"The Bond of Sympathy Between One Woman and Another."

If you are discouraged with your condition, weak, tired, subject to headaches, backache, bearing down sensations, weakness of bladder, constipation, hot flushes, melancholy, tendency to cry over trifles, nervousness and loss of interest in things generally, I want to help you to better things.

My own was probably as deplorable a case as could be found, yet it and to-day I am a well woman quickly yielded to "Orange Lily" treatment. "Orange Lily" is a simple, natural, common-sense remedy that you apply yourself. To go to drinking harmful drugs for troubles such as ours, is like trying to cure a sprain with pills. The only right and effective treatment is a strictly local application, like "Orange Lily."

Because I am sure in advance of the wonderful results you will have, I want to send you ten days' treatment, FREE. Will you write me to-day, NOW, and let me help you? Enclose three stamps. Address MRS. LYDIA W. LADD, Windsor, Ont. Sold by leading Drug-gists everywhere.

CHAPTER XVII
THE FORGED INVITATIONS.

"Don't talk rot, Radman. I only want a couple of thousand, and you know perfectly well that you and Montagu can easily raise that. Lillas is bound to win her case, and you can have it back out of my share. There'll be plenty for all of us."

"No, my dear fellow, I don't gamble in futures," said Radman decisively. "Especially futures which depend on a lawsuit. I'm afraid I must say no."

"Then," said Ashley, rising abruptly, with an angry flush on his face, "there's nothing more to be said, I suppose?"

"Not as far as I can see," said Radman, taking out his watch, "and I have an appointment at three. Good afternoon."

Ashley walked out of the room without replying. When he got into the street he walked slowly southward toward Broad Street, where the offices of Montagu & Co. were situated.

He was in a desperate position, and therefore inclined to do desperate things. It was quite plain that he had nothing more to expect from Radman, except a continuation of the tyranny which he seemed to delight in exercising. He felt, too, that he must get possession of the acceptances and the policy of underwriting, at all hazards, for he knew perfectly well that if, as he ardently hoped, he succeeded in marrying Miss Belinda Vanderieen and her goodly pile of money, Radman would keep the forged papers and blackmail him unmercifully.

Meanwhile he wanted eight hundred pounds very badly. To various tradesmen he owed hundreds, which didn't give him the slightest anxiety. He belonged to that class which apparently has little or no sense of commercial honor. He would take clothes and jewelry, and flowers and knickknacks, from men whose property they were, and who had themselves paid for them, whether he knew that he could pay them or not. That never worried him. But money lost at cards or on a race horse, that was a very different thing. That must be paid, under the penalty of social ruin and ostracism, and so he must have those eight hundred pounds, even if he had to commit a crime to get them.

Ashley's first thought was to go and put the matter before Mr. Henry Montagu, who could write him a check for a thousand and make him a present of it without feeling that he was any the poorer, so he observed the impulse and quickened his pace toward Broad Street.

He found him in, but just getting ready to go home.

"Hello, Ashley, my boy," he said cheerily, as they shook hands, which he always insisted on doing with everybody. "What's a man of fashion like you going in the city at this time?"

"Business," said the other, as he sat down. "The fact is, Monty, I've had a lot of bad luck lately, and I'm in a hole."

"Well, my dear boy, since I had the honor and pleasure of your acquaintance, I don't think I ever knew you out of one. How deep is this one?"

"About eight hundred feet," laughed Ashley.

"Yes, I understand," said the Jew. "How do you propose to extricate yourself?"

"That's exactly what I've come to ask you about. I've just been to Radman, but he's in one of his filthy tempers, and just laughed at me, and so I came to ask you to lend the money to me."

"What!" exclaimed Mr. Montagu, opening his round, prominent eyes with a jerk. "You ask me to lend it to you, as you call it. I should say give. Well, of all the— Look here, my boy, you ought to have done a lot better than you have. A nerve like yours ought to be worth five thousand a year to anybody. Now, if you could bring me a bill for a thousand, with a really good name on the back—a real one, mind—I'd let you have the money like a shot; but you seem to have played that game out. No, my son, I'm afraid I can't help you that way. But I tell you what I will do."

"And what's that?"

"Well, you know," the other continued, "you have helped us a good deal in one way, among the bigwigs of the West End, getting directors for our companies, and they say you know everybody that is anybody. Now do you know Lord and Lady Beauclerc?"

"Very well," he replied. "In fact, I was at school with young Harringford, the eldest son, you know."

"Then perhaps you will be going to her ladyship's great reception next week?"

"I dare say I shall, but I've not had an invitation yet."

"No, but you will have," said Mr. Montagu, in a low, persuasive tone which at once conveyed a meaning to Ashley's quick intellect. "Now look here, my wife, as you know, is just clean mad on getting into what is called society. I don't care about it, except so far as it's useful in business, but I don't like denying my Rachel anything. If she can get to that reception, she can get anywhere, and the price to you for two invitations will be five hundred pounds for each, cash down when she gets them. It's a long price, but I don't mind paying it for her sake."

"I'll do my best," said Ashley, who knew that he might as well ask the Countess of Beauclerc for invitations for Mr. and Mrs. Montagu as for their fishmonger and his wife; still, he might have a try; perhaps his old schoolfellow would help him.

The next afternoon he called at the Beauclerc mansion, in Belgrave Square, and found her ladyship alone in the little drawing-room in which she received her personal friends, seated at a table, busy initialing cards and directing envelopes.

"Dear me, Lady Beauclerc, have you commended yourself to hard labor? Has Beauclerc no secretary, and you no companion?"

"My dear Arthur, you know how particular I am about these things," replied her ladyship. "I always do this myself, although it is rather hard work. Now, Lady Caversham leaves everything to—well, to others—and at one of her receptions, or I'm not sure that it wasn't a dance, two perfectly unspeakable people got in. Of course, some one had been bribed to send them invitations."

At this moment there was a discreet tap at the door, and a gorgeous footman appeared.

"If you please, my lady, the head nurse would like to speak to you particularly."

"Oh, dear," said Lady Beauclerc, getting up from the table, "I suppose I must go. Don't you go, Arthur; I'll be back in a few minutes. I want you to help me with this affair next week."

The door had scarcely closed before a couple of the blank tickets and a couple of the crested envelopes were in Ashley's pocket. It was a desperate risk to take, but he had either to have that thousand pounds within a week, or be posted in the clubroom and on the turf as a defaulter.

And so it came about that Mrs. Henry Montagu, to her astonishment and delight, two days later, received two cards which were practically tickets of admission to one of the most exclusive circles in London.

CHAPTER XVII
A PUZZLING DISCOVERY.

After the house and furniture at Wimbledon had been sold, for Mrs. Markham and Kate had insisted on parting with everything except their own personal belongings, and the presents that had been made by friends on such occasions as birthdays and so on, they had gone down to Eastbourne for a month, while Kenneth was getting a little house ready for them in Bedford Park. By this time the long vacation was approaching, and there was little chance of the great Eversley will case coming on till it was over.

This proved to be the fact, and so as soon as he had disposed of a couple of other cases he was engaged in, he went down for a week's rest and recreation by the sea.

When he got on the platform at the Victoria Station, he saw, with a pleasure which he hardly cared to explain to himself, Lillas and her aunt, standing by the open door of a first-class car, talking to Arthur Ashley, whom he did not see with the same pleasure. He had taken one of those instinctive dislikes to him which sometimes come to the best and most broad-minded men without their knowing why, and which they are quite unable to resist. Certainly the sight of Ashley, talking, as it seemed to him, somewhat familiarly to Lillas, and looking, as he thought, unnecessarily closely at her upturned face, inspired him with a vague desire to kick him, although he had never heard a word against the man, and, for all he knew, he was just as good and honorable a gentleman as himself.

"Good morning," he said, raising his hat as he approached them. "May I hope that you are going to Eastbourne, too?"

"Yes," replied Lillas, looking up at him with one of her bewitching smiles, "at least, aunt and I are. Mr. Ashley has been kind enough to come and see us off."

"Then perhaps I may hope for the pleasure of a seat in your car, if there's one to spare?"

"Oh, yes," said Miss Holroyd, "there are two left, and you had better take one at once, but it isn't a smoking car, you know, Mr. Markham."

"I don't smoke much in the morning," replied Kenneth, with a smile, "and even if I did, I should naturally choose the greater pleasure before the less."

He got into the car, and put his light overcoat and a little hand bag which had a certain legal look about it into of the vacant seats opposite the one in which he recognized a gray mackintosh which he had seen Lillas wear.

When the train had started, and Ashley had turned away in the direction of the refreshment room, he murmured to himself:

"Now, I think that was not at all badly managed. What a charming little family they'll have down. We could have done without Miss Morcia Reynolds and that lumbering brute Ackersley; but still, if the fair Lillas doesn't go in and win now, she ought to—"

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Doesn't hurt a bit! Sore corns lift right off with fingers. Magic!

Costs few cents! Drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out with the fingers.

Why wait? Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of Freezone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and without soreness or irritation. Freezone is that much talked of discovery of the Cincinnati genius.

The journey down was something more than pleasant to Kenneth. There was not very much conversation. Lillas did not care to strain her voice to pierce the rattle of the train. But every now and then a few words passed, and they were accompanied by smiles and glances which were worth any amount of the brightest small talk. Miss Holroyd read and dozed, and behaved with all desirable discretion; while Kenneth indulged in furtive glances at the lovely face opposite to him over the edge of his unread newspaper.

At Eastbourne he was met by Kate, Mercia, and Ackersley, who had his own reasons for thinking the air of the place particularly salubrious just then.

Kenneth promptly took advantage of the opportunity to introduce Lillas and Miss Holroyd. Their reception was polite, of course, but it did not strike him as being particularly cordial. After lunch he said to his sister: "What do you think of Mrs. Ashley, Kate? I suppose you see know that my attempt at description didn't do her anything like justice."

"She is very beautiful," replied Kate, in a tone which indicated but little interest. "Indeed, I think she is the most beautiful woman I have ever seen; but, for all that, I don't think I could ever be very great friends with her."

"Just like a woman," laughed Kenneth, a trifle sharply. "You form a sudden prejudice and call it intuition."

"My dear Ken, in such things as this you will find a woman's intuition worth the judgment of half a dozen men, even if they were as clever as yourself. However, I quite recognize that, under the circumstances, we owe her kindness and hospitality, and she shall have both."

There was a little chilliness in her tone, which caused Kenneth to say: (To be Continued.)

French Action Disapproved.

British and Associated Governments Oppose Occupation of Towns--Frankfort's Population Battle With Troops--Reds Have Been Dispossessed of Essen -- Maritime Workers Strike Ordered in All French Ports -- Irish Ratepayers to Find Two Million Pounds.

FRANCE'S ALLIES OPPOSED TO OCCUPATION.

LONDON, April 8. Both the Central News and the Exchange Telegraph Company state today that the British and Associated Governments have been opposed throughout to the French occupation of German towns, and that France acted on her own initiative.

FRANCE NOT CALLED UPON TO WITHDRAW.

