Residence fees to rise 6 - 10 %

On Tuesday UNB's Board of Governors voted to raise residence fees by six to ten per cent. The exact amount will vary from residence to residence with on-campus rooms for single students taking the biggest jump (nine to 10 per cent). Off-campus rooms will cost six per cent more while apartments in Magee House will be up by about 7.5 per cent.

No decision has been made with regard to a tuition increase.

Vice-president of finance and administration James O'Sullivan said the increases were made to compensate for increased operating costs. He said the board took into account what students would be able to pay and arrived at a figure which O'Sullivan said was "just and fair." He said not raising the fees would have resulted in a large increase in the residence operating deficit.

When asked if the increase might turn students away from residences, O'Sullivan replied that the board hopes the rates are competitive and that students will be able to pay them.

"If the service and the operations aren't what the student wants at the fee he is able and willing to pay we will lose occupants and that will be self-defeating."

SRC president Perry Thorbourne, in a brief presented to the board of governors prior to the vote for the increase, said "there are no longer any real significant advantages, as seen by students, for living on campus." He blamed poor administration for the increase and said students will continue to argue against fee increases despite his impression that it is a "losing battle."

Definitely not. This SRC referendum is the biggest scam and Thorbourne should definitely resign immediately.

No referendum on SUB issue

- Council AGAIN rescinds motion

By HAROLD DOHERTY

The referendum to decide on the proposed student fee increase was cancelled at an emergency meeting of the SRC held Monday night.

A $15 increase in student fees had been proposed to pay off the SUB mortgage within the next year and save the Student Union $15-$20 thousand in interest charges. At Monday night's emergency meeting council voted 10-6 to rescind a motion passed by council a week ago which had called for a referendum to decide the issue.

The emergency meeting of council was called for 10 p.m. Monday night at an 'informal gathering' of council members which had taken place earlier. Several members of council and other interested students had met to voice their dissatisfaction with the manner in which the referendum had been 'pushed through' council. SRC president Perry Thorbourne spoke briefly to the group and called for an emergency meeting of the council to discuss the referendum.

Engineering rep Dave Lawrence at the emergency meeting introduced a motion to rescind motions 6, 9 and 11 of March 17, 1980 which had called for the referendum. Science Rep Mike Hughson seconded Lawrence's motion. Lawrence introduced the motion because of an ad which had been placed on the back page of the Brunswickan of March 21, 1980 by the SRC executive. Lawrence said he felt that "the students were lied to by this ad."

"The ad has prejudiced the referendum and misrepresented the situation to the students of UNB," he said. Science rep Hughson added that "democracy is not being served here. The SUB will not disappear overnight."

During the debate on the motion to rescind the referendum Thorbourne was asked who worded the motion. He replied the SRC executive had worded the motion.

"I admit that I am responsible for the actions of the executive. It was not done deliberately to mislead. If you want to rescind the motion, go ahead. Nothing has been steered here. Nothing has been railroaded," Thorbourne said.

Rep at large Ross Libbey agreed with the move to pay off the mortgage early but disagreed with the way in which it was put forth. "The decision is a sound one from a business point of view but the students have not been properly informed," he said.

SRC Vice-president Chris Earl was opposed to delaying the referendum. "If the referendum is delayed the motion would not be brought into effect until the following year. If we bring it to referendum in the fall it will be too late."

Science rep Hughson labelled Earl's remarks as "garbage, scare tactics. Chris Earl should know better." Fourth year forestry student Wade Prest said he could not believe that the vice-president could say what he did, and advised council to ask for Earl's resignation.

SRC President Thorbourne was asked again about the wording of the ad placed in the Brunswickan. Thorbourne replied "I didn't change it, I just didn't have time to do it, I had things pressing." Council adjourned after passing the motion to rescind the referendum by a vote of 10 to 6.

Libbey calls special meeting

By HAROLD DOHERTY

The SRC met informally Monday night to discuss the referendum on the proposed increases in student fees. The meeting took place at 6:30 p.m. in room 103 of the SUB. It was called by Rep-at-Large Ross Libbey after a regularly scheduled meeting had been cancelled by SRC President Perry Thorbourne who wanted the time to prepare a brief to the board of governors.

Several councillors and students voiced their disapproval with the way in which the referendum and proposed fee increases were being presented to council and the students in general. SRC President Perry Thorbourne later addressed the gathering and scheduled an emergency meeting of the council.

In his introductory remarks at the impromptu meeting, Councillor Libbey raised the question of SRC accountability. He said he felt there was "a lack of student access to SRC financial information." Libbey said that "more access would help increase SRC accountability." He also expressed concern over the rights of students with regards to the Student Union. "The Student Union Inc. is actually a club," said Libbey referring to its incorporation under a special section of the Corporations Act. "As club members students have rights only as described in SRC by-laws." Libbey also said he had intended to discuss, at the regularly scheduled meeting, his stance on the possibility of adding a rider to the referendum to earmark the fee increase directly to SUB renovations.

The meeting was the scene of a heated exchange between graduate student David Miller and Board of Governors student representative Steve Berube. In talking to Berube, Miller stated "there is a need for truth here. Repeated statements from you and others have been given which do not jive with reality." In response Berube said he was "fed up with people's attitudes around here. Who is leading this campus? Council? The Brunswickan? Who?" Miller responded that "it is the function of the press to question statements they believe to be misleading."

Libbey emphasized that "students have no rights except as stated in the by-laws and regulations of council. Thus if the increase is voted for in the referendum and it is not earmarked specifically it can be used as council sees fit."

Berube commented on the nature of the relationship between himself and SRC President Thorbourne. "I do not pull Perry Thorbourne's strings. He is a good friend of mine, I admit that. But this is Perry's show. I deal with Perry on the SUB Board at arm's length."

Forestry student Wade Prest, in referring to the referendum campaign said he has seen some pretty "fishy tricks but nothing like this one." Forestry rep Andrew Wort said he was of the opinion "that if we can get a meeting of council together we should not continue on with the referendum. It's a hurried decision. It should be talked about." Miller said "the thing should not have been railroaded through with sleazy advertising techniques. A plan should have been prepared and presented to the students for a vote rather than using misleading advertising to push it through."

