Events of Tremendous Moment Hinted At In War News Today

Violent Clashes of Cavalry During Last Week In Vicinity of Lille

ROUT OF FRENCH IS REPORTED

German Horsemen Said to Have Scattered French Division—Left of Battle Now Near Straits of Dover—The Fighting Described as Terrific

London, Oct. 12.—Except for a flood of vivid details regarding the fall of Antwerp, the British public has been practically cut off from news from the front during the last twelve hours. It is felt, however, that events of tremendous moment either are occurring or are impending in the area about Lille, where the cavalry of the contending forces has been in violent touch for the last week.

The military critics for the London morning papers, devote their space to speculation regarding the utility of Antwerp for German offense or defense. Most of them agree that, unless Dutch neutrality is violated, Antwerp will be of no more use in forwarding the Germans' purpose of making Zeppelin and naval raids on England, than other places in Belgium which have been occupied for some time by the invaders. They agree, however, that for military purposes in the western theatre of war, the occupation of Antwerp is of supreme importance to Germany which now will be able to release several divisions to aid the sorely pressed right wing. Furthermore the capture of the city will insure the lines of communication should retreat be necessary through Belgium.

Additional details of the shelling of Antwerp indicate that the damage was not so great as at first estimated. The damage inflicted on the city by the German artillery, may be set off in large measure by the great destruction wrought on German shipping in the harbor by the Belgians.

An official communication from Berlin states that no information is yet available as to the amount of booty taken in the town.

FRENCH CAVALRY ROUTED

The same official statement asserts that on Saturday German cavalry completely routed a French cavalry division, west of Lille, which indicates that the extreme limit of the western battle is within twenty miles of the Straits of Dover.

It is officially announced in Berlin that in the eastern theatre of war, all attacks of the first and tenth Russian armies have been repulsed, while the same fate was suffered by the Russians when they attempted an outflanking movement by way of Schirwindt, East Prussia.

Petrograd remains silent as to the movements of the Russian armies, but hints that secrecy is necessary for the time being because important operations are pending.

TERRIFIC FIGHTING

Late reports indicate that terrific fighting, partaking of the nature of siege operations, has taken place during the last fortnight around Roye, Lassigny and Albert, the last named place having been completely destroyed. Inspection of the works from which the Germans were driven show that they took the fullest possible advantage of the existing rock quarries.

Now that the opposing forces are deployed in a comparatively level country, shorter periods of vigorous fighting will probably produce more decisive results than did the engagements while the opposing lines were entrenched against each other.

Damage Not So Great

London, Oct. 12.—"Antwerp was not seriously damaged by the German bombardment," says the Chronicle's Amsterdam correspondent. "Only the suburb of Berchem and the southwest quarter of the town suffered badly. Long after these places had been evacuated, the Germans continued firing on and around the ruins of the blown up forts. They fired mines and hoped to destroy them. Near the southern suburbs the ground had been extensively mined by the Belgians, but the Germans were warned by trailers from within the city, and took care to avoid the danger zone."

"On Thursday morning the retreating troops from Antwerp passed on their flight to Ostend no fewer than 600 motor cars filled with soldiers, who had already passed through the town. "The intention was to reach Ostend by forced marches and the soldiers were relieved of their knapsacks, which were carried in the vans. Motor buses from London carried footsore troops who had fallen out of line. Then came columns of machine guns drawn by dogs."

"The procession continued all day, and late that night, the artillery passed through. They had been in a rear guard action. An officer said they had accounted for heaps of Germans."

GERMAN REPORT

London, Oct. 12.—A despatch to Reuter from Berlin, via Amsterdam, gives the following statement, which was issued last night by the German general staff: "Our cavalry on Saturday completely routed a French cavalry division west of Lille, and near Hazebrouck, we inflicted serious losses on another French cavalry division. Until now the engagements on the front in the western theatre did not lead to a decision."

"About the body at Antwerp, no communication can be made as information still falls. Neither can the number of British and Belgian troops who crossed the Dutch frontier be fixed."

"In the eastern theatre, we repulsed in the north all attacks of the first and tenth Russian armies on Oct. 9 and 10. The Russian outflanking efforts by way of Schirwindt (East Prussia), equally were repulsed and the Russians lost 1,000 prisoners."

"In south Poland the advance guards of our armies have reached the Vistula. Near Grojec, south of Warsaw, we captured 2,000 men of the second Siberian army corps."

