THREE CENTS

300 MEN FIND BOY IN BIG SWAMP Scott Faction Battles For Stay of Daybreak Hanging

LOST ALL NIGHT IN BAD LANDS

Nine-Year-Old Boy Has Terrifying Experience in Aux Sauble Swamp.

POSSE GROWS TO 300

Clarence Hawkins, Sent For Cows, Wanders 18 Hours in Everglade.

Lost in the "bad lands" of dangerous Lake Smith swamp near Theford for eighteen hours, while a searching party of 300 worked at some risk to find him, Clarence Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hawkins, four miles from Theford, on the Klondike road, went through a terrifying experience last night and early today.

Search for the lost boy enlisted aid from points as far as London, and a request for a police bloodhound was received by city and county headquarters here.

The youngster who went for the cows yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, was found at 11 o'clock this morning by Mrs. Grenville, Port Frank, living in an exhausted condition on the bridge over the Cut, four miles from his home.

Approaching the little muddy figure, with legs out and scratched cruelly, Mrs. Grenville asked the child if he was the little boy the entire neighborhood was searching for.

"I guess I am," said the dazed youngster. "I was out all night in the swamp."

His mother, Mrs. Grenville, was shocked to find her son in such a state, and in a short time the boy was safe in the arms of his mother, who, prostrated with grief, had been under the care of Dr. McDonald of Theford.

The boy could give no coherent account of what had happened. He was unable to answer any questions, and dropped sound asleep in his father's arms soon after being brought home.

Sent for the cows at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon he had not returned at 6 o'clock, so his father and little brother started the search. They found the boy lying on his back, a short distance in the swamp, but there was no sign of Clarence. The child had been bringing the cows from pasture for some time, and at first it was thought that he had been kidnapped. The alarm was conveyed to the entire neighborhood by telephone, and by 7 o'clock last night 200 men and women started on the search with lanterns. The swamp was combed for some time, and started again at daylight.

Scouts Join Search. Reinforcements from Grand Bend to the number of 100 arrived. Boy Scouts, cottagers, carmen, and men rushed to the big swamp by motor. It was a big job to beat through the marshy land, extending for seven miles and five miles deep.

Snakes twelve feet long slithered through the mud and hissed a warning to the searchers, who still carried lanterns, owing to the fact that there are spots in the marsh where, even in the daytime, no ray of light will penetrate.

Several boys from a troop of scouts camping at Grand Bend were almost sucked under at one bad place, while a party of 25 had to turn back and circle a morass known for miles as the most dangerous part of the marsh.

George Shepherd helped to organize the searching party and worked steadily directing operations.

Wired For Dog. W. B. Oliver, Grand Bend, looked after the party from that village and wired High Constable Wharton in London for a police dog to trail the boy through the swamp. He also telephoned Port Huron for a bloodhound.

Mr. Hawkins was more than appreciative of the efforts put forth by the entire community. Business at Theford was at a standstill this morning. Every able-bodied man, woman and boy in the place was out in the swamp in one big effort to find the boy, although only nine residents of the village.

Three months ago a little girl was lost in the swamp for three hours, but was heard calling for help and rescued.

Bryan Holds College Honors As Proof He's Not Ignorant

Audiences With Kings, Emperors Are Not Boasts of Darrow.

By R. E. KNOWLES, Special To The Advertiser. Dayton, July 23.—Defending himself against the charge of Clarence Darrow that he is an ignorant man, William Jennings Bryan tonight gave out a statement in which he listed his college degrees and called attention to the fact that he had addressed students in most of the state universities of the country and a number of the private institutions, and had been given audiences by kings, emperors, and other potentates the world over.

"In all my varied experiences," said Bryan, "before intelligent people in many lands as well as in every state in the union, I was never called an ignorant man or an ignoramus by anyone except an evolutionist."

He admitted that he had "no technical knowledge of the sciences to which Mr. Darrow referred in his examination of me," but explained that all his life had been devoted to "subjects that are more important and with which all people deal. A man would have to spend many lives to be familiar with all the sciences."

BRITAIN TO SWELL HER NAVY

Construction Program Announced by Baldwin Today—7 Cruisers in 2 Years.

END OF DEADLOCK

Nine Destroyers and 6 Submarines To Be Added To Fleet Annually.

Associated Press Despatch. London, July 23.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin announced today in the house of commons, today that the British government's naval construction plan included two cruisers to be laid down in October, two next February, and three yearly thereafter, making four cruisers to be constructed this fiscal year and three next.

The British government also has decided upon the annual construction of nine destroyers and six submarines, together with certain auxiliary vessels, beginning with the fiscal year 1926-27, this program to be continued during the normal life of the present parliament, Mr. Baldwin announced.

Some of the new cruisers will conform to the existing 10,000-ton type, and the remainder will be smaller and less expensive, of a type approximating 8,000 tons, to be designed by the admiralty.

The additional expenses this year which Prime Minister Baldwin estimated at $52,170 sterling (about $2,600,000) above the present navy estimates, would be met by the admiralty by savings under other departments and by funds which are likely to accrue by not spending money appropriated.

Concerning the cost of the program in future years, the prime minister explained that the admiralty would make every effort by effecting substantial reductions in maintenance and other charges on the navy estimates to diminish the cost of the program in future years.

A new committee of three persons, not connected with the government, would be appointed as soon as possible, to examine the costs of maintenance in all branches of the British fighting services, he said.

Steamer Finds Business Better

Port Stanley-Cleveland Service Supported More by Londoners.

Freight shipments to Cleveland via Port Stanley are increasing. The last two trips were more encouraging for a good season. Fruit is moving more freely, according to F. B. Clark, agent here.

Mr. Clark said today that people were realizing that by routing their trips through Port Stanley, they were doing something for London. It was as easy to go abroad via Port Stanley as by Buffalo or Detroit. Passengers were doing themselves a good turn by going over their own railway and supporting a steamship line that was keeping Port Stanley on the map as a harbor.

GUN UNLOADED, DEFENCE CLAIMS

Hatheway's Revolver Empty Day of Holdup, Counsel—Wife Has Store Job.

The fact that he was out of work for several months with his wife doing her best to support him by working in a Toronto departmental store for $17 a week urged Leslie Hatheway confessed bank robber to winds and risk all that was worth while in an attempt to rob a bank it was revealed today.

Having finally made up his mind to join the ranks of the criminals for "just this once," Hatheway set out to get enough money to pay his numerous bills, including a chattel mortgage on his furniture, and he positioned to tell his wife that she could give up her job in Toronto.

He tried to borrow a revolver from a friend but was not successful. Later on he managed to secure a Smith & Wesson .38, and, according to counsel for defence, he entered the Thorsdale bank with an unloaded gun on the afternoon of July 3, because he was afraid something might happen and if cornered would shoot.

"If I got away with it, right, and if I didn't get away with it, all right," Hatheway said. "I was down and out, and didn't care much what happened. It was the first time in my life that I ever tried to steal."

Hatheway is allowed fruit and milk in addition to his regular jail diet, owing to the fact that he has been suffering from indigestion since his arrest in Toronto last Sunday on a charge of robbing the Bank of Montreal branch at Thorsdale of $6,000.

Wife Back to Job. Mrs. Hatheway, it is understood, has returned to her work in Toronto, but will be back in the city when her husband comes up for trial next Tuesday morning before County Magistrate Gladman.

The young bandit received no visitors at the jail today. He is in excellent spirits and spends much time reading magazines.

George Tustin, humane inspector, has written the court at Toronto claiming a share of the bank rewards. Mr. Tustin states that it was his information that the bandit was the police suspicion that he made was heading for Fenelon Falls.

Inspector Tustin relates that he passed Hatheway in his car near Lindsay and was suspicious of him at the time. When he returned to London and learned of the robbery he informed the police of his suspicions and gave them the first clue.

"We should make this a great demonstration," declared Mayor G. A. Wenige today. "Every citizen who can possibly attend should make it a point to do so. We cannot have a lengthy welcome, but we can make it a fitting one."

No Formal Appeal. His worship, the mayor, has issued no proclamation regarding the visit of Lord Douglas Haig, because the stop in London will be such a brief one, for ten minutes before 11 o'clock in the morning. Neither has the city council made any formal step in the matter.

However, the mayor strongly urges citizens to turn out for the occasion and a great crowd of Londoners is expected to be present at the depot.

5.5 BEER PROVEN IN COURT

Toronto Magistrate Convicts Hotelman in First Action Against Four-Point-Four.

BREWERY BLAMED

Case Adjourned Week To Permit Appeal To Attorney-General—8 Samples.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, July 23.—The first case of beer, legalized for sale as the 4.4 per cent grade, being proved to be of higher alcoholic content, figured in the Toronto police court today when James F. Burke, proprietor of a Queen street head hotel, was charged with unlawfully keeping liquor for sale contrary to the Ontario Temperance act. Eight samples of beer were taken and analyzed from 2.37 to 5.56 per cent proof spirits. Two samples analyzed at 2.37 and 2.51 per cent alcoholic content, these being purchased from a different brewery than the others, the highest showing 5.56.