Miller said it was misleading to say that the university wants to take over the SUB. Berube suggested that this question had to be considered in the context of SUB board discussions and SUB director Cindy Stacey's report. CHSR reporter Doug Varty said that "the discussions were for information only. Several SUB board members opposed any takeovers explicitly." Prest, who was on the SRC last year, made a comparison of the referendum fee increase this year with the CHSR-FM proposal of last year. "The events are the same as last year. There is a lack of information and a railroading of issues." Prest asked councillors if they had any idea of "What's going to happen and where the $15 increase is going to be spent, or do you not?"

Thorbourne then arrived and informed council of the emergency meeting set for 10 o'clock that night.

SRC meeting cancelled

The Brunswickan has learned that the Student Representative Council meeting scheduled for tomorrow night has been cancelled.

This meeting had originally been scheduled after SRC President Perry Thorbourne moved the regular weekly SRC meeting from Monday to Thursday earlier this week. The change in meeting date was

University says it doesn't want SUB

The University of New Brunswick has no intentions of taking over the Student Union building, says James O'Sullivan, vice-president of finance and administration.

In a telephone interview with O'Sullivan, he contradicted recent allegations by the SRC that the university had been contemplating the eventual take-over of the SUB and he said no one had been in contact with him over the prospect of the university doing so.

Eric Garland, assistant vice-president of administration also said he had not been aware of any take-over of the SUB and said he found it strange that these statements were being circulated throughout the campus.

"Someone must be talking about it - but it must be within the student union. They may be considering it amongst themselves - but no one has been talking about the issue officially," he said.

Garland said he found the advertisement on the back page of the Brunswickan last Friday a total surprise, saying that his initial reaction was, "what the heck is going on?" The university, he said, has never made any mention of, nor has it ever applied any pressures to the union.

"This is a real campaign for a different purpose - its an internal thing," he said, "but as for the administration, no one is really aware of anything."

Both O'Sullivan and Garland said any news on this issue would come through their offices and as yet there had been nothing.

O'Sullivan said the university is not attempting to make "a power grab" for the student union building. The university is currently contributing a quarter of a million dollars to the operation of the student union building, he said. The money is used for lighting, heating and cleaning services. The SUB Board, said O'Sullivan, does not have to pay for these services.

Thorbourne addresses b of g on fee increases

By SUSAN REED
Staff Writer

Any increase in tuition should be below or equal to the additional 8.1 per cent contributed by the government towards the operation of the university, said SRC President Perry Thorbourne in a brief presented to the Board of Governors Tuesday morning.

"I fail to see how or why the students should be expected to contribute more to the operation of the university than the amount the government contributes," he said.

Thorbourne spoke about the problems students encounter trying to raise money for tuition. Students would be unable to meet fee increases, he said, if they increase in direct proportion to the cost of living, because the minimum wage, which students are usually paid, is not indexed to the CPI (Consumer Price Index).

Thorbourne mentioned the inadequacy of the student aid service, which he called "poorly structured." Students receive only limited help; the maximum amount a student may receive in a year is $2,800, he said.

Bill C-14, the Unemployment Insurance Act, which states that in this region students must work for 10 weeks to be eligible for unemployment insurance benefits, "effectively eliminates a great number of students from acquiring the necessary funds to attend university," said Thorbourne.

He requested on behalf of the student that the surplus the university will "likely show" this year to be used to compensate for increases in student fees for the upcoming year. Thorbourne claimed the university is mismanaging the residences. Their upkeep has been neglected he said, and repairs that should have been done five or 10 years ago will now be paid for by increased residence costs. These fees will also be used to offset an expected bad year for the conferences and food services department, Thorbourne said, whose projected net income for this year is $75,000 down from $170,000 last year. Students in residence are paying almost the same amount as those living off-campus, said Thorbourne. He said this means there are no significant advantages to students living on-campus.

Board of Governors member Eric Teed said he was under the impression that living off-campus was cheaper. The advantage of living in residence is in his opinion, he said, living closer "to where the action is."

Thorbourne then requested, as president of the SRC (Fredericton) that he be informed by the board of governors how exactly the student fees will be used in the university, so that he can tell the students. He said later he made this request although there are two student representatives on the board, because any increase should be explained to the students, and as far as he is aware, there has never been a breakdown of fees shown to the students.

Perry Thorbourne
President, UNB- SRC

Sir:

I am most offended by the advertisement placed by your council in the Brunswickan of March 21, 1980. In particular one statement which is incorrect and misleading.

" - So the SUB Board has told the director to try to give control to the Administration."

I was surprised to say the least to see this as you were present at the SUB Board of Directors meeting of February 14, 1980 when the matter was discussed. We debated several means to stabilize the finances of the SUB and at the end motioned to allow the chairman and the director to speak to the Administration of UNB regarding present and future commitments to the SUB. However, we did not authorize in any way " the Director to try to give control to the Administration."

This misrepresentation to the UNB community cannot go unchanged. I respectfully suggest you check your facts before presenting statements especially on such important matters as the SUB and its future.

I await your reply,

Yours,

James Haley

Haley applauds decision

St. Thomas University SRC President Jim Haley said he applauds the UNB SRC's decision to rescind its motion calling for a referendum to increase student fees.

Haley said he agrees in principle with the proposed fee increase to pay off the SUB mortgage, in order to save both unions money, but he doesn't approve of how it was handled. He called the SRC ad in last Friday's Brunswickan "incorrect and misleading."

Perry Thorbourne should seriously reassess his position as SRC president, said Haley.

reportedly made so that Thorbourne could complete a report for the Board of Governors meeting held in Saint John yesterday.

The cancellation comes in the wake of an emergency council meeting held late Monday night that cancelled the referendum scheduled for today.

An SRC Councillor who did not wish to be identified called The Brunswickan after learning of the cancellation early yesterday morning. Although the meeting was cancelled by Thorbourne, according to this council member the SRC president gave no reason for the sudden move.