PARIS, April 8. Reports that Great Britain and the United States had called upon France to withdraw her troops from Frankfort are entirely without foundation, it was announced in an official note issued today.

THE CROWD TO BLAME.

FRANKFORT, April 8. Yesterday afternoon's clash in Shillplatz between French troops and population, resulting in the killing of six Germans and the wounding of some two score others, was followed by a strong display of French military force which resulted in the restoration of order by the time darkness had set in. It was a rumor that the French, forced by pressure by the Allies and the United States, had to withdraw from the city that started the trouble. The crowd jeered and taunted the troops, yelling "You've got to get out" at the Senegalese who were patrolling in front of the guard house on the square. A French officer ordered the crowd to disperse, and when the order was ignored, a machine gun was brought into play. Disturbances also occurred in other parts of the city.

FRANKFORT NOW QUIET.

MAYENCE, April 8. Complete order has been restored at Frankfort, the authorities having succeeded in quieting the students. The Municipality has posted bills requesting the people to keep calm. Security police who were made prisoners at Frankfort, will be removed from the occupied territory by rail.

REDS DRIVEN FROM ESSEN.

ESSEN, April 8. The last important Red center fell into the hands of the Government troops on Tuesday afternoon, after severe fighting in the suburbs. The Reds made their last stand on the Canal, but when the Reichswehr charged on both flanks, the Reds broke and fled. Some of them surrendered their arms at the City Hall during the retreat, while others threw them away. Marcus, a notorious murderer of Munich hostages, was killed. Desultory fighting is still in progress in rural communities in the neighborhood of Essen, where the material damage is said to be considerable. During the last few days Red rule in Essen degenerated into indiscriminate looting. The losses of Reichswehr up to Sunday are given as 170 killed, 346 wounded and 123 missing.

UNIONS OUT OF CONTROL.

CHICAGO, April 8. Whether the railroad Brotherhoods can control their own men or whether the "unauthorized and illegal strikes sweeping the United States railroad yards from Buffalo to Los Angeles, have so disrupted the established unions that the leaders have lost all control, is expected to be decided today.

ABOVE THE LAW!

PARIS, April 8. A strike of maritime workers has been ordered by the Marine Union in all ports of France. The strike is already in effect at Marseilles and Dunkirk. The strikers demand the liberation of sailors who mutinied in the Black Sea in 1917, and all persons condemned for military or political offences or for acts committed while participating in strikes.

TO ADOPT SEPARATE PEACE RESOLUTION.

WASHINGTON, April 8. The adoption of the Republican peace resolution to-morrow by the House was indicated today when a rule limiting the debate on the measure to nine hours was adopted with some Democrats joining the Republicans in supporting it.

USING GAS SHELLS.

PARIS, April 8. German regular troops have bombarded Dusseldorf with gas shells, according to a Mayence despatch to the Matin.

32 DEAD IN GAS EXPLOSION.

PONCA CITY, Okla., April 8. Thirty-two persons sleeping in a Newport rooming house are thought to have been killed by an explosion which occurred at 1.30 o'clock this morning, and believed to have been due to an accumulation of gas. The explosion occurred in the Perndale restaurant.

RATEPAYERS MUST FOOT THE BILL.

DUBLIN, April 8. It is officially stated that police quarters destroyed during recent raids in Ireland number two hundred and twenty. From the claims already made for compensation it is estimated that the ratepayers will have to meet a bill exceeding two millions.

EX-KAISER PRACTICALLY A PRISONER.

AMORGEN, April 8. The Duchess of Brunswick, daughter of former German Emperor, returned on Wednesday morning to Germany from Amorgen, where she passed Eastertide with her parents. The former Emperor is permitted to leave the castle only on urgent necessity. Since the Kapp outbreak he has only once visited his Doorn estate to give instructions concerning work. During the stay of his daughter and son-in-law here he was not permitted to show his estate to his guests. The military guard about the Castle has not been reduced.

Criminals Who Are Superstitious.

Some years ago three men had decided to break into the office of a large factory in the North, and make an attempt on the safe. They had learnt that a large sum of money was kept in that safe for a day or two, and they resolved to divert this money from going into its proper channel, and turn the stream towards themselves.

They had nearly reached the factory, when a cat started from a corner and ran across their path, and by the light of the moon, which peeped forth at that very moment, they saw that it was black. Immediately they halted. After some discussion, one of them refused to proceed, and went back, while the others, although they were nervous at the thought of ill-luck, went on. They were caught in the very act of drilling a hole in the safe door, and sentenced to long terms of penal servitude.

The sound of a child sobbing at night in a house near the one into which he intends to break is quite enough to make many a burglar go back home; it is a sure sign of misfortune. Why this should be so regarded it is not easy to determine, but perhaps the idea of innocence usually associated with infants has some effect upon the hardened heart of the criminal.

There are people who regard the sudden stopping of a clock as an intimation that some friend or relative has died at that moment; in the same way, if a clock stops in the room in which a burglar is at work he considers it advisable to leave the premises without delay. This occurred to a man who was recently convicted, and he sorrowfully remarked to the policeman who took him into custody that if he had paid heed to the omen he would just have got clear before the master of the house returned.

If a crackman's path is crossed by a dog, or if a dog of any kind follows him, he will give up his job if he yields to his own inclinations.

Criminals have great faith in a run of luck. There are several instances of men leaving the card-table when they have been winning game after game, and going out to undertake a job which they have had in view for some time; they think that, as their luck is in, they are sure to succeed in the house-breaking line, on that particular occasion at least.

To kick against a piece of coal in the street is a sure sign of misfortune should a thief attempt to continue his professional work on that day; unless disaster be warded off by some lucky omen; but, as the lucky omens are not nearly so numerous as the unlucky ones, it usually follows that the thief remains idle, to the benefit of the community.

It is rarely that a pickpocket will steal anything from a blind man. We can hardly imagine that the man's affliction and helplessness appeal to the finer feelings of one who would not hesitate to steal the last penny from the pocket of a poor woman; it is because he is convinced that a long run of bad luck will dog his steps as a punishment for having taken the advantage of the man's infirmity.

Recently a convict admitted that if he walked over a line chalked on the pavement--as children in the suburban thoroughfares make when playing at certain games--he would not attempt a robbery for twenty-four hours, as he believed that bad luck would attend him in his undertaking; and he solemnly asserted his belief that his capture was due to his having disregarded this little omen.

Mainly About People.

John Maynard Keynes is an Englishman who places literary success above political success, and there are indications that the former may help the latter. He wrote a book on the consequences of peace, somewhat economic but indicative of grasp of the subject and broadness of view, that has the attention of statesmen, and there is talk of a place in the English cabinet for him.

The highest paid railroad man in the United States, Jacob M. Dickinson, received for the Rock Island system is not a railroad man but a lawyer, and was, although a true Southern Democrat, secretary of war for President Taft. His railroad salary is $120,000 a year, and the next highest is A. H. Lovett, executive chairman of the Union Pacific, whose salary is $104,000 a year.

While Professor George Pierce Baker, of Harvard University, who is to write the Pilgrim Tercentennial pageant, was a professor of logic at that institution, a certain student asked if he could not take a shorter course than the one laid down in the prospectus. "That depends," replied the level-headed professor, "upon what you wish to make out of yourself. When nature wants to make an oak she works away on the job for a hundred years, but if she only wants to make a weed she needs only about six days."

Colonel T. E. Lawrence is an Irishman, a graduate of Oxford, and now one of the greatest living Arabic scholars. He acquired both the language and customs by adopting the native costume and living and tramping with Bedouin tribes. He was in the valley of the Euphrates when war broke out, and was 26 years old. He organized the Arabs against the Turks and Germans.

Whatever his political detractors may say about him, Lord Birkenhead, still known as "F. E. Smith," the English Lord Chancellor, is what Americans call a "live wire." His latest incursion into the political arena, which has caused "excursions and alarms," proves that if it had not been already demonstrated many times over. He was president of the Oxford Union when he had barely attained his majority, and at the advanced age of twenty-four he was a full-fledged "doc," lecturing to undergraduates, some of whom were older than himself. And as a "don" he set up a record which is never likely to be equalled, and far less eclipsed. This was being "run in" by the police!

BELGIUM READY.
BRUSSELS, April 8. King Albert presided to-day at a Cabinet Council, at which it was decided as a token of friendship to France and of solidarity with the Allies that Belgium be prepared to send a detachment to the Ruhr region.

WELLS KNOCKS OUT MCGOERTY.
LONDON, April 8. Bombardier Wells, English heavy-weight, to-night knocked out Eddie McGoerty of Oakknob, N. Y., in the sixteenth round of a twenty round bout at the Holborn stadium.

TROTSKY'S DICTUM.
MOSCOW, April 8. Militarization is the only means to fully utilize Russian man power, said Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik Minister of War, addressing the ninth convention of the Communist party here. Trotsky's advice was chiefly directed to defining the relation between the mobilization of industry to the industrial rehabilitation of Russia.

ICE BREAKER TO THE RESCUE.
CHRISTIANIA, April 8. Negotiations between the British and Norwegian Foreign Offices, which followed the receipt of a wireless appeal from the steamer Solovel, ice-bound in the Arctic, with eighty souls on board, has resulted in an ice breaker being placed at the disposal of the rescue party organized by Russian scientists.

ACTED ON OWN INITIATIVE.
LONDON, April 8. After a long conference which the French Ambassador, Paul Cambon, had with Premier Lloyd George to-day, and a full discussion of the Franco-German incident by the Cabinet Council, in which the French view was fully explained to the British Minister, an authoritative statement was issued to the effect that France had acted entirely on her own initiative in deciding to occupy German towns and that Great Britain, the United States, Italy and Belgium were all opposed to the plan and that France's action has caused a delicate situation in the matter under the discussion of the British and French Govts, but hope is expressed that the situation may be eased. The statement recites various expedients suggested for dealing with Ruhr situation and among others the sending of Allied officers with German troops to supervise the German withdrawal. Another alternative was that the decision should be left with the German Government with the stipulation that unless the status quo was sufficiently restored, the Allies themselves would occupy German points to enforce their demands. The statement proceeds, "The German Government appears to have acted precipitately on France, to have responded by adopting a plan which was only intended as a last resort method, and even then to have been an affair of the Allies and not of any one of them simply." Great Britain, Italy, Belgium and the United States, it is declared, all felt that the task of restoring order should lie with Germany, and all were opposed to their regular forces being called upon, except as a last resort, to undertake what are virtually police guard. The statement concludes, "If and when France's suspicions of Germany's ulterior motives and deliberate flaunting of the terms of the Peace Treaty becomes accomplished facts, the Allies would doubtless be prepared to act instantly and vigorously, in concert, to vindicate their position and ensure respect for the provisions of the treaty. But for the time being, it may be taken that no British soldier will participate in the occupation of German cities in the neutral zone."

IS NEWFOUNDLAND IN THIS?
KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 8. A proposal was submitted in the Legislative Council to-day for the representation of Jamaica at a conference to be held at Ottawa next month. This conference will consider the question of trade relations and transport facilities between the Dominion of Canada and British West Indies. The entire West Indies will be represented at the conference, and an effort will be made to deflect a large portion of the West India trade with the United States to Canada. To this end a special tariff law will be formulated, the Jamaican Government giving preference on Canadian goods coming here.

