Celebrated Norwegian Jigger

Fishermen should use these Jiggers and rig them with swivels same style as in Norway, then the Jigger acts like a minnow and when spinning attracts the fish, so that instead of jigging they really snap the Jigger and in this manner you never fail to catch them. Ordinary leads can be used, but the Norwegian style seems more simple and easily made. Our fishermen should try this great Norwegian fish killer.

All My Corns Are Gone

Every day, legions of people get rid of their corns with Blue-jay. This easy method now removes a million corns a month.

You who suffer with corns do yourselves an injustice. Blue-jay will instantly stop the pain. And in 48 hours, without any soreness, the corn comes out completely.

About half the people know this now. When a corn appears they put Blue-jay on it. Then they forget it. In a couple of days they lift out the corn and bid it good-bye forever.

You can't do that by paring corns. And you can't use old-time treatments. You may get relief for a little while, but the corns simply stay and grow.

Try this modern, scientific way—the way now employed by physicians and hospitals. Get rid of the corn. It is just as easy, just as painless as the ineffective ways.

CHAPTER XXXII.

"My brother's friend is not to be put off!" Miss Jean announced the third morning of Mr. Hurst's absence. "Of course I open Gilbert's letters. Here is one from that Mr. Drayton, and he means to look round, as he calls it, the end of this month, or the beginning of next. He wishes for no answer. May not be at home to receive it. Which is all very well, but how does he know if I can receive him? There are the rooms—"

Sydney gathered up her resolution! She would be gone before Richard Drayton came. "My holiday was to have been asked for soon," she said. "Of course now you will not want me back after it. Let me leave directly. I will write to—to where I shall stay, and you will have room enough then for your guest."

And to this Miss Jean, inclined to be provoked at her continued reticence, agreed somewhat stiffly, and Sydney took the initial step toward departing by writing briefly to Jacob Cheene that in one week's time she would be with him at Stillcote-Upton.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

The next day Mr. Hurst came home. Sydney saw him nearing Wynstone, very erect, but surely aged, with a face that looked storm-beaten since that evening he had gone out to Perristone wearing her badge of wild white rosebuds. His footstep past the poplars, his voice in the hall, set all her pulses springing with delight that refused to be gainsaid, but sight of the steadily forced smile with which he entered, sound of his greeting words, to her subdued or cold, made her gladly escape, with eyelids smarting over unshed tears, while

Miss Jean poured forth inquiries anent his visit.

"Just as I said!" was her discouraging report when a few minutes later she followed Sydney upstairs. "The case hopeless as I knew it to be. Poor Gilbert has only stung thirty shillings away to hear what I could have told him as well. Those thirty shillings would have come in handy, but it can't be helped. As I told him in all kindness, it may be many days before I have another one pound ten to spare him for an outing, so I do hope, once he got over Doctor Legh's ultimatum, he managed to get a little enjoyment out of this one!"

"In all kindness," was poor Miss Jean's battle phrase just now, used with implicit belief that it represented her relationships with her brother. "In all kindness" she fired off speeches in his hearing as to the multitudinous expenses soon coming on her, and the blessing of work to people who could brace themselves to it; "in all kindness" she encouraged her soon-to-be step family about the house at all hours, for "dear Gilbert" to grow used to them before their final removal thither; and in "all kindness" she affectionately so contrived to fill the situation with stings and barbs that each day found Sydney more hopelessly heart-sick over this, the last turn of fickle Fortune's wheel.

Mr. Hurst she seldom saw. Her speedy going was spoken of before him often. Himself he never named it. The few words he addressed voluntarily to her were marked by extreme reserve. The subject neither could desire to approach seemed to have raised an impassable bar between them. The happier ease of late months became a lost Eden, and every minute Sydney stayed at Wynstone was freighted with fresh pain. But the very few minutes were counted now, for it was the noon she was to leave. To satisfy Miss Jean's anxious hospitality she had swallowed some of her last luncheon; had declined a supply of comestibles for the journey.

"Then you are not going far?" queried her hostess. "Not far, to-day," was the answer, registered as "uncommunicative as usual!" and then Miss Hurst was seized with the fear that Davis, who should by now have come for Sydney's luggage, had mistaken the hour and might not come at all. She must run down and see after him. She would only be five minutes. Miss Grey could take leave of her brother and be ready to start when she came back.

Outside the study door Sydney stood with nerves all quivering, knocked and went softly in; looked from flower-buds clustering about the long casement, and looks she had now done with to the one figure shut out from all, though in their midst, with the unsyllabled yearning of a last farewell.

Mr. Hurst knew what brought her there. He was ready with what to do and say. As the door fell back, latched by a west breeze, he got up from some letter he was slowly writing and spoke first, the table's breadth between them.

"You leave us now," he said, "but I have something here for you to read before you do so," passing across a business-like missive. Sydney took it, read it. A short acceptance of his book. An offered payment, small, as the work was a first one, but a suggestion that a more copious volume on the same lines would be worth a larger sum. "An opening at last," thought Sydney, bitterly, "and she must not help him to use it!"

"It reads like irony, does it not, Miss Grey?" was Mr. Hurst's comment, as if he saw what passed within her breast. "Still, this lifts me out of a beggar's estate! For that release I have to thank you. This will take me from Capel Moor without further encroachments on my sister; so again I thank you.

"You, too, are going?" "Yes. To find my level among others as sightless as myself. I am to make one of Mr. Montague Carle's household. To learn, and to teach, and to get my daily bread under his orders. Mr. Babbington suggests this scheme, my sister desires it."

"And you—" "I accept it. It is means to the only human end my life may know. My sister's relief. I thank God for that." To Mr. Montague Carle's! Under his roof; his rule, hard, grasping, grinding, vulgar, intolerable! Sydney glawed, trembled, in angry revolt.

"You can never go there," she cried, passionately; "it is cruel—"

"No, no! They see no cruelty in it. Like me, they see the necessity."

"Bât—fighting this fact—"Miss Hurst spoke to me of something else for you.