Tragedy hits 'dry' pub

Tragedy struck the UNB campus this past Saturday evening at a non-alcoholic pub sponsored by UNB's Student Representative Council. Dead is 18-year-old Cyril Burpshaw. An autopsy revealed the cause of death to be acute sugar poisoning.

An unidentified friend of the late Mr. Burpshaw was with him on the night of the pub. She described the night's events: "He just kept drinking...Pepsi after Pepsi. I pleaded with him to stop, to please stop, but he would listen. He just kept drinking. Then, just as he finished his eighteenth cup, he let out an agonized belch and fell off his chair...dead! It was his birthday!.. There were no other reported deaths at the pub. However, numerous students were observed to be suffering from "sugar psychosis" - a type of mental disorder resulting in violent and erratic behavior.

The problem of dry pubs has been brought to the attention of New Brunswick's Drug and Soft Drink Dependency Commission. Speaking on behalf of the commission was chairman Dr. Everest Clambers.

"If only alcohol were served at that pub, Cyril Burpshaw would be alive today," said Clambers.

SRC Comptroller Steve Holmes refused to comment directly on the fatality, saying only "We may have lost a bit of money on the pub but it will be about three months before I can give you an accurate figure. If you knew the first thing about accounting I wouldn't have to tell you that. You people don't understand."

Funeral services for Mr. Burpshaw will be held this Sunday at the Church of the Latter Day Polysaccharides on Demerarra St.

Christ Pearl hospitalized

The vice-president of the SRC, Christ Pearl was brought to the Doctor Emily Calmer Hospital after receiving critical injuries to his ego.

Pearl apparently broke the ceiling tile while walking down the hall with his nose in the air. He was scared by an unidentified student and jumped through the tile.

It took a rescue team several hours to free the vice-president from his perch. The president of the SRC, Berry Thoroughlyburnt, will be giving a press conference on Wednesday to inform the students of their vice-president's condition.

As it turns out, Pearl is in need of a humility transfusion but the hospital Humility Bank is running extremely low. Luckily for Pearl, President Thoroughlyburnt has offered to give the badly needed transfusion saying "I have more humility than I know what to do with."

Vice-President Pearl is not receiving visitors but then who would want to go in the first place?

Fees to be doubled

Recently-appointed UNB PRESIDENT Jiminy Downer announced today that tuition and residence fees would be doubled.

Downer said he was "sick and tired" of the "communist oriented little brats" attending university today, saying that not only do they spread venereal disease and have premarital sex but they are also responsible for the problems in which the university finds itself. He pointed out that while students pay only 10 per cent of the actual cost of attending university, the university and "taxpayers like me" are stuck for the rest.

Bumswickan cub reporter Jo Killfoiled questioned Downer about the increase asking him if he thought students could afford it. Downer said he didn't care, as he felt the more affluent students could afford it and those who couldn't didn't have a right here anyways. He said he believes in a class system where the "rich get richer and the poor get poorer."

Killfoiled asked Dr. Downer whether this was an outmoded idea, but Downer pointed out the fact that capitalism worked that way and if the "United States could live off the lives and blood of little countries," then "damn it we'll live off the lives and blood of students."

Downer said that it would open countless job opportunities as the market would no longer be flooded, and "lazy no-good leftists with easy morals" could return to the factories and warehouses "where they belong."

Student union unveils new plans

The executive of UNB's student union has announced sweeping new plans for improving student services on campus. Among the services promised are free dental care for all students, a day care centre for children of students, and a red light district on the SUB ground floor.

SRC president Perry Tonitis said in an interview that arrangements have been made for the hiring of a part-time orthodontist at a cost of $30,000. Tonitis said the money would come partially from a $29,995 reduction in the Bumswickan budget. He said he realized the Bumswickan would not be able to operate with such a reduction but he noted that the Bums office space was needed for the set up of the SRC cathouse.

Comptroller Steve Holmes said the SRC has needed a dental care program for some time now, adding that he felt it was a Sound Business Investment. "The Bums will have to toe the line", said Holmes.

A question of how many students would actually benefit from a day care program was answered by vice-president Priss D.L. Squirrel.

"Hundreds of people have asked for this service. Now they're finally going to get it."

Squirrel was asked how he arrived at the figure of hundreds. He replied that it was an impression he had received from many sources. Squirrel was asked to produce a list of those requesting the service. He refused. He was then asked to name one person who had actually said outright that they would use the service. Squirrel replied, "Moms said she would."

UNB in farming business

Newly appointed University President Dr. Murk N. Muffly divulged a new program by the administration to raise revenue by utilizing both of UNB's athletic fields, each of approximately one acre in area.

Simply put the new program will see the playing fields turned into paying fields: they will be planted with cash crops, the harvest sold and the proceeds used for general budgetary shortfalls.

Students in the Marshall d'Avray Hall area have probably noticed the ploughed up state of Chapman Field. This has been done in preparation for this spring's planting. Chapman Field is the first phase of the three phase project. First Chapman, then Buchanan Field will be turned over to potato production. Phase three will see asparagus and broccoli planted on the broad, 1.2 acre lawn in front of the Old Arts Building.

President Muffly declined to disclose more details at this time but did state it was an "innovative approach" to the University's budget problems; he concluded by stating that the goal was to "turn potato chips into scholarships."

Corpses will be used

The UNB Department of Biology announced today that a proposed system to cut back on departmental costs is to be implemented for the 1980-81 academic year. Chairman Burp said in an interview yesterday that future deaths within the university community will be a "boon" to the department in that all corpses are to be strictly for departmental use and experiments. He acknowledged that the faculty expects some opposition from the families of the deceased persons but feels that with money and power behind them this should pose no great problem.

"We need bodies to work with" he pointed out and as the cost of cadavers were increasing each year members decided to "look to their own". He pointed out that in doing so the department was really upholding the central theme of the university which is to learn. "What better way to go?" he asked. "After all, profs etcetera are here to teach, and they can go on 'teaching after they're dead, we're really doing them a favor.' The Chairman vetoes any rumors circulating that the department will actively seek participants, although he did say that the drop-out rate for students is expected to be on the increase after next year. "Lots of students drop out around Xmas," he said, adding that often, "they take off for parts unknown," and people don't know where they are. He said most parents wouldn't care what happened to a student if he dropped out as they would no longer have the satisfaction of showing friends a graduation photo.

