CHAPTER IV.

Clarence Clifford hesitated, but deciding that it was best to accept, spoke his thanks, and accompanied the man to the public house.

A glass of cordial was placed before each, and the man, dispatching his, leaned against the counter to contemplate the young gentleman at leisure.

"Rather slow with that sip," he commented, as Clarence Clifford, unused to the fiery liquid, slowly and gravely disposed of it. "Not quite in your line. Hem! you want employment. It's astonishing what a lot do. No offense, I like your style, it's open and aboveboard. Sorry I cannot do anything for you."

He said the last words in the most decided way, but there was a certain trembling in the eye that rather belied them.

Clarence Clifford inclined his head sadly.

"No," he said. "I owe you a kindly service already," and he touched the empty glass.

"Which you took like medicine, to oblige me," grinned the sharp man of business.

Mr. Clifford colored.

"Do not think me ungrateful," he said, with a smile. "I know a kind deed, however well it is disguised, and you cannot help me farther."

"Well, I can," retorted the man, slapping the counter, "and I will, for, as I said, I like your cut; I know the real thing when I see it, and—ah!"—breaking off suddenly. "My name is Jeremiah Walker. I'm a Yankee. Didn't notice the drawl? Well, it's only idiots as think every American sings through his nose. I'm a Yankee and I'm ready to do business with anybody—I'll do business with you. What have you got to sell?"

Entering into the spirit of the sharp, keen nature and eccentric manner of the speaker, Mr. Clifford answered, readily:

"A knowledge of bookkeeping, four languages, and a persevering industry."

"Darned salable goods, if you can find the market," retorted Mr. Walker. "Where's the samples—in other words, credentials, character and that sort of thing?"

Mr. Clifford shook his head gravely.

"I haven't them," he said. "I am no felon, but an honorable man, a martyr to fate."

The Yankee stared; his companion's face had lit up with fire, and his voice was trembling, quivering, rather, with a sense of his wrongs.

"Hem!" he muttered, commencing a fresh straw and tasting it deliberately. "Martyrs ain't in my line, there's too much novelty about them. But," if you're a gentleman. Any idiot can see that. I want a gentleman. I want to get at the highfliers. I want a man that can write a gentlemanly hand—not a clerk, mind you—but a regular, downright gentlemanly letter, with the regular ring about it. Look here, here's a letter"—and he took one from the jumbled-up heap. "Read that."

Clarence Clifford read it.

"Well, sir?"

"Now answer it. I want the things he offers, but I won't give him his price; but if he will get me the introduction to the house he mentions at the bottom, there, I'll give him so much. See?"

Clarence Clifford nodded and took the stool which Mr. Walker vacated. He wrote an answer and handed it to his strange employer.

"Read it yourself," said Mr. Walker, with a wave of his hand.

Clarence Clifford read it with composed gravity.

"That's it!" sharply exclaimed Mr. Walker, banging the desk. "That's it, that's what I want, and what I am ready to pay for. Is it a bargain?"

The young man took the hand held out to him with gratitude.

"Done," said Mr. Walker, decisively. "Now you shall feed and then we'll go to work. Mind, no cash for the present. I don't trust you, you know."

"I am content," said the whiffling tutor, simply.

Mr. Walker rang a bell, and dispatched the shock-headed lad who answered it to the neighboring eating house.

He returned soon, followed by a waiter, with a pile of dishes.

"I stand treat to-day," said Mr. Walker, as the plates were spread out, and revealed some slices of beef, potatoes and bread. "Here's to our mutual understanding."

With all his outward gravity and composure the young man was too feverish to eat much, but fearing to offend or hurt his new kind-hearted employer, he made an effort and ate what he could, rising when he had finished and looking towards the desk.

Mr. Walker, who seemed not a whit less sharp after dinner than before, explained what he wanted done with the heap of letters, gave Clarence Clifford a ledger to make up, and went off, returning to put his head in at the door and nod, saying, dryly:

"There's nothing you can make off with so I don't mind leaving you."

Clarence Clifford looked round. So here he was to find the antidote to all his griefs! Here in this dim gas oven to bury his troubled past, to bury it under a load of ledger figures and business correspondence!

He sighed—what young heart would not have sighed in contemplating such a prospect?—and trying hard to feel grateful to the Providence which had thrown him this boon, had saved him from starvation in the streets, he took up a pen and set to work.

He worked till six. At that hour Mr. Walker came in, provided with a fresh straw and with a decided cock to the brim of his hat.

"Well, how goes it?" he said, scanning the letters. "All answered?"

"And the ledger cast so far," and the secretary showed his handiwork.

Mr. Walker nodded complacently.

"'Twill do," said he; "six o'clock and business is over; put the things in that desk and go and play."

Mr. Clifford smiled at the joke.

"I have no playground."

"Then go and sleep," retorted Mr. Walker.

"I have no bed, as yet," said Clarence.

"Come along, we'll find, or, rather, buy one," said the Yankee, and side by side employer and employed left the office.

"Have you sold the hay, sir?" asked the younger man, seeing as they passed the square that the carts had disappeared.

"Rather," said Mr. Walker, with a wink. "And well, too. Large cab proprietor snuffing round the hay for three mortal hours and trying to beat me down. 'I'll give you so much,' says he. 'No, thank you; if the hay ain't sold at my price I'm going to have a bonfire down at my place in the country. Lots o' children,' says I, 'give 'em a treat.' That frightened him. 'Here you are, and be hanged to you!' says he. 'You've sold the hay and me, too, I expect.' 'Well,' says I, 'one's gone cheap anyhow!' That tickled him and we wound up with a comfortable glass."

Dramas in the Dark

ADVENTURES UNDERGROUND.

Adventurous people, exploring underground passages and deserted mines, often get themselves into dangerous positions.

Only the other day a young man had an unpleasant experience while exploring the underground passages with which Paris is honeycombed. He went down by himself and got lost in the labyrinth of tunnels. It was 24 hours before he was found by a search party, sitting down by his lantern tired out with his efforts to reach safety.

The deserted lead mines and the caves of Derbyshire offer great opportunities for exploration. A party of three men nearly came to grief in them not long ago. They were trying to find a way into the High Low mine from the famous Masson caverns near Matlock, and had discovered nine different routes when they suddenly lost their way.

Lost in a Mine.

For hours they wandered about trying to find their way out. Their supply of candles had just burned out when by sheer chance they discovered an outlet.

Even more trying were the experiences of a holidaymaker who foolishly set out to explore a deserted lead mine by himself. He lost his way in the tunnels and remained underground for three days, during which time he subsisted on his supply of candles. When rescued he was in a pitiable condition.

A collier who recently set out to explore some old mine workings nearly came to grief in a similar manner, and was wandering about in the dark for twenty-four hours.

He had penetrated the workings for a considerable distance when his candle blew out, and on trying to relight it the man found that his matches were damp and useless. He wandered on in the dark until he lost himself. When rescued he was in a state of collapse.

A Remarkable Escape.

Three young men who were exploring the dark underground dungeons of an old fort at Eastbourne got trapped in one of them and might have remained prisoners until they starved to death, had it not been for sheer luck.

They had entered one of the dungeons, without letting anyone know of their intention, when the heavy door swung to, locking itself, with the key inside, leaving the youths in darkness.

The door resisted all their efforts to smash it down, and their combined shouting failed to pierce the impenetrable walls.

