothes. With many covert glances in the direction of the barn, he made his way to the field across the road. Beside the bean-patch lay a pile of newly cut poles. David threw off his coat and set to work, trimming the poles and planting them upright, one in each hill.

So engrossed was he in his occupation that he failed to note the rapid lengthening of the shadows eastward and the approach of supper-time. A bell jangled lustily from the back door, but old David, absorbed in his work, did not hear it. Indeed, it was not until heavy foot-steps sounded behind him, and he turned to find his son close upon him, that he realized the lateness of his hour.

"Thought I better set ten' these poles," he observed with something of apology in his tones.
"Father, we might just as well have an understandin' in this matter first as last," his son said with finality. "If I'm goin' to run this place, I want to do it. I gave up my place an' come here so you could have things easy, an' you keep right on, just as if I wasn't capable, or as if you wasn't satisfied."

Old David's face twitched uncertainly for a moment. There was something amounting almost to appointment in the glance he gave his son; but the latter's mouth was set in hard lines. The old man picked up his coat.

"I don't want you to think I'm judgin' fault with you, Sam, or that I ain't satisfied," he said hastily. "I promise you I won't raise a finger again."
His son turned back towards the house, and old David silently followed him, a queer half-burnt, half-angry expression on his face.

Directly after the early breakfast the next morning, David came shuf-fling into the kitchen, where his daughter-in-law was shelling peas.
"I wish you'd put me up a lunch, Clara," he said. "I'm goin' to-day an' I don't believe I shall be back to dinner."
"You just tell me what you want, and the cheerful response, an' I'll put it up for you, right away."
"Oh, some sandwiches, an' eggs an' apple an' a bottle of cold coffee," he specified.

"Where are you goin', father?" she asked, as she made her way into the pantry.
The old man grinned sheepishly.
"I was cal'latin' to do a little fishin'," he announced.

"Well, I don't doubt it'll do you good," she agreed heartily. "But you get to be careful not to go too far an' get all tuckered out."
"There ain't no danger of that," said David drily.
He delayed only until the lunch was ready; then, picking up the well-filled dinner-pail, he went out of the house and tramped sturdily down the road through the hot July sunshine.

Supper was nearly over when old David came back that evening. He sank into his place at the table, plainly tired out, but there was a sparkle in his eye, and his whole bearing was of supreme contentment.

"Clara tells me you've been fishin' to-day," said his son. "How'd they bite? Get an'?"
"Nary a one," David chuckled, evidently not in the least downcast by his ill luck.
"Where'd you go?" his son went on.
"Over to Dow's brook," said the old man, as he helped himself liberally to the fried potatoes. "I guess there's fish in there, all right. I'm goin' up again to-morrow an' every day now for a spell till I get some."
"That's right, you go ahead an' enjoy yourself; only look out that you don't get too tired."
David indulged in a quiet smile.
"I guess I ain't no tender plant, I be-over seventy," he announced.

The Country Church.
The country church has always been the mother of men. Christian leaders have come from her care as well as men and women of sound mind and firm will who have succeeded in other spheres of life. The churches and the nation would have been grievously impoverished if these sons and daughters of the village churches had not come out and gone forward and risen to high places.
We need not enumerate them—they are well represented among the great names of our history.

But the coming out and coming forward of these young men and women makes the hardest problem of the country church. She gives of the best of her sons and daughters—not all, by any means, but lavishly—and in giving seems herself to be impoverished. And in this generous giving she has a claim upon the honour and the sympathy not only of these sons and daughters, but also upon every one who loves the Church of Christ. For by her poverty we are made rich, and to her faith and zeal we look for new gifts and sacrifices in the days to come.

What we all need is a deeper sense of fellowship, a recognition of the common life of all churches. The problem has a twofold aspect—that of the people and that of the pastor—and for both the thing which hinders most is and hardest of all to bear is the sense of isolation—the loneliness of unshared and unrecognized work.
That pastor who for eight years had never had the opportunity of exchanging with a brother minister, or spending a Sunday in a different place is, we hope, an extreme instance of isolation; but everywhere the brotherhood of the churches needs to be shown in practical and cordial ways, and not less the brotherhood of city and country than of village and village.