Co-ed cans now a reality

The Committee for Co-ed Cans (ccc), a student organization formed last fall as a pressure group advocating the sexual desegregation of washrooms on campus, has finally scored a victory. Effective April 1, the SUB will officially convert all of its washrooms, both male and female, to co-ed facilities. We're very excited over this breakthrough," said Orville Washbottom, president of the CCC. "It's only the beginning for us, though.

Today the SUB next year who knows-maybe the world! We're very pleased to hear that the SUB Board has taken our suggestions. Very good ones, I might add." Washbottom said the CCC has been criticizing segregated washrooms as the final barrier to true sexual equality. "Why should I walk all the way down the hall to go to the can when there's a ladies one right outside the cafeteria door?" he asked.

Washbottom also said that separate washrooms lead to more vandalism simply because they are limited to one sex. "People won't be forced to draw unusual pictures or write risque poetry on the walls as an enactment of their fantasies. Since both sexes will be frequenting the room, all fantasies will be close at hand," he said.

As well, savings in toilet paper and disposable towels will result. Washbottom said people tend to act more responsibly in mixed company, and all will benefit from the co-ed move in the form of more sanitary facilities.

Sources close to the administration aren't talking, but it is believed that the university will be keeping a close watch on the SUB experiment. If the CCC has their way, by next Christmas all buildings on campus will have fully-integrated washroom facilities. This will also include shower rooms in the residences and the gym.

Workmen have begun installing urinals in the ladies' washrooms and tampon dispensers in the men's. Some walls may be knocked down to create a more airy atmosphere, as part of the washroom redecoration plan, a study done by ten students last summer. Among recommendations in this study are the installation of shag carpeting, Muzak, hanging plants, and mood lighting. However, these alterations will not be made until the co-ed plan has been completed. So far students are responding enthusiastically to the changes, although some women have expressed surprise at the addition of urinals to their washroom. One was overheard asking, "How do you use it?" You'll soon find out, dear.

SRC lists demands

The SRC is asking for free passes to all university events for SRC members.

The President now gets $70 a week during the school year plus $125 a week during the summer, along with tuition. The vice-president gets $500 a year, the comptroller $1200 a year along with free tuition. The assistant comptroller gets $300 a year.

Also asked for were free meals during the day, a throne for the president along with a ring to kiss, a personal page and a crown. He said that he had his own sceptre. The rest of the SRC executive want to be addressed as sir, a personal herd of sheep, a fun and frolic room with a shag carpet and a free membership to the Fun And Games Society.

His Empororship said he could not be reached because he was out getting his nails done.

Also up for vote is the request for a motherly-type lady to tuck the members in at night, and tell them a bedtime story and give them a kiss on the cheek. When asked if this was a bit too much, one member said they would settle for a pat on the head and warm milk.

When asked where the money would come from we were told that if the SUB referendum was passed there would be loads of money kicking around doing nothing and they would use that. They also said if it did not pass they would cut the Bruns budget by 99 per cent and use the darkroom as their f and f room. As one councillor said, "Who needs them."

Dead Hidsome named king

By BOREDOM CLOANE

Student misrepresentatives voted unanimously last Monday night to name Dead Hidsome life President and King of the Student Misrepresentative Council and impeach all present executives.

In a rare moment of understanding the SMC recognized that they have been puppets to the Administrator and decided to install Hidsome as monarch. In a statement in favor of the motion, misrepresentative Brash Bowinkleman said "well shit, he's been doing it for years. We should give credit where its due."

Cries of "its God's will" and "Let's call a spade a shovel" were echoed throughout the meeting.

In a statement to the press King Dead I stated that an increase in student fees would be levied immediately. When pressed by the media as to what the increase was for, King Dead said "Well I'm not sure, but now that I'm finally important I figure I deserve a new house, and maybe a car or a yacht, or..."

King Dead has been employed by the Student Union for the past few years and has several degrees in teddyeconomics from a mail order school found on matchbook covers.

Open pubs return

Dean of Men's Residence Snob Stiff announced today he is ending the moratorium on open pubs in residences.

Dean Stiff had this comment on the matter:

"Well way back at the first of the year, I said to myself, I said, 'Self what would be a rood joke to play on the whole university?' and I said, 'why not tell everyone you cancelled all the pubs for this year?'"

Asked to comment further, all he said was, "April Fool's!"

New wing planned

The SRC has released a statement in which they plan to add a new wing to the SUB. President Berry Heartburn, said in a statement earlier this week, "the money from the SRC fee increase helpers were engaged to design the addition. After several compli-will be able to serve us in the years to come" if, after this year, they are used to build a new wing onto the SUB.

A group of local plumbers mentary drinks at the College Hill Antisocial Pub, they came up with the slogan "You can't fly on only one wing".

As theSUB has had one wing on the West side for several years, the designers concluded, it would be best if the new wing were constructed on the East end.

The gals at Lady Dunn have been up to some naught hi-jinks this past week. Some of our more informed "deep-throats" have been more than willing to divulge the juicier pieces of dirt. It seems the ladies went on a tear-starting with MacKenzie and raping, pillaging, plundering, and generally destructing macho male egos, finishing their escapades at Jones House. The finale to their great deeds of deviation was the sacrifice to their idol, the American Gigolo, Canadian style. I guess this means that signs of Spring fever are in the air...Carry on the good work.

We've received work from Hollywood that a Kermit the Frog Fan Club is being started up right here in town. Congratulations to the new district president Von Fluffyferd, who stated in an interview that "I've always been a deep admirer of Kermit the Frog and I will carry out my duties with the greatest dignity and pride." Fluffyferd is planning to appoint Fudge Larty to handle public relations. Larty himself has for a long time tried to project a "Great Gonzo" image in everything he does. They are currently searching for a Dr. Bunsen Honeydew look alike...have you guys ever considered asking our own Dean of Men???? All the best in the club activities...