Defense counsel pleaded that the defendant had sold the beer in good faith without knowing it to be of illegal strength.

Magistrate Jones declared that an employee from Heathers Brewery at Kitchener, who was called, did not give evidence as to whether the beer was pasteurized but gave suggestions as to how its strength might have been increased, which suggestions he did not think satisfactory.

"I have come to the conclusion that the brewery is responsible for this case," Mr. Jones said. "Perhaps after this, purchasers of the beer will demand a guarantee from the brewery."

Magistrate Jones adjourned the case for a week in order to permit Burke to appeal to the attorney-general for a remission of penalty, but stated that as this was the first case he did not want the penalty remission to be considered as a precedent, but as a warning, particularly to breweries, against increasing the strength of the beer.

James remarked that he was glad to say that a certain brewery, frequently before him, had not sinned in this case, and suggested that if there is an organization of brewers the matter should be taken up for discussion.

VETERANS MAN HAIG'S SPECIAL

Fireman and Engineer Drove General's Train in War Zone.

When Earl Haig's special train pulls into London tomorrow at 10:50 the engine will be manned by two men who have seen service abroad with Earl Haig. Leaning out of the right window of the cab will be Engineer R. Donn. This veteran driver of the Canadian National Railway's special trains used by Earl Haig while he was in France.

Their association goes back further than that thought, both were in the front line during the war. Fireman Russell will handle the scoop shovel on the trip. He fired trains which carried the famous warrior on his trips about France.

The two railroaders went overseas with the railway contingent. They returned from the war and since then have been working out of Mimico. At midnight tonight they will pass through London with the special train of fine equipment which will take Earl Haig to Toronto.

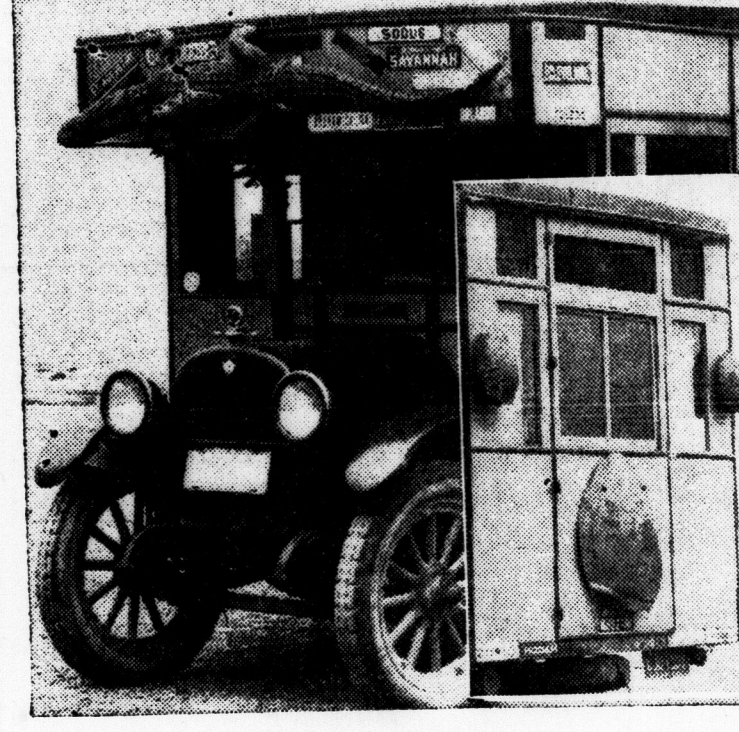

C. F. Forrester, superintendent of the London division, will be in charge of the train tomorrow.

A fitting welcome. Haig of Bessmerdy will be given a fitting welcome here. Veterans, military and citizens in general will gather at the Canadian National railway depot to pay tribute to the foremost soldier of the British forces.

"We should make this a great demonstration," declared Mayor G. A. Wenige today. "Every citizen who can possibly attend should make it a point to do so. We cannot have a lengthy welcome, but we can make it a fitting one."

A regular museum on wheels, is the equipage of James N. Herbert, a successful businessman of Syracuse, who three years ago became a wanderer over the face of the earth. Mr. Herbert arrived in London today in his "home" on four wheels and will lecture from his car before proceeding on his way to Vancouver.

Accompanying Mr. Herbert on his tour of North America are his daughter Evelyn June Herbert, age 7, and his nephew, James Pennell.

"We were in London just a year ago today," said Mr. Herbert and your city is as beautiful as ever. I would like to be here in the winter time, for I haven't seen snow for three years now."

On the outside, Mr. Herbert's home looks like a moving van. The interior presents an interesting sight. The place is self-contained from cook stove to wash room.

Mr. Herbert, using a shark's backbone, made into a cane for a pointer, picked out interesting submarine trophies and showed them to the Advertiser. Among them is a whale's jaw, a large chunky fish which Mr. Herbert states, feeds itself with its tail and is very rare. A baby octopus and an ant-eater were also shown.

Interesting objects and trophies that line the wall of the car, which was the object of considerable interest on London streets both this morning and afternoon.

3 MONTHS' REPRIEVE SOUGHT

New Evidence, Warranting Stay in Hanging, Claimed by Scott's Lawyers.

SET FOR DAWN

Execution a Certainty, Is Governor Small's Answer—$5,000 Raised.

Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, July 23.—On the slender thread of remote possibility hangs the chance that Russell Scott, the escapee death awaiting him on the gallows at sunrise tomorrow. This possibility depends on a hearing for clemency which his attorneys insist they have arranged with Governor Small and the last-minute appearance of his brother Robert, indicted with him, but never found.

Scott says Robert was the real slayer of Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk, in a holdup a year ago. A telegram signed with Robert's name and later established as a hoax, caused Governor Small to grant a week's reprieve, six hours before the time set for Russell's execution last Friday.

No eleven-hour circumstances will halt the execution this time," is the only indication from the governor, in a letter to Windsor, Ont., friends of Scott, working to save him.

Are Still Hopeful. But Scott's attorneys are hopeful. They have a fund for $5,000 raised by a group of Detroit clubmen to aid Scott and they say new evidence has been uncovered which they feel will induce the governor to grant a further reprieve. They will ask for a 90-day stay to develop this new evidence.

His wife, sinking as the time draws near for his execution, Scott thinks only the return of his brother can save him. His wife Catherine and his aged father, Thomas Scott, have returned to visit him, after making every effort to obtain the brother's return.

The wife made a plea last night over the radio to Robert. She called on anyone who might know where he is to send him, asking all those who oppose capital punishment to add their appeals to Governor Small in her husband's behalf.

Coolidge Appealed To. Appeals to the governor and to President Coolidge in Washington, Mass., continue to pour in a steady stream. The president has referred them all to the attorney-general and continued on Page 11, Column 1.

NORTH OXFORD TUG-O-WAR TEAM WINS AGAIN.

Mighty men of North Oxford and Middlesex pulled for the honors in the tug-o-war competition at Port Stanley yesterday. The above picture shows the North Oxford team, which won after a strenuous battle. It was one of the exciting events of the day. The teams were so evenly matched that it required almost superhuman efforts to move the string two inches either way. The wildest excitement prevailed among the spectators when either side gained a fraction of an inch. The following made up the winning side: Robert Smith (anchor), Embro, Alex. Smith, Lakeside, William Nutt, Lakeside, James A. McDonald, Embro; R. A. McDonald (captain), Kintore.

Twenty-Five Hundred Children of Auld Scotia Gathered at Port Stanley Enjoy Folk Dances, Music and Sports As Cross of St. Andrew Floats Bravely Over Their Heads.

KEEN FIGHT IN INTER-COUNTY TUG-OF-WAR

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.
Port Stanley, July 22.—The sons of Auld Scotia ruled in Port today.

With their wives and children, they came, came from Elgin and Middlesex, from Oxford and other parts of the province, and many of the best men across the border. It was a great gathering of the clans, summoned by the pibroch o' the Elgin and Middlesex Caledonian society, if you please, to hold forth in the annual revival of the historic Caledonian games.

And 2,500 sons of Scotia came with a fierce appetite for the lists.

Gallant Cross Flies.

High above the heights of Invererie fluttered the gallant cross of Saint Andrew, a banner blessed by a generous host at yesterday's gathering. Under the leafy maples appeared the plaids of the Royal Stuart, the Cameron Erris, the MacDonalds and more than a score of other clan colors, of which the wearers were as proud.

From morn until the set of a kindly sun, undaunted pipers sought freedom for Highland tunes that echoed and re-echoed over the heights, as holiday-makers called for more. Those were not dirges or sorrowful lays, but the brave music of a brave and hardy race.

Attention was divided during the afternoon amongst the pipe contests, the dancing, the great tug-of-war and the high school sports. The program was crisscrossed with interesting evening games that were not complete until clouds gathered darkly and the azure lake rose to meet the sun.