After some hours of imprisonment, a faint gleam of light was noticed in the roof of the dungeon. The young men formed a human ladder and the third man was able to see a narrow grating far above him. He shouted, and, by good luck, was heard by a passer-by.

Otherwise, the explorers would never have been rescued, for even if they had been missed, no one would have thought of searching the dungeons.

Children often have extraordinary adventures underground. An eighteen-months-old boy had a marvellous escape from being drowned in an underground sewer some time ago.

With his brother, the little boy was playing near the open end of the sewer when he fell in. The current bore him away through a tunnel, deep below some houses. In this way he was carried for half a mile until he was brought up by a strainer. He was rescued by his mother, who had been warned by the other boy.

Gifts From the Sea—

Not a tree grows in Iceland except a sort of willow no higher than a man's head. Yet the farmers on the south and west coasts sit over roaring log fires. The trees from which these logs came grew thousands of miles away, and are a present from the Gulf Stream, which has brought them from the far Caribbean. Quantities of American driftwood land upon the coasts of Norway.

In Orkney and the Hebrides great treasures of driftwood come ashore after westerly storms, and once a cargo of mahogany was cast ashore on the coasts of the Faroe Islands. Over two thousand pounds' worth of this valuable timber was collected.

But the most wonderful treasures of driftwood are those found upon the coast of Alaska itself. The Black

Stream, the Gulf Stream of the Pacific, piles treasures from Asia even from South America upon the barren beaches. In some of the deeps the shingle is choked and hidden by vast trunks which are heaped feet deep. Here are camphor from Formosa, and rare timbers from China and Japan. In some places you may dig down for yards and nothing but masses of timber, rotten, some so pickled by sea water that it lasts like rock.

Enter the Motor-Cycle
 An extraordinary experience, calling the performance of a cycle down jumping through a paper-covered hoop and landing on a chair, has been a motor-cyclist in the past. Limbourg. Descending a steep about midway he tried to pass about midway, lost control of his machine, and charged into the wall, a little eastward on the Genck Campine cross-roads.

Gifts From the Sea—

Not a tree grows in Iceland except a sort of willow no higher than a man's head. Yet the farmers on the south and west coasts sit over roaring log fires. The trees from which these logs came grew thousands of miles away, and are a present from the Gulf Stream, which has brought them from the far Caribbean. Quantities of American driftwood land upon the coasts of Norway.

In Orkney and the Hebrides great treasures of driftwood come ashore after westerly storms, and once a cargo of mahogany was cast ashore on the coasts of the Faroe Islands. Over two thousand pounds' worth of this valuable timber was collected.

But the most wonderful treasures of driftwood are those found upon the coast of Alaska itself. The Black

Stream, the Gulf Stream of the Pacific, piles treasures from Asia even from South America upon the barren beaches. In some of the deeps the shingle is choked and hidden by vast trunks which are heaped feet deep. Here are camphor from Formosa, and rare timbers from China and Japan. In some places you may dig down for yards and nothing but masses of timber, rotten, some so pickled by sea water that it lasts like rock.

Enter the Motor-Cycle
 An extraordinary experience, calling the performance of a cycle down jumping through a paper-covered hoop and landing on a chair, has been a motor-cyclist in the past. Limbourg. Descending a steep about midway he tried to pass about midway, lost control of his machine, and charged into the wall, a little eastward on the Genck Campine cross-roads.

The wall was made of clay and motor-cyclist went through it the first, turned a somersault, and dropped on to a chair at a table where the estimant proprietor and family were about to commence dinner.

Blue-jay is the efficient way to treat a corn. It leaves nothing to your guess-work. You do not have to decide how much or how little to put on. Each plaster is a complete standardized treatment, with just the right amount of the magic medication to end the corn. Simply put on the plaster—it does the rest.

She hated to acknowledge the Corn.

So goes the old saying. And few indeed, like to confess a corn. It seems such an undainty thing—an admission of physical untidiness. One may conceal the presence of a corn, but not its ill-effect. It shows itself in the face—and the humor. That twinge in the toe means a frown on the forehead—and a thorn in the disposition. But how foolish to carry a secret-sorrow in your shoe! You can end the pain in ten seconds—and the corn in two days—with a pleasant Blue-jay plaster.

One Foreigner For Every Native Life Taken Is Chinese Slogan

Maintenance Men at Work and Matters Quiet in Strike Area—Miners Leaders Confer With Minister of Labour—Caillaux Threatens to Resign if Budget is Held Up.

A LIFE FOR A LIFE, CHINESE SLOGAN.

STANGHAI, June 16. One foreigner for every Chinese life taken in the Shanghai riots was the slogan adopted by the Chinese in posters distributed after the killing of Wm. Mackenzie, an English subject yesterday. Otherwise the situation remained unchanged.

MAINTENANCE WORK RESUMED.

SYDNEY, N.S., June 16. Maintenance work was being resumed to-day in several of the collieries of the British Empire Steel Corporation which has been idle since the strike of the miners last March and which have not been pumped or ventilated for nearly two weeks, owing to the activities of picketing strikers. Under the protection of armed members of various branches of the Canadian permanent army, the collieries were being stoked and arrangements made to operate one of the big power houses at Glace Bay to generate enough energy to operate the electrical pumps in the collieries in that area. The day passed without event so far as disorders were concerned and the centre of interest in Cape Breton was Hon. James Murdoch, Minister of Labor in the Canadian Government, who arrived in Sydney this morning and immediately set about acquainting himself with the situation and arranging interviews with the heads of the disputing parties. No official statement had been made early this evening as to any conclusion reached by the Minister of Labor, or any forecast of the probable action he would take. There were rumors afloat to-day that a party of the Royal Canadian Dragoons stationed at Sydney mines had been stoned and that one trooper had been hit, but police and other officials did not confirm this report. To-night the Cape Breton colliery area was experiencing a drenching and prolonged down-pour of rain and with the troops and police in evidence at every point where disorders might be anticipated the outlook for a quiet night was better than it had been at any time since the outbreak at New Waterford last Thursday morning.

FIRES LIT AGAIN.

GLACE BAY, N.S., June 16. For the first time in several weeks smoke is pouring from stacks at No. 2 colliery to-day. This morning the boilers were fired and by this afternoon steam will be up. No. 2 colliery plant will generate enough power to operate the mines in Glace Bay area and vicinity. The plant is being put into operation for the purpose of running the pumps at the different collieries, some of which are almost ruined by water.

LABOR MINISTER AND MINERS' LEADER CONFER.

GLACE BAY, N.S., June 16. John W. McLeod, President of the United Mine Workers of Nova Scotia, along with District Secretary, Alexander McKay, are in Sydney to-day conferring with Hon. James Murdoch, Minister of Labour, who arrived this morning from Ottawa. The head of the Labor Department is here to investigate the situation and if possible to bring the British Empire Steel Corporation officials and officers of the Union together for the purpose of negotiating a settlement of the mining industry.

FRENCH DEFICIT REDUCED.

PARIS, June 16. France needs 10,500,000 francs additional revenue to balance her 1925 budget was the semi-official announcement to-day following a conference between Finance Minister Caillaux and the Financial Committee of the Chamber of Deputies. When Caillaux assumed office the discrepancy of expenditure over receipts was more than three billion francs.

TWENTY-NINE KILLED IN RAILWAY WRECK.