DEATH FROM THE GROUND.
CAMBRAI, France, April 8. Two explosions, in which twelve persons were killed and two injured, have occurred in the district of Villers Muhlain, eighteen miles from Cambrai. The explosions were caused by agricultural tractors coming in contact with unexploded shells in fields which were being ploughed.

PEACE CONFERENCE SESSION.
LONDON, April 8. David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, will leave for Italy next Saturday for the coming session of the Peace Conference. Lloyd George will leave by boat for Marseille and Earl Curzon of Kedleston, British Foreign Secretary, and Viscount Chinda, Japanese Ambassador to Great Britain, will proceed overland to Marseille.

JAPS DEFEAT SOVIET.
WASHINGTON, April 8. Fighting between Japanese and Russian forces at Khabarovsk ceased late Tuesday, the Japanese Embassy was informed to-day, with the surrender of the Soviet troops. The Japanese suffered two hundred and fifty casualties in a ten hour conflict, while the Russians lost four hundred, fifteen hundred prisoners and seven guns.

HOLY WAR CASUALTIES.
LONDON, April 8. It is reported that ten civilians were killed and one hundred and eighty wounded, and that three British officers were wounded in the disturbances in Jerusalem on April 4th, between Jews, Moslems and Arabs, says a despatch to the London Times from Cairo, Egypt, dated April 7th.

ASKS AN EXTENSION.
BERLIN, April 8. The Berliner Tageblatt says it is informed that the German Government is negotiating with the Entente, for prolongation to October 7, of the agreement of August, 1919, for the maintenance of troops in the neutral zone, pleading that a strong police force is required to maintain order in that area.

FIGHT WITH TRIBESMEN.
TAZA, Morocco, April 8. French troops have been engaged in reconnoitering operations against a strong body of natives belonging to the tribe of Beniourain who are en route south of Fez. Four French soldiers and one officer were killed and the enemy dispersed by artillery, which inflicted severe losses.

ORDER EXPECTED TO-MORROW.
DUSSELDORF, April 8. (By the A. P.)—Diminishing disorders, progress of dissolution of Red army, and fulfilment of other clauses of the Peace Treaty, seemingly indicate that there will be a return to reasonably satisfactory conditions throughout this part of the Ruhr region by Saturday. Noon time is set for a return to normal by the authorities. The desire of the Executive Committee of the Workmen, particularly in Dusseldorf, to retain some of the power they have had for four weeks appears, to be the only political difficulty.

HORSE TAKES AERIAL ROUTE.
SANTA BARBARA, Cal., April 8. A horse, entered in an exposition here, arrived yesterday by airplane from Los Angeles. The trip was delayed a day until officers of the Humane Society had been convinced that no cruelty was involved in the trip, which was made in an specially equipped airplane.

BRITISH WIN NEW LAURELS.
(BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE)
HORSEA, April 8. General Ironsides despatch on the North Russian campaign, published to-day, says, "Fighting took place in over eighty degrees of frost, and despite these Arctic conditions our men carried out their duties magnificently. In these operations the British Army added a new record to its long history. Never before had it fought so far north, or in cold so far below zero. During the great war it conducted operations in every conceivable climate, from the Persian Gulf, where some of the highest temperatures of the world are registered, to the Arctic regions." Many places and passages in the North Russian despatch might be extracts from logs of polar explorers. "During the winter months with their lack of daylight the bringing in of stores, under convoy of ice breakers manned by the Royal Navy, was carried out with great danger to the crews concerned. Passing over two thousand men as reinforcements from Soroka to Archangel front by the land route, a distance of four hundred miles, using sleighs was a military achievement of which all could well be proud."

A BOOK TO NEWSPAPERS.
WASHINGTON, April 8. The House Bill permitting the importation duty free, of newspaper paper valued at eight cents a pound, was reported favorably by the Senate Finance Committee yesterday. The measure has been urged by many publishers. Under the present law the duty free value is five cents or less per pound.

FUSSYFOOT RETURNING.
WESTERVILLE, Ohio, April 8. William E. ("Fussyfoot") Johnson, the United States anti-saloon League leader, "who gave an eye to make England dry," is planning to return to the United States this month, according to a cablegram received by a local league official.

PREMIER MILLERAND EXPLAINS.
PARIS, April 8. A meeting of the French Cabinet was held this morning, when it was announced that ministers would hold another session at six o'clock this evening. Premier Millerand informed the Cabinet with regard to the situation in Germany, and he likewise made it acquainted with a verbal communication which had been received from Great Britain on the subject of the French occupation of Frankfurt, the official notification of the British position not having yet arrived in Paris.

NEW AERIAL RECORD.
PARIS, April 8. Henri Roget, the widely known aviator, has established a record by flying from Paris to Lyons in one hour and fifty minutes, his speed being estimated at 147 miles per hour.

GERMAN TROOPS WITHDRAWN.
BERLIN, April 8. The German regular troops, which had crossed the River Ruhr, were withdrawn yesterday to the northern bank of that stream, it is announced here. The Ruhr passes just to the south of Essen, in the northern central part of the industrial district. Great excitement prevailed in Dusseldorf in view of the threatened entry of regulars.

ANGLO-FRENCH CRISIS.
LONDON, April 8. The London Times says that a crisis has arisen in Anglo-French relations, and that contrary to the assurances that differences of opinion between the Allies, regarding violation of the neutral zone by German troops were about to be composed by a friendly understanding. It appears that the British Government yesterday took steps to emphasize their disagreement with the policy of France. The Times adds that in diplomatic circles the view is expressed that the action of France "is wrong in form, but right in substance." Independent diplomatic testimony, according to the Times, is to the effect that the German Government is in reality controlled by militarists.

Why This Is Leap Year.

IT WAS INVENTED BY JULIUS CAESAR.
It was in the year B.C. 46 that Julius Caesar introduced the Bixestile, or what we know as Leap Year, into the calendar.

Previous to the adoption of the Julian system, the Roman year consisted of 365 days only, divided into twelve lunar months, with an occasional intercalary month to make up for the fact that more than twelve exact lunar months are required to complete the natural year.

This system was very unsatisfactory, and Julius Caesar much improved matters by his calendar which made each year to consist of 365½ days on the average, by inserting another day every four years, between February 24th and 25th.

This reckoning was not quite accurate, however, as the natural year consists of 365 days 5 hours 48 minutes 50 seconds only, and when Pope Gregory XIII. studied the subject in 1582 he found there was a difference of ten days between the Julian and the natural time. This led to the Gregorian Amendment, which enacted that what would have been October 6th, 1582, was to be regarded as October 15.

To guard against future discrepancies the Pope drew up a list of leap years, and although 1700, 1800 and 1900 were not included, 2000 will be a leap year. There is now only a difference of 22 seconds per annum between calendar and natural time.

The Gregorian Amendment was not accepted in England until 1751, by which time the difference between the Julian calendar and natural time had become eleven days. A decree was issued to meet the case, and September 3rd, 1751, became September 14th.

Anthrax in Shaving Brushes
Striking facts have come to light with regard to the importation of shaving brushes, some of which have recently been found to carry anthrax infection. As far back as June 2, after a two month's enquiry, the Consultative Council on Imports, formed by the Board of Trade, sent a resolution to the Board recommending the limitation on hygienic grounds of the import of cheap Japanese brooms and brushes as they constituted a very grave danger.

Three days afterwards the "Board of Trade Journal" announced that "brooms and brushes are to be admitted at the rate of 100 per cent. of 1915 products." The shaving brushes that are causing the trouble are probably part of a consignment from China in 1915, and which the military authorities rejected because the soldiers using them were infected.

Be sure to send the children to the Party given in the C. C. C. Hall by the ladies of the Presentation Convent Association on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Tickets 40c., including tea. apr.21

MINARD'S LINDERMINT CURES DISTEMPER.

CREOLE-CAL---An Artistic New Shade in a Stylish Summer Derby.

Here's a Hat created especially for young fellows of the go-ahead spirit, who want dash and colour in their Summer outfits.

Picked as the leading style for 1920 by Broadway's Smartest Shops. Chosen by countless followers of every fresh effort of master hat designers, for its delicately tinted felt—Creole-Cal—has two distinct advantages over the old style Derby. A New Style—a New Shade.

You have some idea of what the Creole-Cal should look like—you imagine it to be, as it is, a real smart hat—but imagination cannot picture the curl of that finished brim, or how completely that new, delicate shade will harmonize with any colour outfit you wear.

You will want to own a Creole-Cal on sight.

$7.50

Sumptuous silk, Boston padded lining; felt soft as velvet to the touch; real leather inside band, resting as lightly as a feather on the head, make the Creole-Cal the leader in a line of Master Hats.

How New Zealand Deals With Strikes.

So long ago as 1896 the Government of New Zealand took the strike question seriously in hand. They said that in case of strikes the public always wants peace, while one of the two parties to the dispute is equally in favor of a peaceful settlement. Therefore, there is always a majority of two to one in favor of ending the strike at once.

The result was the passing of a law to make arbitration compulsory. Once either party to a dispute has referred a case to the Arbitration Board, anything in the shape of a strike or lock-out becomes at once illegal. Business must go on as usual until the Court has made its award.

Once the award has been made, the law does not compel the employer to keep his works open or the men to keep on working. But if they do keep on working, it must be in harmony with the decision of the court.

Any new strike or lock-out to escape the award of the court is an offence against the law, and can be checked—by force if need be.

A gentleman one day asked a shoe-black who was cleaning his boots if he ever read the newspapers. The boy promptly replied, "Oh, yes, sir, I read the paper." "What do you read, my lad?" asked the gentleman. "Oh," returned the boy, "I read the House of Commons news, sir." A policeman standing near, who had heard the conversation, stropped up and said, "Did you ever read the 'lice intelligence'?" "Garn! They ain't got none!" responded the youth. The policeman keeps a full eye on that boy now.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

WHAT DIFFERENT PEOPLE GIVE OUT.

What a difference there is in what different people give out from my experience they have passed through.

Some years ago I was to meet a man who had been to some of the most inaccessible places in the world. I looked forward to the evening, expecting to find him entertaining. He was the biggest I ever met. We started him on his travels and he talked two hours and hardly said one interesting thing.

It was really remarkable the way he seemed to avoid the interesting. He told all sorts of uninteresting details. He sketched diagrams of (don't you think all men like to make diagrams and all women to read them). One might as well read a reader for two hours—rather than I think.

An Evening of Enchantment. There is a contrast. When I went to a small child there came to my house a man who had been in Mexico for a year. That man also talked the whole evening—on a summer evening and we sat on the veranda—and so vivid is the thing that I can hear the old red piazza rockers creak and see the moon in the moonlight this minute. It was an evening of pure enchantment.

Would one dramatic little story mother. I can still remember of them in spite of being with a wretched memory. His presence was nothing compared to other man's but his reaction to it was much more dramatic that he made an Arabian Nights compared to other man's Baedecker.