The officials were chief of the games committee with W. A. McPherson of St. Thomas chief announcer and clerk. Others on the committee were Douglas Graham Middlesex; Dan McCallum, Glenora; J. G. Fraser, St. Thomas; Capt. Tom Robson, London, and John Stewart, London. Sergeant Thos. MacDonald assisted Secretary McPherson throughout the day.

Pipe Major Dunbar, white-haired veteran of the 91st Highlanders of Hamilton, was judge of all the dancing and pipers' contests. He did not turn a hair during the entire process of the long program, and his decisions were accompanied by wild outbursts of cheering and applause from the assembled folk.

The inimitable Jimmie Hamilton, doughty pipe major of the W. O. R. Klites, once more rode to victory in the individual pipers' contest for The Advertiser trophy. It was Pipe Major Hamilton's third victory in sequence in such a contest, and it was an immensely popular one. Donald Graham of Detroit, formerly of the noted Seaforth Highlanders, was in the final playoff with Hamilton.

Contest is Keen.
Pipe Major Hamilton's band made a splendid attempt to wrest The Advertiser band trophy from the Ingersoll pipers, who have held the cup for two years. But Johnson's men from the Cheesestown, excelled themselves in the march past, playing march, strathspey and reel with equal excellence and capturing the cup for keeps, a record that will take much to equal.

Following the band contest, the two quartets of pipers and drummers joined forces, along with several others and played "Highland Laddie" as they appeared in massed formation. The massed effect and the great skill of two dozen pipers was one of the classics of the day.

Seldom has competition been so great as in the dancing of the Highland Fling, the Scotch reel and the many other folk interpretations on the program. The dancing stage was crowded for hours as pretty, curly-headed lassies and athletic young lads vied in efforts to gain possession of coveted medals. The breasts of many were already covered with the fruits of other victories, and new laurels won yesterday were appreciated.

Cleveland Lassie Wins.
Margaret McIvor, sprightly maid from Cleveland, Ohio, carried off a large share of the honors in the Scottish dances. No less than five first-prize medals and two second prizes went her way, along with the MacDonald medal, which Miss McIvor won for a second time. Violet Gilmore of London was next in line for the honor.

Strains of the Atholl Highlanders' March to Loch Katrine, Urquhart's Leaning Glen, the Strathgairn Mill and Ross' Farewell to the Black Watch were amongst the favorite tunes for the day.

The Winners.

SEARCH OF AUTOS TO CONFINE BORER

Officials Fear Spread of Pest
Into Non-Quarantined Districts.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, July 22.—On orders from Toronto, search of automobiles on Elgin county highways for green corn will commence next Saturday in the hope of preventing infected corn from getting out of the quarantine districts, stated C. W. Thompson, government entomologist, while in the city Wednesday.

Drastic action is necessary owing to the alarming spread of the pest. The seriousness of the situation must be brought to the attention of farmers in Elgin county, Mr. Thompson declared. During an inspection tour in East Elgin on Tuesday he found parsnip stalks covered with the borers. Trees were being attacked and tender shoots were being destroyed. The corn is not sufficiently developed in this locality for the borer to be apparent on the crop. As a means of prevention, Mr.

Thompson strongly advised burning old cornstalks every year. Unless every effort is made to restrain the spread of the corn borer it may be a costly business, which averages $14 an acre.

MENACE GROWS IN KENT.
Special to The Advertiser.
Chatham, July 22.—Corn fields in south Kent are badly ravaged this year by the European corn-borer, in spite of the best efforts of the authorities, the menace is steadily growing. In some districts 50 to 75 per cent of the corn fields are despoiled. Farmers are thoroughly alarmed, and it is feared that the corn-raising industry is facing ruin. Failure of farmers to comply with regulations is blamed by authorities. As the result of many breeding moths are so plentiful this year that everywhere they fly up from grass and weeds when scuffed by feet.

OPERATORS HOPEFUL.

Atlantic City, July 22.—The anthracite operators reported today that at the representatives here this morning they were assured that no strike in the hard coal field was meant in the telegram sent yesterday by Van A. THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1925.

Pointing in the Same Direction.

For the year ending June 30, 1925, Canada exported products worth $1,078,546,094; for the previous year, $1,062,243,790. That is an increase in exports of $16,302,304.

During the same period Canada imported $808,896,004, a decrease of $46,000,000 from the previous year. That shows a favorable trade balance of $269,650,090, a record that has been unknown for years past.

The more that Canadians sell, the more money comes to this country; as we decrease our imports it means that we are keeping more of our money at home.

Coming on The Advertiser wires the same day is an announcement from Woodstock of the extension of an industry there; Tillsonburg reports that a record has been made there in the prompt payment of taxes, and that the town is enjoying one of the best building years in its history. From Forest comes word that Henry Ford's experts have carried their flax investigations so far that there may be a purchase of two existing flax mills in Western Ontario, providing a better market for Ontario-grown flax, something that has been needed since the days of the war.

In the east employees of James Pender & Co. at St. John, N.B., are willing to work overtime for nothing to make it possible for the company to compete for export business. If the plan succeeds, the men get 75 per cent of the profits. It shows a healthy spirit of industrial co-operation.

It is well to take a look at these signs of better times as they come along. Appearing as they do in different localities and in various lines of industry, they form an accurate index of what is taking place right now.

Coal, the Trouble Centre.

Right now eastern and western Canada have coal-mining strikes; United States has some mines idle, with prospects of more, and Britain is facing a situation that is serious enough to be referred to even in Conservative circles as a menace. The Manchester Guardian says the British coal industry "is in danger of drifting into a position in which it will be incapable of either paying a living wage to the miners or of providing for its own technical equipment."

The miners and employers in Britain seem to be making every possible effort to avoid a strike, but it is hard to see where they are progressing. The miners are thinking in terms of decent wages, which means a decent standard of living, and the colliery owners reckon in terms of profits, and as things are organized at present there is nothing radically wrong with either of these positions—or, as the Guardian puts it, both are right, but neither is wholly right.

There is unemployment in the mines; a year ago it was but 3 per cent; today it is around 17 per cent.

The owners have not yet asked for a return of the eight-hour day instead of seven as provided under the Sankey commission, but it is anticipated that this request will be made on the plea of lowering production costs. What good purpose would be served by it now is hard to see, for if there is not enough work now at seven hours a day, adding an extra hour would simply add to unemployment.

The Manchester Guardian suggests that too much attention has been paid to making mining profitable by taking it out of the men and not enough to the possibility of reducing costs on the managerial and administrative side. It is sound logic, too, that if there has to be any reduction it should fall on all connected with the industry and not simply on the men who dig the coal.

The Widow in Politics.

"The widow in politics" is a phrase attached to a peculiar development in United States public life that has placed the widows of politicians in their seats in congress or senate. The latest addition is Mrs. Edith Rogers, New England's first congresswoman, who was elected to complete the unfinished term of her late husband, J. J. Rogers. Mrs. Mae Nolan and Mrs. Julius Kahn, both of California, succeeded their deceased husbands in congress, and when Congressman Mason of Illinois died, his daughter, Mrs. Huck, succeeded him. There is a boom on now to have Mrs. Robert LaFollette succeed the strident senator from Wisconsin. "Ma" Ferguson of Texas was elected governor on sentimental grounds as a vindication for the disqualification of her husband; Mrs. Ross became governor of Wyoming as the immediate successor of her late husband.

It may be a form of sentiment that holds that the widow of a statesman should go in and finish his work. There is really no other explanation for it, other than being one of those strange currents that finds its way into the stream only to be lost later on.

Does No Person Know?

An unknown woman was drowned in the river at London, and at the time of burial she had not been identified. Those competent to judge say she had been in the water for at least three weeks, perhaps longer, so it is not too much to believe that it is almost a month since she disappeared.

In a community such as this, where there is a comparatively small transient population, it seems strange that such a thing could happen and nothing be known of it. This unknown woman of middle age or more must have lived some place; she must have had a home with some person. There must have been some definite time when some person would have known that she had disappeared, and yet no word was sent to the police, no appeal to citizens in general to be on the lookout for her.

It is easy to put such a case down as a mysterious disappearance, or to record the interment as that of an unknown person, yet it hardly seems possible that a woman should live to a fairly mature age, be married, and then come to the end of the road in this tragic manner with no word of the fact that she was missing, and none to identify her remains when they were found.

The Chief as a Bookkeeper.

The first six months of the year has found London living within its estimates, and several civic departments are under their appropriations. The relief department, which was necessarily active during the earlier part of the year, has not spent within several hundred dollars of its estimate for the first half of the year.

With all due respect to other departments, and there has been a decided improvement in many of them, it is doubtful if there is a more systematic record kept any place than in the police department, and it is a system worked out and perfected by Chief Birrell himself. The reports that he submits will show at the end of any month exactly where he stands, what he has estimated for all the various items needed, what has been spent on them, together with the balance that he has to work against for each of the rest of the year.

Formerly the chief made his calculations by quarters, but now he works it out by months, and in this way the police commission and the city financiers know exactly where the finances of that department stand at the end of each month. The system is so good that it is worth copying.