German Losses Heavy

London, Oct. 12.—"It is said that the Germans lost 45,000 men during the attacks on fortresses Waelhem and Wavres-St. Catherine at Antwerp," says a Central News despatch from Amsterdam. Belgians at the Hague

London, Oct. 12.—Sixteen hundred Belgian soldiers, non-commissioned officers and men, arrived at the Hague today, according to a despatch from that city to Reuters.

GERMAN BOMBS FROM AIRSHIPS TURN PARIS MINDS TO HOME DANGER

News That One Struck Notre Dame—Others Fall Between Crowded Trains But Fail to Explode—Three People Killed

Paris, Oct. 12.—The progress of the campaign in the north of France and the fall of Antwerp were forgotten for a moment today by the people of Paris, who spent their time in discussing the throwing of bombs on the capital from German airships yesterday, as a result of which three persons were killed and fourteen wounded. At the same time officials adopted measures looking to the prevention of similar acts in the future.

The news that one of the German bombs yesterday struck the Cathedral of Notre Dame has been communicated to the Vatican. It is reported that the Pope exclaimed upon getting the message: "Providence has prevented an outrage which would have shocked the world."

Military critics, commenting on the movements of the armies in the Apremont region, declare it is worthy of note that Apremont to the east of St. Mihiel, is the route the enemy would take if they sought to withdraw from St. Mihiel in the direction of Lorraine. It is declared that their positions in this vicinity mean much to them.

A German aeroplane this morning dropped bombs between two railroad trains that were pulling out of the northern railroad station. The missiles did not explode, and were later found embedded two feet in the earth. The railroad trains were crowded with passengers.

ALBERT AND ROYE DEVASTATED

Gigantic Struggle There and at Lassigny Rivalled Fighting on Right Bank of the Aisne

London, Oct. 12.—"The fiercest fighting during the last fortnight," says Reuter's Paris correspondent, "centered around Albert, Roye and Lassigny. Not an acre of ground in this region is without traces of the terrific struggle."

Albert, which was first regained from the Germans, is a heap of ruins. Only the gilded clock tower remains. Roye sustained an uninterrupted struggle in front for a fortnight and no longer exists. Lassigny was the last stronghold of the enemy, being the point of the wedge which the Germans were endeavoring to drive into the allies. "The struggle in this region had much of the same character as that on the right bank of the Aisne. Around Roye, like around Soissons, the Germans made on the part of the allies. There, as in many other places, the enemy had prepared his ground in time of peace."

LISBON GAS WORKS EXPLODE; MANY KILLED OR WOUNDED

London, Oct. 12.—A hundred people were killed or injured in Lisbon, Portugal on Saturday night, by an explosion at the Lisbon gas works, according to a despatch to Reuters. The explosion caused a fire in which the staff of the gas works was trapped. Several tram car passengers and pedestrians were among the victims.

Austrian Losses

Paris, Oct. 12.—A despatch to the Havas Agency from Cetinje says that the Austrian troops who, on October 8, fought Montenegrins on the way to Sarajevo were 200,000 strong. The Austrians lost 1,500 in killed or wounded. Withdrawing to Kallinovitich thirty miles south of Sarajevo they lost 1,500 more in killed and wounded. According to the correspondent, the Montenegrins also took many prisoners.

Boston Team Now The Favorite; Ten To Nine For Today's Contest

Indications of Crowd of 35,000 People at Fenway Park—Bush Against Tyler Early Pitching Outlook

Boston, Oct. 12.—Clear skies and a moderate temperature, ideal playing weather, favored the third game of the world's series between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Boston Braves to be played at Fenway Park today.

Fenway Park scene of memorable games in the world's series of 1912 today staged the third game in the series 1914, between the Boston Braves, sensational winners in the National League, and the Philadelphia Athletics, American League champions, and defenders of the world's title. It was almost a last ditch defence which the men from Philadelphia prepared to make this afternoon as their opponents had won both of the games already played. Victorious today, the Braves would need only one game to gain the world's baseball honor.

Weather conditions could not have been better. A bright sun developed an atmosphere of cooling, tempered somewhat by a summer breeze from the southwest.

