BISHOP WILLIAMS ASKS IMMIGRATION BAN

City Street Car Company Wins 'Fare Boost Plea'

FLAT FIVE-CENT RATE APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

Bill Strenuously Opposed By London Council When Considered in Ontario House.

VOTE STANDS 31 TO 13

Alderman Ashplant Raps Brackin's Right To Sponsor Measure.

Toronto, April 25.—The private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature today reported favorably on the London Street Railway bill, which will enable the company to charge a flat five-cent fare instead of the present rate of seven ordinary tickets or nine workmen's tickets for 25 cents.

The bill was strenuously opposed by the London city council, which took the position that the company paid nothing for the use of streets and gave very poor service. It was argued that the city had a valuable contract with the company, and the Legislature should not break it up.

The company claimed it was unable to operate without losses unless it received greater fares. The vote in favor of increase of fares to 5c stood at 13. The bill was amended, however, to provide that the rate of fare may be changed by the railway and municipal board, if it seems advisable, from time to time, on application either of the city council or the railway company.

The bill was also amended so that the increased fare will not add to the cost of the railway, should the city decide to take it over in the future.

R. L. Brackin, M. L. A. for South Kent, introduced the bill, and J. C. Elliott, explained that the object of the bill was to increase the rates of fare on the railway to a flat five cents, except in the case of children under ten years of age.

The present fare is seven regular tickets for 25c, and nine workmen's tickets for 25c. The company is operating under a franchise, noted in 1895 which fixed these rates. Mr. Elliott claimed to operate the company when wages and other costs were low, are now insufficient to enable the company to carry on without suffering losses.

"Would you be prepared to let the city take over the railway at the present time?" Charles McCrea asked.

"Anything would be better than the present situation," replied Mr. Elliott, who continued that the railway company would be prepared to sell out to the city at once. "There is no other street railway in the North American continent, operated with lower fares as this one," Mr. Elliott said.

Mr. Elliott claimed it was impossible under the present rates for the company to make improvements. He said the clause inserted in the bill would protect the city in case it took over the railroad, for having to pay a higher price for the road as a result of this bill.

Mr. Elliott remarked that a five-cent fare was the lowest on which the company could operate and make ends meet. He said the committee would be delighted with the present rates in vogue on the Toronto street railway. There was considerable comment on the statement.

Mr. Elliott said the London city was licensing motor busses which he claimed were in opposition to the electric railway.

"I'll Burn With Her," Quotes Actor as Sweet-heart Succumbs in Fire

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 25.—Miss Una Carpenter, leading woman in a Hawaiian musical comedy company which has been playing the smaller cities, is dead at Kingston, 16 miles north of here, from burns received Friday night, when her costumes, made largely of straw, caught fire. Lester Smith, her leading man on the stage, and her fiancé in private life, had just reached his lines: "If she can't go with me, I'll stay and burn with her," when he heard a scream from her dressing-room. He ran from the stage and found Miss Carpenter enveloped in flames, which he quickly extinguished, but not before she had been fatally burned.

SEARCH FOR SURVIVORS OF BOAT BELIEVED LOST

Tug Combs Lake Superior For Wreckage Of Light Tender.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 25.—The tug G. R. Gray was in Lake Superior today searching for wreckage of survivors of the small light tender Lambton, believed by mariners to have foundered with 17 men during the severe storm of last week.

This belief was strengthened last night with the passing of the Midland Prince, the crew of which saw the Lambton as she was battling with the huge waves last Wednesday. Both vessels were near Caribou Island when the gale overtook them.

The master of the Midland Prince described it as the worst storm he ever had experienced. Shortly after it descended the light tender disappeared, but the Midland Prince's crew could not say for a certainty that the smaller craft had foundered. No downed vessels have reported sighting wreckage since the passing of the Collingwood and the Valcartier Sunday night.

A high wind Monday loosened the ice in the region of Whitefish Point, and the freighters held there since the middle of last week moved out to clear water.

The department of marine and fisheries at Ottawa has not so far been able to secure any definite word of the light tender Lambton. The Lambton is a Canadian vessel belonging to the department of marine and fisheries.

Washington, April 25.—Restoration of the house tariff bill duty of 50 cents a thousand on shingles was asked in the senate finance committee today by the twenty-five senators of the Republican agricultural tariff block. Shingles are now on the free list.

6 Young Firemen Offer Selves As Sacrifice For Older Men to be 'Fired'

Chief Tells Them To Quit If They Want to, But Decrees Veterans Must Go Sooner or Later.

A committee representing six of the junior men of the fire department has made an offer to Chief John Aiken to retire from the department in order to save the older married men with families from losing their jobs when the force of the department is cut, as per the order of the mayor's salary committee.

It is said that the chief's reply was that they could quit if they wanted to, but that the men in question would have to go sooner or later. They are getting too old—they are around 40, the chief stated. He wanted to build up the department with younger men.

The decision has been reached that six men shall be dismissed, the last three taken on and three others hired during the war period. It is mostly to save the last-mentioned three that the offer was made.

All the men who are slated for dismissal are married men. Four of them are ratepayers in the city. One has four children, one three children, one two and two of them one child, and one is without children.

Some of the junior men who have offered to quit to save the married men are also married, and in one case there is a child. However, these men are young, and they state that they would have a much better chance of fitting in somewhere than

SCHOOL BOARD NEEDS $20,000 TO FINISH WORK

Chairman Silverwood Finds Out Truth of Collegiate Institute Situation.

SURPLUS VANISHES

Found $11,000 For Wrecking Old C. I. Overlooked Entirely.

The board of education will be compelled to seek the city council's approval of another immediate debt issue—from $15,000 to $20,000—to complete work yet to be accomplished in connection with the new Collegiate Institute, as well as, it is explained, cover money already expended.

Such is the report of School Trustee A. E. Silverwood, chairman of No. 3 (Collegiate Institute) committee of the board of education, who has been conducting a thorough investigation of the board's financial resources in this respect for several weeks past.

"I have now a detailed statement," Trustee Silverwood stated Tuesday, "I have been about two months endeavoring to get the complete information upon the subject. Nobody, seemingly, was able to get any data or knew anything about it. The task has been a difficult one. However, we have a report, and I will present the same at our next committee meeting after which it will go before the board for a final consideration."

"We will probably require, roughly, from $15,000 to $20,000, and shall have to ask the city council for debentures to cover this. We had been told right along that there was plenty of money available for equipment as well as construction purposes, and that we would even finish with a surplus. Now we find that it has vanished into thin air."

"It would appear that the account has been overdrawn. Certain things as we can see it, were not taken into consideration, principal among them being the cost of wrecking old college buildings, about $11,000. We'll have to have the matter squared up, however, at the next session."

The chairman points out also that there is certain work yet to be done in connection with the building and grounds, such as sodding, etc. Quite recently, considering the school, No. 3 committee before recommending additional expenditures, expressed the desire to know just what sum was yet available.

City Treasurer Bell reported that less than $300 would remain after all expenditures for construction and equipment were deducted. Another $15,000 is on hand but this is being merely withheld from the contractors to safeguard the board should any defects be noted and while the same were remedied.

The total sum set aside for the construction and equipping of the new institution was approximately $365,000, of which $65,000, it is pointed out, was received as insurance upon the old structure.

The men who have got near the 40-year-old mark and have been on the department for several years.

Some of the aldermen feel quite keenly in regard to the dismissal of married men with families, and a warm time is promised in the city council.

Under ordinary conditions, the matter of dismissal would be left entirely in the hands of the chief, just as they are in the hands of the mayor and some of the aldermen battled to leave staff reductions in the hands of the engineer, free from aldermanic interference. However, since then there has been a change of heart. Not only has the aldermen given a hand in the matter, but it was also taken out of the hands of the chief and the deputy fire chief and the several captains of the department were given a voice almost equal with the chief.

Criticism of the mayor's salary committee on this point is being freely aired. "It is being mildly described as a 'tactical error' or 'blunder'." One alderman claims that the move was made to give the fireman's union a chance in the negotiations, and this has aroused ire among some of the aldermen, who declare that unionism is undertaking a little too much in the line of dictation of late.

The matter is far from settled.

FRANCE IS AGAIN MAKING THREAT

Favors 48-Hour Ultimatum To Russia or Will Withdraw.

Tchitcherine Claims Allies' Opposition to Nationalization Principles Is Obstacle.

Genoa, April 25.—Foreign Minister Tchitcherine, of Soviet Russia, declared to the Associated Press this morning that it was allied resistance to the Russian principle of nationalization which was blocking the conference here.

"It is obvious," said M. Tchitcherine, "that the only serious obstacles to peace with Russia and general reconstruction are the pretensions of a few former owners of property in Russia."

The French delegation, says the message, has declared it would press for 48-hour ultimatum to Russia or else break from the conference altogether.

Premier Poincaré's speech created great consternation in conference circles, it is added.

The Russian minister's statement was called out by the high tension developed over Russia's claims, which are considered in some quarters as threatening to disrupt the conference.

He insisted, however, that it was the efforts of the allies to resist Russia's right to nationalize property and their attempt to infringe upon her sovereignty in that connection that were holding up the work of the experts and delaying the conference's progress.

"There is no difference between our official proposals of April 24, and my letter to Mr. Lloyd George of April 20," said M. Tchitcherine. "We merely explained and developed the fourth phrase of our note that dealing with the restoration of property to foreigners."

Mr. Lloyd George it was said that he could restore to foreigners who were former owners the use of their property where it was possible. In our proposals yesterday we explained in detail that this was possible only in cases where our social and economic system and our fundamental laws permitted it.

The conference is drifting toward the rocks again. Whether it can be kept from crashing depends upon the possibility of adjusting the new demands of the allied delegates with the position of the allied governments, who declare they will steadfastly stand by the resolutions adopted at Cannes on which the conference is founded.

The situation is made more critical by the French premier's frank warning in his address at Bar Le Duc yesterday, that France will withdraw from the conference if she is unable to see that the ideas expressed by the French cabinet before parliament can triumph.

These French desires include maintenance of war reparations figures, disarmament of all disarmament discussion, and no changing of existing treaties at Genoa. In addition, France insists on rigid adherence to the payment of Russia's pre-war debt and the restitution by the soviet of foreigners' property in Russia.

The conference of experts on the Russian question broke up yesterday and adjourned sine die because the experts representing the powers found the Russians' new set of proposals absolutely contradictory to the soviet note accepting the allies' terms as a basis for future deliberations. Yesterday the Bolsheviks announced their declaration to restore private property because everything was nationalized in Russia, but in their note of acceptance they had voiced willingness to restore such property or indemnify owners.

ADMIT GUILT IN 2 THEFT CASES

Leonard Snyder and Leo Lambton Remanded Week For Sentence.

Plead Innocence of Charge of Breaking and Entering Warehouse.

Pleading guilty to breaking into a G. T. R. warehouse and stealing a number of articles, and also to the theft of ten bags of oats and two horse blankets from the barn of W. H. Wintnett, 232 William street, Leonard Snyder, 18 years old, and Leo Lambton, 16 years old, were remanded to jail until Thursday for sentence when they appeared before Deputy Police Magistrate P. H. Bartlett in police court Tuesday morning.

The boys were also charged with breaking and entering the warehouse of J. Harris & Sons, in Chelsea Green, and taking 350 pounds of copper, valued at $50. The prisoners admitted carrying the metal out of the building, but pleaded not guilty to the charge of breaking into the place, stating that the door was half open at the time they visited the premises.

The youths were charged with the Harris robbery on April 19, and pleaded guilty to committing the Grand Trunk robbery on April 21, and the Wintnett theft on the 22nd. The police discovered much of the stolen property on Monday afternoon, the boys being arrested Monday night.

Detective Harry Down stated in court Tuesday that some of the articles stolen had been sold to another man, who, he boys alleged, knew that he was buying stolen property. This man will be brought to court, it was said.

The boys admitted taking three rubber coats, two pairs of hip rubber boots, two pairs of shoes, and a pair of gauntlets from the caboose. After reading the charge to the prisoners, Mr. Bartlett asked them how they wanted to be tried, by himself or the county judge.

"I want to be tried by Mr. Graydon," said Snyder, "and I want a remand for a week."

"I want to be tried right now," declared Lambton.

"All right, so will I," stated Snyder. Chief Bartlett asked for an adjournment till Thursday in the charge preferred against the prisoners by Sam Harris.

CLAIMS MODERN CIVILIZATION IS WITHOUT SOUL

Rev. Trevor Davis Gives Forceful Address Before Presbyterian Synod.

SYNOD UNION LAID OVER

Union Report Made, Dr. Drummond Acting As Convener.

Rev. Norman Lindsay, the newly-elected moderator, occupied the chair when the second session of the Synod of Hamilton and London opened in the First Presbyterian Church Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

"Faith and the Present World Situation" was the subject of the morning address delivered by Rev. Trevor Davis, of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, who impressed the large audience with his personality, as well as the extreme force and logic of his address. Dr. Davis is a Welshman, although he has been in Canada for a long time. He spent a portion of his twenty years of ministry in Edinburgh, so that as he expressed it, "I have come to think very highly of the Presbyterian Church, and deem it a privilege to be connected with it in any way."

In his address he struck a decided note of optimism regarding the present situation of social turmoil and strife in which the world finds itself at present. He represented men as standing on a verge of a great recovery, which was to be the redemptive Christianity.

"This age is determined that every system carry with it, its own evidence," stated Dr. Davis. "Men ask, does it stand for help and progress, and is it a solution to the present day problems. The disintegration of great systems of thought has brought about a shattering of theological and philosophical shelters, and there is crying need of the moral inspiration for reconstruction. Questions are being asked, for no matter how flip-pant this age may seem, even if it is a time of great change, men are serious in their earnest attention to find a solution for problems and a cessation for strife. Three things are asked for in modern development, a religion that is spiritual, that is ethical and that stands for redemption."

Need For Idealism. "The age is conscious of a need for idealism and the tragedy of today is that we have advanced materially more than a spiritually," and Dr. Davis drew a vivid picture of modern civilization as conceived as an enormously powerful giant, capable of any physical feat but having no soul.

Continuing he stated: "The laws of God are not remote or abstract doctrine. We are bound to learn that they are there all-pervasive, even if it is by the painful process of running against them and hurting ourselves. Men are beginning to see that materialism has not sufficient hold upon ultimate realities to enable us to build any fabric upon it. Christianity does not, however, take completely the place of materialism, it rather permeates it, that men may find substance in righteousness. The world asks for an ethical religion. The Holy Ghost is working a conviction of sin through the social breakdown and no man is satisfied with conditions as they stand today. It is necessary to go back to the point of departure to find our lost happiness and civilization, to go back to the simple faith of He who 'came not to be ministered unto, but to minister.' All the reconstruction which can be brought about by diplomacy between nations will fail unless there is a spiritual reformation to accompany it, a reformation Turn to Page 4, Column 2.

ENGLISH IMMIGRANTS FIND $250 OBSTACLE

F. B. Clarke Says Foreigners Though Are Coming and Going More Regularly.

"Very few English immigrants are coming to Canada at the present time," said F. B. Clarke, local ticket and steamship agent, to The Advertiser this morning. The reason, in Mr. Clarke's opinion, is the fact that every immigrant coming into Canada must have the equivalent of $250 in Canadian money before he can land.

The majority of foreigners, pointed out Mr. Clarke, are very comfortably situated financially before they set sail, and so have no difficulty whatever in entering the country.

"You know," said Mr. Clarke, "when a foreigner takes a notion to save money, he does it with a vengeance. Some of the foreign immigrants that come to this country are very restless, and while in Canada, they are all the time striving to make a fortune, and return to their own lands as sailing for Poland on the C. P. S. Montclair on May 5. Not many Italians are going over this time of year, the majority of those sailing being English people going to the old country for their vacation."

"The tourist trade isn't as heavy as last year," Mr. Clarke concluded, "but it is a little early yet for tourists, June and July are their months for sailing."

Marjorie Bremner, 14, Dies After Gallant, Long Drawn-Out Fight

Uncle, Russell Knight, and Her Older Brother, Reginald, Gave Blood for Transfusion To Aid Little Patient in Struggle.

After a gallant fight for life, extending over several weeks, Marjorie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Bremner, 528 Talbot street, who had just passed her fourteenth birthday, died Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Always a delicate child, a couple of months ago she underwent an operation for the removal of tonsils and adenoids. Septic poisoning developed and she became so weakened that it was decided to try blood transfusion in hope of saving her life. Russell Knight, uncle of the little girl, a member of this year's graduating class of the Western Medical College, offered to give his blood to help his suffering niece. She rallied for a few days, when it became apparent that the only hope lay in repeating the experiment. Her older brother, Reginald, a Collegiate student, gave the second transfusion. For a week there was marked improvement, then abscesses formed in her broken succession until her vitality was completely exhausted.

Attending the Talbot Street School, Marjorie was a great favorite with her young classmates, and the brightest spots in her illness were the messages and remembrances sent in from them, especially the Easter lilies and other Easter favors. She also attended the Wellington Street Methodist Sunday School.

In addition to her father, who is in the railway mail service, and her mother, she is survived by an older brother, Reginald, and younger sister, Sadie. The remains will be taken to Brantford for interment in the family plot on Thursday morning, a service to be conducted previous to this at the house by Rev. George T. Watt, pastor of Wellington Street Methodist Church.

WOULD ALLOW ONLY BRITISH TO ENTER LAND

Fears Foreign Element in West Will Injure Canadian National Life.

SIFTS SCHOOL TAX ISSUE

Declares Theosophical Society Aims Innocent, But Teaching of Founders Not.

Immigration from the United States and all other foreign countries ought to be stopped for a period of years to prevent the estrangement of the west from the rest of Canada and the Empire, Right Rev. David Williams, bishop of the Diocese of Huron, declared in his charge to the Anglican Synod at Cronyn Hall Tuesday. And he urged re-doubling of efforts to fill the west with settlers from the British Isles, contending that the presence there in large numbers of the foreign-born element, which brought to the country anti-British prejudices, was injuring the national life.

Bishop Williams dealt at considerable length with the separate school tax issue, claiming that it was hard to see how they can claim more than they now enjoy." He advocated a referendum of the people of Ontario as the only means of finally settling the matter.

A warning against "the danger to Christians from the habit of Theosophists of using Christian language in a non-Christian sense" was sounded. The bishop explained that the "aims of the Theosophical Society may be innocent enough, but the teaching of its founders was not."

"From a diocesan point of view, the year 1921 stands out as remarkable for three things," said the bishop. "First, the number of candidates confirmed was the largest in any one year in the history of the diocese, the total being 2,114; secondly, the revenue was larger by $5,000 than in any previous year; and thirdly, for the first time in our history we paid in full our apportionment to the M. S. C. C. The financial statement was most satisfactory."

The obligations for the next year, however, were going to be $9,000 greater than in 1921. The analysis of giving by parishes and deaneries showed a decidedly upward tendency: 75 congregations paying the budget in full in 1921, as against 54 in 1920, and only 21 paying nothing against 33 the year before.

Then followed a list of the congregations paying the budget in full, and a table illustrating the giving in every deanery in the diocese. The deaneries, with the highest percentage of giving were: Lambton, 96 per cent; Elgin, 94 per cent; and North, 83 per cent. To raise the extra amounts needed for 1922 the bishop urged that there must be plan and there must be work; people must remember that the apportionment is a minimum, not a maximum, and the budget and local expenses must be put on an equality as to obligations.