HACKETTSTOWN, N.S., June 16. Twenty-nine persons are known to have lost their lives in the wreck of a Lackawanna special train at Rockport, two miles west of here, early to-day. Sixty-nine injured are in hospital.

SKYSCRAPER STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

NEW YORK, June 16. The 27 storey Equitable Building in the financial district, the largest office building in New York, was struck by lightning early to-day during an electrical storm which cooled off the metropolis after another torrid day.

FIVE KILLED IN EXPLOSION.

LISBON, June 16. Five workmen were killed and seven seriously injured by an explosion to-day in a distillery near Oporto.

KILLING OF A BRITISH SUBJECT PROTESTED.

SHANGHAI, June 16. The British Consul General here to-day vigorously protested to the civil Governor and also to the Foreign Commissioner, because of the killing of Wm. Mackenzie, a British subject, last night by Chinese agitators.

REWARDED FOR HEROISM.

LONDON, June 16. The Board of Trade has awarded a piece of plate to Capt. A. Greenlaw, master, and a pair of binoculars to B. E. Schmiesner, mate, of the tug Ocean Eagle, of St. John, N.B., in recognition of services to survivors of the steam trawler Mikado, of Grimsby, which lost eight of her crew of seventeen when she struck the rocks off Louisburg, N.S., in a thick fog, in May, 1924.

BERNIER GOING NORTH.

QUEBEC, June 16. It is very possible the steamer Arctic, in command of Captain J. E. Bernier, will leave for the northern regions next week and although the official date has not been announced, it is strongly rumored that Saturday, June 27, will be the date of sailing.

CAILLAUX THREATENS TO RESIGN.

PARIS, June 16. Finance Minister Caillaux indicated to the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies to-day that he would resign from the Cabinet unless the French parliament votes the 1925 budget before the end of June and also passes legislation for three billion francs additional taxation. Parliament will not be adjourned until the two measures are dealt with.

CHINESE STUDENTS AND FOREIGNERS.

WASHINGTON, June 16. Representatives of Shanghai student groups have informed the American Charge at Peking and the French and Belgium diplomatic representatives that they realized the importance of avoiding anti-foreign incidents in the present Chinese situation.

The Church Lads' Brigade paraded on Tuesday night under command of Lieut. Colonel W. F. Rendell, C.B.E., and Captain Stick as Adjutant. We were glad to see so many friends of the boys present to witness the presentation of the Outerbridge Shield. Amongst those present were Mrs. Walter F. Rendell, Captain Miller of Wabana Co. (in multi), Lieut. Hubert Rendell and Mrs. Rendell, to whom the officers all extended a very hearty welcome. The programme consisted of Inspection of the Companies by the Officer Commanding; (2) Manual Exercises under Capt. Harold Hayward; (3) Physical Drill under the command of Capt. P. B. Rendell; (4) Marching Exercises under Capt. N. French, formerly of Bay Roberts. The Outerbridge Shield was then presented to the winning N.C.O., Lance Corporal G. Stone, Section 4, A. Company. The lads that won this high honour for themselves, their N.C.O. and A. Co. were Lance Corporals S. LaFosse, R. Martin, Morgan and E. Martin; Ptes. J. French, J. Rice, W. England, H. Holwell, A. Frost, A. Hennebury, E.

Thomas, R. Tucker, R. Cole, A. Janes, A. Bradbury, J. Ford, E. Baker, G. Groves, W. Bradley and A. Sidel. Lance Corporal Stone and lads of No. 4 Section, we congratulate you each and every one! Mrs. Walter Rendell very graciously pinned on the medals and chevrons and presented the Shield to the winners. The competition was keen, the winners carrying off the trophy with only two points ahead of No. 2 Section A. Co., whilst third came Sections 2 and 3 of B. Co., ties, and they were only 9 points behind the winners. These points were awarded for appearance and conduct on parade, Manual Exercises, Physical Drill, Marching, Payment of Dues and attendance—with a maximum of 100 points.

A.A. Sports. The Committee expect to display their Sports prizes on Thursday in one of the Water Street store windows. The Athletic Association meets Thursday night at 9 o'clock to finalize matters. Twelve officers were on duty last evening, including Capt. Fred W. Burden, C.M.O. All ranks voted the presentation ceremony a good programme, and whilst every section could not win—the losers played a good game and congratulated the boys who won!

Fifty Dollars invested in German Government Bonds two years ago makes profit of Thirteen Hundred Dollars for St. John's man. Had this same man bought his bonds from our company and kept in touch with market prices, he could have sold same for Three Thousand Dollars a few months ago. German Government Bonds that we sold three years ago, as low as four dollars per million, advanced in ten months to Three Thousand Dollars. This Bond is known as "the 1914 to 1918 issue". We have Bonds of other issues that we consider having even greater possibilities, and would only be too pleased to explain to any interested people. Certain filthy and pestiferous insects have for many years been the bane of households, hotels and institutions. Since the discovery of SAN-O-SPRAY, it is very easy to rid the premises of Cock-Roaches (water bugs), Bed-Bugs, Moths, Flies, Mosquitoes, Ants, Fleas, Weevils, etc., by applying SAN-O-SPRAY to the retreats of these pests.

Settling the Problem of the Absentee Voter.

In practically every election which takes place in this country the complaint is made that a great many voters are disfranchised owing to their absence from the district on polling day.

With a seafaring population this is more or less unavoidable, and particularly in Newfoundland where so many pursue different occupations at different times of the year. The matter has frequently been considered but no satisfactory way out of the difficulty has been found.

Under British practice certain classes of people are entitled to vote at elections, although not personally present and according to advices received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its British Information Service a bill is now pending before parliament to extend the benefits of this legislation.

The benefits of the bill are also extended to include the case of persons who are away from home on military duty, or are too ill to attend the poll. In the latter case two days before the date of the election a certificate from a duly qualified medical practitioner must be filed with the registration officer, that such person is likely to be incapacitated by illness from voting.

It will be interesting to learn the particulars of the proposed measure, as they may well form the basis of a similar bill to meet our requirements.

The dedicatory tablet for the National Memorial arrived by S. S. Dwyer and will be placed in position for the first Sunday in July when it will be unveiled during the commemoration services. The tablet, which is of bronze is inscribed as follows:—

"To the Glory of God and in perpetual remembrance of one hundred and ninety-two men of the Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve, thirteen hundred men of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, one hundred and seventeen men of the Newfoundland Mercantile Marine, and of all those Newfoundlanders of other units of His Majesty's or Allied Forces who gave their lives for the defence of the British Empire in the Great War 1914-1918. For enduring witness, also, of the services of the men of this Island, who, during that war fought not without honour in the Navies and Armies of their Empire. This Monument is erected by their fellow-countrymen, and was unveiled by Field Marshal Earl Haig, K.T., G.C.B., O.M., etc., first of July, 1924. Let them give glory unto the Lord and declare His praise in the Islands."—Isaiah 42-12."

Obituary

MISS MILDRED CLIFT. General regret will be felt in the city at the sudden passing of Miss Mildred Clift, whose death occurred at an early hour this morning, after but a few days' illness, which none of her friends imagined for a moment was serious. The deceased, the daughter of the late Thomas Clift, was held in the highest regard by all who knew her, and her kindly disposition gained her friends on all sides. She was a sister of Mr. T. B. Clift, Mrs. Harrison Hayward, and Mrs. L. Paterson, to whom the Telegram extends deep sympathy. The funeral will take place from the late residence of the deceased on Rennie's Mill Road, on Friday, at 2.30 p.m.