Thousands of persons moved on Fenway Park this morning, to join the hundreds who had held places during the night in lines that led to the bleacher entrances. The first few arrived at noon yesterday; by nightfall, the waiters numbered a score; at midnight there were 200 strong, and as the sun rose nearly 20,000 rush seats, 4,000 of which were to be had for fifty cents. The others sold for $1. It was required that the purchaser enter the grounds immediately and thus preclude speculation. With 15,000 grand stand seats disposed of, indications were that the number of spectators would be about 35,000.

Boston went into this game a strong favorite for the series, but regarded as only a 10 to 9 choice for the game. A conference between Manager Mack and the Athletic players at their hotel last night, had given the Philadelphiaans new hope. A change of their style of play was expected, the plan of campaign previously decided upon having been proven entirely inadequate. Only desperate measures, it was believed, could bring the champions on even terms with the Braves and these they were prepared to take.

The probable line-up for today's game which was scheduled for 2 p. m. was: Philadelphia—Murphy, rf; Oldring, Tyler, p.

Amsterdams to Reuter says:—"A telegram from Yvonne states it is officially announced that the Austrian royal advance has relieved Premysl, Galicia, from Russians. The Austrians have entered the fortress at all points and where the Russians attempted retreat and where the Russians attempted to flee in the direction of the River Sava, attempting to cross at Sivrara and Lezakow where a great number were captured."

Venice, via Paris, Oct. 12.—Cholera is spreading rapidly to the remotest districts of Austria. A case has been discovered at Feldkirch, province of Vorarlberg, near the Swiss frontier. The Austrian troops in Galicia are being vaccinated.

A LONG WAR

The Germans have captured Antwerp, and their victorious troops are marching on Ostend. German aircraft yesterday dropped bombs in Paris.

It is true that the allied armies in France have a little more than held their own during the last two weeks, but their attempts at flanking movements have not been successful, and on the German right this will be made more difficult because of the fall of Antwerp.

In giving thanks do not forget the Belgians. Today's war news is not of a Thanksgiving Day quality.

Reports from Vienna are at all to be believed the Austrians have got their second wind and have gained a victory over the Russians at Przemyel.

It is worthy of note that the exports of lumber from St. John to the United States in September were a good deal more than double those of September last year.

The city is to be congratulated on the fact that the local issue of bonds has been more than doubly subscribed. It is an evidence of faith in the management of the city's affairs, and it also shows that there is plenty of money in the city for investment purposes.

Those who believed that the Germans at the time they were being forced to retreat from the neighborhood of Paris (and The Times must confess to have shared the belief), would, ere many weeks, be on the defensive on German soil, have been grievously disappointed.

In a three-day campaign the citizens of Berlin, Ont., chiefly of German descent, raised $62,716 for the Patriotic Fund, and it is still climbing.

The Montreal Mail says: "The first intimation of the make-up of the second Canadian expeditionary force names 4,000 infantry as the quota expected from the province of Quebec, the largest number assigned to any one province, and local officers are accordingly jubilant.

The Fredericton Gleaner contributes to the cause of harmony and patriotism in Canada by charging Sir Wilfrid Laurier with expressing the view that Canada "was not necessarily at war because Great Britain happened to be."

THANKSGIVING DAY The people of Canada are not able to give expression to their usual feeling of thankfulness that the country is at peace.

There is no better safeguard against disease and suffering than a good cathartic medicine. In the great majority of cases Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are constantly kept at hand, because they quickly awaken the action of liver, kidneys and bowels, and cure the most common ills of life.

In giving thanks, however, if we realize that we are so far removed from the actual scene of war, let us not be forgotten that we owe a debt which can never fully be repaid to the people of hapless Belgium, so many of whom have given up their lives, and so many others of whom are penniless in exile or penniless at home, with all the rigors of winter close upon them.

aid would be unworthy of a self-respecting people in any portion of the British Empire. The shadow of a great peril and a great sorrow broods over the world today, and while no Canadian doubts the outcome of the war it is impossible to divert one's thoughts for a length of time from the blood-stained fields of Europe, where millions of men of the Christian faith are devoting the hours of this day to the task of killing each other, with the aid of all the horrible machinery which the mad race for armaments and the German lust for war have brought into action.