Stay Where You Are.

Clifford Gray, London businessman, at present on a trip through the States from Chicago west to the Pacific coast, thought it worth while, after observing conditions in Chicago, Milwaukee, and other centers, to write a letter to The Advertiser. In short this is what he says:

"A note of warning should be issued through your columns to all young fellows to keep their positions at home."

Mr. Gray, while in Chicago, found hundreds standing around the employment offices, waiting for a chance to find something to do. In the number he noticed many young men who were not of the usual out-of-work type. In Milwaukee he looked around again and saw that there were men, plenty of them, sleeping in the parks. A policeman supplied the explanation—they were out of work and had no money to secure lodgings.

Naturally these cities send out no word about such conditions. Mr. Gray has performed a good service by sending back a plain statement of the things he has seen.

Note and Comment.

Of 27,334 vehicles passing a Detroit corner in 24 hours only eight were drawn by horses. The others were driven by horse-power, though.

Montreal is adopting new regulations about the sale of milk in that city, and may even go so far as to insist that it shall come from cows.

There is one automobile in United States for every 6.47 persons. That broken .47 refers to the section of the community that tried to cross the road.

A writer in G. K.'s Weekly (London) undertakes to give a description of Oxford bags that would do in a court case: "They are a species of bifurcated garments of unusual volubility occasionally worn by persons alleged to be male."

With Canada showing a favorable trade balance of $270,000,000 during the year, the New York Johnny who figures out the discount rate on Canadian money says for today it shall be at the rate of 3-64 of 1 per cent. It would be mighty interesting to know how he gets that way.

A doctor in Charlottetown, P.E.I., has wired an offer of $4,000 and expenses for William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow to come there and debate on "Evolution and the Bible." The troupe might sell rubbing ointment as a side line and remove crows free of charge for the first night.

It turns out that the very-much-defunct Hearst Music Company of Winnipeg sold stock before the charter had been granted. The eager investing public couldn't even wait for the chance to get properly trimmed, but rushed in before the roof was on and while the plasterers were still at work.

Two men appeared in Toronto police court, and a lawyer explained that a political discussion was the genesis of the argument. Allen said the King government would be ousted at the next election, and Richardson pushed him off the sidewalk. They started to fight and P.C. Evans arrested them. We can't help hoping that that Toronto Tory got a fairly good drubbing before the officer arrived.

The death of Arnold Smith, a bright young Londoner, while bathing at Port Stanley, raises the question if there were sufficient life preservers near the scene of the fatality. Those who were there say there were not. There should be. This equipment is not so expensive that there is any need to stint it. It is better to have too much of this material and never use it than to have too little when it may be needed.

Our Famous River

Our river's like a lot of folks, you never hear of them at all, until they slip upon some snag and hasten for a mighty fall.

The river Thames it gets front page because it's fell in evil ways, and engineers have come along and gazed upon it days and days. And they have drawn up plans and prints, and even yet they're not quite through, advisin' of the council here about the things it's got to do.

They've squinted at it through a glass, they speak in scientific terms, and men have scratched upon its bed and followed all its twists and turns.

They photograph the sluggish stream and stick broom handles in the mud, they pour the water on the bank and listen to its heavy thud. And folks who never thought before is joinin' in the river row, and them who never spoke out loud has raised their voices loud up now.

They're all advisin' what to do, some want to scoop it with a dredge, while others hope to clean it out by turnin' up the thing on edge.

It's just the same with folks, I guess, as with the river here just now. They never notice lots of them until they go and pick a row. If that there river had of went and run along as how it should, and kept its ways right straight and clean and acted in a way what's good, why there would be no experts now to squint upon its muddy course, nor would advisers shake their fists and shout until their throats was hoarse.

Likewise with folks who keep on straight and mind their business how they ought, and when they go on shoppin' trips they pay up for the stuff they bought.

No copper chases after them, no experts camp upon their neck, nor squint upon them with a glass, nor name them for a worthless wreck. They just go livin' on and on from spring and summer unto fall, and no one ever turns around to take a look at them at all.

But when they get off the track and be a nuisance in the place, why every one he yaps and cries to gaze upon this new disgrace. So if you're itchin' for a chance to bust away from out the crowd, and hear the folks alom on to you and holler out your name aloud, just do what our old Thames has done and get in some unsightly stew, and you will find out mighty quick just what the folks will do to you.—ARK.

Their Own Language.

Londoner Says There Was a Case Near Here Some Years Ago Where Children Were Talking in Their Own Language.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I was interested in the report published in your paper about the remarks of a Toronto woman who has charge of a large number of children, mere babes, in an institution there, particularly in the place where she said they learned to communicate with each other through a medium that no person could understand. There have been experiments conducted along this line before, but none of them has been conclusive.

Some years ago there was a case not far from London, in the direction of Denford, if I sort had arisen. Children of very tender years had been left to themselves, just why I can't remember, but the claim was made then that they jabbered away to each other in a strange way and seemed to understand it.

No child speaks the tongue of his parents unless it is taught to him, and an English child placed in a Chinese home would find it just as easy to speak that language as English. Just what would happen if a number of children were left to themselves has never been determined, and the reason is not hard to understand—no person would want to subject the children to such an experiment.

SARNIA'S HISTORY SHOWN IN GORGEOUS PAGEANT

Several Thousand Witness Spectacle Depicting City's Growth.

TEACHER PRAISED

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, July 22.—Sarnia's development from swamp to modern city, portrayed by a cast of several hundred local people, was portrayed in pageant at the athletic grounds to-night as one of the big features of home reunion week. Several thousand people on the grandstand and temporary sections gave vent to their appreciation as the various scenes from the arrival of Father Dallon, the first white man to set foot here, in 1672, and the landing of the city 40 years later, to the development of the present modern community were unfolded in accurate and gorgeous spectacle. Under a panoply of modern electrical illumination, these scenes of bygone pioneer days lost nothing of their appearance of reality. There were the white pioneers who hewed the great maples that once reared themselves majestically over the land now modern streets and city blocks, their wives and helpmates and children in the strange and simple garb of their time, there were the Indians resplendent in head-dress and war paint.

The carnival spirit of home reunion week continued throughout the day and evening down town. The proceedings opened this morning with an inspection of the collegiate institute and technical school. This was followed by "calling of school," in which old-time residents and visitors turned back the pages of the year book and again faced their old and revered teacher, D. M. Grant, who still teaches classics at the collegiate, and has a record of forty years teaching in city schools. Old classmates were found to have forgotten their Latin and their Euclid, but they retained the fondest memories of their teacher, and at the close of this interesting union, W. T. Goodison, on behalf of the old pupils, presented Mr. Grant with a purse containing one thousand dollars.

In the afternoon the city led a large parade to the Athletic grounds, where Sarnia and Dresden engaged in a Kent county league game. Down town, the Imperial pipe band, overtone with Scotland's national music, and always had a crowd of pleasure seekers in train.

ECHO OF COMBINE WAR.

Special to The Advertiser.

Ottawa, July 22.—Action of Canadian steamship companies in refusing to place more cattle ships into service though the ships are badly needed is taken here as a defensive move in the war which the federal government last session opened against an alleged shipping combine. The companies, it is believed, refused to put the ships into service to emphasize their claim that they make little profits in the Canadian trade despite their admitted co-operation in fixing rates.

Raspberries and Cherries plentiful

Wonderful Jams and Jellies now possible with the aid of Certo

"HERE is good news. Raspberries and cherries—plentiful and cheap. Now is the time to fill the preserve shelves. With sugar cheaper than it has been for years, we shouldn't have an empty jam or jelly jar around the house.

"This morning when I was buying raspberries from my grocer, he asked me six questions.

"He asked me if I wanted to—

- (1) Reduce the cost of my jams and jellies.
- (2) Save the flavor and fruit juice which is ordinarily boiled away.
- (3) Make 50% more jam or jelly from the fruit with sure results.
- (4) Save fuel, time and worry.
- (5) Make superior jams and jellies from all fruits.
- (6) Reduce the boiling to one minute.

"Naturally I said 'Yes.' I have always wanted to do these things, but have never been able to.

"Then he told me of Certo, which is concentrated fruit pectin. I have used it and now I have the most delicious raspberry jam I ever tasted! It was all done so quickly and easily—and at less expense than by the old method.

"My grocer said that he sells Certo to hundreds of his customers and they have all been most grateful to him for bringing it to their attention."

Follow exactly the complete, simple directions in the Certo booklet which goes with every bottle.

Try these simple recipes by the easy Certo method

RASPBERRY JAM

CRUSH WELL about 2 quarts ripe berries in separate portions, so that each berry is mashed. Measure 4 level cups crushed berries into large kettle. Add 6 1/2 level cups sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. BOIL HARD for ONE minute; remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle (scant 1/2 cup) Certo. From time jam is taken off fire, let stand not over 5 minutes, by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime, skim and stir occasionally to cool slightly, then pour quickly.