"Let no one think," said the bishop, "that the discussion of ways and means is worldly work or unspiritual. Nothing can be farther from the truth and from the teaching of Christ and his apostles. To organize for the securing of means for the service of Christ is just as spiritual work as praying for the extension of his kingdom. The prayer, without the practical effort, is a mockery."

Would Pick Committee. The bishop then gave some figures as to the forward movement subscriptions. The total subscribed was $442,463.25; paid to date, $387,025.23, leaving unpaid a balance of $55,438.02. He advised the appointment of a committee to take up the final collections after the central office in Toronto is closed at the end of the year.

A change had taken place in the manner of making the M. S. C. C. apportionment, according to which each diocese was appealed to assess itself according to its standing in the church, and its past giving.

This principle of self-assessment depended for its success upon every diocese having the ambition to do its utmost. Otherwise it must fail. The apportionments remain unchanged for three years. In response to this new appeal the budget and executive committees had accepted $30,000 as our apportionment for this diocese.

Then the bishop urged the reform of the general synod departments, which, he said, were cumbersome and expensive. A gathering of the synod, he said, numbered about 340 members, while the general synod itself only numbered 250.

"Would it not be better to have the synod meet every year and have only an executive committee for each department?"

"But it is not necessary for the general synod to meet every year," he said, "because we have in the executive council a body now ready to hand, fitted admirably by financial endowment to do the work."

The bishop also urged the reform of the representation on the executive committee of the diocese.

HEAD PROGRAM OF GRAND VAUDEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Darrow Offer
Clever Imitations of Animals.

VIVIAN MARTIN PLEASURES

Appears in Leading Role of Charming Pictorial Comedy, "Pardon My French."

A bill that could only be described as fair greeted a large audience at the Grand Theatre Monday night. For actual merit, as far as the five vaudeville acts were concerned, the offering of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Darrow was outstanding.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrow are both experts at making finger shadows, and their imitations of various animals is exceedingly good. So supple are Mr. Darrow's fingers that not only can he present most curious and diverse figures, but he is able to give the shadow figures motion and life. The smoke pictures were cleverly executed, the act deserving all the applause it got and more.

The Starkey Trio, with a variety musical offering, are fair, as are Bailey and Lapree in a dancing act.

Miller and Young have several good songs and a little bit of comedy. Pat Dalton, billed as a comedian, rounds out the bill as far as the vaudeville is concerned.

Vivian Martin, always a favorite on the screen with London audiences, is just as vivacious as ever in the leading role of "Pardon My French." The picture is a comedy, which gives Miss Martin ample scope, the scenes being laid all the way from Kansas to New York, with a trip on a barge and the trials and tribulations of a broken down theatrical company in for good measure.

The plot deals to a large extent with the efforts of a Kansas farmer and his family to break into the society life of the east. Miss Martin taking the part of a lady's maid to the wife of the agriculturist who has made his money in oil stock.

16 CHILDREN NO EXCUSE.

HAMILTON, April 24.—James Thompson, 23 Edgar street, pleaded guilty to operating a still at this address, but pleaded that he had sixteen children.

"I don't care if he has 500 children," said Magistrate Jelfs. "The sentence in all such cases is the same—two months in jail and a fine of $500."

World News CUT SHORT

LONDON, April 24.—A grant of $25,000 made to Admiral Nelson after the battle of Trafalgar and extended to his descendants, is still continued, the chancellor of the exchequer told a questioner in the House of Commons.

The grant thus far has cost the government $3,000,000.

COPENHAGEN, April 24.—A Helmsfors dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company states that the North Mongolian government, in Urga, at the instigation of the Moscow government, has proclaimed Mongolia's independence of China.

The Urga government, says the message, also has concluded a treaty with the Russian Soviet government under which the latter pledges active support to Mongolia in the event of a Chinese invasion.

LONDON, April 24.—Although official statements by the Russian Soviet government have reported Premier Lenin's health satisfactory, he continues to keep away from state affairs, says a Reval dispatch to the London Times.

M. Tsurupoff, who has hitherto acted for Lenin as president of the council of people's commissars, was taken ill on April 8 and has been succeeded by the first vice-president, L. Rykov, who is also assistant president of the council of labor and defence.

BUENOS AIRES, April 24.—Professor George S. Nicolai of the University of Berlin and his party were allowed to Monrovia from the German steamship Kohn last night after having been detained on board since the vessel's arrival from Bremen on Thursday.

The immigration authorities said they desired to investigate reports of advanced ideas in Bolshevik tendencies. Further delay was caused by the fact that the passports held by the members of the party had not been vided by the Argentine consulate in Berlin.

PARIS, April 24.—The wife of Dr. Leblois, a physician living in a beautiful chateau near Angers, was recently found to have forged the number of a lottery ticket in her possession in order to profit by a prize of 500,000 francs, which she hoped to add to her daughter's dowry. When she attempted to cash it at a bank the forgery was of course discovered immediately and a judicial inquiry was opened.

Yesterday the magistrate decided to arrest Mme. Leblois. When she reached her husband he was so distressed that he had to be taken to a hospital, where he died next morning from nervous shock.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 24.—

NEW YORK, April 24.—J. P. Morgan & Co. announced late today that it would offer tomorrow a $100,000,000 government loan for the Dominion of Canada.

The bonds will bear 5 per cent interest and run for a period of 30 years, the Canadian government reserving the right to recall them in 20 years. They will be offered at par and interest.

The proceeds will be used by the Canadian government to refund the existing debt of the Dominion.

A Turkish woman has been given the rank of lieutenant in the Nationalist army, earning her promotion in action against the Greeks, says an Ankara dispatch. This is the highest rank ever held in the Turkish army by a woman.

Fatma, the woman in question, was a corporal when she led a patrol composed almost entirely of women in an attack on the enemy's rear and returned with twenty-five prisoners, including an officer.

Battalions of women were created last year and have shown great bravery and suffered heavy casualties.

BERLIN, April 24.—Anton Lang, the potter of Oberammergau, who plays the role of Christ in the Passion Play and is also chairman of the village council, said today: "We will never consent to having the Passion Play filmed, even if the bids are raised to 100,000,000 marks or more."

WARSAW, April 24.—Gold bars, diamonds and other precious stones valued at 10,000,000 gold rubles, or approximately $5,000,000, have been received by the Polish government from Soviet Russia instead of the rolling stock due Poland by virtue of the Riga peace treaty of 1921.

This is the second installment, the first payment of gold and precious stones having been made last December.

The shipment came in special cars conveyed by armed guards and upon its arrival in Warsaw the gold and stones were placed in vaults of the Polish government bank.

EXHIBITS OF WAR PICTURES PLEASE

Official Photographs and Reproductions of Memorial Paintings Shown in London.

ALL CORPS REPRESENTED

Nicholas Wilson Chapter Brings Interesting Collection to City to Aid Children's Hospital.

Much interest has been awakened in London and district in the exhibit of Canadian official war photographs and reproductions of war memorial paintings, "a photographic history of Canada in the war," which will be on view this week, commencing Wednesday, in the former Nordheimer store on Dundas street, two doors west of the Majestic Theatre.

It is said that this Canadian war memorial collection of photographs and colored reproductions of paintings constitute unquestionably the most interesting record of any country's share in the great war. More than 1,000 photographs have been selected from a collection of 5,000, taken by expert photographers of the war office, hence, each and every one bears the stamp of authenticity.

A wonderful life is presented to the eye of the life of Canadian soldiers, beginning when the Canadians arrived in France in 1915, and continuing to the finish of 1918 from Ypres to the Rhine.

Practically the whole activity of Canada in the war is thus covered, field, navy and flying corps.

Wherever they are shown they make a special appeal to ex-service men and their families, nurses, and those who were vitally, personally interested in Canada's part in the great conflict.

The exhibition has been brought here under the auspices of the War Memorial Children's Hospital committee, with the Nicholas Wilson (educational) Chapter logically assuming the responsibility of the conveyance.

The hospital will reap the benefit of a percentage on the sale of the photographs and reproductions, as well as otherwise through the exhibition.

When I'm a man Daddy—

"When I'm a man, Daddy, will you be old like Grand-dad?"

Naturally I smiled at that question, but his next remark was not so amusing.

"I'm just eleven now, but in ten years I'll be a man," he said.

That's right! If ten short years could change my boy into a man, what effect would they have upon a middle-aged man like me?

I had always said I would reach old age with a substantial sum of ready cash—but when was I to begin? Getting our home together took all my first savings. My wife and I started to save a little—but when the kiddies came we weren't able to save, and for some time now we have been living up to my income.

When would I start to save and lay the foundation for the future? If ever I am to save, I must start now. This I realized, the very night my boy asked—"Will you be old like.....?"

The following morning I called at The Huron & Erie to open a Savings Account. I must confess my heart was heavy, for it seemed such a late beginning. I wondered how long I could keep the money on deposit without yielding to some temptation to use it. One of their officers called my attention to The Huron & Erie Insured Savings Account. He said it was planned for folks earning average wages. He gave me one of their booklets, "$1,000 For You." Needless to say I read it from cover to cover. In it I found the solution to my problem.

Here's the plan: I set my objective at $1,000. I make a monthly deposit of $9.35—the amount for age 36. At the end of 120 months I reach my goal.

While making my deposits my goal—$1,000—is insured. Had I died even the day after the first deposit was made and the application accepted, my wife would have received $1,000 in cash. If I live and make the 120 deposits I not only receive $1,150, but in addition the accumulated dividends and the interest thereon.

The Huron & Erie is back of the Savings Account. The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada guarantees the Insurance. The combined assets of these two strong institutions are over Seventy Million Dollars.

It's the best plan I know of for making systematic savers of folks like me.

Call at our nearest branch. Telephone or write for our booklet, "$1,000 For You." It answers any question you may ask about the plan.

IGNORES STORY ABOUT STRANGER OWNING LIQUOR

Magistrate Imposes Fine on Kitchener Poolroom Proprietor.

Special to London Advertiser. KITCHENER, April 24.—A King street poolroom owner was charged in police court this morning with having liquor in other than a private dwelling, a hand grip containing several bottles of beer and a single bottle of whiskey having been found near the soft drink counter.

The liquor measured fairly high in proof spirit, and was pronounced to be good stuff by the license officials. In defence it was claimed that an unknown party had left the grip there, saying he would call later.

"It is the most unsatisfactory answer I ever heard," said Crown Attorney Bowly. "It is inconceivable that a man would leave such valuable things as good beer and whiskey there. They are like money nowadays."

Magistrate Weir disbelieved the story and fined him $200 and costs or three months in jail.

FAVOR NAME OF MOTHERS' CLUBS

Union Meeting Hears Debate On Change in Cognomen.

"Home and School" Wins Argument, But Sympathy With Old Name.

Which shall it be, Mothers or Home and School Club? Shall the historic name of "Mothers," persisting through seventeen years since the formation in this city of pioneer clubs for the province, to promote co-operation between home and school, be changed to the one by which the provincial federation is known, Home and School?

This was the subject which was eloquently discussed on Monday evening at the quarterly meeting of the Union Mothers' Club, with Mrs. Miller of St. George's, Mothers' Club, and Principal D. J. Ferguson of the Victoria school, staunchly standing for the "good old name," and Mrs. Alex. Harvey, Jun., of Talbot street and Principal D. J. Ferguson of Holy Memorial school, offering reasons for a change, in the interests of advancement, broader service and uniformity with the provincial and national movement soon to be.

The motive for the discussion was to present the case clearly before the Mothers' Club members without any idea of a decision at the present, or probably for some time to come. For this reason the debate was not a formal one. There were no judges, no summing up of points, no rendering of a decision. The weight of argument lay with the advocates of change to "Home and School" or "Parents-Teachers," as more inclusive than "Mothers." The sympathy of the meeting, two hundred or so strong, representing a membership in the city of a thousand mothers, was apparently on the side of sentiment, retaining the name "Mothers," judging by distribution of applause.

Mrs. Bull Speaks. Mrs. H. W. Bull of Windsor, president of the Border Cities Home and School Federation, brought the testimony of her experience to bear on the side of "Home and School" when introduced and asked to say a few words.

"We received our first inspiration for our organization from the London Mothers' Club, through a nurse who came from London and told us about your pioneer organization," she said. "But a year ago Easter we changed the name, and have made great advancement since that time. The Home and School more adequately expresses the idea for which the organization stands. As both a mother and a member of the Home and School Federation, I feel that any husband or father, who with me care and training of the children in the home, and I feel the co-operation of the fathers is needed in the same way in the organization. The Home and School is more inclusive than the Home and School, and I feel the co-operation of the fathers is needed in the same way in the organization. The Home and School is more inclusive than the Home and School, and I feel the co-operation of the fathers is needed in the same way in the organization."

"We have changed the name, but we still receive inspiration from the London Mothers' Club. You do not need an assent to change your organization simply because you change the name to be in line with the provincial organization." Principal D. J. Ferguson's strong appeal was, "We must place our child before everything else, sentiment, or anything else. Parents must join with the school to help along the child. We have done well in London with the Mothers' Clubs. Can we not do a little better?"

Reads Paper. Mrs. H. W. Paddell, recording secretary, read a paper prepared by Mrs. Miller, urging that the name "Mothers' Club" be retained, first because it was the name used in the difficult pioneering days. It had come to stand for something definite, of traditional value in London. Mrs. Miller didn't believe the name Mothers' Club had ever kept that any husband or father, who with me care and training of the children in the home, and I feel the co-operation of the fathers is needed in the same way in the organization. The Home and School is more inclusive than the Home and School, and I feel the co-operation of the fathers is needed in the same way in the organization."

She quoted Premier E. C. Dmy in his address to the O. E. A. "Teachers depend largely on the community supporting them." They needed fathers as well as mothers, she said, yet the mothers clubs would shut the fathers out and give to the teachers a one-sided community. The fathers, she declared, needed the prestige of belonging to the home and school organization. The children shouldn't feel that the mothers had the monopoly of interest in their welfare.

The world was changing, and the form of the organization should be made to keep pace with changing conditions. Special emphasis was laid on the need of co-operation of fathers with the schools in the adolescent or high school age. Should fathers of London be kept out of the provincial home-school federation and the Dominion-to-be, simply because of clinging to tradition in the London clubs?

Would Retain Old Name.

Principal E. H. McKone based his reasons for maintaining the name "Mothers' Clubs" on "two fundamental, natural, divine laws."

In the first place, the clubs had grown steadily, regularly, according to divine laws of growth on which the universe is founded. In the second place, nature presented to the mothers the care of the children in the earlier years. Mr. McKone hoped to establish a consummation in Victorian London, and a report to do so with the co-operation of the Mothers' Club.

A reading from "The Bluebird" by Miss Kathleen Heard and solos by Mrs. Tremaine added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Business included the appointment of Mrs. Cole as convener of the nominating committee for the annual meeting, the next of the club, and a report of a committee appointed to pay a visit of inspection to the Empire Avenue school. Mrs. A. G. Calder stated that the school had been visited on a sunny day, yet it was found to be so dark it was difficult to see the blackboards. Moreover, the conditions were considered "deplorable," and a campaign for a new school was advocated.

Mrs. H. B. White reported satisfaction in the financial condition, a surplus of $7 on the books. Other reports covered relief work of the individual clubs, the egg show for children's institutions at Easter, and other welfare activities. Mrs. John Rose presided.

MAKE IMPORTANT APPOINTMENTS

Prof. Morrow and Miss Leslie Ross Chosen by Western Governors for Two Vacancies.

CREATES SCHOLARSHIP

William Wyatt Bequest of Victory Bonds Will Be Used as Permanent Fund.

The board of governors of Western University has recently made two important appointments to the staff. Professor E. H. Morrow of Queen's University coming as head of the department of commercial economics, and Miss Leslie Ross, Ph.D., now of the University of Toulouse, France, as instructor in romance languages.

Professor Morrow is at present director of the extension department of Queen's University, and in this capacity has visited London several times during the past year. His lectures on banking and kindred subjects to the London members of the extension course on banking have greatly impressed all who heard him. Recently Mr. Morrow delivered an address at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon on the subject of "The Factory and the College." All who heard him on this occasion were impressed with his strong grasp of business principles.

Mr. Morrow is a Canadian. He took his degree of bachelor of arts at Queen's University, and that of master of business administration from the graduate school of business administration in Harvard University. Mr. Morrow knows Canada thoroughly. For several years he was engaged in business in this country, an experience that qualifies him to speak from the practical as well as the academic point of view on the subjects treated in the department of commercial economics.

Miss Leslie Ross comes from good Canadian-Scottish stock. She taught for a year or two in the University of Wisconsin, which, on account of her unusual command of French, awarded her a large fellowship to enable her to continue her studies in France during the last two years.

The board of governors announces that it has decided that the legacy of five thousand dollars in Victory bonds left to Western University by the late William Wyatt will be kept intact as a scholarship fund. Two or three scholarships will be awarded to promising students in certain departments of the college of arts each year, and each one will be known as a William Wyatt scholarship. By devoting to this purpose the money coming to the university from this legacy, the name of the generous donor, William Wyatt, will be preserved to perpetuity.

Resolution moved by A. R. MacMaster (Liberal, 2nd) "that in the public interest it is desirable that all ministers of the crown on their appointment as such should resign all directorships held by them in banks, trust companies, insurance or large public utilities," debated at length. Discussion lasted for part of the afternoon and all of the evening.

The debate was in the morning, when the resolution was lost.

Ayes 59, nays 112; Majority against, 52.

The Conservatives voted with the government as did two of the Progressives and the Independent, A. W. Neill (Comox-Alberni). The Labor members voted with the Progressives. Mr. MacMaster was the only Liberal voting for the resolution.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, announced that the government had sold to a New York syndicate, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., $100,000 of 5 per cent. bonds at par.

The purpose of the loan is to meet maturities during the present year.

Unless the clock is repaired soon it is liable to fall to pieces, declared today officials at the customs house today.

If the government fails to act in the matter within a short time, said one of the officials, it will be liable to pay damages through some of the woodwork around the clock falling on the people below.

A few weeks ago a large beam nearly three feet in length, more than five inches thick and weighing 25 pounds, became detached from the face of the clock and would have fallen if one of the men had not noticed it in time.

"I'm tired of bothering with it," said O. H. Talbot, collector of customs, this morning, when questioned as to why the well-known clock on the top of the customs house building had not been running for the last six weeks or so.

It seems that estimates of $2,200 for repairing the clock were sent to the old government, six months ago, but nothing has been done in the matter.

A local jeweler, who has charge of oiling and winding the clock, stated that repairs to the mechanism would cost in the neighborhood of $50, but could not repair the clock until Ottawa has sent its approval.

Fifty-three long years the clock has performed its work faithfully and well, but last year when it was struck by lightning the trouble began and since that time has only worked in spasms.

The woodwork of the clock has not been painted for 22 years, and is fairly rotting with age, said an employee of the customs house. The 3-8 inch glass on the face of the clock is cracked in four places and is liable to fall at any moment.

It seems that estimates of $2,200 for repairing the clock were sent to the old government, six months ago, but nothing has been done in the matter.

A local jeweler, who has charge of oiling and winding the clock, stated that repairs to the mechanism would cost in the neighborhood of $50, but could not repair the clock until Ottawa has sent its approval.

Fifty-three long years the clock has performed its work faithfully and well, but last year when it was struck by lightning the trouble began and since that time has only worked in spasms.

Economy Drive by Wilson Will Force Musicians to Play on Sward In Park

It would appear that London in a small way is going to enjoy a rather unique position this year. It will possess a splendid location for band concerts during the summer months—Victoria Park—but there will be no accommodation for the musicians other than a camp chair on the sward.