Public opinion in all Canada, as well as in Britain, and in the camps of the allies, welcomed warmly the announcement of Col. Hughes, minister of militia in Canada, that troops would be sent steadily and surely from our shores until 100,000 Canadians were fighting in Europe for the cause of humanity and liberty.

scription the fate of a relation (Captain Buckle, of the Royal Artillery). "Captain Buckle was wounded in both legs by bursting shrapnel. He was lying in an agony of pain when he was discovered by some German officers. They stooped over him—not to administer aid and comfort, but actually to cut the tendons of his right wrist, with the obvious intention of disabling him permanently."

Letter to James Pettit, York Road, Guelph, from an aunt in Stratford, Terrace, Leeds, England: "We have in our house to care for a little Belgian girl, a great eight, who had her hands chopped off by German soldiers. Her brother, a little younger, was treated the same, so he would never be able to handle a rifle."

Letter to Mrs. Chessman, St. James Street, Winnipeg, relating to the death of a young man, Harold M. P., who was killed in the hospital at Sussex: "Private Hawkins was left on the battlefield wounded, and as he lay on the ground he could see the German soldiers going over the field clubbing and bayoneting the wounded and dying. When he was rescued the officer in command, seeing that his condition was not serious, drew his sword and with his own hands hacked off the soldier's hands, wrists, and then left him bleeding and unconscious on the field. He is still suffering from the effects of this treatment, and sent with other wounded to England."

Letter to Andrew Dods, barrister, Toronto, from W. Whitehead, Surrey, England: "There must be no stopping of the war until the Germans are wiped out. It must be, for they are devil. Here in our Cottage Hospital is a soldier who was wounded in the thigh, and when a London hospital that thirteen English nurses serving at the front had their two hands cut off by German soldiers, and that the nurses are being treated in the hospital with which she was connected."

Further Evidence Of general statements, Harold M. Sewall, an ex-United States Minister to Germany, makes public a letter from a personal friend who at first disbelieved in these atrocities and who now writes after investigation, that the treatment of women and girls was "beyond description in their inconceivable horror." Of the destruction meted out to the Belgian towns and villages and their unfortunate inhabitants something is known. J. H. Whitehouse, a British M. P., visited the one-time beautiful Termonde and states that its destruction—as in other cases—was not due to bombardment or siege; "in each case a separate bomb had been placed, and set fire to the contents. All that remained in every case were portions of the 'outer walls'."

This is not war—it is barbarism and savagery let loose—the Hun at the gates of civilization. Let us take warning and help to preserve our liberties, our peace, our homes, while we have the chance. There may be a Canadian here and there—I do not know one—who is mean enough to say "Let 'em perish! Let England fight for herself! The United States will take care of us. Apart from the degradation of such a thought, it is probable that if England's feet were once shattered by a chance blow, and Britain invaded, with its great fleet, and maintained there in full strength, contributing to the victory of Britain and of European liberty, as Clemenceau, the ex-premier of France, so well put it recently: "If Canada is to take her proportionate part in the war, 175,000 of the million should be Canadian troops. The million men are needed not a year hence, but just as soon as they can be taught to shoot at five hundred yards and perform ordinary manoeuvres. "If Canada is to keep up her end our troops should go forward in successive contingents so rapidly that the whole 175,000 will get into the fighting zone at the earliest possible day. That can only be done if, while one contingent is being given the finishing process at Valcartier, another contingent is being recruited and given preliminary training at recruiting centres. "To us, British and French success means everything. It means safety for our commerce on the seas of the world, safety for our shores from the iron heel of ruthless invasion, safety of our homes and families, security for the rights and liberties of a free people, continued immunity from the devastating and ruinous expense involved in the maintaining of vast armies and navies. We are sharing in a struggle for international honor, for the guardianship and security of the little nations amongst which—without the empire—we would be one, for the integrity of treaties, for all that is meant in the famous words of Lord Beaconsfield upon a famous occasion: "Peace with honor." Here, as in Britain, the voluntary system of defence is on its trial. If it fails, compulsory military service becomes necessary for public protection. Our Canadian and imperial interests are too great, our whole British fabric too vast, to depend upon a patriotism for defence which fails in the supreme hour. Such has not proved the case in England as yet; and if the hundred thousand volunteers reported in Canada by the militia department some time ago as available are rapidly prepared and sent to the front, it will not be the case here. "May I once more respectfully and earnestly urge that active calling, continuous training, renewed mobilization, be put into operation with a definite view to placing this Canadian army upon fields where Canadian liberty is just as truly being fought for as British liberty was in the great battles of the past upon land and sea. "Keep Too Many Drunks. Brockville, Ont., Oct. 12—The town council has adopted a by-law authorizing the police to release from custody, without being brought before the police magistrate, men arrested upon charge of drunkenness who have not been disordered by the commitments to the county jail for drunkenness have been such as to exact a heavy expense from the town for their maintenance. Emperor Francis Joseph And Emperor Maximilian (R. V. in Montreal Gazette) Rarely, in the history of dynasties, has any monarch been afflicted by such tragic bereavements as those that have visited the Emperor Francis Joseph. One can hardly imagine a sadder close to a life which was in the main of lofty purpose and high desert than that which the fates had in store for Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico. He was shot at Queretaro by the victors of the war between the Imperialists and Republicans. Along with him suffered Generals Miramon and Mejia. The Emperor's step was firm, as was that of Miramon, but Mejia was so weak that he had to be supported to the place of execution. Father Sorria, who attended the Emperor was ed silk and buttons of the same material form the decorative scheme.