Great news folks. We've finally appointed a new president - Dr. Fleecy Downey. Rumour has it that included in his contract is a yearly salary of $450,000, the use of Marshal D'Avery Hall as his private residence, private swimming pool, and a 1980 bullet-proof custom designed limo. Downey, who hails from Soap City, Iowa, holds numerous degrees in laundry detergent with a doctoral thesis on the question of which machine is better-the washer of the dryer, a cling-free sheet, or a liquid softner.

I'd like to extend a heart-felt thank-you to SRC comptroller Steve Who, for single-handedly running a non-alcoholic pub. It must have been hard making sure that both people got enough cookies and pop. I sure would have gone if only I had know that Oreos were on the house. At least with these non-alcoholic pubs there's plenty of dance-space. I hope the guys didn't mind dancing with each other.
P.S. We know that Scoff Cornshaw is guilty of constantly wanting to lead all the time...Talk about putting your best foot forward!!!!

Next year's Bumswickan will see a new editor - long time staffer and resident Meadow Muffin. Hat's off to Dad-how does he do it...looking after all those kids while maintaining extensive office shenanigans??? He must be from Toronto...they're all nuts up there, aren't they????

THE BUMSWICKAN 9

Gigg vs Gigg

Dear Editors:

For months now, I have been writing really obnoxious letters and receiving replies, equally obnoxious from other readers. Well, this week, I'm not taking the chance that no one really cares what I have to say. I'm going to rebut by own letter printed in last week's Bumswickan. Let it be known that I feel that Randy Gigg is an unadulterated Leftist swine. Not only is he totally uninformed in relation to the issues that really matter, but I have serious reason to doubt his sanity as well. I don't think that a proven pinko like myself should even be allowed to have an opinion, let alone express one.

I think that if Khomenei really wants to see torture, he should not be so concerned with the 'crimes' of the Shah. Instead, he should be forced to stand outside one of the popular New York discos, such as Neon or Studio 54, then he wouldn't care monkey poop about a few people having been maimed or killed during the, as I put it, 'imperialist' reign of the Shah. I mean, heck, it really gets awful standing out there with all sorts of perfectly horrid right wing types.

However, I am getting away from the point. This letter was written to let people know that Mug Heartly is not the only "sniveling swine" on this campus. I feel that I, Randy Gigg am every bit as snivelling, and just as much a swine, as Mr. Heartly.

Even though it may appear that I read Panthouse only because it is the only publication in Amerikka which is not afraid to print things the way they really are, that is not true. Even we pinkos can be red-blooded, and make use of the magazine in the way it was intended to be made use of.

Once again, I must object to the way in which previous rebuttals to my opinions express the mental level at which I function. If the writers of those letters weren't ssuch wimps, they would get down to proper insults, along the line of "dog humping pinko rat," "son of a mentally retarded lima bean," "perverted heap of moose dung" to mention but a few.

I think that if this letter is allowed to continue the typewriter will catch fire. Besides, if I had the "wool pulled over my eyes," I would not be able to see well enough to type all the garbage I manage to spew out. In the interests of revealing the truth, I will say that the black nylon stockings with the seam up the back is pulled over my eyes.

Thank you
Randy Gigg

Leave us alone

Dear Readers:

We have had enough of your smart-ass comments in the Bumswickan. Every time we make some comment about the intelligence of anyone who writes in to complain to us about the little mistakes we make from week to week, one of your feels that you have to bitch about it. Well from now on, you don't have to worry about what method we will use to point out your mental deficiency. From now on, the only letters we print will be letters FROM the Editors. This way, we feel we can let the students know how good a paper the Bums really is.

If anyone in our readership objects, we have only this to say in reply: "You are probably the product of an immoral and illegal love affair between a heap of hamster dung and a lame cocker spaniel with an inbred genetic trait which causes not only the level of intellectual incompetence you display, but has, as a side effect, a tendency toward public flatulence.

"Besides what qualifies you to be a judge of whether the news we print consists of 'facts or not?'" We have been in the business of making up facts to suit our opinions since the first issue of the Bums was published more than 114 years ago.

Just sign us

Dear Editor:

Please print this letter to Mr. Morehouse Spiral in The Bumswickan.

Dancing elephant?

Dear Editor:

With all due respect for the sake of brevity, which is not to say that I could in any way digress from a form of logical syntax or neglect to state complete my full argument, although my religious convictions may not be isolated in the social norm. I might discuss a problem that is very close at hand to all of us concerned with the situation, which might in itself be overlooked were it not for the urgency, an urgency which presses now upon my mind like the back of an elephant's ear when he's doing headstands, even in winter, although one's more likely to find the pachidermal form engaged in such acrobatics during the time after the vernal equinox as we approach the solstice; which is not to say that the summer hours do not fit into the flockinockinihilipillifactory times spent in contemplation and for which I desired to write this letter stating my position on the matter.

Cordially yours,
Joke Lark

Mr. Spiral:

We of the Security Service (RCMP) feel that you are a gross threat to national security in Lower Slobbovia. Thus, it is in the best interests of foreign relations, (our cousins in Siberia) that we must ask you not to submit any more letters to erstwhile student publications. As everyone knows, the Bumswickan is a front for budding fascists, communists, pinkos, rednecks, fags, dykes, machos, mother rapers, father rapers, axe murderers, snivelling swine, gutless editorial writers, poor typists and at least one neo-mental hygenist. On the negative side, the Bumswickan has none other than Gondron Cloane, as a member of the staff.

If you do not stop submitting letters to the editors of the Bumswickan we will be forced to stop laughing behind your back and start laughing right to your face.

Profits Close to $1 Million , with Extravaganza Guests:

Gee Bees

The Village

This year's winter carnival was a huge success and Tannie Lagers, Winter Carnival committee chairperson says "the profit from Extravaganza alone was close to $1 million". She attributes this success to the entertainment of three well-known bands: The Gee Bees, the Village Queers, and April Beer. A reporter from the Bumswickan was present at Extravaganza and offers the following review.

The Gee Bees played in the Blue Lounge of the Student Union Building. A feeling of excitement hung in the air as UNB females crowded into the Blue Lounge to catch a glance of their heartthrob, Barry Wimp.