Haven't You Noticed This

Think we have become particularly conscious of this difference in through our experience with who have come back from the drama of the past four years.

Now two young women of whom I met across and was 14 months thick of things the other spent months in an American training. You would think the woman was in the thick of things would and away the more interesting matter of fact, though she is really willing to talk, she cannot interestingly. Whereas the girl had more meagre experience can keep you alternately laughing and on the verge of tears as long as she cares to talk.

And Millions Read About His Travels. Of course, to some extent this difference is temperamental. There are people who are born with the gift of a dramatic imagination. They have a touch of that genius which made it possible for Thoreau to "travel extensively in Concord, Mass.," and then make a whole world glad to read about his travels.

But the dramatic instinct can be cultivated too. You can train yourself to recognize and select the interesting and to leave out the monotonous detail, if you care to try.

Household Notes.

Broiling is best adapted to tender meats.

Always keep umbrellas rolled when not in use.

A salt and warm water bath will relieve tired eyes.

It is better to cook carrots whole and then skin them.

Vinegar and water, equal parts, are good for chilblains.

Always choose a bright, sunny day for blanket washing.

Stewed and boiled meats will bring down the butcher's bill.

It is said that fish can be scaled by rubbing off with a grater.

Lemons can be made into marmalade exactly as oranges are.

Fireless cookers save at least one-third of the fuel ordinarily used.

When the fireless cooked is not in use, the lid should be kept up.

The young, tender leaves of the dandelion are very good in a salad.

Sponges can be sweetened by soaking in a strong borax solution.

Some rompers of heavy cotton are desirable for baby on the cooler days.

Old nightdresses make excellent covers for dresses hanging in the closet.

IN GERMANY.

In Germany all things are mixed, and nothing's settled, nothing's fixed. One government has a quite a boom, and then it journeys up the flume; another comes, and it may bust, and leave behind a cloud of dust, and old Ex-Bill, he sits and blinks and many kinds of thoughts he thinks. "They can't cut ice without a throne," he sighs, as he sits there alone; "they talk republics and the like; republics! For the love of Mike! That sort of stuff is purely rot; they'll have to send for Me and Gott." Of course you'll say his thoughts are vain, that he is neither safe nor sane, that Germans wouldn't dare to place this relic of a bughouse race upon the throne we overset, but wait a while, already yet. It's sure, when all is said and done, we cannot trust the tricky Hun. He'd do the thing we least expect, although the universe be wrecked, if thereby he could jar the foes who lately led him by the nose. And Germans want old things again, the throne, the crown, and war lord men. And so the dreams of old Ex-Bill are not so wild, already still.

Lard and cream are good pantry remedies for burns if no other can be had. Soda is excellent.

BOY O' MINE.

Boy o' mine, boy o' mine, this is my prayer for you: This is my dream and my thought and my care for you: Strong be the spirit which dwells in the breast of you, Never may folly or shame get the best of you; You shall be tempted in fancied security,

Boy o' mine, boy o' mine, time shall command of you Thought from the brain of you, work from the hand of you; Voices of pleasure shall whisper and call to you, Luring you far from the hard tasks that fall to you; Then as you're meeting life's bitterest test of men, God grant you strength to be true as the best of men.

Boy o' mine, boy o' mine, singing your way along; Cling to your laughter and cheerfully play along; Kind to your neighbor be, offer your hand to him, You shall grow great as your heart shall expand to him; But when for victory sweet you are fighting there, Know that your record of life you are writing there.

Boy o' mine, boy o' mine, this is my prayer for you: Never may shame pea one line of despair for you, Never may conquest or glory mean all to you, Cling to your honor whatever shall fall to you, Rather than victory, rather than fame to you, Choose to be true and let nothing bring shame to you.

Whittling It Down.

Among a host of good stories in Captain Evan's "Keeping the Seas," is one relating to an incident that occurred on board the monitor Terror during a bombardment of Ostend.

A number of American naval officers were on board (writes Captain Evans) when suddenly a 15-inch shell from one of the German shore batteries came whistling through the air, and fell two hundred yards or so from our ship.

One of the American officers, seeing the huge splash made by the falling shell, turned to the first lieutenant and said:

"How far do you think that shell fell from the ship?" "About fifty yards," replied the sub. The two American officers looked at one another and then back to the sub, who began to feel uncomfortable, in that he had much underestimated the distance from the danger. But he was soon put at his ease, for the younger American said: "I guess that will have whittled down to five yards before I get home to Philadelphia."

Of the Same Opinion.

Jones and Smith were two old bachelors who lived on the most intimate terms, constantly dined together and smoked the peaceful pipe, and occasionally went off together for a week's holiday. But a change came over the spirit of Smith's dream. Well on in the fifties he got married, and on his return from the honeymoon invited Jones to come and dine with him and be a witness of his happiness.

Dinner over, the old friends sat down in front of the fire after Mrs. Smith had gone up stairs.

"Well, my dear Jones, said the Benedict, "now tell me, quite candidly, what do you think of my dear wife?" Jones hesitated for a moment, then replied, "Well, Smith, if I must speak quite candidly, I don't think much of her."

Smith patted him on his knee as he replied, confidentially: "Neither do I, my dear Jones."

No Chance for Him.

A clergyman, travelling from the East End the other day, happened to get into a compartment in which was a labourer.

The labourer, who had procured a bottle of whisky from somewhere, kept drinking out of it, till at last the clergyman could stand it no longer.

"My good man," said he, "I have lived 40 years of my life, and never a shilling have I spent on that stuff."

"Ay, now," said the labourer, vigorously putting the cork into the bottle, and placing it in his pocket. "Well don't think you're goin' to sponge any off me!"

Political Turpitude.

Yesterday morning, the Daily News reprinted, without comment, the affidavit made, signed and sworn to by Mr. William Woodford, wherein it is stated under oath, that Mr. Woodford agreed to resign his seat in the House of Assembly, to which he was elected by the votes of the district of Harbor Main on the third day of November, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen: the considerations for such resignation being that the election petition preferred against him was to be withdrawn, and an appointment, under the Government, was to be procured for him at a salary of two thousand dollars per year, with a further allowance of five hundred dollars per year in lieu of perquisites. In all Mr. Woodford was prepared to sacrifice his party, his district and his personality for a permanent position in the gift of the Government in opposition to which he was elected, and to stultify himself—if that were possible—on payment of "thirty pieces of silver," the price of the great betrayal.

The affidavit in question has been made public through the medium of the press, and the whole public regard it as the most unmoral document ever signed by an individual in public life in the dominion. Our history contains nothing whatever approaching it, and the mere signing of such a declaration, upon oath, proves that there are depths of political iniquity not yet plumbed. The revelation of the disclosures made in the affidavit startled the people out of their equanimity. They had not imagined that any man could be so lost to all sense of honor as to deliberately and with premeditation, undertake to betray those who had placed trust and confidence in him. And those who, on the other hand, were parties to this agreement and arrangement, similar obloquy attaches to them. And their names will forever be associated with an act of political turpitude and venality without parallel in the annals of Newfoundland. It could scarcely be conceived that the first Minister would be party to any such arrangement, but the affidavit makes it clear that he was equally culpable with the deponent, and that far from being a one-sided agreement, there were others implicated. The text of the affidavit contains as gross an example of political immorality as can be thought of, and moreover it shows that a conspiracy was entered into, to create a charge upon the general revenue of the dominion for the sole purpose of providing Mr. Woodford with a fat salary, as reward for his withdrawal from political life, at the expense of the taxpayers. And such a depraved bargain was made with the connivance and understanding of the one man whose clear duty it is to protect the good name of the Government of which he is the leader. Will His Excellency the Governor take cognizance of this corrupt bargain entered into between two members of the House of Assembly, one being at present His Excellency's chief adviser, the other sitting in opposition, and but recently, a Minister of the Crown and a member of the Cabinet? The political records of the dominion contain no greater scandal.

Legislature Summoned.

By proclamation in a Gazette Extraordinary, under date of April 8th, His Excellency the Governor directs that the House of Assembly be opened for the despatch of business on Tuesday, April 20th.

Enormous Railway Deficit.

Canadian Government Loses $47,000,000 on 1919 Operations.—The Case Against Nationalization.

Railway blunders of the past or Government operation of the present, or both, cost Canada $47,000,000 last year and will be an equally onerous burden for some years to come. The enormous deficit on one year's Government operation has had a very depressing effect on Parliament. Supporters of Government ownership have no consolation from the results, and can only hope for a better showing in the future. The deficit announced does not tell the whole loss, for this does not include fixed charges on the Intercolonial and Transcontinental, which if placed at five per cent. would add another twenty millions to the already tremendous loss. There was not a bright spot in the statement. Every Government line failed not only to earn its fixed charges but also to meet its operating expenses by many millions. The Grand Trunk Pacific is not included in the Canadian National Railway system, but the Government has it, and its losses have to be met from the National treasury. The dismal record is as follows:

OPERATING LOSSES.

Canadian Northern	$ 6,500,000
Intercolonial and Transcontinental	7,500,000
C.N.R. fixed charges	17,000,000
G.T.P. operating losses	5,500,000
G.T.P. fixed charges	8,500,000
Annual loss	$47,000,000

In face of this alarming showing Hon. Dr. Reid's optimism was refreshing. He concluded his tale of deficits with: "If we imagine Canada to have reached the maximum of development, we shall have planned foolishly, but I, for one, have the faith to feel and the vision to prophesy that this great transportation system is not being prepared to perform this splendid transportation service in vain."

The great deficit was attributed by the Minister to "abnormal economic conditions, delayed co-ordination of the complete National System and the loss on colonization roads. It was claimed that freight and passenger rate increases were not commensurate with increased cost of labor and material, and that the amalgamation of the Grand Trunk would give access to remunerative freight centres, but that colonization roads could not pay nor did the Government expect them to pay.

The Minister of Railways offered no definite suggestion to remedy the situation. His presentation of the case against increased freight rates was not that his railways did not need the advance, but that it would add to the C.P.R. revenues. It is evident that the Government proposes to meet deficits out of the treasury and not by increasing rates, at least until the system is co-ordinated and the normal annual deficit is ascertained.—Montreal Gazette, March 31.

Grand Dance.

By the Ladies of the Presentation Convent Association.

Monday night's dance by the Ladies of the Presentation Convent Association, promises to be one of the best social functions of the Easter season. Mrs. Michael Tobin and her energetic committee, assisted by the members of the Association, are untrifling in their efforts to make April 12th dance a success. The gentlemen's committee, consisting of Messrs. Michael Tobin, John Donnelly, John Higgins, Leo O'Mara, Ed. Brophy, Garrett Brownrigg and John Curtin, Jr., will help the ladies during the evening. Messrs. Donnelly and Tobin are looking after the selling of the tickets at the door, Mr. John Higgins in charge of the supper tickets, and Messrs. Brophy, O'Mara, Brownrigg and Curtin will look after the floor management. The band of the C.C.C. will play during the evening under the direction of Capt. Bulley, the music promising to please even the most exacting. Altogether the affair promises such enjoyment.

A Record Offertory.