This seems to be the most stunning of the advance modern tailor makes. It is developed in mastic gray velvet, 5 yards 44 inches wide being required for the suit. As smart as the design is, its construction is comparatively simple. The importance of stitching and pressing can never be too greatly emphasized in attempting a tailored coat or suit. The leavers today consist principally with the coat illustrated. The skirt section is cut from an open fold of the material. The back and sleeve cut in one, are carefully arranged on a fold of the velvet. Other parts of the pattern are laid on a hawthorn thread.

Now, to make the coat, first place the upper edge of the front, placing "7" on small "00" perforations. Close sleeve seam as notched. Sew placket and collar as notched.

so overcome by the scene that Maximilian felt himself called upon to assume the part of consoler. He drew from his pocket a little silver smelling bottle and offered it to the trembling priest. Father Sorria was so feeble through excess of emotion that he was unable to make use of the salts, and the Emperor held it to his nose until he had somewhat recovered.

This evidence of Maximilian's goodness was witnessed by Senora Augire. The platoon of soldiers was under command of General Jesus Diaz de Leon. Near the spot were three roughly-made coffins, on each of which had been marked a red cross. Maximilian stood in the centre, Mejia, barely able to stand, being on his left. Both Mejia and Miramon felt themselves being handled, but Maximilian waved away the officers who approached him for the purpose. He was then seen going towards the seven soldiers, to each of whom he gave a gold coin (a Maximilian dollar), and requested them in Spanish, calling them "muchachos" (boys), and placing his hand on his heart. He then removed his hat and wiped his forehead, for it was a tropical June day. The hat that he wore was kept by a Hungarian. The condemned Emperor's mother, the condemned Emperor's mother, the condemned Emperor's mother, is said to have adhered to the tradition of the country, which is that all persons who are about to suffer deliver a short address.

The only persons within hearing of him were the seven soldiers, and to them we are told he spoke. "Mexicans," he said, "persons of my rank and origin are destined by God either to be benefactors of the people or martyrs. Called by great part of you, I came for the good of the country. A nation did not bring me here, but I came with the best of intentions and sincerest wishes for the future of my adopted country and for that of my soldiers, whom I thank before my death, for the sacrifices they have made for me. Maximilian may my blood be the last which shall be spilled for the welfare of the country and if it should be necessary that its sons should still shed theirs, may it flow for its good, never by treason. Long live independence! Long live Mexico!" How far this is a genuine report of what the Emperor said we do not know. There is a small memorial chapel on the spot where Maximilian and his two companions suffered.

The last private letter that Maximilian wrote was addressed to his unhappy Belgian wife, who had dared and suffered so much in his behalf. It was (in English version) to this effect: "My beloved Charlotte—If God permits that your health be restored and you should read these few lines, you will learn the cruelty with which I have been treated since your departure for Europe. You took with you not only my heart, but my good fortune. Why did I not give heed to your voice? So many untoward events! Alas! so many sudden blows have stricken my hopes that death is but a happy deliverance, not an agony to me. I shall die gloriously like a soldier, like a monarch, vanquished but not dishonored. If your sufferings are too great and God shall call you to join me, I shall bless His Divine hand, which has weighed so heavily upon us. Adieu, Adieu. Your poor Maximilian.

How far the unhappy lady, widowed long before it reached her, was able to understand and sympathize with her "poor Maximilian's" fate we have no means of knowing. It is said that she had already in some way either become aware of or suspected what had taken place. She is still alive and in her native land.