People were pushing and shoving, trying to get closer to the stage where the Gee Bees performed. It was wall to wall people from the moment they began singing. Approximately 5,000 people jammed into the Blue Lounge and some even resorted to sitting on the necks of others, to see this extraordinary group. In the opinions of the students the performance was "super", "unbelievable", "fantastic", and "unforgettable" in praising the Gee Bees.

The Gee Bees sang such favourites as, How deep is your love, Tragedy, Staying Alive, and Too Much Heaven in their first set. In the second and third set they played some of their earlier music, those golden oldies. They returned to their recent music in the fourth set. The crowd was captivated by the feeling, their music created. They roared with applause after each number and the applause did not subside until the next song had begun.

When the Gee Bees finished, their last set at 1 the lounge was still crowded and they had to come back for encores. The show gave immense pleasure to all and the people said it was worth the $30 they had paid to get in.

In the cafeteria, the beer flew as a crowd of 10,000 fans applauded to the music of April Beer?" Indeed, it was an unbelievable performance. As the evening had progressed the rock fans gazed glassily at the band's instruments. This effect was increased by the strange aroma present. They seemed to listen intently to the music. April Beer played songs such as, Gimme Love, Just Like That, Weeping Widow, Electric Jewels.

Those macho boys, characterized by their varied costumes and unique movements, The Village Queers, gave enthusiasm to Fredericton disco fans and especially the students of UNB. Just when everybody had said disco music had become unpopular, The Village Queers had its audience thrilled. They waved their arms in the air while their bodies bounced to the beat of tunes such as: In the Navy, Macho Man, and YMCA. The ballroom of the SUB was the place to BOOGIE Wednesday at Extravaganza. Laggars estimated that The Village Queers entertained a crowd of about 3,000.

Even with this mass of people, the Campus Police maintained control over the high-spirited disco scene. However, a Bumswickan reporter noticed that a girl attempted to rip the clothes off one of the members of the Village Queers. When this unidentified girl was asked why she did it, she said, "I was so excited that I didn't know what I was doing. I just love the Village Queers."

The Bumswickan also took a survey to find the general opinion of the performance. Chilbie Wilbie, the Winter Carnival mascot, summed this up nicely saying, "The Village Queers are an excellent group."

Due to the mass attendance of students for extravaganza, Laggars believes, "apathy among students no longer exists." She says, "Just give them the entertainment that they want and they will support any event for Winter Carnival."

With profits close to $1 million Laggars said, "The student union will be presented with a cheque for half of the money, and I plan to invest the rest in a new home in Florida and quit university."

She also adds, the staff of the Winter Carnival will have their party, March 18 (BYOB). She would like to thank her staff for all their help and cooperation.

"SIR, I WOULD LIKE TO SPEAK WITH YOU FOR A MOMENT..."

Over the years the increasing tension caused by stiffer academic requirements has led to a prevalence of physical abuse by both professors and students. The bumswickan has tried to ignore this in the past but the upsurge of the prevalence of professor brutality can no longer be overlooked.

The shameless brazen way that more and more professors are mistreating their own students is a sad sad commentary on the state of our society. Examples of flagellation, like brass knuckling, continued beatings with rubber hoses, horse whipping and burning sensitive areas of the body with cigarette butts, bamboo slivers under the finger nails.... need we go on? Just because essays are late or students happen to fall asleep in classes is no reason for this continued physical violence. Remember students are paying for their tuition. It's infuriating to know that a portion of our fees is taken from the administration for the sole purpose of supplying each and every professor with his personal get-back-at-a-student kit each and every year. Is this right? Have we no say as to if we want them to have these kits...even if we believe these kits are a vital source of our well being should be at least given the responsibility of choosing our own tortures. Just the other day I saw a noted political science prof, Cid Pobalusty, coming out of a seminar room clenching a billy club and laughing maniacally. Girding my loins I looked into the room which he had just left and there I saw a crumpled heap on the floor senseless with pain. It seems the poor chap was another victim of the notorious Pobalusty.

Not only is this abuse injurious to students, dulling their senses, the janitorial staff spends precious time and energy washing blood and gore off the walls of professors' offices. The simple fact that the professors didn't get the increase in the new contract does not permit them to take out their frustrations on poor defenceless students. They should at least be setting up an emergency clinic for students that have had their toe nails etc. removed or teeth shattered.

Reliable sources have informed me that the faculty club is being used to keep misbehaving students prisoners. I can barely relate the horror stories that come from that den of inequity. However, doing my duty as a journalist I must bring these stories to light, as unpleasant as they may be. We hear of students being hung from their thumbs from the windows of the Old Arts Building, of other students being forced to drink the abhorable martinis that the faculty club serves, of still others being locked in rooms and fed a steady diet of Beaver Foods while some are being strapped into chairs and forced to watch taped re-runs of a particular professor's lecture favorites.

Now is the time to act! The SRC should be preparing kits similar to those given to the professors. Now is the time to fight back... and win. If you can't afford a hatchet or small firearm then resort to homemade truncheon or at the very least a bull whip. Each

SRC kit comes fully equipped with all the necessary pieces of equipment to meet all those varied situations anyone might find themselves with. For further information please contact your local SRC office and ask for Steve Who - the foremost expert in mental and physical abuse.

672 OR 276

By JUMPING JACK FLASH

The Canadian Rock group 672 or 276 formed in the year 1979 when Sophie Lavender, the inspiring female vocalist, and Lennon Frripp, a creative versatile guitar player, produced their own distinctive sound. Together they chose some key studio musicians to help them with the project.

Every song on the album was written as a short story. This keeps the listener interested for the stories are well thought out, clarified to the musical background and directed to a particular theme.

At this stage it is impossible to compare 672 or 276 to any other Canadian group. They have produced a rebellious sound similar in context to Janis Joplin with a core background of Jefferson Airplane. Just by listening to this album once I could tell that the band wants to invite a new rock Side 1 starts off with "The System", a song with alternating electric guitar and keyboard solos fitting in with the hard steady rock beat. Although the song is hard to understand at first the meaning prevails during a clear cut chorus. The song talks about the power certain people have in our system.