There are practical problems to be met which vary greatly. But the peril of the churches everywhere is doubly grave in isolation and discouragement—the peril of inertia.
For where the elements of an existing strength seem slipping away, the larger use of what remains and the gathering and training of new members are doubly hard. But such depleted churches are face to face with the real problem of the churches everywhere—the winning of the world to Christ. They are where Christ is, at the front, and by faith and unity and courage they must conquer. The weak church venturing all on obedience to Christ's command, though it may fall of large and visible results, will surely in its own life reap a rich reward.

A Storehouse for Poisons.
You may not think so, but that's what you become when the kidneys are affected. These organs cleanse the body; they are the filters that remove from the blood the waste matter that acts like deadly poison on the vitality and health of the system. Dr.
Hamilton's Pills stimulate the kidneys, expel fermenting matter from the bowels, restore the liver and stimulate all excretory and secretory organs. This enables the blood to quickly replenish itself and establish perfect health. No medicine does such lasting good as Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, 25c at all dealers.

Helps Men to Work Hard.
That's what Ferronze does; it supplies the additional strength that enables a man to maintain health under difficulties. Last spring I was so completely lagged out I could not work," writes J. W. McNichol of Turahall, Minn. "In the morning I was tired—limbs ache all over. Had no appetite, was sleepless, nervous and unhappy. Ferronze put new life into me. Now I eat heartily, nerves are strong, I sleep well. I know the joy of health." It's by supplying the nourishment and good blood that Ferronze builds up; try it—50c per box at all dealers.

Living Room vs Parlor.
The parlor as a parlor will soon be a relic of the past. The very name seems to suggest stiffness and lack of comfort. The new houses, even the most modest ones, will have the best room, the one in which the whole family gathers, a warm sunny place, a home room in its truest sense. The next generation will not waste space on parlors. Perhaps a little library, for privacy, will also be indispensable.
This cherry room of the future will hold the piano, the general books, the pictures, work baskets and everything that serves to make home a haven of rest for loyal hearts. Speed the day.—Ex.

Much of the left-over food you now throw out can be turned into delicious dishes by the addition of a little Bovril.

It gives warmed-over meats the juiciness of the original cooking.
It gives body and strength to soups and gravies.
It gives a delicious, piquant flavor to cold meats and hashes.
Every day you will find Bovril a help and an economy in your kitchen.
Bovril contains the essence, flavor and nutrient substance of the very best beef. It gives strength and nourishment to the invalid, and helpfulness and economy to the cook.

All the vital activities of the body are quickened into new vigor by Fer-rozone, which contains all the constituents necessary to make nerve strength.
Its first action is upon digestion.
It stimulates the secretion of gastric juice; ensures perfect digestion and prepares the food so as to be easily assimilated.
Thus everything you eat is converted into nourishment that enriches the blood and lends new strength to the nerves.
By Ferronze the mind is relieved of those brooding tendencies, of morbid unnatural fears of unwelcome to concentrate attention on things that should be done.
Won't you try Ferronze?
Won't you give it a chance to win you back to health; it will do it, just as it did for Mrs. Creighton Zineck of Palm St., Lunenburg, N.S., who says: "I want to give my experience with Ferronze because I believe it will be of assistance to thousands of women who need it badly. I was very thin, tired down in flesh and lacked color.
My nerves were in a dreadful state. If anything fell I would jump and start.
At night I would suddenly wake up, heart palpitating and all keyed up.
Ferronze went right to work. It restored my poise and balance, gave me self-control, cured my nervousness.
Ferronze increased my appetite and my weight came up so fast that I simply didn't need to use it any longer." Right boxes cured me.
Why won't you use Ferronze also, it certainly will do you good in many ways—sold by all druggists in 50c boxes.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., DEC. 6, 1907.

Sanctum Suggestions.

