Miramichi Boy Gives Life For Empire

Pte. Courtney Matchett Dies From Effects of Gas—Pte. Gordon Leslie Seriously Wounded

Another Miramichi family have been called upon to mourn the loss of a beloved son, on the battlefields of freedom in France. Word having been received that Private Courtney Matchett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Matchett of Sunny Corner had succumbed to an attack of gas. Private Matchett enlisted with the 132nd Battalion and after a strenuous training at Witley Camp crossed to France, where he has seen much service in the firing line. He was admitted to the Hospital on July 26th suffering from effects of gas and passed away a few days later. He was a faithful member of St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church and a general favorite in the community. Much sympathy is expressed to the bereaved relatives.

Pte. Gordon Leslie has been seriously wounded in the arms and legs according to information received by his mother, Mrs. Margaret Leslie on Saturday. "Gordon" was one of the first Newcastle boys to enlist in the present war, going overseas with the "Fighting 25th" and although he has been through all the big battles with this unit it is the first time he has come in contact with a German shell, although he was confined to the hospital for some time for blood-poisoning caused by barbed wire.

K. of C. Drive Starts Next Week

Canada Wide Movement to Raise One Million Dollars For Army Huts

A Canada Wide Drive in the interest of the Knights of Columbus. Hut Fund, will be inaugurated on next month and continued for one week. The amount aimed to be raised in Canada is one million dollars and of this amount $100,000 has been allotted to the Maritime Provinces.

The total amount raised will be used to build and equip army huts in France, that will serve as homes for Canadians of all classes, creeds and colors. It is not the intention to duplicate work now done by the Y. M. C. A. Each has its own field and they both have special qualifications for doing their own work that the other must necessarily lack. The fact that the United States recognizes the Hebrew Relief Association, the Y. M. C. A., the K. of C., as well as the Red Cross, shows that each of these has its own work to do.

A meeting in the interest of the Fund for West Northumberland was held in the town hall, last evening. Police Magistrate Lavelle presided and there was a large attendance.

It was decided that the work of organizing the Parishes be proceeded with at once and that subscriptions be solicited by a house to house canvass.

THE ALLIED DRIVE GROWS IN MOVEMENT

Upwards of 40,000 Prisoners Taken Since Last Thursday in Picardy Sector--Canadians and Australians Lead The Way

Tuesday

The rapid allied advance has become slower and steeper. The enemy has endeavored to make a stand north of the Vesle and are using big guns and flame projectors. Despite heavy German heavy artillery shelling the Americans still hold Fismes. The tank steamer Lux Blanca was sunk thirty miles off Halifax by a German submarine after a three hour battle. The enemy took some ground from the British along the Bray-Corbis road.

Wednesday

British troops regained all the ground along the Bray-Corbis road lost yesterday. Heavy German counter attacks along the Vesle have been repulsed. The French have occupied the station of Ciry-Salonge and made some progress north of Montdidier. The Diamond Shoals Lightship, off Cape Hatteras was shelled and sunk by an enemy U. Boat. Allied troops have been landed at Vladivostok, Russia. The was appointed to look after the necessary advertising.

Blasheviki troops have been defeated by Allies near Archangel and are fleeing southward. Louis J. Malvy, former French Minister of the Interior, has been convicted of holding communication with the enemy and sentenced to banishment for five years.

Thursday

Franco-British troops commenced an offensive against the enemy on the Picardy salient between Amiens and Montdidier. The attack is on a large scale on a twenty mile front. The American and French troops renewed their attack against the Crown Prince's army on the Vesle.

Friday

In the attack against the German lines, which began Thursday morning in the Picardy front. The British troops have advanced to a maximum depth of twelve miles and captured 14,000 prisoners. Maricourt has been captured.

Advices from the battle front south of the Somme are that British cavalry, armored cars and tanks, in advance of the infantry, have reached within a mile of the Chaules railway junction, and the fighting

Registration Card Of Newcastle Man

Responsible for His Securing Important Appointment In Toronto

At least one Newcastle man has changed his occupation as the result of the Registration of Man and Woman Power, of Canada on June 22nd last and that man is none other than Mr. Allan Menzies, who for the past three years has been the proprietor of the Waverly Hotel here. Mr. Menzies, who for some years made a study of the manufacture of artificial limbs before going into the hotel business in answer to the question, "What other work can you do as well?" which appeared in the Registration Card, stated that he understood the making of artificial limbs.

Mr. Menzies thought no more of the matter until about two weeks ago, when he received a telegram asking him to go to Halifax, which he did, and was there questioned in regard to his ability, which proved a pleasant surprise to the officials and Mr. Menzies was then asked to go to Toronto to take charge of a branch there, where this work is being carried on, and on Wednesday last, he left to take up his new duties, happy in the thoughts that he is able to serve his country as well at home, as the physically fit are overseas.

continues fiercely along the entire Anglo-French attack front.

The Germans are evacuating their positions in the Lys Valley on the Flanders front.

On the Lys front the British now hold Locon, Lecornet, Maig, Quentin, Le Petit Paquet and Le Sart.

Saturday

The number of prisoners taken from the Germans in the fighting in Picardy has increased to twenty-four thousand.

The important town of Montdidier, which was approximately at the apex of the German salient south of the Somme, has been captured by the Allies.

Commander Behringer, the man who sank the Lusitania was destroyed together by his submarine in September 1917 by a British Mine according to German reports just published.

The British Consul in Russia has been arrested by the Bolsheviks, who have also forwarded an ultimatum to Japan.

Sunday

The wings of the salient which the Allies have driven into the German positions in the Somme area have crumbled away and with them the entire enemy defense in the Montdidier salient has collapsed. The Allied push has now become a straight ahead drive in which the divisions of the Crown Prince and those of Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria are fleeing headlong for safety to the line of the Somme and the Vesle and Noyon Canal. Between the Ancre and the Oise, the Allies have driven a hole in the German line with a width of fifty miles.

Monday

Allied forces now have pushed fully fifteen miles into enemy territory from the original line. According to latest reports, they have passed both Chaules and Roye. Before the Allied offensive comes to a halt, many more German prisoners and guns are likely to be taken. The total number now is more than 40,000 prisoners and 500 cannon.

Chaules, the important railway town in the heart of the Somme battlefield, and the key to the southern line of the German salient, has been captured by Australian and Canadian troops.

Nine fishing schooners were sunk off George's Bank Sunday by a German submarine.

A military unit of four thousand men will be sent from Canada to Russia to assist the Czech-Slovaks.

Tuesday

The French launched an attack this morning on the southern part of the Picardy battlefield and at noon were making progress in the Oise valley.

German trenches in the bend of the river west of Bailly have been occupied by the French.

The village of L'Econville has been captured and further ground has been gained north of the St. Claude farm.