"Ah! to undertake, maimed as I am, for loaves and fishes, what I never counted myself fit for in more capable days. No. This is better than that. I had a friend once, Miss Grey, a Robert Vaughan, who always held that solace of some sort lies at the end of the road called straight, however narrow, however rough it might be." (Sydney's eyes filled fast. Heaven send he might so find it!) "There was"—very slowly—"an hour when I forgot this. Henceforth I must forget it no more. When Jean, in her great sisterly goodness, willed to keep me with her—idle—I yielded; for I had no right to risk money of hers in seeking advantage for myself I might never secure. That way was narrow enough, but peaceful too. Now things are altered. Brighter times seem come for Jean. It would be unjust for me to mar them. So I turn out—late enough—on the rough way."

No calm could hide how he was suffering. Her tears fell quick and silent. Oh, to comfort him, to comfort him! "I would not have tired you with so much about myself"—he had to be very careful of each word now—"only I would fain have my helper—of so many months remember me fairly. At least no worse than I am." He broke off abruptly. Sydney could barely muster voice to answer him.

"I will remember most, Mr. Hurst, that you taught me very much. That while you let me learn of you I grew almost to forget some great troubles."

"Troubles which may be nigh done with now," he returned; "for," mechanically repeating the sentences he had drilled himself in, "Jean tells me what she sees in store for you. If she is right there is assuredly one cause for—for us—to be glad at this break-up."

Glad—was he? Best so a thousand times. And yet a momentary faintness surged over her. Outside Miss Hurst was heard. "Here, Davis, this is the luggage. Be careful of it. We have no time to lose." Sydney moved near Gilbert Hurst.

"Then I can only bid you good-bye," she said.

He leaned against the chimney-piece; his usual fashion, as she first saw him at Wynstone. Her own hand she held forth in farewell. He knew it, but kept his arms fast folded. For honor, for reason, he must act the churl.

"Good-bye," he repeated, motionless.

"Miss Grey!" cried his sister without; the door opened; a rush of flower-scented air filled the room; it closed; Sydney was gone.

She never remembered clearly that walk to Capel Moor station with Miss Hurst. Belle Babbington ran out from the manor and claimed to join them. Davis brought a great bunch of white stocks as a valedictory offering from his "missus;" Miss Jean kept up a stream of mysterious offers to write anywhere or do anything for her benefit, and wafted salutes from the tips of her fingers as the train moved off; but all this, with the hot midday journey which ensued, seemed only like a dream, herself an automaton moving through it.

They were nearing Stillcote-Upton when she roused from breathing space to pain once more. To pain, and to dim hope, struggling against reader unbelief in the dictum Gilbert Hurst long before, she later, at St. Clair, had learned of their mutual master, Robert Vaughan.

But even that was destined to more conflict.

Her destination reached, she traversed sleepy little Stillcote, guided by landmarks Jacob had pointed out last autumn. Past the lodgings of his clerical days, where her father went to and fro each morning; down the quaint, irregular High Street, where shop-folks stared at her, so evidently a stranger; by St. Clement's, its rectory shadowed by the buttressed tower; by Stuart's, where guelder-roses peeped at her from the old walled-in garden; and so toward Jacob's dwelling.

She looked up at his bow-window, longing for the old man's smile—the only one in the world she could now count upon. He had not written back to her, but she never doubted his ready welcome. How much she would have to tell him—how much to withhold!

On Miss Ambler's shining knocker she sounded a summons, modest enough, but it set the echoes flying down the old town, and brought in immediate response a small, rosy-cheeked hand-maid, with very red eyes.

"Mr. Cheene, miss!" ejaculated Nancy, as, too tired to wait for invitation, Sydney entered while asking for him. "Oh, didn't you know, miss? Hadn't nobody sent you word of it? Why"—recklessly crumpling a clean apron over her face—"poor Mr. Cheene! he died o' Thursday, miss, an' they've buried him on'y this very mornin'!"

McKay from the aviator Mellin who is looking after Mr. McKay's interests in the parachute contests in Paris, the final test which was to have taken place Monday last has been postponed for one month. The reason given is that several competitors for $80,000 prize are not yet ready to take part and prevailed upon the management for a postponement. District Manager,
Canada Life Assurance Co.,
New Glasgow, N.S.

Dear Sir,—
I wish to state that I am well satisfied with the results which your Company have given me in connection with my Endowment Policy No. 47,775, which matures on the 17th of March.
I find that the returns give me over $424.00 more than I have paid in premiums, in addition to the protection that I have had during the Policy term. I consider this all the more satisfactory taking into account the fact that the dividends were applied as a Bonus every five years. I, therefore, received a return beyond Bank interest, in addition to the protection.
Yours very truly,

Civic Commission.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I have read with much pleasure the letter of your able correspondent who signs himself T.H.L., which appeared in your paper on the 26th inst., and in which he suggests that our present energetic and capable Mayor be appointed to the position of Chairman of the new Civic Board which will soon enter upon their duties. This suggestion I feel sure will be endorsed by every taxpayer in the city, for ever since Mayor Ellis entered the Municipal arena he has enjoyed to the fullest extent the confidence and respect of the community, and it is therefore only just and fair that any honours which we may have to confer should be his. His wide experience gained by many years actively engaged in Civic work, is in itself an asset which makes him invaluable and one that we cannot afford to lose now that we look forward to greater achievements in regard to Municipal affairs. No matter how closely the Citizens' Committee may study the Municipal problem they will admit, I am sure, that actual experience in Civic affairs is absolutely necessary in order to learn the business thoroughly. Mayor Ellis has had that experience and therefore is to my mind the right man for this important position. The other members of the Board deserve consideration also, for we must bear in mind that their work has been an uphill fight and also we all may not at all times have seen eye to eye with them. We should bear in mind that they had no bed of roses in carrying out civic improvements in this city. The man on the grand stand can always play a better game than those actively engaged in the struggle, but it is only when he "feels the music" himself that he realizes that it is not the picnic that it seems viewed from a distance. For these reasons, Mr. Editor, I take great pleasure in endorsing the suggestion so ably put forward by your able correspondent.
I am, yours truly,
R. J. P.
St. John's, May 29, 1914.