Those who desire to participate in the Christmas trade will do well to remember that the grand old holiday will soon be upon us. The time is short and those who wish to reach buyers through the medium of THE ACADIAN's advertisement columns should make no delay in securing space. We are issuing a large number of extra copies through the holiday season which enhances the value of our advertisement space. That the advertisers are not slow to appreciate the advantages of THE ACADIAN as a medium through which to reach the public will be apparent on examination of our columns this week.

This week's issue of the Maritime Baptist is an "Educational Number" and is especially interesting to Wolfville people. It contains a history of the Acadia First Forward Movement and much other interesting matter, besides good illustrations of the members of the faculty, principals of the Seminary and Academy, Dr. Cohoon, Dr. N. L. Archibald, the late Dr. Sawyer, and is a very creditable production.

We wish to thank the large number who have responded to our paragraph of last week concerning overdue subscriptions. There are yet a great many, however, who have not made any response, and upon these we would urge the desirability of an early payment. It has missed you in sending out statements just send what you think you owe and it will be duly credited to your account.

Town Council.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Council on Wednesday evening the Mayor and all the Council except Coun. Fitch were present.

The Finance Committee reported receipts for month of November $2,743.62, and expenditure for the same time $1,112.77. The debit balance at the bank on Dec. 31st, was $1,768.80 and on Nov. 30th $1,616.16.

Application was received from F. A. Simon for permission to conduct a slaughter-house on the premises now occupied by him in the south end of the town. On motion permission was granted subject to the by-laws and the approval of the health officer and sanitary inspector.

Distribution of Seed Grain

AND POTATOES FROM THE CENTRAL EXPERIMENTAL FARM, OTTAWA, 1907-8.

By instruction of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a distribution is being made this season of samples of superior sorts of grain and potatoes to Canadian farmers for the improvement of seed. The stock for distribution has been secured mainly from the Experimental Farms at Indian Head, Sask., and Brandon, Man. The samples consist of oats, spring wheat, barley, Indian corn (for ensilage only) and potatoes. The quantity of oats sent is 4 lbs., and of wheat or barley 5 lbs., sufficient in each case to sow one-twentieth of an acre. The samples of Indian corn and potatoes weight 3 lbs. each. A quantity of each of the following varieties has been secured for this distribution.

OATS. — Banner, Wide-Awake, White Giant, Danish Island, Thousand Dollar, Improved Ligowo, all white varieties. Black oats are not recommended for general cultivation, a few samples, however, are available which can be sent if specially asked for.

WHEAT. — Red Fife (beardless); Preston, Pringle's Champion and Huron (early bearded sorts); Percy and Stanley (early bearded varieties).
Barley. — Six rowed.—Menury, Odessa, Mansfield and Claude. Two rowed.—Standwell, Invincible, Canadian Thorpe and Sydney.

Indian Corn (for ensilage)—Early sorts, Angel of Midnight, Compton's Early and Longflow; later varieties, Selected Learning, Early Mastodon and White Cap Yellow Dent.

Potatoes. — Early varieties, Early White Prize and Rochester Rose. Medium to late varieties, Carman No. 1 and late Puritan. These later varieties are as a rule more productive than the earlier kinds.

Only one sample can be sent to each applicant, hence if an individual receives a sample of oats he cannot also receive one of wheat, barley, Indian corn, or potatoes. List of names from one individual, or applications for more than one sample for one household, cannot be entertained. The samples will be sent free of charge through the mail.

Application should be addressed to the Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, and may be sent in any time before the 15th of February, after which the lists will be closed, so that the samples asked for may be sent out in good time for sowing. Applicants should mention the variety they prefer, with a second sort as an alternative. Applications will be filled in the order in which they are received, so long as the supply of seeds lasts. Farmers are advised to apply early to avoid possible disappointment. Those applying for Indian corn or potatoes should bear in mind that the corn is not distributed until April, and that potatoes cannot be mailed from here until danger from frost in transit is over. No postage is required on mail matter addressed to the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The Rising Tide.