Loggieville Boy Killed in France

Pte. Clarence Tait Makes Supreme Sacrifice—Loggieville Personal

Loggieville, Aug. 10 — A gloom cast over our town this week, caused by the tidings which reached here on Wednesday afternoon, of the death in action of Pte. Clarence Tait, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tait of this place, who has been in the country's service for something less than a year. He enlisted with the Killis Battalion in August, going overseas in November, and into the trenches in March. Clarence was a young man of great promise, and a general favorite with his companions. He manifested in his life the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit. His letters to his home folks always sounded a note of cheer. He was 24 years of age, and is survived by his mother, father, four sisters, Mrs. Wilfred Daley of Stonehaven; Miss Mildred Tait, 11 N. of Bothurst, and Pearl and Jennie at home, and one brother, Pte. Willie Tait at Camp Sussex. The bereaved relatives have the sympathy of the community as they mourn the loss of the brave young hero, who so willingly made the supreme sacrifice.

Pte. Jack Johnstone and Pte. Willie Tait of Camp Sussex are spending a few days at their homes here.

Johnson March's many friends are sorry to learn of his illness. He was taken to the Chatham hospital this week, for an appendicitis operation.

Miss Fillmore of Sackville is the guest of Miss Hazel Johnstone.

Miss J. McDonald is visiting at the home of her uncle, Dr. McKenzie.

Rev. F. W. Thompson, who has been given a month's vacation, left town on Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Will Stymiest of Newcastle is visiting at the home of Mrs. Dickie.

The evening of the 9th inst was the date chosen to complete the postponed picnic races of the 30th.

A large crowd of men, women and children assembled on the racing grounds about 6.30, and two hours were pleasantly spent. Thirty five or forty prizes were awarded, after which the Sunday School scholars were treated to candy. The gathering broke up with the singing of the National Anthem.

Miss Lou Mesereau of Chatham and Mrs. Wm Mesereau of U. S. A visited friends here during the past week.

Miss Louise Walls, accompanied by her friend Miss Asquith spent the past week at the home of Mrs. Asa Walls, Rockheads, and visited friends in town, previous to her return to Ottawa.

Mrs. Frank Godfrey, spent the past week in town, at the home of James McLean. Frank's many friends are glad to learn of his improved health.

Mrs. Alex Dickson, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Loggie, recently went to Bay du Vin, to be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Williston for a time.

Miss Lou Manderson has returned to hospital work in Bath, Maine.

Miss Evelyn Heitrich who visited Miss Bertie Demsey for the past week, has returned to her home down river.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was dispensed in Knox Church on the morning of the 4th inst. The service was attended by a large congregation. The pastor was assisted by Rev. A. V. Morahan of Sussex. The service throughout was a most impressive one. The choir rendered nicely the anthem "This is My Commandment that ye love one another as I have loved you." At the evening service a grand sermon was preached by the visiting pastor, who also sang in beautiful voice the solo "Face to Face."

At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Orange lodge of this place the following letter of sympathy was drawn up and forwarded:—

Loggieville, N. B., July 26th 1918

Miss Zena Walls:— Dear Sister: We, the members of L. O. B. A. No 145 wish to extend to you our heartfelt sympathy in your loss of a kind and loving uncle, one that was more than an uncle to you, more like a brother or father. You will miss him as a counsellor and adviser, but you must bear the loss with fortitude and patience, knowing that He who rules the universe knows all things, and directs (Continued on page 8)

WRECK A WIRELESS MAST.

Wrecked 400 Feet in Air—King Rewards Rescuers.

It is announced in the London Gazette that the King has awarded the Albert Medal in gold to Nicholas Rath, seaman, R.N.R., and the Albert Medal to Richard Knoullton, ordinary seaman, R.N., and George Faucott Pitts Abbott, deckhand, R.N.R. (trawler section), in recognition of their gallantry in saving life in the following circumstances:

On Sept. 14th, 1917, a seaplane collided with a Poulson mast and remained wedged in it, the pilot (Acting Flight Commander E. A. de Ville) being rendered unconscious and thrown out of his seat on to one of the wings.

The three men above mentioned at once climbed up the mast for 100 feet, when Rath, making use of the boatswain's chair, which moves on the inside of the mast, was hoisted up by men at the foot of the mast to the place, over 300 feet from the ground, where the seaplane was fixed.

Having secured the pilot with the gantline, Rath, with the assistance of Knoullton and Abbott, lifted him from the plane to the inside of the mast and lowered him to the ground.

Famous Gainsborough.

Gainsborough's famous painting, "Blue Boy," remains in the Hearn family, Mrs. Clarkson Cowl, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. Hearn, paying $38,000 for it after a series of spirited bids at the closing night of the sale of Hearn pictures.

British Humor.

The number of consulting physicians in England has become so reduced as a result of mobilization and overwork on the part of those not called to active duty, owing to accidents, that invalids and those subject to everyday maladies are requested to refrain from sending for the doctor for "every little ache and pain."

Victory for Women.

How the women first heard of the victory of their cause in the House of Lords is told by the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, with the preface remark that "The women who went to Parliament for the last stage of the bill," he says, "were addressed by the policeman on duty at the door with these words: 'Don't be afraid, ladies, you're sure to win.' They had to leave the chamber during the division and waited anxiously outside. Presently, before any of the lords had time to reach them, the door opened and the policeman beamed, upon them. 'Ladies, you have won, hands down.'"

Two British soldiers went into a restaurant at Salonica and asked for Turkey with Greece, according to a foolishly-inclined contemporary. The waiter said: "I'm sorry, gentlemen, but I can't serve," whereupon the Tommies cried, "Fetch the Bosphorus!" When that gentleman arrived and heard the complaint the manager said: "Well, gentlemen, I don't want to Russia, but you cannot Roumania." And so the poor Tommies had to go away Hungry.

A Horse Trade Aired In Court

Edward Dalton Wins Suit Against M. A. Keoughan of Chatham on Horse Deal

"When a horse delivered" was the question up for decision in the Newcastle Court last Tuesday before Magistrate Lawlor. The case in question was that of Edward Dalton vs. M. A. Keoughan, of Chatham, for recovery of $35.66, balance due in a horse trade. It appears that some months ago Messrs Dalton and Keoughan had traded horses and the latter owed Mr. Dalton $80.00 as a result of the deal, $45.00 of this was paid by defendant, and the balance was to be discharged by another trade, in which Mr. Dalton was to exchange a yellow horse for a black one owned by Keoughan. A few weeks ago Mr. Keoughan called at Mr Dalton's Stable in Chatham and there procured the yellow horse, and accompanied by William Ashford, of Chatham took it to his own stable, and there turned over to Mr. Ashford the black horse, which was a party in the trade, but Ashford had only gone a few yards when the black horse lay down and died, and Ashford, obeying orders from Mr. Dalton's Chatham manager returned the yellow horse to Mr. Dalton's barn. Hence the suit.

Mr. Keoughan, claimed that he had made the delivery to Mr. Dalton's agent, of the black horse, and therefore the debt was discharged, while on the other hand, Mr Dalton's contention was that Ashford was not his agent but Keoughan's, and therefore the horse was not delivered by Ashford to return the yellow one.