Rossley Theatre.

On Monday next, June 1st, the famous Irish minstrel, Dan Cusack, will open his engagement at Rossley's. He comes direct from New York where he made a great success at the leading vaudeville theatres, and Mr. Rossley hopes he will be able to please our St. John's patrons with his fine Irish songs and dances. In the meantime there is a good show each night. Great two-reel feature, "When Lee Surrenders," one of the finest pictures ever seen of the American War; also, three other fine pictures all new, which all will enjoy, and Mrs. Rossley's Sunshine Girls in their dainty dance. On Saturday a special matinee for the children.

The High Cost of Living

At the present time possibly no other subject is receiving quite as much attention in Canada as this one. It will be a surprise to most readers to know that during the fiscal year which ended March 31st, 1913, Canada paid $11,500,000 in duty on food, and all of this large sum is virtually a direct tax on the consumer. In glancing over the list it is easy to understand that the buying public are themselves largely to blame in many instances, for there are articles of food produced in Canada that are equal in every respect to those made in any country in the world.
In the baking powder line alone there were 667,304 lbs. imported into Canada, and this means a consumption of 1.5 lbs. per capita, or a sum of $57,000. There are no better goods in the world in this line than magic baking powder, and it is made in a model sanitary up-to-date factory and can be purchased in any first-class store, at one-half the price the imported article sells for.
Such articles as raisins, currants, and many other things, which do not grow in Canada, or are not produced here, have, of necessity to be imported, and the duty paid.
If the consumer would devote a little thought and attention to this subject, a large amount of money could be saved.—(Canadian Home Journal.)

A Feast of Picture.

Bob Leonard, Helen Case, Pearl White, Max Asher, Harry McCoy and several other stars, in the Week-End Bill at the Crescent.
A series of extra good pictures will conclude one of the most successful weeks of the Crescent Picture Palace: "His Faithful Servant," a Rex Western drama; "The Lure of the Stage," and "Mike and Jake as Heroes," two roaring comedies; and "She Asked for Trouble," an absorbing comedy drama, are pictures in a class all by themselves. The vocalist is singing a very pretty novelty song, "And it Rained, Rained, Rained."
On Monday and Tuesday next the great spectacular feature is Laska, a two-reel Bison, adapted from the celebrated poem which is full of life and interest all through. To-morrow afternoon the usual big Saturday matinee is the attraction: a special extra picture will be shown.

Baseball.

The Baseball League will meet shortly to arrange the fixtures for the coming season's games. Nothing definite has yet been heard from the Bay Roberts or Grand Falls teams, with regard to the inter-town competitions, but favourable replies are expected from both, and the coming games promise to be of more than usual interest.

X. B. S. ECKHART.—The Newfoundland British Society held a special meeting last night when the excursion to Harbor Grace on June 3rd was discussed. This is the first excursion held by the Society to the Bay Metropolis within the past decade and this year's event promises to exceed all previous successes.

Painting.

Now the husband paints the fence, while the housewife paints her face, and, with energy intense, we are painting, every place. We enjoy this useful toil, which will make the town more fair, and we smell of linseed oil, and there's ochre in our hair. Paint would beautify the spheres, and we have no useless sighs, if there's putty in our ears and some varnish in our eyes. Whosoever brush is laid, an improvement then is seen, and no odds about the shade—blue, lavender or green. You will say, "I am surprised, you have been substituted by some paint and varnish store." But I haven't had a yen from the dealers in red lead since I started urging men to embellish house and shed. Some men tell you how to vote, others tell you how to pray, but I'm wearing out my throat shrieking, "Paint Up!" all the day. It's because I hope to make this old world a brighter place that I urge you till I break both suspenders and a trace. Blow yourself for lead and zinc, or our residence will spoil; paint it blue, with stripes of pink!

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that the Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office—its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your Office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty Offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Ferale Johnson represents the world known firm in Newfoundland—

The Lesson of Wireless.

Yesterday we reviewed some of the errors which led to the awful tragedy to the crew of the Newfoundland. We placed first and foremost the errors of understanding as to the whereabouts of these sealers during the storms which caused such a dire havoc among them. We did no more than point to what is obvious to everybody. Although it is so obvious, it should be set down as a great lesson drawn from the disaster. If there had been wireless aboard the Newfoundland, the disaster would never have occurred. Instead of merely sinking the vessel, which conveyed the meaning seals, to Capt. Westbury Kean, and on which a superstructure of misconception and misunderstanding of the situation was built by Capt. Westbury Kean, Capt. Abraham Kean could have sent a clear and unequivocal message as to what he meant. Capt. Westbury Kean could have learnt that there was not any great body of seals in the vicinity of his father and the latter could have told him he was leaving a small patch of seals some miles to the S.W. of him. Captain Westbury, had he decided to send his men out upon all the circumstances, which would have been highly improbable, could have let his father know the men had left and the time they had left, and if the father decided to give the men a mug-up he could have let the son know his men had left the Stephano and would make for the Newfoundland, after they had gone to the seals. Supposing all the incidents had happened up to the time the men left the patch to make for the Newfoundland, just as they actually happened up to that point, the Newfoundland would have been whistling, lighting fires, and doing everything to give her whereabouts to her watches out in the storm. At this point, the evidence as to a better method of signalling is restrictive and points to the need of better provision being afforded in this direction. This should be a matter for legislation. In this connection it is clear that the sealers during the storm of Tuesday afternoon were only a mile or two from the Newfoundland, and would probably have reached their ship had the whistle, flares and fires been going. Further, if the men had not arrived that evening the Newfoundland could have called in the aid of the powerful steel ships who were not many miles distant, and there can be no doubt that aid would have been afforded and the men rescued. We repeat the chief lesson of the disaster is that wireless must be installed on all the sealing vessels and this must be made imperative by legislation.