CHERRY JAM

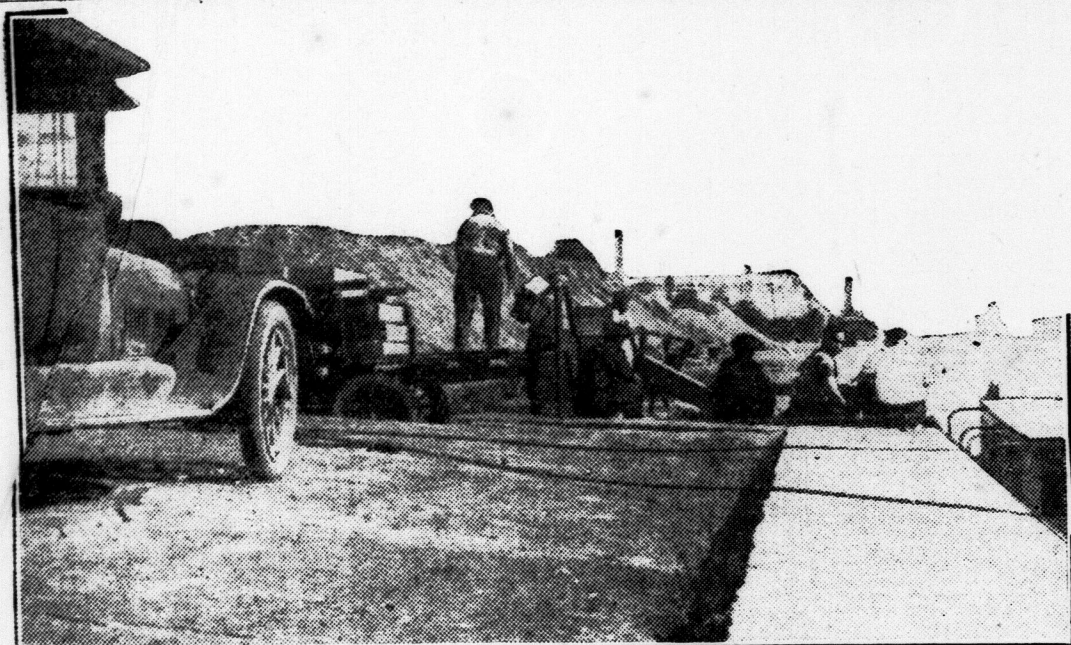

Pit and CRUSH WELL about 2 1/2 lbs. cherries (sour cherries give finest flavor). Measure 4 level cups of the crushed, pitted cherries into large kettle, add 1/2 cup water. Tie 3 table-spoons of pits in cloth and crush with hammer. Place with cherries to increase flavor. Stir until boiling, cover kettle, simmer 10 minutes, then remove pits. Add 7 1/2 level cups sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. BOIL HARD for ONE minute. Remove from fire and stir in 1 bottle Certo. Allow to stand, with occasional stirring, 5 minutes only, by the clock. Skim and pour into glasses.

Peter Discovers Jerry Muskrat Building a Little Diving Landing

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.
Peter Rabbit is impatient at times; but at other times he is patient, very patient. When his curiosity has been aroused he can be as patient as any one I know. This was the case now as he waited for Jerry Muskrat to return. Jerry had said that he was building something, and Peter knew that he wouldn't be happy until he had found out what it was that Jerry was building. So he waited. Presently Jerry reappeared as unexpectedly as he had disappeared. You see he came under water and Peter didn't see him coming. He popped his head out and looked up at Peter.
"Hi!" exclaimed Jerry. "Are you still loafing here?"
"Yes," replied Peter pleasantly. "Yes, I am still loafing here, and I am going to loaf here until I find out what it is that you are building. What is it, Jerry?"
"Watch and you'll find out," replied Jerry rather ungraciously. You see Jerry is such a good worker himself that it rather annoyed him to see some one sitting around doing nothing.

So Peter sat on the bank and watched, and down below in the water Jerry Muskrat went and came and came and went, and kept things so stirred up that the water was very, very muddy.
At first Peter could see nothing at all, but after a while he noticed that something very like a little platform of weeds and mud was beginning to grow out from the shore. Jerry would bring up the mud from the bottom and keep adding to it and adding to it. So this little platform kept growing and growing. The foundation of it was of weed which Jerry brought, and on these weeds he piled mud. When it got a wee bit above the surface of the water, it began to dry out somewhat.
Finally Jerry Muskrat stopped to rest. Peter scratched a long ear with a long hind foot, and then scratched the other long ear with the other long hind foot. Jerry Muskrat watched him and grinned. "What's troubling you now, Peter?" he asked. "I still cannot make out what you are building," replied Peter. "It looks to me like a little platform." "It's a landing," explained Jerry. "It's a landing," explained Peter. "A what?" inquired Peter. "A landing," repeated Jerry. "You see I like to come ashore right in here, but there wasn't a good landing. When I am out of water I want to be where I can dive down into deep enough water to be able to swim under water. I couldn't do that in here, so now I am building this landing. I am using the mud from the bottom and, of course, every time I bring mud up I make the water just so much deeper. When I get this landing all finished I can water in here and sit whenever I please, and if danger comes along can dive in and swim away under water. It is going to be a very handy little landing."

Peter admitted that it was. He said it was very fine. But he couldn't help adding, "But, dear me, what a lot of work it costs."
"Nothing is worth having that isn't worth working for," retorted Jerry, and once more dived.

WOMEN and THE HOME

PARISIAN JEWELER PAYS ACTRESS TO WEAR PEARLS

Certain People Give Richer Luster to Jewels by Wearing Them.

INCREASE VALUE

BY EDITH BRAUN.

New York, July 20.—A string of pearls of varying sizes is the foundation of every society woman's collection of jewels. The pearl is the paramount society gem. Few of the women covet another's pearls, though they may covet her "pearl skin," it being generally recognized that some persons have a quality of epidermis which gives richer luster to pearls. I know of one woman who bought a string of pearls for $20,000 and received an offer later of $50,000 from the jeweler who had sold them to her. She had improved the pearls so much, in his estimation.

Apocryphal: There is a Parisian actress who gets a regular retainer from rue de la Paix jewellers for wearing their pearls and enlivening them. It is quite true that most of the famous strings of pearls never give off their magic glimmer in public, their owners only wearing them at special functions or in privacy to keep living color in the jewel; at other times the pearls sleep in a safe deposit vault. The pearls worn by society women at the opera, at a fashionable hotel, or wherever, are frequently ingenious imitations.

"Pearls" Blown Into Sea.

One woman recently had a second copy of her pearls made because the first, which she treated carelessly, was blown into the sea when she was promenading on a liner on a busy day. Diamond dog collars never adorn any but dowagers who cannot forget the homage paid to her effulgence in an earlier day. Banded necklaces, superb tiaras, older women, no longer of fashionable influence in society, who still bedeck themselves in dog collars and also possess pearls, exhibit magnificent stomachers—but only the older generation.

Of all bejeweled ornaments, the most in favor today is the multiple bracelet—that is, circles of diamonds, emeralds, rubies.

The newest bit of jewelry I have seen is the tiny affair—a tiny affair imbedded in a precious stone and worn on a string.

Rings are not in great favor, earrings being doing better than holding their own—ear-rings that are solitary pearls or diamonds, or elaborate pendants. Brooches have usurped the place of bar pins.

Practically every society woman wears semi-precious stones, like jade who is manager of the team of girl athletes who will represent Canada at the coming meet at Stamford Bridge, London, England.

on chains, and she has bejeweled bags, vanity cases and usually cigarette cases.

The men go in very little for jewelry. I cannot remember having seen more than a dozen rings, all of them with a seal bearing family coats-of-arms. The silver flask is common.

Can Make Painter's Fortune.

In the patronage of art, individuality counts even more than in jewelry. Why a society person who is known as a connoisseur of music or painting or sculpture directs attention to a certain artist, immediately attracts a following to achieve popularity. This is especially the case with portrait painters. There is a Russian painter, who recently came to this continent. A society woman had herself and several members of her family painted by him. In the beginning he charged only a few hundred dollars for a portrait. Now society gladly pays him several thousand.

Society patronage of art rarely extends to the assistance of training. Students are occasionally financed but the occasions are very few.

But women of highest society have distinguished themselves as artists, sculptors and musicians. At least one stands as a monument to a society woman's sense of beauty.

Dorothy Dix

The Mother of Six Who Wants To Keep Her Youngest Daughter for Herself—The Middle-Aged Wife Who Is Charmed by a Young Gaffer.

Dear Miss Dix—I am the mother of six daughters. No sons. Five of my daughters are already married, and I am trying to keep the last one for myself, because it will be so lonely if she marries and leaves me. She says I am selfish, but I don't think so, as I have given up five daughters already. I do not let this girl go to parties, or associate with other young people.

Dear Miss Dix, will you tell me whether I am selfish or not?

ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Answer: You are monumentally selfish because you are deliberately sacrificing your daughter to yourself. You are not thinking of her happiness or well-being. You are thinking only of your own pleasure.