After some consideration the jury awarded the plaintiff the full amount of his claim with costs. J. A. Creaghan appeared for plaintiff and George M. McDade for defendant.

The First Line of Defense

Pure blood is the body's first line of defense against disease. Strong healthy blood neutralizes the poisons of invading germs, or destroy the germs themselves. That is why many people exposed to disease do not contract it. These whose blood is weak and watery, and therefore lacking in defensive power are most liable to infection. Everybody may observe that healthy, red-blooded people are less liable to colds and the grippe, than pale, bloodless people. It is the bloodless people who tire easily, who are short of breath at slight exertion, who have poor appetites, and who wake up in the morning as if dead. While women and girls chiefly suffer from bloodlessness the trouble also affects boys and men. It simply affects girls and women to a greater demand upon their blood supply. To renew and build up the blood there is no remedy so equal. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They tone up the entire system, make the blood rich and red, feed and strengthen starving nerves, increase the appetite, put color in the cheeks, give refreshing sleep and drive away that unnatural tired feeling. Plenty of sunlight and wholesome food will do the rest.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mystery Of The Nova Scotia Coast

Who is Occupant of Lonely Island?

Said He was German Before the War, but Swiss when the War Broke Out.

(Halifax Herald)
Bridgewater, N. S. July 31.—The glories of Captain Kidd and his fabulous buried treasures, which brought fame to Oak Island and tourists to Chester, are fading away and give promise of being entirely eclipsed.

It is not Oak Island now, or buried treasure, that is agitating the people of this country. For a greater mystery commands attention. Instead of Oak Island and buried treasure the people have something of an up-to-date nature to talk about.

Far away out on a Chester Island, a grim, almost entirely uninhabited island, standing by itself like a sentinel of the sea guarding Chester Basin and washed by the waves of the broad Atlantic, the latest "mystery" moves in its mysterious ways.

But to get down to brass tacks. About two years before the war broke out a gentleman came to Chester. It was then somewhat of a cosmopolitan community. Americans predominated. But others came with the Americans. Distinguished visitors from foreign lands, including Germans, often visited American friends at this famous summer resort. The gentleman referred to was said to be a German when he first came to bask in the sunshine and enjoy the beauties of this lovely spot. He came again and was still thought to be a German. When war broke out he returned, but this time he was not a German. He was a Swiss. That's what war can do for one man.

Last year, some time in December, when Chester was slumbering after its strenuous summer's dissipation, and when the cold winds were sweeping in from the Atlantic, this Swiss, for you see he is now a "Swiss," unable to withstand the seductions of Chester's charms, returned and registered at one of the hotels there, and it was announced he had come to buy a bungalow in order that he might be in a position to enjoy the delights in the summer months to follow. He did not buy a bungalow, it appears, but went out to a lonely island.

And this is where the mystery comes in. The war seems to have made some people very sensitive. Instance, when the Swiss gentleman returned again this spring and has stayed on that lonely and almost God-forsaken rock for three long months "painting pictures," they actually began to shake their heads, and would you believe it, there are people who think that fancy paints artist is not all that fancy paints him. They argue this way: The island is well out in the ocean. It is lonely and deserted. People do not go there for recreation purposes. It has no hotels. There is no company. The delicacies which man looks for are not to be had there for love or money. There is no scenery save the ever-welling and storm-tossed ocean which beats upon the shores and croons over the rocks.

Of course there is a great speedway for a motor boat. The whole ocean is there to command. And the artist, this Swiss artist, is reputed to be a bend for motor boat traveling, staying in it not at all, night or day, principally at night.

This island is a great place to intercept a ship headed along the coast providing you have a fast motor boat staunch enough to put out to sea. Some go further and say it would be a great place for a German to signal enemy submarines or hostile craft, but it must be remembered the artist is not a German, now. He is a Swiss and Switzerland is a neutral country. They point out that a man with a swift motor boat could put out to sea and convey information to an enemy craft from this lonely island and nobody would be the wiser. I hear it said that a man who knew how, could rig up a Marconi Wireless outfit on this island and send out messages or intercept messages, and a man with a good, speedy motor boat could run into Halifax, secure all the information he desired from his confederates—for it must be admitted there are spies in Halifax—run out again, and, by intercepting one of Williams' baby slaughter houses, send "home" the news which, perchance, would make women weep and strong men shudder.

That's the way the people are talking. That is why the other ship William is gagging into oblivion. Fate William Yidd and his treasures were a bit of a myth, but this Pheta Williams and his baby killing craft is no myth, and the people say his heads and say no good can come of it.

You see we are a simple living folk and strange notions get on our nerves.

Girls Whiten Skin! With Lemon Juice

Make a beauty lotion for a few cents to remove tan, freckles, and sallowness.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply you with three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Squeeze the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle, and shake well. This makes a quarter pint of the very best lemon skin whitener and complexion beautifier known. Massage this fragrant, creamy lotion daily into the face, neck, arms and hands and just see how freckles, tan, sallowness, redness and roughness disappear and how smooth, soft and clear the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless, and the beautiful results will surprise you.

Laugh When People Step On Your Feet

Try this yourself then pass it along to others. It works!

Ouch! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called frezzone when applied to a tender, aching corn stops soreness at once, and soon the corn dries up and falls right out without pain. He says frezzone is an ether compound which dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin. A quantity of an ounce of frezzone will cost very little at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn by softening and drying it. Millions of corns are removed every day. This announcement alone is the justification of the high price.

Carnegie Medal For Capt. Edgar March

Popular Commandant at Wireless Garrison Honored for Bravery in Peace as well as War

(St. John Standard)

Word has reached the city that Captain J. Edgar March, a veteran of the "Fighting 26th," and now officer commanding the guard company at the wireless station at New-castle, is to receive a Carnegie medal and a substantial gift in cash as well merited recognition of his bravery in rescuing two Sackville young ladies from drowning.

The deed for which Captain March is to be honored was performed prior to the outbreak of the war. The Standard, was spending a vacation at Cape Tormentine. Two young ladies, Miss DesBarres, daughter of Professor DesBarres of Mount Allison University, and Miss Ford, while bathing were caught in a strong current and carried out to sea. Captain March, who was on the beach at the time, saw their plight and without stopping to remove his clothing plunged in to their rescue. After a hard fight he succeeded in bringing both to shore and although all were exhausted no ill effects were experienced.

Those who saw the rescue spoken in terms of high praise of Capt. March's brave action and it is understood he was recommended for the Carnegie medal soon after. Word that the recommendation has been approved and the medal and accompanying testimonial to be awarded has just been received.

The same spirit that prompted Capt. March to face death at Cape Tormentine caused him to offer for active service soon after the outbreak of war. He received an appointment to the original 26th, went overseas as a lieutenant and participated in many of the battles in which that famous unit took part. His last action was at Vimy Ridge suffering from wounds and illness. Captain March was invalided to England and subsequently returned to Canada. Some months ago he was appointed to command of the guard at Newcastle, after having been pronounced unfit to return to France. His promotion to the rank of captain came shortly after his appointment to Newcastle and was granted for efficient service.

