RESIDENTS FEAR AWFUL TRAGEDY

Weymouth, N. S., July 15.—The mystery surrounding the horse and carriage found in the woods at Burton settlement is still unsolved, and is anything growing deeper. Your representative went to the scene this morning. The horse and carriage are still in the woods where found, but the harness and articles have been removed and are now in the possession of Charles Sprague. Although the news did not reach town until late Tuesday, the discovery was made last Friday, and a persistent search on the part of several of the residents of the district has been kept up since.

Noticed Strange Horse Quite early Friday morning a young man passing what is known as Sprague's mill lot noticed a strange horse standing near the bars. He thought nothing of it at the time, but the same evening casually asked Mr. Sprague whose horse he was pasturing in the old mill lot. Mr. Sprague replied "No one." This led to a search being made, and next morning the carriage was found deep in the woods between the mill road and the Sissaboo River and about 125 feet away from the old mill pond on the McCann Brook tributary of the river.

The carriage was formerly a covered buggy, but the cover had been removed. There is no name plate on it, and there is nothing to distinguish it from another carriage which has had equally hard usage except that the shaft had been broken and spliced and that the steps were of rather an unusual checkered pattern. It is covered with mud and looks as though it has come a long distance. Jack McConnell, who lives nearest to the scene, is well acquainted with the Nova Scotia roads and pointed out to your correspondent that the mud with which it was covered was similar to that which would be picked up near Palmouth and several other localities in Hants county.

Next day about 100 feet away from the carriage in the opposite direction from the harness and under a rock, Mr. McConnell found a lap robe, woman's parasol, man's mits and an oil coat, monkey wrench and oil can. These latter were very carefully concealed, and unless one had been looking for something of this kind could not have been found except by accident.

Residents Terrified The residents of the locality are sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Changes of water and climate often cause sudden attacks of cholera, and it is best to be prepared.

TOO TIGHT A SQUEEZE John Plake, the historian, was a man of enormous stature and extremely sensitive about any reference to his unusual size. On one occasion when he was visiting a friend at his home in a beautiful town in Connecticut the hostess and her daughter invited Mr. Plake to drive with them one morning. The road is a picturesque one, which winds along the river at the foot of the mountains. At one point the hostess suggested that the party alight and walk a short distance through the field to get a particularly attractive view. Around this field was a high fence with no opening but a narrow stile. The ladies passed through and turned to wait for their guest. For a moment he contemplated the opening. To squeeze through was impossible; to climb over was equally impracticable. Finally his deep bass voice broke the silence, "Ladies, I think we would better continue our drive."

HAMMERSTEIN TESTS 1000 VOICES AT CHORUS TRIAL

Screeches, Howls and Sweet Notes Heard All Day Long—Eighty-Three Chosen for a Second Chance.

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—Impressario Hammerstein has said that the pathway of the grand opera producers is strewn with paranoiacs, neurotics and near-lunatics. That thought in strong language at the time. The finished product at Hammerstein's Philadelphia Opera House seemed too ridiculous, too ridiculously beautiful to eye and ear to make credible any statement that it lived upon men's nervous systems and left skeletons behind it. But yesterday the truth was revealed. Hammerstein, as usual, was right. Grand opera in the making is terrible. It eats into the nerves. It pairs digestion, shakes the ordinary physical constitution to the bottom rocks. One small detail of the mighty operation received a bit of tinkering by the wizard impresario, and after 1,000 men and women's voices had shouted up and down the scale, every one within earshot was dancing around with the fidgets. Every one except Oscar Hammerstein, whose nerves seemed to be as tough as wire and whose disposition is as placid as a millpond. It was a good illustration of why the operatic path is decorated with the graves of men, while Oscar travels smiling on.