Death of Capt. Penney.
Yesterday news was received of the passing of Capt. Josiah Penney, of Carbonar. For some time he had been unwell, but on Wednesday he was about the town as usual. At 10 p.m. he retired to rest. Yesterday morning his daughter called him about 8 o'clock and found his spirit had passed away during the night. He died at a general disposition, held strong opinions, but bore no resentment to those who crossed him. Early in life, when almost a boy, he was skipper of his own craft and prosecuting the fishery. Later he became a member of the firm of Penney Brothers, and conducted the Labrador branch at Red Bay. After the dissolution of the firm, he continued to conduct the business there. Later he left the conduct of the business to his sons. Three years ago, he was appointed judge on the Labrador and would have resumed his duties this summer, had life and health been left to him. Capt. Penney was married to the eldest daughter of the late Mr. Edward S. Pike. Ten years ago she died. He leaves three sons, Frederick, John H. and Joseph, all of Carbonar, and five daughters, Mrs. Colpitts, of East Orange, N.Y.; Mrs. Ernest W. Taylor, of St. John's; Mrs. Josephine Pike, of Camrose, Alberta; and the Misses Grace and Emma Penney, of Carbonar. Judge Penney is a brother and Mrs. W. S. Canning, of St. John's, and Mrs. R. Simpson, of Carbonar, are sisters. To his family and relatives we extend sympathy in their bereavement.

Body Recovered.—Word was received in town today that a fierce N.E. gale and blizzard prevailed a Fogo last night, and that the body of James Elliott, who was drowned on Wednesday, as referred to in yesterday's Telegram had been recovered.

Reply From Mr. A. English.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir:—I am rather surprised this evening by a splendid letter on agricultural matters in the Codroy Valley, from the pen of our gifted fellow citizen Mr. Knowling of Little River. I may say I never entered my mind to include Mr. Knowling among those who knew but little of the science of Agriculture. A visit to Mr. Knowling's farm at Little River will convince anybody that that gentleman is a thorough farmer. His smiling acres, his tidy fences, his comfortable stables and barns his rich and broad acres of pasture, his extensive fields of forage crops, all bespeak a man thoroughly up to date.
I am sorry if my efforts to expose one of the greatest frauds perpetrated upon the people of the country have incurred Mr. Knowling's disapproval. I might say more, but I think a man's espousal of the Morris party at present should be punishment enough, for popular opinion knows how to estimate the value of such a person.
A. ENGLISH.

Puts Into Port Leaky.

The s.s. Coningsby put into this port this morning in a disabled condition. She was fifteen days out from Antwerp, bound for Montreal with a general cargo. Heavy weather was encountered and the steamer got her stern gland injured and began to leak very much. The captain decided to run to St. John's. Her cargo will be discharged first, and he is likely she will be dry docked for repairs. Bowring Bros. are the agents for the agent and Mr. Tasker Cook is looking after supplies.

EPSON, May 28.
Many Americans won large sums through the victory of Dunbar II. It is estimated that they cleared $700,000 as the result of Duryea's horse capturing the Derby. Duryea was the largest individual winner, but scores of others had down sums ranging from $10,000 to $20,000. The Great Surrey Foal stakes of five furlongs for two-year-olds were won by King George's 'Friar.' Marcus Bright was second and Cherry Henlin came third. The Royal stakes handicap of six furlongs for three-year-olds, and six furlongs for two-year-olds were won by Colt Bugler came second and Jarnack third.

LONDON, May 28.
The Dean of Belfast caused a sensation by his utterances at the Cathedral, expressing his belief that the safe passage of the gun-running boat Fanny, was accomplished in answer to Ulster's prayers. Ulster is looking forward to the arrival of Carson on Saturday when it is expected he will address the volunteers. Redmond has gone to Kingston to take a rest.

NIAGARA FALLS, May 28.
The mediation conferences have been in progress throughout the week, and to-day, already many plans for the pacification of Mexico have been agreed upon. The details are being withheld until there is a complete agreement on all subjects; but the main points of the plan which both sides at present look favorably on, are the following—the transfer of the executive power in Mexico City from Huerta's hands to that of a Provisional President and four Cabinet ministers. These five men would share the responsibilities of putting into operation the programme adopted at the conference here, of the conduct as soon as practicable, of new elections for a President, Vice-President and members of Congress. The five men will be neutral persons, so far as practical affiliations with any party is concerned, but would be representative men, as nearly acceptable as possible to all factions in Mexico, including the Constitutionalists and also approved by the American Government. Prompt recognition of the Provisional Government would be given by the United States and the withdrawal of the American troops would be expected by the Mexican delegates to follow as a matter of course, as soon as the new government was installed. While there may be no formal declaration on the subject, the Mexican delegates expect an understanding will be reached that the States will regard as legal the financial transaction of the present Mexican Congress. The belief is expressed that an agreement or protocol will be drawn up, and perhaps signed, within another week.

LONDON, May 28.
It is now generally admitted in Belfast that all danger of an immediate outbreak has passed away, and that the evil day has been postponed to the date when the Royal Assent shall be given to the Bill. Unionist and English Unionist feel confident that a general election will intervene at the eleventh hour and prevent the consummation of the law, which has already been referred to as a corpse. General Macready has expressed his admiration of the peaceful spirit exhibited by both political parties. He would not say that the danger was over, but stated that if he had been asked three months ago, if it was likely that the night of the third reading would pass without demonstration, he would have said it was unlikely.

Wedding Bells.
A quiet but very pretty wedding took place in St. Peter's Church, Cambridge, Mass., when the Rev. Father Ryan joined in matrimony Miss Jenny Dempsey, of this city, youngest daughter of the late John Dempsey, to Mr. Thomas Barter, formerly of Newfoundland. The bride wore a very pretty dress of white satin with hat to match and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Joseph Dormady, who also looked very pretty in a soft white dress with hat to match. Mr. Joseph Dormady supported the groom. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the bride's sister's residence where an excellent supper was served and the bride's health drunk, some twenty guests being present. The bride was the recipient of many useful presents. Their many friends join in wishing them very many happy years of wedded bliss.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessing Fuesle

Marian Gets a Retainer Fee.

The Van Dines lived in a pleasant, honey-sweet home on Friday, at the hour appointed, Marian rang and was admitted by a maid who conducted her into a roomy library. She sank nervously awaiting developments. For several days, Marian had been making a desperate study of text books on public speaking and dramatics at the public library, as an eleventh hour preparation to bridge her into professional teaching.