How they twist, control and dominate it to their best advantage. The song mocks this idea and draws the conclusion that money is the key to the whole situation.

"Whispering Hill" follows with a slow beat of over dubbing acoustic guitar and violin solos. The song tells the story of a boy who seeks freedom by climbing the nearest mountain. There he sits, in his isolated spot, and compares the many ironies present in our society today.

"Cherry Wine for the Spine" talks about the fantasy land induced by drinking alcohol. It features high strung saxophone with mixed in drum, organ, bass and flute solos. The song describes a girl who walked away from a party after being rejected by her friends. Frripp sympathizes with her feelings.

Anyways the song has a harsh ending where she is found, the next morning, piled in puke, frozen to death.

"The Lady Crutch" follows with a reggae boogie of tinted synthesizer engineered with a steady core of mellotron. In my mind the song talks about the ideas of learning how to dance. The song is funny for it hints at the idea that the best dancers are the ones who practice through organized dance lessons.

Side II starts off with "Wading in my waterbed", a simple keyboard song. The song is catchy for it is a musical introduction to "She was strictly Levi." The lyrics talk about the fashion show girls go through to show off their vital parts. The song is comical for it suggests the best clothes are no clothes at all.

The album BYOB can be found in most record shops today. What I like about the album is that it is produced in such a way that you can never be bored of it. The cover is a fantasy design by Lavender and Frripp of all their friends. After listening to this album you will be asking the question 672 or 276?

This weeks recipe- Creme Demento. A personal favorite, the Creme Demento is guaranteed to blow the adrenal glands off even the most jaded pair of kidneys.

You need:

- 1 quart creme de menthe
12 oz V-8 juice
6 oz prune nectar
6 oz cherry brandy
all those funny colored pills mom and dad keep in the medicine cabinet.

Combine the above in a large zinc pail or swirl bucket and stir vigorously with a canoe paddle or your roommate's tennis racket. When the mixture begins to bubble, load it into an empty grease gun cartridge and push the tube down into your gullet. Squeeze the trigger until your stomach starts to back up. Then ask a friend to call for an ambulance while you go outside and wait face down in a snowbank. Next week - tequilla mockingbird.

audience. This is apparent for their sound is neither repetitive like disco, high strung like new wave, or raunchy like old time rock "n" roll.

RECORD REVIEW

By PARK MEPIN

This record sucks. The first song sucks, the second song sucks and the third song sucks even more. The second side sucks less than the rest but it still sucks pretty bad.

The lead singer sucks. The guitar player sucks. And the drummer really sucks. The album jacket sucks. The producer sucks. This record sucks so bad I can't even remember its name. That is how badly it sucks. The wife of the lead singer sucks. The drummer's dog sucks. Everybody associated with this record sucks. And I don't mean sucks just a little bit. I mean sucks a whole lot. The first song on the second side starts off like it might not suck but it does eventually suck. This record sucks so bad it is enough to make me gag.

The first song is a wimpy little tune that really sucks. The second song is about the lead singer and his girlfriend and the words really suck. Actually I can be quite frank with you all the lyrics on this album suck. One song is entitled "Sometimes when we touch each other in fun places" and that song really sucks. Personally I think that the photos on the album cover suck. The paper that they made the inner sleeve out of sucks. It really amazes me that I spent $7.99 on a record like this that sucks so much. Actually spending $7.99 really sucks.

In conclusion I would like to state that this record sucks. I know that most of you do not know the name of this record but take my word for it that it sucks. If you ever get a chance to listen to this record you will know that it sucks.

CHSR

College Hill Student Radicals
By JOHN LEERY

The CHSR Disco that was supposed to be held this week will be cancelled due to lack of material. Last Wednesday night, Luigi Cordoba (host of CHSR's album rock show, "33-and-a-nerd") got into our disco-album files and burned them as a demonstration of protest against disco as a form of music. Unfortunately, Luigi perished in the fire also, and his remains were found clutching a half-burnt Elvis Costello record to his heart. CHSR will observe two minutes of on-air silence this Saturday, in memory of Luigi; this will be followed by three hours of uninterrupted new wave music.

While on the subject of on-air silence, a note of explanation to last Tuesday night's listeners: that was NOT half an hour of dead air you heard between 6:30 and 7:00. CHSR had planned to air a remote recording of a debate that was held at a meeting of the UNB Apathy Association last week. The meeting, and debate, were big successess-no one showed up, and we taped the proceedings. After much discussion among the CHSR Executive, it was decided that we would air it, in the interest of equal air-time and promotion for all SRC organizations. The only real opposition to airing it was put forth by CHSR's soft-spoken, conservative Program Director, Dan Slohen. However, he was voted down by the other Executive members.

We couldn't air our weekly SRC-meeting report this past week, because of coverage problems. Doug Smarty, CHSR's "I've-got-a-nose-for-news" reporter was covering the meeting, but he was thrown out after insulting the SRC [DICT 11 OOPS* I mean president. Hopefully, we'll be able to patch things up between ourselves and the SRC by next week, so we can provide a report. We've discovered a new sound at CHSR! It seems that CHSR member Doug Bearslow was doing some late-night taping last Monday, and he dozed off, spilling his jumbo-sized coffee all over the tape and tape heads, as he was recording. However, it makes a unique, one-of-a-kind sound, and we will be airing a world preview of it this Wednesday on our award-winning show, "New Sounds of the '80's."

Lastly, CHSR would like to offer get-well wishes to Jim Nasonofagun, a tech department member who was injured in an engineering accident last week. He was working on a frequency-jamming device to block out the transmissions of the other AM stations in this area, when the device blew up in his face. Get swell soon, Jim, so you can complete that jammer!

Duffy's Hotel on tour

Duffy's Hotel, the home of a local theatre group, has been missing since last Saturday night. The building was first noticed missing when steady customer Orville Windbag staggered towards the premises at six o'clock Sunday morning. Reports indicate that the hotel left because of jealousy towards the theatre group: it's gone on tour, forming its own theatre company from houses and barns it meets along the way.