Priests' Convention

Yesterday morning Rev. Canon Bolt was unable, owing to illness and a long absence from the country, to read a paper to the Convention on "The Study of the Bible." However, the paper of Rev. A. Shorter on the same subject was an admirable one and highly appreciated. He spoke only on the devotional use of Holy Writ, dealing with the methods, occasions, and aids. The discussion that followed was a very helpful one.

The Principal of Queen's College (Rev. N. S. Facey, M.A., LL.D.) then read a paper on "The Supply and Training of the Ministry," with special reference to the problems and needs of our own Diocese. He mentioned that the syllabus at Queen's is the same as that for the "general ordination examination," which practically all candidates in England have to take. He then referred to the supply of students, which is at present very good but uncertain. It was necessary for all Parish priests to keep before parents and youths the call to the Priesthood. Passing to the question of training, Dr. Facey thought this ought to begin as soon as a lad felt the call, even though it were during his preparation for Confirmation. Care should be taken that his education should be with a view to his making the most of his later training; an "Ordination Candidates Union" would afford the Bishop of the Diocese, the Principal of Queen's and the Priest of the Parish an opportunity of keeping in touch with, and following the career of, future ordinands. A further suggestion and hope which Dr. Facey put forth was that a way should be devised of allowing men to reside at the College during their Diaconate. In regard to the College itself, he thought that Queen's should be sending out four new men per year; this would mean having accommodation for 18 students and 4 Deacons, besides the Staff. The expenditure of the College, with 12 students as at present, is about $8,000 per year; $9,000 would provide for the training of 20 or 22 men. He sincerely hoped that on one Sunday per year special intercessions should be offered up and special collections made for this work. What was needed was a regular contribution from each Parish or Mission; e.g., St. Paul's, Harbord Grace, had been sending in about $75 per year. He hoped that more and more church people would learn to use the Ember Days as times of earnest prayer coupled with fasting and almsgiving, for the church must not only maintain but also supply and train the "living agents."

The afternoon was devoted to a discussion of Dr. Facey's paper, many useful suggestions in regard to "Vocation" being made. After Evensong tea was served in Canon Wood Hall by some ladies under the direction of Miss Hayward. A most enjoyable evening was spent, the principal event being a vote of thanks to Fr. Palmer for the success of the Convention. This was proposed by Rev. Canon Bayly and seconded by Rev. Dr. Facey.

Following this, by kind invitation of the Nickel Management, the clergy attended the exhibition of the Zeebrugge film.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

June 16th.—This being Baby Week do bring to my mind a droll tale which I did hear but lately concerning a lady that did make a great ado about a wretched little pet dog. Being in discourse with a friend one day she did say that she had to discharge her nurse for the most horrible cruelty. "Indeed, what did she do," asked the friend. "Kicked up shoe, darling Pido for biting the baby," was the astonishing reply. This day do learn how the business of the new hotel is now completed and the work of building it like to start next month, and will employ nigh 200 men, which is a good thing. By despatches out of China, much friction between the natives and the white population of Shanghai, and already 1 Englishman is killed, and things like to become mighty serious at any moment. The weather this night turns to rain and much wind that I fear the holiday to-morrow will be completely spoiled.

Run Over by Motor

BOY HAD LEG BROKEN. A nine-year-old boy named James Scurry, living on New Gower Street had his leg broken yesterday and now lies at the General Hospital as a result of being run over by a motor car owned and driven by Mr. George LeMessurier. The accident happened about 5.15 p.m. at the junction of New Gower and Springdale Streets. Young Scurry was on his way to see the football match when he was hit by the car. Adjt. French who witnessed the accident picked the lad up and put him in Mr. LeMessurier's car and they took him to Dr. Burden's Surgery. After an examination he was ordered to Hospital for treatment.

Garden Party Postponed

The St. Mary's Garden Party, which was to be one of the chief attractions for this afternoon, has been postponed until to-morrow, owing to the inclement weather.

Take it Off or Put the Lid On

Now that the fishing season is in full swing some of the fishermen having a pot of tar left over from their boats, they might oblige the Street Railway Co. with a little to put on the roof of Car No. 6, or perhaps a tarpaulin, would all the bill. Now that the "War" is over perhaps the Censor would let them tell us something about the new cars. If not perhaps we might threaten them with Inspector Barter. He seems to do very well for the cattle; he might even do better for the long-suffering public.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

RELIEF AIRPLANES TRYING OUT FOR FLIGHT NORTH. ADVENT BAY, Spitzbergen, May 16. Ice blasts from the East Spitzbergen glaciers to-day tossed the two seaplanes of the Norwegian Government Expedition, which is to search for the Amundsen North Pole explorers, as they lay moored to their buoys in the bay here. There has been no flying done here since Sunday afternoon, when the almsack took a few spins. There is talk among the fliers of making a dash over the inland glaciers from Advent Bay Strait for King's Bay, about 30 miles to the north. The trial spins supposedly revealed the possibility of such a flight. It is certain, however, that the aviators will not make their start before to-night and possibly may postpone it until Wednesday.

BELGIUM ORGANIZING ANOTHER MINISTRY. BRUSSELS, May 16. Viscount Poulet, leader of the Catholic Party, to-day finally accepted a mission from King Albert to form a three party cabinet in an attempt to end Belgium's ministerial difficulties that have continued since the resignation of Premier Theunis' Government on April 25th. Poulet, who held the post of Minister of the Interior, under Theunis, formed a Cabinet on June 11th, but the following day failed to obtain a vote of confidence. The ministry will be composed of members of the Catholic, Socialist, and Liberal Parties, although the Liberals will not support the Government officially. Emile Vanderveld, the Socialist leader, who made the first attempt to reorganize the Government, after M. Theunis resigned, will take the portfolio of Foreign Affairs in the New Cabinet.

A. C. BENSON PASSES AWAY. LOONDOON, Ontario, June 17. Arthur Christopher Benson, master of Magdalene College, Cambridge, died to-night of pneumonia. Arthur C. Benson, born in 1862, was the son of the late Edward White Benson, Archbishop of Canterbury, who rose to that position from poverty. He became Fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge, and was a master at Eton for several years, being appointed Master of Magdalene College in 1915. His literary ability was early shown in his Memories of Arthur Hamilton, and in his poems and lyrics. He edited with Viscount Escher, in 1907, selections from the correspondence of Queen Victoria, and was decorated by King Edward.

MOB'S FORENOON WORK—MOB STORMS POWER HOUSE AND MANY CASUALTIES RESULT FROM FIGHTING THAT FOLLOWS; WM. DAVIS SHOT.

New Waterford—Leaving behind them one man dead, another dying and scores more or less seriously wounded, the company police on Thursday afternoon successfully evacuated the town of New Waterford, which remains in full control of the mobs whose bloody forenoon's work in a few hours has turned it into the Herrin of Canada.

Under the protection of the clergy of the town and other citizens who were to prevent a renewal of hostilities, the police withdrew to Sydney, thus lifting a great burden of anxiety from the shoulders of the town authorities, who feared that after a nightfall there would be an attempt to storm the town jail which would lead to still further bloodshed.