'BIG CHIEF' HEARS 'EM. These 1,000 persons were candidates for the chorus of the Hammerstein opera in the city next season. Each one of them had to be heard and adjudged by the "Big Chief" himself, whose energy knows no slack and who never delegates even such a task to a subordinate. The trials, which took place on the stage of the Philadelphia Opera House and which lasted from 10 o'clock in the morning until 2 in the afternoon, were a revelation of the concentration of Hammerstein upon every detail of his mammoth organization. And they were filled with the eternal comedy and pathos of ability of all grades striving to "make good" and to impress itself upon the man with the power either to turn it into gold or reject it.

Men and women with gray hair mingled with smartly dressed girls and youths, while here and there in the waiting line a man with a child on his back and a woman with a child on her back were seen. The factory and the department store, the fruit stand and the typewriting desk all contributed to that little army, who dreamed overnight of the warm glow of opera night and the thundering applause of imaginary jewel-bedecked audiences. That was the dream. How different the actuality! There was nothing ethereal or insubstantial about the budding stars. The big auditorium of the brilliant house was swarmed with the white and black of linen. The stage was cleared and looked much like a barn floor. Bits of scenery, scenery side sets, added to the confusion.

GREAT VARIETY OF VOICES. There were two tables, one for Hammerstein and another for his clerks. A piano completed the stage properties. Most of the men in charge were required to quit the rehearsal and no attempt to create artistic atmosphere. In short everything that had to do with the scale and try to imagine that he or she was singing to a throng of enraptured auditors.

That was hard enough for the singers. It was particularly hard for Oscar Hammerstein, whose ear has been attuned these many years to the finest singing in the world. As early as 9 o'clock they began to gather in response to a modest little sign in the newspapers, and Carle's street resembled a real opera night. The service of the police were required to quit the rehearsal and no attempt to create artistic atmosphere. In short everything that had to do with the scale and try to imagine that he or she was singing to a throng of enraptured auditors.

TOO TIGHT A SQUEEZE John Plake, the historian, was a man of enormous stature and extremely sensitive about any reference to his unusual size. On one occasion when he was visiting a friend at his home in a beautiful town in Connecticut the hostess and her daughter invited Mr. Plake to drive with them one morning. The road is a picturesque one, which winds along the river at the foot of the mountains. At one point the hostess suggested that the party alight and walk a short distance through the field to get a particularly attractive view. Around this field was a high fence with no opening but a narrow stile. The ladies passed through and turned to wait for their guest. For a moment he contemplated the opening. To squeeze through was impossible; to climb over was equally impracticable. Finally his deep bass voice broke the silence, "Ladies, I think we would better continue our drive."

OSCAR'S ANGER ROUSED. But the wrath of the impresario served him better than could be imagined. Both his ears and his intelligence were several times so grossly insulted that he rebelled. One pale, wan youth, with a "hay rick head of hair" and trousers turned half way to his knees, disclosing lavender socks, simply vibrated at the piano. His lower jaw dropped, his chest was strained taut in one mighty endeavor to peal forth the burst that would thrill the world, and there pealed out a quavering semi-whisper, sans tone, sans voice, sans beauty—sans everything.

LORD AVEBURY'S BUDGET SCHEME

Thinks the Morrison Million Windfall Should Count—Chancellor's Reply.

(Lloyd's News.) Lord Avebury, the well known financier, who took part in the City meeting of protest against the Budget, has accepted Mr. Lloyd-George's challenge to show another way of raising the money required to meet the nation's liabilities. Writing on Monday the Budget, he declared the new land taxes and the proposed increase in the income tax unnecessary, and would bring in far more in the future than required. He pointed out that since the Budget speech the Chancellor of the Exchequer had had a windfall of £1,000,000, including the additional £1,000,000 of the Morrison Million Windfall.

Table with financial figures: Reduction of Sinking Fund £1,000,000, Income tax £1,000,000, Stamp £1,000,000, Windfall £1,000,000. Total £4,000,000.