While the public utilities commission concluded that the old bandstand was unsafe for further use and voted its removal, they were relying seemingly upon the city council's permission to replace it. The estimate showing that subsequently transpired, however, this proposed expenditure was forthwith eliminated. Officials of the parks department explain that they are now unable to make any provision for the bands this season, other than a seat on the lawn. While one individual with a fertile imagination proposed that the civic employees take axes and break up the old stand into small pieces, sell the same for souvenirs, and use the money obtained for a new structure, members of the parks department have considered the proposition inadvisable.

They also disagree with the suggestion that the public utilities commission provide a city band, pointing out that more than likely it would be possible for them to buy a new bandstand with the money necessary to employ and fit out a citizens' band.

CLAIMS HE KNEW MONEY WAS SPENT

Trustee Edwin Smith Says Board Has No Designs on North End Sale Proceeds.

WHERE ARE FUNDS? Treasurer Bell Reiterates Money Spent; Smith Says It's Going To Be.

Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman of the board of education, takes exception to the claim advanced by City Treasurer James Bell that the city has twice already spent the proceeds from the proposed sale of a school property on Grand avenue and Richmond street north.

The chairman contends that the report that the school trustees were anticipating the purchase of school sites in East London is highly erroneous. "I don't believe that a school board would entertain such a notion," declared Smith Tuesday. Furthermore, the proceeds from the sale will naturally go toward the payment of the Ryerson and Tecumseh avenue schools.

Trustee A. N. Udy, chairman of No. 1 committee, admits that he also is puzzled over the apparent sale of the property. However, it does not seem clear to me yet. If it is true that former boards of education spent this money which has not yet been received, they must have obtained the money from somewhere. Where did they get it, and has it ever been returned?

Treasurer Bell contends that the money has already been expended upon the Ryerson school, while Trustee Smith states that it will now be spent in a like manner. The former is consulting the records to support his contention.

Day's Legislative Doings at Ottawa

TODAY IN PARLIAMENT.

In the Commons. Main estimates of the department of militia and defence.

In the Senate. The Senate will sit at 8 o'clock.

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT.

In the Commons. Production of all correspondence between the Canadian and British governments in preparation for the conference of Empire prime ministers last summer.

First reading given bill to amend the criminal code. The amendment applies to the section of the code which provides that in case of fraud in connection with the transfer of half-blooded persons, prosecution cannot be undertaken after three years from the time the offence was committed.

Bill to amend the naturalization act. The amendment gives reference to the five-year residence clause for aliens.

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg Center) moved that the federal government find some means for dealing effectively with the unemployment situation. After a lengthy debate the resolution carried.

Resolution moved by A. R. MacMaster (Liberal, 2nd) "that in the public interest it is desirable that all ministers of the crown on their appointment as such should resign all directorships held by them in banks, trust companies, insurance or large public utilities," debated at length. Discussion lasted for part of the afternoon and all of the evening.

The debate was in the morning, when the resolution was lost.

Ayes 59, nays 112; Majority against, 52.

The Conservatives voted with the government as did two of the Progressives and the Independent, A. W. Neill (Comox-Alberni). The Labor members voted with the Progressives. Mr. MacMaster was the only Liberal voting for the resolution.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, announced that the government had sold to a New York syndicate, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., $100,000 of 5 per cent. bonds at par.

The purpose of the loan is to meet maturities during the present year.

Unless the clock is repaired soon it is liable to fall to pieces, declared today officials at the customs house today.

If the government fails to act in the matter within a short time, said one of the officials, it will be liable to pay damages through some of the woodwork around the clock falling on the people below.

A few weeks ago a large beam nearly three feet in length, more than five inches thick and weighing 25 pounds, became detached from the face of the clock and would have fallen if one of the men had not noticed it in time.

ENJOY PLAY PUT ON AT COLLEGIATE

Londoners Laud Drama League Artists for Work in "The Valiant."

LAURELS GO TO S. F. SIMS

Vincent Perry Praised for True and Talented Interpretation of Title Role.

The London Drama League with each production offered gains for itself a more prominent standing in the community, not only as an educational institution, but one which provides genuine entertainment for its members.

Holworthy Hall's, "The Valiant," presented last evening at the collegiate institute, under the direction of S. F. Sims, indeed gave proof to this, for it was one of the very finest of the season. More pretentious than any other play offered, it was played with a true dramatic sense. It differed from the others in that it was a tragedy filled with big moments and offered a splendid opportunity for acting. Vincent Perry, in the role of "The Valiant," made much of his opportunity, and gave an interpretation which was exceedingly true and talented.

The last magnificent lines of the play: "The Valiant never tastes of death but once," were present for many a day to come. Upon this theme Holworthy Hall has built up his little tragedy. The scene is laid in a warden's office, the time close on midnight, and occasion, the moments which precede the execution of a murderer, whom the playwright calls "The Valiant." He was saving work by refusing to give away his right name even to his own sister, "The Girl," who visits the prison in order to establish his identity at the eleventh hour. "The Valiant" maintains his heroic stand until the very end and goes to his death, leaving behind him for his mother and sister an un-sullied name.

The intense suffering of the man, who longs for the comfort of dear ones on the eve of the gallows, remarkably brought out in the play itself, was skillfully interpreted by Vincent Perry. He was supported by an excellent cast, including Bert Perry as the warden, Miss Kitty Mundy as "The Girl," Frank Emery as the priest, and S. F. Sims and Dr. Detweiler as the prison attendants.

Special mention should be made of the very fine dramatic work of Miss Kitty Mundy and Bert Perry. The production committee of the Drama League should be congratulated on its latest effort, and special laurels should go to S. F. Sims, the able producer, and Vincent Perry, who interpreted so truly the title role of the play.

Vocal solos by Miss Elsie Green completed an excellent program. A nominating committee was chosen to draw up a slate of names for the annual meeting next month, this committee including Mrs. Arthur Brinkenden, Mrs. R. H. Johnson, Miss Grace Blackburn, S. F. Sims and Kenneth C. Greene.

STRIKE LEADERS ARE IMPATIENT

Add 20th—Speed—to Original Nineteen Demands, Say Officials.

Scale of Wages Is Holding Up Parleys Between Forces.

BULLETIN.
Springfield, Ill., April 25.—Negotiation of separate state wage agreements by striking coal miners in Kentucky and Tennessee was announced today by Frank Farrington, Illinois president of the United Mine Workers. Separate wage agreements by locals in Illinois are imminent, he added.

In Alabama, he said, the state union officers have instructed members to continue at work.

New York, April 25.—Anthracite miners' officials, returning to New York today to resume conferences with operators in an effort to end the strike, declared they would add another demand to the nineteen already submitted—a demand for more speed in the negotiations of the sub-committee on wage contracts.

The 122,000-odd men in the anthracite region are tired of their vacation, and are becoming impatient over the delay in settlement of the strike, it was reported at union headquarters.

Delays in submitting an operators' program were reported by some officials today to be caused by their failure to agree upon what reductions shall be demanded. So-called radical operators would cut wages to approximately a pre-war basis, it was said, while others would revert to the 1917 scale.

Members of the sub-committee announced that a vote was being taken by the operators, in an effort to agree upon a scale to which all would adhere. In case the miners refused to accept and launched the sub-committee into months of further negotiation.

A nation-wide checkup of bituminous resources will be begun today by both miners and operators, to determine to what extent the strike has depleted stocks on hand. Some concern was expressed among the union men at circulated reports that non-union mines have kept up with the times of the industry since the strike was called in April.

These reports were corroborated by agents, who claim that despite the threatened shortage the visible supply of soft coal is greater now than it was a month ago. The eastern market had weakened, instead of growing stronger, it was said. In New England, where transportation costs are a greater factor than in any other eastern market, non-union mined coal was reported yesterday to be quoted at less than the cost of production, with few buyers.

New York, April 25.—J. P. Morgan & Co. announced at noon that subscription books for the $100,000,000 Canadian government loan had been closed.

BEAUTIFUL WOMAN ALMOST WRECKS HAPPINESS AND HOME

After Suffering Indescribable Tortures for Years

A WIFE'S TERRIBLE CONFESSION

"My marriage, four years ago, was a 'love marriage,' if ever there was one. I had known my intended husband for several years and there had never been a quarrel nor a cross word between us. We had a wonderful honeymoon and the first two years of our married life were the happiest years of my life. I adored my husband and he thought I was the most wonderful and beautiful woman in the world. Then a dozen little things began to fret and annoy me, everything seemed to go wrong. It seemed to me that every remark my husband made was critical or irritating and I caught him just making sharp and sarcastic replies.

Finally it got so that life seemed made up of just a series of petty squabbles. Often we would quarrel and not speak to each other for days at a time. I dreaded in the evening to hear the step that I had so often walked with joy and longing. My nerves were completely exhausted and worn out, my face became sallow and haggard. I began to have frequent pains in my back and after I had eaten, my meals felt like a lump of lead. If the door slammed or some one started me I almost jumped out of my skin. Finally, I went to the doctor and he gave me a story. I told him that my husband no longer loved me and that his awful temper and terrible squabbles were making me almost an invalid. You can imagine how indignant I was when the doctor told me it was all my fault. He said that on account of my own highly nervous condition I had subjected my husband to a constant nerve strain and that the only trouble with either of us was that we were nervous and all run-down. Later all this I found out to be true. After I regained my health and revitalized my own worn-out, exhausted nerve centers, and the same day for my husband, I found him to be

Henpecked "Hubbies" Keep Place of Meeting Strict Secret

LONDON. April 25.—The place for holding the annual meeting of the Ancient and Honorable International Order of Henpecked Husbands, an organization having headquarters at Sowerby, near Bradford, is being kept a strict secret. Last year's meeting, to insure freedom from wifely interference, was held at an isolated spot on Blackstone Edge Moor.

Much time will be required at this year's gathering for consideration of a long list of applications for membership, as each candidate must be approved, cross-examined regarding his fitness to be dubbed "well and truly henpecked." The organization's stationery declares the order dates back to the year 3857 B. C.

bringing about a spirit of co-operation, brotherliness and mutual help. Again, a religion to satisfy the need of the world must be based upon the creative power of the grace of God. A sense of inadequacy and poignant need has fallen upon the world which only God himself can satisfy. All spiritual reformations which have taken place, therefore, have taken place outside the established church, but with all the magnificent organization of the present church there should be no need of this, but rather a constant advance, clinging to the spirit of God, which, amongst a world of strife and social turmoil is the one hold upon reality.

Union Laid Over.

An overture from the Synod of Toronto and Kingston, regarding the proposed union of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston with that of London and Hamilton, was laid over for a year with a committee appointed in the meanwhile to consider the matter. Difficulty arose from the fact that neither of the representatives who were to speak in support of the overture were present. Dr. Thurlow Fraser, known to be in the west, and Dr. Lindsay, the speaker, absent for reasons which had not been yet made known. A number of members of the synod were desirous of laying the matter over until Dr. Pidgeon arrived, but a motion to this effect was not obtained.

Rev. W. R. McIntosh commenced discussion upon the question, and brief speeches were given by several clergy which revealed divergent opinions regarding the advisability of joining the two synods.

The overture read as follows: Whereas those synods which have proved most effective are those which have included the province in their boundaries; whereas there is need of a church union in Ontario which would express the judgment of the whole church on the moral and spiritual interests of the whole church on provincial questions affecting the moral and spiritual interests of the province; it is highly important that the synod of Hamilton and London should have a direct interest in and responsibility for the work of the church in New Ontario; and whereas it is desirable that the synod take over a larger proportion of the work now done by the general assembly, and that the union of these two would greatly facilitate the process; it is resolved that the synod of Toronto and Kingston do request the synod of Hamilton and London to join with it in overhauling the general assembly to unite the said synods of Hamilton and Toronto and London and Kingston, into one synod to be known as the synod of Ontario, such union to be consummated as soon as possible.

Discussion on this subject threatened to prolong it but at 11:30, promptly, the order of the day was announced by the moderator and a meeting was adjourned, concerning church union. Rev. R. T. Cockburn acting as convener in place of Dr. Drummond, who was unable to be present on account of illness.

William Hughes, 'Canadian Romeo,' Sent To Prison for Taking Coat in New York

New York, April 25.—Canadian Press.—William Hughes, whom Probation Officer James Russell referred to as a "Canadian Romeo," was yesterday sentenced to not less than six months nor more than three years in the penitentiary for stealing an overcoat valued at $25, at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. According to the probation officer, Hughes, who gave an address in New York, has been known as Captain Hughes. Major Hughes and Doctor Hughes. After his arrest, said the officer, Hughes told so many stories about himself that he had been kept under observation for a time, but had been declared sane and had been held for trial.

The officer said he had learned that Hughes was the son of a Canadian farmer. Hughes, he said, had represented himself to be a physician, had medical instruments in his home and had a long list of persons in Canada who were supposed to owe him money for medical services. The probation officer said Hughes was not a doctor, nor had he a military record during the war. Furthermore, Russell said that Hughes had represented himself to be a 32nd degree Mason and wore a Masonic emblem, but several Masons who had conversed with him in the jail, stated he was not a member of the order.

Russell also said Hughes had stated his wife and child were killed in a London raid during the war, but this could not be confirmed.

In the room occupied by Hughes had been found a memorandum book with the names and addresses of about 150 women and about 100 men in various parts of the country whom he claimed were his friends. Russell had written to many of them and received many unfavorable answers, the officers said.

T. A. Bell and Rev. W. H. Hughes with the following elders: Morris Sharpe, A. M. McDonald, John Stewart, Dr. Stewart, S. J. Park, James Mitchell, Alex. McMurphy and M. A. Halliday.

provided the country's war debts to the allies were cut down and financial help for Russia forthcoming.

Ask Debt Annulment.
Instead of accepting the allies' demands for the payment of war debts with the understanding that these debts to scale down, and the arrears in interest either postponed or remitted in part, the Bolsheviks came in with an entirely different proposition. They asked the complete annulment of all war debts.

Whereas they have previously agreed to the payment of the financial obligations due to foreign nations which are usually referred to as the pre-war debts, the soviet spokesman asked for a moratorium of 30 years on these debts, and the cancellation of the interest according to the allied version of the meeting. This cancellation was to apply both to the past and to the period of the moratorium.

Finally, the Russians made clear that in refusing to restore private property in Russia this would not imply any surrender by Russian citizens of their rights to hold property in fee simple in foreign lands, "bourgeoisie countries," where the right to possess property went with the bourgeoisie system. Such, said the Bolsheviks, were their terms, but they could only grant them on condition that the powers represented at Geneva would first agree to recognize the Russian soviet government, and accord inadequate financial help for its proper economic reconstruction.

Under these conditions," said Sir Laurence Wellesley, chairman of the meeting, we cannot discuss any further. We must refer this matter to our respective governments. It was then decided to adjourn the sittings sine die.

Experts to Meet.
All the experts, with the exception of the Russians, arranged to meet this morning and go over the entire situation. The Russians contend that their general attitude as to making a treaty with the powers has been misinterpreted and one of the delegates charged that faulty translations had been made of their counter suggestions last week.

While the Bolsheviks have abandoned their counter claims for damages, they have continued to insist in Russia, the story went the rounds of the delegations last night that they would hold the United States morally responsible for the presence of the Japanese troops in Siberia, since the Japanese occupied the territory not only co-jointly with United States troops, but actually at the request of the United States government.

"In that case," said one of the Japanese jokingly, "if the Bolsheviks hand us a bill, we will have to pass it on to the United States government."

FINDS HOLSTEIN GOOD PRODUCER

Richard Pinneger of Dorchester Has Herd of Thirty Purebred Cows.

Makes Large Shipments of Milk Daily To Windsor.

From 210 acres of farmland, rolling gently from a dark background of green-tufted pines to the brink of the River Thames, one-half mile or so east of Dorchester, enough fresh milk is shipped each day to supply a large portion of Windsor's population, and this stream of milk changed at once into gold flows back again to Luther Pinneger, owner of Riverview Farm, and a herd of 30 purebred Holstein cows, the majority of which are registered.

Thirty years ago, when the land east of Dorchester Village was for the most part cedar swampland, Mr. Pinneger and his father, Richard Pinneger, pinned their faith to cows as money-makers, and their faith has been rewarded beyond their fondest hopes. Today Luther Pinneger owns a farm of 240 acres, part of which is of the original acreage, and the whole is valued at $30,000.

It is one of Mr. Pinneger's boasts that he is a self-made farmer. He claims that when as a very young man he came to the farm he did not own a second suit of clothes, but that now his residence, costing $7,000 two years ago, is second to none in the neighborhood, while his huge barn seems from a distance like some medieval castle with two towering silos rising high on one end.

Land Made Productive.
The land, purchased at $67.50 an acre, consisted at first chiefly of swampland with knolls of dried mud divided into irregularly-shaped fields by crooked rail fences, rising here and there. By a system of tile drainage put in by hand the muck has since been reclaimed until all of the 240 acres, excepting a bit of bush, has been cleared and made ready for cultivation.

Of the cleared land less than one-half is put into crops, however, for more than 120 acres is devoted entirely to pasture. The only crops raised are corn, oats, hay and other feed necessary to winter the cattle. Nothing is ever sold from the huge farm but milk, a few eggs and some calves.

The pioneer herd was entirely of grade cattle, and then as the merits of purebred cattle became more generally known the grade cattle were replaced by Ayrshires. Six years ago Mr. Pinneger sold out. A year or so later, when he once more took up farming, he stocked his farm with Holsteins.

Because Holsteins are essentially dairy cattle, and because he ships only milk, Mr. Pinneger sells the calves as soon after they are born as possible. At the present time he has altogether 45 head of cattle.

Milk By Hand.
From the beginning all cows on the farm were milked by hand. Mr. Pinneger has little faith in milking machines. He claims that the milk company he sells to does not like milk extracted from cows by their use. All the milk from the farm, totalling 80 gallons a day, is shipped to Windsor, where it is sold as fresh milk.

For winter feed, Mr. Pinneger depends almost entirely on corn ensilage. The two huge silos are filled each fall by corn from a field of 25 acres.

The herd of Holsteins is headed by a yearling bull, Zeman Chance, purchased at a sale in London. An older bull, recently supplanted, will be sold for beef in the near future.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With
Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain Mulsified coconut oil shampoo for hair. It is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified in any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. It keeps you going. Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.—Advt.

"What's this 'Triplex' Stuff I Hear So Much About, Ed?"

"THAT'S it, right there on that bicycle.

"It's as simple as A. B. C.

"But it means as much to a bicycle as the whole alphabet does to the English language."

"How's that, Ed?"

"Just this way:—

"The crank hanger is the power plant of your bicycle.

"If your crank hanger turns just a little stiff or hard, that means more effort for you.

"If the hanger develops those mean 'tight and loose' spots, it means more friction and less power.

"But the 'Triplex' was designed and is built to overcome those faults.

"It is made of such fine steel and to such close limits of accuracy that it always runs smoothly. It makes your bicycle run so easily you'd think you were riding down grade.

"It takes a lot more time and better workmanship to construct such an accurate hanger."

"Well, well! I never thought a crank hanger was so important. I see now that it is really just as important to have a good crank hanger on a bicycle as a good engine in a car."

"That's right. The 'Triplex' is sure some power plant."

"Were you thinking of buying a new bike, Charlie?"

"Yes, I was thinking something about it, Ed. You know I bought a cheap one against your advice last year and I'm sick of pushing the old cart along. Besides, it's always wanting repairs."

"What you need is one of those new C. C. M. Bicycles. They're built to stay out of the repair shop. I know of many C. C. M.'s that are giving good service after ten to fifteen years riding over all kinds of roads."