You know well enough that no young girl wants to spend her evenings at home with her mother, while all the other young people are off at parties, dancing and flirting and skylarking and having a good time. You know well enough that any girl is more thrilled by the inane chatter of a jolly young man than she is by the conversation of her mother, no matter if her mother is as brilliant a talker as Madam de Stael was.

Remember your own youth, woman. You were a flapper yourself once, and you know if you will look back you will not be able to recall that your idea of a pleasant evening was being a freddie companion to your mother. Well, girls haven't changed any since your day.

Youth is so short. There is such a little time in a woman's life that she isn't care-burdened and anxious. There is such a little while that she can laugh and play that it seems to me to be the cruellest thing in the world to deny a girl any innocent pleasure that she can possibly have.

And so I think that you commit a great crime against your daughter, and one that she will hate you for, when you keep her away from other young people, and from having the good times that belong to her.

You say you don't want your daughter married because you would be lonely if she leaves you. Suppose you do keep her from marrying. She will be far lonelier then, when you are gone, because, while you have your daughter at your elbow, she will love you, and you will make interests in life for her, to care for you if you are sick and in need, she would have nobody. Unless you are rich and have money to leave her, she would not even have a support, or a home of her own, but would be that most forlorn of all creatures, a dependent old maid.

You had your own full life of love, of marriage, of husband, of children. Why do you want to deny your daughter that?

Suppose your five daughters are married. If they have good husbands, that is a cause for congratulation, not condolence. Marriage is the career in which women are happy, and it is what every good mother hopes for her daughters. Nor does she, when she gives her daughters to their husbands, call it a sacrifice.

My advice to you, Anxious Mother, is to rise above your morbid selfishness. Don't sacrifice your own lamb. Let her have her normal life; and when she marries don't break up your home and go to live with your children because you are lonely. Fill in your life with other interests. Keep busy and you won't have time to be lonesome.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a married woman 47 years old. My husband is a good provider, but has ceased to love me after our marriage of thirty years. I am very much in love with a young man 24 years old who tells me he loves me dearly, and that some day he wants to marry me. This young man often visits at our house for weeks at a time, for which, of course, we do not think of charging him anything, and I often loan him small amounts of money. We often ride together in our automobile and he tells me how much he loves me.

MRS. E. B.

Answer: My poor, deluded, heart-hungry friend, to realize that this young man is loving you, is a dead beat, and that he is paying for his board, and his automobile rides, and for the money you lend him by making love to you.

Lots of contemptible, cheap young chaps do the same thing. They find a middle-aged woman, whose husband is unsentimental and unromantic and who has forgotten that women never lose their sweet tooth, no matter how old and fat they have got, and they make love to these women and tell them how beautiful and wonderful they are, and how much more fascinating a mature woman is than a callow girl.

And the poor, foolish woman is so starved for soft talk she gulps it down without ever stopping to see the motive behind it, which is always sordid.

The devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. W. Jarrold and Mrs. Tom Minkler. The first chapter of the study book, India's Heritage, was very clearly explained by Mrs. William Boyington, after which the president, Mrs. Rannatt, gave a short talk on the importance of the study book, stressing the importance of our duty to India. Mrs. Joseph Poland sang a solo. The society intends having a social at the home of Mrs. India to speak at a meeting in the near future. The membership is 60.

After the jolly comes the touch, and you can estimate the price per value at which your youthful Romeo values his love-making by the amount of money he borrows, and the number of times he uses your car, and the length of time he spongers on you for his dinner. Almost every well-off woman has one of these loathsome parasites hanging on her.

Don't be one of the easy-mark women who fall for this sort of love-making. Have the courage to face the fact that no boy of 24 is in love with a woman of 47, and when he pretends to be in love with a woman old enough to be his mother he is doing so for what he can get out of her. So show this youth the door. Your husband may not be a glib lover, but at least he is more of a man and more entitled to your respect than this gaffer who abuses his hospitality, who eats his bread and butter and fills his pockets with your money.

WATERLOO RINK ANNEXES TOP HONORS IN W.O.B.A.

Moser's Quartet Eliminates Seldon's Exeter Quartet in Thrilling Finish.

MORRIS WINS

Moser's Waterloo rink captured the free Press trophy yesterday afternoon from Dick Seldon's Exeter four after one of the most thrilling finals ever seen in a W. O. B. A. tournament. It was the Waterloo's last owl and a runner which came down and took the Exeter shot away and gave the Waterloo four the end and up by a one-point margin.

Parnell Morris' London rowing club registered a home victory by defeating C. Young's Thistles in the free Press trophy final by a five-point margin. The L. R. C. took the game when they got the last two ends for a four.

Fred Allen's Thistles won the Turnbull trophy by beating J. T. Kay's Windsor four 18 to 16 in the final.

The score:

Allen, 000 001 201 003 410 100—18
Kay, 231 010 010 210 002 012—16

Allen put out Langford's Canadians in the semi-finals, while the Windsor four put out Browne.

SARNIA'S GIFT RUN IN 9TH WINS GAME

Allen Taken Out and Johnston's Own Misplay Beats Him.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, July 22.—Sarnia had to go all out in the last inning to win this afternoon's Kent county league fixture with Dresden after the home side had evened matters in the eighth. It was an off day for Smokey Joe Allen, who retired in the seventh after Dresden had nicked him for eight hits. No less than four errors were credited to Sarnia's star hurler. Moorehouse steadied things up and enabled the squeeze win. Johnston pitched good ball for the visitors, but five open runs in a row this summer.

Sarnia was scoreless in the sixth. In the last frame Schaefer walked, Richards popped to the pitcher, Gray singled, Schaefer reaching third, and Schaefer came home when Johnston threw for a trick play.

Stroke of the Toronto canoe club's senior war canoe which has cleaned up five open runs in a row this summer. Burry joined the T. C. C. "kid" crew three years ago and got his chance with the seniors at the C. C. A. regatta last year. He has stroked the crew all season, and he has made good.

On the Side Lines With C.S.G.

Willie MacFarlane never took a golf lesson in his life. And he won the U. S. open. The exception, we suppose, to the well-known rule.

Special to The Advertiser.

Since the schedule makers of the Mint kept the Tecumseh away for two weeks on the road, they ought to provide guides so the boys can find the baseball park when they return home today.

CIRCUS OR NOT.
When the annual meeting of the W. O. B. A. develops during the on-rushing winter, one of the big questions will be where to stage the 1926 tournament.

Whether it is better to move the W. O. B. A. around or leave it where it is, is a question that the new executive will have to decide. The splendid tribute paid the L. R. C. greens at the meeting the other night may be a straw for the executive to sight along.

Meanwhile the main thing for the executive of next year to do is to shoot at the mark made this year, for enthusiasm has never been quite as generally expressed as it has been this season.

Several times Tilden made no effort to return Lott's stroke when the spectators applauded, and once he raised his arms, signalling for silence. Tilden, obviously angered, remarked, "Impossible to play before such a crowd."

This, however, was not the only display of temper on the part of the champion during the match. During the crucial fifth set, when Lott was enjoying a slight lead and was about to begin a service, Tilden asked for new balls. Lott, however, objected, figuring that they would prove a disadvantage on his service.

Tilden insisted, and Lott replied, "Well, if that's the kind of a sport you are, you can have a whole box of them."

Tilden then refused to accept new balls, but asked for them at the beginning of his own service, and Lott tossed him four. When Tilden made his first request for new balls, Lott had been in play only four or five games and were still in good condition.

Tilden was not in favor with the crowd. Even the hero-worshipping American sport fans have their limits.

Despite the fact that William carries a Roman numeral appended to his name, he doesn't seem to have been too honorable in the matter of a player's name. He was one of those of a committee asked to pass on the U. S. press, has absolutely evaded the spirit of the rules, helped formulate, while not actually violating the letter of them. So much for roman numerals.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

Tecs Win Weird 18-10 Mix Then Gulp 5-0 'Blanco' Dose

First Game Loose, Immoral Affair, But Second Is Tight Tilt.

HAMS LOSE ONE

Associated Press Despatch.
Bay City, July 22.—Michael Baker and his baseball employees have a double bill with Dick Breen's hired help Wednesday afternoon, the visitors taking the first, a loosely played affair, 18 to 10, but dropping the second 5 to 0. They were a pair of peculiar ball games.

In the first contest the Barkers were outlived 17 to 12. Both teams played ragged all the way, while both starting hurlers failed to go the route in the initial tilt. In the fourth, the locals found no trouble in crossing the plate five times. London duplicated the trick in the following frame and scored as many without registering a safe blow. Walks issued by Lahala and disputed decisions of the umpire were included in the reasons for frequent scoring. Many times in both games the runways were choked, as many times a hurler would walk another to force in runs.

The second game was not the travesty of the first. Both teams played better baseball. Thomas, a Wolf hurler, who pitched a portion of the first game relieving Lahala, was more effective, eliminating ten qualifiers for the paths by the strike-out route.