Easter Day's Lenten Spelt-Denial offering at St. Mary's, Heart's Content, was a record one and amounted to over $1,000. It is to be used for the endowment of a Theological Studentship at Queen's College, which is sadly in need of financial support.

No Public Reception.

In our item yesterday referring to the contemplated visit of His Excellency the Governor General of Canada to Newfoundland, a slight inaccuracy occurred in the last paragraph, which should have read, "there will be no public or official reception, accorded though the Governor of Newfoundland will give opportunity to officials and as many others as possible to meet the Duke of Devonshire."

Not a Company Enterprise.

The hotel enterprise, begun by Mr. H. D. Reid, President of the Reid Nfld. Co., is not connected in any way with the Reid Nfld. Co., and the company, as a whole, is not interested in it. Mr. Reid is the promoter and his part will end with getting business men interested in the project and taking some stock himself. He is connected with it as a private individual, not as President of the Company.

Friends of Irish Freedom

The Friends of Irish Freedom held a meeting in the T. A. Armoury last night; some twenty candidates were admitted to membership. Messages of greeting between the St. John's branch and the central committee for America exchanged on St. Patrick's Day, were read by the President. A general discussion on the ideals and objects of the organization followed. A special meeting will be held next Thursday night to consider the celebration of an important epoch in Irish history.

Historical Society Meeting.

A large number of members attended last night's meeting of the Historical Society. Mr. H. W. LeMessurier occupied the chair. Mr. E. R. Farlow was elected to membership. Application for membership was received from Rev. P. W. Browne of the Catholic University of Brooklands, D.G., and J. Kennedy St. John's. Dr. J. Alexander Robinson read extracts from the annual register of 1811-1814. In one despatch from Wellington shown there, the name of Lieut.-Col. Sir Henry Pim is mentioned. This volume is in the possession of Dr. Robinson and once belonged to Mr. C. Alexander of Bonavista, whose name and date, 1816, is on the fly leaf and a note in Mr. Alexander's handwriting is to the effect that Sir Henry Pim was born in St. John's, and at one time was in the employ of Mr. Elms, who afterwards went to the West Indies. Mr. Elms is a near relative of Cracker Jack Elms, an old time skipper, who made a nine days' trip across the Atlantic and finished the voyage by running the bowsprit of his vessel into McBride's store. Extracts were read relating to the war with America in 1812-13, showing that between 50 and 60 members of the Royal N. F. Regiment (N. F. Fencibles) took part in the defence of Detroit. Amongst the names of officers was Lieut. Kerr, who was wounded. He was a relative of Kerr & McBride. There were also some Jersey men who were members of the regiment. One of the banners of the regiment hangs in St. Breidale's Church, St. Heliers, Jersey. Reference was made to Col. Skinner, whose memorial tablet is in St. Thomas's Church. The Col. owned a large tract of land on Bell Island, and he caused an lookout to be built on Tolt Hill, near St. Philips, so that he could observe whether his men were working or loafing on the farm across the tinkle. The Society expects to hear an interesting paper from Dr. Burke at the May meeting.

Supreme Court.

(Before the Full Bench.)
In the Matter of the Election Act of 1918 and Richard Kelly vs. William Woodford.
Mr. Summers stated to the Court that he appeared for the Attorney General; Mr. Mews appears for the plaintiff Kelly; Messrs. Higgins and Howley appear for the defence. Mr. Howley takes exception to Mr. Mews appearing for the petitioner, without the latter's endorsement. He outlined how Messrs. Gibbs and Barron represented the petitioner up to the time of the affidavit and intended withdrawal. On April 1st Kelly was not represented, but Mr. Mews said he expected to appear for another voter, and he therefore makes a motion that Mr. Mews be not heard, at the same time intimating to the Court that he did not wish to stop the progress of the trial as there were serious matters in which more than one would be involved before the case is finished. Mr. Mews states that he has been authorized by Kelly to act for him. Mr. Mews states the charges, viz., bribery, treating, etc., and urges that the returns are therefore void. He further furnishes particulars asked for at previous hearings.
Mr. Stirling, of the Colonial Secretary's Department is called and puts in evidence the proclamation, voters' lists, returns, and poll books.
Joseph Tilley is called, sworn and examined by Mr. Mews. His evidence did not vary from that given yesterday in the Jones trial.
The next witness was a hotel-keeper of Kelligrews at whose place Messrs. Woodford and Jones usually stayed. He had received $25 from the former, for some road work. Later, following the General Election, he was followed by Detective Head Constable O'Neill, who warned him to return the money, which he did fearing trouble.
At this juncture the case was adjourned until 2.30 this afternoon.

Sealed Moonshine.

Acting Sergt. Sheppard arrived from Bell Island this forenoon. He brought with him a valise full of moonshine which he had seized there a few days ago. Samples were left with the Government assayer for analysis.

The White Elephant.

It is obviously desirable that the Kaiser should, if possible, be removed to a safer distance. This course the Allies clearly intimate they would be willing to accept if the Dutch Government should feel able to act upon it, and they would regard it as a friendly recognition of a real difficulty. But there is, we are glad to see, no threat nor suggestion of pressure. That is as it should be. We do not want the Kaiser, though we may talk as though we did, and we do most emphatically want to avoid the remotest appearance of playing the bully against a small and kindly and kindred nation which once knew how to contest with us the mastery of the seas. If the Dutch Government still feels that it can do nothing with the Kaiser except let him alone, we had better follow its example. His position, if safe, is inglorious. It is for the Germans themselves to see to it that he does not threaten their peace.—Manchester Guardian.

The South Side Road.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I see by the Daily War a letter concerning the South Side Road, which was an eye-opener for the people of St. John's. On account of the traffic that is now going on, and has been for so many years, but more so of late, this road is in a most horrible condition, and cars cannot get along by Whiston's place which is but a bare 13 feet wide. The authorities have been over many times, and have seen for themselves the state of that part of the road, where only one car can pass at a time, which is a disgrace to any civilized country. For many years the Council have been over to see for themselves, but it appears that they care nothing, and are regardless of life, loss of which might occur at any time. But it is to be hoped that the present Government will see into the matter as soon as possible. We would like to have our Governor come over, and see the state of affairs that exists on the South Side, East, Then, and not till then, will the necessary repairs be made. It is a disgrace to any city as it is at present, and it is no wonder that so many are clamoring for Confederation or a Crown Colony, everything being in such a state in St. Mary's Parish. The Imperial Oil Co.'s team can just drive along because of having only 13 feet of a road. We hope that our Premier will come over and note for himself the condition of affairs that exist here, and our Governor also. As there is so much traffic now, we hope to see the authorities over soon to see for themselves.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM SNOW,
South Side, April 8, 1920.

Quarterly Meeting.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.
The regular quarterly meeting of the Newfoundland Teachers' Association was held at the Board of Trade Building yesterday morning and afternoon.

After the reading of minutes the working of the Pension Scheme again came up for discussion. It was felt by all present that the time had come to make a change in that section dealing with the retirement of teachers. This section should be amended to retire a teacher on two-thirds of his Maximum salary. After the pros and cons of this matter had been exhaustively debated it was unanimously decided to ask the Government to amend section (f) in the manner referred to above.

In the afternoon it was decided to hold a Convention the coming summer. The Executive had the honour and pleasure of a visit from the Minister of Education, Dr. Barnes. The resolution re Pension Scheme was placed in his hands. He assured the executive that the resolution and all requests coming from the Teachers' Association would receive his hearty support. He promised to do his best to remedy many long standing grievances and inequalities and in the near future he hoped to standardize salaries with a minimum wage. He then informed the executive that the Government had very generously agreed to grant the Association $4,000 for the holding of a convention the coming summer. This was received with applause.

The President then thanked the Minister for his great interest in everything affecting the teachers and their work.

Committees were then appointed to arrange a programme for the coming Convention. The greatest difficulty will be accommodation. If this can be arranged, then other matters can be easily dealt with. Teachers attending the Convention will have all their travelling expenses paid exclusive of board while in St. John's. It is absolutely necessary that teachers wishing to attend should notify the Secretary immediately, especially those who have no friends with whom to stay. Teachers will find a full account of the coming Convention in the Journals for March and April. The Convention will last about 1 week beginning the 12th or 13th of July.

Many other matters of greatest importance to teachers were gone into, such as the Associate of Arts Augmentation, increase for married teachers, increase generally in teacher's salaries, etc. It behooves all teachers who have their interest at heart to join the Association and take the Teachers' Journal, in which they will see full account of these and many other matters.

An endeavour will be made the coming year to enlarge the Executive by adding representative teachers from all parts of the Island to meet in St. John's or some other city or town once a year. The meeting adjourned at 8 o'clock.

Shipping Notes.

Schooner Eva, which loaded codfish from the Nfld-Labrador Export Co., arrived at Lisbon yesterday after a good run.

A Montreal despatch says that the first steamer to leave that port for here will be the Canadian Government steamer "Canadian Rancher," sailing on May 8th next. She will be followed by the "Canadian Miner," leaving May 25th.

BEWARE OF DECEPTION

Statistics show that when egg albumen is used as a constituent of baking powder, the amount so used is too small (usually 15/100 of 1%) to affect the quality or effectiveness of the baking powder containing it, and when so used, is plainly for the purpose of fraud. Intelligent buyers will not permit themselves to be deceived by the water glass test.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER contains no alum or egg albumen and is guaranteed to be composed of the ingredients printed on the label—and none other. Made in Canada By Canadians For Canadians

Ayre & Sons' Re-Union.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the kind ever held in the city was the re-union of the employees of Ayre & Sons, Ltd., which took place at the C. C. C. Hall last night. About 100 of the staff attended, together with the heads of the firm, Messrs. F. W. C. P. Jas. S. and Chas. Ayre, Jr., Miss Chesley Ayre and Miss D. Ayre, daughter of Mr. F. W. Ayre, were also present. The affair opened with a concert, Mr. J. S. Ayre acting as chairman. In a brief address he warmly welcomed all to the re-union, which he hoped would now become an annual affair, and wished them a thoroughly enjoyable evening. The programme, consisting of an instrumental number by Mr. Roy Kendall, who acted as accompanist during the evening, songs by Misses M. White, Lamb and Vincent and Mr. Wiseman; a duet by Misses White and Parsons, recitation by Mr. R. Hearder, and a quartette by Messrs. H. Taylor, L. C. Mews, J. Nuns and A. G. Gibb, was splendidly gone through, the different items being received with much applause. The programme closed with dancing was taken up, the C. C. C. Band furnishing the music in their usual high-class manner. At 10.30 supper was served, two sittings being necessary owing to the large number present. The catering was by F. B. Wood, and the repast was one to please the most fastidious. When the good things had been disposed of, the accompanying address, the en- couraging of which was beautifully executed by Mr. John Marshall, was read by Mr. A. G. Gibb and presented to Mr. F. W. Ayre, the senior member of the firm:

Address to Ayre & Sons, Ltd.
Gentlemen:—
On behalf of your employees, we the undersigned, heads of the various departments under our care, take this opportunity of expressing our sincere thanks for, and appreciation of the very generous Gratuity Gifts which you have so kindly distributed through the Departments of the establishment.
Coming as a complete surprise makes the action all the more pleasant, and we can assure the Directors of the Company that their thoughtfulness and liberality will have the effect of creating that feeling of reciprocity between them and the employees which should exist in all large concerns, and which should tend to the betterment of the business as a whole.
In the strenuous times in which we are living, when there appears to be no immediate prospect of any material reduction in the high cost of living, it is a satisfaction to know that the Company recognizes the position in which their employees are placed, and voluntarily adopts this plan of helping to solve the problem of living.
We feel that an occasion like the present, when most of the staff are assembled together, is an opportune time of expressing our loyalty to the Company, and an increased desire to further the interests of Ayre & Sons, Limited, in every possible way.
Again thanking you for your liberality, we are,
Respectfully, on behalf of the employees,
A. G. GIBB J. HILL
J. S. COLYER W. PARSONS
T. JENKINS J. C. NOEL
B. CROCKER J. GUY TAYLOR
R. CRAM S. ROWSELL
P. SKIRVING J. NUNNS
L. C. MEWS N. GREY
J. HARVEY W. SAMWAYS.