The tragedy of Mayerling is really a mystery. The Crown Prince Rudolph was a man of the brightest intelligence and commanded the respect of a good many of the intellectual class in both sections of the Dual Monarchy. When it was learned that he was dead, consternation prevailed both at the court and among the population in which he had become a familiar figure. What little investigation—an investigation which was soon converted into a committee of concealment—disclosed as to the manner and cause of the death of Prince Rudolph and Marie Vetsehera is not pleasant to dwell upon. It took place on the 30th of January, 1889. The death of Empress Elizabeth is, in some ways, the most tragic of these tragedies. She was certainly the most guileless victim of all those who died by violence. She was assassinated at Geneva by an Italian anarchist on the 10th of September, 1898. Of Sarajevo need we speak?

A well proportioned man should weigh 28 pounds for each foot of his height.

Germans Threaten Ostend While The Allies Advance

London, Oct. 11.—The first official admission that the British participated in the defence of Antwerp is contained in an admiralty announcement, late Saturday, that three naval brigades with heavy guns, had been sent there during the last week of the German attack.

The announcement adds that in the retreat from Antwerp two of the British brigades reached Ostend safely. The other, however, was cut off to the north of Lokeren (a town in East Flanders, twelve miles northeast of Ghent) and 2,000 of the men were annihilated.

The retreat of the Belgian army was accomplished successfully. The losses of the British naval brigades will probably be less than 300, out of a total of 8,000 men.

GERMANS ADVANCING ON OSTEND. London, Oct. 11, 12.15 p. m.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from The Hague, dated Saturday, says that according to trustworthy information from Belgium, the Germans are advancing swiftly toward Ostend, with the object of making the king, queen and government officials of Belgium prisoners.

It is said that the queen has left for England. London, Oct. 12, 4.15 a. m.—Germany has imposed a fine of £20,000,000 ($100,000,000) on Antwerp as a war indemnity.

London, Oct. 11, 9.30 p. m.—With the conclusion of that phase of the war of the nations which came with the fall of Antwerp, the conquest of the European continent seems to have been completed. The French communication issued this afternoon deals only with the battle, or series of battles, which have been in progress for four weeks from east to west in France, with an ever-extending line, which now reaches northward from the elbow at Noyon and across the Belgian border at Armentieres.

To remind Parisians that they are still in France, two German aeroplanes which seem to choose Sundays for their visits, flew over the French capital today. They dropped a score of bombs, which killed three persons and wounded twenty, but did no material damage to the city.

Hints for the Cook. Chowchow. Two quarts small green tomatoes, twelve small cucumbers, three red peppers, one cauliflower, two bunches celery, one pint small onions, two quarts string beans, quarter pound mustard and two ounces tumeric, half ounce allspice, half ounce pepper, half ounce cloves, salt, one gallon vinegar. Prepare vegetables and cut in small pieces, cover with salt, let stand twenty-four hours and drain. Heat vinegar and spices to boiling point, add vegetables and cook until soft.

Shredded Coconut Cake. One cup sugar, quarter cup butter, whites of two eggs, 2-3 cups flour, 2-3 cup milk, one heaping teaspoon baking powder. Filling—Yolks of two eggs, one cup milk, one large teaspoon cornstarch, ten small teaspoons sugar, half cup coconut in a little milk. Stir all together and cook like custard. Put between layers.

Watermelon Marmalade. One watermelon, sugar, lemons. Cut the heart of ripe watermelon into small squares, minus seeds and strings. Allow two lemons and 8-8 lb. of sugar to each pound of fruit. Cut lemons in slices and cook sugar fruit and lemons together till the syrup thickens.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS. Cleansing with mustard is said to remove the smell of fish from pots. If a knife is placed under a tumbler or glass dish, boiling milk or water can be put in without breaking the glass. Rusty looking silk can be made clean and new looking if sponged with the water in which potatoes have been boiled. When boiling eggs, wet the shells thoroughly in cold water before dropping in the boiling water and they will not crack. After washing lamp chimneys, try washing them with dry salt. This gives the glass a brilliant shine and prevents it from cracking. Fat or suet will keep sweet for a much longer time if separated from the skin, finely shredded and dry mixed with flour. Keep in a dry, cool place.