The Montreal Witness (Liberal) observes that there is in the result of the Colchester election a warning for the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. We quote:—

"We are promised strenuous times in parliament this session. The Conservatives, led by their champion, Mr. Borden, are in a fighting mood and very naturally heartened by their victory in Colchester, by which they have broken the solid Liberal phalanx of Nova Scotia. One fly does not make a summer, of course, and the capture of one constituency does not mean an early outset of the Liberal government. Still it is a feat, seeing that Mr. Fielding personally joined in the fray, and that all the influence of the government, active and potential, was exerted on behalf of the Liberal government. The government, however, still has a long journey of over sixty, and can afford another lesson or two of the same kind, especially if the lesson is learned in time. Much will depend upon the character of the legislation it introduces and passes this session, especially upon the character of its bill to amend the Election Act. Upon that it will be largely judged, and upon that largely its fate will depend."

There has been a marked change in public sentiment in Canada since the last session of parliament. The defeat of a Liberal candidate in Colchester is not an isolate illustration. The feeling that the Liberal party is not invincible has grown with the increasing evidence that it is far from perfect. At the same time the leader of the opposition has grown in public estimation as a statesman. The odds between the parties are far less than they were at the time of the last general election, or than they were even one year ago. It is a clear perception of this fact that prompts the Montreal Witness to speak a word of warning and of counsel.

Ashley Fullerton, who, when a boy residing at Round Hill, published the Endeavor Signal, and afterward edited the Digby Courier, has made a new venture into journalism by projecting the publication of a paper at Edmonton. It will be called The West Land, and, as we believe, to be connected in the interests of the Presbyterian Church in the West.

The men charged with conspiracy in the Hyman election case in London, Ont., have been found guilty. This action seems to dispose of the statement that the fallure of the Liberals to nominate a candidate in London at the recent by-election was the result of a "raw off" of this case.

The Alumni Fair.

The Alumnae Fair promises to be very successful. Already a large number of articles have been received for the sale. They include fine needlework in a great variety of forms, daintily useful articles made from handkerchiefs, beautiful china, much of which is hand-painted, leather work, burnt work novel bits of metal-ware, artistic calendars and Christmas cards, choice books, fine pictures and other things. One picture deserves special mention. It is a reproduction of "Galileo in his Studio." The picture is 23x16 inches and its frame is a most appropriate setting. Alumnae Hall will be fitted up with booths for the display of the above mentioned articles. Much thought has been given to the decoration of this room and we believe it will be worth a visit to the Fair to see it. If for nothing else, on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 14th, two hours will be given to children in a room especially prepared to please their fancy. The little folk will find there a Christmas tree laden with about everything Santa Claus carries in his sleigh. The Gymnasium, which is commodious, will be used as a tea room. It will have many attractions to minister to the social side of the Fair. No one should miss so profitable and pleasing an occasion as the Fair will be.

Ottawa Papers Silent in Regard to Y. M. C. A. Banquet.
Ottawa, Ont., November 28.—A remarkable incident in newspaper circles was noted in the Capital yesterday. On Tuesday night Sir Frederick Borden spoke at the Y. M. C. A. at an enthusiastic banquet upon the subject of physical culture, and wound up with a strongly personal note, up on saints and sinners. Not one of the city newspapers published a line in reference to it, though their reporters attended and wrote it up. Even the Government organ was silent.

The C. P. R. liner Mount Temple, bound from Antwerp for St. John's, went ashore on Ironbound Island, at the mouth of the LaHave river on Monday morning last in a blinding snow-storm. There were 630 passengers and a crew of 100 men, all of whom were saved.

News has been received of the death of Henry Harris, a former resident of Wolfville, in British Columbia, where he had been making his home with his daughter. Mr. Harris lived for many years on the place now occupied by Mr. J. Oscar Harris at Lower Wolfville. He is survived by three children—Edgar, who is a sea captain; Carrie J., a writer of some note, now married and residing in British Columbia; and Lewis, who also lives in British Columbia. Two sons, William and Henry, were drowned at sea, the former having been one of the crew of the ill-fated schooner Escape, which was lost in the Bay of Fundy with all hands while on a voyage to Boston with a cargo of potatoes over thirty years ago.

Seminary Notes.

The 'Herites' Concert given last Friday evening was a pronounced success. Miss Herites is a violinist possessing remarkable technique. She secures fine tone qualities and is most pleasing in her platform presence. From the very first she carried her audience with her and their insistent applause secured two numbers additional to the program.