As the afternoon wore on, excitement remained at fever heat, but there was less action for the reason that the anger of the mob lacked suitable objects upon which to exercise its vengeance.

The casualties from the morning's riot so far as they can be learned, consist of William Davis, miner, shot dead, and Gilbert Watson, miner, believed to be dying with a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Others treated at New Waterford hospital for more or less serious injuries are:—

- John MacQuarrie, civilian, bullet wound in arm.
- Officer Peck, fractured jaw.
- Murray, miner, slight injuries.
- R. J. MacDonald, badly beaten.
- MacLeod, policeman, fractured leg.
- Ryan, civilian, bruises and cuts.
- Cherry, civilian boy, head wounds.
- McKury, policeman, possible fracture of skull, many head cuts.

Tremendous Mob.

The trouble, which resulted fatally, broke out shortly before noon, when a mob of about 2,000 men, from the various districts of the town, approached the power plant which had been occupied earlier in the day by mounted and unmounted company police.

The mob gave evidence of being about to storm the power plant, and the mounted men, 49 in number, came out to disperse the crowd.

From what transpired, evidently some of the mounted men were not very skilled horsemen, or at least they were out of practice, with the result that the charge was not pressed home as it might have been under other circumstances.

As the horses lost way in the crowd they were instantly surrounded by men who pulled some of the riders to the ground, and desperate hand to hand struggles took place. The formation of the police was broken, and firing began. It was then that the bullet wounds were inflicted and Davis was shot dead.

About 20 of the police cut their way through the crowd and escaped in various directions. Another large detachment became cut off from their base in the plant and retreated toward the town of Waterford, pursued by a huge crowd which kept up a running fire of rocks and every species of missiles. Many policemen were knocked from their horses and were instantly set upon and beaten. Others escaped to New Waterford, where the mob spent some time hunting them from place to place until captured.

The town police, under Chief Dan Graham, courageously interfered and rescued the company troopers who were placed for safe keeping in the town jail. Some of the more seriously injured wished to go to the hospital, but the chief would not allow this, fearing the hospital would be raided.

The wounds were dressed in jail. Seriously wounded men, both civilian and police, were taken direct to the hospital, as listed above. In addition to these, hundreds of persons in the crowd were dressed at home without publicity.

For some time after the police were dispersed the crowd ran riot, dragging a company official named MacNeil through the streets and assaulting and beating company officials wherever they could be located.

In the meantime, the dispersal of the mounted police had so weakened the force in the power plant that the mob swarmed in and took possession again. The fires were drawn and at 3 o'clock this afternoon the plant was as cold and lifeless as it was when the expedition started from Sydney at 3 this morning.

So far as can be learned, H. J. McCann and other officials who were in the plant when the raid occurred were not injured, although nothing had been heard of Mr. McCann up to the moment of going to press. As a man of his prominence would be sure to be recognized, it is assumed that he is safe with friends somewhere in the Waterford district. So far as can be learned, the maintenance men who were in the plant under police protection were able to escape without serious injury.

Coming From Glace Bay.

A large contingent of striking miners, estimated at about 3,000, is marching from Glace Bay to New Waterford. It was in fear of what might happen when these men reached the town that led the authorities to get the police out of the jail and to Sydney as rapidly as possible.

During the night a sufficient force of maintenance men had been assembled at the steel plant here, and with them and for their protection all the available officers who could be spared from the company's outlying police posts in the quieter areas were also brought in. A majority of the police were on foot, but there was also a strong mounted detachment made up mostly of war veterans who have served in the cavalry or artillery and are thoroughly at home on horseback.

At 3.00 this force moved out over the Sydney and Louisburg railway in a special train consisting of horse cars and special cars for the police and workmen and with a locomotive at each end to provide for all exigencies.

Captain A. A. Noble, chief of the Steel Company's police, was in command of the actual operations and with him in general charge of the expedition was H. I. McCann, General Manager of the Dominion Coal Company, accompanied by assistant general manager D. H.

MacLean, Maurice Murphy, chief mechanical engineer, and other technical experts.

All went well until Victoria Junction had been passed. In spite of the secrecy observed, news of the project had evidently leaked out, because from Summit to New Waterford, about 100 pickets were encountered and numerous obstructions, principally sleepers piled crosswise, were found on the track. The police detoured and drove the pickets to the woods with their clubs which the workmen removed the obstructions.

Waterford power plant, reached at 4.25 o'clock, was guarded by about 100 pickets. After a brief fight, these were dispersed and the police and workmen took possession of the plant. Work of raising steam commenced at once.

About 9.30 a.m. word having been received of possible danger at No. 14 colliery, over a mile away, the mounted police went. Retreating, a crowd of about 400 blocked their way in front of the Town Hall. The police made their way through without much difficulty, but after they had passed the crowd began to yell 'scab' and throw stones. The officer in command gave the order to wheel and charge, and in a minute the landscape was thick with pickets flying for safety to gardens and surrounding enclosures which offered protection from the police horses.

The police then withdrew to the power plant, where war veterans among them strung barbed wire arrangements for the protection of the place against anticipated raids from the mob reported to be gathering in the town.

Captain Noble expresses confidence that his men will be able to beat off such attacks if they come.

The Company's Statement.

An official statement issued by Vice-President McLurg at noon, says:—

On the morning of the 4th inst., a crowd of about 400 striking miners from New Waterford induced the men who had been operating the New Waterford Power Plant to stop work. Arrangements were immediately made whereby the operation of this plant was carried on by officials of the Company, but the same afternoon, between two and three o'clock, a mob of about three or four hundred men arrived at the Waterford power plant and forcibly ejected all officials from the plant. This plant not only supplies light and water for both domestic use and fire protection for 4,000 people of the town of New Waterford, but also supplies the power for keeping the mines free of water and of gas.

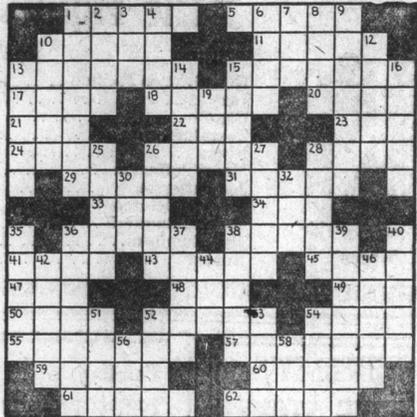

Full details were immediately wired to Premier Armstrong, the Hon. Wm. Chisholm, Minister of Mines, and the Hon. W. J. O'Hearn, Attorney General for the Province, with the request for Provincial police protection, to enable the company to operate the power house, supply light and power to the citizens of New Waterford, and to supply power for pumping the mines to prevent them from being flooded and lost.

Since pumping stopped on the 4th inst., water has been rapidly flooding mines Nos. 10, 11, 15, 22 and 24, with the result that underground pumps and machinery were being lost. As the company could not secure definite advice that, in reply to our repeated requests, provincial police would be sent, the company determined to regain possession of the Waterford power plant, which has been picketed night and day since the 4th inst., by a large force of pickets. To this end a sufficient force of company police, both mounted and on foot, were organized to take possession of the power plant and to protect the company's officials who had loyally volunteered to work it. This force of police and officials, with adequate supplies, left Sydney by train at 3 o'clock this morning. When about 1500 yards distant from the power plant it was found the railway track was obstructed by a pile of ties and a force of about 100 strikers. The police very promptly dispersed the strikers, the obstruction was removed and the train proceeded arriving at the power plant at 4.25 a.m. Here pickets to the number of between 75 and 100 were dispersed by the police and chased from the premises. The officials immediately began raising steam, but were somewhat hampered because the strikers had drawn the water off all boilers and had stolen boiler-room and engine-room tools. By 9 a.m. one boiler was under steam, early this afternoon power will be generated and water and light will be supplied to the town of New Waterford.