A good way of stiffening the bristles of hair brushes after washing is to dip them into a mixture of equal quantities of milk and water, and then dry before the fire.

To remove fruit stains from tablecloths and serviettes, apply powdered starch to the stained parts, and leave for several hours till all the discoloration has been absorbed by the starch. Always put scrubbing brushes to dry with the bristles face downwards. This lengthens their lives considerably, as if dried the other way the water naturally soaks into the wood and rots the bristles.

To remove paper labels from old bottles easily, wet the face of the label with water and hold it for an instant over any convenient flame. The steam forced penetrates the label at once and softens the paste.

Strapped to War Plane, Camp Cook Spy Once More Lands in War-racked Belgium; Terrific Scenes Within Liege Forts!

(Copyright, 1914, By The Newspaper Enterprise Magazine)

(This spy fled to America to escape the governments of two nations. He knows that secret agents are watching him still. This story was secured from him in a village in Pennsylvania. His story lacks literary quality, but it is filled with interesting and first-hand information regarding the early developments of the European war.)

First "Fire" Message Sent. He told us we could go or stay, and that the fort never would surrender, but that we would die or conquer. Many went. Before returning to the kitchen underground I saw and heard much.

One of my missions was to learn whether French and English troops had reached Liege and how they were getting on. I heard an officer complain that the English had failed, and that the French were slow.

Returning to the kitchen I wetted a blue strip of the paper from my tobacco box in a little water, walked to a gun embrasure and tossed it out with the water. The gun guard cursed me and I swore back. Five minutes later a blue signal flashed from far down the face of the cliff, flashed blue and after a moment turned red. The two days of horror, which I never saw nor knew a thing, had passed above me.

I saw many lights. I tried to speak to the driver, but the roar of the motors was too much. We came down in a field a mile from Waremme, in the night. We saw lights and heard sounds not far away, and the lieutenant made me try to fly again.

When he had gone I crept into a ditch and waited some time before starting. I was crawling I reached a road and presently discovered an officer and a man. I was not far from Liege, and, creeping into a hedge, I slept until daylight, when the sound of machine guns and much noise told me citizens were passing along the road leaving the city. Making haste I soon reached the ditch and ditches had not improved my appearance. At first the officer cursed me and ordered me away, but several seemed touched by my pose of helplessness. I thanked him again and again and called him savior and hero and called down blessings upon him.

The other officers laughed and joked with him. "Silly fool," he said, "go with the others and do not trouble me." I pretended to weep and declared I had no place to go, but would stay with him, my protector.

"Keep him, Major," laughed a French officer. "I jump in the mud," retorted the major. "Ce sont les rousillon! Evidently an idiomatic French joke—Ed.)

"Well, give him to me then," responded the Frenchman. "I need a cook."

"I can cook, m'sieur," I stated. "I can cook," he said. The officers sent me to the kitchen under the fort. That day I saw little. I cooked. In the evening there was word that the attack was expected. I was not permitted above ground, but in the late evening I, with other civilian cooks, was drawn up and examined in the commandant's room.

In speaking on the subject, The War We See It, Rev. Just now, we as Canadians do not want political contests. We are united in fighting a common foe, and we want to remain united."

SPORTSMEN'S BATTALION A FEATURE OF NEW BRITISH ARMY

London, Oct. 12.—Recruiting for the famous sportsmen's battalion proceeds apace, the enrollment totalling about 1,000. It is in many ways a unique corps. It is raised and financed by Mrs. Cunliffe Owen and is, in all probability, the only battalion of any of the great modern armies to be brought into being by a woman.

ADMIRAL CALLAGHAN October 10, 1914. To the Editor Evening Times and Star: Dear Sir,—Whilst indulging in that "now-a-days" very common practice, to wit—"killing the Kaiser with your mouth" a friend "jumped" at me with the query—"What has become of Callaghan at the outset of the war; why is he heard of 'hellion' as being in charge now; no explanations as to what has become of the former commander being offered. Can it be that the "Iron Duke" was sunk, after all?" Yours sincerely, F. W. B.

Busy Scene at New Remount Depot—Members of Dragons on Duty

Men were busy at the exhibition grounds today preparing corrals and making otherwise ready for the stabling of a large number of horses to be used by the British war office for remount purposes. Four hundred animals reached the city yesterday, and are now being cared for in the stables at the grounds. Another shipment is expected on Wednesday, about 400 more being anticipated. Arrangements for their accommodation are already made, and it is estimated that about the exhibition properties some 2,000 steeds can be comfortably kept.