The program was varied by the substitution of 'Humoresque' by Dvorak and by the omission of the 'Moto Perpetuo.' The audience were in part compensated for this omission by the 'Bohemian Dance' by Sevcik and the 'Slav Melody' by Korostienko. The most enjoyable and most appreciated number was the Vientempo 'Concerto.' Here Miss Herites did her best work. Her playing was of a high order, every number revealing a new feature of artistic excellence.

The program was enriched by a vocal solo by Miss Merson and a piano solo by Mr. Ringwald. The former never sang so well as in her rendition of 'Caro Mio Ben'; the latter played the 'Marche Militaire' by Schubert with spirit and dash but appearing to best advantage in his exquisite rendering of a German Folk Song with variations by Chopin.

Miss Herites was accompanied by Mr. Ringwald who discharged a most difficult task in most commendable style. With only one rehearsal, much of the music new to him and technically extremely difficult, Mr. Ringwald's task was no unsecure. To read so rapidly music never before attempted and to anticipate the artist's desire in passages of remarkable difficulty was a colossal task for the most part extremely well executed.

The thanks of Wolfville is due the Seminary for the rare musical opportunity. The only matter for regret is that so few of the people of Wolfville outside those immediately interested in the Institutions seem to appreciate such an opportunity. In time, with persistent effort, the requisite atmosphere which appreciates and supports such undertakings as the Herites Concert will be created. Progress is being made, and by this Seminary activity should be encouraged. To meet such a large financial responsibility with a nominal deficit is a gain.

Mr. H. R. Lawford, who for the past three years has filled the position of editor and manager of the Western Chronicle, has severed his connection with that paper and goes to Boston to take a position.

Rev. J. D. Spidle, of Kentville, has received a unanimous call to the pastorate of the Calvary Baptist church at North Sydney. This church pays $1,000 salary, and a parsonage.

Mr. W. Syson, who has resided for some years in this neighborhood, left this week for British Columbia. His departure is a very serious loss to St. John's church, in connection with which as vestryman and choir leader he has rendered valuable service. His departure will be especially felt in regard to the choir, which by his unremitting exertions he organized and kept up for a number of years. The good wishes of THE ACADIAN and his numerous friends follow him to his new home in the far west.

The social held last night in the Main street Baptist church was largely attended. The affair took the form of an Acadia social, the decorations being in garnet and blue, the college colors. Acadia banners and sofa pillows were also much in evidence about the tea room and vestry. Dr. W. B. Hutchinson, Acadia's president, was present and gave a short address. Mrs. McMaster and Mrs. T. H. Estabrook assisted by six young ladies had charge of the tea room. The gathering broke up with the Acadia college yell given by a number of the students who were present.—St. John Sun of Dec. 3rd.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ACADIAN.
DEAR SIR.—I am sure we all heartily agree with your editorial remarks in connection of the lines of partiality in the collection of taxes. Montreal has 22,000 disqualified electors because of unpaid taxes. No one has been jailed or threatened with "snappers" if not paid quick. No policeman has been known to enter any citizen's residence, and threaten the "snappers" if his taxes were not paid.

At Dawson City, Yukon, if a policeman, or town clerk, or even a mayor, should enter a store, or private residence, they would be shot straightway, and there is much to be said in behalf of that custom.

Constipation, Kidney Trouble

Mr. J. A. Buchner, Port Robinson, Ont., writes:—"For many years I was the unhappy victim of kidney trouble, rheumatism and constipation, which became so bad as to make life a burden. I was a constant sufferer and at times completely unfit for anything. The appetite was feeble, and I became thin and emaciated. I could not sleep and would arise languid and tired."

"A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I am thankful that they fell into my hands. The first box gave relief and hope and I continued to use these pills until the time came when I was enjoying my former good health and vigor. It took about eight boxes to make the cure complete, and I shall always recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as an ideal medicine. I am giving this testimony for the benefit of others suffering as I did."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all druggists, or Edmundson, Eaton & Co., Toronto.