"How do you do, Miss Winthrop? You are prompt, I see," said Mrs. Van Dine entering and shaking hands with cordiality. "Grace will be down in a moment."

From commonplaces, Mrs. Van Dine veered the conversation into a discussion of terms. "What rates shall you ask?" she inquired.

"I thought of asking $30 for a term of 20 lessons--that is, if a class can be formed," replied Marian.

"You're a little too modest," objected the other with a smile. She pondered a moment. "Why not say two dollars a lesson, for round numbers, or $40 for a term of 20. Satisfactory?"

"Entirely," assented Marian, glad that this particular obstacle was safely passed.

"As soon as I can get in touch with the mothers of some of Grace's friends, I shall see what can be done about a class. Leave it all to me," Marian said, while she was giving up what the lawyers call a retainer," continued Marian's patroness, crossing to the heavy library table on which lay her purse. She counted out four $5.00 bills. "Here is twenty dollars in advance," she said.

"But the lessons haven't even begun," interrupted Marian. "How do you know that I'll be a satisfactory teacher?"

"Nonsense! I have no fears. I flatter myself that I'm a pretty good judge of people. Take it. And Marian tucked the bills into her purse. "Here's the young lady now," added Mrs. Van Dine, as her daughter entered. "I shall leave her in your hands. I hope you'll find her an apt pupil."

Grace Van Dine was a spirited girl of sixteen. "Do you think you can make an actress out of me?" she demanded with an eager flush, when her mother had gone. "I'm crazy to go on the stage. Father won't hear of it, of course, but I think mother wouldn't mind."

"A house divided," smiled Marian. "You have beauty, and apparently temperament--two very essential requisites."

"What's temperament?"

"It's denoted as emotional magnetism," laughed Marian.

"Sounds like something in zoology," said the puzzled pupil.

"Well, never mind just yet about temperament. Will you read me something that you're familiar with?"

"Something from Desdemona?"

"That would be fine."

"But say what she wanted to fall in love with that darky for is more than I could ever make out."

"Othello was a Moor," defended Marian.

"Well, he was black just the same." The pupil darted to the bookcase and pulled out a volume, then squared off and began her reading. It was crudely schoolgirlish, but Marian, even with her limited knowledge, discerned possibilities in the girl's voice. And the lesson which followed to the teacher at least, was full of interest.

LONDON GOSSIP.

PRINCE AS PHOTOGRAPHER AND CLUBMAN.

LONDON, May 26th, 1914.

The Prince of Wales, who returned to London on April 30, after cruising off the Scottish coasts on board H.M.S. Cullivood, brought back with him between 400 and 500 exposed but undeveloped photograph films. During his tour he has been busy with his camera and has snapped officers on duty or pleasure, ashore and afloat, incidents in the everyday life of those on board a warship, places visited, and a whole host of other subjects. His Royal Highness will not have the time, even supposing he had the inclination, to develop and print all his pictures, and the films have been sent to a professional photographer. The series will constitute an interesting memento of the cruise, and will incidentally prove an expensive item before it is finished with. Very naturally those who have been photographed by His Royal Highness are all anxious to have prints, and the distinguished amateur is very busy with his orders to delight the heart of the professional to whom the films have been entrusted. It is also heard that the Prince of Wales has been elected to the Cavendish Club, one of the other clubs at the United Universities and the Bath. In addition to these he belongs to several other clubs which are athletic rather than social. Prince's, to which he belongs, may perhaps be said to be a combination. Although primarily a racquets club, it is a good deal used for luncheon and tea. The United Universities was, I suppose, chosen as being the senior University club.

STRANGE FLAG AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

A strange flag has been fluttering from the flag-pole over Buckingham Palace since the King has been at Newmarket. On examination it has been found that the Queen has exercised her right to fly her own flag from the Palace during the King's absence. It is a combination of the Royal Standard and the Queen's family arms. In doing this, Queen Mary is following the example of Queen Alexandra, to whom King Edward accorded the right of having a flag of her own.

A GREAT AMATEUR BIOLOGIST.

M. Henry Spallinger, whose new treatment of tuberculosis was described before the French Academy of Medicine on April 29, is an amateur biologist--one of those rare amateurs who astonish and confound the professional investigator by doing very big things. He is a young Swiss lawyer of only 30 years who in his youth attended law classes in Geneva University. But his heart was not in the law, and all his spare time was given to biology. Finally he abandoned the pandects for the laboratory, and for the last four years he has given up the whole of his time and quite a fortune--half a million francs--to this specific piece of research. His treatment consists of intramuscular injections of what doctors call "anti-bodies" of tuberculosis and certain ferments which he calls "A" and "B" ferments. It has now been submitted to the French Academy to be tested and judged, and until that great scientific institution has decided it is not for a mere layman to have any views. Yet one of the highest medical authorities of Europe--Dr. Edmond Lardy, of the University of Geneva--and two authorities of high repute in London--Dr. Edmund Henry Colbeck, Physician to the City of London Hospital, and Dr. Leonard Jewell Williams, Physician to the French Hospital in London, gave their signature to the communication that was delivered to the French Academy of Medicine on April 29, and the communication itself was read by Professor Letulle, a great French savant and world-famous authority on tuberculosis. Dr. Colbeck, Williams and Lardy describe the clinical results of the treatment, and though they are careful, as befits men of

FASHION IN REACTION.