Start Early.
In the opening frame both clubs scored a brace of runs by inserting timely bingles. London came back in the second and counted another, while the homesters experienced little trouble in registering three tallies. Both teams played mediocre ball in the third, but it was in the fourth that things began to happen. The visitors were able to cross the platter with two, the locals heating them three better in their half, a total of five being counted in the homesters' favor in this frame.

London came in for its share of scores in the fifth. When the third man on Baker's side was retired the Tecumsehs had five more scores dangling from their belts.

With the score knotted at 10 all, both clubs battled into the sixth inning, with Bay City inserting Thomas for mound duty in place of Lahala. Thomas proved no puzzle to the Tec batters who managed to score another run in this inning.

Delman, who had relieved Allen in the second, with one retired did not seem to be going so good either, although he refused to allow a local runner to negotiate the entire distance around the bases in the sixth diamond to register a single score after the fifth inning.

The visitors found it possible to score seven runs before the game was over, getting a brace of tallies in the seventh and enjoying a big inning in the eighth, with scores being counted by Baker's hired help.

Same Man—Different.
In the short contest, Thomas was sent back in against London, and performed brilliantly, striking out ten batters, and for good measure he registered a shutout.

In the opening frame neither team was able to score. In the second, however, the homesters managed to score, as they did also in the third, each team getting one run only.

Both teams displayed a much better brand of baseball, fighting hard all the way. In the third, the Tec batters came through with their first pair of runs registered in one inning of this game, and followed that inning up by counting another in the sixth, which ended the scoring in the day. London, playing hard throughout the entire game, and given credit for many brilliant and gifted, was denied in the second contest, however.

HOME RUN BEATS GIRLS' BALL TEAM

Exciting Contest Is Feature of Presbyterian Young People's Picnic.

The Presbyterian young people's society of London held its first annual picnic at Port Stanley yesterday afternoon with an attendance of more than 150 young people. The affair, which was in charge of Frank Hughes, was a decided success in every respect.

Arch McDonald, Elmwood avenue, acted as manager for the girls' softball team with the result that they almost defeated the men's team. In fact, it had not been for Jimmie Buchanan's home run, which landed in the ninth inning, the girls would not have lost an exciting game by the close score of 14 to 11. Mr. Westland was captain of the boys' team.

Miss Elizabeth Brown supervised the serving of lunch, cafeteria style, following the sports, which included also the following races: Coat race, Miss Gresham and A. Eadie; peanut race, Miss E. Wilcock and R. Hamilton; elephant race, Miss Annie Malloy and Rev. M. F. Cree.

Guests of honor at the picnic were Rev. F. S. Okell, Chalmers church; Rev. M. F. Cree, Hamilton street church; W. T. Brown, New St. James' church; Mr. and Mrs. Archie McDonald, Elmwood avenue church.

TOURISTS APPRECIATE KINDNESS OF LONDON

Citizens Create Good Impression by Treating Travellers Hospitably.

Tourists are pleased with Canada and unusually enthusiastic about the beauties of London. This seems to be the consensus of opinion, according to A. Wolfe, who has talked to large numbers who park along Richmond street to rest awhile.

Practically all the travellers are well pleased with their visits and are overjoyed at any kindness that savors of hospitality, says Mr. Wolfe. Many do not ask for anything more than the direction to a certain town, when they are met with courteous answers and are given the feeling that Londoners are willing and anxious to see them get the most out of their trip, they are appreciative.

"Treat them so well that they will come back to see us again next year," is Mr. Wolfe's slogan.

NEW REPRIEVE ASKED FOR SCOTT

declined to take action regarding the case as beyond his jurisdiction. A personal appeal to the president would be made by two Detroit club women interested in raising the fund for Scott, his father said on his return from Detroit yesterday.

Scott has given up his probable last interview with him if he opposes capital punishment. "If I'm hanged, then some day my innocence will be proven" and there will be a great movement against capital punishment," he told newspaper men.

"CLOSE FRIEND" ENTERS.

Associated Press Despatch. Detroit, July 23.—An unnamed "close friend" of governor Len Small of Illinois has informed a local paper of his receipt of a message from the governor to the effect that a sixty day reprieve possible commutation of sentence would be granted by the governor to Scott on Thursday.

After investigation it was concluded to record the incident as an other miscarriage of plans to save Scott from the noose for the slaying of a drug clerk in Chicago. Little confidence was placed in the incident here, and it was discarded, but only after some excitement had been experienced by receipt of the message.

James M. Ball, perpetrator of the Russell Scott telegram hoax, has been declared sane by own request, examined him at his own request. Ball said he wanted proof of his sanity to lift what he said was a cloud which newspaper notoriety has cast on his mental state.

SUMMER SCHOOL STUDENTS WILL TAKE JAUNT TO PORT

Port Stanley is the destination of 100 summer school students of the university of Western Ontario, who will leave early this afternoon for a frolic on the beach and a swim.

Every Friday afternoon the students go away on a jaunt. There are two places that are visited, and once each year by the students, and they go in a body. One place is Springbank and the other is Port.

Some attractive sports are on the program.

MANY NOTABLES WERE AT AVID GRANT'S PUPILS

Veteran Sarnia Teacher Has Guided Youths' Destinies For 42 Years.

HONORED BY CITY
Hundreds of Former Pupils Pay Tribute to Beloved Man.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, July 23.—David M. Grant, veteran teacher in classics at the Sarnia collegiate institute, who was honored by hundreds of former pupils yesterday and presented with a purse of $1,000, has taught school for 42 years, 40 years of which teaching has been in this city. There is no one of Sarnia's seventeen thousand residents who carries more respect and esteem than this veteran teacher, as the demonstration in his honor yesterday strikingly illustrated.

He has been more than a teacher almost a parent to hundreds of young people who have in four decades graduated from his classes. Mr. Grant is an honored graduate in classics from Toronto University. He was born in Wellington county and taught school at Oakwood and Petrolia before coming to Sarnia to the four roomed high school. His first pupil was the late Alex S. Burnham, former prominent Sarnia barrister, after Burnham came Judge R. Brown of British Columbia.

His pupils have in many cases distinguished themselves. J. R. Boyle is an ex-attorney-general of Alberta. John Brownlee is present attorney-general in that province. Elgin Gray is superintendent of Toronto General hospital. Herbert Symington, solicitor for the four western provinces. Percy Flintoff, solicitor for C. P. R. Chas. Adams, a king's counsel at Calgary. Mr. Justice Vanstone, prominent member of the New York stock exchange.

It was typical of Mr. Grant that at an interview he found many a pleasure in talking to those whom he taught in the early days than of himself. There is scarcely a prominent man in this city who did not emerge from the collegiate here and they all revere "D. M." as he is affectionately nicknamed. He has been a member of Sarnia library board for many years and is at present chairman. It will not be much longer, however, that D. M. will help younger Sarnians over the styles in the languages of the Greeks and Romans as early next year he will retire.

He says teaching has always been a delight to him, and as he moves around the city this week with his tall, erect figure still noticeable in any crowd, he finds a reward for his labors as he meets the eyes and holds the hands of the ex-Sarnia collegians who have gravitated to the old town during the week.

May Close Cathedral Doors To Disrespectful Tourists

Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, July 23.—Ecclesiastical authorities of Notre Dame church are incensed at American tourists entering the edifice at all hours as though it were an ordinary public building, talking loudly, and arrayed in costumes suitable for penetrating "the wilds of Canada."

They object particularly to women strolling about the sacred precincts in khaki trousers, plus-fours, and so forth, and to the presence of "visitors" unless they observed the rules of dress, headgear, and conduct.

EXCHANGE RATE MAY GO HIGHER

Many Factors Affect Chances of Canadian Dollar in U. S. A.

Canadian bonds and securities are being marketed in the United States by the government and by corporations. This is one reason why Canadian exchange sold at a new high in New York yesterday, according to F. B. Clarke, broker.

Canadian exchange touched a premium of one-sixteenth of one percent. This was an increase of one-sixteenth over the previous top. A dispatch from New York states that financiers attribute the high premium to huge exports from the dominion. Two factors not mentioned in the dispatch were pointed out by Mr. Clarke. They were not actually of an industrial nature. One was the sale of securities abroad. This brought American money into Canada, and the other was the tourist trade. United States citizens were spending large sums of money in Canada. This was particularly noticeable in London.

A. J. Goodall, manager of the Imperial Bank here said today that it would be difficult to place a finger on any one thing that would tend to raise the exchange rate in Canada's favor. The good prospects for a bumper crop out west might have something to do with it. The financial market was very sensitive and very little was required to fluctuate in one way or the other. The present difference was slight. There was no telling whether it would go up or down. Large incoming shipments of coal might tend to reduce it. Large movements of export wheat might turn the tide the other way.

Upwards of 600 people will assemble of members of the Ontario Humane society on October 20-21, according to J. M. Wilson, Toronto, general manager of the Ontario Humane society who was in town today.