During the forenoon a patrol of mounted police, returning through the town, after visiting the different collieries, encountered a crowd of about 300 miners in front of U.M.W. Hall. The police proceeded to quietly walk their horses through the crowd, but when the crowd began throwing stones and calling 'scab', the police charged the mob, completely scattering it.—Sydney Record, June 11.

The Last Chance to See "The Fighting Coward"

MAJESTIC FEATURE THIS AFTERNOON AND NIGHT.

Cruze and Tarkington. When these to get their heads together on a motion picture, you can expect something really big. And "The Fighting Coward," a James Cruze Paramount production which is the feature at the Majestic Theatre to-day, is BIG in every sense of the word.

It's a big story, portrayed by a big cast, which has made a big hit with the Majestic audiences. There is action and heart-appeal galore in the production, a picturization of Tarkington's stage success, "Magnolia."

It's a drama of the Mississippi in the days before the Civil War. Ernest Torrence, Mary Astor, Noah Beery, Phyllis Haver and Cullen Landis are featured.

Others include Bruce Covington, G. Raymond Nye, Richard Neal, Carmen Phillips, Helen Dunbar and Frank Jonasson. Walter Woods made the screen adaptation.

Noah Beery, motion picture, "bad man," plays the wickedest role in his entire screen career. As "Blackie," he is officially credited with the killing of eighteen men.

The story by Booth Tarkington, takes place in 1848, when the dueling code was still active in the United States and when it was possible for men to commit murder under the guise of a duel. Beery has appeared in many heavy roles, but this one is avowedly the "heaviest" of all. Ernest Torrence also has a more or less villainous role in this production. This afternoon and night is the last chance the public will have to see "The Fighting Coward."

BROTHERHOOD.

Oh, I think as I sit at my window
And look at the world passing by,
And see car's plain traces on all
Of the faces

How like all the others am I
The boy on the wagon is working
For food and a few garments new,
He's out of money, for milk and for honey

And I am out after it, too.
The people keep coming and going
And some of them plainly are sad,
And each one now faring this morning is bearing

A grief or a burden I've had;
And each one has lived as a baby,
And each one some evening shall die,
And there's no denying, that each one is trying

For the very same Heaven as I.

The men who are married are working
For their wives and their children,
no doubt,

That man with the team, has a glorious dream
For his babies he wants to work out;

And if I could read it correctly,
I should know as he passes me by,
That he is out driving those horses and striving

For the very same purpose, as I.

I think as I sit in my window,
How foolish I am in my pride,
In good or bad weather, we're all here together

And whether we walk or we ride,
We must toil for the dreams which we cherish

And all that we need we must buy;
That teamster's out after his baby's glad laughter

And so, when I'm writing, as I.

When Laughter Kills

A man living in the Midlands died recently of laughing at comic film play. To most people the news that laughter has more than once endan-gered life will doubtless come as a surprise.

One of the earliest known instances concerned a famous Roman philosopher, Chrysippus, who died of an immoderate fit of laughter on seeing a donkey eating some figs intended for his own meal. "Give him a bumper of wine to wash them down!" the philosopher bade his attendant, and then died from excessive merriment.

There is also on record a well-authenticated story of a Greek artist who painted a portrait of an old woman, and was so amused by the leer he had given her features that he laughed continuously for twenty-two hours, after which he died from exhaustion.

Not long ago a woman went to the dentist's to have a tooth filled. "I wish we were all born without teeth!" she said, as she took her seat in the chair. "Well, aren't we?" inquired the dentist.

There was a ripple of laughter from his patient, followed by paroxysms of unrestrained mirth lasting nearly ten hours. In this instance the victim quickly recovered.

FRECKLES

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots.
How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any drug or department store and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

Bride Waits in Vain

LOVER'S BODY AND WEDDING RING ON RAILWAY.

In vain did a bride and a wedding party await the arrival of a bridegroom at St. Luke's Church, Maidenhead. The disappointed young woman, Miss Rober, returned to her home and a search was immediately made for her prospective husband, Daniel Cecil Kimpton, 29, of Cordwallis-road, Maidenhead. The mystery attaching to his disappearance was tragically solved when his decapitated body was found on the Great Western Railway at Wallham, four miles away from the church, by a signman. By the side of the metals was the new gold wedding ring, which deceased had apparently deliberately put there before he was killed. In one of his pockets was the receipt for the bridal cake purchased at a Maidenhead shop, where the cake had been on view. Miss Rober, deceased's fiancée, was too ill to attend the inquest—Kimpton's landlady stated that the couple were at her house on the eve of the wedding day. Witness, noticing how ill they looked, remarked, "You are more like a funeral couple than a wedding couple." She added that Kimpton was worried about the wedding expenses, and wanted to borrow £5 or £6.—The inquest was adjourned.

Little Jack Rabbit
by David Cory

"Dearest me," cried poor Uncle Lucky under his breath as Mrs. Wildcat opened the little rabbit's knapsack. "If my small nephew can only keep her busy for a few minutes longer I'll find help, yes I will, as sure as my name is Lucky Lethindfoot." You remember, Little Reader, that this wicked wildcat had jumped down from a tree right into the Luckymobile in the last story.

"I can't find my chocolate mice," snarled the old cat, pulling her paw out of the knapsack and scowling at the poor frightened little rabbit.

"I'm sure they're in it," answered the bunny boy. "Let me look," and he leaned over the knapsack, trembling like a leaf in the wind.

"I can't see them," purred Mrs. Wildcat, her hot breath burning the little rabbit's ear as she pressed up close beside him.

"Oh dear me, if I don't find them I'm a goner."

Just as sure as Monday follows Sunday, and sunshine follows rain, and little brooks flow to the ocean, and green apples give you a pain, softly cried the poor frightened little bunny.

"What's that you're saying?" asked Mrs. Wildcat. "Do you know poetry?"

"I know 'Twinkle, twinkle, little star,'" sobbed the poor little bunny, as he fumbled about in the knapsack for the chocolate mice. The next minute he shouted, "Here they are!" and he pulled out a small pasteboard box.

"Give it to me," snarled the impatient wildcat. "Maybe I won't like them after all," and she tore off the cover with her sharp claws. Oh, what a terrible, dreadful sight. The poor little rabbit's nose turned white, his furry knees went clitter clatter and his poor little heart beat pitter patter. Thank goodness, the old gentleman rabbit was too busy steering the Luckymobile to turn around. If he had seen that dreadful sight I fear he would have run the Luckymobile up a tree trunk.

"Just a minute more and we'll be safe," muttered plucky Uncle Lucky under his breath. "Just a minute more," and he put on more power. Yes he did, that daring old bunny gentleman. It was do or die, laugh or cry! The next moment he brought the Luckymobile to a standstill. So quickly did it stop that Mrs. Wildcat was thrown head over heels into the arms of the brave Policeman Dog, and before she could say "Meow!" that good kind protector of little folk in Rabbitland slipped a pair of bracelets—beg pardon, a pair of handcuffs, over her front paws.

