THE TARIFFIFIGHT AT WASHINGTON.

The tariff fight is still going on at Washington, but to say that it "goes bravely on" would be saying too much. People at a distance, who have in their heads more recollections of the past than knowledge of the present, are apt to picture to themselves every republican as a protectionist and every democrat as a freetrader. That would have been a true picture up to, let us say, ten or twelve years back ; but since these later years the lines have become greatly mixed ; and there are now some very influential republican journals on the free trade side, while the democratic masses by the hundred thousand have gone over to the side of protection. But this is not the only important circumstance that complicates plight. the situation. There are in both senate

OUR POLITICS AND OUR PAPERS. To us the issue in the present contest is the simplest in the world. It is this. Mr. Mowat and his friends have been in power for upwards of ten years. Have they done well and does their record promise well for the future? If so, it is the duty of the lave resulted in fatal casualties or not, and a bill containing this provision is now bethe opposition are likely to do better, then fore parliament. We can well believe, and it is the duty of the people to give them a we are told, that the insurance companies trial. We think the electors of Ontario are are in favor of it, and, what is more, it is intelligent enough to judge for themselves, stated it will probably because the truth avail nothing, except to disgust all fair-minded people by their pettiness, bigotry and vulgarity. They appear to think it is their duty to misinterpret each other's motives. They call one another liars and conspirators, and carried no dishonor It is no wonder that the United States press look with disdain on Canadian politics when the alleged exponents of our thoughts and and that the shrieks of the party organs will

The natural deduction from Sir John Macdonald's assumption that the provincial government have been usurping the power to deal with liquor licenses, appears to have been lost sight of. It is that any one can sell if he only pays his license fee, and that any man who has suffered loss in the past by a deprivation of his license has been wrongfully used. Under such circumstances it seems reasonable to suppose that actions for damages against the attorneygeneral by decapitated whiskey dispensers would be in order. What with lotteries and rum Mr. Mowat is, indeed, in a bad