Captain March has many friends in this city and province who will learn with much satisfaction that he is to be awarded what is probably the most coveted recognition for bravery it is possible to gain outside of military or naval life.

HOW TO CAN TOMATOES

Select fresh, ripe, firm tomatoes Grade for size, ripeness and quality. They will cook better if the same degree of ripeness and quality, and will look better. Wash, scald one-half minutes or until the skins loosen, but do not break. Scald means to immerse in boiling water. Cold dip, but do not allow them to remain in the cold water. Cut out the stem end, taking care not to cut into the seed cells or the seed and pulp will fall scattered through the liquid. Remove the skins.

Pack the tomatoes whole in the jars, doing one jar from the beginning to placing in sterilizer, before starting on another. Shake down well, hitting the base of jar with palm of hand, and also press with a tablespoon, but avoid crushing.

Do not add water. Hot tomato pulp may be added, otherwise add no liquid whatever. Tomatoes are an exception to the general rule of hot water for vegetables and hot water or hot syrup for fruits. A large part of the tomato is water. It is not necessary to add anything but one level teaspoonful of salt to each quart, and if liked, one-half tablespoonful of sugar. The tomato pulp for home canning, made from large and broken tomatoes, cooked and strained, should have one teaspoonful of salt to each quart, and should be poured hot into the filled jars, allowing it to enter the spaces.

Put on rubber and top, adjust to ball or screw top on with thumb and little finger. Sterilize 22 minutes in hot water bath, or 16 minutes under five or ten pounds' steam pressure. Remove, tight-en, seal and cool.

FARM LABORERS EXCURSIONS

The Provincial Government have been asked to make representations to the Dominion Government and Railway Authorities against Farm Laborers' excursion to Western Canada and will likely act on the matter.

The farm laborers' excursion have been a matter of such contention in recent years and although all were willing to admit that the provinces by the sea were being discriminated against in the matter of action has ever been taken by the Government to prevent them, and yearly hundreds of our young men have been going to Western Canada just at the season of the year they are most needed in the East.

This year, with the extra large increases of acreage under cultivation, all the male help that is available is needed upon New Brunswick Farms and then there will not be sufficient to properly handle the produce in their season, and female labor will play a large part in the harvesting, while in Western Canada, according to an Alberta paper, "There are hundreds of farmers looking for work." Perhaps Farm Laborer Excursion from Western Canada to the Maritime Provinces would be in order this year instead of the reverse and any action the local government will take to prevent such Excursions to the West will meet with the hearty commendation of the public in general.

THE BRITISH MAIL

A heavy British Mail has been held up for days at the post office; even in this one city thousands wait anxiously for their "letter from home." For no matter whether born there or not, the little isles across the sea are yet the homeland of the race. Far flung, indeed, are the paths of the British Mail. Let us try and picture some of them.

In a lonely post a fur-trader watches with straining eye across the frozen lane, for a sight of a distant speck which should at length resolve itself into the train of husky dogs bringing the semi-annual packet—the mail that contains the latest news, now nearly six months old, but welcome, Oh, how welcome, of the doings of the folk beyond the seas. Day after day he has looked in vain, for the weather has been bad, and the packet is late by a full week. But this short winter afternoon shows to the keen glance of the vigilant watcher a something moving slowly and dimly through the heavy frost fog, which he knows can be nothing but the long expected train.

Far into the night, by the light of a wick fed by seal-oil, the factor reads and re-reads his letters. Perhaps, with a happy smile; and, perhaps, the pages are wet with the salt tears of a strong man crushed to the very earth.

Again the scene shifts: a planter lolls in his bamboo chair looking, from his hill-side bungalow, upon one of the fairest scenes the tropics can show. The hot season is at its height. By day the sun shines from a copper sky, and the very earth seems to pant and gasp, and worse are nights, with their sickly, damp breath. But this is English mail day, so life, after all, is not without its compensation. The crop has been rotten, the price on the London market was never so low—but there will certainly be a letter from the girl who is to come out next cool season to share the bungalow, and reign as queen of a district where she will be the only white woman, so being the best.

Up the zig-zag path, tolls the trusty post-coach, and in the little tin box which he carries with so straight a back, is the one letter that will transform, for a time at least, this blazing hell into a charmed land. The English mail has arrived.

All the wide world over men, ay, and women, too, date things from "mail day." In the scattered garisons where the Empire's drum-beat proclaims the presence of law, order and justice to all men, Tommy Atkins and his officers live with one eye on the signal staff which will give them the first news of the sighting of the mail steamer. Cruisers of detached stations, in a commission that has seemed endless, await with feverish impatience the ship that shall bring them the order which will cause the long homeward bound pendant to be broken out, and the band to play "Home, Sweet Home," as the cable comes rattling through the hawse pipes.

The Up-Country sheep run, the Rhodesian gold mine the trader's store in the fever-laden jungle or Nigeria, each feels a thrill, and and awakes to a new life when the English Mail comes in.

But, perhaps, now it is in just such cities as Winnipeg the British Mail means more than anything else to thousands. Lying in the post-office, part of a vast collection, are letters written by hands that never more will hold a pen. They lie in shallow graves, over which, though not yet, the poppies shall blow, and which will be the shrine of many a pilgrimage, from overseas in the long years to come. Other envelopes, started on their mission, from cool, silent hospitals, where science and devotion struggle to hold back the life in the shattered shells of what were forms of youth, splendid manhood. How welcome these would be to many a modest Winnipeg home; but, for the present, they must remain unsorted, because someone or some men, has or have blundered. Under certain circumstances, a blunder is worse than a crime, and it may be that it will be generally acknowledged that this is one of those cases.

Where floats the flag there goes the mail; and what says Kipling on this subject:

"What is the Flag of England?
"Ye have but my reefs to dare;
"Ye have but my sands to traverse;
"Go forth, for it is there."
—Winnipeg Free Press.

Save Food

In a time needing food economy many people are not getting all the nourishment they might from their food. It is not how much you eat, but how much you assimilate, that does you good. The addition of a small teaspoonful of Bovril to the diet as a peptogenic before meals leads to more thorough digestion and assimilation and thus saves food, for you need less.

Allies Take Breathing Spell

Paris, Aug. 13.—After four days of constant pressure in their offensive the Allies have been obliged to take a breathing spell in face of stiffening enemy resistance. Whether the allied forces will resume their drive or not the fact remains that the Germans have been out-manoeuvred and a victory won. As a result of the continuous pressure exerted on the line of the hills of Rollot and Boulogne LaGrasse, Gen. Von Hutier's position is somewhat worse than yesterday. The fall of Lassigny is imminent. The enemy defense is now being offered, not by customary rear guards but by mobile groups of machine gunners. Prisoners taken yesterday said that reinforcements for Von Hutier were not expected.

Newcastle Schools will reopen on Tuesday, Sept 3rd.

SUNKEN SHIPS BEING RAISED

War Brings Day of Resurrection for Many Vessels for Years Listed as Discarded Wreck.