A keen interest in the affairs of humane societies is sweeping the country today. Mr. Wilson said at the Tenthredin House where he was consulting with Inspector Tustin.

"Time was when we had to go out and interest people in the cause of dumb animals but this is no longer the case. We have calls from all over Ontario to organize local branches for the protection of bird life, animals and proper facilities for the caring of beasts for slaughter."

Mr. Wilson paid a tribute to George Tustin, local inspector, saying that he received business reports from the inspector, but high praise of his work reached the head offices from other quarters.

There will be several experts in humane methods from the United States attending the October convention. Mr. Wilson is in town arranging the details today.

The convention will be opened by the Lord Bishop of Toronto, president of the society. Then will follow the addresses by the mayor and other officials.

The latter part of the first day will be given over to reading of papers on trapping and hunting, cruel sports, transportation of food animals, humane education and international humane co-operation.

No step has been taken to provide the mayor with extra expenses for this year, though he is given the usual privilege of securing refunds for trips out of town on civic business. Only $1,800 stipend has been provided for Mr. Wenige in this year's estimates.

It is known that private citizens have been making inquiries lately at the city hall, seeking information on the present status of the old account.

EXPENSE CLAIM NOT LEGALIZED

Mayor's $1,200 Never Included in Estimates For This Year.

Authority has not yet been given a $1,200 expense item, paid out by the city of London early in the year, and for which a bylaw is now suggested in council circles.

The item is the extra expense account turned in by the mayor last December and proposed by the defeated council of 1924. The sum has not been included in the estimates of this year, and has not been legalized by the council.

The term of office of the present council now wanes, and steps are suggested to bring in a bylaw to properly legalize the expense.

When the two appeared with their legal representatives before Judge Wallace in a dispute over the will of their mother, Mrs. Annie Rose. As the case was called, Mrs. Sutherland's lawyer, S. G. MacKay of Woodstock, suggested that the court excuse the brother and sister while an attempt was made to reach a settlement. This was done as the court wished away the time with conversation on everything from evolution to the county crops, but its patience was well rewarded when, on the return of the couple, J. M. McEvoy of London, counsel for Mr. Rose, announced that an agreement had been arrived at.
Mr. Rose to pay his sister $1,250 for a quit-claim deed to two pieces of land involved in the estate. Mr. Rose had previously offered to settle for $1,000.

lad entered the stable to milk the cow, but was knocked down when the cow tried to rear its calf, tied in a nearby stall. The boy's cries for help were heard by his aunt, who came to his rescue and succeeded in driving off the maddened animal. The cow had trampled on the lad, inflicting serious injuries.

SENATE REFORM PARLEY DEFERRED FOR PRESENT

Question of Federal Election Precludes Possibility of Conference Yet.

NO MOVE MADE

Question Will Remain Open Unless Parliament Is Dissolved.

By E. C. BUCHANAN, Special to The Advertiser.
Ottawa, July 22.—The conference between the dominion and provincial governments on senate reform and other constitutional questions, which was to have been called during the parliamentary recess, may be regarded as deferred for the present. It is not likely to be held this summer. The question of a federal election, whether decision regarding it is taken within the next few days or delayed, precludes the possibility of a conference. If it is not decided at the next full meeting of the cabinet to dissolve parliament, the question will remain open, and no conference will be called so long as an election is a possibility.

No move has been made by the government since prorogation toward calling the conference on senate reform. The speech from the throne at the opening of parliament on February 5 announced that parliament would be asked to sanction such a conference. Parliament in due course gave its sanction. Before that, however, a very considerable sentiment developed in the house of commons and outside it antagonistic to any tampering with the constitution. Effort was made to have the suggestion of constitutional reform interpreted as leading in the direction of separation from the empire. It was even argued that proposal to change the B. N. A. would be regarded by enemies of the British empire as a move towards annexation to the U.S. Advocates of senate reform had little to encourage them in the performance of the upper house during the past session. The senate did not come off second best in any difference it had with the commons, and a good many observers bestow praise upon it for its revision of the Home Bank Bill, rejection of the rural credits measure, the killing of the amendments to the criminal code regarding the publication of racing news and its investigation into the railway situation. The senate undoubtedly gained friends and fortified its position during the closing days of the session.

Everything considered, therefore, it is unlikely that the move, in the direction of reform will be advanced in the immediate future, or that the proposed conference on constitutional changes will be called before the next session of parliament.

STRATHROY HOLDS BIG BAND TATTOO

Over 2,500 Attend Massed Demonstration in Alexandria Park.

Special to The Advertiser.
Strathroy, July 22.—With an attendance of over 2,500 people, the massed band tattoo held here tonight, was a decided success. The weather proved somewhat cool, but was far ahead of last year, when it rained each of the four days of the demonstration.

The parade was formed at the armories by Parade Marshal Sgt. Major E. A. Arthurs, of the 26th regiment. Those bands taking part, together with their respective bandmasters, were: Brigden Silver, F. W. Lillywhite; Petrolia Citizens', W. Taylor; Forest Excelsior, A. Lapham; 26th Middlesex Regimental, A. Davidson. The bands then marched to Alexandria Park, where they were welcomed by Mayor George Lewis. Following this, a musical program was given by the massed bands under the direction of Bandmaster Davidson. Selections were given by the local male quartette, composed of Messrs. Allen, Best, Sadler, and Haidane. A vocal solo was given by Mack Collins, with his accompaniment. Community singing was also enjoyed.

A pleasing feature of the evening was a rifle drill by members of the Strathroy company of the 26th regiment, directed by Sergeant-Major Arthurs.

During the evening, fun was provided by two clowns, A. Gill and W. Collins. A magnificent display of fireworks brought the program to a close.

DAYTON VERDICT MEETS SARCASM IN ENGLAND

Believe Trial Degenerated Into Farce—Darrow Wins Praise.

By JOHN GUNTHER, Special Cable to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright.
London, July 22.—British newspapers, which have been covering the Dayton trial in extreme detail, greeted news of the verdict with a long howl of sarcastic comment. The general view of the trial was that the trial, which should have been an important contribution to freedom, degenerated into a farce and flailed out in absurd mountebankery. Considerable respect for Clarence Darrow is shown and some sympathy for John T. Scopes, but only scorn for William Jennings Bryan and Judge Raulston.

Minister Dies On Jubilee's Eve

He was born in Germany, coming to Canada when eleven years of age. He is survived by three daughters and three sons.

ASK FOR INJUNCTION

Associated Press Despatch.
Washington, July 22.—An action which may throw the whole evolution question into the federal courts for judicial determination as to whether the teaching of this scientific theory inculcates disrespect for the Holy Bible was begun here today by Lorne H. Whitner, a government employee.

The vehicle employed is a rider to the 1925 District of Columbia appropriation bill which provides that "no part of this sum (for the public schools) shall be available for the salary of any superintendent who permits the teaching of, or any teacher who teaches disrespect for the Holy Bible."

The action is in the nature of an injunction proceeding directed at the auditor and disbursing officer of the District of Columbia, and Frank White, treasurer of the United States, to prohibit them from making further payments of salaries to Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, and W. P. Hay, head of the department of biology and chemistry in the Washington high schools.

Immediately upon the filing of the proceedings Justice Siddons of the District of Columbia supreme court issued a rule on the two district officials, Daniel J. Donovan and James R. Lusby and Mr. White, directing them to appear July 28 to show cause why an injunction should not be issued against them.

PROTEST IN CALIFORNIA.

Associated Press Despatch.
San Francisco, July 22.—Scientists and theologians of California have started their clash over the teaching of evolution in this state. Maynard Shipley, president of the Science League of America, appeared before the state board of education yesterday to protest against action of the board last April declaring evolution could be taught in the public schools only as a theory and not as a fact.

The board also received communications from the Rev. Robert Schuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church of Los Angeles, who denounced certain illustrated text books on mythology as having a demoralizing influence on boys and girls.

BUSES TO REPLACE ANOTHER RAIL LINE

Will Begin Operation Between Woodstock and Ingersoll On October 1.

Special to The Advertiser.
Woodstock, July 22.—The Ingersoll, Woodstock and Thames Valley electric railway, operating a street car service between Woodstock and Ingersoll, a distance of 12 miles, will be scrapped and replaced by an auto bus service this fall. It was announced this morning as a result of negotiations which are being carried on between the company, the city of Woodstock, and the town of Ingersoll. Judge J. G. Wallace, who is in charge of the railway, has applied to the city council for cancellation of the franchise whereby the company operates over certain streets in Woodstock.

According to an announcement by officials of the line, a greatly improved bus service will be in operation by October 1. The work of removing the rails will begin on Sept. 1. The Thames Valley Railway has operated since 1900, and under its agreement with the city of Woodstock it pays in addition to taxes, a $500 annual rental for right of way. Two buses will be put into operation on October 1, and will run every half-hour.

REPORT VERIFIED.

Ingersoll, July 22.—Formal verification of rumors to the effect that the Ingersoll, Woodstock and Thames Valley electric railway is to be discontinued, has been received here.