"Hurray," shouted the old gentleman bunny. "I thought I'd find you at the little Police Station. You are always here at this time."

"Glad to be of service to you, Mr. Lucky Lethindfoot," barked the good Policeman Dog. "I'll call up the Patrol Wagon and take Mrs. Wildcat to the jail. Leave her with me and go right home. You and Little Jack Rabbit had better not wait." Kind old dog, he knew what was best for those two poor little frightened rabbits. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Sir Henry Lunn on Big Problems

"These are days of momentous changes in every direction. Empires are thrown into the melting-pot, new nations are emerging from the mould with changed characteristics and altered purposes. This is pre-eminently a moment for the propagandist, whether political or religious," said Sir Henry Lunn in a speech detailed in the Methodist Recorder.

"Never was the prophecy more rapidly being fulfilled, and fulfilled in more directions, than now, when nations are being born in a day."

Borden's PURITY BRAND CONDENSED MILK

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE PRINCESS SHAMPOO LADY.

I had my hair washed a few weeks ago by a princess in disguise.

A great honor! Well, perhaps so, but I don't want to repeat it.

Perhaps you may wonder who the princess was and how she came to be doing such work, and how I found out she was a princess?

She Must Have Been A Princess.

The first two questions I cannot answer, but the last I can. I didn't exactly find out that she was a princess, but I know she must have been by her manner. No one but a princess could have been so haughty, so confident, so very much above her work.

Do you remember the old song about the man who said: "Where are you going to, my pretty maid?" to the milk maid?

"He carried the pail and the three legged stool And smiled at the children coming to school As if to say, 'I don't as a rule Go out like this a-milking.'"

Oh, No, She Never Smiled.

Well, that was exactly the manner of the ex-princess shampooist. Except that she didn't smile. Her method of expressing her superiority to her work was to assume a haughty and indifferent manner and to drag into the conversation references to her real station in life. "When my husband was living," etcetera.

I shan't go there again (though I will admit she gave me an excellent shampoo. I should like to say she didn't because it would fit in better with my criticism, but it wouldn't be the truth). But I am glad I went there once for she taught me a lesson.

And that is, how little respect the people who try to impress you with the fact that they are above their work really win.

But You Aren't Impressed By Such Manners.

If you feel that because of her dignity and intelligence and charm and breeding, some woman who is serving you ought to be in a higher position, you respect and admire her.

But if anyone is making a visible effort to impress such a fact upon you, you are more likely to be amused or disgusted.

If I ever have to do work which I consider beneath me, I hope I shall remember the princess in disguise. For I think there is no good example half so valuable as a good example to help us avoid faults.

Heaven preserve us from the work-er who feels above his or her job, and also preserve us from ever acting that way ourselves.

Some men are content with being covered, no matter how cheap the appearance. Others are particular as to their dress, and maintain the highest standards in material, cut and finish. From the selection of your material to the finished garment it has our careful supervision. Carefully planned by cutters of experience, fitted and shaped under their charge, followed by expert workers who take a pride in their work, these are the combinations of the garments at MAUNDER'S. Racing the Train

An exciting contest took place recently between a motor-cyclist and an express train along the five hundred miles between Sydney and Brisbane. The motor-cyclist won, reaching his destination thirty minutes before the express.

In another remarkable race in Australia, a kangaroo raced a train. The animal was grazing on the embankment as the train came along. Suddenly the kangaroo bounded forward and kept pace with the train for three miles.

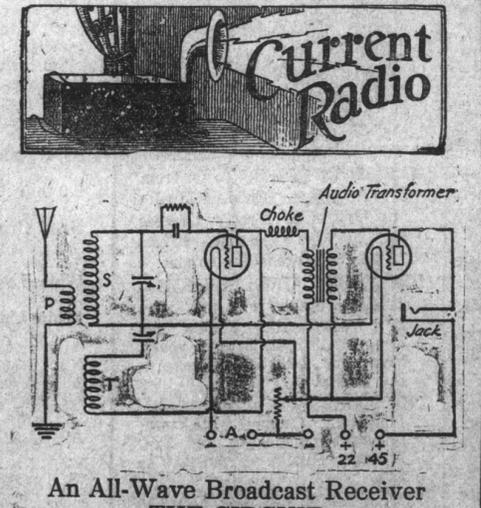

The most grotesque railway races have been on occasions when guards have had to race their own trains. One man gave the "right away" signal and then found that the train gathered speed so quickly that he was unable to board his van. His absence was not discovered until the next station was reached. After some minutes the guard was seen in the distance sprinting along at the train. He lost the race by only eleven minutes.

Another guard had to race his train for a similar reason. When he jumped on to the footboard he was unable to open the van door and was obliged to jump off again to save himself from being crushed by the side of a bridge. After travelling four miles his absence was discovered and the train was stopped. The guard quickly appeared on the scene, however, having jumped on a motor-cycles and given chase.

Current Radio

Audio Transformer

An All-Wave Broadcast Receiver
THE CIRCUIT

PART IV.
EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

The complete circuit of the receiver is shown above. No provision is made for plugging into the output of the detector—the single stage audio frequency amplifier always being in use. Very seldom does one desire to listen on the detector output alone, and for headset reception a single stage of audio frequency amplification is all that is ever desired. This set will give good loud speaker volume on local high power stations. If it is desirable to work the receiver with loud speaker volume on long distance signals we suggest that a two stage audio amplifier be constructed. The last stage of the amplifier should have the usual push-pull arrangement of tubes and transformers.

Note the position of the coil marked "choke." This coil keeps the radio frequency current from flowing through the primary of the audio frequency transformer, but permits the passage of the direct current from the B battery to the plate of the detector tube. The tickler coil "T" together with the variable condenser in series with it controls the regeneration and oscillation. The ROTARY plates of both variable condensers are connected together and also to ground. This grounded rotary plate in the variable condensers very effectively cuts down body capacity effect and eliminates the need of any shielding whatsoever.

When mounting the choke care should be taken that it is not in inductive relation to the inductance; that is, the choke should be mounted at right angles to the tuning coil, and as far away from it as possible. Also, it would be a good idea to mount the choke so that the lead from one end of the choke to the plate terminal of the detector socket is as short and runs in as direct a manner as can be. This choke only carries the normal plate current of the detector tube. This current will rarely exceed 2 or 3 milliamperes at the most, hence the smallest size wire can be used in it. The wire should be either cotton or silk covered and not enamel insulated.

HOLY CROSS 2
WESLEY 2

The Wesley and Holy Cross teams of the Junior League tried conclusions at St. George's Field last night before a large crowd of spectators. A good exhibition of football was given, and after a hard fought contest the match ended in a draw, 2 goals each.