Certainly the day of resurrection has come, for ships, hulks long since sunk, all but forgotten, rise in their very bones, take on renewed bodies and with the rhythmic heart-beat of new engines feel the blood coursing in their veins once more, observe the Boston Transcript. Abandoned coal barges, hulks of whale ships, of little cargo carriers that have lain at dismantled wharves for half a century, struggle from their graves in the ooze, feel again the measured clank of cables and had come back to London and bring iron, lift proud topmasts and shout with joy from the very diaphragms of their swelling sails as the forefoot thrills to the glare of blue water. Wrecks of the ancient side-wheelers rise as well and with a vigor of engine life such as did not exist in their day, go down to the sea.

The sea shore is probed for these, and the very lakes send their quota. At Ashland, Wis., for instance, on Lake Superior, the side-wheeler Emerald, sunk at the slip 24 years ago, is on her way up. The ore-carrier Sevons, which broke in two on a shoal six years since, is to be raised and put together again. And so the reports come from slip and shoal the world over.

If the war, with all its menace and its heartache, can give up once more a mighty merchant marine and revive the proud traditions of American seamanship, as it bids fair to, it will have done one great thing for the country.

A Lesson In Discretion.

The story that is being told of the visit recently paid to London by two Basuto chiefs contains a lesson in discretion which might be laid to heart by many. The Basutos had been to the front and learned many things and had come back to London and learned many more; for one thing they had learned all about spies. Small wonder that the journalists, endeavoring to interview them, should find them non-committal. Speaking to a small group of journalists the Basutos thought it right to be very careful. "You never know whom you are talking to," they said, so the story goes, "that gentleman over there, for instance," regarding a substantial but entirely innocuous journalist, "wanted to know a lot of things, and how could we be sure he was not trying to find out when we were going back, so he could tell the Germans."

His Old Man.

"Look here, Charlie," said one young collegian to another who had been asked to run his eye over a letter which his friend had written to his father in which there was the inevitable request for money, "you have spelled 'g-u-e'."

"I know," said Charlie, "but you see I need the cash, and don't want the old man to think I'm putting on airs. That's how he spells it."

WHEN A SOLDIER IS DISABLED

It is not always from wounds. A great many men are disabled through foot trouble. Even the bravest man cannot "carry on" if he is suffering from sore feet. Hence the necessity for Zam-Buk to keep the soldiers' feet in good condition.

A military authority in "The War Office Times" says: "If every man in the service were supplied with a tin of Zam-Buk it would, in my opinion, greatly add to the efficiency of the army."

For blisters, cuts, scratches, burns and sores of all kinds Zam-Buk is unequalled. All dealers 50c box.

Details Given of
The Draft Treaty

Ratifications of the Military Service conventions between the United States and Great Britain and Canada were exchanged July 30th in London, thus making the conventions which were signed on June 3rd last effective as from July 30th. Under these conventions all male citizens of the United States in Canada between the ages of 21 to 42 both inclusive, who are liable to compulsory military service under the laws and regulations in force in Canada on July 30th, may during a period of sixty days from July 30th, the date of exchange of ratifications, enlist or enroll voluntarily in the American forces, or may leave Canada for the purpose of military service in America.

Such male citizens of the United States are not liable to compulsory military service in Canada on July 30th, then they may enlist or enroll for services in the American Forces or leave Canada for the purpose of military service in America within 30 days from the date when liability to compulsory military service in Canada shall accrue. Registration under the United States Draft Act of May 18th, 1917 is equivalent to enrollment within the meaning of the convention. Citizens of the United States in Canada who have already registered or who may register or hereafter within the periods specified need not after registration return to the United States unless called by their Local Boards, and are not subject to the Canadian Military Service laws. If within these periods of sixty and thirty days, American citizens in Canada do not enlist or enroll (register) or leave Canada for military service in the forces of their own country, they will, unless accepted by the American Consul General, under article 3 of the convention, be liable to compulsory military service in Canada, and entitled to exemption and discharge therefrom under the laws and regulations from time to time in force in that country in the same manner as if they were Canadian.

Under Article 3 of the convention, the American Consul General at Ottawa is authorized to grant exemptions from Military service in Canada within the respective periods of 60 and 90 days aforesaid as the case may be, under certain rules and limitations which will be made known by the Consul General upon request.

Beloved Lady Dies At Blackville

Mrs. William Underhill Jr. Passes Away at Early Age of Nineteen Years

At an early age of nineteen years there passed away at the home of her parents on Sunday the 4th inst., Mrs. William Underhill, Jr., after a lingering illness. The deceased lady who was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Corney, of Blackville, was of a kindly disposition and christian spirit, and in her death, the United Baptist Church loses one of its most active and beloved members. Besides her parents, deceased leaves to mourn her loss, a husband and little daughter, Veda, at home. The funeral took place at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon and was largely attended. Services were conducted in the United Baptist Church by Rev. E. A. Kinley and interment took place in the Blackville Baptist Cemetery. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and included wreaths from the family, United Baptist Church and A. Alcorn.

Redbank Wedding Wednesday Morning

Mr. William Keyes of Vancouver Leads Miss Gertrude Holland To Altar

A wedding of much interest took place at St. Thomas' Catholic Church, Redbank, on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock when Rev. P. Duffy united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Miss Gertrude Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Holland of Vancouver, B. C., son of Mrs. John Keyes, of Redbank.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of white georgette, crepe, with bridal veil and carried a white prayer book and white rosary. She was attended by her sister, Miss Beatrice Holland, who was becomingly attired in blue crepe du chene with hat to match and carried a prayer book and blue rosary. The groom was supported by Patrick Power.

After the ceremony the happy couple repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a dainty breakfast was served. Later they motored to Newcastle where they boarded the Ocean Limited for a trip through the province. On their return to Redbank they will spend a short while before leaving for Vancouver, where they will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Keyes were the recipients of many presents and have the best wishes of their many friends for future happiness and prosperity.

MATCHETT—MATTHEWS
The marriage of Mr. Earl G. Matchett, of Sillikers and Miss Marjorie Matthews of Lyttleton was solemnized at the United Baptist Parsonage on Tuesday evening, Rev. E. A. Kinley officiating.

The happy couple were unattended. They will reside at Sillikers.

Baby's Great Danger During Hot Weather

More little ones die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera, infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in homes where there are young children. A fractional dose of the Tablets will "regulate" stomach and bowel troubles, or if these troubles come suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will cure the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 35 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Good Paint would have Saved this Home

THE FIRST EFFECT of the omission to paint is seen in a "dingy" unkempt appearance. Continue the neglect a second season, and dinginess will develop into actual deterioration. Your house quickly "goes to seed" if it is not kept fresh with paint.

Ignore if you will, the idea of painting for beauty's sake; you cannot ignore the value of paint as preservation for your home. You must consider true paint quality in order to have true painting economy—true protection is only obtainable from the best of paints.

The Stowaway

By LOUIS TRACY

So there were strenuous days and anxious nights at Las Flores where President de Sylva sought to equip and discipline his levies, and at Caragu, where President Barraca called on all the gods to witness that De Sylva was a double dyed traitor.