The shop windows of Regent Street these afternoons are lined three or four deep by feminine gazers eager to discover the spring fashions in dress and millinery, and earnestly pondering upon the ticklish and important problem of their personal suitability. There is, perhaps, exceptional reason for so pondering this season. Fashion, after a couple of years of frank and almost freakish revolution, is in the full tide of reaction. With a characteristic volte-face, it has gone back in a single stride to the early and mid-Victorian periods. The wondrous world of course, be impossible in these days of tube-lifts, escalators, and motor-buses, but the wing of flounces and tunic is at least an approach to it. Early Victorian millinery presents no such difficulty for the window in Regent Street as full of the graceful Leghorn hats and quaint little poke bonnets hitherto only known to us in the faded daguerotypes of our grandmothers in their girlhood in the family album or in the illustrations to "Dombey and Son." With an utter disregard of the unities, fashion insists, too, on the wearing of these fairy and demure poke bonnets going abroad in long and stately Spanish cloaks hanging in straight severe lines from the shoulders. The one would seem to be a modesty of the early Victorian "young lady" and other for the slow measured dignity of a Hidalgo of Spain. Neither would seem to suit the bustling and energetic young women of to-day but that is, perhaps, a lay point of view. To fashion nothing is incongruous or impossible.

LONDON'S CHANGING RESTAURANTS.

In no direction has London increased its social attractiveness within recent years more than in the number and quality of its restaurants. There was a time not so long ago when visitors from the Continent were apt to asperse the fair fame of our capital because of the bad cooking and the desolating places in which they were forced to eat. But all that has been changed. So attractive indeed have London restaurants now become that the popularity of the club meal has been seriously undermined. Most of the big hotels are now catering largely for the casual diner, and the facilities they offer are appreciated by the public. The latest departure of the kind is the Parisian cafe and grill room at the Berkeley. It occupies a room at the rear of the ground floor of the hotel, and the interior has been designed by E. L. Lytens, the architect of the new Belby. The style is late Renaissance and the outlines are embellished by treatment in pure white, the walls having just a tinge of faintest heliotrope to bring warmth into the scheme. The plaster work is chaste, and the whole treatment is tasteful and in keeping with the traditions of the hotel, which, by the way, is the twentieth century devel-

W.C.T.U. Meeting.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. took place yesterday afternoon in the Girls' Department of the Institute, and was largely attended. M. S. Benedict presided and the meeting opened with a devotional half hour, conducted by Mrs. Hunter. It was decided to hold a bazaar meeting on June 8th, at the home of Mrs. Benedict, Queen's Road, and also to raise a subscription towards the Stead Memorial Fund. This movement is named after W. T. Stead, of Liverpool, who was one of the victims of the Titanic disaster, and has for its object the establishing of hostels in every city and town of England, at which working girls, earning small wages may be accommodated at low rates. It is expected that the movement will, in time, extend to this side of the Atlantic as well. After the usual routine business had been transacted the meeting adjourned.

Fred Clarke.

Red McShee says: Before you get your crowns are all passed out to pitchin' stars of knights of club, you'd better give an ear. I got a candidate to wear aring of jewels on his hair, I'll nominate him here. He's Fred Clarke, the pitcher of the Red McShee. He comes from Crowley, Kansas where cyclones play leap-frog in the air and juggle little towns. An' Fred can work up some speed, too. He cracks the whip, his boys jump through--they shrink before his frowns. He don't get out an' rat on paw the earth like Jennings or McGraw. He's quiet as a lamb. He don't step out to brag an' claim--of conversation's not his game--he finishes the claim.

It won't be new if Clarke should stop. He's finished lots of times on top. He's some like Connie Mack. They both win buntings now an' then an' fans can never tell just when they'll put the oil of comback. Well, Fred, you're surely goin' a pace! But it's too early in the race for any prophet guff. Whoever gloms that prophet, though, you're gonna make the winners show a classy hand o' stuff.

C.E.I. Smoker.

Hunt, occupied the chair. Those who contributed selections, which added in no small degree to the pleasure of the event, were: Messrs. G. J. Adams, S. Hart, L. Slick, F. G. Hawkins, E. Fox, R. Evans, J. W. Leage, W. Williams, C. B. Cliff, E. Hurst and W. Smith. Mr. Hurst presided at the piano.

A TERRIBLE DISASTER!

Loss of S.S. Empress of Ireland with Nearly 600 Passengers---Crew of Officers, Seamen, Engineers and Firemen, of Over 400 Also Lost ---420 Passengers & Captain Saved --- The Empress Collided With Collier --- Hardly Time to Launch Boats---Collier and Crew Not Accounted For.

Special to The Evening Telegram.

FATHER PT. QUE, To-day. A terrible disaster which equals in its awful suddenness that of the Titanic, occurred thirty miles east of this point in the dark hours of this morning. The Empress of Ireland, which left Quebec yesterday afternoon with nine hundred and ninety passengers on board bound for Liverpool, collided in the fog with the Collier Storstad. The impact was tremendous. The Empress began to sink almost at once. The scene immediately after the collision baffles description. The shrieks of passengers rudely awakened from their slumber, the hoarse cries of Captains and Officers and the wailing of women mingled with the rushing of the waters of the Gulf. There was hardly any time in which to launch the boats. Only the most meagre details are available. At this hour four hundred and twenty passengers are believed to have been saved, but it is feared that all the remaining 540 have found a grave in the waters of the Gulf. The Empress was in command of Captain Kendall. He is among the saved.

THE EMPRESS OF IRELAND.
The Royal Mail steamer Empress of Ireland was built in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1906, and was first put in commission in June of the same year. She was constructed in accordance with the latest designs in naval architecture and embraces every advantage that constructive genius and operative experience could suggest or devise. Manned by officers and crews of considerable training, she was supposed to be the maximum of safety and efficient service.

DIMENSIONS.
The Empress of Ireland is 570 feet long, and 65 ft. 6 inches wide, and can accommodate comfortably 350 first cabin, 350 second cabin, and 1,000 third class passengers, or a total of 1,700. She has a displacement of 15,000 tons register, and 18,000 indicated horse power, and could easily attain a speed suggestive of the title Empress without undue driving.

APPOINTMENTS.

First Class.
Her cabins are roomy and luxuriously furnished to meet the demands of the most fastidious and exacting passengers. Special attention is given to ventilation, the method of every particular. On the upper and lower promenade decks are placed a number of special rooms, single and en suite, with or without private baths. The spacious dining saloon can accommodate at one sitting the entire number of passengers, an attractive feature of the dining saloon is the arrangement of small round tables in alcoves, which gives the place a homelike appearance, and is specially assigned to families or private parties which desire to travel together.