Captain Crepe, who is in charge of the remount depot here, said this morning that he had no word as to when the horses would be shipped to Europe, but thought it would not be for some little time, as it would be necessary to give them a thorough rest after their rail journey. Steamers for their transport were now being arranged for. It will be necessary to fit these steamers better than the ordinary cattle ships, as each horse will require a stall. He was well satisfied with the facilities afforded here for the shipment of the animals. He expected that the Barrack Green would be a lively centre of interest for some time.

Members of the 28th Dragons, under Captain Scovill and Lieutenant Grimmer, have been placed on duty at the ground to assist in the care of the horses, do picket duty, and attend to various other details. They will also assist in exercising the horses each day on the grounds to keep them in condition for the overseas journey. Almost all the horses are from western ranches, well hardened, and are entirely of the cavalry and artillery class, there being no heavy draught animals in the lot.

SHOT FINE DEER

Win Shea, brakeman with the C.P.R. on the Boston train, returned to the city on Saturday from the woods near Tracy station where he had been on a hunting trip. He brought back a splendid specimen of the deer family, a fine big buck, having a spread of antlers of about 27 inches with twelve points.

These apples will all be picked, over and repacked for shipment which will probably be some time next week. It is hoped to have at least 800 barrels. Besides being a very acceptable gift to the sick and wounded soldiers, the quality of New Brunswick apples will become better known to the people of Great Britain.

BELGIAN FUND HERE IS $3,800

Shippagan Fishermen Give 300 Quintals of Cod—Local Supplies Should be in by Tomorrow

Without any canvassing or active solicitation the cash contributions to the Belgian relief fund have reached the substantial total of $3,800, this amount having been received by Mayor Frink. Contributions acknowledged today are as follows:—Friend, $2; John C. Chesley, $5; R. A. C. Brown, $5; Col. E. T. Sturdee, $5; George Bathurst, Westfield, $2; W. A. S. $1; Willett Fruit Company, $5; E. L. Rising, $25.

A very generous gift of 300 quintals of dry codfish has been made by the people of the island of Shippagan on the north shore. A. J. H. Stewart of Bathurst has written to Mayor Frink informing him of the gift and that he has been requested by his friends to forward the fish to the proper destination and asking for shipping instructions.

C. J. Osman of the Albert Manufacturing Company has informed Mayor Frink that he is sending forward a bale of clothing, etc. collected by Mrs. Osman and also a package made up by W. C. Chould.

SHOULD BE IN BY TOMORROW

The generous response to the appeal for supplies for the Belgian relief work is shown by the well filled warehouse at Pettingill wharf where the quantity of supplies received has far exceeded the expectations of the committee. There are many who are intending to contribute but have not yet sent in their gifts and for their benefit the committee announces that all contributions must be at the wharf by Tuesday evening in order to go forward on the steamer. There is urgent need for the supplies on the other side and, as there is no certainty when another shipment can be made, it is imperative that all goods for immediate relief be sent in not later than tomorrow.

The gifts so far show a predominance of men's clothing with clothing also for women and children although there is not so much of the latter in proportion. This is some bedding also but not so much of this as the committee wished. Food supplies have been given generously but in this department also the committee wishes to send forward a larger contribution. To supplement the gifts received and make the shipment a better balanced one the committee is using the cash contributions to purchase those things which they think are most needed. The purchases include food supplies, limited to those articles which are not perishable, warm bedding and other necessities.

THANKSGIVING

The Governor General of this great Country of ours has called upon a prosperous people to pause for a day of Thanksgiving, and there is nation-wide response.

We have much to be thankful for, as a nation and as individuals. Rich Crops have been harvested throughout the land, and it is to be sincerely hoped that there is no one in this community, no matter how humble or poor, who will fail to find something for which to be thankful.

And while we as a people pause for a day to give thanks for prosperity that is ours, let us not forget those who in other lands are suffering from want caused by the ravishes of war, but let us share with them a portion of our prosperity in this their time of need.

It has been a splendidly prosperous year with this store, and our gratification is the more complete because of our sincere belief that our customers have received at our hands full and overflowing returns in intrinsic value and service in all their trading with us.

STORE CLOSED ALL DAY TODAY.