Already five people have reported missing buildings. One person claimed that his pet's doghouse wandered out of the yard at the beacon of Duffy's Hotel. The buildings are now hiding out in the woods at night and performing in the daytime. So far reviews of their works have been favorable.

When asked to comment George "Stuffy" Duffy, former owner of the hotel said "I don't know why it left, it was treated well. I woke up one morning and it was gone." The members of the theatre company which used to perform in the hotel are equally dismayed. Choreographer Lennie Nice commented: "We really liked the old guy...but it was a foolhearty notion - buildings can't dance or act."

CAMPUS MENACETRY

By BILLY BOB SUE MCGINTY

Hallelujah, Hallelujah! The Campus Menacetry would like to pass on some information about a few up-coming events going on right here on the blessed UNB campus...

This week witnesses the dawning of a new age in praising the Lord (Hallelujah!) Yes, this Sunday we will be having our grand opening of Brother Clyde's Drive-In Confessional - Toot'n'Tell - with an Express Lane for Eight Sins or Less! Praising the Lord has never been so easy! Our grand opening special will include your basic blanket blessing, redemption of young souls gone bad and the choice of a free lube job for your auto of eternal salvation. Isn't that amazing! And remember, at Brother Clyde's "We do it all for thou!!!"

Tuesday night is Bingo Night at Our Lady of Immaculate Linens Cathedral. Bring your money, markers, cigarettes and pepsi and gamble in the name of Jesus. The sin of gambling for money will be redeemed at a brief service held before and after the game. Be sure and enter Sister Mary Farrah's raffle on a new colour TV set.

While on the subject of raffles, I'm pleased to announce the winner of the parish's raffle of a 1980 Mercedes sports coupe was won by our very own Monseigneur McKillycuddy. Sister Margaret-Mary shared second prize with Father McGee which was a six week vacation for two in beautiful Los Vegas. (Should be lots to do in "Sin City for the Sister and Father McGee")

In a new program established by Father Le Prairierose confessions of the pre-21 year old set will be heard by several of the mothers in the parish who are selflessly devoting their spare time in the diocese's attempt to make religion more family oriented. In a test area in Pittsburg researchers noted a remarkable increase in attendance, coupled by a notable increase in Hail Mary's, Stations of Cross, novenas and pilgrimages to Lourdes. These drastic changes can only be attributed to the mother's confessions. Coincidentally the rate of adolescent pregnancies has dropped considerable amount. Praise the Lord!

On the lighter side of sin, the parish of St. Anthony of Wild Gyration was indicted by the Supreme Court of Canada for influence peddling and alleged organized crime associations. Father Vito Garibaldi tried to pass off the charges as a benefit fund for the thousands of starving underprivileged children in Bogota. When RCMP uncovered evidence of illicitly attained funds being funnilled into a Swiss bank account in Garibaldi's name, he tried to pass it off with some beery Irish Catholic wit, failing dismally, I might add. I bet the bishop is getting a good chuckle out of this one...Nice try, Father Garibaldi.

News of a precedent setting decision from the Vatican was released in Rome today. It seems that the College of Cardinals has condoned the entrance of women into the priesthood. As well, all limits of sex, race or religion were removed as pre-requisites for entrants to the Catholic priesthood. Now the possibility is open for the next pope being a Chinese Black Jew...Talk about liberalism in the church! First homosexuality, now anything goes!!!

Gossip among the Ladies Auxiliary was heard about a commotion at the vicar's residence last week, concerning the good vicar and his housekeeper, Mrs. Muckenfuss. It seems the vicar's vest was found in her pantry, while her pants were found in his vestry...

Well, that's all the news and events in the religious circle at UNB. If you're up early enough - join us weekday mornings at 5:30 a.m. When CHSR generally donates their prime radio time for our "Have a Happy Day Sermon". The topic being discussed all next week will be the importance of television ministers to be wearing white seersucker suits, talking with a Southern accent, whilst surrounded by black lady singers...

SAVE OUR SUB IS IN LETTERS NINE FEET TALL, AND IT'S ALL LIT UP WITH EIGHT HUNDRED BULBS.

YOU SPELLED SUB WRONG.

Would you buy a used car from this man?

"Lies, utter lies." Those were the words of UNB Security Chief Ralph Tonkatow, when confronted with the accusation that members of his 300-man force have been part of a huge international auto theft ring.

"It's not true," explained Tonkatow. "It's not true that some of my men have been towing illegally parked cars to the physical plant, filing the serial numbers of the engine blocks, repainting them and selling them off at a fraction of their actual value. I don't know how these vicious rumors get started."

In recent weeks, reports of abuse within the Force have run rampant. Tonkatow has been accused of everything from stealing hubcaps of double-parked Ladas to operating a wholesale auto salvage warehouse in his backyard.

"Don't believe a word of it," said Tonkatow. "And," he added, "off the record, can I interest you in a set o' 13-inch F78 Michelins?"

Red Herrings win toss

By BOP REBOP

Last Sunday, UNB's Red Herrings won the AUSA invitational penguin tossing championship held in Dunder Head, Newfoundland. Going into the competition as the underdog team, UNB pulled off a remarkable upset when they defeated last year's champions, the University of Tuktoyaktuk Mukluks.

The Muks had a strong lead early in the eliminations, until team anchorman, Jim-Bob Whitefish was disqualified from tossing a rocket-propelled penguin. This hurt the Mukluks a great deal as it cost them a two-metre penalty on the next toss. The referees probably would not have spotted the twin ramjets Whitefish had inserted into his animal except for the fact that the penguin exploded on impact with the ground.

After the incident with the jet-powered bird, the Herrings moved up into third place, right behind the Aklavik Toreadors. Unfortunately for the T's, their star thrower put his bird directly into a set of nearby power lines. The animal then burst into flames, and what could have easily been a world record throw turned into a flaming dud. Henry T. Blubber's misfortune at having his throw disqualified proved to be our boy's big break.

The Herrings took advantage of the misfortunes of the two top-seeded team to take a narrow lead in the preliminaries.