The Cafe which is situated on the lower promenade deck is sumptuously appointed, and is in perfect keeping with its practical purpose which is to supply light refreshments to passengers at any time during the day. The music room is situated on the upper promenade deck, and is artistically festooned with decorations of original designs, and has a cheery open fire-place, and many cozy nooks and corners that style this room the acme of comfort and luxury. The smoking room, library and other public rooms are, in every respect in accordance with the high standard of excellence maintained throughout the ship. To quote from a popular Marine Journal "From stem to stern and from keel to truck she is the very last word in ship building. She was designed for safety and comfort and the trip from Liverpool to Quebec was made under circumstances in about six days, two days of which were spent on the placid waters of the St. Lawrence thus practically reducing the ocean voyage to four days.

A particular feature of the Empress of Ireland was her remarkable steadiness at sea, and the entire absence of vibration, even when the engines were at full speed.

Second Cabin Accommodation.
The same high standard that makes the first cabin is maintained throughout the ship. Ample, enclosed and open promenade deck space is provided for second cabin passengers and the dining saloon, music room, library and smoking room are commodious and well situated.

PORTS OF DEPARTURE.
The Empress of Ireland sailed from Quebec for Liverpool during the summer, the other ships of the C.P. & N.E. Line sailing from Montreal to winter St. John, N.B., is the port of departure for all the ships of the fleet.

SHIP'S COMPANY.
The ship carried a crew of 350 which included an immense number of stewards and waiters who are ever ready at all hours of the day or night to minister unto the wants of the passengers.

RECORD VOYAGES.
The record voyages made by the Empress of Ireland are: Eastbound to Liverpool, 5 days, 15 hours; 14 hours and 40 minutes.
THE COLLIER STORSTAD.
The S. S. Storstad which figured in collision with the Empress Liner, was in command of Capt. Anderson, who is well known here. The storstad is owned in Christiania and was running in the coal trade between Sydney and Montreal.

'EMPRESS' STRUCK AMIDSHIPS.
The Empress of Ireland was struck amidship by the collier Storstad, and sank within 10 minutes of the collision. She must have been moving out from the shore, which she approaches to pick up the mail brought out to her by the mail tender from Rimouski. This would account for the ship being struck and by the collier going up the river. It is estimated that anywhere from 900 to 1,000 lives are lost. No mention is made of the Storstad which may or may not have been lost. She struck the Empress of Ireland bow on.

THE LATEST—1902 LOST!
The collision occurred at 1:45 this morning, the collier ramming the Empress amidships in a vital part. She sank within 10 minutes of the "S.O.S." call being sent out. There were 990 passengers and 432 of a crew aboard, making in all 1,422. Only 420 are accounted for as saved. This leaves 1002 unaccounted for. Among the saved were the captain, some officers and the two wireless operators.

Fogata Ashore.
Passengers Landed Safely.
Mr. H. J. Earle, of Fogo, who is now in the city, received the following message from Mr. W. J. Earle, who was a passenger on the ship:—
"Fogata ashore, fear badly damaged, Gertie, Miss Hayward and self landed in life boat, gale raging."
Hon. J. C. Crosbie also received a message confirming the above and stating all the passengers had been landed safely.

Burning Accident.
Ellie Anthony, aged 6, the victim of a burning accident, arrived by last night's train for Hospital, accompanied by her father. The latter was burning rubbish in his garden at Kelburns yesterday, and the little girl, who was sat near the fire, got her clothes ignited and before the flames were extinguished by the father her legs and back were badly burned.

A Home Vacation.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A neighbor of mine wants me to tell my reader friends about the summer vacation which she took last year.

For many years this family has taken a cottage at summer resort. Last year, for several reasons, this was impossible.

"I was situated," said my neighbor, "and it seemed to me I couldn't go on with the work at home. You know it's not so hard at a summer cottage, because you live so much more simply. One night in June I was thinking it over rather bitterly, when the idea came to me—why not have a summer vacation at home? After all, there's nothing to prevent our living simply right here. Why not pretend it's a summer cottage, and live as if it were?"

"And so we did."

"In the first place, we went through the house and took out all the things we didn't really need, such as ornaments, some of the draperies and rugs and some of the furniture, and put them all together in a store-room upstairs. The children helped me and we pretended we were moving to our summer house, and made quite a game of it. You can't imagine how much simpler that made it to keep the house in order, and it was no more bare than a summer cottage."

"We used a great many paper dishes and napkins at camp, and so we did the same thing in our home vacation."

"Then at camp we never do much cooking. We buy our bread—you know you can get really just as good bread at a good baker's, and if you count your labor as worth anything, you can get it as cheap. We have nicely boughten crackers instead of cake, and for dessert we almost always have some kind of fruit. I did all this at home, and in addition as a treat for the children I bought a small, convenient freezer and let them make simple ices or sherbets whenever they wanted."

"There are many more conveniences in my home than in a summer cottage, so altogether, I found the work decidedly easier than it would have been if we had gone away. Of course, I missed the change, and the worst thing was the children's disappointment. But I tried to make it up to them. Not having to pay cottage rent, my husband allowed me a little money for amusement, and once or twice a week I took the children on a picnic of some sort. Children get a lot of fun out of anticipation and to always have something like this to look forward to helped."

"Then, as I said before, I let them make ice cream whenever they wanted, and have little ice cream parties for their friends. Another thing which they always enjoyed was having lunch on the veranda. They were glad to do the extra work involved. Fortunately we have a large backyard, so I let them go barefoot, which they love to do."

"So, altogether, our summer wasn't at all the disappointment and failure it would have been if we hadn't made up our minds to have our vacation at home."

Needless to say I'm happy to pass along this little story. Part of the restfulness of life at the summer camp is that it is life stripped of its formalities and reduced to its lowest terms. A summer at home can be made a vacation at home, if we will only remember this fact.

Newfoundlanders in Canada

U.S.A. and Panama, Preparing for Old Home Week and August Regatta.