Mr. Ayre, in replying, thanked the employees for the sentiments expressed in their address and hoped the good feeling existing between managers and staff would long continue. He reiterated the hope of Mr. Jas. Ayre that the affair would become an annual one, and promised the assistance of himself and partners in promoting all events of such a happy and enjoyable kind. Dancing was then resumed, a Victrola furnishing the music, while the band was at supper, so that there was no break in the enjoyment. The affair, which was voted a great success by all, concluded at an early hour this morning.
The idea of the reunion originated with Mr. J. Wallis, and his suggestion was heartily agreed to by the principals of the firm, who contributed in many ways to making it the success it undoubtedly was.

Our Wonderful Moon.
TELLING YOU EXACTLY HOW THE MOON-MAN'S FACE IS "MADE UP."

We have all noticed on a fine clear night the Moon-Man's massive features—so massive, indeed, that they can be distinguished with ease 240,000 or more miles away.
But how did they originate? They could not have been made as a signal to us by long-since-passed-away inhabitants, for there is not the slightest evidence that the moon ever had any inhabitants.
No; the Moon-Man's face is not an artificial one; it is as natural as ever face was; Nature herself made it from those dark-looking markings which still go by the name of "seas."
The left eye—on the right of the disc—is formed, so far as my observation goes, by the Sea of Fecundity, the Sea of Tranquillity, and the Sea of Serenity. The right eye beams from the Mare Imbrium, which is in itself about 650 miles across. The nose is represented by the Mare Vaporum, and the capacious mouth by the Mare Nubium, and the Oceanus Procellarum.

Something Like an Eyebrow.
Over the left eye there is an oval patch of eyebrow fully worthy of the prodigious proportions of the organ which it surmounts. It is called the Sea of Crises (Mare Crisium), and it measures 280 miles in breadth, and 354 miles in length. An "eyebrow," indeed! One worthy of a super-Atlas born to bear on his giant shoulders not our world alone, but the entire universe.
If without these "seas" there would be no Man-in-the-Moon, so, without them, would there be no Lady-in-the-Moon, as there most assuredly is for all to see very distinctly indeed, with nothing but their own eyes to assist them.
Hence has arisen the envious suggestion that a woman has supplanted man even on our satellite, and aroused a regrettable feeling of sex jealousy up there. An idle, malicious fancy! The "Lady" and the "Man" dwell in nought but idyllic harmony. No recriminations have ever been known to pass their lips; "scenes" and "incidents" are undreamt of in the lunar domain.
Was it not old John Lilly who declared three centuries or more ago: "There liveth none under the sunne that knows what to make of the Man-in-the-Moone"? And my Lady-in-the-Moone, also, he might well have added, for methinks she be most unnaturally tongue-tied.

Awful Yet Sublime.
While the great dusky areas provide us with these and other popular fancied figures, the stupendous ray system, known as Tycho—likewise distinct to the unassisted vision—excites our keen curiosity and wonder; as it excited the curiosity and wonder of all observers in ancient times. Those long, white streaks radiating from the lower end of the disc, always appear to me like giant tentacles clasping the moon in an ice-cold embrace—the embrace of death.
At their centre is a plain which measures 54 miles across, and is surrounded by a rampart of peaks higher than our Mont Blanc. From the middle of the plain a precipitous pinnacle towers to beyond the height of lofty Snowdon.
What a picture of awful sublimity is here presented! A mighty girdle of naked rock three miles high, enclosing a furrowed and fissured lava-covered plain; a steep and pointed spire of rock that springs with dizzy abruptness from a dark and profound gulf; and streaming away beyond the encompassing outer rampart, the icy-gleaming rays! Then, over all, the deathlike stillness of abyssal space itself.

Our American Letter.

Yuma, Arizona, March 27.—Spring has struck the Arizona desert country and it has brought the most brilliant wildflowers in its train. Mesa and valley are covered with these beautiful blossoms which are quite unlike anything one sees elsewhere. The great desert which has been transformed through the government irrigation projects is a regular lotus land today. Balmy sunshine covers the entire stretch of what was once a dry region as the Sahara and equally as uninviting. To-day palm and date trees flourish where billowy sand hid the bones of the unfortunate who dared to cross the vast stretch of arid land. Fortunes are now being made here every night by lucky land owners. A few years ago a grant of land could be had from the government for a mere song. To-day this same land is worth up to $1000 an acre. Think of farmers clearing $1000 an acre from citrus fruit. That figure has been reached here scores of times in the past two years. The other day the government had its drawing for the last of the Mesa lands. The fortunate ones who secured holding paid $25 an acre. With the irrigation measures now being adopted the value of these lands in a few years will reach a stupendous figure. The view of mountain, plain and plateau is superb in the early morning and one has to go far to see the equal of an Arizona sunrise. The atmosphere is like nectar and there is always the perfume of growing things to add to the charm of a tramp or drive through this magic country. Far away to the south loom the Mexican mountains with their summits crowned with a purple glow. To the west Castle Dome, a huge hill rises sheer out of the desert like a baronial stronghold of the old days. Not so very many years ago there was fierce Indian fighting in these hills, when Geronimo and his painted warriors defied the hosts of General Miles and scalped and massacred the luckless travellers across the deserts wastes. Frequently a sand storm uncovers the skeletons of both brave and victim who died in mortal combat in the stirring frontier days.

OLD TOMBSTONE.

How many Newfoundlanders have heard of Tombstone? This town was famous as a mining camp in the early days when "bad men" were quick on the trigger and killings were as numerous as they are in Russia under the Reds. In the old town of Tombstone there still stands the famous "Cuckoo" dance hall and saloon, where desperate characters were wont to congregate and miners gambled away the proceeds of their half year's toil in a single night. In this resort the half clad girls danced to the tone of a broken down piano over which was a sign with these words: "Do not shoot the piano player, he is doing the best he can." A mere word, and a gun was drawn and when the smoke had cleared away, a man lay dead upon the floor. Often a "tenderfoot," with more courage than caution would attempt to take issue with a "bad man" to his cost. Frequently, however, the "tenderfoot" got the best of the gun man. It is said that "Billy the Kid" the famous outlaw, who was killed by Pat Garrett some years ago, reckoned without his host when he tried to draw his gun on a young lieutenant fresh from the east. He had hardly pulled his gun when his wrist was gripped in a vice-like clutch and he was compelled to surrender the gun and admit defeat. The lieutenant is now General Homer Liggett of the United States army, the hero of the Argonne Forest. The main street as it looked in these days still remains. Little improvement having been made to the town after the depreciation of silver. The recent rise in the price of that metal has caused a resumption of mining activities on a big scale, but Tombstone will never be the old Tombstone. Law and order are now too firmly entrenched in Arizona for a revival of the old days when life was cheap and loves were light.

HEARST'S CRITICISMS OF BRITISH POLICY.

I noticed an editorial in the Telegram recently on Hearst's anti-British propaganda. While I have little regard for Hearst, because of his pro-German sympathies, I cannot altogether agree with the views expressed by the Telegram editor. It must be remembered that Hearst is simply voicing a feeling that is general in America to-day, that the Allies have not carried out or shown a willingness to carry out the principles for which this nation entered the conflict. Where are now the promises of self-determination which were so glibly made in 1917? Can the situation in Ireland be reconciled with the oft proclaimed doctrine of the "rights of small nations." The only white nation in the world to-day is still being held down by bayonets. What of Egypt, Persia, and other parts of the world, where only the might of the conqueror or invader is law? What about keeping the un-speakable Turk in Europe after having given a promise to the world that he would be forever banished. Then the treaty of peace itself. All the world knows that Germany surrendered in the belief that the fourteen points would be applied to her case and while that nation deserved the severest punishment, honor is honor and tricking even a brutal enemy is not ethical. The United States went into the war for reasons that sprang from the loftiest motives. She demanded no territory or indemnity. She allowed England and the other allies to forego the interests on ten billion dollars which she loaned those nations, until such time as they were in a position to pay it. Yet we find British papers like "John Bull" attacking that idealistic nation, forgetting that but for America the war would at least have been a stalemate, in which case Germany would have been victor, as she never would have given up Belgium or Northern France. This nation poured out its treasure and life blood at a time when the Allies were begging for aid, yet it has received but scant recognition from those whom it saved from defeat. It has witnessed the revelation of secret treaties made previous to a time when Balfour was telling the American people that all his cards were on the table.

It is any wonder that anti-ally outbursts are made occasionally. It would seem that Europe has learned nothing from the war, but the same old creed that "right makes right" and the same desire to acquire unlawfully the territory of other nations.

SIMS THE ENGLORIOUS.

Perhaps the most unpopular man in the whole United States is Admiral Sims, who has endeavoured to show the world that because his ideas were not carried out to the exclusion of those of far abler men, how inefficient are certain naval officials. Since Sims entered the service he has won the doubtful title of "the Egoist," and he has never given the slightest evidence that the term has been undeserved.

W. M. DOOLEY.

The Real Hearst Danger.

William Randolph Hearst goes on his unscrupulous way of endeavor to fan anti-British feeling in the United States. But it is not British countries which will suffer most from the continuation of his campaign. He cannot carry with him by his anti-British diatribes the sober-minded, patriotic elements to the nation. His transparent lying and manifest venom do not influence them. He does find a hearing among the ignorant with untruths and making more rabid the prejudices of the prejudiced, so that the field is made larger and more fertile for all the fomenters of unrest and revolutionary movements. Thus Hearst makes easier the path of forces which seek to undermine and destroy American institutions. He seeks to injure the British, but in reality, he is rallying forces which more and more will become a menace to his own country for, as another Canadian paper has put it, the American people will have to deal with the anti-American elements in the Republic "in the course of time and the longer they permit Hearst to sow the wind the heavier will be the reaping."—Sydney Record.

Requiem Mass for Late Bishop Power.

MEMORIAL SERVICE BY HIS GRACE THE ARCHBISHOP.