To those on the verge of a nervous breakdown the following symptoms present themselves: nervous headaches, a feeling of depression, listless, disturbed, restless and unrefreshing sleep, often troubled with frightful dreams, avoidance of crowded places, dread of being alone, horror of society, etc.

When the nerves become affected in this way the heart generally becomes affected, too, and on the first signs of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown do not wait until your case becomes hopeless, but get a remedy that will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, 1 small box of Orlex Compound and 14 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store for very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—Adv.

DOWNFALL OF CIVILIZATION BEFORE TWO HUNDRED YEARS PROCLAIMED BY A GERMAN

"Yes," He Says, "The End Is At Hand—Germany Has Fallen, But the Course of Our Enemies Is Nearly Run, For In Becoming Sophisticated the World Has Lost Its Faith in Religion."

Word has come out of Germany from time to time during the past eighteen months of an extraordinary book that has swept the reading public off its feet. It is entitled "The Downfall of the Occident" (Der Untergang des Abendlandes), and its author is Oswald Spengler, a quiet, unknown private scholar. He proclaims the end of our civilization in less than two centuries.

It is a ponderous and difficult volume. Its more than 600 pages are written in a highly metaphysical style and a wide range of information is necessary in order to follow the tortuous windings of its logic. And still, in spite of its heavy demands on the reader, it became in a short time a best seller.

The explanation of the sensation that the book has produced lies in the theme. It appeared at a time when Germany, after four years of fighting and sustained by the almost universal conviction of her military superiority, was suddenly awakened to the knowledge of defeat. Then came the revolution and the overturn of imperialism. Councils of soldiers and workmen took charge of the affairs of the government. The moorings of the empire's glittering past were broken. Hope was at its lowest ebb.

At this moment Spengler comes forward and says, "Yes, the end is at hand. Germany has fallen, but the course of our enemies is nearly run. The downfall of the Occident is approaching. Western Europe has passed its zenith and it must now look forward to a rapid decline, and its civilization must soon range itself with the extinct civilizations of Greece, Egypt, India. Our over-optimistic pride of intellect is the pride that comes before a fall."

This doctrine of resignation was the starting point for the career of the book. Its fundamental concept of the world as a series of cycles, each with its own life and death, was the result of the author's study of the history of the world. But when the volume was studied and analyzed it was seen to be a prodigy of industry and erudition. Every field of human endeavor had been ransacked—art, literature, architecture, politics, landscape gardening, ornamental, political economy, philosophy—to establish the author's thesis.

Spengler became the man of the hour. Appreciations of his book and controversial answers to his theories have flooded the newspapers. A very considerable Spengler "literature" has grown up.

What is the explanation of the breaking down of our civilization? To answer with a word, it is exhaustion. We are nearly at the end of our spiritual resources.

The artist, whether he be a poet or a painter or a musician, has lost his inspiration. What he accomplishes now is the result of cold intellectual processes, whereas the great works of art of previous generations were the result of a spontaneous inner conviction. The philosopher has become a practical man. Even the scientist is confused and is beginning to doubt the possibility of arriving at truths that are final and absolute.

The world, in becoming sophisticated, has lost its faith, its religion, and in doing so has sacrificed its power to create. We are in the midst of a slowing-up process that will continue until our civilization is completely paralyzed.

It is an exceedingly disturbing book, though much of its logic is specious. Its author is a philosophical clairvoyant, and as a teller of the fortunes of future generations might be classed as a charlatan if he were not so learned and so much in earnest.

All our feelings revolt at his idea of predestination, although we know that other races and other cultures have had their day. We are inclined to hoot at such theories as the world-weary German enunciates, but we may recall that Rousseau's doctrines of the failure of civilization were not much less disturbing than these extravagant presumptions. The French reformer, however, suggested methods of amelioration. The present writer says we are in the grasp of an inevitable destiny.

Does Not Prove Case.

With regard to his main contention we can say this: he has not proved his case; but he has shown a vast number of doubts which we may expect to see reappear, and in many places—in his writings on philosophy, history, art and politics, even in the practice of the arts themselves.

The author undertakes to make an analysis of the downfall of the culture of Western Europe, but he wishes to be considered as the first philosopher who has perceived the true relations of all the manifest conditions of human effort and thought and sentiment.

He reaches his conclusion largely by comparison. He has charted the courses of the development of the people of other ages. He finds that they have their several stages—their birth, their youth, their maturity, their decay and their death. There are special characteristics that mark each one of these periods, which are common to all the higher races. Of completed cultures the Chinese, Babylonian, Egyptian, India, Classical, Arabic, Oriental and that of the Mayas are enumerated.

A culture becomes extinct when it has realized the full sum of its possibilities in the form of peoples, languages, dogmas, arts, political states and sciences. When the goal is reached the culture is suddenly paralyzed. It dies, its blood ceases to flow, its powers decay. It can, like a dead giant of the forest, continue to hold up for centuries its decaying branches. We see this condition in Egypt, in China, in the world of Islam.

Our own downfall will be an event similar to that of the Greeks and the Romans, and will occur in the first centuries of the next thousand years. Traces of this coming disaster are already evident in us and about us. There exists, he says, a boundlessly trivial optimism concerning the history of higher humanity with respect to the future. The future of the Occident is not a limitless one; it is a strictly determined phenomenon of history which can endure only a few centuries and which can be computed in its essential features. It will be our duty in the future to learn what is coming, what can happen, and what will happen with the absolute necessity of fate.

This is not necessarily a ground for pessimism. We must face what is possible and what is impossible. There has been a great waste of mind and strength in false ways. We must now recognize our position and determine what we can and what we cannot do. "If, under the influence of this book men of the new generation turn their attention to the technical instead of the lyrical, to the building and the sailing of ships instead of painting, to politics instead of the philosophy of perception, if, and one could desire nothing better for them."

Future Development.

When we think of a political state, or even in our conceptions of nature, there is always the idea of future development. Force, will, has a goal, and where there is a goal there is an end. We cannot escape the thought of the end of the world. Antiquity, it is true, knew nothing of it. It believed in an eternal continuation of existence. It lived through its last days each for itself with unreserved happiness and as a gift of the gods.

We know our history. We shall die consciously and follow all the stages of our own disintegration with the keen eye of the experienced physician. The clearest expression of the coming exhaustion is the cult of the exact sciences, of dialectics, or proof of experience, of casuistry.

There commences finally a battle against scientific methods. One doubts their claims. One begins to feel a kind of disgust at their domination. While the minds of mediocre calibre are still making a mighty noise with their scientific achievements, we need only to open the books of our most profound physicists in order to see how resignation, how modesty, with respect to aims, results, possibilities is growing from day to day.

A sharp distinction is made between culture and civilization. A period of civilization is a sequel to a period of culture, and is already a time of decay. The two terms bear the relation one to the other that a living body bears to a mummy. In the history of Western Europe, Napoleon marks the end of culture and the beginning of civilization. Up to the nineteenth century the creations of the human mind and spirit had come about through a sort of inner necessity. They were spontaneous, and were the natural results of spiritual needs.

Civilization Artificial.

Civilization is artificial. Everything that is produced is dominated by the understanding. Civilization is the unavoidable fate of a culture. It is a conclusion, just as life is followed by death; as spiritual childhood represented by the Gothic is followed by intellectual old age; as the provincial is followed by the uninspiring cosmopolitan city. The extinction of vital religion presents the turning point from culture to civilization, when the spiritual fruitfulness of man is exhausted for all time, when construction takes the place of creation. We can take this word also in its literal sense in that the death of the civilized race is coming about through the absence of children.

One of the chief elements in our civilization, and therefore an element of decay, is the metropolitan city. Culture has something provincial in it. It springs from the soil. The end of the influence of the provincial is the end of culture. We have today the newspaper record of it. He is the product of a leveling city training. He is the man of the theatres and places of amusement, of sport and the literature of the day. Quantity has taken the place of quality, extent of depth.

Journalism Dominant.

The most characteristic feature of our life is journalism. It is directed to the masses and not to the best. It values its means according to the number of successes. It replaces the thoughtfulness of the old times by intellectual prostitution in speech and in the written word. Most modern writing, from Schopenhauer's essays to Shaw's, excepting Nietzsche, is according to form and intent. Journalism. Likewise, the whole social drama. The poet is becoming a journalist, the priest a journalist, the scholar a journalist. Poets and historians of the civilized type do not get beyond the point of being politicians. They are lacking in spiritual superiority, in depth, in the distinction that form and content. He reminds us that in wars and political catastrophes, which have been the chief elements in our history, victory is not always an essential thing, and peace is not the end of a revolution. Such occurrences are only the outer garments of history. There are deeper expressions of the human spirit.

Music and Architecture.

centuries there will be no more west European culture, no Germans, no English, no French, just as at the time of Justinian there were no more Romans. All art is transitory, not the individual works, but the arts themselves. One day the last portrait of Rembrandt and the last measure of the music of Mozart will have ceased to be, although a painted canvas and a sheet of music will perhaps survive, because the last eye and ear will have disappeared to which this form of expression was comprehensible. Mankind is every thought, every dogma, every science."

Art Dying of Old Age.

Our art is dying like the classical, the Egyptian, like every other after the weakness of old age, after it has realized its destiny. "What is pursued as art today is impudence and falsehood, the music after Wagner, as well as the painting after Manet," he continues. "If we go through the exhibitions, if we visit the concerts and theatres, we find only assiduous content to produce tools and means for the market which is felt as being long since superfluous. What we have today under the name of art! A false music full of artificial noise of massive instruments; false paintings, full of the taste of the past; a false architecture which founds a new style every ten years on the treasures of the past thousand years. Every form of modernism considers change as development. It is a reaction against the old styles of civilization and the place of real creation. The massive must replace depth, gigantic dimensions, the significance of form. Finally the power to wish something different ceases. This is one of the last symptoms in the fall of the Occident."

The old-style philosopher thinks that the great questions are always answered some day. There are no eternal verities. Every philosophy is an expression of its time and only of its time. Great philosophy comes out of the soul of its period. Modern thinking is also a phase of degeneration. He classifies Bergson, Spencer, Eucken, Dühring as being of the intellectual grade of the professor or middle-class journalist. We reason with false philosophy with popular journalism, propaganda, with the professional scientist.

All metaphysics on a grand scale is disappearing before the conception of a practical system of morality which shall regulate life. Instead of the idea of every-day which has absorbed the philosophy of the other fields, there is now lacking the other fields. There is now lacking what we might call the grand style of thinking. Metaphysics, mistress of yesterday, becomes the servant of today. Practical life comes into the center of consideration. The philosophy of today is the critique of society.

Socialism Is Will For Power.

Socialism is, in spite of its superficial illusions, not a system of pity, of humanity, of peace, of charity, but the will for power. The aim is thoroughly imperialistic warfare, but the expansive sense, not of the sick, but of the energetic, to whom one wishes to give freedom of activity untrammelled by the hindrances of possessions, birth, tradition. The socialist wishes to change its form and reorganize its contents. The Socialist commands; the state adapts itself. The Socialist, the dying Faust, is the man full of anxiety as to the future, which he feels presents to him his task and aim.

The classical mind, with its omens of birds, wishes only to know the future. The occidental wishes to create it. The will to power is represented more decisively by the two poles of public life—the working classes and the great men of money, of brains—than ever by a Borgias.

It is harder to accept Spengler's idea that science, too, will fall than any of his other prophecies. He claims that this century will see the exhaustion of the desire or the will to the victory of science. History shows that science is a late and transitory phenomenon, belonging to the autumn and winter of great culture. In the classical as well as in the Indian and Chinese and Arabic, it lasts a few centuries, within which its possibilities are exhausted. It is approaching annihilation through the refinement of intellect.

Death of Science.

The death of a science consists in this: that it becomes no longer an inner spiritual matter to any one. No inner belief believes that our minds are growing weary, but 200 years of civilization and orgies of scientific methods, then we shall have enough. Not the individual, the soul of the culture, will have enough. It will express this in that it chooses its scholars, whom it sends out into the world of the day, as a factor, is destroyed and less fruitful. We are now experiencing the decrees of the camp followers who arrange and collect. This is a universal symptom. As oil painting and contrapuntal music have exhausted their possibilities of an organic development in a small number of centuries, so dynamics, whose reign begins about 1800, is a creation that today is in the process of dissolution. The doubt of things which yesterday formed the unquestioned foundation of physical theory has proved to be annihilating. The principle of relativity affects the very vitals of the previous theories of dynamics. If we cannot agree on any final and absolute method of measuring time, the constant value of all physical quantities, in whose definition time is a factor, is destroyed. There is no longer anything tangible or plastic that represents a condition of rest—no form, no quantity, no dimensions.

Future Culture Creators.

Spengler does not tell us in this volume what race will create the next culture. To me it seems that the whole earth will be "civilized" in the Spengler sense by the year 2000.

fashions of the rest of the world. Where could we turn expecting to find a new spiritual power hitherto unknown? To Russia? Surely even Siberia cannot withstand long the inrush of Occidental influences. To Japan? This part of the Orient is taking on Occidental characteristics more rapidly than it develops its native culture. China and Africa have been relatively isolated, but they do not seem to have the elements within themselves to create a new order, nor can they hold out long against the levelling influences of a rapid interchange of thought. Provincialism is nearly at an end.

Spengler might as well speak of a universal downfall as the downfall of the Occident, for within a few generations there will be neither Orient nor Occident in so far as the products of human minds are concerned.

He has much to say about the man of understanding, the latter day "brain man," who weighs everything in mental balances and whose creations are the result of cerebral processes. He exaggerates the power of the mind in the present conduct of affairs. The world is ruled by sentiment and the growth of popular government increases the influence of the unthinking. Spengler is wrong when he assumes that the understanding is now paramount and that the Occident is going to decay because the mind is triumphant. The people of the 20th century may be sophisticated, but intellectualism is not one of their most obvious characteristics.

Spengler has very little to say about the Nietzschean superman, but his spirit pervades parts of the book and the modern practical man arouses the only bit of enthusiasm for things as they are, of which the author is capable. He is the successor to the mighty Germans emperors surrounded by a body of gigantic men; of the Huguenot wars, the Spanish conquerors, the Prussian electors and kings, of Napoleon and Bismarck. The energy of the gigantic conceptions of Dante, Wolfram, Shakespeare, Bach, Beethoven, finds its only counterpart in the modern machines and organizers, engineers and statesmen.

The final condition of our dynamic development may be an extremely positive form of what he calls "Eurasianism." It will be a state where every individual constitutes a functional element. It will be something rigid, unfruitful, full of plan and go, but it will have nothing of the human or liberal in the present hopeful sense.

Spengler may have been thinking of the colossal Hugo Stinnes when he said Cecil Rhodes appears as the first type of an Occidental Caesar. Rhodes' deeds and accomplishments are the prelude and fix the key for the future with which the history of the West Europeans will finally end.

CARADOC

Special to London Advertiser. CARADOC, April 24.—Rev. Mr. Silcox, a former pastor of the Mount Brydges Baptist Church, preached services there yesterday.

Caradoc, Zions and Mount Brydges congregations of the Baptist Church contributed $80 to the Russian famine fund.

We have a new factor in the life of nations and races that did not exist when other civilizations were falling to pieces, namely, the means of rapid communication. It was possible a few hundred years ago for a people in one corner of the earth to work out its destiny undisturbed by what was taking place elsewhere. Today this is conceivable in Central Asia or Central Africa, but a century or two hence these islands of possible new inspiration will be submerged by the thoughts and the

The McMaster Resolution.
THE resolution that was placed on the order paper at the Commons by A. R. McMaster is sure to be debated in a very short time. Today may see the debate in full swing, and there are certain to be some very pointed remarks made on the subject. The resolution provides:

"That in the opinion of this house it is desirable in the public interest that all ministers of the crown on their appointment as such, should resign all directorships held by them in banks, trust companies, insurance companies, transportation companies, or large public utility corporations; and that should ministers of the crown retain their directorships in companies other than those hereinabove mentioned, such companies should have no business dealings with the government of the Dominion of Canada, or with any department thereof or with any railway or ship owned or controlled by said government; it being understood that such prohibition would not affect the use of such company of the public service afforded by the said government or any department, or by any railway or ship."

This question has been before the Commons at other times. It has been defeated when it appeared previously. In one way or another it has figured in many of the election campaigns, particularly in the last Dominion election, when it was charged that members of the cabinet were directors of companies that were receiving large orders from the government, most of them without public tender.

The purpose of the resolution is to bring into the federal government area the same idea that holds in municipal regulations, where it is unlawful for any member of the council or any of its departments, through his firm, for instance, if there were a lumber merchant, on the other hand, to sell material to the corporation or any of its various affiliated bodies. This regulation, by the way, is more often honored in the way it is disregarded than in the way in which it is observed. There are good purposes for having that regulation there, for otherwise it would be an easy matter for a group of men on the inside, knowing when these various contracts were going to be given out, to so operate things that they would go to their favorites.

On the other hand, there is this risk—the material required is purchased by public tender, and if the qualities are the same in every case, there is no good purpose served in keeping a firm from tendering because one of its members is on the council or some of the commission. It amounts, in fact, to penalizing him, or the firm with which he is connected, for offering his services to the municipality at the elections where he was approved of by the electors.

The same idea is at stake in the larger area of Dominion government. The McMaster resolution proposes that if a man is a director of any company such as banking, trust, insurance, transportation, etc., and becomes a cabinet minister, he shall cease to hold office, or the government shall do no business with the companies with which he is connected.

There have been instances where this resolution would have been to the advantage of the country, but it is questionable if a blanket resolution, without any further qualifying provisions, is going to have the effect of bringing about the desired result. It will mean, in short, if a man has had enough ability to be entrusted with positions of responsibility by these companies—if he knows enough about business administration to handle a large proposition successfully, and get value for money expended—he is not entitled to offer these services to the government of his country as a minister of the crown.

The country could be protected just as well in other ways. If a firm wants to do business with the government, it should do so in the proper way, viz., openly and above-board, in free and unrestricted tender along with other firms in the same line of business. The tenders should be opened in public, and the awards made with a view of getting the best possible value for the people of the Dominion. It is hard to see where any objection could be taken to this form of doing business, as no undue advantage—or, in fact, no advantage at all—would in this way rest with the firm that had one of its members or directors in the cabinet.

A resolution that simply seeks to decapitate any cabinet minister for the time being from any connection with his business, or that puts out of the running all companies that seek to handle government business, because they have an executive member in the cabinet, is too drastic to be effective, particularly when the same objective can be reached in other ways.

CANADA HELPS

CANADA—Hold on, grim one, spare the children.

Not in a Public Court.

A CASE occurred in London—on, to be exact, near it—a few days ago, that gives good ground for some thinking.

Four boys, in ages from 8 to 10, were playing ball on one of the city streets on Good Friday. Objection was made to the game taking place on the street and the boys started down the L. and P. S. tracks to an open field, where the game was going to be carried on. They were apprehended while on the tracks on a charge of trespassing and their names taken. Saturday the parents and guardians were notified that the case would be heard in county court. Fines, ranging from $2 to $4.50, were imposed.

This does not seem quite right. No fault is found with the rule against trespassing on the railroad track. It was the duty of the man there to see that the people kept off that strip, as it is a highly-dangerous place for boys to walk. But was the offence serious enough for these boys to be brought into court?

To have boys from 8 to 10 years of age brought into the county court or the city court is a serious matter. Rightly or wrongly, it puts a sting upon them and in them. There should be some other place and some other way for dealing with such cases. If anything were needed in this case it would be where the boys themselves, not alone their parents or guardians, would be brought directly into touch with an officer who has a heart for boys' welfare, and who would see that they were made to see and understand wherein they had erred, without exposing them to the publicity of a county or a city court.