Under such circumstances it is not surprising that a grand display of money and audacity, backed by sundry distant roars of the British lion, should enable two elderly Britons and a young Brazilian lady to pass through the lines of the Exército Nacional, as Barraca had christened his following in opposition to De Sylva's army of liberation. Lest too many people should become interested in the adventure was essayed on the night of Oct. 2. Early next day the travelers and their guides reached the rebel outpost. The young lady, who seemed to be at home in this wild country, at once urged her horse into a pace wholly beyond the equestrian powers of her staid companions. They protested vainly. She waved a farewell hand, cauntered over several miles of a rough road and dashed up to the Liberationist headquarters about 8 o'clock.

There was no hesitancy about her movements. She drew rein in approved gaucho style, bringing her mount to a dead stop from a gallop.

"Where is the president?" she asked breathlessly.

"There, senhora," said an orderly, pointing to a marquee open on every side, wherein De Sylva sat in conference with his staff. She entered the tent and uttered a little scream of delight when the president, who was writing at a big table, happened to glance at her. De Sylva rose hastily, with an amazed look on his usually unemotional face. Forthwith the girl flung herself into his arms.

"Father!"

"Carmela!"

San Benavides, whose back was turned, heard the joyous cries of the reunited father and daughter. They were locked in each other's embrace, and the eyes of every man present were drawn to a pathetic and unexpected meeting.

Reason and because none gave a thought to him the pallor that changed the bronze of his forehead and cheeks into a particularly unhealthy looking tint of olive green passed unnoticed.

He managed to recover some shred of self control ere Senhora de Sylva was able to answer her father's first eager questions; then, with a charming timidity, she found breath to say:

"And what of Salvador—is he not here?"

Yes, Salvador was there—by her side—striving most desperately to look lover-like. They clasped hands.

"You have come to bring me luck, Carmela, my dear," said De Sylva, stroking his daughter's hair affectionately.

"Today we make our first real advance, Salvador and I are going to the front now, almost this instant. But there will be no fighting—an affair of outposts at the best—and when everything is in order we shall return here to sleep. Expect us, then, soon after sunset. Meanwhile at the quinta you will find the young English lady of whose presence you are aware. Give her your friendship. She is worthy of it."

"Adeos, senhora!" echoed San Benavides, bringing his heels together with a click and saluting. He gathered a number of papers from the table with nervous haste and at once began to issue instructions to several officers. De Sylva renewed the signing of documents. Russo and he conversed in low tones. A buzz of talk broke out in the tent. Carmela went out, unlatched her heart at throbbing at the prospect of her father's fortunes being restored, the Senhora de Sylva was entering a gate that led to the left front of the house when a young man came out whom she had seen leaving the headquarters tent. Again he rode like one in a hurry, and she noted that he emerged from a side path which gave access to the lawn. He gave her a sharp glance as he passed. She received an impression of a strong face, with stern looking, bright, steel blue eyes, a mouth tensely set, an aspect at once confident yet self-contained. She was sure now he was not a Brazilian, and he differed most materially from the mental picture of Captain James Coke created by the many conversations in which he had figured during her long voyage from Southampton in company with David Verity and Dickey Bulmer.

So Carmela wondered now who he could be, nor was her wonder lessened when she peered through the screen of trees and saw a girl, whom she recognized instantly as Irma, furtively dabbing her tear stained face with a handkerchief.

"WHAT, THEN? DOES THIS WOMAN COME HERE AND TAKE ALL?"

Unhappily the president's daughter was not attractive in appearance, and her surprise that such an uncommonly good looking girl should be the niece of David Verity was not unmingled with pique at finding her already installed in remote Las Flores.

On the way to the stables she heard a man singing. The words were in English. They were also quaint for they dealt with life from a point of view which differed widely from that presented by Dom Corria's ditty:

Oh, it's fine to be a sailor (sang Watts) an' to cross the ragged main, From Hull bar to New Orleans to roam, But I 'ope that my old woman will put me on the chain Next time I want to quit my 'umble home.

"Are you one of the Andromeda's men?" asked Carmela, speaking in the clear and accurate English used by her father.

It was well for Watts that the tree prevented him from falling backward. He was quite sober, but cheerful withal, as he had nothing to do but sleep, smoke, eat and drink the light wine of the district, of which his only complaint was that "one might mop up a barrel of it an' get no forrarder."

"My godfather!" he howled, springing from the rail and recovering his wits instantly. "Beg pardon, mum, but you took me aback all standin', as the sayin' is."

"I am afraid it is my fault," said Carmela. "I have just arrived here, and everybody seems to be so full of troubles that I am glad to hear you singing."

"Oh, that's just hummin', mum! If you're fond of music you ought to 'ear Schmidt, Captain Schmidt of the Unser Fritz."

Carmela struck an attitude.

"Wot, d'y'e know 'im?" asked Watts. "No, it is something—rather important. I must go back to my father. Ah, I ought to explain! I am the Senhora de Sylva, Dom Corria's daughter."

"Are you really, mum—miss?" exclaimed Watts, highly interested. "Ow in the world did ye manage to come up from the coast? Accordin' to all accounts—"

"Yes, what were you going to say?" for the man hesitated.

"Well, some of our chaps will 'ave it that we're runnin' close hauled on a lee shore."

Carmela knit her brows. The Watts idioms were not those of her own country.

"We had no great difficulty in passing through Dom Barraca's lines, if that is what you mean," she said. "Mr. Verity and Mr. Bulmer had obtained special permits, but in my case—"

"Well—there—if that don't beat cock-fightin'!" cried Watts. "Wot'll Coke say? W'y, 'e'll 'ave a fit. An' Miss Irma! She's to marry ole Dickey. Fanc'y 'im turnin' up! There'll be the deuce an' all to pay now wot between 'im an' Hozier, the dashin' colonel."

"Who is Mr. Hozier?" asked the girl calmly.

"He is, or was, our second mate, but since the colonel an' 'e got to loggerheads 'e took an' raised a corps of scouts. Some of our fellows joined, but not me. Killin' other folks don't agree with me a little bit."

"And the colonel—what is his name?" broke in Carmela.

"San Benavides, miss. Captain 'e was on Fernando Noronha. 'E took a mighty quick jump after we kem ashore. But I ax your pardon for ramblin' on in this silly way. Wont you go inside?"

The Senhora de Sylva might have been seized with mortal illness if judged solely by the manner in which she staggered into her father's house, threw her arms around the neck of an elderly serving woman, whom she petted by her appearance, and almost fainted—not quite, but on the verge, much nearer than such a strong minded young lady would have thought possible an hour earlier.

Irma screamed loudly. Tongue tied at first, she was badly scared when Carmela collapsed on her ample bosom. Restoratives and endearments followed. Carmela asked to be taken to a room where she could wash and shake the dust from her half-dried clothes. Maria considered ways and means. Every room in the big house was crowded.

"Who in my own apartment?" she asked. "Who in my own apartment?" she asked.