Yesterday morning at the Roman Catholic Cathedral, Solemn High Mass Requiem was celebrated for the repose of the soul of the late Bishop of St. John's. The Mass was celebrated by Right Rev. Monsignor McDermott, V.G., the Deacon and Sub-Deacon being Revs. Father Pippy and Dr. Power, who were classmates in the College of Propaganda, of the late Bishop. Despite the inclement weather a gathering of the Clergy from the various Parishes occupied the Sanctuary. After Mass, before giving the Absolution His Grace, the Archbishop, addressed the congregation from the following text:

(Wisdom IV. 12-14).

Beloved Brothers: I cannot allow this ceremony to be without paying at least a brief tribute, however inadequate, however worthy, to the revered memory of the late Bishop of St. John's for whose repose of soul we are offering up this Memorial Mass to-day. Just a month ago since the tragic and unexpected news of the young Bishop's premature death threw a shadow over the whole Church of Newfoundland. Occurring, as it did, in the depth of this very severe winter, it was impossible for the many friends of the late Bishop who would otherwise have attended, to be present at the funeral at St. George's where the solemn took place. It was, indeed, a fitting and becoming tribute to the Bishop's last resting place to be within the shadow of the Altar of his Cathedral Church. I know whether he gave expression to his wishes in this respect before his death, but I feel that it would be the earnest wish of his people who loved and served so well. His people, indeed, and bereaved relatives who listened to the promptings of their own hearts, to the voice of nature and affection, would have preferred that his body should rest near his kinsfolk in St. John's. In a spirit, however, of the self-renunciation they recognized, the deceased Prelate would have them to recognize, that the first claim stronger and more just than any claim of nature—was the claim of the faithful people whom he lived and laboured for the years of his Priestly and Episcopate. But though in St. John's he lived and laboured in life, though St. George's rightly claim him in death, still St. John's was the place of his birth, in St. John's he had his friends, St. John's is the home of his grief-stricken family and goes forth the warmest sympathy of our hearts to-day, in St. John's Cathedral, he received the grace of Episcopal Consecration. Therefore, equally fitting that should honour his memory by having his Memorial Mass in our Cathedral.

Personally it is a sad and melancholy privilege to pay tribute to the memory of a colleague in the Episcopate and a personal friend, and to express, however feebly, on behalf of the Church of Newfoundland our deep and profound sense of the loss we have sustained in the passing of the young and gifted Bishop of the West. I trust I may be allowed to say that outside the circle of his own immediate friends, few, if any, can speak with greater knowledge of the late Bishop than I can. Having known him intimately for more than thirty years, I had exceptional opportunities of knowing and appreciating the beauty of his character, the many excellent qualities of head and heart which he possessed. Simple, humble, retiring, unselfish, unassuming, self-effacing, his gentle character never changed in all the years that I knew him. As he was a student in College, so he was an ecclesiastic in the Seminary, so he was a Priest in the Mission and as a Bishop gently but firmly ruling his Diocese. Though as a student in St. Bonaventure's College and later in the neighbouring University of Antigonish and later still within the Halls of Propaganda—that world-famed Institution and prolific Mother of distinguished Churchmen the world over—the young student and future Bishop displayed those intellectual attainments, that culture of mind, that poetry of soul, of which he gave so many evidences afterwards in his beautiful sermons, pastorals and addresses, still it was not merely his intellectual brilliancy that won for him the high reputation he enjoyed amongst his contemporaries, particularly in his mature student days in Rome. It was rather the simplicity, the sincerity, the earnestness of his character, the affability of his manner, the charm of his personality together with the evidences he gave of soundness of judgment, of powers of leadership, of administrative ability that marked him out indisputably for ecclesiastical promotion later. When only a little more than five years after his Ordination the name of the young Missionary Priest of Fortune Bay was submitted to the Holy See in connection with the vacant Diocese of St. George's, it was his high record at the Propaganda, that was undoubtedly the determining factor in his selection. His appointment to Episcopal office at the comparatively early age of thirty-five, after only five years' Missionary experience, and that experience of a limited nature, was almost without precedent in the nomination of a Bishop. We who have watched his career since, those of us particularly who have been associated with him in matters of Church administration, have reason to know how sound was the judgment of the Holy See in his appointment and how amply was the wisdom of his selection justified. For nearly nine years he ruled with conspicuous ability and success the Diocese of St. George's in West Newfoundland. In every part of his extensive Diocese, Schools, Convents, Presbyteries enduring monuments to his Episcopal zeal and lasting evidence of the progressive spirit of his Episcopate. During the years of his all too brief Episcopate he was ever an earnest worker. In West Newfoundland Missionary conditions are vastly different from those that obtain in the East. They are more difficult, more strenuous, more severe, more trying, and the Bishop of St. George's by reason of his large territory and the small number of Priests has only too frequently to do the arduous work of an ordinary Missionary Priest. The late Bishop was a Missionary in the truest sense of the word. He was ever ready to respond to the needs of his people, ever ready to hasten to them in sickness or in trouble, ever ready, in a word, after the example of the Apostle "to spend himself and be spent" in the loving service of his loving flock. Moreover, during the greater part of his Episcopate he was fighting against ill-health, struggling with a shattered constitution, although he would never admit he was unequal to his work, until finally the strain became too great, the weak frame could stand no more, and he succumbed, a martyr to his Priestly and Episcopal zeal.

It is little for me to say this morning that his death comes as a staggering blow to our Church in Newfoundland—how severe, how disastrous, can be known by none better than by his colleagues in the Episcopate. We had fondly hoped and believed that for many years to come the brilliant talents, the warm enthusiasm, the dynamic energy, the wide knowledge of local conditions of the young Bishop would have been at the service of his Church in this country. He was keenly interested in all that made for the progress and advancement of his Church and country. He had unbounded faith in the future of Newfoundland, particularly the West, and few Bishops ever manifested deeper interest in the material well-being of their people than did the late Bishop of St. George's. He was always thinking for his people, ever seeking to uplift them, ever endeavoring to open up new avenues of improvement and advancement in matters spiritual and material. It is little wonder, then, that all throughout his Diocese he was looked up to and revered as a trusted leader, he was loved as a father and a friend.

In the general public life of the Colony the Bishop had a deep and abiding interest, and his judgment on all important issues was mature and sound. How highly he was esteemed throughout the country generally was shown by the many messages of sympathy that poured in from all sides on the occasion of his death. The universal sentiment of all, irrespective of class or creed, was that by his death not alone had the Catholic Church lost a brilliant and progressive young Prelate, but that Newfoundland had lost an able and prominent citizen who had at heart the best interests of his native land. His sudden passing in what should have been the prime and vigour of his manhood, with his powers just arriving at maturity, his life work scarcely begun, is surely one of those mysterious dispensations of Divine Providence which we may not hope to understand. It is surely a striking illustration of the truth of the words of the Apostle, "Oh! how incomprehensible are Thy judgments, O God, how unsearchable Thy ways." It only remains for us, then, to bow in humble submission, in a spirit of reverent faith, to the inscrutable decrees of that over-ruling Providence which, no matter how things may seem to us, ever sweetly and wisely ordains all things for the best. It but remains for us to commend to the Divine Mercy the saintly spirit of the deceased Bishop and to send forth our supplications to the Throne of Grace that he may receive the rich reward of his life's labour faithfully fulfilled; the reward of the good and faithful servant who employed to the best advantage the talents given him by the Master; the reward of the laborer who "bore the burden of the day and the heat" in assiduously cultivating the portion of the Lord's Vineyard committed to him; the reward, in fine, of the Good Shepherd and Pastor of souls who jealously guarded and diligently watched over the little flock entrusted to his pastoral care.

Freeman's English Foods

A complete supply for your larder.

Custard Like Cream.

Freeman's Custard, made according to directions, provides a creamy dish that softens the tartness of fruits. It is ideal for trifles, and as a hot sauce with puddings it is delicious.

Making Better Cakes.

There is nothing better for making cakes than Freeman's Egg Powder. It is an improvement upon eggs rather than a substitute for them; making cakes lighter and more digestible, and never "dry".

A Popular Blanc Mange.

Freeman's Blanc Mange Powder is distinctly flavoured with fruit essence, and is agreeably smooth to the palate. A packet in the house ensures a delightful "emergency" dish, easily made.

A Clear, Light Jelly.

The delightful clearness and colour of Freeman's Jellies is the next best thing to their taste. There is absolutely no heavy sediment in a jelly made with Freeman's Jelly Crystals, and the flavours are true to the fruit.

A Comforting Drink.

There is no more comforting drink on a cold day than Freeman's Glass Lemon and hot water—as hot as you can drink it. Freeman's Glass Lemon is sweetened sufficiently for the average taste; it is made with real lemons by an entirely new process—a great advance on the old lemon crystal.

If a cold drink is required it is only necessary to add Freeman's Glass Lemon to cold water, it dissolves immediately—no need to wait while the drink cools.

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—I am forwarding you herewith a copy of the Directors' Report of this Company, as there are matters contained therein which may be of interest to your readers.
 At the Shareholders' meeting held this afternoon, the following gentlemen were duly elected Directors for the ensuing year:
 H. D. Reid—President.
 R. G. Reid—Vice-President.
 C. O'N. Conroy, K.C.—Treasurer.
 J. P. Powell, Henry B. Thomson, J. M. Forbes, Mr. Angus Reid was appointed Secretary of the Company.
 Yours faithfully,
 H. D. REID, President.
 St. John's, April 8, 1920.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS:
Report of the Board of Directors to the Shareholders at the Deferred Annual Meeting for 1919, held on April 8th, 1920, at the Head Office of the Company.

1.—Introductory:
 Owing to certain questions of law raised in a suit in Montreal last August as to the right to vote certain of the shares in the Company formerly held by the late Sir Robert Reid, your Directors deemed it advisable to defer holding the Annual Meeting for 1919 until now. The financial statement just laid before you is made up for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1919, but for convenience this Report includes reference to matters which have occurred since that date.
 Since the last annual meeting, Lord Shaughnessy has retired from the Board, and the vacancy thus created has been filled by the co-option of Mr. H. B. Thomson, late Food Controller of Canada, whose experience in the development of the natural resources of British Columbia will be of great value in the exploitation of the Company's lands.

2.—Financial:
 As in the previous year, your Directors have to report a considerable increase in the revenue from the Railway, unfortunately offset by a still larger increase in unavoidable expenses due to high cost of labor and material, and producing the usual deficit on operation, which amounts for the last twenty years to a total of $3,265,116.34. Before the war, in the year 1913-1914, the Company's pay roll amounted to $1,027,929.19, whereas last year it amounted to $1,693,208.09, an increase of $665,278.90. The expenditure on additions and improvements for the year amounted to $300,000 (the largest expenditure on this head in any one year of the Company's existence), of which nearly $200,000 was for rolling stock. We spent $87,000 more last year on repairs to track and renewal of ties than in the previous year. Ballasting operations were continued throughout the year, and in this service the steam shovels more than justified their cost.