Referee Coultas called the players together at 7.30, and Wesley winning the toss, decided to play from the western end. After the ball had been put in motion, play was confined to the Holy Cross territory, a feature of the game being the splendid combination play by the Wesley forwards. Several well directed shots were sent to Moore, who guarded well. Wesley pressed hard, and the desired results came five minutes after the opening, when Perchard beat the Holy Cross goalie with a low shot to the corner of the net. Play then became general with both teams making good attempts to score, but the opposing backs always managed to clear the leather out of danger. It was not until six minutes of play had elapsed did Holy Cross stage an attack on their opponent's goal, when in the melee Murphy equalized the score. The game then became fast and furious, and the spectators were given many interesting moments. Wesley again took control and before three minutes of play had elapsed, Marshall placed a beauty from the left wing to the goal mouth, and the ball was safely landed in the net by Butt. The Holy Cross were determined, and transferred the ball to the other end a moment later, when a goal was scored, only to be declared offside. The half time whistle then sounded with Wesley leading by 2 goals to 1.

Second Half
Scarcely had the ball been set in motion when Holy Cross staged a determined attack on Wesley goal. A corner was secured. The ball being nicely placed, White availed of a good opening and scored. With both teams now on an equal footing, the pace increased, and the best football for the season was witnessed. Despite the determined efforts of both teams nothing further resulted in the scoring line, and the game ended in a draw, 2 goals all.

TO-NIGHT'S FOOTBALL

The C.Y.M.C. and T.A. are the contesting teams in to-night's Junior football game. The T.A. teams will make their first appearance for the season, and are said to be a very strong aggregation of players. The T.A. lineup will be as follows:
Goal: J. Daly; backs, J. Cowley, J. McCormack; halves, M. Doherty, J. Connors, M. Ryan; forwards, T. Furlong, A. Bailey, L. Nikosey, J. Williams, J. Thomson.

PRELIMINARY FOOTBALL SIXES

The balance of the preliminary stunts for the Guards Sports played before and after the Junior League game last night, and good games resulted. The B.I.S. defeated the Cadets by a score of one goal to nil and the C.E.I. were victorious over the Peildians by a score of 2 goals to 1 goal and one corner.

Last Day of Baby Week

Yesterday's attendance of the mothers, and others interested in Baby Week, at the Star Hall, was even larger than on the opening day. Exhibits of various kinds to ensure cleanliness in handling food, were inspected, and the model kitchen came in for particular attention. The appliances to prevent the entry of flies, for the protection of goods, and to lessen household labor were simple, effective and inexpensive, and it is to be hoped that many of them will be adopted in the homes. At 4 o'clock Dr. Fallon gave an address on cleanliness in the home and the value of preventative measures in combating diseases. In plain language he explained the dangers incurred by exposing goods to contamination, by neglecting to observe simple rules of cleanliness, and stressed the importance of fresh air and sunlight in the homes. He illustrated his points by references to the precautionary methods taken in the Army and in the Canal Zone to guard against diseases, and in referring to the dangers of tuberculosis, quoted figures to show how successful had been in recent years the preventative measures taken to combat the disease.

Mr. J. W. Morris then showed a most instructive film dealing with milk in its various processes, its benefits as a food and its dangers, and at the conclusion Dr. Fallon explained the various illustrations. He regretted that owing to the lack of proper precautions taken in handling milk here, he could not recommend its extensive use, and urged that more effective methods should be enforced and greater care taken to guard against contamination. Tea was served during the afternoon by the Child Welfare Association, and to-day the exhibition will close. It is to be hoped that this afternoon all those who have not availed of the opportunity to see what the Association is doing for the homes in the city will pay a visit to the hall.

"Zeebrugge" Attracts Immense Audiences

NICKEL THEATRE AGAIN SETS THE PACE FOR UNUSUAL ENTERTAINMENT.

Out of the ordinary rut of entertainment and containing a tremendous appeal is the film "Zeebrugge" which has been attracting large and enthusiastic houses at the Nickel since Monday. The C.L.B. Band has been engaged to render patriotic selections outside the theatre and this, together with the appropriate music theme as rendered by Prof. P. J. McCarthy gives this wonderful picture the added atmospheric touch.

The British patriotic film "Zeebrugge" is an accurate and dramatic construction of the very brilliant enterprise which resulted in the crippling of one of the main bases from which Germany conducted her barbarous U-Boat warfare.

It has been produced from material supplied by Commander Bruce, D.S.O., R.N., by H. Bruce Wolfe and A. V. Bramble, and verified by officers who took part in the action.

"Zeebrugge" is the greatest patriotic film ever made in this or any other country. Besides being strictly true to the facts of the raid itself, the film is a tremendously thrilling and inspiring entertainment, and it, of course, carries the distinction of being the only motion picture which has yet induced Their Majesties the King and Queen to pay a visit to a cinema.

On Thursday last a thirteen-year-old girl of Mundy's Pond Road, who was on a visit to her sister on the South Side of the city, was accosted by a scamp, who behaved in a most brutal manner towards her. The matter was reported to the police, and last night a well known character named Gibbs was arrested and charged with the offence.

THE SLEUTH YARN.

My nephew was reading a story, a tale of the Sherlock sort; his pages were startling and gory, and blood was dispensed by the quart. I found him out there in the stable, immersed in his truculent yarn, so thrilled he was plainly unable to hear when I entered the barn. Expecting reproaches he trembled, he looked for a kick or a blow, his face was so pale he resembled a statue of whitewash or snow. His eyes, they were anxious and pleading, and so I remarked, "Nephew mine, I'm glad in selecting your reading, you've chosen a volume so fine. Some people, whose heads are defective denounce all these stories of sleuths, wherein the immortal detective is setting examples to youths. He's standing forever for justice, for law and the forces of right; I tell you, Adolphus Augustus, the sleuth is an uplifting sight. The villains are raging a-plenty, they romp through the mystery tale, but when you have reached Chapter XX, the law and detectives prevail. Then Nemesis camps on the slinger, who flourished around for a day; it shows you that virtue's a winner, that crime as a draft doesn't pay. The criminal heads for disaster in every good tale of the sleuth, the Sherlock is always his master, and falsehood succumbs to the truth. So read all you care to, my nevy, of fiction that's littered with dead, with something a little more heavy, to hold it in place when it's read."

Making the Weather Clear

WHAT AN ANTICYCLONE IS.

Now that summer is approaching and outdoor pursuits are in season again, the weather forecasts given in the newspapers and announced on the wireless are receiving more attention than usual. The technical terms that occur in such reports are puzzling to many people. A glance at a weather map will show it to be traversed by several heavy lines known as isobars. The word is from the Greek, and the lines serve to join up places where the barometer is registering the same pressure at the time of preparing the map. Again, the general idea of a cyclone is that it is a severe hurricane, dangerous to life and property. Actually, a cyclone is an area of low pressure shaped somewhat like a cone, so that the lowest pressure is in the centre. The winds, which are not necessarily strong, blow spirally round this centre. The winds, which are not necessarily strong, blow spirally round this centre, creating an atmospheric condition similar to a whirlpool seen in water.

Signs of Sunny Days.

Cyclone and depression are identical terms, so that the oft-heard wireless announcement that "a depression is spreading from the Atlantic" may be taken as a hint to wear a mackintosh.

Conversely, when an anticyclone is on the way, one may not take this precaution. An anticyclone, as its name suggests, is the opposite to a cyclone; that is, it is an area of high pressure, also cone-shaped, with the highest pressure in the centre. The winds revolve round this area, so that it may be compared to an inverted whirlpool.

In the area of an anticyclone the air descends and becomes dry in the process. Radiation of warmth and cold takes place easily. In winter such a phenomenon produces clear air with periods of frost that cause fogs in towns and in damp places. In summer the approach of an anticyclone can be taken to indicate fine weather.