Even before the answer was forth coming she guessed the truth. The Senhora Ingleza, of course. Those two eyes of hers flashed dangerously.

"What, then? Does this woman come here and take all?" she cried.

"Ah, pequinha, do not be angry," said Maria. "Who save the good God could tell that you would come from Paris today? And the Senhora Ingleza will be glad to give place to you. She is so kind, so unselfish! All the men adore her."

"So I hear," murmured Carmela, trying to still the passion that throbbled in her heart, since she was aware that neither Maria nor any other among the old domestics at Las Flores knew of her engagement, and pride was now coming to her aid.

She will have no word to say to any of them," gabbled Maria. "There is a young Englishman—well, it is no affair of mine, but I am told she loves him, and she is promised to another, an old man too. Santa Mae! That would not suit me if I were her age!"

This homecoming of Carmela was quite an important event in its way. At first sight it bore the semblance of a mere disillusionment such as any girl might experience under like circumstances. She had been taken from Las Flores to occupy a palace at Rio de Janeiro and was driven from the palace to the hotel life of the continent. During two years she had not seen either father or lover, and lovers of the San Benavides ilk are apt to console themselves during these prolonged intervals. Yet Carmela's shattered romance was the pivot on which rested the future of Brazil.

Had she gone straight to Iris on leaving her father and made known the astounding tidings that Verity and Bulmer were riding up the Mosoxo valley barely three miles away Iris would surely have devised some means of acquainting Philip Hozier with the fact. In that event, assuming that he awaited their arrival, the first march of an extended reconnaissance which he thought desirable would necessarily be postponed. And then—well, the recent history of Brazil would have to be written afresh. It could not be the slightest doubt that Dom Corria de Sylva would never have occupied the presidential chair again.

It would be idle now to inquire too closely into the sprigs of Philip's resolve to take service under a foreign flag. Perhaps the risome state of affairs at Las Flores, where there was no mean between looting and soldiering, was intolerable to a spirited youngster. Perhaps San Benavides, constantly riding in from the front, irritated him beyond endurance by his superior airs, or it may be that a growing belief in Iris' determination to sacrifice herself by redeeming her bond made him careless as to what happened in the near future. The outcome of one or all of these influences was that he sought and was readily given a commission in the army of liberation. Like all sailors, he preferred the mounted arm, and De Sylva, having the highest opinion of his thoroughness, actually appointed him to command a branch of the intelligence department.

Philip, trained to pin his faith in maps and charts, came to the conclusion that Las Flores could be attacked from the rear, which lay to the northwest. The Brazilians laughed at the notion. Where were the troops to come from? Barraca must bring all his men by sea. There were none stationed at those wild mountains.

"Better go and make sure," quoth Philip.

He ascertained the president's intentions as to the next twenty-four hours, assembled his little body of scouts, saw to their forage and equipment, took leave of Iris and hurried off.

When two stout and elderly fellow countrymen of his climbed the last mile of the rough valley beneath the Las Flores slope Philip and his troop were a league or more beyond the Mosoxo's watershed.

If San Benavides were really Carmela's accepted lover, then, indeed, Iris had good cause for foreboding. Though the Brazilian had never directly avowed his passion, since he knew quite well that she would refuse to listen, she could not be blind to his infatuation. Only the threat of her dire displeasure had restrained Hozier from an open quarrel with him. Her position, difficult enough already, would become intolerable if De Sylva's daughter became jealous, and she had no doubt whatsoever that San Benavides would seek to propitiate the woman he loved by callously telling the woman he had promised to marry that his affections were bestowed elsewhere.

Manitoba Makes Another Record in Butter Exports

MANITOBA expects to export the butter in the value of over $1,000,000 this year. When it is remembered that up to a very few years ago, it was necessary for this province to import butter for its home needs, the growth of the dairy industry there is remarkable. In 1916 fifty-eight cars of butter were exported. Last year the number was increased to ninety-six cars. Up to June 1st this year, with the grass season only well begun, fifty-six cars of butter had been sent out of the province. This number compares with twenty-five cars in the corresponding period of last year. The butter is made up in fifty-six pound solids and four hundred boxes make up a car-load, so that at present prices each car-load is worth $10,000.00. There is every indication that the present rate of export will be maintained, if not accelerated, during the year. All the exported butter from Manitoba is being sent to Montreal for shipment to the Allied nations in Europe.

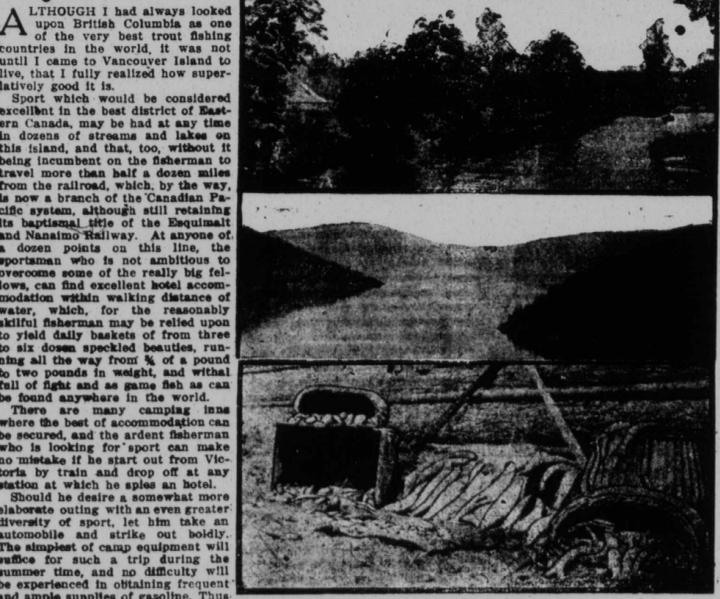

The cheese industry is also progressing. It is only so far back as 1916 that fifty to fifty-five car loads of cheese were brought into the province for local consumption. With the output of the provincial factories increasing continually, the quantity of cheese imported was considerably reduced last year, and now for the first time in the history of the province a full carload of cheese is on its way for consumption elsewhere.

The consignment left Winnipeg a few days ago for Montreal, where it will be graded and shipped overseas. This year, which was the start of the dairy industry in Western Canada, has been developing rapidly during the last few years. A high standard of quality is striven for, the aim being to produce butter of the best flavor with long keeping qualities. That the efforts in this direction have met with some measure of success is evidenced by the growing demand for butter from these provinces—a demand which is far greater than the output.

Pasteurization is almost universal in the creameries of Western Canada, and more than ninety per cent of the butter made in Manitoba this year will be from pasteurized cream. The application of the Storch test has been very satisfactory in enabling the dairy officials to determine whether this process has been properly carried out. At rural points the cream is tested in the creameries by a travelling inspector; in the laboratories of the Department of Agriculture the test is applied to representative samples of butter. When the Department now tests and grades a car load of butter, it can, to all practical purposes, tell just how long it can stand in cold storage without deterioration.