 The most serious item, however, in operating expenses is the greatly increased cost of coal, which, your Directors regret, shows no sign of abating. How serious this item is will be appreciated when we point out that the extra cost of coal last year over the previous year amounted to $220,000.
 The coal bill during the pre-war year, 1913-14, was for 70,975 tons and amounted to $326,277.30. Last year the quantity was 6,008 tons more and the cost amounted to $856,461.10, or $11.13 per ton as compared with $4.59 per ton in the year before the war, an increase in cost of over 140 per cent.
 In this connection we may add that the control of coal supplies, combined with shortage of tonnage and the early and sudden advent of extreme winter conditions, resulted in our being unable to obtain our winter's supply of coal in time to distribute it over the Topsails section, and thus necessitated the closing down of that portion of the line for the winter, as well as hampering operations on the remainder of the system.
 It is highly important in the interests of this and other public enterprises that every effort should be made to develop all possible sources of coal supply within the Dominion.
 20,636 more tons of freight were hauled over the railway in 1919 than in 1914.
3.—Labour:
 A dispute leading to a strike which hampered the Company's activities to some extent, was ultimately adjusted by a board of arbitration composed of three leading clergymen; and it is hoped that for the future arbitration will be resorted to in all such cases in preference to strikes, which injure both parties to the dispute and benefit neither. This particular strike seriously delayed necessary repairs to locomotives thereby considerably interfering with the movement of freight.
 Your Directors are negotiating the establishment of a plan of life and disability insurance for the Company's workmen, both ashore and afloat, absolutely free of cost to the workmen, which it is hoped will assist in maintaining the men's interests in the company's success, and encourage them to remain in its employ, as the insurance benefits will increase proportionately to the length of continuous service.

4.—Relations with the Government:
 The increase in passenger rates authorized in 1918-1919 was extended for a year. This railway, however, cannot be self-supporting without further assistance such as has been granted to all railways operating in Canada and the United States.
 Notwithstanding the enormous increase in operating costs, in the space occupied by mail matter in cars, and in the number of trains and the mail-car mileage as compared with the situation in 1898, the Company still received the same rate of subsidy for carrying mails over the railway that was fixed in 1898.
 Fifty times as much mail-car space as was provided in 1898 is now furnished, and yet on the cross country service, in addition to mail room space provided, we find that from one to two-thirds of the space intended for baggage and express has now to be used for mail matter.
 A large part of the balance due the Government for Branch Lines construction was collected last year, and your Directors expect to receive the final payment during 1920.
 The Railway itself, which is now nearly thirty years old, and was never intended to carry the volume of traffic which the surprising growth of the Dominion's trade and the exigencies of the war have thrust upon it, is no longer adequate to the needs of the public. The original specification, according to which the road was built, was entirely unsuitable for a trunk line. Canadian railways during the same period have had millions of dollars spent upon them by their owners to keep them up to the present day standards of safety for passengers and adequacy for traffic, and your Directors presume that the Government will, in the public interest, give due consideration to the question of raising the standard of the Newfoundland Railway to a point which will enable satisfactory service to be given by those operating it for the Government.

5.—Steam Service:
 The regrettable loss of the 'Ethie' and the 'Dundee' in the storms of December, has seriously depleted the Company's fleet. The Vice-President is now in England, endeavoring to secure steamers to replace those lost.
 Your Directors desire to place on record their high appreciation of the seamanship and gallantry displayed by Capt. Edward T. English, of the 'Ethie,' but for whose skill and courage the wreck of the ship must inevitably have been attended with great loss of life.

6.—Other Departments:
 The Department of Natural Resources during the past year has completed its examination of twenty-one lots. The total acreage examined is 452,836. Geological maps and timber maps have been prepared and a complete description of the natural resources of these lots has been put in the form of a permanent record. Five other lots were partly examined with a total acreage of 202,252. The coal seam at South Branch has been sunk for a distance of 100 feet and is found to average about ten feet of coal.
 Diamond drilling disclosed that the seam is cut off at about 250 feet in depth. A small amount of drifting has been done. The known oil shale areas on the Company's lots have been extensively investigated, and one new area discovered on Grand Lake and other valuable work has been done. This summer it is proposed, if possible, to finish examination of the West Coast lots.
 The Dry Dock and Electrical and other Departments continue to yield satisfactory returns, but owing to the huge increase in the cost of electric equipment the further development of the Electric Department has had to be deferred for the present. The water powers referred to in the last annual report have, however, been approved to the Company on reasonable terms, and will be developed as soon as financial conditions permit.

7.—Newfoundland Products Corporation, Ltd.:
 Considerable progress has been made in the arrangements for the establishment of this enterprise, both in relation to the pulp and paper part of the plan and to the production of nitrates, the importance of which latter for agricultural purposes is only just gaining proper recognition.
 Signed on behalf of the Board,
 H. D. REID, President.

MRS. M. E. PROCTOR, who says she is so grateful for what Tanlac has done for her that she wants the whole world to know about it. Declares her complete recovery after so many years of suffering seems too good to be true.

"I am so grateful for what Tanlac has done for me that I want to tell the whole world about it," said Mrs. M. E. Proctor, of 717 W. First St., Los Angeles, Calif., when speaking of the splendid results she had obtained from the medicine. "To think that I should have suffered as I did for many years, and spent hundreds of dollars in vain efforts to get relief and then find complete relief after taking only four bottles of Tanlac, seems too good to be true."
 "Yes, indeed; for years and years I suffered terribly from stomach trouble. Everything I ate seemed to form gas and so affected my heart and breathing that I would have palpitation and would turn purple in the face in my efforts to get my breath. These attacks caused me intense suffering and were so bad that I was frequently confined to my bed and would have to be attended by some member of the family for fear I should succumb during one of the attacks."
 "I got awfully thin and was so weak that I had to give up all household duties. I often went for two weeks at a time without getting a good night's sleep and as a consequence I was very nervous and low-spirited. In fact, I was a confirmed invalid and my friends did not expect me to live very long."
 "I sat reading the paper one evening when my eye caught the statement of a lady who had suffered with similar trouble to my own and telling how she had been wonderfully helped by Tanlac. I sent for a bottle and started taking it and the results have been most surprising."
 "My appetite is splendid now and I can eat most anything without any distress afterward. The gas has stopped forming and I no longer have palpitation or that smothering feeling. I sleep sound all night long and get up feeling rested. I am in better health to-day than I have been for forty years and I feel years younger."
 "I don't believe there ever was as good a medicine made as Tanlac."
 Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, and by the leading Druggist in every town.—advt.

"THE GAMBLERS," LAST NIGHT.
 The reproduction of that powerful drama, "The Gamblers," was received by another crowded house at the Casino last night, and much interest centered around the plot, which had been previously announced. The audience was particularly pleased with the portrayal of the character of Mrs. Kate Darwin, wife of the prosecuting Federal Attorney, "the man who allowed nothing to stand in the way of his advancement," assumed by Miss Marjie Adams who played the part to perfection. Exceptionally thrilling and impressive was the second act, when at the midnight hour Wilbur Emerson the banker, (Mr. Wilmot Young) is caught by

At the City Hall.

The weekly meeting of the Mun- icipal Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Gosling and Coun- cillors Ayre, Mullaly, Vinnicombe and Morris being present. The following business was disposed of:

The Minister of Public Works for- warded a communication calling at- tention to the condition of Mundy Pond, also the matter of extending water and sewerage to this locality deserves the consideration of the Board. With regard to the latter, the people living there knew perfectly well that no water and sewerage fac- ilities were available when building thereon. It is the intention of the Council, however, to make the neces- sary improvements in the near fu- ture, providing the residents of the section are prepared to bear their proportion of cost of same. The Min- ister will be written accordingly.

Reid Nfld. Co. stated the installing of lights requested in Council's letter of March 26th was being attended to. James King applied for re-appoint- ment as Instructor at Swimming Pool, Quidd Vidi, for the coming season. Application ordered to be filed.

B. Hayward requested permission to install gasoline tank and pump at his service station, Sudbury Garage, Water Street. Permission granted, provided same is installed according to regulations and to the satisfaction of the City Engineer.

Street line is to be given R. D. Munn, Topical Road, as it is his in- tention to plant trees on his property at an early date.

E. G. Cousens will be given permis- sion to erect dwelling house on Waterford Bridge Road, provided a proper septic tank is installed, same to be subject to the supervision and in accordance with the specifications of the City Engineer.

H. A. Winter, Winter Avenue, asked that water service be extended to his bungalow in course of construction. The matter is to stand over, until further particulars have been obtained.

A letter was received from F. Willis in reference to outstanding Municipal taxes, offering to compromise on same. Council has no power to do so. The matter of a citizen being ejected from a house in the East End, caused by his complaining to the Board of the defective roof in the building, was discussed. Ordered that communication sent to the owner of the building referred to, be looked up.

R. W. Cramm will be given permit to build on Leslie Street, but he is to be informed the Council will not hold itself responsible for any damage arising out of a natural drainage which runs through the property referred to.

Frank Kelly, South Side, must submit plans and location of building he proposes erecting before his request will be acceded to.

Phillip Murphy was permitted to build outhouse on LeMarchant Road, subject to approval of the City En- gineer.

Mrs. S. Smith, 235 New Gower St., must submit more complete plans be- fore permit to build can be granted. Rd. Buckley, Bannerman Street, will be allowed to build annex to his shop provided he conforms with the directions of the City Engineer.

Sixteen applications were received during the past week for the installa- tion of water and sewerage by the Plumbing Inspector. The Inspector intimated that notices had been ser- ved on several persons to immediately instal sanitary appliances on their premises.

The City Engineer's and other Departmental reports for the week were read.

The health of the city for the past week as per Health Officer's report showed seven new cases of dipht- heria, one scarlet fever and one smallpox.

With the disposal of other routine matters and the passing of pay-rolls and bills, the meeting adjourned at 6 p.m.

Household Notes.

A leather chair may have its sur- face freshened by the white of an egg. Before peeling fruit, always pour boiling water over it and let it stand until cool.

Corn meal pancakes are excellent if one must have griddle cakes in the springtime.

Electric bulbs can be frosted by dipping in a solution of vinegar and Epsom salts.

Boiling water and washing soda will remove the musty odor from a closed toilet.

Fray the end of the lamp wick which goes into the oil and the light will be better.

Time is saved by having a glass measuring cup in both the flour bin and sugar bin.

It is safer to keep onion out of seasoning unless everybody in the family likes it.

A good salad is corral mixed with shredded cabbage or lettuce, with French dressing.

TO THE TRADE!

WELCH'S GRAPE JUICE.

We have received a small shipment by the "Rosalind" and can fill orders as long as this supply lasts.

Owing to advance in prices and the high rate of American exchange it will be necessary to retail Welch's Grape Juice at the following prices during the season of 1920:

- 4 oz. "Nips", each 20c.
- Half Pints, each 35c.
- Pints, each 55c.
- Quarts, each $1.05
- Half Gall, each $1.60

Even at these prices Welch's Grape Juice is the most wholesome drink, the most popular beverage and the best value for the money of all the imported drinks on the market.

Sales have increased from 15 cases in 1913 to 1,035 cases in 1918, it having been impossible to get enough to supply the demand during 1919.