In conclusion Lord Avebury said that the new taxes to which he had referred might be dispensed with. Mr. Lloyd-George replied to this letter on Wednesday and said that Avebury's suggestions as a change from the destructive criticism which had been aimed at the Budget. The Chancellor points out, however, that in estimating the yield of the taxes proposed in the Finance Bill, Lord Avebury had estimated the estimated yield for 1909-10 with the estimate of the ultimate yield in a full year.

"In the current year," he goes on, "I cannot count on obtaining more than £600,000 from the additional stamp duties, which do not come into force until the Finance Bill has received the Royal Assent, or more than £1,000,000 from the additional £1 on the Income Tax, allowing for the proposed abatement, in respect of children.

Table with financial figures: Indirect taxes £1,000,000, Income tax £1,000,000, Stamp £1,000,000. Total £3,000,000.

"Apart, therefore, from the 'windfall' to which he refers, I should only have £1,700,000 to meet an estimated deficiency of £1,700,000, even if I allow nothing for contingencies. And as regards the alleged 'windfall,' I must point out that it would be very unsafe so early in the year to revise the estimate of the estate duty on the strength of a single death. It is too soon to prophesy that the law of averages will not reassert itself."

Mr. Lloyd-George, in conclusion, said that taking a necessary margin for contingencies he would be left with a deficit of £1,000,000 under Lord Avebury's scheme. Nor would there be an increased productivity the following financial year to meet the extra charges for the Navy and old age pensions.

Before the largest crowd yet assembled the City Cornet Band rendered an exceptionally fine programme last night on King Square. Many visitors expressed their appreciation in a marked fashion.

CONGRESS WILL DISCUSS INTERESTING SUBJECTS

The council of the Board of Trade met yesterday forenoon to confirm the appointment of W. F. Hatheway, M. P., and James Pender as delegates from the local board to the 7th Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire to be held in Sydney, Australia, commencing September 14th. Mr. Hatheway goes via New York and San Francisco and will make a tour of the world before returning, while Mr. Pender will leave by steamer direct from Vancouver.

Following are a list of the subjects to be discussed at the Congress: Commercial Relations Between the Mother Country, Her Colonies and Dependencies. Imperial Preferential Trade. Preferential Treatment of the Colonies. Naval Defense of the Empire. Defense of the Empire. Imperial Council. Parcel Post Rates. Taxation of Commercial Travelers. Taxation of British Travelers in the Colonies. Duty on Commercial Traders' Samples. Colonial Duties on Catalogues. Emigration. Encouragement of British Emigration. Merchandise Marks. Weights, Measures and Currency. Telegraphic Communication. Validity of English Arbitration Awards. Validity of English judgments in the Colonies. Certificate of Origin or Declaration of Origin of Goods Shipped to the Colonies. British Standard Tubes and Threads. Labor Conciliation. Lighthouse on the Snares. Lighthouse at Cocos Island. Lighthouse at Phoenix Island. Prevention of Tuberculosis. Jail Manufactures. The Excise Duty on Cotton Cloth Manufactured by Indian Power Looms. Sea Carriage of Goods. A special meeting of the board will probably be held to discuss these subjects, which are of importance to Canada, before the delegates leave in order that they may have the opinion of the board before discussing them at the congress.

The council has appointed a special committee to again urge upon the Common Council the importance of arranging either through the department of public works of Canada or the Canadian Pacific Railway for elevated facilities at berths Nos. 5, 6 and 7 in time for next winter's business. The firm of Puddington, Wetmore and Morrison was substituted for the name of A. H. Wetmore on the board's membership roll, and H. P. Robinson was recommended for election to the board at its next regular meeting.

At a meeting of the harbor board held yesterday afternoon it was practically decided to shelve the proposition of P. C. Durant in the matter of obtaining a site for a manufacturing industry. The committee will recommend that Mr. Durant be advised that there is at present no site available for the purposes of a plant such as he proposed. While the matter was somewhat gingerly handled, it is generally conceded that the action of the committee of yesterday will effectively dispose of the intentions of the promoter in the direction of St. John. The meeting was called chiefly for the purpose of discussing the proposed agreement with the C. P. R. in the matter of the transfer of fore shore lots at Sand Point. Certain sections of a draft agreement prepared by the recorder were discussed and modifications in their regard suggested, but there was no definite action taken and the matter remains over for final disposal on Tuesday next.