Boys 8 to 10 years of age have no place in a public court.

Should Dogs Have Fleas?

A DOG specialist in Detroit and one in Paris cannot agree as to whether fleas are necessary to the well being of a dog. The French authority is in favor of the fleas, claiming that a well-regulated dog should have to spend a certain amount of time each day in biting the fleas, otherwise he will get out of shape and lose his keen perception and quick action.

There is much in this form of reasoning, and one can well imagine a dog in his day's work making a mental note of the fact that from 9 to 10 he must spend the time attending to his fleas, and that from 5 to 6 he must do the same thing over again. Thus he is assured of two busy hours each day. During that time he will not be burying pet bones in the neighbor's flower garden, or knocking the lid of the garbage can next door to see what pickings have been thrown out during the last few hours.

Not only so, but a dog feels better after he has his fleas attended to for the day or for the half day. He never knows the relief that comes from getting his fleas all bitten up and put to sleep unless he has been suffering from them.

Of course, the anti-flea advocates have a very good case, but it savors of the 100 per cent efficient class, and a 100 per cent efficient dog never has a good time. They can't hold their own with the flea dogs on the corner lot, nor are they as efficient at getting out and finding their own living. A good flea dog can steal twice as much as a well-kept flealess dog. Their own views, so if any other dog wants to speak, he has the floor.

The coal strike in United States is causing many a concern on this side of the line to look over its coal heap. There has been a decrease in the amount of coal carried on the railroads. Every day brings us nearer the point where we shall regard the situation as serious. It is that already, but not generally recognized as such.

LOYD GEORGE must have a very capable photographer on his staff. We have had him cutting a Christmas cake, resting at home on a Sunday afternoon, digging potato ground in his garden, cracking jokes with the ambassadors at Genoa, off for an hour on the golf links, nursing some of the grandchildren on his stubby knees, and so on. Yes, DAVID has had his likeness took a powerful lot of times.

THOMAS CHURCH of Toronto had the opportunity of hearing what some of the people in Toronto think of him when the matter of daylight saving was being discussed at Ottawa. One member read a letter in which it was stated that "they had had a mayor in that city whose hobby had been daylight saving, who had tried to run the city and who would try to run parliament." Mr. CHURCH may have run Toronto for seven years, but at Ottawa he can hardly yet qualify as a voice crying in the wilderness.

The Waltworth Telescope questions the propriety of church organizations conducting baking sales, claiming that in so doing they are coming in direct opposition with the men in that business. The Telescope says: "Several of our exchanges lately have pointed out the unfairness of churches, etc., holding 'baking sales.' These sales, the making of which there seems to be no end, are a menace to the business of the local bakers, who have a hard enough time to make a living, and at the same time are usually financial supporters of the churches, etc. A large baking firm in a Western Ontario town has come out boldly in its advertising against the unfairness of baking sales. Many other bakers, while not openly declaring against the holding of these sales, none the less, feel the effect of this unfair competition."

Question—Who was the first farmer in Canada?

Answer—The first Canadian farmer was Louis Hebert, who came from Acadia to Quebec in 1617 with his family. He was probably the first man in Canada to earn his living by tilling the soil. Descendants of his family still exist.

Question—What proportion of the British Empire is included in Canada?

Answer—One-third of the total area of the British Empire, viz., 3,729,000 square miles, is comprised in Canada.

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE.

HOW TO READ PULSE

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

A doctor who was not within easy call and someone felt sick and seemed to have some fever, could you determine his condition to some degree by reading his pulse? The normal pulse is usually about 72 beats to the minute and gives a single strong but soft impulse. In certain diseases this pulse is doubled, or irregular or hard and small, or so soft that one can hardly feel it.

In fever the pulse rate increases about eight beats for every degree of temperature; thus, at 102 degrees F. one expects a pulse rate of 100 or above. This is one way to measure your temperature or that of anyone that might feel ill in your family if a clinical thermometer is not at hand.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

[By Digby Phillips.]

NO. 197—THE HANDS "YES" AND "NO."

While most people are thoroughly convinced that honesty is the best policy, and that truth is a virtue, yet human nature is so faulty that in actual practice all of us are more or less inclined to follow the principle that the chief use of language is to conceal thought.

Whether speaking the absolute truth under all circumstances would, on the whole, bring more happiness into the world, is an open question. But it is a fact that the characterologist can go much farther than the average person in judging whether a speaker's inner feelings really correspond with his or her words or not. If a person says "yes," but in his heart means "no," he will betray it by many signs, if you only know what they are. One of these is the little instinctive movements of the hands. If, when he tells you "yes," you keep your eyes on his hands, and observe that the gestures accompanying are from the right to the left, or vice versa, you may take it for granted that his lips are not telling the truth. His inner thought says "no." If the movement of one or both hands is in an up-and-down direction, the inner thought is saying "yes," regardless of what the lips may be saying. And the only way he can balk your observation is to keep his hands either immovable or out of sight. These instinctive little gestures that few of us are aware of cannot be simulated and remain natural.

MR. DANIEL MCINTYRE.
St. Thomas Times-Journal: Few men in East Elgin were better known or held in greater respect by supporters of all political parties than Mr. DANIEL MCINTYRE, whose death occurred at his home in Yarmouth on Tuesday, Mr. MCINTYRE read all sides of public questions, gave an attentive ear to arguments both pro and con, but his faith in Liberalism was never shaken, nor his allegiance diverted one iota by the "newer trend of thought" prevalent in certain agricultural communities. He carried the party's banner to within a few votes of victory on three occasions against a formidable antagonist as his next-door neighbor, Mr. C. A. BROWNE; he stood by the party when the fight was never anything but a losing one; he did not spare himself, either on the platform or in the work of organization, and at all times proved himself to be a keen, fair fighter and a good loser, and a man who could come out of a campaign with as many friends as when he went in. There never was any doubt where "DAN" MCINTYRE stood politically, and the same can be said of him in private life—he was true to his ideals and to his friends.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is EXTORT.

It's pronounced — eks-tawrt, with accent on the last syllable. It means—to wrest from, to take from, exact, take away from—especially, to take away by illegal or forceful means.

It comes from—Latin, "ex," from, and "torquere," to twist about.

Companion word—extortion.

It's used like this—"The unprincipled loan shark extorts big sums from the poor."

There were two old gentlemen in West Williams in my young days who considered it a religious duty to visit a number of houses regularly and hold prayer meetings. Their intention was no doubt good, but they were not always so regarded. The son of one of them used to say that his father and the old man of the island were hypocrites. "Tha m'athair agus sean duine an Eilein 'n an Cealgairan."

They often expressed surprise that young people did not attend those meetings more regularly, but the reason was not far to find, for the utterances were of the kind described by Robert Burns as "three-mile prayers and half-mile graces," and required more than ordinary endurance to rest on the marrow bones for the space of time required to pay due deference to their ministrations. Psalms were sung and a chapter or more was read in the real orthodox Highland manner.

The Disruption had taken place in the Established Church of Scotland, and extended to Canada, engendering feelings of extreme bitterness between members of the church.

Rev. Lachlan McPherson was now a minister, and espoused the side of the dissenting body, who entered a lawsuit for the possession of the church building on Pettit street. The Established Church prevailed, and the Free Presbyterians ever after spoke of it as the "old basswood church." Mr. McPherson had been a teacher in his younger days, and used to be familiarly referred to, even after he was ordained, as "Lochon Mhaighister."

Although he was a man of delicate physique, yet he was able to preach two discourses, one in English and the second in Gaelic, with a short rest, often occupying four hours. When he visited Glasgow street the services were held in Alexander McLeish's barn. This order of things continued until a church was built at Colin McKenzie's. Mr. McPherson was a man of striking appearance, with a massive head of hair, standing erect, after the Dr. Egerton Ryerson and Dr. Ormiston style. Once seen you were not apt to forget.

EARLY DAYS IN WILLIAMS

By J. B. McLACHLAN, High Park Ave., Toronto.

It was a thing of common occurrence in pioneer days for people to get "lost in the bush," especially was it so among those who had newly arrived from the old land, and when they discovered that they were lost either day or night they would shout their loudest; and a common method to reply to cries for direction was to pound on a large log with a mallet, and by that means they could be brought to a clearing and sometimes be entertained for the night. Of several would be responding at the same time to the same cry. I remember a Mr. Gyley, who with his wife had made their home for a short time with my grandparents; he had been working at some distance, and returning home one Saturday night in the early part of winter, lost his bearings, and making his way as best he could through the wood, fell over the bank of Mud Creek and landed in the freezing stream, but managed to get out, and for some time found his way to the house in a wet, half-frozen chattered like bones in a minstrel show. Between grandmother, his wife, woolen blankets, hot toddy and a rousing fire he was restored to a comfortable condition in a few hours and able to take his job Monday morning.

A common arena of such experience was the district between Adelaide village and the town line of Williams. The "Uist" islands, who had settled north of the Sauble, would go to the island and lose their way, and as many of them, especially the women, could only speak Gaelic, they were badly handicapped.

JOHN GALBRAITH, father of Lachlan Galbraith, of the Center road, West Williams, was among others who settled on Glasgow street, west of Lewsey's bridge, a few years later than father. He came from a locality in Argyleshire named Kilberry, near West Loch Tarbert. In June, 1883, I visited Scotland in company with Mr. John Crawford of the township of Howard, county of Kent, who was himself a native of Kilberry, and knew Mr. Galbraith in their young days, and had relatives still living there, and while I was visiting friends in the Loch Fyne district I was invited to see Mr. Crawford and his friends at Kilberry. He showed me many places of interest, among others a locality where once 20 crofters' cottages stood and of which no sign then remained to show that they ever existed. He also showed me the sward where they danced on the green after Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith were married, and he related the circumstance that the laird, coming along on horseback, dismounted and danced with the bride. Mr. Galbraith's sister accompanied them to Canada, and became Mrs. Alexander McLeish, who lived opposite us on Glasgow street. The two Misses McLeish still live on the old homestead.

There were two old gentlemen in West Williams in my young days who considered it a religious duty to visit a number of houses regularly and hold prayer meetings. Their intention was no doubt good, but they were not always so regarded. The son of one of them used to say that his father and the old man of the island were hypocrites. Williams produced many scholars, not a few for the ministry and the medical profession, some entering the field of politics; many were teachers, and the farms were not neglected, and as a consequence it stands high among the agricultural townships of Ontario today.

LET me introduce to your readers a character of another type who settled on Glasgow street and whose droolery was often the source of much amusement. He was very religious and went some distance to attend gatherings, which were designed "Coineamh Mor," and on the occasion in mind was to take the train from Komoka. He was accompanied by his wife and several other women, and being late, the train already at the station, he mounted the stile and urgently appealed to the moving train to stop one, two, three times, without effect, for it still proceeded. He frantically flourished his umbrella and shouted at the top of his voice his final appeal, "Wait for the women anyhow." On another occasion while attending this gathering in Aldborough he and Elder McCall had to occupy the same room and were preparatory to retiring he noticed that the elder did not remove his necktie, and remarked "Don't you take your necktie off?"

"No, I just loose it."

"I would be afraid I would choke through the night. Would you not be very mad if you found yourself choked in the morning?"

It is marvellous how religious people could be in those good old times and yet partake of the "grog" without any attempt at hiding. I have seen officials of the church attending to their official duties when "well on."

THIS same old gentleman had three sons who sailed the lakes in the summer, and being home during the winter, put in their time clearing their land. Their father would, in order to increase their zeal for work, place a bottle of real "Glenlivet" at the root of a tree at some distance in the bush which they could sample only after all the trees were felled as far as the bottle. Sundays he would walk from his home, Glasgow street, to Lobo to attend what was known as Elder Sinclair's church. On one of those occasions, passing what is now Poplar Hill, he claimed to have heard a voice directing him to preach to the people—"A D'ownchaidh Searamonachais tusa do'n t' slugh an dinch"—and on reaching the church there was no minister, and he obeyed the voice and preached to the women on the extravagance of dress. Fancy Middlesex women being gayly dressed 75 years ago. Among other peculiarities he claimed Christian perfection. Being at some industrial function, he claimed that he had not smoked in 15 years. John Waters, then a young man, told him that it was a great pity that he should have broken his record, upon which he threatened to report John to his father.

The BOOKSHELF

MERTON OF THE MOVIES. By Henry Leon Wilson. Doubleday, Page & Co., Publishers, New York. $1.75.

THIS little woman is more than my wife—she is my best pal; and, I may also add, my severest critic. So speaks Merton of the Movies, after he has sacrificed and suffered for his art—sacrificed a little more than he had anticipated, though he was willing to stand the gauntlet if only his dream might come true, and he become a good movie actor, one of the best, as he prays, kneeling before his narrow cot.

"Oh, God," he says, "make me a good movie actor! Make me one of the best! For Jesus' sake, Amen!" And if ever man's heart was in his prayer, Merton's is in that simple plea.

Merton is a clerk in an emporium. It is his work to wait on customers, to dust and arrange the stock, to pose the wax models in the garrets, they are displaying, and to drive the delivery wagon. He does these things, but his soul is otherwise engaged. As Buck Benton, the famous hero of the film world, he rides the western plains and saves imperiled beauty at the risk of his life. As Harold Parmalee, adored creator of a hundred society thrillers, he smiles wearily at a world he knows so well, and lightly brushes aside the adulations of his countless feminine worshippers. He looks like Parmalee—he has practically the same face, though a trifle more marked in features—and in the stills he has had taken by the village photographer he looks more than once assumed the identical poses of this great man. These show him in evening dress. The Benton pictures reveal him in the full regalia of the cowboy, pistol in holster, a grim look, the fighting look, on his visage, as he crouches prepared to shoot the desperadoes who have attacked him. Nor is Merton a mere ideal dreamer. He works for his ideal practically every moment when he is not asleep. He has taken a correspondence course in film acting, he subscribes to several motion picture magazines and reads them with passionate attention, he sees every picture show that comes to town, and he saves every cent possible for the trip he is to take one day to Hollywood, his true vocation, fame and happiness.

This book of Mr. Wilson's—and it is long since he has given us a novel, too long—is true comedy, and there's nothing much better than good comedy in the world. It is good comedy of that warm and smiling sympathy which made his study of a small town community, "The Boss of Little Arcady," so much bigger and more human a book than "Main Street."

Merton is a triumph, artist, fool, likable boy, baby, cheek all in one, and the girl who gives him the chance to speak the lines with which the book ends and this review begins is quite as great a success. She is a genuine innocent, fresh, wise beyond time itself, fit to meet any emergency, chock full of delicious fun and spirit.

And here is a treatment of Hollywood and the world of the movies that is different from anything else written yet. You get the feeling of the reality of the unreal life, of the humanness of the people who seem so fantastic seen from the outside—you step into a sort of fairyland that remains fairyland and yet shows itself to be distinctly a part of the world, the everyday world.

You find that though the life of these people is a kind of phantasma, and must be, yet they are exactly like all the rest of us. It makes them more surprising, that the same time that it makes them comprehensible. The fate of Merton as an actor has its pathos—there are plenty of moments when the well-known tear dims the eye while you read—but what matter whether he be in the end the thing he is or not? He has not dreamed, and the real artist must expect to have his heart broken somewhere along the trail.

Place "Merton of the Movies" at the head of the best sellers for the next six months. It's sure to be there.

A Danger Warning —Bleeding Gums

Are your gums tender? Do they bleed when brushed? If so—watch out for Pyorrhea.

This disease of the gums, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, not only destroys the teeth, but often wrecks the health.

In Pyorrhea, the gums become spongy, then recede; the teeth decay, loosen and fall out—or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about them. These germs lower the body's vitality and cause many diseases.

You can keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums prevents Pyorrhea—or checks its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean.

Start using it today. If your gums have receded, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

FEARS MOVE TO CUT OVERTIME

Federation of Shop Crafts Plans To Fight Railroads' Program.

Claims Canadian Lines Trying To Legislate Seven-Day Week.

That the Canadian railroads are making a supreme effort to legislate a seven-day week, incidentally eliminating, among other matters, overtime for Sundays and legal holidays, is the contention of the federated shops crafts.

Meeting in regular session at the Labor Temple Monday night car men employed at the Grand Trunk car shops, East London, considered a communication from Joseph Corbett, their chief representative, who is attending the joint conference in Montreal between the railroad companies and their car shop employees.

Through the Railway Association of Canada, the railroads are proposing several amendments to wage agreement No. 4 as would affect division No. 4, Railway Employees' Department, American Federation of Labor, with its Canadian membership of about 43,000, nearly 1,000 of whom are employed in London.

Overtime Threatened. Local union chiefs state that the chief bone of contention is the amendment which would eliminate time and a half for holidays and Sundays, meaning that the company would be saving a big expenditure each year. They state that even before any agreement was ever entered into with the company they were compensated in this manner, and they intend to fight the proposed amendment to the end. As similar changes have been proposed by the American railroads, a strike vote of 600,000 shopmen over the boundary line has already been ordered. It is fully expected that a similar vote will be taken in Canada, probably before the Montreal conference is concluded.

The car workers reiterate their determination to combat any attempt to institute the proposed elimination of overtime. Executive members have circulated the unions, pointing out what the company is demanding, and asking "that they loyally support their representatives in their efforts to bring the present negotiations to a successful conclusion."

No Conference Date Set.

Although the Grand Trunk Railroad has already notified through the Railway Association of Canada, its clerks and stationmen that it desires to reopen the present agreement, no date for a joint conference has yet been set, according to W. J. McPherson of Toronto, general organizer for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, who addressed a substantial gathering of the local members of that union Monday night.

Mr. McPherson explained that the belief was current, however, that the Railway Association will be ready to deal with its clerical representatives within a few days. The carshops employees are now in session with the company's delegates at Montreal following which the telegraphers will open arbitrations. It is expected that the clerks will then be dealt with.

The Toronto organizer was vastly optimistic over the probable outcome and held that from an organization point of view the Grand Trunk employees were in splendid shape for a struggle. The C. B. of R. E. states, now includes practically all the clerks and stationmen employed on the Grand Trunk system with applications being regularly submitted for those not yet on the roll.

IRISH END ONE-DAY WALKOUT

Action Was Taken As Protest Against Wave of Militarism.

All Communication With Country Was Suspended For 24 Hours.

LONDON, April 24.—It was after 10 o'clock tonight before messages from Southern Ireland, which had been plunged today into complete silence by a one-day strike of labor in protest against the chaos threatening the country allayed London's anxiety that the anniversary of the 1916 rising would be marked by extensive disorders.

The strike ended at 9 o'clock this evening, the telegraph and telephone wires immediately began bringing in the comforting news from Dublin and Cork that there had been no disorders and nothing more untoward than the posting in Dublin of a bogus proclamation of an Irish Workers' Republic.

Posted Proclamation.

The signatures of six prominent laborites were appended to the proclamation, including that of Tom Johnson, secretary of the Irish labor party. Mr. Johnson said the labor party knew nothing about the proclamation. From the standpoint of labor the strike was entirely successful as all transport and wire communication ceased throughout the day, and business was entirely suspended in Dublin and in Cork. Mass meetings were held in both cities to ratify the action of labor in calling the strike against the militarism in Ireland.

In Cork a resolution was passed pledging the support of those present at the meeting of any action labor may find necessary to end militarism. The chairman of the meeting declared the army should be controlled by the people, and that armed terrorism should cease.