The project of the Old Home Week excursion for this summer of July and August, has taken great hold on Newfoundlanders in Canada and even down to Texas. Our returning countrymen—2,000 in number by present estimate—hope to take part in your baseball tournaments, and do not see why your various districts cannot send in crews for races. We hope the Nova Scotians and others will send oarsmen for Regatta Day.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferers and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percie Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

State Capitals.

HARRISBURG, PA.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Sishaw." Harrisburg was settled in 1791 on the wild frontier, 100 miles west of Philadelphia. There was a ferry across the Susquehanna River at this point in those days, but like the city, the river has grown greatly and is now so deep that it could not be waded by a graffe, thanks to the municipal dam.

In 1812 the capital of Pennsylvania was moved to Harrisburg, and the city as well as a distressingly large number of legislators began to become prosperous. However, Harrisburg did not lean as heavily on the capitol business as some American cities. It secured steel mills and lumber interests, and when the Pennsylvania railroad stretched its first tentacle across the state it established shops in the city. By reason of all these enterprises Harrisburg has become a place of 70,000 people and could thunder along in an imposing manner if it didn't have any capitol at all.

By reason of its capitol, however, Harrisburg has participated in a large amount of history. The famous Harrisburg convention, which started the first high tariff campaign, was held in Harrisburg in 1828. In 1839 Harrisburg outdid itself by holding a national political convention and nominating Harrison and Tyler. Since those days a good deal of political history has been written in the city, but most of the incidents have been quashed.

Harrisburg once adopted a celebrated plan of municipal reform, which included a Bicameral and other terrifying inventions, but the plan was not contagious and did not infect the legislature for many years.

Harrisburg is noted for its municipal enterprise which has led it to spend vast sums for improvements, and for its state capitol, which cost $1,000,000 a few years ago. This capitol is one of the most beautiful white edifices in the world, and contains the reputations of the men who built it, said reputations having passed away shortly after its completion.

Many famous politicians have gotten their training in Harrisburg, and James Buchanan once lingered there long enough to persuade the legislature to send him to the Senate. Harrisburg is also the home of the greatest statesman who ever played ball in the National League—Governor John Tener.

A Bad Heart, Its Cause and Cure

Many, Firmly Convinced They Are Dying of Heart Trouble, Have Obtained the Strongest Hearts.

Sometimes you wake up at night, heart throbbing like a steam engine. Your breathing is short and irregular; pains shoot through the chest and abdomen, and cause horrible anxiety.

Your trouble isn't with the heart at all. These sensations are the outcome of indigestion, which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart.

Just read what happened to Isaac Maloux, of Belle River, Ont.:

"Three months ago I was a weak, sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach. I had scur rising and indigestion. At night I would often weaken with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation. I consulted my doctor and used remedies that my friends advised. Nothing helped."

"One day I received a sample of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and my cure commenced. To-day I have a vigorous appetite strong heart action, and no sign of indigestion. I feel younger and healthier than ever before."

"You druggist or storekeeper sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from The Cataract Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Sagona With 14,000.

The S. S. Sagona, Capt. Kennedy, arrived from the northward last night with 14,000 seals, which were collected at the different harbours along the French Shore.

The ship left there in the early part of the month, and experienced much difficulty in forcing her way north, owing to the heavy Arctic ice so close packed on the land.

On the way south the ice was still moving towards the shore, and it is expected that Green Bay is again blocked. Residents of the north say they have not seen such conditions for nearly thirty years.

After the Sagona's cargo is discharged the ship will enter the dry dock to be made ready for the season's coastal service.

OCEAN RACE.—The vessels Nellie M. Olinda and Dunure, fish laden, sailed yesterday for Brazil, the former for Bahia and the Olinda and Dunure for Pernambuco. An exciting ocean race will take place and the outcome of the contest will be awaited with interest.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARTH IN COWS.

A Handsome Piece of Local Workmanship

The jewel which was presented to Mr. W. H. Goodland, by the Nfld. British Society on Empire Day, is now on exhibition at the Jewellery store of Mr. R. H. Trapnell, where it was made. It is made of gold, silver and enamel, in three sections, and is indeed a work of art. The clasp is in the shape of a semi-circle, surmounted by a heart scroll, in relief, enclosing the initials of the Society and Maltese crosses in enamel. From this is suspended an elaborate bar with the figure of an angel, delicately engraved and of exquisite beauty. Beneath this is the medallion, a masterpiece of relief engraving, a floral wreath enclosing the emblems of the Society—crossed Union Jacks and Coat-of-Arms in silver and enamel. The reverse side, bearing the inscription, is beautifully engraved, as follows:—

Presented to W. H. GOODLAND by the Newfoundland British Society to commemorate his four years' services as President which was marked with signal success.

Mr. Goodland's appreciation of the jewel may be seen by the following well-merited letter to Mr. Trapnell, which through the courtesy of the recipient, we give below:—

St. John's, May 27th, '14.
R. H. Trapnell, Esq., Jeweller and Optician.

Dear Sir,—I take this early opportunity of tendering my sincere thanks for the talent which has been displayed in the handsome jewel with which I have been presented by the Nfld. British Society. I may say I have seen many of the most beautiful designs in imported jewels, but none that I would take a preference to the one made by you. Consider it a triumph of the Jewellers and engravers art, "a thing of beauty and a joy forever," and I congratulate you on the production of what is a chaste and extremely appropriate specimen, reflecting as it does, the highest credit on the skill of yourself and staff.

Believe me, dear sir, Yours sincerely,
W. H. GOODLAND, P.P.

The Evening Telegram also tenders its congratulations to all concerned, but especially Mr. Goodland, holder of this handsome treasure.

Indian War Story at the Nickel.

The Nickel Theatre last evening was well attended. The programme was a delightful one, and all present were pleased with it. The entertainments at the Nickel Theatre are increasing in popularity all the time, and each evening the building is well filled. The musical effects so ably executed by Mr. Joseph Ross and Miss Rigg contribute much to the success of the Nickel shows. The management has arranged another splendid performance for this evening. There will be a two-reel feature story entitled "The Cheyenne Massacre," which is said to be one of the best ever produced and presented by the Kalem Co. An extra big matinee is being arranged for the little ones to-morrow afternoon.