The recent repairs to the ferry boats was a subject that required a somewhat lengthy discussion. A number of aldermen hold that the city has been paying too much for its reconstruction work and in consequence of this it was decided that a pile driver be purchased and that hereafter the work be undertaken by the department itself. The fishermen of the West Side have certain representations to the meeting, protesting against the dredging now being prosecuted at Sand Point. This they claim is interfering with the salmon fishing which is now at its height. The matter was referred to the recorder for purpose of ascertaining the legal status of the city in its regard.

WINTER STREET SCHOOL IS COMING ALONG WELL

Five Rooms Will be Used Next Term—Changes in the Fire Escape Plans at the High School.

Satisfactory progress has been made at the erection of the Winter street school annex. The contractors are now laying the floors. The painting will shortly be completed. The addition to the school consists of eight rooms. Five rooms will be used after the summer vacation. The furniture will be placed during the course of the next few weeks.

It is planned by the buildings committee of the School Board to make a few alterations in the arrangements of the fire escape system at the High School building, in the rear of the large exhibition hall two emergency exits will be placed. These will lead to the roof of the lavatory. The changes will be made during the present vacation.

CITY WANTS DREDGE TO HURRY UP

West Side Wharves Being Kept Idle and Revenue Being Lost to Spill Consequence of Dredge.

The city is anxious to have the dredging at the Sand Point slip either done or postponed to a definite date. At present the berths are standing idle and the city is losing the revenue that is offered in order that the slip may be ready whenever the dredge happens to want to use it. The dredge at present has the contract for this work and apparently is trying to keep the work in the slip for the days when it is too rough to work outside. This policy does not appeal to the aldermen, and a request is to be made to the Dominion department of public works to make some better arrangements.

The basin is to be dredged throughout to a depth of thirty-three feet. This will give sufficient water for the biggest vessels that are likely to use the wharves for some time, and will probably result in the discovery of some more big buildiers.

At present berths No. 5 and No. 6 need some work to bring their bottoms to a uniform level with the other slips.

WILL TAKE TIME TO GET AGREEMENT IN SHAPE

For Transfer of West Side Harbor Lots—Almost Everyone Will Have a Chance to Grilliose It.

Recorder Skinner is now engaged in revising the agreement under which the harbor properties at West St. John are to be transferred to the government in accordance with the negotiations made at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

When completed the draft will be again submitted to the Harbor Board. If it meets with approval on its next appearance the board will probably arrange for a conference with the C. P. B. officials to see if the terms meet with the approval of the railway. A copy will also be sent in all probability to the Minister of Public Works in order that he may make any further suggestions.

Finally after everyone has submitted all the criticisms that can be made the draft will again come before the Harbor Board for a final revision before being submitted to the Common Council for adoption. This will not be for some time yet.

THREE HUNDRED KILLED BY EARTHQUAKE IN GREECE

LONDON, July 15.—Special despatches received here from Athens say that 300 persons were killed or injured by the earthquake that occurred yesterday in the Province of Elis, in Southern Greece. The damage to property also was very great.

Hot water flowing while the water in the rivers and brooks has turned a reddish color.

HIS TIME NEARLY UP

In April last at the meeting of the Liquor License Commissioners for the county of St. John to consider the application, it was decided not to renew the license of Hugh J. McCormick. The commissioners extended his license for a period of three months, so that the first of August next, Mr. McCormick will have forfeited his right to sell at the Three Mile House. It is understood, however, that he has been given a beer license for the sale of temperance drinks.

The county authorities are evidently determined to put a stop to any violation of the act. Constable Taylor of Fairville recently visited a number of road houses. It could not be ascertained whether or not he secured any information to place a charge.