De Valera Addresses Crowd. A late report received from Dublin says a body of armed irregulars took possession of Masonic Hall there at 7 o'clock this evening. They brought bedding and food with them, possibly indicating a protracted stay. The advice added, it was understood, the building was taken over on behalf of the Belfast boycott committee. Eamonn de Valera celebrated the anniversary of the Easter rising by addressing a large meeting at Boland Mills, which was his headquarters during the rebellion.

WILL PAVE NINE WATERLOO STS

Special to London Advertiser. WATERLOO, April 23.—As a result of a special meeting of the town council the recommendation of the Waterloo Board of Works for the laying of pavements on nine streets in this town this summer was adopted. Work will be started as soon as the weather permits. A special meeting of the board will be held to determine the specifications and width of the streets to be paved. The adding of nine newly-paved streets to Waterloo will rank Waterloo first among the towns of Ontario for paved streets.

LOCATE BODY IN DETROIT RIVER

Border Police Believe Man Was Slain and Thrown Into Water.

Efforts Are Being Made To Establish Identity of Victim.

Special to London Advertiser. WINDSOR, April 24.—The river tonight gave up the body of a man, who was first murdered and then thrown into the water, according to Dr. H. Craswell, coroner. The body was found on the American side of Fighting Island by employees of the Michigan Alkalies Plant, Wyandotte, with a bullet hole in the left temple. The body was clad in a light grey suit and dark brown shoes. In a dark tie was a ruby stick pin. The body was that of a man about 40 years old, the coroner said, and had been in water more than three months.

Ruling that there had been foul play, Dr. Craswell at once ordered an investigation. At a late hour the body had not been identified. In one of the coat pockets was a book in which was written in pencil, J. Jansen, 418 Swallow street, Warren, Ohio.

The Detroit police have been asked to investigate its records to determine if such a man has been reported missing in that city. At first it was believed that the body was that of Ross Ellison, Windsor school principal, who disappeared last fall. Ellison, however, was much taller than the body now in the morgue.

Only Three Hold Post of Registrar In County of Oxford in 122 Years

Special to London Advertiser. WOODSTOCK, April 24.—The office of registrar of Oxford county was instituted in the year 1800, and in all these 122 years, only three registrars have occupied the position. G. R. Pattullo, who died last night, being the third on the list. This is unquestionably a record which has never been equalled in the public service of Canada. The first registrar was Thomas Horner who held the office from 1800 till 1834 and who was at the same time the parliamentary representative of the county, politics not being a closed door to public servants in those days. When he died in 1834, he was succeeded by James Ingersoll who held the office for 52 years and died in 1886. He was succeeded by Mr. Pattullo, who had a record of 36 years as registrar of the county. Wallace McWhinnie has been deputy registrar of Oxford for some years. The funeral of the late registrar, Mr. Pattullo, will be held from his late residence, "Burnside," this city, Tuesday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

THE ANNUAL DEPARTMENTAL examinations for all clerks in the London postoffice are being held on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The clerks of the inspector's office are writing the examinations today and the clerks in the city postoffice will write on Wednesday.

AVIATOR GIVEN MILITARY SERVICE

Ottawa, April 25.—(Canadian Press).—Full military honors were accorded Capt. H. L. Holland, M.C., who was killed in an aeroplane smash at Waldemar, Ont., last Sunday, at his funeral here this afternoon. The service began at 2:30 in All Saints' Church, Rev. C. B. Hipburn conducting. The air board, militia and defence headquarters and other branches of the service had many representatives present, and there was also a large attendance of private citizens to pay their last tribute to a distinguished officer who had died on duty. The body was carried on a gun carriage and the military escort was supplied by the R. C. M. P. The regimental band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards was in attendance.

It costs less to enjoy Shirriff's MARMALADE

Made in a Government Inspected Factory

FROM far away Sunny Spain we import carload after carload of genuine Spanish Seville oranges, each orange carefully wrapped in paper. Shirriff's Marmalade contains Spanish Seville oranges (and pure cane sugar) only.

the most rigid of inspections. The slightest blemish would show dark spots in the Marmalade.

Only the very choicest of oranges that it is possible to obtain are used. Every orange is carefully washed. It would be hard to imagine more rigid precautions to insure absolute cleanliness than those that surround every operation in the making of Shirriff's Marmalade.

Shirriff's is absolutely pure, wholesome and appetizing, contains Spanish Seville oranges and pure cane sugar—nothing else.

Genuine Marmalade Flavor—It is these perfect Spanish Seville oranges that impart to Shirriff's its real, original marmalade flavor when blended with pure cane sugar.

Why do we import our oranges thousands of miles? The object is to obtain this genuine marmalade taste which can be attained by no other type of fruit. It is this flavor that explains why hundreds of thousands of users prefer Shirriff's always.

Flavor cannot be imitated—Some folks try to imitate this correct marmalade flavor of Shirriff's by using lemons and grape fruit. It is impossible to reproduce the genuine Seville orange flavor by using any other fruit. When it costs less to enjoy Shirriff's, why not enjoy its original genuine marmalade flavor? You do not want a built-up flavor—you want the genuine.

Making Marmalade is risky—Even under the most favorable conditions, marmalade may not jell properly. It may come out too thin. It is only too easy to accidentally mar both color and flavor. Some folks have lost a whole batch of fruit by burning. Why take risks?

Housewives know only too well what a long drawn-out task it is to make Marmalade, especially when help is scarce. How tedious the cutting and slicing of many oranges, the mixing, the long boiling process! Why endure the worry, risk and hard work just to have a few jars of Marmalade—when Shirriff's costs less?

Costs less than half the price of butter

Shirriff's is one of the least costly of all foods. Costs less per pound than meat—and there is no waste. Cheaper than jam, but unlike some jams it contains no filler or preservative. It is absolutely pure!

Shirriff's Uniform Quality—Always the same absolute purity and wholesome quality. It never varies. Color and consistency always correct. It never thins out.

Always ready for you at your grocer's. Same quality in both tins and jars—costs less in tins.

The Human Clock

"It has long been a favorite idea of mine to compare the human body with my old clock here.

"Without proper attention the old clock gets run down and stops until I wind it up again, and then it ticks away just as heartily and regularly as ever.

"And so it is with the human body, but the great difference I find is that the human clock usually breaks down instead of runs down, because people neglect to take proper care of their health.

"Through all these years I have managed to keep well and to keep young by using restorative treatment whenever there are indications of the system becoming run down.

"Fortunately I learned the value some years ago of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and to its use I largely attribute my healthful condition at this age.

"When I hear people talking about being unable to sleep, or of suffering from nervous headaches, indigestion or worn-out feelings, I ask them, 'Why do you not use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to increase your nervous energy?'"

Make Their Hostess Pay Penalty.

THE Loch Lomond Chapter, I. O. D. E., the baby chapter in London, has written in its bylaws that any hostess serving too elaborate refreshments at a meeting will be required to pay a penalty of $1. Further provision is made that refreshments, to be within bounds, cannot include more than one kind of sandwich with tea or coffee, or, as an alternative, bread and butter and one kind of cake. Firm intention of living up to its bylaws was manifested by the chapter Monday, when the hostess of the afternoon, out of the generosity of her heart, served tea dainties that exceeded the prescribed number. The members of the chapter enjoyed, but they were inexorable on the point of insisting that she pay her fine of $1, to go to work the chapter is undertaking.

The happy couple left on the afternoon train on their wedding trip to Hamilton, Toronto, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Buffalo. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Garland will reside in Paisley.

Suggests Memorial For Great Londoner

A Toronto reader of The Advertiser has written as follows with regard to a short article which appeared in the women's department on Wednesday, April 19:
Editor Women's Department, Advertiser:
I was interested in the report of the Saunders reunion. Mr. William Saunders was my Sunday school teacher in the old New Connexion Methodist Church on Clarence street, when he was a young druggist just out of his apprenticeship with Dr. Salter. I have often wondered why London has not erected some fitting memorial to that wonderful man, whose work has been worth millions of dollars to the agriculturists and horticulturists of Canada. As a musician myself of third generation, though now somewhat in "the sear and yellow leaf," I am pleased to know that the Saunders family takes such an interest in music. J. W. H. Toronto, April 20.

FAREWELLS TREASURER.

The meeting Monday afternoon of the Loch Lomond Chapter, I. O. D. E., held at the home of Mrs. Frank Jones, 1051 Richmond street, also served the purpose of a farewell tea for the popular treasurer, Miss Mary Robertson, who is sailing May 4 to spend several months in her home in the old land. In her absence, Mrs. Fred Tullett will assume the responsibilities of the treasurer. The ambitious young chapter is hoping when the War Memorial Children's Hospital opens to be represented by either crib or cot, just like its older sisters among the primary chapters in London. In consequence, efforts are being bent in this direction.

Layettes made up for the child welfare social work were turned in, and a resolution of sympathy passed for the convenor of the layette committee, Mrs. C. The War Memorial Children's Hospital, which is being built by the province, is expected to be opened in Hamilton this week. Appreciation was expressed of the courtesy of Mrs. A. H. BACHELORS OR MAIDENS?

Early were present at the April meeting of the Lobo Women's Institute held at the home of Mrs. H. D. Steele, of which features of special interest were a paper by Mrs. N. A. Campbell on "Laws For Women and Children in Ontario," and a humorous paper presented by Mrs. George Graham on the subject, "Which is the best to have in the community, bachelors or maiden ladies?" Mrs. A. Fraser replying. The institute branch decided to help Russian relief with a subscription of $25. A solo by Miss Gladys McIntyre and duet by Mrs. Homer Edwards and Miss Selma Smith rounded out the program. Arrangements were made for the annual meeting to be held May 17 in the Masonic Hall.

GUIDERS CARRY HOME SWEETEST MEMORIES

Provincial Training Camp Breaks Up Monday—Farewell Visit Paid Commissioner.

"Qualifying for the 200-yard dash?" was the question gaily called after two young women in the Guide officers' uniform as they raced across the Grand Trunk platform for their train Monday afternoon, swinging between them a big suitcase. Tucked under the "out" arm was a huge oblong box. Half a dozen merry faces looked out of the vestibule doors, faces of Guide leaders, each of whom had arrived a few minutes earlier, a big box of sweets tucked under her arm.

It was the last of the second Ontario provincial Guide leaders' camp, homebound after a memorable Easter week at the Cronyn farm.

"Only thing we could not get out at the farm," was the way they explained the candy boxes.

Camp broke up Monday morning with folding of bedding and packing up of cots and regretful farewells to every nook and corner of the fascinating old grey stone house of the many balconies, with final visits to the trout-filled river bank, the flower-dappled, wooded hillsides, the spring, from which gushed the purest, coldest, sweetest water in the world.

Lunch was the last meal together, then the trip by motor into the city, with a visit on the way downtown to the provincial commissioner, Mrs. P. P. Betts, at her Queen's avenue home.

Had the week been a satisfactory one?

"It was a wonderful camp," the girls chorused enthusiastically. "But we didn't get quite so much work done as we expected," said an honest maiden. "You see, we had so many visitors."

Thursday only was to be visitors' day, according to original plans, but with a sizeable snowstorm the night before and cold that made even a Girl Guide shiver, the less hardy "general public" couldn't be expected to choose such a day for a pleasure jaunt to the country. That a pleasure jaunt to the country. That a pleasure jaunt to the country. That a pleasure jaunt to the country.

Especially welcome among the distinguished visitors was the Dominion commissioner, Mrs. H. D. Warren of Toronto who, without even a telegram of warning, suddenly appeared at the Cronyn farm, inspecting every thing as enthusiastically as the girls themselves had done, going out with the members of the class to see them build their fires and engage in other tests, and declaring herself delighted with all she saw, and keenly interested in the provincial training camp.

A few were obliged to go home Saturday, the majority rejecting they were able to stay for the quiet Sunday, the service conducted by Rev. G. Q. Warner, and the "last of everything."

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

AUNT NANNIE'S FUND.
Dear Cynthia,—I noticed in last night's paper that you had received some pink plants that would give, so I am writing for her address. And will you please forward this letter to Esme? Dear friend, will you please put inclosed 65 cents to Aunt Nannie's paper? I have some aster seeds that I will send to any wanting them for donations to Aunt Nannie's fund again this year. I am inclosing a mite for the S. C. H. fund. I remain, as ever, A MYSTERY.

It is very good of you, Mystery, to renew Aunt Nannie's subscription for another month, as she enjoys the Mail-Box so much. I am forwarding you Silverland's address, also forwarding your letter. Many thanks for the hospital mite.

PEACH HAS MOVED.

Dear Miss Grey,—It is some time since I wrote to the Mail-Box, but since then we have moved. I would like some snapdragon seeds, please, if you have any left. I would also like some crocheted patterns, and am inclosing a few you can keep for Mail-Box use. I have some baby chicks that came out Easter Monday; they are having a good time sunning themselves just now. Inclosed find a mite.

PEACH.

Thank you, Peach, for the inclosed patterns and hospital mite. I am sending you a few patterns, which I think you will like, also some snapdragon seeds.

TARTS AND COOKIES.

Dear Miss Grey,—After an absence of a few weeks, I have just come back to say hello to the Boxites and yourself. I have two correspondents and hope I may get some more, although I will not be too greedy. I think it is very interesting writing to someone you do not know. One can imagine a lot, can they not? I am inclosing two good recipes:

LOSS OF APPETITE

Pimples, Boils, Eruptions, etc.—Mental and Physical Weakness. Are all very prevalent just now, and are positive proof that the blood is wanting in the power to defend the body against contagious and infectious diseases. They show conclusively that the blood needs thorough cleansing, enriching and vitalizing. Do not put off giving attention to these dangerous symptoms. Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today and begin taking it at once. Remember, this medicine has given satisfaction to three generations, as a treatment for the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys, and for catarrh, rheumatism and other common diseases. It builds up the system, makes food taste good, and helps you to eat and sleep well. For a gentle laxative or an active cathartic, take Hood's Pills. You will like them.

Radio Radiations

Amateurs are requested to make their queries as brief as possible to facilitate the publication and answering of the questions. Address your communications to the Radio Editor, The London Advertiser.

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

TUNING a radio receiving set is an art in itself.

Few amateurs take the pains to learn it. They are in too much of a hurry to start listening.

In a loose coupler the operator who wants to get everything, pushes his secondary completely inside the primary, making a tight coupling. For selectiveness in tuning, it is imperative that loose coupling be employed.

This weeds out interference. Of course, there is some loss in energy. But since it is useless to try to tune in with tight coupling when there are several stations transmitting on the same wave length, loose coupling will have to be resorted to.

In this, there is no direct connection. The further away the secondary. The current received in the primary in the form of electro-magnetic waves is induced in the secondary. The further away the secondary, the harder it is for the inductive relation to come about.

Go over all contacts in your set frequently. Those connections which are not soldered should be kept free from all dust and foreign substances. All currents received are very feeble and the slightest resistance offered them by a poor connection decreases the efficiency of the set considerably.

A poor ground on the receiver is the most frequent cause of loss of energy. The best ground is the cold water pipe in the house, or a large iron plate or pipe driven into the ground. Be sure to scrape the connecting surface and solder the grounding.

Keep these pointers in mind and you will find that tuning in will be made much easier.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

VALLEY OF VOICES

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

But another voice called out, "Go back! Oh, go back!"

THE next valley that the Twins thing he wished, which was likely to come to them was the Kingdom of the Korshnotts was called the Valley of Voices.

Everything looked all right—indeed, it was a lovely place, but the dove told them that Halloo Hallo lived there, and that as he was another cousin of Twelve Toes the Sorcerer, it was more than likely he could cause them trouble. "I'll go ahead," said the dove, "and sit on the top branch of the tallest tree on the other side of the valley. Watch where I go, and follow—no matter what happens."

But no sooner had the dove disappeared than a voice right beside them shouted fiercely, "Sit down!" "Nancy and Nick were so surprised that they did as they were told. Down they popped on a fallen log, and looked around wondering to see who had spoken. But not a soul appeared. Old Halloo Hallo lived in a vine-covered hut in the middle of the valley, but as he was miles off, the Twins couldn't see him, of course. He could throw his voice as far as he wished, and in any direction he wished, and imitate any-

Ironized Yeast Brings Amazing Improvement in Movie Beauty

ANOTHER startling evidence of Ironized Yeast's value as a weight-builder! In a test conducted under the supervision of a physician, Miss Dorothy Byrne, pretty artist's model and movie beauty, gains 10½ pounds—in only 22 days! Miss Byrne's measurements, taken before and after the test, are given at the left.

A striking example—yet by no means an exceptional one. For it is not at all unusual for thin, nervous, overworked or run-down folk to gain five pounds and more on the very first package of Ironized Yeast!

Results in Half the Usual Time! The reason Ironized Yeast brings such amazing results is because it not only contains just the right amount of all three essential vitamins, but in addition contains a type of yeast which has positively no equal as a reconstructive agent—yeast which is cultured expressly for medicinal purposes, and which is entirely different from the yeast found in ordinary yeast tablets.

But even more important than this is the fact that this yeast has been ironized—or treated through a scientific process with a special form of easily assimilated organic iron, similar to the iron found in spinach. When yeast is ironized in this manner it is found that results are not only more permanent, but are secured just twice as quickly!

Deaf May Hear

EARL C. HANSON, radio expert, and inventor, has perfected a radio set that will enable deaf persons to hear low conversation from a distance of 60 feet. He calls it a vacuumphone. The heart of this instrument is the vacuum tube amplifier, shown in the picture. Besides this there are a vacuum tube detector, a sound-box and head receiver.

Questions concerning the natural wave length of aerials are always found in the daily mail. Because of our limited space we are forced to answer them collectively.

The natural period of vibration, or wave length, as it is called, can be approximated by adding the length of the aerial, the length of the lead-in and the ground length of all three by 4½ and dividing by 3.

For instance, an aerial 120 feet long with a lead-in of 30 feet and a ground of 18 feet has a total length of 168 feet. Divide this by 4½, which gives a total of 756 feet. Divide this by 3 to change it approximately to meters. This gives the natural wave period of 252 meters.

This holds true for single or double wire horizontal or vertically swung aerials of the inverted 'L' type. In computing the wave of the T or umbrella type multiply by 5 instead of 4½ and proceed as above.

The action of lightning is one thing which science will not definitely try to define. It has a general trend toward certain actions, but can never be depended upon to do the same thing twice under apparently similar conditions. And because of this uncertainty it is always wise absolutely to disconnect your instrument during a thunder storm. All that is necessary is to loosen up the aerial binding post and pull the lead-in wire away from its connection and let it hang loose and away from the instrument.

Lightning usually takes the most direct path to the ground, but it does not necessarily follow that it will follow this rule. So take every precaution to protect your apparatus.

few precautions she will find herself well paid.

As soon as the asparagus comes from the market unwrap it and wash it carefully. Do not trim for cooking. When the water the asparagus is washed in is clear, lift the stalks from the water and wrap loosely in a soft towel.

Let stand in a cool place for several hours. This will freshen and crisp asparagus in a truly remarkable fashion. When ready to cook, snap off the tough ends and remove the coarse scales from the stalks.

Sand and dirt lodged under the scales and it is impossible to make asparagus perfectly clean without removing them.

Creamed Asparagus on Toast. Two bunches asparagus, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper.

Snap off tough ends of asparagus. Tie in four small bundles. Stand the bundles with the heads up in a deep stew pan. Pour in boiling water. Do not cover the heads. Let them remain about an inch out of water. Add one teaspoon salt and boil 10 minutes. Add enough more boiling water to cover the heads and cook 10 or 15 minutes longer, till tender.