At the present time the creameries are receiving forty-three cents a pound at point of shipment for special grade of butter; forty-two cents for No. 1 and forty cents for No. 2.

Fishing On Vancouver Island

(1) Cowichan River, Vancouver Island, B.C. (2) Sanich Inlet. (3) A morning catch at Nanaimo Lake.

ALTHOUGH I had always looked upon British Columbia as one of the very best trout fishing countries in the world, it was not until I came to Vancouver Island to live, that I fully realized how superlatively good it is.

Spokane, which would be considered excellent in the best district of Eastern Canada, may be had at any time in dozens of streams and lakes on this island, and that, too, without it being incumbent on the fisherman to travel more than half a dozen miles from the railroad, which, by the way, is now a branch of the Canadian Pacific system, although still retaining its baptismal title of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway. At anyone of a dozen points on this line, the sportsman who is not ambitious to overcome some of the really big fellows, can find excellent hotel accommodation within walking distance of water, which, for the reasonably expert fisherman, may be relied upon to yield daily baskets of from three to six dozen speckled beauties, running all the way from 1/4 of a pound to two pounds in weight, and without a fall of light and game fish as can be found anywhere in the world.

There are many camping inns where the best of accommodation can be secured, and the ardent fisherman who is looking for sport can make no mistake if he starts out from Victoria by train and drop off at any station which he prefers as a hotel.

Should he desire a somewhat more elaborate outing with an even greater diversity of sport, let him take an automobile and strike out boldly. The simplest of camp equipment will suffice for such a trip during the summer time, and no difficulty will be experienced in obtaining frequent and ample supplies of gasoline. This equipped sportsman may easily penetrate to lakes and streams which are veritably an angler's paradise. He will, however, find that on some, if not most of the lakes, fishing with a fly will be practically barren of results. Here he will need to bring a small spoon or an artificial minnow into play, and he will be rewarded with fish running as high in weight as three or even four pounds, monsters, which, if he be fishing for the sport with light tackle, will tax his skill and resource to the utmost see he is able to slip the net under them.

From this it is but a step to the last and most interesting phase of trout fishing on the island. This consists in the following up of some few of the mountain streams, rivers would really be the better word to use, which empty on the west coast of the island and which are comparatively difficult of access, but in which except the partnership of the trout family, few fish, which have been known to run as high as 100 pounds in weight, and which, moreover, are as full of fish and game as any of the best of the world.

Here may the true fisherman taste the sweetest of all earthly joys, that of landing a really big fish after a battle royal of perhaps a couple of days duration, in the exciting, yet waters of a rapid and difficult stream.

This experience is not, however, for the many, unless one can cast a long line, light as a feather, and with unerring accuracy, never a rise will one secure from the big ones.

Let us suppose that our sportsman has been successful in his quest, let us leaving the capital he will soon come to some famous grise water where large bass are caught, should prefer day in the proper season. The view of this water, known as the Sanich Arm, which is here shown, was taken from the roadway, several hundred feet above the water level. It is really a land-locked arm of the sea, and provides splendid sport for hundreds of fishermen from Victoria. Just a little further along one reaches another fine stretch of salmon and grise water known as Tod Inlet, and here also excellent sport is to be had for the asking. Leaving the inlet behind and travelling some half a dozen miles further up the line, one comes to the Shawigan Lake station, from whence it is but a short ride to the lake itself. Here while domiciled in comfort at either one of the two excellent hotels to be found on the lake shore, the very best of sport with lake trout which sometimes run as large as five and even six pounds in weight, may be had, and that too in the midst of scenery which will appeal to anyone with even the most rudimentary love for the beauties of nature.

Eight miles further up the line Cowichan is reached, and here will be found one of the most famous trout streams on the island. This may be most conveniently fished from the town of Duncan, where the hotel accommodation is of the best. From this centre also a run of an hour's duration will take the angler to Cowichan Lake, where he is certain to find ample opportunity of testing his skill in the uttermost perfection of the sport. The bay, surrounded by mountains, is a bit of sea fishing, will find himself well suited here, for the variety of fish to be taken is endless. Excellent sport is also to be obtained in the lakes and streams of the upper and northern end of the island.—Sport Spinner.

MARY PICKFORD AT THE HAPPY HOUR
Comedy holds full sway in "Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley," the next picture "which stars Mary Pickford, and which will be exhibited at the Happy Hour on Wednesday.

While in every picture presenting Miss Pickford there has been more or less comedy and the star has time and again proven herself a comedienne of rare ability as well as an actress capable of any height of emotional acting, it is said that there has never before been a Pickford photoplay wherein humor predominated to such a extent as in this new story of the sitcom. There are many moments of genuine pathos and any number of thrills in the course of the picture, but laughter will hold away, overcoming momentary predisposition to tears. Throughout the story "Our Mary," winsome, dainty withal, presents a convincing figure of the little innocent girl straying far afield into the realms of the idle rich, lured by the blandishments of a scion of wealth, but remains at last to her natural environments, where she finds happiness.

Sergt. Major Morrison Jordan Again Wins Honor on Field of Battle

Sgt. Major Morrison Jordan, son of Mr and Mrs Nathaniel Jordan of North Esk Boom, member of St. Stephens Congregation Redbank, have recently won a bar to his D C M. His Colonel in front of the battalion publicly tendered him the thanks of his comrades for his daring feat in a night raid last month. Sgt. Jordan won his D C M last August. On the 30th of that month he, single handed, killed the crew of a German trench mortar, captured it and brought in 12 German prisoners. The trench mortar was retained to be sent to Halifax as a trophy, Sgt. Jordan belonging to the 25th N. S. Battalion. On August 21st Sgt. Jordan carried on in his trench the whole day, all his superior officers having been killed, and held his ground until relieved that night. For these two acts he received the D C M.

Improvements In The Telephone Service

New Cables Being Put up to Replace Unsightly Wires—New Building in Near Future

The rapidly increasing business done by the local exchange of the N B Telephone Company, has necessitated a large number of changes being made to the wires around town.

Workmen have been busy during the past week putting in a number of new cables, which will do away with a lot of unsightly wires and poles, in different parts of the town about 4000 yards of cable is being installed at the present time.

There is now upwards of five hundred subscribers in the Newcastle exchange, which is one of the largest small town exchanges in the Province.

Owing to war conditions a new switch-board of the latest model, which the company had contemplated installing, has been found impossible, at the present time, but as soon as it is available it will be installed, and a new and modern building erected to look after the increased business.

Letter "B" On Miramichi Oats

The appearance of the letter "B" on the blades of growing oats and which is referred to in Western Canada, has also made its appearance on the Miramichi and oak fields all over the country, are reported to bear the letter. A representative of The Advocate secured some very plainly marked blades in the field of Mr. John Whalen, on the C I Road. The letter, which looks very much like a paper water-mark is about four inches from the top of the blade and in some cases, is half an inch in height.

The meaning of this omen has been given many predictions, and some state that the letter appeared at the time of the Boer and also the Crimea Wars, while others claim it has been on the oats for many years.