If asparagus is cooked this way the heads are tender, but not mushy and broken. Remove from water and place each bundle on a square of hot buttered toast. Cut and remove string and pour over the sauce. To make the sauce, melt butter. Do not let the butter bubble.

Stir in flour and cook and stir over a slow fire for five minutes. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper and pour over asparagus on toast. If this is being served as a company luncheon dish, garnish with strips of pimento.

Plain Boiled Asparagus. Prepare asparagus as in preceding rule. Cook in boiling salted water for 20 minutes, allowing the heads to stand out of the water for the first 10 minutes. Remove from water and put each bundle in a lemon ring. Cut and remove string. Pour over melted butter and sprinkle with asparagus. This is perhaps the most attractive way to serve asparagus as a dinner vegetable.

Asparagus, Country Style. Wash asparagus and cut in inch lengths. Cook in boiling water for 20 minutes. Add one-half teaspoon salt for every cup of asparagus. Cook in just enough water to prevent burning and do not add the salt until the last 10 minutes of cooking.

When the asparagus is tender and the water is nearly boiled away, add one-quarter cup cream. Heat to the boiling point and serve in side dishes. All the minerals are preserved in asparagus cooked this way. This dish is especially good for invalids and children.

When preparing asparagus for an invalid extra care should be taken. Use only the tips and the tenderest portions. One tough, stringy bite may spoil an otherwise delicious and nourishing dish for an ill person. The tougher ends should be used for soup.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Fate had seen fit to shape the life BARRY HOUSTON into a series of tragic molds. A bitter experience in his past caused his father to lose faith in his son and therefore bequeath to him timber holdings in Tabernacle only on condition that a high out-put be maintained.

Mysterious accidents have prevented this and Houston, arriving from Boston, finds that this is due to the treachery of his mill superintendent, FRED THAYER. Houston is assisted in his work in the timber country by

BATISTE RENAUD, an eccentric French-Canadian, whose life has been saddened by the double tragedy of his son's death in France and the unsolved murder of his wife. Houston discharges Thayer despite the remonstrances of

AGNES JERDON, a girl who has a mysterious hold over Houston. The mill is burned. Houston decides to carry on the fight when he is confronted with the lease which turns his timber right over to a neighboring lumber company. Houston claims he doesn't remember signing such a lease. In the presence of MEDDAINE ROBINETTE, to whom Houston is attracted, Thayer says Houston probably doesn't remember the night he murdered his cousin.

TOM LANGDON, GO ON WITH THE STORY.

White-hot with anger, Barry Houston lurched forward, to find himself caught in the arms of the sheriff and thrown back. He whirled and stopped, looking with glazed, deadened eyes into the blanched, horrified face of a girl who evidently stood poised in revulsion a moment before she turned, and almost running, hurried to mount her horse and ride away. And the strength of anger left the muscles of Barry Houston. The red flame of indignation turned to a sudden, dead thing. He could only realize that Meddaine Robinette had heard him accused without a single statement given in his own behalf; that Meddaine, the girl of his smoke-wreathed dreams, now fully and thoroughly believed him—a murderer!

CHAPTER IX. DULLY, Houston turned back to the sheriff and to the giggling Batiste, trying to fathom it all. Weakly he motioned toward Thayer, and his words, when they came, were hollow and expressionless:

"That's a lie, Sheriff. I'll admit that I have been accused of murder, but I was acquitted. You say that nothing was said by the court action—that that's all I have to say in my behalf. In regard to this, I'll obey the court order until I can prove to the judge's satisfaction that this whole thing is a fraud and a fake. In the meantime, please postpone 'do you care to go with me, Batiste'."

Heavily, silently, the French-Canadian joined him and together they walked down the narrow road to the camp. Neither spoke for a long time.

"Well, Batiste," came in strained tones, "I might as well hear it now."

"You certainly did, sir."

"You're lying!"

"I don't lie, sir. I attested the signature and saw you read both contracts. Pardon, sir, but if any one's lying, sir—it's yourself!"

CHAPTER X. TEN minutes after that, Barry Houston was alone in his office. Jenkins was gone, discharged, and Houston felt a sort of relief in the knowledge that he had departed.

He returned to Tabernacle and attempted the only solution which he must secure timber from Meddaine Robinette and bid on the railroad contract.

Houston felt that he would be presuming to ask it of her—himself a stranger against whom had come the accusation of murder. Yet, without, in a way, he welcomed the chance to see her and to seek to explain to her the deadly thrusts which Fred Thayer had sent against him.

Meddaine's hand trembled slightly as she extended it to Batiste. Houston she received with a bow—forced, he thought.

"We have come for business, Meddaine," Batiste announced. "M'sieu Houston, he have need for flume site."

She seemed to hesitate then and Houston took a sudden resolve. It might as well be now as later.

"Miss Robinette," he began, coming forward, "I realize that all this needs some explanation. Especially," and he halted, "about myself."

Houston came directly to the question. "It's simply this, Miss Robinette. If I am guilty of those things, you don't want to have anything to do with me. But I am not guilty, and that it all has been a horrible blunder of circumstances. It is very true in one sense," and his voice lowered—"that about two years ago in Boston, I was arrested and tried for murder."

"So Mr. Thayer said," but not for the reason Thayer gave. They couldn't make a case. A worthless cousin, Tom Langdon, was murdered. They said I did it with a wooden mallet.

"I was acquitted—but not for the reason Thayer gave. They couldn't make a case. A worthless cousin, Tom Langdon, was murdered. They said I did it with a wooden mallet."

Being On the Fringe of Fashion

NEITHER the advent of the knicker nor the increased popularity of the sports dress has shaken the prestige of the separate skirt. What every woman knows is that there are a dozen times in a week when a separate skirt, worn with a good blouse, is indispensable.

Fringe is perhaps the most conspicuous note in the new skirts, but distinction comes in the surprising ways in which the fringe is employed.

Fringe often outlines the side as well as the bottom of the skirt, or is placed in rows upon the fabric, up and down, round about, spirally, like a barber pole, or in broken lengths here and there across the front or sides of the skirt. The fringe varies from one to two or three inches, and may consist of fraying or real fringe.

Tweeds and homespuns had it all their own way during the early spring months, and just now no man can tell whether the reaction to all this roughness will be a demand for rough fabrics or the very soft and flowing ones. Embroidery will undoubtedly be popular, as it satisfies all tastes, being light, yet of a rough weave. Ratine also promises to be popular, and the new kind of silk jersey which looks like shimmering Turkish bath towels on one side and is variously named, probably will be much worn.

Among the silks, the crepes seem destined to enjoy the greatest popularity. They will be in white colors, figured and plain. Special sport Canton crepes come with deep Paisley borders, and others are to be found with satin stripes or broadened figures.

which I had taken from a prize fight, and which had been used to hammer on the gong for the beginning and the end of the rounds. I had been seen to take it from the fight, and it was found the next morning beside Langdon. There was human blood on it. I had been the last person seen with Langdon. But they couldn't convince the jury: I went free, as I should have done. I was innocent!"

Houston, white now with the memories and with the necessity of retelling again in the presence of a girl who, to him, stood for all that could mean happiness, gritted his teeth for the determination to go on with the grisly thing, to hide nothing in the answers to the question which she might ask. But Meddaine Robinette, standing beside the window, the color gone from her cheeks, one hand fingering the curtains, eyes turned without, gave no evidence that she had heard.

"I hadn't seen Tom Langdon in five years. Always," he looked on him as a sort of black sheep. He asked for my father and appeared anxious to see him. I told him that father was out of town. Then he said he would stay in Boston until he came back, that he had information

"We started home—for he had announced that he was going to spend the night with me. Persons about us heard him. It was not far to the house and we decided to walk. On the way, he demanded the mallet for himself and pulled it out of my pocket. I struggled with him for it, finally, however, to be bested, and started away. I went home and to bed. About 4 o'clock in the morning, I was awakened by the police. They had found Tom Langdon dead, with his skull crushed, evidently by the blow of a club or a hammer. They said I did it."

tive council and the other departments. The present system, he said, was based on the constitution of the Senate of the United States, which was undemocratic and unrepresentative. He urged that representation be according to the strength, financial and numerical, of each diocese.

Prepare Pension Scheme.

"There is a general pension scheme being prepared by Prof. Mackenzie of Toronto University, on the lines of the scheme now in force in the church in the United States," he said. "This scheme will be actually sound. In the end it will be better than our present scheme, but it will cost a large sum to introduce. About $1,000,000 or $1,250,000 will be needed to meet the accrued liabilities of men now ordained, and then 7 1/2 per cent will have to be paid on all clerical stipends." The bishop commended the scheme and recommended the appointment of a committee to study it and report.

Roman Catholic school claims came next for review. If the claims now put forward were demanded as "constitutional rights" the place to appeal to was the law courts and not the Legislature. If, however, the object of the supporters of separate schools was to secure the extension of existing rights, then this agitation to influence the Legislature was quite intelligible.

"The government refused to be stampeded into action," he said, "and the question is to be submitted to the courts as it should have been done at the beginning. We are assured, however, that there will be no laying down of arms until the 'final authority' has said, you have won, or you are defeated. Should the courts pronounce against the claims, we shall probably be told that the 'final authority' is not the privy council, but the Legislature of Ontario, and the agitation will be revived. What then is to be our attitude?"

"The only way of settling the question satisfactorily," said the bishop, "is by a direct appeal to the sovereign people by a referendum, not an appeal along with other appeals at an election, but a special appeal, unconfused by other appeals, and calling for a direct answer 'Yes' or 'No.' Personally," he said, "we were opposed to any kind of separate schools in this new country."

Schools a Great Force.

"The schools are the greatest unifying force in the community. Every variation from the one common school system is a weakening of that force and therefore works against national unity. The practical results of sixty years of separate schools has been the emphasizing rather than the healing of divisions. The extension of the system would still further imperil national unity. "In itself one can see no reason why the Roman Catholics should have a separate school system any more than Presbyterians or Methodists or Anglicans. They got separate schools at first because they played party politics successfully. So far as 'rights' go they had none. It is always unwise to create a privileged class. So to have established separate schools at all was a mistake. "But," said the bishop, "we are not now dealing with the question whether we shall have separate schools or not. The issue here, established by a solemn compact, entered into as a finality in 1863. It is not generally known that that act was imposed upon Ontario by the votes of Quebec. Nevertheless, Ontario has lived loyally by it for sixty years and is prepared to abide loyally by it today if let alone—if the interpretation placed upon the act by Roman Catholics themselves is allowed to stand.

"The responsibility for disturbing the peace of sixty years rests upon those who are trying to change that interpretation, and who by so doing may re-open the whole question of separate schools. The present claims of the supporters of separate schools are two, viz, that separate schools were intended to cover education from the alphabet to matriculation, i. e., to cover what is called secondary education, and that they are entitled to a larger share of the taxes.

"Both must be considered in reference to the act of 1863. As regards the first, the bishop said that the act of 1863 classifies the separate schools always with the common schools. The preamble of the act so classifies them. They share the same grants, and their trustees have the same powers as the trustees of the common schools. The aims, duties and scope of the schools are the same as those of the common schools. There is no hint anywhere in the act that they have any powers other than those of the common schools as regards the scope of their teaching. The bishops of grammar schools as the government provision for secondary education to prepare men for the university, for which Roman Catholics were taxed equally with others without opposition or protest, excludes the contention that the separate schools were potentially empowered to give secondary education. The argument from the limit of common school age between 5 and 21 is wholly fallacious. If the reasoning of the supporters of separate schools is correct, then all the public schools are empowered to teach from the alphabet to matriculation, which is absurd. The demand for separate, secondary or high schools is therefore something entirely new and not specified or even implied in the act of 1863.

Discusses Tax Claims.

"As regards the claim to a larger share of the taxes, it is hard to see how under the act of 1863 they can claim more than they now enjoy. Every Roman Catholic can now allocate all his school rates to the separate schools. If he has stock in a company, he can direct that the portion of school rates represented by his stock shall go to the support of separate schools. What more can he desire?"

"If there are any concerns without individual shareholders such as public utilities whose taxes are undesignated, there is justice in the law which says that they must go to the public school system, because the responsibility to provide school accommodation for all rests, not upon the separate school board, but upon the public school board. The Roman Catholics need not by law provide any schools even for their own children; but the public school boards must provide school facilities for all, including Roman Catholics, if necessary. "If, therefore, there are any taxes undesignedly there is justice in the law which says that they must go to the support of the system which is compelled by law to provide schools for all rather than that they should be shared with another system which has no such responsibility. Of course, no claim to such taxes can be made under the terms of the act of 1863. Therefore," said the bishop, "to vary the act of 1863, whether in the way of taxation or in the way of extending the scope of separate schools, would be unjust. The former would be unjust to the public school system, on which alone lies the responsibility and the expense of providing common school facilities for all classes in the community; the latter would emphasize and increase the divisive tendencies of the separate school system, and so be prejudicial to national unity and wholly contrary to the spirit and the letter of the act of 1863.

The Bishop Then Deal with the peril of the estrangement of the Middle West, from both east and west, but more especially from the east. The prairie provinces formed a solid block politically out of tune with the far west and with the east. The danger is aggravated by the way of strip of rock between east and west and by the tariff and by the presence of a large foreign-born element in the west, especially from the United States, the immigrants from which brought with them anti-British prejudices. The bishop urged a greater intercourse between west and east by travel, and suggested that the railroads ought to establish cheap excursion rates by which they would help to build up the national life. Then we ought to stop immigration from the United States and other foreign countries for a period of years, and re-double our efforts to fill the west with immigrants from the British Isles. Our immigration policy should aim at two things: the unity of Canada and the maintenance of our British citizenship. This can be best achieved by filling the west with British settlers. Then west and east would be predominantly British. He appealed also to the Canadian newspaper world to establish a weekly paper like the Literary Digest in the States or Public Opinion in the old country, so that Canadians might be informed of the trend of public opinion in all parts of the country. As regards the tariff, we needed to keep in mind the same two governing principles as in our immigration policy, viz, the unity of Canada and British connection. The former is practical, the other more or less sentimental, but far-reaching in its influence. It is not always easy to combine the practical and the sentimental, but unless we do it in Canada, there will be trouble.

Lauds Late Sir Wilfrid.

"Perhaps the greatest gift of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier was that he had the power to do this in a pre-eminent degree as regards Canada and the empire. Let us hope that our statesmen in the days to come will have some of the same power." The last subject on which the bishop dwelt was non-Christian propaganda, especially theosophy, which was originated by the notorious Madame Blavatsky. He warned the people against the teaching of the acknowledged leaders of theosophy as subversive of the Christian faith. The aims of the Theosophical Society were innocent enough, but the teaching of its founders was not. Their idea of God and of Christ and of man and man's destiny were wholly contrary to the Christian. He warned people especially of the danger to Christians of the habit of theosophists of using Christian language in a non-Christian sense, and their use of it is so Christian in sound that people fail to realize how far they are being carried away from the Christian position.

"What we have to be on guard against," he said, "is not the ostensible aims of the Theosophical Society, but the teaching of the accepted expedients of theosophy and their insidious misuse of Christian language. The latter practice is dishonest, and the former is subversive of the Christian faith."

Nearly the whole of the morning session, which was the first business session of the synod, was devoted to the charge. The report of the year's progress was received enthusiastically by the 259 or so delegates, both clerical and lay, who had assembled there.

References to the separate school question and the charge dealing with the immigration problem, were greeted with considerable applause. Immediately after the roll call, when the bishop announced that a quorum was present, R. M. Perkins was re-elected honorary clerical secretary and R. E. Davis was elected honorary lay secretary. The auditors, too, were re-elected, and an increase of $50 a year was voted them because the business of the church had increased so much during the year.

When the secretary reported on the assessment payments, Rev. Quintin Warner asked if all churches paid their assessments promptly would not the assessments be made that the arrears in any one year were never more than $200 or $300, and that this year they did not total more than $150. The assessments for the past year totalled $5,000.

Before the assembly adjourned notice of motion was given on a resolution which would set aside each quarter one Sunday to be devoted to missionary services. A fitting sermon would be preached on that day and literature would be distributed.

The bishop's charge was referred to a committee for consideration.

Hold Opening Session. With a divine service in St. Paul's Cathedral in the evening, preceded by a meeting of the executive and the 17th annual gathering of the Huron Diocesan Clericus, with election of officers in afternoon, the 65th session of the Synod of the Diocese of Huron opened in this city Monday. Clergymen were present from all parts of the diocese.

Rev. Dr. T. B. Westgate, D.D.,

field secretary, M. S. C. C. Winnipeg, was given the honor of preaching the sermon which marked the opening of the gathering. The service was in the form of an appeal, Dr. Westgate sending forth a stirring call for workers, and the offertory was devoted to the Mission fund of the diocese.

Appeals For Workers.

"We want in the Church of England," Dr. Westgate said, "prophets who will stand out against the sins of the world as did those of old when they laid the foundation stones of God's spiritual temple. For who will say that men of today do not worship mammon as their ancestors worshipped their pagan gods in primitive times. The world pursues its god of gold and men sacrifice the finest in their lives, and their sons and daughters, to satisfy the craving. There is worship, too, of Baal and Bhudda. My brothers, cry out against it, spare them not, or we shall be overwhelmed."

Dr. Westgate outlined the building of God's temple from the time of the first prophets, and the time of the apostles, when the foundation was completed until the present day, when the church everywhere was sending forth workers to hasten the completion of his kingdom.

The struggles of the church in the early days, first against the Jewish priesthood, then after the conquest of Palestine, the persecutions of Rome were vividly pictured. Then came an account of better times, when Rome, Christianized, sent out missionaries to all the known world. This was followed by the black medieval age when the church was almost destroyed, to be saved later by the reformation. The past two centuries, he said, were marked by a great revival in missionary work.

The people reclaimed for God in all parts of the church were stones with which the temple was being built, and no matter what their caste or station God found a niche in which they fitted. Just what the English Church was doing in the foreign field, Dr. Westgate continued, was shown by the Lambeth convention in England in 1921, when representatives from every corner of the earth were present. In conclusion the speaker made a plea for workers. "Let us not aim at great show of wealth or numbers," he said, "but let us work in humility under the guidance of the Holy Spirit."

As Separate Parish.

Considerable business was transacted at the executive meeting in the afternoon. The bishop announced that the Russian famine fund had reached the splendid total of $6,500.

It was decided to set aside the Church of Epiphany in Manor Park as a separate parish to date from the appointment of an incumbent.

Permission was given to Christ Church of Listowel to mortgage the rectory for the sum of $1,500. St. John's Church of Alvington and All Saints Church of Woodstock were given permission to erect rectories.

St. James Church of Dundalk requested the synod to sanction the erection of a new church building on a new site. The request was granted. The sum of $200 was voted to Sombra to help repair the church building which was damaged in a recent windstorm. Rodney was granted the sum of $150 to help carry on services.

Rev. Frank Vair of Wallacestown was elected president of the Huron Diocesan Clericus for the ensuing year. The other officers were Vice-president, Rev. A. R. E. Garrett, and secretary-treasurer, Rev. P. H. Streeter of Florence.

An executive committee composed of Rev. W. D. Davis of Thamesford, Rev. R. C. Capper, and Rev. F. Anderson was appointed.

Addresses were given by Rev. R. D. Mess, Rev. S. S. Hardy of Goderich, and by H. D. Dickinson, choirmaster and organist at St. Paul's Cathedral. Mr. Dickinson spoke on the relationship of organist, choir and incumbent.

Notices of Motion.

Many notices of motion for amendments to several canons were given which will come up for discussion later in the session. Among others were:

1.—To make some provision for the appointment of active dignitaries who will take the place of those who retire on superannuation, the latter to retain their standing as emeriti.

2.—To issue a general permit to clergymen from other dioceses who have come to reside within the Diocese of Huron in order to enable them to officiate occasionally in parishes in the diocese, but they shall not be entitled to vote in the synod or participate in the beneficiary funds of the diocese.

3.—To exclude all salaried officers of any church from acting on parochial committees for the election or appointment of a new rector.

Several changes were proposed in the widows' and orphans' fund canon, in order to put every clergyman in the diocese on the fund without payment of any subscription or entrance fee. For this purpose a total of $75,000 is to be appropriated from the Anglican Forward Movement receipts and devoted towards this fund.

In connection with it will also be proposed that on the death of any clergyman a check for $500 be taken out of the interest on the Gustave Hamilton bequest and sent at once to his widow in order that she may meet the extraordinary and immediate expenses that will occur. A larger provision is also proposed for the children of the deceased clergy, especially from the age of 15 to 18 years, when they will be entitled to the sum of $100 per annum. The executive committee will also propose.

They are Happy and Well

You Should Be the Same

A LARGE number of women's ailments are not surgical ones. Serious displacements or radical changes have not yet taken place.

A tiny part in a fine clock may become loose and cause the clock to gain or lose. If not attended to in time, the part may fall from its place and cause serious trouble. So it is with women's ailments, they start from simple causes; but if allowed to continue, produce serious conditions.

When the warning symptoms are first noted, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present troublesome ailment, and to prevent the development of serious trouble.

Hamilton, Ontario—"I have suffered for three years from a female trouble and consequent weakness, pain and irregularity which kept me in bed four or five days each month. I nearly went crazy with pains in my back. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Hamilton Spectator and I took it. Now I have no pain and am quite regular, unless I overwork or stay on my feet from early morning until late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to several friends."—Mrs. EMILY BEZCROFT, 16 Douglas St., Hamilton, Ont.

Pine Grove, Ontario—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles. I would have headaches, backaches, pains between my shoulders and under my shoulder-blades and bad feelings in the lower parts on each side, in the groins. I was sometimes unable to do my work and felt very badly. My mother-in-law told me about the Vegetable Compound and I got some right away. It has done me more good than any other medicine I ever took and I recommend it to my neighbors."—Mrs. EDGAR SIMMONS, R.R. No. 2, Pine Grove, Ontario.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not stop more coming. What you have to do is take

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS and the blood will be cleansed of all its impurities, and then every boil will disappear.

Mr. Roy McSwain, High Bank, P. E. I., writes: "I was troubled with boils for some time, and had as many as fifteen on my neck at once. After taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters they commenced to get better, and after I had taken two bottles I was relieved of them and felt much better. I think B. B. BITTER DEBATE MARKS MOTION BY M'MASTER

Premier King Informs Brome Member He Disapproves Resolution.

MEIGHEN HURLS CHARGE

Claims Prime Minister Displayed "Appalling" Inconsistency.

BULLETIN.
OTTAWA, April 24.—The McMaster resolution was defeated by 142 to 59 in the house when the vote was taken at 1 o'clock this morning. All Western Ontario members, with the exception of A. L. Hodgins and J. D. Drummond, Progressive members, J. L. Stansell and Franklin White of Elgin and London respectively, were not in the house to vote.

OTTAWA, April 24.—(By Canadian Press).—Eagerly awaited, the resolution of A. B. McMaster, Liberal member for Brome, on directorates and cabinet portfolios, came before the house tonight; and debate, thereon was marked by a bitterness such as never before has been seen in the present Parliament. House and galleries filled rapidly once Mr. McMaster rose to his feet. Every move was followed with excited interest.

In brief, the resolution expressed the opinion that ministers of the crown, on their appointments as such, should resign all directorships held by them in banks, trust companies, insurance companies, transportation companies or public utility companies.

The house presented such a scene as when Mr. McMaster submitted his more sweeping bill of last session, a bill which went down on second reading by 105 to 54.

But the setting had changed. Then Mr. McMaster spoke from the shades of opposition, and the government which opposed his measure was a Conservative administration. Today he spoke from government benches, and it was a Liberal prime minister who announced that so far as the resolution reflected on those associated with him in his cabinet he must absolutely decline to vote for it.

King Opposes Resolution.
The prime minister made a special reference to Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice, mentioned during the debate, as director of a number of financial and commercial concerns. He told of the invitation extended to Sir Lomer Gouin to join the cabinet, and of Sir Lomer's hesitancy again to enter the vicissitudes of public life if it meant severance of his financial and commercial associations.

"I told him," added the prime minister, "that I would not think of pressing my own individual opinions in matters of this kind as against the judgment of himself or any of my colleagues in the present administration." As between the prime minister and his colleagues the attitude was "trust me all in all, or not at all."

Sir Lomer himself was not in the house during the afternoon. The prime minister's speech was followed by one from Hon. Mr. Meighen, leader of the opposition. Mr. Meighen charged the prime minister with "appalling" inconsistency.

Last year the prime minister had stood in support of the McMaster bill as to want to extend it to the leader of the opposition. Six of the men now on treasury benches voted for the bill of last year; today, they were sitting side by side with directors of corporations who would have been denied cabinet posts had the bill passed.

Former Bill More Drastic.
"The prime minister," exclaimed Mr. Meighen, "had to decide to take capacity or principle. Without a moment's hesitation he abandoned principle."

In moving his resolution Mr. McMaster said it did not propose that members of the government who were directors in private companies should resign their directorships; but such a company would not have the privilege of doing business with the government. The resolution did ask that members of the government, who were directors in large banks, transportation companies, et cetera, should resign their directorships in the public interest.

First in Class At Western Fair

It was not desired to discuss the resolution on a personal basis, but rather as a matter of principle. The bill introduced by Mr. McMaster last session was more drastic than the present resolution, and provided that fifteen days after his appointment a cabinet minister must resign from any directorships. The modification had been made because of the arguments which were advanced against the bill last year, and which showed that it was unwise to go as far as was proposed then. Mr. McMaster was, however, returning to the charge with respect to cabinet ministers holding directorships such as stated in the resolution. The time of a cabinet minister was fully occupied with the affairs of his department. It was impossible to serve two masters.

There was no stronger argument in favor of the resolution than what had happened in connection with the Merchants Bank of Canada.

Cites Ballantyne.
The former minister of marine and fisheries (Mr. Ballantyne) was a director of the Merchants Bank of Canada. The assets of the Merchants Bank were sold to the Bank of Montreal. He had no criticism to offer on this transaction. It was probably for the best, but, Mr. Ballantyne was also a director of the Royal Trust Company, which was generally believed to be "a side door to the Bank of Montreal." It was difficult to know whether Mr. Ballantyne had represented the interests of the Bank of Montreal, the Merchants Bank, or the Canadian people in the transaction. He had no charges to make in the matter, but he thought ministers should not be put in such a questionable position.

For a cabinet minister to hold a position in which he was a trustee of the people's money and yet unable to perform the duties required by this trust was unfair to himself and unfair to the people.

The world was struggling for economic equality, and people saw, with some dismay, that the money power was rapidly getting into fewer and fewer hands.

Mr. McMaster declared that his bill was in line with the prohibitory clauses in the Senate and House of Commons act and also in the act concerning judgeships.

Reads From Act.

He read from the act governing the railway commission to show that the members of that body were forbidden to hold directorships in railway companies or in companies manufacturing railway equipment. The cabinet was a court of appeal from the judgments of the railway commission. Surely the court of appeal must also be under the same limitation.

Mr. McMaster understood that Sir Robert Borden and Sir Thomas White had resigned all their directorships on becoming members of the government in Canada. The best practice in Great Britain, France and the United States was for cabinet ministers to resign their directorships in private companies.

It was also in line with the views and practice of the banks themselves. An examination of the list of directors of the leading banks would show that no man who was a director of one was a director of another.

O. R. Gould (Progressive, Assiniboia) approved the bill introduced by Mr. McMaster last session, and as a consistent man would support the resolution this year.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister, said that if the intention and the object of the move was to promote in the mind of the country a greater sense of security, it was a worthy object. In so far as the resolution was calculated to create suspicion of the government in the minds of the people, he was opposed to it. Mr. McMaster had cited his resolution, and Mr. King agreed that it would be a good thing to go to the British constitutional authorities for a precedent. In the British house the question had not generally been so confined. It was generally a question of the right of members to vote on matters in which they personally were interested. Among the best minds the conclusion appeared to be that it was a matter which could best be left to the conscience and honor of the member.

HORNE HOPES TO REDUCE BUDGET

British Chancellor Credited With Determination To Announce Lower Rates.

Must Meet Heavy Expenditure, But May Cut Income Tax.

LONDON, England, April 24.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The prospects for the first budget of Sir Robert Horne, the chancellor of the exchequer, are being much discussed at present, he being confronted with practically a universal demand in the United Kingdom for a reduction in taxation, and though high expectations in this line are being discouraged in official quarters, Sir Robert is credited with a determination to announce reductions.

However, his secret is being closely kept, and probably he himself still is undecided as to details, as his attendance at the Genoa conference has interfered considerably with the preparation of the budget.

The chancellor has to meet an expenditure estimated at £900,000,000, and the revenue from taxation on the present basis is estimated at £940,000,000. A shilling off each pound of income tax would mean a reduction of £50,000,000, while a penny off the beer, sugar and tea duties, which is regarded as among the possibilities would altogether result in a reduction of £40,000,000.

However, the hope of a reduction in the duty on beer has disappeared, and if the other hoped-for reductions also fall of realization it is thought that Sir Robert Horne must announce a scheme of borrowing on pensions account.

WINGHAM FARMER HAS MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Rides on Tongue of Wagon When Horses Become Frightened and Bolt.

WINGHAM, April 24.—What might have been a fatal accident terminated in a miraculous escape for Peter McDougall of Turnberry Friday last. He, with a number of other farmers, was drawing baled hay to Wingham. When coming down a hill his load started to slide off. The horses, becoming frightened, bolted, and Mr. McDougall on top of a bale of hay was thrown onto the tongue of the wagon. The horses ran about ten rods with McDougall in this position and were finally stopped by the wagon striking a pile of logs on the side of the road, one of the horses being thrown into a wire fence. McDougall escaped with a few bruises and a shaking-up, while one of the horses was scratched a little.

CONFIRM NEWS OF LAMBTON WRECK

PORT ARTHUR, April 24.—Apparent confirmation of the report that the Canadian government light-house supply steamer Lambton had been wrecked near Michipicoten has been received by the Port Arthur wireless station which today was in touch with steamers containing wireless apparatus, and sent word that the lights at Caribou had not been lighted. The Lambton, it is understood, had the light-keeper of Caribou aboard and was proceeding to the island. The wireless station also reports the steamers held in the ice are now free and en route to points of destination.

SET L. C. I. TRACK SQUAD 100 STRONG AT WORK

Queen's Park Will Be Invaded Wednesday Night—Field Day Expected Around May 5.

Over 100 boys have put their names in as candidates for the L. C. I. track team, which jumps into training Wednesday night at Queen's Park under Bill Lightfoot's coaching.

The L. C. I. are determined to make a big bid for honors at the inter-schools meet in May, and judging by the enthusiasm around the institution they should make some showing.

The school has decided on two classifications, the various school and the inter-schools, going into the discard. Hereafter, juniors will weigh in under 150 pounds, and all over that mark on the scales boys will be classed as seniors. Twenty years has been fixed as the age limit.

Queen Lightfoot says he is going to specialize on every event. So if he gets his squad combined out he will have a track team in itself for each event.

The annual field day, or at least the track events part of it, will be staged this year around May 5. The exact date has not been determined upon. This will be the first time that the track events have been held by themselves as it was only last fall that the move to separate the straight athletics from the rest of the program was made after a small-sized controversy.

The L. C. I. coach has some known talent to begin with in various events, in Wainwright, Gorman, Lawrence, Westman, Wilson, Ardell, Decker, Hunter, MacIsland, Adair, Appleby, McLean, Brown, Rice, O'Hara, and Galloway.

WOODSTOCK IS OFFERED BERTH

WOODSTOCK, April 24.—An invitation was received today by the Woodstock baseball club to join in the circuit which at present is comprised of two Brantford clubs and the Galt G. W. V. A. However, the invitation was declined as this city is perfectly satisfied with its berth in the Southern Counties League. A meeting was held in the city hall on Tuesday night, April 25, at 7:15, for the purpose of formally accepting the Aym's application and drawing up the schedule.

WETZEL HAS LINE WAY HE WANTS IT

Sells Catcher Tree For Good Price To Saginaw Aces—Carmen Leaves.

CROSS IS INJURED

First Sack Candidate Strains Tendon—Marquard and Brown Going Great Guns.

G. H. TOWNSLEY.

DELAWARE, Ohio, April 24.—Back from a very successful trip, the Tecumseh went into their last week of training with a vengeance, as a result of the drubbing they received in their final contest at Springfield. Today saw two exits. Lefty Carmen, after winning a good game here Sunday, held a conference with Buzz at the hotel before leaving for home. He will join the Saginaw Aces at Kitchener next week. Catcher Tree left at noon for Saginaw, where he is to report. Buzz sold him outright for a good figure, it is believed.

A match game with the college nine was called off in the fourth frame this evening, when the players began to suffer from the cold air. Despite the season, the weather continues cold and disagreeable. It has had its effect on the pitchers too, for the most of them are complaining to some extent of sore arms. Cross, who was bidding high for the regular post as first baseman, strained a tendon in his leg this afternoon and was forced to leave the field early. He will be laid up for several days at least, but the extent of the hurt is not yet known. He was limping considerably today.

Wetzel is all wrapped up in the kid Marquard, the snappy and scrappy little shortstop. He capers around like a veteran, and is one of the most promising youths in the outfit. Brown, a youthful third sacker, is doing good work too, and wins the unceasing commendation of Buzz. He hits both ways, plays fast, and is accurate. He will be attracting the attention of the scouts this summer, Buzz says. Before the league season opens the old man has in extra infielder and two extra first basemen to dispose of. He continues to plan to break camp here next Friday morning. The game is scheduled to start on a two-day stand at Lima, and then proceed to Kitchener, where the season is opened. Wetzel is longing for that day, despite the weather's effect on the pitchers, for he is anxious to start the race all over anew. He is anxious to see his youth products in action in a real game, too.

With but three days of real drill ahead, there is a very heavy program mapped out.

The soccer match staged last night at Carling Heights between the W. O. R. and the United Vets resulted in a 1-1 tie.

In the first period the W. O. R.'s got a penalty, but failed to make use of it. The Vets were awarded one soon after. Skidding drove the ball into the goal, but a brilliant attempt to save. The period closed with the play in the W. O. R. goal area, giving Warton all kinds of work.

Soon after the second period began, W. O. R.'s got a foul which was taken by Nichols, but which was nicely stifled by Darlington only to be converted by Turner before the ball was kicked, thus evening the score. The Vets tried to retaliate close drives on goal.

When the final whistle blew the play was of a give and take nature.

The teams:

W. O. R.—Goal, Warton; full backs, Doolittle, Smith; half backs, Smith, Bruce and Fisher; forwards, Turner, Lowe, D. Smith, Wood, Davis.

United Vets.—Goal, Darlington; full backs, Skelting, Paul, Osland, R. Paul, Smith, McKenzie, Wallace, G. Langley.

Referee—Bandsman Carr.

Rube Sees 'Em Pretty

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD W. (RUBE) MARQUARD.

RUBE MARQUARD is once more in the limelight. Rube somehow manages to keep in front of the calcium.

Last winter Rube was traded by Cincinnati to Boston for Pitcher Jim Scott. It now turns out that Scott has a bad arm, and Cincinnati seeks to call off the deal.

Marquard got away to a good start with Boston, expects to have a big year.

And says he much prefers pitching in Boston to Cincinnati. He doesn't tell why.

Rube's latest bid for fame has Mrs. Marquard as the inspiration. Rube's better half is a very pretty woman and he wants the world to know it.

That is why it was a very easy matter to get him to pose for the above picture.

ENGLISH PROMOTERS FEEL OUT WILLS ON CROSSING

Dempsey Still Sight-Seeing, But States Willingness to Meet Carp Again.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The possibility of Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills, colored heavyweight, meeting in a championship bout in London this summer loomed today on the strength of a cablegram from George McDonald, English promoter.

According to Dia Dolling, English fight manager now in New York, he received the following cablegram from McDonald: "Can you get Wills to come to London to box Dempsey?"

Wills, when informed of the cablegram, announced he would be "ready to depart on the first boat," but his manager offered no comment, except to say he could see no reason for leaving yet.

Dolling did not indicate whether he had sought a definite answer to McDonald's cablegram.

Dempsey, so far as known here, has not engaged actively for several years, and in connection with his present tour of Europe, although he has announced his willingness to meet Carpenter in a return engagement.

WON FRENCH MIDDLE TITLE.

PARIS, April 24.—Billy Balzac tonight won the middleweight championship of France on points over Maurice Prunier. The men fought twenty rounds, and the decision was rendered by Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight pugilist, who refereed the bout.

Dempsey furnished the only knock-out of the evening—this when he rose from the referee's chair and announced his decision in French.

Seeks Net Title.

WALTER KINSELLA.

While Dempsey was sailing on the Autania to England, willing to risk his life, another passenger was on board, going abroad in search of a world's championship.

Walter Kinsella, the professional court tennis expert, left for England to meet George F. Cowey, present holder of the world's professional title, in a match to be held at the Prince's Club, Knightsbridge, England.

The match will be played on May 15 and 17, and if necessary to reach a decision the finals will be played May 20.

C-H-A-T-T-E-R

The High brothers may equal the record of the Delehanty family, which contributed four brothers to the majors.

Three of the family have already graduated from the majors, and the fourth, now in school, hopes to keep the family name of High in a prominent place on the sport page.

Hughie High, the oldest brother, formerly with Detroit and New York in the American League, is now with Vernon, such a thing actually happened. The game was played at St. Louis just prior to the opening of the present season between the Browns and Cardinals.

The fact that it was the deciding game of the spring series gives some idea of how historic the game was. The Cardinals won it meant a tie; a Brown victory gave the series three to one in favor of the Browns.

The Browns won by a score of 6 to 2. Each team had four men snuffed out on the plate. George Sisler, second baseman of the Browns, being snuffed three times.

In baseball has legs put more players out of the majors than any other cause. A great many players are forced out of the game because of weak underpinning when their batting eye and arm are as strong as ever.

Charles Baker shows an improvement in his fielding. It is said that Ward will be sent to third and McNally shifted to second.

No brainer pitcher ever threw a ball that hit a catcher's head. He once said that a pitcher in order to be successful must develop a certain style and stick to it.

"If you find that you are most effective as a side-arm pitcher, use that style; if you can get more on the ball over-head, use that; if you are a left-hander, don't switch from one style to another as the fancy strikes you." That is the way Matheson puts it.

That is why Howard Ehmke of Detroit isn't rated as one of the game's great pitchers. Ehmke has no style; he is under-hand, side-arm or over-head, and as a result usually lacks control and is forced to let up.

The hunt in baseball is due to come back. The season of 1922 is certain to see a revival of the hunt as an offensive weapon.

The lively ball and a desire to emulate the deeds of Babe Ruth has crowded the hunt off the baseball map for several years.

The hunt is a one-run play. It means much to get a one-run advantage under the ordinary conditions. For several years, however, one run has meant nothing in the life of a ball team.

The lively ball and a desire to emulate the deeds of Babe Ruth has crowded the hunt off the baseball map for several years.
